GET BUDGET DETAILS FIRST HAND

Several members of the Westmount Young Liberals and a few of their friends took a trip to Ottawa Tuesday to hear Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, who is also Westmount's M.P., bring down his new budget. The smiles on their faces widened after hearing the details. Left to right, they are:—G. Shore, T. Abbott, son of the Minister, John Fairlie, Doug Robbins, Lorne Hellyer, president of the Young Liberals, and Ray Setlakwe.

Initial Successes Held Good Omen

The Rotary-sponsored campaign for $103,000 to build a club house for members of the Unity Boys' Club got off to a flying start on Wednesday as the members turned their usual weekly luncheon into a communal pep-talk. It was announced that over $10,000 had been promised before the campaign opened.

Seven speakers, all members of the club, gave outlines of the activities their sections had completed so far. Ewart Everson, of the building committee, showed the members blueprints of the proposed building. It was originally estimated that the construction would cost $188,000, he said, but this figure was lessened when new plans were drawn up, cutting down the size of the structure but not the space needed. The plans now being considered show the cost as approximately $138,000, of which the club has already raised $72,000 over a period of years.

FACILITIES LISTED

Mr. Everson said that the playing floor in the gymnasium will be 46 feet by 66 feet which is about average for a club of this type. In the building there will also be a games room, snack-bar and a board-room for club directors. He said the snack-bar is necessary because it is one of the things that it is hoped will take the youngsters out of "corner hang-outs".

Bud Close, past president of the club, described the definite need for the clubhouse. He said that after a survey was taken in the city of parks and other facilities for recreation it was found that indoor recreation centres were practically non-existent, outside of the YMCA.

Describing the homes some of the would-be frequenters come from, he said there is no room for a girl or boy to entertain friends, and this club house would at least let them meet under proper sponsorship.

Other speakers were Bob Edwards, Bill Moxley, Alec Boire, Jim De Lalanne and vice-president Del Delgado.

Team Captains for the drive are Jack Burrows, Bert Cuthbert, Alec Boire and Ted Harrison.

Coincidence's Long Arm Stretches For Bill Moxley

It almost seems as though it had been arranged.

The Rotary Club of Westmount follows a ritual at every meeting when a member's birthday comes around. They present him with a boutonniere, usually a carnation, and he is congratulated by the president.

This week it was Bill Moxley's birthday and Bill is the heart and soul of the Rotary campaign for a Unity Boys' Club headquarters. He has been working for this campaign and for the good of the Unity Club ever since its inception. The names, Bill Moxley and Unity Club, have become synonymous.

So when it was announced that Bill was to step forward and collect his carnation, the clapping of his fellow Rotarians was to signify that not one, but two milestones had been reached — another year in Bill's life completed and the beginning of a new era for the young of Westmount south.

Spring's Arrival Now Official

Spring is here. The bird is on the wing, etc.

The first 'phone call to announce the arrival of "Red Robin" was received on Wednesday, from Miss Esther Goldberg, 417 Mount Pleasant Ave.

Second harbinger of the new season's final arrival came from the police station, also on Wednesday. No sooner were we in the station than it was pointed out that the grass on the west side of Westmount Senior High School had turned a beautiful green overnight. It was attributed to Tuesday's raifall.

Yup! I guess it's official now

Anti-T.B. League Plans 1,500 Tests

Plans have been made for a mass chest survey by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of approximately 1,500 people in this City, it was announced at the regular Monday evening meeting of the City Council. This number will include City employees, teachers, food handlers, members of the Westmount High School graduating class and families where babies and pre-school children show positive patch tests. The X-rays will be taken in May.

Other information regarding the general health of the City revealed at the same time shows that four new T.B. cases have been reported in the past month. Four clinics were held and 11 first X-rays and 27 repeats were taken. Reports on all these were received and three showed tuberculosis symptoms.

Ninety-three patch tests were made and one new hospitalization was reported.

Eleven first, eight second, ten third and eight booster doses of combined toxoid, and two second doses of diphtheria toxoid were given. The attendance at the four clinics totalled 64.

SCHOOL HEALTH SERVICE

One hundred and eighteen medical examinations were carried out in the schools by doctors. Of this number, 112 are categorized as good and six as medium. Those requiring attention totalled 135 and these were placed under observation. Thirty-three cases have been corrected.

Nurses examined 425 children and gave 71 treatments, excluded 17 from class and re-admitted three. They also examined 12 classrooms and held 34 teacher conferences. They made 33 home visits.

Forty-three live births and 16 deaths were reported.

"Parenthood" Is Subject of Talk

Dr. Alton Goldbloom will address the Home and School Association of Temple Emanu-El on Monday night at 8.15 p.m. His subject will be "The Theory and Practise of Parenthood". A limited question period will follow the lecture. This meeting is open to the public and a social hour will round out the evening.

Physician, teacher and author are just a few of the activities of this brilliant member of the medical profession. He is widely known for his book, "The Care of the Child", a work which has been translated into French, Dutch, and Spanish. The English version has gone [illegible] editions.

Dr. Goldbloom has a pungent wit a keen [illegible] of the youthful mind and a deep understanding of parental problems.

Korea's "Mr. OK" To Speak at "Y"

Suyung-Ok Pyun, recently arrived General Secretary of the YMCA in Korea, will speak at an open meeting of the Westmount YMCA Teenage members on Wednesday, March 30th, commencing at 8 p.m.

Mr. Suyung-Ok Pyun, known to his friends at Mr. "O.K.", has an interesting story to tell of Korea or "the land of morning calm". Korea has been divided between Russia and American occupation forces. It is a land which is the home of some thirty million people, a land which has been dominated by the Japanese since the time of the Russo-Japanese War.

The people of Korea are neither Japanese nor Chinese, they may in general be closer related to our Canadian and Alaskan Esquimaux. In their country, primitive religion (Shamanism) still exists despite Japanese attempts to indoctrinate the Koreans with Shintoism or "Emperor Worship".

Over 10,000 tickets were in the drawing and there were approximately 100 Canadians in the lot. Reg. won the cow in a drawing where all purchasers in the Malone National Army Store were eligible. He and photoman Ed Bermingham journeyed there last week-end to make arrangements. IN THE PICTURE, MR. GROOME IS ON THE RIGHT.

Scouts & Cubs

Scouter Mel Burge again takes over for us . . . take it away, Mel.

SALUTING

In the days of old, it was a common sight to see a Scout salute a Girl Guide, or a Scout salute a Scouter or vice versa. Our correspondent has carried this practice to this day BUT, believe it or not, of all the salutes he has given, only one Scouter and two Scouts have returned it. . . He can't help but wonder what has happened to Scouting. Saluting is a form of greeting. He has saluted Girl Guides and Guiders, but still sees no sign of recognition. He'd like to see every Scouter take as his next SM's Five Minutes, a little talk on Saluting. There's nothing smarter to his mind, than to see a smart salute coming from a cub, scout or what have you. The left handshake still prevails . . . but have you noticed how many Scouters and Scouts fumble?

It is the old timers that extend the left hand, making a Scouter remember the good old days, when scouting was the most important thing in a boy's life. Today he has the "Y" — Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Clubs — Hi-Ys, etc. Scouting, they think, is OK for youngsters . . . but by the time they reach high school, they think it is sissified. Let us remind you . . . There's nothing sissified about Scouting. Scouting will help you to choose your life's work . . . Will give you years of happiness and in your later years, you will look back to these days as the happiest days of your life.

On with the news.

Trinity Memorial Pack

The Red six seemed to take all the honours at last week's meeting. First the sixer Bob Turnbull led the Grand Howl, and it so happened he was presented with his Guide badge, and who, none else, but the Reds won the competition for the evening. Following inspection and games, the following tests were passed: Shoe cleaning — David Dorrance, Jim Shaw; Message — Jim Shaw; Ball throwing — Brian Hutchinson who also completed his First Star. The following completed First Aider badge—Sixers Roy Smith, Michael Schell, John Ancrum, Bill Hartley and Teddy Roberts.

Another series of games were played, followed by a short sing song around the campfire. The meeting closed with announcements. cub silence, prayers and the Grand Howl. Akela Bedford is taking points off for those cubs coming in late, so all cubs are asked to be on time, which is at 6:45 p.m. If a cub has a good reason for being late, all very well, otherwise the points will come off.

Results of the coat hanger collection to date is as follows: gold — 188 bites; grey — 190; red — 216 bites; blue — 268 bites; sand — 584 bites and brown 1,306 bites. Last Saturday, John Ancrum was the lone collector, turning in 43 hangers.

POLITICAL NOTES

Maybe it's the approach of the federal elections, maybe it's just the fact that spring officially arrived on Monday of this week. At any rate, there's an awful lot of politically tinged stories going the rounds these days. Here are two of them:

About Mr. Duplessis

One of Quebec's hard-working rural school teachers was trying to teach her class a little about the generous government at Quebec City.

"Who gave us this nice new school?" she asked.

"C'est Maurice qui nous l'a donné," chimed back the kiddies.

"And who gave us the nice new highway that makes it so pleasant for us to come to this nice new school?" asked the teacher.

"C'est Maurice qui nous l'a donné," came the chanted response.

"And who gave us our nice new blackboard?" queried the pedagogue.

"C'est Maurice qui . . ." was the answer.

"And who gave us the lovely trees and the flowers in our schoolyard?" asked the teacher.

Timidly a little boy put up his hand.

"Yes?" asked the teacher.

"Please, miss," said the little boy, "God did."

From the back of the classroom came a growled, "Dirty Liberal."

About Mr. Drew

A doctor died and after a decent interval knocked on the pearly gates. St. Peter opened the door and after learning that the visitor sought admission, asked, "What was your ojb on earth?"

"I was a doctor," was the reply.

"What kind of a doctor?"

"A general practitioner."

"Sorry," said St. Peter, "we have thousands of those up here. We don't need any more. You'll have to go down to the other place."

While wending his way sadly to the underground regions the general practitioner met an old friend of his, another doctor. The latter was on his way to the pearly gates. The general practitioner told him that Heaven was overstaffed with doctors but his friend said, "They'll let me in. I'm a surgeon."

But St. Peter told him, "Sorry, we have too many surgeons up here—thousands of them."

Just then another man knocked on the pearly gates.

"What was your job on earth?" St. Peter asked.

"I was a doctor," was the reply.

"What kind of a doctor?"

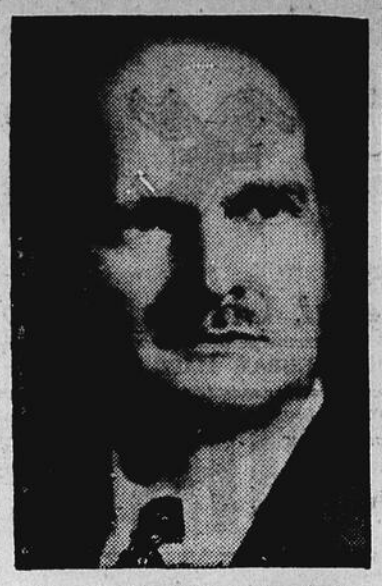

"A psychiatrist."

"Well, at last," said St. Peter. "Come on in. We need you. Gabriel thinks he's George Drew."

Happy Birthday To

Helen Squire, whose big day was Wednesday . . . Dave Laurin who'll be 23 next Tuesday . . . and Muffin Warren, who'll be old enough to vote come March 29

. . . Some wise person once remarked, "If there were no women around, we'd all stagnate" . . . Jack McKissock, the versatile athlete, now running a basketball team in the Westmount Municipal League.

OLD SCOUTS' VICE-PRES.

Alec P. Grigg, K.C., one of the original Old Scouts of Westmount, who was recently elected second vice-president of the newly-formed B.-P. Guild of Old Scouts, and who will act also as Montreal district organizer of a Unit for the many Old Scouts in Montreal not now connected with a Scout group. With Mr. Grigg are Edward J. Thom, chairman (the first Scoutmaster of the 1st Westmount Troop in 1909); Brean E. Newey, 1st vice-chairman, who will act also as Montreal district organizer for Old Scouts Units connected with local Scout groups; and Stanley Sharpe, honorary secretary.

YOUNG ADULT SECTION

The Y.M.C.A. World Service did not profit greatly by the St. Patrick's dance which was held last Friday, but those who attended thoroughly enjoyed the music of Randy Winfield and his orchestra. They are all planning to attend the next special dance which will be held in April. See you there.

Tonight the regular Friday Social Dances will be continued. The early part of the evening, immediately after the Dance Instruction Classes, at 9.30 p.m. will be devoted to Barn Dancing. The "Virginia Reel" has become a favorite, and the group are ready for another square. Modern dancing is in full swing by 10.15 p. m. and continues to midnight. This is the opportunity you have been wanting to meet with other young people in a friendly atmosphere.

The Music Appreciation Group will hold its next meeting on Thursday at 8.15 p.m. Eileen White will give the commentary on Grieg and his works.

