PREMIER RENE LEVESQUE

Premier Rene Levesque's first major speech in New York brought mixed reaction in Canada where some businessmen praised his presentation to financial leaders Tuesday. But there was some doubt that American investors would immediately rally to Quebec's need for more big loans.

"I think it was a very skillful speech, aimed as much at the Canadian audience as the American," said Sam Hughes, executive director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. "But I think Canadians will probably be more impressed."

Mr. Hughes said he was startled by the parallel drawn by Levesque between the Parti Quebecois' goal of independence and American independence, "since the American Revolution was not a peaceful one."

Mr. Hughes did not think New York money lenders were reassured about the security of the province's debt.

SAYS DISAPPOINTED

Bernard Finestone, president of the Montreal Board of Trade, said:

"I think Mr. Levesque has done Quebec a grave disservice by going down to an economic club (the Economic Club of New York) and discussing a future hypothesis—an independent Quebec—which doesn't exist.

"He was elected with a mandate to provide good government and to hold a referendum. His entire speech was based on the assumption he had already won the referendum."

Jean-Paul Letourneau, executive vice-president of the Quebec Chamber of Commerce, said: "Taking account of the public he was talking to, I think it was a good presentation, wisely done and reassuring.

"It is difficult to evaluate what the reaction will be in New York. The proof will be in the pudding the next time the Province of Quebec goes to the New York bond market."

SWITCH WORRIES

Pierre Des Marais II, president of the influential employers' group, Conseil du Patronat du Quebec, said he was concerned about the increasing importance of independence in the Parti Quebecois platform.

"We feel this is a major change. We gave him support when he offered a better government and he was elected on that basis. Now the trend changes and his platform seems to be first independence, second a democratic referendum timed so that it will be sure to pass."

Says independence part of Quebec's growth

NEW YORK (CP) — Quebec independence is a coming tide and efforts to delay it are wasted because it is "as natural and irreversible as growth itself," Quebec Premier Rene Levesque told members of the United States business elite Tuesday night.

Levesque's speech to the 1,500 invited guests of the Economic Club of New York—including executives of Exxon, Texaco, Chase Manhattan Bank and Prudential Insurance—also gave assurances to foreign investors that there would be no large-scale nationalization of industry.

"We are not against foreign investment as such and we have no intention of picking fights with private enterprise. The Parti Quebecois's approach is not dogmatic—it's basically pragmatic."

But he hammered home his party's commitment to Quebec independence which he said is "almost as inevitable as it was for the American states 200 years ago."

"Along with deep and durable historical roots, this political emancipation can now count on the support of sociological change, one of the most significant factors being the fact that our youth is already committed to it."

"It's a bit like a writing on the wall," he said later in reply to a question.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

The black-tied audience responded with something less than enthusiasm to the speech, applauding only briefly at the end of the 30-minute presentation in Levesque's fluent English.

"He certainly didn't pull any punches," said one businessman later.

Another business executive, who like most of those interviewed declined to give his name, said he found the speech "very, very powerful" and said it made him more aware of the Quebec situation.

"I had no real concept that this movement is as serious as it appears to be," he said.

Another businessman, the vice-president of a manufacturing firm with a large Quebec operation, said industrialists with Quebec plants are concerned with labor problems, plant reorganizations and the need to change corporate boards to include more French-Canadians.

But he added that language does not mean anything to a multinational company, which can function in any language. He believed that if Quebec independence did come, it would be within some sort of renewed federation with the rest of Canada.

PROPOSES MARKET

Levesque told the audience he proposes a common market between an independent Quebec and the rest of Canada "based on a customs union, permitting free passage of persons, goods and capital, as in the countries of Western Europe." And if desired, a monetary union may be formed.

Later, during the question period, Levesque said he believes Quebec independence would result in a "healthier" situation in the rest of Canada where the provinces could rearrange power-sharing and "make a new start."

English and French Canada were like "two scorpions in a bottle," and the 54-year-old premier said it was best to break the bottle.

"I think it would be a helluva lot better for Canada and for Quebec," once the split takes place.

Levesque said that his government aims to increase Quebecers' involvement in the province's economic development but is ready to welcome foreign industry "so long as it respects our majority language and culture—which is no more than any self-respecting community expects from all its corporate citizens."

He vowed there would be no nationalization of iron ore, copper, aluminum and pulp-and-paper industries, although he added that the party wishes to regain control over allocation of forest resources.

TAKEOVER POSSIBLE

Nationalization was still possible in the asbestos industry because of the traditional health problems among miners and the desire to gain full advantage as the No. 1 producer of the material in the Western world.

The premier said his government disagrees with the case-by-case approach of the federal foreign investment review agency and preferred a series of regulations which would limit or ban completely all foreign investment in what were considered sensitive areas of the economy.

This would include "banking institutions, and things like the mass media, publications, etc., that have a direct impact on cultural development." But he hastened to add that these new guides would only come about after independence.

"In short, we very simply and normally intend to build our society and control our environment in a way that suits our tastes, our aspirations and our 'difference.'"

"But difference certainly does not mean that we see ourselves rejecting the basic social values, economic structures or political traditions that our North American outlook is founded upon."

He concluded with an appeal from his U.S. audience for understanding and perhaps sympathy in the push to what he termed "this steadily rising movement of collective emancipation."

The premier also said his government would do "as much as is humanly possible" to avoid an increase in personal and corporate income taxes. In the advance text of the speech, this came out as a firm promise not to raise taxes.

Levesque shared the evening's program with New York state Gov. Hugh Carey whose speech included promises of tax cuts, but Levesque's presentation appeared to arouse more curiosity in the crowd.

Levesque's speech was the only public event of his two-day visit to New York, which included a series of private meetings with financiers who deal with sales of Quebec bonds on the Wall Street market.

Parents angered by language act ruling

MONTREAL (CP) — Parents of six children ordered out of an English language school in nearby Terrebonne reacted angrily to the ruling in interviews Tuesday.

Three mothers said they would not send their children to French-language schools and one, Lai Ming Mok, said her five-year-old son David already has been enrolled in a private English-language school in Montreal.

Mrs. Mok said her husband was angry about the court decision and had talked about moving to another province.

The children, five in kindergarten and one in first grade, failed compulsory English-language tests under Quebec's Official Language Act and are therefore bound by the legislation to attend French schools, Justice Guy Mathieu ruled in Superior Court Monday.

The judge granted a permanent injunction sought by the local French-language school commission prohibiting the children from attending Englishlanguage Holy Rosary School where they have been unofficially attending classes.

School principal Sister Diana Chasse said the children "understand everything the teacher said and were able to respond."

The children began classes at the school in September, but have not attended since a temporary injunction was granted Dec. 22.

Lise Robert, whose five-yearold son Eric failed the tests said: "I think its just politics. It shouldn't be up to others where we send our children to school."

Three of the six families involved have one English and one French-Canadian parent. Another two have French-Canadian parents, while the Mok family comes from Hong Kong.

Separation 'a very real danger' - Clark

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) — Opposition Leader Joe Clark warned high school students in this southeastern Alberta community Tuesday they would be wrong to believe Quebec cannot withdraw from Confederation.

He said there is a "very real danger" that separation might occur and added that Alberta residents would be affected by it.

"We can't force people to stay in Confederation if they don't want to," he told a news conference, repeating that he would rather use argument than force to keep Quebec in Canada.

Mr. Clark, who also addressed the annual convention of the Western Stockgrowers Association, rebuked the federal government for not working more closely with producers in setting agriculture policy.

He told the convention that federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan "believes in marketing boards as a matter of faith, and in working to impose supply management on the beef industry."

He said his party believes in aiding producers by setting up marketing boards only if it is the desire of most producers.

'WOULD SEEK INPUT

In his speech, Mr. Clark said a Conservative government would bring "the private sector and the public service into a continuing closer partnership," and would seek input from those actively involved in agriculture.

"Canadian agricultural producers have a right to know where they fit into the federal government's goals and priorities for the Canadian economy as a whole."

Mr. Clark also said the Liberal government must be condemned for its failure to make Confederation viable.

"I have no doubt that we are all better off in one large country with the federal system that reflects diversity, but we must demonstrate the superiority of that system by making it work better than it has seemed to work in the last decade.

"Part of the improvement can be achieved by insuring more co-ordination between governments and within them."

Support level for beef cattle raised by Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The agriculture department announced Tuesday the 1976 support price for slaughter cattle has been set at $40.16 a hundredweight, live weight.

The program is expected to cover about 28,000 producers with a total cost of $45 million under the federal Agricultural Stabilization Act, a news release said.

The program supports 1976 slaughter cattle at 95 per cent of the average market price for the last five years. The support level was raised to 95 per cent from 90 per cent due to depressed market prices, the department said.

Payments are to be made on the basis of quarterly marketing periods. The payment for cattle sold for slaughter from January to March will be $1.84 a hundredweight; from July to September, $3 a hundredweight and from October to December, more than $2 a hundredweight, although that calculation has not yet been completed.

There was no payment from April to June as market prices averaged more than the support level of $40.16.

Producers are eligible for the deficiency payments on up to 2,500 head of cattle sold during the three quarters for which payments are being made.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan said the program would help to renew confidence in the beef industry. He cited the recently announced cow-calf stabilization program for 1977 and restrictions on beef imports as examples of government support of the industry.

Co-op movement to be aided

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — The Quebec government plans to create a corporation of co-operative development, Lise Payette, minister of consumer affairs and co-operatives, said Tuesday.

"The co-operative sector will be the symbol of this new society we want to build, a sharing we want to build, a sharing which will become the living example of Quebec's wish to take its economy in its own hands", said Miss Payette.

She told members of a co-operative movement that related legislation will be presented this year in the national assembly, adding that regulations for co-operatives will be constantly reviewed and revised.

Miss Payette also said schools should encourage the setting up of co-operatives.

As a possible indication of the government's forthcoming forest policy, the minister said co-operatives would gradually take over from multinationals the cutting and industrial processing of wood.

"Forestry co-operatives should occupy a primary place in exploitation of this important natural resource," she said.

Chicoutimi is 680 miles north-east of Montreal.

Inquiry hears prostitution ring allegations

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec organized crime inquiry began a new week of hearings Tuesday with allegations of underworld involvement in an $8-million-a-year prostitution ring.

Among other evidence, the three-man inquiry heard testimony about a nude encounter between police Sgt. Michel Lepine and the man he said offered him $5,000 a week to leave the ring alone, Richard (Ziggy) Wiseman.

Sgt. Lepine testified that he reported the bribe offer to superiors and arranged to meet Wiseman through a middleman, Lucien Proulx, chauffeur for criminal lawyer Maurice Hebert.

Proulx had told him there was "a fortune to be made in photo studios and massage parlors," and that "a certain party is willing to pay you up to $5,000 a week" for co-operating, Sgt. Lepine said.

After determining that the party was Wiseman, Sgt. Lepine said he arranged a meeting where Wiseman checked under the rug, in desk drawers and behind paintings for hidden microphones.

Wiseman then "started taking off his clothes, and I understood I was to do the same."

"He wanted to be sure I wasn't carrying a microphone. We were both completely nude."

WASN'T BUGGED

Although he had carried hidden microphones to previous meetings with Proulx, Sgt. Lepine said he was not "bugged" for the meeting with Wiseman.

The officer testified he was given an envelope containing $1,000 at a later meeting with Wiseman in a downtown restaurant owned by Wiseman and Hebert.

The meetings took place last October shortly before police raided 17 massage parlors and photo studios said to be owned by Wiseman and used as fronts for prostitution.

Wiseman pleaded not guilty the same month to charges of bribery, illegal possession of stolen travellers' cheques and firearms, and 40 morals violations. The case is still before the courts.

Proulx was also called before the inquiry Tuesday but gave only sketchy testimony, then refused to continue on the grounds that he is before the courts on the bribery charge.

The commission, unsatisfied, sentenced him to three months in prison for contempt.

Lieut. Laurent Audy of the Montreal police morality squad said the massage parlor operations would have netted $2.5 million a year based on an average fee of $35 a customer. That would allow the customer to have a massage or to photograph a naked girl.

For $200, however, a client could have sex with one of the girls. Thus the operation could have earned as much as $8 million annually, Lieut. Audy said.

Thousands of workers strike in Spain

MADRID (AP) — Thousands of workers went on strike today in protest rightist attacks on leftists, but the government said the streets of Madrid were free of demonstrators for the first time in four days.

Premier Adolfo Suarez cancelled a trip to the Middle East because of the tension. It was Spain's worst crisis since the death of Francisco Franco 14 months ago.

The strike was expected to spread as workers held meetings in banks, offices and factories to vote on a general strike call.

Labor sources said they were unable to say yet how many were not working. But public transport was crippled in Madrid and Bilbao, and five leading labor organizations in Barcelona said their members were on strike.

Liberal and leftist political leaders called on everyone to avoid "action in the streets." The joint appeal was signed by Communist party chief Santiago Carrillo, Socialist party leader Felipe Gonzalez and the leader of the centrist Popular party, Jose Maria de Areilza.

Strike action began Tuesday, when 35,000 workers in Madrid and 30,000 in Barcelona quit work to protest a rightist machine-gun attack Monday night on the Madrid office of a labor lawyer in which five persons were killed.

ARREST MORE THAN 60

Police arrested more than 60 persons Tuesday in an effort to stop the tide of violence that also included student demonstrations, kidnappings, the slaying of a student demonstrator Sunday by an ultra-rightist, and the killing of a woman student demonstrator Monday by a police gas grenade.

Universities in Madrid and Barcelona remained closed today as officials tried to avert further clashes between students and police.

A far-right organization called the Apostolic Anti-Communist Alliance (AAA) said two of its members made the machine-gun attack on the meeting in the labor lawyer's office Monday night.

The little-known group told the Spanish news agency CIFRA in a telephone call the country will suffer "a night of the long knives" if royal adviser Antonio Maria de Oriol is killed.

Oriol was kidnapped Dec. 11 by the ultra-leftist First of October Anti-Fascist Resistance Group (GRAPO) which is demanding the release of 15 political prisoners. GRAPO also said it abducted Lt.-Gen. Emilio Villaescusa, the 64-year-old president of the Supreme Court of Military Justice, on Tuesday.

Bank book love affair

Canadians continue to have a love affair with their bank books.

Latest figures from the Canadian Bankers' Association (CBA) show that there are 22 million personal savings accounts at the banks. The total in these accounts has almost quadrupled during the last 10 years, but the average account still holds less than $1,700.

Also interesting is that close to 70 per cent of the accounts are for less than $1,000. And a surprising 40 per cent hold less than $1100.

According to the CBA's just-issued Factbook, Canadians also write cheques in ever-increasing volume.

There now are four million payment items - cheques, money orders and so - handled by the banks every business day, or 1.3 billion for a year. And even these figures aren't complete since they do not include the millions of federal government items and those drawn on other financial institutions using the banks' clearing facilities.

Factbook includes a wide range of information on the banking system, including such items as:

— The banks now have a branch for every 3,255 Canadians.

— Payment of interest on deposits and debentures is the largest single expense item for the banks, topping $5.52 billion in 1975.

— Canadian banks are increasing their international business and now have close to 30 per cent of their assets in foreign currency, up six-fold from 1965.

The CBA says Factbook is intended as a compact source of general and statistical information, including figures on a provincial basis, for students, teachers, libraries and others. Copies are available free in reasonable quantities in English or French from the CBA's offices in Toronto or Montreal.

To hold public hearings after controls end

Suggests formation of a committee to look into wage agreements

TORONTO (CP) — Beland H. Honderich, chairman and publisher of Toronto Star Ltd., called recently for creation of a special parliamentary committee to hold public hearings on how wages will be negotiated after pay and price controls end.

Mr. Honderich also proposed to the annual meeting of company shareholders that a series of regional economic conferences be held, sponsored by the government, to help develop a public concensus.

To remove controls without a consensus, he warned "is to invite the risk that our freedom from controls will be short-lived and that, in fact, they may become a necessary and permanent feature of our economy."

He said the parliamentary committee would move across the country stimulating discussion and educating the public about economic growth and distribution of income.

There was a need for restraint after controls are dropped and he suggested a national productivity council to establish voluntary guidelines for wages and prices in the de-control period.

Referring to the problem of distribution of income, Mr. Hoderich said an argument could be made for forcing business executives and professional people to make their salaries public, as now happens in the civil service.

He said the United States Securities and Exchange Commission requires companies whose shares are traded publicly to file information on executive salaries and bonuses.

Such a rule, if applied to Canada, would probably show that chief executive officers of companies with revenue of $100 million to $200 million or more earn from $10,000 to $200,000 a year.

He said this was a lot of money but a salary of $175,000 leaves an after-tax income of about $78,000. This compares with a production worker who receives an after-tax income of about $17,000 on a salary of $22,000.

"It may be that this disparity is too great, that the contribution of top executives is not worth four to five times as much as production workers," he said.

WORRIES ABOUT GAP

"Certainly it is hard to justify the fact that 40 per cent of the people receive 67 per cent of total income. What we should do is to narrow the extremes and still retain the incentives necessary to encourage individual enterprise and initiative."

William Dimma, president, told the shareholders that the future success of the newspaper is heavily dependent on new technology.

"Major changes are now under way in our newspaper business to meet changing reader and advertiser needs and to control increasing costs."

Among these is a computerized circulation information system and electronic editing for the news department staff.

As reported earlier, the company had net income of $11.6 million before extraordinary gain, or $1.45 a share compared with $9.3 million or $1.26 a share in 1975.

Celanese records $5,384,000 loss

MONTREAD — Celanese Canada Limited recorded a loss for the three months ended December 31, 1976 of $5,384,000 or 42 cents per common share, compared with net income of $3,829,000 or 27 cents per share for the same period in 1975, the Company announced recently. For the year ended December 31, 1976 the loss was $10,255,000 or 83 cents per share, compared with earnings of $7,636,000 or 51 cents per share for the year 1975.

Net sales were $52,616,000 and $216,071,000 for the three and twelve-month periods respectively of 1976 compared to $69,626,000 and $248,987,000 for the same periods last year.

Referring to the results for the year, Mr. Bernard G. Cote, President and Chief Executive Officer, said the loss was caused primarily by production stoppages arising from labour disputes at Drummondville and Sorel and by an unprecedented slump in world markets for polyester textured yarn.

Commenting on the loss in the fourth quarter, Mr. Cote cited several non-recurring factors: (1) Start-up costs and inventory clearances at the Drummondville plant following re-commencement of production in November; (2) Costs associated with permanent reductions of staff in the Drummondville, Millhaven and Cambridge plants; (3) Start-up costs of the new polyester staple facility at Millhaven.

Mr. Cote went on to say that the new polyester staple fibre facility at Millhaven is producing first quality product and is expected to operate at full capacity through the first half of 1977.

The new electronic color-injection process in the Carpets Division at Sorel was started up on schedule in November. A nationwide presentation to carpets dealers and wholesalers of the new lines produced by this new process is now being carried out with very encouraging results thus far. Commercial shipments of carpets and area rugs from the new facility have begun this month.

On November 29, 1976, the federal government announced global quotas to hold imports of many clothing items in 1977 to the levels of actual imports in 1975. While this measure does not help the company directly, since it does not manufacture clothing items, it is expected to help considerably the Canadian apparel manufacturers and thereby strngthen the domestic market for fabrics and man-made fibres.

The outlook for 1977 is moderately favourable. The Company will benefit throughout the year from the actions taken to reduce overhead costs at head office and at several plant locations. It will benefit also from re-establishment of plant operations and from the new facilities for polyester staple at Millhaven and color-patterned carpets at Sorel.

DREE incentive offers accepted

MONTREAL — The Honourable Marcel Lessard, Federal Minister of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE), recently announced that six firms in Quebec have accepted development incentive offers totalling $292,402. It is expected that these projects will create 47 jobs and generate investments exceeding $1,291,932.

The firms assisted by DREE are the following: Nilus Leclerc Inc., of L'Isletville ($112,000); Les Generateurs Victoria Enrg., of Victoriaville ($66,625); Buckland Metal Inc.,, of Buckland, Bellechasse County ($40,000); Ebenisterie Lafreniere Inc., of Shawinigan ($26,954); Meubles Dumont Inc., of Berthierville ($26,200); and Glendale (Quebec) Ltee, of Saint-Joseph-De-Beauce ($20,623).

Nilus Leclerc Inc., of L'Isletville, has accepted an incentive offer of $112,000 for the expansion and modernization of its facility which manufactures looms and spinning-wheels. This project is expected to create 14 jobs and generate investments exceeding $560,000.

Les Generateurs Victoria Enrg., of Victoriaville, has accepted an incentive offer of $66,625 for a new facility to manufacture power units. This project is expected to create 10 jobs and generate investments exceeding $190,000.

Buckland Metal Inc., of Buckland, Bellechasse County, has accepted an incentive offer of $40,000 for the expansion of its machine-shop. This project is expected to create five jobs and generate investments exceeding $200,000.

Ebenisterie Lafreniere Inc., of Shawinigan, has accepted an incentive offer of $26,954 for a new facility to manufacture canoe seats. This project is expected to create five jobs and generate investments exceeding $107,816.

$4,000,000 still outstanding

Canadian Javelin Limited announced that its representatives have met with representatives of the government of Newfoundland to proceed with the arbitration of the company's outstanding claims amounting to approximately $4,000,000 as a result of its sale of the Stephenville Linerboard Mill to the government in 1972.

The meeting was called after the Supreme Court of newfoundland rendered judgment on a declaratory action commenced by the provincial government. the court declared that the government should appoint its arbitrator forthwith and proceed with the arbitration prior to the Supreme Court decision. The government had, for various legal and technical reasons, refused to appoint an arbitrator to arbitrate the company's outstanding claims.

At the meeting both sides agreed that their auditors will meet shortly to review all claims and documentations in order that both parties might be able to expedite the arbitration.

The company said: "While it is difficult to predict when the matter will be resolved either by settlement, arbitration or even further litigation, Canadian Javelin Limited is hopeful that the decision of the Supreme Court of Newfoundland will open the door to enable matters to proceed promptly."

