Westmount looks ahead

'Inequalities' push tax assessments up 20%

Westmount tax assessments will be increased throughout the city by an average of 20%, it was announced Wednesday. To eliminate what the city calls "inequalities" in previous assessments a new valuation roll has been prepared for 1963-1964.

A reduction in the mill rate will leave the total tax revenue much the same as before, but the division of this revenue between individual property owners will differ. "In some cases considerably from previous years."

The new valuation roll, compiled after studies by Warnock Hersey Appraisal Company Ltd., will be made available for public inspection and discussion for one month at City Hall, commencing on July 31.

Two representatives from the Appraisal Company, Michael Rowe and Philip Hersey Smith will be on hand to explain individual assessments.

Complete revision made

In a newsletter prepared this week, it was stated that certain "inequalities" in assessments existed in this city, particularly among residential properties. "It was decided therefore, in

Enrolment up at Selwyn House

To provide for a larger enrolment, Selwyn House School on Cote St. Antoine road plans to construct partitions in three of its classrooms. The result will be six new smaller classrooms.

Work began this week and will continue throughout the summer. New locker facilities on the lower floor will also be built.

'Convenient' location sought for new pool

"Where do you live?" That's the question hundreds of swimmers answered this week at the Westmount Municipal Pool as the City began an investigation to determine the most convenient location for a possible second swimming pool.

Surveys will be conducted on alternate weeks and authorities hope to have a fairly complete set of figures by the end of the month showing where the swimmers come from and where view, of the requirements of the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation and the report of the consultants, that the time was opportune for a complete revision of all assessments."

Under provincial legislation adopted in 1961, every municipality on the island is required to deposit with the Montreal Metropolitan Corporation a certificate showing the total valuation of taxable immovables in their municipality.

Conform with Montreal's roll

The Corporation was empowered to make adjustments to ensure that valuations had been determined on the same basis as those used in the preparation of Montreal's roll.

Prime purpose of the legislation was to ensure equalized assessments, it was reported.

In order to equalize assessments with Montreal's, it was necessary to make an overall increase in the level of assessments in Westmount, the newsletter stated.

"It should be made clear that the basic principles of these reassessments are not aimed at increasing the total tax revenues of the City," the letter continued. "Rather, they are designed as a realignment of relative values as between individual properties to assure that each one bears its true and justifiable proportion of civic tax requirements."

a new pool might be most "conveniently" placed.

No definite plans for a new pool have been made, but officials do feel that the present one at Lansdowne and Western is "a great success" and that there may be "some need" for another.

A loan by-law approved by Council early in June did provide $180,000 for a projected pool.

NEW HEADQUARTERS

Westmount's new headquarters for police and fire departments, the municipal court, and the City Hall annex are shown in the architect's model above. On the left is the police station, with offices and a courtroom upstairs. Cells are in rear. The fire department is located in the centre section. A City Hall annex on the right will contain offices for departments of personnel, purchasing, health and welfare.

Trees saved for Dorchester mall

Westmount will attempt to preserve most of the large trees on the north side of Dorchester street when the time comes to demolish residences there to make way for widening and re-development, it was revealed this week.

Although all buildings on the north side of the street will be demolished the trees will be saved, to form a centerpiece for a wide mall, it was reported.

There are approximately 50 trees of mature size in the area which will be utilized.

No demolition is planned for the south side of the street.

Boy's identity still sought

Westmount police and city of Montreal detectives are still searching for word of the true identity and relatives or friends of a 17-year-old boy picked up by a Westmount patrol cruiser in the vicinity of Clarke avenue and Sherbrooke streets.

He stopped the Westmount police car and asked for protection. He said his name was Jim Talon, but he couldn't remember where he lived or anything else about himself.

He was kept overnight by the Westmount police and then taken to an area on St. Lawrence boulevard where he said he lived with an uncle, but he couldn't find the house.

The boy was turned over to the Missing Persons section of the Juvenile Aid Bureau and anyone knowing anything about him is asked to call 872-5687.

