Bonnie Forest Ayrshires
 "It was a buyers' bargain sale" is a term which is frequently used in connection with purebred cattle sales, mostly with respect to the prices paid. However, be the prices fair, steady or good at the Bonnie Forest Ayrshire sale of July 11, it will be a "bargain day" for purchasers of these cattle. That is, insofar as the animals themselves are concerned—in other words as regards their good quality, productive ability and pedigree backing.

The Bonnie Forest herd has been carefully built up by Wm. J. McCracken, Athelstan, Que., and it is most regrettable that due to ill health and lack of help, he has to sell his herd.

The herd is fully accredited, free listed and vaccinated.

Cattle Exports
 Representatives of the Estate of D. M. Watt of Massachusetts, recently paid a visit to the Howick-Huntingdon Area and there purchased a carload of cows. The representatives of this estate, being sons of the late D. M. Watt, former well-known resident of the Howick Area.

Details of the cattle purchased in the Howick Area, through the agency of Andrew Glen, are not at present available. However, we have been informed by Dr. J. S. Gaw, V.S., that 4 head were purchased in the Huntingdon area. Two of these animals were pure-bred Ayrshires purchased from J. Grant Whyte while the other two were Holsteins which were purchased from Hugo Cowan.

Ayrshires to Ontario
 Alex Wallace of Smiths Falls, Ont., recently paid one of his periodic visits to this, his native district. During the course of that visit he purchased 18 head of Ayrshires which he will, in turn, consign to one of the Ontario Ayrshire Promotional Sales which are held periodically at Peter's Corners, near Dundas, Ont. Details of the animals concerned are not yet available but have been promised for next week.

Alex Wallace is, of course, a son of J. M. Wallace of Fairview, Athelstan, Que. He is therefore "an Ayrshire-man born and bred", as the saying has it. Some two decades ago he earned an enviable reputation as an Ayrshire herd manager, when he was with the Credholme Ayrshire herd at Streetsville, Ont. After Credholme he joined the staff of Swift Canadian Company and was for several years one of the field-staff of same, working out of Toronto. However, for a considerable number of years he has been the representative of that company in a large district radiating from Smith's Falls, Ont.

To Kansas and P.E.I.
 Secretary-Manager E. W. Richmond deals briefly with the Scottish Dairy Show which was held, in February, at Glasgow. In that review he mentioned that the Ayrshires won five Inter-Breed victories, the greatest of which was probably "The Leslie Cup" for greatest number of points per 1,000 lbs. live weight for milk with lactation and inspection points added.

Other inter-breed trophies won by Ayrshires included the McAlpine Challenge Cup for the highest scoring team, on inspection; The Glasgow Corporation Challenge Cup for the best heifer, milking and inspection points combined; the Certified T. T. Milk Association Cup for cows in the 50-60 lb. milk class—the reserve also being an Ayrshire; The Duke of Montrose Salver for the best hornless cow.

British Friesians
 However according to the Ayrshire Cattle Society's Journal the Ayrshire had to contend with strong competition from the British Friesians (Holsteins) in all the inter-breed contests. The supreme individual championship went to a Friesian with a score of 316.2 points (milk 191.2, inspection 125). The reserve was an Ayrshire with a score of 304.3 points.

The Craig Challenge Trophy (best team of six cows) was won by Friesians, with a total score of 1,595.2 points (Inspection 450, milk 1,145.2). The Ayrshire team was second with a total score of 1,564.9 points (Inspection 500, milk 1,064.9). Since the Ayrshires had the high score on inspection that team won the McAlpine Challenge Trophy, as already recorded.

ATHELSTAN S.P.S.
 A regular meeting of the Athelstan Senior Young People's Society was held in the church on Friday evening, June 26.

The devotional period, which opened with a hymn, was led by Mr. Mawhinney and Peter Tully. Two panel discussion groups answered questions on the balance of the Study Book chapter, "What it Means to be a Presbyterian."

Beverly Arnold was proposed and accepted as a new member. Arrangements were made for delegates to attend an executive meeting of the South Shore Union that was held at Georgetown on June 30.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, July 31 at the home of the president, Peter Tully. The subject for discussion will be "What Gives Value to a Job?" from the Study Book chapter "Stop! Christians at Work!"

The Gore
 Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Henderson and daughter Ann of Montreal were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ord Taylor. Miss Ann remained for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham and grandson Melvin were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Graham, Athelstan.

New Role For Old Nylons
 Hobbyists have found a new use for old nylon stockings. With the aid of inexpensive tinting powders, some copper screening, a few yards of floral tape and a household bleach, they are fashioning discarded hosiery into attractive shoulder corsages.

Petals are made from tinted squares of nylon and grouped together on a stem to form a flower. An arrangement of several flowers make a floral spray.