CREATE COMMUNITY JOBS NOW. GET YOUR APPLICATION IN BY FEBRUARY 4TH.

Canada Works

The restoration of historical buildings, the construction of a fire hall, the replacement of an outdated water system. If you stop and think about it there are probably many good projects that could create jobs and be of great benefit to your community.

This year, a new job creation program called Canada Works will help fight unemployment by providing funds to groups and organizations including private businesses, for worthwhile community projects.

If you have a project that can provide a minimum of five jobs for unemployed people in your area, submit your application to Canada Works.

But do it now. The deadline for applications is February 4th.

Right now, your Canada Manpower Centre has application forms and a Canada Works "Guide to Applicants" that describes the program and how to apply.

Visit your Canada Manpower Centre today.

Predicts asbestos industry layoffs

MONTREAL (CP) — The high cost of reducing deadly asbestos dust in Quebec mills could cause layoffs of workers, officials of the industry were told Tuesday.

Jean-Marie Ethier, an official of the Quebec section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, praised the Beaudry report on health dangers to asbestos workers, but added that implementation of some of its recommendations would mean extra costs to the mostly U.S.-owned asbestos firms and layoffs of workers.

He was speaking to business, medical and union representatives who met at a day-long conference to discuss implementation of the report.

Present were members of the Quebec Asbestos Mining Association, lawyers, physicians and representatives of the Conseil des Syndicats Democratique and Quebec Federation of Labor, which together group a small percentage of Quebec asbestos workers.

The report was published last October following a government-commissioned inquiry headed by Judge Rene Beaudry.

The Quebec Asbestos Mining Association said in a brief to the conference that "the risk of cancer in the asbestos industry still remains imprecise."

It suggested creation of an independent industrial health board, a key recommendation of the Beaudry commission, and said the association would publish a report on the various effluent-monitoring and control devices to be used to restrict the level of asbestos dust in the air.

C of C comments on economy

SHERBROOKE (GB) — The actual economic situation was not caused by a change in the Quebec government but had been known and forecast by everyone, says Gaston Beaudoin, C.A. and President of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce in a report.

Mr. Beaudoin attributed the bleak economic outlook to restrained consumer spending, high interest rates, decreasing productivity compounded by high wages, and restrained government spending in the face of more social programs.

"In 1976 Canada became the biggest borrower on the international market and loans doubled from 1975, the report continued. Our international debt compared with our gross national product is higher than that of Great Britain."

With economy presently at a low ebb bleaker moments are predicted for the next two years. For Quebec, the consumer, harangued by political uncertainty, and investors, uncertain about investments, economic growth will be predictably slow.

The report recommends that the present Quebec government elaborate on their future policies in the following fields, foreign investment, price controls, social services, decentralization of services, syndicates and the PQ's political philosophy.

Rather than adopt a "wait-and-see" attitude local businessmen are becoming impatient for answers. Unpredictable as the Quebec economic scene may be, local businessmen have correctly diagnosed the major impediments for a sound economy in the forthcoming years, he adds.

Activities at Galt

By

Kevin P. Brown

Last week a few members of the Regional Student Government visited one of the meetings of the Sher-Lenn Fifty-plus Club in St. Peter's Church. This is where the "over-fifties" of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville get together three days a week and play pool, knit, or sing old songs. The students decided to join them and sang as well. But a lot of songs they didn't know. The students were also shown around the rooms of the church. The Regional Student Government was visiting the club to see whether this was a worthwhile cause. The club is having a Rock-a-thon and they would like Galt to enter a "Rocker" to help raise money for the club.. The Student Government has agreed to this.

Last Saturday night, the "Sadie Hawkins" dance was held at Galt in the gymnasium from 8 until 11:30. The tickets costed $1.50 and 400 tickets were sold. Since there was no overhead other than buses, this brings more than $300 to the student activities budget to be used by the clubs and activities of the school. The dance was a success, except for a few pranks. Unfortunately, some student or students let the air out of a few of the bus tires. This forced a delay of an hour and a half while waiting for the tow truck with a compressed air tank to arrive. Luckily, only two buses were forced to wait. The music and a few colorful lights were brought by CKTS.

This year the Regional Student Government decided to form the Galt Film Society. This club will rent movies from a company in Montreal that rents out very good movies, and show them at noon-hour on about four days a month. These films will be shown for a very low price so that students can see good movies without going broke. The Student Government will invest a certain amount of money in the club to get it started and the club will take it from there.

Group may support set-up of Amnesty International

ROCK ISLAND — At their January meeting in Rock Island the Global Citizen's group discussed support for the formation of an Amnesty International section to revive dormant Amnesty International De L'Estrie (AIDE) formed in North Hatley two years ago.

Amnesty International has gained a world-wide reputation for investigating inhumane treatment of prisoners of conscience and illegal detention. Those wishing to help or give a donation (make out to AI) should contact Mrs. Enid Elliot, R.R.1, Beebe, P.Q. - or Edwin Earle, Derby Line, Vermont.

This organisation has nothing to do with any U.S. Amnesty program regarding Vietnam.

The Global Citizens Association focuses on the perspective of the global citizen and acts as a channel for their combined efforts and energies. It is concerned with economic disparity, with inhuman living standards and unmet human rights, with resource mis-use and population growth rates. It is also concerned with the positive potential of one community unrestricted by internal barriers.

Card Party

ROCK ISLAND — The Crystal Rebekah and Tomifobia IOOF lodges held the second card party in a series on Friday evening, January 14 in the IOOF hall, Rock Island. The delightful evening saw 500 played at eight tables.

Prizes for the evening were won and awarded to Mrs. Leslie Webster and Steward Bullock, high; Mrs. Richard Middleton and Clarence Rolleston claimed the consolation prizes. A floating prize for a nine no-trump bid was cllaimed by Charlie Patterson.

Door prizes were claimed by Ross Royea, Mrs. Melvin Dustin Mrs. Iris Brock, Mrs. Elsie Davis.

A pretty cake in the design of an open book, made and decorated by Mrs. Ellie Hartley was raffled during the refreshment hour, Mrs. Ross Royea held the lucky ticket.

The success of this party was through the efforts of the committee in charge, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sheldon, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dewey.

Another party in the series will be held in the same hall on February 11 to which all card players are welcome to attend.

New rights set up for tenants

SHERBROOKE (GB) — Rent dwellers in Quebec have been accorded new rights under subsection 16b governing housing, reveals a communique from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs.

According to the new subsection, people occupying rents on Dec. 16, 1976 have the right to prolong their leases until June 30th, 1978 without going through any special formalities.

The law stipulates that only people who have become registered owners on Jan. 1, 1977 can demand the repossession of rents from the lessee either for himself or members of his family according to the Conciliation Law governing rents.

Proprietors of rents prior to Dec. 16, however, retain eviction rights specified under the Civil Code, can increase rent prices in the usual manner and can modify the clauses of a lease.

The law presently in effect applies to all buildings occupied by lessee regardless of the date at which the building was constructed.

People dissatisfied with unfair rent increases may still apply to the Quebec Rental Board to have their cases reviewed.

RONALD TURINI — Canada's best known pianist will be presenting a concert on Wed., Feb. 2 at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre.

Pianist to perform in cultural series

LENNOXVILLE — Canada's best known pianist Ronald Turini will perform in Centennial Theatre on Wed., Feb. 2, at 8:30 p.m. as part of the Bishop's - Champlain Cultural Series.

An accomplished soloist, Ronald Turini has given recitals before enthusiastic audiences in North and South America, Europe, and the Soviet Union. He has also performed with many of the major orchestras in North America - those in Montreal, Chicago, Toronto - and in Europe with the Royal Philharmonic, London Philharmonic, BBC Symphony and Leningrad Philharmonic. Following his 1967 Carnegie Hall triumph, Mr. Turini appeared on the Ed Sullivan Show and on CBC-TV's "Distinguished Artist Series".

Encouraged in his youth by his parents, Turini enrolled at McGill's Conservatory of Music. At age nine, he received a scholarship to the Provincial Conservatory, where his mentors included Gilles Lefevre, director and founder of the Jeunesses Musicales, and conductor Wilfred Pelletier. His professional debut occurred at age 10 for the CBC.

Of several important teachers with whom he has studied, unquestionably the man who has most keenly influenced him is the renowned Valdimir Horowitz. The New York Times has said Turini "has developed the kind of ear that calls up the variety of orchestral color and gorgeous piano sonority usually associated with Mr. Horowitz. But there the similarity ends. Mr. Turini's playing has its own clear profile - that of a painstaking musician who reveres the music."

Mr. Turini's program will include works by Schubert, Liszt and Chopin's sonata in B flat minor ("Funeral March").

Tickets may be purchased at the Box Office or reserved by calling 563-4966.

Huntingville plans carnival

HUNTINGVILLE — The Huntingville Sports Association is holding its "Winter Carnival" on Feb. 4th, 5th, and 6th.

Opening with a dance on Friday evening, the carnival will continue Saturday with a day of hockey and broomball games, ski-doo races and a bonfire at night.

On Sunday a hockey game, ice races for children, costume judging for everyone, and snow sculpture judging are scheduled. Everyone is welcome to join in the fun.

Farm accident claims life of Hatley man

SHERBROOKE (GB) — A farm accident claimed the life of Graydon Drew, 28, of Hatley Monday around 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Drew was cleaning a barn when the accident occurred, a member of the family explained. The mechanism used to carry manure out of the barn malfunctioned and pinned the victim under one of the track's supporting structures.

Coroner Jean Pierre Rivard of Magog was called in to examine the circumstances surrounding Mr. Drew's death.

Funeral service will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in Hatley's United Church.

Labor sentiments late

Federal Labor Minister John Munro told a Halifax audience last week that it is time for organized labor to be included in the planning process so as "to submerge some of the worst adversary elements of our industrial relations and to move towards a relationship based on co-operation and partnership." The labor movement, I believe, he said, "is ready to make that move."

This comes only 15 months late, 15 months after the federal government along with business moved unilaterally to install price and wage controls without ever consulting labor, organized or otherwise, and countless strikes in the post office where the government is determined to move in automated equipment against the wishes of the unions involved and without the negotiation agreed to in the last contract.

Co-operation has been used successfully in Europe, particularly in Sacandinavian countries to avoid labor distruptions and to humanize working conditions for years, yet Canada with one of the world's worst labor peace records, hums and haws its way towards recognition of this elementary necessity.

Although Mr. Munro stated in Halifax that he believes in a strong labor movement, nothing has been done to speed up the unionization of 7,500,000 workers without the clout of organized labor behind them, and we have been especially lax in recognizing the rights of white collar wage earners and professionals to collective bargaining, not to mention the various atrocities endured by unskilled immigrants.

Mr. Munro's sincere concerns are a case of too little too late. If Mr. Munro indeed believes that "a strong labor movement is one that works as part of the national system instead of fighting against it," then action, not words, is desperately needed.

The government will have to do more than just grease the squeaky wheel, it will have to lubricate heavily those too weak or simply too tired to do anything more than groan.

Concern over NATO may boost defense expenditures in US

WASHINGTON (CP) — Despite Jimmy Carter's often-repeated resolve to trim U.S. defence spending and promote disarmament, rapidly-rising congressional concern over NATO may force the new president into huge new military expenditures.

Such shifting of financial resources would seriously interfere with Carter's long-range social and economic plans, but mounting U.S. political pressure is fast removing presidential options.

Armed with ominous military evaluations, the politicians are also motivated by recent opinion polls that show a majority of the public in favor of strengthening the armed forces.

The trend in U.S. thinking has major implications for Canada, which in past years enjoyed the luxury of allowing erosion of its NATO military contribution and its armed forces in general.

Canadian diplomats have already received pointed reminders from other NATO countries that there are military dues to be paid for admission to Western European economic and political decision-making.

Upgrading of Canadian forces and reassessment of Canada's NATO role are already under way, but the country's NATO allies will expect better efforts as part of any drive to bolster the alliance against the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact.

Vice-President Walter Mondale told NATO leaders that Carter is considering boosting U.S. spending on NATO but other NATO members should be ready to increase their own contributions as well.

SOVIET BLITZKRIEG?

Early this week, two U.S. senators painted a picture of a possible Soviet blitzkrieg slashing through weak and disorganized NATO forces.

At the same time, the U.S. defence department called for a draft system that can be brought into action immediately to start replacing the hundreds of thousands of U.S. casualties that would result from a Warsaw Pact attack—presuming that NATO forces could hold out long enough for replacements to arrive.

Behind the specific concern about Western Europe is a general fear of Soviet intentions.

In recent months, intelligence estimates have warned of heavy Soviet investment in arms, a large-scale program of building shelters against nuclear attack, a widening Soviet lead in military quantity and imminent parity in the quality of weapons systems.

The most pessimistic interpretation is that the Russians will soon feel they can make big gains with a quasi-conventional war in Europe.

In that scenario, the Russians would rely on rapid achievement of their territorial goals before the United States could summon the will to make credible strategic nuclear threats.

CAN OVER-RUN NATO

The key to such a Soviet strategy is the ability to quickly over-run NATO forces, an ability that in the past has been prevented by the superior quality of NATO forces and the possibility of NATO use of tactical nuclear weapons to compensate further for numerical inferiority.

But the two senators who issued a grim report to the Senate armed services committee, Democrat Sam Nunn and Republican Dewey Bartlett, warned that NATO's edge in quality is fast vanishing and the Russians are already ahead in the range and destructive force of tactical nuclear weapons.

Worse, the senators said after their NATO tour, is their finding that Soviet forces have the ability to launch an offensive with little if any warning while the NATO command structure is so cumbersome that well-organized defence may be impossible.

The pessimists have their opponents who argue that militarists are promoting a vision of Armageddon to get more money. Georges Buis, a retired French general, said U.S. forces still have superiority and "the facts don't back up the statements of alarm."

"They happen though every year when they're about to vote the U.S. military budget and right on schedule with the NATO annual general meeting," he said.

Oil companies want the wildlife range

WASHINGTON -- High above America's last untouched wilderness in Alaska, oil company planes are flying reconnaisance missions in search of a vast new reservoir of hidden oil.

Oil already has been spotted seeping out of the ground in small pools, according to our sources, on the windswept tracts of the Arctic Wildlife Range. The oil companies believe there may be as much additional oil underneath the range as already has been tapped for the Alaska pipeline. The high-flying geologists are focusing on a massive, dome-shaped structure underground, which may be hiding a great pool of valuable oil.

Environmental groups, meanwhile, have also been alerted and are preparing for an epic battle to save the wilderness area from development. They want to protect the caribou herds, giant polar bears and flocks of wildfowl that make their home on the Wildlife Range.

Meanwhile, the oil companies are quietly pressuring the Interior Dept., our sources say, to open up the Wildlife Range for exploratory drilling. For the moment, the oil giants have run into a wall. Our sources say the Interior Dept. has refused to consider any leasing of the Arctic Range because it may be designated as a wilderness area. The decision is now up to Cecil Andrus, the new Interior secretary, who was a champion of environmentalists as governor of Idaho.

The oil companies turned to the Wildlife Range after disappointment in another area of Arctic Alaska, the Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4. The oil barons had hoped to find billions of barrels of oil there, but our sources say some of the most promising sites have now been drilled and found dry. This caused the industry to send its planes over the Arctic Wildlife Range, where another battle is shaping up between the need for energy and environmental protection.

Nuclear Dangers: In past columns, we have reported that terrorists are trying to get their hands on American nuclear weapons. Yet the nation's nuclear stockpiles are dangerously vulnerable, government investigators believe, with sloppy security that could be breached by determined extremists.

Federal officials have concentrated on safeguarding plutonium, which can be used to make nuclear bombs. But there is another element, called neptunium, which can also be used to make nuclear weapons. Unlike plutonium and uranium, however, neptunium is not subject to tough federal security measures. Incredibly, the dangerous element has been left off the federal list of "special nuclear materials."

Jack Anderson's Washington Merry-Go-Round

We have obtained an unpublished study which warns of the dangers of neptunium. It was conducted by Dr. Marvin Resnikoff, a Buffalo nuclear physicist who works for the New York Public Interest Research Group.

"It appears likely that (neptunium) has strategic importance for nuclear explosives, either as the core or as the reflector of a nuclear device," the study warns. "However, neptunium is NOT classified as a strategic material, and therefore does not have the customary safeguards and criticality standards."

The Nuclear Regulator Commission doesn't dispute these conclusions. But an NRC spokesman said the commission is not worried because there isn't enough neptunium in private hands to make a nuclear bomb. Scientists estimate it would take over 100 pounds of the material to produce an explosion.

But Resnikoff warns that private nuclear reactors have the capability to produce much more neptunium, which would then be vulnerable to theft by terrorists. The element is now used commercially in the production of pacemakers and satellites.

Panama Propaganda: The U.S. embassy in Panama may be getting ready to prepare the residents of the Canal Zone for a transfer of sovereignty to Panama. At least an internal report recommends that the State Dept. wage a propaganda campaign to sell a new treaty to the embattled residents.

We recently cited classified State Dept. cables which reported that the economy in Panama is "floundering" as a result of internal mismanagement. To divert the people's attention from their growing economic problems, Panama's military dictator, Omar Torrijos, is expected to begin clamoring more loudly for sovereignty over the Panama Canal.

President Carter, who wants to sign a new treaty in the explosive Canal Zone, will find himself walking a diplomatic tightrope between Panamanian demands and U.S. expectations.

Most Canal Zone residents, the internal study reports, view the State Dept. with "suspicion, mistrust, and resentment." They accuse it of "selling out to the government of Panama."

Therefore, Americans living in the Canal Zone "represent one of the most volatile anti-treaty factions." The climate in the Canal Zone, the report contends, is "tense," "fearful" and fraught with "uncertainty."

The average Canal Zone resident, the study says, "does not like to regard himself as an expendable pawn in national security affairs -- which, unfortunately for him, he is. Given a continued emotional buildup, with the right conditions and the right stimulation, violence becomes a possibility to be reckoned with."

But the explosive situation can be defused with an intensive public relations campaign, the study argues. With the proper "image, attitude and approach," it contends, "many can be sold on the new treaty."

The U.S. embassy should decide "what will go over well immediately, what to hold back on, what is extremely sensitive, etc.," the report urges.

An effective sales job can be abetted, the study says, by the "skillful manipulation" of the government-controlled press. "A lot of good press would be essential for success; in this situation, we could make good use of the controlled press situation on the Isthmus," the report suggests. "If this doesn't work, no propaganda will sell it."

The State Dept. could regard Americans in the Canal Zone with "benign neglect," says the study, which would "continue the low morale, frustration, and fear among Canal Zone residents." On the other hand, it says,the department could undertake a "liaison effort" to persuade the residents of the value of a new treaty.

Footnote: A State Dept. spokesman insisted that the report was prepared by an intern and had "no influence whatsoever" on U.S. policy. The author, John Jackley, is the son of Col. Lawrence Jackley, an Army officer and Panama expert who works in the Pentagon's office of Internal Security Affairs.

Adventures of a coffee consumer

COMMENT

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

Our friend, Norma, came to visit for a few days last week and tell us all the gossip from back home. The poor lady can't get out of bed in the morning without having a cup of coffee pressed under her nose like smelling salts.

Wanting to be a good host, I turned up the collar on my trench coat and ignored the hordes of bean boycotters to creep into Steinberg's to buy a bag of brew.

I was prepared for the worst. I had been watching television, reading the papers. Coffee prices were astronomical, and the bean imbibers of the world were uniting to clout the Columbian connection for all they are worth, frost or no frost.

I snuck up to the shelf like a dirty old man at a magazine counter, and grabbed a bag, not even daring to look at the price. I wanted to forgo cardiac arrest until the check-out counter, so the cashier could at least shove a mini-loto ticket into my hand before they wheeled me away.

But, curiosity got the better of me, and as I was standing in line behind a woman unloading a month's supply of white bread, soft drinks and plastic breakfast cereal, I peaked.

There under the neon glare, surrounded by the gently swaying musak, the pound of brown amphetimine was only $2.09. There had to be some mistake. Had Steinberg's not been reading the papers? Coffee was supposed to have climbed higher than Quebec's deficit. But, there it was, the little bundle of energy churning in my hand at only $2.00 and change. This was a scoop!

I returned to the shelf and there they all were, conspicuously underpriced, against the better wishes of the news media, shelf upon anxious shelf, all priced much the same as before Columbia's climatic calamity instant, freeze dried, beans, ground and drip, all the same.

I took an armful, passed through the cash with my wallet empty and my heart already flying in anticipation of the perked pick me up to come.

But what about the restaurants, the last refuge of those too hungover to plug in a coffee pot? They too were raising prices on the cupfull-from 30 cents to 40 cents; from 40 cents to 50. Did they know something Steinberg's didn't? Or, did Steinberg's know something that they didn't even want to hear about?

During one of the many sleepless nights that followed the coffee binges, I made some calculations. Let's say the restaurants didn't know that Steinberg's was selling coffee for around two bucks and they had to pay three dollars a pound. Using the drip method, you can squeeze 75 cups out of a bag of beans. At 35 cents a cup they were pulling in roughly $26.00 per pound; at 40 cents, they were making $30.00.

Their cost, however, throwing in a little extra for milk and sugar, is around six cents a cup. Something was definitely wrong. Either restaurants are depending on caffeine addicts to keep them afloat, or we are witnessing the biggest rip-off since the $3.00 bagel!

But no matter. I've had enough of long nights listening to my heart pound and suffering with indigestion from too many hamburger steaks fried in yesterday's onions. If I get the urge again, I have a few bags of brew fermenting in the freezer and I can have all the greasy coffee I want by throwing some Mazola into the percolator. But, for the confirmed java freak, maybe you can visit your local heartburn pit with a gift from Steinberg's, before the word gets out and start getting some change for your dollar bill.

Or maybe you'll say to hell with the whole thing and switch to a substitute made out of something like Latvian dried prunes.

