Russia Delivers New Note To Allies

Hope To Improve US - Canada Relations

American Ignorance Deplored

WASHINGTON (CP)—A drive to put Canada-U.S. relations on a "better, more mature" footing was launched today by two Congressmen who reported a deepening erosion in the friendship between the two countries.

Representatives Brooks Hays (Dem. Ark.) and Frank Coffin (Dem. Me.) placed before the House foreign affairs committee a report based on a two-months fact-finding study in the origins of growing Canadian resentments against the United States.

The report, prepared at the committee's request, deplored American "ignorance" about the Canadian heritage and Canadian problems, urged American news media to review their coverage of Canadian news and suggested the U.S. government consider Canada's interests before taking steps that might upset its economy.

CRITICIZE PRESS

They criticized the U.S. people, their press and their government for frequently adopting "a patronizing assumption that Canada, like a poor relation, would remain at our beck and call, and that no matter what the provocation, Canadians would not object to any step we might take."

In two trips to Canada, they said, they found a renewal of protectionist feeling, a keener interest in finding markets outside the U.S. and a tinge of anti-American sentiment "which is usually hedged about with protestations of continued affection."

In a list of recommendations, they proposed establishment of a permanent Congressional subcommittee to keep Canada-U.S. affairs under continuing review, greater care in changes in U.S. tariff rates and procedures and more attention to Canada's interests before the U.S. disposes of surplus wheat and other farm products.

DISCUSSED OIL RESTRICTIONS
Their 8,000-word report touched such sources of Canadian irritation as U.S. agricultural surplus disposal, restrictions on Canadian oil, possible increases in tariffs on lead and zinc, imbalance of trade and heavy American investment in Canadian industries.

33 Killed In Colombia Election Day

BOGOTA, Colombia. (AP)—Long split into bitter factions, most of Colombia's voters united Sunday to elect Alberto Lleras Camargo president. Terrorist attacks pointed up his most pressing problem.

Thirty-three persons, mostly peasants on their way to vote, were killed by roving terrorist bands. They killed 25 in an attack on two truckloads of voters near Tolima, in Central Colombia.

Tolima has long been the scene of bandit raids resulting from the bitter civil war that split Liberals and Conservatives for years.

UNITED LAST YEAR
The two parties finally united in 1957 to throw out dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla and then agree on Lleras as a unity candidate under a political truce. The 52-year-old Liberal party leader had served as president in 1945-56. He is to be followed in the presidency by a Conservative in 1962.

Jorge Leyva, a Bogota lawyer, challenged the truce and ran against Lleras with the backing of extreme Conservatives.

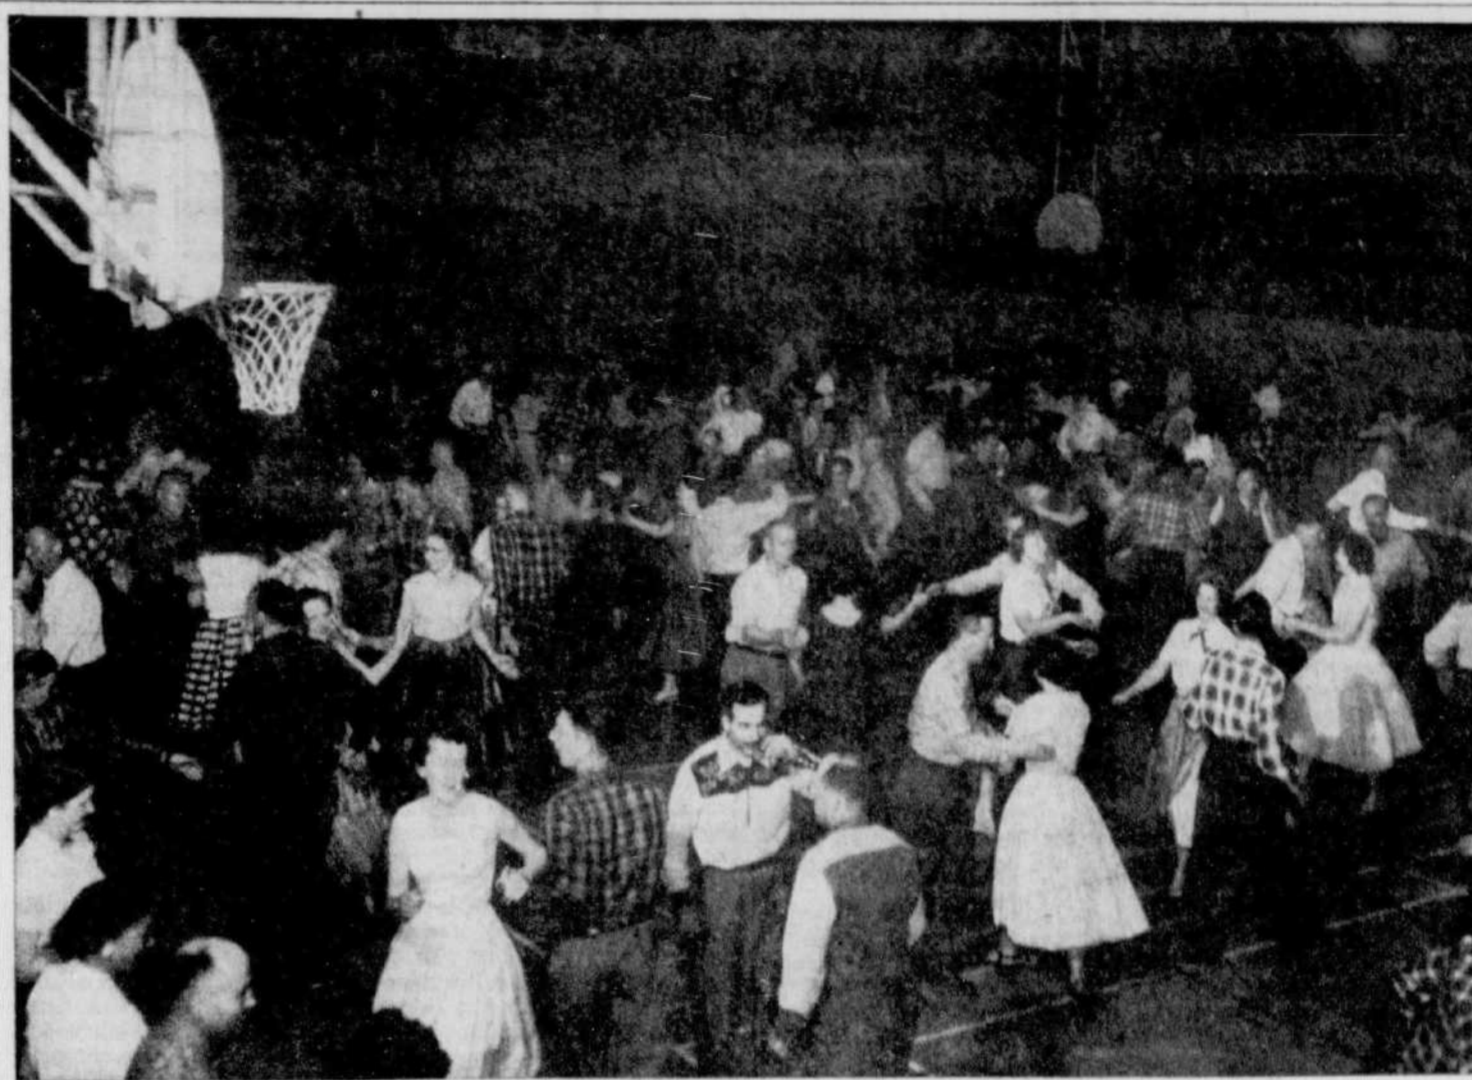

An estimated 4,000,000 men and women voted.

Lleras is to take over from the five-man military junta Aug. 7.

He has promised his first job will be ending violence by stamping out the terrorist gangs and the last-ditch Rojas partisans who might try to overthrow the national front government.

Lioness Kills Girl

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—An escaped African lioness, believed so tame that its owner figured it was harmlessly roaming the countryside, killed an eight-year-old girl Saturday and aroused a storm of protest throughout British Columbia.

Maureen Vanstone died of a broken neck and severed jugular vein when the 350-pound animal, which had broken out of its un-locked zoo cage Friday, lunged at her from a roadside bush.

Maureen was no stranger to the lion which she knew as Fury.

CD Organizer Only Casualty

HALIFAX (CP)—Maj. E. J. Vickery, civil defence co-ordinator for the Halifax metropolitan area, was the only known casualty in a weekend CD paper exercise.

He got a black eye from flying rubber power outlet while equipment was being set up at the control centre here.

Notwithstanding his injury, he termed exercise "co-operation two" a success.

Instructor Drowns

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Hughie Lee Austin, 30, drowned Sunday while teaching a nephew how to swim. The student survived.

Train Robbery Suspect Escapes, Then Gives Up

PORT HOOD, N.S. (CP)—Climax to Cape Breton's second manhunt in less than three weeks was to take place today in magistrate's court at Antigonish, N.S.

Suspected train robber Russell Ross, 38, was to appear on a charge of escaping custody along with Robert John Caron, 21, of Albert Bridge, N.S.

The manhunt started when they escaped early Saturday morning from Inverness County jail here, apparently by breaking a padlock and slipping through a coal chute.

Ross, a former railway clerk who is charged with the April 16 armed robbery of the Sydney night express, surrendered quietly to police Saturday at 4 p.m. EDT at Baddeck, about 35 miles from here.

PICKED UP LATER

Caron, who was awaiting sentence for break, enter and theft, was picked up one hour later in a stolen car at Sheet Harbor, about 100 miles away.

She and her playmates had often gone to the private zoo near this Vancouver Island city to pet the animals.

She was walking with her younger sister and two friends when she saw the lioness in the bush. Her last words before the animals sprang: "I see you Fury. Come out of there."

CHILD CRUSHED

The child was not mauled, but the lioness fatally crushed her with its weight.

Outraged residents in the area hunted the beast for three hours and shot it as it lay on a bluff overlooking a lake. Humane society officials criticized provincial government officials for not closing the zoo, owned by Paul Hertel, 48-year-old logger who has tamed animals as a hobby for 15 years.

"I didn't think anything would happen," Hertel said. "She (the lioness) had escaped before. It turned out to be a poor hobby."

William Leach, vice-president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Victoria, called for closure of the five private zoos in British Columbia and said "the Provincial government is the stumbling block."

