The aging pedestrian

More elderly people, by far, are killed in pedestrian traffic accidents than any other adults. At age 65, the pedestrian death rate soars to alarming proportions, and continues upward with each additional year of age.

Three factors are the failing sight, hearing, and slowed-down reactions of older people. For this reason the Royal Automobile Club says that persons over 65 should exercise great caution in crossing the street.

If you fall in this age group, make allowances for your slower walking habits, and be sure that you have the proper glasses to compensate for deficiencies in your vision. And, if you are in poor physical health, arrange for a friend or member of your family to accompany you when crossing the street. It is the safest way.

This is one of a series of articles dealing with pedestrian safety prepared by the Royal Automobile Club of Canada in co-operation with its affiliate in the U.S.A., the American Automobile Association.

LET'S MAKE MUSIC: Repeating the last two years' successful musical programmes, ST. GEORGE'S SCHOOL and its musical director, MARIO DUSCHENES of the BAROQUE TRIO, have invited EUGENE KASH to join in directing a third series of concerts for solo instruments and small ensemble, at which the audience will have the opportunity to talk to the guest artists and examine the instruments, at St. George's School, 3100 Westmount boulevard, at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday afternoons November 12, December 10, March 11, 1961, April 15, 1961. Here Harriet Smith, Jane Ross and Nonie Stuart get instruction from Mr. Duschenes.

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

October 8 to 15

Generally sunny with morning hoar or rime frosts, but pleasant and warming in the day. Coastal storms could bring some wind and widely scattered showers, with thunder and hail. Temperature range 30-70°F.

Bright and milder in the middle of the week, then frosts, occasional cold rains and more wind. Tomatoes and other delicate plants should be well protected. They will get more sun to keep them going a little longer next week.

Mainly mild and fair for the end of the week, with some morning mist or fog.

Night flying started at Cartierville field

By LARRY McINNIS

A FIRST FOR CARTIERVILLE: Night flying was instituted on a trial basis at Cartierville Airport Tuesday night, marking the first time in the history of the old field that night landings and takeoffs have been allowed. Authorities have always frowned on the idea because it might cause some confusion for approaching liners at nearby Dorval, whose runways are in the same pattern as Cartierville. Flyers from the various clubs around the field have been remarking for years that it would be a good idea if some form of night flying would be permitted at Cartierville. As with all things, it took the concentrated efforts of two workers to get the thing underway — Louis Boivaird, Chief Controller for the Department of Transport at Cartierville and Ed Gates, assistant chief flying instructor at the Montreal Flying Club. They made a noble effort, accomplishing an almost impossible task in the face of extreme difficulties, and I hope that those who have, and will, take advantage of this new innovation are duly appreciative.

A TRIBUTE: It started when Louis and Ed talked over the possibility of night flying, and the means and authority to finally implement their wishes. After a lot of arguments and meetings, permission for training flights at night was granted. Louis and Ed, almost single handedly, laid out 118 flare pots along runway 24-06 and the taxi strip to the Montreal Flying Club. Actual night flying started at 8 p.m. and continued to midnight, with Louis operating the control tower. This was extra work for Louis for which he did not get paid, and the same with Ed. Six Flying Club aircraft used the facilities, and Louis said there were 236 "touches-and-goes" in the four hour period, making one landing and takeoff every minute.

HARD WORK: All these flare pots must be lit and extinguished by hand. They are laid out each Tuesday and picked up again Wednesday morning, laid out again Thursday and picked up again Friday morning. Night flying will go on twice a week, weather permitting, on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Louis says the lighting system will gradually get better. Next week he hopes to be able to use a different type of fluid in the pots, giving a little more brilliance on the runway itself. Eventually, if the idea proves popular enough, a regular lighting system may be installed. Ed Gates reminds those who are interested that only advanced bookings will be taken into consideration because of the terrific amount of work needed to get the runway prepared for night flying. It would be a real heart-breaker if they went to all this work and nobody came out to take advantage of it.

After so many years of Cartierville being closed at night, all pleasure flyers around here should take their hats off to Louis Boivaird and Ed Gates — a pair who decided to do more than dream.

COMPLEX COMMUNICATIONS: Certain DOT departments are already using facilities at the new terminal, including the air traffic control services. CNT, which will be responsible for communications for all departments, announced that push button 'phones have replaced a slower lever key system, allowing controllers to call and receive information from any of the vital locations within the airport area. More than 600 aircraft a day are controlled from Dorval. In the control centre, more than 50 telephone circuit terminations lead to various nerve centres within the terminal and other airports. Facilities of the meteorological office have been increased by 35 per cent. Electronic equipment sends and receives weather informations to and from more than 5,000 global points through direct connection with U.S. and British weather systems.

DR. ROBERT HARVIE

Dr. Robert Harvie, well known geologist, died on Sept. 30 at the Montreal General Hospital. He was 76. He was one of the first to chart the vast untapped mineral deposits of Northern Ontario and Quebec and was for many years with the Geological Survey of Canada.

He was born at his late residence on Metcalfe avenue in 1884, the son of the late Robert Harvie and Henrietta Brodie. After graduating as Gold Medallist from the old Westmount Academy, he attended McGill University where he received his Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees. After a year as Teaching Fellow at Harvard University, he obtained a Doctorate of Philosophy from the University of Wisconsin in 1911.

