Rail talks resume

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new labor-management panel makes a fresh start today at trying to unravel the four-year-long railway jobs dispute with the threat of a country-wide rail strike delayed for 19 days.

President Kennedy announced the appointment of the special six-man subcommittee of the labor-management advisory committee late Wednesday afternoon—a scant eight hours before the railways were to put new work rules into effect and the unions were to meet the move with a strike.

Had the carriers and the unions not agreed to the reprieve, a walkout would have begun at 12:01 a.m. today.

Instead, Kennedy announced in a brief report from the White House, the railways agreed to postpone at least until July 29 implementation of the new work rules and five operating unions representing 190,000 workers similarly pledged to withhold strike action until that date.

ALLS ONE WEEK
Kennedy said that July 22 he will send his own recommendations and the special committee's report to Congress. This would mean Congress would have just one week to come up with legislation to prevent a strike if an agreement is not reached.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, named chairman of the new special committee by Kennedy, set up a morning meeting today with representatives of the rail carriers and unions.

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges, vice-chairman of the committee, also will be on hand.

Adrift three days in ocean

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Young Glenn Harvey, a six-footer with a sunburned nose, jumped lightly aboard the freighter that plucked him from his wallowing sailboat off Gloucester, Mass., four days ago.

"There she is," he said, pointing to the tiny sailboat lying under the rear superstructure of the Therese Horn, a 768-ton West German refrigerator ship with a friendly crew.

Harvey, 19, of Lewiston, Me., had spent three days and four nights in her as she drifted further away from the New England coast. "I thought I was finished," he said.

He had left Bailer Island near Brunswick, Me., June 30 on his way down the Atlantic coast to Florida. It was to be a summer vacation junket and the young engineering student at the University of Maine said he had planned to put into ports along the coast each night.

WIND HITS
Four days later he was off Biddeford Pool, Me., when the wind hit. As it picked up, he couldn't control the boat and took in his two sails, driving before the winds back up the coast.

During the storm, the "main halyard came off, so I couldn't put up the mainsail again." But after drifting two days he got the jib sail back in operation. Then a flash thunderstorm tore out some of its stitching.

"I was sick—partly seasick and partly salt water sick. About two inches of water was always sloshing around in the bottom. I was always soaked—very uncomfortable."

"I sighted the last land, a lighthouse, the first night after the storm. I tried to row to it, about half a mile, but it was too rough a sea." That was before one of the two oars broke in the attempt.

STILL SICK
The morning of July 6, just after he had the jib up again, the Therese Horn hove into sight. Harvey, badly sunburned and still sick from the water, was taken aboard about 45 miles off Gloucester, Mass.

Unrest continues as Guiana talks resume

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys today prepared to continue talks with government officials in this strife-torn colony.

After his arrival here Wednesday, Sandys held a 65-minute private conference with Premier Cheddi Jagan.

Police have ordered maximum security precautions for Sandys, who is here to weigh the political situation in the wake of the country's crippling 80-day general strike that ended last weekend.

An Indian farmer Wednesday night became the eighth fatality in a current wave of racial strife between Negroes and East Indians. He died of injuries incurred when a gang of Negroes attacked a group of Indians with shotguns and machetes in the Den Amstel region, west of Georgetown.

High on the list of topics expected to be discussed by Sandys was the U.S. refusal to aid the colony's crippled economy, and government import and export controls.

FIRST VISIT
Sandys said on arrival he was sorry his first visit here was not occurring "under happier circumstances."

"You here face very grave political and economic difficulties," he said in an airport statement. "I am not bringing with me any preconceived plan. I came to see, think and listen, and when I have done that perhaps I will have more to say."

Some U.S. newspapers carried reports recently that President Kennedy is opposed to Britain granting independence to British Guiana because of Jagan's reported links with Fidel Castro's Cuban and other Communist-bloc countries.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) —

The overnight boat from Montevideo caught fire and sank early today and 200 persons may have drowned in the River Plate off Buenos Aires.

Ten navy and civilian boats—their horns sounding in the fog-shrouded water—churned to rescue operations in the darkness.

Only 150 persons had been reported picked up in the six hours after the accident.

There were 358 passengers and 63 crew members aboard.

The 33-year-old boat, Ciudad de Asuncion, sent out an SOS at 4 a.m.

"They only asked for help" said a state merchant fleet spokesman. "We knew very little at this time."

"The minesweeper King reported that it has picked up 150 persons from the water and in lifeboats."

Expect end of session to come today

QUEBEC (CP)—The legislature session was expected to prorogue late today. 92 sittings and 71 government bills after its opening last Jan. 15.

Premier Lesage said Wednesday he had "every reason" to believe prorogation would come some time today.

The assembly whipped through three remaining government bills Wednesday, one of which contained pay raises for members. They were scheduled to be adopted by the legislative council—provincial upper house—today.

Plane missing

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer, flown by C. N. Menary of Great Falls, Mont., is missing with three persons aboard between Princeton, B.C., and Vancouver.

RCMP said the plane left Penticton Airport about 7:45 p.m. Tuesday, made a brief stop at Princeton, and was to have been in Vancouver by 9 p.m. Identity of the two persons flying with Menary was not known.

At least three die in crashes

At least three and possibly 11 persons died in four separate plane incidents in Canada in two days.

The known dead are pilot Alfred Tomlinson, his wife and their son Stanley, of Modesto, Calif. Their private plane piled into a field at 100 Mile House, B.C., Tuesday.

The Tomlinsons' daughters, Janet, 11, and Cheryl, 14, were in critical condition.

Missing and believed drowned after their RCAF Dakota training plane crashed into Pierce Lake, Sask., Wednesday were FO P. J. Mullins, Bonnyville, Alta.; LAC W. C. Heber of Cold Lake and LAC P. B. Goodwin of Grand Centre, Alta.

Increased work load for parliamentarians

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons today gets a shorter supper hour and an increased work load.

With an extra hour on its agenda, the House starts off a drive to polish off the Liberal government's initial legislative program in time for an August recess by clearing its decks of a bill amending the Atlantic Development Board.

It then plans to move into the debate on second reading—approval in principle—on a measure setting up the projected economic council of Canada.

Moving rapidly at the close of Wednesday's session, the House finished the critical committee clause-by-clause study of the Atlantic Board legislation after the government withdrew one of the controversial clauses. Today the bill is due to receive third reading, normally a formality, before going to the Senate on its way towards royal assent.

The measure gives the board a spending allowance up to a total of $100,000,000 on projects it considers important in fostering economic growth and higher income levels in the Atlantic provinces. However, every item of expenditure must have federal government approval.

The bill also provides for appointment of six additional board members and a reduction in the terms of office of the five original members, chosen in January by the former Progressive Conservative government.

The Conservative opposition in the Commons charged that the government is getting ready to "pack" the board with six Liberals who would command a majority.

A Conservative amendment that would have confirmed the terms of office of the original members was defeated by a vote of 62 to 18. Social Credit and New Democratic MPs sided with the Liberals.

The government yielded ground, however, in withdrawing a provision that all legislation relating to the board expire on Jan. 24, 1969.

State Secretary Pickersgill, minister responsible for the board, said this had been intended to encourage the board to get its job done without delay. But it was not essential and could lead to misunderstanding, so it would be dropped.

Opposition spokesmen had attacked the cutoff date as an unnecessary sword held over the board by a permanent agency of the government.

The demonstration was organized by the Committee of 100, a ban-the-bomb group which demands liberation of nearly 1,000 prisoners held in Greece since the Communist uprising. The demonstrators claim they are political prisoners; the Greek government says they were convicted of such crimes as murder and treason.

Newspaper pictures taken inside the theatre showed Queen Elizabeth looking far from happy.

GUETERSLOH, West Germany (Reuters)—Princess Margaret arrived at the RAF base here Wednesday for a two-day visit to the First Battalion of Britain's Royal Highland Fusiliers at nearby Iserlohn.

The Princess, battalion colonel-in-chief, drove to Iserlohn to attend a trooping of the color.

This, however, is not firm.

The summer recess target date now is July 31, give or take a few days.

While the opposition groups would like to show their strength in the parliamentary machine by keeping the government on stage in the Commons as long as possible, their members, too, would like a holiday and the best guess currently available is that the session will adjourn not later than Aug. 3.