To The Editor:

Where are our scientists who gave us the impression that science is now in control of everything animate, or inanimate? Are they ill, or absent, or are they powerless to combat, or prevent, the despicable weather which continues to make records — not only in severity but in scope as well, even invading the Sunny South with a ferocity never before reported. Yet, there are those who believe that these same scientists may be the cause of our abnormal weather conditions and not without some facts to support their theory. Is it not possible that the numbers of satellites whirring around in space, and the effects of so many nuclear explosions that their combined forces have brought about some sort of an unknown reaction in the stratosphere which brought about such undesirable weather conditions? These same people point out that the weather deteriorated to a marked extent after the Chinese exploded a heavy nuclear device not long ago.

We feel that United States and the USSR are making sincere efforts to eliminate surface testing of these deadly devices, but of what avail would it be for those two nations to cease testing of these weapons when others, such as China, and France, in spite of public opinion, continue to detonate major explosions and scare the world with dreaded fall-outs from these beasts.

This brings to mind the sudden desire of the present PQ government in Quebec to have closer relations with France. Can this be interpreted that they are fully in accord with the policies of the French Government as regards nuclear testing, and, that they applaud the action of the same French government for releasing from custody a man recently, who, it is reported, was the master-mind in the massacre of Jewish athletes at Munich some four years ago? We also remember an incident in which sailors, trying to interfere with French testing of such weapons, reported that they had been beaten up - strange bedfellow for sure.

But, without being biased in any way, can this sudden and viable "rapprochement" with France by the Levesque government mean that they would cooperate with France in the future testing of nuclear weapons — perhaps in our Far North? If so, this would be strange indeed, because in the World Wars of 1914-18 and 1939-45, when in each care, France lay prostrate under the heel of the invader, the response to go to the assistance of that beleaguered nation was far from being spontaneous in La Belle Province — Why, now?

In my opinion, we, as citizens of the Province of Quebec, and of the Dominion of Canada, should know by direct answers Yes or No, the decision of the Levesque Government on the three following questions:

1. Are you in favor of continued surface testing of nuclear weapons by France, or by any other nation?

2. Were you in favor of releasing a man from custody, who, it is alleged, was the master-mind in the Munich massacre?

3. Would your Government, at any time during your tenure of office, give permission to — or be a party to — nuclear testing in this Province?

Miscellaneous showers

SAWYERVILLE — Miss Sally Matthew was guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Ross Bellam with Mrs. Douglas Mackay and Mrs Harry Graham Jr. as assistant hostesses.

After the guest of honour had been presentyed with a corsage by Mrs. Bellam, she was excorted to a prettily decorated chair and presented with an attractive assortment of gifts.

Mrs. Graham pinned a corsage on Mrs. Lincoln Matthew, mother of the bride-to-be and Mrs. Mackay pinned one on Sally's grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Matthew.

After the gifts were passed around and admired by all, Sally graciously expressed her thanks.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses. The Shower cake made and beautifully decorated by Mrs. A. Goode was trimmed with pink roses and topped with a pair of Brides slippers.

Made to melt hearts

By Ailene Claire
NEA Food Editor

Romantically St. Valentine's Day is approved as a time for the giving of sweets and special gifts to close friends and family favorites.

What better way to send out a few love notes than to bake some cookies which will be love notes for those of all ages. Heart O'Mine cookies done with a heart-shaped cutter are Cupid-approved. Flaky pastry-like puffs are filled with red strawberry preserves and have a nut-like flavor from old-fashioned oats plus a touch of cream cheese. These should melt someone's heart on St. Valentine's Day.

HEART O'MINE COOKIES

- 1 cup butter or margarine, soft
- 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, soft
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup oats, quick or old-fashioned, uncooked
- Strawberry preserves

Beat butter and cream cheese together until creamy. Blend in vanilla. Sift together flour and salt. Add to creamed mixture, mixing well. Stir in oats. Chill dough about 1 hour.

Roll out on lightly floured board or canvas to one-fourth-inch thickness. Cut with floured two and one-half-inch heart-shaped cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Press with thumb to make indentation in center of each cookie; fill with a scant one-half teaspoon strawberry preserves. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 16 to 18 minutes or until a delicate golden brown. Makes two and one-half dozen cookies.

UCW hold workshop

Women throughout the Quebec-Sherbrooke United Church Presbyterial gathered in Plymouth-Trinity United Church, Sherbrooke, for a day of enrichment on January 13th. The theme for the day was "What Kind of World?", and books and materials relating to this were on display.

The president, Laura Gaudine, welcomed those who had come, and opened with a call to worship. Patti Elvidge, a student at Champlain CEGEP, delighted the group as she led in gospel and action songs in both the morning and afternoon sessions.

Rev. Ron Coughlin gave a talk on the theology of alternative life styles and introduced the leaders of five workshops. Each person chose one to attend during the morning. The workshops and leaders were: Nutrition - Norma McCord; Physical Fitness - Pierre Tessier, Y.M.C.A., Sherbrooke; Environment - Thelma Pitman; Crafts for Leisure Hours from Re-cycled Materials - Alice Merrill; and Getting Along with Less - Ron Coughlin.

After lunch Ron led the group in an environmental game which resulted in much levity. Sara Surjadinata chaired the reporting from the workshop leaders or facilitators. It was interesting to discover that the discussions and findings in the various workshops were closely related. For instance, physical fitness depends to a great extent on nutrition, relaxation and exercise. Meals made of wholesome ingredients are generally inexpensive. Cutting down in the use of electrical appliances will help the environment as well as the budget. It was suggested that we form groups to bring pressure to bear on corporations to abolish such things as double packaging, which increases prices and is detrimental to the environment. The craft and environmental workshops had display tables which were very interesting. During lunch Norma McCord gave samples of some very tasty and nutritious food she had brought from home.

Zen Judson spoke about Amnesty International, telling what is involved in being a member. Letters written by individuals have proven to be effective in having many political prisoners brought to trial and subsequently released. Zen wore a purple stole made and sold by the wives of Korean pastors who are now imprisoned without trial for saying no more than we say without a thought.

Mildred Miller expressed the courtesies of the day. An informal worship service conducted by Rev. Fred Tees brought the program to a close. He reviewed the day and related it to events in the early church. After several scripture readings and hymns, Mr. Tees commissioned the group to be followers of Jesus and faithful stewards in the world.

Kay's Kitchen Korner

By Kay Taylor

After rich holiday fare, I find a "light" dessert meets with general approval. The following is also delightful in summer months or to serve after a hearty meal.

TOASTED SNOW SQUARES

- 1 envelope plain gelatine
- 4 tablespoons cold water
- 1 cup boiling water
- two-third cup granulated sugar
- 3 egg whites, unbeaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water; let soak 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir till dissolved.

Add sugar; cool slightly; then add egg whites, salt, vanilla. Beat with rotary or electric beater at high speed until mixture resembles thick cream. Turn into a 9 x 12 inch pan and chill. Cut in 1½ inch squares when firm, roll in cracker crumbs. Arrange lightly in dessert glasses. Top with butter sauce.

BUTTER SAUCE

- 2 egg yolks
- one-third cup granulated sugar
- one-third cup melted butter or margarine
- grated rind of lemon
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- one-third cup cream, whipped

Beat egg yolks thick and lemony; add sugar, continuing to beat. Add butter, juice and rind. Add cream last, folding in lightly.

Be sure you beat the jelly mixture sufficiently - otherwise the egg whites will separate. It is no problem if using an electric beater or a mixer. More cream may be added to the sauce recipe using the same ingredients, if wished, but I always make it as given. You will need about 16 graham crackers - rolled fine with a rolling pin to coat your "squares".

With some time of winter weather still ahead, a steamed pudding often meets with approval. The following is nice and light and always met with "raves" from my family.

STEAMED COCOA PUDDING

- one-third cup butter
- one-third cup sugar
- one-third cup corn syrup or honey
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 cup flour
- 1/4 cup cocoa
- 1½ teaspoon baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter, add sugar, cream well. Add egg and beat well. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with milk and corn syrup or honey. Add vanilla.

Steam in a lightly greased mould set on a rack and covered tightly, for two hours. It may be also baked in oven 325 F. for 1 to 1¼ hours. (I always have steamed - it is delicious). Serve with cream or a vanilla sauce. I personally like a lemon sauce with it.

For kind readers sending in recipes, please note my Box number is changed to Box 833, Knowlton, Que. JOE IVO. Telephone is the same 243-6177. I love hearing from you - Kay.

Shawl has chameleon possibility

By Judy Love

Did you ever find a hat or a dress or a bag you liked enough to want one in every color? That's how you'll probably feel about a great wrap-around one-style shawl.

Knit one — and you may just knit another. Each shawl can look different if you work one in a solid shade and the second in new marble-toned yarns.

A coat-sized shawl like this one has a dramatic flair you just can't get with a sweater or jacket. And it's a nice change from buttons, zipper and belts of coats and jackets.

The shawl is also so quick to knit that it makes a great gift that's sure to fit, all for a small investment of your time.

You can have your choice of either a solid color or a marbled effect if you use a yarn like Bernat's Catkin, a wool with nylon blend imported from Jaeger of England. The yarn knits into a nubby boucle, and you'll work the shawl on No. 10 needles with sixteen 50-gram balls.

SHAWL knit from single-style pattern takes on different looks when knit with solid or marble-toned yarns.

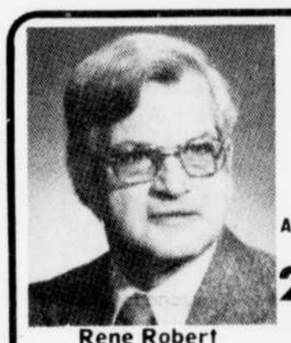

KNIT-KNACKS

Dear Judy Love: How is the best way to do a ribbing for waistbands and sleeve edges that won't stretch out of shape easily? M.V., New York, N.Y.

Dear M.V.: My favorite method for ribbing is to make it separately and then add as part of the garment only after it has been finished to the desired size. This method gives much more firmness and elasticity and really isn't hard to do.

You should work in single crochet through the back loops of the stitches only. For instance, for the waistband on the back of a sweater, work the desired height in inches to form the necessary length, which is the width of your waistband. Then fasten off. Next, work one row of single crochet along one side of the strip. This row now is the starting point for working the remainder of the back of the sweater. You would work ribbed cuffs in the same manner. For ribbings for the neck and armholes of a sleeveless sweater, the work is done similarly and then sewn in place onto the finished garment. Keep knitting. — Judy Love.

ANN LANDERS SAYS

Take sink or swim approach

Dear Ann Landers: A neighbor of mine was struck by lightning last Friday. She was buried today.

I never knew anyone who had been killed by lightning before. Her tragic death got me to thinking. I wonder how many people would know what to do if they should get caught in an electrical storm. I'm not sure I would know. Will you please spell out some Do's and Don'ts for your readers? Thanks, Ann. — Sad Neighbor

Dear Neighbor: First the Don'ts:

1. Don't stand under a lone tree.
2. If you are swimming or fishing, get out of the water as fast as you can.
3. Get off bicycles, golf carts or motorcycles immediately.
4. Don't touch anything metal, such as a wire fence, a golf club or a flagpole. Metal objects attract lighting.

Now the Do's:

Get out of the storm promptly and go into a building or a closed automobile.

If you are in the woods, crouch down in a low area under dense brush.

If you feel your hair stand on end (an indication that you are about to be struck) fall to your knees and place your hands on your knees to reduce chanced of your body acting as a conductor.

Please note: The most frequent victims are farmers, fishermen, golfers and cyclists.

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "Meant Well Parents" hit the nail on the head. Our son was a bright, charming, creative child with a high IQ. He did poorly in school, got into all kinds of trouble, took drugs and caused us many sleepless nights.

Finally my husband said to him, "You are not going to ruin our lives. Fron now on you are responsible for yourself. If you make it, fine. If you don't you will have to suffer the consequences."

From that day on we refused to give him one cent. By so doing we released him psychologically and put him in charge of his own life. We dealt with him in a kindly manner but let him know the apron strings were cut. My heart ached but I knew this was the right thing to do.

The boy had some very rough times but when he finally realized he had no one to depend on but himself, he began to shape up. Our son is now 26 years of age. He has a good job, is putting himself through night school and is off drugs. The transformation is fantastic. He's a pleasure to be around. — His Mother

Dear Mother: Thanks for the assist. I've said repeatedly that parents who give room, board and $$ to drug-addicted, dropout kids encourage their dependency. The sink-or-swim approach is the way to go.

CONFIDENTIAL to Please Repeat the Wise Words of John Harsen Rhoades: Gladly. "Do more than exist — live. Do more than touch — feel. Do more than look — observe. Do more than hear — listen. Do more than listen — understand. Do more than talk — SAY SOMETHING."

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 and in love with Rick, age 21. Last year I gave birth to a beautiful baby girl. Rick's mother didn't believe the baby was his. Naturally this created some hard feelings between her and me. She began to work on Rick and we started to argue a lot. Finally we agreed to stop seeing each other for a while and maybe get back together in a few months.

Two weeks ago, I learned from a mutual friend that Rick married someone else. (A girl his mother liked.)

I never asked him for support money and he never offered any. This baby IS Rick's and many people feel he has some responsibiliby to her. Is it too late? — Jane

Dear Jane: You need a lawyer. If you can't afford one, look up Legal Aid in the directory. They do a wonderful job.

EATON

EVERYBODY INTO THE WATER means everybody — providing they are among the some 700 swimmers participating in Hong Kong's 64th annual cross harbor swim. Jumping in at the Kowloon pier, the swimmers splashed some 1,500 yards to Hong Kong Island, in the distance. Winner was a 15-year-old student.

Senior Citizens

ROCK ISLAND — Approximately 65 to 70 Community Senior Citizens gathered at Stanstead South church Fellowship Room in Rock Island on Thursday, January 13.

At 12:30 noon members of the church Ladies Aid met to serve the buffet luncheon of casseroles and cup cakes for dessert. The Blessing was given by Mrs. Irwin Goodwin.

After the luncheon it had been announced that Mrs. Antoinette Brault of Beebe had died the day previous. She was a "regular" at the gatherings each month and enjoyed all the pilgrimages. In tribute to her a short service took place. With Mrs. Agnes Myers playing the piano all joined to sing a favorite hymn "What a Friend We have in Jesus" that was followed by The Lord's Prayer. A Memorial Mass was purchased from her church, Ste. Therese l'Enfant de Jesu in Beebe.

As one of the gals was that day observing her past 39 but plus 40 birthday, Mrs. Jean Jobel of Rock Island was seranaded with all singing The Birthday Song accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Anne Rollins. Mrs. Geneva Lyons, another young gal, presented to Mrs. Jobel a corsage of purple velvet violets and a congratulatory card along with the good wishes of all for "many happy returns". An old Longfellow poem learned by many older people in school was read. This was The Village Blacksmith, "Under the spreading chestnut tree, the Village smithy stands" -- and this was dedicated to Mrs. Jobel. Then all joined to sing The Golden Agers Song.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing cards. The next gathering will be February 10 in the Fellowship Room of the church to which all Senior Citizens are cordially invited.

W.A. and W.M.S. meet

MELBOURNE — The W.A. and W.M.S. meetings of L'Eglise des Cantons de L'Est were held on Wednesday, Jan. 12th at the home of Mrs. Philippe Perron in Richmond.

The president of the W.A. Mrs. Lucien Perron opened the meeting with a hymn after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary Mrs. Lucille Vidal.

The treasurer's report was given by the treasurer Mrs. Ray Gifford. New business was discussed and the meeting was closed by repeating the Auxiliary Prayer.

W.M.S.

The vice-president of the W.M.S. Mrs. Gerald Fortier opened the meeting with the installation of officers. Several verses of the Bible taken from St. John were read and a hymn was sung.

The installation of officers for the year 1977 was given by the president Mrs. Real Larochelle and closed with a prayer.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Fortier and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Lucien Perron.

New business was discussed and a news letter was received from the Women's Missionary Society. The annual report of the Quebec Presbyterial annual meeting was read. It was very much appreciated by the home auxiliary.

The study for the evening was based on "The Christian Conference of Asis". Members of the group read parts from the study and the meeting was then closed with prayer.

Myrtle Rebekah Lodge

LENNOXVILLE — The annual card party sponsored by Myrtle Rebekah Lodge No. 28 was held in the lower hall of the Masonic Temple where Bridga and Five Hundred were played at fifteen table with a prize for each table.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Ernest Warnes. The players were thanked by Mrs. Doris Elson, Noble Grand. The tickets were in charge of Mrs. Armand Gregoire.

Door prizes were claimed by Miss Marion Daniels, Mr. Chester Squire, Mrs. Aylmer Pickett, Mrs. Alta Fower, Mrs. Gwen True, Mrs. Fred Berry, Mr. Fred Walker, Mr. Byron Labonte, Mrs. Everett Moore, Mrs. Fred Walker, Mrs. Serge Beland, Mrs. Earl Findlay, Mrs. Herbert Gilchrist, Mrs. Donald McElrea and Mrs. Stewart Coates.

The party was convened by Mrs. Kenneth McLeod and Mrs. Thornton Cleveland. Refreshments were served at the close.

Ladies Aid meets

ROCK ISLAND — The Stanstead South church Ladies Aid met in the church hall, Rock Island the morning of January 13. In the absence of the President, Mrs. Gordon Johnston the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Irwin Goodwin who read an article from the Upper Room.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and several communications, mostly thank you's for remembrances. Mrs. Harry Goodall read the annual treasury report.

It was voted to donate $200. to the church Board and $100. to each the Sunday school and the Mission funds. It was noted that the Three Steeples joint service will be held January 30 in Stanstead South church and the annual congregational meeting on February 2 with a pot luck supper. It was thought that when the Canusa Unit meet they will delegate assistance of the Aid people. Plans were made to cook the popular once a year delicious beef stew with home made pies for dessert to serve at the Senior Citizens luncheon on February 10. The meeting adjourned.

MILAN

Mrs. Margaret Bennett Knight and Mrs. Duncan McLeod attended the service in St. Paul's Church Scotstown and Margaret sang 'I'd rather Have Jesus than Anything' accompanying herself on guitar.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Farrell and Sons of Lennoxville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. David Nicholson to help celebrate their parents 40th Anniversary.

The Great Sphinx was constructed of masonry and carved limestone near the present Giza, Egypt, around 2900 B.C.

WI meeting

FORDYCE — The Fordyce W.I. met on Jan. 5 in the United Church in Cowansville with eighteen members present.

President Mrs. Lewis greeted the members and wished them all a happy New Year.

Collect was repeated in unison, and the Motto of the Month was: "From a small beginning this program of ACWW has developed in confidence of members around the world. It has been a learning experience through letter friends."

Silence was observed in memory of the late Miss K. Moore, and the following eulogy was read by the president: - "Our Branch has been saddened by the passing of one of our very faithful and devoted member, Miss Moore.

"Miss Moore joined the Cowansville W.I. in 1944, but joined the Fordyce Branch when it was formed. "Although she was not always able to attend meetings, she did so much for this Branch in many ways. Her kindness and concern for each one of us shall be missed. Deep in our hearts her memory will be kept, to love, cherish and never forget."

Roll call was to bring and describe the flag of another country.

Minutes were read and approved. Report on the meeting concerning taxes for picnic area was given and the area is now exempt from all taxes.

Treasurer's report showed a satisfactory balance.

A donation is to be given the Cornell Museum in Stanbridge East, in memory of Miss Kathleen Moore.

Correspondence was read - mostly "thank you" notes, also a letter from the District of Bedford Resource Center.

Convenor reports were: Agriculture - read by Mrs. N. Sherrer - "Old Time Harvest of Memory."

Citizenship - Hymn of All Nations was sung.

Education - Mrs. Dougall read about the New Museum and Library to open in Granby soon.

Home Economics - Mrs. Longeway read about fabricated foods and post office conversion. Also delay in the Metric System.

Publicity - Mrs. G. Bromby read "WI has come a long way".

Welfare and Health - Mrs. B. Ingalls read about "Mother's Medicine Cabinet of long ago".

Pennies for Friendship were collected and five members contributed to the Birthday Box.

Program for the meeting was planned by Mrs. Helen David and articles read were. "Coady report on Habitat" and "Who was Elsie Zimmern?" Also several humorous poems.

Contest using the letters ACWW was given and won by Mrs. N. Sherrer.

Members were asked to plan to bring handiwork, made during the winter, to the county convention, in April.

A suggestion was made for celebrating the county's 65th Anniversary in June. To be submitted at the county meeting.

Drawing was won by Mrs. Creasor, proceeds to go to Special Fund.

Members were invited to the home of Mrs. M. Lewis on January 19 and asked to bring handiwork, Pot luck.

The February meeting will be held at the United Church Hall in Cowansville on the first Wednesday.

ACW meeting

SCOTSTOWN — Mrs. Walter MacKenzie was hostess for the Annual meeting of the Anglican Church Women on Jan. 12 at her home on Coleman Hill with six members present.

Mrs. MacKenzie opened the meeting with prayers. Mrs. Bea Atkin read the minutes of the December meeting and the annual report of the years activities. Mrs. Fred Buck gave the monthly treasurer's report and the annual financial statement. These reports all showed a busy and successful year. Several Christmas cards and thank you notes from friends and shut-ins were read.

The World Day of Prayer will be held in St Alban's Anglican Church on March 4th. Mrs. Atkin has already received the leaflets for the service.

The present officers were re-elected for 1977 which are as follows; President, Mrs. Basil Woolley; Vice-Pres. Mrs. Walter MacKenzie; Secretary Mrs. Bea Atkin and Treasurer, Mrs. Fred Buck; Quilt and fancy work convenor, Mrs. Basil Woolley; apron and holder convenor, Mrs. Susie Wonnacott with other members assisting these convenors.

Highlights from the annual reports showed that the members of the A.C.W. were hostesses for a baby shower an two bridal showers, made and sold five quilts and quilted six other quilts, had a garage sale and several card parties. Remembered sick and shut-in members during the year, gave a donation of money to the Sherbrooke Hospital, paid for the repairs made on the hall foundation and made a donation of money to the Town of Scotstown for the use of the Cultural Center for card parties and showers.

Money was raised by sale of quilts made and for quilting others, card parties, food sales, articles and fancy work sold during the year and a successful garage sale and donations of money by members and friends.

