Ulster calm after night of violence

BELFAST (CP) — A tense calm returned to Northern Ireland early today after a bloody night of violence in which at least 14 persons died.

Gun battles, bombings, burning and looting destroyed scores of homes and buildings in Belfast and other cities in one of the worst outbreaks of violence in the 50-year history of Northern Ireland.

Property damage in Belfast was estimated at more than $2.5 million.

The fighting began Monday after the Ulster government moved to crack down on the Irish Republican Army, which seeks to reunite Northern Ireland, a part of the United Kingdom, with the Irish Republic. The Northern Ireland government rounded up 300 suspected terrorists early Monday and later Prime Minister Brian Faulkner announced plans to intern them without trial.

In the fighting that followed this move, British soldiers battled mobs and roving bands of guerrillas from the IRA for nearly 24 hours.

SIGNAL 'ALL CLEAR'

The British Army finally brought the fighting under control and announced an "all clear" at 3 a.m. today.

Authorities said the death toll could be considerably higher because warring Catholics and Protestant factions had been dragging some of their dead and wounded away.

As the skies were lit by explosions and the glare of whole streets of houses going up in flames, those killed included a Roman Catholic priest, shot as he administered rites to a dying rioter; two women, two teen-age boys, a British soldier and a young volunteer in the newly-mobilized Ulster Defence Regiment.

Early today battle-weary troops combed rubble-strewn riot areas for bodies not already found and stayed tensely alert for the trouble that might at any minute flare again in neighborhoods that now resemble blitzed battlefields.

QUIET TODAY

Belfast was generally quiet after day broke, with some but by no means all of the working population filing silently to their jobs on foot, by a partially-restored bus service or in cars.

Some had to pick their way over smoking wreckage and the ruins of burned-out vehicles left by Monday's orgy of violence.

The atmosphere throughout Ulster was one of foreboding as stories of burnings and fatal gun battles in this capital and elsewhere became known.

Some 500 Catholic refugees were reported to have fled south into the Irish Republic for the safety provided by government-run camps set up for the first time since Ulster's 1969 outbreak of factional violence.

Twelve thousand British troops were on guard, reinforced by 500 flown in Monday after apprehensive authorities had ordered cancellation of public processions including Thursday's traditional march of the Protestant Apprentice Boys of Londonderry.

TROOP: REMOVE BLOCKS

An army spokesman said that barricades thrown up in the streets during the night were being taken down today by troops without any opposition.

Police said today that 24 persons were arrested during the night and 21 of them are being held.

Nineteen British troops were injured, five by gunfire, during the night and one was reported in a serious condition.

At least 40 persons have been killed in the communal warfare in Northern Ireland this year and at least 70 lives have been lost since a Roman Catholic civil rights campaign renewed traditional Protestant-Catholic violence two years ago.

Prime Minister Faulkner said the raids were aimed at the outlawed IRA, which is dedicated to reuniting Northern Ireland with the Irish Republic by "bullet and bomb" if necessary. "We are, quite simply, at war with the terrorists," Faulkner said.

The reaction was swift and bloody—a wave of rioting, shooting and looting. British troops were the main targets for roaming bands of guerrillas armed with bombs, machineguns and automatic weapons.

"It's all-out war now," said an IRA leader after a 25-year-old Republican officer was shot dead, witnesses said by a Protestant.

In Belfast, factories, stores and homes went up in flame.

More than 130 Protestant houses on the edge of the Catholic Ardoyne area burned as their occupants fled, clutching some possessions in their arms and loading furniture on to trucks and automobiles.

A terrorist machine-gunner opened up on the stream of refugees, and a woman, a young boy and a baby were carried off bleeding.

It appeared that the Protestants had set fire to their own houses in a "scorched earth" retreat to prevent them falling into Catholic hands.

Strip show in court?

QUEBEC — (CP) — A stripper named Sister Surprise took her night club act into court Monday to show that it was not indecent.

The stripper, Nicole Nadeau, appeared before Sessions Court Judge Jean Grenier in connection with charges she had completed disrobed during a Jan. 29 night club performance in Cap Sante, Que.

The 27-year-old performer said she wanted to show that total nudity was not a part of her act.

After the court granted her request to give a typical performance of her act, Miss Nadeau shed all but her G-string and panty hose.

Judge Grenier said he would consider the merit of her performance and render judgment Friday.

Give-away spurred by egg protest

MONTREAL (CP) — Disenchanted farmers distributed about 7,800 dozen eggs to low-income citizens' groups Monday in a peaceful protest against Fedco, Quebec's egg marketing agency.

The egg producers, who said they plan to hold more give-aways, claim the agency is forcing them to sell eggs at a loss and then overcharging the public with no resultant profit to the farmers.

The give-away took place at the north end central food market.

Trucks carrying the eggs into Montreal were decorated with drawings of chickens and slogans such as I Don't Want to Lay and Have My Eggs Buried.

The protest followed a meeting in Drummondville Sunday when more than 150 egg producers voted to set up a new organization to replace Fedco.

The producers decided to revise the list of egg farmers in Quebec, demand payment of money owed farmers by Fedco and boycott the supply of eggs to Fedco.

Local CEGEP registration

By PAUL TROLLOPE

LENNOXVILLE — Champlain Regional College (CEGEP) is staging a three-day pre-registration and academic orientation program in the Bishop's University gymnasium, which started yesterday and continues all day today and tomorrow.

The program is specially designed to provide students and their parents with details on pre-university as well as technological courses for the 1971-72 academic year.

A full range of literature on course offered will be available, and movies outlining opportunities in the fields of technological study have also been scheduled.

Giving studies consideration to post-graduate employment, officials have been careful in their selection of technologies for the first year of the college's operation and they have chosen fields where there is a distinct need in Quebec for trained personnel.

Starting this fall, the college plans to operate programs in nursing, textile technology, library science and administration techniques.

Perhaps not as well understood by the general public as the other technologies to be offered, textile technology is one field where well-qualified personnel are in great demand.

So much so, that the Canadian Textile Association offers 40 bursaries annually to students enrolled in the three-year textile technology CEGEP course, and guarantees jobs for graduates of this program.

Plans at the college are to expand on technologies in forthcoming years, with options in areas of concentration which will best fit the needs of stones, industry and commerce in the regions of Quebec which are to be served by the new two campus institution.

The two-year pre-university course, however, will feature conventional academic studies leading to diplomas in arts, science and business administration.

Students seeking entry to either the pre-university stream or any one of the technological options are invited to visit the Champlain College orientation people at the Bishop's University gymnasium any time today or tomorrow, between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.; 1:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.; or from 7 to 10 p.m.

Unless already supplied, students should bring with them their mid-term grade 11 marks, final marks if possible, birth certificate, recent 3x4-in. vaccination certificate, and two recent photographs of themselves.

Anti-pollution centre urged

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The Sherbrooke branch of the Parti Quebecois has decided to pay closer attention to the problem of pollution on our local beaches, says local PQ chapter president Jean-Marie Cliche.

The decision is explained in a party communique in which the situation is summarized as follows:

"Roger Gingues, west ward alderman, brought to city council's attention the disgusting situation prevailing at the St-Esprit beach, following the discovery of oil in the Magog River (reported in The Record on Tuesday, Aug. 3).

"The same day, LUCIDES, a Sherbrooke citizens' organization, presented to the press a report documenting the number of coliform bacteria present in the water at St-Esprit and Jacques-Cartier beaches. The figures shown are two and nine times respectively higher than the acceptable levels for safe swimming."

According to the party communique: "The town council and LUCIDES have united in their efforts to protect the good health of Sherbrooke citizens. It must, however, be noted that pollution is not only a municipal problem but one of provincial and federal dimensions."

"The Parti Quebecois of Sherbrooke wishes to make the Queen City of the Eastern Townships the regional centre for the war against pollution, both because of its geographical location and because of the luxurious university facilities available here for analysis and experimentation."

"The Parti Quebecois is asking the two Sherbrooke deputies, Paul Gervais and Jean-Paul Pepin, to take the necessary steps for Sherbrooke to become a regional anti-pollution centre which would inform the population of the surrounding area of water quality in the region's lakes and rivers, and would identify and work to eliminate sources of pollution in the area."

The statement adds: "The Parti Quebecois invites deputies Gervais and Pepin, in cooperation with other area members, to seek financial aid for this project from the health and welfare and environment departments of the federal and provincial governments, in order to accomplish this most important mission."

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Rescued after bridge jump

MONTREAL (CP) — A young Montreal woman was rescued from the St. Lawrence River Monday after she jumped more than 200 feet from the Jacques Cartier Bridge.

Claude Paquette, a National Harbors Board policeman, was sent to investigate a report of a woman standing on the walkway of the bridge.

