SOLUTION TO IRELAND IS NEARER NOW

T. P. O'Connor Thinks Irish Struggle Will End Soon

ALL ARE ANXIOUS FOR SETTLEMENT

Liverpool Irish Contributing Good Share of Troops to War

Special Star Cable by T. P. O'Connor (Copyright).

LONDON, Oct. 21. — John Redmond's debate on the Irish situation in the House of Commons excited more interest than perhaps anything that has occurred in Parliament since the beginning of the war. Mr. Redmond's speech was lucid, restrained in tone and packed full of facts dispassionately narrated. It was listened to with respectful silence, with few interruptions from the Conservatives. There was an occasional cheer from the Liberal and Labor benches.

The most remarkable proof of the success of Redmond's indictment was the division it brought about in the Commons, when forty-seven Liberals and Laborites voted with Redmond against the Ministry. The big vote of 106 for Redmond was the largest minority yet recorded since the opening of the war against the Ministry.

The Liberal papers back Redmond's case; even so pronounced and faithful a supporter of Liberalism and Mr. Asquith as the Daily News charges the Premier with want of courage of decision in his treatment of the whole Irish question, especially blaming him for his yielding to Lord Lansdowne and other Conservative leaders who broke down the Lloyd George settlement at the eleventh hour.

The most important question of the immediate future, the Home Rule situation, still remains unchanged, yet there are some things that clearly evolve from the debate. First, a majority of the Liberals and all of the Laborites are in favor of putting the Home Rule Act into immediate operation. Second, the Liberal and most of the Conservative members of the Cabinet, are ready and anxious to make a second attempt to find a solution of the Home Rule question.

On this point Lloyd George's speech was especially noteworthy. He first promised an entire amendment of the treatment of the Irish regiments and a second point, remarkable from so pronounced an advocate of conscription, was his declaration that England must postpone any thought of conscription in Ireland until Irish opinion was improved by concessions to Irish national sentiment. Third, he made a fervent appeal to all parties in England and Ireland to co-operate in another attempt to make an agreement which would make immediate Home Rule possible.

MUCH WORK BEFORE.

Never have I seen the House of Commons listen with more rapt silence to a speech, as to the simple, eloquent and deeply moved words of Lloyd George in making the appeal.

It must be confessed that until the Sinn Fein prisoners now confined in detention camps are released, until the treatment of men now undergoing penal servitude, already somewhat mitigated, is entirely transformed, and early and complete amnesty promised; and until the fiercely exasperated opinion of Ireland is further appeased, no renewal of the attempt at settlement of the Home Rule question has much chance of success.

But with the return of the Irish people to their old faith in the Constitutional movement of the Irish party, with strong pressure on the Ministry and a practically unanimous opinion in Parliament favoring an early settlement, there is good ground for hoping that we may see the end of the long struggle before many months, certainly before the end of the war.

The sea-divided Gael, as the Irish orator is in the habit of saying, represents the fact that there is not one but many Irelands beside the Ireland within the Irish seas. There is an Ireland in the United States; there is an Ireland in the British Dominions of Australia and Canada, and there is another Ireland, of which perhaps not so much is heard—the Ireland in Great Britain. Yet that latter section of the Irish race may well demand some attention. It now amounts to nearly two and a half millions of people.

Let me give my recent experiences of a visit to Liverpool — which is really the capital of Irish nationality in Great Britain—as some indication of what Ireland within the shores of Great Britain thinks and feels about the war.

Everybody knows my position; I took it on the first day of the war; I have adhered to it without a moment's hesitation or doubt ever since. To me it has always been, it is, and it will be, a war between civilization and savagery, between Christian and Pagan ideals, between democracy and despotism, between liberty and slavery.

NO PEACE TO BULGARS FROM ALLIES

Special Star Cable by Gordon Gordon Smith.

HEADQUARTERS SERBIAN ARMY, SALONIKA, Oct. 21.— The intervention of Rumania in the present world-war has brought the early collapse of the Bulgarian kingdom within the realm of practical polity.

It is more than likely that when the Sofia Government recognizes that the game is up it will endeavor to save what it can from the wreckage by offering in exchange for concessions by the Allies to refrain from fighting to a finish. Such offers will doubtless impress certain sentimentalists, who will point out that by timely acceptance, the lives of a number of soldiers on the Allies' side will be spared.

We shall be told that we should hold out the hand of friendship to these erring brothers and lead them back to the fold.

We shall again hear the argument of a brave and honest but ignorant nation being led into evil ways by its wicked German king. It will be pointed out that all that is required is a slight "rectification of the Balkan frontier," after which the hatchet will be buried and peace and order will again reign in the Peninsula.

BETRAY ALL BALKANS.

There could be no more fatal error. Any territorial concessions made to Bulgaria after her cynical ingratitude and her Judas-like breach of her pledged faith would be a betrayal of the interests of every other Balkan people.

Bulgaria's history during the last five years is one of treason and perfidy in which the nation at large had its share as much as King Ferdinand and his Government. The initial treason on June 28, 1913, when the Bulgarian army treacherously struck at its Greek and Serbian allies and attempted to stab them in the back, was only the starting point of an era of diplomatic duplicity in which the Sofia Government were the willing tools of the Central powers.

It is established beyond all doubt that in the summer and autumn of last year M. Radoslavoff conducted negotiations with the Allies with a view to Bulgaria's joining them, for weeks after a hard and fast treaty with Austria and Germany had been "signed, sealed and delivered."

Under the orders of the Wilhelmstrasse he dragged out these negotiations in order to allow of the concentration of the Austro-German armies for the invasion of Serbia to render it impossible for the Allies, to come to the aid of King Peter's kingdom in time to save it from destruction. Since then Bulgaria's record in Serbia is one long catalogue of massacre, pillage and oppression.

INGRATITUDE TO RUSSIA.

Her attitude towards Russia is one of cynical ingratitude. On her soil are the graves of half a million Russian and Rumanian soldiers who fell in 1877 to redeem the principality from the yoke of the hated Turk. In 1916 Bulgarian soldiers are fighting shoulder to shoulder with their former Turkish oppressors against the soldiers of the Tsar Nicholas.

In the thirty years of his reign King Ferdinand has encouraged the growth of faction, has split up the political Parliament into a score of contending factions, each powerless to inaugurate a National policy, but all, in the hope of being called to power, the willing tools of their astute and unscrupulous German born ruler.

And side by side with this cynical unscrupulousness, the Sofia Government has developed National rapacity and boundless ambitions. Anybody would have thought that the magnificent results of the effort of the Balkan League would have given fresh cause for mutual trust and confidence. But Europe reckoned without Bulgarian greed. The results achieved against the Turk only whetted Bulgaria's appetite for fresh conquests, this time at the expense of the Allies. "L'appetit vient en mangeant."

PRUSSIANS OF PENINSULA.

An eminent Balkan statesman, one of the main artisans of the Balkan League, said to me just a year ago, before the Bulgarian betrayal, "J'aime mieux une Bulgarie petite et meconte qu'une grande Bulgarie avec des gros appetits et la gueulera mais quelle gueule.". This somewhat brutal phrase sums up the sentiment of Bulgaria's neighbors in her regard.

Every other Balkan people regards them as the Prussians of the Peninsula, a race filled with limitless land-greed, and one which regards generosity as a confession of fear.

If there should be any hesitation in punishing her for her black treason Bulgaria would soon look upon it as justified by results. She would nurse her wrath to keep it warm, and prepare for the day of revenge. Nothing but short, sharp punishment for her misdoings will curb her power for evil in the future.

WOUNDED, BUT UNDAUNTED

This British officer, being carried by German soldiers to the rear of the enemy lines, is saluting with more or less sincerity the Teuton troops passing him on the way to the front. The Germans look less pleased.

GERMANS TRYING TO REGAIN INITIATIVE ALONG SOMME FRONT

Terrific Counter-Attacks North of River are Met With Effectual Resistance, However, and French Continue Advance Preventing Transportation

Special Star Cable by Wm. Philip Simms of the Unite dPress.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—German troops apparently are trying to regain the initiative on the Somme. Repeated terrific counter-attacks have been delivered by the Teutons, especially north of the river, in the past few days, preceded by a heavy expenditure of ammunition.

Each of these blows, according to reports from French headquarters, has been shattered, one after another, the French continuing slowly, but surely to win their objectives on the Somme, namely, the heights, railways and important highway junctions.

The Germans are suffering from inferiority in the aerial branch of warfare on the Somme, the headquarters reports says. As rapidly as German airmen appear along the Anglo-French front, they are attacked and driven back. The German commanders thus lack information about movements going on behind the Allied front.

In several instances in the last few days, the Germans have spredd a curtain fire over vacant ground, wasting shells lavishly for lengthy periods, either because of poor range directing by their aviators, or because of nervousness on the part of their commanders, fearing an attack at some unexpected point.

French officials declared today that they have learned that the Germans are now systematically trying to create the impression among neutrals that France is worn out by twenty-seven months of war.

On the contrary, they said, France is determined to continue battering the German line with huge, newly-created artillery and other offensive materials all winter, despite rain, snow and sleet, maintaining the initiative, demoralizing the enemy and preventing the transport of troops to other fronts.

The French plan to keep their own troops as comfortable as possible and the Germans as uncomfortable as possible during the coming winter months.

The King and Queen and Princess Mary welcomed the returning Royal party at Paddington and later visited them at Clarence House.

MORTALITY AMONG GERMANS GROWING

By Canadian Press.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 21 Mortality in Germany, after reaching the low record of 14 per 1,000 in 1913, has followed a steadily ascending curve during the war. The figures for 1914 were 16.1 per 1,000; in 1915 there was an increase to 19.7, and the record for the first seven months of 1916 is 16. These statistics include civilians and soldiers.

Infant mortality, however, continues to follow a descending curve. The number of deaths per 100 new births, after showing a slight increase from 14.1 in 1912 and 1913 to 15.6 in 1914, dropped to 14.5 in the first year of the war. For the last year the percentage has been 12.9.

VON MACKENSEN TRIES TO DEFEAT RUMANIANS ALONG DOBRUDJA FRONT

Supreme Effort of Teutons to Gain Advantage Against Powerful Balkan State Before Pressure on Other Fronts Forces Hindenberg to Withdraw Troops Now Being Made.

Special Star Cable.

LONDON, Oct. 21. Gen. Von Mackensen has opened a new offensive in the Dobrudja, striking at the Allied line along the whole front in the Rumanian province. The battle, which is as heavy as any of those which marked his first drive, is still in progress.

The Kaiser's generals seemed determined to force their way to Bucharest if that be possible. Von Falkenhayn attempted this, but the stanch resistance he met has blocked the frontier passes. To von Mackensen, operating at the other end of the Balkan battle line, the task has fallen again.

Von Falkenhayn made several fierce efforts today to break the Rumanian line defending the border, but none of these succeeded. King Ferdinand's troops, who have evidently rallied completely from the heavy blow the Germans struck at them a fortnight ago, made additional progress in clearing their country of the enemy and drove back the Teutons on the eastern line as far as the frontiers.

BERLIN CONCEDES SERB SUCCESS

The Serbians, who are battering at the last Bulgarian line on the ridge ten miles east of Monastir, have held their ground. Berlin conceding that they achieved a temporary success, says the advance has now been halted, but military observers here believe that whenever King Peter's troops decide to launch a heavy drive, the Bulgars will not be able to withstand it.

From a high authority on the Balkan operations, is learned something today of the situation that prevails there. The Serbs have not used their full strength yet. Their campaign is being guided by Gen. Sarrail's orders.

Naturally, they are anxious to regain their country as soon as possible. The people sometimes become impatient of the delay, but they realize that they must sacrifice their desires to the Allies' strategy as a whole.

It is considered that von Falkenhayn's drive, supplemented by von Mackensen's effort in the Dobrudja, the last effort of the Germans in the Balkans. The chances of its success are practically even. If the Germans invade Rumania, naturally they will be able to put a bigger force in Macedonia later, when the Allied offensive from Salonika assumes larger proportions, but by that time the pressure on the east and west will be so great that von Hindenberg will be forced to recall divisions from the Balkans.

The Serbians and the Bulgars will fight fiercely. To them the war is a question of future dominance in the Balkans, and not a death struggle between the Allies and the Central Powers. A decision in Macedonia this year is hardly probable, but the coming spring undoubtedly will see the heaviest fighting of the war.

There are increasing signs of wider Allied operations in the Balkans. The Serbian advance on Monastir is one phase of this. Dispatches from Salonika report that more Entente forces, among them a strong contingent of infantry, has been landed there.

These operations of course, depend in large measure on the Roumanian situation.

In the fighting along the Transylvanian line yesterday, the Germans were driven back in the Trotus and Oitus valleys, on the eastern front, while five attacks in the Bran defile, on the southern front, were defeated and heavy losses inflicted on the attacking forces. Mount Surul, in this sector, was recaptured by the Roumanians.

SERBS' VICTORY A DECISIVE ONE

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, Oct. 21 — The British press correspondent with the Serbian army gives the following description of Thursday's battle in the Monastir campaign:

"The day's fighting began at eight o'clock in the morning. Artillery, infantry and cavalry all played their parts with unusual faithfulness to the old traditions. Velyeselo was in Serbian hands by noon and although this was as much as the staff had hoped to attain by the whole operation the Serbians kept on. The capture of Brod followed immediately, and by night the new Serbian line included Gardilovom also, with the cavalry still further in front.

"At the beginning of the day's fighting every advantage rested with the Bulgarians. They held the higher line beyond the river, with slopes so steep that they could roll rocks down on the attackers. There a two-hour artillery preparation eight to ten o'clock. Then sudd a great cheer went up and a the Serbian infantry began the vance.

"They could be recognized f great distance, as every man h big square white calico fastened to the back of his blue coat and the leading men carried white and red flags with which to mark the further point reached, so that the artillery could see and avoid shelling them.

"While the Serbian infantry advanced up on the crest the Bulgarian pounded the crest just beyond and soon little white flags began to mark the Serbian van carried forward to that point.

"Then the cheering broke out with redoubled force, as far beyond the white flags the observers could see dark figures running fast down hill. They were Bulgars in flight."

BULGARIAN OFFICIAL REPORT

By Canadian Press.

SOFIA, Oct. 20, via London, Oct. 21. The repulse of all Serbian attacks in the Cerna bend is claimed in the official statement issued by the War Office today. The text of the statement follows:

"Macedonian front: On both sides of the Monastir-Florina Railway there was lively cannonading. Desperate fighting continues in the Cerna bend, the Serbians displaying particular obstinacy in their efforts to advance, but were repulsed all attacks by our fire and counter-attacks. Enemy attempts to advance toward the village of Tarnova and the summit of Dobroujolje failed.

"In the Monolenica valley there was the usual artillery fire. Nothing important occurred on the Vardar. At the foot of the Belaschitsa mountain we dispersed an enemy company which was trying to entrench on the railway north of Dova Tepe.

"On the Struma front there were patrol engagements and enemy artillery bombarded inhabited places, including Ceres. On the Aegean coast there is nothing to report.

"Rumanian front: In the Dobrudja between the railway and the sea, intense cannonading is proceeding on both sides."

LIBERAL LEADER REFUSES TO JOIN JOINT PARTY BODY

PREMIER REPLIES, EXPRESSES REGRET

Declares Proposal Was Not Made During Last Session

Special to The Star by Our Own Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21. The proposal of the National Service Directors for a joint party appeal for recruiting has not been acceded to by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Correspondence on the subject between the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition was given out last night.

Sir Robert wrote Sir Wilfrid enclosing the resolutions of the body formerly presided over by Sir Thomas Tait. The members of the body had expressed the view that their work would be aided greatly if both parties united in an appeal to the colors.

In his reply, Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that if Sir Thomas Tait had remained on the board he would have deemed it his duty to have communicated with him regarding the matters mentioned in the Order-in-Council, which he quotes appointing a director of National Service.

"WOULD NOT BE UNTRAMMELLED."

The resignation of Sir Thomas, he maintains, places a different complexion upon the Premier's proposal.

Sir Wilfrid alludes to the letter of resignation and Sir Thomas' retirement because of the G. M. Murray incident as "indicative of what may be anticipated in connection with the future organization and work of National Service." Under the circumstances Sir Wilfrid says his assistance to the cause which he has endeavored to serve from the first day of the war would not be untrammelled were he to accept the suggestion.

Sir Robert Borden has replied to this letter of the leader of the Opposition expressing regret over its contents and failing to see in what way his future action would be trammelled by the naming of a committee.

The leaders disagree also on the question as to whether or not mention was made by the Premier last session to Sir Wilfrid of a proposal for a joint recruiting committee.

TEXT OF PREMIER'S LETTER.

Sir Robert Borden's letter to the Liberal leader was as follows:

"My Dear Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

"I beg to enclose herewith copy of a letter which I have received from Sir Thomas Tait, as director-general of National Service. With the letter he transmits a recommendation unanimously made by the directors of National Service in conference at Ottawa as to the formation of a Parliamentary National Service Commission, and the issue of calls to the manhood of Canada as set forth in the letter and in the resolution.

"You may remember that during the last session of Parliament I suggested to you the formation of a Parliamentary Committee along somewhat similar lines.

"I am quite prepared to accept the proposal of the conference and to undertake the formation of such a committee; and I trust that you will be good enough to co-operate. Of course Parliament itself is the final authority for the appointment of a Parliamentary committee in the ordinary sense; but it seems to me that a committee composed of members of Parliament for the purpose set forth in the resolution might be formed in the meantime. I would suggest a committee of twelve and I would ask you to name five members of whom I hope you will be one. If you should think a larger number desirable, I shall willingly acquiesce.

"Believe me,

LIBERAL LEADER'S REPLY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's letter to the Prime Minister, dated Oct. 19, reads:

"Dear Sir Robert Borden: On receiving Monday last, the 16th inst., your letter of the previous Saturday transmitting to me the resolution of the directors of National Service for the formation of a Parliamentary National Service Committee to assist in the work entrusted to them, you ask me to co-operate with you in the formation of such a committee and you add that during last session you made me a suggestion on similar lines.

"As to the latter observation I must say at once that your suggestion must have been a very casual one in the course of conversation on other matters, for I have no recollection whatever of it. As to your present proposal, it seemed to me indispensable that I should acquaint myself of the exact powers and duties assigned to the directors of National Service, as defined in the Order-in-Council creating the service, and I at once caused a search to be made for it in the file of the Canada Gazette. The search satisfied me that it had not been published and on Tuesday I asked you for a copy which I received the same day, and I think I ought to reproduce it here in its entirety."

SIR T. TAIT'S RESIGNATION.

The letter here contains the text of the Order-in-Council as published some days ago, and proceeds:

"It is obvious that under the above instructions the duty of the directors of National Service is to find out the number of men who can be removed from the various industries, agriculture, manufacturing, mining, lumbering, fishing, and others which are carried out in any locality within each district, and to provide that no person be allowed to enlist 'whose services would be of more value to the state in the employment in which he is now engaged.'

"In that view it seemed to me that the first thing to be done would have been at once to enter into communication with employers of labor, agricultural and industrial in every locality as the persons best qualified to supply the desired information, and I would have deemed it my duty to communicate at once with Sir Thomas Tait and discuss with him this aspect of the subject in connection with the resolution of the directors of National Service for a Parliamentary Committee. Unfortunately, Sir Thomas Tait has resigned from the position of director of National Service, and his resignation and especially the reasons for his resignation put a new complexion upon your proposal.

"Sir Thomas Tait resigned not only on account of what occurred in the case of Mr. G. M. Murray, who had been offered the position of secretary of National Service, but chiefly, as I understand it, on account of that incident as indicative of what may be anticipated in connection with the future organization and work of National Service.'

"I feel that under the circumstances in affording to your suggestion my assistance to the cause which I have endeavored to serve since the first day of the war would not be untrammelled and consequently as effective as if I continued to serve it according to my own ways as heretofore.

"Believe me, etc.,

"WILFRID LAURIER."

PREMIER INCREDULOUS.

"Dear Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

"I beg to acknowledge your letter of yesterday which has just reached me, and I observe that you decline to co-operate with me in the formation of a committee of members of Parliament for the purpose set forth in the resolution of the directors of National Service which is as follows: That a Parliamentary National Service Committee, to be composed of representatives of all the political parties in Parliament, be formed at the earliest possible date.

"That such committee as soon as possible after its formation issue, by proclamation and through the public press and in any other expedient way:

"(a) A strong and explicit call to the manhood of Canada of military age and fitness to enlist for overseas military and naval service.

"(b) A similar call to the men and women of Canada individually and through their various organizations to serve the nation in such capacities as their services may be of most value.

"(c) A similar call to all employers to effect such industrial re-organization as is necessary to meet emergencies arising out of the war."

"A united appeal for this great national purpose seemed to me especially desirable and it is with the deepest regret that I learn of your refusal to join in such an appeal.

"Without presuming to question a decision which must rest upon your own judgment you will permit me to confess my inability to realize in what way your future action would be trammelled by naming five members on your side of the House to serve upon such a committee.

"The conversation to which I alluded took place when, among other things, I discussed with you the proposals of the Government with regard to railway legislation, and I have a perfect recollection of the answer which you made.

"Believe me, etc.,

VETERAN NAVAL CONSTRUCTOR DEAD

PARIS, Ont., Oct. 21.—Charles Featherstone, one of the best known of Paris citizens, died this morning in his eighty-fourth year. "Grandpa," as he was familiarly known by all, was the youngest son of the late Capt. George Featherstone, of Gillingham, Kent, England.

While in the Old Country he was engaged in the Royal Naval Constructor's office in Chatham Dock Yard, and when a young man assisted in the construction of the first iron vessel built for the Austrian navy, named the Charibedes, and later on the first to ironclad battleships for the British navy, the Belleruphon and the Achilles.

For upwards of twenty-five years he had made his home with his eldest son, George W., proprietor of The Star Transcript, Paris. In politics he was a Liberal.

By Appointment to His Majesty King George the V.

Tudor—Hobson.

In Christ Church, Vancouver, B.C., Miss Ethel Mary Hobson, only daughter of Mrs. J. W. Hobson, was married to Mr. Thomas Arthur Tudor, also of Vancouver, the Rev. C. S. McGaffin officiating. The bride, who was given away by Mr. B. J. Tucker, was attired in white silk, with overdress of chiffon, and a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Olwen Owen as bridesmaid, who wore a white embroidered frock with a white satin hat, and by Mrs. Harry Fisher, as matron of honor, gowned in Belgium blue moire silk with a black velvet hat, and both carried pink carnations. Mr. Harry Fisher was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, and later Mr. and Mrs. Tudor left to spend a short honeymoon in Victoria.

What They Read in Germany

The Frankfurter Zeitung's correspondent declares that unbroken confidence in victory prevails among the German rank and file to a greater degree than ever:

"Our men's confidence is not of the 'Hurra' sort, it springs from a deep sense of the gravity of the situation and a calm spirt of sacrifice commensurate with the magnitude of the great battle. It fills every man of whatever rank. On all hands the provisioning arrangements are praised. Everything that can be done to lighten the burden of our troops is done. In close-range fighting our men are, and feel themselves to be, superior to any enemy, but hand-to-hand fighting is possible all too seldom for our fellows in front. They are filled with corresponding rage over the insenate continuance of drum-fire — this blind fight of endless shells against brave human beings. Woe to the enemy who aggravates such rage! For the last few weeks he has met with just as hot receptions as at the beginning of this gigantic duel and has come to know that the iron watch on the Somme, despite privation, death, and wounds, stands there unshattered and unshatterable."

ALL STRIKING AT ONCE.

The correspondent of the Cologne Gazette comments from German Headquarters under date of September 13 on "the new battle plan which the enemy has gradually worked out." He says:

"Great simultaneous general attacks by the French and British now alternate along the whole front with more or less extended special attacks by each army. These special attacks seldom occur at the same time, but succeed one another, so that comparative quiet prevails on the English front when the French are attacking, and vice versa. Meantime days of comparative stillness intervene when the enemy digs himself in new positions, reinforces regiments cut up by us, and brings up new guns and fresh munitions. Every new attack is then preceded, according to its projected magnitude, by more or less tremendous drum-fire directed against those of our positions which are to be assailed.

"In the offensive sector north of the Somme, which English and French troops share between them, the English exhausted themselves during the past few days in a series of numerous and extraordinarily heavy attacks along almost their whole line, but without succeeding in gaining against the iron wall of Marschall and Kirchbach any successes at all commensurate with their bloody losses and enormous sacrifice of material."

