Foul Play Hint In Boy's Death Prevent Surprise Attack

Marks Of Violence On Body

MONTREAL — (P) — Foul play is suspected in the death of a six-year-old boy whose drowned body was found Monday in the Lachine Canal bearing "marks of violence."

Dr. Rosario Fontaine, provincial medico-legal expert said Gerald Dubois had a badly bruised right eye but died from drowning. He had been missing since Friday.

The black eye, he said, was "not at odds" with a claim by the boy's father that foul play was involved.

Louis Dubois, 56, said he believed his son had been pushed into the canal. He said an anonymous person told him Gerard had last been seen playing with two boys aged about 12 and 14 near the basin of stagnant water in the canal where the boy was found by children playing in the area.

THREAT BY LETTER

Mr. Dubois told police he had received a threatening anonymous letter that also mentioned his eight-year-old daughter, and a phone call from a woman Saturday informing him he would not find his son alive. The letter was signed "A well-wisher in St. Ann's parish."

Mr. Dubois, an invalid for the last three years, returned to work three weeks ago. The next day his daughter Bernice, 9, died of polio. The Dubois have three other children, Lynn, 8, Annette, 5, and Marian, 2.

Two Young Brothers Blamed For Derailment Of CNR Continental

WINNIPEG — (P) — Canadian National Railways investigators, assisted by RCMP, have determined that tampering by two youngsters with an improperly secured siding switch caused Sunday's wreck of a CNR Continental passenger train.

It was learned today from a CNR source that the juveniles were brothers, aged six and eight. It was not known whether charges would be laid.

Sixteen of the 86 persons injured in the crash still were in hospital today. Two persons earlier on the critical list were reported out of danger.

Damage to the train itself was estimated at $225,000 by a CNR car repairman. Repairs to 350 yards of twisted track and splintered ties were complete Monday morning.

SWITCH UNLOCKED

Railway officials, who declined to be named, said the two boys were out picking blueberries when they happened upon the switch. It apparently had been left unlocked.

They said the youngsters watched horrified from nearby bushes as train No. 3, speeding on its way to Vancouver from Montreal and Toronto, piled up on the CNR main line at Nourse, 36 miles east of Winnipeg.

J. R. McMillan, CNR western region vice-president, said in a statement Monday: "Evidence has been obtained that the switch lock was removed from its position and the switch handle raised by juveniles immediately prior to the approach of the train, causing the derailment."

In a later statement he said "two juveniles have been interviewed in the presence of their parents."

He confirmed that main-line switches are by regulation supposed to be kept locked.

The railway said the train was travelling at 60 miles an hour when it cracked up. It was five hours late heading into Winnipeg.

Eventual Integration

PCs To Extend Indian Rights

OTTAWA — (P) — The new Progressive Conservative government hopes to protect and expand the civil rights of Indians, highly-placed sources say.

But any change in federal Indian policy, these sources add, would be mostly in detail. There is expected to be no basic alteration in the long-term aim of integrating the Indian into Canadian society on a basis equal to his fellow citizens.

Eventually there will be no more federal Indian policy, no Indian affairs branch of the citizenship department and no more Indian reservations.

SOME OPPOSED

This day still is a long way off and there is resistance to the policy among some Indians. But officials say the changing times make this policy the only practical one over the long term.

Prolific Chick To Get Check

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — (P) — A chicken gone haywire was under observation at the Rutgers University agricultural experiment station today after laying 17 eggs in five days.

Experts today were considering taking x-rays to see if the unusual hen has two oviducts.

17-Month-Old Baby Four Hours In Shaft

ANDERSON, S.C. — (P) — Three-year-old Richard David Beasley is happy today. His baby sister is out of the hole.

But for four terrible hours Monday night, no one could be sure 17-month-old Yvonne would come out of a 35-foot-deep abandoned well shaft alive.

"That's all he kept saying the whole time," Mrs. J. B. Beasley said today. "He just kept crying and saying 'I want my sister out of the hole.'"

Richard and his chubby, brown-haired, blue-eyed sister were playing in the yard a little after 6 p.m. Monday while their mother got supper.

BOY TELLS MOTHER "Richard came running into the house, crying 'Sister fell in the hole and got hurt,' he told me."

"I ran out, but I never thought of the old well pipe. It's away from the house and covered with a bucket held down by a 12-pound chain."

"Then I heard her crying and calling 'Mommy, mommy, mommy.'"

"I ran out in the road and tried to stop a car. We don't have any phone and there aren't any neighbors close. I ran and screamed but nobody would stop. I guess they thought it was some family fight."

"Finally, after about 20 minutes a car stopped and a woman got out and came with me. Her husband went to phone the firemen."

"We ran to the well, but I couldn't even see Yvonne. But I could hear her crying. She cried the whole time."

Quake Toll Reaches 66

MEXICO CITY — (P) — A crew of 500 men dug into the ruins of an apartment building today seeking the last victims of Sunday's earthquake.

The five-storey apartment house which crumbled into a pile of concrete and dust was the worst death trap of the 50 old buildings that collapsed in the capital.

By early today 32 bodies had been pulled from the rubble and another victim had died in hospital. This brought the number of known dead in Mexico City to 52 and the total for the country to 66. All were Mexicans.

Eleven persons were removed alive from the building. One woman was pulled out Monday after being pinned under a pile of wreckage for 28 hours. A mattress which fell on her had saved her.

This fell far short of Peron's boast from Caracas that 75 per cent of the Argentines would answer his call. But those who did still constituted the country's largest single faction, still faithful to the outlawed Peronist party and its exiled leader.

Votes for moderate parties promised the reform forces at least 120 seats in the 205-member assembly, which will meet Sept. 1. Parties which had pledged to resist amendment of the constitution seemed sure of 82 seats.

Skid Row Bros. Leave $100,000

PORTLAND, Ore. — (P) — Two bachelor brothers who for the last 10 years have lived in cheap hotels in Portland's skid row, left estates totalling nearly $100,000.

They were Arthur Kneubehler, 76, who died June 6, and his brother Julius, 78, who died July 22, both retired farmers.

Film Reputations To Suffer Scandal Sheet Lawyer Says

LOS ANGELES (P) — Despite a warning from the defence that "reputations of many persons will suffer if this case goes to trial," the court has turned down a proposed compromise agreement in the criminal libel case against Confidential magazine.

Trial is due to begin Friday. The proposed settlement was worked out Monday during a long meeting of the prosecution and the defence in the district attorney's office. It would have provided:

1. Confidential and its sister publication, Whisper, would stop printing smear articles about celebrities.

2. Charges against defendants Fred and Marjorie Meade, accused of supplying information about Hollywood figures to Confidential, would be dropped.

3. The case against the magazines and other corporate defendants would be decided on the basis of the transcript of the LONDON — (P) — State Secretary Dulles today was deep in talks on the future of the East-West disarmament negotiations. He appeared to be giving special emphasis to President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan.

Soon after his arrival from Washington and Ottawa, the U.S. secretary had dinner Monday night with Harold Stassen, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations disarmament subcommittee now meeting in London, and other leading U.S. representatives in Western Europe.

