Irish rioting spreads

Rosemount police headquarters in Londonderry was under gasoline bomb attack at 1:30 a.m. today, Belfast police reported.

Hospital authorities said one man was treated for a shoulder bullet wound and a doctor disclosed a 60-year-old man was hit in the back by a bullet.

Three hundred persons mobbed the police station in Coalisland, County Tyrone.

In Dungannon a mob of 500 was said to be roaming the streets.

At 2 a.m. today, buildings set afire included three factories, the courthouse, the bakery, an old peoples' home and private houses. The old folks home fire was quenched but a garage was completely destroyed.

The wounded included six reporters. Among them was Robert Mott, London correspondent of the Washington Post, who said he was beaten by four policemen who apparently took him for a bogside resident.

Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city and for long a flashpoint in Ulster's religious feuding, had been under extreme tension since the weekend.

It had then become clear that the Protestant-based government of Premier James Chichester-Clark would not ban the parade of the Apprentice Boys, an order commemorating the part Protestant apprentices played in staying off a 1689 siege by the Roman Catholic forces of King James II.

About 15,000 members of the order began marching through the city in the morning to the roll of drums and the skirl of pipe bands.

Trouble started in mid-afternoon in Waterloo Place, a crossroads which was the parade route's nearest point to the Bogside district.

Police drove the crowd back into Bogside, where residents already had built street barricades of old cars, trucks and oil drums.

Lawrence Colony story brings varied comment

SHERBROOKE — (RV) — Comment on a Record front page feature published Aug. 1 dealing with Lawrence Colony and its problems has been plentiful.

Several area residents have praised the article. Others have condemned it.

All opinions on this or any subject are welcome.

Several people from the colony and the immediate area have asked that a petition signed by Lawrence residents and reproduced in the Record be run again with the signatures.

In fairness to both those who did not sign and those who did, the body of the statement plus a list of those who added their names appears on page 5.

Jesmer lauds P.M., takes pep pills, awaits decision

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old Niagara Falls, Ont., youth who says Prime Minister Trudeau assaulted him during a demonstration here Friday was taken to Vancouver General Hospital Tuesday for treatment of a suspected drug overdose.

Richard Jesmer told a reporter he had taken "about 20 pep pills or get-up pills," but did not know what type or how strong they were.

Hospital officials said he was in satisfactory condition in the emergency ward.

They said he would be kept in hospital overnight but declined to give any additional details. Vancouver Sun reporter Simma Holt said Jesmer told her about taking pep pills.

Meanwhile, a justice of the peace will decide Friday whether to proceed with a charge of common assault against Mr. Trudeau following a complaint by Jesmer, who says the Liberal leader "is pretty tough" for a skinny guy."

The complaint was sworn Monday by Jesmer at Vancouver police headquarters before Justice of the Peace Don Stewart. Jesmer claims Mr. Trudeau "smacked me" during a wild demonstration last Friday night at the Seaforth armory.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A justice of the peace will decide Friday whether to proceed with a charge of common assault against Prime Minister Trudeau following a complaint by a Niagara Falls, Ont., youth who says the Liberal leader "is pretty tough" for a "skinny guy."

The complaint was sworn Monday by Richard Bruce Jesmer at Vancouver police headquarters before Justice of the Peace Don Stewart. Jesmer claims Mr. Trudeau "smacked me" during a wild demonstration last Friday night in front of the Seaforth Armories.

The incident is alleged to have taken place during a meeting between the prime minister and 300 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators at which Mr. Trudeau was booed, jeered and pelted with a banana peel.

Mr. Trudeau attended the anti-war rally with the intention of speaking, but was unable to make himself heard. It was held in advance of a $50-a-plate Liberal fund-raising dinner which Mr. Trudeau later addressed inside the armory.

Mr. Stewart said the complaint means Mr. Trudeau "is definitely charged but no evidence has been heard." He said he will hear evidence at 4:15 p.m. PDT Friday and "then I will either issue a summons or not."

AT JUDGE'S DISCRETION

"It means Mr. Trudeau literally has been charged but there has been no process to command his appearance before any court," said the justice of the peace. "It is at my discretion."

Mr. Stewart said that if he decides the prosecution is to proceed, a summons could be issued requiring Mr. Trudeau's attendance in court or a warrant could be issued for his arrest.

In Ottawa Tuesday, the prime minister turned aside question of what he would do if he has to face the assault charge.

"Well, I'd hoped I'd have other occasions to go to Vancouver," he said in an interview.

Mr. Trudeau suggested the reporters were asking hypothetical questions and said "do you want me to testify now ... under oath or what?"

Jesmer said in an interview he had become "all excited and worked up" by the mood of the crowd and a book he had read on "Canadian complicity" in the Vietnam war by the time Mr. Trudeau jumped up on a sound truck to address the rally.

"You know he's got a lot of nerve—maybe courage—to get up in front of all those people with signs, and yelling and chattering."

Autopsy wanted in Kennedy inquest

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — District Attorney Edmund Dinis Tuesday asked a Pennsylvania court to order exhumation and an autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne, drowned July 18 in a car accident with Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

Dinis said in his petition he wanted the post mortem examination for the forthcoming inquest into the accident.

"The purpose of the inquest," he said in the petition, "is to determine whether or not there is any reason sufficient to believe that the sudden death of Mary Jo Kopechne may have resulted from the act or negligence of a person or persons other than the deceased."

Dinis sent the petition to the common pleas court in Luzerne County, Pennsylvania.

Miss Kopechne, 28, of Washington, and a former secretary of the late Robert F. Kennedy, was buried in her hometown, Plymouth, Pa., which is in that county.

WANTS EARLY DATE

Dinis asked for a hearing on his petition and further urged the court to set a date "as soon as is practicable, because time is of the essence."

The inquest into Miss Kopechne's death is to open in the Dukes County Court at Edgartown, on Martha's Vineyard Island off the coast of Massachusetts where Miss Kopechne died.

Dinis said in his petition that the exhumation and autopsy are

School completion talks held

LENNOXVILLE — Those responsible for the construction of the new Lennoxville Regional School, including school board and contractors' representatives met yesterday on the building site to discuss the progress being made towards an Oct. 1 target opening date.

Although no statement was made following the talk, Eastern Townships Regional School Board director-general J. Edward Perry told the Record the results of the meeting would be known following a study of the information gathered.

Meanwhile workers are on the job at all hours of the day rushing to meet the revised deadline.

No announcement of contingency plans has yet been made.

Magog mayor defends action

SHERBROOKE (RS) — Magog's mayor Maurice Theroux appeared in Provincial Court Tuesday to defend his action in cancelling part of the taxes owed on the former Industrial Specialty Manufacturing Company Ltd. plant, which was sold by the Madajo Corporation to a Montreal ceramics firm.

Plaintiff in the case is Pierre Paul Landreville, a Magog citizen, who has questioned the legality of dismissing taxes within a municipality, giving his reason for the action as being in the interest of his community.

The hearing began at 11 o'clock this morning and recessed at four in the afternoon.

Provincial Court Judge Peloquin is presiding over the case. Council for Mayor Theroux is Magog attorney Yves Forest, while Louis Philippe Galipeau is acting for plaintiff Pierre Paul Landreville.

Magog Secretary-treasurer J. P. Lange said in court yesterday the resolution lowering back taxes on the Industrial Specialties site to $15,000, was decided upon after consultations with an attorney.

As of June 30, 1969, Mr. Lange said, the bankrupt company, Industrial Specialties owed the city of Magog $29,407, in back taxes, sewerage work, electricity, and business taxes.

Dominique Beaulieu, Magog evaluation expert said he has studied the evaluation of Industrial Specialties at the treasurer's request.

Mr. Beaulieu said the $350,000 evaluation of the firm was lowered to around $89,000 after another evaluation that considered there were buildings to be torn down, leaving the main building and the land site which was valued at $75,300.

Industrial Specialties Manufacturing Company Ltd. went bankrupt on Dec. 8, 1968.

"On Sunday, the day following the accident, I ordered an autopsy. I ordered Lieut. Killen (Lieut. George Killen, a state trooper assigned to Dinis' office) to call the state pathologist, but the medical examiner had released the body."

THOUGHT CAUSE OBVIOUS

The medical examiner, Dr. Donald R. Mills, told reporters a few days after the accident that he did not order an autopsy because he did not think one was necessary. He said he thought the cause of death, which he declared was accidental drowning, was "obvious."

Mills also told reporters he decided against an autopsy after conferring with a representative of Dinis' office.

But Dinis was quoted as denying this in the Enterprise article.

"I didn't know the body was gone when I ordered the autopsy. That medical examiner can't pass the buck to me. He had full authority to order an autopsy himself and he didn't."

The inquest begins Sept. 3

Today's hand would be a field day for superperfect players. Perfect players sitting North and South would stop short of game. This North and South didn't.

After this failure of perfection in bidding, perfect players sitting East and West would find a defense to beat the game contract. One way would be for West to open a diamond and East to put him in later on with the king of hearts in order to ruff a diamond with the deuce of trumps. Or three rounds of trumps played immediately would ruin South's chances.

East and West were good players. West made the normal opening of the deuce of hearts. East took his ace and played out three rounds of trumps. This left South with the problem of avoiding a club loser. The odds favored finding the queen of clubs in the East hand so Good Player South tried the club finesse and went down.

