British industry takes the lead

By Larry McInnis

The age of the pure jet is here, making its mark on the aircraft industry. Until now, American manufacturers have all but controlled jet sales to major airlines with their Boeing 707s and Douglas DC-8. More and more airlines are equipping themselves with jet aircraft. Even the smaller lines are going in for the next best, turbo-prop planes. Latest on the list is Nordair, which will purchase two Heralds for their new Montreal-Windsor run.

European airlines have found the French Caravelle jets the most economical for use on the continent. Last year a major American manufacturer completed a deal with Caravelle makers to manufacture the aircraft in North America under licence, but as yet no reports have been made of any sales.

In the next few years, watch Great Britain take a major part, if not the lead, in manufacture and sale of jet aircraft for mass transportation. Remember, they led the world with their Comet jet, which is only now retiring slowly from service after many years of faithful performance.

Latest ready to come off the board is deHavilland's DH126, a 50-passenger turbo-fan aircraft designed to supply fast and economical service on flights up to 600 miles. The cost will be about $500,000, and already several airlines have shown interest in it, including United Arab Airlines.

Also on the boards, and soon ready for manufacture and testing, are a series of Vickers pure jets of various sizes, most with tail-jet pods similar to those which have become the trademark of Caravelle.

Besides all this, the British government has earmarked over $10 million for research on a sub-sonic airliner for future requirements.

Well, the next decade of aviation

Obituaries

JOHN COLFORD

Funeral was held Tuesday at 9 a.m. at the Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, for John Colford, 101 Upper Bellevue avenue, president of John Colford Contracting Co. Ltd. He died in St. Mary's Hospital June 30.

Active in the construction industry for the past 40 years, Mr. Colford was a member of the Seignoury Club, the Engineers Club of Montreal, Marlborough Golf Club and the Knights of Columbus.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lucy Mary Shea; two sons, Rev. A. and George F.; two daughters, Mrs. C. Crawford Lindsay and Mrs. Douglas W. Huestis; two brothers, Michael and Peter; and 15 grandchildren. Burial was in Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

DR. OTTO MAASS

Dr. Otto Maass, CBE, PhD, DSc, LL.D., FCIC, FRSC, 32 Thornhill avenue, died Monday in the Royal Victoria Hospital at the age of 71. At the time of his death he was actively engaged as a research associate with the department of Chemistry of McGill University.

He retired in 1955 from his position of Macdonald Professor of Physical Chemistry and head of the department at McGill.

Born in 1890 in New York City his parents moved to Westmount shortly after. Dr. Maass was educated here. He received his Master of Science degree from McGill in 1912 and was attending the University of Berlin on a scholarship at the outbreak of war in 1914.

He returned to Canada and accepted a lectureship at McGill in 1917. Continuing his studies, he obtained his PhD in physical chemistry at Harvard in 1919. Returning to the staff of McGill University as Macdonald Professor of Physical Chemistry in 1923, he assumed chairmanship of the department in 1937.

While at McGill, he became associated with the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada and became its general director in 1940.

Dr. Maass served as director of Chemical Warfare and Smoke, Department of National Defence, from 1940 to 1946, and at the same time, was assistant president of the National Research Council.

He helped establish the Chemical Warfare Laboratories in Ottawa and the Suffield Experimental Station in Alberta.

From 1940-45 Dr. Maass acted as scientific advisor, chief of general staff, for the department of National Defence and then served as scientific advisor, special weapons, chief of staff, from 1950.

On his retirement from McGill and the Pulp and Paper Research Institute he was appointed principal research officer of the National Research Council Division of Chemistry. He continued in this position until 1960, conducting original research in pure physical chemistry. In 1960, he returned to McGill.

He was an honorary life member of the technical section of the Canadian Pulp & Paper Association, received the Tory Medal of the Royal Canadian Society in 1944, was made an honorary member of the Chemists Club of New York in 1955, the only Canadian to be so honored.

In the King's Honors list of 1946 he was made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire, and in 1947 was awarded the U.S. Medal of Freedom with Bough.

Dr. Maass is survived by his wife, the former Carol Robertson, and a son, Colin F. Maass.

Unity Club Planning Seignoury Park Trips

By MAURICE MARIASINE

The first of a series of trips to St. Helen's Island takes place today and will continue throughout the summer every Friday until August 25.

At the island, children will have an opportunity to picnic on the spacious grounds, play sports and spend many hours in the modern swimming pools.

Seignoury Park trip

Something new has been added to this year's program. A weekly trip to the Seignoury Park and Beach Club at Chateauguay, has been arranged and will be conducted every Monday. The bus will leave the club at 9.30 a.m. and return sometime before 5 p.m.

We visited the Chateauguay area last week and was very impressed with the ultra-modern facilities of Seignoury park. The facilities are ideal for any age group — there's a huge Olympic-size swimming pool, wading pools for the small fry, badminton and basketball courts, large picnic grounds and play areas. Managing director Frank Medek, on leave of absence for the summer from the Montreal Boy's Association, has promised an excellent program for our youngsters. Swimming instruction is under the supervision of Cameron

Grout, well-known Montreal swimmer.

The weekly visits to Chateauguay start Monday, July 10 and end August 28.

Ballet, gymnastics

Mrs. Kark Hartmann has volunteered her services to teach ballet and gymnastics to the girls who attend our summer program. The first session took place Tuesday and they will continue every Tuesday morning throughout the summer.

Mrs. Hartmann hails from Europe where she was one of the top ballet and gymnastic stars of the continent.

Learn to swim now

The Learn to Swim course at the YWCA starts Thursday. All beginners are urged to register immediately. Expert instruction is provided by Montreal parks and playgrounds staff. For further particulars please contact Chuck Tyler at the club.

Cycle club starting

Calling all bicycle owners . . . If you are 12 years of age or over and you have a bicycle, please get in touch with Chuck at the club. They want to form a cycle club and begin cross country trips around the Island of Montreal.

Atwater avenue speeders to be warned by CPR sign

City council cleared up odds and ends Tuesday, including acceptance of tenders for resurfacing jobs submitted by Montreal Dual Mixed Concrete Limited as low bidder. It authorized commitments for electrical reconstruction, payment of water rates due Montreal in respect to Metcalfe avenue between St. Catherine street and Western avenue and purchase of fire department equipment.

Payment of accounts totalling $350,913.45 for the month of May was confirmed.

Finally, council authorized the city to enter into an agreement with the CPR with regard to erection of a traffic warning sign on Atwater avenue.

Tenders for resurfacing of various streets in Westmount were opened by secretary-treasurer A. W. D. Swan and tabulated by city engineer Robert Day. Mr. Day reported that Montreal Dual Mixed Contract Limited submitted the lowest tenders on all three jobs.

A bid of $8,732.40 was submitted for one-and-a-half-inch sheet asphalt resurfacing of Edgemoor road, part of Grosvenor, Kensington, Springfield and Mt. Pleasant avenues and Weredale park. Resurfacing of Western avenue, one-and-a-half inches thick, including gutters, will cost $16,024. Part of Grosvenor, Mt. Pleasant and Willow avenues will receive three-inch thick coats of asphalt costing $3,344.

