Prize winning singers and dancers

AMATEUR CONTEST WINNERS

Calumet Island's young blues singer Claude Ducette, left, won first prize at last week's contest put on by the Shawville Orange Lodge. He was accompanied by his brother Denis, of Fort Coulonge High School. Wearing shamrock green jump suits, Miss Linda Huckabone of Quyon and her pupil Shelley Armstrong danced their way to second place. Third prize went to Shawville's Sandra and Sammy Towell who harmonized on a number of songs. Fourth winner was stepdancer John Laframboise who, as a member of the Orange Lodge and a Master in the Young Britons, also had a big hand in the smooth running of the show as stage manager. Fifth winner was little Patricia Hodgins, also dancing, daughter of Mr and Mrs Dalton Hodgins of Shawville. Omitted from last week's account of the concert, by error, was a very fine tap dancing performance by John Langford. He had rehearsed a duet with his sister Margaret who took ill and could not take part so John went on alone accompanied by his other sister, Frances at the piano. John thus well deserves honorable mention. Photo by Emard PPOC

Refusal of Minister sparks strike May 5

Teachers and boards write to request settlement meeting

There are still some people who think there is a quarrel between the teachers and their school board. The following correspondence published by the PAPT should clear the air on this subject. Clearly, the quarrel is with the government of Quebec, not between teachers and boards.

NEGOTIATIONS . . . TELEGRAMS TELL THE TALE

Sent on April 11, 1969
To Hon Jean Jacques Bertrand,
Prime Minister
Hon Jean Guy Cardinal,
Minister of Education
Copy to Hon Marcel Masse

The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers and the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards respectfully request an immediate meeting with you, the Honourable Jean Guy Cardinal and the Honourable Marcel Masse to discuss jointly and in confidence a possible settlement of teachers' problems. As Protestant teachers have served notice of strike intention on the Minister of Labour we would respectfully urge that the meeting be held as early as possible and that no publicity be given to the proposed meeting.

Allana Reid-Smith,
President, P.A.P.T.
A. Reid Tilley,
President QAPSB

Quebec April 15, 7:16 p.m.
A Reid Tilley President
Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards
6000 Fielding Avenue
Montreal, Que.

Following your telegram which my executive assistant Mr Roger Ouellet acknowledged receipt on April 14th, your letter to me of the same date and the memorandum annexed to it. I wish to inform you that this matter will be dealt with by Mr Marcel Masse who will communicate with you without delay. As you know Mr Masse is the Minister duly authorized by the Executive Council to deal with these problems. With my best personal regards.

Jean Jacques Bertrand,
Prime Minister

Montreal, April 16 10:31 am
Hon Marcel Masse
We have been advised by the Prime Minister that you are authorized by the Cabinet to deal with our telegram of April eleventh and with the seventeen points or principles submitted April fourteenth. Our teams are standing by twenty-four hours a day, ready to leave for the capital. We cannot believe that the Government of Quebec would in the general interest of the Province refuse to explore these specific points as listed even if it finds it impossible to approve of them in full. The purpose of this exchange is to reach an agreement in the face of a possible strike on April twenty-second. We repeat that this direct immediate exchange (tomorrow if possible) is extremely important to us. We respectively anticipate a favourable reply on your part.

Dr Allana Reid Smith and
A. Reid Tilley

Montreal, April 17 4:55 pm
Hon Marcel Masse
In all justice to our teachers we are going to make public on Friday, April eighteenth the exchange of telegrams between the government and ourselves unless you make a specific appointment with us to study the possibilities of settlement.

A. Reid Tilley,
President, QAPSB
Alana Reid-Smith,
President P.A.P.T.

(Note: Shortly after midnight on Friday, April 18, special delivery letters from Mr Masse were delivered to Mr Tilley and Dr Smith refusing their joint request.)

Then on Monday, May 5, the flag flew upside down and at half mast in front of the school in Shawville. It was the children's attempt to do a flag raising drill without the usual teachers to direct them.