A superperfect player would have no trouble making the hand. He would realize that West held the king of hearts since East had won the first heart trick with the ace.

He would also mark West with the queen of clubs, relying on clairvoyance rather than any idea of probability.

Once West was marked with both those key cards,

South would simply run off all trumps and diamonds to come down to three clubs in his hand and the ace-three of clubs and queen of hearts in dummy.

Poor West would be squeezed out of his protection for the queen of clubs in order to hang on to the king of hearts and South would just cash out the clubs.

Quebec ups electrical bill and city plans to protest

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — The city of Sherbrooke will protest to the provincial government about the announced increase of royalties on electricity.

In fact, the Department of Natural Resources informed the city the price of royalties for the Westbury power dam near Windsor would be increased from $1 to $3 per annual horsepower, for a period of ten years.

According to city hall, the government move will cost the city an additional $5,000 a year.

Alderman Gaston Roy opened the debate by telling his colleagues council should put its foot down and fight the measure.

Mr. Roy's proposal met stiff opposition from Ald. Antonio Pinard when the latter said delegations to Quebec were a loss of time, if not completely futile.

Mr. Pinard recalled the outcome of previous attempts to shake the government and told the mayor the same would happen again.

Following the north ward's proposal to go to Quebec to meet the government West Ward Ald. Antonio Pinard made a counter proposal to dismiss the whole thing and pay the bill.

Council reached a deadlock on Mr. Pinard's proposal with Mayor Armand Nadeau refusing to vote, while the same deadlock was broken on the first proposal by Ald. Roy with the mayor voting in favor of a delegation to Quebec.

"We've traveled in the past and we are going to travel again," the mayor said after the vote.

Mr. Roy's suggestion was prompted by the belief the power dam near Windsor was a service to the government, and that the city was being taxed for it.

"They are doing the same to us as they did to Windsor in 1967," Mr. Roy pointed out.

It was reported that the city of Sherbrooke buys 90 percent of its power from Hydro-Quebec.

Pollution tax is proposed SHERBROOKE — (DM) — The weekly meeting of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club yesterday, featured Mr. Georges Carignan, an engineer and local water pollution enthusiast, as guest speaker.

Mr. Carignan began his speech by saying that what has been done so far about pollution is fine but that now we should find a way to finance the sewage treatment plants which are necessary all over the province.

He believes that "the motivation of public support is the key to the development of any water pollution control program." He said that every person or establishment which uses water and benefits from it, is a cause of pollution and should therefore share the cost of purification.

He wants to establish an average cost and charge a standard tariff on all users. He would like a tax imposed, for example $1 per capita, on the municipalities with a similar tax on industries depending on the contamination and amount of water used.

According to Mr. Carignan, this would bring a total of $30 million to build municipal sewage treatment plants and contribute to the cost of financing industrial treatment plants.

He would then obtain a loan on the strength of half this money, in the form of another $30 million. Then a total of $60 million would be available to fight pollution.

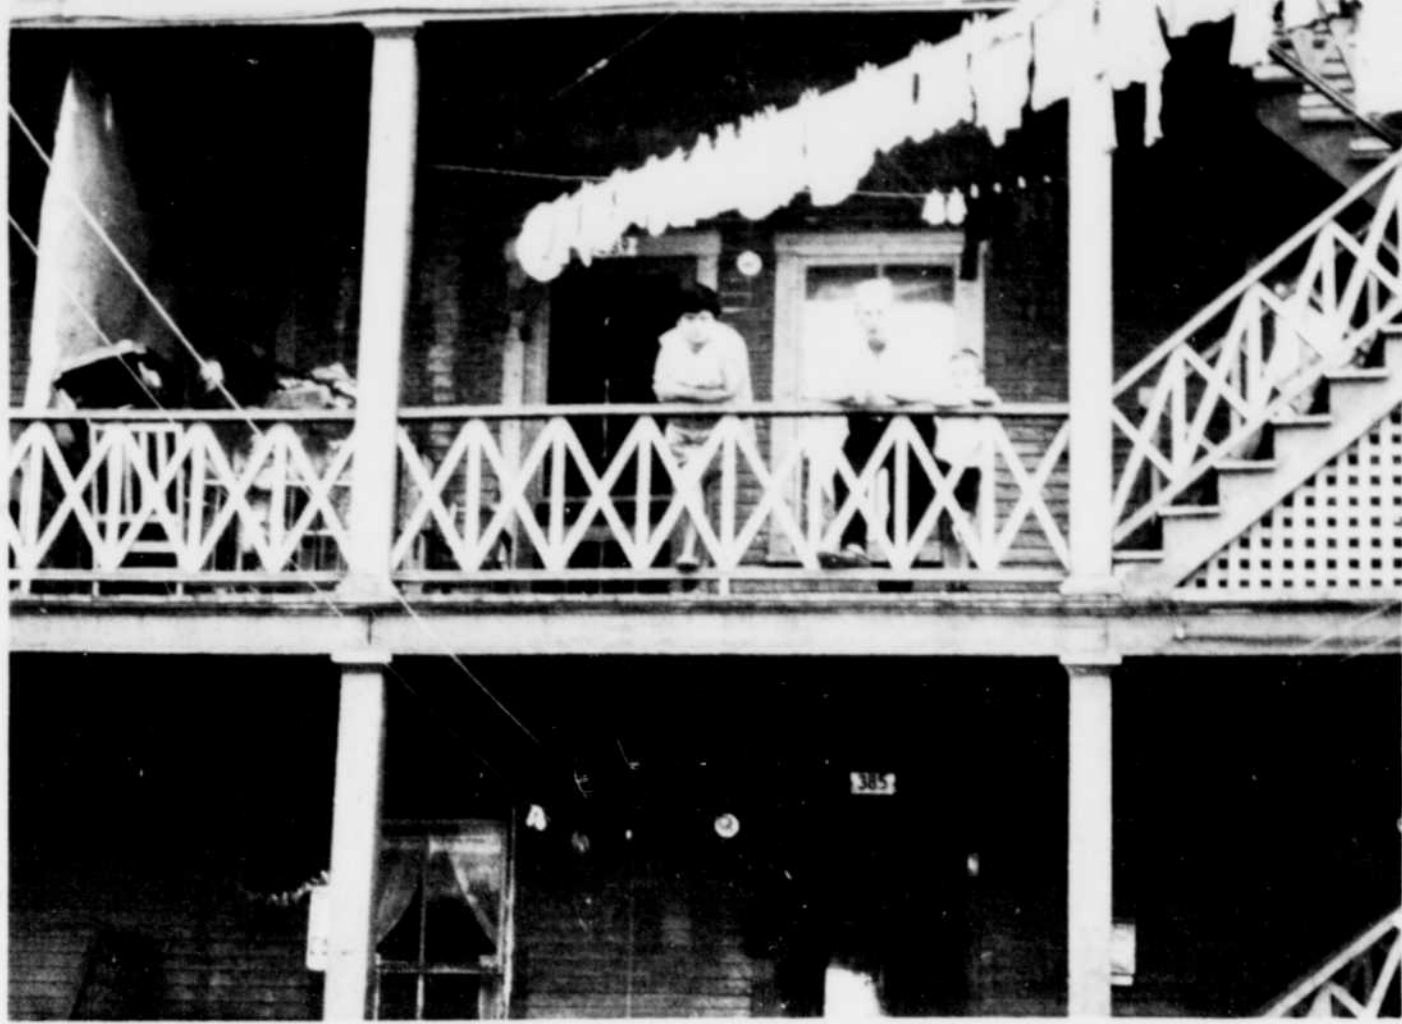

A new administrative institution should be set up with the necessary authority and staffed independently of political organizations. "The Provincial Water Fund" would be created to deal expressly with the utilization of all money available to the cause.

The province would be divided into ten or fifteen hydrographic basins would have on hand year to fight pollution and this amount of money would be proportional to the yearly contamination in that particular basin.

Eventually, a fixed amount would be available each year to be spread among the various regions and municipalities.

Mr. Carignan stressed the need of a greater number of water pollution specialists in this area and hoped that more university students would look to the science as an important source of employment and crucial factor in our economy.

Mr. Carignan has presented a brief of his speech to the local and provincial Chambers of Commerce.

THREATENED — A family is being threatened by eviction. A father has no job and soon will have no place to stay. The Salvation Army is looking for someone to help.

Family threatened with eviction

SHERBROOKE — A family of seven will be left homeless unless some kind of shelter is found for them before September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosaire Ethier and their five young children were advised recently they would have to leave their home at 389 Ruelle Levis, behind the King George Hotel.

Mr. Ethier is unemployed but the money needed to pay the rent is being supplied by a provincial welfare set-up. A Salvation Army spokesman yesterday confirmed the family was living on welfare since the father was out of work.

The same spokesman asked if there was an available location where the family could move in until Mr. Ethier found a better life for his family, it would help greatly.

Anyone who can help this family is asked to call the Salvation Army on Wellington at 562-0844.

Two are released in Montreal bomb case

MONTREAL (CP) — Police have released two of three youths taken into custody Tuesday following a bomb explosion that shook the federal revenue building in central Montreal during the night.

