'Teen-Age Boys' Riot Subsides

It is reported that the street riots that originated in Selby Park a week ago Wednesday, when two boys started a miniature battle, over possession of a swing, and later other 'teen-age boys and young men joined in the vicinity of the St. Henry and Montreal area and tried to make trouble, have all quietened down now.

A cordon of Westmount Police aided by members of the Legion of Frontiersmen, as a precautionary measure, have kept up careful patrol every night since last Thursday on the Westmount side, and report that the trouble did not extend over the line into this territory. It is also reported that a strong cordon of Montreal police formed a barrier on the south side of St. Antoine street and were constantly active in keeping the trouble under control.

LAC. B.M. Reid's Quick Action Stops Blaze

The February 23rd issue of "Wings Abroad," official newspaper of the Royal Canadian Air Force, published in London, England, describes the brave action of a young Westmount boy, LAC B. M. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Reid, 775 Upper Lansdowne avenue, as follows: "LAC B. M. Reid's quick thinking and disregard for personal danger nipped what might have become a serious fire recently at an R.C.A.F. field hospital commanded by W/C J. M. Growse, London, Ont.

"Reid was working in the officers' mess when a container of inflammable stuff caught fire. Before the blaze could spread, Reid picked up the container and rushed outside, where the flames were smothered with an extinguisher.

"Although Reid himself appeared to be on fire as he dashed from the tent, he escaped with a minor burn on his right hand."

This young member enlisted in the air force in the summer of 1941 and went overseas May, 1943, attached to a mobile field hospital.

Gramophones For The Merchant Navy

Sir,—May I avail myself of your column to appeal to the public for donations of gramophones and records to be placed on new freighters of the Merchant Navy. The men of the Merchant Navy who are contributing so magnificently to the war effort have very few pleasures on their long and dangerous voyages and a gramophone is something that every ship would like to possess.

Kenneth E. Lyall Asks For Vote From Servicemen

Kenneth E. Lyall, will again contest the riding of Westmount St. George in the coming Provincial election it was announced last week. Mr. Lyall will offer himself as the Servicemen's candidate.

Interviewed here on Tuesday, Mr. Lyall stated "The need for young men in the political field in Canada has never been greater.

"Furthermore, at this time when our Canadian Service men and women are fighting the battle of democracy, fighting our battle, on the wide fronts of the world; is it not just that they, especially the members of the forces from the west end of Montreal, have a representative in the Legislature?"

"I have been with the forces. I was one of them. The fact that I was one of them is the reason why I am running in this election. Our service people should have a spokesman—they must have a spokesman. I call upon every resident of Westmount-St. George who has a relative in the service to back me in my effort."

"I am not only seeking the support of residents and voters who have sons or daughters in uniform, I need the aid of every voter in this district who realizes the bleak future facing us, resulting from electing the same politicians and parties, election after election."

Ken Lyall is a veteran of this war enlisting the week of September 12, 1939. He joined the 9th Field Ambulance, Colonel H. M. Elder commanding, and went overseas as a stretcher bearer. During his service in England he met and married an English girl, the former Joan Harris of Fleet, Hampshire. Upon his return to Canada and receiving his honorable discharge, Mr. Lyall went to Halifax and signed on with the Merchant Navy. During his second trip to England, he was injured in an air raid in the Overseas Club in London during the heavy blitz raid of April 16, 1941. After a period in hospitals he was returned home to Canada.

Mr. Lyall is well known, not only in Westmount-St. George where he led an active life in the pre-war period in sports and social activities, but throughout the province. He spent some considerable time in the field of journalism and is at present in the advertising business. He is a charter member of Branch 88 of the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League. Mr. Lyall is also a member of the Beaver Club in London and the Central Y.M.C.A.

Major-Gen. White To Retire Soon

As announced by the Department of National Defence this week, Brigadier General John B. White, D.S.O., E.D., C.B.E., of 630 Carlton avenue, has been promoted to the rank of major-general, and will retire shortly from the Canadian active force after a long military career.

Major-Gen. White, who was called on by Defence Minister Ralston in 1940 to form the first Canadian Forestry Corps, was returned to Canada as a casualty last September and has spent some time since in the western division of the Montreal General Hospital.

Widely known throughout Canada through his business as well as his military activities, Major-Gen. White was a former vice-president and director of the International Paper Company, and a former president of the Canadian Forest Industries Association.

The general, who celebrated his 70th birthday last January, organized the forestry corps, trained and took it overseas. He received wide praise last year for the work of the Corps in Scotland and other areas. The King, who had granted him the C.B.E. in 1942, visited the Corps in Scotland in company of the Queen last year and watched the men at work.

Major-Gen. White was born at Aylmer Road, Que., on January 1, 1874. He received his education at the Ottawa Collegiate and Ottawa Business College.

He was given a commission in the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars in May, 1912, and quickly rose to the rank of major. He took command of the Forestry Corps in France in 1916, and two years later he was appointed brigadier-general with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

He has two sons, Lt. Donald B. and Major Franklin E., with the Canadian army overseas.

KNOW YOUR WESTMOUNT

Q.—Were there once toll gates within what is now Westmount?

A.—Yes, prior to 1885 toll gates were located on many roads throughout the area now within the confines of the City of Westmount. One paid a five cent fee to enter the roads at the intersections now known as Greene Avenue and Sherbrooke Street, Decarie Blvd., and Cote St. Antoine Road, near Lansdowne and Western, and various other places. The Greene Avenue toll then situated in the Village of Cote St. Antoine was moved about 1890 to Claremont and Cote St. Antoine when the community became the Town of Cote St. Antoine. Tolls as the source of revenue were collected by The Turnpike Trust Company for the purpose of maintaining the roads. These tools were progressively removed when the Community became the Town of Westmount, so that none remained when it became incorporated as the City of Westmount. Public money was not spent to any extent on roads in the early days for it is recorded that $9,961 was expended by the Province in the year 1906. Roads were simply drained by having thoroughfares with ditches on either side. Some were made of gravel and others used planks. The first asphalt road in the Province was built in 1911.

Westmount's "Y" Is One Of City's Veterans

Throughout the world next week-end millions of young people and a good many old-timers, will mark the hundredth birthday of the Young Men's Christian Association, founded by George Williams, a London draper's clerk in 1844. In Canada celebrations will centre in Montreal where the first "Y" in North America was founded in 1851.

Westmount, with one of the veteran association branches in the metropolitan district, has more history to recall than most Y.M.C.A. units in Montreal. The local branch was opened in 1912, in the association's first city-wide expansion programs. In that year the Central Branch on Drummond street (later greatly enlarged) was built, the association moving from its old headquarters on Dominion Square where the Sun Life building now stands, the North Branch on Park Avenue was built and the Westmount Branch was opened.

Since 1912 the Westmount Y.M.C.A. has served literally thousands of Westmount boys and young men. In recent years, too, it has gone beyond its original program, to serve all the members of the family and it is now a centre for health programs, recreation and social and educational activities for hundreds of Westmounters of all ages. It has taught hundreds of Westmount youngsters to swim, has made literally thousands of out-of-town fliers, soldiers and sailors feel at home and has written many small but important chapters in the history of the Montreal Y.M.C.A. Older than some of its neighbor branches in years, it is still young in spirit and during the week-end's Centennial Observances its members will plan for the future as well as recall the past.

