

Everything is fine with city's heart transplant

MONTREAL (CP)—"Everything is fine" with Elie Zaor, who became Canada's third heart-transplant patient Friday night and then had to undergo an emergency abdominal operation Sunday.

A bulletin from the Montreal Heart Institute at 12:15 a.m. EDT today said Mr. Zaor, a 58-year-old widowed father of five, is "resting comfortably right now and his condition is progressing normally."

At noon Monday the institute reported that "the transplanted heart continues to maintain excellent blood pressure," only 24 hours after the Turkish-born patient from Sherbrooke, Que., had to go back to the operating table.

Mr. Zaor's emergency three-hour surgery Sunday was necessary because "an acute thrombosis"—blood clot—had formed in a "previously-existing small aneurism" of abdominal part of the aorta, the institute said.

REPLACE WITH DACRON

The aneurism, a ballooning of weakened tissue of the artery, was removed during the operation and replaced with a Y-shaped graft of dacron.

But throughout the operation, "the transplanted heart needed no assistance or stimulation to maintain normal blood pressure."

Mr. Zaor sat up in bed and chatted with his doctors and nurses Saturday afternoon, less than 24 hours after he received his new heart from Aime Lamotte, 35, a welder from Sorel, Que., who died of a "massive cerebral hemorrhage."

Monday afternoon, Mr. Zaor's only son—Lawrence, 22—visited his father for the first time since the transplant operation. The visit lasted only 10 minutes. Mr. Zaor was still under the effects of the anesthesia administered during the second operation.

Dr. Yves Castonguay, a member of the institute surgical team, said in an interview the emergency surgery was necessary because circulation in the patient's right leg was endangered by the blood clot.

Surgeons had faced the alternative of operation immediately to overcome the obstruction in the aorta—the main artery—or waiting and operating later on the affected leg.

"The aneurism was a pre-existing condition and we were aware of it before the heart transplant took place," Dr. Castonguay said. "Before the transplant, Mr. Zaor could not have sustained Sunday's operation."

He described his patient as "more and more alert." He now was opening his eyes and answering questions, although so far only with a "yes" or a "no."

Dr. Pierre Grondin, head of the institute surgical team that has performed all three of Canada's heart transplant operations, told reporters after the operation Friday night "the new heart took over in beautiful fashion."

Speaking of the biological compatibility between Mr. Zaor and the donor, Dr. Grondin said:

"As far as blood compatibility is concerned, the match is perfect, and in the matter of tissue compatibility, the elements are satisfactory."

Mr. Zaor, employed by Dominion Textiles Ltd. in Sherbrooke, has suffered three heart attacks since 1947 and has been an invalid since last May.

He weighed about 110 pounds when brought to the institute Aug. 14. That is about the same weight as that of Gaetan Paris, Canada's 49-year-old second heart transplant patient, who was sent home to suburban Laval last Thursday, about two months after his operation in mid-June.

The institute's first heart transplant patient, Albert Murphy, 59, died June 1, 46 hours after his operation.

Thirty-eight heart transfers have been performed since the first one was performed in South Africa last December. Eighteen patients survive to date.

Aid parachuted to Iran

KAKHK, Iran (CP)—Fleets of mercy planes today parachuted aid to remote areas of northeastern Iran hit by two disastrous weekend earthquakes that may have taken as many as 20,000 lives. Fears grew of possible epidemics among the homeless adding to the toll.

The death toll from one of the worst quakes in Iranian history was officially placed at about 11,000.

The Associated Press gave an unofficial figure of 14,000 dead but Reuters news agency went much higher—20,000. Reuters placed the injured at 50,000 and said 100,000 are homeless.

Officials feared that a rising food shortage and extreme cold at night could result in disease among the homeless which could quickly develop into epidemics.

As a 24-hour period of official mourning began, flags flew at half staff and radio and television stations were silent throughout the country.

The Shah of Iran who led the nation in prayer, personally supervised rescue operations from Tehran.

Hundreds of doctors and medical students on vacation in the country volunteered to join rescue and relief teams.

HOSPITALS OVERFLOW
Authorities flew in field hospitals from Tehran to ease the burden on the few hospitals in the area already overflowing with the injured.

Associated Press correspondent Parvis Raeni visited the destroyed town of Kakhk, where he told of dazed survivors, wrapped in bloodstained clothing, wandering aimlessly through the rubble.

At least 6,000 of the 7,000 people of the once-prosperous village are dead or missing following the first earthquake that devastated some 750 square miles in northeastern Iran.

At least 11 after-shocks have been reported since the first killer quake Saturday. On Sunday, another quake hit Ferdous, about 30 miles north of Kakhk, causing heavy damage and more loss of life.

OFFER HELP
Foreign Minister Ardeshir Zahedi said that nearly every country in the world had sent messages of sympathy to Iran and some had offered to help in the rehabilitation of the survivors.

In Kakhk, little remains of the attractive little township that once had two broad, tree-lined streets with a pool at the crossroads and a mosaic-domed mosque overlooking it.

Only the mosque still stands, and it is cracked and could collapse at any moment.

Most of the children are gone, buried in the debris where their homes stood.

Swollen bodies, arms and hands sticking out of the rubble, an occasional child crying for its family—these are left.

Only 3,500 bodies have been recovered, and the search for the missing continues. The feeling among the survivors is one of hopelessness.

TOUR AREA

The Shah and Empress Farah are to tour the disaster area Wednesday. The empress and others of the royal family have donated blood for the victims.

Kakhk, which lies almost on the edge of the great Dasht Kavir Desert, is filled with troops, Red Lion and Sun—Red Cross—personnel and Boy Scouts trying to clear the rubble to find the dead and make way for rebuilding.

Rescuers pulled an old woman and her three-year-old grandson out of the ruins 48 hours after the quake struck. She was reading the Koran and the child was crying for food.

Occupying students get sympathy from Cardinal

MONTREAL (CP)—Students who have occupied Aime Renaud high school in suburban St. Leonard since Friday night said Monday they had a sympathetic hearing in a telephone conversation with Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal.

The 80 students said in a statement that Mr. Cardinal planned a meeting today or Wednesday with LeRoyer school board, which has jurisdiction over four suburbs including St. Leonard.

Meanwhile, support grew Monday for the students who are protesting their transfer to what they call inferior high schools and the turning over of Aime Renaud to English-speaking students.

About 200 demonstrators, including separatists and parents, picketed in front of the four-story building and there was official support from two organizations—the Teachers' Association of Le Royer and the Quebec Student Teachers' Federation.

WANTS RETURN

Le Royer school board should "return to the French-speaking students the school which it took away from them under false pretenses of obtaining a new school in St. Leonard," the association said in a statement.

The federation said that English-speaking Canadians should not lose any rights, but it is "paramount that the rights of French Canadians be respected."

Police said the school board has filed a complaint asking them to dislodge the students, but they said they could not act without authority from municipal officials who were away for the holiday weekend.

Opening of the school already has been postponed to Sept. 9 from Wednesday.

One student, who said he was leader of the 80 inside the building but refused to identify himself, said from a window-sill Monday English-Canadians are a minority in St. Leonard.

CRITICIZES MOVE

"Instead of being instructed in the language of the majority they will go to an English school," he told a reporter.

"I suppose they'll have to pick up bastard French in the streets."

"It's hypocrisy, the will of a small minority is being imposed on the French-speaking majority of St. Leonard."

The demonstrators at Aime Renaud said they would remain inside until French classes are restored to the school.

They have formed committees to handle maintenance of rooms they are occupying, to obtain and prepare food and relay information outside via leaflets, walkie-talkie, telephone and window-sill conversations.

They brought stocks of canned food with them when they barricaded themselves inside Friday. Parents and interested adults have donated foods, including platters of buffet-style cuts hauled up by ropes through the windows.