Dr. Harvie was one of the first members of St. Andrew's United Church and took a keen interest in the growth and development of the city of Westmount, of which his father was one of the earliest residents.

On Sept. 26, 1960, he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his marriage to Ada Dalton, who survives him. Also surviving are two daughters, Henrietta, Jean (Mrs. S. H. Dawson, of Watford, England); three sons, John, David, Donald; and seven grandchildren.

His eldest son, Flying Officer Robert Harvie, was killed in action with the RCAF in 1943. Also surviving are three sisters, Henrietta, Mrs. Leslie Robertson, and Mrs. R. D. Simpson.

Funeral services were held in the chapel of Jos. C. Wray, Mountain street, at 1 p.m. Monday with burial in Mount Royal Cemetery.

H. A. VINEBERG

Funeral for Herbert Asher Vineberg, 67, one of the few surviving members in Montreal of the Royal Flying Corps later the Royal Air Force, who died Thursday evening, was held from his home, 603 Belmont avenue, Westmount, on Sunday at 11 a.m. Shiva was private.

Born here in 1893, he moved to New York City with his parents when he was one year old and was educated there, returning to Montreal at the age of 18.

Joining the army at the outbreak of the First World War, he was later transferred to the Royal Flying Corps with which service he served with distinction.

He was awarded the Air Force Cross when, as pilot-navigator, he headed a crew which flew non-stop from Baldonnel Aerodrome near Dublin to Northolt Aerodrome near London.

He flew Sir Winston Churchill during the First World War and was a friend of several of the flying "aces" of that time.

Joining the RCAF in 1939, he was a Link trainer instructor during the Second World War.

Mr. Vineberg worked with the Canadian Jewish Congress and was instrumental in obtaining chaplaincy services for members of the Jewish faith who belonged to the armed forces.

A long-time member of Mount Royal Lodge, B'nai B'rith, he was also a life member of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

He was a member of Shaar Hashomayim Congregation.

Mr. Vineberg is survived by his wife, the forme Eva Friedman; two daughters, Augusta (Dusty) Vineberg of the Montreal Star editorial staff and Trina, a member of the editorial staff of The Family Herald.

Prizes offered schoolchildren for best essay

The Royal Commonwealth Society, Montreal, will again this year offer prizes for the best essays by school children across Canada on subjects relating to the Commonwealth. Schools will shortly be in possession of circulars giving details of the competition.

The aim of the Society is to encourage the progress of Commonwealth studies in the schools and the prizes are awarded by the Society in Montreal and by its headquarters in London, England.

Last year more than 2,000 essays were submitted and winning entries came from such distant areas as the out-ports of Newfoundland, the northern mining districts and remote places in British Columbia. The students participating belonged to univer-

Campaign Sabbath planned

The Board of Jewish Ministers and the Synagogue Council of Greater Montreal have designated Saturday, October 22 as Joint Campaign Sabbath.

Special readings and sermons will serve to emphasize the significance of this single campaign covering the needs of the Combined Jewish Appeal, the United Israel Appeal and the Rescue and Survival Fund.

J. H. Berger, president of the Synagogue Council, when interviewed declared, "The campaign Sabbath is yet another expression of our determination to do our utmost on behalf of local and national organizations, the State of Israel and Overseas Relief, all of which benefit from the Joint Campaign. I am certain that our goal, though large, will be reached."

sities, collegiate institutes, convents and all kinds of schools, urban and country, public and private.

There are three classes for the competition; under 14 years of age; 14 to 16 and 16 to 19. After essays have been screened, judged and Canadian awards made, the essays of highest merit in each class are forwarded to the London headquarters of the Society to compete with essays sent in from all over the Commonwealth.

The Society has found that the essay competitions have a broadening influence on the participants at a formative age.

Westmount sued over land title

The City of Westmount is involved in a lawsuit, to the tune of $103,000, filed by three businessmen who claim the City sold them property which it did not legally own. Involved is a property purchased by Westmount for $14,710 in 1951 to be used for snow dumping purposes. It is a 66,000 sq. ft. tract on the Metropolitan boulevard near Cavendish.

The plaintiffs bought the property from Westmount in 1955 for $88,312, but ran into serious difficulty with title to it when they undertook to sell it for $126,000 three years later.

Roland Desroches, manufacturer, TMR, Rodrigue Joly, a tailor, and John Lecavalier, a manufacturer's agent of Ste. Adele, filed the action recently.

They said in their action that the title defects were found by a notary acting for Belvedere Motel Inc., whose purchase offer they accepted in August, 1958. The agreement called for a cash payment of $45,000 on the $126,000 deal, with payment on the balance plus interest to be made six months after the titles were cleared.

The purchasers threatened to take legal action against the three, and forced them to turn over the property on terms that held back $81,000 pending clearing of the titles.

According to the declaration, Westmount undertook to have the matter settled by a private bill in the legislature, but failed to take the promised steps.

The action is based on the deed of the sale by the municipality in which the plaintiffs were assured transfer of the land would be free of all encumbrances.

The plaintiffs also claim that Westmount knew of the title obstructions as early as 1954 when it was involved in a mis-en-cause in Superior Court which showed the rights of five persons had not been acquired when the City bought the land in 1951.

The two lots involved were part of the old Decarie estate.