The woman had thrown herself from the bridge when the policeman arrived. He dashed to St. Helen's Island below, dived into the water, and succeeded in reaching the woman but was unable to bring her to shore.

Police, called by passersby, arrived with ambulance cruisers and promptly sent four constables into the river for the two.

The woman was taken to hospital where she was reported in good condition.

Acquires pre-fab houses

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Housing Corp. has acquired 23 pre-fabricated houses at a cost of $347,000, to be used to relocate families whose dwellings were swept away in the St. Jean Vianney landslide May 4, it was announced Monday.

The QHC has awarded a $1.09 million contract to Tetreault and Girard, Ltd. for the construction of plumbing and sewage facilities, streets, sidewalks and foundations in Arvida, Que. where the new homes will be installed.

The area will be large enough to accommodate 94 other families whose homes have been ordered evacuated by geologists.

The St. Jean Vianney disaster took the lives of 31 persons and devastated the tiny mining community, 115 miles north of Quebec City.

Union workers walk off jobs

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 500 members of the International Brotherhood of Glaziers and Glassworkers walked off their jobs on 230 construction sites Monday to protest what they called infractions against labor legislation by Montreal employers.

Rosaire Daoust, a union representative, said the issue is based on a false interpretation of job classification.

"The employers are trying to place the men in a lower category but we will not tolerate this any more. We will stay off the job until the provincial government steps in and settles the matter."

The latest labor decree was issued in December, 1970, and the Montreal employees claim they have been getting below-par wages since Jan. 1.

No advance phone bookings

MONTREAL (CP) — Bell Canada announced Monday that increased overseas circuits and additional facilities now allow operators to dial directly and speed up service on the huge volume of Christmas holiday calls.

As a result, a company statement said, Bell will accept no advance bookings for Christmas holiday calls to 18 overseas countries.

Calls to the United Kingdom, Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, Denmark, France, Germany, Greece, Israel, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Venezuela during the holiday period will be handled on a "first come, first serve" basis.

Residents face peculiar problem

WINDSOR (PT) — Four proprietors of private homes here, about 25 summer cottage owners and a dozen campers could neither enter nor leave from their place of residence last night, because the road leading to their lodgings was out of commission to them.

It's the same for everyone living along the Watopoka River or on Fredette Bay near here, and will remain that way until either Domtar changes its mind or the town of St-Claude decided to build a bridge and another road.

Several years ago, Domtar employees asked permission to use a company road to get to the land they had bought from some farmers for the purpose of building cottages.

Apparently, a verbal gentlemen's agreement existed between the said farmers and the company.

Bit by bit, Fredette Bay became more inhabited and new cottages sprung up there, owned by other employees of the pulp and paper mill. There are now four winter homes, about 25 cottages and a dozen campers living on the ground bought from the farmers.

The problem which now exists is the result of a private hunting and fishing club, the McCarthy Club, which is supposedly situated on land belonging to Domtar, near the other buildings mentioned.

In order to keep both club authorities and local residents happy, Domtar locked the gate on the private road leading to the houses at 9 p.m. every night, to provide some security for the fish and game club. The key to the gate was left in a hiding place known both to the villagers and to the club sportsmen.

The key has been stolen several times and thieves have entered the premises at night to break into the McCarthy Club. Rosaire Labbe, club president, explained that the organization would be held responsible if there were ever a forest fire on the grounds, and that one club member has already been assaulted by an intruder.

In order that the situation not repeat itself, club authorities ordered Domtar to leave one copy of the key with the club and not to circulate any other keys, thus depriving the villagers of their right-of-way.

The company agreed, and starting Monday this arrangement has been in force.

The fact that most of the residents thus inconvenienced are Domtar employees and therefore work late shifts (4 p.m. to midnight or midnight to 8 a.m.) two weeks out of three obviously has not improved matters, due to the closing time.

Several riverside residents have gone to see St-Claude mayor Eddy Hamel about the matter, asking that the municipality build a bridge crossing the Watopoka river as well as a road leading to their homes.

Mr. Hamel decided to meet with Domtar authorities yesterday or today to see what could be done about agreeing on a more equitable arrangement.

SUMMER DELIGHT — Youngsters in the community pool behind the Dollard school Lennoxville area made good use of the yesterday as an escape from the searing heat.

To build training centre

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The L'Estrie Regional School Board has decided to invest the sum of $42,700 in alterations necessary to convert the old Belding-Corticelli plant in Coaticook to a professional training centre for the board.

Five thousand dollars of this money is to go towards installing suspended platforms in the classrooms and workshops, and to install fluorescent lights throughout the parts of the building where students will be reading and studying.

Other operations which are to be performed are making divisions, installing interior and exterior doors, making closets, installing an elevator and a greasing unit, buying new furniture and putting oxygen and acetylene pipes in.

The board spent $14,699 for the installation of a plumbing and heating shop with ventilation facilities, and $8,395 on an electrical workshop.

However, the school board can recoup $13,450 of its expenditure from the department of education.

More child care clinics

SHERBROOKE (PT) — Child care clinics will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 10 at St-Jean-de-Brebeuf and Marie-Mediatrice church halls, and from 2 to 4 p.m. on the following dates:

Thursday, Aug. 12: St-Esprit and St-Boniface Churches.

E.T. REPORT

Victim of hit-and-run

THETFORD MINES (PT) — A young seven-year-old girl from St-Rene, Beauce county, was killed by a hit-and-run driver Saturday afternoon in downtown Thetford.

The victim was identified as Michelle Blais, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Blais, of St-Rene. She was killed instantly and the driver of the car which killed her continued on his way, according to police.

St-Georges-de-Beaucourt detachment of the Quebec Police Force has launched an all-out search for the culprit.

Bingo games on as usual

SHERBROOKE (DM) — The bingo games scheduled for the Sherbrooke Exposition Aug. 13 and 22 will take place.

The Record learned Monday ETAA president Warren Ross was referring to a small bingo booths to be operated on the midway when he said "The matter hasn't been rectified yet."

The midway booths are to be operated by the Lawrence Carr Amusement Co., an American firm which apparently did not meet governmental stipulations that bingo games must be operated by individuals who have lived in Quebec during the previous 12 months.

Even those booths will be operating, ETAA secretary-treasurer Eileen Morgan revealed Monday, since the government has given its approval.

Two arrested, two freed

SHERBROOKE (PT) — Two young men have been locked up and two others set free while another is at large and wanted following four arrests made Sunday by the Weedon detachment of the Quebec Police Force.

The incident started off when the QPF stopped a car containing five youths on a charge of impaired driving.

After a good look at the people he had arrested, the officer concerned decided that perhaps more than just poor driving was involved in the infraction, and decided to take the young men to Sherbrooke with him.

Upon arrival in Sherbrooke, all five were questioned by QPF officers here because of their "suspicious appearance," authorities said. A number of minor crimes have been committed in the area lately and the police were just pursuing routine questioning of the quintet.

While two "principal suspects" were being questioned, a third decided to take a look and see if the weather was nice. He walked right out the door and never returned. No effort was made then to capture him as no one realized what was happening until too late.

The QPF then called Sherbrooke municipal police and about 16 policemen, eight from each force, went searching for the boy for over an hour, but their efforts were wasted. It is, however, expected that the individual will be arrested any day now.

The two other youths, who apparently had nothing to do with impaired driving or any other crime the QPF could discover, were released shortly afterwards.

North Hatley issues two building permits

NORTH HATLEY (RM) — At last week's town council meeting here, two building permits were issued, one to Mrs. Casgrain for the construction of a winter home and one to J. Fletcher for repairs and alterations.

Council decided to replace about 300 feet of water line on top of the hill on Sherbrooke Road, to shingle the roof over the laundromat and to have some painting done on the streets.

The valuation roll was homologated at the meeting.

Pair studying at language centre

VANCOUVER (PT) — Daniel and Normand Charland, of 318-7th Avenue South, Sherbrooke, are two of 111 French-speaking and 37 other English-speaking students who are presently participating in a six-week language program at the University of British Columbia here.

The secretary of state annually grants scholarships to the university's Centre for Continuing Education in order to promote bilingualism among young post-secondary age Canadians.

The French-speaking students are studying English, and vice versa, in the course which will finish on Aug. 13. The average age of the 84 boys and 64 girls is between 20 and 21 years.

The program is structured in such a manner as to permit as great a proportion as possible of time to be spent in the milieu of the second language.

It is hoped that a dynamic, cultural atmosphere is resulting from the Centre's carefully-planned schedule, which includes three hours of classes every morning, followed by language laboratory work throughout the afternoon and various recreational activities during the evening.

