CHINESE GARRISON ESCAPES TRAP AT TOUNGOO

United Nations Burma Position More Critical

Defenders of Northern Flank of Allied Lines Reported Withdrawing from Toungoo After Bitterest Battle of the Burma War—British Headquarters Report Strong Japanese Forces Are Holding Shwedaung Near Prome.

(By The Canadian Press)
Hard-fighting Chinese defenders of Burma were reported to have escaped a Japanese trap at Toungoo today, falling back to the North after the fiercest battle of the whole Burma campaign so far.

Toungoo, 155 airline miles from Rangoon, was the Eastern anchor of the Allied line in Central Burma.

In the Philippines, a War Department bulletin reported Japanese troops heavily attacked the right center of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's line of Bataan Peninsula last night and captured some of the advanced positions. The communiqué said the invaders were halted, however, in hand-to-hand combat before they could reach the main American-Philippine defenses.

Or the Burma front, Lt. Gen. Joseph Stilwell, American commander of Chinese forces in that theatre, personally led a column to relieve Chinese troops at Toungoo.

Front-line dispatches said remnants of the Toungoo garrison, originally estimated at 10,000 Chinese against 18,000 Japanese, slashed their way through enemy lines, crossed the Sittoung river under point-blank fire and saturated in the woody hills to make contact with a Chinese relief army.

Five thousand Japanese were reported killed in the five-day siege of the town. Chinese losses were not disclosed, but many were holding Shwedaung, ten miles South of Prome, on the road to the West Burma oil fields, after a fierce battle with British and Indian battalions.

A communiqué further conceded that the Japanese had gained complete control of the air and that British patrols along the Irrawaddy river had been forced to withdraw to protect their right flank against enemy infiltration.

Australian and United States airmen, battering at Japan's invasion fringe in the islands above Australia, struck again today at Salamaua, New Guinea, scoring hits on a Japanese airbase.

Australian observers reflected a mounting optimism that the Japanese could be held off in New Guinea as a result of increasing Allied superiority in the air, heavy blows to enemy shipping and the arrival of the three-month rainy season.

On the diplomatic front, rejection of Britain's offer of full Dominion status to India was forecast in New

RUSSIA STILL HAS HUGE ARMY FACING JAPAN

London, April 1.—A responsible foreign source said today that Russia, while mobilizing the bulk of its military manpower against the Germans, had restored its Siberian army to nearly 1,000,000 men who are fairly well equipped.

The Russians "are watching the Japanese carefully," he said. The Japanese, he reported, have suggested to Russia that, as a show of good will toward Japan, the Soviet Far Eastern troops should be withdrawn to a line of demarcation agreed upon by both countries and that certain airports should be abandoned. He expressed doubt the Russians would agree.

This informant said Japan had outlined to the Germans the following disposition of Japan's troops, numbering seventy-six divisions: Fourteen divisions in Manchoukuo; six in Java; three in the New Guinea area; six in the rest of the Netherlands East Indies; five in the Philippines; three on Japanese islands; five in Formosa and eighteen in strategic reserve.

NEW MANITOBA HOUSE CLOSES FIRST SESSION

Winnipeg, April 1.—Premier John Bracken and his Coalition Government today had a legislative programme approved with Royal Assent given more than one hundred bills adopted at the first session of the 21st Legislature of Manitoba.

The session, which opened December 9, was prolonged late last night by Lieut.-Gov. R. F. McWilliams. It was the first session for the Coalition administration.

Major legislation dealt with the Dominion-Provincial Tax Transfer Agreement, war policy, and problems of agriculture.

War legislation adopted included a resolution asking the Dominion Government for an "all-out" war effort, and it supported conscription of manpower.

The Legislature also favored a "Yes" vote on the Dominion manpower plebiscite April 27. By resolution, it unanimously declared the vital interests of Canada in the war will be advanced by a "strong affirmative" vote.

Waders had been forced on the defensive in that area. He pointed out it would not be wise to accept the present lull in offensive action as any indication of a collapse of Japanese striking power.

Mr. Curtin's communique indicated the greatest destruction in the two-day raiding was inflicted at Kuparuk, where the Japanese have a base five hundred miles North-west of Darwin.

Nazi Spy Suspects Seized By G-Men

German submarines lurking off the Atlantic Coast have obtained information on U. S. ship sailings, cargoes, destinations, G-men have been striving to block the leaks. Sweeping down at dawn on the German Seaman's Institute, Hoboken, N.J., they rounded up seventy-one suspects. G-men took twenty-six men into custody and seized a short-wave radio set and a quantity of Nazi propaganda. Photo shows a policeman standing guard over the line-up of suspects.

RUSSIAN BLACK SEA FLEET IMPORTANT IN PLANS FOR VICTORY

London, April 1.—Russian submarines in the Black Sea were reported by a "very powerful" contribution toward a final Russian victory, he said while the fleet remained in being there is little chance of a successful German attempt to land forces on the East or Southeast shores of the Black Sea.

UNITED STATES FACING ACUTE LABOR FAMINE

Nation-wide Mobilization Scheme Needed to Ensure Workers for Defence Industries.

Washington, April 1.—The United States will face a labor shortage within a few months, says Harold D. Smith, Director of the Budget Bureau.

His statement was taken as further evidence that the United States soon will adopt a general policy of manpower mobilization along the same general lines as the Canadian Government announced a few days ago.

Smith based his prediction of a labor shortage on the fact that a vast army is being recruited quickly at the same time that billions of dollars are being spent by the Government in war orders. The Government is spending $3,000,000,000 a month for war purposes and when the new fiscal year opens July 1, the rate will be increased to $5,000,000,000 for the year or nearly $5,000,000,000 a month.

"As more and more men go into military service," Smith stated, "an industry strives toward that tremendous $5,000,000,000 war production goal, women and students will be needed in our factories and on our farms in numbers we even now do not appreciate."

"It is hard to believe, in the light of our recent history that within a few months a great labor shortage will develop, not that it is the situation ahead of the nation."

The regulations announced a few days ago by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, under which Canada's available manpower is being recruited for industrial as well as military purposes, are being studied closely in Washington in anticipation of the need of a similar mobilization in the United States.

Yesterday's announcement that men who recently registered under selective service regulations are soon to fill out questionnaires indicating their special training for civilian work is in line with this study.

Changes To Motor Vehicles Act Free Auto Owners From Paying License Fees On Idle Machines

Quebec, April 1.—Quebec Provincial Treasurer J. Arthur Mathewson will present his budget speech to the Legislative Assembly today, a budget that is expected to show a surplus of $300,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1943.

Mr. Mathewson said last week that "for the second time in many years, the Government will present a balanced budget on an over-all basis." He said the Province would have a surplus of about $1,500,000 for the year ending yesterday.

Yesterday, the Lower House gave second reading to a bill providing a speed limit for motor vehicles in the Province of forty miles an hour and the issuance of only one licence plate instead of two to automobile and truck owners.

(There is no speed limit on an open highway in Quebec at present; the only limit being "consistent with safety.") Only one licence plate is being issued to owners of motor vehicles for 1942.)

Prior to the second reading the House passed an amendment to the bill, introduced by Mr. Mathewson, that would free those putting their cars away for the duration of the war from buying licence plates. However, the amendment provides that the tires be removed from the wheels if the cars are put away or else the licence fee would be collected.

The bill provides that the one licence plate be affixed to the rear of the vehicle and that "no other marking or bearing numerals shall be fixed to the exterior of the motor vehicle except such as may be required under any act or any municipal by-law."

During debate on a bill allowing the Government to increase the maximum number of members of the Tourist Traffic Council from twenty to thirty, Premier Adélard Godbout said that "Montreal, at any price, should be made the metropolis of Canada. Quebec, on the other

TWO MINISTERS REMAIN SILENT OVER DEFENCES

Ralston and Power Continue Inspection Tour of Defence Bases in Canadian Pacific Coastal Areas.

Victoria, April 1.—From an air base several hundred miles North of here on the Northern end of Vancouver Island, Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power today are scheduled to resume their tour of Canada's Pacific defences.

The two Cabinet Ministers arrived at the unnamed air base late yesterday in two Royal Canadian Air Force amphibians.

Today the Ministers, accompanied by high ranking army and air force officers, are to visit Nanaimo and later come here before proceeding to Vancouver, where they will complete their Pacific inspection.

Both ministers remained non-committal on their flight over British Columbia's long, inlet-indented coastline with its air bases and coast defence works. But they saw at first hand the Dominion's defences against attack from the Pacific.

BROCKVILLE OPENS WAR ON HOARDERS

Brockville, Ont., April 1.—An announcement issued from the Eastern Ontario Regional Office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board today that "war on the hoarder has been declared" by the Regional Office.

The announcement stressed that the Board "possesses broad powers to deal with any instance of excessive purchasing of commodities" and added "this applies as much to articles which remain unutilized as to those which now are so treated."

The Board does not intend to deal leniently with any additional instances of which it learns," the Regional Office said.

BRITAIN PLANS TO STRENGTHEN ARCTIC CONVOY

London, April 1.—An authoritative source reported today that Britain had increased the strength of escorts for Russia-bound convoys to meet greater German attempts to stop supply ships reaching North Russian ports.

"With the lengthening days we should expect more effective German attacks by surface ships, U-boats and from the air," he declared, commenting on the German attack on a Russian-bound convoy earlier this week.

"The Germans quite realize what an important contribution our supplies to Russia are and naturally they are taking steps as far as they can to prevent them from reaching Murmansk or Archangel."

This informant added it was known that no heavy German units were sighted by the convoy and its escort, although full reports of the Nazi attack have not yet been received from the senior British naval officer in North Russia.

He said the Germans probably feared their big ships would be intercepted by the covering British Home Fleet which, from bases in Iceland or at Scapa Flow, would be in strategic positions for a flank attack on any heavy warships moving up the Norwegian Coast.

DENIES CHARGE OF INADEQUATE RELIEF SYSTEM

Toronto, April 1.—The Throne Speech debate will close in the Ontario Legislature today paying the way for the budget, to be tabled by Premier Mitchell Hepburn, in his capacity as Provincial Treasurer, tomorrow.

James M. Cooper, of Sudbury, will speak for the Liberals, while two Toronto members, William Duckworth, Dovecourt, and Goldwin C. Elgie, Woodbine, will be heard for the Conservatives.

The debate was resumed yesterday for the first time since it adjourned last February when the House recessed for six weeks. It was sidetracked in interest however by discussion on Toronto's relief problems.

Welfare Minister Farquhar Oliver initiated the discussion on the Germans Lose Heavily In Series Of Counter-Attacks At Kalinin

Moscow, April 1.—German counter-attacks which cost the Nazis 2,400 men in a desperate attempt to regain lost ground were announced today by the Russians, who said one crossroads village changed hands several times in a battle into which both sides hurled medium and heavy tanks, artillery and planes.

The Germans finally were forced back there, Tass reported, and the Soviet Information Bureau declared that altogether the Red Army won back three towns in the latest tests of strength.

In the fight for the crossroads town the Germans lost 250 men, Tass said. 1,800 German dead were left on another battlefield in the central sector after a four-day battle.

On the Kalinin front, Northwest of Moscow, one unit successfully repelled a German counter-attack and inflicted losses on the Germans in a pursuit. The report said more than 350 dead Germans remained on the battlefield.

Heavy losses have been inflicted on the Germans in stiff fighting over a central front sector, a Pravda dispatch said.

Dozens of Germans were killed in street fighting, through which Red Army men captured a strongly fortified village, twenty-four sub-machine guns and machine guns, three

A Southeast Coast English Town — The Royal Air Force resumed its attacks on Nazi bases in Northern France today for the first time since Sunday, after being forced into inaction by bad weather over the continent.

A formation of bombers under fighter escort was seen returning from the direction of Calais this afternoon.