School consisted of movies and special help while most of the teachers stood outside bearing placards with cryptic messages which referred to their disagreements with the Quebec government Ministry of Education.

Most of the student body didn't go to school. The decision was left to each family as to whether to send the children in or not. The teachers felt that the children should not be exposed to the one day teachers' strike and sent a note home with the children on the previous day asking parents to keep them home. On the other hand the school board instructed the principal to send notes home with the children stating that school would be held "as usual".

The children were thus used to further the interests of both groups, which, in Shawville, were not of one mind. In some other parts of West Quebec the school boards and Home and School Associations asked that children remain at home during the one day. Despite the confusion in Shawville there were no unseemly incidents to mar the demonstration of the teachers' growing impatience with a Ministry of Education which will not settle a dispute nor sign a contract after almost two years of negotiations.

At other Protestant schools through Pontiac the teachers also struck but nowhere else was seen the amusing flag episode which several local citizens were able to photograph in front of the Shawville school.

Monday is deadline for R C Board resolutions

May 12, Monday is the deadline for all Roman Catholic School Boards of Pontiac who wish to have their English speaking students included in negotiatons with the Protestant Regional School Board.

If the Outaouais Commission Regionale intends to fulfill its promise made in Shawville last Monday night, it will require statistics which can only be figured on the basis of resolutions from the interested local boards.

The negotiations anticipated are for a long term agreement with the Protestant Board similar to the agree ment used by the schools in the Chateauguay Valley and would result in the acceptance of English speaking Catholic pupils at Pontiac High School.

Mr Cecil Vibert, president of the Parent Teachers Association has a copy of the correct wording of the resolution for any boards who wish their English speaking pupils to be included in the negotiations.

Any English speaking Roman Cathoiic families in Pontiac County who would like their children to attend the Pontiac High School at any future time may increase their chances by requesting their local board to send in a resolution to the Outaouais Regionale before Monday. A word to the Pontiac member of the Board is not sufficient Properly worded and legally passed resolutions are absolutely required according to the officials of the Outaouais Regionale who were present at the meeting in Shawville.

These resolutions do not mean that all pupils in the local board's jurisdiction will be included in the negotiations. The Commission Scolaire Regionale de l'Outaouais still has plans for its own high school to be built in Fort Coulonge.

No blame in Havelin death

"Get out of the way, Honey there's a car coming" were Robert Havelin's last words. His wife, the former Beatrice Margaret Hoopfer, then stepped behind him on the side of the road and there was a big noise and then he just wasn't there any more.

Mrs. Havelin had been a passenger with her husband and their three little children, June, Shannon and Bobby when Robert pulled off the road at Yarm last Friday evening to help David Brown get his stalled lumber truck started. The Brown truck had its left hind wheel on the pavement and Havelin was pushing it. His wife came over to tell Bob to be careful and at that moment Woody Fraser came upon them.

In evidence at the inquest in Campbell's Bay last night before Coroner Dr Harold Laycock, it was established that no blame be laid for the death and that it was an accident. Mr. Fraser had pulled out to pass the two stopped vehicles but then pulled back slightly in the face of an oncoming car. In pulling back to the right he misjudged and sideswiped the truck, catching Havelin and crushing him against the rear wheel of the Brown truck.

The funeral was from Hayes Funeral Home on Monday with a service in St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Charteris and burial in the St Matthew's Cemetery. Rev John G. Pearce conducted the service.

Witnesses at the inquest included the investigating officer, Constable Jean Ipperciel, Mrs Havelin, Mr and Mrs David Brown. Garry Miller who drove a car which was behind Mr Fraser's car at the time of the accident and Mr Fraser. The driver of the oncoming car which did not stop is unknown.

Lepine charged with non - capital murder

This morning at Campbell's Bay Court Alphonse Lepine was charged with the non-capital murder of Mrs Walter Greenwood, the former Florida Latour, with who Mr Lepine had been living in common law marriage for over twenty years.