The date of Parliament's resumption is intimated to the government. It has been intimated to the opposition that the recess may be for only six weeks, which means resuming about mid-September.

The government had hoped the session's first phase could be concluded by the end of next week. But that was before opposition MPs sank their teeth into Finance Minister Gordon's controversial budget.

The government wants the budget resolutions adopted by the Commons before it recesses, even if the tax bills are not finally amended before the MPs scatter.

Reports are current that during the recess, Prime Minister Pearson will shuffle his cabinet, moving Mr. Gordon to another portfolio and possibly naming Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp to succeed him as finance minister.

This, however, is not firm.

Queen Elizabeth gets boos from anti-Greek mob

LONDON (CP) — The leftist protest against the state visit of King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece hit Queen Elizabeth Wednesday night. For the first time in modern history a British monarch was booed in public by a British crowd. But there were scattered cheers, too.

Queen Elizabeth was visibly shaken by the torrent of abuse from about 1,500 of the Communists, anarchists and ban-the-bombers who have been demonstrating since the four-day state visit started Tuesday.

The Queen drove off unsimiling and alone to Buckingham Palace instead of joining Prince Philip and the rest of the royal party at a government reception.

The demonstrations erupted outside Aldwych Theatre where the Queen and Prince Philip were hosts to Paul and Frederika at a gala theatrical performance.

As Queen Elizabeth arrived at the theatre with King Paul, the demonstrators shouted "siege hell" and "fascist swine" at the Greek monarch. She left the theatre alone, however, and this time the boos were directed at her.

ARREST AMERICAN

Five rows of police held back the screaming demonstrators. They arrested nine of them, including David Hollman, a 29-year-old American who works here as a computer programmer. Hollman was charged with possessing an offensive weapon—a roll of paper containing a dirk.

Several minutes before Queen Elizabeth left the theatre, booing greeted the departing Greek couple. It reached a peak as Prince Philip joined them in a glass-roofed limousine and snapped on the interior light.

Philip looked amused and Frederika smiled and waved at the jeering mob.

The same treatment was given Queen Mother Elizabeth and newly-married Princess Alexandra and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, as they entered their cars.

The start of the play was delayed 15 minutes while Scotland Yard detectives investigated a bomb scare which arose when an anonymous caller said a bomb had been planted in one of the royal boxes.

EXPECT NEW TROUBLE
Some 5,000 police were braced to quell new trouble promised today by demonstrators demanding the release of Greek political prisoners.

In Athens, the Greek government announced today that it had released 14 Greek Communist convicts, jailed for crimes committed during the 1945-49 Communist uprising.

The demonstration was organized by the Committee of 100, a ban-the-bomb group which demands liberation of nearly 1,000 prisoners held in Greece since the Communist uprising. The demonstrators claim they are political prisoners; the Greek government says they were convicted of such crimes as murder and treason.

Argentina Peronistas divided

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Peronists in Argentina are much divided. Results of the general election Sunday emphasized the split in their once-powerful ranks.

Many believe the chasm stretches to the man in Madrid—Juan Domingo Peron. The exiled former dictator is acting less like a leader and more like a figurehead.

Peron's latest thoughts came Wednesday via his private secretary, Juan Manuel Algarbe. Expressing Peron's reaction to the election results, he said:

"Neither peace nor tranquility can be expected at this time in Argentina, but a new period of fighting and violence. With all the legal roads closed to the Argentine people, only the road to an insurrection remains."

Strong words from a man who fled from military rebels in 1955 and would not fight for his 10-year-old empire.

Similar threats came just the other day from a tough textile union boss, Andres Framini:

Officials said arson was suspected.

Three policemen were injured, none badly. A 16-year-old Negro youth was shot in the foot. A brick struck a white taxicab driver on the knee, and fractured it. A reporter's foot was struck by a rock.

EXTRAS NEEDED
Police ran out of tear gas grenades and asked the state patrol for more. At least 35 patrolmen had rushed into the city at the request of the city manager.

Twenty-eight persons were arrested, plus an estimated 40 Negro youths under 16 who will be handled by juvenile authorities.

The outbreak began in the area of the city and county jails after the demonstrators had marched there from a rally at which they were urged to continue their campaign for integration of restaurants, hotels and theatres.

Deputy Police Chief C. W. said the demonstrators lay down at several intersections in the vicinity of the jails.

Stepped up pace designed to end Ottawa sittings by end of month

OTTAWA (CP) — The government hopes to wind up the current phase of the parliamentary session by July 31 and regroup its forces during a six-to-eight-week summer recess, reliable informants say.

Starting today the pace of parliamentary business will be stepped up with a shorter supper break and more debating time devoted to government measures.

State Secretary Pickersgill, government House leader, has been conducting negotiations with opposition party representatives with a view to arranging Commons business to meet this timetable. Few binding agreements have been concluded.

The government had hoped the session's first phase could be concluded by the end of next week. But that was before opposition MPs sank their teeth into Finance Minister Gordon's controversial budget.

The government wants the budget resolutions adopted by the Commons before it recesses, even if the tax bills are not finally amended before the MPs scatter.

Tear gas hurled at Negro rally

SAVANNAH, Ga. (CP-AP) — Police hurled tear gas grenades to rout about 1,000 Negro demonstrators protesting segregation in this Georgia port city early today. The Negroes went on a rampage afterwards and shattered windows, slashed tires and burned down a white-only church. The violence shattered an uneasy racial truce that had lasted several weeks.

The Savannah racial trouble was the highlight of racial discord in the United States but it was not the only outbreak.

Shotgun pellets flew in Brooklyn, N.Y., and demonstrators staged sit-ins at the New York offices of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor Robert A. Wagner today as the state intervened in the racial conflict that has touched off violence in a Bronx neighborhood.

Police said five white persons were wounded by shotgun fire from a group of Negroes in Brooklyn. A detective said the shooting apparently developed from a longtime feud between two teen-age gangs — the Negro Sovereign Lords and the Italian-American Butler Gents, named for Butler Street.

The victims, including four teen-agers and a 22-year-old male bystander, were not badly hurt, a hospital reported. Four Negroes were arrested, and more were sought.

In Savannah, small groups of Negroes, scattered by the stinging tear gas fumes, roamed the city for about two hours, venting their ire at random on store and car windows, before peace was restored early today.

Police paddy wagons were damaged. Store and car windows were broken by thrown bricks and rocks. One package liquor store was broken into. Numerous automobile tires were slashed.

The church whose pastor had spoken strongly against any integration concession was extensively damaged by fire and of

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

LUCK DANGEROUS TO DEPEND UPON

I have often stressed the importance of the key word, "Arch." I am indebted to George Gooden, President of the American Bridge Teachers' Association for the first three letters of that word. I added the "H", which asks "How can I make or set the contract?"

The ABTA will be holding its annual meeting in Los Angeles the 25th and 26th of this month and anyone interested in learning the latest things in teaching will do well to attend.

The "C" stands for "Count your winners and losers."

George points out that South can count nine trump winners at his three no-trump contract if he wins the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and knocks out the ace of clubs immediately.

George points out further that if South tries a spade finesse and East holds the king a heart shift will beat the hand in the event that the heart finesse is wrong.

Of course, it is tough luck to lose two finesesses, but George says that a winning player should not depend on luck when he doesn't have to. South's correct play is to take the ace of spades and go right after clubs.

East will take his ace and shift to a heart and now South can try the heart finesse. It will lose, but South won't be hurt. He will still gather in four diamonds, three clubs and the two major suit aces for his nine tricks.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

South West North East
1 Spade Pass 2 Clubs Pass
3 Clubs Pass 3 Spades Pass
4 Spades Pass 5 Hearts Pass

What do you do?

Q—You, South hold:
Spades A-Q-8-6-5, Hearts 10-9, Diamonds K-Q-7, Clubs K-9-4.

What do you do?

A—Bid six spades. Your partner has practically demanded that you bid six spades if you have second round diamond control.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding has proceeded the same way up to your partner's bid of five hearts. This time you hold:

Spades A-Q-8-6-5, Hearts 10-9, Diamonds A-J-7, Clubs K-9-4.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Members of Lakeside Golf Club who gather at the men's grill and Happy Time Bar ask blunt questions.