HAVE SLEEPING BAGS

The students also brought rubber mattresses and sleeping bags and a make-shift dormitory has been set up on gymnasium tumbling mats.

At the request of the students, Rev. Dollard Morin—chaplain of the municipality's fire department—said mass outside the school Sunday.

The students claim that facilities in other area high schools are inferior to Aime Renaud's and that transfers this school year would affect their chances of getting good jobs on graduation.

They also protested that Italian immigrants, whose children they say will form the majority of Aime Renaud's students, are not being integrated into the French-speaking society of Quebec.

The school board said the transfer was basically an economic move. The board could save $1,000,000 pending construction of new facilities.

President Robert Beale of the English-Language Association of Parents of St. Leonard said the transfer decision was "a sound one."

ONLY FOR OVERFLOW

He said Monday that if the school is kept for French-speaking students it would be only to handle the overflow from already existing schools.

News in brief

CNE closes

TORONTO (CP)—Boasting a few historic firsts, the Canadian National Exhibition closed a 19-day run Labor Day without achieving its hoped-for attendance, but with the promise of a brighter future.

Opened on Sundays for the first time, the 1968 fair was able to attract only 3,248,000 visitors, well below the anticipated 3,500,000.

The fair's best previous year was 1965 when 3,075,000 turned out during a 15-day run.

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—University students are faced with overcrowding, appalling food and 19th century residence rules, says Martin Loney, president-elect of the Canadian Union of Students.

Mr. Loney, 24, president of the student council of Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, B.C., succeeds Peter Warrian as president in September, 1969.

PORT HARCOURT (AP)—Nigerian federal forces were reported advancing today on the two airstrips that are Biafra's only avenue for food, medicine and arms from the outside world.

Col. Benjamin Adekunle, commander of Nigeria's 3rd Marine Commando Division, told a news conference his troops had crossed the Niger River and taken the town of Oguta, only eight miles from one of the airstrips and 15 miles from the other.

VANCOUVER (CP)—There will be few surprises in the speech from the throne when Parliament reconvenes Sept. 12, Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday.

Syrians killed

DAMASCUS (Reuters)—Two Syrian soldiers were killed in a 20-minute clash between Israeli and Syrian forces in the Golan Heights area Monday night, a Syrian military spokesman said here early today.

The spokesman said Israeli forces opened fire with machine-guns mounted on armored cars against Syrian positions which returned the fire.

No fatalities in city area

Four killed in ET accident

Four people were killed in the only fatal accident during the Labor Day weekend and many were injured.

The fatalities occurred in Ste. Cecile de Milton, near Granby, but there were no deaths in the Sherbrooke area.

St. Francis District coroner, Dr. Louis Gagnon, said last night it is the first time in 20 years he can recall a death-free Labor Day weekend in the Sherbrooke region.

Killed in the accident near Granby were Richard Laporte, 17, Andre and Daniel Auclair, 17 and 15 respectively, all of Granby, and Claude Jubinville, 24, of St. Hyacinthe.

Lise Leclerc, 754 Conseil Street, Sherbrooke, was injured in an accident Saturday at 11:15 p.m.

The triple car collision occurred on the corner of Terrill and Chicoine Streets.

The driver of one of the three cars involved in this collision fled from the scene of the accident and this morning, police were searching for him.

Benoit Martel, nine-years-old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Martel, of Stoke, was injured Monday at 10 a.m., when he was struck by a car as he rode his bicycle on Stoke Road.

Driver of the car was Robert Laverdiere, RR. 4 Sherbrooke.

Young Martel suffered injuries to his elbows and knees.

Summer ends

Summer ended unofficially Monday for hundreds of thousands of Canadians who streamed home along traffic-clogged highways from cottages, beaches, provincial parks and other points at the end of the three-day Labor Day holiday weekend.

A Canadian Press survey of the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday night, local times, showed at least 66 or 88 persons killed accidentally across Canada, died in traffic.

A man fell off a train yesterday afternoon and suffered serious injuries to his face and hands.

Henri Armstrong, 61, of Montreal, was brought to the Hotel-Dieu Hospital after he fell from the moving train. The CNR and CPR officials denied any knowledge of the accident yesterday.

A two-car collision between Windsor and Brompton resulted with three people being injured and hospitalized at the Hotel-Dieu.

Injured in the accident which occurred Sunday at 5:30 p.m., were Rene Gagnon, 30, of 392 Wood Street, Sherbrooke; the driver of one of the cars involved; Denis Bachand, 25, of White Street, Sherbrooke, a passenger in Mr. Gagnon's car; Mrs. Albertine Hains, 64, of 269 Celanese Street, Drummondville, a passenger in the other car, was also injured.

Mr. Hains, who was driving the other car, and their daughter, Murielle, 24, were released from hospital after a check-up.

Czech liberal leaders steer careful course

PRAGUE (CP)—Czechoslovakia's liberal leaders charted a careful course today, seeking an early end to the Soviet occupation.

Informed sources said Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek told the party's central committee not enough attention had been paid to "the opinions of other states in the Warsaw pact as a limiting factor in the speed and forms of our own political development."

The new, predominantly liberal 21-man Communist party presidium—elected Sunday—met Monday with instructions from the central committee to work for both speedy withdrawal of the 650,000 occupation troops and implementation of the reform program begun in January.

Dubcek's speech was interpreted as a warning to the reformers to go slow. It also appeared to be traditional Communist self-criticism for not anticipating the Soviet intervention.

SUPPORT PARTY

Vecerni Praha, the only newspaper published in Prague Monday, said the central committee also voted to:

—Support the party leaders who negotiated the agreement in Moscow accepting the Soviet occupation and reimposing press censorship while allowing the liberals to remain in office.

—Restate Czechoslovak allegiance to the Warsaw pact and repudiate the idea of neutrality.

—Indefinitely postpone the party congress that had been scheduled Sept. 9 to purge orthodox, conservative Communists still in office.

Informed sources said three weekly newspapers active in the liberalization drive will not be permitted to resume publication. They are Literarni Listy, the writers' association papers; a student magazine and the news magazine Reporter. The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda called Sunday for the "liquidation" of Literarni Listy.

RETURNING TO NORMAL

Prague showed some signs of a return to normal today as preparations were made for the resumption of civil airline flights inside the country and street signs, removed to confuse occupying troops, reappeared.

Prague airport was getting ready for the first flight to the Slovak capital of Bratislava since Warsaw pact troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 21.

The Czechoslovak Journalists' Association announced Monday it accepted censorship for only a three-month period.

If by then news media did not get their buildings back and journalists were not guaranteed normal work, Prague's newspapers would consider themselves in a state of illegality, Radio Bratislava reported the association as announcing.

Children returned to school after vacation and strollers are back on the streets and in the cafes. But there are long lines outside the state travel agency Cedok, which issues tickets for travel abroad. Persons in the lines said they were taking an autumn vacation in the West.

TANKS, TROOPS, LEAVE
Most of the Red Army soldiers and tanks have disappeared from Prague and Bratislava.

Anti-Soviet posters in both cities are disappearing as well as some of those praising President Ludvik Svoboda and Dubcek.

Radio broadcasts indicated compliance with new instructions not to call the Soviet troops "occupiers." Announcers spoke increasingly of "events" rather than the "invasion" and "foreign" rather than "occupation" troops.

"Soon it will be 'allied troops' and then 'fraternal troops,'" one Czech commented bitterly.

Some broadcasts assured workers they would be compensated for all wage losses resulting from the "happening," including the brief general strikes protesting the invasion.

Children returning to school Monday were ordered in a radio bulletin by Deputy Premier Frantisek Hamouz to keep silent and avoid forming big groups when they passed sensitive points in the capital.