Commitments were authorized for the following electrical works by the light and power department: $7,300 for the reconstruction on Grosvenor avenue from The Boulevard to the city limits; $2,150 for the improvement in street lighting on Mount Pleasant avenue from Sherbrooke street to Holton avenue; $6,500 for reconstruction on St. Antoine street; $1,000 for improvements to the Glen power house; $2,750 to cover the cost of moving wooden pole lines and street lights from Mount Pleasant avenue between Sherbrooke street and Holton avenue and $4,300 for the purchase of transformers.

Montreal was authorized to replace the four-inch water main in Metcalfe avenue between St. Catherine street and Western avenue with an eight-inch main. Request for the new main was made by the Kensington Realty Company.

The inevitable last minute hold up occurred when the inevitable small boy could not be located. He turned up five minutes late. He had been to the hospital on the premises.

Police placed the car, which was stolen from a Town of Mount Royal resident about a month ago, under a 24-hour surveillance until Wednesday afternoon but the effort proved fruitless.

City mailing $182,669.99
 to 6,500 property owners

City council Tuesday voted to distribute a provincial refund of $182,669.99 among 6,500 Westmount property owners. The refund to the city was for its contribution to Metropolitan boulevard construction and operation costs and follows incorporation of the expressway into the provincial highway system.

All persons who as of May 1, 1960, paid the Metropolitan boulevard tax will receive rebates, council decided, except in cases where there are unpaid taxes or the tax payer no longer owns the property.

Where there are taxes in arrears, the appropriate amount of the refund will be credited against the taxes. Where the person who paid the tax is no longer the proprietor, the refundable amount will remain in the city's account until such time as a satisfactory claim is received.

Mayor J. C. Cushing declared, "This measure should be reasonably popular with the taxpayers."

City officials explained later that in cases where the taxpayer is no longer the property owner, proof of entitlement would probably include copies of the contract of sale and notarial deed of the property in question.

The Boston Bruins, plagued by goalkeeping problems the past few seasons, hope their worries will be over with the acquisition of net-minder Don Head from the Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League.

Six in Westmount Win
 McGill Scholarships

McGill University has announced that Westmount Senior High winners of provisional early acceptances into the fall freshman class numbered 21. Of the 13 boys and eight girls accepted, subjected to passing junior matriculation examinations, five boys and one girl won early entrance scholarships.

Early entrance scholarship winners are: Harvey M. Friedman, Ivan P. Nagy, Jean A. Paterson, Alexander R. Tilley, all in science; Michael D. Vineberg and Peter Weldon in Arts.

Other provisional early acceptees are: Samuel C. Ballon, science; Charles Beloff, science; Ronald R. Blumer, commerce; Gail E. Cohen, science; Mary M. Galloway, science; Tim J. Grosvenor, engineering; Anne E. Hart, arts; Akiko Hayami, arts; Juris Kalnaverns, engineering; John D. Kittredge, science; Gail K. Owens, arts; Michael E. Riordon, science; Eleanor Robinson, arts; Barbara A. Rubin, science; and Margaret M. Stovel, arts.

The American Hockey League next season will become a two-division circuit with the return of the Pittsburgh Hornets for 1961-62.

"They will be gone for 10 weeks, until about the end of August. We never set the exact date until the last minute, as it depends upon the weather."

The staff and the neighbors waved until the last bus disappeared.

Less than two seconds later a slim blonde mother dashed up, asking, "Are they gone? He will have been so disappointed. I promised him faithfully I would be here to say goodbye. Historical exhibit would be fine idea

A GOOD many of our readers have expressed interest in our articles dealing with streets in Westmount and have then gone on to discuss the old days in Westmount, either with nostalgia or curiosity.

It occurs to us that scattered around in Westmount are a great number of photographs, paintings, maps, trophies and mementos relating to life in Westmount prior to the Second World War. Prehistoric sea shells found on Sherbrooke street, Hochelagan Indian arrowheads, habitant artifacts, souvenirs of early English settlement and pictures of no longer existing landmarks and of the 'good old days' in a quantity sufficient to fill a museum are in our midst and known only to a few.

An exhibit of a representative number of these items, on loan from their owners, would draw crowds to Victoria Hall and be both informative and a lot of fun for Westmounters, old and new. An historical society would be the logical sort of group to sponsor such an affair but so far as we know there is none in Westmount. We are certain, however, that there are responsible citizens, who if sufficiently interested, could successfully organize such an affair.

The Examiner would be delighted to assist in every way possible to get such an exhibit underway and to a successful conclusion. Just ask us.

BY THE WAY

"ANYTHING to declare?"

"Yes. A toy horse-collar, the key to a Belgian castle, 32 ball-bearings, a model of the River Meurthe in wax, a stick-on bath-cap cover, a grocer's doormat, a tin filled with grass, a pig-tail, a bronze lobster, a cotton snowball, three Dutch clogs, and a mechanical tuning-fork in satin-wood."

Moral: Customs could not stale his infinite variety.

Fine of cab driver gladdens irked miss

Sir: I read with interest your article last week, June 30 edition, about the taxi driver who was fined by Acting Municipal Court Judge Alex McT. Stalker, for deliberately trying to annoy the driver of a car following him, by refusing to let him pass.

I would like to pass on a recent experience I had with a taxi driver, of a similar nature.

I have been a car driver for some 30 years, and have yet to this day to be found guilty of any driving offense.

One day recently however, I was forced to break one of the basic tenets of the road.

I was driving along a fairly narrow side street on which various road work was under way.

As I approached a spot which had been restricted to single line of traffic in either direction, the taxi immediately in front of me began to brake.

I slowed, thinking that he must be a very cautious driver, something which is, to say the least, unusual in that profession.

To my amazement, the cab stopped to let a passenger alight, on the restricted section. Even worse, after a brief discussion with the cabbie, the passenger disappeared into a bordering house.

The cab driver, who must have been fully conscious that he was the cause of a blockage on that road, calmly sat tight, refusing to move.

I indicated to him that I and several vehicles to the rear of me, wished to pass, using, I will grant, my horn.

The driver, however, did not move, and after what must have been at least five minutes, I was so conscious of the bad will of the drivers behind me, that I was forced to pass him, the cab ON THE WRONG SIDE OF THE ROAD . . .

I do feel, Sir, that such drivers, who willfully cause annoyance to fellow road users should be heavily censured, and I was pleased to read of the stand taken by Judge Stalker.

Miss J.F.K.

'Dad was 11 when he started deliveries,' founded Kenwood's Transfer & Storage

By Jane Hendershott

Green lettering laid into the linoleum flooring just inside the door of the offices of Kenwood's Westmount Transfer and Storage Ltd., announces that one of Westmount's oldest businesses and the largest mover in the province was established in 1903.

Frank Kenwood, president, explained that in 1903 his father, William Gordon Kenwood, who founded the business, was 11 or 12 years old.

"You see," he went on, "my grandfather, William Henry Kenwood was a butcher at the corner of St. Catherine street and Elm avenue. The story is that he came to Westmount from Devonshire."

"My father started delivering parcels for his father's butcher shop when he was a very young boy. I am not sure exactly how old he was but he was about 11 or 12 years old. I know he never finished the sixth grade."

He glanced at the picture of the dignified, gray haired gentleman on the wall facing his desk. "That's my father there. He used his father's horse and rig. Deliveries for his father did not take all his time so he started delivering parcels for other people. From that he developed the idea of deliveries in general."