Comedian George Gobel came in the other day after a long night club tour. He was telling of some of the places he played. A member interrupted:

"George, how come you say you're doing so good when you play Florida in the summer?" Gobel paused—as only he can pause—then replied:

"I have other income." It was a classic of understatement. Gobel is a millionaire, the Conrad Hilton of the comics.

And he's made most of the money since leaving weekly television. Lonesome George is one of the biggest owners of Ramada Inn Incorporated, which operates 48 hotels in 20 states and Canada and is building 43 more.

TIES THEM IN

Gobel's unusual night club tours which take him into Miami in the summer usually are tied in with his hotel sideline.

"Hollywood's a funny place," muses George. "If you're not working steady on TV or in the movies, people start feeling sorry for you."

"Even when I was on Broadway in Let It Ride, it was considered unemployment by some people out here."

George's hotel venture was "not the dumbest thing I ever did."

"Back in the days when I was hot in TV and the movies, I was offered $10,000 to make a personal appearance at the opening of the Sahara in Phoenix. That was the granddaddy of the Ramada chain."

"Instead of the money, I took a point in the company. As more hotels were built, I invested more money."

"Now, I could retire tomorrow from show business but what would my agent do? And besides I enjoy travelling around visiting the hotels. I always inspect the ice-making machines."

"I once got caught in El Paso with no ice. It's a tragedy that I don't wish on anyone."

Don't let the children ride on hay wagon

By D. J. MacMILLAN
(Cookshire Agronomer)

A farm wagon would appear to be a fairly safe vehicle, since it travels at a slow speed, is not self-propelled and has a wide wheelbase which makes for stability. However, when loaded with loose hay or bales are piled high on it the situation changes. Loose hay, particularly, creates a very bouncing, unstable platform on which to ride.

While it is fun for your children to hitch a ride to the barn, it could be dangerous. During the 1960 haying season, six Ontario farm people were killed and one hundred and seventy-three injured, including forty-eight children.

So be kind to your children by refusing to allow them to ride on the load of hay alone.

THE FACE FLY AND MILKING COWS

The very effective insecticide DDVP will be welcomed by milk producers in Canada. DDVP was only recently approved by federal authorities for use on milking cows for the control of face flies and certain other insects.

DDVP has been tested extensively both at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph, Ont., and in the United States. Dr. W. E. Heming, head of the department of zoology at the Ontario Agricultural College, describes tests which have shown that the number of face flies on milking cows can be reduced to a point where they are no longer troublesome. The application of a small amount of a syrup-water-DDVP bait to the face of cows just before they go to pasture after the morning milking, will attract and kill many face flies.

The product, DDVP, has been available in the dry bait form for use against flies in stables for some time.

Two new formulations will now be stocked by retail outlets, namely, a 20 emulsible concentrate and a 1 per cent livestock spray. The 20 emulsible concentrate is the product specifically recommended for face flies on milking cows or on other livestock, if individual application is possible.

When preparing the DDVP for application, the 20 emulsible concentrate formulation of the insecticide is mixed with water and corn syrup. The proportions of the water and syrup recommended varies with the method of application. If by brush, less water, but if by sprayer, more water is used.

Follow directions given on the label of the container.

Fresh bait must be prepared each day since DDVP soon breaks down when mixed with water. A dairyman will soon learn how much is necessary per day for his milking herd. The DDVP container should be kept tightly sealed when bait is not being prepared.

Dr. Heming pointed out that DDVP products will likely be formulated and made available to retailers by a number of companies. Some of the companies will sell their products by trade names. Purchasers are advised to read the labels on the containers before buying and to follow the directions given.

Don't guess when you are mixing insecticides for use anywhere, especially on animals. At the same time read the suggested antidotes which should be followed in case an accident happens.

FROZEN VEGETABLES AND COLOR

Good color in frozen green vegetables attracts the eye of the consumer and is also a good index to quality.

R. B. Hyde of the CDA's experimental farm at Morden, Man., says the flavor and nutrient value of frozen green peas and snap beans decreases with loss of color.

Color deterioration in turn is caused by chemical changes. These may be kept to a minimum by proper processing procedures: — blanching no longer than the recommended period for each vegetable, cooling thoroughly, and, after quick freezing, storing at 0° F or colder.

Take special care when freezing snap beans which are very susceptible to color breakdown. Also, advises Mr. Hyde, choose good-colored varieties for processing.

Brucellosis

By June 1, 1963, the Canadian government had paid $9,000,000 compensation for cattle slaughtered under the brucellosis control program. This sum is equal to estimated annual losses to farmers from brucellosis at the time the program was begun in 1957.

Annual losses today are only a fraction of that sum. It is hoped to complete first testing of the national herd by the end of 1965.

Weeds Harass Industry

Farmers are by no means the only people bothered by weeds. It's a major operation controlling the unwanted growth in the vicinity of oil refineries, aircraft runways, signal stations, storage tanks, power lines, parking lots, railway yards and such enterprises. Many industries seek advice on weed control from the Canada department of agriculture.

Over the years a number of materials, such as sodium chlorate, borates and used oil, have been used with some success. More recently urea products and triazine chemicals, which are much less bulky and awkward to handle, have been widely and quite successfully used. In the last year or two, newer and more promising chemicals have become available.

Dr. K. W. Hill, a department researcher, who is also chairman of the national weed committee, says that total vegetation control, with chemicals, now seems quite feasible.

The department is cooperating with the department of transport, universities, provincial departments of agriculture and two of the major suppliers of chemicals for total vegetation control, in a series of experiments on airports from coast to coast.

Dr. Hill hopes farmers too will benefit from this program. A successful prescription would find many used on the farm, such as keeping ditches, fence lines and roadsides clean of growth.

More Wool Used

Canadians used about 57,500 pounds of wool last year, but Canadian farmers produced only 7,232,000 pounds. Imports supplied the balance.

Although it would appear that there is ample room for expansion in Canada's sheep industry, sheep raisers actually produced 30,000 pounds less wool in 1962 than in 1961. A further drop is forecast for 1963.

Twenty years ago domestic production of wool exceeded 17,000,000 pounds annually. Since then output has dropped almost steadily, despite efforts by federal and provincial governments to encourage increased production.

For several years, the federal government has supported wool at levels exceeding world market prices and has also maintained supports on lamb.

Although Canada imports a high percentage of its wool needs, wool is also exported in surprising quantities. Of the 7,232,000 pounds of wool produced in 1962, almost 4,000,000 pounds were exported. Most went to the United States but there was a substantial quantity shipped to Britain as well.

Wool that is exported is mainly unsuitable for Canadian manufacturers or, in the case of particular grades, is surplus to what the Canadian trade requires. Imported are mainly the very fine wools not produced in sufficient quantity in Canada to meet the demands.

A complete picture of wool production, exports and imports is contained in the annual Wool Grading Report, just issued by the markets information division, production and marketing branch, Canada department of agriculture.

The report shows that 5,871,000 pounds of shorn wool were graded in 1962. (Pulled wool production from packing plants totalled 1,361,000 pounds, making Canada's overall production 7,232,000 pounds).

Projected Sherbrooke city hall

Municipal officials confident Quebec will rent office space

By MYER SHIMELMAN
(Record Staff Reporter)

A municipal delegation returned from Quebec City last night confident that the provincial government will rent space in the projected new city hall which the city of Sherbrooke is contemplating building.

Mayor Armand Nadeau told The Record this morning that the provincial government will probably rent some 35,000 square feet. However official approval is not expected for two weeks.

The delegation from Sherbrooke consisted of Mayor Armand Nadeau, Aldermen Jean Marcel Jeanson, Marcel Savard and Felix Thibault as well as Assistant City Clerk Robert Belisle.

The delegation met with Works Minister Rene St. Pierre and Minister without portfolio Carrier Fortin, MPP for Sherbrooke and a former city alderman.

No definite plans have been drawn up for the new city hall which would be constructed on the site of the Central School on King Street West, as the actual size of the building cannot be estimated before the amount of space the provincial government wishes to rent is ascertained, Mayor Nadeau stated.

"There is a possibility of aid for the construction coming from three sources and thus the building which will cost from one to two million dollars should not cost the city of Sherbrooke itself too much," Mayor Nadeau said.