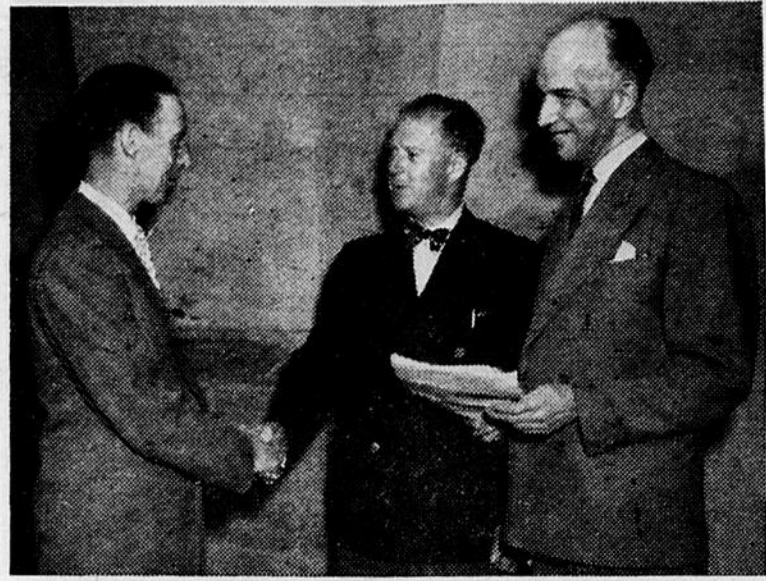

First step is to prepare the discarded hosiery for tinting by boiling them for about 20 minutes in bleaching water.

It is easier and more economical to adopt the assembly-line technique and collect several pairs of old nylons before embarking on the project. This will save wrestling with dye pots each time a shoulder bouquet is whipped up.

After the stockings have been bleached, pop one into the hot dye and boil until it reaches the desired depth of color. Repeat the process with additional stockings to obtain the required number of colors. One stocking is dyed green for the leaves. Left-over liquid dyes are stored in glass containers for future use.

Best results and most delicate or vivid shadings are obtained from sheer 15-denier hosiery. (Denier is

Montreal Brewery Sets New Pattern in Labour Agreement

Upon completion of pattern-setting labour agreement, John H. Molson, Vice-President of Molson's Brewery Limited, greets J. G. Lamoureux (left), President of the Molson's Brewery Employees' Association, and Georges Lord (right), Secretary-Treasurer and Business Agent of the Association.

The new rates incorporate the bonus of seven weeks' wages which has been paid employees since October 1950. In addition, the company maintains all the special benefits—pension plan, group insurance, sickness, hospitalization, surgical care, cafeteria, etc.—for which Molson's has long been noted.

The great advance represented by the new agreement becomes especially apparent where non-specialized labour is concerned. Here the new rates are far above the general level of pay in Montreal.

The agreement was negotiated and signed, on behalf of the employees, by J. G. Lamoureux, President, and Georges Lord, Secretary-Treasurer and Business Agent of the Employees' Association. "We are naturally very pleased to have been concerned with working out this important agreement which has become a guide for others in the industry," states Mr. Lamoureux. "The friendly discussions and negotiations leading up to its completion provided further evidence of the spirit of goodwill and co-operation which has always been so noticeable throughout the history of the company."

The work week of Molson's employees was reduced from 48 hours to 40—with no loss of pay.

The agreement, which becomes effective on October 5th, established the highest minimum rates of pay in the industry: from $1.55 to $2.00 per hour generally, and from $1.65 to $2.27 per hour for tradesmen. Molson's employees have enjoyed a corresponding return since October, 1951—but then on the 48-hour over it. Gather the fabric together at the bottom and fasten with wire. When five petals have been completed, make the center by cutting a three-quarter inch strip from the heavier welt at the top of a stocking which has been tinted a contrasting shade. Roll the strip around the index and second finger to form a pad. Make a air pin brooch in a long piece of wire and twist the short end around the pad. Tie the fabric ends with wire. With a pair of scissors clip tiny pieces of fabric from the smooth top of the pad and it will fluff up like a daisy center.

To assemble the flower, group the five petals around the fluffy center and secure them at the base with a piece of wire. Cover the exposed wire stem with green floral tape.

For a corsage, assemble three or four flowers and two or three leaves and pin your handwork on your lapel.

legend and fact

King Richard III wasn't really born with a full set of teeth. He didn't eat live frogs either. Shakespearean actors from Burbage to Booth, from Irving to Guinness, have portrayed him as the loathsome, humpbacked, Wicked Uncle who imprisoned his two little innocent nephews in the Tower of London, and had them smothered to death with pillows.

It's all wrong, though. Actually he was a very decent guy with a perfect right to the throne. He stood to gain nothing by his nephews' deaths, and it was his successor, Henry VII who really did them in anyway. Didn't have a withered arm, either.

Reputable historians have told the truth about Richard, and it has been all in his favour. Shakespeare's portrait, which people still prefer to believe, was based entirely on hearsay. When history and legend clash, legend usually gets the best of it.

Not always, however. Take Molson's Ale, for instance. History since 1786 has been kind to Molson's. So has word-of-mouth report. That's why the institution that has grown with this province for 167 years is still so happily on nearly everybody's lips—literally and figuratively. Historians call it "The Ale Your Great-Grandfather Drank". People who don't give a fig for history just say, "Make Mine Molson's".

Nitro

NITRO—July 1st, 1953, marked another milestone, not only for the Dominion of Canada, but also for the small war-time village of Nitro, when Dorothy and Denise, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Leduc, were married in the little chapel of St. Jean d'Arc. To those who like the writer, are "old-timers" in Nitro and can remember these two as little school girls with long "pigtails," it was with a thought of "how the years pass!" when we saw these two young ladies in their ankle length gowns of yellow and lilac lace, with matching flowered hats and veils and carrying bouquets of Talsman roses, walking into the chapel.
They have lived on Purvis Ave., for the past eleven years, and now begin their own housekeeping, also on Purvis; Mr. and Mrs. Jules Belanger (Dorothy) at Number 55, and Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Piche (Denise) at Number 26.
Our best wishes for a bright and future happy anniversaries to them and to Mr. and Mrs. Leduc, who were celebrating their 23rd wedding anniversary the same day their daughters were married.