With Newfoundland coming into the Dominion next week, the Sunday Evening Fireside program will feature a film on that new province. Miss Audrey Dawe, ex-Reference Librarian for the Island, will be present to help in a further understanding of the country and its inhabitants. The film will be shown at 9 p.m. Refreshments are served and discussions will take place around the fire.

Don't forget the Bridge Club on Monday evenings at 8 p.m. If you wonder whether it is too late in the season to join, may we remind you that this club continued its activities throughout the summer months last year. There is no reason why it should not continue this practice. Prepare yourself for next winter's foursomes now.

A few of the serious minded Chess players are turning up for games on Friday evenings. If you are interested in playing or learning to play this international game, come out at 8 p.m. tonight.

The Young Adult Program Council will meet on Tuesday, March 29th, at 8 p.m.

Special interest was aroused by the way in which records are manufactured and by the drills and stamp presses. This tour was made possible by the kindness of the Personnel Division at R.C.A. Victor.

QSPB Sponsors Bird Lecture

Dr. Arthur A. Allen of Cornell University, an outstanding American ornithologist, addressed a capacity audience at Victoria Hall recently, when he presented his colour film "North with the Birds to Hudson Bay" under the auspices of the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds.

Dr. Allen delighted his audience with sound recordings, accompanied by colour film and slides, of bird and frog voices — the honking of wild geese on their way north, the trumpeting of swans, the drumming of grouse, the exquisite songs of the woodland thrushes, white-throated sparrow, bobolink and meadowlark, and the familiar whip-poor-will's call.

With his beautiful film Dr. Allen took his rapt listeners to the nesting grounds of birds seen here only in migration, such as wild geese, Lapland longspurs, pipits and tree sparrows, and many of the shore birds including the golden plover, Hudsonian curlew, red-backed sandpiper and others.

Dr. Allen has addressed the Province of Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds on several occasions in previous years, but it was evident from the reception accorded him that this lecture surpassed all his others.

G. Harper Hall, president, introduced Dr. Allen and Mrs L. McI. Terrill thanked him.

ACTORS JAILED

Insisting on authentic backgrounds, Director Robert Siodmak took Barbara Stanwyck and Wendell Corey down to Los Angeles County Jail for key scenes in Hal Wallis' "Thelma Jordon". Shots were made on the roof and in the actual cell blocks. Barbara plays a woman accused of murder.

Art Exhibit Features N. S. Scenes

"HAZY MORNING—PEGGY'S COVE, N.S."
Oil Painting by Mrs. Cornell

Scenes from Peggy's Cove, N.S., and the Laurentians in both winter and autumn will be featured in an exhibition of art work by Mrs. Betty Galbraith-Cornell in the fifth floor picture gallery of James A. Ogilvy Ltd., St. Catherine street at Mountain, starting tomorrow and continuing for two weeks. The gallery will be open from 9.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. each day.

Mrs. Cornell who resides at 312 Metcalfe avenue, has become especially well known during the past ten years for her portraits, in the pastel media, of children, and some of these will also be exhibited.

It is only during the past five years that she has been painting landscapes seriously and she has become especially fond of Nova Scotia fishing views, which she discovered during the war while living in Halifax at the time her husband was in the Navy.

Mrs. Cornell has returned to Peggy's Cove for the past two summers and each winter she makes trips to the Laurentians to paint outdoors, using skis as a method of transportation.

Her studio is at her home in Westmount.

Mrs. Cornell received her training at the Art Association of Montreal and has exhibited her work in the Spring exhibitions at the Art Gallery besides having her own exhibition two years ago. This year she had a painting accepted by the Hamilton Gallery and she also has two more at the Nova Scotia Society of Artists' Spring Show.

Meteorological Records Show Nature's Fickleness

Believe it or not, snow fell on four more days during the first two months of this year than last and the difference in total depth is 5.9 inches, again in favour of this year.

This large amount of snow necessitated the spending of $106,775 for clearance. This is $33,525 more than in 1948. Most of the higher expenditure has taken place in four divisions, namely, clearing roadways, roughing walks, melting and roughing roads. These four make up $31,875 of the extra amount. These figures were released at the meeting of the City Council Monday.

The hours worked by city employees so far in 1949 amount to 19,081, over 6,000 hours more than the previous year, at a greater cost of $19,488.

Westmount's large snow removers worked 80 per cent more hours this year than last and 197 per cent more workers were hired. The cost was in almost the same proportion.

The number of loads of snow removed was 68 per cent higher. Sleigh loads were much less during 1949 as hired horses worked 461 hours less. Over 2,700 tons of sand, 1,000 tons of cinders and 67 tons of salt were used on the roads this year at a total cost of $6,019, which is $2,930 more than 1948.

This increase in the amount of material used is readily accounted for when it is remembered that meteorological records show that while it rained on four days in 1948, it rained on 15 this year.

To sum up, the higher cost is due to the greater number of hours worked on account of the greater number of changes in weather conditions requiring that greater quantities of snow be removed, greater quantities of material be spread to overcome changes from thaw to freeze and to greater unit cost of labour, motors, horses and steam.

FUN PARADE OF 1949 SPONSORED BY ROTARY

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Montreal in aid of Crippled Children, Boys' Work and Community Service Work, Sherrif's Fun Parade 1949 will be presented at the Forum on Friday, April 1st, at 8 p.m. The Fun Parade is a three-hour programme of fun and entertainment appealing to all ages and is Canada's most popular show and one that Montrealers just won't want to miss seeing. This impromptu Beauty Contest is part of the fun.

Entertainment Oak Grew From Wartime Acorn

It's nearly ten years now since listeners, weary of war-news, twiddling their radio-dials for "escape", were startled to hear a cheerful young man blithely inviting normally staid citizens to make fools of themselves in public, and rewarding them with hardboiled eggs, or blocks of ice.

The genial perpetrator of these surprising shenanigans was Roy Ward Dickson, already known from coast-to-coast as the originator and "King" of quiz. The program was the "Fun Parade".

"Let's have a party", said Roy — and that's what it was — a half-hour of nothing but unadulterated nonsense, games, stunts, shenanigans with no purpose but the spreading of hearty chuckles, each week, from Atlantic to Pacific.

Today, in its tenth year, with the same sponsor, Roy and his daffy gang are still handing out crazy assignments, though where it was a hardboiled egg then, it's a radio now: a block of ice then, a diamond ring now. The show rolls on and on, and nearly two million fun-loving listeners tune in each week.

Back in the war days, the show — a natural, if ever there was one — was in constant demand as entertainment for service camps, and for raising funds for various war charities, and the "Fun Parade" travelled endless miles to bring laughs to the boys and gals in uniform, and to dig up needed dollars.

Today, money is still needed for crippled children, the blind, underprivileged youngsters, needy old folks, and the "Fun Parade" was asked to "visit" by so many cities and towns that the only answer was to take the show on tour once a year.

Last year Roy took his gang and a sidesplitting three hours of fun and prizes, to 24 cities from coast to coast, playing to huge crowds everywhere, and raising many thousands of dollars for worthwhile causes as they went.

This year, after regretfully turning down 87 invitations (there simply weren't enough days to go around!) the "Fun Parade" gang are staging an all-new evening of crazy shenanigans — "The Fun Parade of '49" — in 32 cities!

And they'll be HERE — at the Forum on Friday, April 1st, to raise funds for The Rotary Club of Montreal Crippled Children's Fund, Boys Camp, and Community service work, and to leave thousands of aching sides and tear-stained faces — and scores of happy prize-winners — behind them.

HORSE IS INJURED

A horse belonging to the Dent Harrison Bakeries Ltd., 5341 Western Avenue, sustained injuries to ribs and flank on its left side when a truck driven by Albert Longtin collided with it at 9 p.m. on Saturday.

The horse was tied at the rear of a horse-drawn sulky and the accident happened at Western and Grey Avenues, Constables Dubuc and Therrien turning in a report on the hishap.

Fossils Present 18th Annual Revue

Westmount's own service club, the Fossils, will present its 18th annual revue at Victoria Hall, April 26-29, inclusive.

Once again Bob Goodier, Art Mann, George Downes, Max Ford and many others will cavort in a laugh-riot of song and satire, with the full proceeds devoted to sending young boys to summer camp.

"Call It Colossal" is the title of this year's extravaganza, and the skits run the gamut from a satirical approach to spring to a gag at the expense of Joan of Arc.

Bob Goodier, who has sent many a Victoria Hall audience home holding its collective sides, will again be seen in a stellar role, while the balance of the headliners have worked up a sure-fire hit that is bound to exceed the fine record set last year by A Lass In Alaska or even the sensational Push Up In Front of two years ago.

CONVENTION

St-Antoine-Westmount

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE Association

Victoria Hall, Westmount

To elect a CANDIDATE for the next FEDERAL election.

Nominations, in writing, signed by the proposer and seconder with acceptance signed by the nominee must be submitted to St.-Antoine-Westmount Progressive-Conservative Executive office, 1906 St. Catherine Street W., by 7 p.m., March 31st.

The meeting is open but only the official delegate from each poll may vote.

There's a big future in THIS building

A big future in good citizenship for the City of Westmount — because the building we've illustrated is the proposed new Unity Boys' Club— an important civic project for which we want your help. Westmount Rotarians have already raised $72,000 towards the cost of building and equipping the Club—but we need another $103,000. Why?

Here are the facts

The present Unity Boys' Club was founded by The Rotary Club of Westmount in 1944. Since that time the Club, financially supported by Rotary, has had a marked effect in combatting juvenile delinquency in the lower area of Westmount, by training underprivileged children to be good citizens—an invaluable asset to any community.

However, with its present facilities, the Club cannot hope to do a complete job—its vital needs to be extended—hence, the idea of the new Club, for which the city of Westmount has donated a site. The new Club will provide a centre for outdoor and indoor sports (under the direction of trained supervisors). Handicrafts, gymnasium, a library and many other facilities will be available — giving underprivileged children from 8 to 18 an opportunity to work and play and grow up to be good neighbours—the kind of people we're proud to know.

Y.M.C.A.

World Service In Action

CHINA

In China, while civil war continued to devastate, impoverish, and corrupt, the Y.M.C.A. during 1948 helped many Chinese to grow in mind and spirit and to improve their basic conditions of life. To alleviate immediate suffering, most Associations carried on direct relief operations in co-operation with local welfare orgganizations. Chinese Y-men directed large-scale programs of feeding, clothing, housing and transportation of refuggees and displaced persons. And the Y-sponsored National Student Relief Committee helped thousands of students to remain in school.

To help build peace and democracy in China, Associations throughout the country concentrated on sweeping programs of education, citizenship, preparation, physical training and character building. At least, 2,000,000 people were reached in some direct way through these activities. With public schools and colleges inundated by students, all Y.M.C.As. faced community demands to open high schools for boys. Practically all responded and by year's end had from 300 to 500 boys in each Y school. Classes for adults too, attracted thousands, and extension programs attacking mass illiteracy were conducted in almost every city.

On the national level, a new Y.M.C.A. Department of Citizenship worked out a comprehensive plan of citizenship training for the local Associations. In physical education, an enormous spurt forward resulted from a reorganization of basic method. Emphasis is now being placed on recreation for all, using group activities like folk-dancing and games to build mental as well as physical health. Several dozen new physical educators are carrying this program to most Associations. Vocational education, another national undertaking has been launched in 5 cities for trainees in such basic trades as automobile mechanics, printing, radio and electricity. Designed to help fill China's great industrial vacuum, this program turns out skilled mechanics who are also morally trained for responsible service.

During the year Associations reopened in 8 key cities, bringing the city Y total up to 34. Seven Associations are operating in Communist-held territory. Student Associations increased to 100, and total Y membership jumped to 183,000.

The greatest advance of all was made in the area of greatest need —staff and training. Over 60 new secretaries were placed bringing the total of Chinese secretaries to 200, as against a pre-war level of 950.

Games Night Held By Putters Club

Monday night, another evening of cards was enjoyed by the Putter's Social Group at their weekly get-together.

Mr. Cairns, one of the real active members, walked home with the men's prize. Mrs. Jones, who is soon to leave for England for a visit, won the ladies' prize.

Next Monday another games night will be held with possibly another shuffleboard court added to speed up the game.

"Dem Was Duh Days"

Butter 28¢ Per Pound — In 1905

A trip to Vancouver for $48.90, or to Los Angeles for $49, on the Grand Trunk Railway; strictly new laid eggs, 22½c per dozen; forequarter veal, five cents per pound; forequarter lamb, six cents per pound; a five cents package of Strachan's Oriental washing powder for one cent—sounds like Utopia, doesn't it?

Well, all these values are advertised in the paper and you don't even have to look very hard to find them. You don't believe it? The answer is on the front page of the March 25th "Westmount Advertiser", published at 206 Olivier avenue, Westmount, just 44 years ago today (1905).