Art Association moves to new quarters here

Members of the Independent Art Association were welcomed by Eric Wesselow, president, at the official opening of their studio on Academy road last Monday, evening.

"I am very happy to announce that a permanent studio has been found at last, where regular meetings can be held. I hope that this will be where our association members can carry out many of the interesting projects planned for the coming year. I welcome you, and wish you all prosperity and success."

Bea Alan, chairman of the studio committee, told the assembled group about some of the projected plans.

"Studio meetings will be held on Mondays, in the afternoon from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and in the evening from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Models and still life will be available at all times. On Monday, October 17, a young girl in Hungarian costume will be present for sketching and oils."

The studio, located at 52 Academy road, (side entrance), was the scene of many free criticisms and discussions about work done during the summer months. Members brought along their pictures for this purpose, which took up most of the evening.

Scheduled for the 1960-61 season, are the following: A demonstration evening by Thomas Garside, Lansdowne avenue; an Autumn Exhibition of the Independent Art Association to be held at the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., ninth floor foyer, from November 4 to November 18 inclusive; one Winter Exhibition and one Summer Exhibition of 30 days duration each, to be shown at the Exhibition Hall of LikiJah Treimane, Val David, during 1961. A social evening will be held during November.

Painting picnics, and excursions to different parts of the Province of Quebec, and United States, were successfully carried out during July August and September. This program included two trips to the National Gallery in Ottawa. Members travelled by chartered bus, which left from Westmount Park and returned there at the end of the day. Plans are underway for another series of trips to begin in the Spring of 1961, with many new destinations added.

Library hours

The Westmount Public Library will be closed all day Monday, October 10, Thanksgiving Day, but will be open as usual on Saturday, from 10 a.m.-6 p.m., and on Tuesday from 10 a.m.-9 p.m.

Unity Boys' Club brings city fame

IN some ways least known and least appreciated in its home city, Westmount's own Unity Boys' Club goes on from strength to strength about the country and across the border in northeastern U.S.

This is thanks to the club's Talent Parade, a varied lot of entertainers numbering between 20 and 30 who find time to travel to places like Burlington, Vt., Lake Placid, N.Y., and Binghamton, N.Y., and receive ovations.

Talent Parade has some famous graduates, their fame being with that sternly fickle public, the younger set: Sylvia Murphy, CBC songstress, and Danny Deane whose voice is taking him a long way, particularly in the U.K.

This is as good a time as any to make an appreciative nod in the direction of these young people and congratulate their hard-working, talented director, Mr. Maurice Mariasine, for the superb job he is doing.

Boost your amount for Red Feather

WELFARE Federation, the one charitable appeal which above all others merits the support of all segments of the community, right now is asking for your 1960 contribution.

Have you given it yet? If not, why not?

If you have, have you given enough? Or did you simply, routinely, give what you gave last year— If so, it isn't enough.

Red Feather services are essential services. If they were not performed by Welfare Federation, they would have to be done by someone else, probably the government — which is us, again, in another form.

But voluntarily financed work among the unfortunate is so much better than the official kind, on many scores — of efficiency, economy, humanity, thoroughness.

Like everything else, costs are up for the needy as well as the fortunate.

It is only one reason, but sufficient reason, for giving more this year to Red Feather.

Reader is 'annoyed' at Digest's remarks

Sir: Those of us who reside in Westmount or are associated with its administration were surprised and perhaps slightly peeved when in glancing through the excellent October issue of The Readers' Digest one's attention was drawn to a short article "Tools of Growth".

The writer, speaking of the growth of this great journal, stated that Westmount will be the headquarters of the Digest. He referred to it as a suburb. His incorrect designation was, no doubt, unintentional since in all likelihood he was unaware that Westmount is not a suburb but a full fledged City in virtue of its Charter. It has all the powers enjoyed by its big neighbor and is not subordinate in any way or part of a large municipality.

Westmount was chartered as a City more than half a century ago. Since its incorporation as such it has been ably and efficiently administered by dedicated public-spirited citizens who render their valuable service without compensation. Its administrative personnel is made up of equally dedicated employees.

Its Government consists of a Mayor and Council of six aldermen who give their time and thought to maintain its reputation as one of the most efficiently governed municipalities on this Continent.

Its several departments are staffed by experienced officials who fully co-operate with the Mayor and Council in all that concerns the welfare of the residents and taxpayers.

Its police, fire and sanitary departments which more intimately interest the population are all of a high order.

As a City, it has its own Police and Municipal Court before which offenders against Municipal, Provincial or Federal Laws can be tried.

It is subject to no control outside of the special commissions that are given a certain degree of authority and discretion in relation to municipal progress.

It has been fortunate in securing the services of experienced Municipal Directors who serve as General Manager.

In choosing The City of Westmount for their new headquarters, the publisher showed fine judgment since they will be given the same consideration, courtesy and co-operation extended to both persons and organizations within its borders. Their new building will be a handsome addition to the many structures both municipal and privately owned that adorn its principal streets.

Bernard Rose.

Monday is Thanksgiving — but turkeys not keen

Monday is Thanksgiving Day in Canada. Everyone has something to be thankful for, and this is the day to give thanks.

Not much consideration is given, however, to turkeys. They have little or nothing for which to be thankful.