PUSHED DOOR OPEN

Fury broke loose when zoo helper Waldemar Jungenkrueger was feeding the lions. It pushed open a wooden door and ran away.

Hertel and Jungenkrueger took turns watching through the night, expecting the animal to return as it had done previously. They did not notify authorities.

Some neighbors were advised, but through an error there was no call to the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Vanstone.

Living Costs Jump Again To New High

OTTAWA (CP)—The cost-of-living index jumped nine-tenths of a point to a record high level in April, propelled mainly by higher prices for fresh fruits and vegetables and beef.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, advanced to 125.2 last month from 124.3 in March.

"A further sharp rise in fresh fruit and vegetable prices, following a continuation of poor crop conditions in the United States, accounted for over half the increase in the total index," the bureau said.

The remainder of the increase was "largely attributable to higher prices for beef and health care items."

Teacher Blasts Ice-Box Mentality

OTTAWA (CP)—Canon Emmet Carter, president of St. Joseph's Teachers College, Montreal, said Sunday night an "ice-box mentality" keeps many Roman Catholics out of active politics.

"We've had too many Catholics who felt that political life was beneath them," he said in a public lecture at St. Patrick's College.

This "icebox mentality" led a person to "lock himself up away from his brethren."

Bus Strike Cripples London

LONDON (Reuters)—Londoners battled for space on subways as never before today after metropolitan bus service vanished in a massive strike.

Drivers and conductors rolled the red double-decked buses and the green suburban coaches into garages after midnight and launched their long - threatened strike for more money.

It left this city of 10,000,000—one-fifth of Britain's population—all but immobilized. The London Transport Bus System covers an area of 2,000 square miles.

Huge traffic jams developed in the heart of London as persons who normally travel by bus attempted to get to work in their cars. Several firms chartered trucks and buses owned by private companies to try to get their employees to their jobs.

Thousands of others pedaled to work on bicycles.

Businessmen shared taxis and motorists put stickers on their windshields offering rides to stranded suburbanites.

More than 8,000,000 Londoners normally use the 605 bus routes. The rest depend on the subway system.

SUBWAY CO-OPERATES

No extra subway trains eased the bottleneck because London subway workers have promised not to step up the service.

It was the first London bus strike since 1937 and the first major test of the government's avowed determination to stem inflation by holding the line on wages.

The strike will cost London Transport, which operates a fleet of 8,400 buses, trolley buses and coaches, about $1,250,000 a week.

The cost to the busworkers union, the giant Transport and General Workers Union, will be more than $335,000 a week in strike pay—£2 ($5.00) a striker a week plus small wife and children allowances.

Current minimum weekly wages for central London's 35,000 bus drivers is £9 15s ($27.10) with conductors getting slightly less.

Earnings normally are boosted by special Sunday and evening rates. Although this appears low by North American standards, the pound in England buys more than its Canadian equivalent in Canada.

The bus workers originally asked for an extra 25s ($3.50) a week for 50,000 in the central and suburban areas.

West Representatives In Russia Summoned To See Gromyko

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko delivered to ambassadors of the Big Three Western powers today a new communication which diplomatic sources said left the format opening of pre-summit talks still to be negotiated.

He summoned the French, American and British ambassadors to the foreign ministry and handed them the Kremlin's reply to the West's note of Saturday. This rejected participation of Czechoslovakia and Poland in pre-summit discussions on a diplomatic level and agreed that Western envoys would meet individually with Gromyko.

Gromyko's summons did not indicate the nature of the conversations which were to follow.

The three Western ambassadors have been holding themselves available since Saturday, when their governments rejected the Soviet proposal to hold expanded sessions including the Czech and Polish envoys in Moscow.

The United States, Britain and France agreed instead to Gromyko's insistence that he meet their representatives individually.

One diplomat said Gromyko's call today could be just for the delivery of another note, but the foreign ministers and the ambassadors "have just about talked out questions of how to get started."

"It looks more like this is the beginning of actual negotiations," this source said.

Polish Plan For Neutral Zone Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States' rejection of Poland's Rapacki Plan decisively cut out of any summit negotiations today one of the proposals Russia has been pushing.

A note to the Communist government at Warsaw, released by the state department, made formal and final Washington's opposition to creation of a Central European zone from which nuclear weapons would be banned.

Such a step would block the arming of West Germany with such weapons, and bar them also from Western defence forces stationed there.

At the same time, the United States renewed its proposal for "open skies" inspection of a much larger zone including much of Europe.

The limited zone, proposed by Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, would embrace West Germany and Communist East Germany, Poland Czechoslovakia.

The U.S. note delivered Saturday said Western forces in Germany must be armed with nuclear weapons in order to stand opposite "the numerically greater mass of Soviet troops stationed within easy distance of Western Europe which are . . . being equipped with the most modern and destructive weapons, including missiles of all kinds."

Cowboy Champ

EDMONTON (CP)—Rodeo circuit veteran Jim Shoulters from Henrietta, Okla., was named all-around champion Saturday night as he led a strong contingent of American cowboys in the finals of the $10,000 tournament of champions.

"We believe state medicine in any form is not the best way to give service to the people, but we must acknowledge the right of our fellow citizens to determine to a large extent how they shall pay for their medical care," he said.

Secret NATO Talks

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (CP) Foreign ministers of the 15 Atlantic Pact countries met in secret today to hear a report on preparations for an East - West summit conference.

The three-day NATO foreign ministers meeting, staged here for the first time since the organization was founded nine years ago, opened in the Danish Parliament.

Smaller nations among NATO members were reported complaining they have been kept in the dark about summit negotiations between Russia, the United States, Britain and France.

Some reports said the smaller countries want more discussion of a united NATO policy in approaching the summit.

The subject of high-level talks with the Russians is not officially on the agenda, but the question is certain to be the chief topic of discussion.

READY TO TALK
Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Hans Christian Hansen of Denmark said in a welcoming address that "there can be no doubt about the willingness and readiness of the West to negotiate with the East."

In recent weeks, the Russian drive for a summit conference has appeared to slump and the possibilities of summit talks have faded.

While the desire for settlement remained alive, the sense of urgency appeared to have been replaced by one of caution.

The guarded approach was highlighted by Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain, who told reporters on his arrival that Britain wants a properly prepared, useful meeting with the Soviet Union and not a social get together.

This sentiment was reflected by other delegates.

MD's Will Support State Medicine

STE. ADELE, Que. (CP)—Dr. Morley A. R. Young, president of the 12,000-member Canadian Medical Association, Saturday indicated Canada's medical profession will not stand in the way of national hospital insurance.

"We believe state medicine in any form is not the best way to give service to the people, but we must acknowledge the right of our fellow citizens to determine to a large extent how they shall pay for their medical care," he said.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A restless Texan is Fess Barker, who hopes to escape from the Disney corral next month.
 He's done a lot of thinking about his career, and has made no secret of the fact that he is unhappy with his servitude to the Disney studios.
 "My option comes up in June, and I'm hoping that they'll let me go—or at least give me more freedom than I've had in the past," said Fess.

He is grateful to the studio for establishing him from a movie bit player to an international star via Davy Crockett. He was handed a 10-per-cent cut on all the merchandise issued under the Crockett imprint, and his record of the ballad sold over 1,000,000 copies.

NOT HAPPY
 But he hasn't been content about what has happened since. "I think the studio has to decide whether it's just going to use players to suit its own purposes or whether it will groom and build stars," Fess argued. "So far, it hasn't shown much tendency to look after the actor's best interests."
 He has objected to the studio's turning down of outside film offers. He was allowed to play in a comedy on TV's Playhouse 90—but the studio took the salary, he said.
 Fess's main contention is that he wants to show more of what he can do, and he thinks he can do more than merely play stalwart frontier heroes. But the Disney studio has just announced him for a new film about Custer's last stand, so it looks as though Fess won't be escaping soon.

Montrealer Is Committed In Security Theft

MONTREAL — (CP) — Jean-Paul Emile Pelletier, 50, charged with theft of nearly $1,800,000 worth of bonds from a Montreal trust company, has been ordered for trial May 21. Appearing without counsel for a voluntary statement Friday, the bespectacled Pelletier at first chose trial by jury then changed and chose trial by judge when Justice Wilfrid Lazure told him he could call witnesses at either type of trial. The huge theft took place the weekend of Jan. 27 in a leisurely professional safe-cracking from the Caisse Nationale d'Economie, a subsidiary of the Societe Nationale de Fiducie. Police arrested Pelletier in Quebec City when he allegedly tried to cash some of the stolen bonds. Earlier, $72,000 worth of bonds were recovered from the basement locker of a Montreal apartment along with a fortune in narcotics. Sgt. Leo Plouffe of the Montreal police spent a week in Europe investigating reports that some of the stolen bonds had turned up in Switzerland and Havana, Cuba. His efforts were said to have led to Pelletier's arrest.

Quebec Man Sentenced To Gallows

QUEBEC. — (CP) — Fernand Aube, 29-year-old barber, was convicted Saturday of the hammer murder of an aged man and sentenced to be hanged next Aug. 29.

A jury in the criminal assizes deliberated 35 minutes before finding Aube guilty of murdering Joseph-Ignace Paquet, 72-year-old merchant of nearby St. Nicolas. The aged man's body was found last Nov. 5 in the ruins of his home, which had been destroyed by fire.

Aube remained emotionless when the jurors, at request of defence counsel, were polled individually on the verdict and also when the death sentence was pronounced.

Defence counsel announced an appeal will be taken.

The trial lasted 12 days, one of the longest murder trials in Quebec City. The Crown called about 20 witnesses and the defence about 10.

The Crown maintained that during the night of Nov. 4-5, Aube fatally injured the aged merchant with a hammer, intending to rob him.

Jean-Guy Wagner, 22, of Quebec, an alleged accomplice, was also charged with murder. The date of his trial has not been set.

Forestry School Established At Windsor Mills

The first "forest school" in the Province will be officially opened at Windsor Mills next Sunday, Lucien Bedard of the Eastern Townships Forestry Association announced last weekend.

Mr. Bedard said a demonstration of forestry conservation methods, and other works relating to the growth and maintenance of forests will be given.

This "forest school" is situated in the heart of Windsor Mills and covers 22 acres of which 14 acres are natural reforestation and three acres are artificial reforestation.

A four-acre nursery was planted by the Windsor Mills 4-H Club Mr. Bedard noted. The land, property of the Canada Paper Company, was rented to the 4-H Club. The club has already done substantial work on the land to make it a model forest, he said.