Chungking, China — With Chinese troops fiercely battling Japanese forces in the Toungoo area, the Chungking press appealed to the Allies today to send air reinforcements to Burma immediately to support Chiang Kai-Shek's armies.

The newspapers said lack of adequate plane strength had caused numerous Allied reverses since the Pacific War began.

Cairo — British army headquarters reported in its briefest communique today that there was "nothing to report" on the Libyan battle situation.

Australian Defenders Maintain Steady Attacks On Jap Targets

Melbourne, Australia, April 1.—(P)—Australian and United States fliers, smashing virtually non-stop at Japan's invasion fringe in the islands above Australia, hammered again today at Salamaua, New Guinea.

A communique said the airbase was the raiders' target and that hits were scored on the runway.

This continuation of the aerial effort by Australia's defenders followed two days of blows in which Prime Minister John Curtin announced, a total of eighteen enemy aircraft were put out of action without loss to the United Nations' air forces.

There was growing optimism among Australian observers that the Japanese now can be held off in New Guinea although they were cautious not to over-emphasize the enemy's recent withdrawal from the inundated Markham valley.

TINY VESSELS IMPORTANT IN COAST DEFENCE

PT Boats, Now Operating Off Panama Canal Base, Prove Highly Efficient as Offensive Naval Weapon.

At Sea off Panama, April 1.—(AP)—One of the mightiest forces serving in the joint air, sea and land defence of the Panama Canal is the fleet of United States patrol torpedo boats—PT boats—now operating in the waters off Panama.

The mosquito fleet of the Panama Sea frontier now is on daily battle manoeuvres, and correspondents have just been permitted to see the performance of these mites in tropical waters.

The PT boats have speed, drive, swing, power and deception. They zig-zag, deceive, then drive in hard on their targets.

One target for a simulated attack in the day's manoeuvres was a coastwise freighter.

The vessels of the mosquito fleet converged on the target ship, and it was easy to picture how these little runners maintain the attacking edge in any combat. They can fend more cumbersome enemies into position for an attack, and then speed in—the tiniest sort of target—to lose their torpedoes.

The fleet is commanded by Lt. Cdr. Earl E. Caldwell, of Washington, D.C., only thirty-eight years old, but a veteran of service aboard aircraft carrier, battleship, heavy cruiser and destroyers, and, most important, one of the pioneers of PT boat service.

PARTY OF JAPANESE ON WAY TO ONTARIO HIGHWAY CAMP

Winnipeg, April 1.—(AP)—Bound for Ontario, a party of Japanese from the Pacific Coast went through Winnipeg last night. They will be placed in camps at Schreiber, fifteen miles East of Port Arthur.

Camps have been prepared for their arrival and it is expected the men, most of them in their twenties, will be placed at road work.

TWO MICHIGAN FARMERS DEAD IN GRUDGE WAR

Former Hired Man Believed Responsible for Shooting of Two Elderly Farmers Near Pontiac.

Pontiac, Mich., April 1.—(AP)—Two elderly farmers, neighbors near the town of Oxford, North of here, were killed by a ruthless killer in their homes last night—one while he was alone and the other in the company of his aged mother-in-law.

The victims, each shot through the heart, were Cassius E. Barber, 71, and Romina C. Potter, 75, who lived two doors apart on Coach Road two miles West of Oxford. Barber also was shot twice more in the chest.

Sheriff Spencer C. Howarth of Spencer County, investigating the killing of Barber when he was notified that Potter also had been slain, said today a young man who once worked as a hired hand for Barber is being sought. A grudge may have motivated the shootings, he said.

This was the story, as the sheriff told it.

About 8 p.m. Barber opened his door to a visitor and was shot dead. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, 91, was helpless. But she believed she recognized the killer.

The killer went down the road, entered Potter's home, and shot him. Without a telephone and too dazed to go to neighbors, Mrs. Murphy waited for the return of her daughter who notified authorities.

British Proposals

proposal submitted to India by Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's envoy, envisaged separate governments, if the Indians chose, to satisfy the country's 240,000,000 majority Hindus and 77,000,000 minority Moslems.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Ramrao Jayakar, Indian Liberal leaders, issued a joint statement urging that the Government be given a share in India's defence in order to make Sir Stafford's mission a success.

"Indian opinion," the statement said, "cannot look upon any transfer of power as real unless the Government of India is so constituted as to give an effective share of the country in the management of its defence."

The Sikhs' All-Party Committee—reporting a faction which has supplied thousands of bearded fighting men for British Empire armies—advised Sir Stafford that his proposals were unacceptable because of the threat to the Sikh position in the Punjab.

"Instead of maintaining and strengthening the integrity of India," the committee said, "special provision has been made for separation of the Provinces and the establishment of Pakistan."

RECORD WHEAT SUPPLY LIKELY FOR EXPORTERS

Despite Two Successive Short Crops and Poor 1942 Outlook, Stocks at End of Crop Year May Be Record.

Washington, April 1.—(AP)—The United States Agriculture Department said today the world may have a larger supply of wheat this year than ever before despite two successive short war crops and prospects that 1942 production may be smaller.

This is because the surplus existing in the world's four leading exporting nations—Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina—is the largest on record.

The Department said present prospects indicated a total 1942 crop for most of the world of about 3,950,000,000 bushels, or slightly less than was harvested last year. This figure compares with the record crop of 4,636,000,000 produced in 1938. Russia and China are excluded from the world figures because inadequate information has been available.

The world—again exclusive of Russia and China—is expected to have a carryover of about 1,590,000,000 bushels of old wheat when the 1942 crop is harvested. Of this amount, only about 175,000,000 bushels are expected to be held by countries other than Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina.

"The large stocks in the four exporting countries and small stocks in other countries imply a serious bread situation in Continental Europe," the Department said.

United Nations

Delhi, Indian leaders—Hindu and Moslem—object primarily to the plan presented by Sir Stafford Cripps because of the provision that Indian wartime defence be left in British hands, a New Delhi dispatch said. The decision of the All-India Congress Party, powerful Nationalist movement, was expected to be issued today.

Australian and American fliers were officially credited with destroying or damaging almost a score of Japanese planes in addition to striking at military buildings, airbases and shipping yesterday and the day before.

Prime Minister John Curtin, reporting no losses among United Nations squadrons, said the two-day toll was three enemy aircraft destroyed, ten probably destroyed and five others, including four flying boats, damaged.

These losses were said to have been inflicted in Royal Australian Air Force and Allied raids on Kupang, capital of Netherlands Timor, and Lae, New Guinea, and during Japanese counterattacks on Darwin, Australia, and Port Moresby, Allied-held capital of New Guinea.

Prime Minister Curtin, reporting no losses among United Nations squadrons, said the two-day toll was three enemy aircraft destroyed, ten probably destroyed and five others, including four flying boats, damaged.

Gen. MacArthur, however, was quoted as saying he was impressed by Australian officers he had met and was certain he and Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of ground troops in Australia, would work together "like twin brothers."

PRESIDENT OF BANK AT DERBY LINE SUCCUMBS

D. W. Davis Removed at Age of Eighty-Four—Had Been Resident of Derby Line for More Than Fifty Years.

Derby Line, April 1.—This community was deeply shocked to learn of the death at his home at about nine o'clock this morning of D. W. Davis, one of the best known and most prominent residents of the Border Villages, in his eighty-fifth year. He had been ill since Sunday, when he suffered what was believed an acute attack of indigestion.

President of the Derby Line Bank, Mr. Davis had been connected with the bank for more than fifty years, and had been President since 1914. The deceased was also Assistant Judge of the Orleans County Court at Newport, and had been helping at the Bar of the Court right up until last week-end.

Mr. Davis was actively connected with many organizations in this district, being a Trustee and for many years Treasurer of Stantead College, a member of the International Chamber of Commerce and an active member of Centenary United Church at Stantead, and was very well liked by his legion of friends, old and young alike.

A native of Coaticook, the deceased had been a resident of Derby Line for well over fifty years. He was married nine years ago by his wife, Mrs. Harding, the former Anne Kidder.

Surviving Mr. Davis are an uncle, Carlos Davis, of Derby Line, and a daughter, Mrs. John T. Hackett, of Montreal. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

R.A.F. HAS REACHED NUMERICAL PARITY WITH GERMANY

London, April 1.—(AP)—The Royal Air Force, born of the union of the old Royal Flying Corps and the Naval Air Service celebrated its twenty-fourth birthday today with the country proudly proclaiming it had achieved numerical parity with the German air force.

Since start of the war the R.A.F. with Dominion and Allied squadrons and anti-aircraft guns, has accounted for nearly 9,000 Axis planes, British figures show.

field guns and a large quantity of other war equipment."

SEVASTOPOL VETERANS COUNTER-ATTACK
London, April 1.—(AP)—Red Army men of Sevastopol, veterans of a 150-day siege, are reported counter-attacking in the Crimea preliminary to vast spring engagements which London observers believe will involve about 4,500,000 Germans and 7,000,000 Russians.

Moreover, there were Axis accounts of new Russian thrusts against Kharkov, Donets Basin industrial centre.

Bucharest advices relayed by the Vichy radio said Soviet armored forces, following artillery preparation lasting until Monday midnight, had launched an offensive at the German defences of Kharkov from three sides, North, East and South.

Tass declared the Germans had sacrificed 45,000 men, including "units reserved for their much-advertised spring offensive," in vain efforts to capture Sevastopol, Soviet Black Sea naval base, and that action to break their ring is underway.

Qualified informants in London said Hitler is moving 100 fresh divisions into Russia to bolster about 180 struggling in snow and mud in an effort to hold key salients against Russian pressure generated throughout the winter.

Renewed German efforts to take over all the Crimea and crack Russian defence lines before the oil-rich Caucasus on the 100-mile Southern mainland front between Orel and Taganrog were forecast.

Listening post advices suggested to one responsible foreign source that the Germans are preparing for a series of "Southern" attacks on the railroads and bases they need if they are ever to shake hands with the Japanese in Persia or the Indian Ocean.

"Hitler has been forced to use prematurely forty of the 140 divisions in the Warsaw area especially for the spring attack," he said.

Exhaustion of the Finns "and their subjection to so many seditious influences" were declared to have forced Germany to take over all Karelian Isthmus operations against Russia.

Russian losses, however, were pictured as "horrible and unique in history" in a dispatch broadcast from Berlin.

Baron von Wangenheim, Frankfurter Zeitung correspondent, asserted that now and then in the winter campaign German troops "had to blow up heaps of bodies lying in a field to free the field for our arms."

Stockholm dispatches reported 13,000 German troop trains had moved Eastward in the last three months. Closely following reported pledges of fresh Balkan manpower for Hitler's war effort, Russians said prisoners captured in the Crimea included "many conscripts of non-German origin" who complained of their treatment in the German army.

It said these were taken in a rout of the 22nd Tank Division, which the Russian news agency identified as a unit hastily transferred from France after Soviet forces had destroyed the 18th Tank Division. It asserted that more than fifty tanks of the 22nd Division were knocked out of action in a day's fighting.

The Soviet Information Bureau reported "our ships in the Barents Sea sank one U-boat—no one enemy transport."

craft probably were destroyed on the ground at Kupang, that four flying boats were damaged by machine-gun fire, and that near misses were noted on a ship in the harbor.

An earlier communique said that Allied planes scored direct hits on hangars and runways Monday at Lae, capital of New Guinea, 420 miles Northeast of Cape York, Australia's Northernmost port.

Mr. Curtin's summary said it now is known that the buildings at Lae received at least five direct hits with heavy bombs and two aircraft on the ground probably were destroyed. Fires were started among the buildings.

Defensively, Allied planes fought against attacks of Darwin and Port Moresby, New Guinea base, 350 miles East of Cape York. Darwin was raided twice yesterday. In one raid, Mr. Curtin reported, one escorting zero fighter was shot down and one bomber probably was damaged. In the second raid, he said, neither casualties nor damage were reported.