Chateauguy

Rev. R. H. McColl Inducted CHATEAUGUY, QUE. — Rev. Rayburn H. McColl, B.A., B.D., a graduate of Union Theological College, Vancouver, B.C., and missionary Captain since May 1949 of the Thomas Crosby IV, a Mission boat in operation on the Pacific coast, was inducted into the pastorate of St. Andrew's United Church on Monday night, June 29th in a service presided over by Rev. Norman A. McCurry, Chairman of the Montreal Presbytery.

Rev. R. DeWitt Scott, Secretary of the Presbytery read the Scripture and Rev. W. T. Eddy led in the prayers of thanksgiving and intercession. Mrs. Eric Smith and Mr. David H. Reid sang a duet, "In the Cross of Christ we Glory."
Rev. J. W. Patterson of Lachine, Que., preached the Induction sermon, entitled "The Essentials of a Crusading Church."
Mr. Patterson related the steps leading up to the call. He had been appointed interim minister when the charge was left vacant in Oct. 1951, when Rev. D. R. Morrison accepted a call to Tupperville, Ont. He paid tribute to the leadership given by Mr. Kenneth Fenton and Mr. Douglas Brooker, student ministers. God moves in a mysterious way and Mr. Patterson fully believed that it was the providence of God that led Mr. McColl to accept the call. He felt that it was the beginning of a new era for St. Andrew's and a great field of opportunity for the minister.
The solemn induction service followed, a hymn was sung and the Benediction pronounced by Rev. McColl.

An informal reception was held in the Hall following the induction service, when members and friends had the opportunity of meeting and welcoming Mr. and Mrs. McColl. Mr. and Mrs. McColl had taken residence in the Manse the previous week and, on behalf of his wife and himself, he thanked all who had helped to make the coming to their new home a happy occasion. Refreshments were served by the Woman's Association.

prayers of thanksgiving and intercession. Mrs. Eric Smith and Mr. David H. Reid sang a duet, "In the Cross of Christ we Glory."

Rev. J. W. Patterson of Lachine, Que., preached the Induction sermon, entitled "The Essentials of a Crusading Church."
Mr. Patterson related the steps leading up to the call. He had been appointed interim minister when the charge was left vacant in Oct. 1951, when Rev. D. R. Morrison accepted a call to Tupperville, Ont. He paid tribute to the leadership given by Mr. Kenneth Fenton and Mr. Douglas Brooker, student ministers. God moves in a mysterious way and Mr. Patterson fully believed that it was the providence of God that led Mr. McColl to accept the call. He felt that it was the beginning of a new era for St. Andrew's and a great field of opportunity for the minister.

The solemn induction service followed, a hymn was sung and the Benediction pronounced by Rev. McColl.
An informal reception was held in the Hall following the induction service, when members and friends had the opportunity of meeting and welcoming Mr. and Mrs. McColl. Mr. and Mrs. McColl had taken residence in the Manse the previous week and, on behalf of his wife and himself, he thanked all who had helped to make the coming to their new home a happy occasion. Refreshments were served by the Woman's Association.

Rev. R. H. McColl's First Service
The newly-inducted minister of St. Andrew's United Church, Rev. Rayburn H. McColl, B.A., B.D., conducted his first service Sunday morning and preached an inspiring sermon from Acts 8:37.
The choir under the direction of Mrs. Hartland Rowell, rendered the anthem, "Holy! Holy! Holy!" the tenor solo being sung by Mr. Ronald Oliver.

Sunday School Picnic
Saturday's weather proved ideal for St. Andrew's annual Sunday School picnic, held at Simbert's Point on the St. Lawrence. It was attended by a record number of scholars, teachers, parents and friends and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.
Upon their arrival a game of baseball was organized, then all who cared to, went in swimming. The older children were in the charge of Mr. David Reid and mothers and teachers kept a watchful eye on the younger ones who paddled about in the shallow water. A basket lunch followed to which everyone did justice and after a rest period the sports events took place.

Mountains of New Hampshire to the state of Maine, where they paid a visit to Old Orchard Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Elder left on Sunday and returned home Wednesday night, having enjoyed a trip long to be remembered for its awe-inspiring beauty. The state of Vermont, with its picturesque towns and friendly mountains, give one a feeling of peace and contentment. Then into New Hampshire with its smiling lakes and towering peaks, its fertile valleys and majestic rivers. Here is found the Presidential Range with Mt. Washington, highest of all, towering 6,288 feet above sea level. It is up this mountain that one finds the famous Cog Railway. The Cog Train climbs to the summit of this 6,283 foot mountain on the much publicized Jacob's Ladder, the World's first Cog Railway. Here in New Hampshire, too, is to be seen the Old Man of the Mountains, the most perfect stone face in the world. This most famous face was in all probability formed during the latter part of the post-glacial period from 2,000 to 10,000 years ago, but it was not discovered until 1805 by white men. However, it was an object of worship by the Indians for centuries before it became known to his white brother, the Old Man of the Mountains, or the Profile as it is sometimes called, is formed by a projection of rocks from the face of a nearly perpendicular cliff. One rock forms the forehead; the second, the nose and mouth and the third, the chin. The profile is about 1,200 feet above Profile Lake and 3,200 feet above sea level. The face which is said to measure about 48 feet from forehead to chin, looks down upon beautiful Profile Lake, known as the "Old Man's Wash Bowl."