Mr. Bedard said that the Forestry Association hopes to make the school a demonstration forest on the lay-out and conservation of forest lots.

Next Sunday's opening will be attended by religious, industrial and civil officials.

B.C.S. Players Again Cop Dramatic Festival Honors

A decided improvement in the quality of the productions was noted by Mrs. Filmore Sadler, adjudicator of the plays in the English drama section of the Sherbrooke Youth Festival.

The composition, entered by four Eastern Townships schools, took place Saturday in St. Patrick's Church Hall.

Sherbrooke schools were noticeable by their absence and local support was limited to a handful in the evening and considerable less in the afternoon. It was hardly the most favorable circumstances for the young players.

Bishop's College School walked off with top honors again this year for their presentation of Eros At Breakfast by Robertson Davies. The King's Hall, Compton entry, The Truth About Jane, placed second. Pope Memorial High School, Bury, presented The Valiant and the Drummondville High School group, The Thespian Juniors, gave A Room in the Tower by Hugh Stewart.

Mrs. Sadler commended the entrants for their selection of good quality plays and for the standard of production. She predicted a very promising future for the Festival.

The adjudicator said that she had based her decision on the play served best by its actors. The Bishop's effort was well produced and the diction excellent all through, she said. "I had a great sense of security."

Mrs. Sadler praised Colin Moseley for his long introductory speech in the part of Chremes and Roger Bell for his effective entrance. The sound effects were excellent she said.

Jonathan Meakins, John McLennan and Alexander Kyrtis completed the Bishop's cast directed by James Greaves.

Mrs. Sadler told the Compton group that they had completely sold her on the play, The Truth

About Jane, which on reading she had found boring.

"You had fun with it," she said, "and you really pulled something off."

The adjudicator liked the "real" costumes of the turn of the century period (loaned by Mrs. Hawley Griffith) and the setting. There was excellent listening by all the players and good teamwork and vitality she said. "You created a picture of a time."

Taking part were: Penny Throsby, Beverley Shannon, Elaine Audet, Cindy Lyman, Judy Hingston, Daphne Duncanson and Heather Black. Miss F. A. McLennan directed the play and Mrs. L. H. Doering was in charge of costumes.

The Valiant, produced by the Bury students, was the other evening presentation.

This "good play" fell down because it was hard to hear the adjudicator said. She advised the actors to watch their diction and she asked for more feeling and expression from Elizabeth Clark who played the visitor, Josephine Paris.

Stage kisses, she said, should be real or not at all.

There was a nice sense of something about to happen at the beginning of the play the adjudicator said and she found the closing scene "quite pathetic."

The actors were: Garnet Morrison, Donald Parsons, Kenneth Herring, Jimmy McLeod and Elizabeth Clark. Mrs. Gordon D. MacAulay directed.

A Room in the Tower produced by the Drummondville Thespian Juniors, had a nice quality of sincerity the adjudicator said but could have had more feeling. She called it an "interesting production" but found the tempo a little slow. Teamwork and setting were good.

Jane McDougall had a "lovely authority" as the Queen she said.

Land Lost Forever

Last weekend you may have hopped into the car to take the family for an early spin in the country, or gone into the garden while your wife did spring cleaning, or got the screens in shape.

While you were doing that, 200,000 individuals were added to the population of the world. For the current rate of increase — births over deaths — is somewhat more than 100,000 a day.

In the past ten years, 400 million additional inhabitants have swollen the earth's numbers. In the decade ahead, at least that many more will be added to the global total.

We hear much about the demands these rising numbers are making and will make upon the world's resources of food and other materials basic to living. Despite many efforts to minimize this problem, agreement is widespread that it is a grave one.

One part of it gets little attention. This is the fact that the great increase in population, because it is occurring largely in the cities, is actually tending to snuff out presently available resources in areas fringing the big urban centers.

This year's new suburban development was last year's potato patch, or apple orchard or wheat field. Cities cannot grow in upon themselves. They must expand. As they spread, they eat up valuable farm land which now helps support the existing population.

Once clustered with houses, shopping centers, roads and all the other marks of the urban spread, this land is lost forever as a source of food or fiber. Thousands upon thousands of acres vanish each year beneath stone and brick and steel.

Measured against the total space on earth, the losses of open land to the cities are not great. But the globe has countless millions of acres useless for the sustaining of man. On the other hand, most of the urban growth is set amid regions of lush agricultural development, where every acre lost is a shrinking of the world's food base.

We evidently can't halt the headlong increase of population everywhere. But it's time we should be thinking soberly and continuously — and demanding that our statesmen do the same — about the problems this growth brings.

We ought to be reminded every time we see another acre of food-bearing soil churned up by the builder's bulldozer.

No Holiday For Nehru

A few weeks ago Jawaharlal Nehru, Prime Minister of India, leaned back. "I feel stale and flat," he said. But a few days ago he had recovered sufficiently to tell Congress members: "I still have fire in me and I want to share that energy and vitality with millions of Indians. Now he has dropped his retirement plans.

For all his fire and energy Mr. Nehru had planned to take a holiday from office, his first long vacation in 11 years. The great majority of Indians and, perhaps, many westerners, will agree that few men deserve a holiday more. For Mr. Nehru, with no successor in sight, has been a little like Atlas holding up the heavens.

The intellectual prime minister has been criticized sometimes for a seemingly censorious attitude towards the West. He has been blamed, too, over the non-materializing plesibicite in Kashmir. But India sees in him the one skipper who can keep the national ship evenly upon its course.

Probably no man on earth faces greater problems: over-population, increasing unemployment when millions of extra jobs have been provided, the always inflammable Hindu-Moslem situation which an adverse vote in Kashmir could easily ignite, the breaking down of social barriers, resented by a large minority of caste Hindus and the waxing strength of Communism with Kerala already in its pocket and now aiming at Andhra and West Bengal. And to the North is an increasingly strong China now in possession of Tibet. Compared to these the financing of the second five-year plan, difficult though it would appear, is at least a tangible challenge.

The man who faces these Gordian knots is the son of strong-willed Motilal Nehru and of a Brahmin family of Kashmiri extraction. He has remarked that his English education, Harrow and Cambridge, has made him feel something like an alien in India. He is sensitive enough to feel for the tiny forms of life in a prison cell and tough-fibred enough to bear a lathi charge and to quell a riot single-handed. Of his physical courage, to which Mr. Gandhi paid tribute, there can be no question.

Two of the prime minister's assets, his fortunately dowered youth and his intellectualism, can also be liabilities. Mr. Nehru is a convinced socialist who looks at the masses with an understanding heart and must feel, too, that he has to beat Communism to the punch: "Before I go I want much progress and therefore I am in a hurry and a little impatient."

Nehru has already done much to bring a quickening of hope to his country, a land long brilliant in the realms of the spirit and the mind, and now he may be called upon to do even more.

If there is an unusual amount of litter about the streets this morning, it may be the result of thousands of unlucky people tearing up tickets on horses that didn't win the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

The Soviet veto of an Arctic inspection plan has one compensation for the Eskimos. After being invaded by Canadian and American construction and airforce personnel, plus regular visits from visiting firemen, at least they won't have to cope now with Russian inspection teams.

Some people complain about spending a dull evening at home, but there are others who look forward to it after a hectic day.

Letter To The Editor

The Editor,
Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Dear Sir:
A well-known Canadian statesman once declared that the welfare and interest of the whole people is superior to that of any group, selection, or class. This is soundly democratic and logical. The attempt of any group or section, no matter how powerful, to coerce the public is bound to cause resentment and must be resisted. The will of the majority must govern, and where it is ignored, the government of the day is justified in accordance with democratic principles in taking the necessary legislative or administrative action to prevent loss, suffering or annoyance. A public utility serves the whole community. Hence it follows that the community's needs and welfare must take precedence over that of a group.

Democratic governments, provincial and federal, have been generous in the consideration and co-operation they have given trade unions. This has resulted in securing for the organized workers very substantial benefits. Organized labor and representations have eliminated many abuses and injustices. It should therefore regard it as one of its principal responsibilities to be fair to the public. To cause a standstill of a major transportation facility in order to compel acceptance of its demands is hardly compatible with a regard for the public interest. It should be clearly understood, that right to work is superior to the right to strike. The former is both a natural and legal obligation. The second results from a disagreement between employer and employee.

It should not be forgotten that as strong as the labor movement may presently be, it commonly speaks for 25 per cent of the nation's gainfully employed citizens. Where the remaining 75 per cent may suffer serious prejudice because of a threatened or actual strike, the public is within its rights in demanding regulative legislation. I have more than once stated that the ordinary citizen who has a grievance or wants a wrong or an abuse eliminated, has recourse to the regularly constituted tribunals. Where a decision is maintained, it becomes binding and the state in having it respected.

Though the majority of labor leaders are opposed to compulsory arbitration, it is becoming a public opinion that it is in the public interest it should be adopted.

Our own province was the first, and to my knowledge, the only one, that has definitely taken action in this respect. In virtue of section 5 of the Public Services Employees Disputes Act "Strikes or lockouts are prohibited in all circumstances." To date no particular protest has been made by any group to whom this is applicable. It has been the means of preventing strikes which might have been suggested by radical or demagogic leaders. A strike therefore of employees engaged in transport action in Quebec, would be illegal.

Employers More Selective

Students Find Job-Hunting Tougher

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Canadian university students are having the most difficult time in years getting jobs for the summer months.

Descriptions of summer job prospects by university officials across the country range from "poor" and "grim" to "fair." Officials hope the situation, stemming from conditions producing the highest unemployment since the 1930s, will improve in the near future.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicated employers are becoming more selective in hiring university students and graduates.

"No more will they jump at the first qualification with the minimum requirements," says R. P. Hartley of Moncton, N.B., Atlantic regional director of the federal government's National Employment Service.

Two University of Toronto students have worked out their own summer jobs.

Julian Porter, 21, son of Chief Justice Dana Porter of Ontario and a third-year student in modern history, will lead a tour of students to Europe. He will be away 10 weeks, travel free to Europe and net about $1,000 from the venture.

Stephen Lewis, 20, a second-year modern history student, will spend the first six weeks of his vacation as a CCF organizer in Manitoba for the provincial election. He is the son of David Lewis, national chairman of the CCF.

Later, Stephen will spend two months in a summer camp for children in northern Ontario and the rest of the summer as a CCF organizer in Ontario. He expects to save $450 to $500 from his camp job, but expects no money for organizational work.