Westmount Loses Water Tax Battle

Final decision has been announced on an old fight between Westmount and the City of Montreal in respect to Montreal's right to collect water tax on buildings in Westmount used for municipal purposes.

Some years ago, Montreal first took suit against Westmount to collect the amount of the then outstanding tax on these buildings, and it was the late Chief Justice R.A E. Greenshields who gave judgment in favor of Montreal. Westmount appealed and was upheld by the Appeal Court. Montreal took the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, which upheld the first judgment, in Montreal's favor. Westmount then applied to the Privy Council in London for permission to present an appeal to that court, the highest court in the Empire.

Word has recently been received at the City Hall stating that permission to appeal has been refused.

Major H. F. King Wins Merit Medal For Good Scouter

His Excellency The Earl of Athlone, Chief Scout for Canada, honoured Major Henry F. King of 522 Grosvenor Avenue, last Friday evening, when W. R. In that capacity he has done exceptionally good work in organizing Group committees, and his plans for the Westmount area are based on co-operation between the Scouters and their Committees; and in this regard he has set the pace for the Montreal District.

Attending the presentation were G. Robley Mackay, Scout commissioner for Montreal, W. H. Barry, District Scoutmasetr for Westmount, C. N. Capt. A. J. Scotti Wins Promotion

Word has been received here that Captain Antoine J. Scotti, formerly of the Westmount Police Force, who has been overseas since 1940, has been promoted from the rank of lieutenant.

Capt. Scotti, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Scotti, of 7352 Casgrain street, commands a provost corps in Italy. He attended the Catholic High School and d'Arcy McGee High School, joining the Westmount Police Force after his graduation on October 1, 1936. He enrolled as a corporal in the Provost Corps in May 1940, going overseas soon after. Two years ago he was commissioned a lieutenant.

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1944

LISTEN, MISTER!

LISTENING is an art; ministers and priests, lawyers and statesmen certainly know that. So do doctors. They practised it long before Freud made it popular among psychologists. Trouble is, that most of us who ever knew how have forgotten. Our hearing muscles, like any other muscles, can become useless without exercise.

Learn the art of listening to other people and you can throw away all the books there are on how to become popular. Furthermore, you will find a very good solution to your own problems by lending a sympathetic ear to those of others. There is ego satisfaction in it too, because you'll become important to a good many persons. They'll know they can count on your interested receiving apparatus.

This doesn't mean you should pry or prod. It takes restraint to make a good listener. It takes intelligence and understanding and genuine sympathy for the other fellow. You have to work at the job. You can't cock one ear to catch what the man on your right is saying and convince the man on the left that his story is fascinating. A good listener has an ear that doesn't get bored with the other fellow's affairs, wants nothing in return for his interest, and won't give advice unless asked for. Not all of us can sparkle when we speak, but we can all shine brilliantly as listeners.

You don't have to be eminent, witty or particularly clever to be a social success. If you can give out with a little time, a little attention and a little human understanding; if you can give the people around you a hint of security today when everything that once seemed solid and lasting is shifting; if you can give your friends a chance to talk about themselves; if you can convince them that you really want to hear—because you really do—you'll be successful.

Everyone knows at least one very unpopular personality. They generally have developed some sort of flawless technique for holding the floor. To interruptions they pay no attention at all. Some of them have probably practised their art to the point where they now hear never a word anyone else says to them at all. What damage they do their stupid minds, when they pass up such access to the knowledge of the world by stopping up their ears. Deafness, they say, grows on one as one grows older, but it is a subtle thing, and even in youth one can be stricken unawares.

With the whole world geared to a wartime whirlwind pace, if you can just take a minute now and then to listen, Mister, you'll be the best-liked man you know. More than that, you'll be an institution.

SAVE WASTE PAPER

LOCAL residents will, we know, co-operate fully in the big waste paper salvage drive now going on here. Paper is one of the most important war commodities, and due to the exceptional demand there is a shortage of paper of all kinds just now. Waste paper, which goes directly to the mills where it is made into many kinds of war material from gears to explosives, also helps relieve the acute situation in the writing and book paper fields. All kinds of waste paper is needed—newspapers, old magazines, books, wrapping paper, catalogues, cardboard, corrugated board. Save it. Help win the war.

PARLIAMENTARY HABITS

AN ASTONISHING revelation has been made at Ottawa. This is that on the restaurant maintained for the convenience of members of parliament there has been an annual deficit of $25,000 a year. The running up of large bills by many of its patrons, which they have failed to pay, is held to be principally responsible. But in addition there has been a loss of table equipment which is stated to have run as high as $1,000 a session. The cafeteria, that is also operated, has always paid its way. It has been on a cash basis, which is now to be adopted for the restaurant as well.

The delinquents are a fine lot of men to be entrusted with parliamentary duties. How can there be any confidence in the manner in which they discharge their heavy responsibilities when they are guilty of such petty cheating? There must either be a considerable number of them or on the average they must have defrauded the treasury on a very considerable scale for such a loss to be sustained.

What has been disclosed puts all the members under a cloud and those who have not tried to get ahead of the government in this fashion have a right to demand that the names of the men who have run up the bills that are being written off as uncollectable be published. The constituents of the dead-beats are also entitled to that information. In any case the public is bound to ask why the amounts due cannot be collected, if the debtors are still in parliament and in receipt of sessional indemnities from which deductions could be made. — Edmonton Journal.

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper, and it does not accept responsibility for them.

From France comes news of the death of Abbé Mugnier, 91-year-old priest and intellectual. It is said that Mme. Poincaré, who was worried by her famous husband's indifference to religion, was advised to invite the abbé to their home. His intellectual depth and charm of manner quickly made him one of the aging president's closest friends. Shortly before Poincaré died, the abbé left his bedside one day saying to Mme. Poincaré: "I have long admired your husband's brain. But little by little I have discovered his greatness of soul."

General Montgomery strongly supported the appeal for the Y.M. C.A. which called for £500,000 in 1944. He stated: " Ihave nothing but the highest praise for this association."

An investigation made by 1,000 Salvation Army officers led General Montgomery to support the appeal for a "No-treating order."

My philosopher friend tells me he thinks the real business of the ministry is "to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable."

Since we are at war with a National Socialist state and in alliance with a genuinely Socialist state, we think it would be well if the Speaker should add the term 'National Socialist' to the list of epithets which may not be employed by Members.

India's army—2,000,000 strong—is the largest army ever raised in Indian history and the largest volunteer army in the world. It has been absorbing recruits at a monthly rate of 50,000 men.

At the now famous Malvern Conference in Great Britain the young and wealthy Member of Parliament (who since that occasion deeded his principal estate of 30,000 acres of revenue-producing land, to the government) and now the leader of the Common Wealth Part, introduced his now-famous "Amendment", which, after vigorous debate, the presiding Archbishop announced as adopted nemine contradicente. Part of the Amendment follows:

"But the church can point to those features of our existing society which, while they can never prevent individual men and women from becoming Christian, are contrary to divine justice, and act as stumbling blocks, making it harder for men to lead Christian lives.