The third youth was detained for further questioning and a spokesman said he would probably be held at least until Wednesday.

The youths were arrested seconds after the explosion when an officer on patrol, Sgt. Jacques Auger, spotted them running from the scene.

A search of their homes revealed nothing, police said.

The explosion, described by police as "the most powerful" they have encountered in the last year, shattered glass doors and windows in the 14-storey building at Bleury Street and Dorchester Boulevard. It also bored a hole, two feet deep and more than one foot wide, where it was planted at the entrance.

Three watchmen in the building escaped injury, although one barely made it to safety after spotting the package seconds before it exploded.

Last summer lecture is delivered

BOUNDARY — William Mattox, research fellow of the Institute of Current Affairs, was the speaker at the last in a series of five weekly lectures, given by McGill Summer School at the Haskell Opera House.

Recently Mr. Mattox had the pleasure of being in Greenland along with a friend, who is a German Air pilot. Their mission was to trap, study, band and release the rare white falcons. He showed a film which gave the large audience an idea of how this was done.

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Mattox gave a brief early history pertaining to this topic, and said these falcons are found in Greenland, northern Canada and Siberia. About 20 years ago one of these rare birds was sighted in the Ayer's Cliff region.

He said that years ago kings and only kings could have the white falcons, which were trained. In one case 12 of these birds were given as a ransom. They were trained for hunting for the leisure class of people and at one time it was believed to be the most valued possession in the world. Falconry was practically eclipsed with the use of guns.

In early days falcons were presented to royal courts as gifts, he said, and later it was shown in the film that the birds are in colors from a dazzling white to a sooty grey. The birds are extremely rare and because of recent legislation in Greenland, these birds cannot be taken legally, dead or alive, from Greenland. Ironically, Mr. Mattox said, the falcon can still be shot in Greenland.

These great birds are much larger than the Peregrine falcon, until quite recently common in the United States. He said that the white falcon female is four and a half to five pounds larger than the male.

The film showed how the trapping is done using several methods. A live pigeon in a leather jacket used for bait with a flip-over net operated by a nylon cord from the expeditions shack a few feet away. Some were taken by lasso placed around a pigeon. In the eight days these two men were stationed in Greenland they caught 14 different birds, measured their wingspread, their tail, banded them and released them holding none over an hour. It was amazing how some of the birds seemed to enjoy being given attention, proving how intelligent and easy to train they become.

There were 31 of the falcons caught in traps, one bird, Whitey, was caught nine times and the men really became quite attached to it. Pesticides use is one of the reasons for this study. The United States Peregrine has been practically wiped out since WW2 when pesticides were first used. What it is doing to the White Falcons remains to be studied.

Mr. Mattox said that many of the young birds do not survive the first severe winter of this north land, and he was much afraid Whitey had not. Many of the pictures of the film were shown in slow motion so one could grasp some the grace of these unusual birds.

In recent times only two falcon expeditions have been made in Greenland, relative to the falcons. In 1938 when the Germans came to get birds for the Alps, believed to be their native habitat, and the second was Mr. Mattox's party of four, an American expedition. He said they plan further study and research.

The film shown is the first of a film record started in 1967. Dr. T. Hills, director of the school, thanked the speaker for his extremely interesting lecture. He noted that Carl Strandberg, consultant to the Public Health Service and Federal Water Control Administration was visiting the school. Last year, Dr. Strandberg was a speaker here and also was on a panel about pollution in Lake Memphremagog. Professor King, also here formerly, was visiting from Ohio.

Dr. Hills thanked the Opera House Board of Directors for use of the auditorium to give the general public and students the weekly lectures and to Mrs. Ethel Whiteman, the custodian, for her kindness. He thanked Mr. McGregor for operating the projector for the five weeks and his arrangements of recorded music and to the press for the publicity, as well as the people who attended.

Dr. Hills said the summer school hopes to be back in 1970 and for many more years to follow.

Lawrence Colony

In deference to those in Lawrence Colony who have expressed resentment at being associated with the petition published on August 1, the Record has agreed to re-publish the petition along with signatures.

June 1, 1969
To whom it may concern: We the undersigned, residents of Lawrence Colony have signed this petition asking the government to put on some sort of a plan that we may be able to work and earn our living. There was some talk of a reforestation program put on in Lawrence Colony whereby we could work and earn a living. In fact it was definitely promised that who ever wanted to work would be able to do so this summer, starting no later than the 15th of May, 1969, and so far nothing has been done about it.

Some of these people made their plans to carry on with this work and so far they have been left sitting high and dry. We think that we showed our sincerity and willingness to work and try to better ourselves last winter when the Adult Education Program Plan was put on for us. We have been informed that this program was a huge success, so that should prove that we are willing to work if given a chance. We feel that the government is letting us down by promising something that so far has showed no sign of maturing. And we think it is time something should be done about it.

This is not the first time that we have been promised something and never received it and we feel that something should be done about this in the very near future. After all some of us have spent 20 years hard work in Lawrence Colony and we don't feel that we should be drove into leaving and leave everything behind with nothing to show for our hard work.

If this program is carried out the way it was explained to us, we feel that at least we have a fighting chance of making a living without being on Welfare or Social Assistance.

Hoping this will receive somebody's attention who will be interested in doing something about it. Thanking you in advance, we remain,

Yours truly,
Residents of Lawrence Colony:

For and about Women

Brides-to-be entertained in the Townships

STANSTEAD — Miss Elizabeth Chadsey, R.N. of the Sherbrooke Hospital Nursing staff was entertained on Thursday evening, August 7, at a shower in honor of her approaching marriage this month.

The hostesses were Mrs. Richard Middleton, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Fisher, and the event was held at the home of Mrs. Middleton, decorated with arrangements of summer flowers.

On arrival, with friends from Ayer's Cliff to spend the evening with Mrs. Middleton, the bride elect was surprised to find 30 relatives and friends awaiting her. She was presented with a corsage of white and yellow gladioli tips and escorted to a table where she was seated with her mother, Mrs. Chadsey of Ayer's Cliff, Mrs. Charles Schoolcraft, Massawippi and Mrs. C. H. Alger of Rock Island, the mother and grandmother of the prospective groom. They were each presented with red rose corsages. Yellow and white garlands and wedding bells were used with an inverted parasol in the same colors over the chair of the guest of honor and balloons which showered confetti over the group.

A mock wedding, humorous in script and costume, was portrayed by Mrs. Middleton, Jr., as the bride, Miss Connie Hartley, the groom, Mrs. Robert Alger, the best man, Mrs.

Steve West, the flower girl, Mrs. Ellie Hartley, the bride's mother and Mrs. George Hatch, the minister.

Afterward, the prettily wrapped and ribboned gifts on the card table were opened. Mrs. Ellie Hartley made a hat and nosegay of the ribbons and bows, later presented to Miss Chadsey.

After all the lovely and useful gifts had been admired, Miss Chadsey, voiced her appreciation and invited everyone "to come and see us when we are settled in our new home in Ayer's Cliff."

Buffet refreshments were served from the dining table centered with the shower cake, made and decorated in white and yellow by Mrs. Ellie Hartley, in wedding bell design. It was flanked by white and yellow candles in crystal.

Miss Chadsey cut the cake which was served by the hostesses. Guests signed the guest book, a souvenir scrapbook, made by Mrs. Middleton, Jr., for the shower in an original and unique way. Guests attended from Ayer's Cliff, Fairfax, Granby, Conn., and the Boundary Villages.

Miss Chadsey and Graydon Schoolcraft will be married on August 30.

Couple will live in Midland, Ontario

WATERLOO — A pretty summer wedding was held on July 12 when Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Charles Willson, and David Gordon Cousins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon T. Cousins, all of Waterloo, were married at St. Luke's Anglican Church. Rev. David Mercer officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. M. MacIntosh was the organist. The wedding music included O Perfect Love, Ave Maria, and the Shepherd's Song. Baskets of roses, mock orange and delphiniums were used for decoration.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a floor length gown of white soufflé and peau de soie with a cathedral length train. Her full length veil of tulle was held in place with a matching headpiece and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Howard Salisbury, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of kingfisher blue peau de soie, and carried a crescent bouquet of lemon and white roses.

Miss Cynthia Fortin and Mrs. Malcolm Alsop, bridesmaids, wore dresses identical to the matron of honor, Miss Fortin in rose pink carrying white roses, and Mrs. Alsop in kingfisher blue, with yellow roses.

Mr. Howard Salisbury was best man for his brother-in-law, while Messrs. Roger Cousins and Brian Alsop acted as ushers.

Mrs. Willson, mother of the bride, was in an aqua blue dress and coat ensemble with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Cousins, wore a two piece suit of off white imported tulle and a corsage of red carnations.

For their three week honeymoon trip to England, the bride wore a navy blue dress and coat ensemble, a gift of the groom, with white accessories, and a corsage of dark pink roses.

The bride's gift to the groom was a Bulova wristwatch.

Out of town guests were from Mississauga, Ont., Ottawa, Knowlton, South Bolton, Fulford, North Bay, Montreal, Kingston, Willowdale, Ont., Granby, South Carolina, Mansonville, and Shawinigan Falls.

Previous to the wedding, the bride was guest of honor at four showers, given by Mrs. Malcolm Juby and Mrs.