University officials in New Brunswick described summer job prospects as "grim," especially for undergraduates. Most employers are looking for graduates as permanent help. A small number of undergraduates have found employment on survey crews and with mining companies.

National Employment Service officials described the situation in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island as being "about the same or a little poorer" than last year. Resort hotels at Digby and Yarmouth, N.S., will hire the usual number of students.

Dr. Raymond Gushue, president of Memorial University, St. John's, Nfld., said prospects of students finding jobs in the Atlantic province are not as good as last year. Chief sources of summer employment are survey projects, the CNR and various provincial and federal government departments.

Laval University officials said prospects in the Quebec City area are down about 40 per cent.

The university placement bureau, working with the NES, usually places about 500 students. So far this year about 235 have been placed, but officials expect the figure could reach 300 before the school year ends in May. The bureau added that fewer employers have reported job openings this year than last and that they offered fewer jobs than in the past.

University employment officers in the Montreal region have a pessimistic outlook but add it's still too early to make an accurate forecast of the situation.

"Companies are reluctant to commit themselves in advance this year," said an official of the McGill University placement service.

Girls are having a tougher time than men. The McGill service said jobs for girls are scarce and "not too satisfactory" from the students' point of view.

Officials added women students are reluctant to take the few domestic and camp jobs that come up because they don't last long enough or pay enough to provide the funds needed for next year's classes.

Placement officers for Ottawa's Carleton University said placement of job applicants this year is slower than in previous years. Of the 650 applicants, about 270 have been placed so far. Journalism students at this university are reported having more difficulty this year than in the past in obtaining summer newspaper employment.

Placement officer J. K. Bradford of the University of Toronto reports almost all third-year engineering students have found jobs. However, difficulty is experienced in placing first- and second-year engineering students because of the availability of much unskilled labor. Manufacturing industries in the Toronto area still lead in the number of jobs offered students.

Most University of Manitoba students are attempting to find work allied to their studies, but almost all first- and second-year undergraduates are generally found doing manual work.

Hardly any students at Regina College, affiliated with the University of Saskatchewan, have found jobs. Officials said that last year all engineering students had found work by mid-April. This year only about half of them have jobs in prospect.

Summer employment for University of Alberta undergraduates seems slow in developing, officials said. However, NES and university officials are confident that by mid-May job opportunities should be almost as good as in 1957, despite hiring reductions in some quarters, notably the petroleum industry.

Oil companies, hit by a market recession, were reported hesitant in mid-April to hire their usual quota of students, though this situation was expected to ease late in May when the pace of oil-field work quickens.

Job chances for University of British Columbia students this year are described as poor. Most of the available jobs will be in construction, mining, fishing, factory and survey work. University officials attribute most of the difficulties to the B.C. forestry workers strike.

ARCTIC INTERLUDE

(Windsor Daily Star)
The freely used assertion that Canadian university graduates have it easy now, and want it that way, is challenged by a bit of drama from the northland. It is in the form of a log kept last winter by Mr. Charles Harrington of Calgary and three companions who maintained a scientific base at Lake Hazen on Ellesmere Island, 450 miles from the North Pole. All are post-graduate students of McGill University.

Theirs was a long vigil and a cold one. Last December temperature got above 50 below zero on only three days. In January it hit 68.5 below. Mr. Harrington, as a Calgarian, had some preliminary conditioning for this. His three companions were Montrealers, probably

JACOBY On Bridge

DUPLICATE AND RUBBER DIFFER

Today's hand is taken from Marshall Miles' excellent new book, "How to Win at Duplicate Bridge."
It illustrates one of the main differences between rubber and duplicate play. You, South, arrive at a perfectly normal three no-trump contract and the four of hearts is opened. East wins with the king and returns the seven. West plays the deuce and you are in the lead.

Obviously, West is waiting with three heart tricks if his side can get the lead and if you try to set up the diamonds you will be down one trick. You also note that if you can gather in four spade and four club tricks you can make your contract without bothering with the diamonds.

At rubber bridge you try both black suits. You need two finesses and a club break but all you are risking is an extra 50-point loss against a possible game.

At duplicate you settle for down one. Everyone else will be in three no-trump and if you lose an extra trick you will wind up with a bad score.

CORNERING SPACE—Artist's drawing above depicts the corner reflector sub-satellite developed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The large but exceedingly lightweight earth satellite can be compactly folded for launching into orbit, and then pneumatically erected to shape by means of compressed air. It weighs only 8.7 pounds and when inflated it is 12 feet in diameter. Being in the shape of a corner reflector and covered with aluminum foil, the satellite will be the most efficient reflector of radar signals. Because of its large size, it would appear at twilight as bright as the North Star. If it were aimed so as to loop about the moon, its flight could be followed both going and returning. This would make it possible to verify calculations of the path that would be followed later by instrumental or manned space vehicles to be used for exploring space flight in the vicinity of the moon. It is constructed of Mylar plastic film 0.00025 inch thick that is covered with aluminum foil 0.0005 inch thick.

Sex-Appeal In UK Army

LEEK, England — (Reuters) — Officers of the British Territorial Army's 148th Infantry Brigade have put sex appeal into routine spring manoeuvres here.

They announced today a buxom young Staffordshire lass will be the central figure in a military exercise next weekend. Her name was not revealed, but she was described as a near-enough double for Jayne Mansfield.

Half the unit will be assigned to rescue the shapely captive from a force of 80 "enemy" troops.

Maj. R. H. R. Saltham described the exercise as a move to "brighten military manoeuvres." He's confident the men will tackle their task with a zest not known in past exercises.

AMERICAN IGNORANCE

The report now goes to each of 435 members of the House of Representatives and the 96 members of the Senate. Copies will go to the Senate foreign relations committee which plans to open a public hearing on Canadian-American relations May 16.

The two Congressmen told reporters they did not regard their study as a "one-shot venture." The erosion they found was an "ominous" sign of more serious difficulties ahead and they intended to pursue their project in talks and discussions with other Congressmen and representatives of the state department.

Their report described Canadians as a "proud people" and said their country "by no means should be considered a poor relation."

CANADIANS IS INFORMED

Deploping the lack of American interest in Canada, they said: "When an American citizen visits Canada, almost every Canadian is fully aware of current problems in the United States. On the other hand, when the Canadian visits the United States, there is usually a total ignorance of any Canadian matters."

Their two visits to Eastern Canada in December and January, the Congressmen said, produced evidence of resentment against the U.S. on every side—in conversations with private citizens, in talks with government officials and the press.

"Fundamental to this resentment and to the antagonism to the United States has been the lack in the United States of understanding and knowledge of Canada's proud heritage, its economic and political problems and its special relationship with the United Kingdom."

POLISH PLAN

The note left no doubt, however, that so far as the European situation is concerned the United States is willing to consider a change in its policy there only if there is prospect of equivalent Russian change.

The note gave a half-dozen reasons for turning down the RApaki Plan.

The note said that the Western powers had previously proposed halting production of nuclear weapons, cutting out atomic weapons tests and reducing weapons stockpiles. The United States, furthermore, had proposed that an inspection system be set up over a vast zone, stretching from the Ural Mountains in the heart of Russia to the British Isles, to prevent surprise attack.

"We remain willing to do this," the note said.

A major item of business for the council is the approval of the latest plan accepted by the NATO defence ministers in Paris last month for meeting the Soviet armed threat in Europe.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO military commander in Europe, wants to double the 15 or 16 divisions he now has equipped for action, and also to begin training his forces to handle nuclear weapons.

Indonesian Rebel Capital Captured

JAKARTA — (CP) — The focus of the Indonesian civil war shifted to the eastern part of the island nation today with the fall of Sukarno's capital on the western island of Sumatra.

"For the moment we have almost completed our operation in central Sumatra," said Lt. Col. Rudi Pirngadie, the intelligence chief of President Sukarno's army at this capital city on Java.

The rebels pulled out of their capital almost two weeks ago and moved deeper into the mountains. They set up headquarters at Batusangkar, and there have been reports in the last few days that some rebel leaders had fled Sumatra to the Celebes, 1800 miles to the east.

Sukarno's forces moved quickly to re-establish civil control over Sumatra, the focal point of the rebellion since it sprang into the open 2 1/2 months ago.

The main war front now is in the North Celebes. The rebels have set up an air base at Manado, on the extreme northeastern tip of the island, and have been raiding shipping in the Indonesian archipelago for the last 10 days.

Jam-Session Riots Hurt 15 In Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Fifteen persons, including six women, were attacked or robbed by roving gangs of teen-age boys and girls early Sunday after rioting broke out among 6,000 jam session at Boston Arena.

One victim, Albert Reggianni, 19, a sailor, was stabbed repeatedly in the chest. His name was on the danger list at City Hospital. Reggianni was attacked as he left the arena with two girl companions, who also were assaulted.

The outbreaks, which raged for hours, started as the show broke out and the youngsters spilled out of the arena.

Alan Freed, New York disk jockey and master of ceremonies at the show, had been denied police permission to dim the lights during the show. Police said Freed told the audience: "I guess the police here in Boston don't want you kids to have a good time."

After police broke up fights outside the arena, the gangs raced through streets, knifing, beating and robbing.

100 Years Marked By Regiment

TORONTO — Troopers of the Queen's York Rangers 1st American, oldest regiment in North America, went on parade Sunday to celebrate the 100th anniversary of St. John's Garrison Anglican Church.

The Rangers were founded in 1755 at Dumbarton Settlement, N. H., as Roger's Rangers. Two years later they received the official title Queen's Rangers and fought in the American revolutionary wars.

The parade was symbolic of the close connection between the church and the regiments at Fort York. In 1844 the government granted two acres of land to the Anglican Church for building aarrison.