Reporting on the action at Port Moresby yesterday, Mr. Curtin said a Japanese bomber was shot off and the plane crashed a few miles from the town.

During an attack by Japanese zero fighters on an Allied bomber near Port Moresby Monday, he said, one zero fighter probably was shot down. It last was seen trailing black smoke from the motor.

Mr. Forde announced that Brig. Clive Sted had been promoted to major general and appointed engineer in chief of the Australian army.

It was stated authoritatively that Maj.-Gen. John Northcott, commander of an armored division, had been appointed to an "important position."

Other changes announced included the appointment of Maj.-Gen. H. R. Robertson, one of the leaders of the Libyan campaign, to succeed Gen. Northcott.

Under the army's regrouping scheme, older Australian militia officers will give way in the field to younger men with a modern outlook and physically and temperamentally fitted to modern warfare. Their training will be under actual war conditions.

CLAIMS BASED ON ACCIDENTS ARE DISMISSED

Mr. Justice White Rejects Suits Fyled by John Tilton, Sr., of Stanstead Plain, and Omer Beaulieu, of Rock Island.

Claims entered following two highway accidents were dismissed in judgments rendered by Mr. Justice Charles D. White in Superior Court yesterday afternoon. John A. Tilton, Sr., of Stanstead Plain, lost his case against Miron and Frere, Ltd., of Montreal, and an action entered against the Provincial Transport Company by Omer Beaulieu, of Rock Forest, was rejected.

The Tilton case involved $300 which the plaintiff sought as damages as a result of a collision near Stanstead of a car driven by John Tilton, Jr., and a truck and trailer which the plaintiff alleged was the property of the defendants. It was pointed out by the plaintiff that the truck, with a 30-foot trailer, suddenly came out of a side road on the Stanstead-Sherbrooke highway and blocked the main thoroughfare, leaving the driver of the car no other alternative than to strike the truck.

The defendants replied that Tilton was driving too fast and had no control over the car, taking no precaution to avoid the accident.

The evidence showed, Mr. Justice White said, that if Tilton had taken the proper precautions he could have seen the truck in plenty of time, and also that the truck is not the property of Miron and Frere, Ltd., but of one Gerard Miron, there being no lien de droit between the plaintiff and the defendants.

Beaulieu sought $225 in compensation for the loss of his four-year-old horse, which was struck near Rock Forest by the Sherbrooke-Montreal Provincial Transport Company bus driven by one Boisland. The company contended that the driver, when he saw the horse in the field near the road, had slowed down and sounded his horn. Suddenly the horse sprang out onto the road in front of the bus, and it was too late to stop or swerve the vehicle.

Mr. Justice White placed emphasis on the evidence of the only independent witness, which was that the mishap could not have been avoided.

Toronto situation by criticising remarks attributed to Lewis Duncan, member of the City's Board of Control.

Mr. Oliver said that a report in yesterday's Globe and Mail quoted the Controller as claiming that persons on relief in Toronto had died of malnutrition because of the inadequacy of the present food schedule. The Welfare Minister termed the allegation "untrue," and declared he would insist that Controller Duncan give evidence to support the charge.

Action For Damages In Connection With Death Through Electrocutation Of Textile Employee Is Dismissed

An action of $5,187 damages resulting from the death through electrocution of Ovide Arcouette at the local Dominion Textile Company, Ltd., on October 18, 1939, entered by Amable Arcouette, father of the deceased, against the Company, was dismissed in the most important of six judgments handed down yesterday in Superior Court by Mr. Justice Charles D. White.

Arcouette, it will be remembered, was killed when he came in contact with a 10,000 volt wire while at work painting the exterior of the Dominion Textile mill at about two o'clock in the afternoon of the day in question.

Pointing out in his declaration that the deceased was working on a swing attached by cable to the roof, Arcouette alleged that the defendant Company could have prevented the accident if they had properly isolated their electric wires. He maintained that his son had provided his means of support.

CROSS-DEMAND IS UPHELD IN ACCIDENT CASE

Mr. Justice Charles D. White Orders Local Motorist to Pay $211.88 Damages as Aftermath to Mishap.

A rather unusual legal argument was untangled in Superior Court yesterday by Mr. Justice Charles D. White when he dismissed an action for damages instituted by Dr. Richard Gaudet, of Sherbrooke, against William Spackman, also of this city, and upheld Spackman's cross-demand in the same action.

The court proceedings developed from a collision between the cars of the two parties opposite 520 King Street. In his declaration Dr. Gaudet stated that as he was proceeding East on King Street he saw the defendant suddenly make a left turn to go into his driveway, without giving any warning, and that he was unable to avoid smashing into the other vehicle.

In defence, Spackman declared that he had stopped his car completely and had then started across the street, after seeing no machines approaching. Then he noticed the doctor's car coming at a great rate of speed and stopped immediately. The other vehicle couldn't stop, and smashed into him, he claimed.

Mr. Justice White pointed out that the accident was not the fault of the wire, but was caused by the fact that Arcouette had touched it, which he had been warned not to do. In any case, Arcouette was employed by Hector Langlois on the paint job, and the Company had nothing to do with the manner in which Langlois' men did their work.

The evidence showed, Mr. Justice White ruled, that the deceased was told about the wires, and Langlois swore that Arcouette had no right to go down that way, and did not have to touch the wires. The wires were properly installed, the proof indicated, and no negligence was proved by the plaintiff.

Steps Are Being Taken To Ensure Insecurity Will Not Face Return To Civil Life Of Discharged Men

"Just as we will have, must have, victory in the air, on the sea, under the sea and on land, we must have victory for good-will, compassion, understanding and the restoration of those who won these victories, over every condition that will ensue in the war and post-war years," declared Major Hugh Bell, of Montreal, an official of the Department of Veterans' Welfare, in an address here last night.

An amendment to the Pension Act provides for the granting of a pension to any man who serves out of Canada and who incurs a disability during his service, it was pointed out, and preference is now provided in the Civil Service for pensioners and all those who served out of Canada.

Major Bell said that since 1939 committees of parliamentarians and department officers have been engaged upon this preparation of legislation to meet a much wider field than hitherto dreamed of, and that in this there is a job for everyone who has a part in stay-at-home Canada.

"We know what they in Britain know, and Australia now comprehends, that the war is one of the historic upsurges of latent barbarism which 'have-not' races periodically stage against possessors, and that in the end it is a fight to hold our place, or surrender to pillage, conquest and slavery," Major Bell declared.

Major Bell was introduced by Rotarian Col. F. H. Bradley, of the local Rehabilitation Committee, and thanked by Rotarian W. E. Dunlop, Mayor A. C. Ross, guest-of-honour spoke briefly, and Rotarian George W. Murphy welcomed the guests, who were introduced by Rotarian Forest Keene, President Albert Munster was in the chair.

ACTIVE MONTH REVIEWED BY Y.W.C.A. GROUP

"Y" Rendezvous Entertained 1,249 Soldiers and Friends During March, War Service Committee Told.

Miss Amy Wells presided at the monthly meeting of the War Service Committee of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday, when several matters of importance were discussed. The Secretary reported that it had been a busy month, with the Rendezvous still proving a popular spot for the men in uniform and their friends, the total attendance during the month being 1,249. Dances at Lord Sherbrooke Camp had been held each Friday evening, the party of young ladies leaving the Mackinnon Memorial by private bus and returning the same way.

Invitations for hospitality in homes totalled only nineteen, but one week-end party of sailors from the Signal School at St. Hyacinthe, had been entertained and had seemed to enjoy the hospitality given them. Twenty patients in hospital were visited during the month, magazines, cigarettes and other necessities being distributed.

Mr. O. R. Webster had charge of the parties at the Hostess House at Windsor Mills Flying School on Friday evenings and reported satisfactory attendance. Some of the Committee had also been there each Sunday, when Ft.-Lt. Rev. F. C. Dossie held a short service, and later coffee and cookies were served.

Mr. Miller reported that there had not been many requests for rooms but that she had secured accommodation that was satisfactory on two occasions. The Sergeant's Mess at the Lord Sherbrooke Camp was furnished with a rug, through the kindness of the Sherbrooke High School; additional books were added to the Hostess House library and magazines, games and playing cards were collected. The "Y" had provided hostesses at a dance held in the Armory on March 27, in aid of the departure of No. 9 Company, V.G.

Miss Wells reported that the canvassing for salvage was continuing and that her committee was anxious to stress the importance of this campaign to the householders and have the support of everyone.

East Angus Bill With Regard To Pulp Company Is Rejected

Municipality Sought Permission to Fix Valuation of Property of Brompton Pulp and Paper Company at Not More Than $1,100,000—Government to Be More Severe Regarding Tax Exemptions.

A bill that would have allowed the municipality of East Angus to fix for another three years the valuation of the property of the Brompton Pulp and Paper Company at not more than $1,100,000 was rejected yesterday by the Private Bills Committee of the Legislative Assembly. Hon. Oscar Drouin, Provincial Minister of Municipal Affairs, Trade and Commerce, declared that the Government had decided to "become more and more severe in the granting of tax commutations to companies" in the Province.

"Too many tax exemptions are being asked," Mr. Drouin said. "It is formidable the number of requests we have received this session. The case before us is the case of any company in the Province of Quebec. No special reason is given for the commutation of taxes which the municipality already has agreed to."

"We will only grant exemptions for war purposes or for other very good reasons. I don't say that we won't grant any commutation, because we may have to grant some in certain cases."

The rejected bill would have fixed the paper company's valuation for municipal and school tax purposes. In 1939, the municipality asked that the valuation be fixed at $1,100,000 for ten years. The legislature at the time granted the request but for a three year period only.

The Committee adopted a bill that would allow the School Commission and the Municipality of Shawinigan Falls to tax only machinery in operation in the Aluminum Company of Canada's plant during the war and ten years after it.

The bill would enact that during the war and ten years following it, the new factory, to be built by the Aluminum Company at Shawinigan Falls for the needs of national defence, be valued and assessed with respect only to the machinery and its accessories in operation, in addition to the valuation and assessment of the land, buildings and other constructions built before 1943.

Should the factory suspend operations, for reasons beyond the company's control, the municipality and school commissions would tax only the buildings and property.

The bill also would grant a seventy-five per cent real estate tax commutation for ten years to the Canadian Resins and Chemicals Limited at Shawinigan.

SPRING OFFENSIVE MATERIALIZING

There is a lot of talk about Hitler's spring attack along the Russo-German front, as though it were an event which would arrive on schedule like the noon express, but actually the Fuehrer and Stalin are already ironing out their differences in a string of battles whose outcome will vitally influence the trend of the much heralded offensive.

Beginning at the North, the Nazis are hanging on by their teeth in the Leningrad sector, where the Reds have hammered them back. Some seven months ago Hitler boasted he had in a sack this great industrial city.

Southward lies Staraya Russa, where the Bolsheviks have what is left of a Nazi army surrounded and in a sorry state. Below and opposite Moscow you will see Rzhev and Vyazma, which lie unhappily within a deep salient and are threatened with encirclement. Next we have Orel, Kursk and Kharkov—the latter two-thirds surrounded by the Reds—strong points in the line protecting the Nazis in the Ukraine. Below this trio a great Russian salient reaches out towards Dnepropetrovsk and then swings back to Stalino.

And finally there is Taganrog, German key position on the Sea of Azov along the route to the golden Caucasus. It is into the Caucasus that Mother Hubbard Hitler would go in search of oil for her badly lowered crucet, and of grain for her emptying cupboard.

So there you have some ten positions along the attenuated line, each the crater of a flaming volcano into which the Nazis are feeding men and material with frightful profligacy. If the Bolsheviks get those spring-boards they will have imposed a mighty handicap on Hitler for his offensive, which may easily be the turning point of the war.