"In our present civilization we believe that the maintenance of that part of the structure of our society, by which the ultimate ownership of the principal industrial resources of the community can be vested in the hands of private owners, may be such a stumbling-block. On the one hand it may deprive the poorest members of the community of the essentials of life. On the other, while these resources can be so owned, men will strive for their ownership for themselves. As a consequence a way of life founded on the supremacy of the economic motive will remain, which is contrary to God's plan for mankind."

Somebody said that memoirs added a "new terror to death." Today nothing is sacred or secret so they add a new terror to life. Lady Oxford, Margot Asquith in her book "Off the Record" is made up of secret happenings she knows about.

Don Iddon, noted correspondent for the London Daily Mail wrote: "When anyone takes me slyly by the lapel and whispers confidentially: 'Now off the record', I say: 'If it's off the record don't tell me. I make my living by putting things on the record."

Stalin's principal organ for comment on foreign affairs, War and the Working Class, said it agreed with Mr. Churchill that the Atlantic Charter needed reinterpretation. It went on to claim that this applied to any conflict with Russian plans for the Baltic states, Poland and the other parts of eastern Europe.

The same journal argued against the "unconditional surrender" formula. It was argued, as has been done by hundreds of commentators in G.B., the U.S.A. and China, that to give an adversary no choice but unconditional surrender is to insure that he will go on fighting long past the time when his surrender might be obtained on terms embodying all the victors' desires. Until the "unconditional surrender" formula, it was stated, is abandoned no powerful political offensive can be launched against Axis Europe to parallel the military offensive.

Steps In and Helps A Bit

When 14 year old Boy Scout Ronald Crone, of Willowdale, Ontario, heard that a neighbour whose husband was serving overseas was ill with pneumonia, and her five year old son was suffering from a hemorrhage following a tonsilectomy, he decided to do something about it. He moved in with the stricken family, nursed the mother and boy, cooked, kept the fires going, chopped wood and mowed the lawn and generally made himself useful.

When asked if he was a friend of the family he replied: "No, I just heard the kid was sick and his mother wasn't feeling very good, so I thought as a Scout I'd step in and help a bit. They were new people in the district."

Ronald has been awarded the Certificate of Merit for an outstanding act of kindness.

Britain is experiencing a boom in country places, or estates with houses containing from five to ten bedrooms. Prices are twice prewar, and run from 3,000 to 10,000 pounds. Reasons guessed by observers: such rural homes will be scarce after the war, many people have surplus wartime earnings and feel this a safe way to spend them, the old landed gentry are being squeezed out by high taxes.

PREPARE CHILD FOR NEW EXPERIENCE

Hoy many times have you engaged a girl to stay with your three-to-five-year-old child, or arranged for him to stay with a neighbor while you go shopping or keep an evening dinner appointment only to be faced with leaving the house with his loud wails of protest ringing in your ear? From my experience I have found that advance preparation will pave the way for a harmonious experience instead of an unhappy one for all concerned in this and other instances.

The tears are often caused by the child's lack of understanding of the arrangements made. When he is hurriedly told of them just before mother leaves the house or as he is hustled into his wraps and taken to the neighbor's before he has time to comprehend all the why's and wherefore's, the loud wails may well be due more to a feeling of frustration than to merely "missing his mother." As any parent knows, children of this age want their questions answered.

One day we told our four-year-old David of a dance we planned to attend the following evening, and told him we had asked Dorothy from across the street to come and stay with him while mother and daddy were gone. The first pleas of "don't go, Mommy" soon gave way to "what's a dance?" "Why do people dance?" "When will you come home?" and the like. By informing him a day in advance I had adequate time to answer all his questions, I also compared his Halloween party for the children to the dancing party for grown-ups, and made other explanations to help him understand why he couldn't go to the grown-up party. I also encouraged him to expect fun with Dorothy when she came to stay with him. When time came for us actually to depart the next evening our young David was happy we could go to the "grown-up party" and waved us a smiling good-bye.

There have been many other times when this advance preparation of the child's thought has proved to be valuable in helping David adjust his behavior to new situations. If he knows ahead of time that we are having dinner guests, knows who they are and why they are coming, and has been given a cheerful and tactful review of what is expected of small boys as far as table manners and conversation are concerned, and if he is warned that perhaps the usual bedtime story will have to be omitted or read before company comes, we discovered that the tendency to "show off" before company is to a great degree replaced by a sense of ease and understanding obedience.

When we plan to have David go to bed at his usual time while we spend the evening visiting with our host and hostess, we find it important to tell him about it beforehand and perhaps have a familiar toy or blanket to tuck in with him.

Of course, it is not possible to foresee every circumstance and adjustment a child will be called upon to meet, but by supplementing the principles of obedience, unselfishness, fearlessness, etc., with intelligent advance preparation in specific instances as far as we are able, we find his sense of bewilderment being replaced by intelligent obedience and smoother and more natural behavior reactions. We have fever of those embarrassing moments which usually end with the apology. "I just can't imagine what has happened to my child today, I've never seen him act like this before!"

HOME EDUCATION

ANOTHER BOY TO TRACK IN MUD

HILDA RICHMOND

This is a true story.

"When our third boy was born, I bit my lip, but when Tommy came, I just broke down and cried," confessed pretty Mrs. Grant straightening the lace tablecloth in her unused dining room.

They always ate in the kitchen because of the boys. Mrs. Grayston looked apprehensively at Tommy pasting paper on an airplane.

"Oh, he's often heard this and doesn't mind," said Mrs. Grant.

"But Tommy does mind," thought Mrs. Grayston as she crossed the vacant lot between their houses. "That's why he has grown shy, irresponsive—even resentful—and why he spends so much time each day outdoors, by himself, playing his little flute."

When Tommy started to go to school, his behavior changed, but not for the better. Perhaps he felt even more lonely than before, more neglected; anyway, he commenced trying to attract attention to himself. He began telephoning people in the neighborhood repeatedly. He rang up Hugh Grayston three or four times within an hour one day and even called up a little girl, inviting her to a slide party. She was eagerly excited until her mother telephoned about it and Mrs. Grant said, "Oh, there's no party, that was just Tommy's imagination."

Then Tommy refused to walk to school alone. Punishments were tried, but they had no effect. So his mother went with him—but grudgingly.

"That is the way she does everything for the boys," Mrs. Grayston said to herself. "She provides the latest books, plenty of toys, good food and clothes, has even given up a favorite club to have more time at home; yet, nevertheless, she does it all grudgingly."

But Tommy soon devised more ways to keep family attention focused upon himself. Hugh Grayston must walk with them he insisted or else he would not go to school, and later he would not go if his next older brother rode his bicycle—Tommy was too young for a wheel—so this brother also walked with his mother, Tommy and Hugh.

Being immature Tommy was soon put into a lower section of the class than Hugh. Then Tommy began to have stomach-aches—could not go to school. The teacher suggested coaching Tommy at home. He was soon in the upper section again, and his stomach-aches disappeared.

One Saturday morning the boys were playing with a train at the Graystons' home. Mrs. Grant came over because it was time for Tommy's dancing class, He didn't want to go. Mrs. Grayston suggested that her younger boy go along to watch Tommy dance. The latter got up at once for this gave him a chance to show off.

