Public bears brunt of social development tax

OTTAWA (CP) — A new two-per-cent levy on taxable personal income shapes up as a key weapon in a tough anti-inflationary bid outlined by Finance Minister Edgar Benson Tuesday night in his first budget speech.

The tax, effective next Jan. 1, carries a maximum limit of $120 a year for any taxpayer.

Mr. Benson forecast a token surplus of $5,000,000 in the next fiscal year starting April 1, but opposition members promptly attacked the budget as shocking, idiotic and vicious.

The finance minister stressed the anti-inflationary aspects of his proposed measures.

"In the broad field of economic policy the most urgent need now is to check further the continuing increase in prices and living costs," he said.

"There appears to have been some easing of inflationary pressure in recent months. But there is little evidence that the damaging upward spiral of prices and costs has been effectively broken."

In addition to the two-per-cent personal tax increase in this anti-inflation campaign, he announced plans to have corporations speed payment of their taxes and to collect an estimated $95,000,000 in new revenues from the hitherto little-touched life insurance industry.

In a different vein, he sought to eliminate what he called a deeply felt grievance by exempting from taxation all amounts left to a spouse. He also plans to end taxation of gifts between husband and wife.

In all, the proposed tax changes will add $55,000,000 to government coffers in the current fiscal year ending March 31, but that will soar to $845,000,000 in the following 12 months, Mr. Benson predicted.

But, despite the higher revenues this year, the expected deficit will total $675,000,000 against revenues of $10,105,000,000. This compares with the peacetime record deficit of $792,000,000 in the fiscal year ended last March 31.

Next year's anticipated small surplus would come from revenues of $11,675,000,000 and expenditures of $11,670,000,000.

Hanoi might reply to stop the bombing proposals made by US

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman met North Vietnamese envoys in Paris today amid speculation Hanoi might reply to American proposals to halt the bombing of North Vietnam.

In his opening statement, Harriman urged the North Vietnamese to act now for peace. "The choice is yours," he said.

There was no immediate indication, however, that the North Vietnamese envoys had reached a decision.

After 2½ hours of discussions, the meeting broke up with an agreement to meet at the same time next week as usual.

The U.S. chief delegate made his call to Ambassador Yuan Thuy in the context of a general discussion at the 27th session of the talks that began last May. But the terms he used seem to carry a special significance at the moment when President Johnson is awaiting Hanoi's response to his secret package plan for a bombing halt.

CHALLENGED CLAIMS

In his formal statement Harriman challenged North Vietnamese claims that the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam controls most of that country and has the backing of most of the local people. Then he related how nations of East Asia, which are working together economically, have raised living standards.

Harriman said:

"The United States stands ready to join in co-operative efforts for the benefit of all the people of Southeast Asia. The opportunities are limitless for those who will work together in peace. It is time for you to act. The choice is yours."

Asked before the meeting whether the session was related to a press conference President Johnson is expected to hold later today, Harriman said "there is no connection at all that I know of."

Mercy flights bogged down

OTTAWA (CP) — The first Canadian transport plane assigned to mercy flights for victims of Nigeria's civil war arrived on the African scene 10 days ago. But no relief runs have yet been made.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp told the Commons Tuesday that clearance has not yet been obtained from Biafra and Equatorial Guinea for flights from Fernando Po, the Guinean island off the coast of Nigeria, into the secessionist territory.

The Guinean officials empowered to grant clearance cannot be located, Mr. Sharp said.

And he added that mercy flights cannot yet be made within Nigerian-held territory because of difficulties with forward airfields.

The Opposition again belabored the government for the delay in relief flights.

One Hercules is at Lagos, Nigeria's capital. The second is on Ascension Island in mid-Atlantic and the third at Recife, Brazil.

Meanwhile, the Commons external affairs committee is scheduled to complete today 2½ weeks of hearings on the needs of the war victims and how Canada can help provide relief.

GENERAL TESTIMIES

Maj. Gen. William A. Milroy, Canada's representative on the four-nation observer team in Nigeria, testified for 4½ hours Tuesday.

Gen. Milroy arrived Sept. 27 in Nigeria, which invited Canada, Britain, Sweden and Poland to send observers to check on charges of genocide.

Gen. Milroy said the team feels "very strongly" that there is no evidence of genocide against the Ibos of Biafra.

He said the Nigerians seemed to be doing everything they could to provide food and medical care for refugees.

The general would not be shaken in this assertion under stiff questioning by David Lewis, NDP parliamentary leader, and Andrew Brewin (NDP —Toronto Greenwood).

Gen. Milroy said Canada asked the team to investigate reports from Biafra by two Canadians—Charles Taylor of the Toronto Globe and Mail and Stephen Lewis, NDP member of the Ontario legislature for Scarborough West—that Nigerian troops had massacred more than 500 civilians in the village of Urua Inyang.

He said the team could find no village by that name in the location given by Mr. Taylor and Mr. Lewis.

However, it had later found a Urua Inyang in another region and the observer team now was investigating the atrocity allegation.

News in brief

Immigration

QUEBEC (CP) — The third session of the 28th legislature resumed Tuesday with introduction of a bill to establish a provincial immigration department.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand noted in introducing the immigration bill that the majority of Quebecers are French-speaking and said the new department will attract immigrants "better adapted to the French culture."

Student revolt

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec legislature's committee on education was to meet today to discuss the province's student revolt which began to fizzle out Tuesday after two weeks of strikes and sit-ins.

All but two junior colleges in the provinces were operating normally Tuesday as the legislature resumed its sitting after a 109-day recess.

Tax increases

OTTAWA (CP) — The tax increases in the federal budget came after plenty of warning.

Former finance minister Mitchell Sharp laid down the government financial line almost a year ago, saying the government would have to trim its spending, arrest its borrowing and pay for new programs out of new taxes.

Tax reform

OTTAWA (CP) — The first elements of thoroughgoing reform in Canada's tax system arrived with the budget delivered Tuesday night by Finance Minister Edgar Benson.

Stepped-up taxation of insurance companies, banks and mortgage loan companies, changes in gift and estate taxes, and more complete reporting of interest and dividend payments all spell a different tax approach.

Says gov't deceived people on deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert L. Stanfield accused the government Tuesday night of deceiving the Canadian people on the size of its deficit.

His reaction to Finance Minister Edgar Benson's tax-raising budget earlier in the evening was one of the sharpest among opposition critics, although others described the budget as "vicious" and "idiotic."

Mr. Stanfield said he was "shocked" by Mr. Benson's revelation of an estimated deficit this fiscal year of $675,000,000.

"We knew the people had been badly deceived before, when the —revised—estimates were tabled. Now a deficit of some $600,000,000 is forecast for this year."

The new taxes, on top of the increase imposed last winter, would put a heavy burden on the people.

"And we are in a position of continued inflation, too much unemployment, higher taxes and, of course, gross deception on the part of the government through the winter and through the election campaign."

"All in all, I'd say it's a mess."

While Conservatives concentrated on the size of the deficit, Max Saltzman, the NDP financial critic, criticized the government for not spurring the economy to deal with unemployment.

He said the government's budget-balancing drive was "almost certain" to lead to a recession.

But all opposition critics lashed the new "social development" tax, amounting to two-per-cent of taxable income with a maximum of $120 a year.

Conservative financial critic Marcel Lambert, the only opposition member to speak in the Commons after Mr. Benson's budget speech, said Canadian taxpayers were being required to make up a "horrendous" deficit.

The government had boasted last spring that it would balance the budget. Then with tabling of revised spending estimates last month, a deficit of some $400, 000,000 had been revealed. The budget had brought this up to $675,000,000.

And this didn't take into account the cost of Expo 67, which would be paid "sometime."

Mr. Lambert also looked askance at Mr. Benson's target of a modest $5,000,000 surplus in the next fiscal year.

This $5,000,000 was only a drop in the bucket, he said. Any little change in the economic climate could result in another substantial deficit.

In his Commons speech, Mr. Lambert called the budget savage. Outside the House he tagged it as vicious.

When the "idiotic" label came from Mr. Saltzman as he took an opposite stand from Mr. Lambert by opposing Mr. Benson's move toward a balanced budget.

Despite the size of the deficit, Canada has the highest unemployment rate in recent times, he said.

"By moving in the next fiscal year toward a completely balanced budget he—Mr. Benson—is almost certain to bring on a recession."

"He has sacrificed growth and full employment for a medieval concept of a book-keeping balance, and in that sense has done a terrible disservice to the future growth of this country."

Creditist Leader Real Caouette said the budget would simply mean more restrictions on the provinces and municipalities.

Gazette Printing Co. is sold

MONTREAL (CP) — Southam Press Ltd. is purchasing The Gazette Printing Co. through an exchange of $3,700,000 in cash and 100,000 shares of Southam Press, it was announced Tuesday.

The boards of the two companies said The Gazette, family-owned for almost 100 years, would retain responsibility for its editorial and news policies.

Southam Press shares closed on the Toronto Stock Exchange at $53.25 a share Tuesday, establishing the purchase price for The Gazette Printing Co. at over $9,000,000.

The Gazette Printing Co. operates a commercial printing business as well as the 140,000-circulation morning daily and The Lakeshore News and Chronicle. Officers of the company would remain unchanged, a front page statement in the newspaper said today.

"The Gazette editorial and news policies will continue to be the responsibility of the present publisher and his staff," the Gazette's statement said.

Charles H. Peters, president of The Gazette, said the transaction was the result of a study leading to the conclusion "that the longer term future of the family-owned business of medium size will be difficult."

"With the company in sound shape at present we decided to move for future security and progress."

Mr. Peters is the grandson of Richard White who, with his brother Thomas bought The Gazette in 1870. The English-language newspaper, now in its 191st year of publication, was founded as a bilingual newspaper during the period of the American revolutionary war.

The Gazette would continue to operate "as a separate entity with its own president and board of directors and with its two divisions — newspaper publishing and job printing."

Details of the agreement would be completed by the end of the year.

Southam Press Ltd. publishes seven daily newspapers—Ottawa Citizen, North Bay Nugget, Hamilton Spectator, Winnipeg Tribune, Medicine Hat News, Edmonton Journal and Calgary Herald.

The company also publishes the Vancouver Province for Pacific Press Ltd., in which it has a 50 per cent interest, and The Canadian, a weekly supplement.

Business magazines and two business newspapers, The Financial Times of Canada and The Journal of Commerce Weekly, are published by Southam Business Publications Ltd., a subsidiary of Southam Press Ltd.

Question astronauts about flight

ABOARD THE ESSEX (AP)

— The three Apollo 7 space astronauts—cleaned up, rested and well-fed—come ashore today to relive for experts their 11-day, 4,500,000-mile journey in space.

They will fly from the USS Essex to Patrick Air Force Base, near Orlando, Fla. for a long series of debriefings.

From their answers and data gathered by the spacecraft, the space agency hopes to determine whether the next manned space shot can safely take men in a circle around the moon.

The decision on whether the Apollo 8 flight will be another earth orbit or circumlunar is expected in November.

For Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham, the next few weeks will be a continuous round of medical examinations, debriefings and reports.

By VERN HAUGLAND

The Apollo 7 crew splashed down at 7:12 a.m. EDT Tuesday in the Atlantic southeast of Bermuda and then taken aboard this aircraft carrier.

Officials called the Apollo 7 flight "a perfect mission."

Dr. William Carpenter, the recovery team chief physician, said a medical examination showed all three men "essentially normal—no problems."

He said the men showed no sign of mental strain, no irritation.

"Quite the opposite," Carpenter said.

Eisele had some residual infection, but otherwise there was no evidence of the colds that plagued all three astronauts during the flight.

"No doubt about it, they are tired," the doctor added. Eisele showed more wear-7½ miles from the carrier.

But under leaden grey skies, the descent was not seen from the ship. On landing, the chutes disengaged and the capsule tipped upside down in the water. It took 20 tense minutes before the world could be told that the men were safe.

Chris Kraft, director of flight operations at the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, said the splashdown was only one-third mile from the aiming point.

SCRAMBLE — White, wispy, contrails etched in the sky told of young flyers' courage during the Battle of Britain. Above, a pilot stands on the wing root of a sleek Spitfire. A film is presently being made of the famous battle.