The semi-official Cologne Gazette, trusting in the futile Wilhelmstrasse trick of trying by every conceivable means to sow discord between Britain and France, remarks that the "grim fighting on the Somme has proved afresh that the French are accomplishing considerably more than the English, and are showing that they are without question bearing the far greater burdens of this war."

Mrs. Leacock will visit Mrs. Starke at Montreal for the rest of the month.

Mrs. A. E. Leacock has closed her summer home at Jackson's Point and will be the guest for the remainder of the month of her daughter, Mrs. Bersh, before leaving for Calgary to spend the winter with her daughter, Dr. Rosamond Leacock.

A patriotic tea is to be given at the Toronto College of Music, Pembroke street, on Saturday afternoon, October 28th, from four to six o'clock. The proceeds are to be used for the benefit of convalescent soldiers.

The marriage of Miss Vera Thelma Chatterson, daughter of Mr. A. E. Chatterson, of Toronto, and Mr. Stewart Wilmot Gooderham, son of Mr. E. G. Gooderham, also of Toronto, is announced to take place in St. Paul's Church, on Wednesday, October 25.

THREE NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS ON THE RECORDS NOW

Montreal West Council Adopts Stringent Precautions Last Night

One suspected new case of infantile paralysis was reported in Westmount yesterday, one in Montreal West and another in Montreal.

This makes, as far as Westmount knows officially, three bona fide cases of the disease in that municipality, and one case still kept under observation. Westmount schools will remain closed until further notice, while the schools of Montreal West were ordered closed till Monday, when developments arising will determine just what action the commissioners will take.

The Montreal West authorities are taking no chances and at a meeting of the Council held last night resolutions calling for the adoption of every possible precaution to meet the situation were adopted:

The resolution read in part:

"That in view of the prevalence of infantile paralysis and the possibility of infection being carried by domestic animals, all dogs, whether licensed or not, and also all cats found loose on the streets of the town on and after Monday, 23rd October, 1916, will be impounded, and if not claimed within twenty-four hours, will be destroyed by the police."

MOVIES ARE BANNED.

Another recommendation reads: "That parents do not permit their children to attend moving picture theatres and other entertainments in the city (of Monreal), during the prevalence of the present epidemic."

Montreal West has no moving picture theatres, and to reach those in Montreal citizens have to pass through territory where cases of the disease have been reported.

The resolution proceeds: "That all milk used within the limits of the town be pasteurized by heating to 140 or 145 degrees, and keeping it at that temperature for twenty minutes."

The Montreal health authorities are keeping a close watch on the situation, thanks to the efficient organization established by Dr. S. Boucher, Medical Officer of Health. The department officials point out that there is no need for alarm, as every suspected case is quickly controlled by the department. As a result of this close supervision the percentage of cases, taking into consideration the population, is less than one-tenth of one per cent. Even at this, the figures are higher than usual, this being due to the epidemic conditions prevailing in various parts of the United States, at points contiguous to the border.

AT SUNDAY SCHOOL.

No children under sixteen years of age will be admitted to either sessions of the Sunday school at St. James Methodist church tomorrow, as a precautionary measure incident to the presence of infantile paralysis in Montreal. Major the Rev. C. A. Williams, pastor, is preaching at the evening service to young men and women. After the regular evening service there will be a short service of prayer on account of the sorrow and unrest now prevalent in Montreal.

Life and Character Reading

OCTOBER 21

The dominating traits of character imparted to persons born on this date are pride, love of praise, self-reliance determination to succeed and love of speculation. Many love affairs are shown in this reading. Unwillingness to take advice has brought serious trouble which the personality will not acknowledge. Finances fluctuate. "Taking a big chance" is the cause of much trouble. Success is either tremendous, or failure extreme. All events tend toward extremes. Temper is percidius when roused and these fits of temper bring on bilious nervous trouble and stomach distress. Control of temper brings great increase of vitality.

This is the birthdate of many remarkable men and women, all of whom are under the planet Venus and the sign Libra. These give an ardent, passionate, enthusiastic nature, highly emotional and fascinating.

The Montreal Daily Star Want Ads will be helpful for the coming week for manufacturing interests, merchants and all that relates to the home.

HERE and THERE

Mr. Richard Thomas, head of the world-renowned Welsh tinplate firm of Messrs. Richard Thomas and Co., has died at the age of seventy-eight years.

Fred Williams, aged 56, for many years one of the best-known newspapermen in Michigan, is dead in Detroit. For several years past he has published the American Elk, a national organ of the B. P. O. E.

Lieut. Allan Routledge, died of wounds, was the eldest son of Mrs. Routledge, Belmere, Lake Magog, and the third grandson of the late Sir Hugh Allan to be killed in the war, the others being Capt. Sir George Houston-Boswall and Capt. M. C. Gribbon.

From Campbell Island, situate 200 miles south of the South Island of New Zealand, have enlisted in the New Zealand Reinforcements no less than seven brothers—and these the sole inhabitants of the island! For the past seven years they have controlled a sheep station of 43,000 acres carrying over 8,000 sheep.

Lieut. William Stobart, Durham Light Infantry, attached R. F. C. (killed), was a son of Mr. F. W. Stobart, formerly of Winnipeg. When war was declared Lieut. Stobart was in the employ of the Bank of Montreal at Winnipeg, but he immediately returned to England and joined the Durham Light Infantry.

Because she doesn't want to be a "society lady," Mrs. Henry M. Mann, of New York city, is asking a separation. All "society ladies" drink cocktails and smoke cigarettes and she won't, so she alleges cruelty in her complaint because her husband insisted on her acquisition of these accomplishments. She says he thinks she's not a "good sport."

There was a decrease in the number of men killed in metal mines of the United States during 1915, but an increase in the death rate per 1,000 employed. Statistics announced by the Bureau of Mines show 553 men were killed out of 152,118 employed, compared with 559 killed out of 158,115 employed in 1914. The death rate was 3.64 for each 1,000 employed with 3.54 the previous year.

Lieut. F. A. Wilcox, Northamptonshire Regt. (died of wounds), was the youngest son of Major Wilcox, formerly of the Bank of Montreal in Winnipeg and Port Arthur. Lieut. Wilcox, who was also in the employ of the Bank of Montreal, enlisted at the beginning of the war in the Royal Highlanders of Canada. In November, 1914, he received a commission in the Northamptonshire Regiment.

ASK COMPULSORY REGISTRATION OF ALL BIRTHS HERE

Health Authorities Urge That This Measure Be Adopted

BIRTH-RATE HIGH, IS NOT RECORDED

Thirty or Forty Per Cent Doctors Called Neglectful

Compulsory birth registration is strongly urged by the local health department, which says that from 30 to 40 per cent of the city doctors do not comply with the law calling upon them to send in certificates of births.

"One of the greatest difficulties we have to deal with is estimating the correct number of marriages and births in our city," says a board report drawn up under the supervision of Dr. S. Boucher, medical officer of health. "The different parishes keep double registers for these events, one of which registers is deposited at the end of every year with the tutelle office of the Superior Court. It is from this source we obtain our statistics. The Catholic, most of the protestant and a few of the Jewish registers are well kept; the objection is that they are not sent to the tutelle office with any regularity [illegible] a fine is attached to this neglect, but the fine has never been imposed.

"Six weeks from January 1 is the period prescribed by law for these registers to be deposited, but many do not come until the middle of May. This system is good as far as it goes but after all, it registers only children who have been baptised not children born. A great number of children come into the world every year who are not thus registered. Apart from those Protestants who do not practice infant baptism there are many persons who do not attend any church and the Jews seem to register only male children. It must be remembered that such unregistered children have no civil status and in after life this may be a serious matter for them as they will have no means of legally establishing their age or parentage. There is a law permitting parents who do not attend any church to register their children in the statistics department of the board of health, but few either know of this or take advantage of it.

"Notwithstanding these defects Montreal can boast of one of the highest if not the highest birth-rates in the world. The only way to get an accurate estimate of our births and marriages is by having a law passed compelling, under penalty, parents to register within forty-eight hours, every child born to them as well as all marriages contracted. A clause in this law would be responsible for the registration of illegitimate children.

"The Board of Health passed a law a few years ago to compel physicians, midwives or parents to send a birth certificate to the City Hall, postage free, but this is not a registration, though many think it is. Fully 30 to 40 per cent of the births are never sent in, so that no reliance can be placed on those certificates. A law compelling the civil registration of all births and marriages would permit us to keep track of these events from day to day without having to wait months until all the church registers reach the tutelle office. But the chief advantage, as far as births are concerned, is that we would get all of them whether registered in the various churches or not, also we would obtain a knowledge of the birth rate among foreigners, etc.

"Such a law would not in any way interfere with or prevent registration in the different churches which would continue to register their baptisms as before, so there ought to be no difficulty on this head. Such a law is in force throughout the registration area in the United States and works very well and it prevails all through Europe."

The difficulties met with as a result of the lack of registration were exemplified some days since, when a young lady, beneficiary under an insurance policy on the life of her deceased father, was for a long time unable to collect the amount of the insurance, for the simple reason that she could not supply the company (an English concern) with proofs of her birth or parentage. Her father had all his life been an agnostic and a member of no church. Hence her birth was not registered. It happened, however, that there were living witnesses who could give indisputable testimony of her parentage and she was able to be properly identified as the daughter of the insured.

SIR SAM HUGHES VISITS THE ARENA

Pleased to Find Women Doing Their Share, Like the Men

Up on the right-hand balcony as one enters the Arena for the Military Benefit, perhaps not so noticeable or so striking in its appearance as some (or indeed most) of the stalls, is a booth which deserves great attention. The benefit has been organized to help the families of soldiers at the front. Here in this unpretentious booth, called the Vocational Training for Wounded Soldiers' Booth, men, who have been to the front and have returned wounded, are seen happily at work at some new trade they have learned since coming back to Montreal.

At one table there is a gallant lad, who has one arm paralyzed, learning to typewrite. He is not at all downhearted. Another chap, who fought at Ypres, is making a splendid job of half-soling a boot. Along the side are many specimens of wood work made by returned soldiers. Each piece has the name of the maker attached with the name of the battle where he was wounded.

HAVE SEEN BATTLES.

The men who made these articles have seen great actions. They have been in the heart of things. Ypres is more than a name to them. They went with flaming spirits and glowing hearts to follow where honor led. Before they went they were physically very well. Now they have come back, disabled through the loss of a limb perhaps, or otherwise unfit to do that which they did before they answered the call of duty.

The exhibition of wounded soldiers' work shown at the Arena is a visible proof of what the Government is trying to do for these men. Up at the Grey Nunnery classes for these returned men are held under the direction of Lieut. Macallum, whose heart and soul is in the work of helping men who have returned to readjust themselves to the life they must now live. Lieut. Macallum, a graduate of Queen's University, was a professor in King's College, N.S., before he enlisted in the 112th Battalion. He went to England with his unit, but because of his unusual knowledge and great ability he was recalled to Canada to carry on this great work.

In the Grey Nunnery, there are about 120 soldier pupils. Some are learning carpentry, some motor mechanics and some shoe-making. Others are studying commercial subjects or trying to pass Civil Service examinations. Every returned soldier is welcome to the Grey Nunnery to learn something new. The subjects are taught by experts in each line. When a man has learned his subject, he has no trouble in finding a position. Besides, the actual practical value of these classes, it has been found that a man convalesces quicker when his mind is occupied in learning something.

MAKING HIS PROFIT.

At these classes the material for the articles is supplied by the Government. When the articles are sold, the soldier-maker keeps what he gets for them, paying back to the Government only the cost of the raw material. In this way, it is often possible for a man to earn a couple of dollars a day. Tabourets, bookcases, rollers, blotters, candle holders, etc., are on view at this booth in the Arena. Orders will be taken for articles to be made and sent to any address. If those who need shoes repaired will call up the Grey Nunnery, shoes will be called for and returned.

Anyone who has visited the Military Benefit and has not seen the Vocal Training Booth has missed contact with one of the most vital and interesting problems of the day, because this is the nucleus of a steadily growing movement, which will increase as the war is prolonged. And when the war is ended, it will have to be carried out on a vast scale, in order that all the men who need help need not go without.

SIR SAM HUGHES.

Sir Sam Hughes and Lieut.-Col. C. W. MacLean, O.C. of the 207th Battalion, Ottawa, were the guests of honor last night. Kitchener's Own Battalion furnished a guard of honor, while the band of the 207th Battalion provided the music for the evening.

Sir Sam spoke just a few words to the vast concourse that had assembled saying that he had just returned from the trenches where the men were so nobly doing their duty. At home the women were doing theirs just as well. He expressed his satisfaction at being able to be present at such a gathering. Sir Sam, Col. MacLean, Brig.-Gen. E. W. Wilson, Mrs. Busteed, and other members of the party made a tour of the benefit.

Tonight at St. George's Booth, the framed collections of military badges will be sold at auction. It is difficult to obtain many of the badges now. In the future these collections will be very valuable. George F. Hemsley presented all the helpers at St. George's Booth, with one of the new crests in silver. The designs on this crest is taken from the famous picture of St. George killing the dragon. Miss Thelma Hutchison leads in the sales at this booth. Among the additional helpers are Miss Minnie Finley, Miss Maubrian and Miss Viola Sutcliffe.

Yesterday an American cartoonist who had visited the original "Pats" in the trenches, came in and bought every Patricia badge and brooch in the booth.

An unusually good program is being put on at the Oriental Magic booth in the right balcony for this afternoon and tonight. St Clair Tilley's Orchestra, Miss Dolly Lucas, violinist; C. T. Medlar, baritone soloist; G. McLean, pianist; the Reichling Orchestra and the Misses Dalby, Brady, H. Allan, F. Barwick, McCord, Dewolf, Brayley, Reynolds and Boswell, dancers, will take part.

A comedy sketch, "Aunt Betsy's Ruse," will be put on by Mrs. Copping, Mrs. MacLaren, Mrs. Vail, Miss Allan and Mr. J. C. Copping. The ladies assisting in ticket selling are Mrs. M. K. Pike, Mrs. R. Minty, Mrs. John Allan (Westmount); Mrs. J. W. Day, Mrs. John Allan (Montreal), Mrs. E. Palon, Mrs. K. C. Campbell, Mrs. E. L. Wren, Mrs. Tamlyn, Mrs. L. Strachan, Mrs. R. C. Misson, Mrs. W. Olive and Miss Bell Battersby.

Among those who have given donations to the tombola booth of the Composite Regiment, under the convenorship of Mrs., W. H. Schneider are:

FORTUNE TELLERS AT THE MILITARY BENEFIT IN THE ARENA

The fortune telling booth under the convenorship of Miss Florence Fortier has been one of the most popular attractions in the Arena. So great was the demand for a look into the future that the number of those who told fortunes had to be doubled. Last night this booth was second in the open voting contest for the most popular booth. Reading from left to right the names are: Miss H. Quinlan, Miss T. Quinlan, Miss Dupre, Miss F. Fortier (standing), Miss P. Garon and Miss M. Fortier.

STUDENT BATTLE ENDS THIS YEAR IN A SKIRMISH

Inference by Student Heads Quells Annual Inter-Class "Rush"

The long period of clashes and friendly battles between McGill freshmen and sophomores, by which the former are supposed to be made worthy of their university, came to an end yesterday afternoon, with the McGill track and field meet. It was expected that the two classes would stage some kind of a rush or parade in conjunction with the meet, but due to certain unexpected circumstances which arose and the uncertainty as to whether sports would be held if it rained, all such plans were finally abandoned.

The preliminary skirmishes to the expected big engagement began at 6 o'clock Thursday morning, with the sophomores taking the initiative. The city in the neighborhood of the university had been carefully mapped out into districts which were gone over by bands of sophomores. Innocent freshmen were roused out of bed and given three minutes to put on their clothes and grab a blanket, after which they were marched stealthily up to the sophomore headquarters on the McGill property near the Stadium.

A disused house had been fitted out for their reception and for defence against attack. Parties of sophomores concealed themselves at the college gates and grabbed unwary freshmen on their way to lectures. As soon as a man was captured his hands were tied and he was rushed away.

When preliminary operations ceased at 11 o'clock, it was found that no less than eighty-four freshmen had been spirited away. Special care was taken to make the captives comfortable. Hot coffee and bread were served at frequent intervals and the freshmen were made comfortable by great piles of straw placed for them to lie on. Any attempts to escape were nipped in the bud by sophomore brawn, backed up by a generous bombardment of ripe eggs.

When the freshmen presidents discovered how depleted were their ranks, they appealed to the university authorities and to the Students' Council to secure the release of their followers. A special meeting was called by the latter body to decide what course should be taken.

The sophomores declared that the success of their strategy should be allowed, as the freshmen at full strength were twice as numerous as they. On the other hand, the freshmen refused to take part in a rush with their comrades still in captivity.

Principal Peterson finally stated that if the prisoners were not released at once, other forces would be called in to bring this about, and the sophomores, not wishing any discredit to come upon the name of the university such as would be caused by police interference, finally agreed to set free their captives. Everyone felt that outside interference must be avoided at all costs. Much dissatisfaction was felt by the sophomores, nevertheless, that any action should have been taken by the heads of student affairs. They were only treating the freshmen to what they themselves had been subjected to in their first year and the captive freshmen themselves spoke highly of the way they were looked after.

At the sports yesterday afternoon a suppressed feeling of excitement was in the air, but as statements made by high authorities showed that serious consequences might follow Thursday's affair nothing unusual took place.

From the representations made by the Students' Council to the sophomores, it was generally understood that the University authorities and Students' Council wished to secure the release of all prisoners and the suspension of hostilities on account of the fact that several freshmen had threatened to appeal to the law.

CANADIAN BADGE FOR RECRUITS IN THE BRITISH NAVY

The men who enlist in the Canadian Naval Overseas Division will not only receive the Canadian rates of pay and separation allowance, but they will wear a special Canadian badge no matter where or in what unit of the navy they are serving. Five thousand men are called for, and the Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Naval Services, is taking a personal interest in the appeal to Canadians to answer the call of the Admiral of the Grand Fleet.

In an interview, Mr. Hazen points out that at the outbreak of war Canada was asked to direct its energies to the providing of land forces, but that since then the naval program has been so accelerated that there is an increasing need for sailors to man the ships. "In addition," says Mr. Hazen, "when conscription came into force in the United Kingdom recruiting for the Navy stopped. New channels to supply the necessary men had to be found. Today the Imperial Navy which has swept the seas, bottled up the German fleet in the Kiel Canal and has guarded the whole of the Empire requires men. The Navy at all costs must be maintained at full fighting strength.

MANY ARE NEEDED.

"As soon as Canada was made aware of the change in the situation in regard to the Navy we offered to form an overseas division of the Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve and lend them to the Admiralty for service in the Imperial Navy. The Admiralty was pleased to accept the offer and asked if possible that 5,000 men be sent, of whom 2,000 would be required by the end of the present year.

"Every recruit Canada gives to this force will mean the saving of one soldier for the British Army for if the necessary men are not secured conscripts at present serving in the Army will have to be transferred to the Navy."

All men joining the naval reserve will receive the same pay as soldiers in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, although while serving on board ship they will only receive the same amount as the men of the Imperial Navy, the balance being retained for them in Canada, or sent monthly to their dependents, if desired. If the men get promotions, the advance in pay will be the same as in the Army.

The Dominion has been divided into six recruiting areas, and the naval recruiting officer has been given permission to utilize the militia recruiting machinery. In Montreal the officer is Lieut. Mathews, and the office is at 128 Commissioners street.

NO EXCUSE TODAY FOR JOINING THE BOURASSA RANKS

An association of young Liberals from the West End of the city, to be affiliated with the central body of which Irene Vautrin is president, was formed at a meeting held in St. Cunegonde last night by Severin Letourneau, K.C., M.L.A.

Mr. Letourneau, Oscar Gladu and Mr. Vautrin were the chief speakers. They told the young men present to prepare themselves for the coming fight. Had they been prepared in 1911, the speakers said, disaster would not have overtaken the Liberal party. Touching on the Nationalist question, Mr. Gladu said that while he could understand young men joining the ranks of Bourassa in 1911, there was no excuse for their doing so now.

"The fact that we have a country at all," he said, "is due to the existence of the British Navy."

Giving his audience a message of cheer from Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, he assured them, was in excellent health, Mr. Gladu told them that Sir Wilfrid had on one occasion remarked to him that if he passed away after achieving some measure of success in establishing harmony between French and English speaking Canada, he would feel that he had not lived in vain.

Y.M.C.A. MEETING.

The Young Men's Christian Association will hear the Right Rev. H. A. Grey, Bishop of Edmonton, at the men's meeting tomorrow, afternoon at 4 o'clock. The musical part of the program will consist of selections by the orchestra, a solo by Mrs. F. G. Smardon and a trio by David Rees, Miss E. Welsh and Mrs. O. Gibbons.

MORE TROOPS ARE LANDED IN GREECE BY ALLIED FORCES

French Admiral Takes Over Complete Control in Athens

NEGOTIATIONS AT STANDSTILL TODAY

All Orders to Police and Gendarmerie to Be Supervised

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Additional Entente forces have been sent to Saloniki, according to Reuter's correspondent there, who sends word that a further strong contingent of infantry was landed yesterday, and that several detachments of Greek troops have arrived from Crete to join the Nationalist Army.

The provisional Government at Saloniki has received a lengthy telegram embodying resolutions passed at a meeting of Greeks in New York and promising men and funds to the Nationalist cause.

The provisional Government, says the despatch, is sending a committee to New York for the purpose of organizing and transporting troops.

ADMIRAL HAS FULL POWERS.

ATHENS, Oct. 21.—Once again the situation has calmed down and become stationary. For the time being no negotiations are proceeding with the Entente and the Government's whole attention is turned at the instance of the Allied authorities, to the settlement of domestic affairs.

The firm action of Admiral du Fournet has brought back order to Athens. The powers vested in the French officer, who has been appointed chief inspector at the Ministry of the Interior, are drastic and far-reaching enough to prevent a recurrence of such scenes as those of the week.

All orders to the police and gendarmerie and all reports received must pass through his hands. He will determine whether orders are in conformity with the laws of the country and the policy of benevolent neutrality which Greece promised to pursue.

CONTROLS ALL POLICE.

A list of the names of all the police and gendarmerie officers will be submitted to him, and none can be dismissed or transferred without his consent, though any dismissal or transfer he orders must take place without discussion.

The list of all officers and gendarmes of special service for the protection of the King must be submitted so that the number may not exceed the legal eighty; the number is now stated to be 4,000.

The inspector will have power to dismiss or arrest any self-constituted agent of public order, and will have the right to appoint inspectors with similar powers in any part of Greece.

It has been arranged that a French contingent will remain in Athens, but it will not patrol the streets until the chief inspector considers it necessary.

As for the military situation, the untrained classes recently called up will be disbanded together with the 1913, while a portion of the troops concentrated at Larissa will be withdrawn.

COL. HUGH CLARK IS GIVEN NEW POST ON GOVERNMENT

Appointed Parliamentary Secretary of External Affairs

Special to The Star From Our Own Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Colonel Hugh Clark, M.P. for North Bruce, has been appointed Parliamentary Secretary of State for External Affairs.

The announcement was made at yesterday's Cabinet Council. An Order-in-Council, passed some weeks ago, created the position, which is under Sir Robert Borden.

The work of the External Affairs Branch has increased greatly in magnitude and importance since the war began, and promises much future development. Colo Clark's position is analagous to that of Mr. F. B. McCurdy in the Militia Department. Neither office is as yet one of emolument, so no by-election is necessary.

The new Parliamentary Secretary has been in the House of Commons five years. Before that he sat in the Ontario Legislature. He is very popular at Ottawa, is a ready speaker, and is possessed of a wide knowledge on public questions. Col. Clark is a newspaper man, and publishes a paper. At one time he was editor of the Ottawa Citizen.

COMFORTS WANTED

A letter recently received from Capt. Lake, quartermaster of the Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry, states that the regiment is urgently in need of socks and winter comforts. Mrs. W. A. Coates, The Sherbrooke, 660 Sherbrooke street west, will be glad to receive any donations of these and will forward them to France. Any parcels which cannot be sent to the above address will be called for by telephoning Uptown 23.

VANDALS DESTROY TREES.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Many of the fine old trees of Belgium are being cut down for use in the German trenches. The famous Bois de la Cambre near Brussels is said to have lost 10,000 of its trees and lesser parks and woods are yielding their proportion.