Then, on a certain occasion, his teacher noticed Tommy standing during a school program unconsciously imitating the orchestra leader. Thinking this, and other incidents over, she realized the boy was very musical and later suggested to Mrs. Grant that if he had a legitimate chance to show off, it would counteract his unwanted feeling—the mother had confessed to her how grudgingly she had accepted this fourth son.

That very afternoon when he was leading a play band on the lawn, his mother suggested organizing a neighborhood orchestra to meet regularly at their house. Tommy was delighted and was soon absorbed in this new enterprise.

Mrs. Grant, remembering his desire for a party, said they might give one on his birthday.

"Oh, Mother, let me invite the boys and girls—and could we—could we have the ice cream on the lace cloth in the dining room?" His eyes were shining.

"Yes—oh, yes!" His mother was conscience-stricken.

As soon as Tommy's yearning for attention and the home privileges that go with gracious living were satisfied, the little boy felt that he really was wanted. With no question of his home security, Tommy soon became properly adjusted and normal.

Seventh Annual Communion Breakfast Attended By Over 200

In the Windsor Station Dining Room on Sunday morning at the seventh annual Mother and Daughter Communion Breakfast sponsored by the Young Ladies' Sodality of Ascension Parish, Mr. J. Brendan O'Connor B.C.L. young Montreal lawyer gave to the two hundred mothers and daughters attending the function a clear picture of the existing status of women under the marriage law of the Province of Quebec.

In the development of his topic "The Marriage Law of the Province of Quebec" Mr. O'Connor indicated the origin of the law and traced its evolution giving illustrations of its application.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Mae Nadig, chairman of the social life committee who was in charge of the arrangements for the breakfast. The vote of thanks was moved by Miss Ruth Austin.

A short program of entertainment, which was dedicated to the mothers present, featured the Misses Dorothy and Evelyn Lehman, Norma Macdonell, Mary Gutelius and Mary O'Neill.

Miss Mary C. Macintyre, the prefect of the sodality, presided. In her remarks she thanked Miss Mae Nadig, general convener, the Misses Agnes McDonald and Helen McCarthy, joint ticket conveners, and Miss Margaret Whitty, publicity convener, for the splendid work they did in staging the successful breakfast.

Among those at the head table were: the Rev. Wilfrid E. McDonagh, pastor of Ascension Parish, the Rev. George F. Thoms, Director of Ascension Sodality, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brendan O'Connor, Mrs. John A. Thoms and Miss Alma Tremblay, president of the Union of Parish Sodalities of the Archdiocese of Montreal.

JIGSAW PUZZLES FIT INTO PUZZLING RELIEF GAPS

Jigsaw puzzles and sewing kits have proved that — even with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration doing the major work — the voluntary relief societies such as the Red Cross, the Near East Foundation, and the Quakers have a vital role to fill at the burgeoning Balkan refugee camps ot the Middle East.

At the big Yugoslav refugee camp at El Shott beside the Suez Canal, someone suggested jigsaw puzzles for the children's wards and sewing kits for the hundreds of willing mothers and grandmothers there. W. T. Mathews, U.N.R.R.A. Balkans relief chief, wasn't sure he could explain to the august committees of Parliament or Congress why he was spending money on children's toys or women's sewing boxes when the stark need for food, clothing, and shelter inside Greece and Yugoslavia loomed so great.

Relief Societies Help

He decided to try the relief society treasurers. They saw the point at once. They knew these Slav women resented being idle, that children recuperating at the desert camp need more than bare walls to occupy their thoughts. Checks were forthcoming speedily.

Maybe U.N.R.R.A. will be supplying such items as the Balkan need increases, but it is one of the many kinds of help that voluntary relief and welfare societies are especially fitted to render.

CORNMEAL MASK OLD-TIME FAVORITE FOR SOFT SKIN

The cornmeal mask has long been known as a softener, refiner and mild bleach. Take a cup of cornmeal and add enough buttermilk to make a thin paste, but not enough to make the mixture runny. Spread this on a cheese cloth mask which has holes cut for the nose and eyes. If you prefer you can spread the mixture right on the face. Keep dabbing on a little buttermilk for about ten minutes and then let it dry. Afterward remove with water.

An Epsom salts facial stirs up circulation, makes the face glow and is a good pick up at the end of a day. Use two tablespoons of Epsom salts to one pint of water. Use two bowls. Put hot water into one and ice cold water with cracked ice into the other. Wring towels out in the hot water and hold to the face and neck. Continue this for about ten minutes. Next wring towels out of the icy water. Hold to the face and neck for about ten minutes. Rinse. It is well to follow this treatment with tissue cream if your skin is extremely dry. However, the treatment is not very drying, only slightly so.

Lemon juice is a good bleach. However, straight lemon juice may be irritating if your skin is very sensitive. Dilute it at first.

Marjorie Weaver Is Busy Navy Housewife

Not an idle moment for Marjorie Weaver since the actress' return from Miami Beach, where she saw her husband, Lieutenant Don Briggs off for active duty.

In the two weeks before reporting to work in "You Can't Ration Love," Marjorie moved back into the Westwood house Lieutenant Briggs bought for her last year and on her first two days back in town, canned a closet full of fruit and scrubbed all the floors and woodwork by hand.

Unable to hire any help and not having been in the house for six months, she had personally to dig up all the devil grass on the hundred foot deep lot, turn the earth over three times, paint trellises and plant calla lily bulbs and a box hedge.

Give Fur Coats Protection From Moths And Dry Heat

At a time when we are giving more attention to the proper care of the clothes we have, precious furs should especially be looked after. From the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners come these suggestions for protecting your furs from moths.

Besides the dirt and grime they readily pick up, furs' chief enemies are moths, heat, sunlight, and friction. We can do a good deal to prolong their life and appearance. For example, they should always be hung properly from a hanger with the top button fastened. We should never allow them to come in contact with hot radiators. Parcels ought to be carried so they don't rub against them and they should never be hung in the sun. In many major respects, however, it is far better to play safe and consult professionals at least once a year.

Must furs can be cleaned with perfect safety. Some, like American broadtail, Persian lamb, caracul and moleskin, are so tender that they should be cleaned entirely by hand. It is of the utmost importance that you take your fur garment to an expert and reliable drycleaner. Quite the reverse of what you might expect, the less expensive the coat the more necessary this is because such coats are often made inexpertly and so may require more skillful handing to avoid harm.

It is safer to store your coat than to keep it at home. Professional storage compartments are maintained at the temperature and humidity best for furs. At home, however, your coat may hang in a crowded closet which is not mothproof, and which may reach a temperature of 90 degrees and a high humidity during the summer. Most storage vault temperatures are kept at about 55 degrees or lower while humidity is maintained constantly at 50 or 55 per cent. Warm closets tend to dry the oils of the pelt, which becomes boardy. This may also cause some of the acid agents used in the original tanning process to rot the skin.

Most cleaners are short-handed these days and can't secure extra labor for seasonal demands. Due to the fact that many service men and women have stored their things before going into the armed forces, furthermore, storage facilities are severely limited. So on both counts you had better not delay this year unless you want to be kept waiting or are willing to run the risk of being disappointed.

SPARE THE HOSE

A neighbor told us recently that even before the days of rubber shortage he had always reversed the couplings on his garden hose every third year as a matter of course. Such procedure, he explained, takes the strain from that part of the hose which is dragged about so much. He considers that this simple expedient of switching the connections makes his garden hose last at least twice as long. We felt that was a welcome tip in days such as these, when everybody is looking for ways and means of prolonging the usefuness of equipment on hand.