But Monday is not Thanksgiving Day in the U.S. For once, the Canadians have stolen the march on our America neighbors, although the two countries celebrate the days for entirely different reasons.

Some might say we give thanks because we are Canadians.

We have, though, accepted one American custom as it is applied to Thanksgiving Day, and that is the traditional feast of turkey. This may be rough on the turkeys, but there doesn't seem to be much we can do about it. Apparently the custom started in the U.S. when the original Thanksgiving Day celebrants found that wild turkey was plentiful.

Turkeys also made Sergeant York famous when he could shoot a turkey quicker than it took your eye to flicker, and could blast his initials out at 90 feet. Maybe this sport, practiced in the Ozark Mountains, had something to do with the establishment of the now-popular "turkey shoot."

But so much for the greatly-maligned turkeys.

The American Thanksgiving Day falls on the fourth Monday of November. It all started when a bunch of seafaring Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock on November 21, 1620. They gave thanks that they had survived the trip on the Mayflower. A year later, when they had gained their land legs again, they gave thanks for a bountiful harvest in a new land, and for the fact that the Indians had not depleted their numbers extensively, yet!

The Pilgrims established the custom, but Abraham Lincoln made the day an official feast day by issuing a proclamation in 1863.

In Canada, the first official proclamation of a day of thanks was given by the citizens of Halifax in 1763, following the Peace of Paris, which gave Canada to England. This was once considered a grave error on the part of French-speaking people, but they have since adopted the custom.

As a matter of fact, Lower Canada, which is now Quebec, proclaimed a thanksgiving day December 22, 1798, celebrating it on January 10, 1799. Upper Canada, now Ontario — suspected by Quebecers of being rather slow, anyway — proclaimed the day on May 17, 1816 to celebrate the end of Napoleon's war with Britain.

Anyway, somewhere along the line everyone got together and decided they should celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the second Tuesday of October. This is probably part of a plan to give a long weekend in each month.

Unfortunately, there will be some people who will not be able to give thanks, because they won't be getting the day off. Thanksgiving is a non-judicial holiday, and unless a firm is bound by the terms of a collective labor agreement, or some other special arrangement, with its employees, or is subject to a special ordinance or decree stipulating what it must do on Thanksgiving, there is no legal obligation to close a place of business, or to pay extra if employees work, or to pay them if they do not work.

C'est la vie!
Generally speaking, Thanksgiving Day is widely celebrated and the fact that it is a non-judicial holiday should create no problem.

Turkeys, however, have nothing to be thankful for.

Now for Red Feather

'Boo' still publishing

A sixth grader has put out a special edition of his newspaper to promote the Red Feather campaign.

Pembroke Laurie MacDermot, commonly known as Boo, is the publisher, editor and, as he says on his masthead, "BOSS" of The Montreal Bulletin, a six-page mimeographed newspaper complete with editorials, poems, advertisements, jokes, riddles, political commentary and a French corner.

The son of Dr. and Mrs. P. N. MacDermot of 580 Grosvenor avenue, Boo first published his paper this summer.

headquarters of The Montreal Bulletin. This resulted in a polite enquiry from the City.

The latest edition of the paper Boo devotes to Red Feather. The front page is adorned with a large feather — "a very difficult job to draw on the stencil." The text is liberally interspersed with slogans such as GIVE GENEROUSLY, GIVE THE UNITED WAY and BE A FAIR SHARE GIVER. In the poet's corner he prints a timely poem:

"Oh, some are for the feather white,
And some are for the blue,

But I am for the Feather Red
And all it means to do..."

Boo comes by his interest in Red Feather honestly. His mother is a past president of the Board of the Montreal Day Nursery, one of Red Feather's 31 welfare agencies.

The young editor also takes an interest in politics. PROVINCES GET TOGETHER WITH FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ON TAX SHARING PROBLEMS was a recent headline. He also takes a firm editorial position on such matters as Canadian reading habits.

"You may think you read a fair amount but this is not true," he says firmly. "Instead you go about watching TV day and night."

Like other editors, Boo frequently uses fillers. These tend to the philosophical, such as "When bull elephants fight, the grass is trampled." He also occasionally runs a series of disturbing questions of the handy self-analysis type. "Do you wake up despondent?" "Do most of the people on your street look dissatisfied?" "Have you been lucky in your business relations?" "Can you hold a grievance three years?" Answer Yes or No."

To fill up the pages Boo solicits articles from the general public and his friends and relations. He sometimes offers inducements. "Here's a chance to show your skill in writing an article for The Montreal Bulletin. You may write any kind of short article and you may win a shiny..." But just what winnings a lucky contributor might expect are still somewhat mysterious. The word ran off the paper.

But, no matter whose contributions are accepted, on one matter Pembroke Laurie MacDermot is adamant. "Of course," he says, firmly, "I do all the editing."

PUBLISHER Pembroke Laurie MacDermot, aged 12, works on an article for his home-produced newspaper. Latest issue of the paper is devoted to publicizing the Red Feather drive which continues till October 11 and seeks an objective of $1,930,000. Watching the reporter at work are his mother, Mrs. P. N. MacDermot, and Mrs. A. H. McFarlane, member of the Women's Committee of the Red Feather Campaign.

"Some of the neighbours asked me whether I'd stopped it now that school has started again. They seemed quite surprised when I told them I'm still publishing."