"MY SON receives all parcels ordered through your Association in such good condition, and says that the 'eats' are delicious," writes the mother of a boy in the trenches. The original can be seen at the office of the Canadian Soldiers' Supply Association, new address Drummond Building, corner of Peel and St. Catherine Streets, Montreal, who are sending boxes to soldiers and prisoners, direct from London.—Advertisement.

GERMAN ATTACKS ON BRITISH LINE ARE BEATEN BACK

Italians Have Hot Work Along the Trentino Front

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The British official communication issued last evening says:

"This morning after an artillery bombardment, the enemy attacked west of the Schwaben redoubt (in the Somme region of France), but was repulsed before reaching our position. He suffered considerable casualties.

"Elsewhere there is nothing to report."

ARTILLERY VERY ACTIVE.

PARIS, Oct. 20, via London, Oct. 21.—The French official communication issued here tonight says:

"On the Somme front there is nothing to report beyond the usual artillery fighting, which was particularly active in the sectors of Sailly-Saillisel, Berry-en-Santerre and Abancourt.

"There was in intermittent cannonade on the remainder of the front.

BATTLE RAGING IN TRENTINO.

ROME, Oct. 20, via London, Oct. 21.—Violent fighting for possession of the Tooth of Pasubio, in the Trentino, is continuing.

The official statement reads:

"At Conca, in the Ledro Valley, during the night of October 18, some enemy detachments attacked our advance lines northeast of Lenzuno, but were promptly driven off.

"Yesterday, on Mount Pasubio sharp fighting continued for possession of the Tooth. The enemy, regardless of loss, launched four massed attacks with Kaiserjaeger troops, who were repeatedly mown down by our concentrated fire. After severe fighting the position remained, for the greater part, in our hands. We inflicted very serious losses on the enemy and made 107 prisoners, including 10 officers.

"Along the rest of the front there were only artillery actions, these being more intense in the region east of Gorizia and on the Carso. Hostile aeroplanes unsuccessfully attempted to bombard the bridge over the But, in the neighborhood of Tomezzo."

IMPORTANT SERB ADVANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The battle for Monastir, Serbia, takes first place in the news today in the London newspapers. The Serbians are credited with a brilliant success, having by the capture of Brod and Velyeselo Thursday gained a position behind the main Bulgarian front, against which the Entente Allies made an unsuccessful attack in force last Saturday. The Serbian advance is regarded as of the greatest importance to the whole Entente program against Monastir.

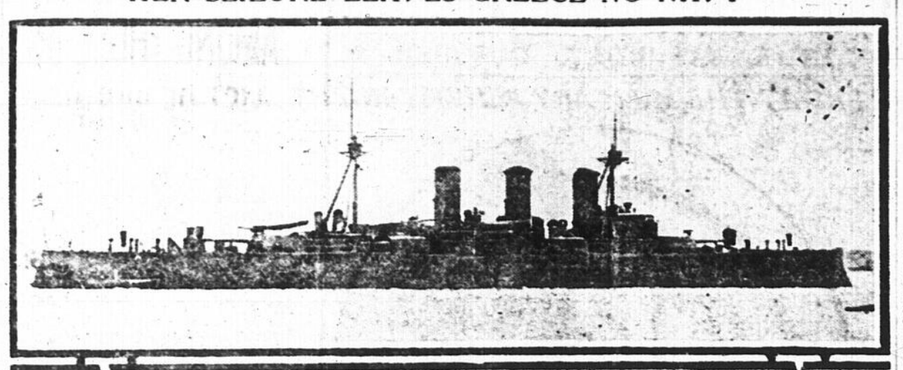

The Serbians are still continuing the battle, which also had been taken up by their allies. The latest despatch regarding the situation comes from Reutter's Athens correspondent, under date of Friday. It says: "There is desperate fighting in the Kenali sector, where the Serbians are attacking along the entire line, supported by the French. The struggle went on all day yesterday and has not yet been concluded."

The British press representatives with the Serbian army, in a despatch dated Thursday says: "The sudden thrust of the Serbians across the Cerna River has driven the Bulgars out of the villages of Brod, Dradilovo and Velyeselo, and the enemy is being chased by cavalry out of sight behind the hills.

"Then Kenali lines of entrenchments, which are comparable to the trenches of the western front in strength and against which a determined frontal attack proved inadequate last week, are now, geographically speaking, turned. The Serbians on the Bulgar left flank are well behind the main alignment of the Bulgar front. Today's offensive in fact, surpassed the expectations even of the Serbians themselves."

Rev. John McNeill, the world-wide known evangelist, has been invited to accept a charge in Glasgow after his campaign amongst the soldiers.

SOLUTION TO IRELAND SEEMS NEARER NOW

But one might well doubt whether the rank and file of the Irish in Liverpool might not have undergone the same process of disintegration as has come unfortunately on the Irish at home. The ties between Liverpool and Ireland are very close, not merely because a fourth if not close upon a third of the entire population of Liverpool is Irish, but because the trade relations between Liverpool and Ireland are so close and intimate that the two cities are in constant intercommunication and intercommunion.

Irish cattle are brought over every week by Irish salesmen; Irish provisions land by every Irish boat; and the distance between the city and Liverpool is so brief and can be done by such excellent boats, that there is a constant going and coming of all the sections of Irishmen for pleasure, for vacation, for visiting friends, apart altogether from the close and large commercial ties. It was impossible, therefore, to tell beforehand, whether some of the virus of Sinn Feinism and other popular lunacies in Ireland should not have spread to the Irish in Liverpool in these topsy-turvy times.

It would be perhaps an exaggeration to say that there isn't a Sinn Feiner in Liverpool; there are a few; indeed, it is reported that some of the number left Liverpool to take part in the recent rebellion, but they are so few that really it requires some investigation to find them. At the beginning of the war, perhaps the half hundred or so who adhered to the new doctrines of revolt from the constitutional movement, sought to interrupt the meetings which were held throughout Liverpool by the leaders of our organization, the United Irish League there. But they were confronted quite openly and boldly wherever they appeared.

The Irish in Liverpool are fortunate in having been able to organize their forces with great success. The Liverpool municipality is the only one in Great Britain where there is a distinct Irish party—fifteen in number—with their own chairman, their own secretary, even their own whips, and, of course, their own caucus.

The Royal Liverpool regiment has had an Irish battalion for two generations, and during this war it has found innumerable recruits, not only in Liverpool but throughout Lancashire. Lancashire indeed has given proportionately more Irish soldiers to the Army than any other community in the country, with the possible exception of the Irishmen in and at Glasgow, another great Irish centre.

SUNK RELIGIOUS DIFFERENCES

The men and women whom I was addressing had given their sons to the war; many of them had lost them. There was a great ceremony at the pro-Cathedral for the souls of the dead soldiers of the Irish battalions. It is significant of the change of the best of the English spirit towards Ireland that the Lord Mayor — himself a stout Protestant and representative of the most Protestant, not to say the most Orange city in England — attended in his robes of office, and he was accompanied by members of the Municipality — including some Orange Tories, even a Jewish member.

They listened with that strange tranquility of Englishmen under criticism, which is always a marvel to those who don't know them, to very very candid criticism of their religion; and to quite a lively survey of English Protestantism under the inspiration of Germans—"from Luther to the Kaiser"—as Father Bernard Vaughan succinctly put it in a speech the next day to an equally mixed audience of Protestant and Catholic English and Irish.

But if I want to recount the thing which impressed me most as to the real feeling of the Irish in Liverpool—I must mention my visit to the schools and the college of St. Francis Xavier, the great Jesuit institution to which so many boys and girls of Irish parentage owe their education.

"How many of you have relatives in the army?" asked Father Parry, the Rector,—"a father an uncle or a brother?" Three-fourths of them held up their hands.

"How many of you have lost a relative in the war?" A third of them held up their hands.

"Do any of you want Germany to win?"

"No, No, No," the denial was rendered the more striking and pathetic because it came in the treble tones of childhood.

Such, then, is that Ireland which dwells in Liverpool. What German gold may have succeeded in doing elsewhere — what revolutionary insanity may have effected in people elsewhere — what the brutal and cruel methods of suppression adopted after the Rebellion may have succeeding in diverting Irish minds from the larger issues of this tremendous conflict — I can say with perfect accuracy that the Irish in Great Britain remain steadfast to the position which they adopted unanimously at the beginning of the war.

They are like Lloyd George — they want a fight to the finish and the triumph of those principles of the independence of small nations, the principle of Nationality of freedom and of democracy.

VON REVENTLOW TRIES TO FORCE MORE SEA MURDER

LONDON, Oct. 21.—An Amsterdam despatch to the Daily Mail says: "Tuesday's issue of Germania of Berlin, the organ of the Catholic party, publishes an account of revelations made at a meeting of Count von Reventlow's independent committee for German peace terms.

"On Sunday night the chairman, Prof. Schafer, said that the deputation had an interview with the Chancellor on September 14, when they demanded an immediate opening of a ruthless submarine campaign and expressed want of confidence, owing to the Chancellor's lack of firmness against England and America.' In reply the Chancellor said that he also considered England the chief enemy, but for political and military reasons could not yet begin ruthless submarining.'

"He had, he said, been reproached concerning the Kaiser's letter to President Wilson, of September, 1914, regarding the use by the French of dumdum bullets. He admitted this letter was a mistake of the Kaiser's. Prof. Schafer ended by saying that submarining would be useless unless it began immediately.

"Count von Raventlow bitterly attacked von Hefferich, and said the German Government not only deliberately encouraged publication in Germany of American newspaper protests whenever a ship was sunk in which the United States was interested, but he would also go so far as to say that the American press was encouraged by the German Government to publish these protests. "Naturally," he continued, 'the position of the present Chancellor is important, but it seems to me its importance is being exaggerated and we ought not to overlook the position of the present Vice-Chancellor, who is the coming Chancellor.'

Says People of U. S. Are for the Allies

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Ten American aviators in the uniform of the French army were cheered by a great gathering of men distinguished in the official and intellectual life of France at a luncheon given today in honor of Dr. Morton Prince, of Boston, who presented to President Poincare last week, the "Address to the people of the Allied nations," signed by 500 Americans.

Mm. Pichon, Leygues and Bouillon, in toasting Dr. Prince, made sympathetic reference to the death, while fighting for France, of Norman Prince, a nephew of Dr. Prince. Dr. Prince, in responding, explained the difference between the neutrality of the American Government and the ardent sympathies of a majority of the American people. He said he was proud that his family had given one son to die as an aviator in the service of the French army.

EVERY SOLDIER TO CARRY TWO DISKS

LONDON, Oct. 21.—In future each officer and soldier will be supplied with two identity dics, to be suspended from the neck.

Though no explanation of the order for the innovation is given, it is thought that the idea is to use the second disc for the preservation of the identity of a body, after the first is removed for the purpose of the casualty list.

The second disc will be suspended by six inches of cord from the upper, the former being red and the latter green.

Putting the "Eat" in Whole Wheat

The whole wheat grain is without doubt the most perfect food given to man. But you don't want to eat raw wheat—it would be imperfectly digested if you did eat it. Whole wheat bread made of so-called "whole wheat flour" is not much better. All the nutritive elements in the whole wheat grain are supplied in a digestible form in

Shredded Wheat

It is the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. It supplies all the body-building elements of the whole wheat in a digestible form. It is the shredding process that put the "Eat" in Shredded Wheat. Try one or more of these crisp, delicious little loaves of baked wheat for breakfast with milk or cream.

Because of the War

we are compelled to make this announcement.

The leading merchants of Canada have this year given us more and larger orders for "CEETEE" underclothing than ever before in our history.

Yet we find it impossible to fill them promptly for two reasons: one, lack of raw materials (finest Merino yarns); the other, scarcity of specially qualified labor.

The Raw Material

difficulty is due partly to the fact that all the yarn-spinning factories in the Old Country are under the supervision of the British Government, and the bulk of their yarn is required for clothing for the men of the great Navy, the Empire's bulwark, and for Kitchener's great Army—consequently we can only secure what can be spared from the overplus, if any.

We can buy plenty of "Merino Wool," and good Merino Wool at that, but not of the quality we have always used and intend to always use for "CEETEE" Garments.

Indeed, we would rather not make any at all than lower the quality.

Then partly to the difficulty of securing ships to carry the wool in.

Finer-Knitted and Lighter Underclothing the Warmest

The following item will show that the British Government are now recognizing a fact that we have always been proclaiming.

The Principal of Hawick Technical Institute, Scotland, recently stated as follows:—

"Owing to the lack of sufficient numbers of coarse gauge frames on which to make military garments, the authorities have been compelled to consider the acceptance of garments of a FINER class.

"The results in point of comfort for the men have been so satisfactory that it is very unlikely that there will be a general acceptance of coarse fabrics, as in the past. . . . It has been discovered that in using the coarse types of woollen yarns, made from wool of thick fibre and of small heat-retaining property—the men are carrying weight WITHOUT CORRESPONDING INCREASED WARMTH.

"Indeed, it is found that for warmth and comfort, BETTER RESULTS are obtained from finer fibred materials, while the freedom of movements of the limbs is very much increased.

"The recent increase in the demand for FINER YARNS FOR MILITARY GOODS will certainly be permanent."

The extra warmth of "CEETEE" Underclothing, which is now a recognized fact, is due to the above facts. Not only is it made from the finest and purest Australian Merino Wool, but it is knitted closer, thus producing lighter weight, with greater warmth and freedom.

All joins have selvage edges and are KNITTED, NOT SEWN together. Thus there are no seams to ravel or irritate.

A "CEETEE" garment is so soft a baby can wear it.

The Labor Scarcity

is caused partly from the fact that the knitters or operators on the "Special Machines" (the only machines of their kind in Canada used for underclothing) required for "CEETEE" are specially trained and almost "bred" to the work—family after family for generations being trained in this special line—consequently when many of our employees joined the colors they could not be replaced, as it is impossible to secure new workers from Scotland or the Old Country owing to even a much greater need for them over there, where they are "doing their bit" by making underclothing for the Army and Navy.

We do not complain, in fact would cheerfully lose all our business if it would assist the Allies in bringing this great fight for civilization, liberty and democracy to an earlier close.

We felt it our duty, however, to frankly explain the situation to the Canadian public and ask them to order their "CEETEE" Winter Underclothing from their dealers EARLY if they wish to be sure of getting it—and to be patient with us if they do not secure it promptly

Very truly yours, (Signed) C. Turnbull
President

None Like it in Canada

The unique distinction of being the only underwear of its kind made in Canada belongs to "CEETEE," the pure wool underclothing that will not shrink.

"CEETEE" UNDERCLOTHING is knitted on special machines, that automatically shape it to fit the human form, by adding or reducing stitches as required.

This is what makes "CEETEE" so comfortable on the body.

They are then put through a special secret process, which makes them so that they will not shrink.

So confident are we in this secret process that we absolutely guarantee to repiace, free of charge, any garment that shrinks.

This well-known brand of pure wool underclothing is made on special machines, used exclusively by us.

These machines are the only ones of their kind in Canada used for making underwear.

When the agent of the British Government came to Canada, looking for underclothing for the soldiers, these were the only machines in Canada that could make the goods up to the standard of the samples he brought with him.

Now, ordinary underwear is knitted on circular machines, in different widths, to suit the various sizes of the body. They are then cut into proper-sized lengths for vests, drawers or combinations—sleeves sewn in and seams sewn together.

These are good garments, and we make a lot of them, the finest of their kind, and have done so for sixty years.

But for people who are particular and can afford to pay for them, we manufacture our "CEETEE" UNDERCLOTHING, which will compare favorably with any garment the world over.

The firm of Turnbull's has been established in Canada since 1859, and has grown from a small water-power mill to one of the largest plants of its kind in Canada.

GIFTS FOR NATIONAL LACROSSE PLAYERS WHO TOOK NO PAY

TODAY'S SOCCER REFEREE IS VERY STRIKING FIGURE

The record of "Dick" Walker in twenty-five years' local soccer experience is without a parallel. From 1891 to 1916 is a big jump. This afternoon "Dick" Walker referees the greatest game of the year, Garrison Vickers vs. P. Lyall, on Tuck's ground, and marks his last official appearance after continuous service of a quarter of a century, and is "in a 'hoy' of fifty-three years.

Dick Walker arrived in Montreal September, 1891, and played his first game for the "Druids" on Fletcher's Field, against the "Thistles," his side winning 2-1. The following Saturday he appeared against Grand Trunks, a famous club in their day. He remained a member of the Druids until July 1, 1894, when he left to join All-Montreal against Farm Rangers, Vermont, on M. A. A. A.'s ground. Montreal won this 4-1, and "Dick" was carried from the field shoulder high, and styled in the press "the little hero." Then business took him to Toronto, where his soccer activities followed, for he there formed a team from Bell Telephone employees. Returning to Montreal the following year, he rejoined the old Druids, who were subsequently taken over by Shamrock A. A. A., but eventually disbanded. Playing for M. A. A. A. against C. P. R., in 1896, when not in condition, pneumonia pulled him up and he was four months in the Western Hospital. For a time he took up cricket, and was the man to surpass the famous "Victoria" for the club so well known in later years. Returning to soccer again, refereeing occupied his time. Three years ago he helped to found St. Thomas Aquinas Football Club, and one afternoon, though fifty years of age, jumped into the breach, rather than see the Saints go on short handed, and played left full back. Strange that his last game as a player, in 1913, should be against a club bearing the same name as the first, in 1891, "Thistles." This is a brief story of a man whose services to Montreal soccer cannot be too widely recognized.

NO OUTSIDE STARS FOR TIGER GAME

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., Oct. 21. — Following the play of Major Sam Manson on the Ottawa team against Queen's last Saturday it has been rumored that Hal De Grasby, the former star centre-half of the T. R. and A. A. A. team of Toronto, and Lieut. "Dink" Dibble, of the Toronto squad, will likely play with the Tigers against Ottawa.

These rumors are entirely unfounded, as the officers of the Tiger team are averse to "ringing" in any outsiders on their team, they being resigned to win or lose the championship as their lot may be with a team composed only of the 205th Tiger Battalion.

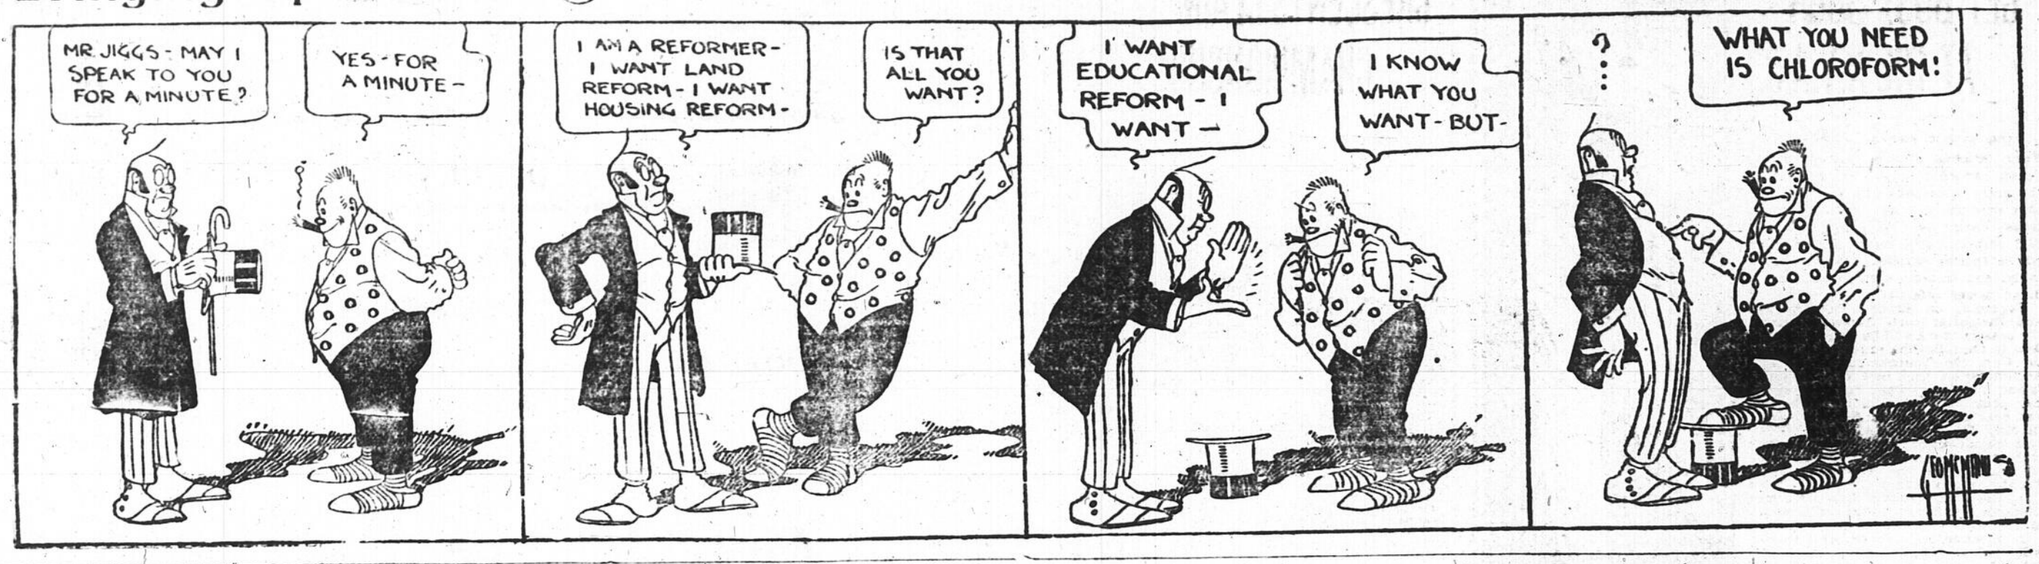

TENNIS NOTES

The protest of the Montreal West Tennis Club against Tibbe, a member of Y.M.C.A. Tennis Club, was squashed by the Province of Quebec Lawn Tennis Association at a special meeting held in the M.A.A.A. Club House last night. This decision now gives the Y.M.C.A. the Intermediate Championship once again, they having won the honor seven times during the past eight years, losing it to St. Lambert last season. Montreal West protested Tibbet under the rule that a player must be a member of a club fourteen days before he can take part in any league match. This the Y. M. C. A. proved by furnishing plain facts of the case. Tibbet having been a member of the Westmount Branch for some considerable time previous to the protested game.

NATIONALS WILL PRESENT GIFTS TO AMATEURS

A. L. Caron Most Likely Man for President Once More—Annual Meeting to Be Held Within Two Weeks

When the National A. A. A. holds its annual meeting within the next two weeks gifts will be made to all those lacrosse players who did not take any pay for their services.

These include: Brossard, Dandurand, Doutre, Lapensee, Dr. Lachapelle, Lamoureux, Bellerose and Monette.

According to Raoul Dumouchel, chairman of the Lacrosse Committee, the Association had a very prosperous year, and he points out how all the other clubs made big money from their matches with the Nationals.

There is talk that there will be a number of candidates for executive positions when the annual elections come up, but it looks as if president A. L. Caron might be nominated and elected once more to the position of chief executive.

The majority of the members realize that with an unfinished new club house on their hands and an unexpected session of financial stringency to pass through on account of the war he has managed with much skill to steer the association boat safely through the rock-beset course that lay ahead of them, and unless he should absolutely decline he will no doubt be asked again to keep the helm for another year.

SONS OF SCOTLAND CONCERT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The Sons of Scotland had a rare "smoker" at the Engineers' Armoury last night. There was a goodly gathering of "Sons" and their friends. Craig Campbell presided, and he was supported by a host of talent, notably the 5th Pioneers. The artists were: "Jock" Hunter, A. Nolan, concertina; A. Park, violinist; Pipe-Major Sullivan and McGregor, bagpipe selections; Billy Williamson, the 5th Pioneer mascot; G. Taggart, comedian; J. Currie, comedian; G. McDougall, song and dance; Albert Lowe and Craig Campbell, elocutionists; Lieut. "Roddy" Campbell was down to make a recruiting speech, but had a more important engagement, for the gallant officer is to be married.

The program altogether was one of the best the Sons of Scotland ever put forward. The evening was perfectly enjoyable and one not to be forgotten for a while.

Much Money Given by Westmount Bowlers to Patriotic Funds

The annual meeting of the Westmount Lawn Bowling Club and the presentation of prizes was held in the club house of the Heather Curling Club last night. The reports of Secretary G. W. Dow showed that the club had enjoyed a successful season and that the members had done a great deal for the various patriotic funds of Montreal. The club had the honor of winning the St. Pierre Trophy, which was presented by W. J. R. Hughes, of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, which held the cup during last season. This trophy was won by Westmount after a play-off with Valleyfield Club.

