Thumb Nail Drawing. In collections centuries old, to be seen in both China and Japan, are specimens of the most remarkable drawings in the world, pictures of all kinds drawn with the thumb nail. The nails of the thumb on the left hand of the artists of these are allowed to grow to an enormous length, sometimes to a foot or 18 inches, and are then pared down to a pen shaped point.

It will take Chicago a long time to get accustomed to the sight of the Chicago river with real water in it.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle. St. Louis has never established a record for refusing gifts, but she would rather Chicago would keep her river to herself.—Kansas City Times. The Chicago river has been on the several times. Why not drain it to St. Louis and use it temporarily for illuminating purposes?—St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The death rate in Chicago was larger last week than for some time. Statistics do not show how many died from sorrow in parting with their old friend the river.—Chicago Record. Since the water in the Chicago river has begun to "flow up hill" into the drainage canal a marked purification of the stream has been noticed. It may be possible after awhile to eat Chicago drinking water without cooking it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Piano That Invites Investigation!

It's a good thing to read the kind things leading musicians may say of a Piano. But that shouldn't suffice. It ought not to disuade you from having the instrument opened up so that you can view its interior and verify the strong claims which the selling agent invariably makes. The Gerhard-Heintzman Piano invites investigation. Curiosity, here, is considered to be no crime.

COOKSHIRE WON. Lennoxville Defeated by a Score of 14 to 3.

Cookshire, Feb. 27—(Special)—Lennoxville Hockey Team came over here to play a match against our club Monday evening. Play began at 8.30, the teams being composed as follows:

Cookshire. Lennoxville. W. Woolley goal E. Bartring H. H. Goff point W. Carter M. Hud cover T. Crawford H. Parker forwards H. Scarth E. Bailey J. Gill W. Drennan H. Kennedy W. Learned A. Spafford J. Grant Umpires A. M. Taylor J. Hancock timekeepers S. Kennedy

The referee was E. Spafford. Within the first 2 minutes of the game Learned rushed the puck through the visitors' goal followed immediately by Drennan. Then followed some fast playing, Lennoxville trying hard to score a goal, but Learned scored the 3rd goal for the home team by a clever shot. The visitors then rallied and attempted to get a game, but Parker secured the puck and by a long shot scored the fourth goal for Cookshire. Gill putting in the first goal for Lennoxville five minutes later. At this point Scarth got hit accidentally on the nose by one of our sticks which caused a delay of several minutes. On play being resumed some clever passing ensued, in the course of which Bailey scored our fifth goal, followed in quick succession by Parker. Eight minutes after this Gill scored the 2nd goal for Lennoxville by a brilliant shot. Woolley then saved a splendid attempt on the part of the visitors. Parker then scored no. 7 for Cookshire, then Learned, who brought our score up to 8.

Half time, found Cookshire 8 and Lennoxville 2. In the second half Lennoxville scored their 3rd goal in half a minute, by Kennedy. Learned added a ninth to Cookshire's and after some fast play to and fro Goff secured number ten. Parker now made a pretty but unsuccessful shot. After this Lennoxville menaced Cookshire for some time Goff again shooting number four between their posts. Parker, Bailey and Learned then scored one more each; and so the victory rested with Cookshire by 14 to 3.

ONE OF GOUGH'S CLIMAXES.

A Peroration by Which He Thrilled His Hearers. Many and many a day ago, on the then frontier line of the valley of the Minnesota, in it at that time beautiful village of Mankato, word went out that Gough had been engaged by the local lyceum bureau to lecture on temperance. Gough came. He was received by a committee of men who had fought Indians, swam rivers, spoiled the virgin forests, opened new soil, endured poverty, suffered hunger and never surrendered their belief in the right. They escorted him to the opera house and stage.

His speech was slow at first, gestures few, illustrations not many. The village toppers were out in force, and some more decent men for whom women were praying to give over the habit of drink. He told something of his own life, of the misery brought by drink, of the laws of self denial and sacrifice. He was intense at all times, and this intensity bore down upon the listeners until he had made them one with himself. Even the small village boy, inclined to cat calls and gurgling whistles, was silent, and there came through the sepulchral hall no sound but the raw cry of the winter wind from outside.

He made some slight comment on the condition of a drunkard's family—the want which came upon them, the loss of self respect. He described the degradation of spirit which rested with the habitual drinker and how it that spirit was not destroyed mere signing of the pledge would not redeem. He pleaded for exercise of will power, more potent in effecting reform than all the drugs and medicines in the world. This was but developing the minds of his hearers for a climax.

Before and After. Some years ago a young curate, seeking to be licensed, was bidden by Dr. Temple, archbishop of Canterbury, to read a few verses of the Bible in order that his fitness for conducting public worship might be judged.

"Not loud enough" was the criticism of the bishop when the young man had finished. "Oh, I'm sorry to hear that, my lord," replied the curate. "A lady in the church yesterday told me I could be heard most plainly over."

"Ah! You are engaged?" suddenly asked Dr. Temple. "Yes, my lord."

The bishop smiled grimly and said: "Now, listen to me, young man. While you are engaged don't believe everything the lady tells you; but," he added, with a deep chuckle, "after you are married believe every word she says."
