World News In Brief

London, June 3.—(Reuters)—Canadian and American visitors, bringing welcome dollars to Britain, spent $33,600,000 in the United Kingdom in 1949, the Board of Trade announced today. All told, a record 549,000 tourists visited Britain last year and spent $120,400,000.

Paris, June 3.—(AP)—Six western European countries—but not Great Britain—are due to announce today their willingness to yield control of their coal and steel to an international authority.

Britain refused again yesterday to endorse French foreign minister Robert Schuman's plan for a coal-steel pool until she knew more about what it would entail. But sources close to Schuman said they were convinced Britain eventually would join the group.

Well-informed quarters said France, western Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and Italy would issue a joint statement today setting June 15 as the opening date for talks to work out details of the plan. All have accepted the pool proposal in principle.

Quebec, June 3.—(AP)—The department of agriculture today announced the dates of agricultural fairs to be held in the Eastern Townships during the summer months.

Knowlton, Sept. 4-6; Cookshire, Aug. 2-3; Inverness, Sept. 5-6; Bedford, Aug. 31; Sept. 2; Richmond, Aug. 17-19; Waterloo, Aug. 11-13; Ayer's Cliff, Aug. 24-26; Marlinton, Aug. 14-16.

Search Pressed For Police Killer

Montreal, June 3.—(AP)—The recently merged Montreal homicide and hold-up squads today pressed their search for the killer of R.C.M.P. Constable Alexander Gamman and for the perpetrators of armed robberies that are plaguing the city.

Hopes of capturing the murderer of Sgt. Gamman were revived last night when a man whose description fitted the killer, staged a $35 hold-up at a downtown store.

The week-long manhunt shifted into high gear and all available members of the combined squads were on the alert for the gun-crazy bandit.

Police said two men visited the Sterling Tea and Coffee Company, Ltd., on downtown LaGauchetière street yesterday afternoon and forced Mrs. M. White, an employee, to turn over $35 from the till.

Detective Capt. Romeo Longpre, head of the squad, said the description given by Mrs. White tallied with that of Gamman's killer.

Freight Rates Policy of Government Is Attacked

Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—Federal handling of freight rates went through the wringer in the Commons yesterday.

Members had a field day on the controversial issue for seven hours, with the government and its rate-making agency coming under heavy opposition fire and with Liberal members coming to their rescue.

The debate was still in full blast as the house rose after a morning, afternoon and night of freight rates. Two votes on the question had to be put over until next week.

Transport minister Chevrier announced that the two opposition motions, censuring the rate-regulatory board of transport commissioners, would be taken as motions of non-confidence in the government.

This indicated a vote on straight party lines, with Liberals lining up against the three opposition parties.

The votes will be on:

1. A motion by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to cut the estimate for transport board administration from $624,800 to $1.
2. A motion by Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) to cut the administration appropriation by $1—the traditional way of expressing dissatisfaction with a government agency.

Mr. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, told reporters that, in the event of his group's move being defeated, the C.C.F. would support the motion to cut the Progressive Conservatives.

The Social Credit party announced support for the Drew motion and likely also would back that of the C.C.F.

The freight-rate debate excluded all other House business yesterday as members seized the first opportunity of the session—on a discussion of transport estimates—to register their views on the

Film Board Wants To Do Its Own Job

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—The National Film Board, now thoroughly screened as a security risk, has rapped the defence department over the knuckles for soliciting non-government film firms to do defence photography jobs, it was learned today. But defence officials say it was all a mistake.

One of the explosions of the last session of Parliament came when it was disclosed that the defence department had refused to let the N.F.B. do certain secret photography until employees were given a security screening.

It was announced some time ago that this screening has been completed, that there have been three "separations" of N.F.B. employees as a result and the defence ban is off.

The defence department disclosed today that the board's photographers have completed two more films depicting life in the various corps of the army but said they are not restricted or secret.

An official said the board has not done any secret work for the defence department since the screening was completed but this, he said, was simply because there has been no secret work to do.

It has been made plain to the department that the board has priority in doing photography for defence or any other government department. This was done by Arthur Irwin, head of the board, who recently drew the attention of the department to the fact that it had solicited two outside firms as well as the board for tenders on a certain non-secret picture job.

Mr. Irwin pointed out that under the film board act the board does the soliciting for any outside work. In other words any department of government wanting photography done arranges it through the board. The defence officials weren't aware of that provision.

Defence official said the department has no objection to using N.F.B. photographers on any secret work now on. The only thing is that there must be secret work to do.

The army said the films of army life are primarily for military consumption. Those already made deal with life in the signals, ordnance, artillery service and infantry corps. At least that many more were planned.

Premier Duplessis Confirms That Man Who Destroyed Plane, Killing 23, Has Talked.

Quebec, June 3.—(AP)—Jeweler J. Albert Guay—the man who time-bombed an airliner to kill his wife—has made a statement to police and reports have it that he has implicated several other persons.

Premier Duplessis yesterday confirmed Guay had talked, thus confirming rumors he had made a confession.

Guay, who did not testify in his own defence at his trial and who decided not to appeal the verdict of guilty returned against him March 14, is scheduled to be hanged June 23.

The Premier, who did not reveal Guay's statement, announced that a decision would be taken next week in the matter.

The man who will probably be called upon to make the final decision—whether other persons said to be accused by Guay should be prosecuted or not—is Hon. Antoine Rivard, Quebec solicitor-general, a noted criminologist.

Mr. Rivard prepared the prosecution of Guay in collaboration with chief Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion.

During his trial, witnesses related how Guay, infatuated with a 19-year-old waitress, arranged to have a time-bomb manufactured and placed aboard an airliner on which his wife was a passenger. The plane exploded over Sault au Cochon, killing Guay's 26-year-old wife and 22 other passengers and crew members.

Reports that Guay had talked began soon after he was moved to the death cell of Montreal's Bordeaux jail to await execution.

Police sources at the time said that the value of any statement by Guay, implicating other persons, would have to be dependent on other evidence police might be able to gather backing it up.

A crown attorney, explaining the hearing of a statement from Guay, said that, in law, it was the evidence of a convicted man, and that to be of value before a court, it would have to be supported by independent evidence and independent witnesses.

One angle to be considered was the possibility of revenge as a motive for Guay's statements, this Crown source said.

The first step the Crown will take, if it is felt that Guay's own testimony is necessary in any further trial, will be to ask the Superior Court to grant a stay of execution.

But, the Crown source said, the presence of Guay at another trial was not absolutely necessary since a duly sworn statement was acceptable before a court. Cross examination by defence counsel might even be arranged at Bordeaux jail, before a judge.

But this last step would be taken only if it was definitely decided that action would be taken against one or more persons named by Guay as accomplices.

The final decision, it was believed, will rest on a secretly-conducted police investigation based on allegations made by Guay, the Attorney-General's department files and other reports.

Belgians Go To Polls Tomorrow

By ALFRED CHEVAL
Brussels, June 3.—(AP)—With the people showing unmistakable signs of weariness with the whole situation, Belgium votes once again Sunday on the fate of exiled King Leopold.

More than 5,000,000 Belgians older than 21 are eligible to vote to choose a new parliament, for the second time within a year. The mayor issue is the future of the monarch, who surrendered to the Germans in 1940 and who has been in exile since the end of the second world war.

But the people seemed apathetic this time. In addition, a lack of funds in party treasuries slackened the campaign. The people knew, too, that even if the pro-Leopold forces should win out, they would face the threat of strikes and demonstrations sponsored by the socialists, bitterly opposing the King's return.

Belgians voted in the last parliament June 25, 1949, electing 105 Social Christians, 6 Socialists, 29 Liberals and 12 Communists to the Lower House, and 91 Social Christians, 51 Socialists, 26 Liberals and Six Communists to the Senate.

A coalition government of the Roman Catholic Social Christian party and the Liberals then was formed, but it collapsed when the Liberals refused to join in the Catholic insistence that Leopold be returned, without limitations, to the throne.

Sunday's Social Christians make a bid for complete control of both Houses, which would place them in position to ask parliament—which must make the decision—to end the regency of Prince Charles and return Leopold to power. Thereafter it would be up to Leopold to accept any invitation offered him.

Belgium's voters, by a narrow margin, voted March 12 to bring back the King. But the coalition government could not agree on the question. Prince Regent Charles dissolved Parliament April 30 and fixed the date for Sunday's elections.

Press Gallery Aids Winnipeg

Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—Members of the parliamentary press gallery have contributed more than $500 to the Manitoba flood relief fund, it was announced today.

Chester Bloom of the Winnipeg Free Press and John Bird of the Winnipeg Tribune, representatives in the gallery of the fund's parliamentary committee, said that in addition gallery members subscribed about $200 through their own newspapers.

They reported that subscriptions were received from virtually 100 per cent of the 65 gallery members. The subscription list was headed by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former Prime Minister, and an honorary life member of the gallery, who "contributed a most generous cheque through the gallery, at the same time sending a similar subscription to the Rimouski relief fund."

Hong Kong, June 3.—(AP)—Spring floods have raised the threat of more famine in south China, the newspaper Sing Tao Man Po said yesterday.

A dispatch from Canton said 20,000 Chinese were urgently in need of food in one county alone southwest of Canton. The region has been hit by heavy rains this spring.

"Dominion" Day Stands For July 1

Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—The Commons last night reversed a decision it made two years ago on a bill changing the name of Dominion Day—July 1—to Canada Day.

Members voted 73 to 39 to kill a bill that would have changed the name of the day on which the anniversary of confederation is celebrated. In 1947, a similar bill was adopted by the Commons but defeated by the Senate. Both measures were sponsored by Phileas Cote (L—Matapedia-Matane).

The division split through the ranks of the Liberal and C.C.F. parties. The Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members voted against the measure.

Works minister Fournier, government leader in the Commons, voted for the measure. His cabinet colleagues—veterans minister Gregg and resources minister Winters—voted against the bill. Labor minister Mitchell said he would have opposed it if he had not been paired.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and other members of the cabinet were not in the House when the vote was taken. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, led their supporters in opposing the measure, which can't be revived again this session.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, also voted against the bill, but five of his supporters voted for it. They were Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre); Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South); Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North); Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw) and Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia).

In a brief debate preceding the vote, Mr. Mitchell said that without "any mental reservation whatsoever, I can say that I like the word Dominion, and you can put on it whatever construction you like." He hoped he would never see the day when Canada was not a member of the great family of British nations.

Mr. Knowles moved that the bill be referred to the standing committee on miscellaneous private bills. Speaker Ross Macdonald ruled the amendment out of order on the grounds that a public bill could not be referred to a committee on private bills.

W. F. Carroll (L—Inverness-Richmond) said he thought the bill premature, but he would vote for it if a division was called. He did not think a change in the name of July 1 should be made until at least 85 per cent of the people in favor of it. He would prefer, he said, to have the day called Confederation Day.

Mr. Cote, sponsor of the measure, said he felt Canadians should not be ashamed to have the day known as Canada Day.

New Atomic Weapons Are Developed By United States

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Washington, June 3.—(AP)—The atomic guided missile and artillery shell are the latest additions to a list of United States weapons which almost daily bring inching closer the possibility of devastating push-button warfare.

Even in such warfare—which military men say is still pretty far in the future—the ground soldier would play a big part. But more and more the emphasis is on terrible weapons capable of hurling destruction from a distance.

The most recent evidence of this was the authoritative disclosure to an Associated Press reporter yesterday that the army has developed atomic warheads for guided missiles, and atomic shells which can be fired at troops and small targets by artillery.

The first of these almost revolutionary weapons marks a new peak in the extensive research which has centered around the guided missiles which saw sensational but inconclusive action in the Second World War.

The U.S. navy has made such progress with this weapon that it is ready to start converting a cruiser into a missile launcher. It also plans to try sinking a big ship at sea with a guided missile.

The navy has guided several jet-powered "loon" missiles over distances beyond 100 miles over the Pacific from the launching platform of the submarine Cusk.

One navy patrol plane squadron is equipped with the gliding "bat," a 1,600-pound steel and plywood missile which makes course corrections toward its target by radar up to the moment of impact.

The air force—and American military men generally—continue to pin the country's strategic faith on new versions of the atomic bomb which would be dropped directly over the target by a high-flying, intercontinental bomber.

But U.S. airmen also have vastly improved ground and fighter-borne radar and anti-aircraft weapons. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, recently said that the army has an anti-aircraft guided missile which gives promise of destroying attacking planes at ranges beyond 12 miles.

The probability that Russia is developing similar defence has spurred air force work on guided missiles which could be launched from a mother plane well beyond the reach of any known anti-aircraft weapon—and beyond the scope of at least the inner radar screen around strategic targets.

The air force has a 12,000-pound radio-controlled bomb, the "Garrison," fitted with radio and movable tail fins. Both its range and movement from left to right are controlled by the bombardier in the mother plane after the bomb is released. Flares burn in the bomb's tail to help the bombardier follow it throughout its fall.

The X-1 rocket plane, faster than sound, has been launched successfully from the underbelly of a B-29 Superfortress, with a human pilot at the controls. He could be replaced by electronic devices, and the rocket nose could be converted into an atomic warhead.

The army's top commanders have been called to Washington June 7 for a two-day conference with Gen. Collins. The army has said only that the session will give the chief of staff and his generals a chance to discuss high level problems.

Proper CBC Publicity Cost Would Be $200,000 A Year

Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—A. D. Dunton, CBC chairman, estimates it would take about $200,000 a year to give proper publicity to the aims of the publicly-owned national radio system, its programs and its artists.

He gave the figure to the Commons committee on radio broadcasting after saying that the CBC spent about $15,000 in the last fiscal year to advertise programs and stations.

The committee will travel to Montreal Monday to inspect the new CBC headquarters there. It will meet in Ottawa again next Thursday.

Mr. Dunton said the CBC felt more publicity should be given to artists. Canadians paid tribute to non-Canadian artists whose reputations were built up through publicity. They paid little attention to Canadian artists of equal ability, because that ability was not publicized.

Ralph Maybank (L—Winnipeg South Centre), chairman of the committee, said it had always struck him that many private stations used time to present their side of the case in the Canadian radio field, but the CBC did little to give its side of the case.

Mr. Dunton said the corporation felt it should not use public funds to engage in argument with private stations over the laws of the country.

Mr. Maybank said he thought a good deal of factual information could be put out without depreciating in any way the service of private stations. He believed there was a great deal of misconception about the CBC which ought to be corrected.

E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) felt the committee could be useful in that respect. It was one of the committees which received the most prominence in the press.

Mr. Dunton told the committee the CBC board of governors would like to find some means of keeping a check on the commercial content of radio programs. Under CBC regulations the commercial content was supposed to be limited to 10 per cent of any given period. It was impossible to enforce the regulations.

Referring to the news programs of the CBC, Mr. Dunton said it costs about $250,000 a year to provide news bulletins to the Canadian people. He gave figures showing the corporation paid an estimated $144,037 to news services last year.

Ancient Chapel

A move is afoot on the Island of Orleans, near Quebec, to restore this little stone chapel dating back more than 200 years. The chapel, believed to have been built in 1734, has seldom been used in recent years. It will be cleaned and repaired and St. Pierre parish will preserve it as a monument to Quebec's French colonial times.

Living Costs Index Stays Stationary

Ottawa, June 3.—(AP)—A four-month climb in the cost-of-living in Canada was halted during April.

The Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday that the cost-of-living index—official barometer of Canadian retail prices—for family items—remained stationary during April at the all-time high of 164.0 reached the previous month.

Lower fuel, light and clothing prices, that offset a slight rise in food costs, halted the upward movement of the index that had registered a three-point climb since December.

The index is calculated on the basis 1935-39 prices equal 100.

Higher beef and coffee prices pushed the food sub-index up one-tenth of a point to 204.6, but the remaining five groups remained stationary or registered a decline.

The bureau reported that a five-cent decline in butter and small drops in the price of eggs and pork were not sufficient to offset an average increase of four cents in beef and two cents in coffee. At 204.6, the food sub-index at May 1 was 5.1 points above its 1935 level on the corresponding date last year.

Two sub-indices—fuel and light and clothing—declined during April with the fuel and light group registering a half-point drop to 137.5 from 138.0. Decreases in anthracite coal more than offset advances in electricity rates in certain Ontario centres.

The bureau reported that the index for electricity rates "is still below pre-war levels."

Price reductions in women's wear sparked a decline of four-tenths of a point in the clothing group, which slipped to 180.8 from 181.2.

The index for home furnishings and services was unchanged at 166.4, as was the miscellaneous group at 132.3.

The bureau did not make a new survey of the rents field, leaving the rental index unchanged at the all-time high of 132.7 registered last February. The bureau surveys rents on a quarterly basis only.

The index of wholesale market prices—calculated on the basis that 1936 prices equal 100—rose from 156.6 to 157.4 between April 28 and May 26.

The bureau said higher quotations for white lead, steers, hogs, raw rubber, lead, zinc, copper and tin were mainly responsible for the 4.8-point jump. Declines were noted for sugar and resin.

The index of wholesale prices for Canadian farm products advanced two points to 150.6 for the week ended May 26. Field products moved up from 125.3 to 125.9 due to small gains for grains, onions and hay.