The children will be learning about the invasion at their classes. One headmistress said her teachers would explain to their

ET electricians vote to accept new wage offers

Eastern Townships electricians have accepted a $1.10 salary increase spread over a period of 30 months and will return to work today.

The ET electricians went on strike on Aug. 13.

Special meetings were held over the weekend and union members accepted the agreement reached by union representatives and the Corporation of Master Electricians (management).

The electricians, who demanded wage parity with plumbers, earn $3.10 per hour now. At the end of the 30-month contract period, they will be earning $4.20 per hour.

This contract was drawn up at a meeting held at the Sherbrooke Court House.

Returning to work today, the electricians are starting off with a 30-cent per hour raise. The next 30-cent increase will be given in July, 1969.

Another 30-cent raise is scheduled for May, 1970 and the final 20 cents will be added on around September, 1970.

The electricians will also enjoy a two-week vacation during the summer with six per cent of their salaries in 1969 and seven per cent in 1970.

The plumbers and general construction workers signed their new contracts earlier last week.

Child's death is ruled an accident

Dr. Louis Gagnon, St. Francis District coroner, ruled a case of accidental death in the accident which killed 13-year-old Normand Girard, of 170 Charter Street, Sherbrooke, two weeks ago.

The inquest was held Friday at the Sherbrooke court house. The driver of the car which hit young Girard was Renald Jean, 26, of Bromptonville.

The fatal accident occurred on the road to Bromptonville when Mr. Jean pulled his car out to pass another car and he was confronted by two youths on bicycles in front of him coming in his direction.

The two young bicyclists were the young Girard boy and one of his friends, Roger Codere, of Queen Boulevard, Sherbrooke.

Mr. Jean explained at Friday's inquest he tried to pass between the two cyclists and he drove his car into the field beside the road.

However, in his attempt to take the ditch to miss the teenagers, Norman Girard also tried to avoid the accident and he too headed for the ditch. The car and the bicycle collided, and young Girard's right leg was ripped off. The youth died of his injuries hours later in the hospital.

Successful fair for Inverness

By WM. H. LUNAN
(Special to The Record)

INVERNESS — It was another successful year for the Inverness Fair held the past week, on the village grounds, sponsored by the Megantic Agricultural Society.

"Entries in all classes were up from the past year and, with exhibits limited to residents of Megantic County, we are enthused by the cooperation of the exhibitors in making the fair what it is," said John Hoy, Society president.

"Gate receipts were above average for the three days' run," stated Raymond Dempsey, secretary. "However, the dance held to close out the fair, Saturday night, was a failure with a small crowd attending." A heavy down-pour of rain at nine o'clock held off the usual supporters to this event.

The Auction Sale of some 30 head of cattle, Saturday afternoon, drew a large audience.

George Goggin, auctioneer of Plessisville, was in charge of the sale and while his chant was consistent with the art of the trade, he kept the buyers moving at a good pace. However, they were not over-bidding in making their choice of animals.

This is the first time that such an auction has been held by the Society.

Friday night's entertainment, consisting of a card of wrestling matches featuring well-known fighters, drew a packed crowd onto the grounds as did the bingo held Sunday afternoon.

In the Calf Club judging on Saturday afternoon Claude Gourd, age 12, of Inverness, took the top honors with his entry winning the Royal Bank of Canada Trophy for the Grand Champion Hereford, J. G. Giguere, branch manager, made the presentation.

In the same class, Allan Robinson of Inverness, was awarded the honors for Showmanship and received the Allan Crawford Memorial Trophy, presented by Miss Frances Egan, Calf Club secretary.

George Goggin was judge for the Calf Club competition. Mr. Goggin, in his exhibiting, took top awards and received 3 trophies, the Odd Fellows' the family, for the best filly, two years old, in the grade horses; the Yvon Goudreau Trophy for the best pair of horses hitched to a double wagon and also received the cash award prize donated by the Society Co-operative Agricole, Lyster.

The Prescott Walker Memorial Trophy went home to Clifford Wright for the best flock of sheep. Mr. Wright also won the Godbout Trophy for having the most first prizes in the agricultural section.

The J. A. Magwood Memorial Trophy, (Mr. and Mrs.) was won by Lawrence Allan for his exhibit of the best two ewe lambs. He also won the first prize for his entry in the brood mare, class C.

Edgar Nugent was awarded the Hartley Graham, cash award of $5 for the best showing of horses in the parade.

City business day traffic found heavy

In just one business day, between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., more than 42,000 people entered Sherbrooke's commercial centre.

This is just one more figure released in the traffic circulation report presented last week at city council by the Cameron, Grant and Associates firm.

The commercial centre is defined in the report as Wellington Street, and points bordered by the Magog and St. Francis Rivers and Aberdeen Street.

Entries were counted at 26 different points leading into this centre.

The largest number of vehicles registered by the report that day was on the Aylmer Bridge on King East.

The largest number of pedestrians, 6,117, were also registered at this point.

The rush hour on the bridge was between 5 and 6 p.m.

The firm also conducted a study on the speed of movement of traffic on city streets.

It showed that traffic moved slowly at the intersections of Galt and McManamy and Galt and Laurier Streets, only 12.8 mph.

The average speed was 5.6 mph on Wellington Street.

School opening calls for traffic caution

The reopening of the schools this week places an additional responsibility on teachers, students and motorists to assure that the resumption of classes is not accompanied by an increase in the traffic accident toll.

Parents and teachers must impress upon the children, especially the younger ones entering school for the first time, of the inherent dangers.

Students, of course, are called upon to observe the simple commonsense rules of traffic safety for their own protection and for the benefit of others.

Cyclists, especially, must learn the basic rules of the road as a vast majority of the accidents to children going to or returning from school involve cyclists many of whom seem to delight in playing fast and loose with the traffic laws.

Motorists must learn to readjust themselves to the changed traffic patterns resulting from the reopening of the schools.

Many areas which have been denuded of pedestrian traffic for the past two months suddenly will be overrun with young people, many of whom may be in the region for the first time.

By a display of reasonable caution and common sense on the part of all concerned any major tragedy should be avoided.

A person who greets each day with a smile obviously never reads the headlines in the morning paper.

More useless outlays

Residents of Vancouver apparently are making something of a name for themselves thanks to the Canada Council which seems to go out of its way to find stupid reasons to spend the Canadian taxpayer's money.

Not long ago the Council voted a pension to the "Town Fool" in Vancouver to carry on his antics after the City administrators refused to give him assistance because they felt he added nothing to the municipality's image.

And only last week the Council financed at a cost of $284 a trip by New Yorker Ralph Ortiz from his home city to the West Coast metropolis to stage his "Mission Destruction."

Mr. Ortiz delighted his audience of 80 gathered in a warehouse with a show which he started by grabbing an axe and pounding an old record player into splinters.

Then he wielded an axe into an upright piano draped with plastic bags containing cow's blood.

Four white mice inside the piano scurried for safety as Mr. Ortiz smashed the piano into a pile of blood-splattered wreckage. All the mice got away.

Later in the performance he was joined by 10 young persons including four young women who threw cow's blood over themselves and proceeded to rip off each other's clothing, but not all the way.

During this scene they shouted epithets and curses, mostly directed against the Vietnam war.

Perhaps the display may have been meant to prove something or other but to the average Canadian taxpayer the message is that the Canada Council has little respect for the federal treasury.

If you have trouble keeping change in your pocket, try carrying an unwrapped toffee bar in the same pocket.

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—British and Canadian forces landed on the Italian mainland after crossing the Strait of Messina from Sicily; Scilla and Reggio Calabria, Italian ports 12 miles apart on the Negro revolt didn't materialize

Democratic convention violence produced by months old forces

CHICAGO (CP) — The violence threatening to stamp the concluded Democratic national convention for history is product of forces taking shape months ago.