Circulation for the newspaper is no problem. Boo distributes it to his father's patients. Occasionally too he makes sales to cars stuck in traffic jams on Grosvenor during rush hours. For a time he displayed a sign on his verandah identifying it as the

New language school opens

A new centre has recently announced its opening in Montreal. It is called the Canadian Centre for Modern Languages, and it has been created as an answer to the needs of our contemporary world.

In these days of rapid intercontinental travel, increased business and social contacts with other countries, with foreign visitors and newcomers, and with our own French-speaking compatriots — it is a prime necessity to know at least one other language in order to take quick advantage of business opportunities and realize to the full, social and cultural potentialities.

Did you ever feel "I wish I could speak other languages fluently?" The Canadian Centre for Modern Languages offers modern, interesting courses in French, Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, and, of course, English. These are given by experienced, teachers who are all University graduates, a great proportion of them instructors in European and Canadian Universities.

Only a limited number of students may enrol in each class in order to increase teaching and learning efficiency.

Films for Fraser-Hickson

The Greater Montreal Film Council in co-operation with the Fraser-Hickson Library has made available 75 films for borrowing from the Library. This wide selection of 16 mm. educational and recreational films should interest many groups and individuals. The films have been chosen with care both for the interest and variety of the subjects treated and for their remarkable artistic merit. The catalogue listing the films contains information about each one. Films may be reserved by telephoning the Library or applying there. A projector is also available for rental.

Sports expert:

Never change a winning game

Willingness to learn and train, study, faith and determination to succeed, development of the ability and need to think straight, skill and personality leadership are the foundation qualifications needed for championship classes in sports and physical education, according to Rupert Bowen, newly-appointed physical director of the Unity Boys' Club.

The qualifications listed are taken from a report prepared by Bowen in 1950 and subsequently reprinted for wide distribution.

"The qualifications listed here," he said, "are for all applicants, whether they be teachers, coaches, captains, players or officials."

In leadership, he recommends that the five S's be followed: spirit, science, skill, strength and stamina. These will build team spirit, determination, self-discipline, pride and confidence.

"Never be satisfied with one's own talents and abilities," Bowen advises, "but increase one's knowledge for one's own improvement, working for success and believing that goals can be reached by coordinating the above aims."

CHAMPIONS

Bowen discusses at some length what it takes to be a success in the world or sport.

"First and foremost," he says "comes the desire and ambition to succeed, followed by love for the game both on and off the field, which is a 'must' for a successful club team spirit."

Other factors involved, all of which play their own part, are moral and physical courage, fitness, intelligence.

Intelligence, he says, is needed in all sports and is gained by continued study and analysis of experience, becoming a specialist in a given playing position.

"Today," he points out, "sport requires all or nothing. You must live it around the calendar and practise around the clock."

"But," he adds, "it's team work that is the essence of success."

THE TEAM

A team without a coach, Bowen said, is like an army without a general — results are centred around him and shared by all, but he is limited by men and equipment at his disposal.

"Usually unwarranted criticism that is hurled at the coach belongs elsewhere," he said.

Bowen says the players are often the inferior equipment because complete control and craftsmanship is missing.

"Remember," he warns, "that you are master of your own destiny. You must be able to play the given time plus that extra bit if needed, and don't forget that the team is more important than the individual."

He said self-glorification of individuals is of no value to an aspiring team.

"A champion team will always beat a team of champions," he said.

He also said there must be a great co-operation between players and supporters — clubs are often riddled with petty jealousies in whispering campaigns promoted by selfishness on the part of individual members, or grandstand critics.

"There are two kinds of criticism," Bowen said. "They are constructive criticism and destructive criticism. A club that fights itself beats itself."

"Training is an act of faith," Bowen said. "Believe that through training you will become fitter and stronger, that your performance will improve and be continuous; be fanatic enough for hard work and keen enough to continue to enjoy your training. Condition yourself to triumph over the demands of the mind. All training must be interesting and enjoyable."

Bowen said that not all players will agree with a coach's method of training, but advises that coaches are not there to be popular — they are to bring out the best in each and every player.

"Be a friendly teacher," he says. "Be honest and fair, and in developing spirit, remember the best system is the most humane system."

He said the most difficult part of coaching, aside from perfecting basic skills and fundamentals, is to maintain an interest.

He advises coaches to get his star pupils at the age of 13 so they will be really developed by the age of 17.

"It is at this state, and not before, that they will show the promise," he said.

Bowen further advised that if one cannot keep regular hours and submit one's self to rigorous physical discipline, then making and building a team is not possible.

SAGE WORDS

Bowen winds up his treatise with some sage words of advice for those interested in athletics.

"Never change a winning game," he says, "and always change a losing game."

Also: "If you no longer derive pleasure from youth, then change to another field of endeavor. Either take a vacation, or channel your ability towards some other worthwhile service."

BOB TAIL STATUS

One thing Premier Bennett can do without stepping on any toes . . . is to restore the department of agriculture to something more than its present grab bag and bob tail status . . . Surely agriculture is more important than the indifferent treatment it has been given by this government in recent years would indicate. — Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress.

Canadian authors get advice from experts

By VALENTINA RAHR

Members of the Canadian Authors Association entertained national president Don Thomson, Mrs. Thomson, and Captain Fred Bullock, Federal Department of Transport, at the First Meeting of the 1960-61 season held at the Ritz Carlton Hotel.