The charge came following an inquest last night into the shooting which took place last Tuesday. Mr Lepine came voluntarily to the Quebec Provincial Police station after the shooting and made a declaration before Corporal Turner. Witnessing at the inquest were Constable Gosselin, Ovide Belec of the QPP, Corporal Turner, Rene Marchand of the Homicide Squad, Anita Lepine, daughter of the deceased, and Mr Alphonse Lepine. The Coroner, Dr Harold Laycock, decided on the ev idence that death was due to internal haemorrhage caused by two bullets and that it was a case of homicide. The preliminary hearing will take place on May 28th and the case will probably then be heard in the fall assizes.

EXPECT PROFESSIONALISM

School was not as usual on Monday. Nor will it ever be as usual again. The purpose of the strike was to make the public aware of the teachers' dilemma in their efforts to protect their profession as a profession.

Now the public is abundantly aware. Professionalism denotes learning. All professionals be they in the fields of medicine, writing, law, science, religion or education, require a certain amount of training in their particular field as well as a broad education in other fields to make them worthy of their callings. In the field of education, the training these days is towards a sort of teaching unheard of in the past. A doctor practising in the same way as they did forty or even twenty years ago would not long stay in practice today, and the same applies to teachers.

Changing times are reflected in the schools as everywhere else. Those members of the public who read about the modern education know what they should expect from the schools. The new community of learning is not supposed to resemble very much the old fashioned "shut up and listen" and "raise your hand if you want to go to the bathroom" type of environment.

The public generally seems to accept the teacher's right to expect whatever conditions they deem necessary to provide the best education for our children. Now, it behoves the teachers to live up to the professionality which they so ardently wish to protect.

News in French

30 April, Ottawa

The Editor,
The Equity,
Sir:

Your recent Editorial re the news release from Quebec City in French is very timely.

As a long time substantial taxpayer and part time resident of La Belle Province the pressure of business and an increasingly lazy mind has permitted me to master only a very limited amount of French I would like to read and understand more of it, at my convenience.

Some 50 per cent of a rather substantial staff are French, we respect and understand one another, but not some of Quebec's petty politicians.

Trout and Fiddleheads

Luskville, May 5, 1969

The Equity:
Dear Editor:

In a week or so one can obtain or try to obtain one of the greatest natural treats, "bar none" right in Onslow, Bristol and Clarendon.

The treat is "Trout and Fiddleheads" or as New Brunswickers call it Fish and Greens. Now you need a bit of luck to catch a trout, and maybe the first time you'll need a bit of luck to find Fiddleheads.

For those who are not acquainted with Fiddleheads—These are the sterile fronds of the Ostrich Fern which is easily found in damp decideaus bushes. When the frond is about 7 inches above ground it looks like a "Fiddlehead or Violin head", this is where the name came from originally.

To ensure that the ferns do not die one should not cut the fertile fronds, but they usually appear a week or so later than the sterile fronds, so this lessens the danger of cutting the wrong ones.

Fiddleheads are a gourmet delicacy, attractive, dark green, mild flavoured, crisp and fresh; taste somewhere between spinach and asparagus; they can be frozen and retain their goodness.

I would say if anyone wishes to treat themselves with an exotic spring treat try Trout and Fiddleheads, garnish with wild chives and finely cut dandelion leaves—Yum, Yum.

Equitation

Bristol. Que.
April 29. 1969

The Equity,
Mrs. Dickson:

have so many phone calls inquiring what does "Equitation" mean? I thought maybe you could enlighten the public on its meaning. You taught us all how and where to buy a horse in one editorial, so strike again while the iron is hot.

Equitation comes from the latin word "Equine" a horse. Equestrian derived from the same word, applies to the rider, or person handling a horse.