But whether the Muscovites capture all these citadels or not—and this should be emphasized—they are making the Germans pay a huge price in lives and equipment. The Muscovites also are losing many men, but their reservoir of manpower is unlimited, and their loss of material has been nothing like as heavy as that of the Nazis.

There was a time early in the war when men's lives meant little to the German high command, and when the Nazis were flush with war machines, but that day of plenty is past. They have reached a period when every man and every machine and every ration of food is of much consequence. That's why 1942 is likely to be the crucial year.

Winter still grips the battle-line along the Northern two-thirds of it, between Kiev and Leningrad, but in the Southern sector the snow and frost are giving way to some of the most terrible mud that Europe knows. This will last for some weeks, and will develop farther North as the frost goes.

Probably the soldier would prefer the mud to the sub-zero weather, but the gumbo presents heart-breaking obstacles. They used to get mud of this variety in Flanders during the First Great War, and sometimes it was so bad that it took stretcher-bearers half an hour to struggle 100 yards with a wounded man. Movement of guns and other equipment is a herculean task.

With the fighting in such critical stage on the Russian front, Lord Beaverbrook, who is in the United States to speed aid to the Allies, is urging that supplies be rushed to this "most critical battle-front in the history of civilization." He maintains that the hopes of humanity are centered there.

CONDITIONS GOOD IN WEST INDIES

Economic conditions in the West Indies were better in 1941 than for many years and on the basis of volume of trade resulted in the best year ever experienced by Canadian shippers, G. A. Newman, Canadian Trade Commissioner in the Port of Spain reports.

Government-controlled prices for sugar and cotton, two of the main agricultural products of these colonies, were considerably higher than in pre-war years, and in the industrial colonies of Trinidad and British Guiana the wartime demand for oil and bauxite maintained full employment in these industries, Mr. Newman said.

The general purchasing power of the colored population was greatly increased in the colonies of Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad and British Guiana through their employment in construction of United States bases.

"Canada's share of imports, consisting mainly of essential materials, continued to advance, purchases by Trinidad increasing eighty-two per cent above the 1940 figure, which was ninety-one per cent above that for 1939," Mr. Newman said. "Whether this strong upward movement can be maintained in 1942 will depend upon the supply of Canadian goods for export and the available shipping space."

CANADIAN WHEAT SURPLUS DROPS

A steady decline in the visible supply of Canadian wheat, now standing at 467,100,000 bushels against 483,600,000 bushels last year, despite the reduced rate of exports in recent weeks, is reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which says that the decline is more of a reflection of reduced deliveries from farms than anything else, since export clearances of wheat during the month ending March 20 were almost four million bushels smaller than in the same four weeks in 1941.

A reflection of the smaller 1941 crops, Western farmers' deliveries in the same period were almost four million bushels below the corresponding four weeks of 1941. Western growers now have marketed 172,000,000 bushels of wheat, and with nineteen weeks of the crop year to run it is expected little more than 23,000,000 bushels additional wheat would come in.

FARMYARD ECONOMY

Oil for the barnyard pump and stitches in old canvas bags are called part of the pattern of victory by the Agriculture Department in its call to farmers for increased economy and efficiency to assist the war effort.

Fred W. Present, Feeds Administrator, in stressing the necessity of preserving bags, said that supplies of jute and other materials used in making bags had been reduced by the war in the Pacific and it was incumbent on farmers to see that available bags were made to go as far as possible.

Mr. Present said farmers who had more bags than they required should make every effort to see they are made available to others. As a ceiling price has been established on second-hand bag prices, there was no benefit in holding them, he said.

To preserve supplies on hand, farmers were advised to see bags were removed from damp locations and kept dry. Repairs to those in bad condition and holed should be undertaken.

"Millions of bags are in use throughout Canada and are essential in the handling of feed, fertilizer, grain, millfeeds and a host of other farm products," Mr. Present said.

Department officials said the farm equipment of Canada should be safeguarded as never before because of existing shortages in metals and other materials and the prospect of further shortages in months to come.

An old farm proverb, "There's no time lost a-whetnin'" was being used in departmental publicity directed to farmers.

"In many lines of farm equipment farmers are being urged to look on what they have at present as likely to be the last they will have for a considerable time and see to it every precaution is taken to make it last as long as possible," an official said.

Thirty Years Ago FROM THE RECORD FILES

Operations are reported to be slowly resuming today in the majority of the British coal mines, tied up for the past month by a nation-wide strike. The miners are estimated to have lost over $60,000,000 in wages while it is expected that several months will elapse before normal operations can be instituted in the majority of other industries closed for lack of fuel. Offsetting this, the bulk of the miners in the United States walked out.

TIME TO STOP IT

Le Soleil, Quebec.

At a time when a union of hearts and spirits is prepared to defend the country which is directly threatened, false voices are to be heard sounding a discordant note, and the fact is clearly established that clandestine organizations are practising moral sabotage in a manner approved by the enemy. The use being made of democratic liberties is becoming dangerous and being abused when, instead of sensibly discussing the most delicate problems the leaders are insulted, treated like election thieves. Attacks against the freedom of speech and assembly are provoked. The men who wield authority will be wrong to show themselves too patient with the agitators who operate more and more openly against the will of a nation which is conscious of its patriotic obligations. They may be considered more daring than bold enough to rely on public disapproval means should be taken to bring them to reason. The effect of exemplary punishment has been observable upon occasions. The unwillingness of liberal leaders to have recourse to severity is understandable. However, unless public opinion itself does not undertake to give the guilty ones a lesson, there is no other alternative, to prevent arbitrary action or anarchy.

What one reads of this man is enough to make one feel that one is living in the Middle Ages at a time when no person's life was safe if he dared to have thoughts of his own, or to manifest a little independence. The life of no man in Germany is safe today, and none will be until the rope that Heydrich ties around his victims' necks is tied around his own, and he is launched into eternity by means of it, and Hitler and the rest of his bloody crew with him. Germany is not the land that we have known in the past—the land of the scholar, the poet, the philosopher, of music and of romance. It is now governed by a beast of prey, who has surrounded himself with other beasts of prey as evil as himself. Of these Reinhard Heydrich is probably the worst. He is too evil to be allowed to live, and the earth will continue to have a bad smell as long as he survives.

HELPING THE HOUSEWIFE

Toronto Star

There are government departments, from which housewives' groups can ask for help on this project. One is the home economics division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, which has booklets with helpful hints on quality of materials, economic housekeeping, budgeting, etc. Another is the nutrition council in the Federal Department of Health, which is equipped to give advice concerning food values, menus and other matters pertaining to health and nutrition. Supplies of such literature should be on hand at women's gatherings. If it could be conveniently arranged, some of the retail stores might prove logical distribution points for such publications.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

PERSONAL EQUATION CONSIDERED IN BID

The late Merwin D. (Jimmie) Maier was regarded a great rubber bridge player. A tournament champion seldom gains this reputation. Jimmie's effectiveness was due to his patience and skill in dealing with average or mediocre players.

Today's hand is an example. Jimmie sat South. After his partner had overcalled the opening bid, Jimmie bid his long, topless heart suit. This suit was strong enough for a rebid at three, after North had rebid two spades.

Now when North bid three spades, Jimmie saw there might be game in the hand, but probably not in spades. At this declaration, the South hand would be largely worthless. But at hearts South's hand would take five or six tricks.

Jimmie saw hearts would be better than spades because of the diamond, but probably not in spades. At this declaration, the South hand would be largely worthless. But at hearts South's hand would take five or six tricks.

Having thus inferred the game in hearts, which can be made except against an extraordinary defence, Jimmie passed three spades! He felt the chance was too strong that North would bid four spades over four hearts. Such allowance for personal equation saved Jimmie thousands of points in rubber bridge play.

Lovely Lily Pool Made With a Tub

How a lovely lily pool adds to your garden! And it takes no more room—is no more trouble—than the average flower bed. Just sink a container in the earth, put dirt in the bottom and add water. Your container will be a wooden tub. One that's only two feet in diameter will have room enough for a lovely pygmy lily and several graceful aquatic plants. You can get pygmies of all kinds these days—hardy and tropical—in white and lovely colors. One plant will give dozens of blooms. What to plant around the pool, to give it a natural, woodland look? Forget-me-not, marsh-marigold, make a charming frame for the stone edge. Clumps of regal fern and marsh iris give height and variety—reflect themselves beautifully in the water. How to make your pool? Our 32-page booklet gives easy directions for container, natural and cement pools. Tells how to grow water lilies, suggests what to plant around pool and also has directions for making rock gardens. Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Make Rock Gardens and Lily Pools" to Daily Record, Home Service, Sherbrooke, Quebec. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

WOMEN EXPERTS ON COAST GUNS

Cape Town, April 1. — 37 — South African women on active service in the strictly combative sense are proving themselves as fine soldiers as their brothers and husbands and fathers engaged in battle of Libya.

They are the women specialists attached to the Coast Artillery batteries in the Cape Peninsula. Their handling of the delicate and complicated instruments on which depend the efficiency of the big guns guarding the coast has elicited the highest praise from South Africa's best artillerymen.

So efficient, indeed, have these women proved themselves that the authorities have decided to enlist a further 300 to 400 women for training in this work, which is of a secret and highly important nature. In view of the Japanese threat in the Indian Ocean, to which Prime Minister Smuts referred in Parliament this work has now taken on a new significance.

Recent practice shoots from a Simon's Town battery provided these women specialists with a real test of skill. The test was the more severe because the practice seawards took place in a howling South-easter. It was the first time that the experiment associated with the big guns had been tried anywhere in the British Commonwealth, and it proved an outstanding success.

PACIFIC COAST WAGES WAR ON TIRE SHORTAGE

California Railroad Committee and Chambers of Commerce Far Ahead of Government Action.

San Francisco, April 1. — State and local authorities have been far ahead of Washington in attempting to do something about the critical transportation problem growing out of the tire shortage.

Three weeks before the issuance of President Roosevelt's letter to Governors asking them to fix a forty-mile speed limit, the California Railroad Commission, the California Chambers of Commerce and the California Automobile Association were studying their fields and making recommendations. A letter and charts for posting, sent out by Justice F. Cramer, President of the Railroad Commission, showed clearly how bad loading or speed affected tires, and the battle for rubber conservation was on.

It's a vital battle on the Pacific Coast. It has nothing to do with bicycles, but it has a lot to do with oil, cattle, foodstuffs, cement, hay, liquor and almost everything entering into general living and production.

Cost-wise shipping was wiped out during the past years by the long series of strikes. It wouldn't be safe now, but even so, there are no boats, since they were sold to England. The railway along the Coast is a single-track line. It can only be used in one direction at a time. Under normal conditions the commercial truck hauling business in California amounts to $80,000,000 a year. This does not include the transporting done by privately-owned truck lines such as those operated by oil companies and others. The passenger bus business runs over $30,000,000. Ninety-four per cent of the oil consumed in California is transported by truck.

There is a possibility of revival of the old river traffic between San Francisco and Sacramento, and everywhere searchers and surveys are being made looking toward the resurrection of abandoned lines, and all proposed abandonment of spur-lines has been stopped.

Airplane plants and other war production organizations through the Coast area are carefully surveying the tire situation among all their employees. At one plant if the car owner cannot show that he is carrying one or two others with him as his part in the "double-up" programme, he is not permitted to put his car in the company parking lot.

From the standpoint of the storing and conserving of food products, California has another knotty problem on its hands. The warehouses of the state are built for "bag storage," rather than bulk. That is the warehouse were built to receive the grains and vegetables after they had been placed in bags.

The warehouses which are built with huge open bins for bulk storage elsewhere are lacking here. And now, with the supply of burlap virtually exhausted there will be no bags. Many of the farms are equipped with machinery for direct sowing of grain as it is harvested, so the bag problem goes right back to the soil.