New police, fire station work slated to start in October

Construction of a new police and fire department and a City Hall annex on Stanton street should begin in late Autumn, it was learned Wednesday. No firm date has been set for the calling of tenders, but officials hope to begin construction in October under the City's Winter Works Program.

Council gave tentative approval last week to a model of the new complex, but are still waiting for definite specifications. Architects for the project are Perry and Patch of Montreal, in association with Durnford, Bolton, Chadwick and Ellwood.

Plans call for the construction of modern police offices on the north side of the building. Part of the present structure will be utilized.

Extensive renovations will be made to the fire station in the centre of the complex.

Alleviate crowding in City Hall

A brand new City Hall annex is to be built on the south side to alleviate crowding in the present City Hall building. The annex will house the departments of personnel, purchasing, health and welfare. A police garage will be located in the rear of the building.

A 'new look' for a former schoolhouse

Erection of a new police and fire station in Westmount this autumn marks another turning point in the city's 'new look' that is bringing straight-line concrete structures to streets that until now have been lined with traditional and even minor-Gothic.

To be absorbed by the modern station, is a building that has run the gamit of house to school to town hall to its present police and fire usage.

Briefly, the history of the building runs this way:

In 1876, it was found that accommodations in Westmount's only Protestant School at on the south-east corner of Cote St. Antoine Road and Clarke avenue was insufficient for the growing (Continued on page 6)

Walter Leja Fund attains $25,201

Although the Walter Leja Fund Appeal officially closed on June 30, contributions are still coming in at a steady rate, Mrs. Phyllis Lee Peterson, chairman, said Wednesday.

Contributions to date total $25,201.

Thanks to the generosity of citizens from all walks of life the fund has surpassed the original objective of $20,000, Mrs. Peterson said. She added that donations from corporations which were canvassed last week are only beginning to come in.

The Westmount Municipal Association, sponsors of the fund for Sgt-Major Leja plan to hand over the money to the Leja family "soon after the July 15."

Busy month SPCA says

June was 'busting out all over' at the SPCA, according to the monthly report issued by general manager Bill N. Dunlop.

In all, a total of 6,746 animals were received at the depot and the ambulances made 3,271 calls.

In addition to cats and dogs, the list included rabbits, pigeons, hamsters, chickens, guinea pigs and a racoon.

Though this is the auto age, the SPCA during the month of June ordered one horse 'off work' because of its poor condition.

Winners of a national safety award for the lowest frequency rate in the Transport and Delivery Division in breweries across Canada were employees at Molson's Brewery Quebec Limited. Since 1957 they have won the award three times. Presenting the award, left, is J. H. Moore, president of the Brewers Association of Canada. J. P. G. Westmount fifth in real estate sales Westmount was fifth among island suburbs in total real estate sales for the first three months of 1963 with sales of $3,831,300, according to figures released recently by the Montreal Real Estate Board.

Westmount ran behind the east-end suburbs of Pt-aux-Trembles, St. Leonard de Port Maurice, and Ville St. Michel and St. Laurent.

Real Estate sales in the West End of the island in general reveal an increase over the same period a year ago. Increase over the island as a whole— including city wards and suburbs is slightly under two and a half million dollars at $2,478,457.

In the city ward division Mount Royal led the field Ahuntsic came second and Notre Dame de Grace was third.

Restoration of old Montreal fostered by Brig J. Nesbitt

J. Aird Nesbitt, prominent Westmount resident and president of Jas. A. Ogilvy's Ltd., has had a life-long interest in literature and the arts as well as a keen interest in the history of Montreal.

Now, for the 100th anniversary of Ogilvy's which will be observed in 1966, he is combining the two and has purchased the old duCalvet House, on the north-east corner of Bonsecours and St. Paul streets — just a stone's-throw from the door of the celebrated Sailor's Church.

The move, he says, is part of a plan to share the anniversary of the store with the community.