Later he met with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Arriving at London airport, Dulles particularly cited the open skies plan for aerial inspection in certain areas on both sides of the Iron Curtain to prevent massing of men and armaments for an attack.

"If it be demonstrated that the danger of surprise attack can and will be reduced," Dulles said, "It should be more possible to make progress in reducing the burden of armaments and solving the grave political problems which endanger peace."

Dulles added: "Every month that passes without agreement magnifies the problem of disarmament. Now we are engaged in negotiations toward a first-step agreement which will include measures to reduce the danger of surprise attack. The United States is hopeful, as is all the world, that some practical beginning can soon be made."

Argentina's Moderates In Majority

BUENOS AIRES (P) — Argentina's moderate forces backed Peron's bid for constitutional reform were sure today of a comfortable majority in the Constituent Assembly. But political leaders still argued the meaning of the election results.

The arguments ranged from victory claims by anti-reform forces and shouts of triumph by Peronista die-hards to assurances from Aramburu that the balloting Sunday proved Argentina's will to live democratically.

Tallying of 8,231,688 votes more than 80 per cent of the total registered voters showed that 2,088,140 or just under 25 per cent, had heeded ex-dictator Juan Peron's command to cast blank ballots.

This fell far short of Peron's boast from Caracas that 75 per cent of the Argentines would answer his call. But those who did still constituted the country's largest single faction, still faithful to the outlawed Peronist party and its exiled leader.

Votes for moderate parties promised the reform forces at least 120 seats in the 205-member assembly, which will meet Sept. 1. Parties which had pledged to resist amendment of the constitution seemed sure of 82 seats.

Larson said he was "absolutely amazed to see how outdated the Yard's scientific equipment is. My own private equipment at home is better."

"Despite the fact that it has first-class men who know their job inside out," he continued, "its reputation is going to be lost unless it gets more and better equipment."

"The yard is going to drag its feet right behind in the field of modern crime detection unless somebody provides it with the equipment we have on the other side of the Atlantic."

5 Saved From Pulp Avalanche

AUGUSTA, Me. — (P) — An avalanche of 1,500 cords of pulpwood Monday temporarily buried five men here at a paper mill.

Workers at the scene said an five were extricated from a covering of four feet of wood with in 5 minutes. A retaining wall of logs slipped, causing the 100-foot pile to slide.

Arthur Miner, 27, and Benedict Pelletier, 39, were admitted to hospital. Others injured were Kennedy Dulac, 23, Forest Green, 36, and Normal Gagneux. All are Augusta residents.

Plant manager Otis McCollum said he was at a loss to explain the slide.

Hot Dogs A La Reine

LONDON — (P) — The rules of protocol were shattered on Buckingham Palace's royal lawn Monday. Queen Elizabeth served hot dogs and hamburgers to members of the American Bar Association.

"We recall no time in history," said a palace spokesman, "when such typical American items were served at a palace garden party."

A palace official intimated the idea of providing red-hots and burgers was the Queen's and Prince Philip's.

"Her majesty sought to provide a pleasant surprise," he explained.

The lawyers broke a few rules too. They smoked all over the 42 acres of lawn — something that guests to the Queen's garden parties are not supposed to do. Some of the visitors even puffed on pipes and chewed cigars.

Almost a third of the American lawyers — here for the annual meeting of the association — wore formal clothes. Many also carried tightly-furled umbrellas. A few even sported walking sticks.

New Garbage Disposal Plan Offered Council

A sanitary engineering company has offered the city a five year contract to collect and dispose of garbage at annual fee of $199,200, it was revealed in a report by Director of Services Charles Langlois tabled for the aldermen's scrutiny at a regular Council session last night.

The offer by the Public Works Enterprise Inc. specifies that if the present system of one collection a week is maintained the cost would be $199,200 while a twice a week collection would cost $258,960 annually.

Added to these terms the company demands that the city pay $10 yearly extra for each new house built after August 1, 1957 and $9 annually for each apartment contained in a building constructed after the same date. This applies to collection on a once a week basis only.

On the twice weekly scheme the company's price per year is $12.50 for private dwellings and $11.25 for apartments.

In a statement of comparative figures outlining the costs to the city for running the same job, Mr. Langlois placed the cost at $181,624 for 1956; $167,555 for 1957 and $191,890 for 1958.

Explaining the 1957 costs, Mr. Langlois said the expenses were in accordance with the provisions of the budget and include the amounts paid and payable to the contractor Mr. Bellis who is actually caring for the dump.

He said in 1957, $23,000 was set aside to defray garbage burying costs as long as the work was done by the city and also on the basis that there would be a 5 per cent salary increase.

"We intend to buy a truck every year," Mr. Langlois said, "every vehicle will last seven years. At the moment we have seven."

The disposal of the garbage under the contract terms would be in conformity with the Provincial Hygiene Laws and it would be buried in a sanitary land fill on the grounds beside the old municipal incinerator on the Brompton Road. The company also requests the city's permission to use the municipal garage at the incinerator to house its trucks without charge. It promises to maintain the premises for the duration of the contract.

As its last stipulation the company is willing to negotiate with the city to buy the seven trucks, one fifth of the amount agreed to be deducted each year from the total payable by the city.

A recidivist with a record stretching back to 1944 was fined a total of $350 for three charges involving infractions of the traffic laws in Asbestos last Saturday.

Roger Vincent, of Danville, was fined $150 and costs or a month in jail for non-payment for impaired driving; $100 and costs or 15 days in jail for a hit-and-run collision involving an Asbestos police car, and $100 and costs or 15 days in jail for criminal negligence while driving. His operator's permit was suspended for one year.

Montreal Group Makes Visit To Local Kiwanis

Four members from the first Kiwanis Club established in Montreal were guests of the Sherbrooke Kiwanis yesterday at lunch in the Mayfair room of the Sherbrooke Hotel for a scheduled interclub meeting. Standing in for a regular guest speaker, Past Lieut.-Gov. Les Memory gave a brief outline of the history of the Combustion Engineering-Superheater Ltd., outlining the growth of the company from the original Combustion Engineering and the Superheater companies.

He also described some of the work being done in the field of boilers. One boiler being built by the company is of such size that the Dominion Square building in Montreal would be dwarfed by it.

Further mention was made of the work being done in connection with atomic power development and the contributions made by the company to this type of work.

President Tom Cadman reported to the meeting that the previous week's trip to the Camp for Crippled Children in Ayer's Cliff had netted $100 to be turned over to the camp.

French Report On Child Drinking

PARIS (Reuters) — Many French children between six and 14 drink beer, diluted wine or cider with their meals.

A report Monday by the government committee for study and information on alcoholism shows that the higher a French child's parents stand in the cultural and social scale the more likely he is to drink water with his meals.

Children from families lower down the social scale are more likely to have intoxicating drinks.

The report—the result of a study of 55,000 school children—said one in three children whose parents are in the professions are water drinkers compared with one in six children whose families work the land.