The unpopular Vietnam war became the main spark. Fears here of another uprising among the city's 1,000,000 Negroes never materialized.

Militant opponents of the war began planning last year on a convention campaign to change the course of American policy in Vietnam. Several planning meetings were held.

And Mayor Richard Daley, hard-nosed mayor of this 3,500,000-resident city which calls itself the convention capital of the world, began lining up extraordinary security precautions.

The upshot was provocation and a reaction by Chicago police that, despite the mayor's heated denials, includes proven police brutality. Television videotapes, assaults on non-protesters and eyewitness testimony all verify that fact.

The mayor, the Chicago police department and other officials now are engaged in a publicity campaign attempting to tar the news media—and particularly the major television networks—with responsibility for what happened.

NEVER AGAIN?

"May America resolve tonight that never, never again will we have seen what we have seen," Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said Thursday night in launching his speech accepting nomination for the U.S. presidency.

Police edginess reached the bizarre when Hugh Hefner, proprietor of the lush Bunny Hutch that serves as the headquarters of his Playboy empire, was clubbed on a late-night stroll.

Hefner reported he was walking with Max Lerner, a syndicated political columnist, and cartoonist Jules Pfeiffer when they were accosted by police from a squad car who drew their revolvers and then hit him.

Daley said Thursday "colossal propaganda" colored TV reports about convention planning. He said: "For weeks and months the press, radio and TV across the nation have revealed the tactics and the strategy that was to be carried on . . . during the convention week by groups of terrorists."

Tuesday night, 17 reporters and camera men were assaulted by police as they sought to cover police action moving protesters out of a North Chicago park with billy clubs and tear gas.

Thursday, a district court ordered the Chicago police department to stop harassing news men.

The main violence came Wednesday night in another anti-war protest in a park fronting the Conrad Hilton Hotel, serving as convention headquarters.

More than 400 persons were arrested and more than 300 injured. Police said 83 of their ranks had been hurt. Police clubs, tear gas, Mace, a chemical irritant spray, and other physical force was used. Rocks and bottles were thrown—some from protesting eyewitnesses in the hotel watching the repeated police assaults on demonstrator ranks below.

The protesting forces have been a mixed bag—ranging from New Left people who regard the Communists with contempt as right-wingers to more moderate elements such as the National Mobilization to End the War in Vietnam and something called the National Conference on New Politics. Another was the Coalition for an Open Convention—meaning non-rigged.

After the Wednesday blood-letting increasing numbers of youngsters participated from the forces of peace candidates Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota, plus followers of the late Senator Robert Kennedy.

By Thursday night, hundreds of well-dressed adults joined a protest led by Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who went to jail eventually with about 80 others. They included convention delegates.

There have been self-proclaimed hippies, with long hair, head bands, tattered attire, weird hats and the unscrubbed look of teen-age boys and girls sleeping outside for several weeks.

There are some Negroes, some Communists, some professional agitators.

The National Mobilization to End the War—called MOB—is a coalition of about 100 anti-war groups which played a leading role last October in the march on Washington's Pentagon, where more than 600 were eventually arrested.

There are Students for a Democratic Society and the Yippies, the Youth International Party which arrived here with a pig as a presidential candidate. They call police "pigs," oppose the military draft and some urge "revolution."

Parliamentarians, members of the city council and representatives of the press and radio stations were guests of the directors of the Sherbrooke Exhibition at a reception and luncheon held in the Arena building on the occasion of the annual federal-civic-press-radio day.

In nine years

Edmund Muskie has come a long way

CHICAGO (AP) — In nine years as Democratic senator from tiny Maine, long a Republican party stronghold, Edmund Sixtus Muskie has come a long way.

From Lyndon Johnson's doghouse, the lanky senator has emerged as a masterful legislative tactician—and presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey's choice as vice-presidential mate on the Democratic slate for the Nov. 5 U.S. general election.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield calls Muskie, 54, "a senator's senator, a man who eschews publicity, works hard, and has gained a well-deserved reputation among his colleagues for integrity, fair dealing and effectiveness."

When Muskie was picked by President Johnson to shepherd Senate passage of air- and water-pollution legislation and the hotly-disputed model cities program, a former White House aide noted:

"The president regards him as a real powerhouse. He's one of the few liberals who's a match for the Southern legislative craftsmen."

Adds a cabinet officer: "If you have a domestic bill that's really tough and you need advice on how to get it through, Ed Muskie's the best guy up there."

DOES HOMEWORK

The Muskie method is solid homework in legislative detail, a differential diplomacy that avoids personal attacks on legislative opponents, and an understated eloquence.

Paradoxically, Muskie's Senate prominence is due, in part, to an early run-in with the then majority leader, Lyndon Johnson, in 1959. Johnson asked the six-foot-five freshman senator to vote with him in repulsing the perennial move by liberal senators to limit the power of filibuster. Muskie refused.

Johnson then assigned Muskie his fourth, fifth and sixth committee chores: Banking and currency, public works, government operations. Muskie was denied a coveted spot on the foreign relations committee.

Muskie generally avoided national limelight for years, but shifted course last year by accepting chairmanship of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. The committee helps finance and chart the campaigns of Democratic senatorial candidates.

Further, Muskie is a member of the Democratic Senate leadership and has been widely mentioned as possible successor to Mansfield as majority leader.

BUILT CONTACTS

Muskie began building national contacts after becoming in 1954 the first Polish-American U.S. governor.

Muskie's election as governor ended 20 years of Republican rule in the Maine statehouse. He was re-elected in 1956, and then made his successful U.S. Senate bid in 1958.

Muskie is Maine-born, the son of Stephen Marciszewski, a tailor who emigrated from Poland. The name was later anglicized.

He was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Bates College and has a law degree from Cornell.

After a Second World War navy stint, Muskie settled in

Edmund Muskie
Senator, Maine

Waterville, and was elected to his first of three terms in the Maine legislature in 1946.

Muskie married the former Jane Gray of Waterville in 1948 and they have five children ranging in age from 7 to 19.

He took up golf two years ago, and, confides a congressional colleague, "manages to shoot in the 90s by hitting them straight but not far."

Aussie navy can't stop a fishing boat

MELBOURNE (CP)—The navy is charged with protecting much of Australia's 12,446 miles of coastline, but at its present strength, a Labor opposition member of Parliament charged recently, it couldn't even apprehend a Chinese sampan fishing on the Great Barrier Reef.

The MP made the quip during an uproar in Parliament over the case of the talkative admiral. A few days earlier the flag officer commanding the Australian Fleet, Rear-Admiral Gordon Crabb, shocked the government by telling reporters and distinguished guests aboard the missile destroyer Perth that the navy is below strength.

Australia is buying three of the Perth-type destroyers from the United States, but three is not a viable force, the admiral said. The navy needed four, but for financial reasons it had been told it could have only three. There also was a serious shortage of men which could only be made up by a much wider draft.

And, the admiral said, the navy is likely to be landed with the job of fisheries protection service on the northern coastline but would need at least 20 more patrol boats to do the job. It had little chance of getting them. The admiral's statement came at an inopportune time for the government because the nationalist pride of Aussies had been roused.

The cause was an 8,000-ton Russian trawler named the Van Gogh which has been raiding the rich prawn grounds in the Gulf of Carpentaria off the north coast of Queensland. Formosan boats have also been fishing off the Great Barrier Reef, but it was the Russian ship that made Australians angry.

AROUSING BY PIRACY

The owner of an Australian trawling fleet got publicity when he sent a telegram to Prime Minister John Gorton complaining that the Russian ship kept steaming straight towards the small Australian boats as they were about to haul a catch of prawns aboard. The boats had to leave their catch while the bigger Russian ship sailed in to "pirate" the lot.