Tentative plans call for a renovation of the property and the opening of a book shop — specializing in English and French volumes as well as old prints and documents. Under consideration is an open-air restaurant to the rear of the stone building.

The house was built by Pierre duCalvet, who is down in the records as a rogue who made a spectacular profit in a short time under the French regime. He came to Canada in 1758 and spent three years in a Quebec prison for what is referred to as "his political role in the American invasion."

But he is said to have been a free-booter and a traitor. While proclaiming loyalty to one side, he sold supplies and information to the other.

He met his death in a shipwreck in 1786 while returning to Europe from New York, and the duCalvet House and a business on Bonsecours street were part of his vast estate.

Mr. Nesbitt hopes his move will be followed by other old firms who will make a contribution to the community by helping to preserve and rehabilitate the historic sections of the city.

Park pond patched

Good news for the young nautical set Westmount this week decided to patch up the ornamental pond at Sherbrooke and Melville as a temporary measure to improve that corner of Westmount Park and, of course, provide place for children to sail model boats.

The planning firm of McEadzean and Everly is currently working on a master plan for the entire park, with special attention to the ponds. The Park's two ornamental ponds had deteriorated with age and the city first planned to leave the ponds unfilled for the summer.

The lower pond will not be filled.

Studies completed; council to vote on pool safety by-law

Westmount City Council will soon be asked to approve a by-law to help prevent accidents or any further drownings in local swimming pools. This announcement, made at Monday's Council meeting, follows two months study by members of the Public Safety and Police Divisions, the Public Works, and Architectural Commission to see "if the development of a swimming pool by-law will do more to insure safety than existing unwritten responsibilities."

The study was initiated in May, following the drowning of three-year old Julie Delo in a private pool on Lansdowne avenue.

Drury steers industry plan through House

Legislation to create a new department of industry to be headed by Westmount's C. M. Drury, finally received second reading Friday in the House of Commons — approval in principle — following a scathing attack from Conservative speakers.

Opposition leader Diefenbaker called the move a "complete intrusion" into provincial rights. He said there was no reason why the Trade Department could not handle the job of the proposed ministry. Noting what he called "an accelerated tendency of government to get back to the days of uncontrolled bureaucracy," Mr. Diefenbaker stated there was no possible justification for increasing the size of the cabinet at this time.

The bill is being steered through the House by Mr. Drury himself, currently Minister of Defence Production, who will become minister in charge of the new department. He assumed this job when Prime Minister Pearson had to enter hospital for a minor operation. The bill now enters the committee stage.

Home improvement activity up

A total of $39,000 was borrowed through bank branches in Westmount during the month of June, for use under the home improvement Plan of the National Employment Commission, it is revealed this week. Eight loans were issued, totalling this amount. For the six months period ending June 30 Westmount banks have loaned a total of $27,815 on 41 different accounts.

In the group of cities having populations between 20,000 and 40,000 Westmount stands ninth in point of value of loans made, the list being headed by Sydney, N.S. Moncton, N.B. is second.

Local builders, renovators and plumbers report that business in this city has picked up to a considerable extent since the home improvement plan went into effect and throughout the city activity is keen in the modernizing and renovating of homes.

WE SAY

English Canada 'can't understand'

"I CAN'T understand what this talk about French-Canadian separatism is all about," said the man on the bus.

"I have a lot of French friends where I work and they all seem happy."

"I think this is a lot of trouble stirred up by the newspapers," he concluded.

* * *

Not all residents of the West End, wherein live the greatest concentration of English-speaking Quebecers, feel that way.

But those three sentences, coming from an adult, unilingual, Quebec-born male, perhaps sum up the big, overlooked facts disturbing French Canada:

English Canada "can't understand;"

To one-tongued English, the French "seem happy;" and Therefore, our French-speaking compatriots' aspirations are only something "stirred up."

(Newspapers, to such people as our friend, are "covering up" when they don't report something or "stirring up" when they do.)