Keith Durrell; Mrs. Glenna Maynes; Miss Shirley Fortin; Mrs. Laurie Fortin and Mrs. Malcolm Alsop; and by Mrs. Madeline Allen and co-workers.

CHICAGO—(NEA)—What are little girls made of? Sugar and spice and—sometimes—ambition. When the ambition is strong enough, the young lady determined enough, a little girl can develop into a talented, productive individual. All she needs is the courage to be different.

Franette Ottolino is 17. She wants to become a teacher. But unlike her peers, Franette is not interested in teaching a language or sewing, or math. She wants to teach industrial arts.

She first became interested in "shop" when she was a sophomore in Elmwood Park high school. She wanted to take several industrial arts courses to supplement her art curriculum. The courses sparked her interest, and she became the first female student to complete the industrial arts program. She studied woodworking, drafting, sheet metal work, welding, forging, pipefitting and machine shop.

"At first my friends didn't believe I was serious about shop," said Franette. "When they realized I was, they resent the fact that I was different."

The boys in her industrial arts classes presented another challenge.

"The boys either laughed at me or ignored me," Franette said. They used to say things like "Here comes the smitty" or "Do you take boys' gym, too?" Sometimes they really hurt my feelings."

But Franette took the teasing and concentrated on learning her trade. She maintained honor roll grades and outperformed most of the boys in her classes.

And while her distaff classmates are paying tribute to rock 'n' roll stars and football players, Franette reserved her hero worship for metals instructor, John Gregg.

"He's the image I want to obtain," Franette said. "He's understanding, sympathetic, always willing to help. He encouraged me, especially at first when I was scared. And most accept what goes on in it. When she made an error in her work, I chewed her out just like everyone else."

The boys in her classes discovered that what Franette lacked in strength—she's 5-6 and weighs 115 pounds—she made up for in skill and coordination.

One of the things she's most proud of is a metal sculpture she did on the theme of world peace.

"I called it 'The Sound of Music'—it was a globe with three men, all playing instruments," said Franette. "The music symbolized peace."

She sold it to the Nursing Department at Northern Illinois University.

Determined to continue her studies in industrial arts, she wrote to institutions across the country asking for scholarship aid for college.

The Chemetron Corporation in Chicago reviewed her qualifications and decided to pick up the tab for Franette's studies in industrial technology at Illinois State University.

"I'm a little frightened about what's ahead of me," said Franette. "But I'm preparing for the demands of college this summer, by taking a course in welding and going to charm school, too." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Wales Home guests welcomed at meeting of Cleveland W.I.

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Women's Institute held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Gladys Perkins on Aug. 2. The president, Mrs. A. T. Smith, welcomed two guests from the Wales Home, Mrs. John Day and Mrs. Etta Healy.

The roll call was answered by naming a beauty spot in Canada. As the secretary was absent, Mrs. K. Stevens acted in her place. The treasurer, Mrs. Gordon Healy, gave her report.

Correspondence included a letter from the secretary of the Richmond Agricultural Society, stating that the special prizes offered by the branch had been won by Mrs. Ivy Picken, Mrs. A. L. Walker and Mrs. Coote.

Agriculture convener, Mrs. Gladys Perkins, reminded the members of the ripe tomato contest to be held at the September meeting; citizenship convener, Miss Flora Fletcher, read an article on St. Swithen's Day; home economics, Mrs. Chas. Johnston, read an article for weight-watchers only. For publicity, Mrs. Clarence Pease, held a jumbled word contest, prizes being won by Mrs. Chas. Johnston and Mrs. Gladys Perkins.

The president gave a report of the County meeting she had attended. The next County meeting is to be held Oct. 25.

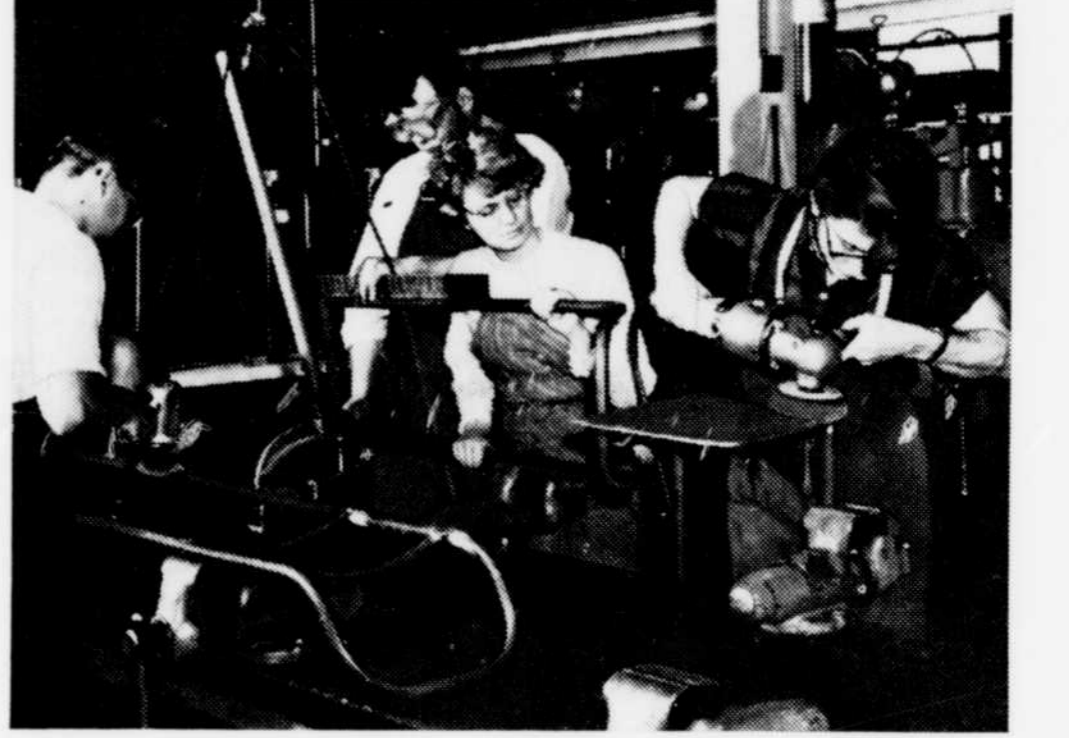

Miss Flora Fletcher won the regular monthly drawing, brought in by Mrs. Ralph Healy. Mrs. J. Day donated a pair of embroidered pillowcases, which will be drawn for at a later date.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 4 at the home of Mrs. Royce Taylor.

At the close of the meeting, the hostess served refreshments.

Formula music: add a little bit of everything

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For a guy who admits that he never paid much attention to what the apostles of rock and other four-letter words were saying or playing, Jonah Jones has fallen almost effortlessly into their musical bag. He is the latest member of the New Generation even though he has been around long enough to be chairman of the Way Back When Set.

Jonah, one of the top trumpet talents in the era of the big bands and the leader of the most listened-to small groups of the '50s, has plans to make it big all over again in the '70s, thanks to a slogan he adopted from the under-30 gang.

"I got thinking about 'do your own thing,'" Jonah says softly, sounding more than a little like a well-modulated Louie Armstrong, "and I decided that my thing was trying a little bit of everything. So I said to myself, 'Jonah, get with it. You're still playing 'Stardust' while the rest of the world is dancing to the Beatles.'"

Jonah, determined to "get with it" or burst a valve trying, made tracks for Detroit and Motown Records, home of the Supremes, the Four Tops and a lot of other people who keep popping up in the record charts.

"The album we made—it's called 'Along Came Jonah'—is the wildest thing I ever did," says the trumpeter, flicking a hunk of lint off the sleeve of a suit that's so well cut that you know he's got enough gold stashed away to go on playing "Stardust" for the rest of his days.

There stood Jonah as he recalls the scene, his hands full of doubts ("I kept thinking about all these young cats who were running around the studio," he says, "and I wondered what they were going to ask me to play). The dialogue, as remembered by Jonah:

Man From Motown (who will be known as Mo from here on): "We have some good material set for you. Jonah. Ever hear of 'Honey'?"

Jonah: "No."

Mo: "How about 'My Girl'?"

Jonah: "Don't know that one."

Mo: "Well, what about 'For Once in My Life'?"

Jonah: "Never heard that one either."

Mo: (With just a hint of panic) "How about 'Say a Little Prayer'? You've heard that one, right?"

Jonah: "Wrong. Doesn't matter. Just set up the music and stand back."

From that point on, Jonah, who was a drinking buddy of the late King Farouk ("he kept buying me champagne and I kept sending it back and telling him I wanted beer") remembers little.

"These kids today," he says, genuine admiration in his voice, "move so fast that I can't keep up with 'em. I had to wait for the record to come out before I could hear what I sounded like."

All the while Jonah was doing his thing, the Motown folks were doing theirs.

"They told me," recalls the trumpeter, "to just go ahead and play and they'd take care of the background. They had so many things going on that I didn't know where I was. A guy came running in with some vibes. Next time I turned around he was gone and a girl with a harp was sitting in his place."

While Jonah still isn't 100 per cent certain just what went on at the session, he feels that's a good sign. His greatest success, he claims, has been assured by not knowing things.

When he recorded "Baubles, Bangles and Beads," his biggest seller so far, he was at a loss as to what to do with the song.