Gorton sent his primary industry minister, Douglas Anthony, to the gulf to investigate. After reporting to the cabinet and talking with the defence minister, Anthony promised that the Royal Australian Air Force would keep up permanent patrols over the gulf and if the Russian ship violated the 12-mile territorial waters limit "action would be taken."

But this didn't satisfy the Labor opposition which called for the government to take control of all the waters in the gulf and "argue it out in the International Court later."

Gulf waters extend for more than 100 miles from the Australian mainland and the government is reluctant to create an international incident by claiming the waters as Australian.

In Parliament, Dr. Rex Patterson, who represents some angry voters in northern Queensland and who made the quip about the Chinese sampan, said the admiral's statement showed the shocking state of Australia's defences. He accused the government of a "pusy-foot" attitude towards claims for all the gulf waters because it is afraid of offending Russia, Formosa and Japan whose fishermen, he said, poach in Australian fishing areas.

PUT ON CARPET

Anthony replied that the attorney-general's department is studying every possibility that could lead to extending Australia's exclusive fishing rights.

Navy Minister Charles Kelly put the admiral on the carpet or embarrassing the government with his criticism of navy strength. Kelly said Crabb had broken the rules and now realized he had made an "unfortunate expression which was just not correct."

But although the admiral might have felt it was in the interests of his career and of the service to apologise and climb down, his words had made their impact. Politicians seized on them to confirm their views that there is disquiet over the navy's inadequacies. And the whole question of Australia's defences came under the spotlight again.

Within the next few weeks, a report ordered by Gorton on Australia's future defence role will be presented to cabinet. Crucial decisions affecting Australia's defences for the next 10 years will follow.

Government party backbench parliamentarians have criticized the government for its lack of forward planning.

But Gorton and his senior ministers are playing it cautiously. They want to study carefully what the effects will be of Britain's withdrawal from its bases in Malaysia and Singapore. And they particularly want to know what future United States policy will be following the November U.S. presidential election.

Construction of high school moves ahead

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — Jim Willis, Resident Engineer for the Missisquoi and Bedford Regional School Boards, said construction of the polyvalent high school, scheduled to open in September 1969, is progressing well.

Mr. Willis said approximately 10 per cent of the structure has been erected in the two months the general contractor, ALTA Construction (1964) Ltd., have been on the job. Most work to date has been done on the industrial arts shops, located in a free area on the lower gradient of the complex. Water and sewer lines are completed, and the bus parking areas will be completed shortly.

Mr. Willis said "the contractor is maintaining schedule, and is possibly slightly ahead of the critical path."

Target date for completion of the academic areas is September 1, 1969, with the cafeteria, auditorium and gymnasium to be in operation by mid-November 1969.

The Cowansville Composite (Polyvalent) High School is the first in Quebec to be jointly owned by a French and English School Board. Father Gavin is the director general of the Missisquoi Regional Board and Malek Hanna serves the same function for the Bedford Board.

Mr. Willis said "the contractor is maintaining schedule, and is possibly slightly ahead of the critical path."

Brome fair gets big crowd

Congo president held prisoner by own army

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters) — Congo-Brazzaville President Alphonse Massamba-Debat was a prisoner of his army in the presidential palace Monday following a weekend of bloody fighting between troops and rebellious youths, informed sources here said.

The sources said the 47-year-old president, who came to power after a bloodless revolution in 1963, is alleged by some military leaders to have played a double game in the weekend crisis in Brazzaville, capital of the former French colony across the Congo River from this former Belgian colony.

These leaders claimed he tried to set the country's militant Youth League against the army in an attempt to regain powers he lost to his army last month.

No official announcement has been made about the president's fate.

The president was taken to army headquarters Saturday as heavy fighting broke out between army units and groups of youths entrenched in a camp in Brazzaville. The youths were rebelling against the National Council of the Revolution which controls the country.

Massamba-Debat spent the night at the headquarters and was then transferred to the palace. He has not been seen since then. The palace was heavily guarded by troops Monday, the sources said.

The army crushed the revolt by the Cuban-trained youth movement members and is rounding up about 100 persons alleged to have sided with the youths, including former information minister Andre Bombessa.

Meanwhile, Brazzaville returned to work Monday despite military searches for arms and ammunition and a midnight to 5 a.m. curfew.

Manufacturers call her the 'housewife's friend'

OTTAWA (CP) — Manufacturers have called exuberant Eleanor Ordway the "consumer's protector" and the "housewife's friend."

Miss Ordway, director of the new consumer service and information division of the consumer affairs department, couldn't be more pleased at the pat on the back from people who might, in some lights, be considered her opposition.

Miss Ordway, 50, has the kind of warm personality which can completely captivate a person and yet leave them with the impression that she can be decidedly firm when it suits her.

"I'd like to see the consumer be more discriminating," she said in an interview in her bright, modern office.

"So many people, when they go to buy a carpet, ask for broadloom, for example. All that means is that it's broad and it's loomed."

"If you're buying a carpet—a considerable investment —find out something about carpets. Go to a reliable manufacturer who you know will be in business two or three years from then when your carpet begins to wear. Ask questions."

The new consumer information and service division is not going to tell the consumer what to buy, she said—just what to watch for.

COMPLAINTS POUR IN

The department's new service—"The Consumer, Box 99, Ottawa, Ont."—has, however, received complaints and enquiries from consumers in all parts of Canada.

"There are a tremendous number of men writing in about cars, power mowers and clothing," Miss Ordway said, pointing out the fact that women aren't the only concerned consumers.

"One of our responsibilities is to deal with complaints not coming under any government authority, either federal or provincial."

They had to look older

SAANICH, B.C. (CP) — Contrary to an often-seen television commercial, this was one school reunion where all the ladies had to look older.

Theoretically the youngest age possible was 65, for the South Saanich school was closed in 1913.

Yet 92 persons—former teachers, ex-students and guests—gathered for the reunion on the site where the school was built in 1869.

The site now is vacant, but for the reunion the Central Saanich school board cleared the weeds and debris.

Four one-time South Saanich school teachers attended the gathering: Mrs. Helen Dawson, 76, Mrs. Mildred Ibbotson, Mrs. Ethel McElvy and Mrs. Hallie Harding, 97.

Mrs. Dawson said she enjoyed meeting one of her former pupils, now an alderman here.

"He was quiet as a boy but evidently he's full of fun and mischief now."

Dr. R. M. MacKenzie said he was "about as young as you can be and still have gone to that school."

May uprisings and strikes effect high fashions

PARIS (NEA) — The May uprisings and strikes have had their effect on the exclusive circles of high fashion. In post-revolution Paris the mood is dark and the recent winter collections all seemed to follow an unwritten order—play it soft.

Gone were tough chic, constructed looks, hard tailoring, heavy fabrics, obvious luxury and gimmicky details.

The month-long strike which halted progress in the workrooms and resulted in an all-around raise in salaries made it necessary for the designers to abandon much of their usual chic and superfluous details.

Pierre Cardin said that haute couture is out of date. "At present it exists to make clothes for the rich woman. Instead, it should be a laboratory of ideas for the mass market."

He then showed a group of Dynel moulded dresses which cost $50 rather than the $500 to $800 a model gown usually fetches.

Here are the important points to emerge from the collections:

- Some hems stop at the knees. Others creep upward to the beginning of the thigh. These are worn with slick body stockings in matching or contrasting colors.

- The hourglass silhouette is replacing the tunic line. Waists are back again, more or less cinched, sometimes

From the Paris couture collections for Fall-Winter 1968, from left to right, double-breasted coat in pure wool, pale yellow broadcloth by Andre Courreges has rapering buttoning, small turned-down collar and diamond-shaped topstitching in front and back. Dramatic blouse in snowy-white satin of "Qiana" nylon from Jeanne Lanvin has full sleeves buttoned with mother of pearl from cuff to elbow. It is teamed with higher than normal and nearly always underlined by belts ranging from narrow thongs to 8-inch corselettes.

