

Ah! cruel Maid

DUETT,

Sung by M^r. Kelly & Miss De Camp, in the FORTY THIEVES.

PHILADELPHIA. Published by G. E. BLAKE N^o 1 South 3^d Street.

Kelly

Andantino

Ah! cruel Maid too soon re-tiring, Love's tender vows all fears remove, Ah! cruel Youth too much desiring I dare not say how much I love No more delay me You must not Yet why this haste? One moment yet stay Ah! cruel Youth too much desiring, I dare not say how much I love, Ah! cruel Maid so soon re - - ti - ring, Love's tender vows all fears re - move,

Ah cruel Youth too much de - siring, I dare not say how much I love
 Ah cruel Maid so soon re - ti - ring, Love's tender vows all fears re - move

By Love's pure and tender power,
 This hand and heart I pledge to you,
 By the blessings of this hour,
 To plighted vows for ever true.
 Yet why this haste? &c. &c.

I love No more delay You must away You must a-way, You must a-way, remove, Yet why this haste? one mome[n] yet ah! let me stay? ah! let me stay?

No, no, no, You must away You must a - way ah! let me stay? Ah! let me stay? ah! let me stay? ah! let me

No; no, no, You must away You must a - way stay? ah! let me stay? ah! let me stay? Good ff

Good night good night good night good night night good night goodnight good night good night good night