"It was a waltz," he says, "and I don't play that kind of stuff. Matter of fact, not only was the song strange to me, I hadn't even heard of 'Kismet,' the show it came from."

But those were the old days and Jonah is a forward thinker.

"I got it down now," he says, "and I'm going to stick with it. If something new comes along next year, I'll be waiting for it."

While he's waiting, Jonah would like to get to Thailand, where he has been invited to stay in the royal palace.

"The king has one of those long names," says the down-to-earth Jones, "so I just call him King. I met him at Benny Goodman's house. King plays a pretty fair sax and clarinet and we jammed real well together."

Even the thought of guerrilla warfare (the Chinese have marked Thailand as a prime target) doesn't fluster Jonah.

"If those cats sneak up on the palace while I'm there," he assures everyone, "I'll just hand 'em all a horn and let 'em blow. After a few licks with me and King, we'll have everything settled. They'll be too busy jamming to do any shooting."

"To see or not to see"

Bretislav Pojar, a well-known Czech animator, made "To See Or Not To See" for the National Film Board when he was here in 1967. This animated 15-minute film sets out to show that you stare down your worst fears if you only wear the right glasses.

Written, animated and directed by Pojar, who also created the sound and wrote the music, the film gives the viewer a look at his inner fears and, using a pair of reducing glasses provided by a friendly medicine man, helps put life in proper perspective. With Pojar's charm working for the viewer, all calamities are likely to look just a shade ridiculous.

McLaren's "Pas De Deux" has been honored just about wherever film festivals are held, the most recent being this year's British Film Awards where it was voted the top animation film. Highly praised at last year's Cannes Festival, it has also been singled out at Chicago, Buenos Aires, Locarno, Phnom Penh, Cambodia, and Toronto.

This 14-minute production, featuring the dancing talents of Margaret Mercier and Vincent Warren of Les Grand Ballets Canadiens, reveals a new facet of McLaren's film making techniques through a multi-image effect achieved through intricate camera techniques.

"Flowers On A One-Way Street", which in May was judged the best social documentary by the American Film Festival, drew wide comment for its portrayal of the confrontation between Yorkville Hippies and Toronto civic authorities when it was first shown on Canadian television last summer.

"Walking" expresses the character people give to the way they walk and something of the joy they get from their movement afoot. Drawn by the young film artist Ryan Larkin, the film employs a variety of techniques—line drawings, color wash, etc.—to catch and reproduce the motion of people Larkin noticed making their way on the street.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN FOOT AND LOST AND FOUND by George Bowering and Raymond Souster; McClelland and Stewart; 113 pages; $3.50 each.

Being by nature a rather impractical creature I was rather bored the other evening by an interview with a financial wizard from New York who made me feel more and more that there would be no place for me in a mechanized society where finances even personal ones, would be handled by telephone and other equally impersonal machines: I need a smiling and friendly teller or accountant to keep me relatively at peace. So — I decided to read ROCKY MOUNTAIN FOOT AND LOST AND FOUND to erase the gloomy future and restore my equilibrium, my belief in people as opposed to machines.

I had heard George Bowering read his poems at the Red Door, an intriguing private coffee club run by students for the promotion of the arts and had been greatly impressed, greatly moved by his work. Since, I have waited impatiently for his "next" book. I have read Raymond Souster and found him a fine craftsman whose work I enjoyed. But in neither ROCKY MOUNTAIN FOOT nor LOST AND FOUND did I find the impassioned soul of man expressed by the impassioned soul of the poet. I found interesting, vital, frequently vigorous poetry. Objective. Almost, the poets are expert surgeons dissecting people, places and things without being emotionally involved.

Perhaps I want too much from poetry: I want to be moved, body, soul and mind or to have my imagination caught and tossed upwards, so I admit that my disappointment could be my own fault. On the other hand, I can quite understand — in an objective way — why the editors published these volumes. Though neither man is young — anyone over thirty is passe nowadays — what each of these poets writes is practical, modern, clear-cut without strange convolutions in simile and metaphor. They are poems for people who live in a real world.

Try one or both of these volumes as an hors d'oeuvre. You may find your appetite whetted for more.

BLUEBELL PHILLIPS
THE PROMISE OF KIERKEGAARD by Kenneth Hamilton (New in The Promise of Theology Series)

Modern Christian thought is too diverse to be able to claim a single father. But Kierkegaard was the inspiring genius behind the largest number of contemporary Christian approaches and themes. Dr. Hamilton shows what twentieth-century existentialism took (and did not take) from him, and how his existentialist understanding of Christian faith is still largely to be possessed by those looking for a modern perspective on religion.

He draws an interesting parallel between Kierkegaard's out look and the theology of Dietrich Bonhoeffer. While Bonhoeffer may be the most talked-about of recent innovators, the author suggests that Kierkegaard may provide an essential key to his understanding of the problem of contemporary belief.

One of several books written expressly for students and laymen, THE PROMISE OF KIERKEGAARD is part of THE PROMISE OF THEOLOGY series which explores the still unappreciated ideas of the twentieth-century theological giants, whose relevance for life today is threatened by theological faddism. Also published in this series are books on Bultmann and Buber. Now in preparation are books on: Tillich, Barth, Heschel, Bennett, Teilhard de Chardin, Reinhold and H. Richard Niebuhr, and Bonhoeffer.

Kenneth Hamilton is Professor of Systematic Theology, University of Winnipeg. Dr. Hamilton has written many articles and books, including GOD IS DEAD: THE ANATOMY OF A SLOGAN.

HOLLYWOOD — A special permit had to be obtained by Warner Bros. Seven Arts from Reading, Pennsylvania, authorities to employ a local girl to play a topless waitress in "Rabbit, Run," picture starring James Caan and filming in Reading.

Jack Smight, the film's director, discovered that this part of Pennsylvania doesn't have topless waitresses or go-go girls. Not even the want ad inserted by the casting department could specify topless. It asked for a "belly dancer."

Home run beats Als, 8-6 in tenth inning

A tenth inning home run by Jack Weiss, centerfielder of the Granby Cardinals and his second in the game paved the way for an 8-6 win over the Sherbrooke Alouettes in a Provincial League game played at the Amedee Roy Stadium last night. The Als used three pitchers in the loss. Andy Occhionero started and was followed by Ruben Rodriguez in the third inning. Enrique Gutierrez relieved Rodriguez in the seventh. Tom Gillman started for Granby but was ousted for Victor Cruz in the seventh. Gillman got credit for the win and Occhionero was the loser.

Hits by Renald Garcia and Gino Guerra got the Cardinals away to a 1-0 lead in the top of the opening inning. Gillman sent the Als down in order in the bottom of the first. In the top of the second, the visitors tallied one more run on Jack Weiss' first home run. The Als came bouncing back in the bottom of the second spraying four hits to send in four runs. Felipe Joa, and Van Ornum with a two-run homer scoring the runs.

Granby made 6-4 in the top of the third. Reggie Grenal sent in two runs with a home run while Tim Harkness, Mario Miranda and Jack Weiss also hit safely.

The Als in the third went down in order. Guerra and Grenal came up with their second hits in the top of the fourth but there was no scoring. A single by Occhionero was all for the Als in the fourth. Jack Weiss, in the top of the fifth, clicked for his third hit but that was all. Rodriguez even terms in the eighth and ninth. The Als in the ninth left three men on base. In the top of the tenth inning Jack Weiss with his second home run gave the Cardinals one run and the insurance run was hit in by Gino Guerra, making it 8-6 in Granby's favor and that was how the game ended as the Als could muster only a single from Willie Madison. Jack Weiss was the Granby's big hitter with a four for five performance. Gino Guerra also clicked for four hits. Van Ornum had two hits for the Als - a home run and a single.

Red Sox, Indians tie, Twins win

The Red Sox and Indians battled to a five all tie over the Twins took a close 11-10 win over the White Sox in games played last night in the Sher-Lenn Little League. No games are slated for this evening as it is Little League night at Jarry Park in Montreal. All leagues in the Province are guests of the Expos.

Two bases on balls and a single by Michel Benoit sent the Indians off to a two-run lead in the top of the first inning of their game with the Red Sox. In the same inning the Red Sox got one of these back, the first two men up were issued walks and Marco Roby with a single sent in the tally.

There was no scoring in the first two innings. In the top of the third the White Sox scored four runs on three bases on balls and hits from Laignon and Braun scoring the tallies. The Twins in the last of the third scored seven big runs to go out in front 7-4. Hitters in the inning were Hendy Kerridge and Distefano. The White Sox in the fourth almost duplicated their opponents feat as they tallied six runs. Three walks and three hits coupled with an error accounted for the runs.

Expos thump Reds twice

The Expos thumped the Reds twice in the top of the third. The Expos scored three runs in the top of the third. The Reds scored one run in the top of the fourth. The Expos scored two runs in the top of the fifth. The Reds scored one run in the top of the sixth. The Expos scored three runs in the top of the seventh. The Reds scored one run in the top of the eighth. The Expos scored two runs in the top of the ninth. The Reds scored one run in the top of the tenth.

The White Sox in the top of the sixth were held to a single by Braun. The Twins needed a big run in the last of the sixth to get them into the play-offs and they did just that, though it was close. Hendy and Tremblay, the first two men up went down on strikes, but David Hanson clicked for a single, as did Terry Kerridge. Leslie Evans, next batter was issued a walk loading the bases. Jacques Gendron, next man up connected for a single sending in the winning run.