Mr. Thomson gave a brief account of the founding of the CAA 39 years ago by Messrs. Kennedy and McGibbon.

A special celebration to mark the 40th anniversary of this association will be held in Edmonton, Alberta in 1961.

"No other city in Canada is so artistically endowed as Montreal," said Mr. Thomson. "All sorts of fields are opening up — this is the age of rapid changes. Opportunities abound for Canadian writers. Canadian writers are appreciated in countries outside of Canada. Their work is being read."

Mrs. Thomson talked to the group about the Writer's Foundation.

"The Writers Foundation was started to give assistance to writers who are no longer able to support themselves by writing, either because of advanced age, or because of illness. The writer in Canada today has no workman's compensation, no unemployment insurance, no help of any kind that is usually available to anyone employed otherwise. Contributions to this fund are welcome, either privately or from branches of the CAA across Canada."

Captain Fred Bullock, author of "SHIPS & SEAWAYS" (which passed the 5,000 mark, and is considered a best seller, and is scheduled for another printing) had this advice to offer:

"A basic rule to follow in writing a successful book is that the author choose only those subjects about which he is able to write with authority and convincingly. This means that he must be completely familiar with his material before starting to write."

Herbert Land, Somerled avenue, introduced the speakers. Mr. Land is with DOT as Chief Engineer of the St. Lawrence Ship Channel. H. Gordon Green, fiction editor of the Family Herald, thanked the speakers.

ADAM SHERRIFF SCOTT, RCA, will have the official opening of his classes for beginners and advanced students at his studio at 1357 Greene avenue on Tuesday, October 11, at 8 p.m. The date has been moved forward because moving arrangements from Kensington avenue are not yet complete. Two bright airy studios on the second floor will accommodate artists during day and evening classes. Mr. Scott will reside on the top floor. Registrations can be made by calling WE. 3-4188.

The Church

— IV —

By

The Venerable

R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
 Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

The Church is the House of God, and therefore it should be the place where the family of God can meet on equal terms, and renew association with one another. This does not take away from its character as a House of Prayer. It rather turns the prayer from petition for oneself to sharing with one another.

If we think of an ordinary human family we think of it as a unit. It has its own curious foibles among its members; its facial and bodily oddities, but it also has something that the rest of the world recognizes as a family mark. There is a family voice or a family walk. I have had it said of my brothers: "Oh I know them by their walk." One of my brothers stepped off the train in Calgary, walked down the platform and met a fellow passenger. They greeted one another by name, and then discovered that they had never met, but that each had known the other's brother.

The unhappy thing about a family is that it breaks up and scatters to the ends of the earth, and the family characteristics are overshadowed by newly acquired characteristics. They have lost the family stamp. It can only be gained again by returning to the family home.

FAMILY TRAITS

So in the House of God we are given certain marks. To begin with we are signed with the sign of the Cross in Baptism. We are marked as belonging to a certain Lord and Master. We are taught certain things which become part of our intellectual make-up.

If we are taught those things well and if we give heed to them they remain with us to the end of our lives. They influence all our thinking. That does not mean that we have had the best of teachers. It rather means that the teaching has not been purely intellectual. It has been implanted in us by example, by emotional undertones, by prayer and to the accompaniment of singing. All those things contribute to the character that one carries from the House of God.

Further, those characteristics are shared with others, so that men should be able to say: "That man must be a Christian. He has been made a freeman of the House of God. You can tell by the way he talks and by the way he acts." But it is not enough to be brought up in the House of God. When I get away from the House I may be so absorbed in other things that I may forget entirely the things that I learned. Men do forget their mother tongue if they live too long without using it.

We must return regularly to the House and renew acquaintance with the rest of the family, learn the new and useful things that have developed in the family, correct the errors of speech and action that have grown upon us, and come forth once more with the marks of our Christian calling, brightened and renewed.

Marriage course starts at McGill, October 13

A fight between young married people isn't a catastrophe — it's an opportunity. That's the optimistic attitude of Mrs. Dorothy Freeman, associate professor of Social Work and lecturer in the McGill Extension Department's forthcoming series on Marriage and Family Life for engaged couples and those contemplating marriage.

To be given for the second time course specifically designed for young people thinking of marriage offered on the campus of a Canadian University although some 600 such courses are given in the United States.

McGill's course of ten two-hour lectures starts October 13th. Because of its popularity last year, McGill this year will run the course in two groups in order to accommodate a greater number of applicants. Enrolment is limited to 16 in each group.

Differences of opinion between husband and wife are entirely natural and it is better to bring a controversial matter out into the open rather than let it fester in darkness, says Mrs. Freeman.

Christian Science Society to hold service Monday

A distinctive feature of the morning service, which will be held Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 10, by every church of the Christian Science denomination, is the period set aside for spontaneous expressions of gratitude to God from the congregation, in which visitors as well as members are welcome to participate.

The Christian Science churches in Montreal, Westmount, Pointe Claire and Sherbrooke are extending a cordial welcome to all who believe in preserving the religious character of this great festival and who are not otherwise provided with a church service on Monday. No collection is taken in the Christian Science churches on Thanksgiving Day.