During the same period, the animal products index soared 4.3 points to 192.0. The increase in this group reflected higher prices for livestock, continuing an upward trend for the seventh consecutive week. Raw wool and hides and skins moved up four per cent and 3.6 per cent, respectively, during May.

Duplessis Again Rejects General Election Proposal

Quebec, June 3.—(AP)—Premier Duplessis yesterday extended a second invitation to Quebec Liberal leader Georges Emile Lapalme to obtain a Legislature seat without government opposition.

On the other hand, the Premier termed Mr. Lapalme's reply to his first invitation—"asking for general elections"—"puerile bravado."

The Premier took up the subject anew at his regular press conference during which he announced that the Rimouski-Cabano relief fund had so far brought in $400,000 in money and goods.

The Premier also announced that at the request of Archbishop Paul Emile Leger of Montreal, legislation giving a new charter to the University of Montreal would take effect Monday.

Rumors of further action in the case of J. Albert Guay, awaiting execution for the time-bomb destruction of an airliner, were clarified by the Premier who said Guay made a statement and the government would decide what action, if any, it would take next week.

Other announcements said that provincial treasurer Onesime Gagnon will attend Cabot day celebration June 24, in Newfoundland, and that the Quebec government, acting with federal authorities, will make an annual $150,000 grant for six years to the Radium Institute in Montreal. The Institute is concerned mainly with cancer research.

"I renew the generous offer made to Mr. Lapalme," said the Premier. "If a member of the opposition will resign to give Mr. Lapalme the opportunity to obtain a Quebec Legislative Assembly seat, election writs will be issued in the shortest legal delay and the Union Nationale will facilitate, in these circumstances, the election of Mr. Lapalme by acclamation by presenting no candidates in such a by-election."

On Monday, in observance of the King's birthday, the Sherbrooke Daily Record will not be published.

Special Services At Stanstead

Stanstead, June 3.—The annual baccalaureate Sunday services of Stanstead College will be held tomorrow at Centenary United Church in Stanstead and Stanstead South Church in Rock Island.

The special preacher at both services will be Rev. Dr. Harvey B. Campbell.

Tomorrow's services are among the highlights of the College commencement exercises which this week featured three music recitals, for intermediates on Tuesday afternoon, juniors yesterday afternoon and seniors last night.

On Monday there will be a reception and the June prom will be held at Tuesday convocation exercises which will be held at Centenary Church. These will be followed by the convocation tea.

Timber Sales To Britain Seem Remote

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, June 3.—(AP)—Canada's chances of selling more softwood timber to Britain appeared today to depend on Russia.

Sources in the building trade reported that a crucial timber shortage is in the making here, but added that Britain is reluctant to spare dollars for increase supplies from Canada.

Sir Edward Monkhouse, Britain's timber controller, now in Moscow for negotiations on softwood contracts. The government is understood to feel that discussions may prove fruitful, since negotiations were started on Russia initiative.

If Moscow comes through, Britain may be able to switch dollars from Canadian timber to relieve other shortages.

Meanwhile, some softwood is arriving from Canada. Board of Trade officials declined today to disclose how much or what future shipments are envisaged.

Two British newspapers discussed.

EASTMAN

A dance and card party was held in the Chesbro Camp, one Saturday night. A good attendance was on hand to enjoy this evening's program. Music was furnished by local talent. There were modern and square dances, for young and old. An enjoyable time was spent. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Association and the St. John's Guild ladies.

Mrs. Roy Patch, of Brome Centre, were visiting her sister, Mrs. O. C. Bowen, and Mr. Bowen.

Miss Dorothy Baranek, of Sherbrooke, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. M. Baranek. While here she attended the farewell party for the Misses Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould, and son, Billie Gould, of Verdun, spent the week-end at their summer home here.

Mr. Billie Gould, of Verdun, attended the farewell party given for the Misses Johnson.

The Huntingville Scouts and Cubs presented Mr. Beers with a beautiful pair of book-ends, with a few well chosen words.

Mr. and Mrs. Beers were taken completely by surprise but graciously expressed their grateful thanks and voiced their regret at having to leave the community and assured every one that they would have pleasant memories of their many friends here.

Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. W. H. Hunting and Mrs. Kenneth Hunting, grandmother and mother of Mrs. Beers, nee Norma Hunting. Delicious refreshments were served at the attractively arranged tables of spring flowers and candies in silver candlesticks.

General Notes

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Griffith, were Mr. S. Ayer's and Miss Geneva Leavitt, of Boston, and Franginham, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Griffith and son, David, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Libbey, Mr. S. Ayers and Miss Geneva Leavitt were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moulton, at Hatley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Libbey accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Henry Downs, Jr., of Lennoxville, on a motor trip through the New England States.

Man-Smuggling From Mexico Is Big Business

Mexico City, June 2.—(AP)—It's a dark night on the Rio Grande. A man comes out of the brush on the Mexican shore. He peers furtively through the darkness up and down the river.

Satisfied, he creeps down the bank. A dozen men, their left wrists tied to a long cord, follow him in line. They wade quietly to the far bank. The leader stays behind as the other men cut themselves loose and climb up the bank, disappearing into the brush on the United States side.

Another consignment of smuggled Mexican workers has arrived in the U. S.

The leader is an "enganchador" (a "hooker"), so called because he pulls men out of the water. For two or three days he has been quietly talking to Mexicans camped along the shore. They want to go to the U. S. to work. Even at 25 cents an hour, they will make more in an hour than they could make in half a day at home.

They pay in advance—how much depends on how much they have. The average is probably around 10 or 15 pesos—$1.10 or $1.65—a man.

There is small penalty for failure. If the U. S. authorities catch them, the illegal migrants are merely sent back to Mexico. If Mexican catch them, there is a fine of up to 10,000 pesos ($1,166) and two to five years in jail.

Sometimes boatmen will take the Mexicans across in small skiffs or on rafts. These are called "pateros"—"Duckmen."

Mexicans say that even if the migrant gets across the river safely, and finds a job with a U. S. farmer, he is still not well off. The authorities here say the illegal migrant is often paid less than the prevailing wage and that his food and sleeping quarters are sub-standard. It he complains, he is threatened with being turned over to U. S. officers.

Even assuming he gets a job,

COWBOY HE-MAN LEFT AT RANCH WHEN CAROLINA COTTON RIDES

Hollywood — I'm smiling while I'm saying it, partner, but so help me a ridin', ropin' and shootin' cowgirl is about to show the big he-man cowboy stars a thing or two by galloping headlong into the perils of the celluloid west.

Carolina Cotton is the lady's name and from the looks of things she'll be braver than even Errol Flynn.

What's more she'll ride a black mare named Dolly instead of the usual white stallion, she'll have a feminine sidekick a la Gabby Hayes and she'll leave the boy friend a sittin' on the ranch house porch while she rides off into the sunset.

"In Old Utah," an Eagle-Lion movie, is the horse opy in which Carolina will trade powder puffs for smoke puffs.

She'll chase the villains over the range, get her man—with a gun—and wrestle for a knife in a fight with a savage Indian intent on talking her blonde hair home to his old lady.

"Everyone in the picture is scared," Carolina said in an Arkansas drawl. Arkansas is her home state but she started out in show business as a western band singer in San Francisco at the age of 14.

"But I'm not scared," she winked, "because I've read the script."

The script is all about a fence war with Indians on the warpath and Carolina and the U.S. cavalry riding to the rescue of the settlers. Carolina, when she comes, will be wearing blue jeans and a suede blouse with a six-shooter at her side, a rifle slung on her saddle and revenge in her heart.

"I was a dress in just one scene," she said, "and to give the saves his money, and can leave when he wants to, he is not in the clear. He can turn himself over to the U. S. authorities and be sent back to Mexico in safety. But probably he doesn't know that; he's in a strange land, with a strange language. So he finds another hooker to take him back across the river.

There have been cases where returning workers were killed for their savings by the hookers, and their bodies thrown into the river.

Mexico sends some workers to the U. S. legally. They must go on formal contracts which provide they be paid the prevailing wage. They are insured against death or accident and their employer must agree to pay their way back to Mexico. But for every one who goes on a formal contract, there are two or three wanting to go anyway who fall victim to the hookers.

Dr. and Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. H. A. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. John Cruickshank and Ann, Dr. and Mrs. Dickson and sons, Herbert and Gordon, attended the 120th anniversary service at St. Anne's Church in Richmond. At this service Mrs. H. A. Dickson unveiled a tablet in memory of her brother and his wife, Col. and Mrs. W. R. Stevens, which was given by his sisters. After the service Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dickson entertained more than twenty relatives to luncheon.

AT THE PREMIER

Joan Leslie's appetizing supper is a great temptation to the famous Dog "Flame", but James Craig stands on his dignity in this scene from "Northwest Stampede". Eagle Lion's outdoor, cinecolor spectacle opening tomorrow at the Premier Theatre. Comedian Jack Oakie is also co-starred. Also presented here for the first time, "Parole Inc.", starring Michael O'Shea, Turhan Bey and Evelyn Ankers.

part a little feminine touch I even look in a mirror a couple of times. But I don't wear fingernail polish or lipstick and I don't look at any men except if one's framed in my sunlight."

Carolina is framed in moonlight when Glenn Strange looks at her calf-eyed.

"I brush him off," she said. "He starts riding after me in the final scene but I know he isn't going far because I've cut his saddle straps."

Carolina Cotton is 22, blue-eyed, blonde and attractive. But don't let her name fool you. Her real handle is Helen Hagstrom, she's Swedish and until a couple of years ago she couldn't ride a horse, didn't know one end of a lariat from another and had never even fired a cap pistol.

Before Hollywood got the idea of picking Cotton for a feminine boss opera heroine she was a western band singer with a yodeling ability that drove Swiss guides (and neighbors) to suicide.

At one time she sang for five dances and 17 radio broadcasts a week. Stuff like "I'd Love to Be a Cowgirl But I'm Afraid of Cows" and, more recently, "You're Gittin a Good Girl When You Git Me."

Then came this idea of turning her into a daredevil cowgirl and she took riding, roping and gun handling lessons.

Backward Yodel

Carolina arrived in Hollywood eight years ago and first sang with Spade Cooley's band. Her first encounter with a western hero was embarrassing. She spotted a noted cowboy star at a party given by Smiley Burnette, at which he asked her to get up and sing.

She remembers it sadly: "I got up, packed my gum on the microphone, took off my shoes—I like to get a good toe hold on the floor—and started to sing. But because my dream cowboy was in the audience I was nervous. When I reached my yodeling part I was so scared I yodeled eight bars backward."

Despite her San Francisco childhood, Carolina is a country gal at heart and her dislike of shoes isn't confined to getting a toe hold on the floor when she's singing.

Not long ago she was singing in New York. One day she was late for work and had to run to catch a subway train.

Her high heels were hampering her speed so she just whipped 'em off and completed the dash in her stocking feet. Her agents back in Hollywood swooned when she told them about it but, as she says: "I hate to wear shoes."

Cookshire Brothers Plead Guilty To Lumber Theft Charges, Get Six Months

Two Cookshire brothers, who recently pleaded guilty to five separate thefts of lumber, were sentenced yesterday to spend the next six months in jail. They appeared in Magistrate's Court. The accused March Campaigny, NOT IMPLICATED

Leon Gregoire and Sgt. Detective Steno Brasseur made the arrests. Traffic Officer Gregoire en route to Montreal, noticed the two in a truck carrying a load of lumber and questioned the youths who finally admitted to two thefts. Yesterday they admitted to stealing lumber from three other sites.

H. K. Collinge Speaks To Pulp, Paper Group

In an address on "The Responsibilities of the Paper Industry in the Saint Francis Valley," H. K. Collinge, general manager of the Canada Paper Company, made a recapitulation of the early history of the Eastern Townships and the gradual development of the industries therein.

"The address" was made at the annual meeting of the Saint Francis Valley Branch of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association which was held at the Chateau Frontenac Hotel on Thursday, May 25.

"The first Kraft paper manufactured on the North American continent was made at East Angus in 1908," the speaker said. He mentioned the fact that labor in the industries was mainly French speaking whereas the executive was English speaking. This came about he said, because the first settlers in the district were of English origin and they had developed the first industries. The French people of the Saint Lawrence Valley later moved in and began to work in the mills.

"A big responsibility for the paper industry is in the use of the streams," Mr. Collinge went on. "These serve the dual purpose of sewers for mill-wastes and also

Invitation To Visit Technical School Extended

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit the Sherbrooke Technical School, Monday and Tuesday of next week, in the afternoons and evenings, when there will be an exhibit of the work done by students enrolled in this progressive school.

Watch Your Grocer's Fruit Display

Consumers in the Eastern Townships are soon to enjoy fresher fruits and vegetables from their grocer's produce departments, according to an announcement today by Mr. J. Emile Blais, president of Thompson and Alix Ltd.

The Sherbrooke wholesaler is the first in the province of Quebec to introduce a free training class in produce merchandising, conducted by the Canadian Horticultural Council in co-operation with the federal Department of Agriculture, and the Canadian Wholesalers' Association, for the benefit of the food retailers.

Beginning June 19 next, grocers will put on white aprons, and under guidance of Mr. Andre De Chevigny, professionally trained instructor, and Mr. Robert Burns, assistant secretary of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association, they will prepare, trim, display price, and care for fresh fruits and vegetables in a classroom "store" set up in the Thompson and Alix Ltd. warehouse.

Mr. Blais said today: "We are indeed very proud to sponsor this excellent program in Sherbrooke, and we have been very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. De Chevigny to supervise the course and we are sure that the approximate 250 retailers and clerks who are to attend the school will find him a capable and interesting instructor as well as a gentleman. Nearly 15,000 retailers in the United States have received this training. Furthermore, a U.S. Department of Agriculture report on training results show 96 per cent of retailers attending classes have increased their produce department volume, while 95 per cent have cut their spoilage losses. Both these factors are important since they may result in more and better fresh fruits and vegetables for the consumer's table, and at realistic prices."

Studies show that consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables in the U.S. has been well under the 564 pounds needed annually per person for a good diet. Experience of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicates consumer acceptance of these fresh commodities is increased substantially when the retailer uses modern, efficient methods of merchandising.

of potential power generation Since the paper mills are not the only ones to use the rivers, a careful watch must be made so that stream pollution does not become objectionable. The distribution of power between the various industries must also be fair."

Mr. Collinge mentioned the fact that the wood used for paper manufacture in the Eastern Townships is being cut at a rate much faster than that at which it is being grown. He said there is a danger that if a continued yield of 300,000 cord cut per year in the district goes on without any provision for reforestation, the mills will be forced to close down.

"There are signs that some attempts will be made to regulate the cutting. Extensive studies should also be made on the economical use of hardwoods which are still quite plentiful in the region for the manufacture of paper products. Ingenuity is required by the manufacturer to keep and increase the markets for paper products so that the region may continue to prosper."

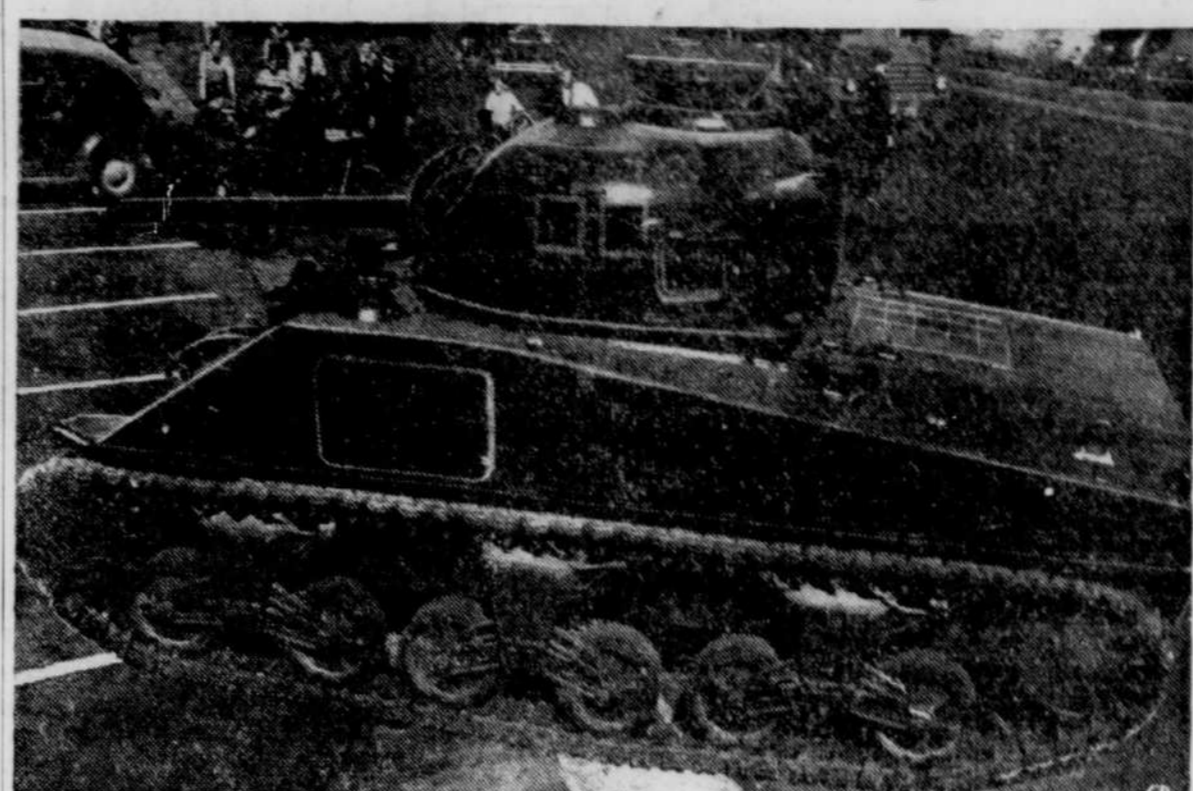

Concerning labor and labor relations, Mr. Collinge hoped that the practice of fair dealing between management and labor would continue as in the past. This region, he said, has always been noted for the fine co-operation between French and English speaking Canadians. He expressed the desire that men be encouraged to learn their chosen trades so that the latent talent in all men should not be lost.