Equitation is the act of handling or riding a horse and can take in everything from buying a horse to the day it dies. There is a right and wrong way to do everything, and the wrong way, always seems to be the easiest for the beginners to adopt. An example, there is a rule for every move in riding, the Western rule says, one hand on the lines, and you must not change hands and one finger between lines, no more. You see so many riders bouncing along, two hands on lines, and elbows stuck out like wings, or if one hand on the lines, the other will be on the saddle horn. Another thing, some people ride with too short a stirrup, this causes the heel to be higher than the toe, and it also shows too much space between seat and saddle when horse trots or lopes.

You must be master of your horse, but do not let him know it, when he knows you are master he will respect your wishes, do not command him, so long as he does what you want, make everything you say, sound like a request. Reward him with a pat or word when he does well, reprimand him if he knowingly does wrong, it is the sound of your voice, they go by, and not the words.

I think the riding horse is going through the greatest phase of novice handling or just plain lack of knowledge, of all the breeds or type today, in that many people who have never had any horse experience, get the misconception that all you have to do, is get up on his back, the horse does the rest. This is why the apaloosa and quarter horse have been developed today. They have such a good disposition that they will tolerate any kind of a rider on their back. The apaloosa is the oldest breed known in the world, it was first known as the Palouse horse, because it was first found on the Palouse river in Persia, (I think it is Persia). People started referring to it as a palouse horse and it gradually developed into Appaloosa.

The first Quarter horses known, carried the color markings of the Appaloosa, this is why, their temperament is so similar today.

Equitation is the biggest subject in horse lore, a young rider has no more chance of learning properly than they would have of learning any subject in school, without their teacher. There are many expert riders but few of them have the time or patience to teach the beginner. Then again, many beginners have the wrong attitude, they may say, I know all about horses because I have watched the cowboys in the movies. A great many of the riders in movies and rodeos are not horsemen, but just acrobats on horses, or they might be classed as athletes .

Even the horse colors differ from every day colors. Horses are referred to as bay, dun, brown, sorrel, chestnut, red roan, blue roan, or black.

So send your child, where they will receive the fundamentals of true horsemanship, called equitation.

No Church Service

Campbell's Bay
May 6, 1969

The Editor,
The Equity
Dear Sir:

Money talks and we are not to judge. There was a tragic thing happened in the outskirts of Bryson on the No 8 Highway last week as you all know. To make a long story short, I feel very bad about the way the funeral was carried out and everybody I talk to feels the same way I do.

Mrs Lepine was born a Catholic, and raised four children Catholics. In the funeral home there were beads on her hands and a place to kneel down so I presumed she had died a Catholic. The grief stricken family had no experience in funerals and there were only four pallbearers when there should have been six. The boy said the beads before the casket was closed then the deceased was taken directly to the graveyard without a church service of any kind. There was no priest at the grave side. What is wrong with our outfit? A clergyman is supposed to be charitable.

I know of two people who were buried in our church in the last ten years under the same conditions and they had the works. A person said to me why didn't she get a Protestant service? Why should the Protestants have to do our job?

The Lepines of this area are good Catholics and good people. This whole community sympathizes with them in this, their troubled times.

Parents await decision

Campbell's Bay, May 5, 1969

The Equity,
Dear Editor:

Having noted "Letters to the Editor" in The Equity, dated April 23rd, your press was described as "the sounding board of the Pontiac", may I beg space for this purpose?

First of all, I wish to congratulate the Principal and Staff of Victoria Avenue High School for the remarkable standards, in discipline and deportment, which reflected from their students during the meeting at McDowell school on Monday(April 28.

Next but not least, I wish to personally thank the students for their very well behaved manner which was above reproach by anyone. Some, apparently wonder, who are the people who support our youth? To answer that question I DO and I am only one of many. As long as you young adults, publicly conduct yourselves in the manner which I have witnessed to date. I am one hundred per cent behind you. I trust that your year will be successful although I fully realize that the lack of facilities and the frustrations you have endured during the past year, has made your goal a difficult one to attain. May God help you through this difficult time.