Operated from shed

"He started the delivery of baggage to Westmount station, Windsor station and to the old Bonaventure. Then he got into the general cartage business. Through the years he specialized more and more in moving household goods. He operated out of a small office in a shed in back of 204 Elm street," Mr. Kenwood recalled.

His aunt, Mrs. W. Moon, who works in the accounting department and is secretary of the Company, came into the wood paneled office and reminisced about her Saturdays as a child spent tying tags on trunks for 50¢ minding the office after school at the age of seven and the excitement in the family when they got their first van body truck in 1927.

"We used a horse and cart until 1923 when we got a panel truck, Mrs. Moon declared. "We didn't get a van body truck until we moved here to 205 Oliver avenue. We bought this building in 1927, so it must have been about then. It was a Godfreidson."

"We liked it so much that when we sold it and bought a couple of new trucks we turned right around and bought it back again, she recalled.

A chain-drive truck

Frank Kenwood interjected, "Are you sure that the Godfreidson was our first truck? I am sure we had a Kissel earlier that Dad bought at the very beginning of the twenties. That's one of those old chain drive trucks. Dad told me the links in the chain kept breaking when he was going to New York once and it took him a week to get there. They haven't made trucks like that now for years."

He leaned back. "Of course, I wasn't old enough to remember just what went on then. Mother and Dad were married in 1921 and I was born August 27, 1922. I'm the oldest. Paul was next, born in 1927. He is the managing director. Then Peter was born in 1929. He is treasurer of the firm. My sister, Joyce, who is the youngest, worked a while here until she got married. She has three boys who keep her pretty busy", Mr. Kenwood noted.

"Even mother worked here for a little while, he recalled. You know, nepotism is a bit of a problem in our industry. There are so many family businesses and after two or three generations you are likely to run into a situation where the younger crop coming up lacks both interest and ability."

"I am just generalizing, not talking about the our business here. We have a very good management staff here, which is quite capable and I would not want them to feel there is no hope for them because it is strictly a family affair," he pointed out.

Mr. Kenwood took out a picture of the building. "This was taken back when we first moved here. See the old horse trough there in front?" he asked.

He thought back. "In 1936 or 1937 Dad bought 4221 St. Catherine street, right next door. He didn't buy 4289 across the street until after the war, in about 1947. Then, three years ago we bought the terminal in Saint Laurent where we now park most of our equipment and store most of our in-transit goods.

"We were creating a traffic problem on St. Catherine street," Mr. Kenwood recalled, "and we didn't think it was very good public relations to continue tying up traffic at 5:30 p.m. every day, which is what we were doing for a while."

He calculated rapidly: "We have 57 pieces of equipment," units, we call them in the moving industry, so you can see we had quite a problem.

"Our biggest expansion went on after the war," Mr. Kenwood went on. "During the war we couldn't get the equipment, tires and gas. Since World War II, Canadians have moved a lot more than they did before. They got used to moving around during the war and aren't so timid about moving from job to job or town to town now as they were before," he noted.

'When I was a kid . . .

"Yes, I worked for the business when I was a kid," the company president recalled. "My father believed hard work never hurt anybody and he was right. All through high school I worked here after school, Saturdays and during my vacations.

"At that time we lived over at 318 Elm avenue," said Mr. Kenwood. "I went to Westmount High school and graduated in June, 1940, two months before I joined the RCAF and went overseas."

Mr. Kenwood recalled that when he was born his family lived on Sherbrooke street in N.D.G. When he was about three they moved to St. Catherine street between Hallowell avenue and the MAAA grounds, to what they called the "birdcages." "That's what we called the houses there because they all looked alike," he went on.

Continuing, Mr. Kenwood stated: "We lived there for about three years and I went to kindergarten at Queen's school. Then we moved back to N.D.G., first to Botrel street, next door to where retired police and fire chief William Wren lives now, I think, and then to Brodeur street, a couple of blocks away. In N.D.G. I went to Herbert Symonds school, through the first and second grade. That's when we moved back to Westmount to 318 Elm avenue. The family owned that property until 1952, when we sold it. It was part of my grandfather's estate."

A reminder of the YMCA brought a chuckle. "That's right. I started going to the "Y" when I was six or seven years old. I don't know how long my father went before that . . . from when it opened I guess. I attended until I went overseas and I started going again last year," said Mr. Kenwood.

"I enjoy it and my kids enjoy it. They like going down to the YMCA to swim and want to continue. They are too young to go down alone and we enjoy going as a family," he went on.

Speaking of his own family, Mr. Kenwood interjected: "Right about here would be a good place to mention that when I went overseas to England I met and married my wife. That was on January 3, 1942. She was a WAAF, Winifred Woods from Blackburn, down Lancashire way. We have four children now, three girls, 13, 11 and nine, and a boy, aged eight."

Of his war experience he declared, "It was pretty rough. From England I went to the Middle East. I was shot down by the Germans at El Alamein in Egypt in September of 1942, a month later after I left England. I was a prisoner of war in Germany from then until we were released by the Allies in May of 1945."

Into the warehouse

"I didn't sit around and recuperate for very long after I got back to Westmount," he recalled. "It was only a few weeks and I went into the warehouse as an assistant to the foreman doing checking mostly, and piling furniture. I did that for a year and then I came into the office. They put me on the order desk and started me estimating."

Mr. Kenwood's brother Paul was in the Navy overseas for three years and got out in December, 1945, to come into the business. "Peter was too young to go into the service. He started in the business right out of high school," he noted.

"That was when we got busy. We really expanded starting then. I am not sure how many employees we had then but we have grown a lot since Dad started for sure. We have 50 men outside and 27 in the office. We've come a long way since dad and my aunt started out with my grandfather's horse and rig," he mused.

"Another sign of the times," Mr. Kenwood noted, "is that we are unionized and have been for the past 14 years. That never would have happened in the old days. I must say so far we are very happy and get along well with the union. We have the Teamsters and generally speaking we can't complain."

"We have employees who have worked for us for a good

Motorcyclist Rams Auto

When Donald Aikman, 64 Eastbourne drive, Beaconsfield, pulled over to the curb on Dorchester street, in Westmount, to speak to a friend, the scene was set for an accident.

Charles Pan, 4273 Dorchester street, riding a motorcycle behind Mr. Aikman, told police he could not stop quickly enough to avoid running into the stopped vehicle.

Mr. Aikman admitted to police later that the reason he parked his car in the next block was because, "his car was obstructing traffic where the accident occurred."

Phil Maloney, former National Leaguer, is the most valuable player in the American Hockey League for the 1960-61 season. The 33-year-old centre was the key man in Buffalo Bisons' drive to the playoffs.

Thomas Hovenden named Deputy Fire Chief

Two appointments and a retirement, all of long-time city employees, came before city council this week.

"To cover Fire Chief Ed Harper, appointed acting Chief of Police," council appointed fire department Capt. Thomas Hovenden Deputy Chief effective July 3.

The new deputy chief joined the Westmount Police Department in 1936 and transferred to the fire department in 1938. He was made lieutenant in 1954 and captain in 1956. At the time of his latest promotion he was senior captain in the fire department.

A Saint Laurent resident, he is on vacation now with his wife and five children. He will start his new job upon his return in about two weeks. Sgt. of detectives Herbert Ward was named lieutenant of detectives effective July 3. Ald. C. H. Drury explained the promotion as part of a move to strengthen the detective group by placing detectives under one man, directly responsible to Police and Fire Chief Harper.