PLAQUE FOR TONBRIDGE TONBRIDGE, England (Reuters) — A plaque donated by 79 former Canadian and American students who studied in Britain under the Kinsmen Trust was unveiled at Tonbridge School Sunday. The trust received donations and awarded travel and study grants to North American students in recognition of the education given to British schoolchildren in Canada and the United States during the war. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE OTTAWA (CP) — The Civil Service Association of Canada, which ended its four-day founding meeting here Saturday, plans a drive for more members. Sex-Appeal In UK Army LEEK, England — (Reuters) — Officers of the British Territorial Army's 148th Infantry Brigade have put sex appeal into routine spring manoeuvres here. They announced today a buxom young Staffordshire lass will be the central figure in a military exercise next weekend. Her name was not revealed, but she was described as a near-enough double for Jayne Mansfield. Half the unit will be assigned to rescue the shapely captive from a force of 80 "enemy" troops. Maj. R. H. R. Saltham described the exercise as a move to "brighten military manoeuvres." He's confident the men will tackle their task with a zest not known in past exercises. 32 Canadians Touring Moscow MOSCOW — (CP) — Thirty-two Canadian businessmen went sightseeing in Moscow Sunday and worked on plans for a two-week tour of the Soviet Union. They arrived Saturday. The party, which includes bankers, airline and oil company executives and editors, had breakfast with P. Nesterov, president of the Russian Chamber of Commerce. Sunday night they were guests at a cocktail party given by Canadian Ambassador David Johnson and later went to the Bolshoi Theatre for a performance of the opera Eugene Onegin. East Clifton W. I. Planning Series Of Card Parties EAST CLIFTON — The Women's Institute meeting held at the home of Mrs. Leta Cairns was presided over by the president, Mrs. G. Montgomery. Plans were made for a series of card parties, the first held on May 2nd in the W.I. Hall. Mrs. G. The busy and interesting meeting was brought to a close by the serving of refreshments by the hostess. GENERAL NOTES Mr. and Mrs. W. Cairns of Jefferson, N.H., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bell. Mr. Ronald Luce and son, Keith of Coaticook spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Towers. AMERICAN IGNORANCE Continued From Page 1 The report now goes to each of 435 members of the House of Representatives and the 96 members of the Senate. Copies will go to the Senate foreign relations committee which plans to open a public hearing on Canadian-American relations May 16. The two Congressmen told reporters they did not regard their study as a "one-shot venture." The erosion they found was an "ominous" sign of more serious difficulties ahead and they intended to pursue their project in talks and discussions with other Congressmen and representatives of the state department. Their report described Canadians as a "proud people" and said their country "by no means should be considered a poor relation." CANADIANS IS INFORMED Deploping the lack of American interest in Canada, they said: "When an American citizen visits Canada, almost every Canadian is fully aware of current problems in the United States. On the other hand, when the Canadian visits the United States, there is usually a total ignorance of any Canadian matters." Their two visits to Eastern Canada in December and January, the Congressmen said, produced evidence of resentment against the U.S. on every side—in conversations with private citizens, in talks with government officials and the press. "Fundamental to this resentment and to the antagonism to the United States has been the lack in the United States of understanding and knowledge of Canada's proud heritage, its economic and political problems and its special relationship with the United Kingdom." POLISH PLAN Continued From Page 1 The note left no doubt, however, that so far as the European situation is concerned the United States is willing to consider a change in its policy there only if there is prospect of equivalent Russian change. The Doctor Says

SCIENCE SPEEDS UP STUDY OF BAFFLING MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

Two writers, Mrs. E.R. and Mrs. H.R., have asked for a discussion of the strange disease known as muscular dystrophy.

It is thought that more than 200,000 people in the United States alone suffer from the disease. Of this number approximately two-thirds are children between the ages of three and 13.

The first signs of muscular dystrophy thus usually appear early in life. The onset is slow, so the early signs may escape notice.

Actually, there are several forms of this disease, though in general they all show gradually increasing wasting of the muscles, muscular weakness and the symptoms resulting from such change.

A recent release from the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America suggests to parents the following questions:

Does your child have difficulty climbing stairs when others in the same age group do not?

Does he or she show an inability to keep up with playmates in running games?

Does your child fall more frequently and appear more clumsy than other boys or girls?

Does the youngster find it unusually hard to drink through a straw?

These are good questions, but even if some of them are answered yes, it does not necessarily mean that the child has muscular dystrophy. A professional study and diagnosis, however, is indicated if the answer to any of these questions is positive.

Muscular dystrophy is generally considered as a true hereditary disease. Nearly half of those who are afflicted with it have other members of their families also involved.

Furthermore, the disease is about three times as frequent in the male sex as in the female, thus suggesting that it follows one of the laws of heredity.

Up to the present the cause of muscular dystrophy is unknown, but research has suggested that it may be a result of faulty metabolism in which the muscles are unable to use some form of vitamin E. The clues so far available have not yet brought any effective treatment.

Today, however, an increased interest in muscular dystrophy is evident, partly as the result of the activities of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, founded in 1950 (1790 Broadway, New York 19, New York).

In 1957 alone this organization made available over six million dollars for use in the fight against this disease. Many research projects are being supported by these funds.

If You'd Keep Him Happy, Don't Sound Off Like This

Never tell a man: "I told you so" or "I didn't think it would work, but you were sure you were right." "I could have married so-and-so, and sometimes I wish I had." "If I weren't a good manager we couldn't get along on what you earn." "You never tell me you love me any more." "And to think, I gave up a good job to marry you!" "You never pay a bit of attention to anything I say." "Other men seem to be able to buy such-and-such for THEIR wives." "If you had just taken my advice, this wouldn't have happened." "The trouble with you is . . ." "I've been asking you for months to do so-and-so." "You don't have any idea of how hard I work."

"I wish your mother wouldn't . . ."

"You never take me anywhere and I'm sick of the sight of these four walls."

"You ought to see the mink stole Jim gave Eloise for her birthday. Just the kind I've been wanting for years."

"I bought it with MY money."

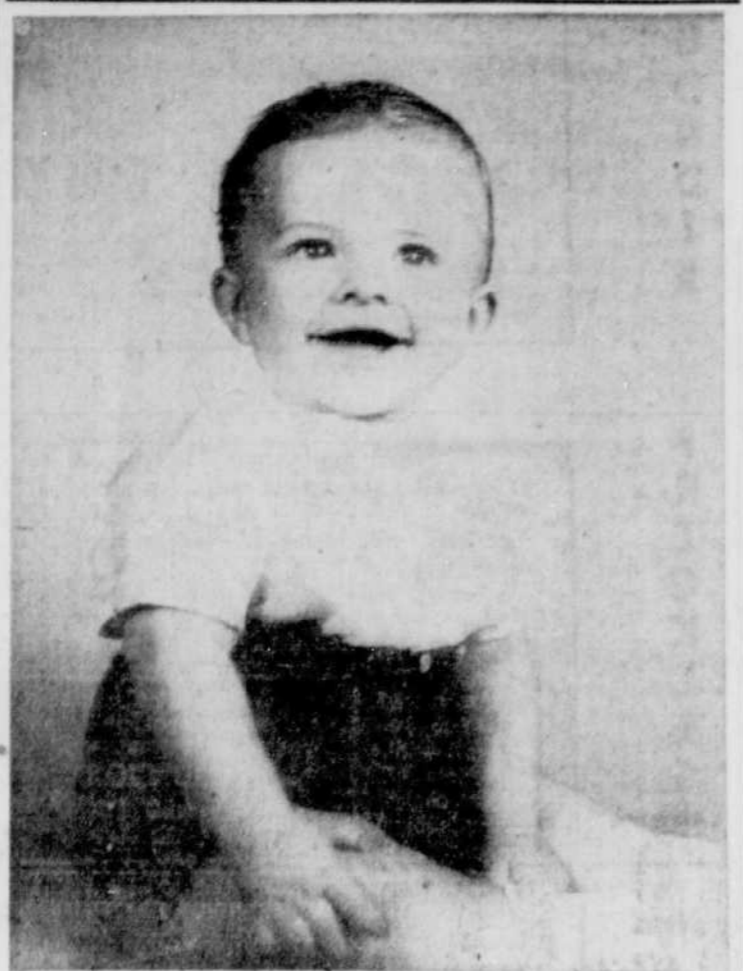

"As long as I'm working to help support us, I think you ought to . . ."

"I've given you the best years of my life."

Why should a wife avoid all of these statements and whining phases? Because each and every one of them makes a man feel less like a man.

The secret of keeping a husband happy is to make him feel proud — not apologetic or defensive.

If Willow Turns To Waddle —

Map Campaign: Then Stick To It

EDITOR'S NOTE: Most busy housewives would like to follow in the footsteps of the First Lady of the United States and tie themselves to a special retreat to catch up on their health and beauty. Not many can—but every woman can be a First Lady in her own home. NEA Service beauty editor Alicia Hart shows you how in this special seven-part series, of which this is the second.

BY ALICIA HART

Did that appraising once-over before your mirror show you that the gal who used to be a blade of grass now more closely resembles a tree trunk? Then what you need is a tape measure.

If you were going to a beauty salon for a figure analysis, overall measurements would be first on the agenda.

If you discover that you've gained all over, visit your doctor and ask him for a sensible diet that you can stick to without being obvious.

If your weight gain is spotty, get a set of exercise records or a beauty book that specializes in exercises. Learn which exercises will trim down your awkward bulges and do them.

Would you consider a good figure something worth losing 20 minutes sleep for? Try setting your clock that far ahead each morning. While the man of the house is still asleep do your morning workout for 15 minutes. Then hop into the shower. In less than half an hour you'll be ready to take up your household routine, fresh and exhilarated.

Posture, too, is important, for bad posture can make your entire body look thick. Your alarm clock can be a handy little gadget in improving your posture.

As part of her beauty improvement program, this homemaker does a few stretching bends in a hot, sudsy tub. This is a routine that pays off in a feeling of relaxation and well being. If it's done before bedtime, it's an aid to sound sleep.

Close your eyes and set your clock at random. Then analyze your posture whenever the alarm goes off during the day. You'll be surprised how much of a "conscience" your clock can be, and how many sins against beauty it can catch you in—if you're honest with yourself.

After you've finished with the household chores and before you dress for dinner, consider a hot, sudsy bath as part and parcel of your beauty treatment. It will help you slough circulation and relax the muscles.

You'll feel like a million when you sit down to dinner. But don't spoil the effect of your physical efforts by overeating. Check your diet the way you checked your measurements. Count your normal daily caloric intake. Then cut it down one third.

You'll soon see the gratifying results of these efforts: A nd while your family won't be aware of the effort, they'll surely appreciate the results.

Next: Can't beat soap and water.

Fashion

Among the prettiest shoes for spring are the colored patent leathers; red and navy. There's a French blue, too. Some of these have flower print linings.

The natural linen handbag perked up with spring flowers and covered with clear vinyl, is a fashion bet for wear now and later. Easy to keep clean, too.

White shorty gloves, printed in red, yellow or blue roses, are sure-fire accessories for wear with a navy coat or suit this spring. Pretty with gray, too.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pouliot have returned to their home on Island St., after spending the last three months in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Greensboro, N. C.