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

AT THE MONKLAND FRIDAY!

Tommy Dorsey and His Orchestra, Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney in a scene from the film "Girl Crazy," which opens at the Monkland United Theatre on Friday playing until Tuesday night.

At York Theatre

Presenting a vivid and memorable story of a little Russian community and its heroic fight against the Nazi invaders, Samuel Goldwyn's production of "The North Star" is hailed as one of the most dramatic screen offerings of recent years. The film is now playing at the York United Theatre until Friday night.

Twenty-four featured players and hundreds of extras include such favorites as Anne Baxter, Dana Andrews, Walter Huston, Walter Brennan, Ann Harding, Jane Withers, Farley Granger and Erich von Stroheim, and the settings built for the film are said to be among the most extensive and realistic ever constructed.

The story opens on the eve of the German invasion, as the people of a little village near the Rumanian border are celebrating a successful farming year. Two of the young villagers, Marina and Damian, are planning to marry; some of the school children are preparing to make a holiday trip to Kiev, led by Kolya, an army bombardier on leave; and the scholarly Dr. Kurin is completing his newest book.

Into this peaceful and happy scene crashes the Nazi wave. The hoilday youngsters are bombed from the air, and the village is heavily hit. Rodion, chief of the village Soviet, sends most of the able-bodied men to hide in the woods, awaiting guns and ammunition, while the rest remain to destroy the buildings and meet the invading columns.

How the courage and daring of some of the inhabitants results in the little guerilla group being armed and dealing out retribution to the German troops and their sadistic leader brings on the stirring climax of the film, and contrasts with the romance and peacefulness of the earlier sequences.

Giving the first really authentic glimpses of Russian peasant life that Hollywood has brought to the screen, "The North Star" was directed by Lewis Milestone from the story and screenplay by Lillian Hellman. The picture is an RKO Radio release.

At The Snowdon

One of the most tender romantic comedies of recent months starts Saturday at the Snowdon Theatre, when MGM's "Lost Angel", starring little Margaret O'Brien, the youngster who made such a sensational impact on theatre-goers some months ago in her first-film, "Journey For Margaret," has James Craig and Marsha Hunt in her new picture. When a group of scientists undertake a study in experimental psychology, their subject is a foundling girl whom they plan to raise scientifically for six years in order to demonstrate that any child can be a mental giant. When the day to prove their results arrives, a reporter is sent to interview the child. Irked by her superior intelligence, he disputes her assertion that there is no such thing as magic. This so disturbs the tot that in order to prove her point she runs away with the reporter. Circumstances arise which force him to harbor the child for a time, and during this time the "prodigy" learns of tenderness and love. She gains a sense of human values which had been deliberately kept from her and in return brings happiness to the reporter and his fiancee. James Craig and Marsha Hunt who demonstrated their flair for comedy in "The Human Comedy" are wonderful foils for little, but amazing Margaret O'Brien in "Lost Angel".

The second feature, "So's Your Uncle" is a breezy, fast-moving musical comedy starring Donald Woods, Elyse Knox, Billie Burke, Jan Garber and his orchestra, The Delta Rhythm Boys, Jack Teagarden and his orchestra, the Taylor-Maids and Mary O'Brien. Latest news events and other shorts will complete the program.

AT THE YORK SATURDAY!

Alice Faye and James Ellison in the above scene are only two of the stars appearing in the Technicolor film "The Gang's All Here," which opens at the York United Theatre on Saturday playing until Tuesday night.

NEWS OF THE THEATRE WORLD

NOW AT THE WESTMOUNT!

Julie Bishop and Errol Flynn in a scene from the film "Northern Pursuit," which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night.

Spring Revue To Be Repeated

Last Friday The Mary Beetles Spring Revue was presented at the Sun Life Auditorium to a capacity audience by the Kinsmen Club of Montreal in aid of the Milk Fund for Children in Bombed Areas. The program was presented in a showmanlike manner maintaining the high standard always set by this school.

The highlight of the evening was the ballet "Dance of the Hours" with choreography by Jeanne Rodier to Ponchielli's La Glaconda beautifully costumed to represent the hours of the day, Dawn, Day, Evening and Night, with Patsy Parsons and William Turnbull as the lovers and Ann Holland as the Sun, who handled their respective roles in a very professional manner. The Wedding of the Penguin and the Panda featured the younger pupils, minus the babies who will be seen next Saturday at St. Raphael's church hall. Carnival Time, a colorful fantasy, featured the more advanced younger pupils as well as the advanced seniors. Outstanding in this section was Francoise Patenaude, executing an elaborate acrobatic number on a set of steps, Judith Lennon, Suzanne Beck and Betty St. Alphonse were seen in charming toe numbers. Joan Williscroft combined acrobatic and pantomine. Marilyn Rollo as the Spirit of Tap Dancing, certainly lived up to the name of her dance, performing in a truly professional style rarely seen in one so young, and Elsa Heyden, Michele Lavoie and Carol Thomas, three small dancers who show great promise for the future. The second part of the program was a series of divertissement by the older pupils and included dancing, singing and dramatics. The Pauze sisters presented a Dance Poemon toe, Rosemary Leggett a tap routine, and a very finished duo by the Saunders Sisters and a Clasisc toe by Nancy Saunders, songs by Shirley Dorion, Peggy Hart and the Harmonettes led by Barbara Patterson, with an amusing monologue by Muriel Parker, a dramatic item by Corpl. Allan Edgar, R.A.F., written by himself and Major R. A. Diespecker's Prayer for Victory by Mary Ruth Whiting. Mary Iwasaki and Marion Wylie accompanied the dancers in a highly commendable manner and Ruth LeCras accompanied the singers.

The Kinsmen Club of Montreal will present the second edition of The Mary Beetles Spring Revue at St. Raphael's Church Hall, Saturday at 2.15 p.m. in aid of the Milk Fund for children in bombed British areas.

This program will feature the dramatic, vocal and piano pupils of the school under the direction of Mary Ruth Whiting, Barbara Patterson and Annette Deschamp.

The tiny tots will also be seen in dance numbers directed by Jeanne Rodier, assisted by Rosemary Leggett.

Mrs. Whiting will present three plays, Farewell to Mother Goose, Bluebeard's Dilemma and Dogs and Daffodils.

Give me the moon at my feet;
Put my feet upon the crescent, like a Lord!
O let my ankles be bathed in moonlight, that I may go
Sure and moon-shod, cool and bright-footed towards my goal.

—D. H. Lawrence.

SATURDAY AT THE SNOWDON!

When reporter James Craig meets Margaret O'Brien in "Lost Angel," coming to the Snowdon Theatre Saturday, he tells her about a thing called magic, but she doesn't believe him. "Well, it's this way," Craig begins, but it's no use because Margaret, a child prodigy, cannot conceive of such a thing. This delightful comedy, starring the child sensation of "Journey For Margaret," starts Saturday at the Snowdon Theatre.

THE GREATEST PITCHERS

Picking all-time, all-star baseball teams has become an epidemic this year. Sports writers, radio broadcasters, officials, and many players have expressed their opinion in type. The latest of note is Honus Wagner, by general consent the greatest shortstop the game ever knew. Old Hans, writing in Liberty, picked a team that has won unusual concurrence among the so-called experts—except for the pitchers he named.