The group is living at Fort Camp on the UBC campus.

This is the third year that the Centre for Continuing Education has offered such a program, and the second year that students are being chosen for it by the federal government, which subsidizes the project.

There are 13 English-language instructors at the school, as well as three French teachers and 17 monitors, who work informally in small conversation groups to help students to become at ease speaking in the second language they are learning.

U of S studying security service

SHERBROOKE (PT) — A security service, not a police department, is the objective of University of Sherbrooke authorities who are presently giving a series of courses designed to improve the specialized training of their security personnel.

The courses are under the supervision of Julien Hamel, director of buildings and grounds at the University of Sherbrooke, and Gaston Cote, director of security.

The program, which is of a year and a half duration, is designed for members of the university's security and protection service, and emphasizes prevention as a primary means of combating fires, thefts and accidents.

Those in charge of the courses have also elicited the assistance of the Sherbrooke fire department, and this year have added courses on chemical methods of fire extinction. Courses on first aid and emergency evacuation are also being organized with the help of the Centre Hospitalier Universitaire and Sherbrooke civil protection authorities, respectively.

One member of the university security corps, Andre Roy, has been given the opportunity to specialize in the field of chemical fire extinction, and has spent four months studying at Canadian Underwriters, Toronto, and Ansil Company, Marinette, Wisconsin.

Upon his return from this intensive session, Mr. Roy will be called upon to give courses on chemical fire extinguishers. These courses will be available to all students and laboratory workers at the university.

Local consumer offices shifted

SHERBROOKE (PT) — The local offices of the department of consumer and corporate affairs have just moved into new offices in the Royal Trust building on Wellington Street North, it was announced recently by that government department.

New inspection equipment, a government spokesman said, has also been transported to new and more functional quarters on Hertel Street.

The department formerly was located in the federal government building at the corner of King West and Couture Streets.

The post office and internal revenue departments need more space due to expansion, and so it was decided that the consumer affairs department would move here, the spokesman added.

Although organization of the new offices is not quite completed, new services and better surveillance of consumer goods in the area soon will be made possible by the move, he concluded.

Six test dates set for graduate exams

PRINCETON, N.J. — Educational Testing Service announced today that undergraduates and others preparing to go to graduate school may take the graduate record examinations on any of six different test dates during the current academic year. The first testing date for the GRE is Oct. 23, 1971. Scores from this administration will be reported to the graduate schools around December 1.

Students planning to register for the October test date are advised that applications received by ETS after Oct. 5 will incur a $3.50 late registration fee.

After Oct. 8, there is no guarantee that applications for the October test date can be processed.

The other five test dates are Dec. 11, 1971, Jan. 15, Feb. 26, April 22, and June 17, 1972. Equivalent late fee and registration deadlines apply to these dates.

Choice of test dates should be determined by the requirements of graduate schools or fellowships to which one is applying. Scores are usually reported to graduate schools five weeks after a test date.

The graduate record examinations include an aptitude test of general scholastic ability and advanced tests measuring achievement in 19 major fields of study. Full details and registration forms for the GRE are contained in the 1971-72 GRE information bulletin.

The bulletin also contains forms and instructions for requesting transcript service on GRE scores already on file with ETS.

This booklet is available on most campuses or may be ordered from: Educational Testing Service, Box 955, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Team sent out to study polluted drinking water

QUEBEC (CP) — The provincial government plans to send a team of specialists familiar with water control to study polluted drinking water in Blanc Sablon, a government official said Monday night.

Dr. Benoit Bundock, deputy-minister responsible for the environment, said the government is convinced there "is no immediate risk" of a typhoid outbreak in the village on the Quebec-Newfoundland border.

He said in an interview that the team would study the sewage disposal system in the community as well as in nearby communities. The government then will take action based on the team's recommendations.

The government has offered free vaccinations to the 700-residents of Blanc Sablon.

The typhoid threat was suggested during the weekend through an interview with Dr. Camille Marcoux, who said three persons had died and between 200 and 300 had been treated because of polluted drinking water.

Dr. Marcoux, who runs an 85-bed hospital in the community, said medical cases had occurred since last spring and all had been treated for gastro-enteritis.

He said there were "two or three" patients still under treatment in the hospital suffering from the illness and that the situation threatened to become worse in the fall.

More than 30 residents of Bouchette, Que., north of Ottawa, were stricken with typhoid last spring because of polluted drinking water.

The play's the thing

One of the best, most useful Opportunities for Youth projects we have heard of to date is the Quebec City Summer Stock Theatre.

After solving innumerable problems, including lack of funds, no stage, personnel shortage, lack of equipment, and no answer from the federal government about a grant, a group of eight students from Bishop's University, along with some others from Quebec City and elsewhere, were finally able to start putting together a program of good, varied English theatre for residents and tourists in Quebec City this summer.

It was rough going. For weeks, one student who himself lived in Quebec went around to ask local merchants, businessmen and large companies if they would contribute to the cause, but he first had to convince them of the need for an English-language summer stock theatre in the old capital.

Dean Allen Goodings of the Anglican Cathedral of the Holy Trinity had to be found and persuaded to allow the theatre company the use of his church hall for the summer, and then alterations had to be made to the hall so that it could be used as a theatre.

Lighting and sound equipment had to be found, as did many other things, and here the Bishop's University Centennial Theatre was more than co-operative.

Quebec residents and tourists had to be made aware of the existence of the theatre, and the group found, surprisingly enough, that hotels and travel bureaus were only too willing to give an English theatre some publicity.

And then there were the long hours of rehearsing, scenery-making and moving, costume-sewing and property-finding.

The result is now showing itself every evening in Cathedral Square just opposite the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec.

The Quebec City Summer Stock Theatre is presenting three plays: I Love You, Bernard Mergendeiler, a satirical revue compiled from the cartoons of Jules Feiffer; Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; and Peter Nichols' Joe Egg.

All the plays are student-produced and directed, with student actors. All the behind-the-scenes work is done by the group as well.

For those familiar with Bishop's and its theatre crowd, Ron Taylor is producer of the theatre, while Bruce Retallack is artistic director. Rick Southam is stage manager and plays a leading role in the Feiffer revue. Miles Cohen, Katriona Gordon and Bronwen Mantle are the other three actors who come from Bishop's, and Ruth Jellicoe is assistant director.

The group works long hours, often from 9 in the morning until midnight, six days a week. They are not charging a high admission price in an attempt to make lucrative profits, nor are they being paid very well for their efforts.

But they are fulfilling a need that has long been felt in the provincial capital, and the full house at most of their performances is proof positive that they have something to offer which has attracted and held a consistently enthusiastic crowd. What is more, they are gaining valuable experience.

Their exuberant delivery of the fresh, spontaneous material evidenced in the impromptu changes made in the revue also demonstrates the talent of these young actors, whose polished performances make some professional groups of some renown look like amateurs.

The Quebec City Summer Stock Theatre. It's definitely not to be missed...

A long way between earth, moon

By LUBOR J. ZINK

OTTAWA — While American astronauts were performing near-miraculous feats in exploring new ground on the moon, the United States was losing old ground here on earth.

By old ground I mean the positions of military power and political influence from which the U.S. was, since the late 1940s, shielding itself and its allies and friends around the world against totalitarian penetration and encroachment.

The contrast between the U.S. achievements on the moon and setbacks on this planet is nothing short of startling. Here we have a country which mounts unbelievably sophisticated expeditions to the moon pushed at the same time from several of its vital outposts in the East-West conflict by materially, politically and morally inferior forces.

Not only are the Americans in full retreat from Southeast Asia where they sought to stem the tide of Communist expansion since the Korean war in the early 1950s, but they are being outmanoeuvred in the Mediterranean, in the Middle East, in Europe, and with the loss of the NATO base in Iceland, even in the Atlantic core of their closest and most important defence sphere.

What accounts for these unmistakable signs of weakness at a time of brilliant scientific and technological achievements?

Certainly not a lack of material resources and manpower.

A country which mounts a moon expedition of the Apollo 15 magnitude and sophistication while maintaining the highest standard of living ever achieved in human history cannot lack the material and human resources for holding the line against its totalitarian adversaries.

American setbacks in the East-West ideological and power conflict must therefore be ascribed to mistakes in policy and to unsteady leadership. Neither is a sudden or quite recent phenomenon.

With hindsight, the beginning of a steady deterioration of the U.S. position in world affairs can be traced to the Eisenhower years in the White House. It was the Eisenhower administration which, responding to domestic clamor for general relaxation after the exertions of World War II and in Korea, started abandoning the defence concept of strategic superiority and replacing it with the notion of strategic "adequacy" in what was visualized as an eventual "parity" position.