Mrs. George MacDonald will be hostess for the February meeting at her home. Meeting was adjourned and Mrs. MacKenzie served delicious refreshments at the dining room table and a social time was enjoyed.

Carter envisions ban of nuclear weapons

In his first interview as president, conducted Sunday for publication today, Carter acknowledged that he does not know whether the Soviet Union will agree to his proposal for a quick halt that would stop even underground testing. But, he said: "They have sent an encouraging message back."

The president, meeting in his Oval Office with four reporters for The Associated Press and United Press International, also expressed optimism that there will be "fairly rapid ratification" of a new strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviets.

And he said his National Security Council is in agreement on the need to reduce overseas sales of U.S.-made weapons, but that he does not anticipate "a moratorium" on such sales.

On strategic arms talks, Carter hinted that he might be willing to bypass for later consideration of a longstanding East-West debate over how to deal with the U.S. Cruise missile and Soviet Backfire bomber in any new strategic arms pact. He said: "I would not let those two items stand in the way of some agreement."

OUTLINES PROGRAM

Saying that he "very deeply" meant what he said in his inaugural address about ultimately eliminating all nuclear weapons everywhere, Carter, in his most detailed national security-foreign policy statement to date, envisaged a three-step effort aiming toward that end.

—First, he said, the two superpowers would have to "put firm limits on ourselves," as the objective of a new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT).

—Then the United States and the Soviet Union would go a step further and reduce their own stockpiles of atomic weapons which would, he said, "demonstrate to the world we are sincere."

—From that point he would seek "reductions including all nations, even those who have a relatively small inventory now."

"I would like to proceed quickly and aggressively with a comprehensive test-ban treaty," he said. "I am in favor of eliminating the testing of all nuclear devices, instantly and completely." He said this included underground testing as well.

And, the president said, the United States will use "every means available to us" to keep nuclear arms from spreading to countries that do not have them now.

Carter's apparent optimism about prospects for negotiations with the Soviets was matched by an expression of confidence that a Middle East peace conference is "very likely this year."

MATTER NOT DECIDED

Asked whether he would approve Palestinian representation at such a meeting, the president said the matter has not been decided but that Palestinian participation "would probably be as part of one of the Arab delegations."

Carter discussed these other topics:

—"I feel quite at ease about the percentage of blacks" named to high administration posts, he said, but added: "I wish that we could get more women, in particular, in the top levels of government.

—He expressed no surprise at the reaction both for and against his blanket pardon Friday of Vietnam-era draft evaders who were not guilty of violent acts. Carter said: "It is something that should have been done. I was very grateful to be the one to do it."

—"Within the next week or two," he said, "I will make my first report to the American people on what we have already achieved and the time schedule for additional proposals."

Carter said that at his first National Security Council meeting Saturday, members were unanimous in embracing "the necessity for reducing arms sales or having very tight restraints on future commitments" to deliver weapons to other countries.

"I have asked," he said, "that all approvals of arms sales, for a change, be submitted to me directly before the recommendations go to Congress."

Expressing concern about the reprocessing of spent fuel from nuclear power plants into radioactive material that can be used in nuclear weapons, Carter said: "We would like to have this put under international control."

He also voiced opposition to the building of nuclear-reprocessing plants in any countries that don't already have them.

French TV condemned in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — In the nearly four months that it's been on the air, the CBC's controversial $2.5 million French language television station here has attracted little attention. In fact, its ratings might be the worst in Canadian television history.

About 40,000 British Columbians signed a petition to the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission condemning the station's opening. Meanwhile, surveys show 3,600 have turned to CBUFT in prime viewing time.

In the slack mid-day period, the station had fewer than 100 viewers, according to statistics released by the Bureau of Broadcast Measurement.

The BBM survey, carried out during three week-long periods in the fall, is based on a statistical cross-section of the Greater Vancouver area's 888,630 households. The ratings showed CBUFT with a peak audience of 3,600 between 6:70 and 7:30 p.m., a time when 116,400 were tuned to the CBC's English-language outlet.

CBUFT spokesman Jacques Landry says the BBM survey isn't suited to measure the audience of a station aiming its programming at a language minority.

"The only way we could ever get an accurate reading," Mr. Landry says, "is to go into virtually every home where French is spoken and see what they're watching and that would cost a fortune."

POTENTIAL AUDIENCE

He estimates his station has a potential audience of 154,000 in the Greater Vancouver area, including 100,000 students of French. Of the other 54,000, he says "about 20,000 speak French as their mother tongue and the rest are bilingual or trilingual."

He says part of CBUFT's poor showing can be traced to technical problems, which have overshadowed what critics have called some of the best programming in North America.

Heading the station's program list is the three-hour weekly show Beaux Dimanches, a drama and variety program. CBC's Montreal French-language headquarters also provides comprehensive public affairs programming and highly regarded late movies—some of which feature plenty of sex and nudity.

One program the station was counting on—regular coverage of Montreal Canadiens hockey games—was cancelled when audience-hungry Vancouver Canucks pointed out that the CBC is contractually forbidden from broadcasting conflicting games of one NHL team in the home city of another.

RECEPTION BAD

To make matters worse, CBUFT often can't be received on sets in the Vancouver-area because of interference from other channels.

Mr. Landry says this problem should be eased when the station moves to its permanent Channel 4 spot on the dial in November. It now is broadcast on UHF and two cable channels.

When the move comes, station officials expect another tidal wave of protest from English-language viewers who will find ABC's Howard Cosell and Monday Night Football bumped off the air.

John Reynolds, the Progressive Conservative MP for Burnaby-Richmond-Delta who headed the campaign to keep CBUFT off the air, says the low ratings bear out his claim that the station is an expensive sacrifice to the principle of bilingualism.

"When we were campaigning against the station, a lot of people were accusing us of bigotry, of being anti-French," he says. "But we were fighting it on economic grounds."

CBUFT cost $2.5 million to put on the air and has an annual operating budget of $800,000 to pay for its staff of 37 and its nightly 10-minute newscast.

Without a local advertising staff, the station generates no revenue. Commercials aired on the station are purchased by national sponsors from the network in Montreal.

Kohout defends human rights

PRAGUE (AP) — "I'm beginning to hate the word dissident," says human-rights advocate Pavel Kohout, Czechoslovakia's most-successful playwright abroad and most vilified at home.

"That's what the East has been accusing us of being," Kohout said in an interview with The Associated Press. 'It implies something unsavory and militant that is directed against the state order.

"We are defenders of human rights and that, mind you, in a country which has incorporated human rights into its laws."

He said his endorsement of a new Czechoslovak human-rights manifesto called Charter 77 is part of his longtime goal of seeking a "control mechanism" to make Communist leaders more responsive to their people.

"The search for a control mechanism is what is at issue now," he added. "I don't want to turn back the wheels of progress and return to capitalism, but rather to achieve a socialism that is as good as possible.,"

WIFE ATTACKED

His wife, Jelena, sat with her left leg stretched out stiffly. She said her knee was injured Jan. 10 when secret police pounced on her outside their apartment house and dragged her away to be interogated about Charter 77.

The Kohouts were among more than 300 persons who signed the document. It calls on the government to live up to constitutional and legal guarantees of basic human rights.

The couple gave this account of what happened afterward:

On Jan. 11, police surrounded Kohout's car as he was driving his wife to the hospital. When the Kohouts refused to get out, one secret police agent threatened them with a pistol while another forced the door open with acrowbar. The police punched and kicked Kohout, then took him to Cuzyne prison on the outskirts of Prague for questioning.

"The one who waved the gun went completely wild and began slapping me across the face and cursing me, 'I'll teach you, you whore,'" said Mrs. Kohout. "But those are just unimportant personal difficulties," her husband interjected. Others have fared much worse. Four persons, including three Charter 77 signers, were arrested on charges of "serious criminal activities directed against the foundations of the republic."

SUPRISED BY TACTICS

Kohout, one of the the leading intellectuals connected with Alexander Dubcek's ill-fated effort in 1968 to liberalize Czechoslovak communism, said he had no illusions that Gustav Husak's Soviet-backed government would welcome Charter 77, "but I didn't expect the terror on the streets that we experienced and measures taken outside the law."

The government disconnected the telephones of the playwright and other signers of the protest. Ten or more lost their jobs. Others have had their automobiles summoned for "technical inspection" and then have had their car papers taken away. The Kohouts have been ordered to vacate their two-room apartment across from the presidential palace.

Kohout has not been allowed to publish in Czechoslovakia since Soviet tanks put an end to Dubcek's reform movement in August 1968.

Authorities allowed Kohout to go abroad for openings of his most recent play, Roulette, in Switzerland, Austria and West Germany, and he said they made clear to him that they would like him to stay abroad.

"I am very happy here and will do everything to insure remaining here," he said.

THE BEST NUTRITIONAL BUYS OF THE WEEK

Fruits, vegetables and poultry are this week's best buys.
"Utility" whole chicken is simply "B" category chicken which has torn skin or a wing or two missing. It also has less fat and is less meaty than Canada "A" chickens. But for the price, it is still a good buy. The nutritional value is not affected and we all know that poultry is an excellent meat substitute with less fat—if we do not eat the skin; consequently less calories. Allow one serving per pound of whole chicken and two servings per pound of breasts or thighs.
Frozen salmon is also an excellent buy for its nutritive value.
Looking at fruits and vegetables, there are California oranges, potatoes, radishes, Anjou pears, canned kernels of corn, canned mixed vegetables, canned tomatoes and 5 lb bags of rice.

Suggested menus of the week

Cucumber and orange on a nest of lettuce
Lime blossom chicken in a crock
Tomato rice
Raisin and oat stuffed baked apples
Milk

Mixed vegetable aspic
Green onion and lemon on a broiled salmon steak
Baked potato
Tossed salad with radishes
Anjou pears—homemade cookies with pecans
Milk

Bon appetit!

Derby Lions Club meets

NEWPORT - The Derby Lions Club met the evening of Monday January 17 at the Doc Holiday room of Longbranch in Newport. During the serving of the delicious steak dinner by the management, King Lion Clayton Dumas conducted the business of the evening and Kermit Smith was guest speaker.

The Lions recited the pledge of allegiance, Stan Bickness lead for all to repeat the Lord's Prayer and the Lions toast was proposed by King Lion Dumas.

After John Flood gave the secretary and treasury report, ways to raise funds to meet expenses were discussed. Some 30 to 35 Christmas hampers were delivered to area people at a cost of $649 of which the Salvation Army are contributing $150. The remainder, some $500. will be paid by the Lions. Several thank you notes were received from many recipients of the Christmas hampers.

Dave Unrop will be co-ordinator for the basketball tournament that will be held at N.C.U.H.S. on the dates of February 18 - 19. There will be more publicity on this event as the date nears.

January 24 was Light Blub day and this was a project for eye care. The members approved the action of the executive to sponsor the revitilized Boy Scout Troop 80 with Milton Porter again the Scout Master assisted by Bruce Muir. At the thime of sponsorship there were 20 boys enrolled in this wonderful scouting movement.

Lions Arthur Judd and John Flood left early after dinner to attend a meeting of the town of Derby selectmen in regards to the construction of the proposed town community hall in Derby and to have this in the town meeting warning for the March session. Mr. Flood said that the man power for construction has been offered by the building trade class of N.C.U.H.S. should this program be approved at the March meeting.

Wesley Peck, Program convener, said he has tried to have excellent speakers at the monthly meetings and he would like to see more Lions attending. He than called upon Kermit Smith to speak. Mr. Smith is a past president of this club, he is Orleans county representative in the State House in Montpelier and chose to speak upon matters there. He said the House has been in session for two weeks during which time a speaker of the House and clerk have been chosen and sworn into ofice. He made reference to bills before the House and to the surtax levied in 1969, to repeals and so forth.

Education and human services take the most monies, he said, of the budget and quoted statistics concerning this. There are also problems before the House, the ambulance service which is done on a voluntary basis and the need for security of those who man the ambulances. It was noted one is liable to a fine of $100. for passing an accident. He predicts the bill banning phosphates, and the election laws are big issues.

The by-ways and bridges are another problem as the loggers trucking seek over the present 7300 weight. Then there is the tax reform, the Land Use, and the Blue Law. Mr. Smith said he favors zero budgeting and sunset laws. Mr. Smith's talk was enlightening to his listeners and shows there is much work ahead for those who sit in the State House in Montpelier. A question and answer period followed.

King Lion Dumas thanked Kerm for speaking and bringing some of the highlights of the 1977 session of legislation and how it will affect the Northeast Kingdom in the days ahead.

Parent-Teachers club meets

DERBY LINE (IH) — Members of the Parents-Teachers Club of the Derby Elementary school, Derby Line, gathered in the Reading Center on Wednesday evening, Jan. 19 for the monthly meeting and to hear the speaker, Dick White of Derby.

The president, Mrs. M. Rhodes, conducted the meeting and reports were heard. It was gratifying to learn a sum of $63.45 was added to the treasury from the bake sale during the Christmas presentation of the students.

Cereal box tops are still sought. An order is being made up to send for items from these for the school and another from soup wrappers. This is an economical way to have some of the smaller items for the school.

Mrs. Carole Greenwood, program secretary, announced that at the February meeting a personnel from ETV Burlington will be the speaker to talk about program planning. Also at this meeting some one from the school board will be attending and the school budget will be available to the members that will be on the Derby Town Warning in March to be voted upon.

The recommendation will be made to the 1977-78 club executive to have a meeting and to organize for the upcoming year in September. A meeting will not be held in December when people are so busy with Christmas preparations.

Miss Abare announced that the ways and means committee has planned a flea market as a fund-raising project; more details to be given at the February meeting.

It was also announced that a public health service well baby clinic will be held Jan. 24 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Derby church Fellowship Hall and all children are welcome.

After adjournment Mrs. Greenwood introduced Dick White, the speaker, who is a lawyer in the area. His topic was consumer protection. He touched upon the several different areas of this Protection laws in regard to cars, food and merchandise as well as the strict advertising laws of the state.

He discussed "deceptive pricing", "comparison prices" and noted that consumer protection has investigators working in the state to protect against consumer crime.

Chain letters, pyramids are illegal frauds, so are certain contests, such as the many that come in the mails. Payment of bills is another aspect of the consumer laws and another is interest on credit card payments.

A lively question and answer period followed and all felt they knew a lot more about consumer protection at the end of Mr. White's informative talk.

All enjoyed cup cakes and beverages served a committee in charge.

UCW meeting

BEEBE — The first meeting of 1977, of Unit One U.C.W. was held in the church parlor on Jan. 12, when 17 members paid membership dues. One was also paid for a shut-in member.

Mrs. Margaret Mosher opened the meeting by all repeating the Purpose and Function followed by the Lord's Prayer. She also read a short poem from the Friendship Book and wished all a Happy New Year.

The devotional leader, Mrs. Myers, used the theme, "Turn a New Page" in keeping with the beginning of a new year. The Scripture lesson was read from Philippines chapter three of the Jerusalem Bible, closing with a prayer.

Routine reports were read and approved. Mrs. E. Miller who had received only English programs for the World Day of Prayer service, stated she had now received several copies of bilingual ones.

Correspondence included many thank-you notes, two letters from the foster-girl, an invitation to attend Unit Two meeting in February.

A member voiced the thanks of a shut-in member who had been given a sunshine basket, for which she was most grateful. Mrs. B. Wilkinson gave a full and very encouraging treasurer's report.

One bill was presented and voted to be paid. Convenors — Literature, Mrs. F. Finlayson read an article entitled "Hungry Cry for Bread."

Several visitations were reported. Annual reports were given by each chairman which showed a very busy year and satisfactory results.

The secretary reported on the activities of the group. The treasurer gave a full financial report, with all obligations met, a substantial bank balance was reported.

Mrs. F. Finlayson, literature chairman, read many interesting articles from church magazines.

Community friendship, Mrs. Aulis stated she had sent several cards to shut-ins at home and in hospitals, the bereaved and birthday cards to senior citizens.

Flower Committee Chairman, Mrs. G. Laberee stated that several bouquets had been placed in church and following service these were taken to shut-ins.

Miss V. Moranville, social functions, kept the hostess calendar and hostesses in order. Mrs. E. Miller said 49 visits had been reported but she felt there were many more made without reporting them. She also stated the subscribers for the Observer Magazine were less than last year.

These reports were accepted as read. Mrs. Mosher read odds and ends from a short bulletin from Rev. Jaycey. Mrs. Mosher vacated the president's chair and Mrs. E. Miller, incoming president, took over the meeting.

She expressed thanks to the out-going president for her leadership during her term of office. This was approved by a hearty clapping of hands for Mrs. Mosher. It was stated that knitted bandages are needed. Members agreed to knit them.

The World Day of Prayer will be held on March 4 in Wesley United Church, the Theme being, "Love in Action". As in the past it will be bilingual.

Mrs. Miller will write the foster-child in January.

Cent-a-meal project will be continued again this year.

Articles for fall bazaars could be handed in at each meeting.

The February 9th meeting will be held in the church parlor with hostesses Mrs. Sylvia Bronson and Mrs. G. Laberee replacing the regular February hostesses.

"A New Year Prayer," was read by the new president to terminate the business session.

Following adjournment a short executive meeting was held when the slate of officers who had been accepted at an earlier meeting was joined by convenors being: President Mrs. E. Miller; first vice-pres. Mrs. Agnes Myers; second vice-pres. Mrs. Sylvia Bronson; treasurer Mrs. Bernice Wilkinson; secretary Mrs. E. Aulis; Devotions, Mrs. Agnes Myers; literature and communications, Mrs. F. Finlayson; Visitation, Community friendship, Mrs. Margaret Mosher; hostess, Miss Viola Moranville; flowers and decoration, Mrs. Gordon Laberee; Press and publicity, Mrs. E. Aulis.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. E. Bronson, assisted by Miss Moranville, who replaced Mrs. M. Miller who was unable to attend.

Three guests arrived in time for a cup of tea but conveyed the 'sad news' of a highly esteemed senior citizen's death. Guests were Mrs. A. Young Mrs. D. Reeves and Mrs. Enid Cooke.

The World in focus

Nationalists warn of war

LUSAKA, Zambia (Reuter) — A threat of increased racial bloodshed is hanging over Rhodesia following Prime Minister Ian Smith's rejection of British settlement terms.

Smith turned down the British proposals at a meeting two days ago in Salisbury with British negotiator Ivor Richard.

Black African and Rhodesian nationalist leaders reacted with warnings that intensified warfare is the only course left open to obtain black-majority rule.

In Salisbury Tuesday, Smith met his cabinet and it is thought they discussed plans for pursuing an internal settlement with those he regards as moderate Rhodesian nationalists.

"It is clear there is no other way than war," a senior Zambian politician, Reuben Kamanga, said Tuesday.

Officials from the Patriotic Front nationalist alliance of Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo said the first priority now is the military defeat of the Smith government.

In one of Zambia's toughest statements, Foreign Minister Siteke Mwale called for steppedup guerrilla activity and open revolt by the black majority in Rhodesia.

Mwale also raised the idea of a broad-based African effort to support guerrillas fighting white-minority rule in Rhodesia.

Zambia is one of the "frontline" states with a special mandate from the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to seek the end of white-minority rule. The other states are Tanzania, Mozambique, Botswana and Angola.

Japan and Canada to revise nuclear pact

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan and Canada opened negotiations today, at Canada's initiative, to revise the current bilateral agreement on atomic energy and include a stricter inspection system, the Canadian Embassy here said.

Canada has suspended uranium supplies to Japan from Jan. 1 until "satisfactory results are obtained in the current negotiations," an embassy spokesman said.

The Japanese foreign ministry said Japan depends on Canada for more than half of its uranium needs.

The embassy spokesman said Western European countries are in a similar position and talks with the European Economic Community on its agreement will also take place.

Canada toughened its atomic energy policy after India exploded a nuclear device in 1974, using plutonium, a byproduct of a Canadian-developed reactor. In addition to tightening up inspection, Canada now demands a ban on nuclear explosions, peaceful as well as military.

Spanish police arrest 60 leftist demonstrators

MADRID (AP) — Police arrested more than 60 persons Tuesday in an effort to halt rising political violence which has left seven dead. New disorders were feared as angry leftists took to the streets again to denounce rightist violence and demand vengeance.

More than 35,000 workers walked off their jobs in Madrid and about 30,000 struck the Barcelona SEAT plant, Spain's largest automobile factory, to protest the machinegun killing of five persons by gunmen presumed be right-wing extremists.

Leftists in Madrid called for a general strike Wednesday.

Premier Adolfo Suarez called in top military and civilian cabinet members to discuss the violence, which included the country's second major political kidnaping in less than two months.

Police were reported to have arrested 24 persons, including 19 foreigners, in the hunt for gunmen who burst into offices used by Communist labor lawyers Monday night.

In the attack, four persons were killed immediately — identified in newspaper funeral notices as three lawyers and a worker, all members of the illegal Communist party. A fifth victim died Tuesday night. Four other persons were wounded.

Coffee investigation ordered by ICO

LONDON (AP) — The International Coffee Organization (ICO) has ordered a full investigation of the supply and demand problem following the unprecedented rise in world coffee prices.

The IOC executive board, meeting here Tuesday, named executive director Alexandre Fontana Beltrao of Brazil to make the study and submit a report at a meeting in September.

Some coffee producers have declared the rising prices are caused by a shortage and they point to a frost in 1975 that severely damaged the crop in Brazil, the world's biggest producer. This explanation has been questioned by consumer groups because of coffee stockpiles.

Scotty Bowman was willing to gamble and Martin had luck on his side

Prince of Wales Conference remains undefeated

VANCOUVER (CP) — Scotty Bowman was willing to gamble and Richard Martin had luck on his side Tuesday as the Prince of Wales Conference remained undefeated in the National Hockey League all-star game.

Bowman shook up his forward lines with the score tied late in the third period and came up with the combination that set up Martin's second goal of the game with less than two minutes to play for a 4-3 decision over the winless Clarence Campbell Conference.

Martin beat goaltender Glenn Resch with a quick, low shot at 18:04 of the final period after some diligent forechecking by new linemates Marcel Dionne and Guy Lafleur.