- Chin-high soft choker collars are in. Sleeves are long—skintight or ballooning and caught into a cuff. Shoulders are emphasized and skirts have acquired new width with pleats and gores.

- Coats fall chiefly into two categories—the slick, fitted redingote and the moderately full tent. But there are also the trench and judo coat, both belted.

- Suits have a choice of jackets—long and close to the body or short and unfitted.

- Tailored pants suits are there for country weekends, travel and other informal wear in new tweeds of muted browns and grays. Respangled versions turn up for evening.

- Bermudas show under slick skirts but the culotte skirt seems to have lost favor.

- A soft trapeze line distinguishes the majority of day dresses. There are also a number of overdresses worn with knitted ribbed sweaters or jump suits with towering turtlenecks.

black gauch pants embroidered in gold. Broad lapels and a flippant, full skirt for Louis Feraud's redingote in tweed of Orlon acrylic fiber in black and yellow on white. Long-sleeved in luxurious white, double gabardine of "Qiana" nylon, this Christian Dior candle-slim evening gown is richly embroidered with gold, amethyst and silver beads in a Russian folk pattern of thistles and leaves.

with scarlet rickrack braiding and peasant embroidery.

ANDRE COURREGES — This line was definitely softer than in the past, sometimes almost curved. He introduced fullness where once he showed only strict architectural lines. His line of striped evening models, in which he uses black for the first time, was a show stopper. His signature tunic this season is the jumpsuit in loosely knitted white ribbed cotton.

DIOR—Gilt-edged applies to the collection created by Marc Bohan for the house. His suits have gilt belts, his evening dresses have gilt embroidery, his fur or fabric baby bonnets have ties which pass through gilt loops and for evening there are large gilt hairslides. Outstanding are his long, skinny cardigan jersey suits with pleated skirts. He even pleats a navy sequined skirt under a long navy velvet jacket. One long, slinky lemon crepe dress had gilt buttons up the long sleeves.

PIERRE CARDIN—His was the most "way-out" collection in Paris. His 260 model collection was both of today and tomorrow. The tabard shape came-up over and over again. This tapers from wide shoulders to a belted waist and then flares out. There were short evening dresses with handkerchief-pointed skirts and see-through dresses, short, straight and long-sleeved, with a transparent band of lace.

She plies the waters

TORONTO (CP) — With one eye on the barometer and the other on her menu, Margaret Jackson plies the waters between Toronto and the Lakehead during the shipping season as cook aboard the Fort Chamblay, a Canada Steamship Lines freighter.

She cooks for 20 men, and most of them "could eat if the boat was standing on end."

From early in April until late December she turns out 60 meals a day from her spotless galley with the assistance of two helpers, both women.

When the weather is rough, the menu is cut, she said, but regardless of the weather, it has to be varied.

"They (the crew) get fed up with each other and with their surroundings, so they must get variety with their meals."

Favorites with the crew are "the same as everybody else's"—steak, chicken, chops and roast beef.

Miss Jackson has been plying the Lakes for 10 years, and although she describes her work as "just a job," she says it allows her to fly home to Glasgow annually for three months of "just visiting" when the Lakes shipping season is closed.

Wants gov't to make 'bugging' illegal

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Bar Association Monday recommended that the federal government make the use of electronic eavesdropping, and Justice Minister Turner said he hopes to tackle the question early next year.

The association's convention waded for two hours through debate and amendments to resolutions to come up with a call that bugging and wiretapping be made an indictable offence except when provided for by law. In its final form, the resolution dropped recommendations for direct judicial control of electronic eavesdropping, a point which had been specified in a resolution tabled at the 1967 convention.

Mr. Turner, an observer at the five-day convention opened

Monday, gave no indication of what moves Ottawa may make on electronic eavesdropping and said no legislation has been prepared.

SEES CONFLICT

"There is quite a legitimate conflict of interest between the citizen's right to privacy, in which I believe very strongly, and the rights of the country to protect itself in terms of national security and the rights of police and enforcement agencies to prevent crime," he said.

One section of the resolution is unchanged from the 1967 proposals. It urges legislation ruling that evidence obtained by illegal use of eavesdropping not be admissible in any court.

Only about 230 of the 2,300 delegates attended the debate. There was general agreement that use of electronic eavesdropping should be restricted to "official" crime-fighting and security work.

Current legislation bans "physical" electronic eavesdropping, but tapping and bugging can be conducted without any attachment to phone circuits or physical invasion of a building.

Most debate speakers fell somewhere between two schools of thought. That any eavesdropping sacrifices individual rights and that the good of society can override such rights.

MUST AID PRIVACY

M. C. Shumatcher of Regina said the value of privacy must be preserved.

"I think a far greater threat is not from organized crime but from Big Brother — government."

United Church of Canada's General Council moves to turn $1,000,000 for missions

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The General Council of the United Church of Canada has been asked to turn over $1,000,000 from church reserve funds to missions in underdeveloped countries.

"The church of Jesus Christ is not the imperial bank of Jesus Christ," said Rev. W. R. Fritz of Toronto. "We must put our money where our mouth is."

Mr. Fritz presented his motion Monday while an earlier motion was pending before council to turn over to the board of evangelism and social service another $1,000,000 for investment in housing for low-income families.

The motions were referred to a special committee which will bring recommendations on both of the council within the next two days.

The $2,000,000 would come from the church's $10,000,000 stabilization fund which provides for protection of the church in the event of a depression.

RAIN HAS BEGUN
"This money is put away for a rainy day," said Don Williams, a commissioner from Stirling, Ont. "The rain is upon us."

"We have this money," said

Rev. James D. Manley of Prince Rupert, B.C. "Are we going to bury it in the ground or invest it into the living church?"

When Mr. Fritz placed his motion, the council was considering a report from the committee of men urging Canadian aid to underdeveloped countries be brought to the level of two per cent of gross national product by 1969-70.

Dr. J. G. Pincock of Winnipeg, who introduced the report, criticized the council for ignoring major social issues.

"How can the layman be considered with a church that spends 85 per cent of its time in its highest court arguing about the needs of professional ministers?" he asked.

VOTE AT 18

In other business Monday, the council called on the federal government to lower the voting age to 18 from 21.

It also accepted a recommendation that its board of colleges encourage all United Church arts and theological colleges to provide adequate student representation on decision-making bodies.

The United Church operates 17 educational institutions.

to right are C. A. Begley, car foreman; Mr. Liffiter and W. R. Burroughs, superintendent of Canadian Pacific whose headquarters is Sherbrooke.

Monday, gave no indication of what moves Ottawa may make on electronic eavesdropping and said no legislation has been prepared.

One section of the resolution is unchanged from the 1967 proposals. It urges legislation ruling that evidence obtained by illegal use of eavesdropping not be admissible in any court.

Only about 230 of the 2,300 delegates attended the debate. There was general agreement that use of electronic eavesdropping should be restricted to "official" crime-fighting and security work.

Current legislation bans "physical" electronic eavesdropping, but tapping and bugging can be conducted without any attachment to phone circuits or physical invasion of a building.

Most debate speakers fell somewhere between two schools of thought. That any eavesdropping sacrifices individual rights and that the good of society can override such rights.

M. C. Shumatcher of Regina said the value of privacy must be preserved.

"I think a far greater threat is not from organized crime but from Big Brother — government."

US to move into mini car market

DETROIT (AP) — A high American Motors source confirmed Monday reports that AMC is about to make its long-awaited move into the minicar market.

The official said American has started preliminary work on a project which will see a new, small car introduced a year from now.

"There are problems in tooling which cannot be speeded up," he said.