Council Pressing Airport Project, Mayor Announces

Mayor Armand Nadeau revisiting Sherbrooke's airport project, unheard of and unspoken of since the June federal elections, when he said at a public meeting last night that the City Council was "doing everything that can be done."

He said the project would be submitted for public approval but did not specify the date.

"We will not refuse the population of Sherbrooke a $4,000,000 project if they want it. All the steps, not judicial but municipal, are being taken," he said.

Mayor Nadeau's statement is the first indication since April that the city fathers were still giving serious thought to establishing an airport in Sherbrooke.

The airport, estimated to cover 2,300 acres of land, will be located 8½ miles from Sherbrooke, near Route No. 1 to Quebec City through East Angus and Thetford Mines.

The terminal will be built within a triangle comprising Ascot, East Angus and Cookshire.

Last January the mayor said the city would presently spend $200,000 for expropriating 20 farm in the Townships of Ascot. Expropriation was not to be undertaken before the cadastral numbers of the farms required by the Federal Department of Transport was received.

The mayor said at that time that a referendum would be held to obtain the ratepayers' approval of a loan to cover the purchase of the necessary land.

This scheme was opposed by the Proprietors' League on the grounds that all communities that would benefit from the service should contribute to the cost of buying the land.

Six Candidates Seeking Compton UN Nomination

A wide-open race for the Union Nationale candidature in the Sept. 18 provincial by-election in Compton county appears likely when party supporters gather in Cookshire on Saturday afternoon to select an official standard-bearer.

Ever since the death of the Liberal member, Dr. Fabien Gagnon, in June, aspirants have been busily engaged in jockeying for position on the Government side.

The latest entry is Pierre Beaudoin, a Scottstown notary, who was waited upon by a delegation requesting him to seek the nomination. The petitioners pointed out that he was a native of the county, his family having been established in Scottstown for over 50 years, where his father, the late Emile Beaudoin, practised as a notary. A brother, Jacques Beaudoin, is also a notary, following his profession in Drummondville.

In agreeing to allow his name to stand before the convention, Mr. Beaudoin stated that, if elected, he "would like to continue the good work done by Hon. C. D. French and his brother John."

Another recent entry in the race is Rosaire Doyon, a merchant from St. Isidore d'Auckland, who accepted an appeal from a delegation Sunday evening to seek the nomination.

At least three other aspirants are after the nomination — Rosaire Crete, of St. Malo d'Auckland, Luc Gosselin, of East Angus, one of the chief U. N. organizers for Compton, and Cyriaque Martel, of Sherbrooke, who has long been connected with Compton County politics.

Several other names have also been advanced as possible candidates, including that of an English-speaking candidate. Until the election of Dr. Gagnon last year, Compton has been represented traditionally by an English-speaking member at Quebec.

There is less activity on the Liberal side, with many Opposition organizers expressing the belief that an acclamation may be accorded the Union Nationale candidate — despite the fact the Liberals carried the county in the 1956 provincial elections and that J. A. Blanchette held the combined Compton - Frontenac riding in the June 10 federal voting.

Those favoring a default argue that the party treasury at both local and provincial levels is low and that any fight must be financed by the candidate and his friends — a definite deterrent to the finding of a strong candidate.

Furthermore, most of them admit that the provincial party is badly demoralized through internal divisions which broke into the open after the federal elections when two of the strongest provincial Liberals — Lionel Ross, of Verdun and Dave Rochon, of Montreal-St. Louis — quit the party and became independents after a series of disagreements with Leader Georges-Emile Lapalme and Rene Hamel, of Shawinigan, who was house leader during Mr. Lapalme's illness.

City Prepares To Expropriate Six Properties

Owners of six properties bordering the Desaulniers St. dump have until today to accept the city's total expropriation offer of $68,400 for their holdings or face having the matter turned over to the Public Service Board, City Attorney Albert Rivard said this morning.

This action was taken by the city after the owners refused the offer last week. The city attempted to purchase the properties in order to continue the operation of the dump that was ruled unsanitary under the former method of operation by Justice Louis Cliche in a Superior Court judgment early in July.

In the same judgment Justice Cliche ordered the city to pay five of the owners $6,250 instead of the $12,500 demanded in their actions for the depreciation on property caused by the proximity of the dump. He also granted a perpetual injunction until that time when the city had conformed to the health laws.

Following the ruling, the aldermen had six properties valued and their total market value was placed at $68,400. The owners, however, refused to accept that amount, claiming that their properties were worth $15,000 a piece or totally valued at $90,000.

At last night's special Council session Director of Services Charles Langlois reported that the dump had re-opened with the approval of the Provincial Health Department and that the garbage was being buried without salvage.

He said the contractor had started burying the refuse under a layer of sand last Saturday evening and added that "operations were satisfactory."

Council Asks Citizens To File Protests

All complaints from citizens about the change in schedules of the Laramee Service Inc. will be sent to the Provincial Transport Board by the City, the aldermen decided in special session last night after a letter from the Board, released last week, was read.

In the letter, the Board notified the city that it would advise the Laramee company to restore the bus schedules in effect before July 5 and added that a public hearing would be held on the matter.

Meanwhile the company has denied receiving any such notice and instead has taken steps to run special buses Sunday morning for church goers. Under the schedule changes put into effect July 5, Laramee Service virtually cut off its Sunday morning service by placing the first bus in operation at 11:30 instead of at 9:30.

It also reduced the frequency on a number of city routes from 20 to 30 minutes after eight o'clock each evening except Fridays.

The city council subsequently lodged a protest with the Transport Board which replied that it had granted the company permission to modify its schedules.

However, in last week's letter a spokesman for the Board said that while schedule changes are approved even though the second party in the contract is not notified, as soon as a complaint is registered with the Board, the company must revert to the old schedules.

So far the buses are still running on the new schedules much to the discontent of passengers.

Winter Unemployment

Even though the summer heat is still with us, responsible government officials have already begun to worry about the possibility of increased seasonal unemployment this winter.

The Federal Government has announced restrictions on the near-record immigration into Canada which has marked the first six months of this year. Immigrants without prearranged work contracts have only until Wednesday of this month to enter Canada and thereafter only close relatives of landed immigrants will be accepted. The flow of Hungarian refugees will be reduced by permitting only those able to care for themselves or with sponsors to enter. The restrictions do not apply to the Commonwealth, France or the United States.

Although no definite forecasts of unemployment this winter are being given out, it is expected that last winter's peak of 343,000 jobless will be exceeded. The number now seeking jobs is higher than it was last summer.

The new restrictions, which have already aroused some unfavorable comment, were imposed by the government because it has become apparent that the Canadian economy cannot absorb new arrivals as rapidly as they have been landing lately. We do not want our new arrivals to spend the winter on a bread line.

Canada's labor force now totals about 6,000,000 — an increase of some 400,000 in the last three years. About 175,000 immigrants entered during the first half of this year, more than double last year's 70,000. The year's immigrant total is expected to number between 265,000 and 275,000 compared with 165,000 in 1956. The number of jobs available has not kept up with this labor supply.