The sources of aid are the federal and provincial governments and the new fund being set up by these governments for the construction of new buildings for the 100th Anniversary of Confederation.

Alderman Marcel Savard also expressed hope that aid would come from the federal government's winter works program.

New menace to Canadian investment

Evidence that the growth of the welfare state in Canada is to a large extent responsible for the increasing control of the Canadian economy by foreign investors is strengthened by a statement of Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie in the Quebec Legislature.

Dealing with the problem of financing school construction the Youth Minister declared that the proposed provincial portable pension plan will handle approximately a quarter of a billion dollars annually and that this fund could be considered as a possibility in meeting the capital costs of education.

Traditionally, insurance and trust companies which administer pension funds have invested a substantial portion of their reserves in Canada's economic growth. But if the government-operated portable pension plan is introduced, much of these reserves will be transferred to the state and will be no longer available for the private segment of the economy.

Deprived of their usual sources of borrowing, Canadian companies desiring to expand their operations may be forced to seek their capital outside the country. And in doing so they will be forced to give up any hope of retaining domestic control over the enterprises they sponsor.

The ability of the people to accumulate capital has been reduced materially by the high rates of taxation now prevailing and the problem will be accentuated if governments take to themselves many reservoirs of savings which up to now have been in private hands.

Raw materials and finished goods

Much has been heard in recent months of the need for Canada to accept imports of Japanese goods in an effort to correct the balance of Japanese-Canadian trade which on a statistical basis is now running about two-to-one in Canada's favor.

But Alfred Bissonnet, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Tokyo, has offered some interesting comments that indicate that these statistics do not portray a true position of the trade between the two countries. He points out that Canadian sales to the Japanese are mostly raw materials or food products while Japanese sales to this country comprised mainly fully manufactured goods. The result is a considerably higher employment in Japanese exports to Canada than in Canadian exports to Japan.

In other words, Canadian exports to Japan are being facilitated at a cost of employment opportunities at home. Sometimes Canadian raw materials, which take comparatively little labor to produce, are shipped to Japan and return to Canada in the form of finished products.

Iron ore is a case in point. British Columbia ore crosses the Pacific to Japan where it is converted into a wide range of manufactured products, from toys to motor coaches. Thousands of manhours of work go into these items which later enter into competition with Canadian producers on the domestic market. Many of these raw materials also are used to manufacture articles competing with Canadian goods on the world market.

Thus the possibility exists that in its efforts to advance the sale of Canadian raw materials and food products, Canada is actually losing out on the overall trade position.

Other papers say:

Quiet revolt among European Reds

Is the ideological split in Communist Europe spreading? Is the precedent established by Yugoslavia as long ago as 1948 now at length about to attract followers? And if so, why?

These speculations are prompted by the latest news from Romania. For this easternmost of the Russian satellites, which might from its very geographical position, marching as it does with the Ukraine, be expected to be the most rigidly contained within the bounds of Russian Communism, has just been proving itself completely otherwise.

Bucharest, for example, was the only satellite capital to publish large excerpts from the now famous Chinese Communist letter to Moscow, that letter which has apparently set the stage for a total showdown at this week's conference.

Then, some two months ago,

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

Bucharest announced officially that it was about to restore full diplomatic relations with Tirana, the Albanian capital, which has been anathema to Moscow since it sided with Peking.

This, in turn, was followed by the news that Romania had signed a scientific and technical pact with Communist China. And, still more recently, the obvious implications of this were carried through in a new trade agreement by which Romania becomes the only European Communist country to increase its commercial dealings with Peking.

All of this has by no means passed without comment in Moscow and in the other Communist capitals. But Romania has made it stick. Under the newly organized Communist economic blueprint, Bucharest, along with neighboring Bulgaria, was to be responsible for food production rather than for industry. But this she has refused to do, and apparently Moscow has accepted the refusal.

Thus, in effect, Romania has staged her own quiet but effective revolt against the dictation of the Soviet Union — and has got away with it.

Behind this fact there must lie a double reason. One factor is the apparently new-found Russian reluctance to enforce the Moscow rule on others. The second, which may well be related to the first, is the uncertainty in Communism produced by the ideological schism with Red China.

The Russian problem is very real: does she drag her satellites into obedience, and thereby risk a full fledged rebellion against her authority? Or does she permit them a certain freedom of choice, and thereby run the risk that they will find Chinese ideas more congenial than Russian?

More NDP nonsense on Quebec issues

The weird mixture of political cynicism and downright ignorance that blend together to produce the New Democratic party's electoral stance in Quebec is flowing again.

On Monday Mr. Robert W. Priddy, NDP member of Parliament for Burnaby-Richmond, ascended a Quebec City platform to announce that Canada should have a new constitution, one that would be amendable in Canada, and that "the two nations that compose Canada" should each have veto power over further amendments.

In other words, the present-day efforts of Quebec to blackmail the other nine provinces and bend them to its will would be formally codified into the law of the land. Canada would achieve the distinction of being the world's only democratic country formally committed to rule by the minority instead of the majority.

In theory, Mr. Priddy's notions are twaddle, and their chances of existing in fact are happily non-existent. This, however does not excuse the source. The NDP purports to be a national party in search of national office. Destroying the country, we submit, is not the way to go about it.

Yet the party is depressingly consistent in its attitude towards Quebec: an attitude seemingly founded on a "votes at any price" theory, even if the price paid is that of common sense and electoral integrity.

The NDP pattern was clearly established Aug. 2, 1961, during the founding convention of this uneasy truce between the old CCF and the trade unions. At that time the delegates voted overwhelmingly to delete the word "national" from the party's constitution.

The word was said to offend Quebec, and thus it gave way to the innocuous "federal."

One dissenter offered the best description yet of that political absurdity. He was Dr. Eugene Forsey, who was then but not now a leading force in the party. He said the "national" deletion was "without doubt the silliest proposition ever to be laid before an assembly that goes on principle."

He added: "I protest against this idiocy. I protest against this invitation to act as mice instead of as men."

Raps abstention of New Party MPs

Dear Sir:

What occurred recently in the House of Commons at Ottawa should cause the Social Credit and New Democratic Party Members of Parliament to review seriously the possible consequences of their conduct. These men, judging by the few I have met, are sound thinking and well motivated, but the time has come when they should ask themselves a simple question: "Why did the people elect me?" The answer is equally simple and clear: "To represent my constituents."

But what happens? A short while ago, when a motion on a very important matter was brought before the House, these staunch representatives of the people simply abstained from voting, for the sole reason that they feared their vote might lead the country into another general election. The same can also be said of several other representatives of Canadian constituencies.

Surely, the constituents of these men cannot help but feel a profound disappointment in their action. After all, they elected them to represent their interests, defend their principles and take the decisions required to insure the common good of the country. They have every reason to demand why their Member of Parliament did not express openly his and their own opinions on a matter of such grave importance to the economic future of Canada.

This precedent may have serious repercussions in the near future, because it virtually amounts to giving carte blanche to the present Government, which by that same token can breezily forge ahead, propose and adopt any measures it pleases, whether they are favorable or not to the economic life of the country. Suppose the present Liberal Government presents a contestable Bill of national importance, should some Opposition MP's again refrain from voting in order to avoid going before their constituents for a new mandate?

Naturally, the feeling is that such an occurrence is not likely, when one considers the caliber of the men who are at the helm of the Liberal Party and of the Progressive-Conservative Party. I want to believe that. But what about these two propositions in the recent Gordon budget: The 30 per cent tax on foreign investments in Canadian firms and the 11 per cent tax on building materials? A general wave of protest forced Mr. Gordon to withdraw the first and to modify the second. But before this positive stumbling block to the economic expansion of the country, the members of the third parties remained strangely silent and held back for fear of provoking a general election.

This attitude is deplorable and does not at all reflect the ethics expected in a true representative of the people, and it would seem befitting that all MP's across Canada reconsider their obligations in this regard. If another election is needed to save the country from stagnation, let's have it, and let's have it now! The quality of a good MP of the Opposition is to have the courage of his convictions and wield the power of his opposition when circumstances demand it of him.

Facilities overcrowded

Jewish refugees flock to France

PARIS (AP)—France's Jewish community is trying to care for a tide of refugees.