This decision in Washington, eagerly supported by America's principal allies, was in fact a return to the 19th-century "balance-of-power" doctrine which was discarded as inadequate for dealing with the totalitarians after the wartime and some of the early postwar experience.

The balance-of-power concept was discarded because it failed to prevent World War II and because attempts to revive it under the auspices of the United Nations failed to stop Soviet enslavement of half of Europe.

Since the West found it impossible in the late 1940s to muster and maintain a conventional military force superior to that of the Soviet bloc, it adopted, under President Truman's leadership, the doctrine of massive atomic retaliation which was based on assured strategic superiority of the United States.

While the Eisenhower administration at first followed the massive retaliation precept, it gradually lowered the ceiling of assured strategic superiority until in the late 1950s the massive retaliation doctrine (embodied in the economizing "bigger bang for the buck" policy) lost much of its credibility.

It was at this stage that the first signs of a decline in U.S. power and influence started appearing on the world scene. The most notable was de Gaulle's decision to build his own nuclear deterrent — a decision which was probably motivated as much by his dreams of France's leadership of a "third" force as by his fear that in some future crises the U.S. might not be willing to risk destruction of its cities in defence of Western Europe.

The Kennedy administration tried to restore confidence in the strategic deterrence doctrine, but tacitly admitted a decline in the U.S. position when it made that doctrine contingent not on assured strategic superiority but on "assured destruction" of any aggressor.

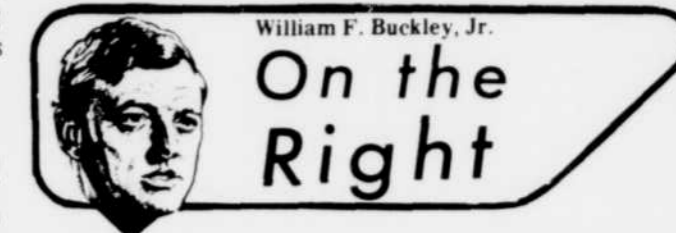

This stance, still in fact resting on overall strategic superiority, enabled Kennedy to force Khrushchev's retreat in the 1962 Cuban missile confrontation, but not without important political concessions to the Kremlin.

From the mid-1960s, faced with an all-out Soviet effort to match and surpass the U.S. strategic position both in missile and naval power, Washington embraced the "adequacy" (that is, the balance of power) doctrine as the basis of its foreign and defence policy.

I think it's safe to assume that the major reason for this was not a misreading of the lessons of history by the Johnson and Nixon Administrations, but skillful Communist exploitation of U.S. internal political and economic problems, as well as manipulation of their global hate-America campaign for crippling the U.S.-led collective security efforts.

The net result of these corrosive, demoralizing campaigns is what the totalitarian manuals of the black art of psychological warfare call "revolutionary disarmament" of their opponents. It must be particularly painful for Richard Nixon to preside over the cumulative effects of the debilitating process, for judging by his earlier writings and speeches he has a much clearer understanding of what is happening than any other Western politician.

William F. Buckley, Jr.

On the Right

Concerning Mr. Rogers' statement announcing the decision to support Red China's entry into the United Nations, a few observations:

1. The President is pledged to "stand by our friends," which means in this case Nationalist China (hereinafter, Taiwan), and Mr. Rogers did not disappoint us insofar as he announced that the United States would support a two-China policy, that is one seat (the major seat) — the one that takes with it a seat in the Security Council) for Red China, a second seat for Taiwan. Moreover, it was quickly explained that the United States would vote to consider the exclusion of Taiwan as an "important question," requiring a two-thirds majority of the General Assembly. Whether the Security Council would have the authority to veto, in this special set of circumstances, is not clear.

Now the Taiwanese have all along said that they will not sit in New York alongside the Red Chinese, and vice versa. We must assume that the Red Chinese have modified their position at least to the point of permitting a general discussion of the matter in the chancelleries of the world with a backdrop of silence, not counting its perfunctory refusal to engage in a discussion of the matter right now.

On the other hand, we do not know what Red China proposes to do at the end of the line. If the U.N. votes to give her the China seat on the Security Council, and the Taiwanese agree, however grudgingly, to stay in the U.N., will Red China go along? Or would she, at that point, turn her back on the U.N. as she has historically promised to do?

By the same token, Taiwan would need to reverse a previous pledge, should it decide to accept Red Chinese incorporation by the U.N. There will no doubt be great pressures put on Taiwan to be reasonable — or will there?

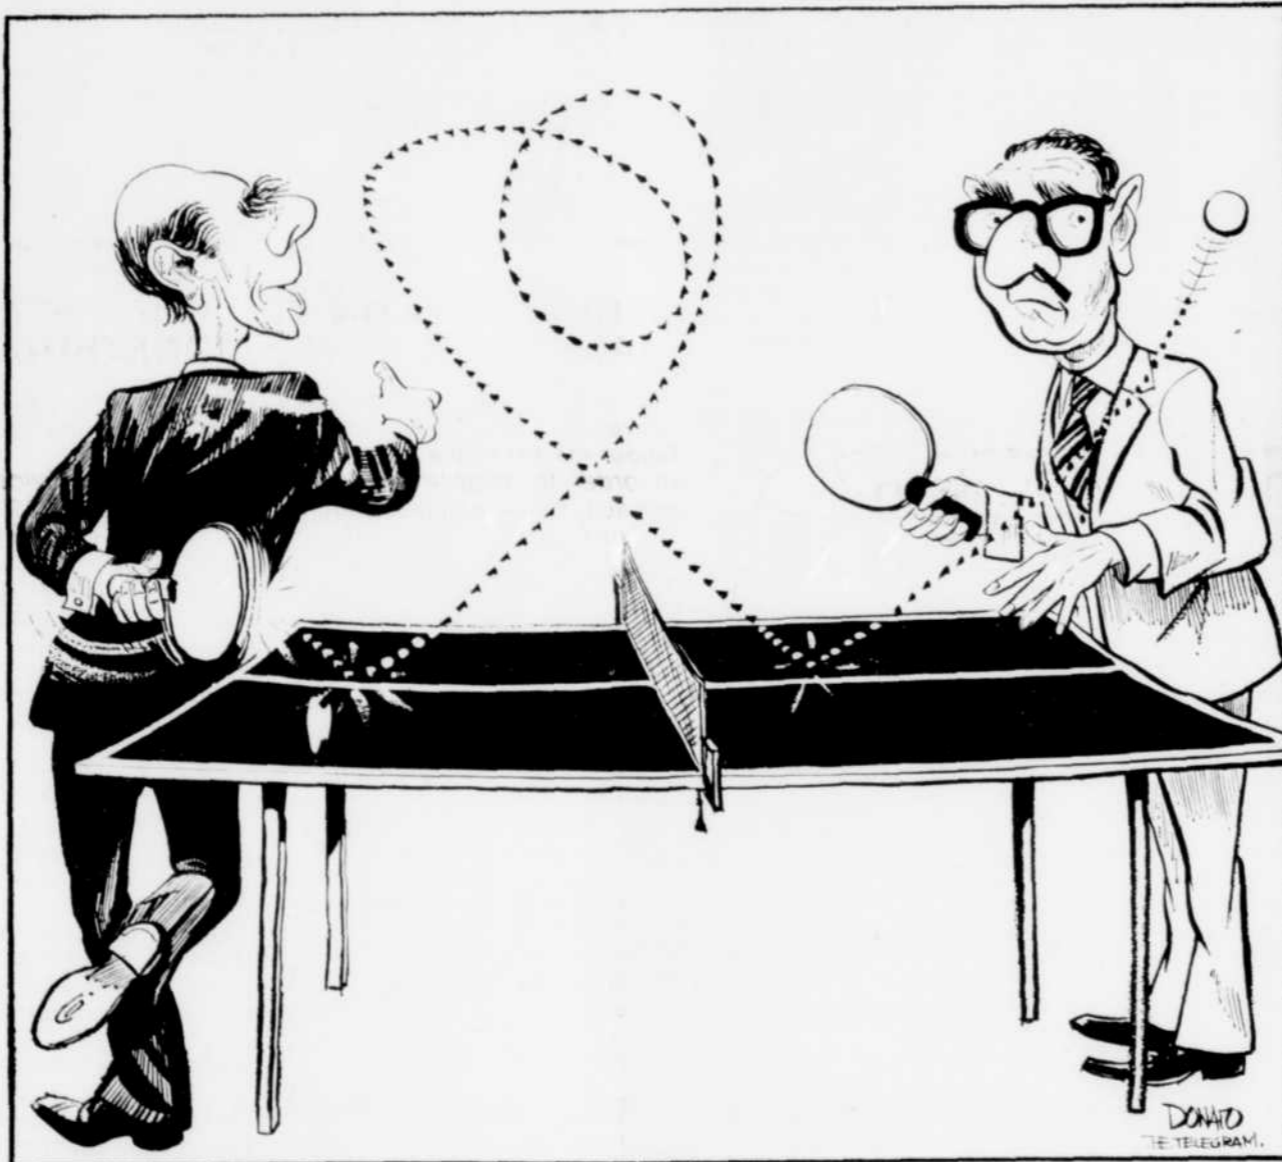

It is clear that the objective of the Nixon Administration, at this point, is detente with Red China. If we have reason to believe that Red China will be ultimately intransigent, then there is official reason to hope, however surreptitiously, that Taiwan will indeed walk out of the U.N., leaving moot the question of kicking her out. That way, the U.S. government would have put up a public fight for her old friend, and, lugubriously, lost because of the friend's obduracy. And Red China would coast in having won the day.