Hans picked Bill Dickey as catcher; Lou Gehrig at first; Eddie Collins at second; he should have named himself at shortstop, but didn't; and Pie Traynor at third. In the outfield he chose Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker. It is his choice of Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson and Grover Alexander as the greatest of all pitchers that has been challenged. But Wagner ought to know all about Matty and Big Alex for he faced them countless times at bat, over a period of many years, along with other National League greats of that golden era of baseball.

Interested in the criticism of Wagner's choice of pitchers, your chronicler spent part of last week-end delving into the records. Surely, we figured, the statistics would be a better guide in choosing the game's greatest pitchers than the memories and opinions of old-time observers and players. After checking all the figures available, however, your chronicler is forced to the conclusion that old Honus is right. If figures mean anything, Johnson, Mathewson and Alexander stand out head and shoulders above them all.

Let's consider Walter Johnson who Wagner believes was the most effective pitcher the game ever produced. Johnson was discovered by a friend of Clark Griffith's, an army officer at a western camp, who saw the seventeen-year-old lad in a high school game striking out the opposition as fast as they came to bat. Griffith wasn't impressed by the letters of his friend, so the army man himself paid Johnson's fare to Washington. Griffith signed on the boy as soon as he saw him throw a few balls in practice.

Walter's first pitching assignment was against the mighty Detroits—the murderers' row of their day, Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford and Bob Veitch were in the line-up. Not a pleasant prospect for a kid just breaking in! But Johnson, with that calm complacency that was so characteristic of him throughout his long career, treated the Tigers as just another ball club, completely baffling them with his speed, although he lost the game 2 to 1 through failure to field bunts in time to get the flying Cobb.

On September 4, 5 and 7, 1908, though still a youngster of twenty-one, Johnson established a record that still stands. He pitched three successive games, and won them all by shutouts! On Friday, the 4th, he beat New York allowing six meagre hits; next day he went back to the mound and again shut out the New Yorks allowing four hits. Sunday there was no game, but on Monday he pitched his third shoutout, limiting the opposition to but two hits.

During his twenty-one years of service, Johnson established more records than any other pitcher. In 1912, he won sixteen consecutive games; in 1913 he won fourteen in a row; and eleven years later, when long past the age at which most players retire, he won thirteen straight, pitching with the lively ball against the greatest hitters the game ever produced. He shares with Mathewson, Cy Young, and Alexander the record of having won twenty-eight or more games for three years in succession. He shares with Alexander the honour of having led the league the most number of years in games won. Each attained the honour six times. He led the American League twelve years in strikeouts, eight of them in succession. On May 23, 1924, though an old man by baseball standards, and throwing the lively ball, he struck out six batsmen in a row.

The records held by Johnson are almost too numerous to detail. In his twenty-one years he pitched in 802 games, far more than any other pitcher. He won 414 games, a mark exceeded only by Cy Young's 511. He scored 113 shutouts, twenty-three more than his nearest rival, Alexander. He established a lifetime record of 3497 strikeouts, about six hundred more than the second-place Young. And, in 1913, he rang up the all-time high for consecutive scoreless innings, 56. For years his earned-run average was below two per game.

Johnson pitched in two world's series, in 1924 against New York and in 1925 against Pittsburgh. Although far past his prime, he beat Bentley in the final of the 1924 series, 4 to 3, in twelve innings; while the following year he beat Lee Meadows 4 to 1, and then beat Yde 4 to 0. He lost in his third try, however, to Ray Kremer, 9 to 7.

Johnson was one of the quietest players in the game. He never argued with the umpires, never smoked, drank, nor used profane language. He was probably the most graceful thrower the game ever saw, swinging the ball with a whip somewhat lower than what is known as a side-arm delivery. He never "reared back and let her go" as some imaginative writers have declared, although he propelled the ball at about 133 feet a second. He was always a gentleman, never tried to frighten batters with the "bean ball," although Grantland Rice once declared that if he had ever taken to "dusting them off" he would have been invincible. Nobody, before or since, has ever thrown a ball as fast as Sir Walter.

Next week we'll discuss Christy Mathewson and Grover Alexander.

Ladies' Air Force Trounce CWACS

The No. 1 Wireless School, champions in the ladies section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League last season, started right off from where they left off on Tuesday night when they won the opening game of this season's schedule at Westmount Park, where they trounced the CWAC No. 33 Company, 29-7.

The air force batters had very little trouble with the offerings of hurler Adams, who started on the mound for the No. 33 Company team, Sylvia Seguin who replaced Adams was a great improvement but her support was very poor.

Thelma Gertsman and "Red" Booth hit home-runs for the winners while Sylvia Seguin banged out four hits in as many times at bat for the army team.

Group Captain G. W. Webber, commanding officer at the No. 1 Wireless School, officially opened the season by throwing the first ball to Lieut. Edith Bee of the CWAC No. 33 Company.

The game between Westmount and Longue Pointe Ordnance Depot was postponed due to the CWAC display at the Molsons Stadium.

The following games are scheduled for this week:

Monday, June 5th—CWAC No. 11 vs LPOD at Westmount Park.

Tuesday, June 6th—St. Hubert vs Westmount at Westmount Park; Lachine vs CWAC No. 33 at West. Barracks.

Wednesday, June 7th—Wireless vs Lachine at Lachine.

Junior Softball To Play Tonight

The junior section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League will get underway to-night at Westmount Park when Doug Alexander's team from Westmount Park takes on Bob Lord's Staynor outfit.

The set up of the section is not known as yet, with but two definite entries, but at least one more will be obtained before Friday.

As was the case last year, games will be played on Friday nights until school closes and after that on Tuesdays and one other night as well.

A possible third team is the Canadian Technical Training Corps from the Claremont Barracks but in the event they do not come in, one or two other possibilities are in view.

Panther Pee Wees Remain Unbeaten

The two leading teams in the pee wee section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League, the Panthers and Giants won the majority of the games played in that section last week. The Panthers ended up their season undefeated when they took four straight, winning from the Aces, 13-4, the Vampires 11-3, the Giants, 15-11 and a defaulted game from the Cubs.

The Giants retained their hold on second place when they eked out an extra inning 6-5 decision over the Beavers and took one from the Cubs by default.

The Aces also took one from the Cubs by default and grabbed a one game lead over the Vampires for the fourth and last playoff spot.

The pee wee schedule will end to-morrow morning when the Beavers meet the Aces and the Giants take on the Vampires. At the present time the Aces and Vampires are engaged in a death struggle for fourth place, the two teams were slated to meet yesterday afternoon, and in all likelihood the winner of this match will make the charmed circle.

The section playoff will start on Monday afternoon with the fourth place team meeting the Panthers in the first of a two out of three game series. The Giants and the third place team, probably the Beavers will meet in the first game of their series on Thursday afternoon. The second and third game, if necessary, of both these series will be played on Saturday morning June 10th.

Junior High Holds Track Meet

Peter Harling, Grade 5, took top honors last week, when he captured all of the four events in which he participated, and at the same time shattered two new records at the Westmount Junior High School's fourth annual track and field meet held at the school campus when 47 events were featured.