Mr. G. Dick, of the Canadian Ingersoll Rand Co., thanked Mr. Collinge for his address.

Seventy three persons represented the following seven companies at the meeting: Canada Paper Co., Brompton Pulp and Paper Co., Canadian Ingersoll Rand Co., Canadian Johns Manville Co., Philip Carey Paper Co., Sherbrooke Machinery Co., and Union Screen Plate.

Results of the election of officers at the meeting for term 1950-51 were as follows: Chairman, B. C. McMahon; vice-chairman, A. G. Durgin; and secretary-treasurer, P. E. Quessell.

"Holy Roller's" Claim Challenged

With due deference to the First Hussars, with whom they were brigaded during the Second World War, the Sherbrooke Fusiliers are taking umbrage over a report from London, Ont., that the Hussars are presenting to the city of London tomorrow the only Canadian tank that fought its way from D-Day to the end of the war.

The Sherbrooke Fusiliers were a composite Regiment, comprised of men from Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke and the 12th Armoured Regiment (Sherbrooke Regiment) R.C.A.C. Prominently displayed at the armory of the Sherbrooke Regiment is a Sherman tank known as "Bomb."

This tank, records show, fought from D-Day to VE-Day and its exploits have been recorded by the Canadian Army Film Unit in the film "Green Fields Beyond."

"We don't want to become involved in any controversy with our friends of the First Hussars," Lt.-Col. F. W. Baldwin, commanding officer of the Sherbrooke Regiment, said last night. "We are ready to concede that their tank, 'Holy Roller,' (shown above) also went the whole way. But we would like to point out that our tank 'Bomb' also travelled from Normandy right through to the end of the war."

Lt.-Col. Baldwin added that it is the future intention of the Regiment to have the tank mounted in front of the armory, recently damaged by fire, as a memorial to those men who gave their lives while serving with the Sherbrooke Fusiliers Regiment.

Highlights Of Sherbrooke High News

By BARBARA E. WRIGHT

Of course, the big news this week is track both past and future. Last Saturday Stanstead won the Boys' Meet with a grand total of 77 points although S.H.S. took an early lead in the meet.

There were several new records set in the senior section, the shot-put was thrown 53 feet, 10 inches and the discus 105 feet, 2 inches both by J. Clark of Granby High. C. Kavanagh of Cowansville set a new senior high-jump record of 5 feet, 6 inches and J. Cramer also of Cowansville set a new pole-vault record of 10 feet, 5 inches. K. Huet was the individual star of the event with a total of 18 points and he also won the Intermediate aggregate.

D. Webb of East Angus, K. Dryden of Cowansville and J. Cramer of Cowansville won the Midget, Junior and Senior aggregates, respectively.

There were many outstanding performances in the meet, including Dale Crook's victory in the 880, K. Huet's shot-put record and Bevans Giles' 220-yard dash all in the Intermediate section. In the senior section most noteworthy were Dave McIntyre's 440-yard dash, J. Clark's new shot-put and discus records and the broad jump of 19 feet, 2 inches by Jim Fearney of East Angus. Even though we were not the victors we know that everyone of the local students enjoyed the meet and no one disputes its high standard of perfection.

A large crowd is expected at the Girls' Meet today and the entries from Stanstead College, Lennoxville, Drummondville, Richmond, Waterloo, Knowlton and S.H.S. are sufficient to guarantee a very exciting and interesting sports event.

On Monday the boys of the school chose John Evans as the winner of the Newton Memorial Trophy, presented each year to the boy who best exemplifies the spirit of sportsmanship in all phases of school activity. John, active in hockey, rugby, softball and track is also the president of the Students' Council. John was chosen as winner over Emsey Elkas, Herbie Williams, Doug Smith and Gordon Davidson and his congratulations, John, for a well-earned victory.

On Wednesday, the Hart Trophy, the girls' equivalent of the Newton Memorial Trophy, was awarded to Beverley Dawson, a student of Grade XIA. Bev was chosen by all the girls in the school over four other candidates, Diana Reid, Jackie Bryant, Jackie Smith and Jackie Richards, as the girl most outstanding in school activities for her participation in Badminton, operetta and her work on the Dumbel staff. Congratulations, Bev, you really deserved that award.

Calling all golfers. The golf season is in full swing again and we hear a rumour that the Sherbrooke Country Club is considered a campaign for new, young members this season. This would be an ideal opportunity for all the young golf enthusiasts as well as future club-swingers to enjoy a really instructive summer. Those interested may secure information from Bud Forbes of Grade XIA, assistant pro at the local country club.

Our Congratulations To: J. J. BELL, who will celebrate his birthday on Monday.

Film Library Is Opened Here

A film library where private individual or associations may obtain films on many phases of Canadian and international life has been opened in Sherbrooke.

The library, provided by the National Film Board, is in the municipal library at 153 King street west where space has been made available through the assistance of Antonin Deslauriers, city clerk.

These films cover a wide variety of subjects such as art, painting and music, regional scenes, psychological problems, industry, farming, international and national affairs and even sing songs.

All are sound films and are 16 mm. size. There are about 100 of them, half English and half French and from 20 to 30 per cent are colored.

The library, which opened Friday, will be open from 2.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. every afternoon except on Sundays and Mondays.

Granby Plans Construction Of New Schools

Granby, Que., June 3.—(C)—The Roman Catholic and Protestant school commissions of Granby have announced they will seek loans totalling $630,000 for erection of new high school buildings.

The Catholic commission will seek $405,000 and the Protestant commission $225,000.

Other school loans for similar purposes throughout the district are Acton Vale $222,000; Knowlton $130,000 and Sutton $79,500.

Granby, Que., June 3.—(C)—The six parishes of Granby have subscribed $887.45 for the Rimouski-Cabano fire sufferers. City council voted $300 for relief purposes, $100 each to Rimouski and Cabano and $100 to Winnipeg to aid flood victims.

Granby, Que., June 3.—(C)—Father Marcel Laurent has been named vicar of the parish of L'Assomption. Father Laurent, son of Mrs. Alfred Laurent, is a native of Granby. He was ordained last year by Archbishop Alexandre Vaughan.

REMEMBER THE SHUT-INS

Sunday, June 4—tomorrow—will mark the tenth anniversary of the founding of International Shut-In's Day, an annual observance which in future years may reach the same degree of recognition as Mother's Day has today.

The idea of this day originated in the mind of a Canadian, Ernest Barker, of Goderich, Ont., in the year 1940. At that time, Ernie, as he is known to his friends, was a member of the Canadian Cheerio Club, whose purpose was to create friendship through correspondence. The following year the idea was propagated through the club's newspaper and in the same year he talked over the plan with Rev. A. J. McKaye, who then was ministering in Goderich. In him he found an enthusiastic backer, and a year later the Shut-In's Day Association, with Mr. McKaye as its first president came into being to sponsor the day.

Letters were sent out to leading newspapers in Canada and the United States to spread the idea. As the result of one of these letters being published in a Philadelphia newspaper, Mrs. William Franklyn Paris, a Philadelphia bed-ridden woman, undertook to form an American chapter. While so doing she interested Marjorie Lawrence, well-known Australian opera star who is obliged to sing from a wheel chair. Today Miss Lawrence is honorary vice-president of the Shut-In's Day Association International.

In 1945, Rt. Hon. W. L. M. King, then Prime Minister of Canada, endorsed the movement, which began to spread overseas the same year.

Shut-In's Day summons us to Christlike ministry on one particular day, and that in itself is good; it should also remind us that there might well be many "Shut-In's Days" in the course of a year.

But let us be under no misapprehension. While shut-ins are greatly helped by our solicitude, they also have much to give. Few would choose a sickroom or a wheel chair as a place from which to enrich the lives of others. Yet many so confined accomplish exactly that. Visitors see before their eyes what courage and faith can do; in the presence of afflictions bravely borne, they feel themselves silently rebuked for their own grumbling over trifles; they find themselves strangely exalted before the greatness of the human spirit.

Shut-In's Day, then, is twice blest. "It blesseth him that gives and him that takes." Go to your sick friend out of a sense of obligation—you will come away feeling that you have received more than you have bestowed, and that your "duty" has become a privilege.

THIS NATION—PAKISTAN

The current visit to Canada of Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan brings into sharp realization the fact that the people of Canada do not know very much about this Commonwealth nation which makes up two parts of what we are still inclined to call India. Canada has a special interest in Pakistan for not only is this new nation a sister within the Commonwealth, but for at least two other important considerations—the excellent possibilities for development of profitable trade relations and the firm assurance from its leaders that Pakistan will stand with the free nations in the struggle for world peace.

From the addresses he has made during his Canadian visit, it is obvious that Liaquat Ali is a man of keen perception, devoted to his country and earnestly desirous of fostering its growth while at the same time maintaining peace with its neighbors.

Geographically, Pakista is unique as a nation. It consists of two distinct physical units, separated by 1,000 miles of foreign territory. The two units, West and East Pakistan, are situated respectively north-west and north-east of the Republic of Bharat (India). Karachi, the modern capital and main port, is in West Pakistan. West Pakistan, with its 307,000 square miles, is nearly as large as Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia combined. East Pakistan's 54,000-odd square miles top the total area of Nova Scotia. Most of the new nation's people, however, are located in the smaller segment of the Dominion. East Pakistan contains more than 45,000,000 of the country's total population of some 77,000,000. With respect to its political birth, Pakistan is again unique. It is a nation which was deliberately created not on a racial, linguistic or economic basis, but on that of religious unity. It is the world's dominant Moslem state.

The Constitution now being framed by the Constituent Assembly, Pakistan's parliament, will guarantee equal democratic rights to the minority of some 13,000,000 non-Moslems in the country. Pakistani leaders do not hold with the idea of theocracy, or government by ordained priesthood. The entire system of government is patterned on the British. Although the governor-general is head of the state, the reins of power are in the hands of the people through their elected representatives. The leader of the major political party, at present the Moslem League Party, becomes the Prime Minister and is supported by a cabinet responsible to the Constituent Assembly. Significant in view of Hindu-Moslem differences, there are 13 Hindu members in the Assembly and one, Labor Minister J. N. Mandal, in the cabinet. Government in the provinces is by legislative assembly, with certain functions reserved for the central body. Local self-government is under district boards and municipalities.

Economically, Pakistan is essentially agricultural. Its largely agrarian population produces plenty of raw materials. The trouble is, however, there is little industry yet to turn these raw materials into consumer goods. Pakistan today, with a good balance of foreign trade, wants to change this picture in order to raise the standard of living of its people. To this end, Pakistani leaders realize they must import more machinery, steel, coal, oil and fewer manufactured goods; that they must, with these capital goods, build up an indigenous industry; and then export the products of this industry after meeting domestic needs, and cease to export raw materials except when surplus to the needs of its own factories.

Press Comment

SPEED AND THE HOME

Toronto Globe and Mail
The lure of speed has been described as a disease. And it is to be questioned whether men are any happier for their achievement. In general, we justify speed in terms of the saving of time.

It may be asked, to what end? If our saving of time were for the purpose of being still, it could be defended. But ordinarily it is simply to provide another opportunity to go somewhere. Having speed at our command, as we believe, really amounts to being at the mercy of speed. It becomes not an instrument of living, but a mania; not a servant, but a master.

On the other hand, modern city life is virtually founded on speedy transportation. It brings our homes and our work closer together. But far from finding peace at home, when we get there, we pay for our privilege in a restlessness that will not let us go.

Home has become a mere way-station on a treadmill of movement. Far from being the anchor of life, it has become a point of departure. Millions of people have lost the desire to stay still and grow roots, and so, detached from permanent things, they are losing the substance of life. Obsessed by motion, they drift like leaves in the wind; and to as little deserves.

Fort William Times-Journal
Unless authorities at Ottawa have information not yet available to Canadian citizens, regulations and red tape ought to be swept aside to allow an 18-year-old Estonian entry into this country.

The youth, Edgar Kettick, was sent to Germany for his education in 1940 at the age of ten. Two years later, the young boy learned his father, mother and one sister had been killed back home. In an effort to get back to a brother, who had been spared, the boy walked across Germany and finally reached the border of his own country. He escaped from prison last year and made his way to Italy where he stowed away on a tanker.

Since then for a period of nine months, working without pay, he has been working on that tanker. No country he touched would accept him as a citizen.

Then the tanker came to Canada and Edgar asked authorities if he could stay in this country. A hearing was arranged. But under regulations requiring that he have friends in Canada and some money, his request was denied.

The lad has appealed this decision, and the final decision is now up to Ottawa.

If his story hangs together he deserves a haven in this land of liberty.

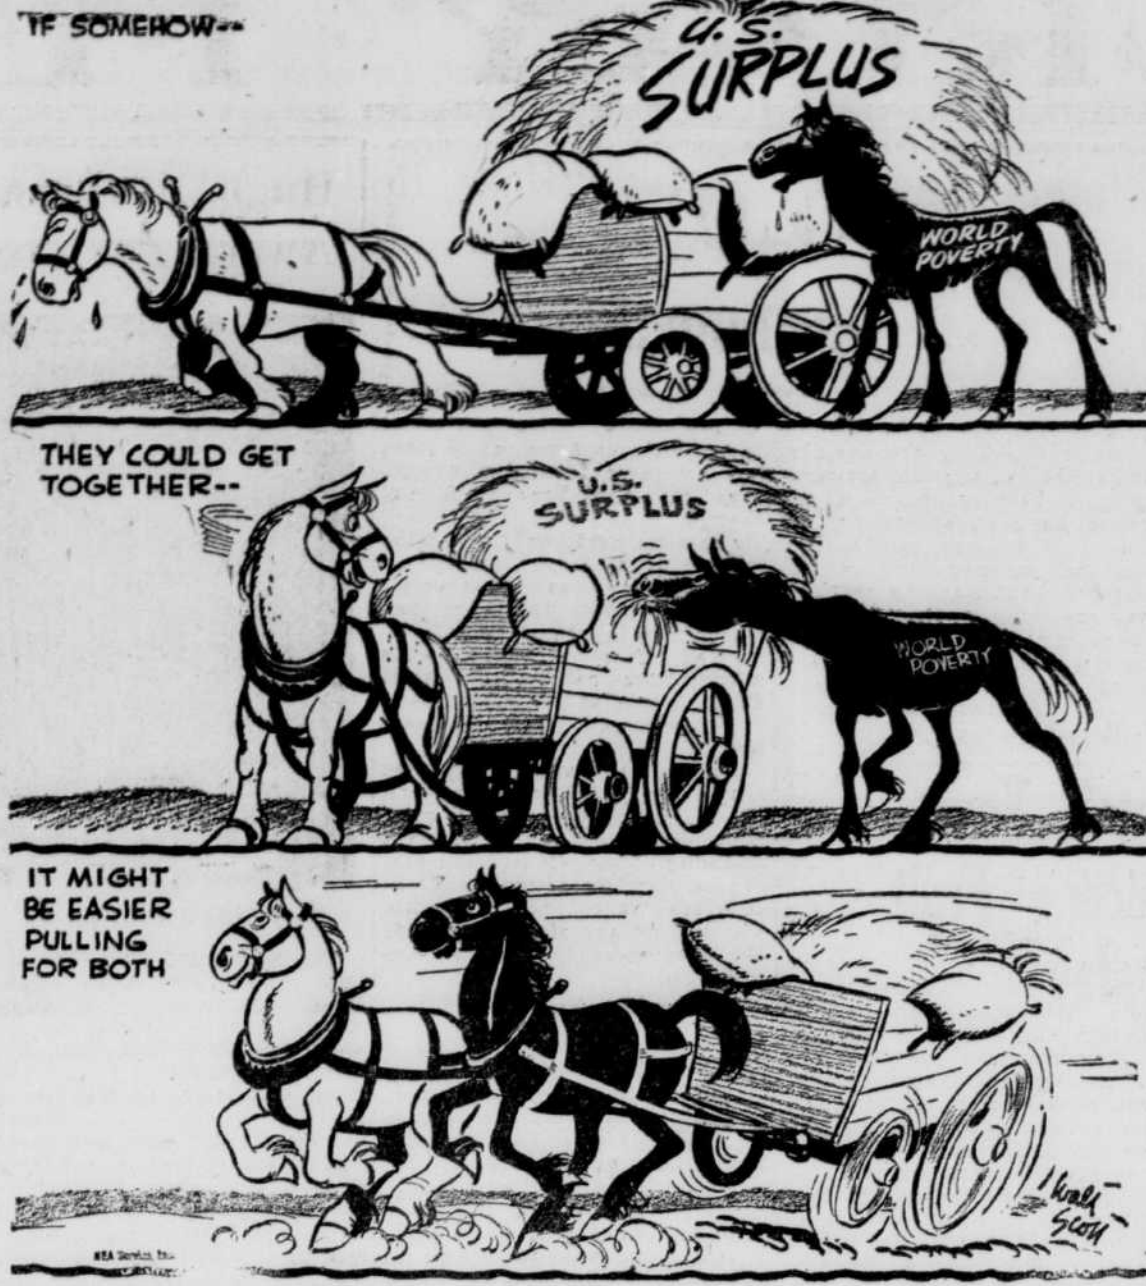

IT LOOKS LIKE DEFEAT

Kingston Whig-Standard
An odd-sounding account of recent military actions which occurred on Hainan and other islands off the coast of China has been issued by the headquarters of the Chinese Nationalists on the large island of Formosa. The action on Hainan for a short time looked as though it might develop into a protracted engagement as the Nationalists resisted the communist invaders. Resistance suddenly collapsed, however, and the Nationalists managed to withdraw most of their forces. The Formosa headquarters thereupon declared that this manoeuvre had thwarted the aims of the communists.