Mrs. W. B. Sergeant, Perry St., has returned from Ottawa, Ont., where she visited her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Sergeant and family.

Engagements

The engagement is announced of Bernice Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald, of Fitch Bay, Que., to W. Edward Dolloff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Avon Dolloff.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mary W. Copley of Rio Grande, Ohio, to Staff Sergeant James F. Webb, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. James Webb of Rock Island, Que. The marriage has been arranged to take place in Rio Grande, Ohio, on June 1.

Homemaking

After many years of squeezing sausage or hamburger patties into place, we find a simpler way to make them. Shape meat into a roll and cut it into slices. For freezing, insert waxed paper between each patty for easier separation.

Removing splatters of paint after a do-it-yourself venture seems an insurmountable task. A sharp razor blade usually will do the trick, especially on bathroom fixtures with slick surfaces. Slant the blade to a plane almost even with the fixture and run it along the surface.

HUMBLE START

Hendrik Ibsen, the famed Norwegian dramatist who died in 1906, was a druggist's assistant in his youth.

MANNERS MAKE FRIENDS

Some people make it a habit to arrive everywhere at least 30 minutes late. Maybe they think it makes them look important. But all it does, actually, is make them seem rude.

If you accept an invitation for seven o'clock don't mentally figure that you'll try to be there by seven thirty.

Teaches Japanese Doll - Making To Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Boris Sidline, who spent years in the Orient, now teaches Japanese-Canadian women the art of ceremonial doll-making as a hobby.

Free weekly classes for 30 women are conducted in her Snowdon district apartment by the 53-year-old Jewish woman, who shows how to make perfectly-scaled miniatures of figures from Japanese culture and folklore—wisteria dancers, fabled princesses and geisha girls.

Born in China, Mrs. Sidline started the courses three years ago shortly after her arrival from Japan, where her husband had an import and export business.

The couple moved to Canada when their two sons completed primary school and no facilities were available to continue their education towards a college degree.

Mrs. Sidline said before leaving the Orient she attended a famous doll-making school in Tokyo "because I wanted to take something of Japanese culture and accomplishments with me to Canada."

"I started giving the lessons here and found it a pleasure. It's a link between my two adopted countries and it's a way of bringing something lovely here."

Dolls are a national symbol in Japan, she said. No home there is too poor to have a couple of dolls as ornaments. They are kept in glass cases and brought out at festive times to use with flower arrangements.

It takes 18 to 20 hours to assemble each doll, usually about 18 inches high. The work involves costuming, hair - dressing, twisting the limbs into the correct stylized positions and other details.

The doll bodies — cotton forms stuffed with shavings and threaded with thin wires for rigidity—are imported from Japan. The arms are separate pieces of formed silk with small fingers individually wired to permit realistic placing.

Theftord United Church Club Holds Meeting

THEFTORD MINES — The United Church Get-Together-Club held its monthly meeting in the church hall with the Whitham Group in charge of entertainment. The program proved to be one of the most diversified so far attempted and was highly enjoyable throughout. Mrs. E. Whitham was in charge of the refreshments and as usual provided an unusual and delectable lunch.

President Dick Hall opened the meeting and the secretary, Mrs. D. Hodapp, read the minutes. A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. D. Hodapp, Mrs. Harry Egan, Dick Hall and Lorne Taylor was set up to bring in a slate of officers for presentation at the June meeting.

A motion was passed to the effect that the Get-Together-Club take a holiday during July and August to start functioning again in September.

Due to the fact that the High School graduation dance is scheduled for May 23rd, the Club meeting to be held at Inverness was changed to May 16th. David Scott is in charge of program arrangements. All those needing transportation were asked to be at the church at 7 p.m.

A suggestion was brought up that the club organize a bowling league next season, but that subject was left for further discussion.

One new member, Dick Bramley-Moore, was welcomed and a farewell gift presented to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Boardman who are leaving Theftord Mines. Dick being vice-president and both Dick and Carol being always such active members of the club, they will be greatly missed by all.

A get-well card was sent to Mrs. Pat Kennedy.

Ed. Whitham was master of ceremonies for the program while Mrs. N. Bradley did the devotional. The program revolved around two popular T.V. programs, "Beat the Clock" and a revised version of "Do you trust your wife?"

Mrs. David Scott's stunt for "Beat the Clock" was a particularly amusing "Can you recognize your husband?" routine while other stunts featured whip cream episodes, pie eating contests and various tests of skill.

Lorne Taylor conducted the "Do you know your wife" routine and a good deal of merriment resulted from each husband's loss of memory in regard to such little details as a wife's favorite color, flower and so forth.

In between stunts the Senior Choir quartet featuring Frank Brayton, George Simmons, Pat Kennedy and Bob Scott sang; Mrs. David Scott gave two solos and Mr. MacKenzie entertained with a ventriloquist act.

Included in the Whitham group in addition to Mr. and Mrs. E. Whitham are Mrs. Norman Bradley, Mrs. David Scott, Mrs. D. Hall, Mrs. Kenny Little, Mrs. D. Worth, Mr. MacKenzie, George Simmons and Lorne Taylor.

Tim Tam Wins Kentucky Derby With 45-To-1 Shot Lincoln Road Second

Milo Valenzuela Jumps From $40 A Month Job To Earning $10,000 In One Day Astride Derby Winner

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—From $40 a month to more than $10,000 a day is big jump in any business. But for Ismael (Milo) Valenzuela, 23, it indicates a meteoric rise as one of the most promising jockeys in the United States.

Twelve years ago the Texas-born, Mexican-raised jockey was drawing $40 a month plus his keep and a small stake when he won a good race around El Paso, Tex., and in New Mexico and Arizona.

He was the leading rider at Jamaica in New York this spring. Valenzuela rode Tim Tam to the second richest Kentucky Derby in history Saturday, piloting the Calumet Farm colt to a

Silky Sullivan Fails To Come Up With Usual Stretch Drive, Finishes 20 Lengths In Rear; Jewel's Reward 4th

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (AP) — Tim Tam won the Kentucky Derby. It was not surprising.

The big question: What happened to Silky Sullivan, the most publicized horse in the 84 runnings of the turf classic?

Tim Tam took Saturday's 1 1/4-mile race over a muddy track to give Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farm its seventh Derby triumph. Lightly regarded Lincoln Road from the Sunny Blue Farm of Chicago was second, a half-length back. Dr. Peter Grafagnino's New Orleans-owned Nouredin, also neglected in the betting, trailed by another half-length in third place. Ismael (Milo) Valenzuela rode Tim Tam.

Silky Sullivan, the horse that had electrified fans with his sensational last quarters in command of the game when Erickson scored at 11:08 to give them a 3-2 lead. It was Regina's last goal.

Claude Richard tied the score at 17:01 on a pass from Bill Carter after Hicke went off for holding at 15:55.

Hicke was penalized again at 17:22. Gray put Ottawa - Hull ahead 4-3 at 18:17 and he scored the clincher just nine seconds later.

KEEP UP PRESSURE

Pats kept up the pressure in the third period but managed to get only four shots on Gambia. Coach Frank Mario pulled Ken Walters from the Pats' net at 18:15 while play was in the Canadiens end. With only 15 seconds left in the game, Carter scored in the open Regina net.

The Pats were a quiet group in their dressing room after the loss, a heartbreaker after their overtime win last Friday to tie the series.

Mario said his Pats played well but they "just didn't get the breaks." He said the baby Habs scored their first three goals at times when they didn't seem to be threatening.

Asked whether he planned any lineup changes for Tuesday, the soft-spoken coach said quietly: "I want to think about that."

Canadiens outshot Pats 35-25. Both clubs are farm teams of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Doug Sewell Cops British Amateur Golf Crown

TADWORTH, England. — (AP) — English railroad worker Douglas Sewell won the English amateur golf championship Saturday against Rhodesian David Proctor by a record-breaking 8 and 7 score.

Sewell, one of the few artisan golfers ever to play on a British Walker Cup team, was two down during the opening nine. He struggled through several more holes but managed to complete the first 18 with a 1-up lead.

After lunch Sewell swept rapidly ahead of Proctor who came to Britain both for golf and for a two-month vacation.

The championship was played over Walton Heath's 6,875 yard, par-72 course.

Terry Gray and Bill Carter each scored twice for the Junior Canadians with Claude Richard and Ralph Backstrom scoring once each.

Joe Lunghamer, Dave Balon and Aut Erickson scored for Regina.

About 4,000 fans jammed the arena here to watch the thrill-packed final.

The teams meet Tuesday night at neighboring Ottawa for the sixth game.

Joe Lunghamer lifted a shot from close in past goalie Bruce Gambia to open the scoring at 1:07 and the Pats had the best of the first five minutes of play, keeping the puck in the Ottawa-Hull end.

But Canadiens came back with lightning-like suddenness, Carter banging in a loose puck at 12:02 and Backstrom neatly beating the Pats' defence for a quick goal at 15:23.

Pats evened the score at 16:33. Balon scored after Gordon Berenson passed to him from behind the net.

Ottawa-Hull Jr. Canadiens Paced By Terry Gray And Bill Carter With Two Goals Each Dump Regina Pats

HULL, Que. (CP)—Ottawa-Hull Canadiens Sunday dropped Regina Pats 6-3 to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven Memorial Cup hockey final.

Regina, plagued by slow starts throughout the series, opened the scoring early in the first period and led 3-2 mid-way through the second. But two quick goals while Pats' star forward Bill Hicke was off for two successive holding penalties put the baby Habs ahead.

Terry Gray and Bill Carter each scored twice for the Junior Canadians with Claude Richard and Ralph Backstrom scoring once each.

Joe Lunghamer, Dave Balon and Aut Erickson scored for Regina.

Dodgers Back In Good Graces Of Fans; Jack Harshman Still Rolling

Sweep Double From Phillies With Hitting Assault, Neal Clouts Homer, Triple And Single; Spahn Wins 7-2

Los Angeles baseball fans, who only a week ago were screaming for the Dodgers to go back to Brooklyn, were embracing their heroes today like native sons.

The repatriated Burns reached new heights in popularity Sunday when they swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia to climb a notch into sixth place in the National League pennant race. The Dodgers did everything right as they won 8-7 and 15-2. The home folks saw second baseman Charlie Neal bash two home runs, a triple and a single for four runs batted in. They saw the Dodgers whip Robin Roberts in the first game and then watched them assault six pitchers for 18 hits in the second game, tops for a single game in the league this season.