You know you are bang-slap in a war area when you are in San Francisco. Old familiar civilian spots and activities, such as lunching or having dinner at a water-front restaurant, become strangely intermingled with soldiers on guard and barricades and spread before your eyes are many things that aren't

PRAIRIE JUDGE WORKS HARD IN DEFENCE POST

Associate Deputy Minister of National War Services Has Varied Political Career in Saskatchewan.

This is one of a Canadian Press series on prominent Canadians directing the civilian war effort across the Dominion.

By JAMES MCCOOK (Canadian Press Staff Writer) Ottawa, April 1.—Many a Westerner has reached man's estate and decided the land of opportunity was in Eastern Canada. But Tommy Davis never did, and never will, think that way. Today he occupies an important war post in Ottawa, but he says frankly he is heading West again as soon as his services are no longer required here.

The "Tommy" is a symbol of the man throughout the length and breadth of his native Saskatchewan. He is known by the family name he bore as a boy. The Prairie folk saw no reason to change the informal title when he became, successively, Mayor of Prince Albert, a Member of the Provincial Legislature, Attorney-General, or, as he is now, Mr. Justice T. C. Davis, a Member of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal.

When T. C. Davis left the political arena a few years ago, he thought he was through with administration and could devote his time to the study and cool-headed deliberation which is part of the business of a judge. Behind him, in the political arena, he left many broken lances for he was a worthy knight who never shirked combat. If Davis were bruised by verbal darts it was a certainty his opponent did not escape unscathed, and the press gallery in the Saskatchewan legislature filled fast when it was known he was on his feet.

But, at fifty, T. C. Davis was not permitted to practise as a judge for long. When the National War Services Department was organized by Agriculture Minister Gardiner in 1940 men of administrative experience were needed, and the call went out for Davis. He became an Associate Deputy Minister of the Department, on loan from the Saskatchewan bench, and eighteen-hour working days have been his portion since.

A tall genial man, with a casual air and crisp voice, T. C. Davis at first glance gives little indication of the Irish fire and enthusiasm that burns in him. He is Irish all the way through and a politician by inheritance. His father was Liberal M.P. for Prince Albert as long ago as 1896 and Tommy himself was an alderman in his home city when he was twenty-seven.

For almost half his life he has held public office of some kind, not because it was necessary to his livelihood but simply because he had a conception of public service and a readiness to fight hard in a just cause. Now his politics are behind him but his hard apprenticeship in learning to think on his feet and punch with words has not been wasted. When he wants a thing done, he knows how.

In Ottawa, he is part of a brilliant combination. The other Associate Deputy in the National War Services Department is the redoubtable French Canadian soldier, Maj.-Gen. R. LaFleche, and between them they have carried through a mass of work concerned with National Resources Mobilization, Public Information Services and other activities largely new to Canada and requiring foresight and courageous application. They are the chief counselors of War Services Minister Thorson, who took over this portfolio last year when Mr. Gardiner was freed to devote all his time to the onerous Agriculture portfolio.

Appropriately enough, the Saskatchewan judge loaned to the Dominion to do the job has his Ottawa office in the New Supreme Court Building which, when the war is over, will house the senior Canadian court. But T. C. Davis' office today is a far cry from the quiet associated with the judiciary. The delegations come and go, the telephone buzzes incessantly and the clatter of typewriters echoes along wide corridors.

Saskatchewan friends of Tommy Davis like to recall that just before the war he paid a visit to the United Kingdom and saw something of the preparations being made there. He talked with men in touch with international affairs and—as he always does—made it a point to get at the truth. From that day on, he had

WEST COAST IS SERIOUS ABOUT RAID DEFENCES

Fifty Thousand Volunteer Air Raid Wardens in Los Angeles County Area with Civilian Force Enthusiastic.

By FRED S. FERGUSON Los Angeles, April 1.—Southern California is peevish over the way Washington treated its recent outbreak of anti-aircraft fire, searchlights sweeping the skies and blacked out. It was a full-blown air raid performance except for bombs, the volunteer civilian defense set-up proved that it was on the job, war spirit rose several notches, and then came the let-down. Secretary Stimson called it a "false alarm" and the explanation given by Secretary Stimson was far from convincing.

Industrial leaders declare that but for the let-down the demonstration would have been good for a 26 per cent increase in production. It was better than an old-fashioned parade with flags flying and drums beating. Plenty of rain, have doubtless returned. But they give the migrants. People were really stirred. For with guns going off all over the place, shells bursting in the sky, and the returning-to-earth shell pieces dropping in your own backyard, the war may be said to be coming pretty close to home.

That's the way it was, and the civilian defense sprang into action along with the military. There were plenty of people who swear they saw planes, and just as many more who scoff. But everybody had a thrill to which there was determined reaction without fright or panic. So, as the taxi-driver asked, "When they have a good story, why the hell don't they stick to it?"

There are 50,000 volunteer air raid wardens in the Los Angeles County area, watchers are everywhere and a deeply buried, well-protected headquarters is the clearing house for all reports. From the central headquarters alarms may be sent out to twelve divisional centers and from these twelve county centers there is clearance to the various cities and towns. The Red Cross and all other agencies are tied in with the local Defense Council, and together they function as a unit.

All of this has been accomplished, too, without the aid of the OGD, which is virtually unknown out here except as a Government organization which once employed a dancer. The local defense people did approach the OGD once for arm bands for the air wardens, but upon being informed that they had to sign a virtual paper's oath to get them, they just let it go and bought their own.

MANITOBA BOYS GET HOME NEWS

Winnipeg, April 1. — A News gathered by a volunteer staff of seven stenographers-reporters and written into a deluxe "letter from home" is mailed every month to about sixty men from suburban St. Vital serving in the armed forces Overseas.

The originator of the idea is L. Beer, a veteran of the First Great War, who has an "editorial room" in the basement of his home and to this "office" flows news of the community which can be compiled into the news letter. The men on the mailing list were members of Young People's church groups in the community.

The news letter is mimeographed and is composed of five or six pages. Stories of community life, witty sayings by the editor, opinions and good wishes of friends and a message from the minister go into the letter. Copies are sold to residents of the neighborhood and money collected in this way is contributed toward the expense of paper, typewriter ribbons and postage.

STANBRIDGE STATION

Lieut. Kenneth Johnson and Mrs. Johnson from Cowansville, guests at the Gough home, on Sunday.

Mrs. D. F. Veysey is able to be about again after being confined to her room for two weeks with pneumonia.

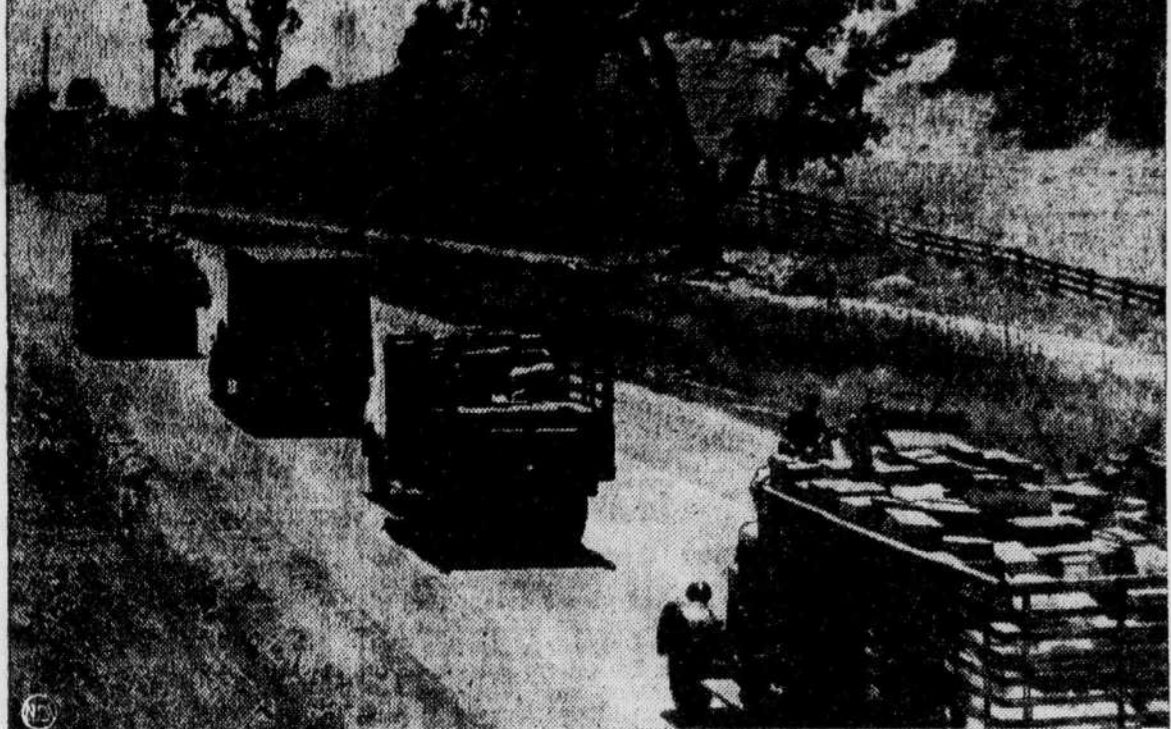

Mr. Couture and daughter, Lucy, motored to Phillipsburg to call on the former's daughter at the convent.

Miss Margaret Campbell, from Bedford, was calling at the Veysey home recently.

The result is that asking and bid prices are so far apart there is little benefit of the doubt and do not charge them with fleeing from possible danger. And thousands of the younger generation who arrived in the old jalopies are now employed in aircraft and other production plants, thus swelling the permanent population.

The city and county authorities appear to be co-operating wholeheartedly in defense matters. Sheriff Biscailuz and Mayor Bowron hold weekly conferences, and with Defense Council Director Kennedy there is constant monitoring of defense affairs. Old peace-time political fights go on, however.

There is an outer accretion standing against the Mayor, and indictments standing against Chief Deputy District Attorney Grant Cooper and Police Chief C. B. Horral on wire-tapping charges. This is a long story and has to do with Mayor Bowron's war on a widespread prostitution and gambling racket, but it hasn't much bearing on the defense of Los Angeles or the nation.

GLAMOR TAKES BACK SEAT FOR BRITISH WOMEN

Shoulder-Long Hair, High Heeled Shoes, Impractical Clothes Banned for the Duration.

BY ALICIA HART
An impressive picture of British women "taking the rough with the smooth, just like the men" comes to me in a letter from my London colleague, Rosette Hargrove. She has been up on the Tyneside, going through the factory-front of embattled Britain. She writes:
"I was struck by the spirit of camaraderie wherever I went. Here, no girl need ever be lonely. On the other hand, there are many things a woman is called upon to give up. The woman has to realize that she is part of a tremendous machine and must not fail in her task, because by so doing she can endanger not only her own life but those of hundreds of others."
"She has to give up all ideas of soft, smooth, white hands and long, pointed highly polished finger-nails. They would be out of place, anyway, and near the machines the nails are dangerous. Well, there is nothing wrong with hands that look as though they could do a good job of work."
"Shoulder-long hair, high heeled shoes, impractical clothes also are banned for the duration."
"Food fads, slimming diets and other pre-war whimsies can no longer be indulged in."
"There are a few snags. A certain amount of dust, grit and dirt works into the hands and especially into the hair. That is why hostels make such a point of hair-washing facilities. Then there is the matter of a working cap. Most women simply cannot bring themselves to tuck every bit of hair inside, though they know they run a risk of its getting caught in their machine."
"For those workers who have to handle tools or machines through which their hands become impregnated with acid, the factory provides a special salve to rubbed in after work. Welfare superintendents all told me that girls are apt to be careless about this. The result is often skin blemishes and sores which easily could have been avoided."