Cutting down on immigration is regarded as a short range and temporary policy. Stepping up the campaign of the past few years designed to offset seasonal unemployment, on the other hand, could significantly diminish the proportions of the problem.

Generally, these campaigns have been carried out on a municipal basis. Civic officials across the Dominion would do well to start planning now for increased activity along these lines this winter. Much can be done to even out the employment cycle. This would help us to reap a fuller benefit from the newcomers to Canada while at the same time materially aiding them.

Color Problem In The North

The outbreak of racial riots in Chicago, the latest in a series of incidents in northern industrial cities since the war, underlines the fact that racial tension is not confined to the Southern states.

Strife between Negroes and whites in cities such as Chicago and Detroit has resulted from the influx of Negroes from southern states looking for jobs in those high-wage industrial centres. The northward flow is not new but the wartime and postwar booms accentuated it. One cause of strife is economic. The fear of labor from the south undercutting the high wages of the north is always present. In addition, there has been considerable resentment at Negroes moving into white districts.

While Chicago is now experiencing a wave of violence and delinquency which is in some ways more frightening than the gang wars of the professional mobsters of the Prohibition era, this can hardly be considered the root of the present trouble.

Social and economic problems will have to be tackled boldly if the two races are to live in harmony. The North has no reason to feel complacent about its handling of racial problems.

Keeping Up With The Neighbors

Los Angeles is considering a law to jail homeowners who won't mow their lawns.

An "eyesore ordinance" would require people to keep houses painted, lawns watered and cut under penalty of a $500 fine or six months in jail.

The idea is to stop a man from letting his place run down, hurting the property values of neighbors.

This is a commendable move but it could go too far. It may mark another step in the campaign to convert all North America into one large, neat and dull suburb.

Even in such a well-ordered society, however, the Joe Fridays of the Home and Garden Squad may be carried away in their enthusiasm for maintaining the law.

Reluctantly, because it is their job, they will have to arrest householders for harboring an illegal daisy or letting schizophrenias grow in the petunia bed.

It will be necessary for the law to crack down upon ill-advised citizens who try to get away with operating only one Austin in a two-Cadillac zone. Many a real estate deal has been nipped in the bud by the sight of a lower-price car standing outside a neighbor's house.

Many a client trembling on the point of purchase has broken and run for shelter when he perceived a man across the street cutting the lawn with an ordinary hand mower.

Such callous cheapening of property values will no longer be tolerated, when the new order comes in. There may even be unscrupulous folk who deliberately strike at the neighbors by refusing to have a TV aerial installed, thus labelling their street a depressed area. They will be sternly dealt with. They will be forced not only to put in TV sets, but to watch them as well.

Press Comment

A FOUL DEED
(Cape Breton Post)

Vigilance must be unceasing to prevent the pollution of Canadian waters — brooks, rivers, lakes — essential in the conservation of our natural resources. It requires education, discipline, new legislative enactments if existing law is insufficient, and certainly law enforcement.

Note the following: Insecticide which was drained into a creek at Brantford, Ont., has been blamed for the death of about 200 trout. A conservation officer said employees of a tree-spraying company dumped the poison. Less than a year ago a rod and gun club won a $1,000 prize for improving this creek and conserving the fish. Severe penalties are deserved by those who undo the good done by conservationists.

NO SUPERMEN
(Ottawa Journal)

Let us not at the outset spoil it by foolish flattery, by what somebody has called "white-mail" by the sort of idolatry which so many gave to foolishly to some of the men of the last Cabinet, leading them to imagine they were indispensable "supermen."

There are no supermen in this Cabinet, but only good ordinary Canadians setting out to do a job for Canada. If ever they begin to imagine themselves more than that, and begin to believe their press agents, then it will become the duty of the rest of us to deal with them — to handle them as we have just handled their predecessors.

KEY PORTFOLIO
(Toronto Telegram)

The portfolio of External Affairs has been held by successive Prime Ministers most of the time since it was established in 1909. In fact, it was assigned by law in 1912 to the Prime Minister, and was held by Borden, King, Meighen and Bennett. The law was changed in 1946 and Hon. L. S. St. Laurent, who had been Justice Minister, took over the department for two years. He was succeeded, still in the regime of Mackenzie King, by Lester

Pearson in September, 1948.

Among the main functions of the department are the supervision of relations between Canada and other countries and the protection of Canadian interests abroad.

FUTURE FOR LABRADOR.
(Corner Brook Star)

In our opinion the Hamilton river valley on Labrador is due for development on a large scale before many years have passed.

Goose airport will continue to be increasingly important. Not of little importance is the fact that, being a crossroads of the world, it draws attention to the Lake Melville area, the great river and the fertile valley. Even in Newfoundland we have been badly misinformed as to climate conditions on Labrador. This prejudice must be overcome. The waterway is there, the potential hydro power is there, the forests are there. The land for townships is there. Man will just as naturally follow such natural resources as animals seek their food.

Life's Challenge And Education

(This is the last in a series of excerpts taken from 1957 high school year books published throughout the Eastern Townships. These articles are from the Sutton High School "Spotlight.")

LIFE AS A CHALLENGE

By Lillis Righton, Gr. XII

How do we as individuals look at life? If we look at it through the darkened glasses of the pessimist it will surely appear grim and gloomy lacking value. Instead, let us remove these deceiving spectacles and the hues of life's reality will draw us to higher endeavours.

Let us accept life as a challenge. The poet saw it as such when he penned these immortal lines:

To every man there openeth
A way, a way and a way,
And the high soul climbs the high way
And the low soul gropes the low

And in between on the misty flats
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low

And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go.

"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." As N. V. Peale tells us, "Think victory — you get victory. To the degree to which your attitude shifts from negative to positive, the mastery touch will come to you."

Each aspect of life must be confronted as the whole, as a challenge. Whatever we endeavour to do should be done in the best way possible. Whether the task to be completed is of little importance or requires the shouldering of any responsibilities it should be faced with the same attitude. Perhaps at the time we do not realize the effect this undertaking will have on our future lives. Coming into contact with and learning to appreciate the real value of the everyday occurrences around us will be an unmistakable aid in years to come. For, as Tennyson has said, "All experience is an arch whereof youth is the keystone."

Gleams that untravelled world whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move.

Learning to comprehend the real beauty and significance of nature helps develop individuality. Nature acts as a discipline and a moral influence upon every individual, teaching him to discriminate and in its midst to soar for that brief moment into the empyrean.

Livingstone, who had learned to love and understand nature, later saved his life because of his knowledge of plants.

Peter Marshall, who used to wander much about the highlands of Scotland, filled his sermons with such vivid and inspiring descriptions that his audiences were immediately with him, captured by his words.

One of our many opportunities of life is that of an education. We must confront it too as a challenge, remembering that education does not only satisfy the present but is the keynote to the future. By it we are moulded into better, more reliable citizens, possessing a desire to press forward. Education develops our minds and broadens our personalities. It is not something to be soon forgotten or taken from us — it is of everlasting value.