Lieut. Ward joined the police department as a motor cycle constable in 1938. He was promoted to detective in 1949 and to detective-sergeant in 1956.

Retirement of Adrien Groulx, garage superintendent, was authorized, effective January 18, 1962. Mr. Groulx, 63, is retiring a year and a half ahead of schedule due to ill health. He started with the city in 1924 as a garage mechanic and was appointed superintendent in 1957.

Atwater . . .

Montreal where water rates amounted to less than 6 per cent of the cost of constructing the replacement. Ald. P. A. Ouimet assured council water taxes are more than adequate to cover the Montreal charge.

Fire department equipment to be purchased will cost a total of $3,110. Commitment was made for $2,000 to cover the cost of two 25-watt transistor power supply units to keep the salvage wagon and the No. 13 pump wagon in radio contact with the fire department.

A smoke ejector fan to be used in basement fires or wherever there is poor ventilation will cost $210. Fog-type branch pipes and holders costing $900 will replace the old-type straight nozzle branches now being used on fire hoses. It is established that these fog-type branches use less water, put out fires more rapidly over a greater area and with less damage.

Speeders on Atwater avenue will be warned to reduce their speed for the signal light at the intersection of Atwater avenue and Saint Antoine street, when a sign now being made is erected in three or four weeks on the CPR bridge over Atwater avenue.

A city hall spokesman said, "It is hoped this sign will slow people down on Atwater avenue. The tendency now seems to be for traffic to speed up. It is hard for pedestrians to cross Atwater avenue at Saint Antoine and we have had a lot of rear-end collisions when people are going too fast to stop at the light at Saint Antoine street."

He went on, "the sign will be big enough so that you can't miss it. Just as soon as you get to Dorchester street you will see it. It will be four feet high and just as long as the west side of the CPR bridge over Atwater."

many years. There is at least one man who worked for Dad before 1927, back when he was still operating out of the shed in back of 204 Elm avenue. The shed is gone now."

Mr. Kenwood led the way through the outer office. "You know that Kenwood's is one of the first members of Allied Van Lines in Canada, since 1930. Also, we have been a member of the Quebec Safety League for 25 years," he added.

"We boys have all been active in organizations connected with the business. I have just been re-elected president of the Canadian Warehousing Association. Paul is president of Allied Van Lines Limited for the third year and Peter is a past-president of the Motor Truck Club of Quebec," Mr. Kenwood noted.

By this time we were across the street in one of the warehouses. "I just wanted to show you how we make overseas containers. As you see, he pointed out, they are wood and waterproof lined. This is the newest technique in the industry."

At another warehouse, he led the way into a high ceilinged room. "Most of our palletized storage we have in Saint Laurent but we have some of it here. This is a big improvement over the old way of storing furniture. We pack upholstered furniture separately and put it up on racks but the rest we palletize."

He pointed to what looked like a large cardboard carton. "We make a wooden floor and cover it with cardboard. Then we pile the furniture on it and cover it all with a cardboard container. Thus we have all the furniture in one 10 by six-foot carton, 1,500 to 1,800 pound, dust free and capable of being moved by just one man in one trip."

Former Montreal councillor goes to School Board

Hugh B. Savage, C.A., 10 Parkside place, Montreal West, was made a commissioner of the Greater Montreal Protestant School Board this week.

News of the appointment was announced by Youth Minister Paul Gerin-Lajoie. It will be for a term of four years, effective July 1.

Montreal born, 48-year-old Mr. Savage is with the chartered accountant firm of Savage, Kendall and Associates.

He is a graduate from McGill University in commerce and served with the Royal Canadian Navy during World War II.

He was at one time a Montreal city councillor.

Bus plows sports car

Bus rear vision mirrors apparently don't permit clear observation of sports cars and other small vehicles, judging from a St. Catherine street collision involving MTC bus driver Jean Paul Brodeur, 1969 Gambrai street and sports car driver Edward Olsen, 1035 3rd avenue, Verdun.

Mr. Brodeur told police he was going west on St. Catherine street when a car in front of him made a left turn into the CPR station. He said, "I looked in the rear vision mirror, saw it was clear behind me and cut right."

The sports car was tooling along in the inside lane.

Sports car on loose

An unattended sports car parked in a Westmount lane rolled and struck an auto being driven by another resident. The accident happened recently at the rear of 4127 Sherbrooke street west.

George A. Ekers, 431 Mt. Pleasant avenue, told police he was going west on the lane just west of Elm avenue when he saw the sports car stopped with one door opened. He stopped, closed the door and drove past the car. It suddenly rolled toward him and struck his auto.

David A. Taggart told police he parked the sports car behind his residence "just for a minute, while I went into the garage."

Falling paper blinds driver

The unexpected falling of papers from the sun visor of his cab blocked the vision of Rudolph Hafermalz, 8 Burton avenue, driving along Western avenue. He told police this caused him to hit a car coming toward him.

Joseph Gubany, 5265 Westbury avenue, was the driver of the other vehicle involved in the fender cruncher.

This week in Westmount

By VALENTINA RAHR

Signatures on the petition demanding traffic lights on St. Catherine street at Park Place are nearing the 400 mark and still mounting. Bertha Ross, 4646 St. Catherine street west, whose accident June 12 was one of the main causes for drawing up the petition, was recently released from hospital and is convalescing at home.

Former Montreal City councillor Hugh B. Savage, 10 Parkside Place, this week was appointed a commissioner of the Greater Montreal Protestant School Board. Mr. Savage is the councillor who collected signatures during the "Save the Mountain Campaign" in 1959, when Cedar avenue was being considered as an apartment site.

If this particular area had been used for such a project it would have set a precedent for similar plans, and thus the two Mountains would have become endangered. Mr. Savage's efforts were greatly backed by Westmounters who did not want to see "the crown of Montreal" turned into a residential district.

Sonia Chamberlain, Gray avenue, spending her second summer as ballet instructor at the Banff School of Fine Arts. When she returns in the fall, Miss Chamberlain intends to open a ballet studio in Westmount. Leasing arrangements are under way for space in a newly-constructed building that is centrally located.

Dimitry Tiedmann, art student in Adam Sherriff Scott's classes, Greene avenue, is recovering from minor surgery.

W. Degarthe, recent house guest of artist Betty Galbraith-Cornell, Metcalfe avenue, has written and illustrated a book called This Is Peggy's Cove about a favorite spot of all artists who love to paint the sea. The book depicts its life, beautiful violent weather and history.

The Marine Studio, which today is a well known artists' material shop in Peggy's Cove, was built in 1850 and was twice the size it is now. During the storm of Feb. 14, 1898, the store was lifted, carried across the road, and left hanging half over the water. It was decided then to saw it in half and preserve the rest. At the present time the counter still stands there, its walls are hung with fishing nets and driftwood. Many paintings can be seen by visitors, showing the awesome panoramic beauty of Peggy's Cove.

Reservations for Saturday's painting picnic may still be made by phoning Bea Alan, at HU. 1-7019. Destination of the chartered buses which will be picking up artists at 9 a.m. at Academy road and Melville avenue, is St. Emile de Bagot. Bring your painting equipment and your bathing suits! Hosts for the day are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dufresne.