The thing to look for, obviously, is the kind of pressure being put on Taiwan. It won't be readily visible. But with the senators nowadays giving us blow by blow accounts of what even the CIA is doing in the area, we should get a fair idea, before long, what it is that the United States really desires Taiwan to do. If we really desire Taiwan out, that means that, at Peking, Chou En-lai did not give Henry Kissinger even one one-hundredth of a bloom.

2. Mr. Rogers' rhetoric is, really, truly unguarded. He said exactly what one would have expected him to say about the universality of the United Nations and other topics. He even said: "In October, 1969, President Nixon said with regard to Latin America that 'we must deal realistically with governments ... as they are.'"

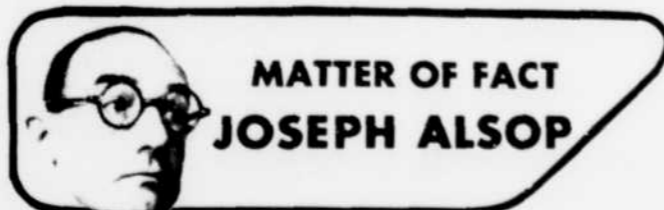

Okay, so why haven't we recognized Castro's Cuba? Those who say that Mr. Nixon's position on China has obviously matured into the current belief in universality of membership will have to cope with the extremely sharp rejoinder given by Mr. Nixon to a questioner who, during the President's appearance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors last spring, wondered why, post Ping Pong, we don't recognize Castro Cuba. But we saw then the very same Mr. Nixon whose lips once spoke the lines, "What was really at stake was that admitting Red China to the United Nations would be a mockery of the provisions of the charter which limits its membership to 'peace-loving nations.' And what was most disturbing was that it would give respectability to the Communist regime, which would immensely increase its power and prestige in Asia and probably irreparably weaken the non-Communist governments in that area."

Why didn't Secretary Rogers select a rhetoric which would acknowledge these positions, and explain the logical evolution from position A to position Z? After all, he is a very good lawyer, and must have defended difficult situations before. Or is it that he has always guarded against defending impossible theses? Preferring simply to ignore them?

"... and that... briefly... is the Chinese position on the U.N."

The bomb and I

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — On the day before they loosed the bomb on Hiroshima, this reporter came within an ace of deciding to join the Communist Party. Even today, the reminiscence is perhaps relevant.

In brief, the China theatre commander, Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, had been warned by the Joint Chiefs of Staff that a nuclear bomb would be dropped on Japan. The indicated drop-time was still about 48 hours ahead when Gen. Wedemeyer gave a farewell dinner for my old chief of those days, Gen. Claire L. Chennault. And Gen. Wedemeyer told us at dinner what lay just ahead.

The news meant, of course, that the war would soon be over; but it meant, too, that the ultimate weapons had been perfected. In consequence, although I do not want to overdramatize, the sole emotion that I can now remember feeling was undiluted horror.

The next day, Gen. Chennault's plane took us on to New Delhi. On the long air journey, there was ample time to think and all too much, alas, that needed thinking about. With the ultimate weapons unleashed upon the world, it seemed to me that what was then called "one world" was the only rational solution. But I had enough sense to see that "one world" would never be produced by such an instrument as the United Nations.

I also had enough sense to share very few of the squishy-minded delusions about Josef Stalin's Soviet Union that were so common at that time. Yet it appeared to me that the Communist Party was the only organization seeking to create "one world" in what may be called a practical manner.

So for hours in the air, I wondered whether I should become a Communist. Only as we reached New Delhi, I concluded that this particular alternative was basically unbearable.

The little anecdote of over a quarter century ago may seem ridiculous; yet it still had its point today. The point is, quite simply, that the rational alternatives still confronting every American are really hardly different from those I pondered over the Himalayas.

The alternatives, basically, are to submit to the Soviets, thereby creating "one world" rather rapidly; or to make the great efforts and sacrifices and investments that are needed to maintain a plural world with room in it for free societies. The choice is uniquely American for the reasons indicated in the last report in the space.

At bottom, there are two reasons. On the one hand, the Soviet Union can and, moreover, quite surely will create its own kind of "one world", if the Soviets ever manage to attain a nuclear monopoly. Given an effective nuclear monopoly, plus the will to make some hard examples, any nation today has world empire within reach.

On the other hand, the United States, as the only other serious nuclear power, is therefore all that stands today between the Kremlin and world empire. If you think about it at all, this clearly means that the unique American situation is also a most exposed situation.

Here, however, the main fact to note is rather different. It is the simple fact that Americans cannot possibly escape the responsibilities resulting from America's present unique situation. They are heavy and costly responsibilities. A great many people in this country now wish to ignore these responsibilities — to pretend that they are not really there — because of their unhappiness over Vietnam.

Yet this is an utterly untenable position unless, for instance, you are cold-bloodedly prepared to see Israel crushed out of existence by the surrounding Arabs, with active military support from the Soviets. In 1970, the record is clear that the Kremlin gave serious consideration to just this enterprise of crushing Israel. And if the Kremlin has drawn back today, American power is the ultimate reason.

The plain truth is that until there are other serious nuclear powers among the nations, American power alone can prevent the Soviets from repeating, at will, other operations like the one that crushed the Czechs' new birth of freedom. Nor is that the end of the story. The new isolationism is not merely cruelly cold-blooded; it is also ludicrously impractical, at least for those neo-isolationists who sincerely desire what used to be called "fortress America."

When the Soviets were seriously considering striking down Israel, for instance, their real aim was not Israel's destruction. Their aim was to get the whole Middle East in their trip, and thereby to turn the whole world balance of power almost upside down.

Yet we cannot maintain a true "fortress America" while permitting the Soviets to do what they choose with the world power balance. It is simply not a feasible thing to attempt.

TO EMPLOYEES AND EMPLOYERS IN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

Regulation on the quantitative control of manpower in the construction industry

REGULATION ON THE QUANTITATIVE CONTROL OF MANPOWER IN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY*

The objective of the Department of Labour and Manpower in adopting this new regulation is to arrive at a better equilibrium between employment opportunities and the number of workers on the labour market in the construction industry.

In order to achieve this end, the regulation provides that only the Construction Industry Commission will be entitled, starting on the 1st of June 1972, to admit new employees into this industry. It is the Commission which will issue, from the aforementioned date, the compulsory work permit giving access to the sites of construction operations.

Moreover, the Commission will maintain for each region and for all the regions defined in the Decree respecting the Construction Industry a permanent inventory of employers and employees subject to the decree.

From now to the 1st of June 1972, the new regulation provides for transitional arrangements which recognize the validity of the identification and professional qualification card issued by the Department from the 1st of January 1971 to the 31st of May 1972, which card takes the place of a work permit.

These transitional arrangements also stipulate THAT ANY PERSON WHO DOES NOT POSSESS AN IDENTIFICATION CARD ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT AND WHO INTENDS TO WORK IN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY, BETWEEN THIS DATE AND THE 31st OF MAY 1972, MUST OBTAIN THIS CARD BEFORE THE 1st OF OCTOBER 1971. This means that employees who possess an identification and competency card must preserve it carefully, until renewal and that all others, whether or not they possess a competence card, must procure for themselves BEFORE THE 1st OF OCTOBER 1971, the identification card which takes the place of a work permit.

The Minister of Labour and Manpower will be empowered to judge appeals against any refusal of the Commission to issue the compulsory work permit after the 1st of June 1972.

Moreover, the Order in Council provides for a study of methods permitting the rationalization of the annual income of employees and a study of a regulation relating to freedom of association. These studies will be made in cooperation with the union and management groups.

ADMISSION TO EMPLOYMENT : COMPULSORY WORK PERMIT

From the 1st of October 1971, any employee who wishes to work in the construction industry, will be obliged to possess a work permit. This work permit will be compulsory for work in the construction industry. An employee will be entitled to one work permit only.