Thus the possession of information alone is not sufficient to guarantee an individual's success. Dr. W. P. Percival has wisely warned that if we have not, during our search for knowledge, added many fundamental accomplishments as by-products, failure in life is already looming upon our horizon. Knowledge in the form of book-learning is but one of the many rungs in the ladder of success.

We must confront obstacles with the same attitude as such people as Helen Keller and Milton who overcame the powerful grip of their handicaps and contributed much to the world.

Our everyday life should be influenced by our religious life. Living a Christian life will help us meet all our opportunities and hardships with a brave heart, hopefully, and as a challenge.

Each such occasion should be considered as a thread which is to be woven into the tapestry of our life. In the pattern of anything that is woven, every thread has its important place. There are some tapestries in which all the work is done on the wrong side. The real beauty is not seen until it is turned over. Similarly each opportunity is a thread of great importance whose real significance cannot always be seen immediately.

Thus we must consider life a challenge of our opportunities and remember that Life is real and life is earnest

And the grave is not its goal.

MODERN EDUCATION

Wayne Laroque

One of the most controversial subjects across Canada today is education. Practically every organization, institution, and school is stressing the value of it.

How wrong some people are in applying the term education to scholastic achievement alone! Our education begins almost from the time we walk our first cry, and should continue until our mental capacity ceases. By the time a child has reached school age, he should have acquired the knowledge of the basic fundamentals of right and wrong. The child learns these from the most important of all teachers, his parents.

After he reaches school age, he has to begin to develop his own individuality and character, guided by his teacher. It is in these years that the teacher plays such an important role. She is entrusted with a delicate machine and if she does not keep the mental wheels rolling in the right direction, they may be easily turned on to a hopeless track.

According to a recent survey taken in the United States, forty per cent of the students who were asked the question, "What is your ambition?" had none. They were acquiring an education but were not applying it to their lives. What a pity that with all the advance of modern

I do not think any individual realizes the value and necessity of an education until he reaches High School. At this point in his life, if he is not being forced to go to school but is going of his own accord, he should have gained enough academic experience to realize what education means and will mean to him.

What is the value of education to the individual? Many people receive an education but are unable to apply it, while others with little are very successful.

To emphasize my point, we have examples of many world-famous personalities who received very little formal education and yet by sheer determination and will power they became some of the world's greatest leaders. On the other hand, we have cases of people who had the advantages, both financially and mentally, of higher education and yet, when they had acquired it, they had not the ambition or ability to apply it. I know of a man in our locality, who graduated from Harvard University and yet spent the greater part of his life, more or less in seclusion, doing absolutely to better himself or the community in which he lived.

Education is the hub of the ever-turning wheel of life. It helps to guide that wheel in the right direction and trains the individual to be a respected citizen and to qualify for a position he should be proud to hold. It teaches him to understand and appreciate the world and its advancement.

An education enables people to see and understand the points put forth by others. For this reason I think if the whole world were better educated, we would not be manning radar stations and building bomb shelters for fear of aggressors. Education helps us to choose a good profession in which we will be successful.

BAD BIDDING WINS MATCH

The players were match teams of four and South opened one spade at both tables. In each instance West doubled and North passed.

At Table One East passed also. He had five spades to the queen-nine and a side ace. This type of pass is usually a mistake and it certainly was this time.

West opened the king of hearts and shifted to the jack of spades. South let it hold and West continued with the ten spot. Declarer won this and cashed four diamonds. West had no trumps and East had to follow, so South was able to discard two clubs.

A heart was led and ruffed for declarer's sixth trick, whereupon a club was played and won by East's singleton ace. There was no way to keep South from making two more trump tricks, so he wound up with a total score of 360.

Sometimes you don't know when you get a good result. East and West were still arguing about the hand when it came time to compare scores with their partners. The argument was forgotten when it turned out that they had won the board.

It seems that at the other table East quite properly bid one no-trump. South stuck his neck out and bid two spades. When this came around to East he doubled. Again South managed to make

LAND OF ICE.

On days like these you'd think applicants would be standing in line. Nevertheless the Navy reports difficulty in finding enough volunteers to man the seven American bases in Antarctica.

At first, when the project was new and glamorous, some 7,000 men applied for the 431 listed vacancies. That was two years ago; now, when replacements are needed, all the more so because the International Geophysical Year is under way, only about 110 navy men have sent their names in.

Great Effort To Be Made To Offset U.S. Strike Effects

ALLENTOWN, Pa.—(P)—Construction engineers across the United States moved today to get major building projects rolling again as a crippling strike in the cement industry neared an end.

With valuable weeks lost during the peak of the summer building season, the rush is on to get construction in high gear on everything from superhighways to supermarkets before cold weather sets in.

The 2½-month strike has halted or slowed work on military projects, roads, factories and housing worth more than $1,000,000,000. Tens of thousands of construction workers now can hope to start working again.

The log jam was broken Monday with ratification of an agreement between one of the largest U.S. cement producers and the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union.

FOLLOW LEADERS

Workers at the nearby Northampton plant of Universal Atlas Cement Company accepted the union company pact and the first shift reported at noon. Other plants are falling in line one after another.

Contractors said it will be two to four weeks before construction can resume its normal summer-time pace.

A total of 71 plants were strike-bound before the settlement rush. The populous northeastern U.S. probably felt the effects of the strike most of all, although nearly all construction was hampered.

16,000 WERE OUT

The strike began May 15 and slowly spread until 16,000 cement workers had left their jobs.

This, basically, is the Universal Atlas agreement that is setting the pattern for the industry: A 13.6-cent hourly increase, of which 2.6 goes into premium pay for various job categories. Ten cents of the boost is retroactive to May 1, when the contract expired.

RAF Renews Air Attack

SHERJAH, Arabian Trucial Oman (Reuters) — The RAF renewed its air offensive against the rebellious Imam of Oman today as six Venom jets took off to attack an undisclosed target in Oman.

Four more Venom jets were scheduled to take off later to demonstrate against followers of the Imam who has rebelled against the British-backed sultan of Muscat and Oman.

It was the fifth such display of British air power over Oman.

An RAF spokesman said Monday's raid inflicted considerable damage on the walls of the fort.

Meanwhile, a detachment of the Camerons, a British army unit, moved into the oil-rich Buraimi oasis.

The Buraimi oasis, claimed by the sultan, is on the Oman-Saudi Arabian frontier and was taken by British-supported forces in 1955 from occupying Saudi Arabian troops.

Menzies To Talk Trade

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Menzies of Australia will arrive here Thursday to keep a date with Prime Minister Diefenbaker that was postponed by a tonsil operation on Mr. Menzies.

An official of the Australian high commission said Monday that Mr. Menzies' program during his brief visit will be restricted because he is convalescing from the operation, performed in London.

One topic is certain to be Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal for a Commonwealth trade and economic conference next spring. Commonwealth finance ministers will meet in Ottawa in September to consider the possibilities of such a conference.

Strikers Make Point

TORONTO — (CP) — A brief commando-style foray into a strike-bound plant here accomplished what the strikers said they intended to do: give the dispute publicity.