The individual class champions were: Class 1, R. Foster, 24 points; Class 2, Peter Wilson, 20 points; Class 3, Bruce Thompson, 21½ points; Class 4, Joe Eveleigh, 24 points; Class 5, Peter Harling, 24 points.

The inter-class team champions were: Seventh year, 85½ points; eighth year, 68½ points, and ninth year, 135 points.

Trinity Troop Captures Title

The Trinity troop captured the title in the Inter-troop section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League when they defeated the Calvary team 25-4 at Westmount Park on Tuesday evening. The Trinity team went through their season undefeated, winning all seven games played.

This was the first year that the Inter-troop section of the league operated and it had a very successful year.

The final standing of the teams is as follows:

	G	W	L	Pts
Trinity	7	7	0	14
St. Leo's	7	6	1	12
1st Westmount	7	5	2	10

Scully's Command Squad Setting Torrid Pace In Senior Softball

Sid Bond's RCAF No. 3 Training Command team with George Scully in the box, is setting a torrid pace in the senior section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League. The Command squad have mowed down all opposition, capturing four games in as many starts and are far ahead of the "B" group in the league standing. The latest victims of Scully's brilliant twirling were the Navy, who were sunk by the score of 10-4 and Joey Richman's No. 1 Wireless School, who were downed 11-3.

Other teams to win games during the week were Art Mann's Dodgers who handed the No. 11 A.I.D. a 17-3 shellacking, the Wireless School also beat the No. 11 A.I.D. by a tune of 19-6, the Provost Corps captured their lone encounter of the season by defeating the Equipment Depot 12-9 and Longue Pointe Ordnance Depot finally broke into the win column by taking the No. 4 Ordnance Corps into camp at the Westmount Barracks, 15-3.

George Scully's hurling was the main factor in the Command's wins over the Navy and Wireless School. The lanky pitcher tried to take it easy with the Navy but after being batted around for four runs in the initial inning he buckled down to work and shut the sailors out from then on. In the game with the Wireless School, his team-mates came to the rescue with two five run rallies in the fifth and sixth frames to erase an early 2-1 lead that the airmen had held from the early part of the game.

The Dykeless Dodgers won their first essay without their star hurlers, Dougie Maher took over the mound chores and had an easy time with the No. 11 A.I.D. beatters. The Dodgers had a weak team out but had very little difficulty downing the airmen 17-3.

The Provost Corps staged a seven run rally in the sixth inning of their game with No. 12 Equipment Depot to nose out the Montreal East team, 12-9. Heavy hitting by hurler Rochon, who banged out two doubles and a home-run, helped his team's cause no little.

The following games are scheduled for this week :

Monday, June 5.—LPOD vs Dodgers; E. Depot vs Mt. Garage; Command vs Ordnance at West. Barracks.

Wednesday, June 7.—Mt. Garage vs Wireless; Ordnance vs Dodgers; LPOD vs Provost at West. Barracks.

Thursday, June 8.—E. Depot vs No. 11 A.I.D.; Provost vs Wireless; Navy vs Command.

3 Top Bantams Win Schedule Softball Games

The three top teams in the bantam section of the Westmount Municipal Softball League all advanced during the week by winning their scheduled games. Brian Tiffin's Royals jumped up to within one game of the leading Tornados when they swamped the Dodgers 24-8, which just about eliminated the Dodgers from the playoffs.

Richard Lord's Tornados took one from the Red Wings by default while Dave Binmores Eagles copped a pair of games, one from the Red Wings via the default route and the other a 15-13 decision over the slipping Bombers.

The race for the definite alignment of the first four teams is still wide open with the Tornados, favourites to end up in first place. The section schedule will end to-morrow morning with the Royals meeting the Tornados and the Dodgers taking on the Bombers.

The bantam playoffs will open on Monday when the first place team meets the fourth place club in the first game of a two out of three series. The same two teams will meet on Wednesday in the second game, while a third, if necessarry will be played on Saturday morning June 10th. The series between the second and third place teams will start on Wednesday, the second game will be played on Friday June 9th and the third game, if necessary, on Saturday June 10th.

The following is the standing of the section :

Tornados	8	7	1	14
Royals	8	6	2	12
Eagles	9	6	3	12
Bombers	8	4	4	8

Distributing magazines to the Armed Forces

Joe says—the men in the Armed Forces need more reading matter. They need books and magazines to fill in those empty spots when off duty and when they just want to sit round and "take it easy".

That goes for the sailors too—When a rating or an officer is in the "doldrums", and needs cheering up, a good book helps.

But, pick out the books you, yourself, have enjoyed or recent issues of magazines.

Double Header At Belmont Park

Two big free outdoor attractions will be presented at Belmont Park on Sunday, it is announced by the management. The first half of the double-header will feature the final appearance of The Arleys, daredevil aerialists, who have been thrilling patrons of the park since the start of the season. The other half of the double-header will be presented by "The Feminine Human Cannon Ball" . . . the world's first woman ever to attempt such a feat. She is an attractive young girl who, when her brothers were called to the armed forces, took over their jobs of being shot from a cannon . . . streaking through space at the rate of about 360 feet a second and landing with swan-like grace into a net several hundred feet away from the smoking gun.

Kin of H. S. Ross Wins High Praise

High praise is accorded Major Alex C. Ross, of the Cape Breton Highlanders, a resident of Sydney, N.S., and a nephew of Howard S. Ross, K.C., editor of the Forum in this publication, by a member of the regiment, Private Tommy Hicks, of Dominion N.S., who was recently invalided home from Italy, where among other wounds he suffered the loss of an eye.

In an interview with the Sydney Post Record, Private Hicks is quoted as saying:

"One of the greatest soldiers to leave Cape Breton Island, Major Ross led his men into engagements at Ortona and other battle sectors and unflinchingly faced many dangers. He is splendid to his men and looks out for them in every way. The men all swear by him."

Major Ross is a former secretary of the Sydney Board of Trade and for many years represented Dun and Bradstreet on Cape Breton Island. Before joining up for active service, he was representative for the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company.

UNIFORMLY ATTRACTIVE VACATIONERS

It certainly would be a more decorative war for civilians if the uniform ideas of these cuties on holiday in the Laurentians were more generally followed.

Trains Take Vacationers To Laurentians This Year

Now that the family on vacation must tread lightly on those tires, and sometimes not at all, and gasoline for long tours is impossible to get vacation crowds are looking for new ways to reach the Laurentian Mountains. But they "haven't been licked yet." This year, thousands are already streaming northward into their favorite vacationland by rail, by bus, and even by plane. They get there even if they have to fly.

In the sporting goods stores of Montreal, many of these Laurention vacationers—some of them visitors from far-away places — are mulling over a range of trout and bass flies and debating with the experts on the virtues of "Parmachene Bell," "Brown Hackle," "The Silver Doctor," "March Brown" and other favorites.

In the Laurentian playground itself, the scene is a trifle changed in detail during war. Between Montreal and the Laurentian plateau, the traveller may see guarded munitions plants, rows of barracks, and French-Canadian soldiers drilling in the fields.