SEVEN-RUN INNING

They saw Dodger hitters crack eight consecutive hits for seven runs in one inning as left-hander Danny McDevitt coasted to his first victory in the nightcap.

In San Francisco, the Giants bounced back with a 4-3 10-inning victory after Pittsburgh won the opener of their doubleheader 6-2. Milwaukee defeated St. Louis 7-2. The Chicago Cubs retained their half-game first place lead by dividing a doubleheader with Cincinnati. The Cubs won the opener 5-4 with the Redlegs taking the second 3-2 in 14 innings.

The Dodgers overcame a 7-4 deficit to win the opener. The decisive blow was Neal's seventh inning two-run homer which put Los Angeles ahead 8-7, and finished Roberts.

Don Zimmer shared hitting honors with Neal in the second game. The little shortstop rapped four hits, including a home run, and drove in four runs. Junior Gilliam also batted in four runs and Carl Furillo collected three hits.

HITS THREE HOMERS

Roman Mejias, a part-time outfielder, hammered three home runs and drove in four runs in Pittsburgh's first-game triumph over the Giants as Ronnie Kline won his second. Eddie Bresnold's 10th-inning single drove in Daryl Spencer with the winning run to give San Francisco its split. Eight home runs were hit in the two games, two by Giant first baseman Orlando Cepeda in the nightcap.

The Cubs scored the winning run in the ninth of the first game when Walt Moryn rapped his third double, scoring Ernie Banks. Steve Bilko hit a game-winning double for Cincinnati in the nightcap following 14th inning singles by Smokey Burgess and Gus Bell.

Warren Spahn gained his 48th victory in 76 decisions with St. Louis. The veteran Milwaukee southpaw permitted five hits, two by Stan Musial, who pulled into eighth place among the all-time hit leaders with 2,988. The Cardinal star, who has hit safely in all 15 games, is batting .517.

Temperamental Tommy Bolt Emerges Winner In Colonial National Golf Tourney In Stretch Fight With Hogan

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Tommy Bolt, once noted for his club throwing and tantrums on the golf course, kept control of his temper in a stretch battle with Ben Hogan Sunday to win the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

Bolt snapped back from a poor first nine on the final round to finish with four-over-par 74 and pocket $5,000 in winnings. He had 282, two over regulation figures, for the 72 holes.

It was Hogan, the grim and calculating old master, who faltered. He took a two-over-par six on the 18th hole to blow his chances of even finishing second. He had a 73 for 285 and a tie for fifth place.

VENTURI SECOND

Ken Venturi, brilliant young pro from San Francisco, was second, a stroke behind Bolt. Ted Kroil and Gardner Dickenson were deadlocked for third with 284.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Lachute, Que., was in second spot after two rounds but missed too many greens with his fairway shots in the late stages. His scores: 68-72-72-75-287. That put him in eighth place with winnings of $950. Al Balding of Toronto finished one stroke out of the money with 73-72-74-76-295.

It was Bolt's first tournament victory since last summer when he took the Eastern open.

Venturi won $3,000 for second place, which upped him to second among the leading money winners of the year with $16,731. Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., who wound up with 289 and only $662 here, still leads with $20,545.

My Game
Get Left Hip Out Of The Way

Tenth of a series written for NEA Service and The Record in which famous golfers tell how they built their games.

By BILL CASPER
I was an out-and-out hooker. That isn't unusual, for most golfers who develop a par game usually hit from right to left.

They swing the clubhead too much from inside-out, causing the hook.

It soon became apparent that I would do better if I could achieve a left-to-right fight. I would wind up in less trouble.

The principal thing a golfer must do to eliminate a hook is get the left hip out of the way on the downswing and especially at impact.

I weakened my left hand position in the grip. I now place the left thumb so that it points straight down the shaft instead of on the right side.

I am still not conscious of pouring any extra power into the shot with my right hand. I am not conscious of my hands at all in the swing.

I just make sure I have the correct grip.

I opened my stance so that the left foot is drawn back from the line of flight.

International League Turning Into Two-Team Battle Between Rochester And Montreal; Royals Wallop Havana

The International League race just five weeks old, is showing all earmarks of turning into a two-team battle.

Rochester Red Wings with their excellent pitching staff, and Montreal Royals, with their .301 club batting percentage, are leaving the other six teams far behind.

The Royals trounced Havana Sugar Kings in a doubleheader Sunday 14-0 and 10-0.

Tommy LaSorda registered his third shutout in the first game and Babe Birrer went the route in the nightcap.

Catcher Dick Teed led the assault on seven Havana hurlers with seven hits and seven runs batted in. He had four doubles. Bob Lennon had two home runs, one in each game, to give him the league lead with five.

Richmond Virginians edged Buffalo Bisons 2-1 in a single game. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Miami Marlins 5-4 in ten innings in their first game. The Marlins led 4-3 after six innings of the evening affair when it was called because of a curfew. The game will be completed tonight before the regularly scheduled game. The Rochester-Havana game was rained out.

Jim Bronstad scattered six Buffalo safeties and didn't walk a man in chalking up his second victory in three starts. Cletus Boyer hit his third home run in four games for Richmond.

Monday's schedule: Havana at Montreal; Rochester at Columbus; Miami at Toronto.

Asbestos Wins Special Tournament Staged By E. T. Soccer Association Held At Drummondville Saturday

DRUMMONDVILLE. — The first games in the six match tourney staged by the Eastern Townships Soccer Association became a reality in district sporting circles here Saturday after a lapse of approximately 20 years.

The strongest team on the afternoon's showing proved to be Asbestos who ran out winners with 5 points out of a possible six, disposing of Magog 1-0. Celanese 3-0 and drawing with Sherbrooke 1-1. In second place were Sherbrooke and Celanese with 3 points each.

General feeling prevailing after the tourney however, was that all four teams participating were evenly matched and consequently some interesting matches should be forthcoming. Magog, for instance, although finishing in last position, were not as bad as their position indicated. Being the victims of hard luck on several occasions. In the closing minutes of their game against Asbestos, they had the misfortune to see a shot from one of their players hit the cross bar of the Asbestos goal with the keeper beaten.

The real test of the teams will come next Saturday, when the first league matches of 90 minutes duration will be played instead of 30 minutes used Saturday. The main idea of the tournament was to enable the teams to hold a workout and settle player positions, and it will take the teams several weeks to do this.

The league selection committee was in attendance to choose players for the team to represent the league against a Montreal club during June. However, they are to see the first few league games before making their final selections.

Details of last Saturday's games follow:

Asbestos 1, Magog 0.
Drummondville 7, Sherbrooke 0.
Asbestos 1, Sherbrooke 1.
Celanese 0, Magog 0.
Magog 0, Sherbrooke 1.
Asbestos 3, Celanese 0.

Hatchery Trout Has Hard Time To Survive In Brooks

By GERARD McNEIL
EDMONTON (CP)—Little wonder those trout aren't biting, Mr. Fisherman.

They probably can smell better bait upstream. Or they may be put off because you're dangling that bait in their favorite pool. Trout at home have temperaments like dogs in their own backyard.

At least those are the findings of Dr. R. B. Miller, a zoologist at the University of Alberta. He and a team of student scientists have been studying trout since 1950.

BROOK PLANTINGS FAIL
Dr. Miller began experiments to learn why hatchery trout can't be planted successfully in brooks. Fish and game experts noticed that while trout have little trouble adjusting to lakes, they die off quickly in streams.

Dr. Miller's team, sponsored by the university and the provincial government, in 1950 fenced off a half-mile of brook with nets, then dumped in a load of two- and three-year-old trout raised in a hatchery.

"We lost 50 to 65 per cent of the hatchery fish within 10 days," said Martin Peyser, a biologist. "We repeated the experiment the next year with the same results." Observation showed that wild trout, natural to the stream, were running the newcomers ragged.

"We could see them being chased out of the best pools, even by smaller fish," said the biologist. "They were pushed into the current all the time."

Hatchery trout placed in stretches of the stream culled of wild fish soon adjusted with only a 12 to 16 per cent mortality rate.

Dr. Miller says the direct cause of the deaths may be a build up of lactic acid in their bloodstream caused by overexertion.

Other experiments indicated fish may be able to smell. Wild trout taken from their home pool and placed downstream usually returned within 30 days. Trout taken upstream seemed confused and had a tougher time getting back. If they were kept away more than 30 days, they didn't return.

"They have quite a homing instinct," said Mr. Peyser. "We tagged and transplanted them and most returned, especially those downstream."

"Perhaps fish smell their homes," said Dr. Miller. "They have a terrific sense of smell." The experiments have resulted in a circular hatchery with a strong current running through it, designed by provincial scientists to breed trout more able to stand the transfer to streams.

"They have to be tough," said Mr. Peyser. "Brook trout can adjust easily to lakes but a lake trout doesn't last long in a stream."

Nat Lofthouse, 32-Year-Old Soccer Great, Tallies Both Goals As Bolton Blanks Manchester Before 100,000

LONDON—(P)—Nat Lofthouse, 32-year-old soccer great with Bolton Wanderers, scored both goals Saturday to bring his team its first Football Association cup in 29 years as the Wanderers outplayed Manchester United 2-0 before more than 100,000 at Wembley.

Lofthouse, making what could be his last appearance in a cup final, robbed Manchester of the sporting comeback of the year.

Although Manchester had flabbergasted the experts by winning five elimination games to enter the final after the one-month club had been nearly wiped out in a plane crash at Munich Feb. 6, inexperience and nerves told on them Saturday.

Manchester's manager Matt Busby watched the game although still partially crippled from injuries suffered when eight of his stars died in the crash. He limped forward on crutches to congratulate both clubs.

"Bad luck," he called to his players. "But we'll do it another time."

PROUD OF THEM
"I'm still very proud of the way these Manchester boys got to Wembley and the way they performed today," he said. "But there is no question the better team won."

It was a tremendous personal triumph for Lofthouse, nearing the end of a 17-year career in which he had done about everything except earn a cup-winner's medal. His only previous cup final appearance was in 1953, when Bolton was defeated by Blackpool.

He has played 30 games for England in international competition, scoring a record 31 goals and is currently fighting for a spot on the team that will represent England in the world cup competition next month in Sweden.

The huge crowd, including Prince Philip, packed Wembley Stadium on a warm, sunny day for this clash between the two northern teams—survivors of an elimination tournament that started in September with more than 400 entries. Millions more watched the game on television.