Dogfight swirls high above the patchwork fields of England

LONDON (CP) — High above the patchwork fields of southern England, a Spitfire and a Messerschmitt fighter were locked in lonely combat.

But the only shooting going on was aboard a camera-carrying American B-25 bomber flying alongside, filming a scene for the movie The Battle of Britain.

Producer Harry Saltzman, a native of Sherbrooke, Que., who co-produced the money-spinning James Bond saga, spent more than three years assembling the former enemies and their historic aircraft for this $4,000,000 ($10,400,000) blockbuster based on the RAF's finest hour back in the summer of 1940.

The cast reads like an extract from an actors' who's who. It includes three knights: Sir Laurence Olivier, Sir Michael Redgrave and Sir Ralph Richardson. Other stars include Toronto-born Christopher Plummer, Michael Caine, Trevor Howard and Robert Shaw.

Sir Laurence portrays Lord Dowding, the controversial wartime head of Fighter Command, which took the brunt of the Luftwaffe's assault on Britain.

Apart from major historical figures, most of the characters are fictional persons based on real personalities and aces. Plummer has the part of a Canadian pilot.

SIGN EXPERT ADVISERS

RAF and Luftwaffe veterans, including Lord Dowding, were signed on as technical advisors. Aircraft were bought and borrowed from museums and private collections in Europe and North America.

One Hurricane was loaned by Robert Diemert, a movie theatre owner in Carman, Man., who found the derelict machine in a junkyard and restored it.

Some of the German Heinkel and Messerschmitt bombers and fighters, borrowed from the Spanish air force, were still being used until recently. They were flown by pilots from a Texas flying museum calling itself the Confederate Air Force.

The movie company accumulated more than 100 aircraft, making Saltzman commander-in-chief of the 35th-largest air force in the world.

Some 40 minutes of the movie's 2 1/2-hour running time will consist of air battles, much of it shot from the converted B-25 with cameras in its gun turrets.

Aerial dogfights were shot over some of the actual locations in Kent and East Anglia in airspace cleared of other traffic by the defence ministry.

Friendship cures modern ill of isolation, says archbishop

Sherbrooke's Archbishop, Msgr. Jean Marie Fortier, urged Rotarians last night to extend friendship and fellowship to their fellowman.

The 48-year-old archbishop told Rotarians, "isolation is a characteristic of the modern urban world. We often feel that we are just a number on someone's payroll, that we are part of a huge mechanism over which we have no control — that we don't ultimately govern our own lives.

"The isolation that we feel of course isn't physical but spiritual," he said.

The charismatic religious leader with snow-white hair told the members that it is in the spiritual context that man craves for the friendship of his peers. Man needs to feel the warmth and sympathy of a personal relationship.

"He must feel that someone accepts him for what he is. We might call friendship the unconditional acceptance of another person for what he is.

"This is only possible," he continued, "if a man is willing to abandon a materialistic outlook on life and not consider other men as mere things, but as human beings."

Drawing from biblical history, Msgr. Fortier stated that in Christ is the example of accepting other persons for what they are.

"His attitude towards Mary Magdalene is not one of condemnation, but of kindness and forgiveness. Christ actually forgave her for being just what she was — a prostitute.

"But he also gave her a sense of human dignity which helped her overcome her sin," he explained.

The robust, cigarette-smoking archbishop said it is not enough to accept another person as he is. "We must go even deeper. From friendship we must go to fellowship. We must unite with one another to attain our goals."

Msgr. Fortier said everyone has ideals and much progress can be made if these ideals are shared and strengthened.

In city today Training traders tour

Twelve assistant trade commissioners visit various Sherbrooke industries today as part of a tour that the group is making of the county.

The tour has two objectives: to provide the assistant trade commissioners with a broad knowledge of the Canadian economy and to enable them to gain first hand information on Canadian export trade so that they will be well informed when posted abroad.

A civic reception at 11:45 a.m. today at Howardene enabled the assistant trade commissioners to visit the industrial exhibit there.

This visit has been organized by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce and Henri Baudot, secretary-manager. Group leader of the tour is Niels Hansen, chairman of the chamber's industrial affairs and vice-president of manufacturing at S. W. Hooper and Company.

Jolliet Street stays shut to CEGEP buses

Alderman Gaston Roy insisted it was a question of considering the needs of 1,500 CEGEP students as more important than those of "10 proprietors" on Jolliet Street.

However, council thought differently and it voted Monday to keep Jolliet Street in Sherbrooke closed to traffic.

The vote was prompted by a request from the Sherbrooke Transit bus service company asking that buses be allowed to use this street to transport CEGEP students to the Normal and Technical Schools where CEGEP courses are instructed.

Alderman Antonio Pinard instigated the vote when he said that the street should be kept closed. Mr. Roy said the bus company's request should be accorded.

Seven aldermen voted to keep the street closed and three voted to re-open it to traffic.

Mr. Roy was firm in his argument that the 1,500 CEGEP students should be transported directly to the schools.

Mr. Pinard was equally determined that Jolliet Street be kept closed to all traffic, including school buses.

The request sent to council by the bus service company stated bus drivers are now instructed to drive as far as Jolliet Street and then back up and turn the large, awkward buses around.

Because of traffic conditions, the letter said, this practice should not be prolonged.

Council will study a request made by the Sherbrooke Alouettes, the city's baseball team, for financial aid to clear up the club's deficit of $2,265.73.

The request was made by the secretary-treasurer of the team, Jean-Marc Donahue.

Citizens in the city's North Ward Duvernay Section voted in favor of zoning changes in this section when they went to the polls in a referendum October 17.

They supported Bylaw No. 1818 by a vote of 71 for ($1,276,400), to nine votes against ($46,300).

Loose trailer hurts brothers

AYER'S CLIFF — (Special) — Jean-Yves Menard, Barnston, and his brother Marcel, of Coaticook, are being treated at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Sherbrooke, following a vehicle accident on the Ayer's Cliff-Barnston road, Monday night.

Marcel Menard suffered a fractured spine, and is recovering at a satisfactory rate. Jean-Yves Menard is in the intensive care unit with severe lacerations on most of his torso. Hospital officials described his condition as "not quite critical."

The accident apparently occurred when Mr. Banasse, Ayer's Cliff, was towing a trailer loaded with trees. The trailer unhitched, without Mr. Banasse realizing the fact, and careened into the car driven by Marcel Menard.

The Menard brothers, and Mrs. Marcel Menard and her baby were rushed to the Coaticook Hospital following the accident. Mrs. Menard and her baby were released shortly after treatment.

Jean-Yves Menard was apparently thrown out of the car, and dragged for a considerable distance to induce the severe lacerations.

Judge tells brawlers:

'Spaghetti' or 'Pea Soup' are just names

Eleven young Italian-speaking Montrealers pleaded guilty to possession of offensive weapons and disturbing the peace when they appeared in Court of Sessions Monday. Judge Benoit Turmel listened to defence counsel Jean Cor-mier's explanation of the brawl in which the young Italians were involved at Magog Sunday night; he suspended all sentences and ordered each of them to post a $100 bond to keep the peace for a year.

Judge Turmel told the young men not to take offence so easily when someone called them names referring to their nationality. He said that when someone yells at an Italian about spaghetti, it is the same as if someone called a French-speaking Canadian "Pea Soup."

Judge Turmel told the men not to get so angry the next time they are bothered.

The 11 men were Antonio Rizzi, 19; Renaldi Mennato, 21; Giovanni Rizzi, 19; Renato Bisciglia, 20; Joseph Di Stefano, 22; Antonin De Rosa, 19; Antonin Macchi, 20; Michael Pizzolongo, 18; Michael Iaciancio, 19; Joseph Nobile, 20; and Gaetano Rizzi, 22, all of Montreal.

Mr. Cormier said one of the Montrealers was called names at a boxing match in Magog Sunday night.

A fight evolved from the immature name-calling outside the arena and it erupted into a brawl with the 11 or 12 Italians versus 250 irate Magogians.

Policemen arrived on the scene and once the riot had subsided, they provided protection for the Italians.

He asked for the Court's clemency.

He said they had spent Sunday night in jail and were all anxious to return home.

He said they were all respectable young working men and none of them possessed a police record.

Mr. Kierans evasive on accounting practises

Postmaster-General Eric Kierans seeks to justify his increased postal charges on second class mail, amounting in many cases to a boost of 300 per cent by claiming that the Post Office is providing Canadian publishers with a subsidy of $39,000,000 annually through deficits incurred in the handling of this category of mail.

But, significantly, he fails to give details of the accounting procedures used at arriving at this figure nor does he indicate that the financial position of the Post Office would be materially improved if the carriage of second class mail was abolished entirely — a situation that could well arise if he persists in applying charges against the printed press of the nation.

Would the abolition of second class mails result in any substantial reduction in post office operating costs? And would such reduced costs equal the reduction in revenues now received from handling printed matter?

In other words, is the deficit pictured by Mr. Kierans an actual out-of-pocket loss or does it represent a distribution of expenditures which would normally be made to carry other classes of mail?

When the Post Office went into the large-scale delivery of so-called junk mail — circulars, merchandise sample, etc. — a few years ago directors of the postal service justified the move by arguing that in most districts the increased revenue could be achieved with little increase in costs.

With a few exceptions, they said, the urban carriers had to cover their routes anyway and that the distance they covered more than the amount of mail they delivered determined their effectiveness.

And the same argument was applied to the rural route operators and to the staffs of all but a few of the largest of post office.

An explanation by Mr. Kierans of his accounting practises would be interesting to say the least.

Save your pennies. It's about all you can manage to save these days.

Excessive protection

At a time when the shortage of dental surgeons is one of the greatest concerns of the Canadian people, the Royal College of Dental Surgeons has taken an action that may prevent at least five Canadian communities from receiving the benefits of proper dental care.

In the apparent belief that dentistry is radically different in this country from other parts of the world, and "to maintain high standards in the profession," the College insists that five Czech dentists, who came here as refugees, must spend two and a half years in dental college studying Canadian teeth before they can practise. This seems carrying professional nationalism too far.

It should be sufficient for Czech dentists to provide proof of their educational qualifications and satisfy the College as to their competence. This could be done by a series of written and practical examinations.

The Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons has demonstrated a reasonableness and flexibility in this regard that might serve as a model for the dental profession.

Instead of ordering some 30 or 40 Czechoslovakian medical practitioners back to school, the Ontario body has arranged with the University of Toronto to hold special examinations next month. Those doctors who qualify will be free to practise without benefit of further training.

Professional associations are to be commended for striving to keep their standards high but sometimes they apply the rules too closely.

As the mayor of one Northern Ontario municipality seeking the services of a refugee Czech dentist remarked: "What's the difference between pulling a tooth in Europe and in Canada?"

One way to make a small boy behave when visiting friends: Shake well before taking.

'Hound-dog' Coates sniffs wind for waste

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

OTTAWA — Some of his admiring Commons Conservative colleagues and not-so-appreciative Liberals have a nickname for Robert Carman Coates, the honorable member for the Nova Scotia riding of Cumberland Colchester North. It's "Hound-dog."

And it fits. There he is, lean and keen, mentally padding through the government's newly-revised federal Estimates and the Public Accounts, sniffing the spending wind for traces of waste and extravagance.

He is pretty sure he has caught the politically heady scent of what any self-respecting opposition likes to call "squandering."

Flip through the 40 or more pages of questions in the Commons Order Paper and discover that "Hound-dog" Coates appears to have picked up the trail of what he terms "reckless spending" in Ottawa's mid-town patch of mushrooming high-rise towers.

Into them the government has been moving scores of its offices — even whole federal departments — with new rugs, drapes, furniture and equipment to match the glitter of the shining glass towers.

GOOD QUESTIONS
Some of these offices, including entire departments and complete crown corporations, have left federal buildings where the government, of course, itself is the landlord, to occupy cushy new quarters at rents matching the high altitude of the leased towers.

Sample of the "Hound-dog's" sniffing is a brace of questions about the expensive way Canadian Transport Commission Chairman John Whitney Pickersgill has been setting up shop. "Is the commission moving in to new quarters, and if so how many floors are being leased, at what cost?"