Fourteen members of Local 32, International Chemical Workers Union, broke into the boiler house of the Lever Brothers plant early Monday, locked themselves in and prepared for a lengthy siege.

They were forced out by police a few hours later and charged with breaking and entering. Each man was remanded on $200 bail until Aug. 26.

"They appeared to have made their point," said a union spokesman.

The men blackened their faces and entered a bunker room above the boiler house. Obviously carrying a lengthy stay, they carried with them magazines, a cribbage board, two sacks of canned food and a trumpet.

Company officials declined to comment on the incident.

Upon his return he settled on the home farm where he stayed for five and one half years, later coming to the Newport Colony. In August 1940 he joined the 16 Co., Veterans' Guard in which he served five years.

In July 20, 1921, he was united in marriage to Miss Pansy Jackson, who survives him. H., and Edward Cooper; a son-in-law, Everard Young; sister-in-law, Mrs. Albert Cooper; three grandchildren, Nora, Percy and Muriel Young, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert Cooper, France; and many nieces and cousins.

The funeral was held on June 26 at Island Brook United Church with Rev. Ernest Breen officiating. The choir sang three favorite hymns "O Master let me walk with Thee", "Shall we gather at the River" and "The Lord is my Shepherd".

The bearers were Wm. Martin, Ralph Smith, Norman Woods, Roy Smith Peter Heegsma and Walter Young.

The numerous floral pieces were silent tokens of the love and esteem in which Mr. Cooper was held.

Former Newswoman Writes "Proud Heritage", NCW Story

Ottawa — A former newspaper woman who leafed through records covering more than 60 years of activities of the National Council of Women says she found the venture far from dull.

"In fact, I got a great kick out of it," Rosa Shaw, author of Proud Heritage, the NCW's first history, said in an interview.

BUSY PIONEERS

"I really admire the energy and perseverance of the council's founders and early members," said Miss Shaw. She discovered that the individuals behind the council's achievement were getting women with agile minds, unhampered by old-fashioned hustles and enormous hats.

Research for Proud Heritage, just published by Ryerson Press, Toronto, took a year of part-time work.

The NCW was founded in 1893, when Confederation was less than 30 years old and exposed ankles were considered somewhat indecent.

But Miss Shaw found that the council's "mother founders" were "outspoken, down-to-earth and dynamic women," led by the dandy Lady Aberdeen, wife of the governor-general of that time.

With a handful of members, the NCW's early crusades were for protection of immigrant women and children, for health, housing, education, and women's suffrage.

Council activities sparked the formation of the Victorian Order of Nurses, launched playground movements, instituted domestic science studies in schools and led to the formation of public health departments, to name a few achievements.

GREATLY EXPANDED

"I hope the history will help young women to realize the heritage they have in the National Council of women," Miss Shaw said of the 195-page illustrated work.

The group now has more than 600,000 women in 23 member organizations working on local and national levels.

The motto of the council is the golden rule. Its history is essentially a lively, human interest story spiced with the humor, personality and persistence of its leaders.

Walter Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation, said the book is "lively without being stuffy." Miss Shaw has given life and vitality to an institution.

Homemaking

Life can be better at home if housewives will give in to washable fabrics. This is especially true of those who use slipcovers and draperies that soil easily and require constant care.

Breakfast should contain a fourth or even a third of the day's food needs, nutritionists say. A survey of school children showed not quite 20 per cent ate a breakfast that provided about one-fourth of their daily needs from bread, egg, milk and fruit.

Balanced Diet Requires Fresh Fruits, Vegetables

Fruits and vegetables annually account for more than 90% of the total supply of ascorbic acid (vitamin C).

In addition, these foods give us 59% of our supply of vitamin A; 21% of the iron; 12% of the calcium; 46% of the folic acid (one of the B vitamins); 18% of the carbohydrates and even 7% of the protein. They also supply large quantities of cellulose, which gives bulk for digestion.

Nutritionists often call fresh fruits and vegetables "protective" foods, because the vitamins and minerals they offer are needed for body growth and prevention of many serious diseases and deficiencies.

For example, vitamin C is essential to bone growth, sound teeth and gums, and maintenance of muscle tone (including the heart muscle). It also keeps the body tissues cemented together and it prevents scurvy.

Vitamin A is needed to maintain the normal cellular structure and functioning of the body's membranes, as well as good digestion and vision.

Diets are most often found lacking in vitamin C, calcium and Vitamin A.

Surveys show that we need to consume 25 to 70% more tomatoes and citrus fruit, the big suppliers of vitamin C; 50% more green, yellow and leafy vegetables, which supply vitamin A; and 10 to 25% more each of milk and butter.

All told, the nutritionists feel that the average person needs at least 200 pounds a year more of fruits and vegetables in the fresh form than he ordinarily consumes.

For a balanced diet, a person needs about 564 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables a year, whereas average consumption per capita today is approximately 320 pounds.

Many Attend 75th Anniversary Of St. Andrew's Church At Scotstown

SCOTSTOWN — Marking the 75th anniversary of St. Andrew's Church the opening event was a salad tea served by the Women's Association. In the evening members and friends returned to join in the social and spiritual festivities and assembled at the church hall where Mr. A. A. MacKenzie acted as chairman for the evening. Dr. R. M. Pounder, minister of St. Andrew's United Church welcomed those present, followed by Rev. I. MacIver of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and moderator of the Quebec Presbytery and Rev. W. Walker of St. Albans' Anglican Church who brought greetings from the bodies which they represented.

An evening of good fellowship was enjoyed during which solos were rendered by Mrs. R. G. Smith and A. A. MacKenzie. Numerous letters from former members who were unable to attend were read by P. A. Sherman and brought back fond remembrances. All joined in singing old songs and appreciation was shown for the skit "The Old Lighthouse Keeper" enacted by a group of the younger members. Midway in the evening the voices of Frank and Jean Carey, missionaries in Japan were heard over a tape recorder as they reminisced "of their presence" at Scotstown and sent their best wishes. Then followed a viewing of old home movies shown by Mrs. D. Waters in which many of the onlookers found themselves many years younger. The program closed with many lingering after to "Roll Back The Years" as they looked at many old snapshots and pictures which were on display, some of them as far back as the first minister of the church. Sunday morning St. Andrew's pews were completely filled and Rev. C. J. Gustafson, a former minister of the church now located at Cowansville United Church, joined Dr. Pounder in the pulpit. Mr. Gustafson's address entitled "Resources for Tomorrow" reminded that although numbers might be lessening, hope should never die, for "We are compassed about with a great cloud of witnesses," and there is an ever present unseen source of power. Communion was partaken of at the close of the service.

In the evening Rev. Norman Buchanan, a former Scotstown boy now of Beaufort United Church occupied the pulpit with Dr. Pounder. Mr. Buchanan pointed out the veil of the temple being rent Jesus giving up the ghost was more than a coincidence and proceeded to elaborate how we could walk in "The Open Way" as a result of the light which Jesus had let in. At the close of the service Rev. I. MacIver pronounced the benediction.

Both Anglican and Presbyterian congregations joined in the worship service in the evening.