Authorities estimate the community has grown from about 350,000 to 500,000 in less than a year. France now has the fourth largest Jewish population, after the United States, Russia and Israel.

There are not nearly enough schools, synagogues and social services in France for them. Housing for the newcomers is a perennial problem.

Most of the new refugees came from Algeria, which had a Jewish population of 160,000 a year ago. Jewish welfare workers estimate that only 15,000 are left there. About 10 per cent went to Israel, the others to France.

Algerian Jews were French nationals and thus moved to France with the same status as other repatriates. They thus qualified for government relief benefits. But these benefits are due to halt shortly, and persons still not re-established will have to look elsewhere for help.

In addition, 50,000 to 60,000 Jewish refugees have come from Tunisia and Morocco. There has been a movement from Morocco since that country achieved independence, and a rush out of Tunisia since 1961.

Jews from Morocco and Tunisia lack French citizenship about 6,500 are left there. About

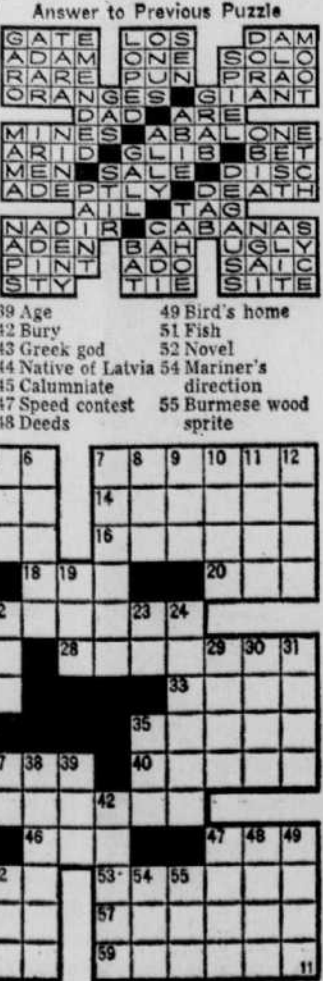

The Jews had been established in North Africa for generations. In each case, they feared the advent of Moslem Arab rule because of Cairo's anti-Israel policies. Hostility to Israel, many felt, would eventually mean Jewish persecution.

In a sense, the burden on the French community is due to France's traditionally liberal attitude toward political refugees. Since the war, succeeding waves of refugees have streamed into or through France. Just when the French Jewish community thought it was finally catching up, there would be another flow. The same has been more or less true for Christians, too, but the impact on a population of some 40,000,000 has been much less.

Before the war, France had 300,000 to 350,000 Jews. Nazi occupation, deportations and gas chambers halved this figure. After the war thousands of Jews from eastern and central Europe moved into France.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 11, 1963 . . .

A naval force from Nova Scotia captured Eastport in Passamaquoddy Bay, Me., 149 years ago—in 1814—in an opening move that was to secure a large part of Maine for the British during the War of 1812. Britain held this territory until the signing of peace at Ghent, when it was handed back to the United States. The Duke of Wellington, who had defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, was instrumental in persuading the British not to seek to hold the territory taken in the 1812 war.

1274—Robert the Bruce, King of Scotland, was born.

1906 — Canadian statesman Sir Hector-Louis Langevin died.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room.

"Him who comes to me I will not cast out." (John 6:37. RSV.)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we acknowledge our guilt as miserable sinners. Help us to lift ourselves from the dust and come to Thy Son just as we are. Redeem us and help us remain in Thy tender care. We pray in our Savior's name. Amen.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

"OTTAWA — Defence Minister Hellyer intimated today that the navy's frigate construction program will be scrapped to provide funds for more submarines."

The bulletin, just posted in the wardroom, was being scanned by three lieutenants when the skipper sauntered over. He read, and the knuckles whitened on the hand holding his gin-based Pym.

"Number One," he called. "You see this?" A 2½ striper disengaged from darts and read, lips pursed.

"Air force, wasn't he?" A lieutenant spoke up. "Can't go nigger-bashin' in submarines, sir. No room for the pongos."

The skipper and Number One went to the bar. "Another Pym—and put some bloody cucumber in it!" the skipper ordered. Then to Number One: "Submarines. Oberon class, I'll wager. The damned, damned fools!"

The cause of this kind of service reaction is that cancellation of the navy's new wonderboat, the general purpose frigate, would limit the navy to an anti-submarine role. Whether this is desirable is open to question. Whether acquisition of more submarines would make the navy more effective as an anti-submarine force also is questionable.

Oberon class subs that the RCN might get from the Royal Navy or have built in Canada are not in the running against 35-knot Soviet nuclear subs. The GPF's may be slow too for this speedy quarry, but each GPF would carry a helicopter for pursuit and attack.

If Hellyer is thinking of nuclear subs, they have a price tag of $60 millions each, and Canadian yards have no modern experience in building subs. The $300 millions the navy proposes to spend on eight frigates built in Canadian yards would buy only five nuclear subs, and they might have to be built abroad.

If the government cancels the GPF program, it will be reminiscent of the Diefenbaker government's cancellation of the CF-105 Arrow jet interceptor. The GPF, like the Arrow, is a Canadian design achievement—ahead of similar development by the British and the Americans. It has completely integrated push-button controls for navigation, propulsion and armament, and would be armed with long and short range missiles, potentially nuclear; homing torpedoes, depth charges, and a .50 cal. bombardment gun.

Prime Minister Pearson has said the forces should be ready to respond to a United Nations' call to fight in peripheral, non-atomic "brush-fire" wars. Or, as the wardroom expression has it, "nigger-bashin'."

Each of the 430-foot GPF's would be able to transport 200 "pongos", or soldiers, to such a theatre of peace-keeping, along with many of their weapons. Submarines could not do this.

Canada's naval commitment to NATO is to supply SACLANT with 43 bottoms. But with a score or more ships to be decommissioned in the next five years due to obsolescence, the navy cannot keep this commitment unless it gets new ships.

It would be a strange turn of the wheel if the Liberals, for all their howling about keeping the Diefenbaker government's nuclear commitments, were to renege on the naval commitment to NATO.

5 constables form Brotherhood

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — The five-member Cowansville Municipal Police Department has formed itself into a Brotherhood Association, it was learned Tuesday.

It will be known as the Cowansville Police Brotherhood, president of group, Sergeant Aurelien Turmel told The Record.

"After having discussed the subject for a certain length of time," Constable Turmel said, "the final decision concerning the brotherhood association came June 25."

"Having had a meeting on the following day with all the members present, the signing of the membership cards occurred at exactly 2 p.m. on June 26," Mr. Turmel added.

Reasons for joining the brotherhood according to the president, were to gain better facilities in obtaining better working conditions, and to give police the opportunities to organize movements such as a Police Juvenile Club and other similar groups.

"It would be gratifying for us to work towards preventing juvenile delinquency with the cooperation of other similar Police Brotherhood Associations which are established throughout most of the province," Mr. Turmel said.

The officers who have been elected as a committee for the Cowansville Brotherhood are: Aurelien Turmel, president; Fernand Tomassini, vice-president; Arthur Jacques, secretary-treasurer; Gerald Doucette, secretary-archivist and Rejean Brunelle, organizer.

The vice-president will also have the grievance agent nomination.

Public meeting is called by bilingual Sutton library

SUTTON — (Special) — A Public Meeting of the Sutton Library has been called for July 18, at 8 p.m. at the town hall.

The library has now been incorporated as the Bibliotheque-Sutton. Library and will be bilingual when plans are completed.

If the work had progressed as hoped the Bilingual Library would now be housed in the rooms at the back of the town hall. The present room is not large enough to accommodate more books so new premises are imperative.

This public meeting is called for French and English citizens of Sutton, Abercorn, Sutton Jct., Glen Sutton, West Sutton and any interested surrounding districts.

Parents of young children, teachers and all thinking people realize the importance of books in the education of young and old.

The Sutton Library has been formed for fifteen years and has grown from a reading shelf to an outstanding public service. Now the French have been invited to join to make it a completely bilingual library.

The response from the French people has been whole hearted and encouraging.

The time has come to go ahead with plans for more room and books, more librarians, and the rooms open more often. The present library is open Friday afternoon and evening and is staffed entirely by volunteers.

The committee hopes in the future to have art and hobby exhibits, also children's work.