past 6 weeks. The mountain areas are also under dry, and as we motored home a fire was noticed on top of the Ossipee Range in N.H. On inquiring about it, we found that three days previous lightning had struck a small pine tree and the fire had swept madly from one bone dry tree to another until the state had a fire of major proportion on its hands. Volunteers were called for as well as the Army. The great drawback about fighting a fire on the mountain top is the problem of getting equipment to the area in need. There is a 9 mile climb to the top of this particular mountain, and the climb alone, through the dense shrubbery in the terrific heat of a summer's day would be sufficient to discourage even a brave soul, but when one adds to the heat and the heavy undergrowth the fact that hose and chain saws and heavy equipment, have, of necessity to be carried to the summit, then it takes a stout heart indeed to brave the perils of fighting such a fire. According to last reports, the fire was still raging and it would take days of continuous rain to really make any impression on this inferno. Fires of this proportion are generally limited to late summer and early fall and are extremely uncommon this early in the season.

Mountains of New Hampshire to the state of Maine, where they paid a visit to Old Orchard Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Elder left on Sunday and returned home Wednesday night, having enjoyed a trip long to be remembered for its awe-inspiring beauty. The state of Vermont, with its picturesque towns and friendly mountains, give one a feeling of peace and contentment. Then into New Hampshire with its smiling lakes and towering peaks, its fertile valleys and majestic rivers. Here is found the Presidential Range with Mt. Washington, highest of all, towering 6,288 feet above sea level. It is up this mountain that one finds the famous Cog Railway. The Cog Train climbs to the summit of this 6,283 foot mountain on the much publicized Jacob's Ladder, the World's first Cog Railway. Here in New Hampshire, too, is to be seen the Old Man of the Mountains, the most perfect stone face in the world. This most famous face was in all probability formed during the latter part of the post-glacial period from 2,000 to 10,000 years ago, but it was not discovered until 1805 by white men. However, it was an object of worship by the Indians for centuries before it became known to his white brother, the Old Man of the Mountains, or the Profile as it is sometimes called, is formed by a projection of rocks from the face of a nearly perpendicular cliff. One rock forms the forehead; the second, the nose and mouth and the third, the chin. The profile is about 1,200 feet above Profile Lake and 3,200 feet above sea level. Editorial Notes...

Is Enough Attention Drawn To Huntingdon

A story reaches us of some American Tourists who had stopped in Huntingdon to buy a few trinkets before proceeding on their way. It was while doing this that they learned this was the last Canadian town before reaching the border. This information decided them to use up the balance of their Canadian money and they thereupon made more purchases. They also brought to notice that they had not seen any signs announcing this to be the last Canadian town before reaching the border.

There are a number of signs on the highway after passing Dewittville which warn the traveller that Huntingdon is the next town, but we do not believe any of them state it is the last one before the border. This thought has brought to mind that perhaps more tourists who are homeward bound, would stop in Huntingdon to do as these tourists had done, use up their Canadian money. In this way perhaps the storekeepers of Huntingdon would do a larger business from this class of traveller.

It would seem that interests of this nature should be the work of either the Huntingdon Merchants Association or the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Huntingdon Merchants Association seems the logical body as it is in the interests of the merchants that signs of this nature would be erected. As one travels around, it is quite noticeable that before actually entering towns, signs may be seen acquainting travellers of what they may expect to find in the towns. Very little of this advertising is done insofar as Huntingdon is concerned and perhaps it may be a matter that could be checked upon. There are rules and regulations as to erecting signs on the highway, but perhaps something could be done that would not be too unsightly and at the same time have a beneficial effect. There is no doubt that more could be done to advertise Huntingdon as a shopping centre if the proper research were undertaken. It should be the aim of the Merchants Association to discuss such matters and make decisions on them which would improve business for all concerned.

What's That, Mrs. Embree?

THAT was a strangely ambiguous statement Mrs. C. J. Embree of Halifax made the other day.

"All women should be interested in politics because women are the nation's spenders," she said quite seriously. "If they're not interested in their own business, what will they be interested in?"

Well, any mere male could be expected to misconstrue her meaning. Women are the nation's spenders, all right - ask any husband what happens to his weekly pay cheque. And any man would say the gossip female of the species is a lot more interested in other people's business than her own.

But of course that isn't what Mrs. Embree, 50-year-old housewife, mother of three children and president of the National Federation of Liberal Women, had in mind at all. And what she did have in mind makes sense.

Government costs money - big money - regardless of what party is in office. That cost is reflected in the cost of living - for in the long run every cent spent by the federal, provincial and municipal administrations comes from your pocket and mine.

Women, as the nation's spenders, must be interested in getting the best buy for their money. That goes for politics as well as groceries and clothes and rent. Politics is everybody's business.

The best buy isn't always the cheapest product on the market. Quality is as important as the cost.

And so it is with politics. What do we want from government? Under our democratic system each voter has the chance to decide for himself - to decide which party will provide the best possible administration at the least possible expenditure.

Women, as the nation's spenders, should take Mrs. Embree's advice. What she says, as Liberal, applies to all, regardless of political inclinations or convictions.

What she says, in effect, is this: "Think hard, then vote the way you think best - but vote."