"I was just in the right place at the right time," said Martin, who averaged 47 goals a season in his first five seasons with Buffalo Sabres.

Martin, 25, was named the game's most valuable player and received a new automobile. Up until the game-winning goal, it appeared that Lanny McDonald of Toronto Maple Leafs was the leading candidate for the MVP award.

McDonald scored the first two goals for the Wales Conference and played a strong game at right wing on a line with Bob Gainey of Montreal Canadiens and Peter McNab of Boston Bruins.

GOT MONEY'S WORTH

Bowman, coach of Stanley Cup champion Montreal, said that Martin is the best goalscorer in the NHL. He added that the 30th annual all-star game, played at the Pacific Coliseum for the first time, was a good one and "the fans got their money's worth."

It was the third straight loss for the Campbell Conference under coach Fred Shero of Philadelphia Flyers. The Campbells got goals from Eric Vail of Atlanta Flames, Rick MacLeish of the Flyers and Phil Esposito of New York Rangers.

Shero, who favors a return to the old format of the Stanley Cup champions playing a league all-star team, said it was hard "for anyone to get excited about this game because the fans don't really have anyone to cheer."

He said his best players were left winger Gary Dornhoefer of the Flyers and right winger Bob Nystrom of New York Islanders. Nystrom was a last-minute replacement for injured teammate Clark Gillies.

Bowman used just six defencemen in the last period as he kept Ian Turnbull of the Leafs on the bench. Turnbull was a last-minute replacement for injured team-mate Darryl Sittler, a centre.

Shero stayed with the same four forward lines and three sets of defencemen for the entire game. He often used just members of his own team when killing penalties.

There were seven Philadelphia players and five from Montreal slected to the all-star teams.

Referee Ron Wicks also called the first bench minor in the history of the all-star game when he detected the Campbell Conference with too many men on the ice in the first period.

It was the first time the game had been played in Vancouver.

Vail opened scoring at 2:54 of the first period when he beat netminder Ken Dryden of Montreal with a blazing shot from the top of the left circle after taking a pass from Denis Potvin of New York Islanders.

TIED SCORE

McDonald tied the score at 6:22 when he fired a rebound past Parent after the Campbell goaltender had made a fine leg save against a point-blank shot by Bob Gainey of Montreal.

The second period was dominated by the exceptional penalty-killing of the Campbell Conference, which three times was forced to play shorthanded. Bobby Clarke and MacLeish of the Flyers did much of the penalty-killing up front for the Campbell team, with assistance from the Atlanta pair of Vail and Tom Lysiak.

MacLeish, who is making a remarkable comeback after undergoing knee surgery a year ago, scored at 11:56 of the second period to put the Campbell Conference ahead for the second time, 2-1. His quick shot from the left boards eluded netminder Gerry Desjardins of Buffalo, who was screened on the play by Bob Nystrom of the Islanders.

McDonald again evened the score for the Wales Conference by scoring in the last minute of the second period. He fired a hard wrist shot past Resch, who was screened by defenceman Harold Snepsts of Vancouver Canucks.

HIT POST TWICE

After Dionne hit his second post of the night early in the final period, Martin got his first goal with Phil Russell of Chicago Black Hawks in the penalty box. Dionne's shot rebounded off the back boards and Martin was in position to easily beat Resch.

Resch and Desjardins both made a number of fine saves before Esposito tied the score at 3-3.

Gary Dornhoefer of the Flyers checked defenceman Guy Lapointe of Montreal behind the Wales net, allowing Rod Gilbert of the Rangers to set up Esposito directly in front of Desjardins. Esposito beat the Buffalo goaltender with a high shot.

Gilbert Perreault of Buffalo had a chance to put the Wales team ahead with six minutes left, but he deflected Martin's pass wide of the net with Resch down and out of position. Resch then made a fine glove save on Dionne less than a minute later.

The Campbell Conference had a power play opportunity at 15:48 when defenceman Borje Salming of Toronto was penalized for tripping rookie Don Murdoch of the Rangers, but Desjardins was cool under fire and stopped a shot by Clarke with Nystrom waiting for a possible rebound.

PULLED GOALIE

Following Martin's tie-breaking goal, coach Fred Shero of the Campbell Conference pulled Resch with 52 seconds left in the game for an extra attacker, but the Campbell team didn't get a clear-cut scoring opportunity on Desjardins.

Parent stopped 17 shots and Resch 15 for the Campbell Conference, while Dryden turned back 13 shots and Desjardins nine for the Wales Conference.

Coach Scotty Bowman of the Wales team had seven defenceman in his lineup and frequently used Perreault on two different lines in order to get four forward combinations into the game. Bowman experimented with his lines often in the last two periods.

Martin slapped a pass out from Marcel Dionne past goaltender Glenn Resch at 18:04 of the final period to give the Wales Conference its third straight win over the Campbell Conference. Previous scores were 7-1 and 7-5.

The 25-year-old native of Verdun, Que., who averaged 47 goals a year in five previous seasons with Buffalo Sabres, was named the games' most valuable player by the Professional Hockey Sportswriters Association and received a new automobile.

Martin's first goal came on a power play early in the final period and gave the Wales Conference its first lead of the wideopen game, 3-2. Phil Esposito of New York Rangers tied the score 3-3 at 12:23 to set the stage for Martin's heroics.

PERFECT PASS

Guy Lafleur and Dionne checked defenceman Phil Russell of the Campbell Conference on the end boards and Dionne was able to feed Martin a perfect pass about 10 feet in front of the net. Martin easily beat Resch with a quick shot to the far corner.

Lanny McDonald of Toronto Maple Leafs also scored two goals for the winners, while Eric Vail of Atlanta Flames and Rick MacLeish of Philadelphia Flyers scored the other Campbell Conference goals.

Goaltender Bernie Parent of the Flyers was sensational in the first period as he made 13 saves for the Campbell Conference against constant pressure from the Wales team. His best saves were against Martin, Brad Park of Boston Bruins and Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens in the first 20 minutes.

Swig has to partially refinance himself

Cleveland Barons in financial straits

VANCOUVER (CP) — It's beginning to look like Mel Swig, owner of Cleveland Barons, will have to refinance his struggling National Hockey League franchise partially himself rather than relying entirely on other NHL operators for help.

Swig appealed to the NHL board of governors Tuesday after disclosing that partner George Gunn of San Francisco had backed out of an earlier agreement to raise $4 million for the troubled Cleveland franchise.

NHL owners heard his story, then countered with a proposal of their own for saving the former Oakland franchise which was transferred to Cleveland before the start of the 1976-77 NHL season.

"I can't believe that Mr. Swig is entirely without resources," NHL president Clarence Campbell told a news conference. "We made him an offer and he is to get back to us in the morning with a decision."

Campbell and other NHL owners refused to say how much Swig has lost this season, or how much he wanted from the league. It was believed he asked for at least $500,000 to continue operations for the rest of the current season.

MAY MATCH FUNDS

There was speculation that the NHL would match whatever new funds were established by Swig, although some owners said they were against financing other league teams after costly previous experiences in Oakland and Pittsburgh.

Another line of thought was that the Cleveland league dues would be postponed until the end of the season. Campbell and other league officials refused comment on all financial aspects of the Cleveland franchise.

Swig said the Barons could not operate much longer without financial help. The Barons have been averaging about 5,200 fans a game in a suburban arena.

John Ziegler, NHL board chairman, said there would also be a meeting with Swig and the Cleveland players Feb. 2 in Cleveland to discuss the situation.

Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players Association, said the Cleveland players would likely be asked to take a pay cut of "at least 1½ per cent."

Eagleson said it was in the best interest of the players and the league to continue operation of the franchise.

PURCHASED TEAM

Swig, who is from San Francisco, purchased the Barons from the league two years ago after the NHL took over operation from former owner Charles O. Finley.

Campbell said the NHL has no formal plans for possible player dispersal should the Cleveland team fold. He said two possibilities would be a draft or player auction.

A meeting of the NHL's owner-player council Tuesday produced the formation of an executive council to study mounting NHL problems. The council will have equal representation from owners and players.

Ziegler said the league agreed to make players available to Team Canada for the 1977 world championships in Vienna, beginning April 10. He said the deal was contingent on Team Canada not approaching players who would be involved in the Stanley Cup playoffs, which begin April 8.

NHL governors also agreed to put a player back into the amateur draft if he remains unsigned for a full year after being selected.

Canadian Midget Hockey Championships

Six teams remain unbeaten

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Six teams remained unbeaten after the second day of action Tuesday at the Canadian midget hockey championships with Quebec, British Columbia and the host Moncton clubs sharing the best records.

Burnaby, the B.C. amateur hockey association representative, won its second game of the tournament, a 7-2 verdict over winless Thunder Bay, Ont.; Quebec, represented by the Montreal-area Lac St. Jean team, downed Manitoba, represented by Winnipeg, 6-1, and Moncton Flyers scored a lastminute goal to edge Ottawa 3-2.

The victories left all three teams with 2-0 marks.

In other games, Saskatchewan made its debut Tuesday with a 4-1 victory over Newfoundland; Ontario tasted its first action by blanking Nova Scotia 8-0.

Ottawa was playing Prince Edward Island in the last game of the day.

Dave Babineau slapped in a shot with only 25 seconds left to play to give Moncton their victory over Ottawa. Moncton broke to a 2-0 lead on goals by Greg West and Steve Day but Ottawa came back to tie it with third-period goals less than three minutes apart by Dave Young and Dave LaFleur.

Glen Anderson, John Neeld and Ken Berry each scored twice to push Burnaby by the Manitouwadge club representing the Thunder Bay region. Brad Graham got the other marker. Ken Fairservice and Jim Keyes scored for Thunder Bay.

PLAYER OUT

The game was marred in the third period when B.C. defenceman Mark Bourne was handed a five-minute major and a game misconduct for highsticking. Bourne was suspended by the tournament's disciplinary committee for Burnaby's next game, against Saskatchewan Thursday.

Normand Desrosiers scored twice to help Quebec win its second match of the week-long tournament while Alain Bouchard, Sylvain Jarry, JeanFrancois Sauve and Gary Agnew got the others. Marc Dahl got the lone goal for Manitoba.

Saskatchewan skated past Newfoundland as Dave Lange paced the Swift Current club with a two-goal effort. Chris Kilcher and Scott Dun, scored the others.

Newfoundland broke Garth Burnett's bid for a shutout on Mack Tucker's goal late in the second period. Newfoundland now is idle until Thursday. The St. John's crew opened the tournament Monday with a 10-1 win over the Thunder Bay team.

Toronto's Don Mills Flyers got two goals each from Paul Marshall and Greg Scarlett as Ontario shut out Nova Scotia 8-0 in the Ontario club's first game at the Canadian midget hockey championships.

Ray Price, Fave Payne, Rob Law and Chris Kurysh completed the scoring in Toronto's first appearance in the tournament.

Goaltender Steve Purdy handled 16 Nova Scotia shots to pick up the shutout and hand Kentville their second straight loss.

Toronto led 1-0 after one period and 5-0 after two.

Aeros defeat Jets 5-2

Grahame wanted to show how good they are

Houston goaltender Ron Grahame wanted to show Winnipeg Jets just how well his club has been playing recently, and the Aeros' four-goal third period Tuesday night must have convinced them.

Morris Lukowich scored two goals and Grahame turned aside 29 shots as the Aeros defeated the Jets 5-2 in World Hockey Association play.

"I think that both teams were a little sluggish in the first period," Grahame said. "But we wanted to show the Jets that we're playing good hockey."

In other games, Calgary Cowboys dumped Phoenix Roadrunners 7-3, Quebec Nordiques edged Indianapolis Racers 2-1 and Cincinnati Stingers downed New England Whalers 4-2.

John Gray, John Tonelli, Ted Taylor and Lukowich each scored in the final period as the Aeros overcame a 2-0 deficit to record their sixth consecutive victory.

Mats Lindh and Ulf Nilsson provided Winnipeg with a two goal lead late in the second period.

The victory increased Houston's first-place margin in the West Division to three points over second-place San Diego. Winnipeg is in third place, six points behind the Aeros.

The Aeros now are 18-1-4 at home and enjoy a 19-6-2 record over West Division clubs.

ESCAPE CELLAR

At Calgary, the Cowboys received three goals and an assist from captain Peter Driscoll to escape the West Division cellar and drop the Roadrunners into the bottom spot.

The Calgary line of Driscoll, Butch Deadmarsh and Ron Chipperfield accounted for 13 points. Deadmarsh had two goals and two assists, while Chipperfield collected five assists.

Robbie Forek got his 29th goal of the season for the Roadrunners on a freak play. With Calgary netminder Don McLeod on the beneh during a delayed penalty to Phoenix, Don Tannahill of the Cowboys passed to John Arbour but the puck jumped over Arbour's stick and travelled the length of the ice into the vacant Calgary net.

Rene Cloutier's second goal of the game at 4:55 of overtime lifted Quebec to a comeback victory over the visiting Racers. It gave him 38 for the season and, along with his 40 assists, moved him into top spot in league scoring, one point ahead of Anders Hedberg of the Jets.

Reg Thomas had given Indianapolis a 1-0 first-period lead, but Cloutier's first goal tied it in the second.

The win was Quebec's ninth in a row.

At Cincinnati, Blaine Stoughton tied the score 2-2 in the second period and then scored his 33rd of the season early in the third to give the Stingers the win.

Tonight, Quebec entertains Edmonton Oilers.

For Middleweight Boxing Title

Bouchard KO's Downey

HALIFAX (CP) — Gerald Bouchard of Montreal knocked out Dave Downey of Halifax on Tuesday in the eighth round of a furious pier-six brawl billed as an elimination bout for the Canadian middleweight boxing championship.

Downey, two-time Canadian middleweight title holder, appeared to have an edge when he took a vicious overhand right followed by a left hook and was counted out at 2:42 of the eighth. It took several minutes to revive him.

Minutes later, the 35-year-old campaigner announced to the crowd of 2,700 his retirement from the ring.

Last June the two met in Montreal and Bouchard was awarded the fight after both boxers fell out of the ring. The fight was later ruled a no-contest.

Bouchard's manager George Drouin, who has led his fighter to 11 straight wins since taking over his management last year, said he now would seek a championship fight with Fernand Marcotte of Montreal, the current title holder.

Downey weighed 161 and Bouchard 158.

Downey said his legs gave out in the seventh and he was weakened by the loss of more than 10 pounds to make the middleweight limit.

"I'm going to leave the fighting to my nephews now. . . I know they'll win for me," the former champion said in an interview.

NEPHEW WINS

One of his nephews, Kevin Downey, who has assembled an impressive amateur record, made his professional debute Tuesday night by scoring a unanimous decision over Archie Lee of Halifax in a four round light-heavyweight match.

Dave Downey and Bouchard slugged toe-to-toe through most of the seven rounds with the Halifax boxer scoring heavily to Bouchard's head. He almost closed Bouchard's left eye but the Montreal boxer kept wading in with both hands, often pulling Downey to the ropes.

In the seventh, Downey drove Bouchard across the ring and into the ropes with a crunching left hook. Bouchard remained on his feet but was wobbly as the bell rang.

In another 10-rounder, Trevor Berbick, a towering heavyweight from Jamaica now fighting out of Halifax, scored a technical knockout over Joe Maye of Hartford, Conn., at 2:50 of the seventh round after knocking him down three times in the round.

Berbick toyed with the shorter, lighter Maye during the early rounds but, on instructions from his corner, opened up in the sixth and finished him in the seventh.

In a six rounder, Chris Clarke, 151½, of Halifax floored Fred Legaci of Chicoutimi, Que., three times in the second round to post a technical knockout at 1:57 of the round.

Clarke, who fought on Canada's Olympic boxing team last year, has won all six professional fights by knockouts.

Draveurs dump Sagueneens 10-6

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Referee Pierre Lajeunesse handed out 16 major penalties in a brawling second period Tuesday night as Trois-Rivieres Draveurs outscored Chicoutimi Sagueneens 10-6 in the only scheduled Quebec Major Junior Hockey League game.

Richard Gardner, Richard Dalpe and Roland Cloutier with two each, and Richard David, Michel Leblanc, Yves Richer and Benoit Gosselin scored for the Draveurs.

Alain Cote with two and Sylvain Locas, Louis Sleigher, Allen Hayworth and Louis Lavoie were the Sagueneens goal scorers.

The penalty splurge in the second period saw eight players assessed majors for extremely offensive conduct.

The win gives Trois-Rivieres sole possession of first place in the Dilio Division with 62 points, one more than Chicoutimi and Quebec.

QMJHL action resumes Thursday night with Sherbrooke at Montreal, Hull visiting Cornwall and Shawinigan playing in Sorel.

Bowman has just praise for Martin

VANCOUVER (CP) — Coach Scotty Bowman of the Prince of Wales conference heaped piles of praise on Buffalo forward Rick Martin who scored the winning goal when the Wales edged the Campbell conference 4-3 in Tuesday night's NHL all-star game.

Martin is some goal scorer," he said in the dressing room. "He's the best in the league, scoring 47 goals a year for five years."

Bowman, now .500 in all-star coaching, said he gambled on a make-shift line near the end of the game.

"I figured with less than 2½ minutes to go it is like a sudden death game. You have to play overtime anyway. I had a hunch we just might rap one in."

The hunch put Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles at centre with Guy LaFleur on right wing and Martin—winner of a car as most valuable player—on left wing.

The Montreal coach said it was one of the better all-star games. "The fans got their money's worth."

It was also one of the most spirited, he added. Nine minors were called, most since 1966.

THIRD LOSS

Coach Fred Shero of the Campbells, who lost his third try for an all-star victory, said "it is hard for anyone to get too excited about this game since the fans don't really have anyone to cheer."

He said he would like to see the all-stars versus the Stanley Cup champions to create more fan interest.

Commenting on the individuals in the game, the Philadelphia coach said Gary Dornhoefer probably was one of the better men on the ice along with Bob Nystrom of the New York Islanders.

Both played their normal physical game and checked throughout the game.

Shero started Bernie Parent of Philadelphia although New York Islander Glenn Resch picked up the first team all-star award in the balloting.

"Both Bernie and Glenn talked it over and they decided between them the order in which they would play," Shero said.

Parent stopped 13 shots in the opening period and four more before being replaced by Resch at 11:27 of the second period.

To celebrate National Ski Week, the Optimist clubs of Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and Magog invite all young skiers under 14 years, to enjoy a free ski outing on Friday, Jan. 28, 1977, at Mont Joye in North Hatley.

Free ski lessons will also be given by Roland Lessard, on a first come first served basis, while a detachment of Quebec Police will be on hand to help skiers protect their valuable equipment.

The Shaggy D.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How does a movie producer audition a sheep dog?

"The same way I would interview any other actor," explains Bill Anderson, producer of The Shaggy D.A. "I look for personality, appeal. How does the dog react? Does it cower? Or does it respond appealingly to every situation?"

Anderson interviewed a dozen Old English sheep dogs before finding Ollie, managed by veteran film trainer Hank Cowles. The producer responded as though he had uncovered a new Jack Nicholson.

"He was the largest, prettiest and best behaved of all the dogs," said Anderson. "Nothing bothered him. He was loving and he minded. Perfect!"

The next problem: Teaching Ollie to talk.

Such challenges are common at Walt Disney Productions. Ollie talks, as movie goers can observe in The Shaggy D.A. which is playing across the U.S. and Canada this month.

Anderson is well qualified for unique film problems. He has worked at the Disney studios since 1943. His recent films include The Strongest Man in the World, The Apple Dumpling Gang and Treasure of Matecumbe.

REMAKES OLD SUCCESS

Approaching the studio's mandatory retirement age of 65, Anderson decided to attempt as his swan song a remake of one of Disney's most successful films, The Shaggy Dog.

"In the original picture the dog only talked in a couple of scenes," said Anderson. "The way they did it was to shoot the dog in profile and have someone work his mouth with a finger. We thought of doing that with Ollie, but Art Vitarelli, who was going to direct the second-unit stunts, said: 'That dog will bite your finger off.'

"Next we tried masks, but the masks didn't seem right. Our director, Bob Stevenson, suggested cutting the dog talk, but I thought there must be some way to do it. Either the dog could be taught to 'speak'— by opening and closing his mouth—or he could chew."

The chewing gambit didn't work, but the "speaking" did— with help from the Disney magicians. Tests were shot of Ollie opening and closing his mouth, first at normal film speed, then double and triple. The slow-motion frames were put on a printer and carefully selected by an editor trained in cartoon animation. The result: Ollie speaks.

The Private Files of J. Edgar Hoover

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie-goers soon will see a different view of the late J. Edgar Hoover from the one portrayed in films and television series extolling the longtime FBI director.

The film, called The Private Files of J. Edgar Hoover, is completing production here after extensive shooting in Washington. Television veteran Larry Cohen is the producer-director-writer. Broderick Crawford stars as the controversial FBI chief.

"We tell the true story of Hoover's life," says Cohen. "A lot of it will be unflattering."

"We'll tell the good things about Hoover, too," adds Crawford. "Hoover did a helluva job up to a certain point. The trouble was that power corrupts, and he had the power— for 48 years."

Hoover died in 1972 still in charge of the bureau.

"Many of the things that I suggested in my script have since been proven in congressional reports," said Cohen.

The script includes the spying on Martin Luther King, Hoover's stormy relationship with Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, and accusations of a homosexual relationship between Hoover and his longtime companion and assistant, Clyde Tolson.

Cohen submitted his script to the major film companies but all considered it too controversial, he said. So he spent $3 million and made the film independently. Next month he will show it to the major companies and place it on auction.

Besides Crawford, the cast includes Michael Parks as Robert Kennedy, Dan Dailey as Tolson, Raymond St. Jacques as Martin Luther King, Andrew Duggan as Lyndon Johnson, Howard Da Silva as Franklin D. Roosevelt, June Havoc as Hoover's mother, Lloyd Nolan as Harlan F. Stone and Lloyd Gough as Walter Winchell.

"I wouldn't want to do an imitation of Hoover," says Crawford. "My aim is to capture his state of mind—what it's like to be the top cop in the country."