Driver forced to curb by auto

A motorist who allegedly forced the driver of another car to the curb June 29 was charged by Westmount police with driving his automobile while under the influence of drugs or alcohol and detained, according to police reports.

Marc Gendreau, 5620 Decarie boulevard, told police, as he was driving west on St. Catherine street, "the auto that was following me attempted to pass on the right. I then forced him to the curb."

Driver of the other car was Charles Bedard, 3819 Northcliffe avenue.

Planche roses top awards

D. F. Planche is the 1961 winner of the George Borland trophy in the class "A" section of the rose garden competition of the West End Horticultural Society, it is announced by the group. The society comprises members in Westmount, N.D.G., Hampstead, Cote des Neiges and Cote Saint Luc.

Other results: Class "A" — 2nd C. F. Hatton; 3rd, R. S. Semple; honorable mention, H. N. Morrison, A. C. Woodward.

Class "B" — 1st prize, Mrs. R. R. Herman; 2nd, Mrs. P. Morton; honorable mention, H. Paradis.

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

July 8 to 14

Commencing warm and sunny with morning mists or light drizzle, cool winds and widely scattered evening thunder showers. Haying well advanced. Woods very dry. Blueberries and wild raspberries already ripening. Temperature range 55-90°F, even higher for some districts.

Cool and clear then very hot into the middle of the week with some risk of thunder and hail, then warm again and clearing generally.

Mainly sunny and quite warm to end the week, with occasional showers and cooling breezes. Bathers may find coastal waters a little cool until next week, even in this dry season. However mainly sunny conditions will now prevail everywhere.

Have a nice weekend...

By LAURENT PRICE

The lovely, balmy weather prevailing all over our beat Dominion Day weekend had Montrealers in the thousands golfing, fishing, riding, bathing and boating in every section.

The Laurentian area lake pollution scare of a few weeks ago, most certainly doesn't involve waters adjoining resorts appearing on this page.

We had lunch with Uncle Beauregard at the Chantecler in Ste. Adele last week . . . He has eschewed tipping for the time being, and while he misses some of his old cronies in the elbow bending routine it appears his hearing has improved somewhat.

According to good old Beau's admission, one of his dear and timeless friends never seemed to make any sense in his conversations . . . A thorough gentleman, as usual, our relative blamed his own sound perceptions and possibility of a little over self-indulgence.

However, since giving up the grape, Uncle Beauregard STILL can't understand his pal . . . He doesn't know whether to feel sorry for him or happy for himself . . . The friendship will endure, nevertheless, because, as Uncle Beauregard says, there's nothing like a clipped British accent, even if one's mouth is filled with little marbles.

The Stowe Playhouse in the Vermont resort town got under way masterfully this week with George Axelrod's Seven Year Itch . . .

Chuck Batchelder the Yankee Tavern host in the same town would like it known that on Tuesday and Friday mornings Paul Goeltz, the Morrisville, Vermont, golf professional, will give lessons to high school age groups . . . At 25 cents per head this isn't a bad deal for vacationing Montrealers with children . . . Louis Cochand of the Chalet Cochand still gives the junior members of our society a break with his teen-age club over weekends at his Ste. Marguerite establishment . . .

North Hatley innkeepers and residents very happy about Jimmy Balfour's Genesis productions at the Playhouse . . .

By the way, we still think Archie Stafford's Ripplecove Inn is one of the most beautiful spots on Lake Massawippi . . . Another fine location in the eastern townships is the Cabana Lodge at Magog on Lake Memphremagog . . . And the new ownership and direction of Mrs. Julie Vidor, has done wonders for Woodacres at Knowlton Landing, in the area . . .

If you have any troubles opening mail boxes, contact Dan Snyder the Mountain Road Motel owner at Stowe, he's your man . . . Don't get us wrong! Dan derived his experience from a stint with the New York State constabulary . . . Observing, you understand!

Last week coming into Montreal via the south shore we were fascinated by the new Montreal skyline, which seems to grow each week . . . That, and a personally conducted tour on foot of the new airport at Dorval, convinced us that Montreal gets to be more like New York with each passing day (Is that good?) . . .

Besides contemplating our sore tootsies after the airport bit, we wondered whatever happened to Toronto's threat to become Canada's top metropolis . . .

We hate to read or hear about the many traffic accidents and fatalities . . . So we'll close this week with an extra "please:" Please, please drive carefully! See you next week.

BIRTHDAY CATCH

SOURIS, P.E.I. (CP) — Captain Jonas Bjornsson brought 109,000 pounds of fish into port here aboard the trawler Iceland, and celebrated his 64th birthday on the same day. It was the largest single catch of fish ever landed here.

COMMON SENSE

Outboard motors are designed to give long, reliable service free of trouble and the Johnson Boating Clinic says all the owner has to do is co-operate by maintaining the motor in a sensible manner. If the owner provides the proper mixture of oil and gasoline, keeps the spark plugs clean and keeps the wiring in shape, the motor will give trouble-free operation indefinitely.

PROPER STEERING

Remember that outboard boats do not steer like automobiles or bicycles, which follow their front wheels. In boats, the stern responds to the steering impulse first, and in the opposite direction from that which the bow is going to take. So, when you are in close quarters, give your stern room enough to swing when you turn.

Jewish Ministers Board elects spiritual leader

Rabbi Dr. Solomon Frank, spiritual leader of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, was elected president of the Board of Jewish Ministers of Greater Montreal at its recent annual meeting. Also elected were Rabbis Mendell Lewittes of Young Israel congregation and Rabbi Isaac J. Teicher, of the Beth David congregation, vice-presidents; Rabbi David Roth, Chevra Kadisha-B'nai Jacob Synagogue, treasurer; and Rabbi A. Bernard Leffell of the Shaare Zedek, secretary.

Tribute was paid to Rabbi Maurice S. Conen, of Shaare Zion congregation, retiring president of the board, for his leadership during the past two years.

The Board of Jewish Ministers of Greater Montreal, is the united body of spiritual leaders ministering to the Jewish community and represents, as an organized group, Jewish religious opinion in the community of Montreal. It comprises members of the orthodox, conservative and reform rabbinates in the city.

The board was instrumental in the organization of the religious welfare committee of the Canadian Jewish Congress and Rabbi Frank, as president of the board, will now serve as the chairman of this committee. It played a leading role in the founding of the Synagogue Council of Greater Montreal which represents the major Jewish congregations in this city and which works in close cooperation with the Board of Jewish ministers. The board, in conjunction with the Federation of Jewish Community Services, supervises an extensive chaplaincy service in the local Jewish community. It features a weekly column and radio broadcast, bringing the message of Judaism to the general as well as the Jewish public.

 The Venerable

 Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Last week we thought about our adoption, that is the redemption of our body. St. Paul does not ask what delays that consummation, but it obviously is sin and disobedience. Surely, then, it follows that if sin holds up the development of the whole of creation, then it is also going to hold up the normal development of our own country. In the past week there have been fresh disclosures of the appropriation of funds to the detriment of the whole community. It is not as though the speculators were in great need. They are wealthy men and men of standing in the community. They were men whom we should normally trust, and because society trusted them they got away with it and the whole body politic suffers for it.

And, as a whole, we become hardened to this form of evil. We pass over fresh revelations because we have heard it all before, and instead we jail the young offender who has broken into a car.