Another sudden withdrawal was announced last week, when the 150,000 troops stationed on the Chusan Islands were withdrawn. It was from these island bases that the Nationalists conducted their effective blockade of Shanghai and other communist ports, and this will now be possible no longer. Yet the returning troops were given a congratulatory welcome to Formosa, and headquarters issued a communique declaring that another scheme of the communists had been "smashed."

Perhaps the communist forces did not consider the capture of Hainan and the Chusans as objectives. They may have had other intentions altogether. From here, however, the actions appear very much like thorough defeats—and the Nationalists are running extremely short of islands to which they can retreat and celebrate such "strategic triumphs."

IF WISHES WERE HORSES...

Steer By The Steeples

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

What is so rare as a day in June? There is something so romantic about June that poets rave about its "leaves and roses." The moon, too, bewitches young people, pointing them in the direction of wedlock. For in June, "the month of brides," more homes are founded than in any other.

Of graduation, June also speaks as thousands pour out of our universities and colleges and schools, armed with their diplomas, ready to face Tomorrow asking Whither?

Whither? That's a question today about our national and international life. Those who think without confusion clearly are alarmed at the trend away from Peace, Brotherhood and Mutual Service. Granting that the state is the "individual writ large," then, in the final analysis, each of us must ask and find an answer to Whither goes thou? We know that the world makes way for he who knows where he is going. It is direction, and not progress, that is all important. So where are you going?

Going My way? asks Christ and His Church. Those old steeples point upward to Him Who is the Way. Travel then, towards Him—Follow His ideals (Phil. 3:12) and all will be well. In other words, face in the right direction and steadfastly hold there and success will be yours, spiritual and otherwise.

BRING HER AROUND TO THAT SPIRE . . .
With June we associate holidays, I hope if you are having your vacation during this questing month that it will be a memorable one, like that of a young man who was deeply impressed, whilst cruising on the St. Lawrence, that the pilots steered by the steeples. In giving orders the pilot would say, "Steer for that Church steeple, or 'Bring her around to that spire on starboard bow.'" You perhaps know that most of the churches were built to aid mariners who navigate the river. Here then is a practical example of the role the Christian Church can and does play as a spiritual guide to those who are willing to shape their course by the chart and compass which comes from Christ who is ever willing to guide us on the sea of life to the haven where we would be.

But, of course, there are far too many who refuse to take their moral and spiritual bearings from the Church. "Why, the Church," they claim, "has failed!" They would like to see many of Her truths relegated to the scrap heap and Her old beliefs and old faiths discarded. Which is about as sensible as an army throwing away its arms and its provisions for the sake of progress! No, my friend, don't believe all that sort of crooked thinking! The Church has not failed! You and I may have failed but not the Church. The Living Church with the Living Christ as Her only Head and the Living Message Her chart and compass cannot fail.

All intelligent, unprejudiced people will agree that the Church gives direction in the art of Christian living and in the making of spiritual character, with ample provision for practice. They, too, will admit that those who keep within the sound of the Gospel and within the cry of Christ have a moral sense which develops the faith, courage and conviction necessary for living victoriously.

THE THREE-FOLD NAME
Too often in a world that is too much with us we forget the things above us as well as those within us and so lose our moral fibre that we are helpless to raise ourselves above ourselves. But those steeples point us to One God, one Lord not one only Person but three Persons in one Substance. For that which

June 3 fell on a Sunday.

We believe of the glory of the Father, the same we believe of the Son and of the Holy Ghost without any difference or inequality. Those Churches were consecrated in the Name of the Blessed Trinity. Those who were baptized therein had the threefold Name invoked. Her creeds declared acceptance of belief in God the Father who made us and all the world, in God the Son, who redeemed us and all mankind, and in God the Holy Ghost who sanctified us and all the elect people of God.

Personal contact with the Spirit of Christ in the Church enables us to become victors. We need "the means of grace" which flow through sacramental channels to cleanse the inner sources of life, to wake the spiritual being, the Son of God within a man, to wipe out corroding sin and bring us into sympathy with God.

Won't you resolve then to steer by the steeples and grow to love the House of God where to prayer and holy song, common worship and sacred study and helpful fellowships find their native home. In the Church you will find a power to touch your heart to fine issues, keeping your conscience clear and bracing you to a right, true, manly, Christian life. There, away from things mundane, you will gain a fresh perception of Jesus Christ as you live in an atmosphere of encompassing Christian influence.

Christian teachers, reformers, martyrs, Christian workers, these are Her heroes, Her saints of God, of whom we owe an incalculable debt. Democracy and modern education are gifts of the Church, so also are hospitals for the sick and insane and all the multitudes of agencies for social services in which our civilization has so much pride. Then, too, she is the focus and radiator of ethical instruction. Her aim? To present every person perfect in Christ. To this She directs our attentions repeatedly to the Ten Commandments—basic for all social living and, of course, Her source Book, the Bible, from which our current code of chastity, truth, love and philanthropy come. Don't forget that to the school and the Church of God, and largely to Christ behind them, we owe our civic liberties, our favorable social conditions, our present enlightenment. And there are many battles awaiting Her leadership; thus far, on her journey down the centuries, She has been a most active agency in battling with the evil in humanity.

The Record Short Story

GINGHAM GIRL

By SANFORD JARRELL

Although he kept his tongue in cheek, Hank Vetter mapped the publicity campaign and supervised its auspicious beginning. He did this with the skill and shrewdness that invariably characterized his craftsmanship and had made him easily the highest paid press chief in Hollywood. He had not spared himself in the slightest. His energy was as immense as his great bulk and his strength held out amazingly well. But when the campaign to find the "Gingham Girl" was finally launched, Hank announced that he was tired and was going to take some time off.

The publicity director of Fairfax Studios didn't know where he was going or how long he would be away. He didn't care. Before he left the office he telephoned his niece, Polly, to whom he had few things in a bag and he'd call for her at six. "We're going places," was his only explanation.

His own preparations were simple. He tossed some extra shirts into a bag, along with shorts, socks, handkerchiefs and a toilet set, and took a couple of suits out to his couple on hangers.

Hank drove to Polly's apartment in Glendale and was startled at the size of her travelling equipment—a small wardrobe trunk and half a dozen pieces of small leather luggage of all shapes and sizes. They were heavy, too, and he grumbled as he carried them out to the car and stowed them in the trunk compartment.

"What do you expect me to do, Uncle Hank, travel in an overnight bag?" inquired Polly, a diminutive blonde young person, with saucy eyes and mouth. "How do I know how long we're going to be gone?"

"If you think," said Vetter, as he settled behind the wheel and headed for Brand avenue, "that we're going to stop at some flossy hotel so you can doll up in a different evening frock each night you're badly mistaken."

"What a sinister thought," shuddered Polly. "I wouldn't know what to do in a ritzy place."

"I suppose," said her uncle, "that you'd be content to wear levis and a lumberjack in a shack by a trout stream, miles from nowhere."

"That," exclaimed Polly, "would be simply wonderful!"

Hank grunted as he turned north toward Burbank and the Valley. They stopped for hamburgers and coffee at a wayside stand in Roscoe, and then drove on to Lancaster, at the fringe of the desert, to spend the night at a little hotel.

"I'll raise you up at five," he told Polly. "We want to hit the holy country before it gets too hot."

It was slowly tooling along the desert highway in the early morning before the summer sun mounted high and poured on the heat. The Joshua trees stood out stark and grotesque among the smaller but stouter cacti. The desert's night chill wore off quickly and then it was warm and suddenly hot.

Ahead of them lay the High Sierras and soon they were climbing into the evergreen land.

They crossed long, bleak stretches of Nevada and Utah, fighting off the heat as best they could—Hank in slacks and a T-shirt, Polly in a playsuit she could have toted in an envelope, it was that brief. Then they were in Colorado, with some of the most gorgeous scenery in the Western Hemisphere, and they stopped whenever the whim seized them. They fished in the Frypan Pan and the South Fork of the Platte and rolled down Ute Pass from Woodland Park to Manitou Springs, and over to Colorado Springs.

It was at the Broadmoor that Polly was able to display some of the wardrobe she carried along and her Uncle Hank didn't grumble much about it. The bar, he found, was excellent and they rode the Coe Road streamliner to the top of Pikes Peak and took in the Cave of the Winds and the Garden of the Gods like any other tourists before heading eastward again.

This time Polly knew where they were going. Hank Vetter was going back to his old home town for the first time in two decades. He took the notion one morning at breakfast and within an hour they were hitting a 60 M.P.H. clip on Highway 40.

Theodore Roosevelt was president and the county seat town had

FINESSES ARE TREES THAT HIDE THE FOREST
The trouble with some bridge players is that they can't see the forest for the trees. They see each suit as an individual problem, but they have no picture of the hand as a whole. This type of blindness is illustrated in today's hand.

If West had been lucky enough to hit upon a heart opening, declarer's bash would have been settled immediately. He would have lost a trick in each suit.

As it happened, West opened the eight of clubs. Dummy played low, East finessed the ten, and South won with the king of clubs.

At this point, South saw that his best chance to make the maximum number of tricks in the spades was to take a finesse. Likewise, his best chance to get the maximum number of tricks in hearts was to take a finesse in that suit. South did not stop to think about the hand as a whole. He proceeded to take a finesse in hearts with the intention of finessing the spades on the way back.

The heart finesse lost to East's king. East returned a trump to the king. East returned again, losing to the queen. The defenders then had no trouble cashing their two aces. The contract was therefore defeated.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN - Charing Cross

By A. K. ASTBURY

All roads which lead to London lead to Charing Cross; for here, where the Strand and Whitehall meet, and on the north bank of the River Thames which divides London in two, is the true centre of the capital of Britain. The Thames used to be much wider at Charing Cross than it is now. But when they built a road along the north bank of the river (now known as the Embankment) they reclaimed part of the river bed and laid out gardens there.

And these gardens remain among the pleasantest in London. The vast glass and concrete buildings of Shell-Mex House and the Adelphi can be seen through the trees, towering above the green lawns and tulip beds; and when the tide is up in the river one can look way across the grass and see tugs and coasters steaming above road level (or so it seems) and almost side by side with the trams which drive up and down the Embankment.

There have been unusually large crowds thronging the long walk in the gardens this week, all drawn there by the annual artists' show held by the London County Council. On railings nearly all the way from Charing Cross underground station to Waterloo Bridge the paintings have been hung up. And sitting on the benches on the other side of the walk, many of them identified by cards pinned to their jackets, have been the artists, with a watchful eye open for buyers.

A Picturesque Scene

I went to look at the pictures; but so struck was I by these Embankment gardens in spring, with the Egyptian obelisk of Cleopatra's Needle standing up dark against the blue sky, with the leaping arches of Waterloo Bridge spanning the waters of the Thames, that I hardly looked at the pictures at all. The artists, of course, one could not miss; and in appearance many of them were distinctly Bohemian. But in comparison with the beauty of the garden the pictures made less impression than they should have done. The whole place itself was picture enough.

But that was by no means the only art exhibition to be held in London recently. And one of others I found distinctly interesting. It was held in the Guildhall of the Corporation of the City of London and was entirely the work of postmen and postal workers. Here were pictures, carvings and lettering from postal workers in Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Belgium, France, Iceland, Norway, Italy and Britain. Sigurd Benediktsson's oil painting of the Icelandic volcano Hekla in eruption rubbed frames (I speak figuratively) with the picture of postmen sorting our rural mail, painted by the village postmaster of Summerbridge in the North of England.

There was a fascinating little group modelled by one of the skilled workmen at the international telephone exchange in London showing two of his colleagues arguing over a table in the canteen there; and many drawings and watercolours of scenes in Britain, of a Surrey mill, of St. Paul's Cathedral, of the Welsh mountain of Cader Idris, any of which I should be proud to have on my own walls.

The Post Office Art Club of Great Britain hopes that in time exhibits may be included from Commonwealth countries, and that pictures by its members may in turn be shown overseas. And talk of sending pictures aboard reminds me of those replicas of the British Crown Jewels, which by this time may already have arrived in Canada. They have been made by an antique dealer of Stockton-on-Tees, England, after 15 years' work. He spent days studying the precious gems in the Tower of London and then combed the mar-

AROUND the ARMOURIES

We thought we had tucked this column into bed for the summer, but like the bad egg it keeps turning up, so here we are, out of retirement again for at least another week. It is not only on the army units that summer camp talk is being heard and plans for the trips away are being made. Our radar friends of the air force are planning for summer camps, too, and you can read more about it below.

Summer camp time is coming up soon and 21 lucky characters have signified their intentions of attending. Camp this year is at Chatham, N.B., and the boys will fly down from St. Hubert and return a week later. Here's hoping you all enjoy yourselves and pick up some useful "gen."

Our convoy location was changed again recently, it is now at Windsor Mills on the Department of Transport field there. F/O O'Boyle says that reception at this location yet tested, and the new site is by far the best of any boys are getting lots of experience on week-end exercises carried out in conjunction with aircraft from St. Hubert.

The general public is advised that our H.Q. in the Northern Electric Building, C.P.R. Terrace is open each week day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and to 10 p.m. on Monday nights.

F/O Sturrock visited Montreal recently in charge of one of our vehicles carrying relief supplies for Rimouski and Cabano, collected by the North Hatley Legion Branch and donated by the people of North Hatley and Waterville.

Owing to the fire in the William Street Armoury the venue of the reunion has been changed to the Belvedere Street Armoury. More details will be given later before this event takes place in July.

"Only 74," Old Soldier Wants To Re-Enlist

Old soldiers may "never die" but there's one in Amherst, N.S., who does not even consider "fading away."

Admitting under pressure to only 74 years of age, Robert Clayton presented himself in a soldierly manner at the door of the North Nova Scotia Highlanders last week and demanded to "join up" with the Reserve unit.

"A bit," he said, when queried on previous military experience. The "bit" was more than 50 years association with the Army, including service with the ancient 3rd British West Riding Regiment at the turn of the century and five years with the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the First World War.

Canadian troops played an important part in the war against the robot bomb. Anti-aircraft gunners, before leaving England for the continent, pounded away at the bombs as they winged erratically over the southern counties.

On the continent, the Canadian Army fought a series of bitter battles for the Channel Coast ports from which the bombs were being launched. Le Havre fell on September 12, Boulogne on the 20th, Cap Gris Nez on the 29th, and Calais, after several days of stubborn, vicious resistance, on the 30th.

To Display Newest Arctic Clothing

Hundreds of Active and Reserve Force Army officers, many of them for the first time, will take time out June 9 for a first-hand inspection of what the well-dressed soldier wears in the Arctic.

The display will be held in the de Salaberry Armouries, Hull, only a stone's throw from the Defence Department's Directorate of In-Service Development, where the stuff is designed and produced.

It won't be coincidence if more than a few officers hunk "June in January" as they view the unique exhibition. They'll be witnessing the weirdest fashion show held in the Transpeninsular.

15,000 Reserve Soldiers To Go To Camp

Attendance at Canadian Army Reserve Force summer training camps is on the increase. Where only 11,000 officers and men went to camp last summer, an estimated 15,000 will have attended before next September. Almost 7,000 of them will train at Petawawa.

Camp attendance figures for the past 20 years reveal a steady increase in the numbers of men reporting for summer field training. This year was the first year of the Second World War when some 30,648 reservists attended camp. Poorest year, the record shows, was during the summer of 1931 when a mere 1,687 men felt they could afford to devote time to military training.