American's current smallest car, the compact Rambler, has a 103-inch wheelbase and a base price of $1,946 U.S. with a six-cylinder engine.

It has not been able to halt Volkswagen's success in the United States market.

Indications are that Volkswagen will wind up calendar 1968 with about 400,000 sales, better than half the U.S. import market. American is aiming at 300,000 sales for the year.

AMC officials apparently have reversed the attitude the company held for the last five years — that costs of tooling up for a car in the minicar or subcompact field would be prohibitive.

HURRIED BY FORD
Their decision was hurried along in part by Ford's reported program of building a subcompact, with the code name Delta.

Reports say the Delta will have a 103-inch wheelbase, five inches shorter than the Ford Falcon, and will sell in the $1,700 to 1,800 range, informed observers say.

The barn belonged to Aloysius Simoneau, 377 St. Georges Street, Windsor, and the fire was caused by an electrical explosion.

Mr. Simoneau tried unsuccessfully to arrest the fire when it started. He was inside the barn when the fire ignited and spread to the 8,000 bales of hay inside the barn.

By the time the fire department was called to the scene, Mr. Simoneau and his employees had evacuated the 38 cows and seven calves caught inside the barn when the fire started.

Firemen arrived at 7:45 p.m. and left 14 hours later.

Barn fire causes large loss

WINDSOR — (Staff) — A stable barn was completely destroyed by fire here Sunday night, causing an estimated $40,000 loss.

Thetford wins 8-6, 2-0, Granby splits

Miners and Cards meet tonight in Granby to open first game of '68 PBL finals

Thetford Miners clipped the Lachine Mets 8-6 and 2-0 over the weekend while the Granby Cardinals split with the Quebec Indians, losing 7-2 Saturday night and winning 3-2 Sunday evening, and the two teams, Granby and Thetford, will meet tonight in the first game of the 1968 Provincial Baseball League playoff final.

The Miners took the Mets three games straight while Granby took the best-of-nine series over the Indians 5-2. The PBL finals open this evening in Granby.

Saturday night at Lachine the Miners edged the Mets 8-6 on 10 hits. Included in these hits were a homer, a triple, and two doubles. On the mound for the Mets were Ino Alarcorn, Wayne Amyotte and Arturo Peterson. The Mets had 13 hits against Miners' pitchers, Jose Herrara and George Shoemaker.

Offensively for the Miners it was Al Sommerstad with a triple and a pair of singles and Jeff Albies with a homer and a single. Billy Bouier singled twice; Jose Herrara and John McKee each doubled.

For the Mets Pascual Ramirez homered, doubled and singled. Jacques Monette doubled and singled while Russ Ayoub and Ronnie Benoit each singled twice.

Sunday night in Thetford,

Billy Bates, Miners' coach, blanked the Mets 2-0. Bates allowed only four hits to lead the Miners into the Provincial League finals. He struck out 11 batters along the way and walked only one hitter.

The Miners were held to seven hits by Mets' starter Ray Jusino. The Miners scored their first run in the sixth on singles by Jeff Albies and John McKee and a sacrifice fly by Billy Bouier. Paul Giroux led the Miners offensively with three singles, Kenny Kaiser tripled while John McKee, Jeff Albies and Jesus Frias each singled.

Pascual Ramirez led the Mets with a pair of singles while Ronnie Dickson and Ray Jusino each singled.

QUEBEC ELIMINATED

The regular season champions, the Granby Cardinals, lost 7-2 Saturday night but Coach Marcel Guilbeault of the Cards steadied his crew Sunday night, allowing the Indians eight hits, to lead Granby into the finals.

In Quebec Saturday, Luis de Leon allowed the Cards only four hits to lead the Indians to a 7-2 victory and Quebec's second win in the best-of-nine series. Adrien Daviault started for the Cards and was relieved in the first by Anselmo Corea. Corea was replaced in the eighth by Al Pietrewitz.

The Indians had a total of 12 hits against the three pitchers. The Cards committed three errors. Sunday Hank Harden started for the Indians, allowed nine hits and was relieved in the eighth by de Leon. Elias relieved Guilbeault in the same inning. The Cards also committed three errors in this match.

Mario Miranda led the Indians with a homer.

FINALS START

The Provincial League finals start this evening in Granby. The Granby-Thetford series will be a best-of-seven contest. For the Cards this marks the fourth time in the last five seasons that Granby has been in the PBL finals.

QUEBEC CHAMPION—Jean-Guy Periard of Boucherville Golf Club is seen accepting his trophy from Yvan Bonin, O'Keefe sales promotion and public relations manager, after winning the O'Keefe-CPGA Quebec championship at the Montreal Golf Course with a total of 214 for the 54-hole tourney.

Yankees, Indians are winners in Little League semi-finals

Yankees and Indians will meet in the finals of the Sher-Lenn Little League starting Saturday afternoon at the Parade Grounds in a two-out-of-three series.

Yankees, in their three games with the Red Sox, lost the first one by a 14-4 score and took the next two by 8-5 and 7-2 results. Indians took two straight over Tigers 13-3 and 8-1 to enter the finals.

Saturday afternoon Indians, in their first game, started with Pierre Choquette on the mound. They opened with three runs in the bottom of the first, one more in the second, five in the third and finished off with three more runs in the remaining innings. Tigers got two in the first and one in the sixth.

Choquette was the big hitter for Indians with three for four. Mills was the losing pitcher. In the second game, with Yves Longpre on the mound, the Tigers were no match for the high flying Indians. Longpre struck out 12 men and held the opposition to one run on two hits.

Verpalet and Belanger were the only hitters for Tigers in this game while Denis Rose was the loser. Tigers played the two games without their brilliant shortstop Roger Roy, who was laid up with a severe cold. Indians on their showing will be slight favorites in the final.

Yankees taking part in their first final sprung a surprise on their more favored Red Sox taking the two-out-of-three series. Red Sox, in the first game, found J. P. Goyette's pitching to their favor as they connected for eight big hits and 14 runs. A big second inning when they scored seven runs sealed the Yankee defeat as at this time it gave the Red Sox a 8-0 lead. Two errors and three hits set up the tallies in the inning.

Red Sox added three more in the third and fifth. Yankees got their runs in the third and sixth. Andre Caya was the winner in this one. In Saturday's second game between the Sox and Yankees it was a different story. Young Greg Warner and Pierre Dansereau, respective pitchers were the big men as they showed up well on the mound.

Red Sox, in the top of the first, on a hit from Pomerleau coupled with an error got away to a two run lead. Yankees went scoreless in the first and third while Red Sox added one more in the top of the third making it 3-0. Yankees eventually got to Dansereau in the bottom of the third when they tallied four runs to go into the lead. Four hits, one of them a home run with one on, by Eric Dezan sent the runs home.

It was nothing across for each team in the fourth. A home run by Denis Roy, with one on, pushed the Red Sox ahead again making it a 5-4 in Red Sox's favor. Yankees, in the bottom of the fifth, on three walks and hits from Dezan and Wells got four runs and this was enough to take the game as the Sox in the sixth were held scoreless. Yankees winning 8-5 forced the deciding game Sunday afternoon.

Yankees in the deciding had Randy Warner on the mound while Red Sox pitcher was Daniel Denault. Yankees sensing a possible chance of entering the finals for the first time seemed to be up for this one. Tommy Hunting, first man up for the Yanks, on the first pitch connected for a home run. A barrage of four hits in the top of the second produced three runs to make it a 4-0 ball game as the Sox, in the second, went scoreless.

Two hits from Tommy Hunting and Randy Warner gave the Yankees two more runs in the third as the Red Sox again went scoreless. Top of the fourth the Red Sox broke into the scoring sheet as they came up with four hits that scored two runs. Pomerleau, Caron Tessier and Joyal were the hitters.