* * *

It is patent nonsense that an entire racial, social, geographic or other group entity is "happy" because the individual member of that group, at the next desk or bench, living next door or in the next street, playing golf with you or selling you something, "seems happy."

There are legitimate aspirations of French Canada which English Canada, ostrich fashion, ignores. It would be well for us all to learn what they are rather than pretend they don't exist.

It is the only way to "understand," assure that we're all "happy," to "stir up" a more vibrant single Canada.

Calls for crackdown on Victoria speeders

Sir, When are the police in Westmount going to do something about the speeding down Victoria avenue south of Cote St. Antoine Road?

There is a 20 mph sign on both sides, yet cars — and particularly taxicabs — go down at 30 mph and even more, with very little done about it, it seems to me.

Yesterday I was going down in my car, at a modest 20 mph as the law provides, and there was a small red truck behind me, with the driver honking his horn at me to speed up. Meanwhile a taxi passed me at quite a pace.

Imagine my surprise when at the bottom of the hill I noticed one of the Westmount bluecoats standing by a radar speed-trap.

He didn't seem at all concerned about anything and was chatting with a group of small boys.

This hill is steep. This hill is dangerous for cars at high speed.

Sir: The recently held 33rd Annual Meeting of the Quebec Division of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind unanimously adopted a resolution of appreciation to the publicity media for their valuable co-operation in our work.

It gives me much pleasure to convey this expression of appreciation to you on behalf of the CNIB. Your assistance in helping us to inform the public regarding our work and regarding the capabilities, problems and needs of blind people, has represented an important contribution to our cause during the past year. We are very grateful to you and to your newspaper.

PINWHEELS

To make pinwheel sandwiches for parties, first cut thin slices of unsliced bread lengthwise. Spread with butter or margarine and the filling before removing crusts. To decorate the centre of the pinwheel, place a row of stuffed olives, pitted cherries or gherkins at one end. Roll up firmly, jelly-roll fashion, sealing the edges with butter or filling. Wrap and chill several hours. To serve, cut each roll into six or eight pinwheels.

New sidewalks planned for five streets

Sidewalks on five Westmount streets will go under the hammer this summer. Reconstruction work on Strathcona avenue is now in progress. Crews should move on to Cote St. Antoine road by next week.

The Roads Department also plans to work on Westmount, Carlton and Argyle avenues. Reconstruction on Hudson avenue has already been completed.

Only those sections of sidewalk on the above mentioned streets that have "definitely deteriorated" will receive attention. This is a regular part of the City's Summer Works Program.

AIRCRAFT SEATBELTS

It is an international requirement for aircraft to have seatbelts since a 1913 accident when a naval pilot fell out of the open cockpit of his seaplane 1,500 feet over Florida.

TV to cover eclipse

If you are tied to the West-End Saturday July 20 and can't get down to Grand'Mere or Shawinigan Falls to see the total eclipse of the sun, then you can get the next best thing by turning on your TV set.

A full CBC camera crew is going to the eclipse area and Percy Saltzman, perennial weatherman, will be host on a special program to explain the phenomenon in detail.

In addition, Lister Sinclair will be on hand to give his personal comments.

World interest

The Shawinigan area will be host to scientists and astronomers from all parts of the world, and interest is heightened by the fact that a total eclipse of the sun occurs only about three times in 1,000 years in a given specific area.

population. The Commissioners, therefore, purchased a house on Stanton street, now part of the Police and Fire Station.

The upper part of Stanton street had been dug out of the hillside only a short time before. At the head of the street, north of the fire station there is a thick concrete wall that keeps Thornhill avenue from collapsing. Behind this wall, now out of sight is a precipice of sedimentary rock that marks the beginning of a quarry from which came the crushed stone of the roads department of the Parish of Cote St. Antoine.

Another piece of land on Stanton was purchased later in 1876 from the Westmount Homestead Company and a larger school, the first Westmount Academy, was constructed. Here there was ample room for 200 pupils. The teaching staff was headed by Mr. John Proctor.