Following the Thanksgiving Day proclamation of Her Majesty the Queen, there will be a special Lesson-Sermon on the subject of Thanksgiving, consisting of appropriate readings alternately from the King James Bible and from the Christian Science text book Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Westmount Baptist Thanksgiving Services

The season of Thanksgiving will be honored at the services of Westmount Baptist Church both morning and evening when the minister, Dr. E. J. Bailey, will preach in the morning on "Joyous Living" and at night on "Four Ships."

The mid-week meeting of the church for Bible Study under the Pastor is held on Wednesday night at 8 p.m.

The BYPU youth organization meets on Friday at 8 p.m. in the church.

Dr. Penfield's story 'The Torch' portrays the life of Hippocrates

By MILLICENT HICKMORE

"The Torch", written by Dr. Wilder Penfield, the internationally eminent neurosurgeon, and retired director of the Montreal Neurological Institute, centres around the life of the famous Hippocrates. Named the Father of Medicine, Hippocrates worked to alleviate the suffering of the sick and to banish the dark and deep-rooted superstitions of the people of the Island of Cos. He seeks to fulfill his unquenchable knowledge of life and medicine — hence "The Torch" which he leaves for others to carry on.

Dr. Penfield writes from material gleaned from many prominent libraries, the London Library, American School of Classical Studies in Athens; the Firestone Library of Princeton University; the library of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton; and the Redpath Library at McGill University. He spent two summers in Greece and learned to know Cos and Cnidus and the site of the Temple of Triopian Appolo around which this story is enacted.

Interwoven with romance, Dr. Penfield depicts Hippocrates' father, Heraclides, his mother, Praxithea and his grandmother, Phaenarete from history records, they lived on the Island of Cos. With great imagination he creates Daphne, the beautiful Grecian type girl with whom Hippocrates falls in love, his rival, Cleomedes and the plot in which Daphne barely escapes with her life.

The characters are magnificently sketched by Dr. Penfield in this powerful story of Hippocrates, the great asclepiad, incorporated with an absorbing account of Greek medicine.

In this Dr. Penfield combines his knowledge of medicine and his sense of history and perception of people to re-create one of the most exciting periods of all history and to portray his vivid novel.

MR. J. LOVELL BAKER admires with Mrs. Mask the graceful shape of the teacup and saucer in the Normandie decoration made by Royal Crown Derby which is included in the exquisite display of Royal Crown Derby Tableware and Objets d'art at Henry Birks and Sons Limited.

Royal Crown Derby Exhibition held at Henry Birks and Sons

"The most perfect china man can make" was William Duesbury's criterion in 1749 when, a famous painter, he started a porcelain works at Cockpit Hill in Derby. Today, the formula of the china is basically that of the eighteenth century, though the materials are most carefully refined with the aid of modern science and techniques. The methods of working, however, have changed little with the passing of the centuries, and in the Derby factory there is a respect for the individual craftsman and an appreciation beauty that is hard to find in this age of mass production.

Step by step, the Derby china works consolidated its position in the world of art. In 1773, King George III was so delighted by what he saw that he granted Royal Letters Patent, commanding that all of the ware should in future bear his Royal Crown. In 1776, the acquisition of the famous Bow factory, and the techniques of creating bone china invented by Richard Heylyn and Thomas Frye meant further fame for the Derby factory. The amalgamation of Derby, Chelsea and Bow at Derby in 1784, meant that the best pottery traditions and the best craftsmen were brought together.

NOTED PAINTERS

Duesbury's son, William Duesbury II, and his partner Michael Kean, an Irish-born miniature painter, strengthened the Company's reputation still further. Kean, it is said, introduced the Imari patterns — famous all over the world for their cobalt, Chinese red and gold designs. Painters like Billingsley, Boreman, Banford, Pegg and the brothers John and Robert Brewer were leading flower and landscape artists who put their skill into painting the type of china that Derby still produces.

When the factory struck hard times and had to close in 1848, the potters and artists, rather than see their art die out, raised enough money amongst themselves to continue making Derby ware. With molds and patterns from the old factory they started a new factory at King street, where it remained till 1935 — a monument to the team spirit and zeal of derby craftsmen, still very much alive today.

Nowadays, the centuries-old pottery industry is in a healthy state indeed. Despite immense competition of mass-produced china, Royal Crown Derby is flourishing as it has never flourished before. With a staff of over 400 craftsmen and artists, orders are becoming increasingly pressing from the Commonwealth countries and from the United States.

FOUR CATEGORIES

Derby creations fall into four categories: tableware, gift ware, figures, figurines of people, animals and birds, and china-handled cutlery. The most famous patterns for table and gift ware are brilliantly colored Imari, blue and white Blue Mikado; and softly toned Olde Avesbury. Lesser known patterns which are proving very popular with today's young hostess are: Heraldic, Pinxton Roses, Kensington, Devonshire Rougemont, Wentworth, Lombardie and Normandie.

Trafalgar Ball to take place on October 21

Friday, October 21, has been announced as the date of the 15th annual Trafalgar Ball. The information was released by Edward W. Burns, chairman of the 1960 Ball committee.

To be held in the Champlain Room of the Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel the event is being sponsored by a number of groups associated with the Royal Canadian Navy in Montreal. These organizations include Montreal Branch of the Naval Officers' Association of Canada, Naval Officers' Club of Montreal, Wardroom Officers of HMCS "Donnacona" and the Wardroom Officers of HMCS "Hochelaga".