The club started out with a membership of one hundred and fifty-three, which was reduced by resignations and deaths during the season by twenty-three, while the membership shown at the meeting last night was one hundred and sixty-four. Three of the club's members, Brigadier-Colonel Charles A. Sspart, Lieut. narold C. Norton and Lieut. James McNaught, are now on active service.

From club competitions a sum of $39.50 was realized and donated to The Gazette Tobacco Fund. $51 was given to the Artillery Ladies' League and $10 to the Prisoners of War Fund. The following are the officers elected for the year:—

JOHNSON HAD APPROVED SCALE OF PRICES FULLY, SAYS GOVERNOR TENER

President of National League Answers Ban's Complaint About Brooklyn Rates — Player Limit May Be Changed Next Year

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The Sun says: When Squire Ebbets announced his world's series prices, including sixteen rows of grand stand chairs at $5 a throw and $2 for bleacher seats, it was our idea that the Brooklyn club was levying an unreasonable tax on its world's series pasteboards, and we did not hide our views from the fans. Later President Tener of the National League put out a statement, in which he assumed full blame for the high prices in Brooklyn in the name of the National Commission, saying "The Brooklyn club had absolutely no voice in the matter."

Since the series ended Ban Johnson, president of the American League, has given out several interviews in which he severely criticises the high world's series prices and announces himself in favor of a general cut. Big Ban, in doing his criticising, looked in the general direction of Brooklyn.

Several persons have written to The Sun asking why Johnson raps the high prices of the games in Brooklyn when Ban was a party to setting the Flatbush prices, according to Tener's statement. The former Keystone executive had been taking a short vacation since the world's series, but was back at his desk yesterday. We asked him to help us out of our dilemma.

Since the series we also have received information from an official source that Ebbets originally had intended to ask still more for certain seats than he did, but that the commission cut him down. We also put that up to Tener.

TENER'S STATEMENT.

"Ebbets did call attention to the fact that the Giants got $6.25 for a box seat during their world's series, a box of four selling for $25," said Tener. "However, it was shown to Ebbets that each Polo Grounds box was a concrete affair, entirely separate from its neighbor, and Ebbets readily consented to the reduction to the sale price of $5. They were the only seats that there was any discussion about."

Tener, however, refused to be absolutely pinned down as to who actually sells the price tickets in Brooklyn. He said "the commission approved the prices, and therefore was responsible for them. Of course, we do not say such and such a grand stand seat shall sell for so much, and another seat shall sell for something else. We consider the nature of the grand stand and its seats."

Tener was asked, "Why were the prices not raised in Boston, and why did the Commission give out a different scale of prices for the Philadelphia Nationals?"

"The stands were different," Tenor replied. "Ebbets's 50 cent stands correspond to the 50 cent stands that Connie Mack got $2 for, and the Athletics had some upper grandstand seats."

Attention was called to the fact that if the Athletics had any $5 grandstand seats they were very few, and that their $2 pavilion seats were roofed, whereas Ebbets's so-called pavilion seats were his open 50 cent bleachers.

"The number of rows for which $5 had been charged makes no difference," continued Tener. "The fact remains there was a precedent for $5 grandstand seats.

COMPARED TO FIGHT PROMOTER.

"I can't understand this anyway. A fight promoter can charge $50 for a choice seat to a thirty minute fight, often a brutal exhibition, and get away with it, yet they raise the dickens because $5 is charged for the best seat for an two-hour exhibition of the cleanest sport in the world."

"Then you do not agree with Johnson that the prices of world's series seats are too high?" Tener was asked.

"I have nothing to say on the subject," remarked Tener.

Tener then was asked whether Johnson registered any protest against the prices of tickets in Brooklyn. "He did not," replied Tener. After the commission gave its consent to Ebbets to charge $5 for certain grandstand seats Johnson said, 'Then it will be all right for Navin of Detroit to charge $5 for grandstand seats right behind the boxes.' At that time it looked as though Detroit might win."

Tener makes no excuse for the National League in its poor showing during world's series and post season games during the last half dozen years. "There is no use in the National League making any excuse or giving any alibis. We have played poor ball, very poor ball in the last few series. Our pitchers held up, but that is all. And I appreciate that something must be done. I am not trying to pretend not to see it.

"In the opening sentence of my annual message to the club presidents I have called attention to the fact that the National League does not get its prestige in the executive offices, but on the ball field. That is where the public judges us.

"Every effort must be made all around to strengthen the league. When Harvard failed to score a victory in eight years against Yale, Harvard did not quit and say what is the use. They tried all the harder every year to win, and in late years they have the Elis on the run.

"That is the attitude the National League takes on this world's series question. Those recent defeats have stung, and with each defeat we are all the more eager to turn the tide. And that is what we must all work for and strive for. I want every one in the league, presidents, managers and players, to aim for a National League victory next fall. That must be our goal."

Tener was asked whether in his opinion the twenty-one limit was responsible for the National League's fall down in recent years. "No one can actually tell whether or not this limit has injured us in competition with the American League. Our player limit is a delicate matter which the men with their money invested in the game must settle for themselves. Personally I believe it has worked against the National League and I think by next season the player limit in our league will be increased."

TRAP-SHOOTERS GET BUSY SOON AT THE N.Y.A.C.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — The New York Athletic Club's trap-shooting season, which promises to bring out the great aggregation of contestants that ever faced the Mercury Foot traps, begins on Saturday, October 28, with a 100-"bird" match, for which special handicaps will be allotted and suitable scratch and handicap prizes offered.

Beginning on Sunday, October 29, and thereafter each Sunday during the season, there will be four matches shot in the following order: The Haslin Cup, the Tournament Cup, the Accumulation Cup and the Travers Island Trophy. The regular club day program begins on November 4 and continues on every Saturday until May 12, 1917, on which day the club championship will be shot. On club days the program will consist of matches for the Travers Island Trophy, the Monthly Cup, the Club Cup, the Accumulation Cup and the Distance Handicap in that order, each at 25 "birds."

On Election Day, November 7, there will be a special match at 200 "birds," open only to New York Yacht Club members. Five scratch and five handicap prizes are offered, in addition to the high scratch and high handicap prizes. "Turkeys, cranberries an' everything" (with apologies to Briggs of The New York Tribune), as Captain George J. Corbett put it, will be the prizes offered in the 100-"bird" shoot on Thanksgiving Day.

There will be special shoots at 200 "birds" on New Year's Day, Lincoln's Birthday and Washington's Birthday. The first open only to members, and the two last-named to all amateurs. The first competition for the George L. Lyon Memorial Cup will be held on February 22, 1917. The twelfth annual championship of America at clay birds will be shot on Friday, May 4. The season trophies are for the high average, the long run, the high score and the novice improvement.

National League Limit to Be Raised to 25 Men Again

Special to The Star.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—National League Club owners have had their fill of the twenty-one player limit, and it has been learned that at the next meeting of the organization in December the limit will revert to twenty-five.

Managers are loudest in their protests against the smaller limit. Their contention is they cannot retain a sufficient number of utility players with which to direct manoeuvres as they desire and are handicapped in more ways than one and will urge their presidents to vote for a return of the twenty-five limit.

Baseball, in the eyes of most managers, has reached a stage where it is believed that it is necesary to carry eight or more pitchers. Carrying this number of pitchers does not leave room for sufficient utility in and outfielders.

A meeting of the lady associate members of the M.A.A.A. will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ladies, who are in charge of the program for the Ladies' Night entertainment on November 11, will discuss their various ways and means of entertainment.

REAL PRO GOLF CHAMPION

Meet Jim Barnes, all you golfers. He is a professional, but he knows golf. Yes, he plays for money prizes, and he is not ashamed of it. He is just like a baseball player—he doesn't play for mere fun. But he plays real golf. If you want to see real baseball you don't watch a college nine; you go up to Boston and see champions. Mr. Barnes is the winner of the professional tournament at the Siwanoy Country Club at Mount Vernon, N.Y.,

Of course, the national open golf championship, won by "Chick" Evans, recently, goes as the greatest golfing event of the year. But many of those who saw Barnes win this event figure him as the real golf champion of the United States.

Weird Rumors of Changes in Intnl. Baseball League

Special to The Star.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Oct. 21.—It is announced that the Greys are again for sale, price $45,000. One year was enough for owner W. Draper, who is now anxious to unload. The franchise, of course, to remain in Providence. Here a considerable change is looked for in the circuit of the International. No one expects Montreal to stay long, if as reported, Hamilton, Canada, is to get in. Syracuse would be welcomed in place of Montreal and would shorten the travelling expenses a whole lot.

BOTH STARS AND CRESCENTS CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP

It is tomorrow afternoon at Delorimier Park, that the Stars and Crescents meet in their play-off for the City League championship and everything promises to be one of the most exciting and interesting matches ever scheduled in this city.

After the sensational contest between the two clubs last Sunday, the Stars big ninth inning rally, and the developments of this week, there is more real live enthusiasm being shown by not only the followers of both teams, but the local fans in general, than ever in the history of the local league.

The attendance mark is expected to be a record breaker in baseball for this city, and the two teams appear equally confident on the outcome. The teams will line-up with practically the same order as last Sunday. Geo. Parks will be Umpire in chief, and Hal. Samson base umpire.

The match will start at 2.30 sharp, the batting order of the teams will be as follows:

Stars—Bclac, ss; Waddell or Williams, rf; Cline, lf; Morin, 3b; Cleghorn, cf; Rice, 2b; Carver, 1b; Towne, c; Malcolm Fraser, Auccin or Silverman, p; Ashton, utility.

Crescents—J. Jacobs, cf; Cutter, 2b; Grannary 3b; Major ss; Curtis, lf; Smith or Webster, rf; Burke, 1b; G. Millar, c; D. Miller or Gilbert, p; Hetu, utility.

A FAMOUS GOLFING CABINET.

An Ottawa correspondent writes the "Canadian Golfer":

"There have been recently added to the ranks of the Golfing Members of the Cabinet two more Cabinet Ministers in the persons of the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs, and the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor General, as well as Mr. F. B. McCurdy, the new Parliamentary Under Secretary for the Militia Department. In consequence, we now frequently see upon the links the following members of Parliament who are members of the Cabinet or closely associated with it, namely:— The Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Premier; the Hon. Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance; the Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture; the Hon. Sir George Perley, Minister without portfolio; the Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; the Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Customs; the Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor-General and Mr. F. B. Spectators Wanted Drainpipes for Sam Langford's Blood

Special to The Star by United Press

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 21.— So many unkind things have been said in Buenos Aires concerning the tameness of the recent Langford-McVey fight, that the promoters have issued an explanation which declares that:

"To those who wish to see a drain-pipe around the ring to catch the blood, and an audience waiting at the front door of the club to bring the boxers to the morgue, I can only say that they were disappointed, but the days of this kind of pleasure have long since passed in the grand old game of boxing."

Fans who saw the alleged fight say they do not think Langford and McVey will be bothered the next time they meet in Buenos Aires by spectators who want to "see a drain-pipe around the ring to catch the blood," or by any other kind of spectators.

YOUNG PIANIST STAR ARTIST AT NEXT CONCERT

antzen is destined some day to rival Paderewski and Hoffman. She shared with the orchestra a remarkable ovation. Her touch is marvelous in its strength and sureness.

The concert tomorrow begins at three o'clock.

TWO GREAT ARTISTS.

Two of the world's greatest artists will appear in Montreal this winter, under the management of C. O. Lamontagne, Jacques Thibaud, the French violinist, and Pablo Casals, the incomparable 'cellist. Thibaud, is beyond doubt the finest exponent of the French school of the violin. In his own country charm, finesse of style, elegance, esprit are considered above all else and these he possesses to the greatest degree; his technic is well nigh perfect. The Boston Globe critic said: "The records of his concert should be written down conspicuously in the musical annals of this town. Mr. Thibaud plays the violin as a poet might sing. His art is exquisite in its fineness of texture, its grace of form, its tenderness, its spirituality; and there is a balancing masculinity, a quiet and searching strength, a nobility, that lies deeper than rhetorical flourish or challenge." This artist will be heard in Windsor Hall, Tuesday evening, December 5.

Montreal is sufficiently acquainted with Pablo Casals not to need any further introduction. The world's greatest 'cellist will come in February, probably the fifteenth.

CHARLES COURBOIN.

GRAZIELLA DUMAINE.

A friendly audience greeted Mlle. Graziella Dumaine Monday afternoon when she gave a recital by invitation in the Windsor Hotel. This event marked her last concert appearance previous to going abroad for further study.

Mlle. Dumaine's clear, attractive soprano was listened to with the greatest pleasure. Her program was ambitious, there was an air from "The Magic Flue," and "Vol che sapete," by Mozart, the Bell Song from "Lakme," "Depuis le jour," from "Louise," with Bishop's "Gentle Lark" and "The Lass with the Delicate Air." All of these won the young singer generous applause.

SHEARER RECITAL.

J. H. Shearer will give an organ concert in the American Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, at 8.15 p.m. The program has been chosen to display the full resources of the organ, which has been completely overhauled. Madame Wilfrid Bessette, the French contralto, will assist at the concert. The program contains extracts from testimonials to Mr. Shearer from Charles M. Widor, Philipp Scharwenka and Alfred Hollins. RUSSIAN SYMPHONY.

To the Russian Symphony Orchestra and its noted conductor, Modest Altschuler, the greatest share of credit is due for the present widespread popularity of Russian music in America. Many compositions of Slavic origin, now familiar and admired, owe their first hearing on this side of the Atlantic to the Russian Symphony. In this way, fragments from "Boris Godounow" and "Prince Igor" were played by Mr. Altschuler long before the operas were given at the Metropolitan Opera House and much of the music since heard in conjunction with the Pavlova and Diaghileff ballets was first introduced on Russian Symphony programs.

This orchestra makes a transcontinental tour which brings it to Montreal on November 17.

M. A. A. A. ORCHESTRA.

The M. A. A. A. Operatic Society Orchestra is enrolling members for the season. It is hoped this year to place the organization upon a permanent basis and applications can be made to the secretary at the M. A. A. A. Club House, Peel street. J. J. Shea will again direct the work.

MERLIN DAVIES.

So many artists are imported from outside points that it is a pleasure to record the success of a Montreal artist in New York. Merlin Davies, the Welsh tenor, resident here for several years, gave a recital in New York this week with much success. The New York Sun said of him: "Mr. Davies has a well-trained voice of the kind which is a pleasure to hear. Charming songs by Chadwick Coombs, Whepley and Lipton, demonstrated in the hands of a singer of Merlin Davies' ability, that simplicity is, after all, only the best means of securing artistic excellence. It is a real satisfaction to listen to a singer who knows what he can do."

Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, wrote the following: "In my opinion, Merlin Davies is one of the best oratorio singers in this country. His style represents the very best English traditions of our oratorio singing. His diction is pure; his delivery earnest and sincere; his voice very sympathetic. He should be better known in our country."

YVETTE GUILBERT.

The art of Yvette Guilbert is far reaching in scope. It has been acknowledged by men of letters, artists, musicians, and savants the world over for its splendid research and re-construction, for Yvette Guilbert's genius for interpretation conveys the atmosphere of the France of the Crusades—of the Field of the Cloth of Gold, and of all the later days of romance and chivalry.

Yvette Guilbert now is at the zenith of her remarkable powers. She returned last season to America after an absence of seven years, and her welcome was royal, New York alone giving her twenty-four appearances. She gives a recital here on Monday.

BRITAIN AND 1870 — NEUTRALS AND TODAY.

IN 1870, Prussia crushed France; and Britain stood aside. The literature of that tragic time reveals how earnestly Britain was implored to go to the rescue of her Gallic neighbor. But the astute and unscrupulous diplomacy of Bismarck had created a feeling of doubt in the British mind during the critical days when the French armies were being smashed and "Sedanned" in the north; and the feeling for intervention made little headway until Paris was encircled, and then British military unpreparedness practically forbade effective intervention.

If Britain had fought for France as promptly then as she did in 1914, history might have taken a far different course. The "ifs" of war are notoriously unprofitable. There were then, and have been since, plenty of critics who have claimed that British intervention could have accomplished nothing in that welter of millions. Numerically, our army was then "contemptible"—just as it was in August, 1914. Still there are other military authorities who tell us that the British army, small as it was, if it had then been promptly flung on the flank of the Prussian advance, would have delayed it until the French had rallied. In that case, Metz would have held; Macmahon would never have been trapped in Sedan; the heroes that subsequently rose on the Loire and elsewhere would have swelled the French forces; and the Prussian plot would have failed. Moreover, the British navy would have played the active part it has in this war; and Germany might have found an expeditionary force on her northwestern flank. Then, had the war gone on, Austria might have moved. She had a very recent defeat to avenge.

* * * * *

In any case, let us assume for a moment that the immediate and vigorous intervention of Britain would have resulted in checking the German flood, saving France from dismemberment, and destroying in child-birth the projected German Empire. What effect would that have had upon present conditions? If Prussia had then been taught that civilized Europe would not permit a bandit nation to profit by a lawless raid upon a neighbor, and if Prussia had only reaped defeat and monetary burdens from her foot-pad tactics, would there have arisen in north Europe, with its capital in Berlin, a great bandit Empire convinced that it would pay to arm to the teeth on sea and land, and then blackmail every other nation into giving it colonies, concessions and "places in the sun" of its own selection? Students of history will admit that it would be most unlikely. The new German Empire, with its Imperialistic ambitions, was built on the successful robber raids of Bismarck, first on Denmark, next on Austria, and then on France. If they had failed, Bismarckism would have been discredited; and the Germans would have returned to their mediaeval activities in art and industry.

So we may infer that if Britain had intervened successfully in the war of 1870, she would never have been compelled to fight the terrible war of 1914-1917. It is likely that she could have finished the job in 1870 with the professional army then in hand, and within the compass of a few months. Thus at a blow she would have slain the ravening wolf of Europe. And where Prussia had failed, Prussia with her compact country and her national militarism—no one else would have ventured. It is quite within the range of the possible that the permanent peace of Europe could have been conquered at that time by a strong combination against the bandit Government which sought to break it with profit. The brand of unprofitableness could have been burned into even military preparedness. We might have been so blessed as to achieve universal restraint in armaments.

We indulge in these conjectures today for the purpose of asking whether a similar parallel does not exist at this moment in the case of great neutral nations who are standing aside from this latest raid by the bandit Empire of Berlin? That bandit Empire is again trying out its religious theory—the religion of Bismarck and Bernhardi—that it pays to create and support huge armaments and employ them to gain markets, colonies and concessions at the point of the bayonet. Very often—in fact, usually—this can be done without fighting at all. The other nations, peacefully inclined and pacifistically unprepared, give way without asking that the possessors of the bayonets prove that they can win. But there is always the risk that some nation, threatened with injury, may fight. In this case, Russia, threatened with the loss of all her prestige and prospects in the Balkans, fought. And we were all in it before the world quite realized what was about to happen.

If Germany makes a success in any measure of the present adventure, she will keep up her military establishment as a paying investment, and we shall have war without ceasing. The neutral nations which now stand aside will infallibly be drawn into the bloody vortex—and probably under conditions which will imply the exhaustion of their utmost resources in order to escape alive. Where they might now teach the "tiger" at small expense in men and money, the final lesson that national blackmail and footpaddery cannot pay in the modern world, if they all joined in giving this lesson, they will probably in the future find themselves—as the British Empire does today—compelled to call out their last man and their last cartridge to foil an attempt on their own national life.

* * * * *

It is all very well for them to say that the Allies will do it without their help. The Allies—thank God!—will win without their help. That much is certain. But the Allies may not be able to teach the needed lesson; for no matter how completely we now win in the end, Germany will be able to say to herself: "If this or that had not happened early in the war, we would have won then." We are on the road to victory today; but we were not always on that road. No careful student of the war will deny that Germany had her chance. So, to the Prussian Imperialist, it will ever look like a gamble that was lost—a gamble worth trying again. But if all the civilized world united against it, as civilized communities unite against individual footpadding and blackmail, then the speculation would definitely and finally fail, and the needed lesson would be taught.

Moralizing neutrals today would do well to look up and read the comment of the British critics on the situation during the agony of 1870.

PUNISHING EDUCATION.

THE utterly unjust proposal has been made by members of the City Council that, in order to cut down expenses, the cost of the medical inspection of schools, which has always been borne by the city, shall be made a burden on education. As there are over twenty medical health inspectors, whose duty it is to visit schools, the amount involved is quite a considerable one. It has already been pointed out by those interested in education that the funds of the various public schools are not such that they can bear depletion in any way. A further assault on the school funds, even more petty and unjust than the one under discussion, is that the cost of collecting the half per cent educational tax on realty, which has for time immemorial been a civic duty shall be laid on the schools.

When the total amount contributed by this city, annually, towards education is compared with that of other great cities, the proposed new burdens appear still more contemptible. Let us take New York, for instance. The sum of twenty-two dollars is set aside annually, out of every one hundred dollars of revenue, for educational purposes. In Montreal the amount is over one-third less. Last year the city's donation to education was fifteen dollars and eighty cents per one hundred dollars of revenue. During the past six years there has been practically no increase in what is given to our schools, and this despite the growth in population, etc. This is proven by looking at the figures of 1910. They show that out of every one hundred dollars of revenue, the amount given the schools was fifteen dollars and seventy-nine cents. It is both proper and urgent that there should be economy in the administration, but to punish education to achieve that end is ridiculous and a pitiable commentary on the narrow vision of those we have elected to govern the city.

If the Germans got any Canadian nickle on the "Deutschland," it is hard to believe that no one was guilty of serious negligence. There ought to be a very full investigation.

There are to be no more German Rhodes scholars. This will prevent the founder of the scholarships from feeling it necessary to haunt somebody. Imagine Rhodes money being used to bring Germans to Oxford after the war!

There was a time when "twisting the Lion's tail" was a favorite sport during an American Presidential campaign. It has been replaced this year by the amusing game of accusing the opposing candidate of favoring the Huns. "Campaign cries" reveal what a nation is thinking.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

Strange Neutrality.

Philadelphia Ledger: According to testimony which there is no reason to dispute, American naval officers actually boarded the Stephano before she was sunk, in order to make sure that all were in the boats, while the Bloomersdijk, already halted, lay by waiting her turn. If this is not giving aid and comfort to a belligerent, what is it? The Allies might be excused if they regarded it as a strange brand of neutrality, "strict" or other.

L'Entente Cordiale in Reality.

L'Echo de Paris: The prolonged stay of millions of British subjects in the northern departments of France will have results which cannot yet be calculated. The alliance, cemented by the blood shed in common, of two races which have long been hostile and which must always remain dissimilar, is a moral event that is taking place before our eyes almost without our noticing it, and that offers to the psychologist a field of observation almost illimitable in its wealth.

After the War Plans.

Chicago Tribune: Canada is making after the war plans. Britain has organized its giant trade federation for maintaining British commerce after the war. France has made its commercial alliances. Italy and Russia are already mobilizing their trade resources as well as their military resources. Germany and Austria, in self-defence against the threatened boycott, are completing their postbellum program. From the war all the nations will come with an efficiency created by the struggle and an ingenuity bred of necessity, against which United States industry must take its stand for self-preservation.

True Soldiers and Gallant Men.

London Times: It is a wonder that never palls, but is always new: the spirit which these men of ours possess, from no matter what corner of the Empire they may have come. One wonders where the grumblers, the cowards, the mean people whom one thought one met in ordinary life have gone. They are not here. Or, if they are, they are uplifted and transfigured. They doubtless, many of them, could not explain or express it, but some wind has blown upon them, the inspiration of a great cause has come into them, some sense of comradeship and brotherhood inspires them, something has made true soldiers and gallant men of them all.

Pacifists Who Had to Fight.

New York Sun: Washington, eloquently expressing his detestation of war, advised his country, in the interests of peace, to avoid entangling foreign alliances. Lincoln's loving heart was well nigh broken from the horrors of a fratricidal conflict that he had striven for years before his election to the Presidency to avert. Upon Grant's tomb on Riverside Drive are carved the words that sprang from his war-weary soul: "Let us have peace." Sherman, the conquering hero who rent the Confederacy in twain, in passionate revolt at the patriotic duty he had been compelled by circumstances to perform, exclaimed: "War is hell." Washington, Lincoln, Grant and Sherman, peace lovers though they were, were obliged, through patriotic motives, to curb their pacific inclinations and wage war, righteous war. The first named waged war to give our nation birth, the last three to the end that our nation might endure.