By 1893, the Academy, in its turn, proved too small to accommodate the influx of pupils, so the building was sold to the Municipal Council and a new building later to become Argyle School was erected.

In 1899, the building was converted into a town hall. First mayor to reside in the new headquarters was J. R. Walker, followed by W. D. Lighthall and A. C. Cross.

When the present City Hall was built in 1923, the old hall was converted into a police station.

Major renovations and alterations were made to the station in 1923, '31, and in '51 when a garage wing was added and an addition made on the north side to contain fire department offices.

Mrs. Edna Hawkin

Teacher, adjudicator, examiner is music convention secretary

A music teacher, adjudicator and examiner is serving as secretary of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers convention this week at the Queen Elizabeth hotel.

She is Mrs. Edna Hawkin of Westmount, a seasoned performer who earned her diploma from the Royal College of Music in London, England.

She has performed with the McGill Chamber Orchestra and on the CBC and for the past quarter of a century has taught piano, mostly at McGill.

First president of the Quebec Music Teachers Association — Mrs. Hawkin has served as an examiner for McGill University and as an adjudicator at music festivals from the Atlantic to the Prairies.

Mrs. Hawkin started piano at "a very young age" herself and she believes seven or eight years is the right age to start a child on a musical education.

The musically gifted youngster, she says, comes along only "once in a very long while" and the basic function of a good music teacher is rather to develop the child's love of music, rather than to turn out little prodigies.

First duty of a parent, she says, is picking the right music teacher. The teacher, she says, is the key person — if the teacher fails to make the subject interesting, the child will lose interest, and music will become a grind, not a pleasure.

It is up to the parent, too, says Mrs. Hawkin, to help the child develop a practice pattern.

The most surprising development in all her career, she says, is the number of married women who are applying for instruction. She has 13 on the list at the moment, two working for diplomas.

And the list also includes one grown man, who started from scratch, and is now doing very well, she adds.

The convention is being held at Montreal for the first time in the 28-year history of the association, and there are some 200 delegates in attendance, from all parts of Canada.

and for trade. He quoted U.S. President John F. Kennedy, who in his address to the Canadian parliament on a recent visit said: "Geography has made us neighbors, history has made us friends, and necessity has made us allies."

A devotee of the late Mark Twain, he quoted the celebrated humorist twice during his address: once in connection with his view of Montreal "It is the first time I have even been in a city where you can't throw a stone without hitting a church window," and again in connection with Canadian and American politics.

It was Twain, he reminded his audience, who when attending the opening of the Windsor Hotel in Montreal said: "Down home we have only two industries, as I see by the papers — burglary and politics. Since I am interested in politics, and like to keep my hand in, I have voted frequently since I've been here."

If Twain had made the remark today, and meant it, said Consul Rope, he would have lost his U.S. citizenship.

Cites two dangers

Speaking of the ban-the-bombers and anti-nuclear feeling in the U.S. today, he said: "There are two dangers — irresolution and over-boldness. The United States, ever since it has had nuclear weapons, has tried to avoid both of them."

Principal pays tribute to Dr. Crutchlow

Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, has paid high tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Everett F. Crutchlow, prominent local radiologist, who died suddenly recently.

In a memorial address Dr. Robertson noted the leadership, boundless energy great capacity for friendship and marvellous sense of loyalty of Dr. Crutchlow. "From his earliest school days in Westmount" said Dr. Robertson, "through the years of university, war and professional life, at each stage he made his mark and bound himself to whatever he judged to be best, and those bonds held firm — throughout his life."

The McGill principal and vice-chancellor paid particular tribute to the late Dr. Crutchlow's unswerving loyalty to McGill; his war service; and the manner in which he switched from surgery (which a war wound made impractical) to radiology where he attained "no small eminence."