With co-operation from the FBI, Cohen filmed at the old FBI headquarters, at the training academy at Quantico, Va., and in the attorney-general's office.

Silver Streak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ever hear of an express train that made the run from Los Angeles to Chicago via the Canadian Rockies?

That's what happened with the production of the new 20th Century-Fox film Silver Streak, and its makers are distressed by the roundabout route.

Says director Arthur Hiller, "I think it's terrible when, at a time when the film industry is trying to keep production in this country, other industries help send production elsewhere."

Silver Streak concerns intrigue and murder aboard a crack Los Angeles-Chicago train, and it reaches a climax when the runaway engine crashes into the Chicago terminal. The obvious place to film it would have been along the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe route. But Santa Fe said no thanks.

"Maybe they didn't like the script," said Hiller. "I also heard that Santa Fe had a serious accident during the filming of a movie a few years ago and was leery of any more film connections....

"We couldn't find any railroad that offered the locales we needed: mountains, desert, prairies and Illinois farmland. So we had to go to Canada."

For Hiller, that wasn't a sacrifice. He was born in Edmonton and got his start as a director on CBC television. He enjoyed working with Canadian actors and set workers, who comprised one-third of the crew.

Hiller filmed scenes of the Silver Streak leaving the Los Angeles Union Station and arriving in Chicago, but the journey between was shot in Calgary, Toronto and along the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The climactic scene of the locomotive plowing through the terminal was filmed at Burbank's Lockheed Aircraft plant, of all places.

"That was entirely the work of the production designer, Al Sweeney," said Hiller, 53. "We had talked about using miniatures or matte shots, but Al said, 'Why not go full-scale?' We laughed, but Al was serious. He built portions of the station and the gift shop in two hangars at Lockheed, then constructed a full-scale mockup of the engine, just the front itself.

"The mockup was placed on a truck bed, and a stunt man crashed it through the set, driving without seeing where he was going. All the angles were worked out with a half-dozen cameras. Fortunately, we only had to do it once."

The Red Light Bandit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Caryl Chessman, the convicted "Red Light Bandit" who won 12 years of reprieves before dying in California's gas chamber, faces a new trial on the movie screen - but his old prosecutor maintains he's as guilty as ever.

Chessman, a prison author and jailhouse lawyer whose own legal motions kept him alive until 1960 when all appeals had been exhausted, is the subject of a film, Kill Me If You Can, produced by Columbia Pictures for NBC.

But J. Miller Levy, the man who prosecuted Chessman in 1948 and thereafter, says the movie is just an attempt to glorify Chessman, convicted of more than a dozen counts of kidnap for the purpose of robbery - with bodily harm - as well as robbery and various sex crimes.

Levy said in an interview that he read the script that the Columbia production began with and concluded: "All they're trying to do is glorify Chessman. "It's not a true account."

Levy said film director Buzz Kulik asked him to give his side of the Chessman story.

"I said, 'Sure, I'll be happy to. Just tell me when.' But then they never called back," said Levy, 71, who retired from the district attorney's office Jan. 1, 1974, after 41 years.

Levy says he won't sign the release allowing Columbia to use his name.

Columbia spokesman Doug Duitsman said the script was written from transcripts of court sessions over the years and from help provided by Rosalie Asher, Chessman's legal adviser during the Death Row years.

Alan Alda, a comic actor best known for his role as Hawkeye in the M-A-S-H television series, will play the straight role of Chessman. Talia Shire, an Academy Award nominee for her supporting role in Godfather II, will portray Miss Asher.

"All we're trying to do is tell the true story of the Chessman case," Duitsman said, adding, "We're really just taking the 12 years afrom Death Row."

Chessman, though he denied it to the end, was accused of stealing a car that had a spotlight which he covered with red cellophane, so it looked like a police car at night. Using that ploy, the Red Light Bandit stopped cars and robbed the people inside.

Two different views of life with the "Mighty Ape"

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "King Kong" finds Jessica Lange, like Fay Wray 42 years before her, in dreadful jeopardy, clutched in the monstrous hand of the gigantic ape. Lange says she had plenty of reason to be frightened.

The hand, she explains, was controlled by hydraulic cables and "there was always a chance of a malfunction." The gadgetry was controlled by six men working the levers and switches that made the fingers move.

"A couple of times," she says, "it was supposed to tap me lightly with a finger, but it was very hard to make it do those delicate maneuvers. And, instead of a light tap, it was more like a crushing blow."

Jessica Lange

When she was 40 feet up in the air, encased in that hairy paw, she says there was also the frightening possibility that something would go wrong and the hand would open.

She was also a little terrified at the whole idea of suddenly being thrust into stardom — and in a $24 million picture, at that. Jessica Lange is one of those storybook figures, a totally inexperienced and unknown girl, who becomes an overnight star.

"I don't worry that this picture could have an adverse effect on my career," she says. "I've never had a career that it might effect adversely."

She realizes that her being cast in the film is the old story of being in the right place at the right time. The right place was New York. The right time was December, 1975, a year to the day before "King Kong" opened.

She was modelling in New York. And, unknown to her, producer Dino De Laurentiis was madly searching for a girl to play opposite the big beast in the "King Kong" he was planning.

De Laurentiis decided he wanted an unknown for his leading lady. He contacted all the major New York modelling agencies. One of those was Wilhelmina, and among her models was Jessica Lange.

"I suddenly found myself called to test for the part," she says. "They gave me the script two days before the test was scheduled. I was so naive I didn't know if I was supposed to memorize the lines or not. So I didn't."

She had studied acting for a year, with Warren Robertson, in New York. And, actually, acting was something she had long had in the back of her mind.

"One of the reasons I started modelling," she says, "was that there seemed to be a pattern developing, of directors using models in big parts. I thought if I modelled, maybe I'd get a chance at a part."

She got the part immediately. She thinks maybe it was because she fit some preconceptions both De Laurentiis and director John Guillermin had in mind.

"It must have been something I had," she says. "I think it was a mixture of vulnerability and humor."

Jessica Lange comes from Cloquet, in the northern Minnesota woods. She speaks with a trace of an accent, and it's probably from the fact that Finnish was spoken at home by her mother and grandmother.

As a child she fantasized about becoming an actress. She was "enthralled" by movies and would see her favorites over and over, memorizing scenes and playing them out for herself.

But, when she went to the University of Minnesota, she majored in painting. She left after two years, and began her years of drifting — she worked as a waitress in New York, then lived for varying lengths of time in Mexico, Amsterdam, Spain, New Mexico and Paris.

In Paris, she decided to study mime, with Marcel Marceau's teacher. She did so well that she got a contract with the Opera Comique for a year but left after that year — "I realized there was nowhere to go with it."

But she thinks there is somewhere to go with acting. Even before "King Kong" opened, just on the strength of her being cast in it, she was sent many scripts. She has accepted none of them. She wants to wait and see what Kong does for her.

The producer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Why does Dino De Laurentiis push so hard?

Why is it so important, for instance that "King Kong," or "Kong-a II," as he calls it, gross more money than "Jaws," which made movie history by earning $118,727,000 domestically?

"If we beat 'Jaws,' and Kong become first box office ever, is not for the money," the producer says in his rich Italian accent and deep, gravelly voice. "I no do 100 million dollar just to make that money. The picture must be a success every place in the world. The more people who see the movie, the better."

Perhaps, then he drives himself for the glory. That's why he works ten, 20 hours a day, up at five to read scripts, napping at noon so he can push on into the night manipulating complex distribution deals (Paramount Pictures and who knows who else put up $24 million to complete "King Kong"), chasing stars for this film or that, overseeing a thousand details.

He smiles at the word. "Not for the glory — you use such a word." The fun of it, then? He dips his head, perhaps.

"We are in competition all the time," he explains, "and whenever we open theater, we see if we break house record,"whatever the film. For "Kong," he stayed up until one a.m. the night before to hear that it grossed a total of $33,000 on its opening in Manhattan at two theaters. Both house records.

Dino De Laurentiis

But why is it so important to break records, to be the biggest?

"It's not that important," he says, recrossing his legs and shifting in his chair in the empty Saturday morning lobby of the Hotel Pierre.

"Let me put it this way. If you play roulette and you put one dollar, you like to have two dollars. But not only two dollars, you like the number to come out because you like the satisfaction. It's just for human competition."

And when you lose?

"It change nothing, only the satisfaction."

He lights another cigarette.

De Laurentiis is a small man with a firm handclasp and gray hair that waves in the back. Large, soft brown eyes harden behind his glasses when you point out that he makes shoddy movies like "Mandingo," "Lipstick," and "Drum," then soften again when you add that Fellini's "La Strada" and Bergman's "Face to Face" and "The Serpent's Eye," are also his.

Yes, he makes both and he knows the difference between them. "Maybe one day one of these geniuses — Fellini, Bergman — make some special movie," one that will outgross "Jaws." "These are my dreams."

Another dream is to show the movie industry what a shrewd, charming pasta-maker's son from Naples, who at 57 has produced several hundred films since he began at 17, can do without having to cozy up to a studio board of directors who "don't understand movie."

Power, then. That's his motivation.

All right, he concedes, he has the power, "but I don't say no, it must be. You need cooperation in our industry, not power."

NO, SOPHIA LOREN hasn't come to this - bartending. Not in real life, at least. The Italian star was back before the cameras playing a waitress in "Angela", which was filmed on location in Montreal recently.

The cameras roll and so do the actors

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — We've had fires, floods, earthquakes. We've had folks in jeopardy on planes, ships, trains. It would seem the men making disaster movies had about run out of locales for their tragedies and near-tragedies. But here we are with "Rollercoaster," a movie in which a bunch of people riding an amusement park ride are in big trouble, grave danger. About the only thing left is a film about a runaway tricycle.

Of course, Jennings Lang, who is producing "Rollercoaster," insists it's really not a disaster movie. And, as he explains it, it isn't. It's more of a trying-to-prevent-a-disaster movie.

The gimmick in this one is that an extortionist threatens to blow up rollercoasters in various amusement parks unless the authorities come up with a lot of loot. Timothy Bottoms plays the villain and George Segal is the man who is forced by circumstances to be his adversary.

They were shooting recently at Magic Mountain, a relatively new amusement park north of Los Angeles. It's big, modern, clean — and it boasts a dandy rollercoaster, just right for the big climax of the movie.

It's called the Magic Mountain Revolution, and it goes up, down and over a series of hills on the site. Its big feature is a complete loop, with the rollercoaster train completely upside down for a second or two.

Time after time, as director James Goldstone called for action, the cars came swooping around the bends, dove down the hills, climbed up the other side and then, with the extras screaming and shrieking, looped the loop.

The big problem, Goldstone said, was to keep up the level of enthusiasm among the extras riding the rollercoaster.

"You have to keep telling them not to get bored," he said. "You have to tell them to keep screaming, no matter how many times they've ridden it."

And they've ridden it a lot. The extras and the principal actors are getting blase about it. Bottoms rode it some 30 times. George Segal rode another one 40 times.

This is the third amusement park the company has shot in. The other ones were in Ocean View, a park near Norfolk, Va., and King's Dominion, a park near Richmond, Va.

The thread of the story has the extortionist (Bottoms) demonstrating his seriousness of purpose in the other two parks. He is successful at Ocean View, bombing a ride and killing 24 people. King's Dominion is his second target, Magic Mountain his third.

The only disaster in the film is that first tragedy at Ocean View. As Lang says, "This isn't a disaster film — we only have one accident in the picture, and that's near the beginning."

But it is the threat of impending disaster, the possibility that the other rollercoasters will come crashing down, that is, they hope, the thing that will make the public want to see the film.

Goldstone kept moving his camera, scampering up and down the hills to get new angles to capture the rollercoaster as it thundered down the tracks. At one point, the camera was at the base of the hill, with the cars coming right down into the lens.

"Please send the car now," Goldstone ordered. And, via walkie-talkies, the word went out and the car started its ride. It came down the hill toward the camera and the camera crew involuntarily jumped.

"The damn thing came right down my throat," said one of the cameramen.

As the passengers — all extras this time — rode the thing, they mostly had their hands raised. Apparently, that's the new style of rollercoaster riding. In my day, you clutched the bar with everything you had, but now you keep your hands up for fun.

One of the riders said that the big, dangerous-looking loop was actually not very scary. He said that what shook him, rather, was when the cars rounded the corners.

"It shakes like a Jeep on a rough road going around those corners," he said. "But the loop itself is easy."

Still, the whole picture is giving stunt coordinator John Daheim problems.

"It's a hard picture for us," he said, "because it's all unusual. When we've done things before, we know what to expect and how to handle things. But we haven't done stunts with rollercoasters before."

Down in Virginia, two stunt people — one man, one woman — were hurt in a fall from a car. Daheim says the man catapaulted too far, dragging the woman with him. They weren't hurt seriously. The next time, they knew how to handle it.

The film has a big cast — besides Segal and Bottoms, Henry Fonda, Richard Widmark and Harry Guardino also appear. Lang says he's all for all-star casts.

"An all-star cast," he says, "makes it much easier for the writers. It simplifies the writers' task. When the audience already knows an actor, the writer doesn't have to waste words on creating his character. In 'Airport '77,' I have people like Jack Lemmon and Olivia DeHavilland. The writer doesn't have to take time to build characters for them; as soon as they come on screen, the audience already knows what kind of people they are."

I asked Lang and Goldstone if they were worried, lest the picture give some would-be extortionist or disturbed personality any ideas. Could this film perhaps start a rash of attacks on rollercoasters and other amusement park rides?

Both of them felt any such danger was minimal.

At the "Roots" of a success

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — One of TV's biggest undertakings will be the telecasting of Alex Haley's great novel, "Roots." This will be done in 12 hours, spread over eight consecutive evenings, beginning on ABC Sunday, Jan. 23.

Anybody who has read the book is anxiously looking forward to the film. And Haley is looking forward to it as much, or maybe more, than anybody.

Haley says TV bought his book before it was finished. They bought it while he was still working on it.

"I had to write fast to keep up," he says. "It was like a steamroller was chasing me."

So he speeded up his writing to keep abreast of the demand from the five scriptwriters who were assigned to turning the novel into a TV screenplay.

"Roots" is a big success as a book, and it has automatically made Haley rich and famous. He's still having problems adjusting to that status.

"The success of 'Roots,'" Haley says, "has astounted me. They talk in figures I simply can't comprehend."

He still values a tattered bankbook he has from a Kansas bank. Whenever he got an unexpected check, as a struggling writer, he'd deposit it by mail in that Kansas bank.

"My account would get up to $500 or so," he says. "And then I'd have a problem and withdraw $495. But I always kept something in it, and I still have it."

Like all newly-famous people, Haley is now hearing from old friends who have read of his success and contact him. But the roster of his "old friends" is different from most.

"The Diner's Club sent me an old bill," he says, "which I'd never paid. But I got a nice letter from National Car Rental — they gave me back the credit card they once took away. I keep hoping I'll hear from American Express, because they took my card away, too."

It was a struggle for Haley, during the 12 years it took him to write "Roots." The book is a history of his family, from the period when his ancestors lived in the Gambian jungle, through slave ship and slave days, down to the present.

His next book will be "Search For Roots," an account of those 12 years of research and struggle. He thinks that will be more exciting than "Roots" itself. He'll follow that with a book called "Henning," the story of the small Tennessee town where he grew up.

"I can't wait to start writing," Haley says. "I'll start soon. I've booked passage on a Yokohama-bound freighter. I love to write at sea — I take a whole office with me."

Haley began writing at sea, because he was a Coast Guardsman for many years and started writing during that period in his life. And he says he still feels most comfortable aboard a ship.

His success is not going to his head — or to spending sprees. He says there are two things which it means to him. The first is the chance to meet famous writers.

"I'm stunned," he says, "at now being a colleague of those writers I've always respected. Nowadays, they talk to me as though I were one of them, and that's a great feeling."

The other is a feeling of financial security, for the first time in his life.

"I'm not going to do much with all that money," he says. "I'm getting myself a good stereo, because I love music. And I think I'll have my back yard fixed up. The rest — well, I have a good business manager and he's taking care of it."

Dramatic Scottish castle overlooks Firth of Forth

MAYBOLE, Scotland (CP) One of Scotland's most dramatic castles from the late 18th century sits on a cliff overlooking the Firth of Forth only 40 miles from Glasgow.

The castle, Culzean was built by Robert Adam for David, the 10th Earl of Cassillis of the Scottish Kennedy family.

In 1945, the Kennedys gave the castle to the National Trust for Scotland on the condition that several rooms on the top floor become a national guest apartment. The apartment was offered to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for his lifetime in appreciation of his wartime services to the Allies. He visited the castle four times.

Originally there had been at least two Kennedy strongholds in the area and Adam incorporated the last one into his mock Gothic-style castle and added a massive round tower.

This allowed him to create an unusual round drawing room, which is painted in pale green with high doors that open on to balconies with a 150-foot drop to the crags and sea below.

RESTORED TO ORIGINAL

It was possible to restore the ceiling to its original color since the family still possessed Adam's signed watercolor sketch.

Adam's masterpiece is the grand staircase. While incorporating some of the original buildings, he found himself with a great open space or well in the centre of the castle. So he built a staircase with balconied corridors and high marble pillars on each floor. At the top is a lighted cupola.

House prices reaching a plateau in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Some people have made a lot of money buying and selling their houses and real estate agents have gone along with the game because it was good for business.

But Keith Hearn of Royal Trust Co., who says he's not your typical real estate agent warns: "Buying a house as an investment is a bad approach. It's not the best vehicle for making money."

House prices will still appreciate, he said, but not astronomically. They're on a plateau.

Mr. Hearn said the family with $20,000 invested in a $70, 000 house will probably spend $30,000 in mortgage payments (principal and interest) over five years. That's $500 a month on a mortgage with an interest rate of 11.5 per cent. Add to that $4,000 in taxes and $3,750 for heat and utilities for a total of $37,750.

After five years the balance on the mortgage is about $45,000.

Add that to expenditures of $37,750 and the price paid and owed is $82,750. Considering a house will appreciate at nine per cent a year, compounded annually, the price in five years will be $107,750. The difference is $25,000, minus down payment. Net gain would be $5,000.

On the other hand, said Mr. Hearn, the renter in today's market can invest $20,000 at nine per cent, compounded annually, and come out with $30, 772 after five years.

He had compared costs between buying and renting a house but an apartment might be considerably less.

Carter urges increased NATO spending

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Carter is considering boosting U.S. spending for NATO, but other members of the alliance should be ready to increase their own contributions as well, U.S. Vice-President Walter Mondale said Monday.

Despite plans to reduce the Pentagon budget, "President Carter... told me that he is prepared to consider increased U.S. investment in NATO's defence," Mondale told the NATO ministers at the start of his 10-day world tour.

But he warned that though the U.S. might make some unilateral increases, further increases would be made only part of a co-operative effort by all 15 nations in the alliance.

He then flew to Bonn for a meeting today with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt. His trip also will include stops in West Berlin, Rome, London, Paris and Tokyo.

Since taking office last Thursday, Carter has restated his campaign promise to cut the defence budget by between $5 billion and $7 billion by eliminating waste.

Mondale said that with Carter's instructions he was reporting to the NATO ministers that "his new budget and these efficiencies will not result in any decrease in planned investment in NATO defence - and these plans involve some growth."

"He told me that he is prepared to consider increased U.S. investment in NATO's defence."

BRITAIN PLANS CUT

The warning that other members of NATO must consider possible increases in their own contributions comes in the wake of British plans to cut their over-all military budget, a move that would probably mean reduced British spending on NATO.

Schmidt conferred Monday with British Prime Minister James Callaghan in London on the future financing of the 55,000 - strong British Army of the Rhine, a key NATO unit.

The chancellor was reported to be taking a hard line against British requests that West Germany continue its $34-million-a-year financial backing of the British unit.

In Washington Monday, a Senate report was released saying NATO's armed forces are in such disarray and poor condition that they might not be able to withstand an attack by the Warsaw pact nations of Eastern Europe.

The unusually grim report was made to the Senate armed services committee by Senators Sam Nunn Dem. Ga. and Deway Bartlett Rep. Okla., who recently toured NATO countries.

Less dependence on oil for North

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The North should try to reduce its economic reliance on oil and natural gas exploration, with or without an Arctic pipeline, Northern Development Minister Warren Allmand says.

He told the opening of the Northwest Territorial council's 61st session Saturday that there must be jobs provided for the rapidly growing Northern labor force.

"Clearly traditional activities, important as they are, alone can no longer sustain a healthy economy in the N.W.T.," he said.

Mr. Allmand said no matter what decision is made on the pipeline, there is a requirement to build a healthy economy both in the N.W.T. and the Yukon Territory.

"I believe, whether or not a pipeline is to be built, we should seek to reduce the dependence of the northern economy on oil and gas exploration."

Mr. Allmand said the federal government had decided in principle to extend department of regional economic expansion DREE programs to the north.

One of the program's development goals will be the economic position of northern natives, he said.

He predicted 1977 could "shape the destiny of northern society for years to come."

IMPACT HEAVY

Pending decisions on northern pipelines will have a direct and heavy impact on northerners, as will upcoming land claim discussions, Mr. Allmand said.

He said Ottawa had recognized all along that more than material compensation is involved in native land claims.

"The government seeks, through negotiated arrangements, to ensure that native people have both the economic and political power to make their own choices and take their own place in the evolution of Canadian society," Mr. Allmand said.

At a news conference later, he said there is no certainty that a pipeline will be built.

"There certainly may not be a pipeline," he said. "I've said that many times, the question on the pipeline is completely open."

He said many people once assumed a Mackenzie Valley pipeline would go ahead, but "many things have happened since that time."

Among the factors were an increased price for natural gas which meant that uneconomic southern gas sources could go into production.

There now are three pipeline applications instead of one that proposed by Canadian Arctic Gas Pipelines Ltd.

"It's possible that one of those other proposals might be accepted."

He said the pipeline companies were asking for financial guarantees from government "without giving us any indication as to what that might cost us."