Until the 31st of May 1972, the identification card issued by the Department from the 1st of January 1971 will take the place of the work permit. Employees who have not yet obtained this identification card must obtain it before the 1st of October 1971. From the 1st of June 1972, all employees will be obliged to obtain the work permit which the Construction Industry Commission will issue, and then the address of the employee indicated on his work permit will be the only one used for the purposes of the decree.

The Commission will deliver this permit to employees who:

1. Will have an identification card issued by the Department; and
2. Will have worked in the construction industry in Quebec during the preceding eighteen (18) months.

From the 1st of June 1972, the work permit will be renewable on the 1st of June of each year and will be delivered to employees who will have worked in the construction industry in Quebec during the preceding twelve (12) months.

The Commission will dispose of any particular case which will be submitted to it. It will also be entitled to issue a special or temporary work permit.

Any person who has been refused a work permit may, within fifteen (15) days, lodge an appeal with the Minister, who is empowered to modify the decision of the Construction Industry Commission.

STANDARDS GOVERNING THE ADMISSION OF NEW EMPLOYEES

Before the 1st of January 1972, the Construction Industry Commission will determine the standards for the admission of new employees into the industry. These standards will have to be approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council and be published in the Quebec Official Gazette.

In accordance with these standards, the Commission will periodically determine the number of new employees which can be admitted, by trade or occupation, into the construction industry.

The Department will furnish to the Commission, when requested, a list of the persons possessing by virtue of the Manpower Vocational Training and Qualification Act (Bill 49), a qualification certificate or an apprenticeship booklet in any of the construction trades.

PERMANENT INVENTORY OF EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES

The Construction Industry Commission has the obligation, moreover, to make a permanent inventory of the employers and employees subject to the decree respecting the construction industry.

An analysis of the information obtained by this inventory will indicate, by month and by year, for each region and for the whole of the eleven (11) regions mentioned in the Decree respecting the Construction Industry:

1. The number of employers, according to specialty, and the number of employees of each employer, according to trade or occupation;
2. For specific age groups of employees in each trade or occupation:
 - a) the number of employees bearing a work permit;
 - b) the average of regular and overtime hours worked;
 - c) the number of employees having worked in the construction industry.

The Commission will have to file with the Department of Labour and Manpower an annual report on this inventory. It will moreover have to file with the Department, monthly and annually, a report on the analysis of the information obtained by the inventory.

STUDY OF METHODS PERMITTING THE RATIONALIZATION OF THE ANNUAL INCOME OF EMPLOYEES

The Order in Council concerning the new regulation stipulates that the Department of Labour and Manpower will undertake as of the 1st of October 1971, together with the Construction Industry Social Benefits Committee, the study of methods which would permit the rationalization of the annual income of employees in the construction industry.

STUDY OF REGULATIONS WHICH WOULD INSURE THE APPLICATION OF THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY LABOUR RELATIONS ACT AS REGARDS UNION FREEDOM

The Order in Council stipulates also that the Department will undertake as of the same date, together with the Construction Industry Commission, a study of regulations which would insure the application of the provisions of the Construction Industry Labour Relations Act as regards freedom of association.

WHY HAS THE DEPARTMENT DECIDED TO ADOPT A NEW REGULATION ?

It is because of the numerous difficulties encountered in the application of regulation 4119 entitled "General Regulation respecting Job Security in the Construction Industry" that the Department has decided to replace that regulation by the REGULATION ON THE QUANTITATIVE CONTROL OF MANPOWER IN THE CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY.

These difficulties arose principally from:

- 1^o the systematic boycotting of the regulation by certain unions;
- 2^o the boycotting of the regulation by the great majority of employers;
- 3^o the incalculable number of complaints submitted by employees dissatisfied with the status which had been granted them;
- 4^o the impossibility of putting into effect the system foreseen for the hiring of employees (in accordance with the list of availabilities);
- 5^o the incompatibility between the hiring system and the provisions of the decree as regards transportation costs.

MINISTRY OF LABOUR AND MANPOWER

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED YOUNG

McVetty, Young wed

The marriage vows of Lois Catharine McVetty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McVetty of Sawyerville, and Alfred Douglas Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent F. Young of Sawyerville, were solemnized at the Sawyerville United Church on July 3 with the Rev. Frank Ball officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of summer flowers were placed at the altar and the guest pews were daintily decorated with pansies and ribbon bows on doilies. Roger Dougherty made a few timely remarks and then proposed a toast to the bride's lovely attendants.

The wedding cake, made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Eugene Drouin, and decorated by Mrs. Graydon Winslow, was served by the bride couple, assisted by Roger and Sandra.

The newly-weds left for a short honeymoon, the bride travelling in a blue lace hot-pants outfit, white accessories and a corsage of yellow daisies. They are now residing at 351 Elgin St., Oshawa Ont.

Prior to her marriage Mrs. Young was entertained by her co-workers at the Office of Bell - Kilgour Medical Supply Center in Don Mills, Ont.

She was pleasantly surprised on three occasions during the week she was in Sawyerville, the first being a miscellaneous shower given by her maid of honor, Sandra Mackay, at the home of Mrs. Lionel Hurd. This was attended by her school mates and young friends. The second was a linen shower given by her older friends at the home of Mrs. David Crosby with Mrs. Leslie Sutor as co-hostess. The following night, she was surprised to find her aunts, cousins, and grandmother gathered to honor her with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Ted Buck with Mrs. Gordon Bowker as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters were met at the door by their cousin, Mrs. Grant Taylor, who pinned a corsage of pink and white carnations on Mrs. Masters, and a boutonniere on Mr. Masters. They were escorted to two comfortable chairs decorated with pink and blue streamers and topped by a large silver wreath bearing the figures "60."

The hall was prettily decorated with pink and blue motifs and large 60th wedding anniversary greetings adorned one wall.

The guests' table was centred by a three-tier anniversary cake, made and decorated by a grandniece of Mrs. Masters, Mrs. Kenneth Fox, Hereford Road.

Quebec. The cake was flanked by two vases of white and yellow shasta mums.

The guest book and table were in the charge of Mrs. Florence Devaney, Huntingville. Mr. and Mrs. Masters received numerous cards, gifts and a sum of money from their many relatives and friends.

Bertrand Russell a pincher to the end

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder if the woman who shamelessly signed herself "Still Enjoying It" is aware that the vast majority of men and women who live to be 90 and over gave up sex at an early age. Ask Bertrand Russell. He will celebrate his 100th birthday next year.

In later life, Bert's far-out philosophy about sex has changed, along with his radical notions about politics. He has become more placid and less volatile these past several years. Those who know say the old boy has gotten not only older, but wiser.

—Unvarnished Facts in Tulsa
Dear Unvarnished: I regret being the bearer of bad news, but Bertrand Russell died on February 2, 1970. So much for your "unvarnished facts."

Bertrand Russell was four times wed. At 63 he married a secretary who was 25. His fourth marriage took place when he was 80. His bride was 52. Mr. Russell, incidentally, made it to 97 which speaks fairly well for sex among the Geritol set. And those who know say he was a pincher to the very end.

Dear Ann Landers: Is my problem one of jealousy or a take-over mother-in-law? You be the judge.

My husband, Harry, is 30 years old—the only son in a family of women: two aunts, two sisters, a grandmother, his mother, and now me.

Harry had surgery last week. Before the operation, his mother who is a registered nurse, made appointments with the anesthesiologist and the surgeon to discuss details. After the operation the surgeon came to the waiting room to announce that everything had gone well. He did not speak to me, however, he spoke to my mother-in-law. When I asked a question he treated me as if I were an intruder.

When the nurse came to say we could see Harry, my mother-in-law went into the recovery room. (Of course he didn't know we were there.) Within a few minutes, I was politely ushered out, with a firm hand on my elbow. His mother stayed for almost 10 minutes, talking with the nurse in hushed tones.

I've gone out of my way to include my mother-in-law in social activities. I've taken her side at various times when Harry felt she was too pushy. Her conduct these past several days has cut me to the quick. I feel that she has shoved me into the background in a most inconsiderate way. Has Harry's illness made me too touchy? Am I over reacting? What do you say?

—Infringed On

Dear In: Perhaps your mother-in-law "took over" because she is an R.N. and the hospital is her ballpark. I hope by the time you read this you will have overcome your resentment. You sound like a fine woman who has tried hard to be a good daughter-in-law. Don't let this incident spoil your relationship.

Many given chance to play in new minor loop

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — Many young and aspiring baseball players find themselves in the same dilemma each spring. They really want to play ball but are not experienced or talented enough to make any of the Sher-Lenn Little League squads. Up until this past spring there was nowhere else for them to go and play organized ball.