This year camps will be opened for Reserve soldiers at Esquimaux, B.C.; Chilliwack, B.C.; Wainwright, Alta.; Dundurn, Sask.; Shilo, Man.; Picton, Ont.; Petawawa, Ont.; Valcartier, Que., and Aldershot, N.S.

Flashback

Six years ago, on June 15, 1944, the Germans launched their first robot bomb attack on England and, before the sites from which the bombs had been launched were destroyed, more than 8,000 missiles had been directed across the English Channel. Although one-quarter of this number failed during flight, some 2,300 reached the London area.

Canadian troops played an important part in the war against the robot bomb. Anti-aircraft gunners, before leaving England for the continent, pounded away at the bombs as they winged erratically over the southern counties.

On the continent, the Canadian Army fought a series of bitter battles for the Channel Coast ports from which the bombs were being launched. Le Havre fell on September 12, Boulogne on the 20th, Cap Gris Nez on the 29th, and Calais, after several days of stubborn, vicious resistance, on the 30th.

Races In Old Cars

It seems a happy way of giving folk in Commonwealth countries who cannot travel to Britain an idea of something which most of us here take slightly for granted. Other things, of course, we would like you to come and see for yourselves. I do not suppose, for instance, that there is anything like our Veteran Car Club in Canada.

The Club held its first seasonal rally the other day in English county of Bedfordshire, attended by 5,000 people and 1,000 (modern) cars. There were over 60 cars in the rally, mostly half-a-century old. Not long ago, too, there was a run from Epsom to Brighton on the South coast for old motor-cycles, and we saw pictures in the papers of bearded men in strange headgear mounted on incredible machines with acetylene lamps and driving belts of leather. There was a Quadrant tricycle of 1930 with its single rear wheel; a 1904 Kerry which was found filling a gap in a farm hedge and bought from the farmer for ten shillings and sixpence while a 1913 Douglas which competed had been found in pieces behind a grand piano in a Berkshire country house. One competitor even rode his 1898 Beeston tricycle 150 miles from the Norfolk coast town of Cromer to the starting point near London. Happy days, oh happy days!

Warfare then, the Church knows for often She has had to fight for Her ideals. Undismayed she faced the might of the Roman Empire and won. Her growth and influence were prodigious. The Christian movement was packed with dynamite. Didn't the Church give women and children a new status? Didn't she stress the royal law of love concerning Herself on behalf of the least, the last, and the lost? Doesn't our home life wherein love and unselfishness so oft abound, a miniature of heaven above, receive the pattern from Her?

OUR FRIEND—THE CHURCH

With the March of Time, the Church continues unfolding Her evolutionary adjustable pattern to meet existing conditions. Within the past decade though subjected to positive, definite, determined attack, She has survived. Her motto? No surrender! Consequently, millions have a growing appreciation of Her work. Loyal sons and daughters, clad in garments of the spiritual life and brotherly love, support Her. Her face is set towards the future even though this present, age outranks every other as a period of cruel persecution. The Church of Jesus constant will endure! His mystical Body, His Church, has been burned and starved, tortured and thrown to wild beasts but it lives sublimely on. By no death can it be slain; on no cross can it be crucified.

Follow Her Directions

From that 1497 day when John Cabot planted the Cross of Christ on Nova Scotia shores and, later, when holy and humble men of faith—the clergy—scattered the seed of our day we have been blessed with faithful pastors, loyal teachers, and obedient disciples. We can't let them down! We must keep the torch of faith aloft, passing it on to others brightly gleaming. Our friend, the Church, stands now firm keeping civilization from the scrap heap. Won't you give your allegiance and trust and obey Her directions?

Jesus, the Pilot of Galilee, loves you and is ready, for the asking, to pilot you over the sea of life. He has never lost a ship committed to His direction.

To His Church He has directly entrusted the task of giving and interpreting His special directions for a safe, happy, successful voyage to the harbor of home sweet home, Heaven.

Steer your course, then, like those pilots on the St. Lawrence River, by the steeples of the Church!

Hugh MacLennan Wins Literary Award For Creative Non-Fiction

HUGH MACLENNAN

Toronto, June 3.—The mystery novel, "Mr. Ames Against Time," has won for its author, Philip Child of Toronto, the Governor-General's literary award for fiction for 1949.

Announcement of the 6th annual awards was made by Franklin D. McDowell, chairman of the awards board of the Canadian Authors' Association.

The award for creative non-fiction went to Hugh MacLennan of Montreal for "Cross Country."

This is Dr. MacLennan's third Governor-General award. He received the fiction award in 1945 and 1948, with "Two Solitudes" and "The Precipice." Dr. MacLennan's summer home is at North Hatley.

R. MacGregor Dawson of Toronto won the award for academic non-fiction for the second time in three years with "Democratic Government in Canada."

The poetry award went to "Red Hearts and Other Poems" by James Reaney of Winnipeg.

The Leacock medal for humor was won by Earle Birney for "Turvey," a tale of army red tape and wartime fetiches.

For the first time, the juvenile class has been awarded a medal, rather than the citation previously given. This year's winner is R. S. Lambert of Toronto for "Franklin of the Arctic."

Dr. Child's "Mr. Ames Against Time" is a mystery story set in the environs of a theatre. The story also won the 1949 Ryerson fiction award. This "Day of Wrath" was a joint winner of the 1945 Ryerson award. A subaltern in the first world war, Dr. Child did newspaper and settlement work in New York and now is chancellor's professor of English at Trinity College. Aside from his four-novels, including his Canadian historical romance, "The Village of Souls," he is well known for his articles and his keen interest in literary affairs.

Roused Controversy

"Cross Country" is a collection of 10 of Dr. MacLennan's magazine articles. Born in Glace Bay, N.S., he is one of Canada's best known writers. His articles and novels have provoked considerable controversy and secured him a large following.

Mr. Dawson's academic non-fiction award parallels his receipts of the award two years ago with "The Government of Canada." He is the author of many articles and several books on constitutional political subjects. He is editor of the Canadian government series and professor of political economy at the University of Toronto.

"Red Hearts and Other Poems" is James Reaney's first publication in book form, although his work is familiar to readers of poetry. He is lecturer in English and creative writing at the University of Manitoba.

The award for "Turvey" brings Earle Birney his third Governor-General award. He previously has received two poetry awards for "Now Is the Time" and "The Story of Thomas Citizen-Soldier of the Second World War." Mr. Birney is professor of English at the University of British Columbia.

Richard Stanton Lambert's "Franklin of the Arctic" was named the outstanding juvenile book of the year by the Canadian Library Association. Supervisor of school broadcasts for the CBC, Mr. Lambert is the author of many books of biography, sociology and radio, as well as adventure biographies for juveniles.

Presentation of the awards will be made June 30 at the annual dinner of the Canadian Authors' Association in Montreal.

Following were the judges for the awards:

Fiction—William Arthur Deacon, literary editor, Globe and Mail, Toronto; John K. Elliott, literary editor, London Free Press; Roderick Stuart Kennedy, managing editor, Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal.

Creative non-fiction: Richard Crouch, chief librarian, London Public Library; Sandham Graves, editor, Victoria Colonist; John Yorum, managing editor, Saturday Night, Toronto.

ously Her gifts of faith, kindness, "the means of grace and the hope of glory." The finest characters, the sweetest saints are Hers. Democracy, higher education, the tender impulses on which physicians, legislators, and social workers have erected their works for the suffering and poor are Hers. Daily Her bell rings "er hill and dale calling Her children to worship—providing them with the means of grace. In our journey from the cradle to the grave, our Best Friend, the Church, is present to bless and direct. We cannot spare Her at any cost.

Philip Child

Academic non-fiction: Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president, University of British Columbia; Dr. M. M. MacOdrum, president, Carleton College, Ottawa; Dr. V. B. Rhodenizer, professor of English, Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S.

LENNOXVILLE HIGH
By Jean McKindsey

The Lennoxville High School Choir and guest artists presented the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore" in the Bishop's College School auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings of last week. This is the first time that the students of L.H.S. have attempted a musical comedy and all those who are familiar with the works of Gilbert and Sullivan will realize that this is one of the more difficult productions. However, the girls and boys performed with confidence and ability, in spite of the fact that for some it was their first time on stage.

In the opening scene we find the sailors busy cleaning the deck, splicing rope and polishing brass, etc., when Little Buttercup, played by Mrs. E. A. Salter, enters displaying her wares. She is interrupted by Dick Deadeye and Ralph Rackstraw (Mr. Martin Corcoran and Bob Hayden) who in turn make their layments.

Miss Doreen Cook, who portrays Josephine, "The Lass Who Loved a Sailor," tells of her love for Ralph, but her father, the Captain (Larry Jones) tells her that she must forget her love for the poor sailor as she has been promised to Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B. (John Hayward).

After the expected arrival of Sir Joseph Porter and his many relatives, the plot becomes more complicated. We find that the Captain and Ralph were exchanged in childhood, by Little Buttercup who had practiced baby farming, hence it followed that the Captain is in reality Ralph and Ralph actually the Captain. All ends happily, however, and "The Three Loving Couples" are united in marriage.

Following the final performance a social hour was held at the High School for those who had contributed in any way towards making the performance a success. Mr. Denison thanked the principals and accompanists and presented them with gifts as tokens of the School's appreciation for the time and interest they had taken. Jean McKindsey thanked Professor Havard for his patience and co-operation and presented him with a leather brief case from the students of the Choir.

SPORTS AT LENNOXVILLE HIGH

A rally in the last inning gave the Lennoxville High School Junior softball team an 8 to 6 victory over the Sherbrooke High juniors last Monday afternoon.

Lennoxville led the game 3-0 until S.H.S. scored five runs in the fifth inning to make the score 5-4. L.H.S. getting a run in the last half, L.H.S. chalked up two more runs in the sixth to make the score 6-5. In the first of the seventh inning, S.H.S. tied the score but Lennoxville came back in the last half when Brady hit a "home" to bring in Jenne ahead of him and win the game by a score of 8-6.

Allcorn and Hyman both did a very fine job of pitching.

The line-ups:
S.H.S.: Enair, McMurray, Bishop, Chute, Doherty, Richards, Coates, Hollander, Hyman, Lemieux.
L.H.S.: Warner, Nichol, Jenne, Allcorn, Brady, Ladd, Cox, Dupuis, Bullock.

One run in the final frame gave the Lennoxville Senior baseball team a 10-9 win over Sherbrooke High, thus giving L.H.S. a playoff seat.

The game started off by L.H.S. gaining seven runs in the first four innings and keeping the S.H.S. team scoreless. In the fifth inning Sherbrooke went wild to get seven runs and thereby tying the score. In the next innings each team got two runs to keep the score tied. In the first half of the seventh inning S.H.S. got two men on bases but a double play by the L.H.S. infield pulled Bennett out of his hole; the next man flied out.

In the last half L.H.S. filled the bases and a single by MacLeay brought home the winning run to make the score 10-9. Jenne struck the only homer in the first inning of the game.

The batteries were S.H.S. Norris, Travitsky and for L.H.S. Bennett and MacLeay.

Line-ups:
S.H.S.: Travitsky, Griffin, Davidson, Evans, Smith, Chapman, Lavallee, Elkas, Norris, Holt, Loughheed.
L.H.S.: Bennett, Allen, Jenne, Smith, Langley, Littlejohn, Hunting, Hodgman, MacLeay, Warner, Sylvester.

How Important Is This Man's "YES"?

He's the man whose "yes" helped to put an ambitious boy through medical school.

Another occasion, his friendly "yes" started a man in business and today that man's business is a growing, paying proposition.

And then there was the time his "yes" enabled a worried family to get from under a stack of unpaid bills and his friendly advice put that family's budget on a sound, secure basis.

This man whose "yes" has brought peace of mind to thousands of people by helping them get a fresh start is the manager of the Personal Finance Co. office in this city.

His job is to make personal loans, and to keep the transactions on a business-like basis. His years of experience with Personal Finance has taught him to respect the honesty of local people—friends, relatives, or employer are not brought into the picture.

Don't borrow unnecessarily. But if a loan—for a month or a year, or longer—is the sensible thing for you (and you're the judge) the YES MAN will appreciate the chance to say "yes."

You can telephone him... or drop in to see him at the Personal Finance Company office. He says "yes" to 4 out of 5.

Production Is Problem Of Britain

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor
Britain's problem is and must remain one of production.

That is, if in these optimistic days of mid-year 1950 one admits that there is a problem.

For, just now, if you travel to Britain, as this writer did recently, you won't find much word of difficulties. Mostly you will find confidence, growing hope that after all Britain is as she always was—a prosperous nation and a firm spokesman in the world of affairs.

But still the problem remains, and it is this:
Fifty million people have to be fed and clothed, provided with the ordinary wants and reasonable luxuries of life, and carry on their part as a leading power in the world.

They haven't possible the raw resources with which to do it, and so they must rely on selling their skills to buy the things they need from the outside. Never could there be a more perilous economy.

But, you ask, didn't the people of Britain always have to do this? The answer is: "Yes, but not 50,000,000 of them."

For Britain built her modern position and increased her population on the basis that she was virtually the first of nations to become industrialized; that from a poor world she could buy raw materials cheaply and manufacture them into goods which she could sell back at a profit. In effect, she was selling her skills.

She did this well, and she accumulated wealth which she could invest in overseas and faraway countries, and as these countries prospered she received dividends on their prosperity. She also sold services, such as shipping.

These returns—mostly interest on money invested—concocted for a number of years that on current production Britain wasn't really paying her way.

Two wars into her great sacrifice, then came her credit, especially the last, she threw all her resources—sold the house and mortgaged the farm. From then on she was mainly on her own, dependent on supporting herself on current production.

The miracle is that she could make a show of it at all. The fact that she needed help such as given her through the United States and Canadian credits, and later through the Marshall plan, should

A very pleasant event was celebrated by relatives on Tuesday evening, May 30, when Mrs. R. O. Churchill, and her son, Percy Coates, celebrated in a joint birthday party at the home of the former's brother, Mr. Charles Pinkham, in Scottstown. Refreshments including a lovely birthday cake, was served by Miss Lillian Churchill. All join in wishing Mrs. Churchill and Mr. Coates many happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Mowle, of Cookshire, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murray. Other visitors included Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morrison, Mrs. M. MacLeod and Mr. Murdo Murray, of Scottstown, and Messrs. Norman Macdonald, J. E. Macdonald and Murdo MacArthur, of Milton.

Miss Winnifred Rodgers, of Richmond, spent a few days here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rodgers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. MacLeod were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. MacLean, Lingwick Road, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coates and children, of Weedon, were guests of Mr. Coates' brother, Mr. Willis Coates and Mrs. Coates.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Coates and three children accompanied Mr. and Mrs. John Coates on a trip to Garthby.

have surprised no one, and should have been expected by every one. Now, with these helps, she is getting by, and in this prosperous year she seems to be more than getting by.

If, at this stage, you were to say that the world is the same world of 25 years ago, you would have to ask:
"Can Britain sufficiently increase her production that she will be self-supporting?"
You would find that on paper she can and then you would begin to wonder whether in fact she will. A cold answer would say that she won't. A warm answer, based on an innate faith in the British people, will say that she will.

Especially you will say that she will if you believe, as does this writer, that the world is at the dawn of an era of activity of which it has as yet scarcely dreamed.

Citation Has Chance Of Copping First Place In All-Time Money Earnings With Golden Gate Mile

Albany, Calif., June 3—(AP)—Citation, the thoroughbred that has a date with destiny, may keep the pact today at Golden Gate Fields.

The five-year-old son of Bull Lea has only to win the $20,000 added Golden Gate Mile to become the highest money winning horse in turf history.

Citation's chances to reach the pinnacle of racing fame are considered excellent.

The star of the Calumet Farm will pack high weight of 128 pounds. Steve Brooks will be up. Citation will spot his keenest rival in this fixture, Bolero, five pounds.

Bolero, owned by Abraham Hirschberg of San Francisco, set a six-furlong world record of 1:08 1/5 here last Saturday. Whether he can lengthen out to beat Citation over the extra eighth of a mile is the question. "Big Cy" is a proven horse over all distances.

Riding Bolero will be wily Johnny Longden, the Western Canada veteran, who piloted him to the world record. The others expected to go are On Trust, Old Rockport, Esprit De France, and Boomerang Boy. Also named are Fervent, a stablemate of Citation, and Mocopo.

Fervent and Mocopo, however, are expected to start only in the event of an off track. The Golden Gate strip was fast yesterday and there is no prospect of rain today.

In case the six run, the victory will be worth $14,550. With eight going, the triumph would amount to $15,050. In any event, a triumph by Citation will put the big bay into place in all-time money earnings.

Stymie now is the leader with $918,485. Citation has won $910,080.

Hammer Now Called N.L.'s Top Shortstop; Phillies Bob Up With Murderers' Row Of Their Own

New York — Granville Hammer of the Phillies has taken his place among the great shortstops.

A number of schooled observers now rank the young man Ben Chapman plucked off the Richmond, Va., sandlots as the slickest in the National League.

Hammer has the arm scouts everlastingly seek.