"Are all new appointments, rugs, drapes, furniture being provided and at what price?" (The answer to the first question is plainly apparent to anyone who cares to look into one of the new mid-town office towers — Mr. Pickersgill and his staff are leasing 14 floors.)

"That's what you'd call 'empire-building' on the grand scale," snorts Bob Coates. "Imagine, from a dead-end corridor suite of four offices in the Centre Block when 'Pick' was transport minister into 14 stories of a high-rise tower as commission chairman."

"The transformation from bureaucratic rags to riches is all the more wondrous," he muses, half in indignation, half in admiration, "when you remember that dear old 'Pick' as minister hand-crafted the $40,000 job as chairman to his every comfort and convenience."

What the "Hound-dog" growsl is "love of luxury," seems to be busting out all over at every federal level, as "ministers and mandarins compete in keeping up with Joe Greene and his Persian Potentate's Pleasure Palace."

SEVEN CADIES IN A ROW
The waste-chasing MP is baying at the heels of the cabinet individually and collectively.

He's hot on the trail, for individual example, of Trade and Industries a Minister Jean-Luc Pepin with a half page of questions asking why the department moved out of its very own building into 22 towered floors of the Capital's handsomest high-rise . . . and more important, at what cost to the taxpayer in rents and "fancy office fixings."

One by one he has been sniffing out each member of the cabinet, and to make sure he's overlooked nobody, there is his "omnibus question," as he terms it:

"Which ministers have had their House of Commons offices redecorated in the Centre Block and their departmental suites moved or renovated and at what cost in each case, to the federal treasury?"

Coming up is another question, sure, believes Bob Coates, to catch the taxpayers' eye: "How many acres of new carpet have been bought for newly-decorated offices of the new government?"

Maybe, barks the "Hound-dog," he should be asking his rug question in dimensions of square miles not mere acres.

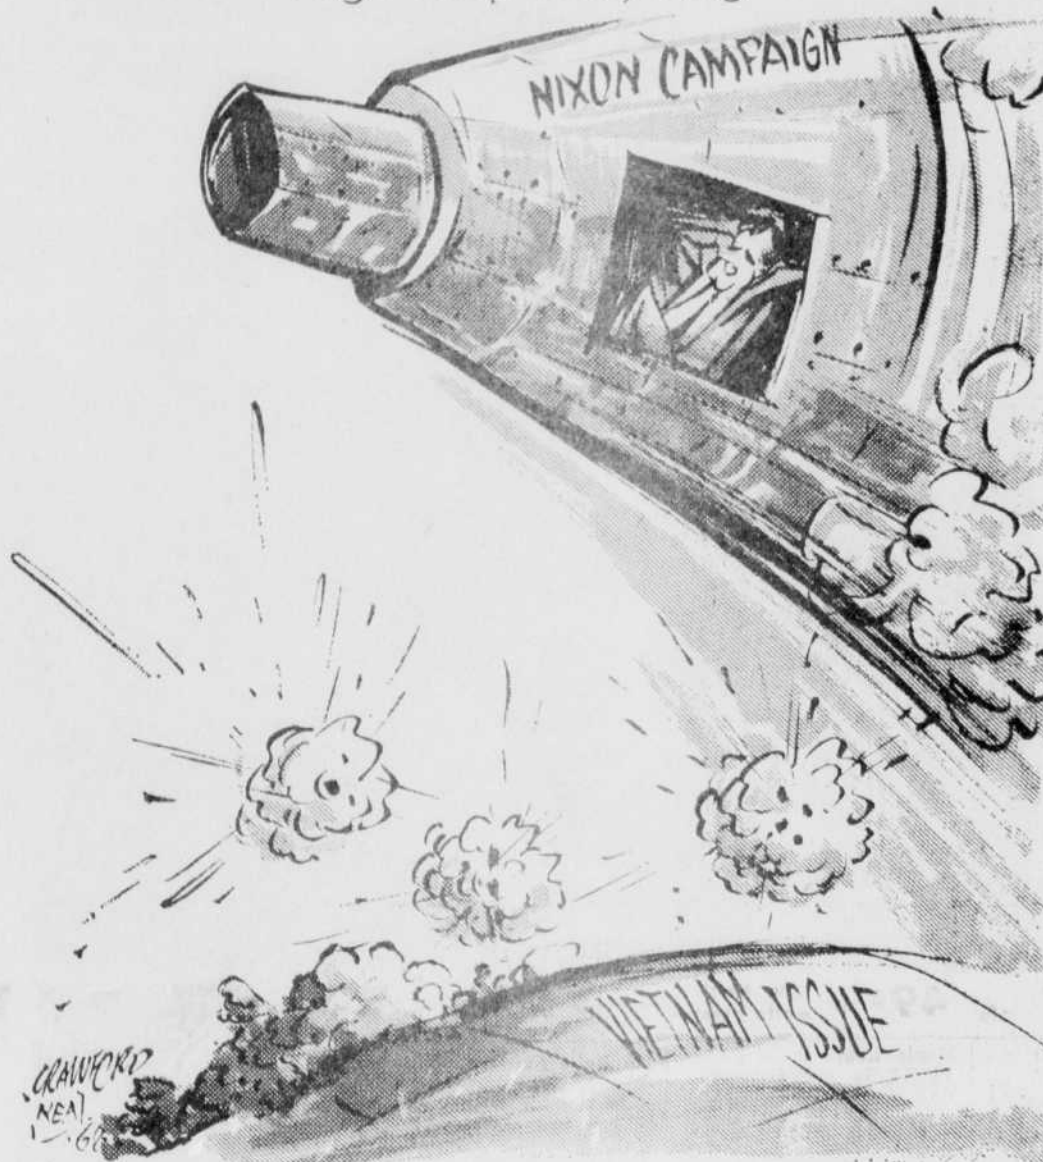

Then he has still another waste-hunt going, with cabinet ministers' cars the quarry.

"Do the ministers get car allowances," he asks, well knowing that they do — at $2,000 per. "Do any of them have vehicles and drivers provided?" he further enquires, knowing equally well that seven have chauffeured Cadillacs at their personal beck and call.

What is his waste-chase really all about, and what is the object of the hound-dog game? "I just want to know," he grins, "where seven shining Cadillacs all in a row, whole towers of luxury offices, acres of rugs and all this bureaucratic affluence fits into the government's supposed economy program and the Just Society?"

Anyone betting on answers to that one?

Big trading powers

Lack of balance in payments between countries is normal

OTTAWA (CP) — Big trading powers are trying to put balance back into the capital flows of the world's monetary system.

Some of them run risks in the effort, and the system may hang on their determination to stick it out.

Lack of balance in payments between countries has come to be a way of life. For years, the United States has fed the system with dollars and Europe has piled on surplus on another.

In the last 12 months the world decided this could not go on indefinitely, and there were startling reactions. An over-extended Britain devalued its pound. The U.S. launched a remarkable defence of the dollar. A new structure was erected for gold.

Canada felt the pinch when its own dollar went through an exchange crisis in January, February and March. At least for the time being, the world now needs a pace-maker and lender to take over for the U.S., and to a lesser extent for Britain, as they stem persistent drains of their currencies.

Germany and Italy have led recent efforts to blend expansionary European policies with the British-U.S. restraints. This helps both world trade and payments to operate smoothly.

PERSEVERANCE NEEDED

But it will take much longer than a year to put matters right. A question often asked at the Sept. 30-Oct. 4 Washington meeting of the International Monetary Fund was whether all hands will persevere.

France, which can always be trusted to puncture excessive optimism, said that such a national economic adjustment will be the real test of co-operation.

Progress in this direction, said Finance Minister Francois-Xavier Ortoli, "keeps tension within limits compatible with the survival of some degree of international monetary order."

Even France conceded that the U.S. correctives this year have been "courageous."

Bygone days

TEN YEARS AGO
BROME — The Ladies Guild of St. John's Anglican Church met at the home of Mrs. William Barnes, with Mrs. Norman Osborne presiding.

Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. E. Sales, also a letter from Mrs. J. A. Byers who is visiting her parents in England was read.

A report on the canteen held at Mr. Gordon Marsh's sale, realized that a very satisfactory sum was made.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Whittaker and Mrs. Lyla Owens.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
BURY — The unique process of a quilting bee — at least as seen through the eyes of a New Zealander — was demonstrated here this week for the benefit of Mrs. Jean Sawyer, immediate past president of the New Zealand Women's Institute.

The bee was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hunt.

Mrs. Sawyer had left her native land in the middle of winter only to arrive in Canada in mid-summer.

Her tour has so far involved a period of lecturing to school children and women's groups on the past and present of New Zealand. Yesterday she spoke to Sowerville.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
The regular monthly meeting of the Asot Women's Institute was held in the Lennoxville Institute club room.

Mrs. W. S. Mitchell, president, presided. After the usual opening, 20 members answered the roll call by naming a new discovery in medicine.

Mrs. D. McElrea reported on the decided success of the recent catering at the ploughmen's banquet, and thanked the committees and members in charge.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Roy Nutbrown, Mrs. W. P. Cox, Mrs. Church and Mrs. Garfat.

Readers say:

Past worker backs community chest

Dear Sir:

There are many people in this area who are "community-minded," and they cheerfully support the more popular causes, but when it comes to Community Chest, some are heard to remark: "I don't believe in Community Chest. Why should I give money to the Y, the Boy Scouts, the Libraries, or even the Welfare Agency?"

Well, as a beleaguered canvasser, who once thought this way myself, may I make a few remarks? As I became more and more involved in two of the above organizations, I began to realize why they had to approach the community annually for support, and I changed my point of view.

Take the Y, for example. Sure, they own real estate, but they have to maintain it and this takes money. Sure, they charge memberships to the youth and adults using their facilities, but they have to pay instructors and purchase equipment. And they do provide a place for our young people to meet and learn and become involved in worthwhile activities, under friendly supervision. The community would not welcome the loss of the YMCA-YWCA if this organization was forced to close down.

Or take the Libraries. Both Lennoxville and Sherbrooke offer their facilities free to the school children of the area — if they were forced to close, I believe they would be missed. The Lennoxville Library has recently had to double the price of its adult membership in order to keep operating, it is not a large library but if we support it, it will someday develop into possibly a municipal organization with boundaries only limited by the scope of its budget.

The Sherbrooke Library is hoping to amalgamate with the municipal library in Sherbrooke but, while negotiations are taking place, should we not help to maintain it at its present level, even though we might look forward to a more comprehensive service in the future? To let either of these libraries close down would be a step backwards, not forwards.

The Boy Scouts is doing good work with its varied programs, in the area, and it is largely self-supporting, with the boys paying fees and raising money by selling apples, and so on.

But here, again, a fuller and more constructive program can be offered to these boys only if some measure of financial aid is received from the Community. I don't have any boy scouts in my immediate family now, but I feel glad that some of the Community Chest funds are distributed to this cause.

And the Sherbrooke Welfare comes into the same category — just because I don't have to use its services myself is no reason not to wish it to continue its efforts for other people who benefit from its functions.

So will those who have been inclined to say "I don't believe in Community Chest!" take another look at the picture? If all the people who say "no" to the canvassers would instead give one dollar, there would be much benefit to the Community as a whole.

Any questions? Or reactions?

You can grab a fast, tasty bite at Clairol

By JOHN McCAGHEY
(Record Staff Reporter)

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — Jay Irwin, who handles catering at Clairol, says that mechanized catering is well established in Canada, and has steadily increased over the past 15 years.

One of the major reasons for the machine service is the availability of infra-red and electronic cooking devices. One electronic unit that Mr. Irwin has at Clairol can cook a hot dog in 23 seconds, and a full course meal in five and half minutes.

The variety of fresh foods is relatively standard, with hot dogs, hamburgers, minced and sliced ham, chopped egg, cheese and beef sandwiches as the staples.

The vending machines at Clairol, normal for a plant employing approximately 300 people, are: coffee (the most popular), two soft drink, one candy one sandwich, one pastry, one cigarette, and a deepfreeze for ice cream products. The sandwich machine also dispenses half-pint cartons of milk.