Now they can play in the Sherbrooke Minor Baseball League under the auspices of the Sherbrooke YM-YWCA and the Kinsmen.

The league's regular season is now quickly coming to a close and the playoffs begin next week.

The idea of setting up such a league was conceived in May. The two prime movers were, and still are, Mrs. Judy Budning and Mrs. Mary Lynn Ross.

More than 200 boys between the ages of nine and 12 registered for the league June 3 and 4 and 120 of them were chosen at random to play for the six teams.

Three criteria were used to choose the coaches. Mrs. Budning said Monday. Coaches had to be responsible, competent and knowledgeable about the sport.

The following are the names of the teams and their coaches:

EXPOS: Allan Gauthier, Helen Castonguay and Deb McLeod.

CUBS: Jim Coley and Dave Finlay.

REDS: Jacques Lapointe and Yves Robitaille.

CARDINALS: Nancy Hutchinson and Bob Morris.

BRaves: Sue Garard and June Hardy.

PIRATES: Brian Wagner, Bill McKenzie and Bob Arnold.

The Sherbrooke Minor Baseball League's season officially opened June 28 and games were played from then on every Monday through Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. at St. Alphonse Park on Vermont Street.

Mrs. Budning also revealed Monday weekly baseball clinics led by former Sherbrooke Alouette player Jim Ridley benefited the league greatly. The attitudes and competence of the players improved and a higher calibre of ball evolved.

Umpiring duties have been carried out by volunteers, including Sherbrooke Elementary School physical education teacher George Garard.

Score-keeping duties were handled by ball-players from the older Pony League.

Union climbs into top spot

SHERBROOKE (SA) — Drummondville Union edged Sherbrooke Canadiens 3-2 Saturday to climb into first place in the Inter-City Soccer League as the schedule moved into its second half.

Union leads Sherbrooke by a point in the league standings, with three other teams bunched right behind.

University of Quebec at Three Rivers Patriots whipped winless Lions of Three Rivers, the only team out of the running for top spot, 11-0 in Three Rivers in another game Saturday while Richmond Toyotas won while losing.

That situation came about when Albatross of Three Rivers, the host side, failed to secure a licensed referee to officiate the game, which was then played under protest from Richmond.

Albatross took the on-field action by a 2-0 score, but the Toyotas' protest was upheld and the game was awarded to Richmond by a 1-0 score.

In action this Saturday, Sherbrooke will be in Three Rivers to face the Lions, Albatross travels to Drummondville to take on Union, and the Toyotas will meet the Patriots in Three Rivers.

Bedford Fair—open to everyone

BEDFORD — The streets are deserted. Where has everyone gone? You mean you really don't know?

Well, everyone has gone to the fair. This coming Friday, Saturday and Sunday the Town of Bedford will be the site of one of the best agricultural fairs in the region when the 142nd annual Bedford Fair is held.

The fairgrounds lie in the middle of this little town situated about 65 miles southwest of Sherbrooke. One of the oldest fairs in the region, Bedford Fair is organized yearly by the Missisquoi County Agricultural Society.

Over 10,000 people turned up last year to witness the quality of the exhibits on display. This year even more are expected.

The Bedford Fair is an open fair, which means that anyone can enter an exhibit. Unlike most fairs, exhibitor requirements do not force the person wishing to exhibit to be a resident of the county. It may be for this reason that the quality of the exhibits entered in the Bedford Fair is so good.

There are many different classes in which anyone wishing to exhibit may enter. Cattle classes include Holsteins, Jerseys, Guernseys, Shorthorn, Angus, Ayrshires, Herefords and Canadian. Other livestock can be entered in the horse (halter classes of light horse breeds and halter classes of heavy horse breeds) or the poultry categories.

Judging will also be held in different classes of farm produce, flowers, handicrafts and ladies' departments.

The Bedford Fair is a must for all animal lovers, especially those who enjoy horses. In addition to the normal livestock on exhibit, there will be a horse show and a pony show held during the fair's three-day stand.

For certain the Bedford Fair will attract some of the best mounts in the region at its horse show. Now a yearly tradition, the horse show is proclaimed by all those that attend as one of the best in the area.

A treat is in store at the Bedford Fair for all the animal lovers in the Eastern Townships.

The fair grounds will become an exciting beehive of activity when the gates are thrown open this Friday and the grounds are taken over by a swarm of happy people all looking for an enjoyable outing.

Whether your aim is to see the cattle, watch the parades, listen to the bands, enjoy a frightening, breathtaking voyage on one of the many rides which will be on the midway, cock your arm and try to win a stuffed poodle, or just to browse through the exhibits chatting with your friends, you can find it all at the Bedford Fair.

As an added attraction at this year's fair one of the most beautiful women in Canada will be an invited guest. Even if you don't get to see anything else,

FAIR SITE AWAITS INFLUX OF ENTHUSIASTIC VISITORS THIS WEEKEND

you must see Miss Dominion of Canada.

There is something for everyone, young or old at this year's Bedford Fair. If family enjoyment is the name of the game, then this year's exhibition has already won.

See you all at the Bedford Fair.

Public response will rate directors

BEDFORD — When Bedford Fair throws open its gates this coming Friday, August 13, it is practically assured of an overwhelming success. If the fair turns out to be as successful as everyone knows it will be, it will only be because of the ungratifying, thankless work of the fair's directors who have worked so hard.

Ever since the fair closed its gates last year after having attracted over 10,000 spectators and fair-goers, this year's team of directors have been working to be able to hold a fair just as excellent as if not better than last year's.

Plenty of work is involved in setting up an organization which is capable of holding a successful fair. Many major as well as minor tasks have to be carried out.

People have to prepare a brochure, judges have to be recruited, grounds have to be put back in shape and prepared for the onslaught of people who will attend, exhibitors have to be attracted, financing has to be arranged and publicity has to be handled. These are only a few of the menial tasks that have to be completed before an exhibition can be held.

An old fairgoer once remarked that "a fair is only as good as the people who organized it and the exhibits that are on display." If his remark is warranted, then Bedford Fair will go down as "one of the best in years."

This year's fair will be a success because the directors have given all they have to offer. The Record talked with one of the directors last week. She was quite frantic and very nervous. It has to be understood that the fruits of her efforts will be born by the smiles and the awes of the people that attend this year's fair.

She need not be nervous. The directors have done a great job and their efforts will be rewarded this coming August 13-15. Their efforts should be commended.

The directors and executive of this year's exhibition are:

THE EXECUTIVE

President — Dr. Erle Clark
Vice-President — Sherman Young
Superintendent — Edward Bellingham
Secretary-Treasurer — Wilfred Hadlock
Assistant Secretary — Campbell
Treasurer — Verna Hadlock

THE DIRECTORS

Dr. Erle Clark, Kent Robinson, Walter Kuhne, Alex Greig, Lambert Dohman, George Gasser, Laurier Campbell, Sherman Young, Weldon Hadlock, Mrs. C. Piche, Clement Edoin, Mrs. E. Bellingham, Mrs. E. Kouri, Norman Simpson, Fernand Fontaine, Morris Montagne, Brent Chamberlin, Ronald Hayes, Arnold Gilman, Richard Craighead, H.A. Sheltus, Gaston Remillard, Rene Portron, Calvin Harvey, Jean Marie Gagnon, Willie Steiner, Normand Bernier, Rene Morris, Jean Gagnon, Romeo Guerin.

Even as the fair closes its gates next Sunday evening, there will be a hint of sadness as the directors see their hard work spent on three days of enjoyment for all those who attend the Bedford Fair. But still they will feel gratified by seeing that all that work was not wasted for nothing. Bedford Fair promises to be excellent entertainment and education for the whole family. Why don't you attend?

Success to the directors of the

Sher-Lenn 1971 provincial champs

St. Jerome stopped on five-hitter

SHERBROOKE — Destination 71: Williamsport is looking better and better all the time.

The Sher-Lenn All-Stars crept a little closer to that objective last night as they whipped St. Jerome 7-0 behind the brilliant five-hit pitching of Gaetan Doucet to capture the provincial Little League title for the third time since 1966.

Before the largest crowd ever to watch a Little League contest here, the 7200 fans had more than their share to cheer about.

Doucet racked up an inning after an inning of scoreless ball (it was his second straight shut out) while his teammates provided him with a potent offensive attack bolstered with a no-nonsense defensive manoeuvre.

Leadoff man Alain Watkins again proved a vital cog in the Sher-Lenn machine as he connected for a single and double as well as pulling off an unassisted double play in the fifth inning.