"This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Royal Canadian Navy" said Mr. Burns, "and with that in mind we are developing our theme as a salute to the RCN."

An extensive program is being conducted by the committee to get all former members of the RCN together for the 1960 Ball and it is anticipated that one of the largest crowds in the history of this event will be in attendance.

Committee members appointed to

Of particular interest will be an inkwell presented to Queen Mary; covered turquoise and a rice bowl, made to unusually large dimensions, to the order of King Saud, Sheik of Kuwait and other heads of Eastern States and a selection of elaborately decorated vases and urns made in the 19th century.

The china that is accustomed to receiving Royal patronage is coveted by every woman who appreciates beauty. Hand-made by craftsmen, designed and painted by artists, its price is surprisingly modest. Created with contemporary usage in mind, Royal Crown Derby is still the expression of an artistic heritage that has gone on unchanged for over two hundred years.

be responsible for arrangements include Mr. Burns, Z. W. T. Lewis, R. D. P. Gilday, Eric Harvey, R. S. Stuart, N. J. McDonald, Jesse Cohen, L. A. Love, W. D. Moncur, Dave Jones, R. D. Bremner, John Gick and R. C. Rubens. Representing serving members of the Navy on the committee will be Lieutenant Commanders Jim Latimer, John Shee and Harvey Cocks. Mrs. E. W. Burns is chairman of the women's committee.

We Give Thanks

Nature assumes her splendid task
Of scattering blessings great and rare,
From every burning bush, there shines
The promise of Eternal care.
The glad earth yields her grain and fruits;
We dwell in peace, — our people — one,
The Kingdom, promised long, has come,
The gift of Heaven is now, — is won.

STARTING OCTOBER

FOR INFORMATION CALL WELLINGTON 3-4188

THE REVOLT of Hal Patterson, walking out on the Als was patched up, less than 24 hours after he walked out of a practice held Sunday. Maybe the real true story will never be told but one can guess and some time in the future little bits of what really is happening to Als will be told. There'll never be a public statement, just a lot of stories, which can go a long way in hurting any kind of a club and a pro club can't afford for reasons of their box office public relations.

Before the season ever started, others and maybe a few more we were in the company of several top Als stars. Coach Moss had hardly got his feet wet, and already he was being disliked. One move that the club made, and hurt them quite a bit, was the taking away of the player's tickets, two per home game. Lafer, this order was revised and the tickets are handed out to the players again. But, not a good way to start any season, especially during early practices. On top of Hal walking out, there could have been open revolt as two

Like any family, there has to be a few arguments, which they say goes to make a happy one, and in pro football teams, like the Als, this can happen. From where we sit I like to think that there is something bigger behind revolt, than just Perry Moss. Maybe the stories that the club is going to sell (Craddick, former owner is interested so the story goes) will come true this fall.

Irish holds Mt. Royal to 3-3 ruggar draw

The Deep River, Ontario ruggar team beat Wanderers 45-0 in an exhibition game. Four years ago Wanderers travelled to Deep River to play the first ruggar game with players born in United Kingdom, since then, the game has caught on and the team that played here Saturday were 80 per cent Canadian born.

The influx of Canadian players with a background of Canadian football has brought a refreshing new approach to the old English type Rugby. When the Deep River right wing, Pat Maloy, was bottled up on the side line he sent an overhead 40 yard lateral pass to the left centre who made ground and passed to his wing for a touchdown.

The use of such passing in English Rugby is most unusual but is something the English trained footballers would do well to emulate.

Canadian and American football evolved from English Rugby and now that English rugby is finding an increasing following in Canada, it would appear that the techniques of the newer game may bring a shot in the arm to English Rugby and make that game even more of interest to spectators.

In the Quebec league, Mount Royal were held to a 3-3 draw by Irish. For Irish, Sean Gayner scored a touchdown; Mount Royal David Clarke evened the score with a penalty goal.

The determined Irish were fighting hard to regain ground they had lost last week. Nevertheless they gained the honor of being the first team to take a point from Mount Royal this season.

Barbarians went to Ottawa intent upon a repeat of last week's performance to gain another two points. The game which was marred by scrappy play and frayed tempers; a succession of penalty kicks, four of which Ottawa put over the bar, to one by the Barbarians, producing a final result of 12-3. This was Ottawa's first win of the season.

Westmount and Wanderers had a return match. Both sides were short of regular players due to injury, so that they were not at their balanced best. Westmount edged Wanderers 6-5. For West-mount, Roy Hamilton scored two touchdowns. Ian Morrison scored a touchdown for the Wanderers, converted by Ricky Parsons. At Northmount High School, Irish 'A' beat the Nomads 9-6.

Next Saturday, McGill will be playing their first game of the season against Ottawa kick-off 2:30 p.m. Irish meet Barbs at Northmount High School kick-off 2:30 p.m. In view of the number of Irishmen playing for Barbarians, this should prove a spirited match.

Westmount meet Mount Royal at Westmount Park, kick-off 2 p.m. Westmount 'A' vs McGill 'A' at Westmount Park at 3:15 p.m. Barbs 'A' vs Irish 'A' at Westhill High School at 2:30 p.m. The Wanderers take two teams to play in New York.