So Near - Yet So Far

THE recent developments as to the truce in Korea and in the Russian occupied countries have not done much to bring the peace that the world is expecting. In the Korean situation, the U.N. Command and the Russians have been on the point of signing a truce for weeks past. However, the monkey wrench that Syngman Rhee threw in the works has snarled the gears to some extent. In any event while the truce is so near, it still seems so far. The U.N. would like to have the matter all settled and Syngman Rhee with them, but he still remains quite stubborn. The Russians want the released P.O.W.s. returned, but the U.N. feels this is too big a job now. The situation can be explained in no better way than to call it a "mess". If the truce is signed without Rhee, then the war in Korea will go on and it may mean South Korea fighting against U.N. and Russians, according to Rhee. Such a prospect looks hopeless as far as the South Koreans being able to go it alone, but it is their affair and Rhee is determined apparently to stand or fall according to his principles.

Looking at the other side, there are the recent uprisings or riots in Berlin and other sectors over which the Russians have control. The Russians have taken the situations in hand with a fist of iron and it looks as if they have them under control. The cost to the prestige of the Russians and to those who took part in the riots has been tremendous. The officials of the Western Allies were of the opinion that the uprisings were the beginning of a break within Russian bounds that would ultimately spell the downfall of Russian domination and possibly lead to civil war. But to a certain extent the Russians showed their military strength in rushing tanks and soldiers to the troubled zones with speed and dispatch. Naturally the rioters were no match for such equipment, although it is surprising the damage they did do with their primitive weapons.

The Western officials can take a lesson from the way the Russians handled the situations and also a warning that the Russians are well armed and ready to move off at a moment's notice. It again shows that we cannot afford to relax our defense plans. If they can move against such conditions so swiftly they can also move for acts of aggression or attack. Not only this, but there are reports that 50,000 of the rioters in Berlin have been rounded up and placed in prison camps. Is this a new start of the old horror camps? Two tactics were used: one was to give extra rations of food in some parts and the other to use the mailed fist.

But where are these situations leading us? Is it to the peace we want and desire or is it to greater confusions?

In one way we can understand Rhee wanting to get the best for his country, especially when the war was started for that purpose. On the other hand, it does not seem just right to stand in the way of a possible truce at this time. The aggression was originally from North Korea against South Korea and the truce terms look like another Polish set-up which did not fare so well for Poland. The truce is in our hands if we do not let it slip and therefore the terms should be dictated from that angle. Korea should be considered. Once U.N. troops have been withdrawn, anything can happen. Possibly that is the way that Rhee views the situation and would rather it be cleaned up even if he has to go ahead alone and die fighting.

The Uncommon Vote

THE strength of democracy is that it assures the right of the individual to think for himself. Its weakness lies in the refusal of some individuals to exercise that right. Certainly, men rarely make a blunt declaration of refusal but, if actions speak louder than - or even as loudly as - words, the refusal is present just the same.

From a representative list of cities across Canada, Quebec was the only one which polled over 60 percent of its electorate at its last municipal elections. Halifax, London and Vancouver each polled less than 50 percent, Toronto and Montreal less than 40 percent. Calgary polled 20 percent of its electorate and Edmonton 12.5 percent. Even at the last federal elections, one out of every four voters was missing from the polling booths.

But where lies the danger? Canada is a democracy. What difference can it possibly make if some Canadians decide that they don't want to cast their vote? It was precisely as an answer to this question that the Education Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association decided that a booklet should be prepared and afforded the widest possible circulation at the time of the forthcoming election.

The booklet was prepared. It is called The Uncommon Vote and aims to show that what we call the common vote is anything but a common thing. It was won for us through bitter struggles by our forefathers and is something which we should protect and cherish. "But our right to vote is not being attacked," say some. That is perfectly true and it is possibly the greatest danger we face. A right which is not assailed apparently needs no defence. Two world wars have surely taught us by now the danger which lies in waiting until we are attacked.

The Uncommon Vote is entirely non-political. It tells simply the value of the vote, the history of the vote - and what happened to nations whose citizens neglected their right to vote. It tells the "why" of voting, not the "how."

Through The Telescope

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

A hundred years isn't a very long time when one comes to look back historically. It was struck to me this fact in reading some excerpts from the files of the Toronto Globe of Saturday, June 4, 1853, which casually reported what Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Browning, Carlyle and Macaulay were doing at that time. Dickens was said to be sitting in a fine large house in Tavistock Square, London, "busy as a bee over Bleak House and Household Words." Thackeray had just got home and could be found at the Garrick Club poring over a French newspaper or "chatting with Albert Smith over a mutton chop with sherry additions." Tennyson was musing in a modest brick house in the village of Twickenham. The Brownings were "like swallows flitting from clime to clime" and might be met at the National Gallery or at the opera. Cheyne Row and it was hard to get even a glimpse of him in his garden. Macaulay might be found among his idols, the books at the British Museum, or at one of his clubs.

Many other names could be added to that galaxy of genius which shone in the literary firmament of London a hundred years ago, and to read a brief account of their activities in an old newspaper brings them very near to us. It is like looking through a telescope and seeing their lives much as we are living today. In 1853 Queen Victoria was a young woman of 33 and had been on the throne 16 years. She had married Prince Albert in 1840 and they were living happily in their growing family for half of each year at Osborne in the Isle of Wight or in the Scottish Highlands at Balmoral Castle. Britain was at peace with the world in 1853, but trouble was brewing with Russia, and the Crimean War, which Victoria had tried hard to avert, broke out at the end of the year.