A few deeply browned copies of this paper turned up at The Examiner recently and immediately became the object of much evident interest. With ads spread all over the front page calling local citizens to grab up the values, the mouths of those eyeing the age-worn sheets watered with wishful thinking.

Perhaps some of you older residents of the City have forgotten just what life was like back in those days. You may think the price of butter is now dropping to a point where the cost is reasonable, at approximately 60 cents a pound. Well, in those days 56 cents would get you two pounds of that lovely breadspread, right at Dionne and Dionne, 4120 St. Catherine Street, Westmount.

The National Trust Co., Ltd., advertised three-and-a-half per cent interest on daily balance. "Deposits received in trust," they said.

The Westmount Toboggan Slide, the best and fastest in Montreal (so they said), advertised three chutes half a mile long, from top of Mountain to the head of Victoria avenue. Many of the districts slide enthusiasts must wonder what ever happened to that.

The forerunner of dehydrated foods was on sale in that year, too, showing there is nothing new under the sun after all. "Evaporated apples" (if evaporation can be compared to dehydration), were on sale at 10 cents a pound or three pounds for a quarter.

But never mind, folks, the "good old days" weren't so good if you remember that salaries were in accordance with prices and it's a lot easier to look back on the two world wars we've experienced since then, than it would be to have been our age then and be able to look ahead and see the conflicts still in the offing.

George Gahan's Record Rendez-Vous

Spike Jones and his nuts play the Forum on April 4th....should draw .... Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norris will direct the Montreal West Operatic Society in the presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore" on April 20th to April 23rd ... Don't miss it .... Stan Kenton's final album for Capital is something super .... best of the lot is his "Peg of My Heart .... Which makes me wonder just what little Miss June Christy is doing now .... Perry Como's Bali Hi on Victor is hot .. ..The Unitones London platter "It's a Big Wide Wonderful World" is extremely saleable ... Sammy (The Droop) Kaye's Victor pressing of "Love me, Love, Me, Love me" is in the making of a new hit .... Kaydettes swell on the vocal side of this .... A Columbia import from Czechoslovakia called the "Blue Skirt Waltz" is making quite an impression on this side of the water .... about fifteen cuttings have been made already and we believe this tune will feature on the hit parade in about a month or so .... It was on September the 12th, of last year, that we predicted the hit parade would soon clear itself of the terrible mess it was in, and we would hear the last of such lousy tunes as "Four Leaf Clover" "Baby Face", etc., etc .. .. We take it all back now .... Still we are being driven nuts with such monstosities as "Doo Dee Doo On An Old Kazzoo" "Underneath the Linden Tree" and so on .... And who's fault is it? It's mainly the buying public, of course, but one Mr. Arthur Mooney had a lot to do with it too. He most certainly set the music biz back another 25 years when he added that banjo to his band and recorded "I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover". With this in mind we do hereby declare that Art Mooney's name shall be banned from this piller forever .... and good riddance .... See you next week.

FURNITURE DONATIONS NEEDED FOR LEGION

Branch 105 of the Canadian Legion have obtained permission to set up their Headquarters in the R.C.A.S.C. building at 3 Hillside ave., and, according to information received, they are desperately in need of such things as chairs, lights, radios, book cases, tables, ash trays and anything else that would go to make these quarters more livable for the Legion Branch members.

Anyone wishing to donate such furniture should contact D. A. Rennie at BY. 5279 or C. A. Tracey at LA. 8468.

THRIFTY REPAIRS

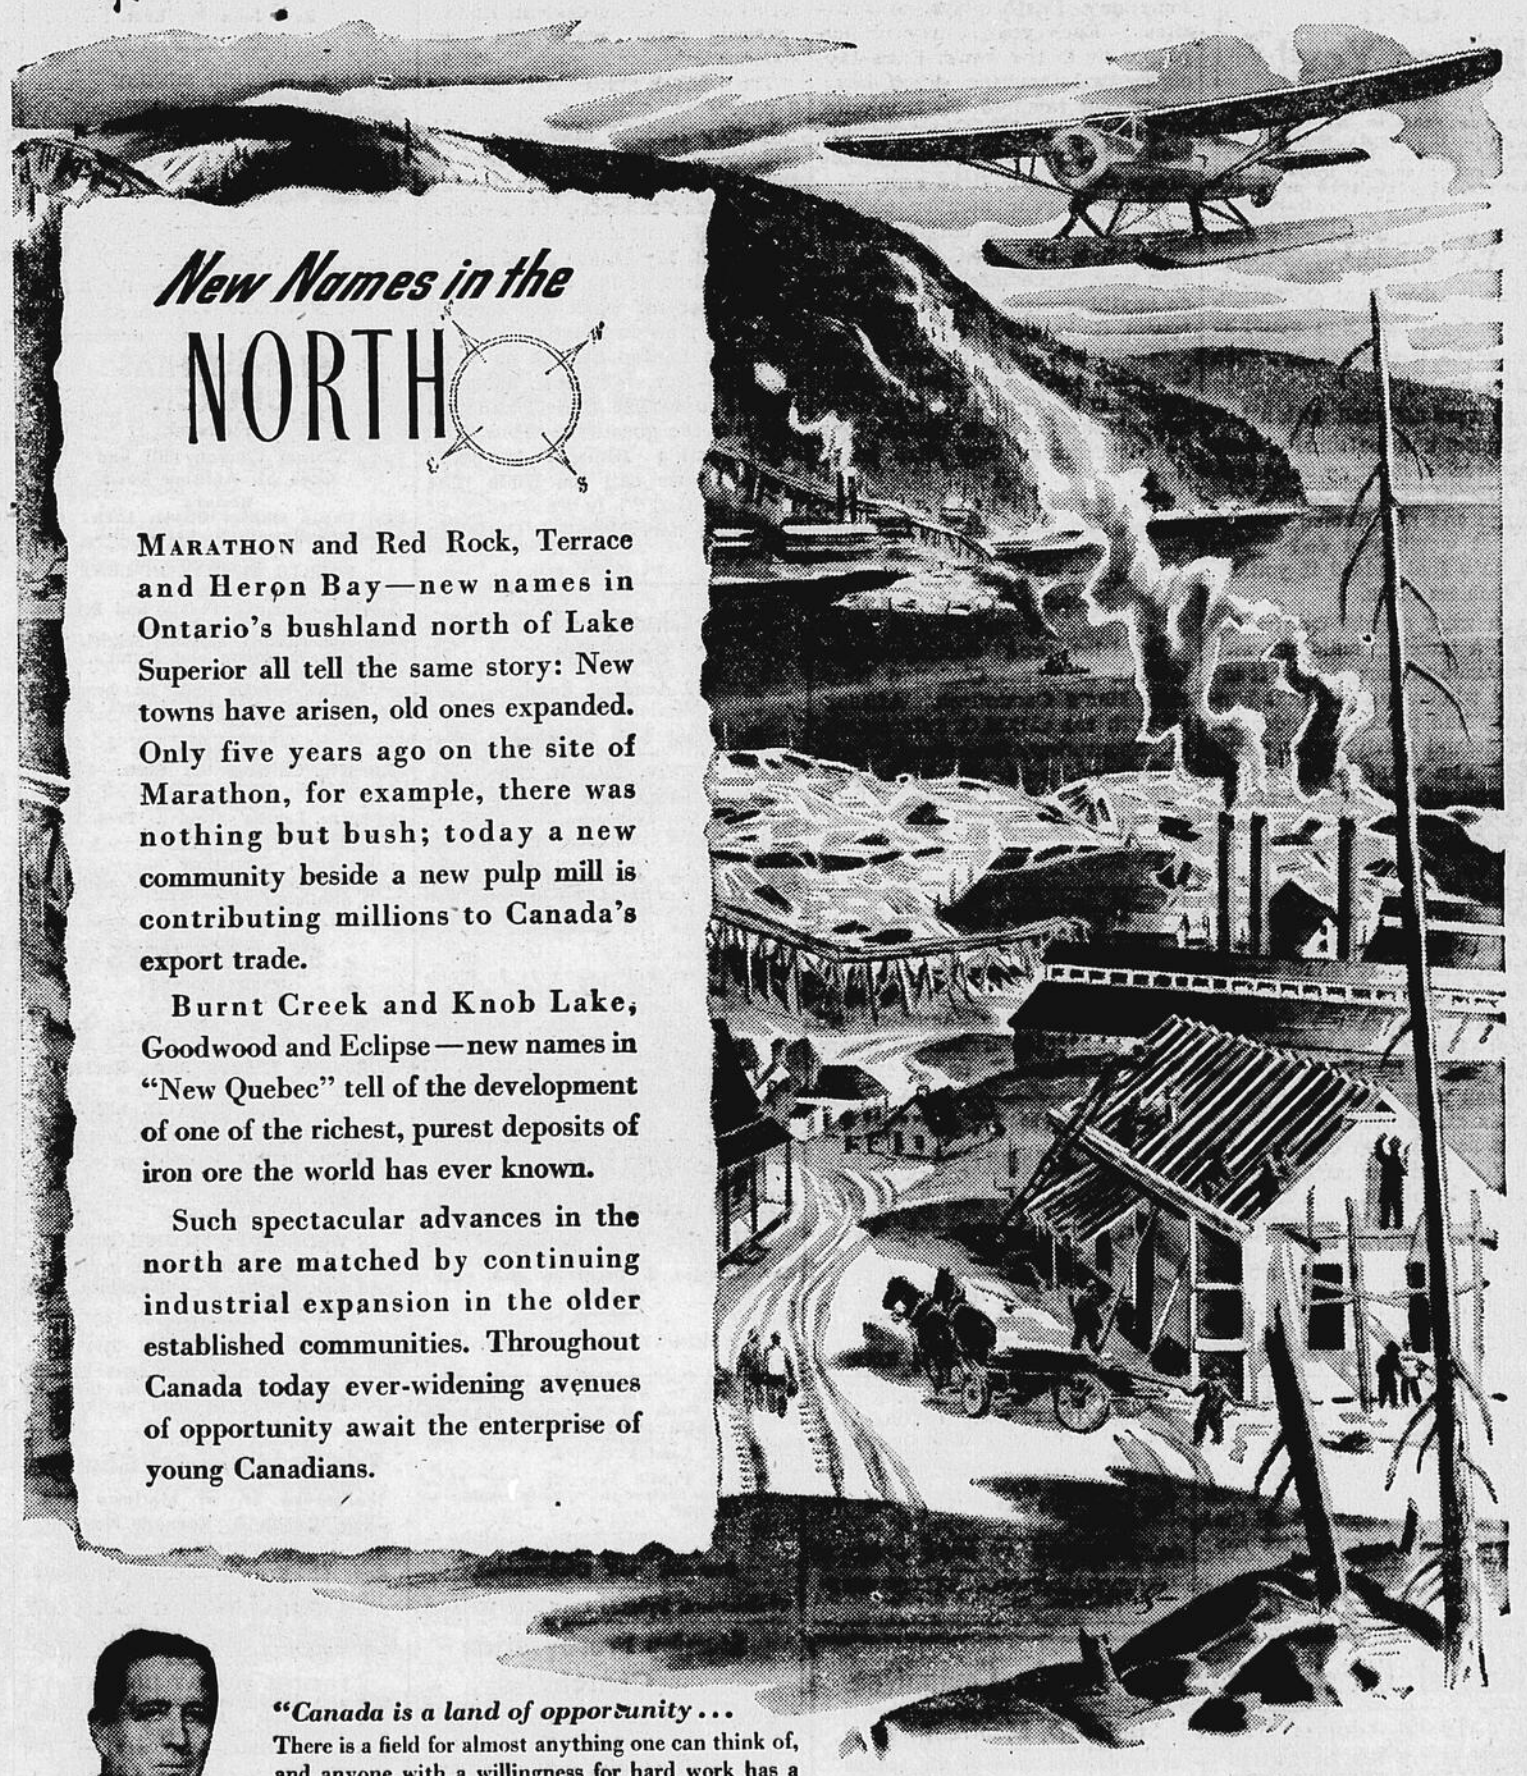

Bath towels often show signs of wear first at the edges. You can double their life by working a row of double crochet in linen thread or strong silk along each edge as soon as you notice signs of damage. When a towel has worn thin in the middle, it is a good plan to cut a width out of the centre where the thin part appears and use the two end pieces for hand towels, double crocheting round all the sides in the same way.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

New Names in the NORTH

MARATHON and Red Rock, Terrace and Heron Bay—new names in Ontario's bushland north of Lake Superior all tell the same story: New towns have arisen, old ones expanded. Only five years ago on the site of Marathon, for example, there was nothing but bush; today a new community beside a new pulp mill is contributing millions to Canada's export trade.

Burnt Creek and Knob Lake, Goodwood and Eclipse—new names in "New Quebec" tell of the development of one of the richest, purest deposits of iron ore the world has ever known.