To the residents of Shawville, I wish to thank you most sincerely, for your generosity, in allowing our students to occupy this school. I want you to know that we appreciate having had access to it. No doubt twenty years ago this building adequately supplied the educational needs of the student body of those days. Our problem is simply one of inadequate space. Student population has increased in leaps and bounds and educational trends require much greater space to house the larger number of students and the increased equipment needed to educate youth for the twentieth century. May I take this opportunity to commend you for the fine schools you built for your students. No doubt this was not achieved save through a hard struggle. Congratulations on a job well done. I feel you understand our plight.

To the L'Outaouais board. I question why you did not begin your meeting with the plan announced later by our member. You claim you were just about to say, just that. Did you wish to try to put our local school board members in an awkward position only to have the fun reversed and yourselves appear to others—well everyone has their own adjectives and titles! Mine, I do not wish to print. To the Regional member who informed our students, that he is the man who has the worry regarding borrowed money, not the students. I would inform him that he is being recompensed by a high salary for those duties which his position requires. Does he expect students to add this to the heavy load they already have? We parents do not expect it, why should he? I, myself, do not expect him, nor is he, worrying because I had to borrow two thousand dollars to send my child to Ottawa, in the province of Ontario, to be educated. uninhibited by the turmoil and frustration under L'Outaouais Board.

Regarding resolutions. I wish to state that I attended the meeting months ago, where I witnessed and noted the wording of the resolution, given from the lips of the Regional Chairman, very slowly—three or four words at a time and copied by Mr Vibert, our PTA president. The following day this resolution, typewritten, was delivered to our home to be signed by our local board in Campbell's Bay. The wording was identical to my notes. It was signed by our board, in their own territory, in the required length of time to reach its destination in Hull. This resolution was worded incorrectly, according to L'Outaouais board. Now who made the mistake? Was it done innocently or mistakenly? In either case, why were we not notified at once? If the Regional members are at all interested but perhaps too busy to write or to telephone, could they not at least mention it to our Pontiac representative on the Board?

To the parents who are satisfied with present conditions for their children, I ask you, why present yourself at a meeting which is held to better conditions? If intimidation is on anyone's mind, you will be disappointed to learn that this does not exist at Victoria Avenue High as the Staff and students are of a high calibre and above this biased thinking. How would anyone form such a trend of thought, let alone question it in words?

In closing, I wish to say we have many fine girls and boys in Pontiac. We parents are anxiously awaiting the sentence they receive. Our decisions are made, ready to be executed. Boys and girls cheer up, this is the beautiful month of May.

Sincerely,
Lois McCann Kensley

News from Quebec about the budget

This year the Health Ministry will have a budget of 696.1 million dollars. Last year's budget was 645.2 million. The increase in the budget will go mainly for hospital insurance and for the treatment and prevention of mental diseases.

Hospital expenses for the Quebec Government were $27 per capita in 1961 which was one of the lowest in Canada. By 1967 they had risen to 67.50 per capita, the highest in Canada. The reason for the increase is that Quebec's hospital workers unionized sooner and faster and have negotiated better working conditions as well as salaries.

Some classes of Quebec hospital workers can take a one month vacation after one year of service while in Ontario the vacation period allowed is three weeks, after ten years of service. The Quebec average work week is 37½ hrs. In Ontario it is 40 hours.

These items of interest come from the budget speech of the Hon Paul Dozois, Finance Minister at Quebec last week.

He also announced the appointment of Mr Richard Mineau a highly reputed administrative adviser, to coordinate the government's many efforts to ensure stricter supervision and better use of public funds, to avoid dispersion of effort and lack of cohesion.

On the subject of succession duty Mr Dozois said inheritances in direct line of $75,000 or less will not be liable to succession duty in the case of deaths after April 29. No succession duty will be levied on the capitalized value of income derived from pension funds or registered retirement pension savings plans bequeathed to direct successors and if at least two thirds of an inheritance consists of property or shares, payment of succession duties may now be spread over a four year period.