SHAVING STROKES

13-Overlapping Grip

There are many ways to grip a golf club—the "friendly" handshake grip, the overlapping grip and the "baseball" grip, to name a few. All of them are sometimes related to what probably is the most common error in golf, the bad grip.

Most golfers simply don't have the inclination to experiment with a new grip in crucial competitive situations. Don January recommends the overlapping grip. It does a good job for him. "Correct but comfortable," he calls it.

There are good reasons why the overlapping grip is used by nearly all top golfers.

For one thing, only with this grip do the two hands work in the most effective way—as a unit.

The overlapping grip helps see to it that the right hand plays a more or less passive role until it should whip into action—at the instance of impact. The back of the left hand should always be at the same angle as the face of the club.

Practice gripping the overlap. Whenever you happen to be alone with your golf clubs, pick one up, gripping and regripping until any other way feels awkward. A side benefit is that the regripping process also helps strengthen your fingers, hands and wrists.

Drysdale retires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donald Scott Drysdale says he's in good physical shape, strong legs, good reflexes, timing just as good as ever. Only one thing is bothering him but it's forcing his retirement.

The six-foot, six-inch, Los Angeles Dodgers' right-handed pitching star Monday said he was quitting baseball because of a painful injury to his right shoulder, an injury diagnosed as a torn "rotary" cup, what gets your arm in position to throw and creates elasticity.

The injury knocked the 219-pounder out of action for the first time April 22, when he went on the disabled list hoping rest would cure the pain.

"This team has a chance to go all the way. I don't want to jeopardize their chances," Drysdale said.

In 14 seasons with the Dodgers, Drysdale won 209 games, more than any other Dodger. He also holds club records for most innings pitched, 3,342; most strikeouts, 2,486; and most shutouts, 49.

Last season, one of his most successful, Drysdale hurled six straight shutouts and had a string of 58 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings to set major league records.

In 1962, Drysdale was the iron man of the Dodgers' pitching staff. He led the National League in innings pitched, 314; in games won, 25 against nine defeats; and in strikeouts, 232.

He won the Cy Young Award as the outstanding major league pitcher.

WENT OVER 100 ONCE

Drysdale struck out 200 or more batters in six different seasons. Only once in the last seven seasons did his earned run average go above 3.00. Last year, his season ERA was 2.15. He allowed 201 hits in 239 innings.

In seven all-star game appearances, Don pitched 19 innings and had a 1.40 ERA. His seven-game World Series ERA was 2.95. He has a lifetime ERA of 2.92.

SAFETY '99 NYLON HIGH TRACTION

We're not talking through our hat. We used to make tires of $70 quality, selling them at our usual trade-discounted prices. But we stopped because burly though they were (and costly to make), they weren't all that great—except on laden station-wagons or light trucks. Even then, the air-pressure had to be rigidly maintained. The slightest under-pressure caused them to burn themselves up. And who has money left to burn?

So we developed a better tire. Safety '99 Nylon High Traction which has proved a superior value for average passenger cars. In fact, almost indestructible—even with abuse. It wasn't easy. A bit like breeding a thoroughbred. We put extra muscle where it counts—to turn out a tougher, faster tire. And we used Dupont Nylon—the filament that's stronger than steel yet soft as a cushion for your riding comfort.

It's a big tire—maybe an inch taller than most others. More bite in the tread—to put real teeth into the expression you can stop on a dime. More traction—to give you a good grip on a slippery strip. We think it's quite a tire.

So do the owners of more than a million Safety '99 Nylons. They have proved to their own satisfaction it's a winner, and keep passing the word along. It's a good feeling to have that kind of faith in a tire. We have. So much that we back it with a firm money-back guarantee.

What about polyester—you may ask. True, it does give better mileage but the ride is a bit harsher too. Even the much-touted glass-belted polyester, the ultimate in mileage-gaining, is not as consistently-cushioned a ride as nylon or straight polyester—though it does smooth out as you accelerate and could prove to be the tire of the future. Gives one pause to ponder.

Whatever you decide, do investigate before you invest. Your Canadian Tire stocks them all. We'd welcome a little "tire-talk" with you.

Guadalupe Virgin

By STRATFORD C. JONES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — In 1531, the Virgin of Guadalupe was reported to have appeared on a hilltop before an Indian peasant, telling him to pass on to the bishop of Mexico her request that a sanctuary be built upon the site.

Now, centuries later, it is apparent that, for construction purposes, she could have chosen a better location.

The sanctuary, which originally was a small chapel at the foot of Tepeyac Hill, since has grown to huge proportions and still is growing.

Its problem is that it rests on a slippery clay subsoil, and buildings are sinking at disproportionate rates. The Roman Catholic Church and government now are engaged in a massive program to restore the complex, raise sinking buildings and make the site more beautiful.

Jose Cano, engineer in charge of the project which began six years ago, said he doesn't know when it will be finished. Original estimates set the cost at $1,600,000, but it is certain to be much more, Cano said.

BUILT ON HILL

The complex, located only about four miles from downtown Mexico City, ranges over the foot of Tepeyac Hill and up onto the hill itself. The government of the federal district—Mexico City—and the Banco Nacional de Mexico are working to clear the grounds around the shrine of decrepit dwellings and vendors' stalls, replacing them with hillside gardens, parking areas and roads from which the shrine can better be seen.

While work continues, an estimated 15,000 daily visit the shrine, many traversing its huge courtyard on their knees. On Dec. 12, Day of the Virgin, more than 1,000,000 devout visit the shrine.

The first restoration to be all but completed is that of the chapel of the pool, built over a sulphurous spring near which the Virgin is reported to have appeared to the Indian Juan Diego for the fourth time.

The original chapel of Tepeyac is being restored now, but will require much work. Part of its walls and foundations still stand and will be reinforced after excavation beneath it, where Juan Diego and others were said to have been buried, is completed by archeologists.

CONVENT SINKING

Next to the basilica, begun in 1691 and finished in 1709, stands the convent of the Capuchin Order, erected between 1780 and 1789. Its rear to the north rests on bedrock of the hill of Tepeyac, while its southerly front is sinking.

It is in the basilica where what the religious consider proof of the apparition is displayed.

There, above the altar, is a robe in which the Virgin put roses for Juan Diego to carry to the bishop as proof she had appeared. When Juan Diego opened his bundled robe before the bishop of Mexico, Fray Juan de Zumarraga, the roses fell out and on the surface of the robe remained a brilliantly colored image of the Virgin. The pigments to this day have not faded—nor been identified.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Hepatitis Treatment Not Always Successful

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Stranger than fiction was the treatment recently given to a woman in South Africa who had infectious hepatitis and was in a coma. She had been given several large transfusions without showing any improvement. As a last resort, a cross circulation with a live baboon was set up. Her blood passed through the baboon and back to her own circulation. The baboon's normally functioning liver cleared her blood of the poisonous by-products of her infection and she made a complete recovery. Another human being could not have been used for this purpose because this would have transferred the disease to that person. Unfortunately, when this treatment was tried on four persons whose failing liver function was due to chronic disease rather than to an acute infection, the operation was unsuccessful. There is hope of success, however, when the treatment is applied to properly selected patients who would otherwise die.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Patenaude and family, Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Patenaude and family, Holland, were dinner guests at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abel Patenaude in Derby Line. Later in the afternoon, the three families went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Patenaude where this couple, on returning home, were completely surprised to find Mr. and Mrs. Leo Roy and family of Barnston, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Patenaude and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Patenaude and family, Derby Line, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Wheeler and family, Derby. It was a family gathering to mark Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Patenaude's 15th wedding anniversary. At the supper hour a barbecue supper was cooked and enjoyed. The anniversary cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Lisa Fournier, North Troy, Vt., was a gift from Mrs. Fournier. The cake was decorated with roses, and described Happy Anniversary, Alphonse, Yvette and family of six children. The celebrants received gifts. Horseshoes and other games were played.

Guests during July at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Finley McLeod, Stanstead, have been their son, Mr. Alfred McLeod, Mrs. McLeod and two children, Arvida for a week, Mr. and Mrs. Harold LePoidevin and two children, St. Catharines, Ont., who visited other relatives in the area and Mr. and Mrs. William Lavioie of Arvida.

New housing program moves ahead but needs help

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal financing was announced during July for 1,495 public housing units in 22 projects across Canada. That was the largest number for any month since last winter when a three-month hiatus ended and plans were approved for 1,649 houses and apartments for low-income families.

The government, however, is still trying to evolve guidance in collaboration with the provinces to regulate the complexion of large public housing projects in the future, getting away from the crowded institutional projects of the past.

Only one large project was announced in July, for 420 houses and apartments in Ottawa costing more than $6,750,000. This will consist of one 14-storey building containing 211 two-bedroom apartments, and 209 row houses containing three, four or five bedrooms.

For this project, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. announced a loan of $6,095,772 under the National Housing Act for a term of 50 years, at interest of 6½ per cent a year; Ontario Housing Corp., which will supervise construction and administration of the project, puts up the rest — or 10 per cent — of the capital. CMHC and OHC will share equally any operating losses.