American girls and women, too, are prepared to sacrifice the artifices of beauty whenever and wherever necessary. We may not repeat the British working women's experience exactly—I am told that beauty parlors are springing up at Army camps where women are on duty in auxiliary volunteer work. And the American beauty industry takes a very hopeful attitude toward the

FINE WEATHER WILL PROMOTE U-BOAT BATTLE

Increase in Both Submarine and Anti-Submarine Activities Expected with Coming of Summer Weather.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, April 1.—(AP)—Submarines, which have averaged a ship a day in American waters this month, can be expected to intensify their raiding in the weeks ahead as the weather becomes more favorable. But better weather will work both ways, naval experts said, explaining it will be equally favorable for air and surface anti-submarine operations, with a resultant heavier destruction of raiders.

The experts said the Nazis almost certainly had not reached the full power of their long-distance undersea offensive against coastal shipping and that an increased number of submarines probably will appear in American waters in the near future.

To offset this gloomy prospect, however, these authorities cited increasingly effective anti-submarine measures, including:

- 1—Assignment of more and more patrol planes and blimps to the Eastern sea frontier.
- 2—More general adherence by merchant ship captains to navy regulations that vessels travelling in coastal waters at night should run without lights and, day or night, should stick to patrolled lanes.
- 3—Partial blackouts of the heretofore brightly-lighted sections of the coast which are believed to have aided the submarines by silhouetting their targets.

The submarines began prowling along the Eastern coast in mid-January and in the last half of that month attacked eleven ships, according to an unofficial compilation of announcements. All but one of these was sunk.

This same compilation, which does not include sinkings that for various reasons of naval policy may not have been announced, showed sixteen ships attacked and sunk during February and thirty-one sunk of thirty-five attacked during March.

On the other hand the navy has announced three submarines probably sunk and four damaged of a total of fifty-six attacks made through February 23. Results of anti-submarine activity since then have not yet been announced.

Man At Work—And How! Here's the Way WPB's "Lord" Nelson Licks His Gigantic Job

DONALD MARR NELSON

By TOM WOLF

Washington, April 1.—As chairman of the all-powerful War Production Board, Donald Marr Nelson holds down what in all probability is the biggest single job in the world. Here's how he goes about getting it done:

Nelson gets up at 8 a.m. Unless he had a breakfast appointment (which is not unusual), he goes to his hotel's basement cafeteria, seats himself at a counter stool and piles away a hearty breakfast which includes ham and eggs.

He drives himself (in the big Cadillac he bought from Lt. Gen. Knudsen last summer) to work. It's about 8:30 when he gets to his office on the fifth floor of the Social Security Building, which overlooks the Mall. (Nelson can see the Capitol from his desk.)

The office itself is large, sparsely furnished, surrounded with chairs, occupies one section of the room. Nelson's own desk is large. He keeps it clear save for a small American flag, a pen set, a desk blotter and the combination humidor-pipe rack which his secretaries gave him last Christmas.

The first official act of the Nelson day is reaching for a smoke. Cigar or pipe, he smokes constantly all day. First job is planning his schedule, going over mail and appointments with Lona Thornton, his secretary. Then, in accordance with a long-standing habit, which he acquired during his ten years as merchandising manager of Sears, Roebuck, Nelson looks over various reports on the progress of his present huge merchandising job.

At about 9:30, he is ready to start seeing people. From here on there is no set routine for his day. There are only a few regular meetings which he attends every week—a Monday luncheon with Milo Perkins and Leon Henderson; a Tuesday afternoon conference with the eight-man War Production Board; Friday afternoon Cabinet meetings at the White House, which Nelson attends; and the weekly staff conferences with WPB division heads.

Nelson's system of working is to advise his division heads on general policy, but to leave them strictly alone from there on. Their production reports do the rest of the talking for them.

Part of Nelson's ability to do his tremendous job is his facility for getting to the point directly because of his mastery of the whole situation. Recently when he made a short speech for the newsreels, he went through his part so perfectly that no retakes were necessary—something so rare that one cameraman dubbed him "One-Take Nelson."

Made in Canada

Workman in a Canadian plant ladies TNT into a heavy shell casing. Looks like a bakery scene, but it isn't, not by a long shot.

Nelson sees between twenty and thirty people a day. He gives each the impression that he has all the time in the world, but most people find they're out of his office before they realize it. Visitors take up the bulk of the morning until his one o'clock lunch. He usually eats a light lunch (of buttermilk and said) at his desk.

After lunch, more visitors. Nelson tends to be too soft a touch for handshakes with small town business leaders or people who "knew him when" and too many of his visits are of the three-minute "I just want to say 'hello'" variety.

During his longer conferences (which are interrupted at least once every five minutes with phone calls), Nelson talks quietly, directly. He seldom loses his temper, believing that "the man who loses his temper first loses the argument." When he is nervous or irritated, he tamps the tobacco in one of his ever-present pipes and drums the tamper on his desk.

He gets most of his work done in person-to-person contacts. He comparatively little paper work. He writes few memos—many of them notes in his wide open rambling hand, saying simply: "Pis handle—D.M.N."

By seven at night he's ready to leave the office. He almost never takes a briefcase home with him, but his evenings are spent in half social-half business dinners and conferences.

Before the war, when he was a division head in the old O.P.M., Nelson took week-ends off to golf and swim for the exercise he now complains he can't get these days. Now his only day off is Sunday, and even that's not sure any more.

MANITOBA TOWN RETAINS NAME

Winnipeg, April 1.—North Kildonan, Man., suburb of Winnipeg, is going to remain North Kildonan and not become Glendale as requested in a petition signed by 263 residents. This decision was made by the municipal affairs committee of the Manitoba legislature recently.

The citizens claimed that as there was already an East Kildonan, West Kildonan and Old Kildonan there was "a confusion of names." Some councillors claimed it would be easier to sell lots if the names were changed to Glendale. Opposing factions, mainly market gardeners, claimed North Kildonan had a good reputation for producing good crops of vegetables and that consumers preferred produce grown in North Kildonan.

Edmond Profontaine, a resident, said "the name Kildonan is in the very roots of Manitoba. So long as its history is written this name will be linked with the Mathesons, Hendersons, Polsons, MacKays and other old families which pioneered this country."

EIGHT SYSTEMS FOR SYNTHETIC RUBBER OUTPUT

Seven Processes Already in Race to Produce Tires from Synthetic Rubber and Eighth Under Study.

New York, April 1.—(AP)—Invisible gases and water-clear liquids are the main stuff for making synthetic rubber. Seven of these are in a race to produce tires, and an eighth looms as the dark horse in the hearings of the United States Senate Defence Investigating Committee.

Butyl has not been reported as a tire rubber by Standard Oil. In United States chemistry circles it is notable for a remarkable property, it resists oxygen, which deteriorates virtually all known kinds of rubber.

Germany is short on petroleum to make butadiene and butylene. But butadiene can be made also from alcohol, molasses, grains, potatoes, straw, wood and coal tars. Butylene presumably can also be made from these.

Buna S is a German rubber whose American patents were acquired by Standard Oil. It is made of butadiene and styrene, the latter a liquid from coal tar. It has been called the least expensive of all the tire synthetics and it is the rubber which American chemists are informed has been Germany's main product since the war started.

Buna S is like, and may be identical with, the styrene rubber patented by the Government last summer when money was allotted to build four synthetic rubber plants in the United States.

Buna N (also named perbanar) is a German rubber, with Standard Oil holding the American patents. Instead of styrene, it uses acrylonitriles with butadiene. Acrylonitriles are liquids, compounded of nitrogen. This is the rubber Germany used for tires before buna S.

Neoprene is the oldest of the rubbers which make good tires. Coke ovens furnish the gas, acetylene, which with hydrogen chloride makes this rubber.

Ameripol is the Goodrich tire rubber. Butadiene is the base, plus other ingredients not identified except that they come from natural gas and air and include use of some soap.

Ghemigum is the Goodyear synthetic for tires. It comes from petroleum, with side mixtures unannounced.

The other two announced tire rubbers are made by Firestone and U. S. Rubber. Both are described as buna type.

SUMMER SCHOOLS TO SPEED M.D. DEGREES

Montreal, April 1.—Dr. E. Cyril James, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of McGill University said yesterday that students in the medical faculty would continue their studies throughout the summer as part of the scheme to speed-up the training of doctors.

Many students will complete their year-end examination June 13, and will re-enter their classrooms on June 15, Dr. James said. Similar acceleration in other faculties is considered. The graduating class this year will enter hospitals as internes, while third-year students will continue their classes, taking a brief vacation in August.

MERCHANT TARS TOAST HOSTESS OF LONDON INN

Sailors of Many Nations Mothered by "Aunt Liz" of Waterfront Public House and She Knows Their Needs.

By WILLIAM STEWART (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 1.—Ask any merchant seaman if he knows Aunt Liz of the Dead House, and if he's ever come to London, it's ten to one he has—particularly if luck has been bad.

Aunt Liz, voluble, sprightly Mrs. Elizabeth Fry is the self-appointed mother of merchant sailors the world over. Her waterfront pub, strangely and unaccountably named the Dead House Inn, is the second home of many and the only home of some.

Torpedoed seamen, bombed seamen and seamen just plain broke turn up at the Dead House bar, placating "V for Victory" signs and pictures of Churchill. Aunt Liz gives them clothing, takes care of laundry, sees that they have a place to sleep, loans them money and sometimes bails them out of jail.

When anyone asks Aunt Liz how she came by her mission of mother of the Merchant Navy, she recalls her husband now dead was a merchant sailor. "They're rather like children all these boys," she muses. "They're having the toughest time off all in this war."

"What it's hard to understand about them sometimes is that they're never afraid to go back to the sea, no matter what's happened to them. They all rush to get their names into the labor pool as soon as they're ashore. And then they come to me for an advance on their signing-on note. I can always cash these notes after the boys have been at sea a week—so there's no point in refusing."

"I try to keep them straight—they don't know the value of money. Take Blondy, the Swede, there," she says, pointing to a hulking figure at the bar. "He came in broke one day and offered to sell me for a pound a suit that had cost him five. I didn't let him do a silly thing like that."

"I said: 'Here's a pound, Blondy. Pay me back later.' He did." Aunt Liz brings out a letter from a seaman called "Jock." It's travelled half-way around the world to her. "I am sending you a couple of quid to help pay off some of what I owe you. Here's luck and may our bar never be empty."

Any of the boys will drink to that.

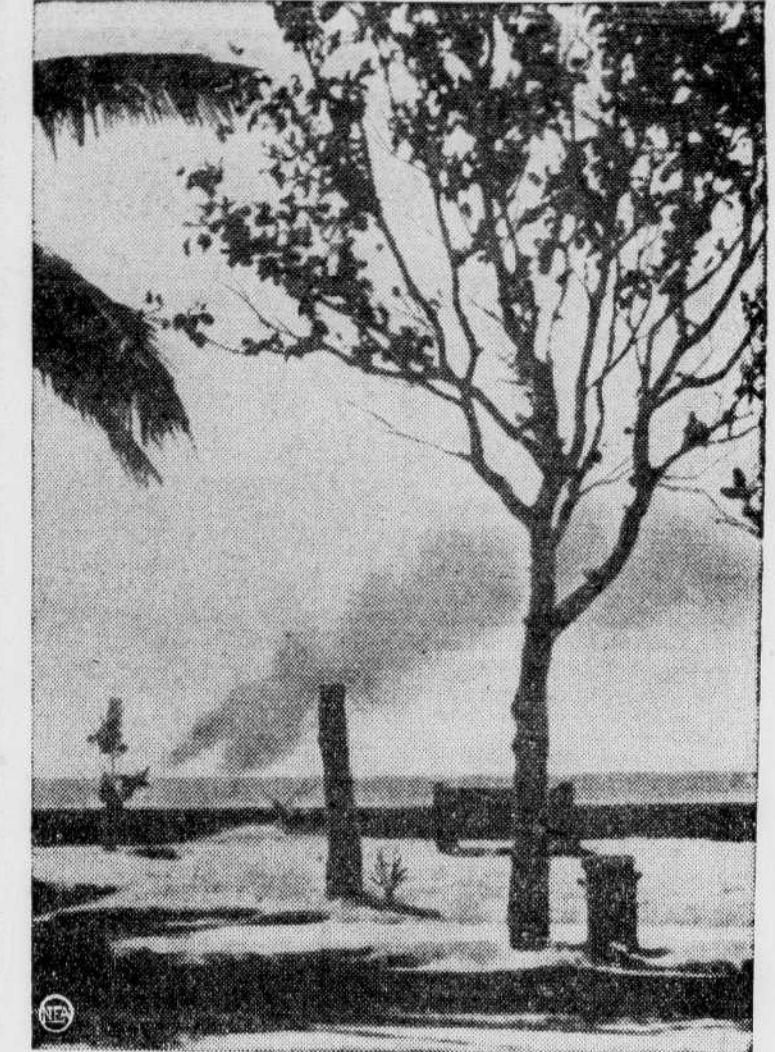

STANBRIDGE RIDGE

Mr. Stephen Davitt was a guest at the Douglas home.