A suggestion from your bank manager...

"For better service please use your own cheque book"

Soon, all the cheques supplied by your chartered bank will carry a special line encoded in magnetic ink so they can be sorted and listed by electronic equipment with greater speed and accuracy than ever before.

However, the counter cheques sometimes used for paying bills do not have this encoded line, and therefore cannot be cleared in this way—they must be put through by hand, slowing up the clearing process.

By using, whenever possible, cheques from your own cheque book...

You enable the banks to make the fullest use of clearing methods that handle your cheques in the fastest, most economical way.

And, an encoded cheque—unlike a counter cheque—contains all the information that assures accurate handling in the clearings.

Your cooperation in carrying and using your own cheque book would be greatly appreciated.

Successful living

DEAR DORIS:

I can't talk to my mother; what I mean is that I am afraid to ever tell her anything personal like about boy friends, how I feel, etc. I am afraid she will say I am making look "cheap" by this or that (as she has before) or won't understand and think I am stupid to feel this way.

Right now I am going with a guy whom she seems to like but she won't say whether she does or not. She has never given me any advice, heart to heart talks, etc. I found out more from girl friends and good books from a library than she has ever told me. Does she not think I'm old enough to understand? How can I break this sort of separation between us? There is really an awful lot that I would like to tell her, but I am afraid.

Fran.

DEAR

A common complaint. Mothers sometimes feel that a confidence calls for an immediate judgment; yet such dictums nip the heart-to-heart in the bud. Could be, too, that facts-of-life talks embarrass her! A great pity. Daughters need to be able to talk to their mothers. Try again.

DEAR DORIS:

My parents will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary in two months' time. How would I go about requesting congratulations from the Queen for them? I'd love to make a fuss, and they'd be thrilled. They are both 88, and in good health.

Sis.

Write to the Secretary of State, Hunter Building, Ottawa, giving details as to date, place and so on. And I may add some congratulations of my own?

DEAR DORIS:

Over the years I have worked to help out in raising our four children, clothing them and so on, because my husband's pay cheque was not very big. I was happy to cut corners, work out part time and so on.

That was until the other day when I found old income tax returns which showed that all the time I was erasing my good provider was actually on a basic salary and commission of twice what I knew about.

I cannot bring myself to discuss this with him, yet I find even his touch repugnant to me now. I have considered leaving him since our love seems to have been killed by this thing which has come to light.

Unhappy Wife
You are shocked to the core; but you must not let this knowledge fester within you and grow like a cancer. Your only hope is to air with him. Your children deserve this one chance to keep their father. A caseworker could help you handle it.

Freedomland (a Bronx amusement park) to get these." Some spectators scream epithets at the tight oval of pickets.

Police barricades protect the pickets from hecklers. They also mark off a walkway where no more than 25 persons may enter the diner at one time, by police order. This tiny place is always filled.

But the diner is losing money because some of those who fill it don't buy. Some like the attention they're getting.

Outside, television floodlights give the neighborhood an air of a movie premier.

On and on, the pickets march. Their signs say, "freedom now," "no employment, no hamburgers."

This is a middle-class mainly white neighborhood, long established. "This has turned a lot of my friends into savages," said John Mulligan, 21. The rock-throwing was done by the immature, he said, because "they think just because you're a Negro you're no good."

"They (the pickets) got no right standing out there," said a teenager in a car parked near the diner. "They aren't doing anybody any good."

In Memoriam

HATCHER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Alvin W. Hatcher, who passed away July 11th, 1952.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by,
HIS WIFE AND FAMILY

NORTON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. George A. Norton who passed away July 11, 1952.

We miss you since you went away, and often think of you. We wish you could come back today.

But know God will stay with you. Lovingly remembered by,
AGNES AND ALVIN HENDERSON (daughter and son-in-law)

RICHARD AND DEBBIE (grandchildren)

NORTON — In loving memory of a dearly loved mother and grandmother, who passed away July 11, 1952.

We saw her smile as we left her door,
To return the long trip home, Little did we know, it was for the last.

We'd seen the one we all loved best, When just two weeks from that last time.

We heard by a voice from the phone That she had gone to her home up above.

We thought we'd all lose our minds, But then we knew, God took her hand.

And helped her along the way, He saved her from the pains of strife.

And suffering she might have had, Although we may smile and seem carefree.

No one misses you more dear mother than we.
Ever missed by,
(Daughter) BARBARA (Son-in-law) JUNIOR (Grandsons) LLOYD, MARK AND KEVIN (Son) ERROL (Daughter-in-law) IRENE

STONE — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Carl Austin Stone, who passed away July 11, 1952.

Death sometimes comes to let us know,
We love more dearly than we show; But love and death shall let us see.

What love in life should always be, No one knows the pain he bore, Beneath the smile he always wore.

We lived in hope and prayed in vain That he would get well again.

While he sleeps in peaceful sleep, His memory we shall always keep.
What would we give for his hand to touch,
His patient face to see;
To hear his voice, to see his smile, As in the days that used to be.

Dear husband and father since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true, Try hard to carry on the way, We know you'd want us to.

In our hearts his memory lingers, And we know it's vain to weep;
For the tears of love can never wake him,
From his peaceful, happy sleep.
Ever remembered by,

Bride of the week entertained at luncheon shower

Mrs. A. Hyman and Mrs. C. Taylor entertained recently at a luncheon shower at the former's home, in honor of Miss Christine Wilcock, a bride-to-be of the week.

The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion with garden flowers.

Upon arrival the guest of honor was presented with a corsage and on behalf of the guests, Dr. M. Smart, presented the bride-elect with a copper bread box, canister set and matching towel container, for which Miss Wilcock expressed her thanks.

Mrs. George Wilcock, mother of the bride-elect, poured coffee.

Among others who entertained the bride-elect was Mrs. R. MacMillan, who entertained Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. P. Pollock, Lennoxville at a tea towel shower.

For the occasion the house was decorated with pink bells and streamers. The dining room also carried the same theme, where Mrs. G. Wilcock poured tea and coffee at the table which was centred with an arrangement of pink and white carnations, flanked by pink and white candles in silver candelabra. The hostess was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Mildred Pollock.

After the guest of honor had opened her gifts, she expressed her thanks to the hostess and guests. An exciting quiz game followed, the winners being Miss Wilcock and Mrs. Hughes-Games.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — I have just learned how to thread a darned needle easily, and it is just great. Take a piece of sewing thread, fold it and put the loop through the eye of the needle. Then put the yarn through the loop and gently pull the sewing thread and yarn back through the eye of the needle.—MRS. D. H.

DEAR POLLY — If you have a washer and dryer but still like to hang clothes outside, this is a help: Throw your clothes in the dryer for about 10 or 15 seconds, let them tumble, and then take out. This does away with shaking when ready to hang them, and is especially good for baby's diapers and sheets. It saves a lot of time.—R. D.

DEAR POLLY — Since the good, old fishing days are here again, I would like to share this little pointer with all others who like to fish. Never leave home without a lemon in your fishing box. In a jiffy it will clean your hands of that fishy smell.—MRS. J. L. S.

DEAR POLLY — I use a small, strong chain hooked over a hanger in my clothes closet and insert metal shower curtain hooks every few links to have a place to hang purses. Then I cover the whole thing with a long plastic dress or coat cover.—MRS. C. K.

DEAR POLLY — When you roast marshmallows on a stick or fork, dip the stick or fork times into melted butter before searing the marshmallow. When toasted, the marshmallow will slip off easily.

MRS. V. S. Share your favorite home-making ideas... send them to Polly in care of Sherbrooke Daily Record. You'll receive a bright, new silver dollar if Polly uses your ideas in Polly's Pointers.

How to be a bore

The surest way to lose friends and alienate people is to hold forth at great length on any of the following subjects:

- Your health. No one wants a long, involved answer to a polite "How are you?"
- Your children. One short, amusing anecdote is permissible. But stop there.
- Friends unknown to the group you're with. You can't expect people to care about persons they've never met.
- Your social life. It's all right for you to be impressed with the places to which you are invited, but don't expect anybody else to be.

Firm opinions on any subject you don't know much about. Next time you hear someone sound off on a subject about which she knows nothing, watch the boredom on the faces of her listeners. Give your opinions on any subject if they are based on facts. Otherwise, admit you don't know enough about the subject to have a definite opinion.