EXPECT RATE BOOST

Informants say the interest rate charged on federal loans to public housing projects is likely to rise soon. The 6½ per cent rate compares with an average of 9½ per cent on NHA — guaranteed loans for commercially — built rental accommodation in June.

Other public housing loans announced in July included hostels for wayward girls in British Columbia and the Yukon, and financing for senior citizens' lodges built by church and charitable organizations, as well as federal-provincial housing projects.

In the first six months of 1969, federal financing was announced for 5,201 public housing units. But between Dec. 19 last year and March 19 this year, only nine projects were announced, involving 226 units. The largest was a 90-unit federal-provincial project in Winnipeg.

Approval of major public housing projects was held up pending release and study of the report of the roving housing inquiry headed by Paul Hellyer, then transport minister and also in charge of housing policy.

TURN INTO GHETTOS

The Hellyer inquiry found, and won support from a study by Martin Goldfarb Consultants Ltd. of Toronto, that existing public housing projects such as Toronto's Regent Park development created social and psychological problems. The inquiry described such projects as "ghettos of the poor."

It recommended that the federal government not "approve or assist any large new public housing projects until the whole range of issues, economic, social, psychological, raised by its investigation and the Goldfarb study are thoroughly researched by competent teams of social scientists."

The Hellyer report said that if any new public housing projects were approved, they should be "severely limited in size in order at least to minimize the problems which seem to be compounded once a certain number of units is exceeded."

Robert Andras, the Port Arthur minister without portfolio who was given housing responsibility when Mr. Hellyer quit the cabinet, announced May 28 that public housing projects which had been approved by CMHC but held up by the government would be given the go-ahead.

SHY OFF BIG PROJECTS

Between March 19 and May 28, the government had announced 51 projects involving 2,164 units, but only seven projects involved 100 units or more and the largest were 199 units in Hamilton and 173 units in Oshawa, Ont.

Since then, financing for a further 40 projects has been announced, including the 420-unit Ottawa development. Other major announcements covered projects of 44 units and 337 units in Metro Toronto, and two projects in Richmond, B.C., totalling 315 units.

CMHC officials say some proposals for large public housing projects have been rejected because they were considered too large, too close to a public highway, or offering inadequate playground or other recreation space. Some other project plans have been revised.

No formal commission has been set up to study and recommend solutions for the social, economic and psychological problems created by massive, close-packed public housing. But Mr. Andras and CMHC officials are conducting a series of meetings with provincial authorities, out of which the new guides will be developed.

Mr. Andras told a Commons committee he does not envisage one set of guides covering the whole country, but differing criteria for various regions and for big metropolitan areas.

Documents uncovered

WELLINGTON (CP) — Sir Walter Nash, New Zealand elder statesman and Labor party stalwart, was known throughout his life as an inveterate hoarder of documents. Just how big was his collection is only now coming to light.

Sir Walter died a year ago at the age of 86. For half a century he had been prominent in national affairs and he remained a member of Parliament right up to the time of his death.

He always saved state papers and documents and it was known that a vast volume of them had accumulated in the garage of his home. Often he talked of working through them and using them as the basis for his memoirs. But always he was just too busy to make a start.

In his will he made provision for the preservation of papers of historical value from his collection.

Most of the staff of the New Zealand National Archives has been engaged for two days a week for four months just assessing the extent of the material.

In all there were 14 tons of

MATERIAL FASCINATING

Details are for the present being kept confidential, but Chief Archivist John D. Pascoe says he found the contents of many of the bundles fascinating and of great interest to historians.

It is expected that much of the material will be deposited with the National Archives.

The period covered by the papers encompasses most of New Zealand political history for the last half-century. Sir Walter was a member of the national executive of the Labor party from 1919, including periods as secretary and president.

He was a member of Parliament from 1929 until his death and served as a cabinet member throughout the famous 14 years of Labor rule from 1935. From 1957 to 1960 he was prime minister. Widely travelled, he represented New Zealand at many international conferences, including some of those which shaped the post-war world.

Hippies, some young Christians are not unlike

By PETER KIEMAN

VICTORIA (CP) — Hippies and some young Christians have some things in common. They're minorities dissatisfied with the image of the Establishment and skeptical of the wisdom of their elders.

But Donna Campbell doesn't mind if Young Life, with some 2,000 members in British Columbia and clubs in Edmonton, Winnipeg and Toronto, seems to be part of the social unrest that produced the true hippie.

"A hippie couldn't tell you what he believes but we can," she said.

Ted Tyrell, 26, speech therapist with the Victoria school board and another Young Life leader, told of falling in with a hippie crowd at the University of California, Berkeley.

"I was a shell of a man. I didn't know where I was going or even who I was."

He's now a volunteer worker with the interdenominational organization, little known in Canada though it started 30 years ago in a Protestant church in Texas and spread to Mexico, France, Germany, Brazil and India.

USE SOFT SELL

Its work: the "soft sell" for Christianity.

"There's nothing solemn about our approach," said Donna, cheerfully admitting, however, that any missionary zeal is disguised in a psychological approach.

"If we were to jump up and ask these kids if they want to be saved, what do you think would happen? They'd head for the door in droves."

The "kids" approached are high school students between 15 and 18. The talks to them are floor shows rather than sermons and emphasize "any crazy thing that appeals to kids."

"First," said Donna, "we'll go to the principal of a high school and explain who we are and what we're trying to do. Then we circulate among the kids, on the school grounds, at basketball games or other events."

"We just talk to them. Usually we have a contact at the school so we don't have to make approaches cold."

BLAMES RELIGION

"It gets out that we're Young Life workers and if they're curious they'll ask some more questions," said Kent MacLeod, 24, who later this year will join the permanent staff of Young Life.

"Like last week, I was with a couple of people I knew and we decided to go back to somebody's place and have a session with the guitar. The kids sitting in front of me turned around and looked at us and I invited them along. It was as simple as that."

Arnold Webb, B.C.'s deputy public works minister, a Baptist and former church deacon, has been involved with the Young Life organization for eight years.

He expresses distress at the "psychological block" he says youth has towards organized religion and blames the situation largely on the attitudes of institutionalized religion itself.

"Whenever I get a chance to talk to a church group about Young Life I jump at it. I tell them to welcome young people — not give them the cold shoulder as some do."

UNDER WRAPS for the winter. These statues are plaster-of-Paris copies on display in an open-air sculpture museum in Hungary. In order to protect them from the elements, they were covered with plastic sheeting.

Indians have long way to go

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Nicholas Prince of Burns Lake got off a train in Smithers, B.C., and saw a sign in a restaurant window: "No Dogs Allowed. No Indians Allowed." Prizefighter Roger Adolph of the Mount Currie reserve in the British Columbia interior frowns as he recalls a boyhood incident that cost him two weeks of after-school labor in the fields.

"I took two lumps of sugar from the teachers' cafeteria in the Indian residential school I was attending and they caught me. The church ran that school — they ran it like a concentration camp."

Seraphine Stewart, another Indian who has "made it" on the white man's terms, tells an Indian education conference in Kamloops she's sick of white society and thinking seriously of moving back to the reserve.

Mrs. Stewart is the first Indian psychiatric nurse in the history of the province.

A Coast Salish Indian turns to a friend in bewilderment and asks: "If a psychiatric nurse can't make it, how in the hell do they expect us to?"

IT'S WHITE PROBLEM

A girl named Shirley from northern B.C. made her comments in a letter to a friend back home: "Vancouver is a nice place and so big I haven't got a job yet but am seeing some of the welfare people and hope to be working soon."

Her optimism foundered in Vancouver's skid road district in the months that followed. She became trapped in a decline of unemployment, drunkenness, prostitution and drugs.

By her 25th birthday, Shirley had been in jail more than 40 times. Late one night police crashed through the door of a seedy hotel room and found Shirley's partly nude and battered body on the floor.

These are fragments of Indian life in 20th century British Columbia.

The Indian problem is a white problem too. Discrimination exists.

DEATH RATE HIGH

Some statistics: Tuberculosis deaths among Indians are still five times higher than among whites, despite all the time-tested advances in detection and treatment.

On the average, whites live eight to 12 years longer than Indians; white workers earn more than twice as much as their Indian counterparts.

In this province, 39 per cent of children under the care of the superintendent of welfare are Indian, though Indians are only 2.4 per cent of the population.

This 2.4 per cent suffers 10 per cent of B.C.'s accidental deaths. The Indian drowning rate is 12 times the rate for non-Indians, the fire-death rate is 11 times as high — and 70 per cent of these are children under four years of age.

In the field of education, there are 2,146,000 Canadians with four years of high school or more. Fewer than 2,300 of these are Indians, of a native population of 237,000.

Of the 326,000 Canadians with university degrees, only 117 are Indians, and there are fewer than 75 Indians attending university classes across the country right now.

Despite the overwhelming preponderance of social conditions ranged against them, some bands in B.C. have succeeded in making their reserves function on a profitable basis.

SOME DO WELL

The prime example of a well-run Indian social unit is the Skidegate reserve in the Queen Charlotte Islands off the northern B.C. coast, with a population of about 350 Haidas.

The Skidegate Haidas levy their own taxes and run the reserve on the same basis as a municipality. Employment in the timber and fishing industries ranges between 75 and 90 per cent depending on season, as good as that of Queen Charlotte City, a white community a few miles down the road.