Gens de l'Air to take part in tests

OTTAWA (CP) — A Quebec aviation group which has been bitterly critical of federal policy on bilingual air communications may be participating by the end of March in Federal technical tests on air safety and the language issue.

Liberal MP Serge Joyal, a lawyer for l'Association des Gens de l'Air, said Monday the Gens de l'Air is ready to take part in the Hull, Que., simulation tests if a federal air inquiry approves proposals for the use of French in handling light aircraft at the Montreal airports of St. Hubert and Mirabel.

With inquiry hearings on the St. Hubert and Mirabel problem expected to continue until at least mid-February in Montreal, the inquiry commissioners will probably not reach a decision until the end of March, said Mr. Joyal, MP for the Montreal riding of Maisonneuve-Rosemont.

The Gens de l'Air has been seeking speedier implementation of bilingual air traffic control in Quebec and last week decided to appeal a Federal Court of Canada decision upholding a transport department order limiting the use of French in Quebec air cummunications.

The federal air inquiry, which resumes hearings in Montreal today, is looking at the use of two languages in visual flight operations at the Montreal airports of St. Hubert, Dorval and Mirabel. Visual flying applies generally to light aircraft.

FRENCH APPROVED

The transport department has recommended French be permitted for visual flying at St. Hubert and federal officials say a similar recommendation will be made shortly for Mirabel.

The Gens de l'Air has not dropped its opposition to the inquiry itself hearings, and will not appear at inquiry hearings Mr. Joyal said, The iquiry hearings began in Montreal last week.

The Quebec group, which represents many French-speaking pilots and air traffic controllers, has held that the inquiry was unnecessary.

However, the Gens de l'Air said last fall that it would be willing to participate in the technical tests in Hull if the federal government met certain conditions. Among them was a demand that French be permitted at St. Hubert, Mirabel and the third major Montreal airport, Dorval.

Mr. Joyal indicated the Gens de l'Air would be ready to settle for Mirabel and St. Hubert since transport department studies on bilingual communications for visual flying at Dorval are expected to take months.

But there would have to be an understanding that the Dorval studies would continue while the Gens de l'Air participated in the Hull simulation tests, he said.

Mrs. Vi Dixon and Mr. F. Frost of Godfrey, Ont. are spending a few days as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Monahan.

Mrs. Howard Frost and Mr. Stanley Smith are both surgical patients in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Sherbrooke.

Friends of Mrs. Hilton Findlay will be sorry to learn that she is once more a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

A large number of spectators were present on Sunday afternoon and evening for the opening of the Men's Invitation Bonspiel at the Danville Curling Club. Many of the former "schoolboy curlers" are now participating - even to skipping their own rinks, and, among those were Grant Bourner and Bruce Lockwood of Montreal, who were here for this event.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Shangraw and small daughter of Calgary, Alta. are guests of Mrs. Shangraw's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Monahan, and will visit other relatives and friends while here.

Word has been received here of the death of Mr. Leslie Findlay of Gatineau, Que., formerly of St. Cyr. Sympathy is extended to his wife the former Audrey Patterson of Dennison Mills - and to their son, as well as to other relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Perkins and four children - Jeffrey, Kevin, Brent and Tanya of Powassan, Ont. were guests of Mr.Perkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perkins. On Christmas Day they accompanied their hosts and Miss Freda Perkins to Nicolet, where they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Perkins. Other guests were Miss Marlene Perkins of Toronto, Ont., Mr. Barry Perkins of Montreal, Mr. Ian Perkins of Calgary, Alta. and Mr. and Mrs. J. Mason and family of Richmond.

Friends of Mr. Howard Bowering will be pleased to learn that he is home again from the Sherbrooke Hospital, where he underwent tests.

On Christmas Night Miss Freda Perkins was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perkins and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Perkins and family.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Redvers Noble, Nicolet Falls, were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Perkins and family and Mrs. Ralph Perkins.

The Beaver Christmas Club met at the home of Mrs. Ralph Perkins on Jan. 10th, in the form of a belated Christmas party. At the social hour all enjoyed the lunch served by the hostess, with the table most attractively set with a red tablecloth, Christmas napkins, red candles and Christmas crackers for each guest. During the short business meeting the agenda for 1977 was prepared. Prizes for games were won by Mrs. R. St. Jean and Mrs. Norman Brown.

On New Year's Day Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Perkins and family and Miss Freda Perkins were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perkins.

Several of the C. J. M. employees were in Montreal this past week for tests by the Workmen's Compensation Board.

On Christmas Eve Miss Gail Perkins accompanied her brother, Mr. Ian Perkins of Calgary, Alta. to visit her grandparents - Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perkins.

Miss Wendy Williams of Lennoxville was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manville Williams.

Scott McCuaig of Toronto, Ont., Miss Susan McCuaig and Kevin McMahon of Ottawa, Ont. spent the week-end with the McCuaig's grandmother Mrs. F. C. Goodin. Mrs. Don McCuaig has returned to her home in Toronto, after spending a week with her mother Mrs. F. C. Goodin.

Congratulations to Miss Selina Dennis, a resident at the Griffith-McConnell Home in Montreal who will be celebrating her 100th birthday on February 14. Miss Dennis came with her family from England when she was young and lived in Scotstown. She became a teacher and first taught in Scotstown. Both she and her sister taught for years in Montreal. Miss Dennis made many friends in Scotstown and often came to visit them, staying with the late Mr. and Mrs. Bob Scott and family. All hope that Miss Dennis will have a very happy birthday. She and Mrs. R. L. MacIver, who also resides at the Griffith-McConnell Home, have a lot of visits, where they review things that happened in the past. They both are quite keen and enjoy their visits together.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hillis, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ross MacDonald, attended Open House on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 16, at the Senior Citizens Home in Sawyerville.

Mrs. Stearns Morrison of Gould has returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Sherman after spending a month recuperating from her eye operation in December.

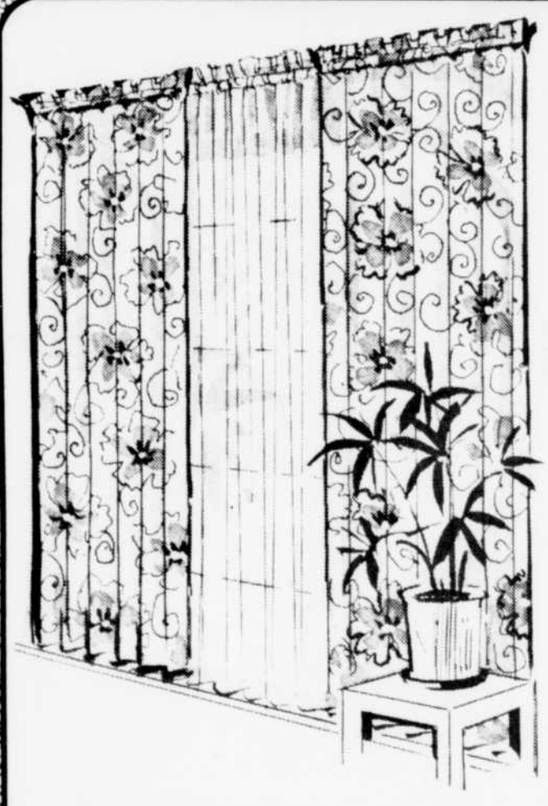

Miss Ruth Sherman returned to Montreal after spending two days with Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Sherman. John Sherman left on Jan. 17 for Wells, Maine, where he would spend the week.

Mrs. William Zaslowsky and Tammy of Brossard arrived on Jan. 19 to spend a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald.

Town Garage Destroyed by Fire

The citizens of Scotstown were awakened around 2:30 a.m., Thursday, Jan. 20 by the fire alarm, to learn that the Town Garage, which stored the fire truck, snow blower, snow plow and town truck and other equipment, was in flames. Members of Bury Fire Brigade answered the call, arriving on the scene and assisted with smothering the flames and keeping the fire from spreading to the house next door. This is a very big loss for the citizens and the town of Scotstown.

ACW meeting

EAST ANGUS — The monthly meeting of Christ Church ACW was held at the Cultural Center, with Mrs. Myra Bailey, President, presiding. Minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Several thank-you notes were read from church members who had received Christmas cheer.

It was decided to have Mrs. Agnes Luxford's name put in the WA book of Remembrance. She received her Life Membership pin many years ago and passed away at the age of 91 on December 23, 1976.

It was decided to hold the usual Valentine Card Party and tea on February 14 at the Cultural Center, final plans to be made at the next meeting.

Refreshments and a cup of tea were enjoyed, the next meeting to be on February 8.

UCW meetings

SCOTSTOWN — Mrs. C.M. MacRae was hostess for the United Church Women at her home on Jan. 13 with six members present.

Mrs. F. B. Mayhew conducted the Worship, the Theme "The Tree of Knowledge" reading parts of Genesis 2 and 3. Mrs. Ross MacDonald and Mrs. Mayhew read the Meditation and Mrs. Mayhew closed the worship with prayer.

Mrs. Ross MacDonald gave the treasurer's report for the months of November and December and gave the Annual Treasurer's report.

Mrs. Mayhew gave the annual secretary's report. Several Christmas cards and thank-you notes were read by Mrs. Mayhew. Mrs. Macdonald read a letter from the Presbyterial Treasurer and a thank you letter with greetings from Miss Isabelle Miller.

Mrs. Leslie MacLeod is putting together two quilt tops for single bed size which will be ready for quilting.

Mrs. MacDonald gave out the yearly monthly envelopes. Used stamps were given Mrs. Mayhew to be sent the Canadian Bible Society. Campbell soup labels were also given for her to send to Mrs. Mary Hall, R.R.2, Williamstown, Ont. which will be redeemed to help the school for Deaf Children.

Being no meeting in December the present officers were again re-elected for the year 1977. Items were read from the Happenings. The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. MacRae.

The highlights of the annual reports were that the U.C.W. had a successful year under the leadership of Mrs. W. A. Ladd. There were seven meetings held during the year with an average attendance of seven, and guests at some meetings. Mrs. W. A. Ladd and Mrs. F. B. Mayhew attended the Annual Presbyterial and the Fall Rally meetings and Mrs. Ladd attended Summer School in Ottawa, in August.

In June the U.C.W. gave a shower for Gail Irving a bride-to-be who was married in St Andrew's United Church in August. The ladies of Chalmer's United Church and the U.C.W. members served refreshments in the church hall at a farewell party for Rev. and Mrs. Geerlof Lokhorst and gave a donation of money to the purse of money given from the congregation to Rev. and Mrs. Lokhorst. Refreshments were served in the church hall to relatives and friends after the funeral of the late W. A. Ladd in July.

The yearly allocation of $225.00 plus $13.50 for conference expenses was sent to the Presbyterial Treasurer. $50.00 given to the Youth Exchange, $25.00 for Christmas Cheer in Hong Kong. $25.00 to the Bible Society for the work of the Braille, donations to In Memoriam, Birthday Funds and Christmas gifts of money to the S.O.S. Church's foster child in Austria, two gifts of money as wedding gifts to two married couples and fruit and juice given to shut-ins. Money was raised by Envelope givings, Thank offerings at Easter and Thanksgiving, Birthday money, donations of money and articles made and sold during the year.

BEEBE — The Unit two, U.C.W. of Wesley United Church met on Jan. 11th at the home of Mrs. David Drew, assisted by Mrs. Lyndon Warner.

Mrs. Drew, the president, opened the meeting with the repeating of "Purpose and Function" and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Secretary Mrs. P. Fountain gave a full report on events of the December meeting. Ten members braved the bad weather to attend.

During the absence of the treasurer who was in hospital, a short financial report was given by Mrs. H. Taylor.

Mrs. Arlene Ewan, sunshine convenor, sent two sympathy and five get-well cards. Correspondence included thank-you notes from those who had been remembered at Christmas time, some thanks were voiced by members for recipients, a thank you from the Paul Sutton family for assistance at time of their fire. A letter was also read from Mrs. Muriel Cass Presbyterial Church in Society Chairman seeking information on activities of the church groups.

Mrs. Chartier and Miss L. Shepard prepared lunch for a meeting of senior citizens home organizors, when bad weather conditions prevented the organizors from attending.

A donation was made to the Memorial fund in memory of a sister of Rev. R. Rogers. It was also moved to make a donation to Rev. Mitchinson and family for a Christmas gift. Christmas cheer committee reported that 70 baskets were packed and delivered.

It was agreed to invite unit one and Graniteville members as guests for the February meeting when a white elephant sale will be held.

The treasurer has been a surgical patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital. She was remembered with a cup and saucer floral arrangement.

Installation of officers will take place on Jan. 16 at the morning service. Annual reports were presented by the secretary Mrs. P. Fountain and Mrs. Taylor passed the treasurer's report for all to see. Project list for 1977 was made up.

Food was solicited for two upcoming card parties.

Articles for a sunshine booklet for a shut-in member is to be left at the home of Miss L. Shepepard. The round robin was won by Mrs. L. Goodsell.

Mrs. Gladys Chartier adjourned the meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostesses when a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

Next meeting will be held at Wesley Church when a white elephant sale will be conducted. Units one and Graniteville members are to be guests. Hostesses will be Mrs. E. Moss, Mrs. E. Shepard, Mrs. Arlene Ewan and Miss Leona Shepard replacing Mrs. Hibbard who is still recuperating from recent surgery.

COOKSHIRE — The U.C.W. of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevenson, with the president, Mrs. Cameron Rodger in the chair.

Miss Esther Farnsworth was in charge of the worship period. Her Scripture reading was taken from Matthew 6 verses 25-34, the theme being God's Care All About Us. She gave a meditation on the theme and then gave a prayer.

Mrs. Charles Cruickshank read the minutes, and Mrs. Parker gave the annual treasurer's report, which showed a good balance, after all expenses had been paid.

A number of "thank you" notes were read for donations given to the different departments of the church and those outside the church, and for flowers and gifts for sick members.

One member volunteered to attend the U.C.W. meeting which was to be held in Plymouth Trinity Church in Sherbrooke on Jan. 13th.

The members were asked to save labels from Canada Packers Ltd. products. A food sale and tea was planned for Sat. Feb. 12th from 2-4 p.m. in the church hall.

There will be rotating presidents for each month. The committees for the year was then appointed as follows: All occasion cards convenor, Mrs. Malcolm Learned; manse representative, Mrs. D. J. Macmillan; publicity, Mrs. E. S. Heatherington; program Mrs. S. McVetty and Mrs. Connor, devotions, Mrs. R. Stevanson; "cheer" Miss Esther Farnsworth; food, Mrs. Malcolm Learned, Gladys Parsons; official representative to the Board, Mrs. E. S. Heatherington; work Mrs. C. Rodger; decorating, Gloria Bellam, Barbara Vogell; soliciting, Mrs. R. Stevenson; posters, Mrs. Earl Parker. A number of other names will be added at a later date for other committees, and some more names to the existing committees.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening, the hostesses being Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Thorneloe.

RICHMOND — The general meeting of the United Church Women of the Richmond-Melbourne United Church was held in the church parlor on Wednesday, Jan. 5th with fourteen members present. Mrs. Vesta Armstrong opened the meeting by welcoming the members and expressing best wishes for the new year.

Mrs. W. Moreland took the devotional period and read scripture selections and a short article in keeping with the beginning of a new year, followed by the Lord's Prayer and a hymn. She was thanked by Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. Armstrong then read the list of officers for 1977 as presented by the nominating committee and called on Mrs. Aline Healy to conduct the installation service. The office of president will be shared by Mrs. Vesta Armstrong, Mrs. Isabel Dykeman and Mrs. Aline Healy.

The minutes of the last meeting were then read and approved. The correspondence consisted of thank-you cards for sympathy expressed to the family of Mr. Orin Taylor, as well as several notes from residents of the Wales Home and shut-ins for their Christmas remembrances. All expressed their appreciation for the gifts and visits.

Annual reports were given by the Units, the Cards secretary and the Manse committee. Mrs. Edna Barrington gave a summary of the work that needed to be done at the Manse and an estimate on some of the repairs.

Mrs. Eileen Parkins, the Observer secretary was present and gave out the renewal lists for 1977. These should be completed and returned to her by March 1st.

Mrs. Armstrong stated that all Units were in favor of holding executive meetings only for the coming year, but that all members are welcome to attend these meetings.

Dates were chosen and verified with Mrs. Doyle for a Spring Salad Supper on April 27th, a Harvest Supper on September 14th and a Christmas Bazaar on November 12th. Further plans are to be made at a later date.

From a note in Happenings, Mrs. Armstrong suggested that Campbell Soup labels could be saved for a project to help a School for the Deaf in Puerto Rico.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by several of the ladies.

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The January meeting of Kinnear's Mills W.I. was held on Jan. 5th at the home of Mrs. Victor Lowry.

This month's MOTTO: The fall of a nation comes first by the fall of the individual citizen.

ROLL CALL: Pay a nickel for each letter in your first name.

PROGRAM: Each member brought old Christmas cards which will be sent to the Children's Hospital in Montreal.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and the Treasurer gave a report.

Plants had been given to 2 members in hospital following surgery. $10.00 will be sent to Care and a donation was voted tow

Computer tests grain for protein content

WINNIPEG, Man., — The automatic digital analyzer has, in its short life, become an important tool for the Canadian grain industry.

Not exactly a household word yet, the ADA as it's called by people at the Canadian Grain Commission, is a sophisticated machine used for measuring protein content in wheat.

It's a relative new-comer to the world of grain technology, but the computer-like machine has been kept extremely busy since it was plugged in on June 1, 1975, at the Commission's head office here.

The ADA had an even bigger role to play in 1976 beceause it tested the protein content of most wheat samples sent in by farmers hoping to get a premium for protein content from the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB).

The ADA got its initiation by working alongside the older protein-testing Kjeldahl procedure, checking the thousands of grain samples routinely sent to the Commission under the CWB's protein segregation system.

But the ADA has performed well enough that the Grain Commission staff is beginning to look at it as the protein tester of the future.

For one thing, the ADA is much faster than the chemical Kjeldahl procedure used the world over for testing protein levels. The ADA can test a sample in five or six minutes at one-third the cost of the older chemical method. In addition, there are no toxic chemical wastes.

It can also test up to 2,500 samples each day, compared with about 800 per day using the Kjeldahl method. If the ADA is pushed, it can do about 900,000 determinations in a year.

The ADA's procedure is relatively simple. A grain sample is ground to a powder and put in a small, round tin. A number of tins, all coded by number, are then placed on a tray with compartments to hold them in place.

The trays containing the tins are fed into one side of the ADA and minutes later they reappear as an information printout is automatically presented for each tin.

While the tins are passing through the ADA, infrared reflectors measure the amount of nitrogen in the sample. A conversion factor is used to calculate the actual protein level.

All protein determinations done by the ADA or the Kjeldahl method are calculated at a constant moisture level of 13.5 per cent. But the Ada also measures the actual moisture level and can determine the oil content of oilseeds.

The printout from the ADA is for moisture and protein only. This information must be transferred to the CWB's records containing the other information on the sample before it can be transmitted to the port.

While the ADA has proven it can operate efficiently and accurately, its results are constantly being tested against those of the Kjeldahl method to ensure that the correct information is being relayed to the grain industry.

Animal immigration laws toughen

OTTAWA (CP) — Tougher regulations governing many aspects of animal health, including new rabies controls on cats entering Canada, came into effect Thursday.

The new regulations, under the Animal Diseases and Protection Act, change the method of payment of compensation for cattle ordered slaughtered.

New maximum rates for cattle slaughtered for brucellosis, tuberculosis and Johne's disease will be $500 for grades and $900 for purebreds minus the carcass value paid to owners by packing plants, the agriculture department said in a news release.

A spokesman said owners now will know the total value of compensation when animals are evaluated.

Dr. A.E. Lewis of the department's health of animals branch said the incidence of cats involved in rabies has increased in recent years, necessitating the changes.

Cats entering Canada will now require a vaccination certificate. But this regulation will not be enforced until April 1. The validity of vaccination certificates for dogs and cats entering Canada from the U.S. will be extended to three years from one.

LIST CHANGES

Other major changes are:

—Farmers selling cattle at farm auctions must test their cattle for brucellosis within 60 days of sale.

—Cattle entering Canada will be given vaccination status for brucellosis only if they have been vaccinated between the ages of two and six months. Previously, the period was from three to nine months.

—New transport regulations for animals will improve conditions, make transport more humane and reduce the incidence of disease induced or spread by transportation.

—Swine entering Canada will require tests for pseudorabies, a disease not common here.

A JANUARY STORM blanketed the Agriculture Canada Experiment farm in Ottawa, giving the facilities a stark, surrealistic visage.

Slower chill gives more tender beef

BRANDON, Man. — Meat-packing plants could be shipping more tender meat and saving money at the same time.

So says an Agriculture Canada scientist who recently studied the effect of postmortem chilling temperatures on beef.

"We looked at several factors," says Bob Cliplef, a meat scientist at the department's research station here. "Included were color, texture, marbling (amount of fat spread through the muscle), tenderness and flavor."

Sides from 27 carcasses were chosen for the test on the basis of size and age. Left sides were chilled at a normal packing-house temperature of 1 C. Right sides were chilled a slower rate - a temperature of 7 to 8 C.

"We monitored the rate of carcass temperature decline and the change in muscle acidity every four hours for the first 24 hours, and then again at 48 hours and 72 hours," Dr. Cliplef says.

Steaks taken from sides chilled at the slower rate had a higher tenderness score, higher flavor score and received a preferred overall rating by a taste panel. There were no significant differences for juiciness scores or for physical measurement of juice content. Chemical analyses were almost identical.

"Our tests demonstrated that the beef eating quality can be controlled and improved by controlling the rate at which beef carcasses chill. From these findings we can say to packing houses that carcasses of different weights and varying degrees of finish require different cooler chill temperatures to develop maximum eating quality," the researcher says.

"Packers can employ 'eating quality control' in the cooler, consistently deliver a more tender, flavorful product and save energy at the same time."

Country store dairy production: big business

SCOTSBURN, N.S. (CP) — Blink twice when you drive by this farm village and you probably wouldn't see it.