The teams went scoreless in the fifth but in the top of the sixth the Yankees scored one run which made it a 7-2 ball game and this is how it ended.

Errors played a big part in the Red Sox defeat as they came up with five. Yankees played errorless ball and were full value for their win. Randy Warner, though giving up eight hits, pitched well with his fast ball troubling the Red Sox hitters. Dezan and Mitchell each had two hits for the Yanks. Joyal had two for the losers.

Braves edge A's 9-8, tie lacrosse final 2-2

VALLEYFIELD — (Staff) — Valleyfield Braves, in front of a record crowd of 2,292 fans, evened up the Quebec Lacrosse League finals 2-2 by edging the Drummondville Athletics 9-8.

The two teams will meet tonight at Civic Centre in Drummondville. If the Braves win they return home Thursday evening and will have the backing of a home town crowd.

If the A's win then Drummondville can go into Valleyfield one game up and a chance to return home Saturday evening if the Braves continue to play at home the way they have throughout the series. Both teams have won both games before home town crowds.

The Braves led 9-5 at the 10:22 mark of the third period before the A's rallied to score three goals. Dave Sundae scored the Braves ninth and winning goal.

Lawrence Martin and Jean Cusson led the offensive for the Braves with a pair of goals each. Other Braves' scorers were Ron Thomas, Frank Benedict, Richard Fawthrop, Mike Landry and Dave Sundae.

For Drummondville, Marcel Gaudreau and Jacques Houle each scored twice while Al and Dick Herrington, Gilles Goulet and Ray Fortin each tallied once.

The officials Raymond Manthe and Albert Yanire handed out a total of 14 penalties, nine to the A's and seven to the Braves. Five of Braves' goals were power-play efforts. Jean-Paul Tellier, A's goaler, was given a misconduct.

Rookie Bob Murphy wins rich Thunderbird Golf Classic

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Bob Murphy, $30,000 richer after winning the Thunderbird Golf Classic, attributed it all to a key shot on the 15th hole.

The chunky, red-haired Murphy held a one-shot lead over Bob Lunn as the pair, playing together, approached the 190-yard, par three water hole. Lunn, hitting first, put his ball 10 feet from the pin but Murphy got within six feet. Then Lunn missed his putt and Murphy made his to take a two-stroke lead.

"That was probably my best shot of the round," Murphy said. "I just took a six iron, hit it up in the air and it landed near the hole."

Murphy ended with a 68 Monday to give him a 277 for the four days of play over the 7,035-yard, par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course. It was his second consecutive tour win.

TIES FOR SECOND Lunn, who also won two straight tournaments earlier in the year, finished with a 69 for 280 and a tie for second with Australian Bruce Crampton, also with a 69.

Homero Blancas was fourth with a 72 for 282 as third-round leader Gary Player skied to a 76 for a fifth-place tie with Dan Sikes, 70, and Jack Nicklaus, 71. Defending champion Arnold Palmer shot a 71 to finish in a four-way tie for 10th place at 286.

Al Balding of Toronto grouped with nine others at 291 to pick up $993 in prize money. He had rounds of 71-75-72-73.

Murphy's win brought his earnings for the year to $94,745.07 highest ever for a rookie. "I love it, I love it," the former NCAA and National Amateur champion said. "It must be my time. Everything's happening right."

Gibson blanks Reds 1-0, wins 20th, Marichal wins 24th

Bob Gibson is good, but even he needs help now and then. Like, perhaps an occasional ache in the opposing pitcher's ankle.

Gibson, St. Louis' ace right-hander, won his 20th game of the season Monday night, beating Cincinnati 1-0 with some 10th inning aid from Gary Nolan's heel and Julian Javier's bat.

Javier stroked the leadoff homer that broke the scoreless duel and gave the Cardinals their victory. But if Nolan's aching Achilles tendon hadn't acted up, Gibson might still be pitching.

Nolan had throttled the Cards on five hits and fanned eight through the first nine innings but when the pulled Achilles tendon in his right ankle started bothering him Reds' manager Dave Bristol brought in relief.

CAME THE HOMER

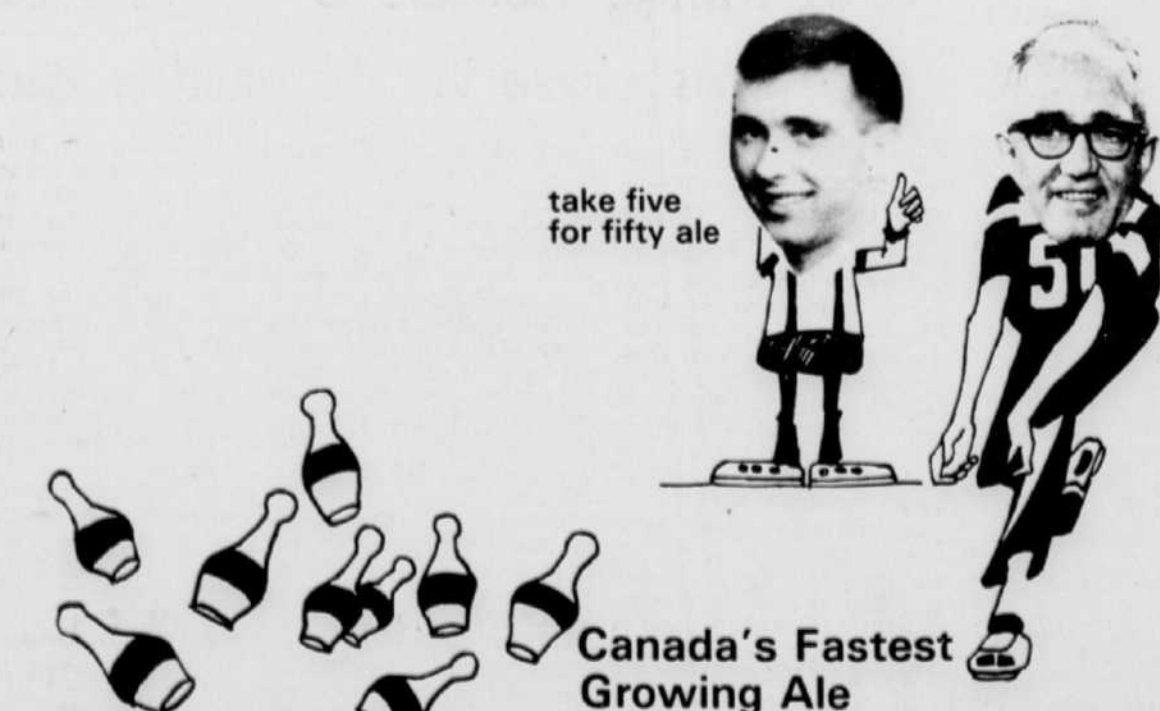

Javier, who had only two homers all season, slugged No. 3 and Gibson had the run he needed.

In other National League action on a busy Labor Day, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Houston 6-1 and 4-3 in 10 innings. Atlanta topped New York 3-1 and then battled to a 2-2 tie ended by rain after six innings. San Francisco battered Chicago 8-4 before the nightcap was halted by darkness tied at 1-1 after nine innings, and Philadelphia swept two from Los Angeles 5-4 and 7-4.

The four-hit shutout was Gibson's 12th of the year and it marked the third time in the last four seasons that the Cardinal ace has reached 20 victories. He missed only in 1967 when he was out for two months with a broken leg.

Bob Veale pitched a three-hitter and Donn Clendenon drove in three runs, helping Pittsburgh to its first game victory over Houston.

The Pirates completed the sweep when Chris Cannizzaro's single drove in Bill Mazeroski with the winning run in the 10th inning of the nightcap. Mazeroski had singled and raced all the way to third when centre fielder Jim Wynn let the ball get past him.