One advantage of the vending service is the rapid service at breaks. The average stay in the Clairol cafeteria was six minutes, less than half the break period. Mr. Irwin operates other concessions at Vicomtel, Slacks Plants, Croname Canada Brothers, Burlington Mills and Waterloo Box and Packaging, all in Waterloo.

Mr. Irwin said that larger operators, he has one full time employee and his son, until he leaves for college, normally will not handle plants with under 500 people. He said that a factory employing that number justifies having an employee on hand full time.

Mr. Irwin estimated that he spends two hours daily making and packaging his sandwiches, hot dogs, and hamburgers. He wouldn't guess the number of sandwiches he sells daily. This is a service that the larger caterers do not provide, unless they are forced into it, according to Mr. Irwin.

Mr. Irwin owns and services all his equipment, and said that the innovations in the more modern units have eased most of the major service problems that existed in the older machinery.

Mr. Irwin said "unlike the major operators, we have a run, and do we ever run."

Education council meets in Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — (Special) The Heroes Memorial Home and School Association met here recently.

Key points of the meeting included: Gordon Bown and Doug Bradford explained new regulations at Cowansville High School, Hallowe'en Masquerade Dance, November 2, at Pinnacle Lodge, Selby Lake, costume optional. Skate and Ski Boot exchange, Nov. 9 or 16. Superior Council of Education will meet with Regional School district of Bedford in Cowansville Nov. 27, 1968.

Mr. Bown principal and Mr. Bradford explained to the assembly, the principal reasons for changing the course of studies and school hours in the present school term. All of these changes came about in order that they may prepare the children for entry into the new regional school which will be opened in September 1969.

The implications and benefits derived from this important move are inestimable to the children once they are confronted with the Rules and Regulations of the new regional school. The Hallowe'en Masquerade Dance will by popular demand be held again this year. The theme adopted will be Bewitched Ball. The dance will be held at Pinnacle Lodge, Nov. 2 from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Music will be provided by the popular orchestra Maurice Goulet. Only 400 tickets are available, invite your friends and form a table as many did last year and remember we shall have as many if not more prizes than last year, a fantastic time is guaranteed for all.

All the popular personages will be present again this year. Skate and Ski Boot Sale As a civic duty, the Heroes Memorial Home and School Association have voted to carry on this worthwhile project thus permitting the population of the district to purchase skates and ski boots at a modest price.

This will be held in the basement of the high school, as last year. The exact date depends on availability and generosity of the school officials. L'Association Parents et Maitres de Cowansville are invited to once again join in the worthwhile project.

It is definite that the Superior Council of Education will come to Cowansville, Nov. 27 for a meeting with our association so the whole school district of Bedford can present a brief to the council.

This meeting will be open to the public. The meeting was adjourned at 9:45 p.m. and all present were invited to the cafeteria for coffee and cakes.

Building costs hurt many

This release is based on remarks made by Heward Grafftey on "The Nation's Business", CBC-TV Saturday evening. The former MP is representing PC leader Robert Stanfield at the Hellyer Task Force Hearings on housing, and discussed the housing situation on television with Mr. Stanfield.

Canadians looking for solutions to their housing problems can gauge the federal government's concern by watching next week's budget, says Heward Grafftey.

"If the Government is serious about solving the current housing crisis, the Minister of Finance must propose positive measures in the budget he intends to bring down next week," stated the former MP who is representing PC leader Robert Stanfield at the hearings of the government task force on housing.

Speaking about the housing situation, and the activities of the task force, on television with Mr. Stanfield Saturday night, Mr. Grafftey said Canadians are "sick of talk and tired of paying rents with nothing to show for it. Most people want to own their own homes, but cannot."

"The high cost of building, of land, and of money have priced home ownership out of the hands of 80 percent of those looking for homes," he said.

"The housing crisis is a number one priority economic issue. If the Trudeau Government recognizes this, Mr. Benson must prove it by showing a change of attitude," he added. "For example when it comes to the relationship between the federal budget and housing, Mr. Benson should not turn funds for housing on and off like water from a tap simply to implement monetary and fiscal policies."

Mr. Grafftey, who has been attending hearings of the task force, listening to the briefs submitted and corresponding with some people who felt they were not given a fair hearing by the Hellyer group, outlined some of the proposals he feels should be in the budget.

"The Government should eliminate the 11 percent sales tax on building materials," he said.

"As well, a capital gains tax on certain land profits should help control exorbitant land prices, while the minister must announce positive incentives to encourage investment by private institutions into the field of housing."

"For example, at present pension fund holdings play little part, if any, in financing housing. Mr. Benson should act now to change this situation."

Mr. Grafftey described the Hellyer task force as "primarily a delay tactic."

"While Mr. Hellyer's task force wends its way across Canada, the Government already has enough information on which to act," he claimed.

'I was gouged' on thruway

KNOWLTON — (Staff) — Murray Irwin, Knowlton, said "I was gouged on the New York Thruway."

Mr. Irwin was on his way to Poughkeepsie Thanksgiving Day, when he had a bit of trouble with his car's distributor. The breakdown occurred at 10 a.m., and the tow truck arrived on the scene at 1:30 p.m. The Irwins were towed back to Albany where the garage owner gave thanks.

The problem was that of the sheer pin in the distributor performing its function. Cost of the pin, 20 cents.

The invoice from Northway Motors, 2022 Central Avenue,

Albany, reads: parts, $22.30, towing $22.50, labour $25, oil $2.25 and tax $2.92, for a total of $74.97.

Mr. Irwin said they were forced to stay overnight at the garage when he said that he could not obtain the part. Mr. Irwin's car is a popular model manufactured by one of "the big three."

"They'd have hooked me for a starter as well," said Mr. Irwin, "except that I got to the garage in time to prevent them from tearing that apart." Mr. Irwin maintained that an ordinary finishing nail could have been adapted to replace the sheer pin, but the garage would not go along with the suggestion.

Jog in Comfort

If you're jogging—and just about everybody is these days—here's a special comfort tip for you from track stars. Under your jogging tights and inside your sneakers lavishly dust super-absorbent baby powder. The powder will keep your clothing from sticking and your feet from burning.

Creamed Cologne Lasts

If you find that the scent of the cologne you use vanishes too quickly, try the same fragrance in a solid or cream version. The alcohol that is contained in most perfumes tends to evaporate and with it the fragrance while the consistency of a cream retains it much longer.

New York faces greatest municipal labor crisis in its history

NEW YORK (AP) — North America's largest city today faced the greatest municipal labor crisis in its history.

Its 1,100,000 pupil public school system was paralysed by a teachers' strike, its police patrolmen were engaged in a work slowdown and its firemen were set for their own slowdown.

Mayor John V. Lindsay again called Monday on the teachers' union to end its walkout "for the sake of the city," and told the uniformed services he would not bow to their wage demands.

But if the firemen go through with their slowdown, nearly 90,000 city employees will be engaged in either strikes or job action against the administration by Wednesday.

Lindsay said he would "stand firm" on either agreements with the police and firemen, saying that to reopen negotiations would set off a chain reaction among city employees and produce "complete anarchy in labor relations."

Police officials said 2,049 of the 23,000 members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association called in sick Monday while those who reported for work continued to bypass traffic offenders and perform "by the book."

ALSO REJECT OFFER

The 10,500-member Uniformed Firefighters Association also voted to reject the city's contract offer and said that firemen would stop performing non-emergency duties Wednesday.

Rejecting the mayor's plea for a school truce, Albert Shanker, president of the 55,000-member United Federation of Teachers, said the strike would continue until the local board, administrator and principals in a Brooklyn experimental school district are removed.

The walkout, which has already cost 17 of 28 schools days from the fall term, stems from the ouster of 80 white teachers in the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill-Brownsville district.

A group of parents and striking teachers sought signatures on petitions asking Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to remove Lindsay from office. The governor is empowered to do so on charges and after a hearing. About 3,000 off-duty policemen who picketed outside Lindsay's City Hall office shouting "Lindsay must go!"

The policemen have rejected a contract offer that would have raised a patrolman's annual base wage of $9,383 to $10,759 over a two-year period.

Tokyo riots lead to mass arrests

TOKYO (AP) — Nearly 1,000 students were arrested and at least 150 persons injured Monday in a wild nationwide series of anti-war riots and demonstrations.

A four-hour rampage at Tokyo's Shinjuku railway station prompted authorities to invoke an anti-riot law for the first time in 16 years. The law provides for imprisonment up to 10 years.

The major labor unions claimed 800,000 persons took part in some 600 demonstrations.

Much of Tokyo's Shinjuku station was a shambles after 6,000 students attacked it. The station is a key link between suburban and central lines, and thousands of commuters were delayed as workers tried to clear away debris.

The students used heavy logs to batter down 10-foot-high steel walls that police had put up around the station Sunday.

BURN A BUS
A bus was burned in front of the station.

Some 3,000 riot police fired tear gas at the rock-throwing, stick-wielding students.

Moves blamed on poor housing conditions

TORONTO (CP) — Poor housing conditions in Newfoundland are to blame for residents moving to other parts of Canada, the Canadian Conference on Housing was told Monday.

Albert Vivian, chairman of the Newfoundland and Labrador Housing Corp., told delegates that "you could have another half million people on your hands whether you like it or not."

He said young persons are moving inland from the 1,000 coastal villages, and eventually out of the province because of the housing conditions.

He was one of many officials from 10 provinces who took part in a panel discussion at the second day of the four-day conference.

M. W. Sturby, director of housing and urban renewal for Saskatchewan, told the panel it's time subsidized home ownership stopped being a "dirty word."

He suggested a national plan comparable with that instituted in Northern Saskatchewan for Indians three years ago.

Under the scheme, Indians can purchase homes for as little as $17 a month over 20 years, he said, and down payments on $8,000 homes are about five per cent of the value.

The federal housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., assumes 75 per cent of the program and the province the rest, he said.

A SHORT STORY!

Not a story in the usual sense... nevertheless, it's one we think is of interest to you.

Our story is about A&P's short-cut, prime Ribs of Beef, and the fact that we remove the excess Short Ribs and sell them separately at the lower Short Rib price. We never tuck them under and charge the Rib Roast price.

That's not all, though.

We remove the excess wasteful chine bone.

For easier carving, we remove the back-strap, too.

As a matter of fact, on an average four-rib roast we trim up to 1½ lbs. of excess fat and bone.

At Rib Roast prices, that adds up.

Another thing that keeps you from being short-changed on value:

We buy only No. 1 Grade, choice Red Brand Beef.

A&P Rib Roasts are cut from the first four ribs only...

and there's no extra charge for the first two ribs.

Our short story even has a happy ending...

your family will enjoy every morsel.

That's guaranteed...or your money back.

A spectacle of color is provided by designer Desmond Heeley in Act II, Scene 1 of the National Ballet of Canada's new production of SWAN LAKE, choreographed by Erik Bruhn, to appear at the University of Sherbrooke, November 11.

Bruhn's Swan Lake will be held at U of S in early November

Are the great classics of ballet, the Swan Lakes, the Sleeping Beauties, to be treated as museum exhibits, bearing big signs that warn "Do Not Touch"?

Many leaders in the ballet world do not agree — and they include Erik Bruhn, greatest dancer of his day.

When Bruhn began, two years ago, to create a production of the complete Swan Lake for the National Ballet of Canada, it was with the avowed attention of sweeping away decades of cobwebs, of removing the boredom.

Bruhn's Swan Lake, magnificently set and costumed by Tony Award winner Desmond Heeley, did what the choreographer had vowed to do. Nearly all the dances were new. The music was different from that of the traditional Swan Lake — partly to remove interpolations from Drigo and others, and by dancers who found Tchaikovsky too difficult! Even the story of the ballet was drastically altered.

Traditionalists screamed "Murder!" and "Treason!" Just as many spectators blessed Bruhn for rejuvenating a great work that had begun to suffer from hardening of the arteries.

There were no riots in the theatre, like those that accompanied the premiere of Nijinsky's ballet to Stravinsky's Rite of Spring; but certainly the intermissions buzzed with controversy as they seldom have in Canada.