• Any pointless story, told just to bring in the names of important people. That's about as boring as anyone can get.

You run no risk of boring your audience if you talk about them rather than about yourself.

And if your main desire is to entertain rather than to impress, you won't be a dull companion.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

WHITTALL-KATADOTIS

The marriage of Miss Christine Joan Katadotis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Katadotis, of Lennoxville, to Mr. Anthony Edmund Whittall, of Knowlton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney H. Whittall, of Beaufort, took place on June 29, 1963, at 3 o'clock in St. George's Church, Lennoxville. Archdeacon T. J. Matthews officiating. Mrs. W. F. Whittall, aunt of the groom, was the organist. Standards of pink and white gladioli were used to decorate the church and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of white French silk chiffon over satin, the bodice being fashioned with a scoop neckline and the bell skirt having panels at the front. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion with scalloped edges was held in place by a seed pearl tiara. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sensation roses.

Today's recipes

What kind of food idea are you looking for? Something original and different to serve on a warm summer evening? A budget-stretcher, perhaps? A last-minute something to pull out of your mind and off the pantry shelf when there's no time to plan?

All this and more is wrapped up in this one idea: serve Spicy Corn Fritters. The "more" is the taste dividend, for one thing, and the ease with which these dainty fritters can be thrown together, for another.

The better taste secret in the fritters is the use of aromatic bitters as the spicy flavoring agent. The bitters gives the dish an almost exotic quality without being at all identifiable. With the first forkful comes the wonder — what makes them taste so particularly good, so different? So now you know. You don't have to tell a soul if you don't want to. Just put the bitters in.

SPICY CORN FRITTERS
2 cups cream style corn
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 teaspoons cooking oil
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
2 teaspoons finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon aromatic bitters
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Combine corn, egg yolks, oil, flour, onion and parsley. Add aromatic bitters, salt and pepper. Mix well. Fold in beaten egg whites. Drop by spoonfuls onto hot greased griddle or frying pan. Fry until lightly browned on both sides. Serve hot. Yield: About 25 small fritters.

APRICOT AND CHERRY JAM
(Using sour cherries)
Yield: about 10 medium glasses (5 lbs. jam)
4 cups prepared fruit (about 1 1/2 lbs. ripe apricots and 1 lb. ripe sour cherries)
1/4 cup lemon juice (2 lemons)

7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar.

1/2 bottle liquid fruit pectin
First, prepare the fruit. Pit (do not peel) about 1 1/2 pounds fully ripe apricots. Cut in small pieces and grind. Stem and pit about 1 pound fully ripe sour cherries. Chop fine. Combine fruits and measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Squeeze the juice from 2 medium-sized lemons. Measure 1/4 cup into saucepan with fruit.

Then make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin.

LILY GROWS STRONG
The leaves of Victoria Regia, a giant South American water lily, are about seven feet in diameter and can support a child.

DINE WELL
Among the delicacies offered visitors by the Kurds of the Middle East are broiled chicken in plum sauce and candied squash and eggplant.

Bride elect honored at showers

Miss Margaret Billson, a bride elect, was honored at a kitchen-pantry shower given by Mrs. Maurice Bennett, Miss Barbara Billson and Mrs. George Hartwell, at the Community Hall, Scotch Road recently.

Upon arrival the guest of honor was presented with a corsage by the hostess, and was escorted to a seat of honor by Miss Barbara Billson.

Assisting in opening the many lovely gifts was the mother of the bride elect, Miss Barbara Billson and Mrs. Maurice Bennett.

After the gifts had been admired, the bride-to-be graciously thanked her many friends and relatives for their kindness.

Refreshments were then served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Aline Parker and others.

Among others who entertained the bride elect were Mrs. G. Hartwell, of Waterville, at a cup and saucer shower and the members of the Brompton Road, W. I. at a miscellaneous shower, the hostesses being Mrs. G. Hadenko and Mrs. Gerald Decoteau.

It's like no other biscuit you've ever tasted

"It's not really a biscuit. We call it a 'Pastry Waffle biscuit'. It's two beautifully glazed halves of French pastry, separated by a touch of pure seedless raspberry jam, made in P.F. kitchens from whole berries.

It's light and airy, crisply tasty in a not-sweet way. You've never tasted a biscuit like it. Like it? You'll love it! Just try it."

Johnny Podres hurls three-hitter as Dodgers blank Mets 1-0

Whiffs 11 to extend lead to five, Johnny Roseboro clouts homer for victory, Phillies upset Giants

Those Los Angeles Dodgers pitchers give up runs the way Jack Benny parts with a buck.

Johnny Podres pulled the stingy act Wednesday night, doling out three singles and striking out 11 as Dodgers cashed in another victory by handing New York's poverty-stricken Mets their 11th successive loss, 1-0.

Dodgers now have won eight of their last nine in climbing from fourth place to a rich five-game lead in the National League. In five of those eight victories, Los Angeles pitchers have posted shutouts and in two others they're held the opposition to a single run.

Podres has been particularly close-fisted. The 30-year-old left-hander has barked three victories in Dodgers' latest surge, allowing a total of one run and 10 hits. His squeaker over Mets, decided on John Roseboro's eighth-inning homer, was his second straight by a 1-0 score and his fourth shutout.

While Dodgers were edging Mets, Philadelphia Phillies dropped second-place San Francisco Giants five games behind, capitalizing on Giant misplays in a 10-2 romp.

WIN FOR JOE
Also in the National League—Joey Jay became a winner for the first time in over a month, with strong relief help in the final inning, as Cincinnati Reds trimmed Chicago Cubs 3-1; and Houston Colts' Ken Johnson and Hal Woodeshick combined for a five-hit 2-0 shutout of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Dick Stuart's slugging powered Boston Red Sox over Minnesota Twins 7-4 in 10 innings in the only American League game played.

The hard-hitting first baseman exploded out of a home run slump with a pair, including the clincher with two on in the 10th.

Podres, 7-6, extended his scoreless string to 24 innings in a duel with Mets' Carl Willey, who checked Dodgers on four singles until Roseboro rifled one into the seats with one out in the eighth.

Podres had his closest call in the last of the ninth. With one on and one out, Frank Thomas rapped one deep to left—but Tommy Davis got it against the wall, and his throw in was relayed to first for a game-ending double play.

Phils got three runs in the fifth inning for a 4-2 lead over Giants with the help of Chuck Hiller's error, then added three unearned runs in the sixth after

Roger Maris joins Mantle on sidelines

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris, the other half of New York's famed M-and-M slugging combination, has joined Mickey Mantle on the Yankee list of the missing.

Maris, who assumed the Yankee team leadership when Mantle was sidelined with a broken foot June 5, will undergo surgery at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital Friday for a rectal fissure.

"From what I hear from New York," Yankee manager Ralph Houk said in Los Angeles, "I expect him to be out a week to 10 days."

Mantle, who won the American League's Most Valuable Player award for the third time last season, rejoined Yankees in Los Angeles today, but is not expected to be ready to play for another week or two.

Maris, Yanks' right fielder, missed the Yankees' doubleheader in Cleveland Sunday with what was thought at the time to be a recurrence of a back ailment that had sidelined him earlier this season.

He flew to his home in Independence, Mo., for the All-Star game break, but returned to New York Wednesday after a telephone consultation with Dr. Sydney Gaynor, the team physician.

Washington and Bill Henry stifled a bases-loaded Cub threat in the ninth, saving Jay's first victory since June 6.

The big right hander, a 21-game winner in each of the last two seasons, now has a 4-12 mark. Reds netted all three of their runs in the first off Glenn Hobbie, with Marty Keough knocking in two with a triple and scoring on a single by John Edwards.

Woodeshick relieved Johnson with the bases full in the eighth inning at Pittsburgh, retired the side by striking out Smokey Burgess, then held off Pirates in the ninth. Colts managed only six hits off Bob Friend, but bunched three of them in the first for both their runs on Ernie Fazio's double, singles by Al Spangler and Pete Runnels, and a fielder's choice grounder by Carl Warwick.