It is little more than a few houses and a co-operative farm supply depot in a prosperous corner of the rolling farmland of western Pictou County.

But that co-op is a mouse that roared.

From a simple country store, Scotsburn Co-Operative Services has grown into a virtual dairy conglomerate, the second-largest producer of dairy and ice-cream products in Nova Scotia.

Yet it remains a rural co-operative, with a small feed mill and a general store. The store gets the street frontage, almost hiding the dairy. Above the store, a computer is tucked into the small main office.

The Scotsburn Dairy, in a separate building next door, processes only a fraction of the co-op's dairy production. Four years ago, Scotsburn purchased its chief competitor, the Brookfield dairy and ice-cream factory in Truro, twice the size of its own dairy.

Scotsburn has maintained the separation between the two operations, even down to the recipes for their brands of ice cream.

In addition to its dairy, Brookfield is one of Nova Scotia's oldest and largest wholesale distributors of frozen foods.

The Scotsburn division has about 100 employees and Brookfield has about 250.

The Brookfield takeover was accomplished under 36-year-old Jim McConnell. But the co-op's growth was started by Mr. McConnell's father, who preceded him as general manager from the 1930s until his retirement in 1970.

Jim McConnell was born and raised in the business.

"I think I started cleaning chickens when I was eight in a poultry factory we used to have across the road," he said. "Then I worked in the icecream room, the butter room, the feed mill, the hardware and the farm supplies store."

WORKED FOR OIL FIRM

After graduating from Dalhouse University in 1961 he worked for a few years as a marketing executive with a major oil company before returning to the company in 1964.

He inherited a lot of ideas from his father, but considers himself a different type of manager. The father stressed icecream production and Scotsburn's hog-breeding operation. The son particularly likes selling milk.

The business started as a small privately-held butter producer about 1900, and it was not until 1946 that it changed into a co-operative.

In 1955 it moved into the icecream business by purchasing the Gil Dearborne dairy of New Glasgow.

"Then in 1964 we bought the Pictou County Dairy, which was also in the ice-cream business," Mr. McConnell said. "But we never got into fluid milk until 1966, when we bought three dairies which together were bigger than Scotsburn."

Next came the takeover of the Tatamagouche Creamery, a major producer of butter.

HAD FARMERS' TRUST

Why was a small co-operative so successful?

Mr. McConnell attributes it partly to the dairy industry's natural propensity for co-operative ownership and partly to the vision of Scotsburn's board of directors.

Dairies become producers' coops because farmers want more control over the market for their milk. The dairy business is not as lucrative for private investors as many other investments, but it is important for farmers as a market for their milk.

Farmers also know that a cooperative can't be sold out.

"They know that their sons and their sons' sons should have the market for milk as long as we can run the company on a sound financial basis."

As for Brookfield's private owners, they sold because they realized it would create a good marriage, he said.

ACW meeting

STANSTEAD — Mrs. Edward Hyatt, Stanstead was hostess for the January 12 meeting of the ACW-Guild hbeld that evening in her home with 13 members and Rev. Owen Merriman attending.

Mrs. Nellie Kezar, the president presided for the regular meeting of the month and for the annual when reports of the 1976 year were heard and election of officers took place. The meeting was opened with all reciting prayers and the regular reports. Mrs. Sally Perreault read a communication from the Family Life Diocesan secretary.

For the annual meeting the combined reports of the secretary Mrs. Roy Wells of activities in 1976 and of Mrs. Alfred Middleton, the treasurer brought to attention it had been a very successful year.

Mrs. Wells' report noted the several secretaries active and the printed report of Mrs. Middleton noted all obligations of the budget had been met. Monies were raised through card parties, rummage sales, teas and sales. Lawn and a Casserole supper, food sales. The Christmas sale and tea made a record financially. Mrs. Wells noted a membership of 17 in 1976 but it hoped this may be increased in 1977. There were nine regular meetings held.

Mrs. Charles Sisco, card secretary reported 28 sent in 1976. Mrs. R.J. Wells, secretary of the Flower fund gave the financial statement and noted money donated in 1976 to the In Remembrance book of the church as a memorial to deceased.

Mrs. Perreault, Family Life, said the annual party was held in October and a collection of $6.00 sent to the Diocesan secretary. She noted added names to the roll for there were 12 baptisms in 1976 in Christ church.

Mrs. Hyatt, Social Services showed in her report that sick and shut-ins had been visited and remembered in various ways. Transportation had been provided where required to hospitals and some 23 remembered at Christmas time. There were donations to SHARE; C.U.S.O. and to the Hot Lunch program at Sunnyside school for needy children. Socially there were three major events in 1976, the 50 jubilee of Mrs. Alice Shipway as a member of the ACW; the 80th birthday of Mrs. Lillian Boucher and the reception to meet old friends, The Mitchells. A Christmas gift supply to value $93.00 was sent via Mrs. A.M. Christie to the Douglas Hospital in Verdun. Mrs. Hyatt moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Christie for her cooperation.

Mrs. Kezar, thank Offering secretary said a sum of $245.10 was donated and forwarded to the Diocesan secretary.

Mrs. Lindsay Smith, Forgotten Patients at Douglas Hospital, noted the five adopted had been remembered on all occasions.

These reports showed that not only at home but in other ways the monies raised are shared with others and left a feeling of satisfaction with the members.

Rev. Mr. Merriman was in the chair for the election of officers. Mrs. Kezar was returned as President; Mrs. Lindsay Smith, Vice Pres; Mrs. Roy Wells, secretary and Mrs. Alfred Middleton, treasurer.

Mrs. Kezar resuming the chair announced the following appointments. Flower Fund, Mrs. Wells; Forgotten Patients, Mrs. Smith; cards, Mrs. Sisco; Social Services, Mrs. Hyatt, Family Life, Mrs. Perreault; Prayer Partner, Mrs. Alice Shipway; Thank Offering, Mrs. Kezar; Publicity and advertising, Mrs. Ivy Hatch. Auditors, R.J. Wells with P.M. Poaps the alternate.

Next came the projects for 1977. The budget was discussed and approved to carry on as in 1976. To have a food sale March 10 and Talent money during Lent. Food sale on April 21; Rummage sale, May 7 and a Silent auction and tea on May 28; Lawn supper and sale on July 7; Casserole supped on October 1; rummage sale on October 22 and the Christmas sale and tea on December 3.

As the Christian Unity week was being observed, and an ecumenical service planned for the evening of January 16 the ladies planned to serve refreshments at the Fellowship sharing after the service in the Parish hall.

Mrs. Nellie Kezar and Mrs. Sally Perreault will entertain the Feb. meeting at the home of Mrs. Kezar at 7:30 p.m.

The busy session adjourned and the hostess, Mrs. Hyatt was assisted to serve refreshments by her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Middleton.

Guild meet

LADIES GUILD

IRON HILL — Rev. J.W. Davidson opened the meeting with prayer all joining. Due to the absence of the Acting Secretary, Mrs. Rumsby read the minutes of last year's meeting, showing a very successful year. Mrs. Mount read the Annual Report of last year's work.

Mrs. Daisy E. Wilson, convener for the Sunshine Club, has resigned her office and Mrs. Percy Howard will take over. A vote was taken on supplying the Guild, with a new secretary. It was unanimous for Mrs. Dorothy Mason.

Rev. Davidson occupied the chair for the election of officers for the incoming year. Mrs. Hazel Rumsby was elected for a second year as President. Mrs. William Mason accepted her office as Vice President, and Mrs. Ida Mount as Treasurer an office which she has had for 20 years.

The meeting closed with prayer by the incumbent. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. Rumsby.

Milby Women's Institute

The Milby W.I. met Jan. 6, at the home of Mrs. Jessie McKee, Massawippi St., Lennoxville, with fourteen members and one visitor in attendance.

The second Vice-Pres. Mrs. Turner, opened the meeting with the Collect and all members joined in the singing of "The Hymn of All Nations" with J. McKee at the piano.

The minutes were read by Mrs. S. Cairns and accepted as read.

A report was given on the success of the Christmas Tree Party and hot dish homemade pie supper served by the Milby W.I. to members and family and friends, neighbors and families at the Ives Hill Hall Dec. 12 - party attendance numbered 85, young and old. Sixty candy bags were filled and distributed to the children.

Following supper, a very delightful program was presented by the young folk, including recitations, a play "Night Before Christmas" written and played by a group of boys and girls and parents also several vocal and instrumental selections - a talented group of youngsters who are an asset to this community.

Mrs. G. Beattie gave the Financial Report. Mrs. R. Suitor, Citizenship Convener, read an article from Free Press on Farming" outlining the progress and contributions made by the W.I. since its formation by Adelaide Hoodless in 1897 until the present time. Great increase in membership has made this a world wide known group, especially for its vast contributions in the field of education, leadership and training in rural communities, in seminars and local history, scholarships, play writing, handicrafts of all kinds, and culinary art.

Health and Welfare conveners reported that sixteen Christmas baskets had been placked and delivered to shut-ins and the elderly; also a box of fruit given to the Wilkins Home, and a box of fruit juices to the Buck Home.

Twenty dollars was voted towards the Hot Lunch program at Lennoxville Elementary School.

Mrs. Wenda Broadhurst accepted chairmanshjip of Program Committee with Mrs. Powell co-helper, Mrs. R. Suitor will chair the Nominating Committee for the coming year and choose her helpers.

Mrs. Gertie Beattie donated a fruit cake for raffle, from which $5.25 was realized. Mrs. Pansy Powell has offered an afghan for future raffle.

A "Soap Recognition" contest, in charge of Mrs. Allan Suitor, was won by a tie win by Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Powell.

Delicious refreshments buffet style, were served by the hostesses, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. R. Patrick after which an old fashioned sing-song was enjoyed with the hostess at the piano.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Powell.

Belvidere Women's Institute

LENNOXVILLE — The first meeting of 1977 for Belvidere Women's Institute took place on January 8th at Mickie Povey's home with Margaret Kinkead as co-hostess. We were very pleased to have three guests from the Bury Institute and Mrs. Annie Reid.

Meeting opened in the usual form and Roll-Call "name your favourite reading material" was answered by eight members. Minutes of December meeting were read and approved and a very satisfactory Treasurer's report given. Current correspondence and thank you cards were then read by secretary, Margaret Smart, who also distributed pamphlets from the Women's Centre about their Community Action programme for women.

Committee Reports were as follows:

Agriculture - Dorothy Montgomery read excerpts from the book "Leeds and St. Sylvestre" and stated that School Fair would be held again this year.

Education - Myrtle Pitman read portions from the book review of "The Stacey Letters".

Home Economics - Vi Tarte received several articles for the Fair Booth and advised that knitted articles had been sent in to Cansave.

Welfare & Health - Hazel McGee's report showed 405 dressings made at Cancer Room - the next day on duty for us is January 12th. Bread tags, stamps, grocery store slips and old Christmas cards were handed in.

Publicity - Reports sent to Sherbrooke Record and County publicity Convenor. Cancer Society calendars handed out.

Sunshine - Mickie Povey had a busy month of December - 36 Christmas cards, 3 get-well cards, 5 Christmas cheer boxes and home-made box of cookies to Grace Christian Home were all sent out. Mickie then read thank you cards from Christmas gift recipients and greetings from our friend, Joyce Dewing.

Ways & Means - Vi Tarte discussed making up a quilt and suggested a possble card party in April.

Programme Committee of Vi Tarte, Irene Paige and Margaret Kinkead was appointed as well as a Nomination Committee consisting of Dorothy Montgomery, Hazel McGee and Mickie Povey. Margaret Smart will audit our books.

Serena Wintle of Bury Institute then spoke a few words about the work done by the Bury W.I. and expressed thanks for our invitation to their members.

The monthly drawing was won by Viola Tarte.

A contest of this and that concerning Canada was won by Serena Wintle and second prize went to Margaret Smart.

Meeting was then adjourned and a delicious hot supper served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be on February 5th, 1977 at Irene Paige's home, with Dorothy Montgomery as co-hostess.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "The play from dummy at trick one doesn't often make much difference, but there are times when it is crucial."

Oswald: "South covered West's queen of spades with dummy's king. East won with the ace and, after long thought, shifted to the queen of diamonds, whereupon the defense added three diamond tricks to the spade trick already in the bank. South consoled himself for his poor play by remarking that he could not make the hand in any event, but he was wrong there also."

Jim: "Assuming South ducked the spade lead, there is no chance that East would put up his ace. South would ruff the second spade and draw trumps with two leads to leave one trump in dummy. Then he would ruff dummy's last spade and start on clubs. East would show out on the third club, but South would lead the last club and discard a diamond from his hand. West would be in and would have to lead a diamond to establish South's king or give South a ruff and discard."

Ask the Jacobys

We have had so many questions about point count that we will answer them in this and our next several articles.

To start with, point count is basically a method of hand valuation. High cards are valued:

Ace-4, king-3, queen-2, and jack-1.

Thus, there are 10 high-card points in each suit and 40 high-card points in the pack.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

For Thursday, Jan. 27, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very careful when shopping today not to spend your hard-earned cash on something that's more novel than necessary.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even allies of long-standing can't be relied upon to back you up today. This holds doubly true for persons you've recently met.

GENINI (May 21-June 20) If you find yourself in a problem area today, don't try to wriggle around and make matters even worse. Out of the frying pan . . .

CANCER (June 21-July 11) Strive to be as attentive to old friends as you are to new ones. If you show partiality, someone's nose is going to be bent out of shape.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Success is likely to elude you today. You tend to change course once the goal is in sight. Stick to the original plan.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Uncharted shortcuts could prove to be the long way around today. You'll do a lot better by staying on the beaten path.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) One who has perennial financial problems could try to put the bite on you today. If you let your guard down, you could give in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Problems will result if you become too closely tied in with a person whose aims are not in accord with yours. Take care who you team up with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The workload you'll have today will be a heavy one because others will be trying to shift their burdens onto your capable shoulders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A well-intentioned friend may come up with a business tip for you today. Listen politely, but probe thoroughly before using.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Bar negative outside influences and individuals from your doorstep today. Don't let others palm off their troubles on your household.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Seeing only the dark side means you're getting half the picture today. Look for the bright side as well.

CBers turn to ham radio

By Ink Dipper

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper (KYZ-3916) is the handle of the editor of The CB Times-Journal.)

CBers by the thousands are leaving citizens band for the more complicated and, to some extent, more rewarding amateur radio system.

They've been turned off by the rudeness of many fellow CBers, blatant disrespect for the law and the sometimes disappointing range of CB transceivers.

"There are probably 25,000 people taking amateur (radio) courses now, compared with 3,000 to 4,000 taking them in 1974," says Charles Harris, club and training manager for the American Radio Relay League, a nationwide club representing 132,000 amateurs, or hams as they're usually called.

"About 90 per cent of these new hams are coming out of CB," he estimates.

Consider Jerry and Lillie Murchison, who bought CB equipment four years ago, well before the explosion of interest in CB that has increased 10-fold the number of people on the band.

"Jerry could call me and say he was 30 minutes from home, and I could start dinner," says Mrs. Murchison.

But since that time, CB has become congested. Many operators use overpowered equipment, obscene language and bad manners.

The Murchisons sold their CB equipment (which cost about $350) and bought amateur gear for nearly twice as much. Now they can communicate with "friendly, polite, willing-to-help" hams who may be on the other side of town or the other side of the world.

But switching to ham isn't as easy as just spending some money. Hams have to be able to send and receive the International Morse Code at speeds that vary with the four classes of licenses. And they also have to know radio theory and techniques which grow more complicated with each license step.

Of course each license step also allows hams more freedom. While CBers are limited to four watts of transmitting power, many hams are able to use up to 1,000 watts.

They communicate with faraway hams in technically exotic ways — bouncing their signals off satellites or the moon in some instances. And while, like CBers, they help other people, hams assist in emergencies which occur thousands of miles away. They relay messages, tie in distant hams with telephone communications and pick up distress calls from aircraft, ships at sea and scientific expeditions.

People who've been in ham radio for years are feeling the CB-related growth. Old-time hams complain about the crowding of their previously wide open airwaves. There is also hostility among hams towards CBers. They resent the CBers because obtaining a license is no more complicated than filling out a form and mailing it to the right address.

But hams have begun to welcome CBers.

"We're all for it," says Harris of the ARRL. "CBers are like converted alcoholics. They know how bad it is on the other side.

"They bend over to do a good job as hams. They come in with less knowledge but more enthusiasm, and they turn into excellent hams."

And many hams also become CBers. They see advantages in having a CB unit on the highway and being able to reach someone locally without searching the frequencies for contact.

But don't count on these hams admitting that they also have CB rigs, especially while talking to other hams.

Harris, for instance, is a CBer. "A tremendous number of hams are CBers" he says, "but a lot of us are a little reluctant to admit it until we find out the other guy is too."

New York City still a wonderful town

NEW YORK (CP) — No matter how many bites you take out of the Big Apple, there is always more to see and do. But be prepared to spend money. Not too much of it is free.

If you're interested in old New York, there's the free Museum of New York at Fifth Avenue and 103rd Street with displays of old furniture, costumes, toys, fire engines, etc.

Another introduction to the city is the excellent film, The New York Experience (adults $2.75; children $1.35), shown every hour in the McGraw-Hill Building at Rockefeller Centre. The viewing is on 16 screens and your chair swivels with the action.

The guided tour of Rockefeller Centre (adults $2.50; children $1.35) ends at the observation deck above the 70th floor of the RCA Building.

The Empire State Building is higher, with observation decks on the 86th and 102nd floors and the World Trade Centre, at the tip of the island, also has two on the 107th and on the roof of the 110th. Prices at both buildings are $1.70 for adults and 85 cents for children.

SOME BUILDINGS FREE

Close to the trade centre, there is no admission charge at the palace-like city hall, the stock exchange or the old brownstone Trinity Church.

The Statue of Liberty is also free, but the round trip by ferry costs $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Allow 2½ hours for the visit, especially if you have the energy to climb into the statue's head above the elevator observation level.

If the weather is unsuitable for high-level viewing, there are plenty of indoor attractions, including a large selection of museums and art galleries.

Among the major ones, first priority goes to the Metropolitan Museum of Art on Fifth Avenue between 80th and 84th Streets, especially its recently opened Egyptian wing. Exhibits include decorative tombs, mummies and mummy cases, a king's sarcophagus and gold headdresses.

For art treasures and period furniture, there is the Frick Collection in an interesting residential house at Fifth and 70th. The Guggenheim Museum at Fifth and 89th and the Whitney at Madison Avenue and 75th have modern art collections.

CHAPELS IMPORTED

The Cloisters museum in Fort Tryon Park above Harlem has the greatest collection of medieval art in the United States, housed in genuine cloisters and chapels imported from France and Spain.

In the new SoHo (south of Houston Street) area, artists have taken over lofts as studios and there are several modern art galleries.

For shopping, Fifth Avenue is the luxury area with famous stores such as Lord and Taylor, Bergdorf Goodman, Bonwit Teller and Saks Fifth Avenue.

The well-known department stores, Macy's and Gimbel's, are downtown at 34th and Broadway while Bloomingdale's and Alexander's are east of Fifth Avenue at Lexington and 59th.

On Sunday mornings the Lower East Side lures shoppers from all over New York to Orchard and Delancey Streets. Orchard is closed to traffic and lined with stalls. For real bargains, you have to know regular prices and quality of merchandise but the scene is fun and you can eat pretzels from push carts.

Culture bus tours, at $1.25 each, are a transit bargain. Operating on Saturdays and Sundays, they loop past the most important museums and historic sites, one in the northern part of Manhattan and the other in the south and part of Brooklyn. Passengers can stop over anywhere and get back on with the one ticket.

Another popular tour is the three-hour cruise around Manhattan, $5 for adults and $2.50 for children. The Hudson River Day Line also runs boat cruises up the river in summer, the price varying with the distance travelled.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have always heard ulcers come in the spring and fall but believe this to be an "old wives' tale" as they say. My husband, who has retired, has had one several times a year for the past few years. He had one last March and is now again suffering with one. I have him on milk and cream which is what his doctor suggests. He has gout and is taking one Benemid daily. I'm wondering whether there could be anything in that medication to affect the stomach and perhaps cause an ulcer to return so soon after being cured. He was X-rayed last April and was completely cured. Would you advise a diet at all times after one is cured to prevent future attacks?

DEAR READER — Some "old wives' tales" turn out to be true and this is one of them. Peptic ulcers of the duodenum — the common type — are more likely to occur in the spring and late fall. No one knows why but it is true of the North American population.

Peptic ulcers were relatively uncommon before 1900. What few ulcers did occur were usually of the stomach and not the duodenum. All of this suggests that our current lifestyle has a lot to do with the incidence of ulcers. To give you more information on this and what your husband can do about it I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers — Duodenal, Stomach. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The most important thing your husband can do is to quit smoking if he smokes, avoid all forms of alcohol and not use anv drinks that contain any caffeine. This includes coffee, tea, colas and chocolate drinks. I think with the severity of his problem he should also avoid the decaffeinated brands of coffee, since the flavor oils and other ingredients are irritating to some people.

The Benemid may irritate the stomach. It does so even in people without ulcers if the dosage is on the high side. You might talk with your doctor about putting him on Zyloprim (allopurinol). The difference is that Benemid helps the kidneys wash out excess uric acid from the body and allopurinol prevents it from being formed by the body cells — the main source of the uric acid. Zyloprim is not known to irritate the digestive system.

The milk and cream diet has been used for years but many doctors now question its value. I am concerned about the cream because your husband has gout. One of the major complications of gout is coronary artery disease.

I usually recommend that patients with gout stay on a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet to help prevent artery disease. Of course, a doctor is often faced with the lesser of evils in deciding what to do to help a patient. If your husband permits I would prefer to see him on a high protein diet, using fortified skim milk and antacids. Medicines to block the vagus nerve stimulation of acid digestive juice might also be used.

Avoiding excess stress, which sometimes means changing jobs or correcting home situations, entirely eliminating cigarettes, coffee, tea, colas and alcohol permanently and eating a sensible diet is a way of life for anyone who has or has had an ulcer or acid indigestion if they wish to avoid symptoms.