"Our relationship with the white community is just terrific, we're fully integrated," said band chief Percy Williams. "For instance, we built a $120,000 community hall on the reserve a couple of years ago as a centennial project."

"The whites come from all over the islands to our dances. This is probably the only place in Canada where the whites go to the Indian reserve on a Saturday night to have a good time."

J. V. Boys, regional commissioner of Indian affairs, said he's been told there hasn't been a Skidegate Haida on welfare for six years.

Other reserves are starting to cash in on their proximity to white population centres. The Kamloops band has leased some of its land to developers for an industrial park and is plowing the dividends back into housing, sanitation and community development.

SOME HAVE PROBLEMS

Three Squamish reserves across Burrard Inlet from Vancouver have real estate worth $16,000,000. The band is involved in real estate development and also has a high off-reserve employment rate. Other bands are driving hard bargains for such things as timber and mineral rights.

However, the territorial limitations of the reserve system often impose economic limitations as well. Northern coastal Bella Bella, with 949 residents — the biggest Indian community on the coast, is a prime example.

The reserve was laid out in the early 1900s to conform to a traditional way of life, hunting and fishing, when there were only 310 band members. The population has tripled in the last 60 years and economic conditions have become untenable.

It now has a sister community, Ocean Falls, predominantly white and far more in tune with the present economic and political life of the country.

In Bella Bella the alternatives are limited by a lack of employment and federal government regulations that say only persons born into the tribe are eligible for band membership.

This tends to stabilize the population, restricts its mobility and forces the more progressive band members to leave the reserve for the bigger communities in search of work.

In Ocean Falls there are no restrictions on who can live there and the town's existence is predicated on a booming pulp and paper industry. There are numerous services such as banks, hotels and gas stations that couldn't survive at Bella Bella.

RED POWER EMERGING

It's the reserves such as Bella Bella that Indians are deserting in large numbers. For the most part, these young Indians are arriving in Vancouver, Kamloops or Prince Rupert poorly equipped to cope with white life.

Contrary to the expectations of many Indian leaders, the reserve deserters are not being assimilated by white society — they're forming what some of the leaders class as ghettos in the cities.

From the ghettos is emerging a significant new political force — Red Power, in the shape of the small Native Alliance for Red Power based in Vancouver.

The movement has yet to make a big impact on the reserves, but its force is already being felt by the moderate segments of the urban Indian community. It's growing, and fast.

Arms and the Woman

CATTLE —

General Chairman Art Bennett. Judging will start at 1:00 P.M. Friday, August 15th, and continue until finished. In beef breeds, judging will start with Junior and Senior heifer calves.

All cattle and sheep classes open to Compton, Sherbrooke, Stanstead, Richmond and Wolfe counties.

1. GENERAL

Health certificates will be issued without charge by Veterinarians of the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, who will make all necessary examinations and conduct the required tests.

2. TUBERCULOSIS

Tests for tuberculosis are not required to cover cattle originating from:

- Herds dealt with under the Accredited Herd Plan in good standing.
- Herds in accredited areas in good standing.

ALL OTHER CATTLE will be required to pass a negative test within sixty days of the opening date of the fair.

3. BRUCELLOSIS

All cattle six months of age or over (steers and spayed heifers excepted) will require to pass a negative test conducted by a Veterinarian of the Health of Animals Division within sixty days of the opening date of the fair, except:

- Animals originating in Brucellosis Free Listed Herds.
- Officially vaccinated animals under 30 months of age.
- Animals originating from Brucellosis certified area herds in good standing.
- Cattle originating in herds in Brucellosis Control areas not yet certified provided the herd has been negative within three months prior to the opening date of the fair.

One negative test conducted by a Veterinarian of the Health of Animals Division has always been acceptable to qualify BULLS for exhibition purposes during a period of six months following date of test.

A milking test is to be employed in Brucellosis certified free areas and by this means, it is felt, the herds will be kept clean, and we could quite safely certify animals for exhibition purposes as being free from brucellosis.

(c) Tampering with Cattle. Unnatural practices in fitting will not be tolerated, and all cattle entered for competition shall be presented in the show ring in their natural conformation and natural physical condition.

(d) Breeding Capability. In cases where doubt exists in the mind of the judge or official as to the breeding capability of the animal, the exhibitor thereof may be required to furnish evidence to the satisfaction of the official.

NOTE—No prizes will be paid until registration papers are in order in purchased classes.

NOTE—No entry will be accepted unless made on a proper official form, giving name of animal, registration number, age, and registration number of dam and sire.

All registration certificates must be presented when animal is shown for prizes.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES H. PICARD OF BIRCHTON

BIRCHTON — In the death of Charles Henry Picard, the community lost a man who was, in truth, a native son. He spent practically his entire life in the village of Eaton, with the exception of some nine months in Nashua, N.H.

Born on Nov. 16, 1880, in the house presently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lowry, he later moved with his parents to the Picard home at the junction of what is locally known as the Upper and the Lower Cookshire Roads.

He was the eldest of four children born to the John O. Picard and his wife, the late Rosilla Winslow.

On June 12, 1918 he was married to Jessie Elizabeth McCullough of Windsor. One child, Elva, Mrs. Alex Glen, was born of this marriage.

Predeceased by a brother, George, some years ago, he leaves to mourn his widow and daughter; a sister, Mrs. Andrew Morrow, Cookshire, a brother, Herbert Picard presently in a rest home in East Angus; also two grandchildren, two great-grandchildren a number of other relatives and a vast circle of friends, many of whom gathered to pay their last respects.

As secretary-treasurer of the Township of Eaton for more than 47 years, he was in constant touch with the public, and always met them with a genial smile.

On his retirement on July 13, 1966, he and Mrs. Picard were guests of honour at a largely attended party sponsored by the present Mayor and councillors of the Township that he had served so faithfully.

Among his other activities he was a commissioner and later chairman of the Eaton School Board; an honorary director of the Compton County Agricultural Society; a member of the Birchton United Church trustee board; a life member of I. O. O. F. Eaton Valley Lodge, No. 60; and a holder of a much-treasured I. O. O. F. 60-year Jewel; a member of Wilhelmina Rebekah Lodge; an honorary member of Compton County Fish and Game Club and a member of the Compton County Historical and Museum Society.

The members of Eaton Valley Lodge, No. 60 held their service in French's Funeral Home in the evening preceding the funeral, with 29 brothers attending.

Following prayers at the funeral home, the largely-attended service was held in the Birchton United Church, where Rev. J. C. Arnold, Sawyerville, spoke a message of comfort to the mourning family and friends, Mrs. Gilbert Nutbrown sang two of Mr. Picard's favourites. When the roll is called up Yonder and Saved by Grace.

Six members of the organization acted as bearers: Eric Bailey, Lloyd French, Douglas MacKay, Douglas Twyman, Lionel Hurd and Donald MacRae.

Committal was in the Eaton Cemetery.

None of the family of Mr. James Grimes and his wife, the late Anna McCullough, were able to attend the funeral on account of Mr. Grimes' sudden death a few hours after Mr. Picard's demise.

ROBERT D. MOYMAN, SR., OF ABERCORN

ABERCORN — Robert D. Moyman, well known here, died suddenly in Sutton on July 16, 1969, at the age of 68.

On Feb. 16, 1931, he was married to Mae Henderson and of this marriage seven children were born.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, three sons, Elmer, Robert, Jr., and Wayne, four daughters, Beverly, Mrs. A. Ward, Sylvia, Sheila, Mrs. L. Hadlock, Jr., and Jacqueline, also 12 grandchildren; three brothers, Curtis, Albert and Arthur; and two sisters, Mary, Mrs. Lloyd Lewis; and Hilda, Mrs. Walter Hawthorne.

Service was held from Wilson's Funeral Chapel, Mountain Street, Sutton, July 19, with Rev. J. H. M. Brett officiating.

Interment was in Riverside Cemetery, East Farnham.

Pall bearers were Maurice Crittenden, Morris Marco, Allan Ward, Arthur Childerhouse, Wayne Laflamme, and Ross Mandigo.

Relatives and friends attending were from Montreal, West Brome, Cowansville, Brigham, Granby; Knowlton, Glen Sutton, Abercorn, Sutton and St. Albans, Vt.

MRS. GEORGE SHORT, OF WEST BROME

WEST BROME — The death of Mrs. George Short occurred at the St. Louis Hospital, Cowansville, on July 7, 1969. She was in her 96th year.

Mrs. Short, the former Cora Jane Hartley, was born in Stanstead, only daughter of the late Wm. Hartley. She came to West Brome as a young girl with her parents and five brothers, where she lived the rest of her life.

She was married to George Short of Farnsworth, England, in 1892. Of this union five children were born. Mr. Short and three sons predeceased her. Mr. Short in 1956, Eric, in 1913, Howard, in 1963 and George in 1967.

Mrs. Short was a faithful member and worker of the Anglican Church and sang in the Choir for over 50 years. She always took a keen interest in the affairs of the church and community.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. F. Wilson, North Sutton, and Mrs. Geo. Durkee, West Brome, also six grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held July 9 from Wilson's Funeral Home in the Church of the Ascension, here with Rev. W. Davidson officiating.