Friends gathered from near and far, among them Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McKeown, Mr. Rod MacAulay, Miss Ruth Sherman, Mrs. Margaret MacIver, Mrs. Marion Knight, Miss Isabel Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Vinegar Bend Mizell Leads Cardinals To 4-0 Win Over Pittsburgh; Braves Conquer New York In Extra Innings

Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, who has been either very good or very bad so far, looks as though he has "comeback" in the bag as St. Louis Cardinals continue to put the pressure on Milwaukee in the hot National League pennant race.

Wilmer went 11 innings to beat Cincinnati 4-3 and pitch the Cardinals into the lead July 5. And Wilmer gave up that grand slam home run to Gil Hodges in a wild ninth inning at Brooklyn July 18 as the Dodgers beat the Cards in 11 and dumped them out of first place.

Monday night, the 26-year-old lefty did all he could to help regain the lead, pitching a two-hitter that beat Pittsburgh 4-0. It was the eighth victory—and third shutout—in 10 games for the Cards, who stayed second as Milwaukee staged a four-run ninth inning rally and then pushed over a 10th-inning run to beat New York Giants 9-8.

That left the Braves three percentage points ahead of the Cards and put them two games up on idle Brooklyn. The Dodgers' hold on third place was shaved to a half game as Philadelphia Phillies, behind Robin Roberts' four-hitter, defeated Chicago Cubs 6-0 in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American, southpaw Billy Pierce won his 15th with a four-hitter as the second-place Chicago White Sox trimmed Baltimore 5-0 and moved within three games of New York Yankees, who were idle. Boston beat Cleveland 6-2 in the only other game scheduled.

Only two men reached base against Mizell, who gave up a single to Dick Groat and a double to Frank Thomas with two out in the fourth, then fanned Roman Mejias. It was the third victory of the month for Mizell, who moped into July with a 1-6 record. Now he's 4-7 with his first shutout since last Aug. 13, when he four-hit New York 5-0. Four of his seven shutouts in the major have been against the Pirates.

Wally Moon pushed his hit streak to 15 games and drove in two runs for the Cards who managed just two runs, one unearned, off Charley (Whammy) Douglas despite seven walks in five innings from the young, one-eyed righthander called up Sunday from Columbus of the International League.

The Braves made it 11 out of 15 with a bases-loaded, two-out walk in the 10th after the Giants had scored three in the ninth to lead 8-4. Del Crandall's 13th homer triggered the Milwaukee rally which tied it up. Two walks sandwiched Crandall's single in the 10th before Felix Mantilla worked losing reliever Al Worthington for the payoff pass on a

Referee Stops Fight In 10th Round; Champion Takes Two Days Off Before Training For Rademacher Match Soon

NEW YORK — (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today planned the luxury of a day and a half of loafing following butchering of Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in the title fight now called the "slaughter of Eighth Avenue."

Then the 22-year-old champ will resume training for his fantastic title defence against Pete Rademacher, Olympic heavyweight champion of 1956, at Seattle Aug. 22.

For his 10th round technical knockout of the game, tamed Hurricane at the Polo Grounds Monday night, Patterson earned a guaranteed $175,000. For his defence against Rademacher, who never has fought professionally, the fast-striking titleholder will collect a $250,000 guarantee.

This adds up to $425,000 for two fights within 24 days for the one time wayward boy who is following in the footsteps of the fabulous Joe Louis on boxing's golden trail.

Weighing the heaviest of his career at 184 pounds and punching with blinding speed, Patterson scored his 19th straight victory and may have ended the fistic career of the fighter known as the "animal" in boxing circles.

They call Jackson "animal" because of his ability to absorb punishment and his tremendous stamina. But he took too much for any beast before referee Ruby Goldstein ended the bout at 1:52 of the 10th with the protesting Jackson wobbling on his feet.

The 25-year-old, 192½-pound challenger had been dropped three times previously, and had been rocked from head to toe in almost every round by Patterson's violent bursts to Jackson's battered and bleeding face.

There was some confusion at the ringside over the counts of the knockdowns but referee Goldstein said afterwards Jackson was up at the count of one in the first round (the bell sounded to end the round), three in the second round and four in the ninth.

Goldstein and judges Bill Recht and Joe Agnello all had Patterson ahead by perfect 9-0 scores until the rout was halted.

Perhaps the most devastating blow Patterson landed was a left hook to the body in the fourth that doubled over Jackson and made him grimace in pain. Jackson offered practically nothing but courage.

How about Rademacher? Patterson was asked.

"Any man that's been fighting for 10 years in the amateurs is a pro in my book," replied Patterson slowly. "A man that wins an Olympic title to take the world to beat the world's best amateurs. I'm not taking him lightly."

New York bookmakers tabbed the Seattle fight as a 10-to-1 and "out" betting proposition, meaning they will take only bets on Rademacher. Patterson was a 5-to-1 choice over Jackson and 8-to-5 to knock him out.

Miami Sweeps Toronto Series 4-1; Montreal Edges Columbus Jets 6-5

Miami Marlins appear to be a tough match for first division clubs in the International League. Toronto found it so and now it may be Buffalo's turn.

The Marlins, one game behind fourth-place Rochester, defeated the third place Maple Leafs 3-1 Monday night to take the series 4-1 in games. Today, Miami opens a five - game set in Buffalo against the league leaders.

Miami's Ray Semproch scattered nine Toronto hits while boosting his season's record to 6-3. It was also his third straight victory. The Marlins could only manage four hits off starter and loser Humberto Robinson and reliever Bob Tiefenauer. There of them came in the second inning when the Marlins scored all their runs. Johnny Bucha's single scored two and Don Landrum doubled to send in the final tally.

Toronto scored its only run in the third on Lou Morton's triple and Rocky Nelson's single. Southpaw Roberto Vargas hurled six scoreless relief innings and the Royals came up with three runs in the eighth inning to catch the Jets. Columbus pounded Montreal starter Billy Harris from Dorchester, N. B., for five runs in the first three innings, but couldn't touch Vargas the rest of the way. The Jets rocked Harris for four runs in the third, with Johnny Power's three run homer the big blow.

Commissioner Frick noted that since he has been pitching for the Orioles in batting practice he should be removed from the disabled list.

Commissioner Frick noted that since he has been pitching for the Orioles in batting practice he should be removed from the disabled list.

3-2 pitch.

Bob Trowbridge won it for the Braves, who used five pitchers and had ace Bob Buhl ready to hurl the 11th.

Roberts was at his best winning his second in a row — after seven straight defeats — for the Phils to gain an 8-13 record. He walked three and struck out six, and also escaped a home run ball for the first time in 12 games while gaining his first shutout since July 14, 1956.

Rookie Harry Anderson, who had three singles, drove in two runs for the Phils, tagging Don Elston with the defeat.

Pierce, top winner in the majors, walked none and struck out six as the Sox beat Hee Brown.

Tom Brewer won his fourth in a row for a 13-8 record as the Red Sox beat Mike Garcia. Ted Williams, a 2-for-3 for a .379 season average, singled and scored the clincher in the fourth as Norm Zauchin doubled. Williams, batting .532 against the Tribe, again was walked with men on first and second, but Jackie Jensen, who hit into a double play when the Injuns tried the strategy for the first time Sunday, hit a two-run single this time.