"What kills the other side is its accuracy," comments Leo Durocher.

Hammer, an instinctive ball-player, is at his best on relays and cut-off plays.

He wheels and gets the ball away unerringly with one motion, knows where the plate or bag is without looking.

Philadelphia got the second baseman to go with Hammer when Mike Goliat started playing ball for the first time after coming out of the Army. It was much better than being a mine boy hard by his native Yatesboro, Pa.

And you can't beat the hours, even if you have to stay up all night to play professional baseball these days.

Hammer and Mike Goliat did not get together until the latter was called in from Toronto with two-thirds of last season gone, but they hit it off like Joe DiMaggio and Toots Shor from law. They have been inseparable since, roommates on the road, Hammer named his baby daughter, Michele, after Michael.

Young Bob Carpenter's outfit has considerably more than Hammer and Goliat and pitching.

The surprising Blue Jays have speed and a Murderers' Row after all these years. After Speed Boy Ashburn and Hammer in the batting order, Eddie Sawyer torments pitchers with Waitkus, 321; Ennis, 306; Jones, 307, and Sisler, 360.

Puddin'head Jones and Dick Sisler are in the first seven in home runs, and Del Ennis accompanied them in the big five of runs-batted-in when he went out with a pulled muscle in his leg.

Manager Sawyer had a sustained attack when he put Sisler in left field.

After pinch-hitter and lead-off man Ashburn, the Phillies have a long ball threat all the way down to the pitcher.

Catcher Andy Seminick manufactured 24 home runs in 100 games last trip. The gigantic Stan Lopata smacks the sphere a fair piece. The firm of Hammer and Goliat, so reliable and skillful in the field, are more formidable at the plate with men on base, the mark of a good hitter.

If you have been wondering what ever became of Big Bill Nicholson, Ol' Swish will be in the disabled list another month.

Everything happened to the veteran who used to drive in all those runs for the Cubs. He twisted a knee, sprained the calf of a leg. There was something wrong with his heel.

Bill Nicholson will be back, but it is the pleasing young Phillies who promise to carry the fight right down to the wire.

Her face showing the strain of her experience of the previous few hours, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, daughter of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, accepts a cup of canteen coffee near the flooded area of Winnipeg. Accompanying her father, she had just finished a strenuous tour of the district by air and water. Before leaving Winnipeg, the Prime Minister urged nation-wide support of the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund, for which donations can be sent direct to Fund headquarters in Winnipeg or paid into any bank in Canada.

With Lopsided Races And Television, Attendance Is Off, and Shaughnessy Play-Offs Are Savior Of Minor Leagues

New York —(NEA)—Baseball magnates, from the Class D, little fellows who romp on 10-cent stogies to major league dandies who smoke three for $1 perfectos, are crying in their slugs.

They have the best reason in the world to moan. Attendance is down — thump.

The spectator slump is general throughout the land and is due to a variety of things. A late spring and its miserable weather — cold, rain, wind, even snow — cost the majors and top minors tens of thousands.

Television, radio, tighter financial conditions and unbalanced leagues are blamed for the fan decrease in the lower minors.

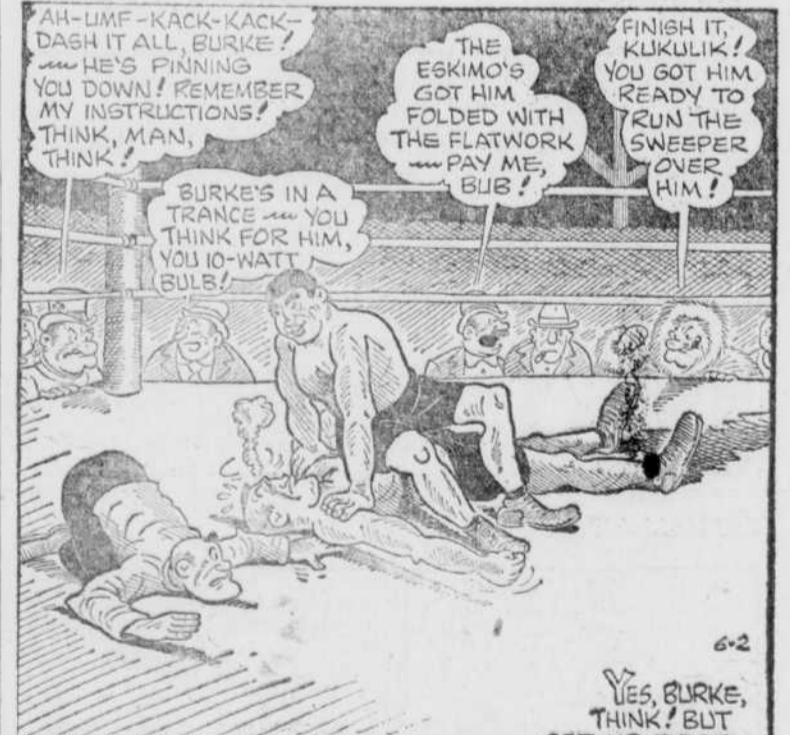

Of all the factors, the lack of balance — of spectator-appealing races—figures to be the heaviest contributor to the deficit.

Optimistic customers hope sad sack aggregations pull up to the first division and land in the play-offs.

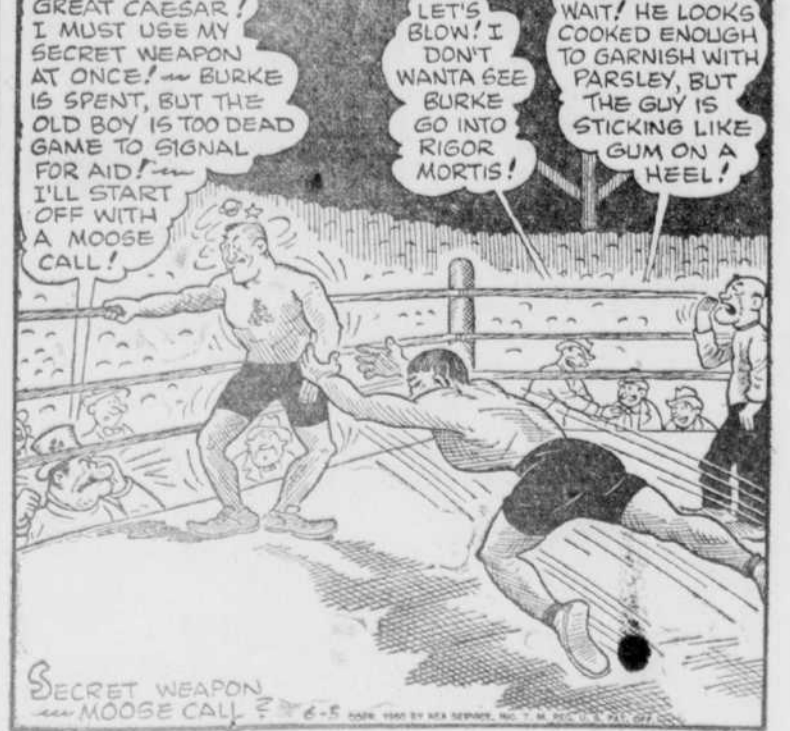

This prospect keeps teams in the race that much longer.

That's why dozens of minor league hold play-offs, a meaningless series to decide the Gov-

SECRET WEAPON MOOSE CALL

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON
New York, June 3—(AP)—It must be the weather. Shag Shaughnessy, the International League president, was putting in an off-day cussing the elements and chucking over some recent major league player trends.

"Rain," he said, "Del Webb tells me in Kansas City they haven't played a home game where they could have batting or fielding practice. They've had to keep the tarpauling on the field right up to game time."

But we got by Memorial Day all right and had some nice crowds... It was real nice sitting out there in the sunshine... (Maybe that's the next baseball novelty—playing games in the afternoon with the sun as a big selling point)... "What do you think of that White Sox Washington deal?" Shag asked.

He's not waiting for an answer he continued. "They were trying all spring to sell those two pitchers, and they were going to hold out for big prices... So they wind up having to trade with each other... Some of the writers are saying Ray Scarborough will go to the Yankees... After putting out a lot of money for Fred Sanford and Dick Wakefield, I don't think George Weiss will ever buy a player again..." He looked out the window again at the rain.

Cleaning The Cuff
Maurice Podoloff is heading for Europe to check up on the Harlem Globetrotters series of sellout basketball games and maybe pick up a few ideas to help build attendance in the National Basketball Association... Maybe he'll bring back a Folies Bergere routine... Hialeah Racetrack is expecting a bumper crop of flamingoes this year, with 35 hatched and 60 more eggs on hand at last report... At that rate, they'll have more birds than Jamaica fans give Eddie Arcaro.

THIS MODERN AGE

Stratford, Ont.—(C)—Cars, yes. But horses, no siree. When a horse escaped from the stable of a local dairy recently it dashed into a garage. The mechanics took a look, dropped their tools and left. They remained out until a stableman came for the horse and took it back where it belonged.

errors' Cup, after one team has won the plums through the long seasonal haul.

But for some, such as Little Rock of the Class AA Southern Association, there is not even that faint hope. If you were a Little Rock addict, how many times would you turn out to see your noble athletes? The Travelers established a 33-year-old Southern Association record losing 21 straight, bagged only one of their first 24.

Selma of the Class B South-eastern League dropped 17 of its first 20. There's plenty of others in the same sinking boat.

Macon, on the other hand, is running away with the Class A South Atlantic title. Havana and Tampa, perennial one-twins in the Class B Florida International, are doing it again. Daytona Beach copped 22 of its first 25 in the Class D Florida State.

The other clubs are just playing out the string.

And it's an extremely long one when the turnstile tune changes from five to waltz tempo.

There's nothing wrong with baseball that a tight race won't cure.

What the game needs most is matchmakers.

But it heiged a little, saying the dollars might be used up elsewhere if Britain negotiated a big timber contract with Moscow.

The Financial Times, which opposes the government, said the shortage has been aggravated by failure of the government's bulk-buying negotiations with Sweden, which so far has supplied only 30,000 standard instead of an anticipated minimum of 250,000 standard. (A standard is 1,980 board feet).

The Financial Times said British importers would like to see as many as 500,000 standards produced as a result of the negotiations with Russia.

"Are they going to do it? Will they give Carol the test?"

"Hark! I finally found speech. 'What in the name of names did you do, you impish little devil?'"

"All I did," Polly exclaimed calmly, "was to wire the studio that you'd found the Gingham Girl right here."

"And signed my name to it? I signed your name to it. They wouldn't have paid any attention otherwise."

"At the studio's excited request, Hank put Carol Cameron on a westbound plane the next day, and Polly went with her. As the big press agent began his long drive home alone, he was chuckling to himself. That Polly, she was a card!"

New Atomic

apons could be one of these problems. The best information available leads to the conclusion that conventional weapons won't be dumped overboard by atomic developments and that soldiers will still have to fight as they always have.

As an air force general recently put it, people may have to be in different places than in the past, but people still will be essential.

There are many reasons for this. For one thing, it is quite likely that defenses will be found for even the most potent of the new weapons. The atomic guided missile offers an example.

Because this missile is guided by radio, radar, television or a combination of these and other electronic devices, it is conceivable that it could be diverted or misdirected from its target by enemy electronics.

Walt Stohlberg To Make Comeback For Berth On Davis Cup Squad

Vancouver, June 3—(C)—Canada's Davis Cup team has an open berth for one player. And Walt Stohlberg, a comeback kid with determination and a dream, has that spot in mind every time he slams a tennis ball.

Known as the hardest hitter in Canadian tennis before a near-fatal automobile accident, Walt is again blasting with his "big game"—almost impossible to stop.

Badly injured in the car crash in October, 1947, the stocky slammer from Vancouver's public courts nursed his game.

Instead of his power game of dynamite service and blistering volleys, he chopped and sliced the ball in an effort to favor his injured right side. But today, things are different for the kid that came out of a German prison camp to become one of Canada's top performers.

"I think I am hitting the ball harder than ever before," says Walt, as he bowls over anyone who dares stand in the way of his base-line drives.

Selection of Lorne Main, Henri Rochon and Brendan Macken, once cup teammates of his, has given Walt the dream of a third crack at the Davis Cup.

Since his return to form, Stohlberg has had little trouble. Local exhibitions against top-notch Americans have proved he is going to be hard to beat.

Brendan Macken, Henri Rochon And Lorne Main Named As Members Of 1950 Canadian Davis Cup Team

Montreal, June 3—(C)—Selection of Brendan Macken and Henri Rochon of Montreal, and Lorne Main, Vancouver, as playing members of Canada's 1950 Davis Cup team, which opposes Australia in a first round American Zone tie at Montreal on July 20-22, was announced by Laird Watt, chairman of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association's Selection Committee.

He indicated that a fourth player will probably be named later.

Appointment of Gordon MacNeil of Montreal as non-playing captain of the team was announced recently.

All three players named today were members of Canada's 1949 squad which bowed out to Australia by four matches to one.

"It is apparent that, in the opinion of the Selection Committee, the performance of Macken, Rochon and Main last season, and in the winter months, has established their superiority over other Canadian players in such a manner that the time and expense of team trials can be avoided this year," stated Watt.

Rochon and Main are Canada's No. 1 and 2 ranking players.

Freight Rates

He declared the government should not get into the field of fixing freight rates. That would be a retrograde step back to the system of 1903, when the Cabinet turned its rate-making function over to a railway board. This board now was competent to handle rate matters.

The minister told the House that Canada now has the lowest transportation charges in the world, except for a couple of countries, on the basis of the cost of moving a ton of freight per mile.

LANGLEY—MARSHALL

The marriage of Evelyn May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Marshall, of Sherbrooke, to Mr. Lennox Charles Langley, of Lennoxville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Langley, of Lennoxville, took place on Saturday afternoon, April 15, at two o'clock, in St. Peter's Anglican Church, the Rev. Canon H. R. Bigg officiating at the double ring ceremony. Mr. James Hopkirk, organist, played the wedding music, and assorted spring flowers were used to decorate the church.

Price Of Marriage

Couple Should Count Cost Before Ceremony—Forget It Afterwards

In a way marriage is a deadline that separates our lives into two distinct parts, and there are certain things that it is wise and expedient to do on one side of it, that it is foolish and disastrous to do on the other side of it. For example, before you marry you should count the cost of matrimony. There is nothing for nothing in this hard-boiled old world of ours. Among the most expensive objects in it is a wedding ring, and before purchasing it one should decide whether or not one is willing to pay the price.

Part of this price is personal liberty. When a man marries he is not free to come and go as he pleases, or even to indulge his personal tastes and habits. His money is no longer his own to spend upon himself, and unless he happens to be rich he cannot have the indulgences to which he has been accustomed as a single man. If his fickle fancy tires of his wife, he cannot kiss and ride away, as had been his habit when he wearied of other women.

When a woman marries she also sells herself into bondage. She is no longer free to do as she pleases. If she has been a society girl, she must become a grub instead of a butterfly.

MUST FOREGO CAREER
If she has been a business or professional woman, in most cases she must give up her work and swap a mahogany desk for a gas range and a tail holder than she ever did before in her life without any pay envelope at the end of the week. At night she must walk the colic instead of dancing, and in place of the flattery of many men she must listen to the fault-finding of one.

So every man and woman who are considering matrimony should do a lot of figuring over the price they will have to pay for it, and decide whether they think it is worth it. But after they are married they should never count the cost of it again.

They should just assume that husbands and wives and homes and children are like automobiles—expensive luxuries that cost you a lot of money and worry and aggravation of spirit, but that give you enough thrills and fun to pay for their upkeep. And, anyway, you couldn't live without 'em.

Likewise, before marriage men and women should wear magnifying glasses when they look at each other, but after marriage they should wear blinders.

Before marriage a man should carefully scrutinize the character and disposition of the young woman with whom he is contemplating spending the rest of his life. He should test out her amiability. He should investigate the amount of brains in her pretty little head. He should find out if she has a sense of humor. He should get a line on her point of view. He should ascertain whether she knows how to cook, and whether she shies at the sight of a kitchen or adores pots and pans. He should make sure of what line of conversation she carries, and whether she could keep him entertained for two hours at a stretch.

Same way with a girl. Before she gets married she should find out what sort of disposition the man has with whom she is contemplating tying up, and whether he will be a little ray of sunshine in the house or a wet blanket over it. She should get his ideas about whether he considers a wife as a partner who goes fifty-fifty with her husband, or as an unpaid domestic servant. She should know what his ideas are on the allowance question, and whether he proposes to be a fireside companion or run with his old crowd, and whether he thinks he can pick out winners on the racetrack and support the local tavern without getting the worst of it.

Before marriage a man and woman should have a good working diagram of each other's every fault and weakness, but on their wedding eve they should chuck it in the fire and forget all about it, and thereafter look not for blemishes in each other, but for perfections.

SHOULD TEST FOR LOVE
Finally, before marriage a man and woman should apply every known test to their own hearts to ascertain if they are really in love, but after marriage they should cease visivesting their own emotions.