Doucet, a slinging south paw who pitches during the regular season with the White Sox, scattered five hits, and fanned 12 St. Jerome hitters with a dazzling fastball that was especially brutal to portside swingers. The 12-year old was tough with men on base as attested by the fact that the opposition left 10 runners stranded on the basepaths.

Versatile performer Rejean Cabana also starred at second base but the big man was Gaetan Doucet who also helped his own cause by driving in two runs.

Sher-Lenn now meets St. John, New Brunswick in a two-out-of-three series for the Eastern Canada championship. First game is slated for Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Amedee Roy Stadium.

A single by Benoit Richer started off the game. St. Onge, the next batter, got on with a base on balls but Doucet settled down and struckout the next three men to face him.

In the bottom of the first, Sher-Lenn on hits from Alain Watkins, Rejean Cabana and Richard Bergeron took a 2-0 lead.

Doucet sent the side down in order in the top of the second while Sher-Lenn in their half of the same inning also went down hitless.

St. Jerome got their second hit in the top of the third when Claude St. Onge connected but that was all. The bottom of the third, the Sher-Lenn's big inning proved the rally for the locals as they came up with five runs on four hits.

Watkins with his second hit of the game, Rejean Cabana also with his second, Gaetan Doucet and Bernard Boutin delivered the key hits to drive in the runs.

In the remaining three innings, Doucet held the St. Jerome squad to three hits, while leaving five men stranded in the last three frames. In the fourth, Sher-Lenn got a hit from Richard Bergeron, his second, while Doucet connected safely in the fifth.

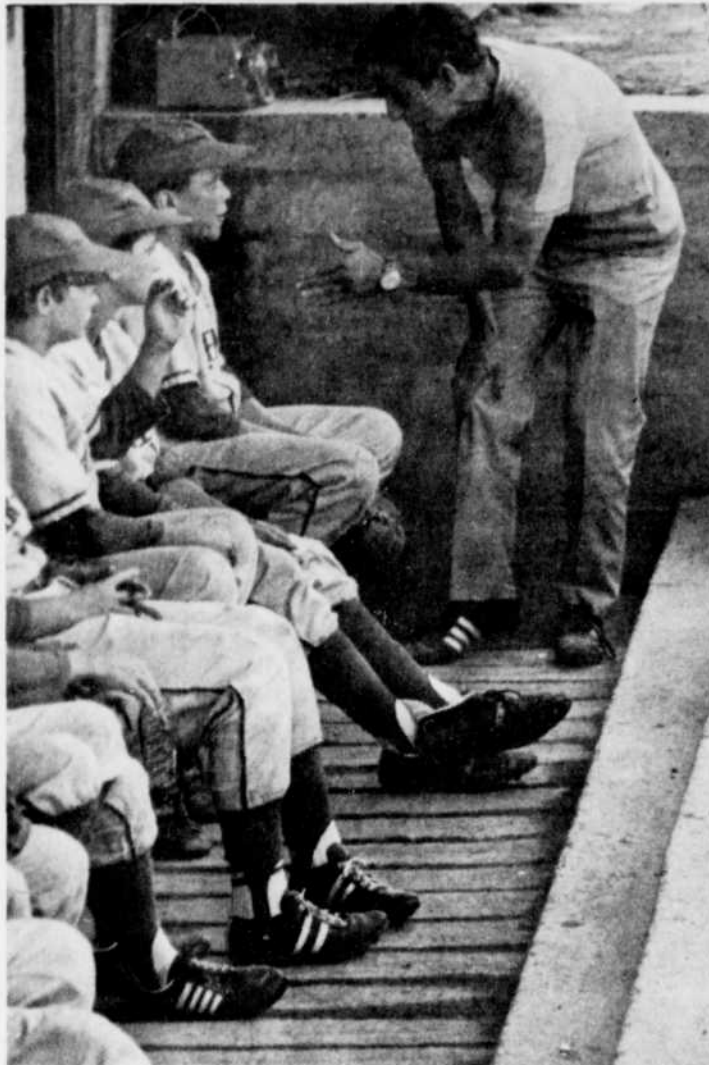

At the end of the contest, the Sher-Lenn players were carried around the field shoulder high by the joyous fans. It was a team effort all the way.

St. Jerome took their defeat like good sportsmen and all remarked on the good time they had while in Sherbrooke.

Dodgers closing gap on Giants in August drive

Los Angeles Dodgers are moving up fast on the fading San Francisco Giants, who have held a comfortable lead in the West Division of the National League for most of the season.

Monday night, the Dodgers sliced San Francisco's lead to 4½ games—the smallest margin since July 7—with a 6-5 victory over St. Louis Cardinals and Bob Gibson.

In the only other major league game Monday Boston Red Sox outslugged Detroit Tigers 12-11 in an afternoon contest in the American League.

The Dodgers, who have trimmed the Giants lead since falling nine games back Aug. 1, blasted Cardinal pitching for 15 hits, including four each by Wes Parker and Willie Davis.

"It's the best we've hit in a long time," said manager Walt Alston, whose Dodgers trail the Giants by only three games in the loss column. San Francisco has lost seven of its last eight games.

The Dodgers pounded Gibson for 14 hits in seven innings in beating him for the third straight time this season.

Parker doubled following a Cardinal error in the second inning, before Duke Sims belted a two-run double after the Cards tied it on Dal Maxvill's two-run single in the bottom of the second, the Dodgers again took a two-run lead in the third on singles by Bill Buckner, Davis, Willie Crawford and Parker.

Davis singled home a run in the fourth, and Parker doubled in the seventh and scored the final Los Angeles run on a single by Al Downing. The Cards added a run in the third, and Ted Sizemore singled in two more runs in the eighth before Jim Brewer came in and preserved Downing's 14th victory.

Richie Allen was a late scratch from the Dodger lineup for the second time this season. Allen, the club leader in runs batted in, overslept and didn't get to the ballpark until the start of the game.

Rico Petrocelli, making his first pinch-hitting appearance of the season after being given a rest, capped the wild Boston-Detroit slugfest with a run-scoring single in the ninth inning.

OBITUARIES

of Danville

The death occurred at his home, 400 Principale St. Danville on Friday, June 25th, 1971, of Frank Chliszczyk, beloved husband of May Boyer. Although Mr. Chliszczyk had been on sick leave from Canadian Johns - Manville, where he had been employed for many years, he was to have resumed his usual work shortly, and it was most unexpected that sudden death should claim him.

Although of a retiring nature, Mr. Chliszczyk was well-known and liked in the community. A Requiem Mass was held in St. Anne's Church on Tuesday afternoon, June 29, which was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, and six children - Ronald, Catherine, Mrs. Claude Lafontaine, Lynette (Mrs. Bill Beavers), Teddy, Walter and Teresa.

MRS. ARTHUR BROWN of Bedford

The death took place on July 25 at the Brome - Missisquoi - Perkins Hospital, Cowansville, of a highly respected resident of Bedford, Mrs. Arthur Brown. Mrs. Brown had been in frail health during the past months, prior to going to the B.M.P. Hospital, she had been a patient for some weeks in Hospital Lagace.

Mrs. Brown was born Elizabeth Ann Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison of Guthrie on January 8, 1890. Her marriage took place to the late Arthur Brown on September 30, 1908. The greater portion of her long life was spent in Bedford and vicinity, where her husband was engaged in farming.

Following the death of her husband on April 6, 1959, Mrs. Brown sold her farm in the Township of Frelighsburg and came to Bedford to live at 66 Main Street.

The funeral, which was largely attended by relatives and friends who wished to show a last mark of respect to Mrs. Brown was held on July 27, at two o'clock in the afternoon at the Dion Funeral Home. A faithful member of the Anglican Church for many years, during her residence in Bedford, Mrs. Brown had been a member of St. James Church.

The rector, the Rev. Wallace Sparling, officiated at the funeral service.

The bearers were Hugh Getty, G. Riel, Eugene Jeanson, Yves Casavant. Interment was in the family lot in the Stanbridge Ridge cemetery, where her husband is buried.

Mrs. Brown is survived by ten children, a daughter Mrs. Carleton Beyer (Grace) of Highgate, Springs, Vt., died in February, 1959, Mrs. Warren Thompson (Edith), Mrs. Ruby Caldwell, Bedford, Mrs. Frank Upton (Lena) of Andover, Mass., Mrs. Alden Corey (Lila) of Stanbridge East, Mrs. Delbert Boomhower (Hilda) of Winchester, N.H., Mrs. Alfred Gendreau (Ella) of Stanbridge East, Mrs. Wayne Ploof (Ora) of Franklin, Vt., George Brown, of London, England, Robert Brown of Aztec, New Mexico, Herbert Brown of Dorion, Que.