And it is this controversial, magnificent Swan Lake that the National Ballet will offer at the University of Sherbrooke auditorium theatre November 11, starting at 8:30 p.m., sponsored by the Sherbrooke-Lennoxville Chapter of National Ballet Guild.

The most obvious changes in this clean-white Swan Lake are those made by Bruhn the storyteller. Incredible of the cardboard prince conceived by Marius Petipa, he devised a much more subtle character — a Hamlet-like individual moving from adolescence to manhood, and unwilling to accept the responsibilities that his new state demands. As a change from the usual bogey-man von Rothbart, Bruhn created the malevolent Black Queen, whose desire for vengeance is more cosmic than that in the original fairy-tale. Re-stated in those terms, Swan Lake leaves its main dilemma to the judgment of the audience: are the Swan Queen and the Black Swan two creatures, or two manifestations of the same creature?

Choreographically, Bruhn's Swan Lake is new — except for certain passages in the first "white" scene (Act 2 in the traditional ballet and Scene 2 of Act 1 in Bruhn's re-staging in two acts, a re-staging that emphasizes the contrast between the reality of the castle scenes and the fantasy of the lake scenes.)

To a modern audience, it may seem hard to believe that Tchaikovsky's music was ever deemed too difficult and "modern" to dance to. However, that was indeed the opinion of the first Swan Queen, Pelagia Karpakova, in 1877; and it led her to substitute music she found easier and prettier. This degradation led to more substitutions; and only by going back to the original scores of Tchaikovsky was Bruhn able to come close to the original composer's original intentions. Audiences are constantly surprised to find, for example, that the warhorse music of the famous Black Swan pas de deux has disappeared — only to be replaced with music infinitely more lyrical and beautiful.

As for the choreography, ask any dancer in the National Ballet about the pitfalls, the technical demands, of Bruhn's dances. Infinitely musical, Bruhn has often worked against the beat of Tchaikovsky's melodic thread, to produce such wonders as the Waltz (actually a grand pas de deux) in Scene 1; the Neapolitan Dance of Scene 3; the melancholy beauty of the Prince's "soliloquy" in Scene 1; and the un-circus but well-nigh impossible fireworks of the new Black Swan pas de deux.

Clive Barnes, ballet pundit of The New York Times, did not agree with every aspect of Bruhn's vision; but he did call the National Ballet's production "the most beautiful Swan Lake in the world."

Defense costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence spending shot up $114,000,000 in the last fiscal year to $1,754,000,000.

This is just $5,000,000 under the post-war high of 1956-57.

And no relief appears in sight despite original government arguments that unification of the armed forces would save $100,000,000 a year for five years in a row, or a total of $500,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Olney entertained at a small supper party on Oct. 10 on the occasion of Mrs. B. F. Olney's birthday. She was laid to rest, as she had requested, beside her second husband, George Henderson, in the family plot in Chapel Cemetery, Lower Ireland.

Type of broadcasting is too expensive now

MONTREAL (CP) — Direct satellite-to-home television broadcasting, even if technically feasible, is too expensive at this time, says W. E. Jaynes, director of engineering at station CHCH-TV in Hamilton, Ont.

Mr. Jaynes told the engineering group of the Central Canada Broadcasters' Association that such a satellite—designed to cover the smallest practical area, about 700,000 square miles—would cost $51,000,000.

In a paper presented Monday to the engineers, Mr. Jaynes said the cost of the satellite is based on an optimistic estimate of a 10-year life span.

In addition, amortization costs each year would run to $5,250,000.

Mr. Jaynes said that since Canada already has more than 90-per-cent television coverage through regional service, there would be no practical application of such a satellite in a technical sense.

It would be practical only for countries where sophisticated television transmission facilities do not exist.

He said in an interview a direct satellite is designed for transmission of signals into homes without other ground relays. Canada would not benefit from direct broadcasting satellites, but soon would use distribution-type satellites which would convey signals to existing ground stations for transmission to television sets.

PLUGS AUTOMATION

Earlier, Jerry Bassett, broadcast sales manager for Schafer Electronics of Chatsworth, Calif., told a seminar that automation eventually will play a primary role in almost all radio stations in North America.

It was entirely feasible to use only one man at a radio station to create programming. "It eliminates the need for a man to sit at a console board playing records and frees him for more creative and productive work."

A radio station could become automated for $10,000 to $12,000 "and could become computerized at an additional cost of $20,000 to $25,000."

He said one group controlling two U.S. radio stations had $55,000 worth of automation equipment and is "rumored" to be grossing $5,000,000 a year. All programs were taped and there was not "one live word" on the air.

Broadcasting is call for involvement now

MONTREAL (CP) — Broadcasting is a call "to be involved in society and with people" in an era of growing depersonalization, Msgr. Hugh Michael Beahan, manager of an FM radio station in Grand Rapids, Mich., said today.

"You are moulding a whole people and you are responsible," he said in a speech to the joint annual meeting of the Canadian Broadcast Executives' Society and the Central Canada Broadcasters' Association.

"You are supposed to be all things to all men, and still run a business."

Msgr. Beahan said in this age of depersonalization—zip codes and credit cards, for example—people tend to be looked on as numbers.

But broadcasters had moved from the age of the simple crystal set to the "most complicated electronic medium in the world" to establish "a personal relationship" with listeners.

The Roman Catholic priest urged broadcasters to accept their field not only as a business but also as a vocation.

PROVIDE IMMEDIACY

Broadcasters were "most influential," powerful social forces that provided a sense of immediacy to millions of people.

"People want to see and hear things happen" on their radios and televisions, Msgr. Beahan said. "With apologies to the press, they don't want to know what has happened" in the past.

People relied on newspapers for background and in-depth reporting on immediacy. Msgr.—Beahan said he hopes broadcasters are aware of their tremendous influence in handling advertisements.

"In advertising, we have a most successful art. We have conditioned whole countries."

"We have also lost a certain degree of our taste. We talk about things in our living rooms that previously were heard only in a doctor's office."

Msgr. Beahan's FM station, WXTO, is operated by the church.

Final party in series held by Brookbury WI

BROOKBURY — The last of a series of three successful card parties was held in the Brookbury Community Hall on Oct. 5, when cards were played at 15 tables.

Prize winners were Mrs. A. Lancaster, Mrs. Stuart Dougherty, Mrs. Flossie Beaton, Alex Lancaster, Robert Grey and Leslie McKay.

The grand prize for the highest score during the series went to Ralph Betts, Bishopston and the lowest score to Mrs. Lewis McHarg.

Members of the Brookbury Women's Institute wish to extend their gratitude to the many who came to support them.

Sherbrooke on behalf of the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, and Real Poirier, secretary-treasurer of the Customs and Excise Union, who presented Mr. Smith with a life membership. Back row,

Co-workers honor Magog man on retirement after 40 years

FITCH BAY — Ridgewood Inn was on Oct. 6 the gathering place of co-workers, business associates and friends of Robert W. Smith, of Magog, who has retired after 40 years with the Customs Department.

At the time of his retirement he was Collector of Customs at the Magog office.

The tables were decorated with autumn leaves, and following a cocktail hour, dinner was served. John Silvester, of the Customs and Excise Union, Quebec's West Councillor, was master of ceremonies and added to the program with his usual joviality.

E. J. Struthers said the Grace before the dinner and Mr. Silvester proposed the toast to the Queen. Mr. Silvester also introduced the guests: Mrs. Robert Smith, Mr. Noel, District Collector of Customs and Mrs. Noel, Sherbrooke. Louis Sergeant, present Collector of Customs, Magog, who has been promoted to the position vacant through Mr. Smith's retirement and Mrs. Sergeant, Magog; Henry Routhier, Collector of Customs, Rock Island; E. J. Struthers, retired Collector of Customs, Rock Island; Wilfred Dumoulin, retired superintendent of Customs, Rock Island, and Mrs. Dumoulin, both from Beebe; Mr. Smith's sister, Edna, Mrs. Heman Wing and Mr. Wing, Waterloo, and others from Waterloo, Beebe, Georgeville, Richmond, Rock Island, Stanstead, Melrose, Mass., Sherbrooke, Magog, New Jersey and Melbourne.

Mr. Silvester read three poems during the program. Death of an Employee, which was extremely humorous, Ain't it the Truth and Value of a Smile, an unsung motto of the Customs men and women.

Mr. Noel, on behalf of the Deputy Minister of National Revenue, read a framed scroll, which he presented to Mr. Smith.

Real Poirier, secretary-treasurer of the Customs and Excise Union, presented Mr. Smith with a life membership. Mr. Silvester, in his remarks said "that Bob had been a prime mover of the Customs and Excise Association, which became unionized on March 13, 1967. He said that, "Bob had through the past 20 years held many of the Association offices and done a good job."

Mr. Routhier, Mr. Dumoulin, and Henry Woolleton, the latter Customs Broker from Sherbrooke, all extended wishes for good health and a happy retirement to Mr. Smith and his wife. Mr. Struthers, the main speaker, referred back to the days when he came from Noyon to Rock Island as Collector of Customs, remarking that in those days alcoholic beverages were being smuggled from Canada into the United States during prohibition days, now it's the reverse because of the prolonged Quebec liquor strike. Mr. Struthers said it is pleasing to see so many at the testimonial dinner from various spheres of industry and mentioned how many young men had started out their Civil Service careers at the Rock Island port, later promoted to higher levels of service across Canada and abroad. He recited a few humorous incidents of Customs work, some pertaining to Mr. Smith.

Mr. Silvester gave a few statistics of the Eastern Townships and the Montreal Customs and Excise Union since it started a few years ago.

Mr. Sergeant, speaking on behalf of the Magog office, where Mr. Smith has been since 1953 extended good wishes to the guest of honor and on behalf of the group and others unable to attend, presented him with a Mr. and Mrs. matched set of luggage. He further paid tribute to his former boss, Mrs. Smith was wearing a red and white carnation corsage, presented to her by Mrs. John Silvester.

Mr. Smith, in his remarks of appreciation, said it was August 1, 1928, that he took his oath at the Beebe office from Mr. Struthers and he noted, "there has been a lot of water

Today's hand has been developed from another Card School question. They ask, "What do you respond with the South hand?"

Lots of players will reply one spade. If asked why, they say, "To keep the bidding low."

They would succeed in that purpose admirably. North would rebid either one no-trump or two hearts; South would bid three clubs; North would have no idea that South held more clubs than spades and the bidding would die at three no-trump. South would make at least 10 tricks but there would be no slam bonus awarded.

The bidding in the box shows what would probably happen after South makes the correct response of two clubs. He would get to six clubs and would make it with careful play and without taking any finesse.

There are several ways to make the contract but the most elegant and the surest is for South to win the opening heart lead and plan to ruff out two spades.

Since there will be entry problems to his own hand, he should play one high trump and cash dummy's ace and king of diamonds for tricks two, three and four. If someone ruffs the second diamond, South decides it is not his day and pays off. Then he cashes his ace and king of spades. Spades go twice and his worries are over. He ruffs a spade in dummy, a diamond in his hand, his last spade in dummy and claims his contract. He will have to lose a heart but you can afford to lose one trick when you have contracted for 12.

Getting back to the bidding, you should learn to bid as normally as possible with big hands. South holds a sound opening bid and should start proceedings by bidding his longest suit.

Rock Island has few accidents

BOUNDARY — (Special) — The Rock Island - Stanstead police report a very busy Thanksgiving weekend at the Boundary Villages, but no major accidents over the three day holiday.

At the Derby Line United States customs port, from Friday midnight until Monday mid-nights there were 5,887 cars entered from Canada with 16,955 people. Of these 70 per cent were Canadians, mostly going to the States for a 48 hour visit, or motoring through the New England States to view the glorious autumn foliage.

Visitors on a 48 hour visit, if they were not on a previous exemption, were able each to bring in purchases of $25, duty free.

A large majority returned to Canada, via Rock Island port, on Monday, the Canadian Thanksgiving Day.

NATO tries to beef up its defenses, and still make friends

BRUSSELS (AP) — Surprised and worried by the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization now is trying to do two things at once: Strengthen its defenses and still make friends with the Soviet bloc.

Even if neither of the two efforts gets far, NATO's main job will be done if it can just go on existing as the symbol and the machinery that link the defence of North American and Western Europe.