Manchester United, which after the Munich tragedy won only one of 14 league games, had reached the cup final by scoring five straight elimination game victories.

GOALIE AT FAULT
But final victory wasn't to be theirs. It was Bolton's day.

Harry Gregg, the Irish goalkeeper who cost Manchester a record $50,000, was to some extent responsible for both Bolton goals.

In the first half, his hesitancy gave Bolton a corner kick. Doug Holden's kick was only partially cleared, and Lofthouse was on the spot to side-foot the ball past Gregg.

In the second half, Gregg failed to punch away a drive from Bolton inside—right Dennis Stevens. As he stretched up, attempting to clutch the ball, Lofthouse charged him and bundled goalie and ball into the back of the net for a goal.

Lofthouse said afterward he headed the ball over the line before he came in contact with Gregg.

MISSED EQUALIZER
There might have been a different ending had Manchester outside left Colin Webster been just inches to the left with a hard drive at a critical point in the game.

Nine minutes into the second half, with Bolton leading 1-0, Webster had goalkeeper Eddie Hopkinson beaten but the ball hit the left upright. The ball rebounded into play, and when Wanderers got their second goal a minute later, the game was as good as over.

Fans paid just under $140,000 to watch the game. Scalpers were getting as much as the equivalent of $150 for tickets in London Saturday morning.

New York Turns Down Pep's Bid For Licence

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Pep's bid to obtain a licence to fight in New York was turned down Friday.

The New York State Athletic Commission, acting on medical information, announced it is continuing the retirement of the former feather weight champion, which first went into effect in this state four years ago.

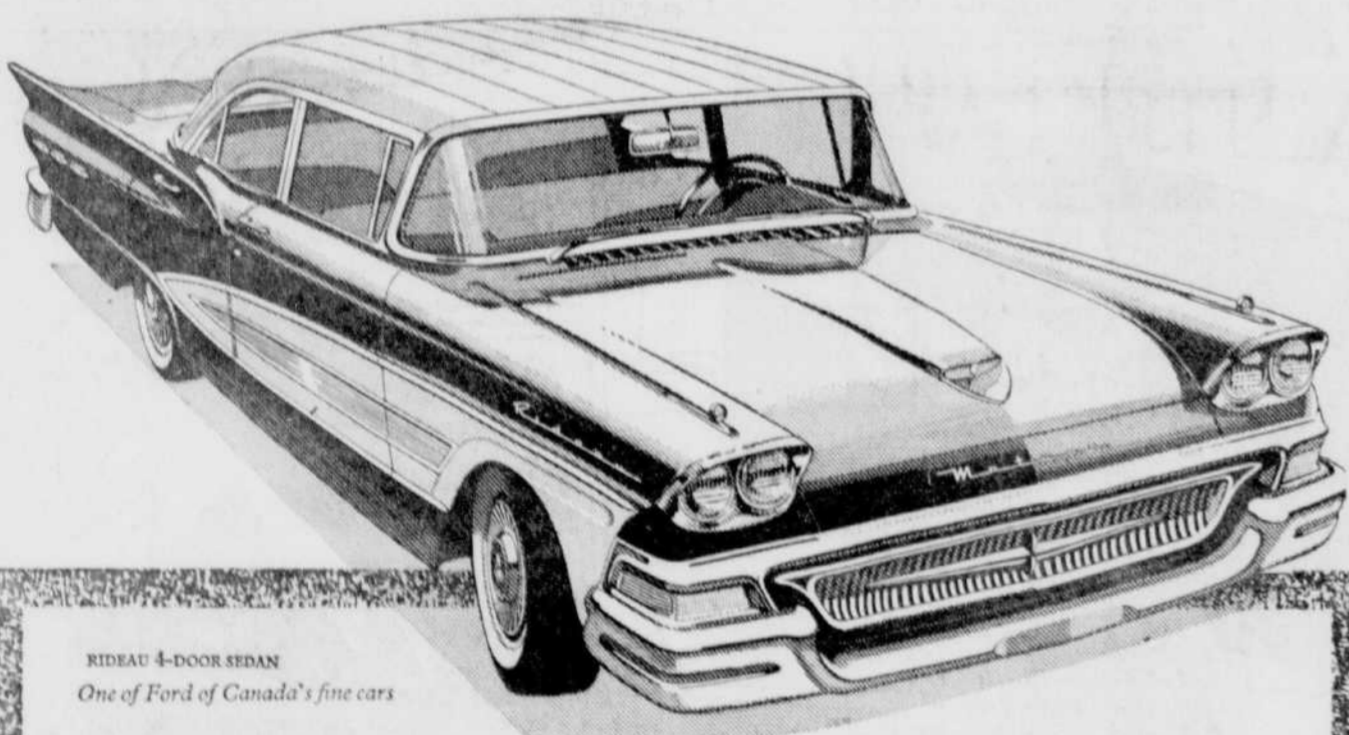

The medical advisory board, informed the commission that in its opinion a boxer with a recurrent dislocated shoulder should not be allowed to box.

The commission Friday also accepted a challenge on the part of Harold Johnson of Philadelphia for a title match with light heavyweight champion Archie Moore. Johnson's manager, Pat Olivieri, posted a $2,500 check with the commission. Moore has not defended his title in seven months.

Batting—Charlie Neal, Dodgers—drove in four runs, two in each game, with a pair of home runs, a triple and single as Los Angeles swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 8-7 and 15-2.

American Coaches Not Enthused Over Idea Of Importing English Rugger Players For Tryouts With Pro Clubs

By JACK SULLIVAN
Some American coaches aren't enthused with the idea of importing English rugger players for tryouts with Canadian professional football clubs. They figure these fellows don't fit in with our style of game.

It's likely the coaches haven't seen much rugger and, as newcomers to this country, they wouldn't know that one-time rugger players who played the game overseas or in Canada have been better than average on the football field. Maybe it could happen again.

This came about when President Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton Tiger-Cats returned from a one-week scouting trip to England where he saw professional English Rugby League games. "We should at least take a look at some of the players and then try to judge if they can adapt themselves to our game," Gaudaur said.

SUPPORT FOR VIEW
Gaudaur received full support from two long-time sports observers—Ted Reeve of the Toronto Telegram and Sports Editor Mike Rodden of the Kingston Whig-Standard. They came up with a few names to prove that rugger players have done well in Canadian football in the past.

Rodden, who coached Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger teams in the 1920s, recalled that English-born Cap Fear and Scottish-born Jimmy Simpson, two fifty ends with Toronto Argonaut and Tiger teams, were rugger players in junior ranks before they migrated to Canada.

"They experienced no trouble at all in making the senior (football) grade; Fear with the 1920 Argonauts and Simpson with the 1928 Tigers," Rodden wrote. Both stayed a long time in football. Another was Bert Stronach, former Scottish International, with Ottawa Rough Riders.

Reeve, player, coach and football expert for years, named five men who played rugger in Canada before transferring to football.

From the Maritimes came Tiny Herman, Ottawa lineman in the 1930s and one of the game's deadliest placement kickers; fast-breaking Andy Tommy, also with the Rough Riders in the late 1930s and early 1940s; Blurr Stuart, a Queen's University line stalwart, and Tarp Walsh, termed by Reeve as "a big, galloping halfback with Frank Filechok's Hamilton Tigers" after the Second World War.

Reeve also recalled that Paul Rowe was "spotted in rugger shorts speeding about the Victoria landscape by an Oregon State scout." After a couple of years as a star with the Pacific Conference team, Rowe joined Calgary Stampede of the Western Conference in 1938 and captained the club when Calgary won the Grey Cup in 1948.

WALKER SCEPTICAL
Coach Peabhead Walker of Montreal Alouettes couldn't see the idea. "I've found that players from other sports seldom fit in. I've had experience that way with wrestlers who were supposed to make good football players," he said.

General Manager Jim Finks of Calgary, who joined the Stamps as an import quarter last season, said he couldn't see rugger players adapting to Canadian football.

Other coaches and club officials said it might be a good idea but it wouldn't work because the English players would be classed as imports. As such, they would have to compete against Americans for positions and they give the rugger players little or no chance.

The import rule could be changed easily by Big Four and WIFU clubs, and as far as competing with Americans for jobs is concerned, Reeve says:

"Some of the rugger boys will not be whizzers under our peculiar rules but . . . think of the three or four or five dozen All-Americans or all - conference-something - or - others who come this way from the U.S.A. each autumn and do not make the Big Nine (Big Four and WIFU) or ORFU."

Bury H. And S. To Hold Banquet For Graduates

BURY — The April meeting of the Home and School was held in the auditorium of the Pope Memorial School.

Mrs. W. Buchanan, vice-president, was in the chair. The banquet for the graduating class was discussed and it was decided to undertake this and that all parents be asked to contribute. It will be held the first Thursday in June and there will be approximately 75 guests, which will include the graduating class, members of the central and local school boards. The sum of $20 was voted towards prizes for graduation.

Mrs. Buchanan appointed the following nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for the next year: W. MacLeod, Gerald Pehleman and A. Ward.

W. Blake introduced Dr. McCubbin from Bishop's University, Lennoxville, who addressed the young people on the necessity and pleasure of a college education, how to think about college how the decision affects the role in life, the importance of the academic subjects, how to get in and how to stay. He explained the requirements of Bishop's, its grants, degrees, courses and student life.

INCO RESEARCH HELPS CANADA GROW

Testing at Inco laboratories

Inco laboratory technicians use this testing machine to help develop high temperature alloys. The information obtained helps Inco scientists — and industry — select the metals that will perform best at high temperatures.

The raging inferno inside a jet engine. The blazing depths of an industrial furnace. Even the heating elements in electric ranges, toasters and other household appliances. All these present hot metal problems.

Inside a jet engine, for instance, temperatures may reach 1600°F. Hot enough to make some metals soft, other metals brittle.

But jet engine parts can take the blistering punishment of extreme heat. Furnace parts stand up to their job, too. So do heating elements in home appliances.

Why? Largely because of design and metal research. For many years scientists at Inco have been conducting special experiments with nickel. This hard tough metal, when combined with other metals, adds remarkable resistance to heat and corrosion.

Out of this research came a whole new range of high temperature nickel-containing alloys—such as Inconel®, used in jet engines, and Incoloy®, for tubular sheathing on electric range elements.

When requirements call for metals capable of withstanding still higher temperatures, when jet engines develop greater power—and generate greater heat—Inco research will be at work developing new alloys to do these jobs well. That's how Inco research helps Canada grow.