It takes one back into the days of the Old Testament when the prophets inveighed against the evil of punishing the poor and needy for small transgressions while the wealthy and powerful followed their own bent. It reminds one also of the failure of the Roman Empire, which came to ruin because it held an inadequate idea of God. Surely that is what we are doing when we offer Him lip service in our so-called worship and in our census returns, and otherwise, forget Him.

Creation suffers in pain until that is accomplished, and even we who have the first fruits of the spirit, suffer as we wait for

'Seesaw' drama draws crowd

William Gibson's touching comedy drama, Two for the Seesaw, which has been drawing enthusiastic crowds at the Mountain Playhouse, will be held over for a third week beginning Monday evening. Walter Massey, who also directed the play, and Yolanda Bartoli play two oddly-paired persons who find a temporary relief from loneliness with each other in New York.

Massey is seen as a midwestern lawyer on the brink of a divorce that has made him realize he has been accepting emotional and financial handouts all his life. Having fled to a grimy New York furnished room to plan a new life, he meets Gittel, played by Miss Bartoli, as a generous-hearted, impractical Jewish girl who has pulled out of the Bronx and tried to be a dancer in Greenwich Village.

The play is an account of the intermittent joys and despairs experienced when this ill-matched pair come together — the man who habitually "short-changes people", and can't shake the memory of the wife in Nebraska he has run away from, and the girl with too much heart, not enough judgment and a habit of letting others take advantage of her.

Hailed by critics

As the first Broadway play of William Gibson, who subsequently scored an equally big hit with The Miracle Worker, this two-character play was enthusiastically hailed by New York critics and theatregoers not only for the warmth of its portraits of two restless people, but also its extraordinary accuracy in catching the humanity and humor of racy modern dialogue.

Massey, who plays the part of our adoption, that is the redemption of our body.

St. Paul does not ask what delays that consummation, but it obviously is sin and disobedience. Surely, then, it follows that if sin holds up the development of the whole of creation, then it is also going to hold up the normal development of our own country.

Christian Science

Genuine appreciation of the sacrifice and triumph of Christ Jesus can only be expressed in daily living, according to the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Sacrament" which will be read at the semi-annual communion services to be held in the Christian Science churches this Sunday. Bible selections in support of this theme will include Paul's charge to Timothy: "Watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry." And from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done."

Co-ordinating committees hold sessions

Sabba Services during summer weeks: Friday, evening, July 7, a summer service will be held with lay readers, Ivor Kursbatt and Louis J. Cohen. Pulpit honors will be shared by Sidney Lithwick and Maurice Garfinkle. These worship services during summer are held under the auspices of Temple Brotherhood in Temple Community House.

Memorial anniversaries for the following will be observed in the Kaddish ritual: Israel Kursbatt, Nathan Cohen, Mary Shefler, Hyman Wexler, Stanley Rittenberg, Nathan Schleider, Abraham Leon Kaplansky, Minetta Rittenberg, Effie Shefler, Jacob Wiener, Jacob Nachum Marks, Ida Glassman, Bella Greenberg, Annie Cohen, Jacob Prinsky, Jacob Rosenberg, Annie Rabin Wolfe, Florence Pascal, Joseph Gordon, Dora Ness Lithwick, Therese Lisser, Rae Milchim, Max Rubinovitch, Benjamin Sommer, Nathan Lande, Meyer Young, Leon H. Fischel, Rebecca J. Comm, Eugene Guilaroff, Malke Mehlman, Abraham Schwartz, Zerdick Quinn, Michael Schulick, Bertha Kurnik, Julius A. Kaplansky.

Invitation to Temple affiliation: Under the chairmanship of Eugene Stearns, honorary trustee of Temple, affiliates now are being registered for the new Temple season 5722. The High Holy Days come early and it is urgent for congregants to make necessary arrangements for pew accommodations. Those wishing to affiliate may communicate with the Temple office, WE. 7-3575 and Eugene Stearns, DU. 1-2518.

Temple co-ordinating committee holds session: Under the British industry . . .

* * * This would be an appropriate time to mention a couple of new gadgets which have come up, and which should save the lives of hundreds of pilots and crew in the future.

One, a British product, is called "Sarah" and is a radio about the size of a small camera. It can be carried around a pilot's neck. The tiny radio can send a signal for 24 hours, strong enough to be heard 200 miles away. Using the new radio, an area as large as Alaska can be searched in four hours by one aircraft.

* * * Air searches in Canada cost from $50,000 to $200,000 each, and there are about 370 of them every year.

* * * Another new British invention is a "magic box" that provides the most practical navigation aid I've heard of yet. Two small boxes, one to store knowledge (an electronic brain) and the other to transform this information to a visual signal, are being tested in aircraft in England.

On one of the boxes, 35 mm. colored strip film will show maps of the terrain over which the aircraft is flying, including towns, rivers, contours, etc. Superimposed on this will be the actual track of the aircraft, showing how the aircraft is proceeding as it flies.

Even when the ground is obscured, the little boxes work. A recent test above cloud using the new system brought the aircraft out right where it should have come out — over an airfield.

When this gets into use, it will be the simplest, most modern, and probably most efficient navigational aid yet devised.

chairmanship of Bernard Isaacs, representatives of the various constituent societies of the Temple met Wednesday evening to formulate the Temple program for the new Temple season. Representing the brotherhood were Alex Carsley and William Hoffman. The sisterhood, Mrs. Samuel Schwartz, Mrs. Louis J. Cohen; Mr. and Mrs. Club, Thomas Shustack, Harry Green; Home and School, Mrs. Joseph D. Frankel; Temple Youth Society, Gerald Miller; Book Lovers' Forum, Mrs. Harry Joshua Stern; Adult Education, Samuel Garfield, Dr. Anna Stearns, Abe Izenberg.

Registration in Temple School continues: Under the direction of Miss Justine Stern, registration in Temple religious school for all students who attended last year is taking place through the mail. New pupils will register Saturday and Sunday mornings, September 9 and 10. Reuben Ginsberg, chairman of the school board in association with Arthur Benjamin and Stephen Roth are holding conference with members of the faculty with the purpose of planning the new Temple Emanu-El school curriculum.

Sacrament is sermon subject

Genuine appreciation of the sacrifice and triumph of Christ Jesus can only be expressed in daily living, according to the week's lesson-sermon on the subject "Sacrament" which will be read at the semi-annual communion services to be held in the Montreal and Westmount Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Bible selections in support of this theme will include Paul's charge to Timothy: "Watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry." Vacation Verse

Thy Blessing, Lord, on all Vacation Days!
For weary ones who seek the quiet ways,
Fare forth beyond the thunder of the street,
The marvel of Emmaus Road repeat;
Thy comradeship so graciously bestow
Their hearts shall burn within them as they go!

THE HIGHWAY VICTIMS INDEMNITY ACT

For the first time in Québec's history, the innocent victims of traffic accidents are assured of indemnity if they suffer injuries or property damage in an accident due to a motorist's negligence.

The Act ensures that the owner of an automobile must bear the responsibility for damages, either to person or property, caused by his vehicle, unless the driver absolves himself of negligence.

You must know the facts now in order to protect yourself against risks of traffic accidents since, effective July 1st, 1961, the law will be merciless to drivers convicted of certain infractions.