Before marriage every man should ask himself: "Will I still love this woman when she is no longer young and pretty? Will her voice still have power to thrill me when I hear it every morning across the breakfast table, asking me to leave money for the milkman and not to forget the butcher's bill?"
Every girl should ask herself: "Will I still love this man when he is fat and bald-headed? Will my heart still do flipflops when I hear his footsteps coming home at night ten years from now, and will I still hang upon his words when he wants to know why I never learn to make biscuits like his mother used to make?"

But after marriage love should be taken for granted, and it is as fatal for a husband and wife to begin to count their heart throbs and analyze their feelings toward each other as it is for an individual to begin to explore his system for symptoms of disease.

There is a time for everything. And the time for doubts and misgivings and counting the cost of matrimony should come before marriage, not afterward.

Asbestos Bride-To-Be "Showered"

Asbestos, June 2.—Mrs. Bert Thompson, Mrs. George Rothney, Miss Harriet Heath and Miss Christine Morrison were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Thompson for a miscellaneous shower for Miss Lola Nicholls, a popular bride-to-be.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with flowers and the tea table was a picture with the artistic miniature bride and her attendants.

The party was a complete surprise to the guest of honor, and she expressed gracious thanks to all friends present for the many lovely gifts presented to her, and thanked her hostesses especially for planning such a delightful shower in her honor.

The Friendly Christmas Club met at the home of Mrs. Stanley Sears. A most enjoyable evening was spent, one new member was welcomed.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

General Notes
Mrs. E. Connolly sailed from Quebec for a visit to England, Ireland and Scotland. Mr. Connolly accompanied her as far as Quebec to bid her bon voyage.

The Past Noble Grands' Club met at the home of Mrs. Boyd, King Street, with Mrs. Frances Hall for the hostess. A pleasant evening was spent and later delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. Flack and Mr. George Flack were visiting friends in Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Foster have given up their house here and are moving into the house occupied by Mr. Foster, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ross are moving into the house occupied by Mr. Borrer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fletcher and little son, of Richmond, were guests at the MacGonigal Cottage, at Lake Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butcher, of Abercorn, Que., wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Mary Irene, to Mr. Donald Baird, of Waterloo, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Baird, of Fulford, Que. The marriage will take place on Saturday, June 17.

The flowers placed on the altar of St. George's Church, Lennoxville, last Sunday were given in loving memory of Fred W. Day by his family.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Baptist Church held their closing meeting in the church hall, on Thursday, June 1. Mrs. D. Knapp conducted the devotional period, after which a short business session followed. The treasurer, Mrs. C. Wright gave the financial statement, showing a substantial balance on hand. Business matters having been attended to, Mrs. R. Sanders, on behalf of the Auxiliary president, made the presentation of a farewell gift to Mrs. D. Miller, who will be leaving Sherbrooke, shortly. Mrs. Miller responded, expressing her own sorrow at her departure and thanked the members for their very thoughtful gesture. A social hour was then enjoyed when refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Mills and Mrs. Sanders.

Mrs. R. E. Wark, Dufferin Court Apartments, returned on Thursday from her country home, at Leeds, where she had as guests for a week, Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Lipsey and Miss Barbara Lipsey, of Edmonton, Alta. The Lipsey family left yesterday for home.

Following convocation held at the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, on Thursday, Mr. A. A. Munster entertained Rt. Hon. Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, at his home on Portland Avenue and later at dinner in his honor at St. George's Club. During the evening the Prime Minister was driven by Mr. Harry J. Munster, to Drummondville, where he made train connections for further travelling.

Mrs. W. E. Hodge and Mrs. B. Hyatt were hostesses to the members of Trinity Women's Auxiliary, Tuesday afternoon, in the club room. The president, Mrs. H. A. Moore, presided over the business period. Mrs. B. Hyatt conducted the devotional period. The committee reported several calls to the shut-in members. Plans were made for a food sale at Milford's Florist Shop, on Thursday, June 8, at 9:30 a.m. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. Williams, Queen Street. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Coxon pouring tea.

Mrs. W. R. Waldie, King Street, West, has returned from Montreal, where she attended the Sir George Williams College Convocation, held in St. Andrew's United Church, on which occasion her son, Mr. John Waldie received his B.A. degree.

Mr. A. R. Kelly, of Notre Dame de Grace, who is spending a week at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Elton Scott, Lennoxville, attended convocation held at the University of Bishop's College, on Thursday.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 31, Mrs. Arthur Arbery entertained the St. Andrew's Auxiliary at her home on Wyatt Avenue. The

Dr. J. D. Jefferis, professor at the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, and Mrs. Jefferis, are leaving Monday on the Empress of France, for a three months' stay in England.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 31, Mrs. Arthur Arbery entertained the St. Andrew's Auxiliary at her home on Wyatt Avenue. The president, Mrs. George MacRae, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a portion of Scripture and prayer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A very interesting letter was read from Mrs. E. A. Wright, in Prince Rupert. Several items of business were dealt with. The treasurer, Mrs. W. Elliott, gave a very favorable report on the recent rummage sale. Tickets were ordered for the strawberry tea on June 28. The Mizpah benediction brought the meeting to a close after which a social hour was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Arbery, assisted by Mrs. Elliott, served delicious refreshments.

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM WARK OF WEBSTERTVILLE, VT.
 Kinnear's Mills, June 3.—William Wark, of Websterville, Vt., passed away at the Camp Nursing Home at South Barre, Vt., where he had been a patient for a short time. He had been in failing health for some time, but had only been seriously ill for a few days. William Wark was born on March 4, 1865, at Leeds, and was the son of James and Isabella Lipsey Wark.
 For several years he was a quarry man at Barre, Vt., later he was a telegrapher for the Main Central Railroad, at Dudswell Junction.
 For the past seventeen years he had made his home with his sister, Mrs. Annie Moore, at Websterville, Vt.
 Other survivors include a brother, Samuel Wark, of Sherbrooke; and twelve nieces and nephews.
 A prayer service was held on Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Whitcomb Funeral Home, in East Barre, Vt., at which Rev. Leonard Steele officiated, and this service was well attended.
 Funeral services were held at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, at Kinnear's Mills. The Rev. A. Seccord officiated. Mrs. Lewis Eager was the organist. The hymns sung were "Abide With Me," "What A

Canada and was stationed at Valcartier, Sussex, and Newfoundland before going overseas in November 1941. He was taken prisoner at the fall of Hong Kong, being repatriated in November 1945.
 He was an active member of the Masonic Lodge, and was a past Master of Fidelity Lodge, No. 77. He took a keen interest in the activities of St. John's Anglican Church of which he was a member, also in all the affairs of the community, and will be greatly missed by his fellow citizens and former comrades.
 He is survived by his wife, formerly Grace Rider; his mother, Mrs. John Fletcher; two sisters, Mrs. Sam Veary and Mrs. Gaston Sinotte; three brothers, John and Ernest Fletcher, of Goffstown, N. H.; and Nelson Fletcher, of Ditchfield; besides several nephews and nieces.

FRANK CUNNINGTON, FORMERLY OF COATICOOK
 Coaticook, June 3.—The late Mr. Frank Cunningham, of Toronto formerly of Coaticook, was killed in Toronto while on his way to work.

Mr. Cunningham had just alighted from a northbound bus in front of the staff office of the Army Workshop Service Depot at Malton when he was struck by a car and hurled fifty feet. Mr. Cunningham was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital but died the following morning, May 4, without regaining consciousness.

 The driver of the car, Phillip Smith, 42 year old, of Victor Crescent, Malton, was placed in Brampton jail by Provincial Constable James Redpath and charged with drunk and dangerous driving. His car was impounded. Police say the driver just missed hitting two other pedestrians, who said he was, "swerving from one side of the highway to the other."

FRANK CUNNINGTON

The late Mr. Cunningham was 60 years old. His body was brought to Coaticook for burial. When the body arrived on Sunday, it was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. John Stone.
 Funeral services were held Monday, May 8, from St. Stephen's Anglican church, with the Rev. W. J. Rowe officiating. Favourite hymns of the deceased were sung by a full choir and Morris Austin accompanied at the organ.
 The bearers were Ray Bean, Durwood Cunningham, Elwood Cunningham, Raymond Falconer, Eric Wallis and Gerald Wallis, all nephews of Mr. Cunningham.
 The many beautiful flowers testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment took place in the family lot, Crocker Brook cemetery.

Besides his wife those left to mourn the loss of the deceased are three sisters and two brothers, two half sisters and one half brother. Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

MRS. BURTON SARGENT OF BEEBE
 Beebe, June 3.—The funeral of Mrs. Burton Sargent, nee Eva May Martin, was largely attended by the sorrowing relatives and friends on Saturday, May 13, 1950. She had been ill for ten months, being confined to her bed most of the time. Regardless of all that faithful and loving hands could do she passed to her eternal home, on May 11. She was in her seventieth year.

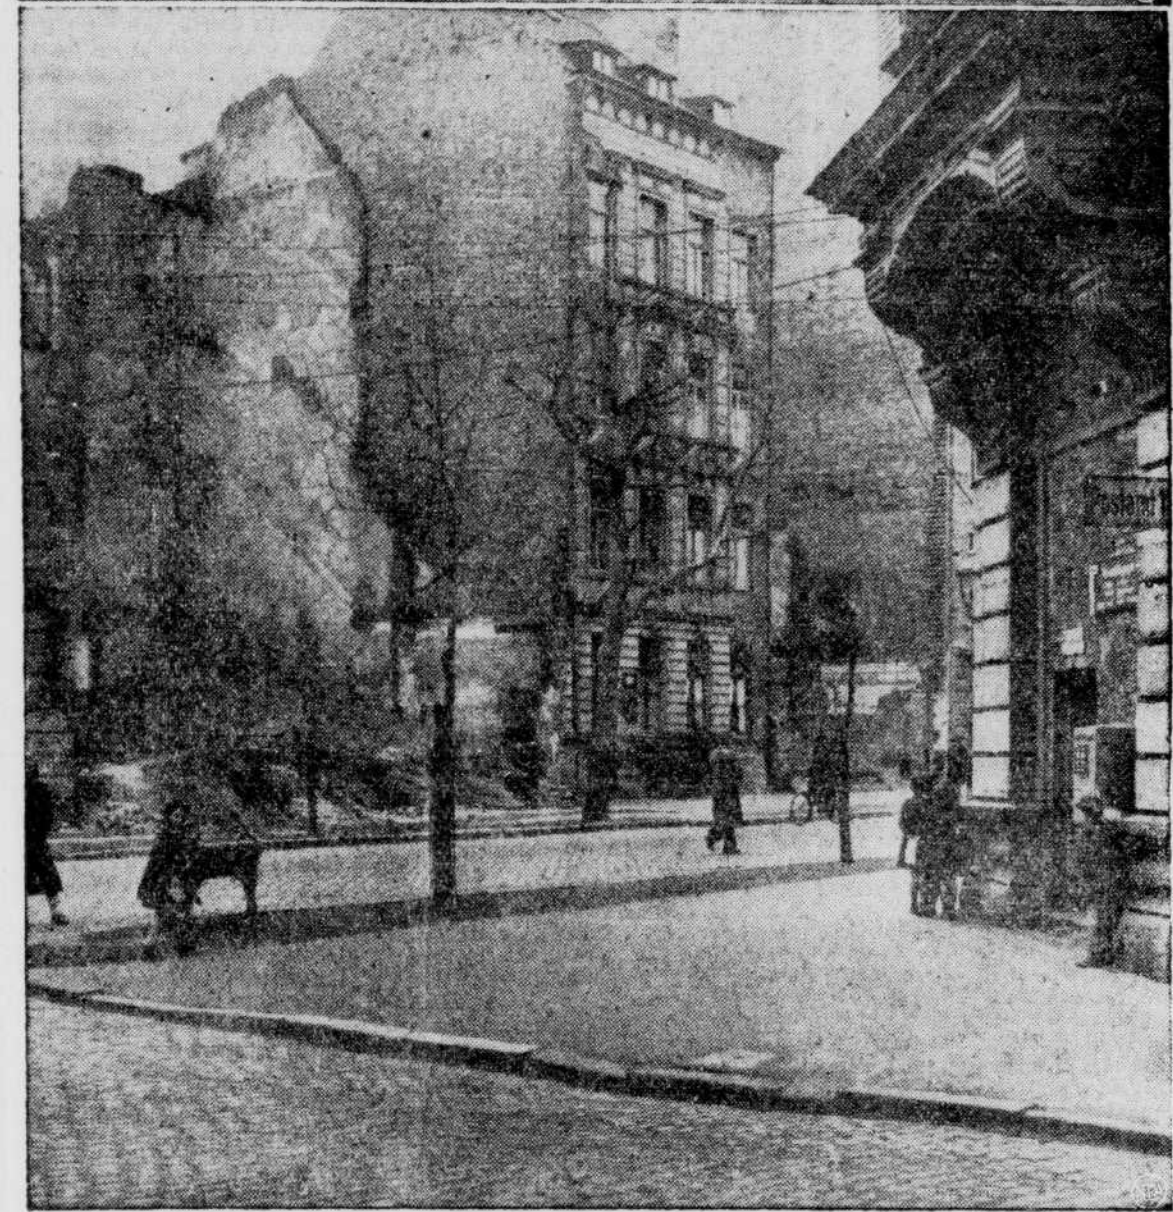

Mrs. Sargent was born at Ayer's Cliff, to Ozero John Martin and his wife, Jennie Mosses, who passed on many years ago. Her school days were spent in West Derby, Vt.
 On July 3, 1900, she was united in marriage to Burton Sargent, son of the late George Sargent and his wife, Mary MacAllister, of Mansenville. Nearly all of their 50 years of married life were spent in the vicinity of Rock Island and Stanstead.

She leaves to mourn her loss: her husband, three daughters, Vera, Mrs. Neil Brevoort, of Beebe; Hazel, Mrs. Wallace Bliss, of Ayer's Cliff; and Jennie, Mrs. George Sargent, of Sheldon Junction, Vt.; two sons, Maynard of Rock Island; and Raymond, of Montreal; two sisters, Nellie, Mrs. W. A. Davis, of East Angus; and Edith, Mrs. A. J. Beaupre, of Haverhill, Mass.; besides sixteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.
 Followed by prayers at her late residence, a service was held at the Stanstead South United Church with the pastor, Rev. T. W. Tyson, officiating with Rev. Craig Wilcox, of Beebe, assisting. Words of hope and comfort were fittingly rendered. A favourite hymn of the deceased was sung by Mrs. M. Meigs and Mrs. F. Squires accompanied by Mrs. F. Goudreau of Beebe, on the piano.
 Beautiful flowers showed the esteem of the loved one. A wreath of red roses from her family and pink carnations from her grandchildren; sprays and cut flowers were received from Lennoxville and Butterfield friends; the Union Twist; the Women's Association, Beebe; and the Women's Institute, Beebe; and from friends at a distance.

Relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Brevoort and Harold, of Beebe; Mr. and Mrs. W. Bliss and children, Leslie, Elwin, Phyllis, Barbara and Linda; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bliss and son, Maitland, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Cooper and son, Jimmy, all of Ayer's Cliff; Mr. and Mrs. George Sargent and children, Ruth, Edson, and Beverly, of Sheldon Junction, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Sargent, of Rock Island; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sargent, of Montreal; Mr. Allen Sargent and Miss Pauline Sargent, of Colchester, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Flanders and children, of Lyndonville, Vt.; and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Woodard, of Beebe.
 She was laid to rest in the Crystal Lake Cemetery, Stanstead.

The bearers were Messrs. Kendrick A. Young, G. Vivian, and K. I. Curtis.

Cologne—At War And Six Years After

Six years have passed since liberating American forces hit the Normandy beaches on June 6, 1944, and many changes have taken place in Europe since that time. The two scenes below, taken at Cologne, Germany, showing a battle spot at the height of its destruction and six years after, as a peaceful street corner, give a typical example of the reconstruction that has taken place so far. At left, troops of the 104th U. S. Infantry Division enter Cologne, already practically destroyed by aerial bombardment and artillery fire. At right, on the same spot six years after, as Cologne residents move quietly about their daily affairs. Note that post office, at right, is still doing business at its old stand. Apartment house in centre, once blasted wide open, has a new wall and roof.

Mirror Lake Rapidly Becoming Popular Vacation Spot

Conveniently Located, Comfortably Set Up, Mirror Lake Cottages Are Ideal Spot For Summer Holidays

Mirror Lake Cottages, situated in a beautiful spot on the east side of Mirror Lake, near Bishopston, are a convenient, comfortable and attractive place for persons on their holidays or for visitors on over-night stays.

They are one mile from the town of Bishopston and 20 miles east of Sherbrooke, on a good highway, half a mile off Highway No. 1 from the five crossroads, Monument, and Westman's service station. Entrance to lake and cottages is just across the road from Cyril Rolfe's fox farm.

The lake at this location is just a little over 100 yards from the highway, and the cottages are in between, with a very good road right to them, with car parking space adjacent to each cottage.

It is a quiet location, overlooking the lake, with perfectly safe bathing even for small children, the water being shallow near the shore and gradually becoming deeper at a considerable distance, with no drop-offs or dangerous spots. There is a new rowboat for each cottage.