Daylight Saving Paid.

London Observer: Adopted four months ago mainly for the purpose of securing economy in gas, electric light and fuel, summer time has proved, as the City Corporation recorded the other day, an unqualified success for the whole community. Whether the late Mr. Willett's estimate of a saving of two millions and a half a year will be fully realized remains to be seen. Undoubtedly there has been a great saving in artificial light, and as a consequence a useful economy in coal. Cities like Dundee and Greenock, where careful estimates have been kept, have saved, we are informed, ten to twelve tons of coal a day and three to four million cubic feet of gas a month. Shipyards and engineering works have reported an increased output, due to summer time, and railway companies have noted an improvement in the working of long distance night goods trains.

The "Marseillaise" in London.

London Telegraph: (Describing reception of Le Garde Republicaine in London)—It is the massed bands of the Guards playing the "Marseillaise." At the first notes of it the hands of the Garde Republicaine go up to the salute. It has always flooded the heart of the Frenchman since he took it to be his Hymn of Liberty, set his spirit exulting, and his brain aflame. But it touches the Briton now as it never did before. His people from the ends of the earth have heard it rising triumphant above fields where the sons of France have poured out their blood with quenchless bravery in the fight for freedom. It speaks to them of Verdun, where these sons held the gate with a heroism which has yet to be surpassed. And so today the Guards play it in a new way, with a kind of poignant pride sounding in it, and defiance that struggles with agony and overthrows it. You might think it was their own National Anthem, and this in a sense is what they seem to feel, for, at any rate, it is the anthem of their brothers in a brotherhood sealed with much blood. The Garde have not before heard it played in such a way by us, and it thrills them.

Strange Remedies for Dumbness.

Westminster Gazette: Almost daily we hear of some new instance of the restoration of speech lost by shell-shock. In discussing the subject a week ago the Observer gave the following list of strange cures which it had noticed:

(1) Grew excited over a game of cards.
(2) Fell downstairs.
(3) Had a tooth pulled at the dentist's—without anaesthetic.
(4) Choked through inhaling cigarette smoke.
(5) Underwent a flash-light photograph.
(6) Put the wrong end of a lighted cigarette into his mouth.

And, strangely enough, in the same issue of the paper was set out another cure occasioned by seeing the Somme film. This morning we read of a speechless soldier who was tendered twopence change from a shilling after buying a twopenny article, and at once blurted out: "Here, I want tenpence change, not twopence." All the cures have in them some element of surprise—a shock is the antidote to the consequences of shock—but to the thrifty the worst shock of all would probably be that of receiving insufficient change. We are gathering a long list of harmless remedies which it will be possible to try in succession.

THE PASSING HOUR

A benevolent lady was feeding a hungry tramp. She expressed her disfavor at his wandering, idle life.

"I was not always in this condition, mum," said the tramp. "I came from a good family."

"You did?" asked the lady. "Might I ask the name?"

"Blankyleigh," replied the tramp.

"Why, that's the name of the people who live next door!" exclaimed the lady.

"I know it, they kicked me downstairs just before I came here!"

Mary's mother found her busily engaged in cutting up potatoes. "Why, Mary," said the astonished mother, "what are you doing that for?"

Pausing a moment in her task, Mary looked up and replied: "I heard the man over at the store say that there was money in potatoes this year, mamma, and I was just looking for some."

"I was at the department store the other day when all the lights went out," said Lightfingered Jim.

"What luck!" chuckled his pal. "What did you get?"

"Can I get off tomorrow, sir," asked the workman.

"What for?"

"I want to go to a weddin'."

"Must you go?"

"Well, I'd like to, sir; I'm the bridegroom."

She (tearfully)—Henry, our engagement is at an end, and I wish to return to you everything you have ever given me.

He (cheerily)—Thanks, Blanche! You may begin at once with the kisses!

They are married now.—Pearson's Weekly (London).

Marie, supple and slender, and Aunt Clara, bulky and benign, had returned from a shopping expedition, during which each had been trying to buy a ready-made suit.

At the house Marie was asked what success each had had in her efforts to be fitted.

"I got along very well, said Marie, "but Aunt Clara is getting so fat that about all she can get ready made is an umbrella."

—FROM— THE STAR FILES.

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

The Late Bishop Carmichael.

"A course of lectures on "The Possibility of Corporate Union Between Protestant Churches," will be begun on Sunday by Dean Carmichael at 3, in St. George's School House." — From The Montreal Star, Oct. 21, 1886.

The late Bishop James Carmichael was one of the most distinguished and best beloved dignitaries of his day in the Church of England in Canada. A native of Dublin, the son of James Carmichael, of County Tipperary, he left Ireland in 1859, and was at once ordained by Doctor Cronyn, then Bishop of Huron. He became assistant rector of St. George's Church, Montreal, in 1868, and remained in that charge for ten years. Then for four years he was rector of the Church of the Ascension in Hamilton, Ont. He was appointed Canon of the Hamilton Cathedral in 1880, and returned to Montreal as rector of St. George's in 1882, receiving the honor of Dean one year later. He was made Coadjutor Bishop to the late Archbishop Bond, and Bishop of Montreal on the death of the former.

Bishop Carmichael was a practical microscopist, and was twice president of the Natural History Society. He gave Sunday lectures to men from October to April for many years, dealing chiefly with scientific subjects which touched on religion. He was succeeded by Bishop Farthing.

The accompanying picture was taken thirty years ago.

"Dr. Harper, the newly-appointed inspector of academies and model schools, has just visited the academy at Cote St. Antoine under the Rev. Principal King. There are 149 in attendance. Six applicants had to be refused for lack of room. However, the fine new school building is nearing completion and will soon be occupied."—From The Montreal Star, Oct. 21, 1886.

"The Council of Arts and Manufacturers, meeting today, decided to open next month a school of mechanical training, including carpenter's, blacksmith's and machine shops."—From The Montreal Star, Oct. 21, 1896.

"St. George's Snowshoe Club has completed the purchase of a lot at Cote St Antoine, on which to build a clubhouse. The site is well chosen, affording a fine view and is on the line of the proposed boulevard."—From The Montreal Star, Oct. 21, 1886.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

"Peculiar sadness surrounds the death of the Rev. Principal Henderson, of the Diocesan Theological College, who passed away yesterday afternoon. Today, the formal opening takes place of the handsome new college building on University street."—From The Montreal Star, Oct. 21, 1886.

"A DIALOGUE OF THE DEAD."

L'Oeuvre, of Paris, under the title "A Dialogue of the dead," publishes a conversation between the dead shut up in the Bremen, as the commercial submarine is supposed to be carried along the bottom of the Atlantic by currents.

First Voice—Deutschland ueber alles!

Second Voice—Gott mit uns!

A Dead Seaman—And we have died without reason!

Another Dead Seaman—And we shall never hear the prayers of our wives over our tombs!

A Quartermaster—Yet we were only mercantile sailors who had run the blockade!

The Captain—Gott strafe England!

A Voice—Why this useless death?

A Midshipman—My hopes!

An Aged Engineer—My children!

A Voice—They were fighting!

The Captain—Such gay pirates were they! Their periscopes glided along the surface of the water. As soon as they caught sight of some inoffensive vessel they gave chase. How many hospital ships, harmless merchantmen and peaceful sloops have opened under the shock of their torpedoes!

A Voice—It was something to see them hide in the water when a torpedo boat's smoke was seen rising to heaven!

A Voice—How many have foundered in this war?

A Voice—But that was war!

Another Voice—And we, we were only traders! Why this death of agony, this endless voyage, the sport of the currents?

A Voice—Why? Oh, Lord! Why?

Suddenly a mighty shock, the hull of the submarine is torn open on a gigantic mass of wreckage of steel and iron, and in the thick and glassy water the terror stricken read in blood stained rust a name on which their hulk has opened: Lusitania!

The Lost Penny; An Official Romance

(New York Sun.)

One of the financial tasks of Great Britain after the war will be the finding of the Lost Penny. Its pursuit at present has been abandoned because of the need of men and money for the more immediately vital work of fighting, but there is no danger that the penny will be forgotten.

The Lost Penny went astray some time in the year that ended February 28, 1915. It belonged in the accounts of the Paymaster-General. The Comptroller and the Auditor-General sought it vainly. They were forced to report that from a balance of £2,-[illegible] 13s 3d the Penny, or, as they wrote it 1d., was missing. Nothing much was said at the time, no suspicion was cast on the Paymaster-General, and it was expected that the Penny would be found presently.

But when the report of February 29, 1916, came, the Penny was still missing and bookkeeping Britain began to frown. To what was the empire coming? In the Conservative clubs the absent copper, or, rather its absence, was laid at the door of Lloyd George. Limehouse! This would not have happened under Lord Salisbury. After a summer's work of hunting the four fleeting farthings, the Government has dropped the effort, not as it did the Dardanelles campaign, but for the time being. It was costing hundreds of pounds of clerks' and examiners' time to hound the Penny; money that were not so hard the royal auditors never would consent to a truce with a penny. They would get it, even if the colonies reeled beneath the cost. But war has softened them, and they temporize. Of course, explains an official at the Exchequer and Audit Office, there is nothing to conceal.

A reporter for the Daily Mail went to the Auditor-General with what he considered a fortunate solution of the financial tragedy. It should be explained in palliation of his offence that probably he came from Park Row or Ireland; surely not from Glasgow. He put his hand in his pocket and offered to toss a penny into the Treasury to balance the account. The look he got cannot be put on paper. "It would be highly improper," was the official reply. And every bookkeeper who has toiled into the night because he had added nine and seven and made fifteen of them will appreciate the justice of the answer. In the kingdom of ledgers no guilty penny may run at large.

NEW BOYS' SCHOOL AT OUTREMONT IS VERY FINE PLACE

THE GYMNASIUM GETS PROMINENCE

Special Training for Body as Well as the Mind

The new boys' school at Outremont, Querbes Academy, will be formally opened tomorrow by Sir Lomer Gouin and His Grace, Bishop Gauthier.

This school is a remarkable building in that it is the first in this country to combine all the improvements of a modern primary school with the interesting features of modern clubs for boys and young men, such as bowling alleys, shower baths, a swimming pool, etc. The School Commissioners of Outremont have revolutionized the usual methods of construction and organization of city schools. The building itself has not the severity of style usually considered suitable for school architecture. On account of its exceptional length of 250 feet, it has been necessary to break the facade by architectural artifices of decoration. Another consideration which led the school commissioners to choose the present style of building is the fact that it is in a section where the building laws permit only detached houses which naturally have considerable decorative value, and the school building is thus in harmony with its surroundings.

HAS NO PILLARS.

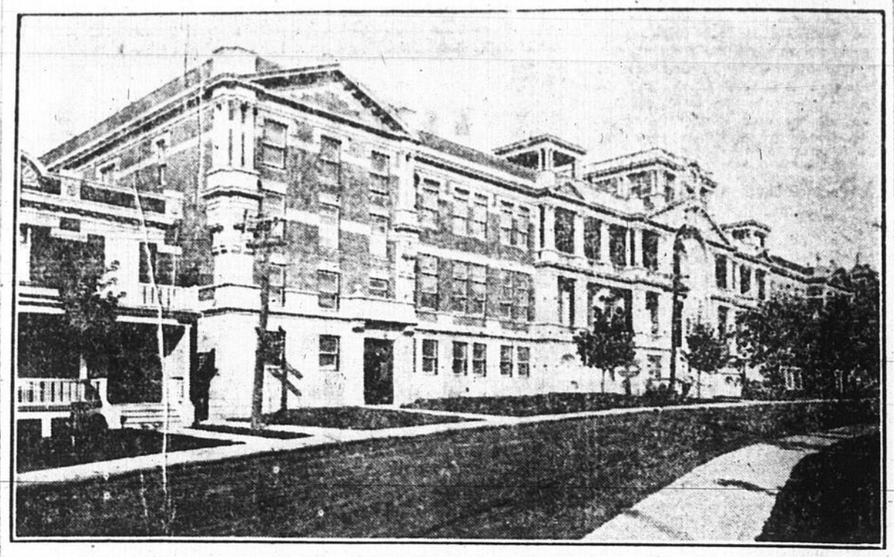

The school is absolutely fire proof. An interesting peculiarity of its construction is the complete absence of pillars in the immense assembly hall which measures 108 by 64 feet. In the arrangement of the interior the school Commissioners of Outremont have shown the importance which they attach to the physical development of the scholars.

The pupils of Querbes Academy will have every facility for healthy recreation. They will have the use of a large and splendidly equipped gymnasium, bowling alleys, and a marble swimming bath. A swimming instructor attached to the school.

All these additions to the ordinary equipment of the school will be placed at the disposition not only of the pupils of the Academy, but of the graduates of the school and of the citizens of Outremont. The success of the new school is already assured by the fact that 200 pupils of neighboring school districts have had to be refused admission on account of the numbers already enrolled.

The land on which the building is situated cost $42,000. The building was erected at a cost of $200,000.

QUERBES ACADEMY AT OUTREMONT

This school for boys combines swimming, gymnasium, etc., with the usual training of the mind. The building was erected at a cost of $200,000.

Salvation Army is Not Given Sanction to Solicit Funds

Special Correspondence to The Star.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 31.—In the present period of war stress appeals on a big scale for public contributions must, like proposals for the formation of companies, receive the sanction of the Commonwealth or of State war councils acting under Commonwealth authority.

This fact was brought under the notice of the Salvation Army in connection with an appeal to the public by the Salvation Army for $250,000 for the declared purposes of providing comforts for soldiers, and to establish in the various States homes where the orphans of soldiers could be provided for.

A good deal of money had already been gathered in or promised when it was made known that the State War Council of Victoria, whose authority had not been obtained, had decided to withhold its sanction without which the appeal could not legitimately proceed.

The Salvation Army people in the ensuing negotiations admitted having inadvertently overlooked the obligation to get the sanction of the War Council, but ultimately succeeded in getting sanction for an amendment of their scheme by making the appeal one specifically one for the orphans of Australian soldiers.

THE INSPECTION OF MEAT SUBJECT OF THIS ADDRESS

Dr. Barnes Is Speaker at Housewives' League Meeting

"Ninety-five per cent of the carcasses condemned in inspected meat plants can be so trimmed that no one could possibly tell that the beef was diseased," said Dr. Barnes, deputy director of veterinary surgery and meat inspector for the Federal Government, in speaking before the Housewives' League yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Barnes said that until municipalities had absolute control of their meat supply, Federal inspection was the only adequate means of preventing infected and tainted meat from being sold. There was at present Federal inspection only of the plants exporting meat or canned goods from Canada or from one province to another. Meat was sold in Montreal daily, however, which had been killed within the province and which had not been subject to inspection. The municipal inspectors were often unable to detect diseased meat because the evidence of disease had been removed before the meat was put on the market.

Dr. Hood, municipal meat inspector, spoke of the shortage of inspectors in Montreal and of the difficulties in the way of inspecting meat killed outside the city but within the province. In answer to a question, Dr. Hood stated that there was nothing to be feared from cold storage meat this year, as prices were so high that no meat was being held in storage for any length of time, dealers being anxious to sell while the market was good.

The president of the Housewives' League, Mme. Fortier, referred briefly to the subject of infantile paralysis and suggested as a preventative the treating of the mouth, throat and nose of children several times a day with a mixture consisting of four parts of olive oil to one part of hydrogen peroxide.

RECRUIT FURTHER DRAFT FOR BRIGADE

Authority has just been received from Ottawa by the Montreal Heavy Brigade to recruit a further draft of men as reinforcements for the Canadian Siege and Heavy Artillery units already at the front. This affords an attractive opportunity for those wishing to go overseas quickly as the draft consists of only one officer and fifty men and will leave as soon as mobilized.

This unit will be raised and taken overseas by Lieut. Michael T. Burke. This officer is the stepson of Capt. G. E. Hall who went overseas with the first heavy battery from Montreal and is now in command of A Unit, Military Hospitals Commission Command for the Province of Quebec. Lieut. Burke is also the nephew of Lieut.-Col. H. J. Trihey O.C. Duchess of Connaught's Own Irish Canadian Rangers.

GREEKS ACTING LIKE BAD BOY TO HIS TEACHER

Athens Having Fine Time Playing at International Politics—"Situation Very Delicate," Yet Nothing is Likely to Happen, Says Corey

By Herbert Corey. (Copyright, 1916.)

ATHENS, Sept. 22.—The revolution is due to happen. No one thinks it will happen, mind you. No one believes there will be so much as a cap cracked in anger. But rumor has it that 2,000 Cretans, armed to the teeth, are on their way here from their gun fighting little island. They plan midnight assassinations, street fighting, widespread hanging. Maybe a crowned head or two will take the kitchen exit from the palace. Maybe the Allies will land troops. Maybe Venizelos may be made president. Athens is very happy.

"The king is intrenched in his palace of Tatoi and Venizelos is surrounded by an armed guard. Whurroo!" says Athens.

One would be justified in assuming that the town is excited. Strangers coming in expect armed guards on every corner, spies, soft-footing through the hotel lobbies, conspirators behind every curtain. Athens is excited, but after a placid fashion. It is looking on at the drama that is being played and enjoying it immensely. I am writing this story to give the Athenian point of view, and writing it in haste in order to catch the boat. It goes by a trusty hand. We have all become melodramatists here. Hence the trusty hand. If I dropped it in the mail it would get to the censor. He has a trustier hand still.

"How is the situation?" I asked a prominent Greek.

"Very delicate," said he. "Very delicate."

"What is apt to happen?"

"Nothing," said he.

That seems to be about the fact. Of course something may happen. Things have happened in the history of Greece. But the atmosphere isn't a convincing one. Athens is being "bad" in the same spirit in which a boy defies the teacher. He knows he may get punished for it, but for the time being he is a hero. This little city conspires at the top of its voice. It utters treason in the most public places it can find. The editors refer to each other as members of the reptilian press, which is a form that went out of vogue years ago in Tin Cup, Arizona. Various papers have called on the king to "draw his sword or resign," which is the Hellenic version of "Put up or shut up." Venizelos is either the greatest patriot of modern times or the lowest pup ever isolated by biologic science. You pay your penny and take your choice. Every time a fresh edition appears. One appears every few minutes.

Athens seems to be looking at the world war through the wrong end of the glass. Instead of being a struggle between civilizations and cultures and nations it is a peculiarly exciting form of local politics. If there is any particularly violent love here for either the Allies or the Germans I have failed to discover it. The world war from the Athenian viewpoint is a contest between the king and Venizelos. If the king wins Greece does not go to war, except at a time and place and on conditions which are to be fixed by him. If Venizelos wins Greece will leave her neutrality at once. As for the army, it is not only loyal to the king—broadly speaking—but has had ten months of mobilization and it wants no more.

"Down with Venizelos!" howled various army officers at a public meeting the other night. They were in full uniform and wore ten-dollar swords. "He wants war."

KING OR VENIZELOS.

This is a city of 250,000 people. One night recently a meeting attended by 60,000 people decided that the country could only be saved by Venizelos. A night or two later another meeting fully as well attended resolved that the king has had his name blown in the salvation bottle. In the United States or in England or in France two meetings of such size, headed by influential men, in which every auditor fairly sizzled with enthusiasm, would have been made the subject of profound thought by the political experts. No one over here has thought of them since, apparently. The explanation is that Greece isn't a democracy. The voice of the people here is only a megaphone through which the King or Venizelos shouts. Greece follows its leaders. In this matter both are agreed.

"Greece is not fit to govern itself," said the king. "It should have a strong monarchical form."

"Greece is not fit to govern itself—yet," said M. Venizelos to me a few days ago. "The ideal form of government here would be a hereditary presidency."

Being used to having their thinking done for them, the Greeks are revelling in a situation which offers them the fun of playing without any real responsibility for the decision. No one talks more or louder than these Athenians. At 8 o'clock this morning they were sipping sweetened Turkish coffee under the sidewalk awnings of the cafes. At midnight they will be sitting in Constitution square, in front of the king's palace, watching a free cinema and eating ices. No man sits alone, unless he has been able to acquire the habit of talking to himself.

Now and then a debater becomes utterly lost in passion. He gives up all grip on himself. He completely loses self-control. Then he half closes his eyes and thrusts his chin at the other fellow. I hate to think what would happen if that gesture were used on election morning in Precinct Nine of the Eleventh Ward, back home. It would be murder, that's all. That is the very worst the Greeks do, however. They have not learned to take their politics seriously. When they fight — and they have fought—the Greeks have fought for their leaders rather than for their principles. The leader does all the thinking for the crowd.

ATHENS IS HAPPY.

So that Athens is having a perfectly good time. The streets are filled, after the heat of the day has passed, with pretty women in the most attractively diaphanous gowns. Some of them have come here from Constantinople and Bucharest and Vienna, but no matter. The cafes ooze chairs for half a block on either side of the door and do a tremendous business in the softest of drinks. People jingle about the streets in the miniature victorias drawn by under sized ponies. Twenty theatres open their doors at half-past ten o'clock and close them at three in the morning. No one thinks of sitting down to dinner before eight o'clock. The cafes remain open until four and five o'clock. Greek officers parade about in their summer uniforms of white linen. Every one drinks quarts of sweet Turkish coffee in the course of the day. A thimbleful can be had at most cafes for the equivalent of a nickel. On Constitution square or in the "Dardanelles"—where both sides of a narrow street are filled with coffee drinkers so that passers-by run the gantlet in the middle—the coffee costs eight cents. The shops are closed from twelve to three. During that period one cannot buy so much as a pill.

It is true that the Greek outside of Athens takes the humiliation of the last few months a bit harder. It still remains the fact, however, that he is not stirred by the cause of the Allies. His eyes are centred upon local conditions. A tentative revolutionary movement has been inaugurated at Salonica—where the Allies offer it a benevolent neutrality—not all because Greece is in despair because she is not doing her part in the world war, but because the Bulgars have seized some Macedonian forts, and the Greeks and Bulgars are hereditary enemies. Soldiers are deserting the Greek army to enter that of France, but no one pretends they have motives which are not entirely personal. Some dislike their officers. Some hate the Bulgarians.

Everyone is agreed that the situation is an impossible one, but suspect that it will continue. The king has agreed to go to war with Bulgaria, the gossips say, if he can do it alone. But he will not be encumbered by Venizelos. He does not want that astute old gentleman nozing into the limelight and taking part of the sparkle that should play on the king's crown. The Allies—so the gossips say—are desirous that Greece enter the war against Bulgaria, but insist that the king accept Venizelos as War Minister. The Allies do not trust the king. They suspect he does not truly love them. The Greeks are watching the play and will follow the man who wins.

HUN STOWAWAYS REACH HALIFAX AS PRISONERS

Special to The Star.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 21.—Three German soldiers have been landed here by a steamer from Bordeaux for Newport News. They had been captured by the French and put in prison, from which they had escaped. They were suspected of being on the steamer, and she was held at Bordeaux for two days, and a vain search made for them there.

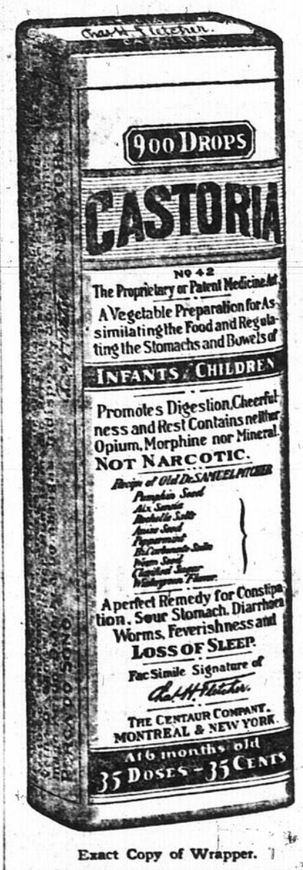

Two days after leaving port another search was made, and they were found in the coal bunkers, among the coal. They had blackened their faces; their eyes they had covered with lumps of coal. Alongside of them were loaves of bread which were blackened from the coal. There was also found a can, to which a string was attached, which they used through the hiler exhaust to obtain water while at Bordeaux. The men were exhausted when discovered, but with a couple of days' rest recovered, and were put to work for the rest of the passage.

They were handed over to the authorities on their arrival here

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

YEARS of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public: the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result is the practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Mrs. John W. Derrick, of Lexington, S. C., says: "My children cry for Castoria, I could not do without it."

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gaines, of Ripley, Tenn., say: "We enclose our baby's picture hoping it will induce some poor tired mothers to give your Castoria a trial. We have used it since baby was two weeks old."