Such spectacular advances in the north are matched by continuing industrial expansion in the older established communities. Throughout Canada today ever-widening avenues of opportunity await the enterprise of young Canadians.

"Canada is a land of opportunity ...
There is a field for almost anything one can think of, and anyone with a willingness for hard work has a good chance to achieve success", says Donald J. Smith, President of Hornet Industries Limited, Guelph, Ontario.

Hornet Industries Limited, which was founded in 1945, has in this short time achieved remarkable success in the manufacture of chain saws and combustion engines. More than half the production of the plant reaches markets outside Canada. From a staff of only a half dozen men in 1945, Hornet Industries Limited has expanded to three plants in Guelph, employing 296 workers.

RED CROSS — GREAT NATIONAL ASSET

Although the far-reaching benefits of free Red Cross blood transfusions has captured public attention, it is one only of more than a dozen services which Canadian Red Cross maintains in Canada, P. E. Durnford and Major-General E. J. Renaud, Quebec provincial president and vice-president of the Society pointed out this week.

They referred to a list of Red Cross activities, some of them local, some provincial, others national and some international in scope. The condensed list, which follows shows the tremendous benefits we receive from this organization:

Organization through voluntary donors of a free blood transfusion service for hospital patients; outpost hospitals and nursing stations for isolated communities where doctors and dentists cannot practice: mobile medical-dental clinics which penetrate by road to isolated families of settlers; disaster preparedness and distribution of food, clothing, shelter and first-aid medical care to victims during emergency; Veterans welfare, especially handicraft teaching and supply of comforts and amusements to still-hospitalized veterans; sewing and knitting, etc., by Red Cross women working voluntarily in branches to make clothing for women and children suffering at home and abroad; varied work of the members of the Canadian Red Cross Corps of young women in uniform; sick room supply loan service by which essentials are loaned to families stricken with illness at home; classes in Canada in: home nursing; home nutrition; child care; first aid, etc.; water safety instruction to youths in order to help reduce the drowning rate, using pre-trained voluntary instructors; highway first aid varying from patrols to medical cupboards strategically placed on much-travelled or treacherous roads; continued dispatch of food and clothing overseas and collaboration with other national Red Cross Socities in public health improvement. Aid to immigrants; Inquiry Bureau collaborating with the Red Cross of other nations to find missing persons at home and abroad; varied work of the Canadian Junior Red Cross in school health, aid to indigent sick children, aid to school-lunch projects.

God Invites You!

"Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow: though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." —(Isaiah1:18)

If you were hopelessly in debt and a wealthy friend freely offered to pay it all without obligation, what would you do? You would be a fool indeed if you refused such an offer.

If you were afflicted with a terrible, painful and loatsome disease and the world's most eminent specialist offered to come to you free of charge and guaranteed to cure you, what would you do? You would be a fool indeed if you refused such an offer.

If you were caught on the top floor of a burning building, with every avenue of escape cut off except one window and at that window they had placed a ladder for you to decend safely, what would you do? You would be a fool indeed if you refused such an offer.

In each case your refusal would mean disaster. But the refusal would be infinitely less disastrous than to turn down God's invitation, "Come now, and let us reason together; though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow."

Consider is seriously, my friend. Can you afford to say "No" to Almighty God? He offers to save you. Wash your sins away. Make you clean and white and pure, and there is no case too difficult. He who affers you eternal life is the Eternal One himself. It is the gracious offer of a Holy, Omnipotent, Omniscient, Infinite God.

God invites you to face some facts in this wonderful offer. First, sin is a real thing. It is the cause of all man's misery and sorrow and trouble and death, and will end in eternal destruction.

Second, God has a remedy which He provided 1900 years ago when He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world to die for sinners. Jesus paid the price and finished all that God required and now offers your salvation free.

Third, you cannot escape Christ the Saviour. You must meet Him some day. Death plays no favorites. Each year, thirty million people die in the world. Each day, eighty-two thousand. Each hour, thirty-four hundred. Each minute, fifty-seven humans die and are called before God; almost one every second that ticks away.

When is your number coming up? No one knows but God. How imperative, therefore, to stop, to stop now, immediately, before you do anything else in the world, and accept God's gracious invitation.

"Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow: though they be red crimson, they shall be as wool."

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

Westmount Baptist

Dr. J. A. Johnston will continue the pre-Easter Series of Sermons in "Westmount" Pulpit on Sunday. The group of Addresses is entitled "Men Around The Master." Many of these nameless, yet they are just men like ourselves. They may live on our streets, or even wear our size of shoes.

At the Morning Service the theme will be "The Man Who Owned The Colt". This is the story of Christ's sending out two disciples to find the colt where 'two ways met.' These men rendered Christ real service. Loaning things to our Lord constitutes the most profitable form of investment.

In the Evening the Subject of the Sermon will be "The Man Who Sold The Master". No man has been held up to such scorn as Judas, the man of Kerioth. We are prone to think of this unhappy man as being, from the very outset, a devil incarnate, and yet Judas has close kinship to every one of us. He did not realize the enormity of the thing he did until it was done and he made the shocking discovery that it could not be undone. How did this man come to miss the way? How did he come to betray the One who so wonderfully befriended him?

Following the Evening Service the Christian Youth Fellowship will be held in the Lower Assembly Hall. Reports will be given concerning the Conference of last weekend. Vital questions will be asked and answered. Light refreshments will be served. Young people who are anxious to get into the grips with the problems of Christian living will find this gathering inspiring and challenging.

Christian Science

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Philippians 4:8: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on those things."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible:—

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see: For I tell you, that many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them." (St. Matthew 5:6 and St. Luke 10: 23, 24).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science & Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Whatsoever inspires with wisdom, Truth, or love—be it song, sermon, or Science—blesses the human family with crumbs of comfort from Christ's table, feeding the hungry and giving living waters to the thirsty. Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts." (Pages 234 and 261).

See Year-Round Sportswear At Sportsmen's Exhibition

A fashion show — strictly 'pour le sport' — adds a novel touch to the second annual Sportsmen's Exhibition being held this week at the 17th Duke of York's R.C.H. Armoury on Cote des Neiges Road. The fashions were presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and will be seen again tonight, at 9.

Staged to appeal to a large audience of sports enthusiasts, the fashions run the gamut from children's coveralls to curling costumes.

Models parade on a landscaped 'outdoor' stage and present year-round sportswear fashion — with an emphasis on practicability — together with the correct sporting goods equipment for each costume. Hunti..g jackets, fishing shirts, curling costumes, golf outfits, swim and play shorts and skirts — and the more casual sports clothes are of particular interest to the male audience. Feminine fashions for riding, tennis, golf and beach wear are being shown as well as rainwear and spectator sports clothes — including what's new in active fashion for the younger set.

Frank Starr is acting as commentator, describing the many important features of both sportswear and sports equipment.

Models for the show are:- Joy Gilmour, Kay Keddy, Gloria Cameron Nancy Kindersley, Pat McVey, Maggie Foster, Judy and Jill Fitzpatrick, Ron Emberg, Bill Appleby and Al Cloutier.

For And About Women

Women with Ideas

MRS. J. H. HUGGARD

By HELEN B. SANDWELL

Like David and Goliath, the Girl Guide movement and Communism are lining up their opposing forces in Malaya, and Mrs. J. H. Huggard, who returned recently after a two years stay there, gives a graphic picture of how Indian, Chinese and Malayan girls are, through their enthusiasm for Guiding, espousing the cause of freedom.

"I don't think anybody here realizes how powerful Communism is in Malaya," said Mrs. Huggard. "And nobody can realize how wonderful Guiding is till she's had charge of a Company of Buddhists, Mohammedans, Hindus, Jews, Roman Catholics and Protestants. The highly workable, well-planned structure of the Girl Guide organization enfolds them all harmoniously — even though, as in our camp in Malaya there had to be six different cooks to prepare the food according to the rules and customs prescribed by various religions.

Guiding offers girlhood in the East something doubly dear to it, since the Japanese, in search of bauxite, overran their district during World War II. "In Malaya many Guides gladly walked ten miles to attend a meeting" said Mrs. Huggard who was their Commissioner for Training for all of Malaya and Singapore.

In 1946 she accompanied her husband, an electrical engineer attached to Montreal Aluminum Laboratories, to the State of Johore, Malaya, where they took up residence at Pengerang. Now home on leave with their 18-months-old daughter, Jill, they are living at 4598 Royal Avenue, N.D.G.

Where There's A Will There's A Way

In Malaya a good deal of Mrs. Huggard's time was spent typing out instructions to isolated Guide groups who could be reached only by mail. When she could attend a meeting personally her talk would be translated by an interpreter or interpreters, "and", she added smilingly, "if all else failed I used sign language"!

When she revived Guiding (dropped while the Japanese were there) so many girls wanted to join that companies would number 100. At first no books or supplies were available, but later these were sent from England, and when she left two years later there were 900 Brownies and Guides in Singapore alone. All of them wear khaki uniforms, made from cloth supplied by the British Army. The native Guides, clever at copying, made their smart uniforms themselves. The greatest problem encountered by Mrs. Huggard was in keeping Communists out of the Companies, especially the Chinese ones.

Native leaders are now being trained, and just before Mrs. Huggard left Malaya the decision was made to appoint a Malayan Commissioner.

Communist Brigands

For months before their return, the Huggard family, like all isolated Europeans in Malaya, had to have a guard who patrolled around their home, night and day, to protect them from Communist brigands; and when these raiders murdered their nearest white neighbour the British Army sent a platoon of Ghurkas to reinforce their own private guard for three days until the worst of the trouble was over. Singapore, the nearest point of contact with Europeans, could only be reached by crossing eight miles of open sea to Changi, and travelling the remaining 15 miles overland by taxi. Right up to the day they left Pengerang, both Mr. and Mrs. Huggard carried arms by day, and kept their rifles and their dogs in their bedroom at night.

But despite this living under tension, Eileen Huggard says she "loved Malaya", the Malayans and the other native people, the Communists excepted, of course.

Her Beautiful Home

The climate at Pengerang is hot, according to Mrs. Huggard, with no perceptible cooling off at night. "We lived in a beautiful place," she remarked, "and had a beautiful brick home with four huge bedrooms, a diningroom which was the main part of the house, and a great open verandah which was our living room. We were fortunate in having electric light, furnished by a power plant set up by the British Army during the war. The engine had fallen into disrepair, but my husband fixed it up and then we could run an electric iron and a fan. All water had to be filtered and boiled for drinking purposes.

"Some Canadians have an idea that Malayan help is cheap. Well, once you could hire servants at $20 a month, but now you have to pay $100 a month to Chinese. The cost of living is terrific—for two servants and food our bills would be $500 a month in Canadian money. A tin of peas cost 45 cents; tin of potatoes, 65 cents; fresh strawberries flown in from Australia, $1.20 a pint; oranges, also flown from Australia, 25 cents each. Native fruits include bananas, papayas and pineapple. Meat and other supplies were obtained once a week from Singapore."

Jill, born in Singapore and raised on oranges, powdered milk and tinned vegetables, is a strong, bonny baby with deep blue eyes, pale blond hair, beautiful manners and a smile that makes you want to hug her. Incidentally, Jill spoke Chinese before she tackled English!

Miniature Deer Pet

Though she had no success whatever in growing vegetables, Mrs. Huggard's garden was gay with canna lilies, tiny roses, frangipanni, hibiscus and lovely gardenias and orchids. And in addition to the family's beloved dogs she had a pet mouse-deer, which was eight inches high and ten inches in length, with long slender legs and tiny hooves. She kept this minute member of the deer family in one of the bathrooms at night to save it from tigers prowling around the house in the dark. Ill-smelling civet cats strolled around the place also. Fierce wild boars furnished both meat and sport, and cobras were common. But cobras and Communists notwithstanding, Mrs. Huggard declares that her stay in Malaya was "marvellous"!

Sleeping Fashionably

Color stylist, Helen Dunbar, has gone to the desert to borrow colors for new blankets which will be at stores the coming months. Eleven fresh colors were inspired by exotic desert blooms, or try to capture the hues of a beautiful desert sunset.

Even from sophisticated fashion's world, Mme Schiaparelli has glimpsed the importance of sleeping fashionably, and has designed smart new mattress tickings in bowknot, damask, and bouquet patterns.

Tales and Songs of Old Erin Highlight Xavier Guild Gathering

The guest speaker at the March meeting of the Xavier Apostolate Guild was Rev. Jasper Stanford, P.P., whose subject was "Blarney Castle and the Legends and Stories Connected With It."

Father Stanford paid tribute to the wit and brillance of the Irish tongue and read anecdotes that were impressive and lustrous. He also read poems, among which were "The Old Castle" and one by Mrs. Hannah Foster called "Mindzenty."