Statistics show women workers on increase

The number of married women in Canada's labor force more than doubled in the past decade, according to the federal department of labor's women's bureau.

The bureau also points out that the female labor force has been growing at a more rapid rate than the male labor force because of a shift in the pattern of employment demands in the economy.

Economic growth has occurred chiefly in fields of work where women predominate, particularly in the service-producing industries. At the same time there has been a reduction in employment in the good-producing industries which usually employ large numbers of men.

Of the estimated increase of 582,000 in the female labor force between 1951 and 1961, 90 per cent was made up of married women and those who are widowed, divorced or separated.

The number of married women jumped to 772,000 this year from 321,000 in 1951.

Total of women in the labor force in March this year was estimated at 1,675,000.

Courage

Short and fleeting
Life brings its losses,
To each and all
Earth's petty crosses
Ever befall;
But crowns are promised
To those who prevail,
Who never waver
Though storms assail!
All that lives ever
All that survives,
After the fire
Tries, — purifies
Are the true spirits
Chosen to stand
Through countless ages
At God's right hand.

Wiegand-Tucker

The marriage of Helen Glen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Tucker, of Westmount, to Dr. Frederick Martin Wiegand, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Wiegand, of old Greenwich, Conn., took place recently, in Dominion Douglas Church, Westmount, the Rev. R. Douglas Smith, DD, officiating. Mr. John Robb played the wedding music, and standards of white peonies, snapdragons, and greenery were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white taffeta, and Chantilly lace, having a fitted bodice with a high neckline, and short sleeves and a bell-shaped skirt, falling into a lace train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a white cabbage rose, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Edgar G. Knight, as matron of honor for her sister, was in a Cecil Chapman frock of green silk print, having a fitted bodice with a round neckline, and a bouffant skirt. She wore a green bandeau, and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow feathered chrysanthemums.

Mr. John L. Wiegand, of New York, N.Y., acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Michael L. Tucker, jr., brother of the bride, Mr. Phillip L. Wiegand, of Toronto, Ont., brother of the bridegroom, and Dr. Christopher R. Eliot, of Boston, Mass.

The reception was held in the St. George Club, Westmount, where arrangements of white and yellow flowers and greenery were used as decorations.

Later, Dr. and Mrs. Wiegand left for the New England States.

St. Matthias Church scene of Edwards-Kilburn wedding

The marriage of Susan Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kilburn, of Westmount, to Mr. Allan Edwards, son of Mr. Norman Edwards, and of Mrs. May Irene Edwards, of Liverpool, England, took place recently in St. Matthias' Church, Westmount. The Rev. Kenneth B. Keefe officiating, assisted by the Very Rev. Kenneth Maguire, Dean of Montreal, Mr. Norman Hurre played the wedding music, and the boys' choir was in attendance. Candles in candelabra and standards of syringa and white peonies, arranged with greenery were used to decorate.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of ivory corded silk, having a fitted bodice with sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a bouffant skirt, fashioned with an underskirt of heirloom Rose Pointe lace, caught at the back by a bustle, and falling into a slight train. Her scalloped veil of heirloom lace, was worn by her great-great grandmother on her wedding day, and she carried a bouquet of cream roses.

Mrs. Alexander C. Kerr, of Toronto, as matron of honor, and Miss Sandra Smith, as bridesmaid, were in frocks of pale gold silk, having fitted bodices with high necklines and elbow length sleeves, and short skirts trimmed with flat bows, and fashioned with back fullness. They wore chignons of white roses, and carried bouquets of white roses and pittosporum foliage.

Little Miss Susan Gilmour, and little Miss Susan Dennis, as flower-girls, were in short frocks of white dotted Swiss organdy, having Peter Pan collars, and puffed sleeves, and yellow underskirts.

Mr. Michael Younger acted as best man for Mr. Edwards, and the ushers were Mr. Alan Pratt, Mr. Robert Coristine, Mr. William Tatham, Mr. Angus Morris, and Mr. Peter Kilburn, brother of the bride.

The reception was held in the ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton.

Red, White ticket sale has started

Ed Asselin, president of the Quebec Rugby Football Union will act as chairman of the Red and White game which will be played at Molson Stadium, Monday, July 17, in aid of the team in the QRFU.

This annual event helps the amateur clubs. Advance sale of tickets are made by the clubs and they receive 35 cents on every $1.00 ticket.

The game is sponsored by the Montreal Alouettes Football Club as the pre-season event that tells the coaching staff who is going to make the team.

Tickets that are sold at the stadium at game time, the QRFU receives only 20 percent.

Fans who wish to have their tickets delivered may contact 482-3770, Sol Mastro or P.O. 9-0781, Grant Robinson.

Ticket outlets in the West End include: Wilson's Sport Centre (Frank Wilson), Somerled ave. west of Cavendish boulevard; 'Bob' Lunny's Sport Shop, 5804 Cote St. Luc road.

Solly Mastro's Service Stations, 2155 Decarie boulevard at Sherbrooke, and 6966 Upper Lachine road, west of the Gem Restaurant; Royal Pharmacy (Real Goulet), 6121 Monkland avenue, between Hingston and Beaconsfield.

Weekend fencing tourney slated for Ste. Agathe

Camp Hiawatha, situated near Ste. Agathe on Lac Brule, will play host to a select group of outstanding American and Canadian fencers, in an invitational tournament Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9.

A sabre competition will commence on Saturday at 4:00 p.m., with finals at 8:00 p.m. On Sunday at 11:00 a.m., a three-weapon team (foil, epee, sabre) tournament is scheduled.

An individual electric foil tournament beginning at 2:00 p.m. will complete the weekend program.

The American team, featuring such names as Mike Dasaro, leading new young sabre star; Chaba Pallyghy, former Hungarian Olympic fencer; and Jerzy Twardokens, former Polish Olympic fencer, will cross swords with all Canadian and Provincial champions in all weapons.

The tournament is sponsored by the Westmount "Y" Fencing Club, under the sanction of the Province of Quebec Fencing Association.

Westmount pair wins at Verdun

John Henderson and C. Knox of the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club won the 10th annual George Ritchie Memorial trophy competition conducted by the Verdun Lawn Bowling Club with three wins and a plus of 33.

Second place went to the Lachine pair of J. Barrie and K. Barrie with three wins and a plus of 18.

H. McKenzie and F. Barrie, Lachine were tied with three wins and a plus of 16. Fourth, R. Ogilvie and T. Arnett, Outremont, two wins, one tie, plus 33; Fifth, E. Franklin and P. McElligott, Lachine, two losses and last game high of 12.

Keith Carpenter downed in tennis

George Ball defeated Keith Carpenter of Montreal as the field in the 35th annual eastern United States clay courts tennis tournament narrowed at the quarter-final round.

Carpenter, a member of the Canadian Junior Davis Cup team, took the first set 6-4 but lost the other two 6-3, 7-5. Ball was ranked fifth and Carpenter ninth.

IN THIS PRESENT DAY of sports, we seem to be doing everything out of season. For years, ball teams went South to start training for their summer season. Figure skaters have for years attended summer schools and lately in Montreal, Town of Mt. Royal conducted figure skating classes and now Caledonia Curling Club, managed by sportsman Percy Hyland have started a summer skating school.