The Quebec Government has also decided to offer the population a medicare program that will be universal and public. To help finance the program the Finance Minister is asking for the Federal Government to consent to Quebec opting out of the Federal plan with fiscal compensation.

An Act will create a Health Insurance Board for Quebec and the plan is intended to go into effect on July 1, 1970. Negotiations will be made with the medical profession to find a solution for problems of their participation and remuneration.

Contributions to the plan will be by individuals and employers. Every taxpayer whose annual income is over $4000, if married. or over $2,000 if single will contribute .8 of one percent of his income with a maximum of $125 annually. Lower income groups will have nothing to pay but will enjoy the same benefits. But employers will be required to pay .8 of one percent of all salaries paid.

Another item in the report of plans of the Minister of Finance is the increase in aid to municipalities. Mr Dozois announced that the share of the municipal portion of the Sales Tax revenue which will return to rural municipalities has been increased to a minimum of $5.00 per capita annually from the previous $2.50.

Country Notes

By Walker Riley,
Macdonald College, Agricultural Extension

For me, a farm auction stirs up a pot of powerful emotions. It is just ten years ago that we closed the door on our operation, the accumulated effort of four generations. The sale could have been yesterday.

True, there is the excitement of adventure, of the new, the unknown. But there is the apprehension, wondering if you are doing the right thing, wondering if the buyers will endorse by their bids your years of work as worthy or unworthy. And finally, there is the awful emptiness the day after, of the well-worn comfortable groove of daily chores, and the friendship of animals gone forever.

Stuart Armstrong is selling out. All around the country his sale posters dispassionately list his cows, his goods, his implements. As if a button were pressed, his dairy farming career comes to an end on May 1 at noon.

Stuart was one of my first friends when I moved to Quebec six years ago. In the years since, I have watched his farm change to meet the challenge of the times. I have watched while he increased his herd size, installed a bulk milk tank, pushed up crop yields, joined a cow testing program, fought with insects, insecticides, and bad weather to grow a cash crop of market turnips, bought new and bigger equipment to get the extra work done and helped his neighbors build a better farming community.

Stuart's reasons are not too different from many others selling this spring. The year date on the calendar says he is young no longer. The enjoyment of milking cows twice a day, three hundred and sixty five times a year has worn off. The milk cheque will not stretch to pay a hired man, even if a good one could be found.

In the last year he has watched his surplus milk build up at the dairy, and the average price drop lower than industrial milk. He has tired of the bickering, the uncertainty, the confusion of milk marketing. Highway survey stakes cast shadows of expropriation across his farm.

His sons cannot afford to be interested in carrying on and he will not press them to. George, with a diploma in agriculture, is drawing a higher salary as a manager of a farm service business than his father ever made. John looks forward to a career in teaching.

Yet Stuart is philosophical and encouraging when he talks of farming. But a man must have, "background, education, a thousand acres, and he must like it". No longer, he says, can a man afford to build his education and his capital as he goes along; no longer is farming a way of life, where you could get by with little expense, where you could take things slowly. And he looks approvingly across the river where Wayne Bradford is building up a 100-cow dairy herd.

Stuart Armstrong in selling out, has made a tough decision. He says he is looking forward to sleeping in the morning after the sale, and to weekends he can call his own. But I know, and he knows, it is not that easy. He has a few rough weeks ahead of him.

Stuart Armstrong's auction sale at Lachute was not because of expropriation for the new airport; he is a mile or two west of the area. But actually, it seems very few farm auctions will result from this development.

Along with Steve Casselman, who you have been hearing over CBC's Radio Noon Broadcasts; I poked around the Ste Scholastique area the other day looking for information. Rumours are there by the barrelful. Facts are harder to find.