A feature of the meeting was the beautiful old music of Ireland, played by Miss Helen Chamberlain, cellist, and Mrs. James O'Kane, violinist, both members of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra with Miss Ethel McDermott, music convener, at the piano.

Mr. Denis O'Brien sang "Did Your Mother Come from Ireland," and "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen."

Mrs. W. E. Allison thanked the speaker, and Rev. F. McCaffery also addressed the gathering and thanked the artists.

Mrs. Peter Reid and her committee served refreshments. Mrs. J. M. Hayes, president of the Guild, was in the chair.

Gentle Care Prolongs Beauty of Blankets

Woolly winter blankets will better insulate you against frosty nips if you treat them gently and keep them clean. Most common fault of housewives, claims one manufacturer, who says a blanket could have as many lives as a cat if it were treated properly, is blanket-yanking when beds are made. This practice breaks down fibres and stretches covers out of line.

Here are more reminders to paste on your closet door which if heeded will lengthen the life of these cherished woollies.

Bindings should be fresh and clean. They can be sudsed with a mild soap and stains rubbed out with a soft brush without wetting the entire blanket. Iron bindings, but never try to press the blanket.

Gerry's CHATTER COLUMN

Made my first post-war visit to the Red Cross Blood Clinic last week. The dramatic tension of war days has been replaced by a quiet atmosphere. No more smoke filled rooms, or waiting in line. Doughnuts and coffee still served. People are now going in groups, and having plenty of fun.

Keeping in Line

C.S.L. Gift Shop

When money is plentiful we all have a feeling that there is an excuse to indulge in luxuries, and definitely there was a trend towards that kind of spending during the last few years. Today the housewife is counting her pennies more closely and looking for merchandise that is still attractive but in a lower priced bracket. The C.S.L. Gift Shop, 1480 Sherbrooke St. W., having their experienced eyes on the barometer of business has noticed this trend and acted accordingly. For instance, you will find many attractive and unusual articles that cannot be purchased elsewhere, and at very reasonable prices. Here are only a few that I noticed while visiting the shop this week. For those who really like their lobster, they will find everything but the lobster and the pot to cook this wriggly crustacean in. There is a pitcher for pouring the melted butter, in the shape of a red lobster, for $1.00, or with a cover for $1.50, then the white plates with lobster trim around the edges for $1.00 each. Anyone who has ever used a lobster cracker knows what a help they are in opening this food, these also may be had for $1.50. I have never seen more attractive fish dishes than the ones here, beautiful shades in greens and reds, the platter and plates to match. Have you often admired the straw wine baskets that some of our more select restaurants use for serving bottled wine? Well, THE SHOP has them for $2.75. This is not an austerity policy that the C.S.L. Gift Shop has adopted, but keeping in line with the times.

A Model's Lunch

One day last weeek I had luncheon with Joy Gilmour at the Mount Royal Hotel's Coffee Shoppe. Joy is the lovely model so many of you have admired at the recent fashion shows. With us were some of the models who took part in the St. Lambert Women's Club and the B-Nai-B'rith fashion shows at the Mount Royal recently. I thought you ladies who are watching your waist line would be interested in knowing just what a model would choose for her mid-day lunch. Some of the girls had tomato juice and others had grapefruit juice. The chopped chicken salad sandwiches with mayonnaise were the popular choice. For dessert the girls had apricot pie or ice cream. The choice of beverages was mixed, some had the good old fashioned glass of milk, others tea or coffee. The cost of this lunch was $0.85; which is ample for anyone having an afternoon's work ahead of them. It seems to me that the fashion shows have started a bit earlier this year, but they are by no means finished yet, and if you are contemplating a luncheon party at the Mount Royal Hotel, why not choose this gay spot for entertaining. Now if you want a complete luncheon the $.80 meal has a very good choice of meat, fish or salad, including dessert, and beverages. As I have said so often before, one is always sure to meet a friend at The Mount Royal Hotel's Coffee Shoppe.

Fashion Talk

This last season brought to Montreal a most outstanding ski shop, NORWAY SPORTS, 1545 Mountain St., across from Holt Renfrew's. Here we found the finest in skiis, equipment and clothes. Those who visited the Sportsmen's Exhibition last night I'm sure were more than pleased with the fashion show displaying the new sport clothes that NORWAY SPORTS are offering this Spring. By the way, the clothes modeled by Joy Gilmour, Nancy Kindersley and Ron Embergy, are custom-made exclusively by Norway Sports. Joy looked radiant in her three piece white imported gabardine tennis outfit. The shirt has a small rolled collar, with blue trim over the pocket, the shorts have a turned up cuff and beautifully tailored. To complete the costume is a very natty skirt, having a four button side closing, leaving the skirt open from the knees down. This is THE tennis suit to own. The yellow fly-front golf skirt, long sleeves, paired with a forest green culotte skirt, both made of a fine rayon gabardine, is the answer to being not only well dressed on the course but comfortable. The two piece lounge suit of black and white casbah cord is a classic piece of designing. This suit has a bra top to match. Norway Sports has sports clothes for men also, like the brown fly-front gabardine shirt, worn with English gabardine slacks, an extension waist band and adjustable side strap, which takes the place of a belt. Now is the time to choose your tennis or golf equipment, which you will find at NORWAY SPORTS.

Fruit Salads Brighten Family Menus

Sections of orange and grapefruit, combined with other fruits, such as apple, banana and avocado, put delight and needed vitamins into winter menus. Serve with your favorite dressing as a salad course. Or serve plain as a first course or as a refreshing dessert. These fruit cups start the meatless meal well.

Grapefruit and orange sections with avocado make a tasty, vitamin-filled spring salad.

Salmon and Potato Pie
(6 servings)

Two cups medium white sauce, 2 cups canned salmon, flaked, 2 cups sliced boiled potatoes, ½ teaspoonful salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, 1 tablespoon minced celery leaves or parsley, pastry for casserole top, paprika.

Mix white sauce with the salmon and potatoes; season, add the parsley or celery leaves. Pour into a greased baking dish; sprinkle lightly with paprika; cover with pastry top. Gash the pastry decoratively to let the steam out. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Note: If mashed potato topping is used, bake only 15 minutes or long enough to brown the potatoes lightly.

Tuna Fish With Macaroni
(4-6 servings)

One box macaroni (to serve 4), boiling water, 1 cup medium white sauce, ½ teaspoon mixed mustard, ½ teaspoon chives, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1½ cups canned tuna fish, flaked.

Cook the macaroni as directed on the package. Mix the white sauce with the mustard, chives, seasonings, combine with the macaroni. Pour half of the macaroni into a greased baking dish; cover with the tuna fish. Then pour the rest of the macaroni on top. Sprinkle with parsley. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until bubbly.

A business never becomes too large or too old that it can afford to stop telling its public about itself, its merchandise or its services.

Reports on NDG Club Activities Presented at Annual Meeting Chairmen Outline Season's Work

The regular monthly business meeting of the Notre Dame de Grace Women's Club was held on Friday afternoon, March 18th, at 2.30 p.m. in Victoria Hall, with the President, Mrs. J. W. Perks, in the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada."

Club, was elected Assistant Membership Secretary of Local Council of Women.

Community Council representative Mrs. R. W. Varey reported that they had completed a very busy and successful year. She stated that the purpose of the Community Council was "to discuss ways and means of tackling important community problems and to implement decision arrived at with the utmost effectiveness and to act as a clearing house for the promotion of Social Welfare in the community projects. The Council will be non-partisan and shall not officially endorse any political candidate, nor any activity of a strictly denominational character."

The annual report of groups and classes for season 1948-449 were compiled and read by Mrs. Robert Japp, who commented on the three new classes, namely, French Conversation, Leathercraft, and Millinery, and a change to Bridge Instruction in place of the usual Marathon. In addition, she stated that the Book Group had met twice at the home of the Chairman, Mrs. R. T. Rennie, commencing last October with a tea when lists and books were passed for the first time. A luncheon meeting was held in February to hear an interesting discussion of the books read during the year. Bridge Instruction Classes were held at the home of the Chairman, Mrs. A. F. Bull. The simple rudiments of bridge and the play of the hand were taught to 25 enthusiastic pupils.

Groups and Classes

The choir under the direction of Mrs. R. Uden, assisted by Mrs. S. S. Beamish as accompanist, has been meeting regularly. More advanced part singing has been entered into with a performance on Member Day as a goal.

The Leathercraft Class, conducted by Miss Mary Leeson, has been meeting every week. There will be an exhibition of the work on display on Members Day.

The publicity that the Millinery Class group under the direction of Miss B. Lamarche, received at the annual luncheon, proves what can be done with discarded hats and the fashioning of new ones, which will be on display on Members Day.

The Music Appreciation Group, under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. Fossatti, has had a very enjoyable year meeting at the homes of members, when lives of famous composers were discussed and recordings played, as well as piano selections.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. E. Shepherd, and with Mrs. G. W. Latham as director, the Parliamentary Procedure Group studied the history and elementary rules of Parliamentary Procedure and motions were studied specifically. The closing meeting was in the form of a tea.

Mrs. R. Drain, Chairman of the Red Cross Group, reports that a total of 250 pieces of sewing and 107 knitted articles have been made, and extended her thanks to all the ladies who worked with her.

The Sewing Group, under the Chairmanship of Mrs. T. D. Handrahan used their completed work to supply the Catherine Booth Auxiliary. Four complete layettes have been turned over to the hospital, and other work done includes: 7 nighties, 24 shirts, 2 doz, diapers, 3 knitted sets (jacket and bonnet) and 5 prs. booties.

The Telephone Group with Mrs. M. S. Lightfoot as chairman, includes 20 members who have telephoned the membership at large for the two bridges and the rummage sale held during the year. They also called members' attention to the business meeting in February.

Mrs. W. A. Falconer thanked the chairman of various groups and classes for their success in their activities. She also thanked the representatives and chairmen of Y.W.C.A. drive for their achievement, and also gave vote of thanks to Mrs. J. W. MacDonald and her committee for their careful preparation for the Charter Day Luncheon.

Mrs. W. G. Stevens was appointed representative to the Women's Auxiliary of the Catherine Booth Hospital.

Favorite Coiffure

Since the days of the Trojan wars women have loved this type of coiffure, and the modified modern version is soft and natural-looking when based on a home permanent. The hair is not more than two inches in length and just the ends are set in large pin curls — the crown is smooth. Jan Miner, (above) starring in CBS' "Crime Photographer", likes the charming halo effect of this hair-do because it perfectly frames her heart shaped face.

For And About Women

In No Man's Land

By DAWN McGLAUGHLIN

DANGER: WOMEN AT WORK

Recent disturbing dispatches from Washington, D.C., contain a rather horrible bit of news. We are informed that Janet M. Hooks, of the Women's Bureau, has gone on record as saying that "women have taken over almost every job conceiveable". What is this woman — an alarmist?

In the first place, although she's rather vague about the whole thing, Miss Hooks means that the women have taken over jobs hitherto occupied by men. Now the men will probably have to take up knitting in earnest. It looks like a big year for them — and for the woollen industry too, for that matter.

Furthermore, Miss Hooks goes on to say that the march of the woman worker has been steady. Steady! It's worse than that — it's ridiculous.

I for one, am all in favor of women sailors (there were 217 in 1940), but 272 women blacksmiths is just 271 too many. Now, one woman blacksmith is fine for attracting tourists and talent scouts, but 272 are certain to start a revolution or form a union or something. Besides, Longfellow had troubles enough with the "Village Blacksmith", and he's not going to start revising it at this stage of the game. If fun-loving children want to recite "The smith a mighty man is she", at Sunday School gatherings, that's their business.

The United States, says Miss Hooks, in her captivating booklet entitled "Women's Occupations Through Seven Decades", has 131 women bridge tenders, and 506 tile setters. Outside of the fact that you can always turn to the person on your left at dinner, and murmur "I say — do you know that there are 131 bridge tenders in the States?", I can't see the use of this piece of information. How do you tend a bridge, anyhow? And if tile setters are anything like Irish setters, the less said about them the better.

Miss Hooks is also responsible for the statement that there are 1,717 women paperhangers in the United States. Hot diggety. Wait 'til the rest of the world hears about this! We had enough trouble a while back with one male paperhanger, but maybe the fun's just starting.

Just because there are 1,225 women managing liquor stores, men needn't lose heart. Miss Hooks' vital statistics show that there is a decrease in the number of women authors and telephone operators. Ha! All the men have to do now, is learn to handle a switchboard with one hand and a typewriter with the other, and they're all set. If that doesn't work, they can always stick to the baby-sitting business. Women seem to be losing interest in that field.

At the rate things are going, the Dodgers will be lucky if they manage to start the season with an all-male team. First thing they know, Janet M. Hooks will be playing in the outfield, and no team can afford to look that conspicuous. On the other hand, the Republicans may talk Miss Hooks into running for the American presidency, and that should keep her busy until the baseball season is well underway. With a little bit of organization, though, Miss Hooks may be able to make Notre Dame's team, in time for the opening football game.