It is interesting to compare the Crimean War with the Korean War of today. Russia, under Czar Nicholas I, an ambitious monarch, was encroaching on the Near East as she is doing today on the Far East, and was threatening the dismemberment of Turkey and the occupation of Constantinople and the Dardanelles. Britain and France were vitally interested in the preservation of those strategic points, and when Turkey declared war on Russia she found willing allies. Like Korea, Crimea was a peninsula and a mountainous and muddy country with extremes of climate. The British soldiers, who seem to have done most of the fighting, suffered terrible hardships and losses. Also like Korea, the Crimean War was an inglorious one, except for exhibitions of bravery, such as the Charge of the Light Brigade, about which Tennyson was to write his popular poem of that name. But even that heroic charge was a mistake, as the poet hinted—"some one had blundered." And there have been enough blunders in Korea.

There is another historical coincidence in the fact that when the aggressive Czar Nicholas died during the siege of Sevastopol, his successor, Alexander II, sought peace and gave himself to internal reforms, emancipating 25 million Russian serfs. With the fall of Sevastopol all combatants were glad to bring the war to an end after over two years of unrelenting fighting. The miserable condition of the troops, depicted by the first war correspondents, was alleviated by the heroic service of Florence Nightingale. The peace Treaty was signed in Paris, and the Black Sea and Dardanelles were neutralized. Russian ambition in the Near East was checkmated. It is perhaps too much to expect that the end of the Korean War will have the same effect upon Soviet Russia's aggressive policy in the Far East, but there are signs that the new Soviet

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA (CP) — The general election campaign is beginning to build up a fair head of steam.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, in radio and platform speeches in the Western province, accused Opposition Leader Drew of trying to beguile the electorate with "empty promises" he had no means of keeping. Mr. Drew reiterated his party's $500,000,000 tax-cut platform pledge and hit at the Liberal government's housing and agriculture policies.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, accused the Liberal government in a Dominion network broadcast over the CBC of financial mismanagement which was causing the purchasing power of the dollar to decline. Speaking from Ottawa, Mr. Low pledged his party if elected to the restoration of the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, remained in seclusion in Ottawa last week because of the death of his wife June 26. She died of a paralyzing illness which confined her to a wheel-chair for 21 years. Then he went westwards to re-open his campaign with a speech Monday at Pike Lake, Sask.

Trade Is Issue

Mr. Drew said in his western speeches that Canada can regain her sterling-area markets for agricultural products by a "positive approach" and by demonstrating her faith in Britain's future. He said Canada is taxing herself out of her export markets. The price of her goods included excise tax and the 10-per-cent sales tax.

He declared the fact that the number of houses completed in Canada declined last year to 73,000 from 83,000 in 1950 provided "clear and positive proof" that the Liberal government is incapable of dealing with the housing problem.

Mr. St. Laurent said Canada cannot solve the dollar-sterling problem and "don't let anyone fool us with empty promises that we can." If the Progressive Conservatives had any magic formula for meeting the situation "they have been keeping it secret since 1949."

He challenged the Progressive Conservatives to fight the election on the issue of provincial rights. He declared that his and preceding Liberal governments have made provincial governments more secure by negotiating tax agreements with them.

Mr. Low's Ottawa broadcast reviewed the Social Credit platform made public in Toronto the previous week. He said a Social Credit government would issue "purchasing power" to citizens which would "help balance production and consumption."

Mr. Low made a second Ottawa broadcast in which he attacked present international financial mechanism and proposed Canada accept sterling in payment for her exports. He said this would facilitate international trade.

ROCKBURN—Mrs. N. R. McCaig arrived home for the summer vacation from her duties as Principal of the Elementary School at Rosemere, Que.

The Strawberry Supper under the auspices of the Rockburn Ladies' Aid Tuesday evening was favoured with beautiful weather and good attendance. After the serving of supper many of the guests addressed Mrs. Sloan's lawn where old and young enjoyed a most pleasant evening. Proceeds amounted to $62.76.

The regular meeting of the Rockburn Ladies' Aid was entertained by Mrs. G. Lindsay and Mrs. R. Walker at the home of Mrs. Lindsay Thursday evening. Mrs. C. Currie presided. Mrs. Brocklehurst was presented by the members of the Society with a beautiful quilt made by the members. Thought taken by surprise Mrs. Brocklehurst thanked the givers most sincerely for the kindness shown her during her stay in Canada and expressed her pleasure in assembling with and participating in the Church life and activities as she always had in her homeland. The singing of "For Auld Lang Syne" and a hymn brought in the time for the serving of lunch by the hostesses and the close of the evening.

Many words of satisfaction and appreciation are heard concerning the work of Mr. Andre Douglas in the re-decoration of the interior of the Rockburn Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Merritt of Oswego, and Mrs. Ruth Post and Dr. John Abbott of Pulaski called Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver.

Carson Watson of Montreal South spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William McK. English.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Hooker were Mrs. C. Farstad of Lethbridge, Alta., Miss Elsie MacParlane of Montreal.

Many Candidates

Indications are that the final total of election candidates will exceed the 1949 figure of 848 and may surpass the record of 954 that was set in the 1945 election.

Official nominations close Monday, July 13, in 21 large, thinly-populated constituencies. In the field at that stage there were 242 candidates. On July 27, two of the 263 constituencies—Halifax, N.S. and Queens in Prince Edward Island—each elected two members, bringing to 265 the total number elected. There were 245 seats at stake in 1945 and 262 seats in 1949, the increase this year being brought about by two successive redistribution acts.