When a man's farm is expropriated, Ross Oswald told us, his livestock and implements are automatically included. Then he can ask to have released those chattels he wants to take with him. Thus there should be no auctions, give-away sales without anyone to buy.

Surprisingly, there is no atmosphere of panic or even apprehension in the area even though thousands of farms, and whole communities, are involved, few people seem distressed about their future though for many, the only information they have had is through the newspaper. Al-

Many appear to see it as an escape from a way of life they never really did enjoy, and a chance to make a good living as the airport develops. Others have no complaint about retiring a year or two early. A few, and only a few we hear, good young farmers, plan to take their cows and their milk quota with them to new farms outside the area.

In the priority zone just north and east of Ste Scholastique, people have been asked to leave by early next year, we hear. Crops are going in as usual, but tree-cutting, digging and staking has already started. In the fringe areas, farmers like Erskine Rodger five miles from Lachute, think it may be years before their land is needed. But they don't know.

Quyon antique store opens under new owner

Saturday, May 3 was the occasion of the opening of the "Boutique du Coin" in Quyon. The new manager, Mrs Alexander, has gathered together a good stock of antiques, some dating back three hundred years.

Her prize collection is a group of antique clocks in working condition. Other specialties are glass and china objects and sets. To list the variety of items in the renovated store would cover this page.

Mrs Alexander, previously of Toronto, has a wide experience in antiques and has made some very good purchases at auctions around the country. This new business in the village of Quyon should be a good tourist attraction to the town, especially to American tourists who are always looking for Canadian antiques.

Mrs Alexander intends to have her store open during the week and also at weekends to accommodate tourists as well as the local people and is looking forward to welcoming many Pontiac customers to her shop, both buying and selling.

She is most interested in buying more items from the local people. Now that it is spring cleanup time, who knows what lucky person might find a valuable antique which could be turned into cash at the Boutique du Coin in Quyon?

Pontiac Reserve fishing opens May 16 for trout

Fishing will get officially under way in Pontiac Reserve on Friday, May 16, as the season opens for speckled and grey trout, pike and walleye. Those seeking small-mouth bass will have to wait until Friday, June 16. The trout season will close on Sunday, September 14, whereas the other species may be taken until Tuesday, September 30. These dates apply to users of private clubs within the reserve as well as to anglers using public waters.

The creel and possession limits are the same as in La Verendrye Park. That means five fish in all for grey trout, pike, walleye and small-mouth bass, or, if stay exceeds 24 hours, ten fish, including no more than five grey trout. The possession limit for speckled trout is 15 fish.

Home Ec classes visit Ottawa hotel and bakery

Wednesday, April 30, seventy-five grade 11, 10 and 8 Home Economic girls from P.P.H.S. visited two points of interest in Ottawa, "The Skyline" and Morrison-Lamothe Bakery.

We arrived first at the Skyline and were greeted by Mr. Sindall, the assistant manager. We were divided into four groups and taken on a tour of the hotel and shown the many beautiful dining rooms, lounges and the famous Regal Suite. also the swimming pool and squash court. We were also taken behind the scenes to see what goes on in the kitchens, and laundries.

After our tour we had lunch in the Skyline Cafeteria and then departed for Morrison-Lamothe.

Mrs Jean Pigott took us through the bakery and showed us the process of making bread from the time the ingredients are mixed to the final wrapping of the bread.

Then we were shown the decorating department where all wedding cakes and fancy pastries are decorated, and the catering house which rents all kinds of cutlery, dishes and glass ware.

To end up the day we were served milk and donuts and were spoken to by Mr Morrison who explained a bit of the history of the bakery.

In 1933 Mr G. Cecil Morrison and his brother-in-law. Mr Richard Lamothe from Calumet Island, Que. started a small bakery which has expanded today to a large bakery which produces 1½ million loaves of bread as well as a tempting variety of baked goods such as cherry pies, chocolate cakes, honey donuts, Danish pastries and oatmeal cookies.