If women intend to take over this country, I hope that they do it soon — before I'm too old to run.

Bridge Convener

MRS. LEO J. LECLERC

At the Blue Goose Ladies' Auxiliary March Meeting, which is taking the form of a bridge and tea for members and their friends, Mrs. Leo J. Leclerc is acting as general convener. The event is to be held in the Mount Royal Hotel, Salons C,D, and E on Thursday afternoon, March 31 at 2.45 p.m.

No tickets will be issued. Reservations may be made by contacting any member of the auxiliary, or by telephoning Mrs. R. A. Dyer, ATlantic 7742, or Mrs. Benoit Bertrand, ATlantic 5748.

Among the prizes will be an oil painting, 16 x 20, painted and donated by Mr. J. R. Wright, also a small radio.

The proceeds from this event will be used to augment the General Welfare Fund of the organization, which will be distributed in April.

Mrs. Chas. H. Wood is president of the Blue Goose Ladies' Auxiliary.

UEFB Campaign Seeks Support

"The British people are enduring harder food rationing than ever before," H. J. Daly, of Toronto, executive Director of the United Emergency Fund for Britain, declared here early this week on his return from consulting with welfare organizations in the United Kingdom.

Urging support of UEFB's current campaign for funds to send food shipments to Britain, Mr. Daly emphasized the rigor of the new meat rationing announced last week. "Each person is now allowed only 14 cents worth per week, and for that you can't even buy one small chop," he asserted.

Lt. Col. J. Lucien Dansereau and E. John Kay, co-chairman of UEFB in the Province of Quebec, have received a cablegram from H. R. H. Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, wishing success to the campaign. Contributions should be sent to the UEFB at 266 St. James Street West.

BARBECUED LAMB RIBLETS

Two pounds lamb riblets, cut in 2-inch pieces, ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup catsup, 2 tablespoons bottled thick meat sauce (optional), 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons horseradish, 2 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt.

Place riblets, fat side down, in a heated kettle; brown on all sides. Add remaining ingredients. Cover; cook tender over low heat—about 1¼ hours. Skim off excess fat. If sauce is not so thick as desired, uncover, cook down a few minutes. There should be about 1 cup. Arrange riblets on platter and pour sauce over them. Note: Breast of lamb may replace the riblets.

Let's Eat

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

During this Lenten season, fast days are carefully observed — so all homemakers have special recipes containing no meat or poultry, such as the soup described in this column. A favorite dessert is frozen cream cheese, sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

FAST DAY SOUP

Melt 1 tsp. sugar in a 2-qt. kettle. Add 2 tbsp. cooking oil, ⅓ c. shredded onion, 1½ c. chopped celery, ½ c. chopped white turnip, and cook until slightly browned. Then add 1½ c. fine shredded young cabbage, ½ peeled chopped cucumber, 1 fine-chopped peeled apple, 1 c. canned tomato, 1 tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. cayenne and 1½ qts. cold water. Simmer 1 hr. Then stir in 2 tbsps. butter or ¼ c. soured cream. Garnish with minced parsley.

Poached Perch

In a 2-qt. sauce pan with a wide base, put 1 bayleaf, 1 sprig thyme, 1 peeled sliced onion, 6 whole all-spice, peel ¼ lemon, 1 seeded red pepper pod, and ½ peeled section garlic if desired. Add 1 qt. boiling water and simmer 5 min. Then clean 1 good-sized perch for each person; cut off the fins, tail and head of each. Put in the pan and simmer 10 min. Remove and drain. Have ready a good-sized platter thickly covered with minced parsley. Place the fish on this. Cover with more minced parsley and garnish with wedges of lemon. Serve with a plain "butter" sauce made with butter.

Frozen Cream Cheese Dessert

Mash ½ lb. cream cheese until very soft. Add ½ tsp. vanilla, ½ c. powdered sugar, a few grains salt and ½ c. coarse-chopped nutmeats, any kind. Fold in ¾ c. whipped heavy cream, or substitute soured cream. Line a freezing tray with waxed paper; spoon in the cream cheese mixture and freeze at the lowest temperature until firm, at least 2 hrs. Cut in squares and serve plain, or with slightly sugared strawberries, or sections of orange, or chilled canned or bing cherries.

Another Lenten Dish

Shrimps in the can are considered a good buy these days so we give you this recipe for shrimp remoulade.

Chill cooked fresh or canned shrimp. Arrange in lettuce nests on salad plates, and pour over sauce remoulade.

Sauce Remoulade:—Into a small bowl put 1 raw egg yolk. Add ½ tsp. table mustard, ¼ tsp. salt and a few grains cayenne. Stir in ½ section garlic, crushed. To this slowly beat in with a fork, as when making mayonnaise, 1 tbsp. salad oil (olive oil preferred). When the mixture begins to thicken, alternate 1 tbsp. tarragon vinegar and 1 tbsp. lemon juice with 2 more tbsp. oil. When all ingredients are in, add 2 tsp. grated horse-radish.

HOME EDUCATION

TOYS FOR JUVENILE GUESTS

By RUTH PECK McLEOD

"Mother, I don't want to go over to Mrs. David's house. She keeps saying, 'Don't touch that, dear,' whenever I just look at anything," protested little Johnnie. "I like to call on Mrs. Sams — she has a whole boxfull of toys that she wants me to play with."

"But I'm obliged to see Mrs. David," was the answer. "However, suppose you choose a toy of your own to take with you."

It is unfortunate that there are not more women like the motherly Mrs. Sams — women who provide toys for their juvenile guests. If we analyze the situation, we find that Mrs. David has had no experience with children; tiny tots make her nervous. She considers every child destructive. She fears they will break her bric-a-brac. It has never occurred to her that the natural disposition to investigate will necessarily urge any child to handle her priceless antiques unless she provides proper playthings for him. Probably no one has pointed out to her that a few suitable toys would mean peace of mind for her and for the mother. For, as it is, mothers who call with little ones are usually too anxious about their children's behavior to carry on a connected conversation. To expect a child just to look at all the interesting things in a room and not to touch even one of them is unreasonable, and, too, the hostess and the guest mother are pretty likely to develop into "don't" personalities.

In direct contrast to Mrs. David is Mrs. Sams, who has grown children. She realizes that a youngster should not be expected to remain motionless and quiet while the hostess and the visiting mother carry on a conversation uninteresting to the child. She, too, has a few antiques here and there, but the children who come to her house are content with the toys that have been provided for them.

Mrs. Sams explained to a friend that some time after her children had all left home she had given their toys to the Salvation Army at Christmas. Later, when she had a child guest one day, all she could contrive for the toddler to play with was an empty baking-powder can with a clothespin in it for a rattle. Before the next child came to her house, Mrs. Sams had bought some toys.

This thoughtful hostess happens to live in a sooty city, where carpets are none too clean in winter, and so she has provided a large, old, discarded, India-print table cover which is kept clean and which she spreads over the rug where the child is to play. This cloth furnishes an attractive surface on which the child may safely sit, and it is very convenient, too, in case the little one is given a cracker or an apple, and usually a juvenile guest expects a treat of some kind.

After all, we plan teas and other forms of entertainment for our adult guests, why should we not extend our hospitality to our younger visitors? A few toys, purchased for a small sum, will work wonders in giving pleasure to little boys and girls. Playthings that have proved practical for such a purpose are building blocks, a nest of blocks, stuffed animals, an unbreakable doll, picture books of cloth, books for older children, large beads on a string, a wooden train, a set of unbreakable dishes, and one or two puzzles. If it is desired, they can be collected one by one.

Children should be encouraged —though, of course, little guests cannot be required — to return one plaything to the box before taking out another. By this procedure, appreciation and enjoyment are increased.

Two Bottle Caps Guard Perfume

New French perfume travels safely in this spill-proof, double-capped bottle.

The perfume bottle which misbehaves on a journey has been successfully disciplined.

Thanks to a device of doubly capping a bottle — a cap within a cap — the perfume contents can be kept infallibly safe from leakage.

This spill-proof bottle which can be tucked into a tightly packed suitcase with complete confidence makes its debut in time for the needs of the holiday traveler.

The particular perfume which the spill-proof bottle carries is a French import with a distinguished fragrance. Its creator, whose previously launched perfumes are high on the list of American favorites, had the traveler in mind when he formulated this new fragrance.

GLOW BULB

A fluorescent light bulb that needs no electric current has been developed. The bulb contains liquid mercury, phosphorus particles and neon or argon gas. It lights as long as it's shaken. The swishing about of the mercury produces high voltage which makes gas glow so that it can be seen half a mile at night.

Barbro Sellden First Woman In Swedish Foreign Office

Sweden's first woman attaché and only woman in the Foreign Office has now been appointed and it was, Barbro Sellden, 25-year-old graduate of Stockholm University, Bachelor of Law and specialist in commercial and economic affairs, who did what no Swedish woman had previously succeeded in doing. She broke into almost the last male stronghold in Sweden, the Foreign Office, steeped in tradition, protocol and a long list of reasons why a woman should not enter the diplomatic service.

The Foreign Office argues that it is difficult for a woman career diplomat to concentrate on her job when she falls in love. It is difficult for her to handle drunken sailors in consulates in foreign ports. She cannot command the same respect as a man in those countries where the men are still successfully keeping their women in hand. Above all, the Foreign Office argues, it would be complicated for the young woman diplomat to travel from post to post with her husband and children.

Barbro can recite the list by heart, but none of the arguments made her change her mind.

Her English is flavored with a strong British accent; her German and French are fluent. She spent some months at the Consulate in Brussels after getting her degree from Stockholm and on here return went into the Swedish Export Association where she got valuable commercial experience. The Swedish Foreign Office examinations, which require a University degree and a degree in law, are among the stiffest there are and the competition is severe.

Three Groups of Furnishings Add Charm to Living Room

Both as a centre of family life and as a "show place" for guests the living room has probably the biggest responsibility of any of the rooms in the house.

Rooms are to live in, not only to look at, and this always, should be kept in mind in planning the furnishings. Conversational grouping should include chairs close enough together so that the topics of the day may be discussed conveniently.

Each living room logically should have three furnishing groups, conversational, reading and writing. In smaller rooms perhaps the second and third may be combined. The important thing to remember is to provide the necessary place for each purpose.

Each group must have at least —a chair, table and lamp. Other three pieces to qualify as a group pieces may be added, depending upon the space available.

The prime value of the group plan lies in the ease it provides in maintaining the proper balance between the different pieces, at the same time preserving that atmosphere of simplicity and informality which is so desirable.

Arrange first the conversational group, with chesterfield or love seat, armchairs and occasional chairs, and the essential tables and lamps. As the centre of interest for this group, you may have a fireplace, or a pair of French windows, a radio, or an impressive piece of furniture. In placing the furniture make sure that the conversational element is maintained — bring the pieces close enough together so that people may feel pleasantly at home. The grouping should promote neighborly conversation. In the smaller room it may be necessary to keep the pieces of furniture near the wall as much as possible in order to maintain an air of space.

Reading Group

After this group has been provided for satisfactorily, then plan the reading group—of two comfortable chairs with a lamp, and a table for books, magazines and smoking accessories. If this happens to be Dad's corner, it is well to select a big comfortable manish lounge chair, with perhaps an ottoman. A chair that is uncomfortable is next to worthless in the home, even if it is both beautiful and durable. Whenever two chairs are used in a group remember to use contrasting types.

Care is needed, naturally, so that a definite relationship may be maintained. Color will have a coordinating influence; your basic color scheme should follow through in floor coverings, draperies and upholstery fabrics — with a contrasting color note here and there to avoid monotony.

SPRING HATS

Lush and lovely with flowers and lacy straw. Come in and choose a hat that will add the crowning touch to your new Easter ensemble.

WHY TAKE A CHANCE?

This picture shows a very dangerous practice.

Anyone crossing a street immediately behind a tram, a bus or other stationary vehicle, is running the risk of a tragic accident which may result in death or a lifetime of misery.

Those who "STOP - LOOK - and LISTEN," before crossing the street, apply the elementary rules of safety.

Most Modern Bakery In Canada Is Weston's

Top picture shows a mechanically elevated trough is guided into position before pouring its sponge into a giant mixer where it will receive its final mix. There are four mixeds of this size at Weston's new bakery. At left is Henry Drancruse; at right Garth Hale. The bottom photo shows Pierre-Paul Veillette as he takes several loaves from the wrapping machine. They have just been sliced, wrapped and sealed with a thermoplastic label. This entirely mechanical operation is typical of the continuous-flow production at Weston's new bakery near Longueuil. Worker at right is Pierre Lessler. In the inset photo, Bob McNaughton, Weston's general production superintendent, admires one of the first loaves produced in the new bakery. McNaughton is visiting plant to counsel Everett Bellamy, its superintendent, at right. Both are master bakers of many years' experience. Behind them is a cooling system, the only one of its kind in Canada. Freshly baked bread passes through it before continuing on to be sliced and wrapped.