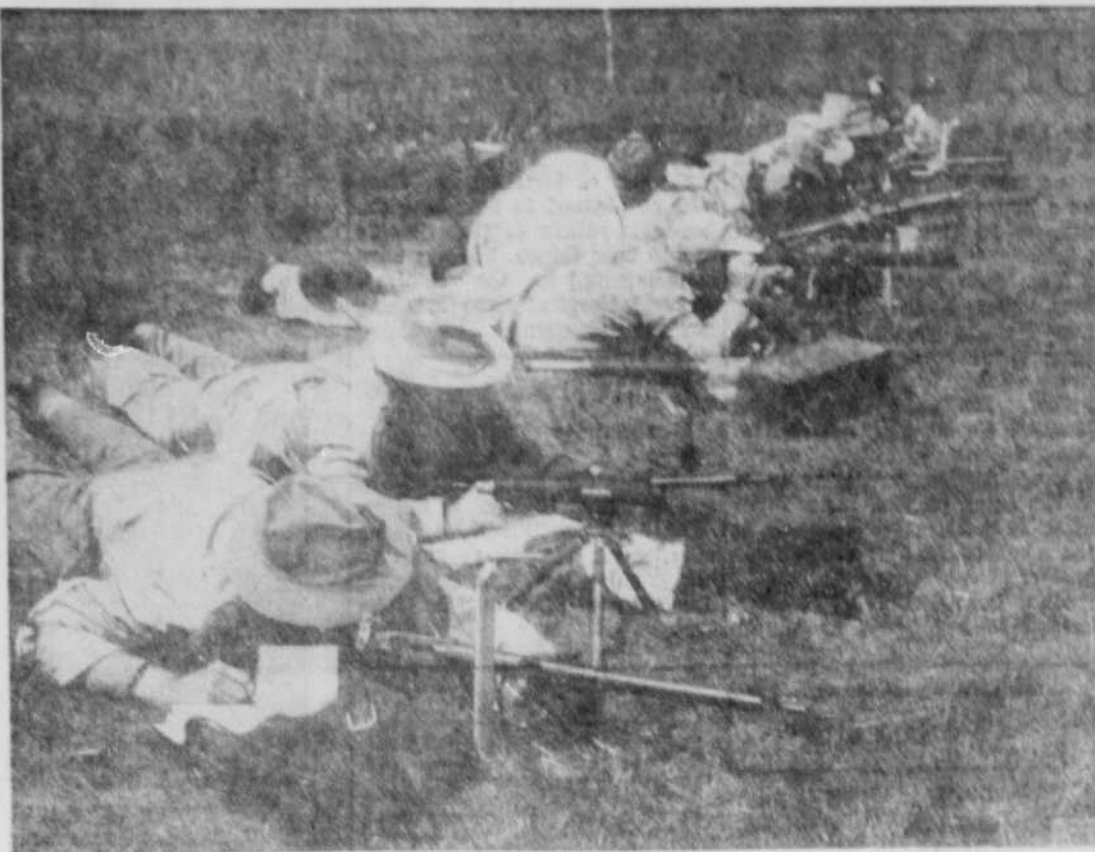

Brewer now has 13 complete games for the season, matching Pierce for the major league high.

Sand Hill Rifle Range Largest In Eastern Townships

By NICK POWELL

SAND HILL — A 138 acre farm, some eight miles from Sherbrooke, is the site of one of the largest .303 rifle ranges in the Eastern Townships, and as such, is the weekend home for almost 100 aficionados of this exacting sport.

The Sand Hill range is subdivided into five separate ranges between 200 and 600 yards long. The standard rifle is the military issue .303. If the competition is to be shot on three ranges, seven shots are fired on each, making a total of 21. On the other hand, if only two ranges are involved in the competition, 10 shots are fired on each for a total of 20.

However, according to President Gerry Bishop, there are two definite classes on the range involving equipment. He referred to the sights employed on the firing line. Two types are in use: the Parker-Hill sight, generally used for target shooting, and the standard battle sight. Riflemen are being encouraged to use the latter because it requires more careful aiming than the Parker-Hill sight. The former allows for both wind and distance compensation while the battle sight may only be adjusted for distance.

The targets themselves are varied for use on each range depending upon the distance. They have bullseyes varying from six to 18 inches in diameter. A certain amount of variety is added with the use of targets called the "Walking man" and the "Pop-and-Dodge."

The Walking Man is exactly what the name implies: a moving silhouette of a man. It moves 20 feet along the "butts" — the target platform — and back, during which time the men on the firing line have to fire two shots from 300 yards. The Pop - and - Dodge is a small round target about 14 inches in diameter which is suddenly raised anywhere along the butts, remaining six seconds and dropped. During the six seconds two shots must be fired.

Another facet of target shooting is rapid-fire. In this particular type of competition 10 shots must be fired in the space of 40 seconds.

While there is a system of telephone communication between the butts and the firing line, a system of colored signals is used to flash the score back to the marksmen. There is a white square which indicates a bulls-eye, worth five points; a red square, an "inner," indicating 4 points; a red and white, diagonally divided square, a "Magpie," three points, and the outermost ring, a black and white square, worth two points.

However, even the boys in the butts have their moments of tribulation. Occasionally the target is completely missed and they immediately seize a large, well-worn, red flannel flag — irreverently named "Maggie's Drawers" — and wave it triumphantly overhead.

The targets themselves are located behind a huge, steel plate-reinforced mound — the butts — some 50 feet behind which is a large pit used to stop the slugs after they have passed through the targets. The five targets are raised and lowered behind the butts by means of large, manually operated, rack-like counterbalances. After a shot has been fired, the target is lowered at the same time raising the pennant indicating the correct score. Then a large patch is placed over the bullet hole to show what part of the target has been hit. This of course assists the marksmen in determining whether their shots are too high or low, left or right. The calibre of marksmanship at Sand Hill is good and needless to say while we were there, there was no sign of the ignominious "Maggie's Drawers" flapping over the target bearing mute witness to someone's incompetence.

To one side of the target range, there is an auxiliary range used for sighting in rifles preparatory to firing in competition. The process of "sighting in" a rifle involves correcting the sights by rifle performance.

Use of the range is not necessarily confined to adults. A great deal of effort and encouragement has been made to get juniors out to shoot and handle the standard issue .303's, and particular effort is being made to encourage membership in the Rifle Club.

The officers of the Sand Hill Rifle Club are: Gerry Bishop, President; B. Ledger, Vice-President and Edson Warner, Secretary. The Range Committee consists of Fred Glass, a former member of Canada's Blaisy team, and Jim Beattie, the oldest member of the Club. Mr. Beattie was one who was instrumental in forming the Club and raising local interest in target shooting. "I've been shooting now for 53 years," he said, and he added with a wry chuckle, "Except during the war when they wouldn't give me any ammunition!"

Just made me think of you.