Mrs. J. G. Parman, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The perfect health of my baby is due to your Castoria—the first and only medicine he has taken. He is never satisfied with one dose, he always cries for more."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Stevens Point, Wis., say: "When our baby was two weeks old he cried so much we did everything for him, then got some Castoria and he is now strong and fat. We would not be without it, and are very thankful to you."

How British Troops Go Into Action

They're not worrying when the war is going to end. They know they can beat the German forces. Come to the Francais next week and see how they do it. H. M. The King saw the pictures, so did Lloyd George, secretary of War and many other high officials. All pronounced them the ONLY real war pictures. They were taken at a great personal risk by the camera men.

SENSATIONAL DOINGS FOR STOCKS AND COMMODITIES

PAPER ISSUES GET SPOTLIGHT DURING WEEK'S OPERATIONS

The building up of increased values for the shares of companies engaged in the production of pulp and paper in this country was one of the characteristics of the stock market this week.

"This constructive policy was by no means confined to the paper issues, but they held the centre of the stage, so to speak, and absorbed most of the limelight.

"The situation in the paper trade is so well known that it is hardly necessary to point out that the demand for all kinds of paper is enormous in excess of the supply, and that every ton of paper it can for which it finds a market.

"Many of the mills have until recently been working on old-form prices, but now they are fixing the new figures on a new basis. Nothing develops a bull market more than the development of that sort, and the buyers promptly start to count the extra profits in advance. Without entering into the merits of the controversy over the price of the raw material it is apparent that despite the increase in raw materials the paper manufacturers are embarking on a new phase of their earning powers with the advance in the price of white print and, of course, the shareholders and the speculators can be scarcely blamed for jubilating.

"The result was that the buying of the newsprint shares carried the values all advanced to new high levels. Riordon has been the most spectacular, going to 105, while for a non-dividend issue Wayagamack has done something unusual by going to 85. Laurentide just managed to cross its previous high record in 1913, the trading in Spanish River in virtue of the low prices prevailing attracted a great many to whom a point profit in a cheap stock looks just as good as in one selling above par.

"This is one of those periods of general prosperity when it is possible to take up one group of stocks after another and get a fair market following. For instance, the cotton trade is very active and its earning powers excellent, so that when attention was drawn to the fact that the cotton stocks had been neglected it required very little buying to bring about a higher range of prices.

"The steel group continues prime favorites with a great many traders, and while no fresh high prices have been reached during the past few weeks there has been an excellent trading market with an exceptionally strong undertone.

"The demand for Dominion Iron has been one of the most impressive features of the list, and there is a general tendency to associate it with the plan to establish a big steel industry in the Maritime Provinces. Apart from that, the company has worked into a very comfortable financial position under the existing conditions in the trade, so that an extended period of good earnings will bring the common stock prices a still higher range.

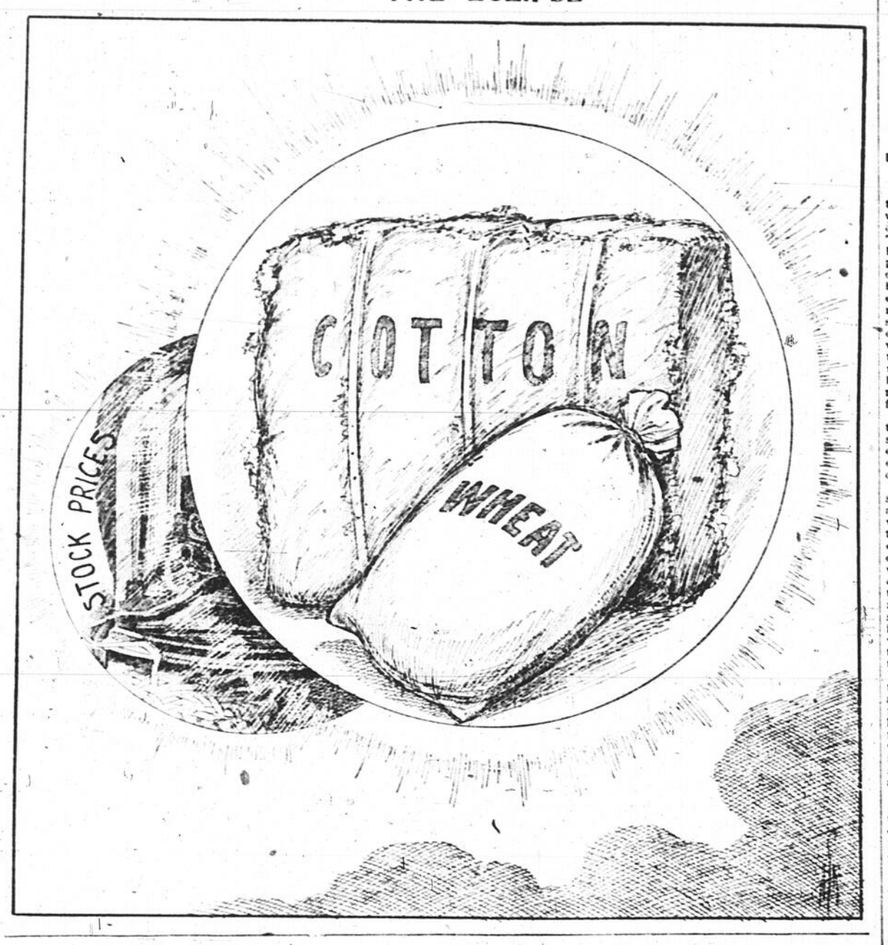

"Steel of Canada finds the chief support for its strength in its large earnings and the prospects of an announcement of a dividend policy around the end of the year or early next year. Some months ago its price on the exchanges was fixed for consideration for such holders as the ultimate form of which is as yet a matter of conjecture, but in a general way those involve not only a dividend but a stock bonus.

"There has not been a distinctively weak feature on the list, but Brazilian has not responded in a satisfactory manner to the evident determination of the board to maintain the present rate of dividend, despite the unsettling bear stories circulated in the market.

"The first experience the market has had of stock selling ex-rights for some little time was in the case of Consolidated Smelters, and although the market as a whole is in very prosperous state the issue has been treated in some quarters as a bear rather than a bull card. The company has entered on what is expected to be an epoch-making year, and the earnings are expected to derive much from the capital expenditures of the past year.

"Public utility shares have been in eclipse for some time past, but liquidation has been unimportant and prices have remained firm."

THE ECLIPSE

WHEAT MARKET WAS NEVER SO BULLISH, SAY THE EXPERTS

By Joseph F. Pritchard, Regular Correspondent of The Montreal Star on the Chicago Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Never in the history of the world's wheat markets were conditions surrounding that grain as bullish ground as at the moment. This statement fell from the lips of H. D. Lehman, a New York wheat exporter, who is now in Chicago looking over the breadstuffs situation. "I have been in the grain trade for twenty-eight years, and have never seen the market in as strong a position as now," said Mr. Lehman. "The breaking out of the war abroad was the entering wedge for higher prices, and while there have been many changes in values, and some of them have been to lower levels, there has in reality been no change in the situation as viewed from an impartial standpoint.

"Those countries which are in a position to receive vessels loaded with shipments of breadstuffs, are buying every available pound with the matter of price brushed aside like so much chaff.

"Some of those who are desirous of seeing a decline in wheat continue to advance the opinion that the Russian wheat is likely to be brought out through the Dardanelles at no distant day, and that the grain from the Czar's country will come in direct competition with that in North America. The Dardanelles are farther from being opened today than at any time during the war, and were they opened to commercial shipping it would not cut a big swath in price-making for some time to come, with the possible exception of a sentimental feeling. It is well known that there are no grain elevators in Russia, and that the wheat grown there is piled on the ground, and in a great many instances is without ample covering. Much of the wheat now held there is not only undesirable for milling or other purposes, but it is worthless. The weather has damaged it greatly, and weevil and other insects have consumed a great deal of it and damaged much more.

"Wheat will sell much higher," continued Mr. Lehman. "I notice that some of the Chicago whete men predict $2 for that grain before another crop is available, and this is my idea as to future values. There are some, however, who say that with the declaration of peace there would be a big break in prices. This might possibly occur, but for a long pull there would be an advancing market that has not yet been seen on the Chicago Board of Trade. It would take at least two of the world's largest wheat crops to fill all the waiting spaces for wheat, and in the meantime there would be no great decline in values.

"Pointing to the wheat pit on the Board of Trade, Mr. Lehman continued: "There is the only spot in the world where it is possible to buy any great quantity of wheat. This is well known by those who are obliged to make purchases of this grain, and some of the nations which are now unable to get shipments of grain to their shores would not stand on a price of $2.50, or even higher were they able to secure much-needed breadstuffs with which to feed their soldiers as well as their citizens."

There was a most sensational market in the wheat pit on Tuesday of the past week, when price advances were 5½c to 7c, and this buying was led by shorts and investors, and the advance was made easy because of the smaller offerings. It was a market which was entirely in the hands of the believers in higher prices, and those who put out short lines during last week were forced to run to cover at losses. The buying of the cash wheat by importing countries was the largest on the crop, and this buying was led by the British Commission. Holland was not only a big buyer of wheat, but it took round lots of flour, and Great Britain and its allies also bought flour in liberal manner. The taking on of the purchasing power, as well as of the freight situation, by the British Government, was expected to prove a drawback to the wheat markets of North America, but instead of proving a bearish factor they proved to be a strong help to the general situation from the viewpoint of a wheat holder.

It is not expected that wheat will continue to advance in sensational manner, but that it is to secure profits the offerings rease, and that price setbacks will certainly be established. There are many in the trade who believe that the $2 level will be seen for wheat on the present crop, and there are some who volunteer the opinion that it will sell considerably above $2. One of these is John F. Barrett, who has just returned from a two weeks' stay at the various eastern seaboard markets.

James Norris, of the Norris Grain Co., who is also at home from an eastern trip, says that the situation could hardly be more bullish than it is at the moment, and that wheat will certainly sell to a much higher level. Mr. Norris is known in the trade as quite conservative in his expressions as to market conditions, and an opinion from him as to the possible course of values was well received at Chicago and elsewhere.

Those who have made up their minds that wheat has advanced too rapidly and that price setbacks are in order, and who have put out short lines on the advances, have been the ones to suffer most. Those in the trade who have been anxious to reinstate their wheat lines, and who have hammered prices whenever an opportunity was presented, have also suffered losses, as their offerings were well taken, leaving them only one course to pursue, and that was to retrace their steps and to cover their outstanding contracts.

Instead of selling wheat more freely on the advances established, the average country holder has cut down his offerings and is now asking for advances for the surplus held on the farms and in the country elevators of both the great wheat belts. During part of the week just closed the receipts of wheat at Winnipeg have been only about one-quarter as large as the corresponding days last year. The same may be said of the receipts at both the Northwestern markets. The Canadian receipts have been cut down materially by the snow storms, and generally unfavorable weather in that country. According to estimates received from Winnipeg, not over 20 per cent to 50 per cent of the threshing has been done in the western provinces, which is considerably below normal.

The Kansas Flour Mills Co. says that reports from 112 stations in Kansas show only 33.7 wheat left in the hands of farmers, while the normal holdings at this season are from 50 to 60 per cent.

The unfavorable weather conditions in the Argentine Republic continue as a help to the bull holders of wheat in all sections of the world. The crop there has been materially reduced, and because of this fact the offerings for export are light and higher prices are being obtained for the little wheat that is changing hands. The foreign crop summary, generally speaking, was unfavorable, as the crops in all grain-growing countries abroad are backward, and nearly all of them show big reductions in acreage.

Corn was sold in large quantities for export, and the stocks held at Chicago are being reduced somewhat. A great deal of new corn has already been sold to go abroad as the condition of the grain is generally excellent, the weather having been favorable for curing. Oats have sold in fair quantities for export, but the business was smaller than that in corn.

There has been a large export trade in hog products. The British Commission has led in the matter of purchasing all kinds of products. The Belgium Relief has bought freely of lard, backs and bellies, and the French Government has taken enormous quantities of hams. This demand has proven quite a help to the markets in the pit on the Board of Trade, and it has also helped to advance the prices of hogs at the Chicago Stock Yards. Swift & Co are said to be in control of the cash pork, lard and ribs in the Chicago market, and in consequence that big concern is able to name the price of the entire list.

NO CHANGE IN WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK

Special to The Star.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Receipts of live stock for yesterday's market at the Union Stock Yards were: 2,000 cattle, 500 hogs, 350 sheep. The run of cattle was again heavy, the offerings consisting mostly of medium and common class stuff, which is becoming a drug on the market. Good quality butcher steers are selling at steady to firm prices, while the common class stuff has a much easier feeling, the stocker and feeder trade was strong, especially for good breedy heifers. Bulls and oxen were steady, also sheep and lambs.

The hog market today was steady with prices strong at Thursday's close. Both eastern and local buyers were on the market.

GROWTH OF COMMERCE IS STRIKING

The remarkable growth of Canadian business so far this year, more particularly exports, is dealt with in the October letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, as follows:

Manufacturers and merchants very generally complain that it is impossible to procure goods in sufficient quantities to meet the demand; yet at the same time merchandise is being imported on a scale quite unprecedented. In August the imports were valued at $72,331,014, figures only approached in recent months and exceeding the average before the war by 52 per cent. Since January, of the present year, as compared with the average of 1914, the increase in dutiable goods is 32 per cent, and in free goods 76 per cent. The latter class is composed largely of raw and partially manufactured materials, the increased demand for which arises from the fact that our domestic industries now supply a larger proportion of our home demands, in addition to making munitions of war.

Large as are the imports compared with those of corresponding periods immediately preceding the war they show proportionately a much smaller increase than do the exports. For the first eight months of the present calendar year exports of domestic produce amount to $676,512,923, or $62,383,078 more than for the whole of 1915, and the exports for the four remaining months as a rule show the heaviest movements.

A comparison of the value of the exports of domestic produce for the first seven months of 1914 preceding the war, and the month of August, with those for corresponding months of the present year, show how remarkable have been the changes:

	1916.	Increase.	P. Cent.
Jan.	$83,731,184	$58,512,447	232.0
Feb.	57,931,165	37,375,081	181.8
March	86,414,238	61,718,247	231.1
April	55,092,076	37,338,964	210.3
May	94,603,138	64,647,503	215.4
June	95,635,862	67,535,862	241.5
July	104,964,270	63,146,622	151.1

FINANCING ON NO PAR VALUE BASIS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—The financing of a large percentage of industrial corporations recently has been characterized by the issuance of stock of no par value. The reason for this change from the old method of fixing a nominal valuation for shares has been a matter of more or less conjecture among investors, many of whom have been inclined to accept the theory that the new method was favored solely on its merits as a tax-dodging expedient. It is interesting to go deeper into the innovation, and in the following article something of the history of the change is given, as well as the views held on the subject by broker, banker and lawyer.

When the New York State Legislature in 1912 passed a law authorizing the creation of corporations having stock of no par value, it established a precedent unique in the history of American financial legislation. The law was a radical departure in the government of corporate organization up to that time all the States required a fixed par value to be placed on stock issues. In the present year Maryland followed the example of New York in legalizing the new method of capitalization, and several other States are contemplating similar legislative enactments.

Due to the fact that the practice of organizing corporations with stock of no par value has become popular only in the past two years, the opinion is generally prevalent that such action was taken to avoid the requirements of the Federal war revenue act which placed a tax of 2c upon each $100 of par value of stock being issued or transferred but neglected to make any stipulations regarding stock of no par value. This neglect was accounted for by an official of a prominent New York brokerage firm by the fact that the war revenue law was the reenactment of a Federal revenue law of 1898 when no par value stock was not yet in existence and the recent Congress had failed to take cognizance of the fact that stock without par value was being issued, thereby leaving a loophole through which new corporations could escape the payment of the Federal tax.

However, this was only incidentally the purpose of newly organized corporations in issuing stock of no par value, according to the same official, for the tax has since been removed while the new method of financing corporations continues to grow in popularity. The State tax on stock transfer still remains in effect but this levy is made upon each share regardless of par value. Hence, it does not discriminate in favor of stock of no par value.

According to a member of a New York law firm which specializes in corporation law, the measure permitting the issuance of stock of no par value was designed to eliminate some of the evils of overcapitalization. "The dollar mark has been characterized as misleading," he said, "and the legal requirement that a share of stock have a nominal par value as wholly useless. The attention of investors has been diverted from the truth that a common share of stock of a corporation represents neither more nor less than a certain part, either one thousandth or one millionth or other fraction, according to the number of shares, of the net value of an enterprise over and above all debts and stock preferences.

"The primary purpose of the law is to get away from the fixing of a par valuation which is almost necessarily erroneous. Under the law which permits the issue of stock without par value, the issuing corporation must state the amount of capital with which it intends to carry on business. In no case must this be less than $5 per share, so that if ten new concern wishes to issue 100,000 shares of stock at least $500,000 must be paid into the treasury before the company contracts any debts. Otherwise the directors become individually responsible for such indebtedness.

"An official of a banking house which has in the past year financed several corporations whose stock was issued without par value expressed the opinion that all industrial corporations should be financed through common stock of no par value. "When a person places capital in such stock it is not an investment but a partnership participation. He thereby becomes a virtual partner in the business and shares in its profits. When a man is sold a stock of par value of $100 he has no right to feel that he is getting actual value of $100 as some investors do. The stock represents the assets and earning power of the company, plus the good will. But good will is not a tangible asset and should not be capitalized as such.

"For this reason our firm favors stock of no par value. Recently in taking over an industrial concern we made it plain to the public that the property was worth $16,000,000 and that we had placed on it $1,000,000. Against this valuation of $20,000,000 we issued 500,000 shares of common stock of no par value and figured for it a market value of $40, plus $7 as the capitalization of its future earning power. Thus the public was placed under no illusion by a figurative par value.

"In passing the law authorizing stock of no par value, the legislators recognized that many investors believe that a par value means the actual value of the property plus the good will. In fact, however, par value means absolutely nothing. It surely does not represent what the stock is worth nor what has been paid into the stock. This truth is clearly demonstrated in the case of Calumet and Hecla stock which has a par value of $25. Through dollar assessments, $13 has actually been paid into the stock which today has a market value of around $600 and has sold for as high as $1,000. This shows how little relation exists between par value and actual value.

"The old theory that stock fluctuates around its par value has been disproved time and again. Assets are worth only what they earn and a corporation having no stock of no par value takes this fully into consideration and makes it plain to the buyer."

BANKS ADVANCE MORE MONEY TO GOVERNMENT

Referring to the success of the second war loan in September, and its significance, the October commercial letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce says:

"This gratifying result, to which all classes freely contributed, cannot fail to lend encouragement to the cause of the Allies.

"With the proceeds of the loan the Minister of Finance will be able to provide for the requirements of the country, and for treasury notes amounting to $32,000,000 which mature November 1st and December 1st, as well as to lend to the Imperial Government for munitions purchased in Canada, $25,000,000 in November and $25,000,000 in December. As this latter operation will necessitate further borrowing later on, the banks have arranged to advance to the Dominion Government $25,000,000 in January and a further $25,000,000 in February, against four months' Treasury Bills, bearing September approximately $112,000,000 of the amount advanced by the Imperial authorities for war purposes was funded and forms part of the collateral for the recent loan obtained in New York.

"The chief factors in placing the affairs of the nation in a favorable position at so critical a time are the continued expansion of our foreign trade and higher prices for our chief products. The ability of the country to keep on financing its own requirements and at the same time to lend money to the Imperial Munitions Board depends largely upon the continuance of munition orders, and upon the exercise of the strictest economy in every direction by the people as a whole."

BULL SPECULATION IN GRAIN RUNS HIGH

Shearson, Hammill and Co.'s weekly grain letter, from Chicago, says:

"Another day of strength in all grains, with a tapering off easiness toward the close, when the effect of early rising began to be felt.

"The action of the British Government in taking over all existing open contracts in Manitoba wheat, following the taking of the stock accumulated in the United Kingdom, gave rise to some apprehension as to how far the Government will go in its effort to curb speculation and put a check on the upward price movement.

"Argentine news is very bullish, with weather still unfavorable and surplus estimates being reduced. Coarse grains were very strong, although the advances brought out increased offerings of both corn and oats from the interior.

"Speculation is running very high in all the cereals and it will take strong adverse developments to modify the bullish feeling as it exists. The markets have advanced very rapidly. We should think a set-back in order.

Dublin City Loan in U. S. is Forerunner

LONDON, Oct. 21— The morning newspapers today give prominence to the $2,000,000 American loan, recommended by the housing commission of Dublin, which will be the first British municipal loan to be raised in the United States. It is expected to be the forerunner of others, however, owing to restrictions imposed on large loans in this country during the war.

The Dublin loan is to issue at 95 in dollar currency, being a sinking fund loan for ten years. If it is preferred the loan may be of longer duration at the same rate of interest, with the privilege of redemption at 101 after five years.

Western Land Sales Show Improvement

The Hudson's Bay Company's returns of land sales and receipts for the three and six months to Sept. 30 compare very favorably with the corresponding periods of last year.

In the quarter 40,300 acres were sold for £127,800, as compared with 10,900 acres for £31,900. Towns lots were sold for £380 as compared with £1,800. The receipts were £59,000, as compared with £28,600.

For the six months 85,426 acres were sold for £275,400, as compared with 19,500 acres for £63,600. Town lots were sold for £5,800, as compared with £3,900. The total receipts were £135,000, as compared with £72,000.

RAILWAY SEPARATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The Interstate Commerce Commission has set Nov. 27 for the first hearing in New York City on the $300,000 repatriation suits of the Lehigh Valley coal operators against the Lehigh Valley Railroad for alleged excess rate charges.

CAR SHORTAGE BLAMED FOR PRICE ADVANCES

Special to The Star.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 21.—Congestion of transportation is the indirect cause of the steady advance in the price of foodstuffs, H. E. Stockbridge, president of the Farmers National Congress told the United Press today. "Our distribution system is faulty," said Stockbridge "In one place some classes of food is abundant and the price low and in another place it is impossible to purchase the same product at a reasonable price. Railroads say that it is shortage of cars, but it is really a congested condition of transportation facilities.

The farmers are planning to go to Congress to get relief for the car shortage. A federal investigation may be asked.

Mr. Stockbridge pointed out that last summer, farmers of the wheat belt had to pile millions of bushels of wheat on the ground, because they were unable to get cars to ship it.

The farmer is not receiving the benefit of the increased prices, Stockbridge said.

"The farmer receives about forty per cent of the final amount paid for his product; ten per cent is spent for transportation and the remainder is profit for the middleman," he declared.

WHEAT TRANSFERRED

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—A despatch from Winnipeg announcing that the British Government has taken over all existing contracts for wheat in Manitoba is explained here as meaning simply that British importers have transferred to their Government such contracts for the purchase of wheat on the Winnipeg Exchange as they had concluded. It does not mean that more wheat has been commandeered for the British authorities.

Press Opinions on N.Y. Situation

Special to The Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Sun:—Consumptive demand for steel products in unparalleled volume are reported in all steel trade centres. It is this inquiry which is behind the great buying movement in the steel shares and which will continue to strengthen the intrinsic worth of the various securities for months to come.

American:—Everybody in Wall Street wanted U. S. Steel stock yesterday, and the result was a rise of 4 points. The stock closed almost at its highest record with the buying in tremendous volume.

Herald:—Steel was more conspicuously than ever the colossus of the market. While dealings on the general list contracted rather sharply, the transactions in steel expanded more than 40 per cent. to 264,200.

World:—Heavy buying of Steel common, based on reports of extraordinary earnings for the third quarter, was the feature yesterday of a generally strong stock market, which, however, contained some irregularities.

Tribune:—In a few months more, at the rate at which it has been going, Great Britain will be selling more than she buys. She will be lending more to her allies than she borrows on her own credit in neutral countries.

Times:—Trading in shares of the United States Steel Corporation again featured the stock market yesterday, which once more saw dealings well in excess of a million shares on a rising scale. Steel opened strong and gained throughout the session.

CANADA'S GRAIN PROBLEM TOPIC OF AN ADDRESS

W. Sanford Evans, Chairman of Georgian Bay Canal Commission Addresses Members of Board of Trade—Looking Into Future

An exhaustive address, dealing with Canada's wheat problem in all its phases, was given by W. Sanford Evans, chairman of the Georgian Bay Canal Commission, before the members of the Montreal Board of Trade yesterday afternoon.