Weston's Newest Bakery Situated Near Montreal

An oven capable of producing 4,000 loaves an hour began baking bread for Montrealers at the beginning of this week. This titanic machine forms the core of Montreal's newest bakery. Operated by Weston Bakeries Limited, the plant occupies the huge Fairchild buildings, once devoted to aircraft production, at Longueuil. The firm opened a biscuit bakery there 15 months ago.

The new bread plant was organized in line with the aim of attaining the highest possible degree of uniformity in the product. To give the needed quality control, the most modern mechanical devices have been installed. Conveyor belts link them up in continuous-flow production.

The first step is the arrival of the flour, either by rail or road. As needed, it is poured into automatic sifters and blenders. The next process occurs in a battery of four high-speed mixers from which the dough emerges to be divided into loaves in another machine. Carried in pans on a conveyor, it then goes into a huge travelling proofer and is borne automatically into the 110-foot oven on a 12-foot-wide 'belt'.

On its slow journey through the oven, each piece of dough is transformed into a gloden-brown loaf, by controlled thermo-radiant heat. From the mouth of the oven, the bread slides on to the trays of the cooling system. Emerging ready for slicing and wrapping, it is carried on a long belt to the machines which make this operation entirely automatic. Their final 'touch' is to apply a special label on each end of every loaf, to ensure secure sealing.

From the wrapping machines, the packaged bread goes into sturdy containers. These protect it on its journey to Montreal's groceries. A fleet of over 40 specially built trucks perform this function.

"Scientific techniques have defeated the baker's traditional bugbear, lack of uniformity in the product," says Earle Hale, general manager for Weston's local bakery operations. "Loaves made from materials of consistent quality under exactly controlled conditions are almost perfectly alike."

Despite the magnitude of the new plant by ordinary bakery standards, the staff is relatively small in number. Mechanization makes it possible for a few master-bakers of many years' experience, directing a force of highly skilled technicians and their assistants, to produce vast quantities of white and wholewheat bread. Manufacture of buns and cakes will begin shortly.

The Longueuil bakery is the latest in the Weston group of 15 bakeries which are located at key points across Canada. Those plants, with the biscuit and candy enterprises associated under the same mangement, now employ over 7,000 Canadians.

Founder of Firm

George Weston began the firm as a little side-street bakery in Toronto, back in 1884. He developed the business into a biscuit plant, but its period of greatest growth did not begin until after his death when his son Garfield became president.

Today the firm is one of the handful of Canadian enterprises which have successfully expanded their operations on a very large scale into other countries. It owns many plants of varied pursuits in the United Kingdom and in the U.S.A., and ranks as the largest bakery operation in the Empire.

Mr. Weston resided in England for a number of years when he became well known for the speed with which he expanded his business interests, in contrast to the leisurely pace of pre-war Britain. He and his family now live in Ottawa.

Dress Up Fish With Cream or Mushroom Sauce

Give your fish a little extra thought and you'll be amazed at their popularity.

From California, the land of good eating, come the following suggestions. Barbara Tate, home economist for the Golden State Co., tested them for this column and this column rates them "wonderful!"

The dry fishes such as cod, haddock and sole call for a succulent sauce. Broiled fatty fish, such as salmon, halibut or mackerel, call for a tart or acid sauce.

Butter is the preferred basting for fish.

Sour Cream Sauce for Fish

One-half cup celery, 1 cup sour sley, ½lti cream, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon salt.

Soak celery in iced water for an hour. Wipe dry and chop fine. Whip the cream; add lemon juice, parsley and salt. Just before serving, stir in celery. Excellent over either hot or cold fish.

Golden State Shrimp Sauce For Fish Fillets
(6 servings)

One 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup table cream, one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, ½ cup boiled or canned shrimp, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1 finely chopped green onion, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Drain mushrooms, saving liquor, and saute in butter. Shake flour and seasonings in small jar with mushroom liquor. Add to mushrooms, blend until smooth. Gradually add cream and tomato sauce, stirring until mixture thickens. Stir in remaining ingredients and cook over low heat for 15 minutes, stirring to prevent scorching. Serve over broiled, baked or fried fish steaks or fillets, such as sole, rock cod, or halibut, or increase shrimp to 1 cup and serve over

U. S. Girl Compiles New Data on Stars

Following in the footsteps of Annie Jump Cannon, a Wellesley, Mass., graduate of 1884 who is frequently referred to as having been the world's leading woman astronomer, is Miriam E. Walther, recently appointed an instructor at the Whitin Obsevatory at Wellesby.

Miss Cannon's main contribution to astronomy was in her lifetime task of classifying stars according to their light, or spectral characteristics. That classification is today one of the most useful tools astronomers have.

Under a contract from the Office of Naval Research, she is now extending the work she began as a graduate student. Determining the brightness of stars, she can label them according to their size — dwarf, giant or supergiant

AT THE WESTMOUNT SUNDAY

Ralph Richardson and Vivien Leigh in a heated moment of arguing in the melodramatic British feature "Anna Karanina" which starts Sunday at the Westmount Theatre.

Vivien Leigh in Fascinating Story at Westmount Sunday

Vivien Leigh and Ralph Richardson are the stars in "Anna Karanina" the latest British drama featuring popular stars which opens Sunday at the Westmount Theatre.

Best-sellers may come and go, but it isn't likely that any will surpass the timeless and universal appeal of this immortal Tolstoy classic which plumbs the depths of human emotions with a revealing insight that has rarely been rivalled in all literature. It is a pleasure to report that everything about this filmization—from the magnificent portrayals of Miss Leigh, Ralph Richardson and Kieron Moore, down to the smallest production detail—is worthy of this masterpiece's tremendous theme. On the screen, the story of Anna's desperate gamble for one great love, and the laughter, heartbreak, violence and destruction that came in its wake, is unfolded with an overwhelming power and poignancy that makes this a rare and unforgettable film experience. Astute treatment of the simple story avoids the pitfall of the usual triangle drama, and lifts it instead into a memorable and classic screen romance.

"Anna Karenina," beautifully acted and magnificently produced and directed, is one of the outstanding achievements of the screen year. It's a film to put at the very top of your "must see" list.

Second Feature

Out of the seething caldron of trouble and danger that is Germany today comes the first motion picture to dramatize the part played by our boys in bringing Nazi criminals to justice. It is picturization of the best-selling novel, "Sealed Verdict," which starring Ray Milland with glamorous Florence Marly, and its setting is a small city in post-war Germany during one of the many war crimes trials.

AT THE MONKLAND

In "The Paradine Case" Valli is shown here in a scene with Gregory Peck. She plays the accused murderess, Maddalena Paradine, with Peck cast as her defense counsel. In this prison-cell conference Peck is seeking to concentrate on legal points instead of amorous ones. "The Paradine Case" opens on Saturday at the Monkland Theatre. Second feature — Red Skelton in "The Fuller Brush Man".

"The Paradine Case" And "Fuller Brush Man" at Monkland

"The Paradine Case" which will be the feature photoplay attraction at the Monkland Theatre starting Saturday is one of the best mystery melodramas ever filmed. Boasting of top-notch cast headed by Gregory Peck, Ann Todd, Charles Coburn, Ethel Barrymore, Louis Jourdan and Valli, "The Paradine Case" contains not only the famous Alfred Hitchcock touch but also has the same kind or rich love story and personal drama for which Selznick films have long been famed.

It is the screen adaptation of one of Robert Hitchens' popular novels and it tells an exciting and suspenseful story so carefully and so expertly that there is never a letdown from the initial fade-in to the final fade-out.

"The Paradine Case" is a drama about a beautiful and fascinting woman of questionable past who marries a wealthy English nobleman, Colonel Paradine, and when he mysteriously dies is accused of his murder. The film is an outstanding example of suspenseful story telling, of perfectly achieved atmosphere and of intelligent first-rate entertainment.

Second Feature

Any resemblance that Red Skelton, in his new comedy, "The Fuller Brush Man," has to the real thing is absolutely accidental.

In the picture Red gets the entire brush dealing routine backwards, puts his foot in his mouth instead of doors, is suspected in a murder mystery and doesn't sell many brushes. But he does win Janet Blair, his pretty co-star, and a dealership.

Fuller dealers who have seen the picture all agree that it's funny as everything but they shudder at what would happen to Red if he had to make his living as a dealer.

No one knows exactly why the Fuller Brush Man, in the 42 years he has been around has become as familiar and welcome a figure on America's door step as the milkman or the postman.

The method of operation is fairly simple. There are more than 7,000 dealers, each of them brush, which they pay for themselves and hand out whether you buy or not, and the quality of their product rather than a high powered, fast talking type of sales technique to maintain volumes and win friends among housewives.

Most dealers have been in their territories for several years and usually they are adept at odd jobs like opening stuck doors, repairing electric irons, starting the car, racing Sir Stork to the hospital and, on occasion, baby-sitting. Not long ago, in New York City, a dealer did a human-fly act, crawling up the outside of a to rescue a man trapped there, burning building to the third floor and carrying him safely to the ground.

All this they consider part of the day's work and envy Red all the excitement that occurs when he picks up his case and starts ringing door bells.

Lively British Comedy Is Held Over at Avenue

The latest British comedy "Ghosts of Berkeley Square" a witty picture based on the popular book, "No Nightingales" will remain at the Avenue Theatre for a second week.

Robert Morley, popular British actor in Canada, shares the leading role with character actor, Felix Aylmer, who will be remembered for his brilliant acting in "Hamlet", and they are ably supported by a long cast of well-known players.

It is the hilarious story of two elderly ghosts, who, because of their misdemeanours in 1708, are doomed to walk the rooms of a mansion in Berkeley Square until Royalty visits the house.

Throughout the centuries there are many false alarms, and the ghosts, bound by regulations issued by the Higher Authority begin to think that it is all a joke and that they will be forced to walk forever the rooms of the house, which, for hundreds of years, has been their domicile. It is not until 1914-18 that the unexpected happens and the two amiable old ghosts are allowed to leave Berkeley Square.

Director Vernon Sewell set out to get as many laughs as possible, and the picture is alive with witty lines, laughable situations and some grand character work by the cast.

Excellent featurettes round out the program.

Montreal Premiere Starting Saturday At Snowdon

"My Sister and I" another excellent British drama will be shown for the first time in Montreal when it opens at the Snowdon Theotre on Saturday.

Based on the novel "High Pavement," by Emery Bonett, the story is at once appealing to lovers of romance or mystery drama, "My Sister and I" gives a chance for four young contracted artists to prove their worth as stars. Dermot Walsh, Hazel Court Sally Ann Howes and Patrick Holt are all well known for their supporting roles in many popular films of the past two years, but they all receive star billing in this picture with such long-established stars as Barbara Mullen and Martita Hunt.

"My Sister and I" is a breakaway from a long run of British period pictures, and features the activities of a group of young actors in a provincial repertory theatre. The dress styles worn by Sally Ann Howes and Hazel Court are modern and right in keeping with the latest fashion trends, while still retaining the simplicity dictated by the financial means of the characters they are meant to portray. Martita Hunt's splendid and memorable performance in "Great Expectations" is equalled in this picture by her role of the rich Mrs. Camelot, while Barbara Mullen, making one of her too rare screen appearances, once more demonstrates her genius at character acting as the frustrated Hypatia, sister to the domineering Mrs. Camelot.

Short subjects round out the program.

Canadian Art Theatre To Present "Pinocchio"

This Saturday afternoon the famous story of "Pinocchio" will come to life when it is presented at Victoria Hall, Westmount, by the Canadian Art Theatre. This popular children's story of the little wooden puppet that is brought to life and of his trials and tribulations as he meets up with the good and bad in the world has been in great demand by the young Montreal fry for many seasons.

As adapted for the stage by Joy Thomson, CAT Director, great care has been taken in keeping all the famous characters of the story as the Italian writer, Collodi, had written them a few generations ago. Many of the story's comic situations that children throughout the world have laughed at for so many years have been adapted into this stage version, such as when Pinocchio lies to the Blue Fairy and his nose grows bigger and bigger with each lie he tells and the episode where Pinocchio's father Geppetto, gets swallowed by a huge Dogfish promises to be quite effective on stage.

The part of Pinocchio will be played by Neil Madden, who is a long-time favourite with the young Montreal audience. He was last seen in the title role in "Jack and the Beanstalk" and also had the lead in "Little Black Sambo." Last season he was Huckleberry Finn in the play of the same name and had important parts in "Alice in Wonderland" and in "The Magic Sword."

In the parts of the talking Cricket who desperately attempts to keep Pinocchio out of mischief will be Jack Zolov. A newcomer to the CAT, he has had experience with the Montreal High School Dramatic Society where he recently played the leading role in "The Whiteheaded Boy." He has also been associated with Don Wall's "High School Players" on CJAD and also has had important parts on the CBC program "Teen-Time."