It now seems likely to be able to do at least that.

Next year is the 20th for the alliance. And for the first time, any of the 15 members can pull out if it wants to. There had been some fear that President de Gaulle, who has pulled France out of the NATO military structure, would decide to withdraw from the pact altogether. Others might have followed.

After Czechoslovakia such withdrawals seem less likely. Whether defences actually will be strengthened depends on the extent that member governments keep their most recent pledges, which would cost them billions of dollars.

To emphasize urgency, NATO foreign ministers have decided to hold their semi-annual meeting in mid-November instead of mid-December.

The main European pledge is to bring manpower, equipment and training of forces up to and training of forces up to NATO standards. As a result of this and other promises it is expected that, among other things: —West Germany will flesh out its understrength divisions.

—Britain and Belgium will reverse decisions to pull some of their troops out of West Germany.

—The United States will bring back for winter exercises only the bulk of the 35,000 men it has taken out of West Germany in recent months.

Americans have been urging Europeans to move closer together, toward a kind of west European defence community that would include Britain and France as well as West Germany and smaller West European countries. Hopes are few: De Gaulle shows no willingness to deal with Britain on such matters, and the West Germans are unwilling to cross him.

The 15 - member government including France, agree that the danger from the Soviet Union has increased since the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Nevertheless, the NATO countries intend to keep plugging for better relations

French Canadians are excluded from echelons of big business

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism has established, in the third volume of its report, that French-speaking Canadians are virtually excluded from the upper echelons of big business.

The Montreal daily says it obtained copies of documents making up the report's third volume, dealing with the economic aspect of bilingualism and biculturalism, which is to be published within a year.

One of the main conclusions is that French-Canadian industry in Quebec does not measure up to other industry in terms of productivity, markets or wages. French-Canadian industry was generally of small size and low productivity, operating "traditional" enterprises such as sawmills and tanneries rather than modern processing plants. It paid low wages and marketed its products on a local, or at best a provincial, scale.

In contrast, English-Canadian or American-owned industry was generally a large-scale operation, paying high wages because of high productivity and a large export volume.

In terms of productivity, a worker in a French-Canadian plant produced $6,500 a year compared with $8,400 in an English-Canadian plant and $12,200 in a foreign-owned plant.

La Presse says the report concludes that bilingualism is a one-way street in secondary industry. The working language is generally English in the highest levels of administration and technical services, and French-speaking Canadians become fewer and fewer as one moves higher up the executive ladder, even in French-language firms outside metropolitan areas.

La Presse says members of the royal commission now are drafting recommendations based on the conclusions reached in the third volume of their report.

Irish book hails Quebec's cultural distinction

DUBLIN (CP) — From offices near the official starting point of Ireland's 1916 rebellion, a Dublin publishing company has launched a new Irish-language book hailing Quebec's success in remaining a culturally-distinct community.

Admiration for the French-Canadian achievement is substantial among champions of the Irish language, a major Gaelic branch of the Celtic linguistic group.

The admiration is reflected in the book's title, which can be translated as The Unconquerable Soul of Quebec. In Gaelic it is Anam do-chloite Quebec.

A blue fleur-de-lis and a red maple leaf flash from the cover of the new paperback, published by a firm where officials—including at least one former member of the Irish Republican Army—conduct business in their country's native tongue.

While saluting Quebec's powers of cultural survival, the book argues that the French-Canadian community would do well, economically and in other ways, to stick with Canada.

Author Fionntann Mac Aodha Bhui—Fintain MacEvoy in English—predicts that separation would mean eventual merger of English-speaking Canada with the United States.

He believes too that Quebec brings to Confederation a diversity essential to the union's continued existence, and that French-Canadians must be treated accordingly by Ottawa.

SKETCHES HISTORY

The author, an architect by profession, lives in the Cork area on Ireland's south coast.

His book sketches Quebec's history from early exploration to the present day, and reflects wide reading on Canadian affairs.

It broaches a variety of Canadian topics connected with survival of the French language in North America—a subject to which the writer brings strong feelings based on personal experience as a campaigner for Irish-speaking residents of his own homeland.

He clashed this year with authorities at a court hearing who voiced the plea:

"If you would only speak English, everything would be much easier for all of us."

But Mac Aodha Bhui—calling him MacEvoy would be to speak of another person, one acquaintance said—stuck to speaking Irish on grounds that it is the republic's primary official language.

The officials finally succumbed, even though English, besides being officially recognized, is the predominant tongue among contemporary Irishmen.

The writer reared his own children in Irish and became interested in Canada after reading an Irish-language article about pioneer explorations of the New World.

USE INCREASING

Others who share his linguistic faith say use of Irish in their country's daily affairs has been on the increase since the Second World War.

Among those expressing this view are officials at the firm behind the new book, where the company name, usually abbreviated to the initials FNT, can be translated as National Publications Ltd.

FNT was founded as a limited-liability enterprise in 1947 by men who had participated in an organization called The Generation of Victory.

Besides issuing books, the company publishes a weekly newspaper called Inniu—in English, Today—which provides Irish-language reports and comments on world news. Its editors consider the paper, with a circulation of 20,000, living proof that Irish is a language sufficiently vital to accommodate ideas about the contemporary world.

Tarlach O'Huid, a company editor who saw the new Quebec book through the presses, said in an interview that Inniu is Ireland's only Irish-language newspaper.

O'Huid, 51, was interned by British authorities during the war for IRA activities in Northern Ireland.

He quit the legendary rebel force after concluding that extremist violence would only strengthen the border which divides the north, a part of the United Kingdom, from the independent, republican south.

MADE THINGS TOUGH

As an IRA man, O'Huid ran a secret radio station, broadcasting anti-British declarations from a makeshift studio in the bathroom of his home.

Once interned, he and fellow rebels made things tough for their British captors, staging hunger strikes and other protest demonstrations.

O'Huid now favors attempts at reconciliation between the mainly Roman Catholic south and the officially Protestant north.

ARRESTED IN LONDON — John Lennon of the Beatles and his Japanese girl friend, Yoko Ono, were arrested in London on drug charges. The Soviet Union behind walls of suspicion

The Associated Press World Spotlight views the forthcoming Soviet October Revolution anniversary, with an analysis by William L. Ryan.

As the Communist party prepares for the October Revolution anniversary, internal and external events appear to have contributed to a new isolation of the Soviet Union behind walls of hostility and suspicion.

By making the Czechoslovak occupation permanent, Moscow has accomplished a policy goal which establishes a military barrier against the West extending from the Baltic Sea to the borders of Austria. But this has been purchased at a high cost. Europe has been frightened. The North Atlantic allies have been alerted to a need for examining their posture.

In the Communist movement, many who had been Moscow's obedient followers now see their own political fortunes damaged by Soviet politics.

Almost 52 years since the rule of Czar Nicholas II was ended, Russian authorities still feel obliged to use exile to Siberia as punishment for the expression of unauthorized views.

THREATS NECESSARY

The Soviet-model system imposed on East Europe 25 years ago can be kept secure only by threat of military intervention. Behind a curtain of obscure ideology, Moscow enunciated a new "law" Sept. 26 under which the Soviet Union has the right to intervene in other nations if socialism is endangered. Only Moscow judges the danger. It deemed socialism endangered in Czechoslovakia. At any time socialism might be endangered in Yugoslavia or Romania.

Europe notes with apprehension that the new doctrine implies that "laws of Socialist development" supersede international law.

Only recently the Soviet Union declared it had the right to intervene with force in West Germany.

The new doctrine of intervention and recent trials of Soviet intellectuals for expressing dissent seem all part of the same pattern, an effort once again to seal off the Soviet Union, and with it all countries ruled by Communists, from any contaminating contact with the West.

There had been talk, even in spite of the Czechoslovak events, of progress toward some sort of East-West detente. But now the dour and belligerently defensive attitude of the Soviet party suggests a sharp setback for those hopes.

Strategic bomber most devastating weapon in Vietnam's guerrilla war

SAIGON (AP) — It is one of the ironies of Vietnam's guerrilla war that the most devastating weapon now being used probably is the strategic bomber.

When the big B-52 Stratofortresses started bombing Viet Cong jungle sanctuaries in June, 1965, even the ground soldiers were skeptical.

There was something unreal in the idea that a sophisticated nuclear bomber six miles up could be effective against guerrillas lurking in jungles.

Now the American commander in South Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams, views the Stratofortresses as among the principal weapons in this arsenal.

Abrams credits the big bombers, which carry a 60,000-pound bomb load, with a decisive role in lifting the siege at Khe Sanh early this year. Similarly, when the Communist command was attempting to manoeuvre troops into place for a second strike at Saigon in July and August the bombers got much credit for grinding down the North Vietnamese - Viet Cong effectiveness.

PLANE ATTACKS

On some days the air force has put as many as 60 Stratofortresses over Vietnam. That is a bomb load of 2,500,000 pounds in one 24-hour period.

Much of this has little direct military effect. Frequently the guerrilla is gone when the bombs fall. As many infantry officers say, however, "when the B-52s are on target, they're terrific."

Only a few of the B-52 raids have been in North Vietnam where big Soviet-made SAM missiles pose a threat.

In these raids about 12 SAMs were fired at the Stratofortresses and all missed by a wide margin, diverted by sophisticated electronic defences carried by the big bombers.

The bombing campaign in Vietnam has tied up about one-sixth of the Strategic Air Command's B-52 fleet.

CAN CHANGE TARGETS

The eight-engine bombers winging toward Vietnam at 650 miles an hour can be redirected at any time.

A fantastic array of radar and communications equipment dotted over Vietnam can direct the bombers anywhere in the country — and in much of North Vietnam and in Laos.

Five of the $8,000,000 B-52s have been lost in crashes, but none has been shot down.

Since the bombing began, about 775,000 tons of bombs have been dropped, at an estimated cost of $1,500,000. That is about $3,000,000 a day.

ond-largest French-speaking city, at 38.

The reform mayor, heaved from office by the voters, came back to win the biggest victory in Montreal history, then helped transform the face of the city of 2,500,000 which he regards as a hyphen between the New and Old worlds.

The life-long French-Canadian nationalist instructed the most formidable Frenchman of them all, Charles de Gaulle, on the meaning of Frenchness in Canada and North America during the general's controversial 1967 visit.

The politician who began his public career in the unpopular Bloc Populaire anti-conscription party in wartime was created Companion of the Order of Canada, the country's highest civil decoration. And the politician once marked for oblivion by the Union Nationale in the bad old days is mentioned in some circles these days as a potential leader of the party. Liberals and Tories have wooed him, too.

A 15-mile subway whose trains glide on rubber tires, a new cultural centre, Place des Arts, a whole array of skyscrapers—these are some of the Montreal developments in the 11-year reign of Mr. Drapeau.

"Our subway has an art director—where else would you find an art director in a subway?" commented one citizen.

OFF AND RUNNING

Now Jean Drapeau is off and running again—still—as Montreal prepares to field Canada's first major league baseball team, the Expos, and at the same time presses its application for the 1976 Summer Olympics.

"He never gets more than four or five hours' sleep," said an aide. "He eats little and often skips a meal or two. He sometimes goes 24 hours without a meal. He can shut one door of his mind on a particular problem and relax by turning to others. He can sleep in a jiffy."

The mayor admitted he can count on only one meal a week, Sunday luncheon, with his complete family—his wife, Marie-Claire, and his sons, Pierre, 21, and Francois, 20, both law students, and Michel, 18, college student.

"We may discuss music, some great event—anything," he said.

The mayor often consults his father, Joseph-Napoleon Drapeau, 78, dean of city council and an insurance broker. With two sisters, he is the sole surviving son. His worst heartbreak was not in any political defeat but in the death of his mother when he was 20.

A crucifix and a picture of the Queen adorn Mr. Drapeau's office where he greeted a reporter with a cheery "Comment allez-vous?" but switched easily to English.

Almost mystical in his sense of mission for Montreal, Mr. Drapeau thinks big, talks big and his milieu is the millions. But he unexpectedly produced this $1 bit of economic philosophy:

"My own definition of prosperity is expressed in terms of the speed with which $1 changes hands. If in one day the same $1 changes hands 100 times, that makes 100 people happy. Perhaps it comes back to the first spender. But if the first keeps his dollar, there is no happiness and no prosperity."