His address was divided into the following questions:

"Where are the world's important markets? how much do they buy? how do they buy? and where do they buy?

"Does Canada conform to the conditions of those markets, and does she get a fair price for the bulk of her crop?

"To what extent are there waste and higher costs in the present methods of using railway equipment, labor and lake shipping, in connection with grain traffic?

"Why is so much Canadian export grain diverted to United States ocean ports?

"What is the effect of the conditions of ocean transportation and of ocean freight rates on Canada's problem?"

LOOK TO FUTURE.

Mr. Evans explained at the outset that he would offer no conclusion or opinion but would merely speak of facts as they had been presented to him in studying some of the underlying problems of the Georgian Bay Canal question. The question was not what were the traffic facilities of today, but what would be the facilities in five, ten, fifteen years hence, and also the fact that grain constituted the most important traffic between East and West and was the most important bulk traffic in all the Canadian transportation problem.

In answer to his first question, Mr. Evans used charts showing the world's shipments of wheat to Europe during the years 1905 to 1913 inclusive. He stated that Europe bought 86 per cent of all the world's wheat and flour and that the greater part of this amount went to the United Kingdom, which was the largest wheat importing country in the world. During the years mentioned above, the United Kingdom imported 217,424,000 bushels of wheat and flour per year, or 44.91 per cent of the total imports of Europe.

Shipments throughout the year were shown to tend toward evenness in distribution. Shipments to the continental countries of Europe temporarily declined about the time the new European crop was ready for the market and the average was adjusted a little later by exceptionally heavy purchases from the new crop of the exporting countries of the northern hemisphere. The United Kingdom purchased most heavily in the first quarter of the year and the Continent in the last quarter.

It was then shown that Europe purchased her wheat supply from Australia, the Argentine, India, the Balkan States, Russia and the United States and Canada. It was then shown at which times of the year each of these countries made the heaviest shipments.

LAW OF MARKET.

"If the law of the consuming market be evenness of distribution throughout the year, then it is clear that this law must be recognized by producing countries and must determine to a large extent the volume of production, the methods of marketing and of transportation, and the system of finance of the country which aims to supply any large proportion of the European demand. Any estimate of Canada's probable shipments of wheat and flour to Europe in the future should be tested by the general conditions in Europe and in other producing countries," said Mr. Evans.

In dealing with the second question as to whether Canada conformed to the conditions of European markets, he declared that this was one of the most important of studies.

First he showed that Fort William and Port Arthur were Canada's great primary wheat markets and that these terminal elevators had done business with Europe for the last five years. The greatest shipments from Canada were made during the autumn months and also in May. During the close of navigation, grain was stored in the elevators and sold during the winter for May delivery. It was also shown that during the period under discussion the United Kingdom bought 91 per cent of Canadian wheat and 61 per cent of Canadian flour and that Liverpool prices figured largely in the sale of Canadian wheat.

THE EXCHANGES.

Turning to a diagram showing a comparison between the prices at Liverpool and on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, Mr. Evans showed how one was affected by the other. Other countries selling when Canada did were subject to the same price basis; but a study of the diagram showed that grain marketed by all other large exorting countries within this period illustrated that no other country had marketed so large a proportion of its crop when prices were low, as had Canada.

Dealing next with the question of the high cost of transportation and waste, Mr. Evans showed the enormous quantity of rolling stock or freight cars used in October to carry grain to the elevators and showed also how, a third of the equipment, if used properly, and steadily employed could carry all the wheat and do all the work in the same twelve months, thus avoiding a great and wasteful expenditure. The irregularity of the employment of labor in connection with the grain traffic was shown in the same manner. In the same manner he dealt with the question of ocean bottoms.

Speaking then on the question of the diversion of Canadian wheat through United States ports, he stated that two-thirds of Canadian wheat in 1913 was shipped through United States ports, and one-third through the Canadian ocean ports. Quantities and proportions differed in different years, but a considerable diversion to United States routes appeared to be the normal condition, although the normal proportion so diverted could be determined only after further examination of the facts.

CROWDING EXPORTS.

Mr. Evans went on:

"The closing of navigation on the St. Lawrence in the winter months is a physical limitation on the Canadian routes, which may well have some effect on total yearly quantities shipped. During the period of open navigation, however, there is no climatic cause of diversion and shipments through Montreal may, therefore, be more particularly studied. That Montreal's proportion of the total export shipments of Canadian wheat in 1911, 1912, and 1913 was not larger, cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, either by the physical shortcomings of the routes to Montreal from the interior, or by the inadequacy of the equipment on them. The St. Lawrence and Welland canals have never carried more than a moderate fraction of the traffic that could be passed through them; and, as we have seen, many Canadian vessels of 'canal size' spend most of the season in the open lake trade, so that no continued shortage of vessels suitable for the all-water route could have been experienced. With regard to the lake-and-rail routes to Montreal, the capacity of the water section, could, of course, be limited only by the number of vessels available. Canadian vessels in those years carried all their Canadian coasting traffic in wheat, supplying Canadian millers as well as export requirements; they were not, on the average, fully loaded eastbound, as has been shown; and they were left free to carry some cargoes to United States ports, that is, to participate in the diversion shipments. In October, 1913, there was loaded into Canadian vessels at Fort William and Port Arthur 14,020,901 bushels of wheat, and in the following month 13,126,533 bushels of wheat; the greatest month's export of wheat through Canadian ports was in the month of May, 1913, when the quantity was only 5,245,408 bushels; so that Canadian vessels on the lakes have loaded in each of two consecutive months over two and one half times the quantity of Canadian wheat that Canadian ocean ports have ever shipped in a month. Even if Canadian lake tonnage had been deficient, more Canadian wheat might have been shipped in United States vessels to such a point as Port Huron, from which Canadian rail lines could have carried it to Montreal; or to Buffalo, from which Canadian, or United States, vessels could have carried it by water to Montreal; and again more Canadian wheat might have been directed from the interior to Duluth-Superior where it could have taken United States vessels to Canadian ports. No question can be raised about the ability of the rail lines across southern Ontario to handle in a season more ex-lake traffic than they have ever yet received.

"Nor is any easy explanation found in freight rates. It would appear that the Canadian wheat that was diverted to United States ocean ports paid higher rates to the seaboard than did the wheat shipped to Montreal. An examination of regular and special tariffs for several years has failed to discover any period in which United States routes to the seaboard for Canadian wheat were allowed to have an advantage in freight rates over Canadian routes.

Most of in 1914, with no corresponding increase in handling plant, exported 32 per cent more wheat than in 1913, or 55 per cent more of all grains, the gain for part being United States products. Montreal's mercantile equipment could have handled more wheat than it did in 1911, 1912, and 1913, if more wheat had been offered.

OVERSEAS COMMERCE.

In 1912, the overseas commerce of the world was conducted by more than 25,000 steamers, of which 1,555 were liners and 23,500 tramps. Vessels engaged in regular-line service, that is, vessels plying on a fixed route and with a definite schedule of sailing dates, are known as liners. The tramps are free to sail anywhere in search of a profitable cargo, and to be chartered by the highest bidders in the great shipping exchanges of the world. The 25,000 ocean carriers in 1912 were owned by approximately 4,200 different companies, firms, and individuals, and the 1,555 liners by 108 different companies.

"The functions performed by these two general classes of ocean carriers differ in many important respects. Tramps cannot perform as satisfactorily as liners many of the services required in modern commerce, but with respect to such traffic as wheat the two classes are directly competitive.

In conclusion Mr. Evans dealt with the competition between the various routes the fluctuation in ocean rates and declared that Canada's position in relation to the problem of ocean transportation was different from that of any other country at the present time, for no other country had access to so many ports in a foreign country that could be reached almost as conveniently and as cheaply as its own ports, and no other country, except the United States, was served by an ocean trade in which there were so many liners, which, therefore, dominated its export traffic.

H. B. Walker, president of the board, presided. A vote of thanks to Mr. Evans was proposed by Z. Herbert and seconded by Brig-Gen. A. E. Labelle.

BRITAIN'S COAL OUTPUT

The estimated output of the coal mines in the United Kingdom for the year ending July, 1916, amounted to 254,748,000 tons, against 250,368,000 in 1915 and 281,135,000 in 1914. Some 282,000 miners have joined the colors since the outbreak of the war and 116,900 replaced, leaving a net reduction of 165,200. The export of coal was reduced to 43,000,000 tons in 1915 from 73,000,000 in 1913.

U. S. Steel Earnings Not Reached Top Yet

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The steel industry has completely recovered from the falling off in output, due largely to hot weather, in the third quarter. It is believed that October will establish a new high record in steel output, which would mean a new high record in monthly earnings for the U. S. Steel Corporation as well as the independents.

While the steel trade is estimating net earnings of U. S. Steel below $90,000,000 for the third quarter, the last quarter should be a banner period, as deliveries of steel will be made at record-breaking average prices.

Gypsum Industry in Canada Growing

In view of the startling headlines which have been issued by Plaster Quarries, Limited, some details of the extent of Canada's gypsum business are not amiss.

Canada is said to be the largest producer of gypsum in the world, the total mined advancing from 443,561 in 1905 to 849,856 in 1912. The gypsum industry is one of the more important non-metallic mineral industries of the country, and one of which very little is heard.

During 1912 nineteen companies were engaged in the quarrying or mining of gypsum in Canada, most of which was exported to the United States for manufacture into the finer grades of plaster of Paris.

Palmer-McLellan Trench Boots

Have Made Good in Active Service

The boys at the Front can't dodge the mud and slush, or keep out of the water that so often gathers in the trenches and shell-craters. So, unless their feet are very well protected, the winter means endless discomfort and serious risk to their health.

Palmer-McLellan Trench Boots give just the protection needed, as many of our Canadians have proved to their satisfaction. Knee-high, and waterproof all the way up, they are sturdy enough to stand the hardest service, yet soft, pliable, comfortable and far better for the feet than rubber boots.

There are those of the same oil-tanned leather that hunters, trappers and lumbermen swear by in the famous Palmer-McLellan Shoepacks. Cut like a moccasin, with our special draw-string outside seam, they are roomy, smooth-inside and easy on the feet.

If you want to send something really worth while to your husband, son or friend overseas, write for our illustrated catalogue and full particulars about this Trench Boot. We quote a price which covers delivery to and address in England or France.

MARK HARRIS on MINES and MINING

The average business man knows little or nothing about the technical part of mining; consequently, he often judges a mining property by comparison, and although this is the usual rule in every line of business, it is misleading at times when applied to mining.

For instance, a layman would naturally think better of a mine that would show ore running $100 to $200 a ton than he would of one with ore averaging from $5 to $10 a ton, and still, in nine cases out of ten, the low-grade mine would prove the better investment.

High-grade ore, as a rule, peters out, while low-grade is found in large bodies; and this explains why all of our big gold mines earn their dividends from low-grade ore.

The Hollinger is, without doubt, the greatest gold mine in the world, and the average value of the ore is from $9 to $11 a ton.

The famous Treadwell Mine, which is one of the steady dividend-payers, makes a profit on ore that runs only $1.25 to $1.50 a ton. Of course they have a very large tonnage every day, as no mine could make money on such ore unless they did business on the wholesale plan.

What I have said about Hollinger and Treadwell applies to practically every big dividend-paying gold mine on the North American Continent; therefore you can see that comparison of values on gold ore is a misleading way of determining the true worth of a property.

Assays are another thing in mining that is often misleading, for it makes all the difference in the world where and how the assays are obtained.

I never pay much attention to assays unless I take the samples myself, or know they were taken by someone who understands sampling.

On nearly every vein it is possible to pick out some spot where a sample will assay very high, but this would not show the average value of the vein.

I told you some time ago that the 38 assays recently taken on the "big find" of the Newray were very important, and they were, because they represented true values.

These assays were taken across the entire "find," and included not only the vein matter, but the schist and country rock as well.

One important thing to remember about Newray is the fact that the Company has already been fully financed, and as there is no more treasury stock the Company has nothing to sell.

When a Company has no more stock for sale there is no incentive for exaggerated reports, and I always take this into consideration when the reports emanate direct from an officer of a Company.

When you purchase shares in a Company like Newray, you must secure them in the open market from some stockholder, as the Company disposed of all its treasury stock before work was started.

When Manager Charlebois of the Newray took his assays he naturally took them so they would show the average value of the "find." Had he taken selected assays he would have been fooling himself, and you will never find a competent miner fooling himself intentionally.

When a man comes to my office with a new mining proposition I never pay much attention to his samples or his assays, and when the proposition looks good I immediately send a trusted agent out to the property to take independent assays.

As a rule, my agent's assays do not show the same values as the owner's; but this is only natural, as man, after all, is only human, and the old axiom says, "To err is human."

I am offered at least one new proposition every business day, and at times there are half-a-dozen in a single day.

The first thing I do when a man comes to me with a mining proposition that needs capital is to give him a paper which contains twenty pertinent questions, and I ask him to answer these before I go into the matter with him.

When he complies with my request I can gain a very fair idea of the property by looking at his answers; but ninety-nine times out of a hundred, the man is so anxious to interest me that he will exaggerate to a point that is apparent to anyone who has had the experience I possess.

When I find a man has falsely answered some of my questions I want nothing more to do with the man or his proposition; but when the answers are fair and straightforward I immediately, at my own expense, make a thorough investigation.

I always pay more attention to a property that shows low values, as I know from experience that high values do not last. There are exceptions to this rule, such as the Croesus Mine, in Munro Township, which has paid for itself from the grass roots down; but where you will find one Croesus, you will find one hundred low-grade mines, and I prefer to stick to the conservative rather than take a chance with the sensational.

You would think from all the properties offered my firm that we would always have half-a-dozen or more that we could recommend; but the truth is that finding a good property that will pass the searching investigation that the "House of Harris" gives it is about as difficult as finding a needle in a haystack.

We have investigated scores of propositions this spring and summer, and, for that matter, we are still investigating, but up to date we have not found one that would stand the "acid test," and until we do find one we will not make a recommendation to our clients.

My personal advice—and this advice is from my heart—is to buy some Newray, as I consider this the best mining stock purchase under present or future conditions.

EXPERT ANALYSES CASUALTY LISTS SINCE WAR BEGAN

Central Powers, Beginning With Fewer Men, Suffer Disproportionately Now—Must Feel Exhaustion First

By Frank H. Simonds. Copyright, 1916—The Tribune Association.

Many times in recent months I have been asked to give an estimate of the total losses of the various nations at war. Such an estimate necessarily must be based on a very large number of different and even contradictory assertions made by the various press agencies of the nations at war. They will be the result of calculations, many of them too intricate to explain in detail. I am, therefore, going to present my estimate as representing the best guess that I can make from the information I have been able to get hold of, to support such portions of the statements I make as I can support by evidence and let the rest stand, with the express understanding that it represents a personal conclusion.

At the outset we have one interesting piece of evidence supplied by the compilation made by British officials of the German official lists confirmed by similar researches in neutral countries like Holland and Denmark, and never denied, so far as I know, by the German Government. It represents the addition of the various casualty lists that have been posted by the German Government since the war began.

The last list of which I know brought the total up to 3,550,000, of which some 850,000 stood for deaths, 450,000 for missing and captured and the balance for the wounded, who remained in German lines. We can say without debate that the men killed, captured and missing are permanently lost to Germany. But in addition some fraction of the men who have been wounded will be unable to return to the firing line. I am told by a friend lately returned from Germany that in Berlin this figure is set down at 10 per cent of the gross number of wounded, that is, in the case of the present list, 225,000.

Roughly speaking, then, we may say that of the 3,550,000 Germans, whose names appear on the casualty list, 850,000, or 24 per cent are dead, 450,000, or 12.7 per cent are captured or missing; 225,000, or 6.3 per cent are permanently disabled. And the sum of these percentages is exactly 50 per cent of the total casualty list, when there is added the 7 per cent which represents the wounded, who at any given moment will not be fit for duty because they have not yet recovered from their wounds. This last comes to technically described by the German as temporary loss.

GERMAN LISTS INACCURATE.

Now it is generally agreed among all neutral observers that the German lists are somewhat behind the fact. This is proven by those who have taken the trouble to examine case by case. They discover that the lists of September 1, for example, will still be carrying the names of men who were killed, wounded or captured way back in the opening days on the Verdun operation. We get some notion of the actual situation from statements of the total of French casualties, which are certainly not in excess, proportionately, of the German, regard being had for the periods of quiet in the West, during which the Germans have been carrying on major operations on other fronts. If France with a population of 39,000,000 has made a loss of 3,500,000, Germany with a population of 67,000,000 can hardly have escaped with total casualty lists of less than 4,000,000, a figure, some what, but not very greatly in excess of the official German statement of 3,550,000. Even this figure concedes a somewhat greater proportionate loss for the French, which is a matter for open for conjecture and debate and sure to be challenged by French and British commentators.

But accepting the figure we have set forth, namely, 4,000,000 for the Germans and similarly the 2,500,000 for the French, we are able to make some sort of adjustment for all the combatants. These estimates I am now going to put forth in tabular form and then discuss.

Casualty lists of the six Great Powers:

France	2,500,000
Russia	2,750,000
Great Britain	1,400,000
Italy	250,000
	10,000,000
Central Powers:
Germany	4,000,000
Austria	4,000,000
	8,000,000

My estimate for the gross casualties of the six Great Powers at war is therefore 18,000,000, and I believe that the loss of the Allies is probably not less than 2,000,000 in excess of that of the Central Powers. To this total must be added the losses of the smaller nations at war, Rumania, Belgium and Serbia on the Allied side, Turkey and Bulgaria on the side of the Central Powers. The Portuguese losses in the African campaign have been inconsiderable and in round numbers I put the losses proper to the smaller powers as well as to Japan at 1,000,000. This gives the total loss of men put out of action during over 18 months of fighting. We may say roughly that the killed, wounded and captured, together with the permanently disabled probably amount to something over half the number of inhabitants of Italy in 1914.

4,500,000 DEAD.

Going back to the case of Germany we saw that the official German figures indicated that just less than a quarter, 24 per cent of the German casualties were deaths. Therefore we may say that of the 18,500,000 casualties suffered by the nations at war, at least one quarter, or 4,500,000 represent deaths and this is equal to the total population, of the country of Serbia, in 1914. In a word, the war that broke out over Serbia has already killed a number of men equal to the whole population of the little Balkan State.

Turning back to the table which appears above, it remains to explain the various numbers. The French and German have been discussed. As to the Russian, I have accepted the German figure, practically; that is, the Germans have recently announced the total Russian loss to be 6,000,000. This is probably excessive, as is the figure of 5,750,000, which I have adopted, but there is lacking any other satisfactory estimate of any sort.

As to Austria, we know that she has lost not less than 1,500,000 in prisoners alone, while her battlefield losses have been greater than those of France because, with a population more than 10,000,000 in excess of that of France, she has been able to put larger numbers in the field and her necessities have compelled her to do this. Many months ago Austrian casualties were estimated at 4,000,000. I think this figure is now too small, just as I consider the Russian to be large, but again it must stand as the best conservative calculation available. As to the British and Italian estimates, they need no discussion and will probably stand with little question.

WHAT THE LISTS MEAN.

Having thus set forth an estimate of casualties, it remains to point out something of their meaning. At the moment when the war broke out the four great powers united against Germany and Austria had a European population of around 300,000,000. The combined population of Austria and Germany was 120,000,000. Now, there is no question more keenly debated than that of the proportion of a total national population which can be reckoned as capable of bearing arms. It may be 10 per cent, it may be 12, but it will be the same for all nations, approximately. We may say then that at the outset of the war the Allies had available a man-power of 30,000,000, the Central Powers a man-power of 12,000,000. If the Allies have now suffered casualties amounting to 10,000,000, one-third of their whole force has been temporarily or permanently incapacitated. But if the Central Powers have suffered casualties amounting to 8,000,000, two-thirds of their man-power has been temporarily or permanently incapacitated.

Now in the case of the German official figures we saw that the total of permanent casualties, with relation to total casualties, was 50 per cent. Accepting this ration we may say that the permanent loss of the Allies has been 5,000,000 and of the Central Powers 4,000,000. In other words, the Allies have permanently lost one-sixth of their man-power, the Central Powers one-third. And this ratio will remain constant, whether the various nations are able to put 10 per cent or 12 per cent of their population into the field.

GERMANY MUST SUCCUMB.

Here is the foundation of all that has been said about attrition since the war began. In a war of exhaustion the weaker force must ultimately lose if the war continues steadily a trial of endurance. In the end, if the Germans continue to lose at the rate of a third of their man power in the time when the Allies are losing at the rate of one-sixth, the Germans and their allies must succumb. And in the first twenty-six months of the world war this has been approximately the ratio of losses in the two camps.

Now British critics, notably Mr. Hilaire Belloc, who follows the French as well as the British official opinion fairly closely, but relies mainly on the French, assert that the German and Austrian losses have already been much higher, while German and Austrian critics will place the French losses, as well as the British materially higher than I have. It will be recalled that I accepted the German estimate of Russian losses, with but an insignificant modification. Perhaps the facts lie with the larger estimates made on both sides.

But what I want now to emphasize is that Mr. Belloc and his followers believe the German and Austrian losses have been so much larger than we have estimated that they assert that the Central Powers are already facing a shortage of men. What they mean is this. As it stands it requires not much less than 5,000,000 men to hold the lines of the Central Powers, eliminating the Bulgars and Turks. If the permanent loss of the Central Powers has only been 4,000,000, my figures, they still have 8,000,000 left, and 3,000,000 over the number needed to hold their present lines.

SIX MONTHS' SUPPLY.

But if their permanent loss has been 7,000,000, then they have left no balance over the necessary 5,000,000. If it has been 6,000,000 their balance is only a million, which is not more than six months' supply. When you read reports of French and British critics of the Belloc school, declaring that Germany is facing an absolute decline in man power, you will see that this growth out of an estimate of the total casualty lists of the Central Powers as something more than 50 per cent above my own estimate.

Now it would be possible to fix the time in which, granted the Central Powers did not in the meantime win the war, they would have to shorten their lines, if we had the exact figures of their losses. They would lack men to hold the present extent. In this time no such shortage could be felt by the Allies, because they started with a man power two and a half times as great, that is, a total man power of 30,000,000 against 12,000,000, and have never had in the field at any time more than 8,000,000. If they have lost 5,000,000 permanently and have 8,000,000 in the field, they now have a further supply of 17,000,000, as against 3,000,000 for the Central Powers, if our computation is approximately correct.

We do know that the population of the Allied nations is two and a half times that of the Central Powers. We do know that their losses have been, if actually greater than the German and Austrian, relatively much smaller, regard being had for their total man power, and this means that they are certain to have reserves to call upon when the reserves of the Central Powers have been exhausted.

Take a simple illustration. Eight men are fighting five. Behind the eight are twenty-two, ready to take their places, behind the five are only seven. If the first five men disposed of the first eighth, while exhausting themselves, eight more will take the place of the first, five more the place of the first five. But then the second eight will have fourteen behind them, the second five only two.

Now, if the Central Powers have lost only 4,000,000 out of 12,000,000, that is permanently lost them, in the first twenty-six months of the war, they may be able to go on for something less than two years more, losing at the same rate, before they will be able to put 5,000,000 in the field. They will go longer if their losses are not as great, but they will go a shorter time if, as seems to be the case now, their losses increase with greater pressure on all sides.

Those who, like myself, believe that the German and Austrian losses are smaller than Mr. Belloc and his school assert, believe that the war will last for two years more, because they believe that it will take most of this time to exhaust the man power of the Central Powers. But even at the moment when the Central Powers feel the pinch, they can temporarily save their situation by shortening their lines, going back for example, in the West, to a line from the Dutch frontier, through Liege and Luxemburg to Metz.

EXHAUSTION WILL COME.

Only one thing is certain; we can't say when exhaustion will come, because we can only guess at the figures of casualties. But we can say that it will come, that it will come to the weaker party, which is the Central Alliance first, and that it will come while the opposing alliance has still abundant supply of men to keep its armies at the maximum of necessary strength. Conceivably the Germans may win the war, possibly the Allies may win the war, but if it goes on as it is now going, if it turns on battle losses, if it remains a contest of attrition, the ultimate outcome is patent.

Now in such space as remains to me I desire to set forth a few more figures, an estimate of the cost in casualties of the campaign of the present year, that is from January to the end of October. In this time, I believe the French have lost 400,000, 250,000 at Verdun and 150,000 at the Somme and elsewhere; the British 400,000, mainly at the Somme; the Italians 260,000, and the Russians 1,000,000. This last is the German estimate of Russian casualties since June. It is high, but I accept it, only stretching it to include the operations prior to June, which were not very expensive. All told, the Allies have thus lost 2,000,000.