Due north, the mountains roll on much as ever, surrounding such colorful habitant villages as Mont Rolland, Ste. Adele, Ste. Marguerite, Val Morin, Ste. Agathe des Monts, Ivry and Ste. Jovite. Then comes towering Mont Tremblant, highest of the Laurentian peaks, and famous for its ski runs when the snow is deep on the ground.

Farther north still, the traveller's route cuts through the parishes of La-Conception, Labelle, and L'Annonciation, through the heart of the fisherman's paradise, and finally into Mont Laurier. This is the wild and rugged fringe of the summer and winter playground of the Laurentian Mountains.

Even in wartime this great vacationland at Montreal's backdoor is easy to reach. Barring the restricted forms of travel, most of the best vacation spots can be reached in a few hours on any day of the week. Daily trains leave Montreal and Ottawa for the Northern extremes; pass close to most of the trout-rich lakes, and colorful Laurentian resort places. There is no lull in Laurentian vacationing this year. More than ever, Canadians are looking for rest, relaxation, and play to build bodies and minds for hard work ahead.

Though Dutch gardeners under Nazi occupation have been forced to convert the famous tulip gardens into vegetable producing areas, every effort is being made to keep enough breeds alive and perpetuated so as to be ready for the post-war period. Help to a restoration of pre-war prestige and leadership in these blooms is being given by Netherlands residents now living in England, who are maintaining all the important bulbs and species through skillful plantings.

Employment Found for Pupils Of School for Crippled Children

"Since 1938 no less than seventy-five pupils of the School for Crippled Children have obtained gainful employment and two are in the armed forces overseas."

Douglas Bremner, President of the school, made this announcement today in connection with the annual tag-day for the school to be held next Saturday. "Nearly 200 children, who through no fault of their own have been denied a normal, healthy body, attend this school on Cedar Avenue," Mr. Bremner stated, "And this tag-day, in addition to a Christmas letter, are the only appeals which the school makes to enable these children to be educated for a normal, independent life." It is hoped to raise $8,000.00 on Saturday which is but one-fifth of the entire amount necessary to operate the school. The children themselves will be out and it is hoped the public will give generously.

Here is the interesting record of children who have left the school since 1938: 27 are in offices, 15 in war plants, six in factories, four in stores, two in banks, one in a canteen, two in elevators, one a messenger, one typewriter repair, one a bank messenger, one a switchboard operator, one an accounting machine operator, 11 in miscellaneous occupations and two overseas.

The School for Crippled Children was the first school of its kind on the North American continent. It was founded in 1907 by the late Dr. Mackenzie Forbes. Children of all races and creeds are admitted. No fees are charged.

The school follows the curriculum as laid down by the Protestant Board of School Commissions. However, it cannot be operated as in the ordinary school. Each morning five buses pick up the children at their homes throughout the city. At mid-morning, a light lunch is served and at noon hour the children must be given a full-course meal of meat and vegetables, dessert and milk. At night they are returned to their homes. Last year the buses travelled nearly 48,000 miles and the happy faces of the children are always a source of pleasure to the onlooker as they travel to and fro or are carried by the driver in and out of their homes.

Throughout the day there is a constant procession of children to and from the Children's Memorial Hospital. The school is adjacent to the hospital and the children can thus attend clinics or obtain necessary treatment. In the school itself a row of cots provide the opportunity for daily rest to children who suffer heart conditions. A nurse is attached to the staff and semi-annually Dr. H. B. Cushing gives the children a medical check-up so that an accurate record can be had of their progress.

In addition, the school conducts classes in woodworking, ceramics, dress-making and music. The purpose being to teach the crippled child to keep himself and develop the limbs and muscles. But despite all these extras and the time that is of necessity lost, the school has a high scholastic standing and children who attend rarely miss a grade, which proves that a crippled child, given the opportunity, will work and help himself along.

The tag-day on Saturday will be under the direction of Miss Hazel D. McNiece, principal of the school.

C.C.F. Not Foe Says Prof. Scott

Professor Frank Scott, 451 Clarke Avenue, speaking in place of David Dewis, who was detained in Ottawa by illness, gave a talk in Herbert Symonds School on Monday night on "Business, Industry and the C.C.F."

Prof. Scott ended his talk by saying that public ownership of business is not an aim in itself, but that economic security for all is the true aim of society. Under a C.C.F. government this will be a greater reality than ever before.

An interesting question period followed.

The Magic Carpet

(Books for Boys and Girls)

Gift of the Forest by Rhal Singh.

To Bim, a child of rural India, the jungle was the most mysterious and beautiful place on earth. And when, on his birthday, the forest makes him a gift of a tiger cub, Bim's joy knows no bounds. Keeping Heera against the wishes of the village is difficult at first but slowly Heera wins the admiration of the people and swiftly grows the love between the tiger and his young master.

On Safari by Theodore Waldeck.

At eighteen, Theodore Waldeck won the promise of a small place on a big African expedition. He got as far as the big African coast and then—fever. When he recovered, hundreds of miles of veldt lay between him and the expedition. His is a story of a boy who just had to be an explorer, who made all the mistakes, but who lived through them to organize his own expeditions.

Give A Man A Horse by Charles Finger.

Bob Honoré thought aloud, "Give a man a horse and an open country, and what more could he wish for?" Then he took a deep breath that was almost a sigh, because the rest of the day would have to be spent in the office. But Bob had an understanding friend in his boss, Mr. Coe. Then life became a series of exciting adventures—trailing horse thieves, sailing to South America, shipwreck, capturing wild horses, enough to last a lifetime.

Adam Of The Road by Gray.

"A road's a kind of holy thing," said Roger the minstrel to his son Adam. "That's why it's a good work to keep a road in repair, like giving alms to the poor or tending the sick. It's open to the sun and wind and rain.

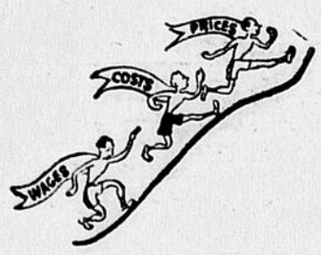
I had a nightmare...

I dreamed that I paid $5.00 for a haircut and $50.00 for a pair of cardboard shoes. I dreamed that we had no wartime controls on prices, profits or wages, and that we hadn't had the sense to organize the distribution of supplies all the way down the line . . .

I dreamed that because everyone was making more money and spending it, prices were skyrocketing.

all the stores looked like "fire" sales . . . with people scrambling to buy before prices went still higher . . .

panicky people were buying things they didn't need, and hoarding everything they could get their hands on . . .



I dreamed that everybody had to fight to get more money . . . and that in this mad race, wages and salaries were falling behind.

I dreamed the hand of everyone was against his neighbour, with each of us blaming the other fellow for his troubles.

with everybody for himself . . . no matter what it cost in the long run . . . and no matter how it hurt the war effort.

THEN...THANK GOODNESS—I WOKE UP!

to realize with relief that I live in a country where things are sane and stable . . . where the cost of living has been kept within bounds.

to realize that prices and wages—production costs and selling prices—are inseparably linked together.

to realize that without the safeguards that have headed off inflation, my nightmare might have become a reality!

to remind myself that the danger is still pressing and that we must continue to hold firm . . . and that means everybody must play fair and do his part by not trying to get some temporary, fancied advantage at the expense of his fellow-Canadians.

This advertisement is one of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing further increases in the cost of living now and deflation later.