Stuart, who hadn't homered in 21 games and hadn't driven in a run in 11, tagged his 18th of the season with one on in the fourth inning as Red Sox built up a 4-0 lead against southpaw Jim Kaat of Twins. Then, facing Minnesota relief star Bill Dailey in the 10th after Dick Williams' pinch double and a walk, Stuart hit No. 19.

WHEELBARROWS
I've seen wheelbarrows used as barbecues, so you can see the lack of a store-bought rig is no reason for not enjoying this fun.

Other gear needed: A pair of heat-proof gloves, some long handled implements, and one or two specialized items that can be obtained as you branch out.

It is obvious to say "the fire is important," but I find that even so-called expert outdoors cooks fail to give this matter enough thought.

First you must choose your fuel, and in the garden charcoal briquets are best. In the bush or in the camp, hardwood such as maple, ash and fruit and nut woods are preferred.

Soft wood is useless for barbecue cooking. It burns away too quickly and you don't get that all important bed of glowing coals that cooks with a high, smokeless heat.

For full information on all subjects, including dishes, I can recommend a small book in the Betty Crocker series. It costs a dollar and is called Betty Crocker's Outdoor Cookbook. It's published by Golden Press in New York.

But don't run away with the idea that I'm going to finish this column off without giving you one of my favorite recipes. If I did, I'd be thrown out of the Barbecue Cook's Union.

So get your Betty Crocker hat and a skillet, and let's see what YOU can do.

OUTDOOR CANADA

By JOHN BENNETT

There's a scorched smell around my old homestead tonight, and a red flicker rises from the barbecue fire.

Time was when outdoor cooking was the inheritance of the fisherman, the hunter and the man of the wilderness trails, but it's a way of life in the suburbs today.

And I'm all for it. Taking a tip from the barbecue craze, the outdoorsman is learning to use his imagination in camp cooking. Beans and stews are no longer all you can get at a campsite.

Now I've got nothing against beans, but I always remember the solemn words of Robert Service: "... the true call of the wild was never the howl of the wolf, just the stomach rumble of the bean-fed miner."

SUCH A CHORE
Just why camp cooking started to die, I don't know. Maybe it was because cans and easy kitchen methods of the present day made outside cooking seem a chore.

But the barbecue fans have brought it back, back to the point where a man who would never have dreamed of cooking anything more complex than a hotdog is now turning out Rumi on the Hibachi and Shish-Kabobs a la Maple Avenue.

Have you tried it yet? It's great fun.

Contrary to what some people believe, it is not necessarily expensive. You don't need an expensive barbecue. The grill from your oven propped on stones will enable you to cook food just as well.

However, if you want to spread out a bit, one of the mobile carts with an electric rotisserie can add a lot of fun to cooking and make possible an adventure into exotic meals.

WHEELBARROWS

Whether it's at your favorite camping site, or in your own backyard, food takes on a wonderful flavor cooked outdoors. Outdoor Canada today describes how the barbecue craze is changing the concept of campsite cooking.

BAD TASTES

Remember that some resinous woods such as pine, cedar and fir add pungent flavors, most unpleasant to the taste.

This business of cooking over hot, smokeless heat is the true basis of outdoor cooking. It does for campfire cookouts just as much as it does on the patio barbecue.

Keep flare-up to the minimum when the food is on, even to damping down the fire with water sprayed from a water pistol. But don't spray too much. Steam makes food soggy.

Brigades should be lit with a commercial starter and allowed to burn evenly until completely covered with a gray ash. All barbecue fires should be started at least an hour before food is placed on the grill.

IN THE BAG

Here is my special dish. I call it "Fish Dish in a Bag," and it's easy to do in camp or on the patio grill.

On squares of heavy duty foil place a big fillet of fish. Walleye, pike, channel catfish, salmon or trout are recommended, but halibut or sole will do as well.

On top of the fillet, pile sliced parboiled potatoes (10 minutes in boiling water). Then add sliced raw onion, a squeeze of lemon, salt, black pepper from the mill and a dash of Italian seasoning.

Top with two dabs of butter and fold over the foil to make a complete seal. This is most important!

Place on the grill close to the heat and move the packets carefully from time to time so they all get a fair share of the coals. Grill for 20 minutes at 10 minutes each side, then remove and serve, using the foil as a plate.

ADD GREENS
You can make this a complete meal by adding a portion of frozen peas and broccoli before serving.

And there's a thousand or more equally delicious and simple meals you can try.

So get your Betty Crocker hat and a skillet, and let's see what YOU can do.

EFC teams hold games, Jackie Parker hurt

Jackie Parker, a man who usually makes crowds roar, brought silence to 13,000 Toronto Argonaut fans for a few anxious moments Wednesday night.

The former Edmonton Eskimo ace, worth his weight in season tickets to the Argos, limped off the field late in the third quarter of an intra-squad game after being hit hard by Ron Brewer and Jeff Atchinson.

Afterwards he said it was nothing to worry about. "I won't know until tomorrow," said Parker in the dressing room. "I'm not sure where it's hurt." He rubbed his hand along his right leg from knee to ankle. "But it isn't serious."

Parker scored two of his Blue team's touchdowns as they dropped a 28-19 decision to the Whites in the brisk exhibition. He didn't return after his injury.

"He didn't come back because I told them not to put him back in," said head coach Nobby Wirkowski, who watched the game from the press box.

ATTRACT 7,000
Ottawa Rough Riders also held an intra-squad game Wednesday night, attracting 7,000 fans to the unveiling of their 1963 entry in the Canadian Football League's Eastern Conference. A team quarterbacked by Ron Lancaster and rookies Ron O'Vilovich and Ed Chlebek scored a 23-13 victory over a side that had Ron Jackson and Tommy Lee doing the quarterbacking.

Don Fuell, who came to Toronto last year from Houston Oilers of the American Football League, was impressive quarterbacking the Argo Whites. And Lynn Amedee, who took over from Parker as quarterback of the Blues in the second half, also showed promise. But the outstanding performer was newcomer John Lands, an end who was cut by British Columbia Lions in 1960. The Montana State graduate played with Houston in 1961 and with Indianapolis last season in the United Football League.

The Fuell-to-Lands pass-and-run plays made people forget Parker momentarily.

Fuell, who shared quarterback duties with Gord McTaggart of East York Argos, led his team to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter.

SCORES TWICE
Lands scored two touchdowns, one on a 40-yard pass-and-run play with Jim Rountree and the other on a 70-yard pass-and-run play with Fuell. He also set up a plunge by Rountree for a first-quarter touchdown when he took a 35-yard pass on the two-yard line.

Dave Mann plunged for the other touchdown for the winners and newcomer George Fleming kicked all four converts.

Amedee passed to Parker for one touchdown and scored another himself. Jerry Wilson kicked one convert.

At Ottawa, Jackson ran for one touchdown and threw to halfback Ron Stewart for another. Halfback Millard Fleming plunged for two touchdowns and Ernie White for a third.

Gary Schreider kicked two field goals and a convert and Lee kicked one convert.

Canadian Ladies golfing titles at stake on weekend, Marlene Streit turns in fine warmup performance

OTTAWA (CP)—A couple of capable and experienced golf professionals walked off the Ottawa Rivermead course after a practice round Wednesday looking as if they had just had their ears pinned back.

Their opponents in the four-some were two of the outstanding contenders for the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union close championship starting today — Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Font-ville, Ont., and 19-year-old Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver, winner of the ladies' Open last year.

The seemingly subdued victims were Ernie Wakelam, retired pro of the Royal Ottawa Club who still shoots a bang-up game, and Stan Dempster, the hard-working Rivermead pro.

"Well, that's that," said Wakelam succinctly. "They're really good. Marlene looks to be at the top of her game and the one to beat. But they're both good."

SHOOT'S PAR
All were evasive about practice scores, but word came out later that Marlene had shot a women's par 74 and that Gayle was "around 79 or 80." The pros' scores weren't even mentioned, in keeping with the secrecy that has surrounded the women's practice rounds in the field of 129 that starts out today.

Four championships go on the line. The women's close will wind up Saturday after three 18-hole rounds. Provincial team championships—both senior and junior—will be decided on the basis of 36-hole scores of Thursday and Friday.

The individual junior championship will go the 54-hole route. The Close championship is limited to Canadians. Next week at the Royal Ottawa Club the Open championship, with American participants, will get underway.