Mrs. Lagrange, who is shortly taking up residence in Montreal, spent some time in the metropolis.

Guests at the Baker home included Mrs. A. O. Westcott, Mr. and Mrs.

When U.S. Lost Cavite

Plumes of smoke rise over distant Cavite during a Japanese bombardment that preceded withdrawal of American forces from the U. S. Navy base in Manila. The photo, made by the American Red Cross and released in Washington, was taken just before the fall of Manila early in the war.

members took part, after which another children's hymn was sung. Then children went to their classes. The lesson, "The Transfigured Christ Meets the Human Needs," was read responsively from Luke 9:28-43. Mrs. Everard Goodin read Psalm 90, and Mrs. Jacklin read from Matthew 17:1-20. Several other hymns were sung with Miss Blake playing and after an interesting discussion on "Christ's Prayer Life" the meeting closed with prayer.

SAWYERVILLE

Mr. Alton Grady, who has spent the past month with his sister, Mrs. Garner Elliott, has returned to Coaticook.

The friends in this community of Mrs. Ben Blair, of Brooklyn, N.Y., will be very sorry to learn that she has suffered a stroke and that her condition is regarded as serious.

Miss Madeline Macrae, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Macrae.

Sgt. Arthur Mayes and Mrs. Ayes, of Hamilton, Ont., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Twyman, and were calling on other friends here.

Mrs. M. Matthew has received a letter from her daughter, Miss Irene Matthew, R.N., who is now in South Africa. Miss Matthew gave a very interesting account of the long journey, which was made on the Egyptian ship, El Nil, on which the ship's crew and all officers excepting the captain were Egyptian. In Trinidad, the eighty-two nurses aboard the El Nil were entertained by the Canadian, British and Australian navy, and by the American Army. Miss Matthew spoke enthusiastically of the hospitality extended them by the white population of Trinidad, and mentioned the amusing fact that the natives referred to them as "the blue cross nurses."

The latest reports from Mrs. Gretchen Elliott, R.N., who recently underwent a serious operation, and is still a hospital patient in Montreal, are to the effect that she is improving slowly. Her sister, Miss Ruth Riddell, remained in the city to be near her.

KINGSEY FALLS

Miss Mary Leith spent a few days with friends in Danville last week.

Mrs. Charles Hanson, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atkinson.

Mr. Howard Frost and Mr. Irwin Atkinson motored to Windsor Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young, of Asbestos, were overnight guests of Mrs. Young's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith.

Week-end guests at Glendale Farm were Mr. Reginald Rogers, Ralph MacHarg and George Leith.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Young, Mrs. D. M. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith were tea guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Kerr at Asbestos.

It's their world . . . keep it free for them!

Those who really have most at stake in this war are the children. We inherited a free world from our parents; we cannot leave a lesser heritage. In 1942 Canada will gladly make whatever additional efforts and sacrifices are required to ensure victory—and a free world.

LEAFS MEET WINGS IN STANLEY CUP FINAL

Nick Metz Sails Away To Score Clincher As Toronto Triumphs 3-2

Toronto, April 1.—A $50,000 last-minute goal scored by a Saskatchewan farm boy today placed Toronto Maple Leafs in hockey's world series and shuttled New York Rangers to honor seats on the sidelines reserved for those who fight gallantly but fail.

There was but six seconds of play remaining when Nick Metz broke away from a New York attack here last night to fire the goal that gave the Leafs a 3-2 decision in the sixth game of a hectic best-of-seven series. The Leafs counted four victories to two for the National League champions.

The game staged by the Rangers may be their last for the duration of the war but they left a fine impression with the 13,875 fans who threw hats and programmes to the ice as Metz scored the payoff goal.

The Leafs, second to Rangers in the N.H.L. standing, will face the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings in the opener of a best-of-seven game Stanley Cup series here Saturday night. Assured of at least two games in Toronto, the goal fired by Metz meant about $50,000 in gate receipts for the Leafs and much more if the series is extended.

Proud of his team which rallied in the third period to wipe out a two-goal deficit and finished the game piled up in the Toronto goalmouth, Manager Lester Patrick consoled the Rangers by telling them "The breaks were against you boys but you played a hell of a fine game."

Unassisted goals by Rookie Johnny McCreeley in the first period and his linemate, Pete Langele, in the second, gave the Leafs a 2-0 lead which they held till past the half-way mark in the final session. A New York rally brought two goals in less than two minutes by Phil Watson and Alfie Pike.

Not content to carry the game into overtime, the Rangers kept pressing and four men were down the ice when Syl Apps passed to Metz to send him on his climactic dash. Defenceman Bill Junda was unable to get near the fleet Toronto left wing who gave Henry no chance as he fired just after crossing the red penalty-shot line.

The New York Commission's decision on the Lou-Simon short count is about as easy to understand as the double talk local scribes accuse General Phelan of using. . . Seems when Eddie Joseph counted ten it was all over but the shouting.

Detroit Ousts Boston, Scoring 4-1 Win For Clean Sweep Of Series

Detroit, April 1.—Jolly Jack Adams' Detroit Red Wings who have been as hot as firecrackers this past month and twice as effective, today figured they can maintain their torrid pace, then mark them down right now as Stanley Cup champions for 1941-42.

While this prediction is a little premature, the Detroiters convinced some of the die hards that they're going to be tough to eliminate from the title trail, when they polished off Boston Bruins last night by 3-1 to win the best-of-three series in straight games.

The Wings, however, have carved out a mighty opponent in the Toronto Maple Leafs, who qualified for the other final bracket with a 3-2 triumph against New York Rangers last night. The World Series is scheduled to get underway in Toronto Saturday night. The second game of the best-of-seven affair will also be held in Toronto next Tuesday with the third and fourth games at Detroit the following Thursday and Sunday. Dates for remaining games, if necessary, have not yet been set.

Fighting from the opening second, Detroit's most effective performances down the stretch have been on home ice, scored its tenth straight win in its own ballparks in sidetracking the Bruins.

Winners of the first game 6-4, Detroit took an early lead against Boston only to have it tied, and then came roaring back after a scoreless second period to bang home two goals for the margin of victory.

To Joe Carveth, product of Regina, Sask., amateur ranks, goes the hero's mantle in last night's win. The fleet rightwinger playing his first year in the big time, rapped home two goals, his second providing the clincher.

It was his first goal, a neat solo effort at 3:50 of the first period that sent Detroit ahead. Herbie Cain got the one back for Boston midway through the period. Harvey and Art Jackson set up the play and Cain deftly slipped the puck between a small opening in Goaler Johnny Mowers' pads.

Detroit took up from there and swarmed around the Boston cage repeatedly, but goaler Frankie Brimsek was unbeatable on forty-one shots. However at 9:46 of the last frame, Carveth let go a whistling shot which gave Wings the edge. With seconds of playing time left, Don Grosso made the verdict more decisive when he tallied on a long shot after Brimsek had been hauled from the ice for an extra forward.

RAND WINS 6-1 OVER RICHMOND IN GIRLS' GAME

Audrey Bradshaw Scores Twice and Collects Assist to Pace Circo-ettes—Training Centre Tops Renegades 10-5.

With Audrey Bradshaw, of the Stanstead College teaching staff, centering the first line and figuring in three of the goals, Guido Roy's Circo-ettes chalked up a 6-1 victory over Richmond last night in a girls' hockey game for the Sam Cohen Challenge Trophy, and will hold the trophy until some team is able to take it away from them.

A crowd of about 700 fans watched last night's doubleheader, the second game going to the Lord Street Training Centre by a 10-5 count at the expense of the Rand Renegades.

The Circo-ettes held a marked advantage over the Richmond girls in out opening tilt, and Goalie May Pelletz did not have a very busy time in the Rand colors, although Miss Mercure, of Richmond, saw plenty of rubber.

In the second minute of the game Caroline MacRae opened the scoring on a pass from Miss Bradshaw, who made the score 2-0 seven minutes later on an unassisted effort. Margaret Knapp rapped in the third Rand counter in the same period.

Mary Stewart took things into her own hands in the second period, showing her girls how by scoring twice, once alone and again on a pass from Miss Knapp. Then in the final frame Miss Bradshaw made the count 6-0 before J. Ouellette, assisted by N. Poulin, got Richmond's tally.

In the high-scoring men's match the soldiers gained a 2-1 edge in the opening period, went ahead 5-3 in the middle frame and then ran in five more tallies in the last canto, holding the Renegades to two goals.

Fontaine, with three goals and an assist, and St. Germain and Villeneuve, with two goals, led the soldiers, with singles going to Deslauriers, Chabot and Vadeboncoeur, while Currie, Williams, Rediker, Wilcox and Planche counted for the Rand.

Brigadier-General S. de B. Panet, Officer Commanding Military District No. 4, faced off the puck to start the game. Bill Blodreau presented a trophy to the soldiers after the game.

Aces Carve 8-0 Slice Out Of Miners In Third Series Game

Montreal, April 1.—Quebec Aces needed to capture only one more game today from Glace Bay Miners to win the right to enter the Eastern Canadian senior hockey final and the opinion hereabouts is that this will happen when the teams meet Thursday night in Quebec in the fourth game of their best-of-five series.

The Aces, champions of Quebec Province, gave the Maritime champions an 8-0 beating last night in the third game of the series. The triumph was so convincing that there was immediate talk of the Aces opening the final series against Ottawa R.C.A.F. here Saturday night.

To do so, naturally, the Aces would have to win on Thursday night. But just about everyone of the 7,000 fans who watched the game last night were willing to concede that Aces would hurdle the barrier. The Quebec club is likely to be at top strength for the fourth game against the Miners as it is believed possible that Defenceman Les Brennan, out for more than a week with an injured ankle, will return to action.

But even without Brennan, the Aces found little trouble in winning last night once the first ten minutes of the opening period had been completed. It was only during that time that the Miners showed any indication of holding the Quebec team.

In that first half of the opening period, good goal-tending by Earl Boates and stout work by the Glace Bay defencemen, along with poor shooting by the Aces, left the score a blank. But the Aces found the range shortly after the half-way mark of the period for a goal by Jo-Jo Graboski and the rout was on.

Bobby Lee made it 2-0 shortly before the end of the first period and in the second session the Aces added markers by Walt Nicholson, Butch Stahan and Bruneteau. Nicholson added another goal in the third period while Theo Hamel scored a pair only eleven seconds apart on breakaways.