The cottages are comfortably furnished for light housekeeping, with very good beds, tenants to furnish their own sheets, pillow cases and towels. They are heated, screened, and furnished with electricity and hot plates. There is pure drinking water from an artesian well drilled 63 feet in the

British Industrialists Have High Praise For Ordinary Working Men

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

When you talk of Britain's ability to support herself, you must inevitably talk about the British workmen and whether he wants to produce more than he has to.

In Britain you will get a lot of different stories on this. Interestingly enough, the most upholders of the British workmen that I ran on a recent visit were British industrialists.

Said one, between complaints about the income tax and lack of incentive:

"The British workman is the most productive workman in the world," said another. "I have goods to sell to Canada only because my workers realize the need and produce them beyond our other demands."

Those are the texts which I think are essentially true. But if you want the other side of the story, it is this:

Many British workmen are not yet convinced that there is any purpose in producing beyond a minimum. They remember the depression, fear unemployment, and make the immediate job last as long as possible.

They do not yet know that in the condition of the world as it is likely to be, there is a place for everything they can produce, and that increased production is their only hope of a higher standard of living.

There are dock workers who insist upon moving by hand goods that should be moved by trucks; who limit the amount which may be carried in a swing to a point far below its reasonable capacity.

Some observers will say: "It is true that more people get less than £7 ($21.70) a week than get more than £7, but still they are better off than they ever were. They do not know they are in a crisis. Their physical anxieties are taken care of from cradle to grave by social welfare the cost-of-living, so far, is kept down by subsidies."

"And so they spend their spare money in the kind of living they know—the pub, and on sport, about which are crazy."

He will add that two years ago solid rock above the cottages. There is a sink in each cottage.

Sanitation is provided by a septic tank, and soft water is supplied from the lake by a pressure pump to a combination laundry and lavatory building. This building is divided into three parts: Laundry room, having set laundry tubs with hot and cold water, and plenty of drying and ironing space. Separate lavatories for men and women, each furnished with two toilets, a shower, and a basin, each with hot and cold water.

There are regular deliveries of all supplies required, such as mail (rural mail box), ice, milk and cream, meats, groceries and vegetables, bakeries, etc. There is also a public telephone booth for the convenience of all tenants.

worker has not the drive of the awakening continental worker. You can get that feeling of insecurity which comes from thinking that Britain is just an island off the coast of Europe, and a smaller fragment on the fringe of Eurasia.

But, having done that, you can't deny more than 1,000 years of history, and your faith remains.

And then, when you have heard the most doleful things about the British workman, you come across something like the following:

Teams from British industries are visiting North America. One such last year was from the foundry industry. Under it, not only did they look at North American industry, but they lived with the men engaged in it—executives with executives, foremen with foremen, workers with workers, trade unionist with trade unionists.

The team went back with a unanimous report and the result has been a marked improvement in the productivity of British steel-founding, and in the attitude of both employers and workers.

They didn't find much that they didn't already know, but they did find a reason for applying it. Perhaps the most effective reasons, so far as the worker was concerned, were electric refrigerators, electric washing machines, and all sorts of modern gadgets in the home of his American counterpart; a car instead of a bicycle; a parking lot at that plant instead of a bicycle rack.

The only thing needed to sell the British workman on more pro-

Cheshire Town Hit By Bubble Trouble

Stockport, Cheshire, England, June 2 — This town has an epidemic of bubble trouble.

So many homes and factories in the district are using soap substitutes that the plant that disposes of the waste water can't "break it down."

Instead the machine is blowing bubbles—"as big as this," said Alderman A. Foukes, waving a clenched fist.

It's the size of the bubble that's causing the trouble. And there are hundreds of them. Some of the spheroids are two feet in diameter.

Said the disposal plants deputy manager, E. R. Jones:

"They're likely to terrorize the countryside for miles around. Besides, they're liable to be reported as flying sausages."

Meanwhile as bubbles gurgle gaily from the plant, experts are experimenting on him to (dis-)solve the problem.

Canadian Collection Wins Stamp Contest

Gilbert, now 15, won the prize with Canadian stamps, which he started collecting while a war evacuee in the west coast city.

SPRING SNOW

St. John's, Nfld.—Final snow of the season fell here May 23. About three inches fell overnight in the city and suburbs. It quickly turned to slush, however, and citizens brought their rubbers out of storage.

ductivity is to give him a reason for it.

And when he sees the reason, he will probably have a trick or two up his own sleeve, for he is, after all, the descendant of the makers of the industrial revolution. In North America we sometimes almost worship machinery for the sake of machinery, but a British industrialist put it this way:

"I don't believe in giving up craftsmanship; rather we should make machines the servants of craftsmanship."

FARNHAM HERE TONIGHT AT 7.15; CUBS TOMORROW AT 2.00

Bob Colette To Hurl This Evening And Lou Knerr Tomorrow Afternoon; Car To Be Drawn At Sunday's Tilt

Bob Colette, the A's young left-hander, will toe the mound this evening when the Athletics will be at home to the Pirates of Farnham in their first week-end game, stated Manager Roland Gladu yesterday afternoon.

The tilt, which is a postponed engagement from Thursday evening will add an extra game for the locals over the week-end as tomorrow afternoon they will take on the Cubs of Drummondville in the first game of a Sunday twin-bill. In the evening the teams will come together at Drummondville to round out the Sunday fixture.

Manager Gladu will send Lou Knerr to the mound for the Sunday afternoon battle, which is slated to start at 2:00, and will use one of his other hurlers for the evening affair. The local mentor also announced that Frank Jelincick will see action in one of tomorrow's games as a catcher or outfielder. This will depend upon his condition and when it was the last time he took part in a game.

Sherbrooke is at present in first position, a slight nod ahead of the Drummondville Cubs, their opponents in a twin-bill tomorrow, and the outcome of the games will have a bearing on the standing. This evening they tangle with Farnham, another club which has been causing a lot of worry to the A's the past few weeks or so.

This evening all teams will see action as St. Hyacinthe will stage a game with Granby and Steve Mizerak and his St. John's Braves will move over to Drummondville to hook up with Stan Breard and his Cubs. No games are slated for Monday evening. Tomorrow St. John's and St. Hyacinthe will come together and Granby and Farnham will hook up in the other Sunday twin-bill feature to complete the bill for the Provincial League.

Golf Ball Reaches Atomic Age; No More Lost Balls In Rough According To Research Centre

Akron, Ohio, June 3.—(P)—The golf ball reached the atomic age today — and started talking back.

No more, it seems, will the lost golf ball — bane of alluffers — be able to hide away under tall grass, stray leaves or other bits of rough.

The B. F. Goodrich Research Centre at Brecksville, Ohio, unveiled the atomic, talking, non-losable golf ball today at Akron's Portage County Club.

One-fiftieth of a gram of radioactive material under the rubber cover of the ball, plus a miniature geiger counter, provided the answer to the duffer's prayer.

Deep in the woods and rough, the geiger counters were brought into play.

When a counter approached the hidden ball, a short erratic sound arose in the ear phones. As the counter grew closer, the sounds reached a crescendo, and there, under a leaf was the lost ball.

Dr. William L. Davidson, director of physical research of the Goodrich Centre, perfected the new ball.

The geiger counter must be within three or four feet of the lost ball before it begins to register.

"We just can't increase the amount of radioactive material in the ball, because of the danger of radiation to the golfer. We found that most golfers carry about a dozen balls, and if we increased the amount of material in each ball, to make them easier to find, the golfer might feel some ill effects. But the small amount now used cannot bother anyone," said Dr. Davidson.

Location of the lost ball is indicated by the geiger counter in two ways — by the flashing of a light or by signals through a head phone.

Dr. Davidson said the project is experimental and that no sale of radioactive golf balls is contemplated at present.

St. Pat's Cop Softball Tilt From S.H.S. 7-6

Kenny Hetherington's infield out scored Bruce Cline to give St. Pat's a 7-6 win over the Sherbrooke High School in a Senior Inter-scholastic softball game played yesterday at the Parade Grounds.

This win for St. Pat's forces a playoff tilt between Sherbrooke High and themselves for the right to meet Lennoxville for the championship. This game will be played Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Parade Grounds.

In yesterday's game St. Pat's took a first inning two run lead as Bruce Cline homered with Andre Gervais on base. There was no more scoring for either team until Bill Morris of Sherbrooke High walked and was hit in by Emys Elkas' double. St. Pat's failed to score in this stanza.

Sherbrooke had a big fourth inning, when with one out Johnny Evans singled, then Gordie Davidson homered. Travis and Norris also scored in the inning's six hit rally.

In their half of the frame St. Pat's scored two runs with two men out, Murray and Veilleux scoring. Doug Smith scored the last High School run when he hit a long home run in the top of the fifth.

St. Pat's loaded the bases in the sixth and with only one out Doray and Begbie went out on easy plays. In the last of the seventh Ed Tobin singled, Gervais walked. Cline and O'Keefe hit single scoring two runs and Hetherington hit a ball to the second baseman, scoring Cline with the winning run.

Lennox Doray was the winning pitcher and Kent Smith the loser, both going the whole way.

RHE S.H.S. 0 0 1 4 1 0 0 — 6 7 1
St. Pat's 2 0 0 2 0 3 — 7 9 2
Batteries: K. Smith and Evans; Doray and O'Keefe.

Mr. Trouble Favored In Belmont Park Handicap

New York, June 3.—(P)—With Hill Prince and Middleground on the bench, Ford and Mr. Trouble will have a final tune-up for the June 10 Belmont Stakes today in the Peter Pan Handicap at Belmont Park.

Five three-year-olds were entered for the Peter Pan.

Mr. Trouble, ran third in the Kentucky Derby, will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro and looms the probably favorite.

Bobby Locke Wins Golf Tourney In England

Worthing, England, June 3.—(P)—British Open Champion Bobby Locke of South Africa yesterday won the Spalding Open Golf Tournament.

Locke's total for four rounds was 267 on the 6,346-yard course. He fired a 65 — one above his own course record — in the third round to set up a new British record of 127 for 54 holes. He did a steady 70 in his last round.

LADIES' NIGHT TO BE HELD TUESDAY

The Sherbrooke Baseball Club has come up with another new idea in a ladies' night. This will be held at the local park Tuesday evening, and all the members of the fair sex attending the game will be given opportunities of winning three gifts.

The executive, with the aid of a couple of merchants, will be giving away a permanent at the Salon Felix, a hat from the Salon George, 120A Wellington street north, and a handbag, donated by J. A. Pigeon, of 68A Wellington street north. To be able to participate in the drawing of these gifts the ladies will have to attend the game. On entering the grounds they will be given a special ticket which will entitle them to a chance on the drawing, which will be held immediately following the game which commences at 8.30.

On Sunday the drawing for the Chevrolet car will be held. Tickets on the car were sold last year, and may be obtained at 2.00 when the Cubs of Drummondville will meet the locals in the first game of the Sunday twin feature.

Amedee Roy, business manager of the A's, has added a new catcher to the team and is also on the lookout for a new hurler. I understand he is chasing one at the present time and hopes to land him this week-end. In the meantime Manager Gladu will carry on with Lou Shapiro, Armando Roche, Earl McGurg, Jean Bournout, Matthew Hall and Lou Knerr with Bob Colette, who joined the squad this week.

If Manager Roy can pick up the new hurler it should give Gladu a fairly well-balanced staff on which to rely. Frank Jelincick, the latest arrival to the club, comes to the A's fairly well recommended and has the reputation of being a long ball hitter. He can play the outfield as well as share the catching chores with Laura Pasqual.

The fourth annual Sherbrooke Hi-Y club girls' track and field meet is taking place today at the Parade Grounds, and from looking over the different meets held during the past quite a few records should be set.

The largest field ever to take part in the yearly event will be on hand to show their wares and the followers of the track should see some pretty interesting battles between the contestants.

Seven schools are entered in the meet, one more than last year, and two schools are competing for the first time. Cowansville dropped out of the tourney, but Waterloo and Drummondville have come in to battle with the other aggregations for honors.

The meet is sponsored by the Sherbrooke Hi-Y Club and they have full control of the whole picture.

It looks as though Bob Latshaw

See where Adrian Zabala turned in a two-hit performance for Minneapolis to blank Louisville 2-0 for his second shutout of the season. Adrian is well known to the local fans and his work in the American Association will be followed with keen interest. In meantime keep rolling Adrian and good luck to you.

The brand of softball which the Sherbrooke Industrial League has been playing is as good as has been seen around these parts for quite some time. The league is wide open and no team is making a run away of the circuit.

The Sherbrooke Regiment aggregation, which had been considered a rather weak sister of the loop, came through with a surprise Wednesday when they dumped the highly-touted Sherbrooke Machineries in a close battle. It seems Manager Bill Cochrane didn't like it too well but he had to take it just the same.

At the present Jim O'Connors and his Superheater team are setting the pace one point ahead of Machineries, Railroaders and Regiment, who are tied for third position in the loop, while Bruck Mills is next with Bas McCormick's scale boys bringing up the rear. The loop is closely bunched and a couple of wins can change the whole picture.

On Monday Machineries and Railroaders tangle while Fairbanks and Bruck Mills clash and the Sherbrooke Regiment will square off against the pace-setting Superheater aggregation. So the fans can be assured of three more good games in Ted Anderson's circuit at the Parade Grounds on Monday evening.

Winner of Them All

Along with over-complicated instruction, the average beginner's greatest handicap is his impatience. He attempts to run before he can walk, to score before he understands the fundamentals of the swing.

The inevitable result, of course, is that he will never be a regular low scorer.

The multifold compensations a hasty golfer resorts to in order to remedy the aching swing that is basically faulty do about as much good as anchoring a shaky walk with yards of velvet.

In my opinion, Japanese clubs have something in a rule which keeps novices off the course until they have reached a certain degree of proficiency.

Novices practice on a large tract, something like a polo field, until a committee passes on them as ready to play on the course itself.

While the idea of having a committee dictate to a player is a practice we would not like to copy

Dutch Harrison Wins Trophy For Second Time

Little Rock, Ark., June 3.—(P)—Golf pro E. J. (Dutch) Harrison won the Canadian Open trophy for a second time—in a courtroom.

Harrison complained in Chancery Court that the trophy, awarded him when he won the Canadian tournament at Toronto St. George's last year, had to be returned this summer but that his wife, whom he is suing for divorce, wouldn't let him have it.

Chancellor Frank Dodge ordered Mrs. Emma Harrison to surrender the trophy.

Harrison's lawyer, J. W. Barron, said the trophy was insured for more than $1,500.

and his Granby Red Sox are taking a nose dive if we can judge from a glance at the standing, in fact they are in the cellar.

Manager Latshaw is really doing a turn-over business. He gave Rogers and Ricketts their pink slip, and once again he is looking for other hurlers to replace the boys.

On one page of the Granby Reveu it is mentioned that Ricketts will remain with the team in the position as relief hurler and when we turn over the page we read where he is on his way home. Wonder what is wrong out in Granby? It looks like internal trouble, but no doubt it will be straightened out with time when Manager Latshaw finds what he is hunting for. In the meantime these things cost a lot of money. But Granby must have it!

MAKES PERFECT—Early morning finds Sam Snead, the finest golfer of the day, on the practice tee—and green.

in letter or spirit, new players in our country would benefit immeasurably if they voluntarily set aside a period in which they learned to hit shots with some correctness before invading a course in search of scores.

All players in the north, not just beginners, would do well to think of winter as the ideal season for disciplined indoor practice.

This will reward them with many summers of pleasure.

Dagmar Rom Suspended By Austrian Ski Group

Vienna, June 3.—(Reuters)—Dagmar Rom, 21-year-old Austrian skier who won two events during the 1950 World Championships at Aspen, Colo., has been banned from all sporting activities for three months by the Austrian Ski Association.

The Association claims that her activities since her return from the United States, including a round of lectures, performing in films and holding many popular receptions for which she is alleged to have received money and presents, have possibly affected her amateur status.

The Ski Association said the ban on Miss Rom will continue until a satisfactory explanation has been furnished.

500 Will Battle It Out In Dominion Track Meet

Montreal, June 3.—(P)—Upward of 500 entrants from 37 schools in Eastern Canada will compete today for Dominion and Provincial track and field championships.

Dominion titles will be sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for winners in class five. Those in classes one to four will be awarded Provincial titles.

Entries from Toronto, Oakville, Ont., Cornwall, Ottawa, Quebec City, Three Rivers, Sherbrooke, Cowansville, Que., and other cities have been received. Schools in the greater Montreal area will be heavily represented.

Martell And Leonard To Miss Canadian Open

Edmonton, June 3.—(P)—When Canada's top golfers tee off in the Canadian Open at Montreal in August at least one of Western Canada's best will be among the missing.

Henry Martell, former Dominion Amateur Champion and now professional at the Highlands Club here, said today he doesn't plan entering. He said Stan Leonard of Vancouver also does not figure on taking in the tournament.

However, Pete Olynak, pro at Edmonton's Mayfair Club, said he plans to take his fourth crack at the title. He finished fifth among Canadians last year.