At the end of last week the Liberals already had 229 candidates in the field. At that stage there were 169 Progressive Conservatives, 116 CCF, 19 Social Credit, 87 Labor Progressives and several miscellaneous entries. The Labor-Progressive (Communist) party is fielding its largest number of candidates since it was organized during the Second World War. Its total may reach 100 by nomination day.

United Nations
The United Nations' two top figures met in Ottawa and apparently agreed it would be premature to call an emergency session of the UN until the talks in Seoul have had time to produce definite results.

Dag Hammarskjold, UN secretary-general, and External Affairs Minister Pearson, assembly president, issued a communique after a day-long meeting in which they said they will consider calling an assembly meeting either if a truce is declared or the present talks are "prolonged."

They were meeting following an appeal from Prime Minister Nehru of India for an assembly session to discuss the truce-talk situation. Mr. Hammarskjold and Mr. Pearson did not say in their communique what they meant by "prolonged" but the implication was they intend to give President Eisenhower's trouble-shooters time to bring President Syngman Rhee of South Korea into line with UN opinion on the truce settlement.

Supreme Court
The Supreme Court of Canada handed down a 3-2 decision which means that a newspaper is not liable for injuries to the health of its readers which may result from the publication of a false news report.

The court dismissed the appeal of Mrs. Yvonne Guay of Vancouver who sued the Vancouver Sun for unspecified damages and claimed her health was impaired because of a Sun report that her estranged husband and three children were killed in a car-train collision.

A trial judge had awarded Mrs. Guay $1,025 but the British Columbia appeal court reversed that judgment. The Supreme Court upheld the B.C. court.

Although all five Justices of the Supreme Court agreed the newspaper had been negligent in publishing the item without checking it, three held that the newspaper was not liable to Mrs. Guay for damages.

Income Tax

Personal income taxes on July 1 dropped slightly for the balance of the year. But the savings to the taxpayer are small. For a married man with two children, the tax on a $3,000 yearly salary will be $126 compared with $130 in 1952. The married man with no children pays $180 instead of $185 and the single man $380 instead of $392.

W.M.S. Meeting

On Wednesday last a large number of W.M.S. members and visitors, thirty in all, gathered at the home of Miss Frances Turner to attend the closing W.M.S. meeting for the summer. The president, Mrs. George Paul, was in the chair, and called on Mrs. D. Moody for the Scripture reading, and Mrs. McCartney for the Glad Tidings Prayer.

Miss F. Turner read minutes of previous meeting and called the roll, which was answered by the text word "Happy". A letter was read from Mrs. Leatherdale, and also one from the Mission Band thanking the ladies for the treat of ice cream given them at their closing meeting. It was agreed that a letter of thanks be sent to Mrs. MacLennan for her donation to the W.M.S.

Each recipient thanked the Society, and the president offered congratulations to each on the honor conferred on them.

There were saddened hearts in the town that day for the blacksmith's son had gone away.

He hung his apron upon the wall and answered his country's war-time call. The clang of his hammer was heard no more.

And a padlock hung on the blacksmith's door. In days gone by when I passed that way I would stop at the shop and bid "good day" to the tolling blacksmith and his son.

And chat with the farmers who had had come With a horse to shoe or a plow to share. Or a wagon or sleigh for some repair. But then when I passed my heart felt sore For a padlock hung on the blacksmith's door.

And then again when I passed today, The blacksmith's shop had been moved away. All that was left was the vacant lot, And I stood and gazed at the very spot.

Where the old shop stood with the open door, And my mind's eye saw, as in days of yore, The tolling, sweating, blacksmith stand There by the forge with tongs in hand, Heating the steel in the burning coal, And it seemed to me that his very soul was all wrapped up in the worthy deed, To fashion a shoe for a noble steed.

And now that I and my lifelong friend Have almost reached our journey's end And about to cross the great divide, I hope we'll meet on the other side With all our loved ones gone before, Across the stream, to that other shore. There to enjoy an endless day. With all our troubles washed away.

CHERRIES

This is the month when the two large cherry growing provinces of Canada—British Columbia and Ontario provide us with sweet cherries to eat out of hand. Red, juicy, sour cherries from British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia are available for pies, puddings and the like. Everyone enjoys cherries for they have such a bright color and a wonderful flavour.

There are several varieties of sweet cherries sold on the market and the most well-known is the Bing cherry which is grown in both Ontario and British Columbia. Lambert's are grown for the most part in British Columbia while the Black Tartarian, the Schmidt and the Windsor are grown mainly in Ontario. British Columbia also produces Royal Ann cherries which are sweet white cherries. When it comes to red sour cherries, there is one main variety grown in Canada and that is the Montmorency. A few Richmonds are grown in Ontario.

Be sure to have plenty of fresh sweet cherries on hand in the refrigerator because everyone loves to have a handful to munch. Do not forget that you may add fresh sweet cherries to fruit cups, to ice creams or to gelatine desserts. Pitted, sweet cherries mixed with cottage cheese and moulded on a bed of lettuce makes a wonderful luncheon salad.

Sour cherry pie tops the list of favourites with many pie lovers. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture also recommend cherry up-side-down cake. It is very good served with generous dabs of whipped cream. All the wonderful cherry recipes are far too numerous to mention, so home-makers will do well to look up their favourite recipes and use plenty of cherries while they last.