The wicked Cat will be played by Jackie Buck and the sly fox by Richard Farrell who recently played the Giant in "Jack and the Beanstalk." Bruce Raymond will be seen as the owner of the Puppet Theatre while Silvio Narizzano will play the funny puppet policeman.

The Blue Fairy who eventually turns Pinocchio into a real boy, is the part to be played by Dinny Stern while the theatrical puppets Punch and Harlequin will be performed by Robert and Michael Lafontaine. Arthur Voronka as the old wood-carver, Geppetto and Gordon Warren as his friend Antonio will complete the cast.

"Pinocchio", which will be the last offering of the season, is being directed by Joy Thomson, who is also designing the setting, while colorful custumes are being executed by Elspeth Bagg, who recently designed the beautiful costumes used in "Jack and the Beanstalk." The curtain will go up at 2.30 sharp.

M.R.T. Presents Glass Menagerie

The Montreal Repertory Theatre's next major production "The Glass Menagerie", written by Tennessee Williams, has been described by Ward Morehouse as "something to see, to cheer about, and to see again." The play moves from one scene to the other very much as scenes dissolve on the screen. It is a play with imagination and strange beauty. It creates a mood and sustains it throughout.

In writing "The Glass Menagerie," the playwrigght has adopted a technique similar to that used in "I Remember Mama", where the narrator is also a character in the play. In ""The Glass Menagerie," the son thinks back to his home life in St. Louis, when he, his sister and his mother shared a small apartment. The role of the son will be taken by Sylvio Narizzano of the CAT. The Mother will be played by Amelia Hall, the daughter by Betty Taylor Fenwick, and the Gentleman called by George Powell.

"The Glass Menagerie" opens at "The Paper That Brings Results" MRT Playhouse next Thursday and will be run for nine days.

St. Leo's Old Boys Tilt Tomorrow

Sinister Plans Of Hudon Discovered in Briefcase

A selected team of St. Leo's Old Boys will be the guests of the 1949 Senior B Hockey Club in the Annual Old Boys hockey game slated for 10.45 a.m. tomorrow at Lachine Arena. This game will bring to a close a successful five months of hockey for the local crew. The former Academites are expected to ice a fairly strong squad but, unfortunately, due to business pressure a good number of boys will be unable to join the old gang who have been successful in playing hockey for the day from their jobs or college lectures.

Mr. Yves Hudon will be the bench strategist for the day and is extremely anxious to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the school's Senior B Champions. Mr. Hudon had the misfortune to forget his brief case in the Athletic room last week and coach Andy McGillis, after looking at the bulky appearance of the brief case, thought it best to inspect the contents suspecting a sinister plot by his rival coach to win the game. The suspicions were confirmed after the contents were carefully sorted out. It revealed the following plans and devices by which Mr. Hudon had hoped would help win the game. A diagram showing the course to follow from the defensive blue line to the attacking zone, presumely for the benefit of defenceman Bob Bulger and Guy Vidricaire. Vitamin pills for Bob Brennan and Bob Bourassa. A green lamp shade to protect goaler Kevin Kennedy from the glare of the red light behind his cage. Two signs, one for the team bench readying "No Smoking" and a "No Parking" sign for the penalty bench. A few batteries, same type as used unlawfully to speed up horses at race tracks; likely to be placed in the back pocket of his hockey players' pants between second and third period. Plan showing his highly touted secret weapan is none other than having George Mulligan sprung on us as referee. Personally we would feel a lot better if George would carry a stick instead of a whistle. Found also was some literature dealing with the following subjects: How to give pep talks and inspire a team. How to beat the Rule book by reading between the lines and finally a book entitled "How to Get the Most out of the Least". Not wishing to take advantage of Mr. Hudon's hopeless plight, the brief case (minus contents) was returned to its owner by Thomas Rogers.

Pre-Game Statements

Coach Hudon": With our experience and weight, we should have no trouble deflating those immature youngsters on the Senior B team".

Coach McGillis of the Senior B Club: "My only worry is overconfidence on part of my boys but in the final analysis class and superior condition should tell and with both these important factors operating in our favor it should spell victory.

Sport Shorts

The regular season at Lachine Arena closed last Saturday and both the Juniors and Senior B outfits were returned winners in exhibition fixtures. The Senior B aggregation scored a 2-0 shutout win over a short handed Montreal West Senior A sextet. Harry Wolfe and Russell Cliffe were the marksmen for the Westmounters. Bernie Dubreuil helped the cause no little by turning in a perfect performance in the nets. The Juniors were extended to the limit before deposing of a pesky Lower Canada College Junior crew by the narrow margin of 3-2.

Thomas Grant's 5th Grade Greys assured themselves of the 5th Grade Pee Wee Hockey title when they nosed out Joe St. James, 5th Grade Greens, 2-1. It was a thrilling game with a story book finish for the Greys on the large ice surface of Lachine Arena. Both the winners' goals were scored in the last minute of play. Mastermind Grant, sensing defeat in the last minute of play, made a bold move in removing his goaler for an extra forward and his daring strategy paid off when Brendan Guilfoyle taking a pass from Mike Lunny skated in with but forty seconds remaining in the game to slip the puck past Green's goaler Johnnie Engel to knot the game 1-1. A few seconds later Danny Basque skated through a stunned Green's hockey team to register the winning counter and give Greys the Westmount Pee Wee 5th Grade title.

Harry Wolfe's goal total has picked up considerably since moving over to center and his fifteen goals makes him the top goal getter for the season.

Alouettes Even Inter Puck Series With Staynor Stars

The final game of a two-game total game series for the P. R. Adams trophy, emblematic of the City Intermediate Hockey Championship, was played at the Verdun Auditorium last week between the Staynor Stars and the Alouettes.

The Staynor Stars went into the game with a one-game advantage over the Alouettes having defeated them 1-0 in their first encounter. The second game was a hard, clean, contest, with the Alouettes coming out on top 2-1.

Bill Telfer on a nice solo rush banged a hard shot into the twine behind Doug Brambell, the starry Staynor goaler. This goal evened up the series 1-1. There was no scoring during the second period. With five minutes left in the third period, Pat Lomasney took a pass from Earle MacDonald and slapped it home, to put the Stars into the lead. The Alouettes began to press and with three minutes left in the game Ron Morrow on a nice play, with assists going to Bob Grant and Frack Boright scored the tying goal. The teams then went into overtime period when they were forced to vacate the ice.

This has been a great series with Ray Binmore, the custodian of the A's cage and Doug. Brambell, the Stars' goaler, being the two outstanding men on the ice. They both played terrific games, making any number of impossible looking stops. Guy Bonnier, Earle MacDonald and Stu McGowan played great hockey on the Stars' defence, while John Garland, Bud Selby, Alan Turner and Pat Lamasney kept things moving up front. The Alouettes' defencemen John Piers and Brian Pearse played hard games while Bill Telfer was their best man up front. Frank Reid, Bob Grant and Ron Morrow, played good hockey for the Alouettes.

NHL NOTES

Detroit Red Wings won the National Hockey League championship with 75 points; Boston Bruins finished in second place with 66 points, one more than Montreal Canadiens, while Toronto Maple Leafs ended the season in fourth place with 57 points. Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers, the two teams that failed to make the playoffs, finished with 50 and 47 points respectively.

Roy Conacher of Chicago won the scoring championship of the N.H.L. when he totalled 26 goals and 42 assists for 68 points, to nose out his teammate Doug Bentley. Bentley scored 23 goals and assisted in 43 others. His 43 assists were the most compiled by any player. Two Detroit players, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay, finished in a tie for third place in the individual scoring race. Abel had 28 goals and 26 assists for 54 points, while Lindsay had 26 goals and 28 assists. Abel's 28 goals was the most scored by any player this season.

Bill Quackenbush, stalwart Detroit defenseman, established a new record for defencemen when he played through the entire 60-game schedule without incurring one single penalty. Harry Watson, husky Toronto left winger, also played 60 games without a penalty.

Bill Durnan of Canadiens made National League history when he won the Vezina Trophy for the fifth time. Durnan allowed 126 goals to be scored on him in 60 games for an average of 2.10 goals against per game. He also topped all other netminders in shutouts with ten.

For the third straight season a Toronto player has been the most penalized player in the League. Bill Ezinicki, stocky Leaf winger succeeds Defenceman Bill Barilko, penalty leader a year ago, as the 1948-49 "bad man". Ezinicki had a total of 145 minutes. Montreal Canadiens were the most penalized team with 772 minutes.

Pat Lamosney scored 6 points, Buddy Selby 5, and Earle MacDonald 4. For the Royals, Dave Harvie came up with 6 points, Lorne Cookman and Eddie O'Brien scored 4 each and Buck Knott scored a basket for 2 points.

The second game saw the Whizs defeat Frank Boright's Alouettes 41-32, in a very good game. With 10 minutes to go in the game, the score was tied 25-25; the Whizs then broke loose and outscored the Alouettes 16-7. George Cochrane was the big gun on the Whizs with 13 points. George Presho and Harold Parsons came up with 8 points apiece, Jack McKissock notched 7 points and Dave Barnard 5. Jack Dudley led the Alouettes with 13 points, Ray Binmore followed with 9 points, Brian Pearse scored 5, Bob Grant 3 and John Piers 2.

SPORTIVELY SPEAKING

By George Cochrane

THE WORK OF A MASTER

Here's a sample of the high-class prose turned out by Ted Reeve, sports ed of The Toronto's Telegram and the man who won the Rubberset Company's first anual Canadian sportswriting contest. This was reproduced in the March issue of New Liberty:

Jack Dempsey's visit to this happy hamlet (snuggling picturesquely on the banks of the disposal plant) brings to mind a yarn that Tommy Loughran, the light-heavy wizard, used to tell about Jack when the Mauler was champion. One afternoon when training for the Firpo fight he was having a bit of trouble with a large and stylish colored sparring partner.

Jack missed and the colored boy tapped him deftly on the bugle, made the champ miss again and splashed another left on the Dempsey pan. This gave the sparring partner ideas and he briskly jabbed in two more neat ones only to be suddenly crashed in the ribs by the Dempsey left hook. Bent over double, the startled sparmate took to the bicycle, was nailed once more and, as he back-pedalled past his corner, yelled: "Throw in d'towel."

"We ain't got no towel," piped his seconds, and the aroused Dempsey, as they sped about the ring, again smacked over a hard right. "Then throw in th' sponge," cried the pursued pugilist.

"We ain't got no sponge either," shouted his handlers. Dempsey, gaining a step, scored with a hurried left and a right and a left and, passing his corner the third time, the harried Senegambian hooted: "Well, throw in somethin' purty quick. This am the last time I'll be comin' round this way."

JOTTINGS

Jack McKissock, the versatile athlete who's probably best known as one of the best shortstops in the Snowdon Senior Fastball League, is now piloting a team in the Westmount Municipal Basketball League. The McCoose has just finished his chores as playing coach of an intermediate hockey club and high-scoring forward of the Westmount Y's intermediate MBL entry . . . Tom Maltby, who makes up The Monitor sports section every week, has his team all set to roll in the Verdun Independent Softball League. He has a number of Snowdon leaguers set to play for him . . . Congratulations to Bill Orban and his Loyola pucksters who won the Senior A hockey city championship in decisive fashion this week. This has been quite a year for the bespectacled Orban. He also mentored the Loyola Senior A gridders who went through to the city title last autumn . . . Congratulations, to, to coach Harold Hay's spirited Trenholme Midgets who copped the provincial title last weed-end . . . And a nod to Bill Durnan for winning the Vezina Trophy for the fifth time . . . St. Leo's Greys Win Puck Title

The two St. Leo's hockey teams, the Greys and Greens, which had reached the finals in the Westmount Municipal Hockey League, Pee Wee "B" section, met out at the Lachine Arena to decide the championship. This series was for the Rotary Club cup and crests for the winning team.

Andy McGillis, the genial coach of St. Leo's, arranged this game. It was the first time most of these boys had played in a closed arena and they got a great deal of enjoyment out of the game. The game was very close with the Greys eking out a win 2-1 over the Greens.

The Greens' Frank Dodman slapped home a goal early in the first period. The Greys began to press but could not get the rubber past John Engle, the Greens' goaler, who played a sensational game in the nets. With about 40 seconds left to play, Brendan Guilfoyle took a pass from Mike Lunny and banged it into the nets, to tie up the score. This goal upset the Greens and with 5 seconds left to play, Daniel Basque proved to be the hero when he banged home the winning goal.

The champions' line-up:—André Jarry, André Moreau, James Griffin, Richard White, Jean Cyr, Robert Guilmette, Brendan Guilfoyle, James Grant, Daniel Basque, Edwin Wright, Philip Ramsey and Claude Lalonde.