Graboski's goal was a sensational effort. He lifted the puck between the Glace Bay defence and then crashed through to catch up with the disc just about fifteen feet from the net. He didn't waste any time but snapped the puck into a corner behind Boates. It seemed to be the tonic the Aces needed to put them on the goal-scoring path.

Only one of the tallies was scored while Ronny Rozzini of Aces was in the penalty box for tripping Pat Deshams. Bruneteau rapped up the ice to beat a Glace Bay defenceman to an ice puck and then swept in on Boates to score easily.

Rozzini was taken to the hospital after the game for treatment for a chest injury. The injury was suffered while the teams were in Glace Bay for the first two games of the series and was aggravated in last night's contest. It is expected he will see action in the fourth contest. The Miners won the opener 3-0 but dropped the second game 4-1.

Last night, their most effective man was Moe White, a former Montrealer. White, a doped type of player, never gave up. One time he fired the puck four times in less than three minutes at Goalie Lionel Bouvrette but the Quebec netminder was right on his toes to save.

The Museum of the City of New York is running a special exhibit of casts of the fists of famous fighters. Also Simon probably thinks he saw them all in the ring Friday night.

Indianapolis, April 1.—No matter what the outcome of the American Hockey League play-off final between Indianapolis Capitals and Hershey Bears, the wisecracker of the opinion that the ultimate winner will be able to lay claim to taking one of the toughest series in the history of the circuit.

If last night's second game of the best-of-five affair is any indication of what to expect then maybe they're right, for Hershey had to come through in overtime to gain a 5-4 win to square the series at one win apiece.

It was the veteran Phil Hergesheimer, former member of Chicago Black Hawks in the National League, who pulled the game out of the fire for Hershey when he converted Gordie Pettinger's relay pass. Goaler Joe Turner in the Cap cage.

Before that the teams had waged a fast, wide open struggle with Hershey forced to come through with two late goals in the third period to get back on even terms with Indianapolis.

After the clubs had picked up a goal apiece in the first period, Caps moved ahead early in the middle frame on a tally by Doug McCaig. Bill Jennings made it 3-1 for Caps early in the third period, but Hergesheimer got his first goal of the night to leave Bears only a goal in arrears. Shortly after the midway mark, however, Joe Douglas increased Caps' edge to 4-2 on a play with Norm Sawyer and Jack Keating.

It looked as though that was enough for victory, but Hershey never stopped coming at the Indianapolis goal and first Wally Kilrea and then Wally Wilson banged home goals which put the game back on an even keel.

Although Hergesheimer's goal came at 2:58 of the extra frame, Caps were unable to do much against the stout goaling of Nick Damore in the Hershey net in the remaining minutes.

The teams are scheduled to renew the series in Hershey tomorrow night.

EDMONTON TOPS REGINA 5-4 IN JUNIOR CLASH

Alberta Capital City's Maple Leafs Need Only Win Tomorrow to Enter Western Junior Hockey Final.

Two evenly-matched teams were marking time today until they met tomorrow night in what may prove to be the final game of the Western junior hockey semi-final. The series, originally scheduled as a best-of-five, was changed to a best-of-three.

Edmonton Maple Leafs, husky aggregation from the Alberta capital, scored an exciting 5-4 victory over Regina Abbots last night after the teams had battled to a 2-2 tie last Saturday. A win for Edmonton tomorrow night will send them into the Western final against Portage La Prairie Terriers.

Terriers battled their way into the honor bracket by whipping Fort William Hurricane-Rangers three straight in their semi-final playoff.

On the senior hockey front in the West, Port Arthur Bear-Cats, 1939 Allan Cup winners, are two up on Lethbridge Maple Leafs in the semi-final playoff. The Lakehead sextette defeated Lethbridge in their last two engagements after they battled to a 4-4 tie in the first game. A win for Port Arthur tonight at Lethbridge will give them a final berth.

Kimberley Dynamiters from British Columbia are leading the highly-touted Saskatoon Quakers 2-1 in the other senior semi-final bracket. The Dynamiters hung a 6-1 defeat onto Quakers in the third game Monday night. They met again in the fourth game at Saskatoon tomorrow night.

AT THE LOCAL THEATRES

Scene from "Valley of the Sun" which begins today at the Granada Theatre.

At The Granada

Sparkling with lusty humor and compelling realism, as well as with romance and adventure and peril, "Valley of the Sun" opens today at the Granada Theatre.

With Lucille Ball as a frontier heroine and James Craig as a resourceful Army Scout, the picture blends a fast-paced romance with its basic theme of Indian troubles in the old Southwest during the turbulent period that followed the Civil War. The drama is based upon a Saturday Evening Post serial by Clarence Budington Kelland.

Short-sighted Army authorities are ignoring the Indians' justified complaints and protests, thereby stirring up menace for the white settlers in the territory. Craig gets into trouble with these same authorities when he allows a pair of Apache prisoners to escape, and he in turn has to escape to avoid a jail sentence.

On his flight he meets Miss Ball, who is about to marry a scoundrelly Indian agent whose thieving is responsible for much of the Apache unrest. Craig seeks to break up the marriage and avert the massacre he knows is brewing, and this leads to the many exciting and spectacular scenes that make up the climax of the film.

The two stars turn in splendid performances, with Dean Jagger doing brilliant work as the Indian agent and Sir Cedric Hardwicke as an English remittance man. Peter Whitney, Billy Gilbert, Tom Tyler and Antonio Moreno are also excellent in their roles, and thousands of Indians and soldiers participate in the thrilling raid on the desert town that comprises the climax.

Magnificent photography among the rugged mountain peaks of Northern New Mexico, where most of the outdoor action was filmed, is an added feature of this RKO Radio picture, which was produced by Graham Baker and directed by George Marshall.

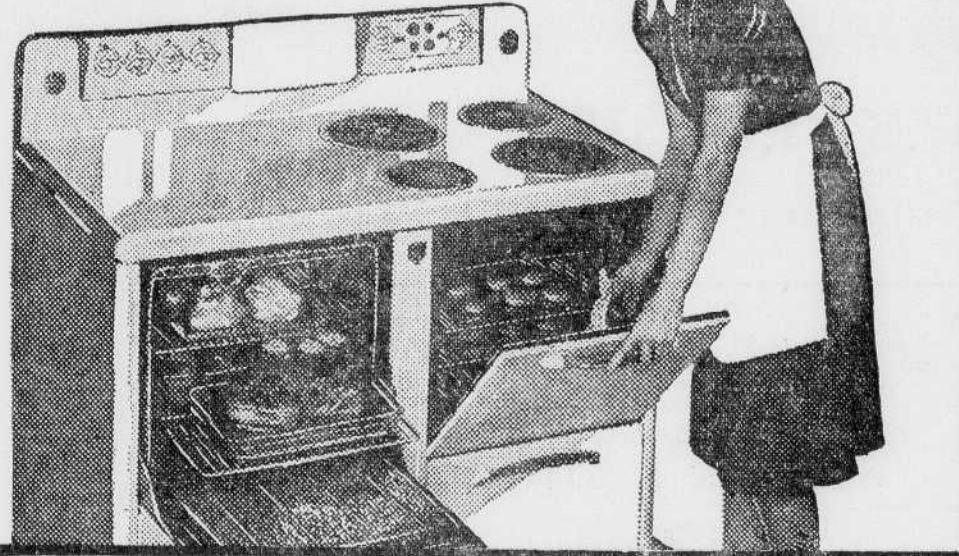

The added attraction is "Bedtime Story," starring Fredric March and Loretta Young.

LET Reddy Kilowatt SOLVE YOUR COOKING PROBLEMS

Electric stoves are available in both all-electric and combination models for both Cooking and Heating.

There is really no cooking problem when you use electricity. You simply snap the switch and Reddy Kilowatt is on the job instantly with exactly the amount of heat you require. Electric cooking saves food too, because meats shrink less and retain more of their natural juices when cooked with steady, even electric heat—the flameless way.

REDDY SAYS:

"Cook your Easter ham electrically, to be sure of the full, rich flavour that will make the family's mouth water."

CEYLON OFFERS CONTRAST FOR EAST AND WEST

Island Base, Offering Key to Supply Routes to Eastern India, Is Strange Admixture of Populations.

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH (Associated Press Staff Writer) New York, April 1.—(AP)—Separated from the mainland by fifty miles of water is the island of Ceylon, like a teardrop fallen from India.

Since the fall of Singapore, its naval base at Trincomalee is the Allies' only useful base North of Cape Town and East of Suez. Ceylon controls the approaches to India's Eastern ports which are inlets for China's supplies.

It now is the key to Allied supply routes running from the Middle East to Australia.

It is only eight hundred miles from the Japanese-seized Andaman islands in the Bay of Bengal.

In enemy possession Ceylon would provide the necessary base for invasion of Southern India.

Here, where mountains rise from green coastal lowlands and palms with their trunks aslant grow to the edge of white beaches which meet the lazy surf of the Indian Ocean, is perpetuated a strange contrast of peoples and ways of life.

It is a contrast that can be produced only where East meets West.

It throws into one focus the European suits and sun helmets of the Britons and the Burghers; the loin cloth or long skirt costumes of the Tamils and Singhalese.

Once in the wide paved streets of Colombo, the capital, a fleet of taxicabs, firetrucks with thick pneumatic tires or motorbuses will take you to the G.O.H.

Second in fame in the Orient only to the Raffles in Singapore, the G.O.H. is the Grand Oriental Hotel.

In the lobby of its marble ground floor British colonialism is at its social height. Here cricket is talked, tea and whisky are served, The Times is read and white topics are left at the checkroom.

The island population of 6,000,000 divides into four main groups: Only 15,000 are European, mostly British. They are the Government officials and the planters.

Twice as numerous as the Europeans are the Burghers. They are the descendants of Netherlanders or Portuguese who once ruled the island. For the most part they are tradesmen. They adhere to European dress.

There are 3,500,000 Singhalese. Their language is predominant in the north, but with slight dialectal differences the spoken language is the same throughout the island.

Singhalese men wear the long skinted cambay and are not properly dressed unless they have a tortoise shell comb worn backwards on the top of their heads.

Singhalese women wear a tight fitting basque above their combosys. Their distinguishing features are glossy black hair, brilliant eyes, nice teeth and gentle manners.

The Tamils, immigrated from Southern India, number 1,500,000. They work in the rice paddies and the fields. Their costume is a loin cloth and they wear turbans instead of combs in their hair.

There are perhaps 500,000 Moors, Malays and other minorities.

Education is compulsory from the ages of six to fourteen.

Dominant religion is Buddhism. Chief products are tea, rubber,

Besides two layettes, a dress, several sweaters for adults, posters and quilts, all the work of the members, themselves, were shown. In addition to entering the above articles, an entry has been made in the musical competition as well, and several practices are being held weekly, for those taking part in this event. The members of the executive of the Senior W.A. and Guild were entertained at tea. An exhibition of the articles will be given at a Guild meeting, before they are taken to Montreal. On the completion of the exhibition in Montreal, the layettes, quilts and shawl will be sent to missions in the West. The afternoon concluded with the serving of refreshments, the hostess being assisted in serving by Ann Preston and Peggy Palmer.

HANDLED WHEEL OF PLANES AT TWELVE

Winnipeg, April 1.—(C)—A young man who grew up in the cockpit of an airplane and learned to handle the controls at the age of twelve was recently enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force here. He is Kenneth Johannesson, twenty, son of Konrad Johannesson, operator of a private flying school at Stevenson Field, Winnipeg.

Konrad Johannesson, served Overseas in the First Great War with the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Air Force.

Kenneth made his first flight when he was ten years old on a round trip to Detroit with his father. After he was twelve years old his father often allowed him to handle the controls and soon he became one of the air school's star pupils having so far completed eighty hours solo flying.

He has been given leave without pay until May 13 to enable him to complete his course as a second year science student at the University of Manitoba.