MISSED SWINGER

To a suggestion that the advertising world missed a swinger when he turned to other pursuits, the mayor grinned:

"Ah, but you cannot succeed just by advertising a bad product... the product has to be good, and Montreal is good."

All French Canadians must be 'originals, not carbon copies'

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau has an abiding conviction that French-Canadians can fulfill their destiny only by being "originals, not carbon copies."

"It's by remaining original, faithful to our origins, that we can serve Canada best," says Montreal's fireball chief magistrate.

"I think Expo 67 proved it. Expo could have been a success anywhere in North America but it would not have been the Expo that took place here last year.

"There were enough French-Canadians in the making of Expo to make it different. It wouldn't have happened that way anywhere else on this continent."

The 1964 New York World's Fair and this year's San Antonio HemisFair were comparative flops despite vast money resources, says Mr. Drapeau. The Montreal triumph asserted anew the grand old cry: Vive la difference!

Certainly the genial 52-year-old lawyer-mayor, whose horn-rimmed specs, moustache, bald pate and benevolent-owl appearance are the delight of cartoonists, will never himself be accused of being a carbon copy of anybody.

There may have been some flat spots, but the life of Jean Drapeau resembles the kind of kaleidoscope that could be viewed at Expo or at the so-called Son of Expo, the permanent summer fair Man and His World, which closed in mid-October. His life is also replete with paradox.

BECAME VICE-BUSTER

The one-time frail "rather timid little boy" became a vice-buster, daring underworld vengeance night and day for years. The lad with the inferiority complex grew up to father Expo.

The youth who dreamed of being a missionary and later aspired to a business career—though studying law—found himself mayor of Canada's biggest city, the world's sec-

Elaine Tanner resting for big bid

Chips down for Elaine Tanner in winner-take-all tonight

MEXICO CITY (CP) — The chips are down tonight for Elaine Tanner in the pressure-packed Olympics.

She has a little more than a minute to make and complete her play in a winner-take-all bid for fame.

The 17-year-old Vancouver-born swimmer, now living in Winnipeg, is the hottest woman backstroke in the Olympic pool.

She set a Games record for the second time within a week Tuesday in the women's 100-metre backstroke, then announced that tonight, her next time out, she will be after the world record.

Last week, Elaine lowered the Olympic backstroke mark of 1:07.7 for 100 metres to 1:07.6 in the opening leg of the 400-metre medley relay.

In two winning heat efforts Tuesday, she equaled the mark and lowered it again to 1:07.4. The final goes tonight. The world record, held by South Africa's Karen Muir, is 1:06.4.

ADDS MORE POINTS
The Canadian team hasn't a medal to show for its 10 days of competition, but it got a couple of more points in swimming Tuesday and now has a total of 16.

Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C., led all the qualifiers into today's 400-metre freestyle semi-finals and in women's diving Beverly Boys of Pickering, Ont., was in a good position for a medal off the high board.

Five gold medals were awarded Tuesday—three in swimming, one in shooting and one in fencing.

Debbie Meyer of the United States led an American sweep in the women's 200-metre freestyle in 2:10.5, the fifth U.S. sweep in the swims.

But Roland Matthes of East Germany, the world record-holder in the men's 100-metre backstroke, won his specialty in 58.7. Americans Charles Hickox and Ronald Molls, were second and third respectively.

But the surprise of the swimming meet was Felipe Munoz, 17, who won Mexico's first-ever swimming gold medal in the men's 200-metre breaststroke in 2:28.7, edging Russian world record-holder Vladimir Kosinsky. Brian Job, 16, an American, was third.

WON TWO BEFORE

It was only the host country's third gold medal in Olympic history and the first in these Games for Latin America.

Jim Shaw of Toronto was fifth behind Matthes in the backstroke, clocking 1:01.4. Shaw, 18, was six-tenths of a second off the third-place clocking of bronze winner Mills.

In the medal standing, the U.S. leads Russia in total medals 71-42 and in gold 29-14. France follows with seven gold, East Germany with five and Australia, Britain, Hungary and Japan with four apiece.

The Russians got their lone gold of the day when Evgeny Petrov won the skeet prize in a shoot-off with Romano Garagnani of Italy and Konrad Wirmhler of West Germany.

All had 198 of 200 at the end of the regular competition, but the Russian was 25 of 25 in the shoot-off, with Garagnani second and Wirmhler third.

Don Sanderlin of Edmonton took 15th place in a field of 52 with a score of 191 and Harry Willis of Westmount, Que., was 37th with 181.

UPSETS RUSSIAN CHAMP

Gyozo Kulcsar of Hungary upset Russia's defending champion, Grigory Kriss, to win the men's individual epee fencing gold. Gianluigi Saccaro of Italy was third.

The United States advanced to the final against Yugoslavia by beating Brazil 75-63 in the other semi-final.

The U.S. has won eight straight in the tournament including a preliminary 73-58 win over Yugoslavia. The Americans have won 74 in a row since the sport was introduced into the 1932 Games.

In diving, Czechoslovakia's Milena Duhkova led today's final with 55.25 points for four compulsory dives.

Miss Boys, the Canadian specialist in the tower, easily qualified and was in fourth place with 53.20 points. Nancy Robertson, Vancouver, in ninth place, also reached the final.

But Canada's last chance for boxing medal evaporated when Donato Paduano of Montreal dropped a decision to Argentina's Mario Guilloti. Three Canadians were eliminated earlier.

Beverly Boys in Olympic tower diving final today

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Beverly Boys, 17-year-old tomboy from Pickering, Ont., put everything on the line in one fantastic dive Tuesday night and it paid off with fourth place going into tonight's tower diving at the Olympic Games.

Nancy Robertson of Vancouver qualified in ninth place on solid, steady diving.

Miss Boys went through three obligatory dives in spectacular fashion then, in the one optional dive of the night and the last on the card, she roared off the 10-metre tower in a 1½ somersault with a triple twist.

The dive is one done only by Bev and Lesley Bush of the United States and it carries a 2.9 degree of difficulty making it one of the toughest dives attempted.

A perfect score would have been 29 and she received 22.04—the top score of the night.

"We had to declare our dives ahead of time," coach Don Webb said. "We decided to try this one as the optional. If she was behind, this could bring her up. If she was diving well, we would qualify high for the final."

Points from Tuesday's eliminations carry on to tonight's final event which consists of one compulsory dive and two optionals.

HAS A CHANCE
"You know something? We've got a shot at it all," Webb said.

He admitted, however, that Bev has shot her best dive—rules prohibit trying a dive more than once—and now must be content with an inward 2½ somersault with a 2.3 degree of difficulty and a forward 2½ pike which rates 2.2.

Some of her competitors have higher-rated dives still available for use.

Bev got 8.48 points for her first dive. On her second, a simple reverse, she picked up 12.80 points and on her third, an inward dive, 10.08. She had a total of 53.20 points to take into tonight's competition.

She is only 2.05 points behind Milena Duhkova of Czechoslovakia, in first place. In second, 2.04 points ahead of Bev, is Natalia Lobanova of Russia.

Beavers lose 5-2, Vics surprise Tigers

ST. HYACINTHE — Sherbrooke Beavers ran into their old jinx again here last evening and came out on the short end of a 5-2 count in a hard-fought battle of the Quebec Provincial Senior Hockey League. In the other tilt on the agenda in Victoriaville the Granby Vics fought to a 3-3 stalemate with the Tigers.

The loss for the Beavers was their fourth straight and are now alone in the cellar as Granby, by virtue of their tie, moved into fifth spot in the standing. St. Hyacinthe caused a three-way tie with Chicoutimi and Ottawa Nationals all with six points.

Coach Cline made his initial appearance of the season here last evening and played on a line with Gaston Bouchard and Yvon Lacoste and for his first appearance turned in a fine job. He has been working out with the Beavers and obtained his reinstatement last week.

It was the Gauls' second straight victory over the Beavers as on their last visit to St. Hyacinthe the Sherbrooke squad came out on the short end of a 7-3 wallpating. The Beavers were down the whole way last evening and just couldn't overcome the Gauls.

The Beavers play their next match at the Sports Palace when they will be host to the Tigers of Victoriaville. In their first encounter the Tigers eked out a close 5-4 win with a big third period rally to chalk up the decision.

Following Thursday's tilt the Beavers journey to Chicoutimi for a Friday evening tilt and will return to the Sports Palace Sunday night when the Saguenéens will be paying their first visit of the season to Sherbrooke. The tilt was a hard - hitting battle and in the final frame it broke wide-open just before the end of the game. Guy Rousseau opened the scoring when both teams had a player in the sinbin. Gaston Bouchard was serving his second infraction of the period at the time while Y. Cournoyer was the St. Hyacinthe players.

Maybury made it 2-0 when he finished off a play with Rousseau and Pete Lambo. The period ended with Bouchard in the cooler for the third time. Five penalties were called in the frame.

In the second the Beavers opened with a drive and Jim Beckman potted Sherbrooke's first tally with Bob Eastman and Jean-Pierre Lafond helping out. Lambo got tagged and during his absence Bob Eastman squared the count just before the half-way mark.

The Beavers looked good at this stage as everyone was going all out but then they fell apart and poor play hurt them as the Gauls took command. Levesque and Paquette were in the cooler when Real Vics broke the deadlock and put the Gauls out in front 3-2.

Levesque's second trip was another costly affair although he went off with Rousseau the Gauls extended their lead to 4-2 when G. Paquette potted his marker. Jr. Langlois was the next in the cooler but his mates held on during his absence.

The third frame was a parade to the cooler as no less than a grand total of 16 penalties were called by referee Sonny Dugan. Eastman drew a minor, misconduct and a game misconduct for his talking while Cournoyer and Lafond were tagged with majors.

During this continuous march to the cooler the Gauls potted ed with the Gauls out in front 5-2.

VICS SURPRISE TIGERS

At Victoriaville it was a little different as only eight penalties were dished out including a misconduct to Gilles Bedard. It was the second game without a loss for the Vics under Gilles Bedard but now he will turn over the reins to Jean - Paul Gladu, the newly appointed coach of Granby.

put the Vics a little closer when he tallied just after the half-way mark. In the final frame Y. Larocque evened the count towards the end of the period on a pass from Houde.

The Vics drove a total of 31 shots at Mongeau and Morrisette while Chagnon had 46 blasted at him.

In the ten-minute overtime both clubs had good scoring chances but the goalies held their own turning them aside.

Bishop's College School drops 8-6 tilt to L.C.C. Juniors defeat Selwyn

Bishop's College School gridiron chargers were downed 8-6 by Lower Canada College Saturday in a closely fought struggle on the LCC field in Montreal. At Lennoxville on Saturday the BCS Junior Football squad defeated Selwyn House School 22-19 with majors coming from Don McCuaig, Bob Sewell and Eric Bagnall.

The LCC-BCS contest was played in driving rain, a factor which cut down the efficiency of both offenses. Slippery turf and a wet football made the game a virtual show of defenses.

Lower Canada College is reputed to be the finest high school football team in Montreal: a tribute to the defensive unit of the Purple and White. LCC opened the scoring on a pass-and-run play. Tom Iversen scored the major with the LCC offensive contingent making a two-point conversion attempt good.

BCS fought back but could not find the range until the fourth quarter. Pulling the statue of liberty play from twenty yards out, Pierre Beland scampered the distance for BCS's first major of the afternoon. The conversion attempt was no good and the LCC defense held on to take the contest 8-6.

The loss brought Bishop's seasonal record to three wins and a pair of losses. The Purple and White have two games remaining, one with Stanstead College and the other with Ashbury.

Molson Fishing Club sets deadline Oct. 31, large list of entries received MONTREAL — The closing date for entries in Molson 1968 Fishing Tournament has been set for Thursday, Oct. 31, announced Richmond Pelletier, general manager of the annual competition, yesterday.

All entry forms must be in the office in Montreal before Nov. 15, the deadline. Any received after that date will be refused. Entry forms received by Molson Fishing Club show a big increase over the past years. The mailing of Certificates of Merit has been delayed due to the great number of forms received, but the club hopes that participants will be patient, if they haven't received theirs yet.