FROM KENTVILLE, NOVA SCOTIA comes a story of a Hockey Summer School in its fourth season. Kentville, for those who have traveled or resided in that part of the Maritimes, is the heart of the Annapolis Valley. The school opened this week and will continue until July 13. It must seem strange to a visitor to Kentville to see a lad walking down the street with skates and hockey stick, in July.

Almost 200 boys, ranging in ages from 11 to 17, representing all four Atlantic provinces travel to Kentville for the school. One boy came all the way from Waltham, Mass.

The popular school was the brainchild of two Kentville brothers, Albert ("Abbie") Warden, who doesn't even skate, let alone play hockey, and George Warden, who in his younger days was a well-known performer with Nova Scotia teams.

George, a conductor for the CPR on the Kentville to Yarmouth run, claims he was roped into the school by brother "Abbie" because he was manager of the Youth Centre. This part time job, along with his efforts on behalf of the school, takes up just about all his spare time, including vacations.

He says the purpose of the non-profit organization is to teach boys how to play the game properly, and to improve the brand of hockey played in the minor leagues. Coaches are drawn from the ranks of ex-NHL coaches or players.

The boys when they arrive, are broken up into weight and age classes. When sessions start, the youngsters put in a full day of skull sessions and workouts on the ice of the Youth Centre. This year all star games from each group will be featured in the evenings. The school closes with a banquet.

The problem of housing and caring for almost 200 enthusiastic, young athletes is somewhat of a community effort. Many of the boys are placed in private homes and become so much a part of the family they return to the same homes each year.

George proudly points out that none of his lively charges has ever gotten seriously out of line. Several graduates of the school are now on the road to careers in the NHL.

Contest This Week's Clues

Rules

1. Solve the clues as you would for any crossword puzzle. Choose the word which you think BEST fits the definition in each clue. There is ONLY ONE answer which, in the decision of the judges is the BEST word fitting each clue. Only answer exactly matching the prepared solution will be considered correct. All answers must be considered correct in order to win. The judges' decision will be final on all matters pertaining to the contest. All contestants taking part must agree to accept the decisions of the judges as a condition of entry.

2. After you have filled in the puzzle mail to: CASHWORD in care of this newspaper. Entries must be mailed and postmarked before midnight each Monday following the week that each puzzle is published.

ENTRIES POSTMARKED OR DELIVERED AFTER MIDNIGHT MONDAY WILL NOT BE ELIGIBLE FOR JUDGING.

3. Each contestant may submit as many entries as he or she wishes. Handwritten facsimiles of the coupon are acceptable. Any such facsimiles printed, mimeographed or otherwise mechanically produced (including carbon paper) will not be accepted.

4. The prize for the correct solution will be $100. If there

Clues to Cashword Explained

ACROSS:

1. BOOKING is to the point. A young comedian may complain to his agent about a BOOKING at a summer hotel, for the agent is the one who would have obtained it for him. He would complain to the management about the COOKING. One would need more information to choose ROOKING. HOOKING and LOOKING are remote.

8. WAKER, to be sure. A WAKER may exhibit a state of uncertainty, for it may take him a few minutes to muster his faculties and become oriented. "May" is weak with WAYER; vacillation would surely indicate lack of certainty. One would have to know where a WADER was wading and why. A WAGER usually implies some degree of certainty. WAFER and WATER are remote.

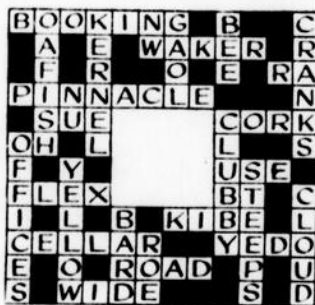

10. PINNACLE, yes. A PINNACLE, or high peak, may help one find his way, for it would give him a good view of the area, including any roads. BINNACLE is not as sure; though it is the case that contains a ship's compass, one would have to know how to use the instrument.

13. CORK is favored. One might regret having to spend a lot of time looking for a CORK, for he may feel that such an insignificant item should be kept in supply and ready at hand. One may consider the time spent in looking for a COOK worthwhile if one finds a good one. COCK is remote.

18. FLEX is chosen. An escaped convict who has been hiding in a cave for hours may wish he could FLEX, as to bend and stretch, for such quarters are likely to be confining. He may prefer not to FLEE, for this would take him out in the open where he might be spotted.

22. KIBE is wanted. A KIBE, or chilblain, may cause a sensitive person much discomfort, for such an individual is likely to exaggerate any ailment. One doesn't have to be sensitive to feel discomfort at a GIBE, as an expression of sarcastic scorn. A JIBE, as the change of course of a ship, may be barely perceptible.

23. CELLAR makes sense. One might wish one could get out of a damp CELLAR, as when he has work to do there but finds the dampness penetrating and disagreeable. COLLAR is weak; it is not likely that only one's COLLAR would become damp, as on a warm day; an entire change of clothing might be required for comfort.

26. ROAD is best. A ROAD may take a person farther than he expected, as when one has missed a turn he should have taken. A ROAM suggests wandering without any preconceived ideas of the distance one will cover. There is no reason why a ROAN should take one farther than a horse of another color. ROAR is weak.

DOWN:

2. OAFISH is wanted. OAFISH, or loutish, behavior may be criticized at an informal summer resort, for everyone else will notice it. At such a place an OFFISH, or aloof, individual may be ignored without comment; everyone else may be having too much fun to care.

3. KERNEL is selected. The KERNEL, or main point of a question, may arouse objections from some people, for there is rarely anything that all people will be in agreement on. It will depend on where a KENNEL, or pack of dogs, is. If they are running around loose, most people, not just some, will consider them objectionable.

5. GOAL yes. Years of GOAL, or jail, may ruin a man's life, for there is little he can do about furthering a career or assuming a responsible place in society so long as he is confined. GALL is not as certain; one may remain bitter about an incident or person, but still consider life rewarding.

6. BEE is preferred. One might feel foolish if caught in the act of trying to dodge a BEE, for the sensible thing to do is hold still or move away slowly. If one is caught dodging a FEE, he is more likely to feel cheap than foolish. TEE is remote.

7. CRANKS, yes. CRANKS may keep a police department busy on the Fourth of July, as those few who object to any of the noise in celebrating the day. PRANKS is vague; they may be harmless and amusing.

13. CLUBBY is definite. One would expect a CLUBBY, or sociable, individual to have an inexhaustible supply of good nature, for such a person is usually at peace with himself and everyone else. CHUBBY is not necessarily so; a stout person may be unhappy about many things, and food may be a kind of escape.

14. OFFICES is chosen. One might look for dignity in a bank's OFFICES, or place of business, for any lack of decorum would reflect on the administration. One is more likely to look for courtesy and helpfulness in an individual OFFICER.

15. YELLOW is best. A finicky girl's nerves may be jangled by a loud YELLOW, for she may consider loud colors vulgar and offensive. Whether a loud FELLOW gets on her nerves would depend on what else there is to be said about him; she might find him amusing at the moment without wanting to pursue the acquaintance. BELLOW is inappropriate; it can't be anything but loud.

17. STEEPS is selected. A visitor to the West may have to get used to the STEEPS, as the precipitous terrain, for whether he walks or rides STEEDS, he will find sharp slopes at every hand. He can stay away from STEERS.