It is cherry time now and bright red sour cherries are on the market just waiting to be bought. Be sure to buy cherries that are plump and firm. They should not be over-ripe or have bruised spots or splits. Try to see that the cherries are bright red all over. They should not have any green spots. Now is the time for the homemaker who owns a home freezer or rents a frozen food locker to freeze sour cherries. Many people call them. These are the recommenda-

W.A. Meeting—The Women's Association was entertained on Wednesday evening, June 24th, at the home of Mrs. A. H. Fraser with Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Thos. Stowell as joint hostesses. The vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Platt, led the meeting, which Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Stowell presided over. The program consisted of the devotional period. Mrs. Gordon Fraser, chairman of the Finance Committee stated that so far this year, the Committee has raised the sum of $23.86, and that this amount does not include the profit on the sale of cook books. Mrs. Donald Fraser reported for the cook book section and said that approximately $43. would be the Society's net gain. A little over $100. has already been cleared on this last year, so that with a change of a small inter-member exchange of receipts, culminated into something really worthwhile. Mrs. Thos. Stowell reminded the members of the tablecloth she is making and on which she is embroidering names for a small fee. This should prove to be quite interesting when completed and several additional names were handed in to Mrs. Stowell to be written on the cloth. Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Stowell served refreshments and a social period followed. The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. V. Elder with Mrs. Elder and Mrs. Sutton as joint hostesses. School Notes The teachers of Dundee Consolidated School, Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Sutton, made arrangements for the pupils of Grades I to IX inclusive, to be taken to the Recreation Park in Malone, N.Y., last Wednesday, June 24th, where they thoroughly enjoyed the day picnicking, swimming and entering into the various activities offered by the Park. On Friday evening, June 19th, at 8 o'clock, the eighth grade commencement exercises of Port Covington High School took place in the Firemen's Hall. The salutatory address was given by one of our local boys who attends F.C.H.S., namely, Hugh MacPherson. The School Band, in which Hugh plays the drum, also gave several selections during the evening, opening the program with the "Processional." Hugh, who has been an honor student all term, ranked 2nd in his class of 32 with an average of 94%.

Huntingdon Wins 6th in a Row

The Huntingdon Merchants who are now leading the Eastern Division of the St. Lawrence Valley League with 8 wins and 1 loss, won by a 15 to 11 score over second place Burke Bears on Sunday afternoon. Burke's record is now 5 wins and 4 losses.

Although the Merchants were out hit 14 to 10, Burke errors and wildness on the part of Burke pitcher Bernie Poupard, helped Huntingdon win the ball game. Poupard walked 4 men in the 3rd inning when Huntingdon was trailing 3-0. A single by Tiny Robert with the bases loaded scored 2 runs, and a 2-base hit by Roger Cyr scoring 2 more runs were the big blows and Huntingdon scored 7 times to take the lead and never lose it.

In the eighth inning with Huntingdon leading 14-6 Roger Cyr pitching for Huntingdon, the bases loaded and 3 runs already scored, and no one out, Coach Spencer Gavin called Rosie Lacompte to hit out the fire. The first Burke batsman to face Lacompte singled to score two more runs. Then Lacompte went to work and got the next three batters out in order. In the ninth, one Burke man to base with a single, but Lacompte settled down and struck out two batters and forced the third to ground out to McCallum at second for the final out.

Roger Cyr who allowed 12 hits in the 7 innings he pitched, was the power at bat for the Merchants. Cyr hit two doubles and was safe on errors twice, being responsible for 5 of his team's runs. Rene Senecal went 2 for 5 and also helped the cause scoring twice.

Baldy Poupard, Burke's catcher and a very fine ball player, hit the only home run of the day over the right field fence at the 290 ft. mark. Poupard also hit another ball 350 ft. to center field fence but Ozzy Watson, the Old Pro, went back to the fence to make a leaping one hand catch to rob Poupard of another sure home run. This was about the best fielding play seen in Huntingdon this year.

This Sunday the Merchants will be playing at Fort Covington. The Fort has a much improved team, compared to the team that lost 22-6 to the Merchants, so Huntingdon will have its hands full this coming Sunday in Fort Covington.

On Thursday night, July 9th at 8:30, the Huntingdon Club will play the challenge game against the Baker Fielders at Baker's Field in Malone. The Malone Club has only lost one game this year and has a lineup full of college baseball stars. Tickets for this game can be bought from any of the Huntingdon Players or picked up at Kelly & Lanctot's.

Four Persons Injured in Car Accident

Two Cars in Collision On Route 52

A bad accident occurred on July 2nd, in front of Arthur's General Store, Rockburn, on Route 52, resulting in four persons being injured.

A car driven by G. R. Trembley, of Ormstown, Customs Officer at Blackpool, was proceeding toward Huntingdon at about 5 p.m., when it struck a car driven by Raymond Laneal, of Valleyfield and proceeding toward Franklin. In the Trembley car were also Miss Marielle Lalonde, Valleyfield and Miss Geraldine McDonough, Huntingdon both on the Customs staff. At the time there was a very heavy downpour of rain making it difficult to see. Just how the accident occurred was difficult to obtain as the victims were not sure, or in a state to be questioned.

The driver and passengers in the Trembley car were most injured. Miss McDonough had a broken kneecap (left), broken bone in right foot, concussion and numerous lacerations and abrasions. Miss Lalonde was later transferred to the Montreal General Hospital, while Miss McDonough is still confined at the County Hospital. The injuries to Trembley are not known, but are believed to be slight. Laneal suffered slight injuries to his knee.

Damage to the cars were: Trembley car $800, and Laneal car about $650. It is believed that Laneal was turning into a driveway off the highway when the accident occurred.

Traffic officer Perras, of Hemmingford investigated the accident.