An exceptional busy season is the reason why the monthly publication hasn't been sent. The club has extended its activities to other fields of outdoor sport such as hunting, shooting reunions and conventions of Outdoor Writers, Outfitters and Conservation Associations. Lake Megantic Fish and Game Club is leading their respective District F while Memphremagog Conservation is setting the pace in G District and Yamaska Conservation Association is leading in District H.

Gordie Howe signs two-year contract with Red Wings

Just when Oakland Seals create some excitement, Gordie Howe comes along and yanks them right out of the spotlight.

The Seals were a resounding failure last season when they made their debut in the National Hockey League. They finished last in the Western Division, and fans at Oakland stayed away.

But the Seals have arrived. They defeated Minnesota North Stars 3-2 Tuesday night to move into first place in the Western Division with their second win in a row.

It was the only action scheduled in the NHL Tuesday night, and it looked as if the Seals had stolen the show. Then, the word came that Howe had signed a new two-year contract with Detroit Red Wings.

The new contract gives Howe, a headliner in the NHL for more than 20 years, an increase in salary of at least 75 per cent. The 40-year-old right winger had started this season on the second year of a two-year contract.

Scoring for Oakland were George Swarbrick, Gary Jarrett and Gerry Odrowski. Claude Larose and Danny Grant, a couple of Montreal Canadian rejects, picked up Minnesota goals.

SCORES HIS FIRST

Swarbrick's goal, his first of the season, came at 15:59 of the final period and was the winner before a crowd of 9,548 at Minneapolis.

North Stars goalie Gary Bauman replaced starter Cesare Maniago after the first period because Maniago had a case of "nerves". Minnesota manager-coach Wren Blair said.

The victory gave the division-leading Seals five points, one more than Minnesota and St. Louis Blues.

Four interlocking games are listed on tonight's program. Montreal visits Los Angeles Kings, St. Louis plays the Maple Leafs at Toronto, Oakland faces the Rangers in New York and Chicago Black Hawks clash with the Penguins at Pittsburgh.

Howe had asked general manager Sid Abel of Detroit if his contract could be renegotiated because of the increased number of games in the NHL. The schedule jumped to 74 games from 70 last season and to 76 this year.

Howe also was offered a vice-presidency in Olympic Agencies Inc., by Red Wing president Bruce Norris. It is a corporate insurance company owned by Norris.

"Insurance arrangements have not been finalized, but I am very interested as I do not know how many more years I will be able to play," Howe said in an interview Tuesday night.

Blue Bombers meet WFC leaders this evening

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders are the targets for would-be giant-killers during the rest of the regular season in the Western Football Conference.

Holding down first place in the standings, the Riders play the clubs occupying the last three spots in the final games. And Calgary Stampedeers are pulling for the underdogs from their second-place position just one point behind the leaders.

First to have a crack at the leaders will be Winnipeg Blue Bombers, cellar-dwellers in the league. They meet tonight in the only WFC game scheduled.

Following the Winnipeg contest, Saskatchewan is scheduled for meetings with Edmonton Eskimos and British Columbia Lions.

"We are ready for tonight's game," said Bomber general manager Earl Lunsford. "We want to cut down our mistakes and play a real good game."

MISSING TWO STARS

The attempt will be made without the services of two strong links in the organization. End Mitch Zalnasky is out for the season and the formidable linebacker, Phil Minnick, is out for at least one more game.

The Bombers again plan to put fullback John Farler in Minnick's spot and the area will likely be explored by Saskatchewan's running game.

Winnipeg's most potent offense so far has come from the foot of Pierre Guindon who has kicked 13 field goals, 11 converts and four singles for a fifth-place tie in the WFC scoring race with Saskatchewan fullback George Reed.

Saskatchewan have a healthy club featuring Ron Lancaster at quarterback.

Coach Eagle Keys has placed Lance Fletcher on the 30-day injured list and will fill the position with Barry Aldag, former lineman with the junior Regina Rams.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

England's Reg Harris set a professional cycling record for one kilometre from a standing start 16 years ago today—in 1952—at Milan, Italy. His time of 68.6 seconds was beaten seven years later by S. A. Giardoni, in the amateur class, in 67 seconds flat.

Today's breakaway parties

Trouble with US politics is that it takes itself seriously

WASHINGTON (CP)—Among other things, the trouble with American politics today is that it takes itself too seriously.

Gone are the good old torch-light days of the Know-Nothings. And the Barnburners and the Bull Moosers and the Anti-Masons whose first candidate for president was a Mason.

Today's breakaway parties and splinter groups take ponderous, self-important titles—the Florida Conference of Concerned Democrats, the Coalition for a Republican Alternative.

The ghosts of politics past would not be amused. In those days they even had the great good humor to travel under the labels hurled in anger by their critics.

Take the Barnburners. The Encyclopedia Americana describes them as "the progressive faction of the Democratic party of New York" in the 1840s. If they were operating today they'd probably style themselves the Coalition for a Democratic Alternative or some such.

Actually their opponents christened them after a fuzzy-thinking farmer who burned down his barn to free it of rats.

NEVER DID MUCH

The Quids, a group disgruntled over President Thomas Jefferson's alleged backstairs influence over Congress in the early 1800s, were so dubbed by a scornful critic who called their leader "tertium quid"—Latin for nonentity. It turned out to be pretty apt since the Quids never amounted to much.

The Blue-Light Federalists' cause was opposition to the War of 1812 and they carried it to the extent of flashing blue lights to alert the British every time an American ship tried to escape from the blockaded port of New London, Conn.

Committee backs NB company

OTTAWA (CP)—A parliamentary committee today approved reinstatement of the charter for a New Brunswick peat moss company.

Atlantic Peat Moss Co. Ltd., which has been operating in Gloucester County, N.B., since 1945, was put out of business this year after failing for three years to file its annual financial statement with the secretary of state.

Denis Durocher, legal counsel for the firm, told the miscellaneous private bills committee that union troubles and financial difficulties had kept the management preoccupied with day-to-day administration. Accounting was handled by an outside party.

Deane Tundlock (PC—Lethbridge) sought an assurance that the accounting practices would be improved.

Mr. Durocher replied that the management had learned its lesson.

Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South) asked whether the company was to continue in business or merely wanted its charter restored so it could be sold.

Mr. Durocher said the company was making a profit now and wanted to continue in business. It had annual sales of nearly $1,000,000 in the United States and close to $100,000 in Canada.

The company's annual payroll is about $200,000 and wages about $2 an hour. The company provides seasonal work for 300 unskilled workers, many of them fishermen.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

More Medical Sleuthing Reveals Trouble Source

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Mr. X complained of pain on movement and tenderness on pressure over his left hip. There were no other complaints and all X-ray and laboratory findings were normal. Dr. C. T. Webby of Cincinnati was puzzled, but he didn't give up his search for hidden clues nor dismiss Mr. X as a hopeless neurotic. By careful and detailed questioning he learned that the trouble cleared up in about a week when Mr. X abstained from driving his car. In fact, the more time he spent behind the wheel the greater was the pain.

It was no good telling Mr. X to give up driving and there was still the question why he was free of the pain when he rode as a passenger. Dr. Webby went back over all the attending circumstances, like a Perry Mason trying to ferret out the real culprit. What he had to go on was one adult male operator of a modern automobile. Somewhere there had to be one more vital clue.

Could it be found in the fat wallet bulging with credit cards and lodge membership cards that Mr. X carried in his left hip pocket? Could it be that when Mr. X drove his car, slouching a bit to the left, the continuous pressure of the wallet on muscles and nerves was causing the challenges ever succeeded in putting a man in the White House. The current campaign of former Alabama governor George C. Wallace is the strongest since the Bull Moose party of 1912. His is the American Independent party.

Actually the Bull Moose movement was one of several Progressive parties through the years and got its nickname from its leader, Theodore Roosevelt, who delighted in saying he was "fit as a bull moose."

A former Republican president, he became disenchanted with his party's conservative elements and challenged the re-election of his successor, President William Howard Taft, in the 1912 presidential election. The upshot was that Roosevelt placed second and Taft third, with victory going to Democrat Woodrow Wilson, although he received only 42 per cent of the popular vote.

HENRY WALLACE RAN
In 1948, Henry Wallace (no relation to George) ran as a left-wing candidate of the Progressive party (no relation to the 1912 party) and picked up enough votes to damage but not upset Harry S. Truman's re-election bid.

The Anti-Masons originated in 1826 following the disappearance of a Batavia, N.Y., man who wrote a book allegedly disclosing the secrets of the Masonic Order. The Masons were blamed but the party's first presidential candidate was William Wirt of Maryland, a Mason.

The Know-Nothings of the mid-1800s, opposing immigration in the belief newcomers were responsible for increased crime, poverty and insanity, organized lodges complete with initiations, passwords and ritual.

Questioned about their society, members invariably replied: "We know nothing."

Actually they had remarkable success, electing five senators and 43 representatives to the 1855 Congress, two governors and numerous local candidates throughout Massachusetts.

A card party was planned for October 26 in the parish hall, with the proceeds going to UNICEF.

The St. James Christmas Sale was planned for Nov. 23, to be held in Parish Hall, when a salad tea will be served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Marsh on Nov. 14.

Since 1922 Canadian Tire has, time and time again, been the first to bring to Canadian motorists, at realistically low price, the very newest in material and tire design.

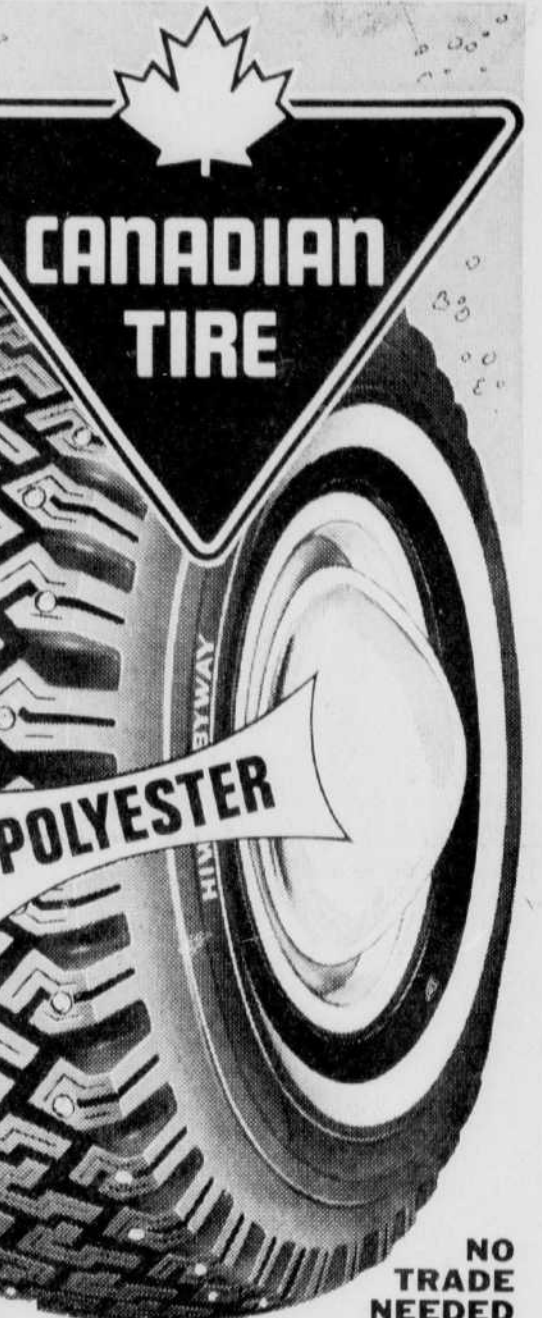

Even now we introduce glass-belted, 2D Polyester Cord Tires. The most revolutionary ever conceived by automobile and tire manufacturers. So good a tire, it will eventually replace all others.

Hence, looking into the future, we're concerned about a rather large tire inventory and manufacturer commitment of all Nylon and Polyester (non-glass belted) tires. So here they are offered at low, low prices for quick disposal... first come, first served.