The memorial service was conducted by Rev. Prof. Stanley Frost, former dean of Divinity at McGill assisted by Rev. John A. Sinms, minister of Montreal West Presbyterian Church and Naval Chaplain RCN (R) and Dean Lloyd C. Stevenson of the McGill Medical Faculty.

From engineering to cattle raising — a major jump for Westmounter S. Randaccio

It's a big jump from Braeside Place in Westmount to Franklin Centre in the Eastern Townships and a switch from Engineering to chicken and cattle raising — but Salvatore Randaccio makes it in stride, and much of the credit goes to his wife.

Actually he wasn't taking much of a chance when he decided on the move. Elena Randaccio was born in Bologna, Italy and her father was an industrialist with 13 farms. It wasn't difficult for her to study scientific farming, and she brought to Quebec the desire to put her learning to practice. The result is the profitable Blueberry Farm where veal-cattle are big business.

Mrs. Randaccio buys the calves when they are less than a week old, and cares for them like babies. "They're delicate," she says, and admits she lost

Two applications for redivision of lots were approved. Property on Belvedere Place was redivided to enable the owner, Mountain Top Realities, to sell a portion of the land to the adjacent property owner to the east.

Another lot on the north east corner of Westmount avenue and Carleton was redivided to enable the owner to build two cottages.

Whitehall apartments re-open after September fire

Reconstruction work on the Whitehall apartments on the north-west corner of Sherbrooke and Kensington will be completed in two weeks, it was learned this week. The building suffered heavy damage in a fire last September. The roof was completely burned out and the interior damaged by water.

A complete replastering and re-wiring was necessary. In addition, a new ventilation and air-conditioning system has been installed. A 17-car garage was built.

Architects and consulting engineers for the reconstruction are MacMillan and Martynowicz.

Museum works in local schools well-received

An experiment by the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in lending works from its permanent collection to Westmount High School and Roslyn School has proven successful and will be extended to other schools Dr. Evan Turner, Director of the Museum said last week.

The Museum began the program as a "trial run" last October in the two Westmount schools as an experiment to bolster its educational program.

He said that he did not regard it as either necessary or desirable that the Federal Government should, in areas where it has clear rights and responsibilities, submit its legislation the province first. 12 Westmount Indians lead league

The Westmount Examiner, Friday, July 5, 1963

Most of the boys who were members of the proud Westmount Indians, Little League Baseball team in the Kiwanis West League in 1962 have graduated from Little League to the Bantam age group 13-15.

Manager Manny Barnoff, has reassembled the former Little League squad and formed a Bantam team that is competing in the Montreal City and District Bantam League in District No. 2.

The Unity Boys Club is maintaining a tradition of the past by sponsoring the Westmount Indians as a Bantam team.

The Indians boast a fine record this season, having won five games against a single loss.

Dalton Barnoff who starred as a Little League hurler has lost none of his sharpness. He has a 3-1 record in Bantam company to date and is hitting the ball with great gusto.

The other half of the Indians pitching duo is Bily Holden, who has won two games to date. Holden and Barnoff alternate at third base between pitching chores.

The balance of the starting lineup is made up of, Roger Harte and Bradley Syvret who share second base; Berold Barnoff, catcher; Bobby Filiatrault, first base; Bruce Norris, short stop; Larry Crouch, right field; Mike Radoman, centre field and Karl Amyot, left field.

The team manager is Manny Barnoff; Mike O'Toole is the coach; Beryl Barnoff is the assistant coach.

The team plays St. Leo's Boys Club tonight at 8:30 p.m., in Gadbois Park located on Cote St. Paul Road.

Finesse not essential

Paul Richards, general manager of the Houston Colts: "Actions in the field are deceiving. I'm never discouraged or frightened away from a kid because he looks awkward. Finesse is not essential. The idea is to get the ball. Nobody cares how you do it. Some of the greatest shortstops haven't been smooth in the field. And some of the smoothest fancy Dans never really covered much ground. The fellow who can play for me is the one who goes and gets the ball, even if he scrambles or stands on his heads."