Now as to the Central Powers: The German loss at Verdun was not less than 500,000. At the Somme it has been around 250,000, including all other casualties on the western front. Defending themselves at the Somme the Germans have lost about half as many men as their assailants. At Verdun, where they were the assailants, they lost at a similar ratio. On the eastern and Balkan fronts the German loss has been not less than 250,000, the price of checking the Russian drive. All told the German loss has been 1,000,000. As for the Austrians, they have lost at least 750,000, including over 350,000 prisoners, mainly to the Russians.

Now examine these last figures and you will see what the results of the new Allied tactics of pounding have been, combined with the German failure at Verdun. In about ten months the Germans and Austrians, who started with a man power, let us say of 12,000,000, or 10 per cent. of their total population, have lost 1,750,000 in killed, wounded and captured, and this is more than 14 per cent. of their total. In the same time the Allies have lost 2,000,000, or rather less than 7 per cent of their original power, again applying the 10 per cent rule. In other words, the rate of exhaustion of the Central Powers this year has been twice as great in relation to their total resources as that of the Allies. It is my judgment, too, that the figures I have given are low for the Central Powers and high for their enemies.

HALF A MILLION PRISONERS.

Nor does this complete the statement. We have official Russian figures to prove that 420,000 prisoners were taken by the Russians in their great advance, and these figures were repeated in debates in the Hungarian Chamber. We have the Italian claim of 30,000 prisoners taken in their Gorizia drive and Anglo-French claims, officially made of the capture of at least 75,000 Germans at the Somme. Here is a loss in prisoners of not less than 525,000 for the Central Powers.

As against this the Germans have claimed about the same number of Italian prisoners taken chiefly in the Trentine drive. German and Austrian reports have not claimed more than 100,000 Russian prisoners this year. Thus the loss in prisoners of the Allies is more than two and a half times less than that of the Central Powers and their permanent loss, by reason of the year's campaign, is thus less than that of their enemies. Able, because of their superior population, to bear much larger absolute losses than their enemies, the Allies have actually suffered losses absolutely not merely relatively smaller.

In the American Civil War Grant was the first Union commander to grasp the logic of attrition. He applied it unhesitatingly, he accepted the responsibility for colossal losses that did not bring any advantage upon the battlefield for many months, because he foresaw that the time would come when the South, although its losses were actually smaller than his own, would not be able to replace the casualties out of its inferior population. Allied logic, strategy, policy are Grant's, they are doing what he did, they are fighting his kind of a battle with equally great resources in numbers, if not material, and with control of the sea and superior financial powers.

THEY FIGHT ANYTHING AND MAKE ANYTHING

These British soldiers in Salonika are here shown making their own tents, using a sewing machine with the same facility displayed by their sisters at home in making munitions for them to fight with. Another example of British adaptability.

CONSCRIPTION MUST COME.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—What steps are the Government and people of Canada going to take in order to obtain the 140,000 more men to bring up Canada's quota for the war to the promised half million? Is the full quota ever to be realized or will the bulk of this present deficiency only be ready for action in time to be disbanded after the declaration of peace?

The war will probably last at least another year, perhaps considerably longer, but it is not consistent with self-respect, humanity nor economy to mark time at present merely on the strength of that. Were this 140,000 deficiency about ready for service today the war might be appreciably shortened, just as it may be appreciably lengthened to the extent of the delay or non-arrival of this at present mythical 140,000 men.

The thing, however, to be emphasized is that by the spring of next year, certainly by the summer—the heaviest and hardest fighting of the war will occur. Our superiority in munitions and men will have reached its zenith. It is then that the Empire will require every ounce of energy at the front contributing towards the final and greatest effort to defeat the Hun decisively, and thus to render another winter campaign unnecessary—in other words, to bring about peace.

In order, therefore, for Canada to do her full part by half million mark in recruiting must soon be reached. The present non-existent 140,000 men should be ready to take the field by May, 1917, and thus fill up the wastage of the gallant four divisions now at the front, and those other divisions which, before the winter has come and gone, will have entered the firing line. But at the rate recruiting is now proceeding this number will not be reached until the dim future has become a fading past. Assuredly the voluntary system seems to have broken its back. It would, therefore, seem up to the country to some alternative. What is the alternative?

Great Britain, who raised an enormous army, and who under the voluntary system had already done more than her share, took to conscription, realizing that the safety of the Empire depended upon it. Australia, with a population of under five million, who has already given over four hundred thousand men, is to take a referendum of the people on the same question. Can Canada, insolently, with self-respect, remain "last behind." And in this connection it might be pointed that even of the number already raised in Canada, a very large percentage of volunteers have come from those born in the Old Country. One has only to pick up a casualty list any day to realize the truth of this statement. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the notice "No Englishmen need apply" sometimes appearing in parts of Canada, will in future become conspicuous by its absence, and that in place thereof there will be substituted "No slackers need apply." Such a notice is imperative today.

Nevertheless, while it is a fact that of those who have volunteered a very great proportion were born in the Mother Country, yet the fact also remains that thousands of gallant native born Canadians have also been found to serve their King and Empire, many of whom have made the supreme sacrifice. It is due to these brave men, as well as to the flag, that those now eligible should go and do their bit and back up their brothers in the trenches. If there is insists on remaining a slacker, Canada should insist on attempting to make him a man. Presto, at the point of conscription.

But it is obvious that the introduction of conscription for a country such as Canada presents numerous difficulties. There are, however, two outstanding matters that are more important than any such difficulties. The first is that the war must be won, and won decisively. The second is that for Canada to preserve her self-respect in the Empire, and in the world's opinion, she will do her full share in helping to win the war. If then there is no other way out than conscription, conscription must come, and it must come with the approval of the majority of the Canadian people.

Before, however, introducing conscription one or two important matters should be undertaken. First a true War Cabinet should be formed. In other words, the present administration should give place to a Coalition Ministry, representative not merely of the majority party, but of the country at large. The leaders and best elements of both the great parties should be in this War Cabinet. Any policy then decided upon would become a national policy, and if conscription had to be put into force there would then be no danger of its becoming advocated by one party and opposed by the other; it would, if imposed, be supported by both. The formation of such a Ministry should have taken place months ago, certainly Canada should have followed the good example of Britain in this respect. But it is not too late, although it soon will be.

The inclusion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in such a Cabinet would be sufficient to please Quebec, and to lessen its opposition to any scheme of compulsion which it might become necessary. Certainly it would help recruiting in quebec if anything could.

Now having formed a Coalition Cabinet, let the Government immediately enter upon a registration scheme similar to that made in England, prior to the adoption of conscription. This scheme would be much more efficient and far-reaching than the one which is now being timidly attempted. With this accomplished, give Sir Thomas Tait (similar powers and authority to that given Lord Derby. Let Sir Thomas introduce the Derby scheme in Canada for as it may be practised in accordance with Canadian conditions. Allow a reasonable opportunity and time for the eligible, single men to become attested, and let them be called up in "drafts, according to age. After that the married men can come forward in their turn if necessary. The single men, however, should undoubtedly be called upon first. Make it plain that the Government is determined to adopt conscription if this scheme does not meet with full success. To save time and to show its earnestness, let the Government introduce a Conscription or Military Service Bill in Parliament and have it passed, with the proviso that it be only put into force after a certain date, should the requirements call for it.

After a specified time if the required number of men has not come forward, then let the Military Service Bill become operative. It is possible that under such conditions an actual resort to compulsion may be found needless.

But one more suggestion I have to make, and that is, constitute the position of Director-General of Recruiting one of the most important in the Government. Let it carry with it a seat in the cabinet. Then offer the position to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir Wilfrid's influence in Quebec is commanding, and it is from that province that the greatest number should come forward. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is eminently fitted for such a post; he is eloquent, energetic and, moreover, diplomatic. The compliment would appeal to Quebec, to the imagination of the French mind. It would be a large thing for Conservatives to do. It would by no means lessen their influence, if anything it would strengthen their position. It would also redound to the credit of the Liberals. It would show to the men of both parties, while they were Conservatives and Liberals, were first of all Canadians and British subjects, and that they put the honor and welfare of their country and Empire above what they might consider the temporary interests of their party. Patriotism and sanity would have triumphed over Pecksniffianism and party.

NO JAILBIRDS FOR SOLDIERS.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Surely Mr. Dillon is joking when he suggests that all the jailbirds in Canada be drafted into the army and sent overseas.

I wonder if Mr. Dillon would like to see himself or some of his family serving in a division that contained a battalion of jailbirds.

It is a well-known fact that 95 per cent of criminals are degenerates, feeble-minded, and not 10 per cent of them could pass a military doctor. The average crook is the biggest coward in the world. Their nerve power and manhood is all eaten up with excesses such as booze and cocaine.

When Mr. Dillon says that the country is drained of men, he is sadly in error. You could conscript 50,000 men in Montreal alone and hardly miss them. Take a walk along St. Catherine street and look at the countless thousands of fit young men dressed to kill parading the streets.

Or does Mr. Dillon think that only bums and tramps are enlisting. A wonderful suggestion, Mr. Dillon indeed. I am sure that all the soldier boys will be enthused over it. Why not suggest to Mayor Martin that he empty the city jailbirds and give them all the jobs in the City Hall, and allow the City Hallyclerks to enlist?

TRADE WITH GERMANY AFTER THE WAR.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—As a regular reader of your columns, I would look for a small space on a matter which so very many people at the present time seem to take a wrong stand, viz., the attitude the business men of the British Empire shall adopt after the war is over.

While admitting that this war — unparalleled in history—has called forth an enormous loathing and hatred of the Germans and their methods of conducting the conflict, there are some aspects of the period succeeding the declaration of peace which no one who thinks calmly and intelligently can ignore.

First of all, take a look at the foolish and impossible position of those who wish to adopt as their slogan after the war "no trade relations with the Germans." To all such I would put the question: How can you do it? As soon the war is declared every ship, be they ships, those ships will most assuredly come over the waters laden to the limit with German merchandise. Who in this twentieth century can frame a law that will exclude those goods from every port? Some may exclaim that the British parliament will do it or that the overseas Dominions will do it. But, to state for as it may be practised in accordance with "sweet reasonableness" allow a reasonable opportunity and time for the eligible, single men to become attested, and let them be called up in "drafts, according to age. To save time and to show its earnestness, let the Government introduce a Conscription or Military Service Bill in Parliament, and have it passed, with the proviso that it be only put into force after a certain date, should the requirements call for it.

After a specified time if the required number of men has not come forward, then let the Military Service Bill become operative. It is possible that under such conditions an actual resort to compulsion may be found needless.

But one more suggestion I have to make, and that is, constitute the position of Director-General of Recruiting one of the most important in the Government. Let it carry with it a seat in the cabinet. Then offer the position to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir Wilfrid's influence in Quebec is commanding, and it is from that province that the greatest number should come forward. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is eminently fitted for such a post; he is eloquent, energetic and, moreover, diplomatic. The compliment would appeal to Quebec, to the imagination of the French mind. It would be a large thing for Conservatives to do. It would by no means lessen their influence, if anything it would strengthen their position. It would also redound to the credit of the Liberals. It would show to the men of both parties, while they were Conservatives and Liberals, were first of all Canadians and British subjects, and that they put the honor and welfare of their country and Empire above what they might consider the temporary interests of their party. Patriotism and sanity would have triumphed over Pecksniffianism and party.

"None for sale—unobtainable, as same is produced only in Germany." In this case of this class of goods, how is it possible to conduct a trade war after peace is declared? Every sensible person and all business men will at once see the futility and impossibility of such a position, and the only thing to do will be to remove all obstacles to the entry of those commodities.

The stupid fanaticism for so-called "free trade" which permeated so large a portion of the British people, we hope will not be repeated. One very glaring instance of which is a standing menace to the country in the shape of a process which was invented by Sir Joseph Porkins, in England, but which trade was absolutely killed for the British and handed over lock, stock and barrel to Germany well within the lifetime of the inventor. If would have paid a million Germans, a million cent if proper measures, perfectly just and right in themselves, had been taken to preserve this and other trades to the Empire.

What we need in the future is wise discrimination and protection in the best sense of the word. Not a blind, bullheaded exclusion of everything German, and above all the people should think for themselves in these matters a little deeper than the difference of a cent or two, and when articles which they know can be made as good or better at home are plainly or even impudently marked "made in Germany," just quietly and firmly pass them by. Let us hope the exhibition here of German made goods will suitably impress our merchants without upsetting any good and proper principles.

CHURCH UNION—SOME MISAPPREHENSIONS AND INACCURACIES.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—You have in the past few days given a fair measure of publicity to what was said by the speakers at a convocation held in our city by Presbyterians opposed to the formation of the United Church of Canada by the Methodists, Congregationalists and Presbyterians of the Dominion. Their right to meet and voice their convictions and determination to oppose the contemplated union agreed upon at last assembly by the overwhelming majority of 4½ to 90 is unquestioned.

Will you permit me to answer some of their contentions that in my judgment are not true in fact, or experience?

1. That "the union will be the destruction of the Presbyterian Church."

The Presbyterian Church as a distinct organization will disappear, but will continue to live as a constituent element in "The United Church of Canada." The river when it joins the sea ceases as a river, but becomes part of the sea. The bride at the altar surrenders her maiden name, but continues in the fuller and richer relationship of wifehoods. A name is a designation, but not an entity. The entity abides quite independent of the name.

2. More than one speaker declared that "it was due to the living and the dead that the Presbyterian Church should be continued as it is."

This carried out to its legitimate conclusion would stifle all progress. We owe it to the dead to honor their memory and follow their methods and teaching. We also owe it to them to improve upon their methods when improvement is possible, to take up the work where they laid it down, and carry it higher and further, and we owe it to the living that we do not seek to lay upon them or those who will come after them and us the cold and paralyzing hand of the past when that would restrict their freedom and limit their endeavor.

3. At the Toronto "convocation," as well as smaller convocations held east and west, it was stated, "The bigness of the new church will be its snare and illusion."

Are we inferentially to conclude that only in the small church lies safety and sincerity? Then development is an error and growth a crime, and the safety and spirituality of the church and of the congregations of the church will be conserved by shrinkage rather than by expansion. Absurd! But that is the logical conclusion of the contention that a big church, strong in numbers and resources, will become apathetic and unspiritual.

4. Again it has been asserted, and, if possible, with stronger emphasis, that "the continuance of the Presbyterian Church as such is vital to the religious interests of Canada."

Is not this an indication of denominational pride that would deny to other Christians their share in maintaining and developing the spiritual life of our land? Justice, as well as candor and modesty, require that the fine part played by Methodists and Congregationalists, as well as other Evangelical bodies, in maintaining and developing the spiritual life of the country, be gratefully acknowledged.

Paul might well have had the convocation in his mind when writing to his beloved brethren at Philippi, "Let nothing be done in strife or vain-glory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than himself."

5. That "there is a disposition on the part of the advocates of union to accomplish it by questionable means."

What are the facts? The discussion touching union began some thirteen years ago. The question has been fully debated in every Assembly. The majority has shown every disposition to conciliate. Nothing further is to be done to consummate union until one year after the close of the war. That will not be before the Assembly of 1918. Four hundred and six can wait the convenience of ninety for a season. They will stand still out of deference to a minority of their brethren for years. That has been done, but it is not in reason nor in experience that they will do so forever. The time has come to advance. If the parting of the ways has been reached, it will be with keen regret. "New occasions teach new duties," and the greater good must be sought, even at the price of sacrifice and possible painful separation.

To the more specific allegations that the recent Assembly which decided to go on with union was not fairly representative, indeed was virtually "packed," it is only necessary to state that in the case of the ministers the almost universal practice of Presbyteries is to send these to the Assembly by rotation. For example, every ministerial representative from the Toronto Presbytery—the largest in the church—went this year by rotation. At least half of the elders also go by rotation. Packing is impossible.

6. We are told that the greatest enthusiasm was aroused by fervent appeals to preserve the Church of our Fathers for our soldiers at the front, for our children and for our fellow-citizens who may come to us from the Mother Land.

Will the United Church be any less "The Church of our Fathers" than the denominations that will form it? One notices with not a little regret the absence of any allusion to "The Church of Our Father," or "The Church of Jesus Christ," which He purchased with His blood. Are not these the older and the more appealing terms? After all, the word "Presbyterian" is not so very ancient. The word "Christian" is very, very much older, more inclusive, and to the men that need to be won from error to truth, more understandable.

Glorying in a sectarian name may have some merit. The mightiest and most persuasive of Christ's witnesses said, "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ."

The Canadian soldiers of all Protestant denominations who had comradeship together in tent and trench, and whose blood mingled in the soil of France, will, if spared to return, find it not a hardship, but a privilege to mingle their praises and to enjoy one another's fellowship in "The United Church of Canada." Our children study together, play together. They may well wonder why they do not worship together.

In conclusion, may I urge as one who does not love the Presbyterian Church, or the brethren with whom he differs, less, but who loves unity, conservation of strength and concentration of effort more, that the time is calling for a yet more distinct and authoritative expression of Christian conviction and purpose, many believe that conviction will find a more adequate expression in "The United Church of Canada."

There is needless, and, therefore, unpardonable overlapping in many fields not only in the newer provinces of the Great West, but the older provinces of the east. The time is calling for a conservation of men and means that Christian service be more efficient and effective. Why should two or three men be in places where there is only work for one? It is not a man's job. Why should two or three feeble causes be drawing upon church funds when a union would give a strong, self-sustaining cause and set free for the work of extension this money and give capable men to places where men are needed?

Are we not perplexing the foreigner that we are anxious to Christianize and Canadianize by our manifold denominationalism? Are we not finding in all our large cities a growing foreign section as alien to our Canadian institutions and ideals as the cities of eastern Europe?

There is urgent need for a united church, with a membership not only loving one another in separate and often-times rival organization, but working together in one organic unity.

There are great days awaiting us—days of reconstruction, readjustment, and assimilation—days so big with opportunity that to give time, thought or feeling to what is sectional or sectarian to the neglect of what is national and Christian would be little short of a crime. Christ sent us not to found or perpetuate denominations, "but to preach the Gospel," and it is written, "He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord."

BERNARD SHAW'S WEIRD VISION OF STRANGE MEETING

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

(Copyright 1916)

"Are you a Boche?" said the little girl.

It was one of those nights when you feel nervous and think you see people in the shadows, or even ghosts, because, though there was a moon, it kept going in and out of the clouds, and a lot of clouds kept scurrying across the sky, some so white that you could see the moon through them, others like brown feathers that just dimmed her, and some big, dark ones that you knew would blacken out the moon altogether when they caught her. Some people get frightened on such nights and keep indoors in the light and warmth, where they are not alone, and the night is shut out by the curtains, but others find themselves very restless, and want to go out and wander about an watch the moon. They like the ark because they can imagine all sorts of things about the places they cannot see, and fancy that wonderful kinds of people will come out of the blacknesses and have adventures with them.

On this particular night it was not half so dangerous to be out in the dark as it had been that afternoon to be out in the light, because it was one of the places where the English and the French are fighting the Germans. In the daytime every one had to hide in the trenches. If they showed their heads for a moment—bang! they were shot. There were curtains hung to prevent you from crossing certain fields; only these curtains were not like window curtains; they were really showers of bombshells bursting and digging great holes in the ground and blowing people and little and trees all to bits; so they were called fire curtains. At night there were no fire curtains, and the soldiers who sat up all night watching to shoot you could not see you so easily. Still, it was dangerous enough to prevent you imagining ghosts and robbers. Instead, you could not help thinking about the shells and bullets, and about all the dead and wounded men who were still lying where they had been shot. It is not surprising that there was nobody walking about to enjoy the moonlight and to look at the fireworks. For there were fireworks. From time to time the men who were watching to shoot sent up shells that dropped a bright star in the sky and lit up everybody that was in sight on the ground. When this happened the men who were stealing about spying on the enemy, or looking for wounded men, or putting up barbed wire fences to protect their trenches, fell flat on their faces and pretended to be dead until the star went out.

VERY PROUD MAN.

Just a little after half-past 11, in a place where no men were stealing about, and the star shells were all too far off to show the ground very distinctly, somebody came stalking along in a strange manner, for he was not looking for wounded, nor spying, nor doing any of the things that the soldiers did; he was only wandering about, stopping and then going on again, but never stopping to pick up anything. Sometimes, when a star shell came so near that you could see him pretty plainly, he stopped and stood very stiffly upright, and folded his arms. When it was dark again he walked on with a curious, striding step, like the step of a very proud man, and yet he had to walk slowly and carefully, because the ground was all blown into great hollows and pits by the bombshells; besides, he might have tripped over a dead soldier. The reason he carried himself so stiffly and haughtily was that he was the German Emperor. If he came at a certain angle between you and the moon or a star shell, you could see the end of his turned-up mustache, just as you see it in the pictures. But mostly you could not see him at all, for what with the clouds and most of the star shells being so far off, you very seldom saw anything until your eyes had become used to the dark, and not even then until you were very close up.

It was so dark that, though the Emperor walked very carefully, he stumbled into a great pit, called a crater, made by a mine that had been blown up, and very nearly pitched head foremost to the bottom of it. But he saved himself by clutching at something. He thought it was a tuft of grass, but it was a Frenchman's beard, and the Frenchman was dead. Then the moon came out for a moment, and the Emperor saw that quite a number of soldiers, some French and some German, had been blown up by that mine, and were lying about in the crater. It seemed to him that they were all staring at him.

The Emperor had a dreadful shock. Before he could think of what he was doing he said to the dead men in German words, "Ich habe es nicht gewollt," which means, in English, "It is not my doing," or "I never intended to," or, sometimes "It wasn't me"—just what you say when you are scolded for doing something wrong. Then he scrambled out of the pit and walked away from it in another direction. But his inside felt so bad that he had to sit down when he had gone only a little way. At least he could have gone on if he had tried but an ammunition case which lay in his path was so convenient to sit on that he thought he would rest until he felt better.

JUST WHIMPERING.

The next thing that happened was very surprising, for a brown thing came out of the darkness, and he would have taken it for a dog if it had not clinked and squeaked, as well as made footsteps. When it came nearer he saw that it was a little girl, and she was much too young to be up at a quarter to twelve in the middle of the night. The clinking and squeaking was because she was carrying a tin can. And she was crying, not loudly, but just whimpering. When she saw the Emperor she was not a bit frightened or surprised; she only stopped crying with a great sniff and sob, and said: "I am sorry, but all my water is gone."

"What a pity!" said the Emperor, who was accustomed to children. "Are you very, very thirsty? I have a flask, you see, but I'm afraid what is in it would be too strong for you to drink."

"I don't want to drink," said the little girl, quite surprised. "Don't you? Aren't you wounded?"

"No," said the Emperor. "What are you crying for?"

The little girl almost began to cry again. "The soldiers were very unkind to me," she said, going closer up to the Emperor, and leaning against his knee. "There are four of them in a mine crater over there. There is a Tommy and a Hairy and two Boches."

"You must not call a German soldier a Boche," said the Emperor, severely. "That is very, very wrong."

"No," said the little girl, "it is quite right, I assure you. An English soldier is a Tommy, and a French soldier is a Hairy, and a German soldier is a Boche. My mother calls them like that. Everybody does. One of the Boches wears spectacles and is like a college teacher. The other has been lying out for two nights. None of them can move. They are very bad. I gave them water, and at first they thanked me and prayed that God would bless me, except the college teacher. Then a shell came, and, though it was quite far off, they drove me away and said that if I didn't go straight home as fast as I could a bear would come out of the wood and eat me and my father would beat me with a strap. The college teacher told them out loud that they were softies and that I didn't matter, but he whispered to me to go home quickly. May I stay with you, please? My father would not beat me, I know, but I am afraid of the bear."

"You may stay with me," said the Emperor, "and I will not let the bear touch you. There really isn't any bear."

"Are you sure?" said the little girl. "The Tommy said there was. He said it was a great, big bear that boiled little children in his inside after eating them."

"The English never tell the truth," said the Emperor.

"He was very kind at first," said the little girl, beginning to cry again. "I don't think he would have said it if he didn't believe it, unless the pain of his wound made him fancy things like bears."

"Don't cry," said the Emperor. "He was not unkind; they were all afraid you would be wounded like themselves, and wanted you to go home so as to be out of danger."

"Oh, I'm quite used to shells," said the little girl. "I go about at night giving water to the wounded, because my father was left lying out five nights, and suffered dreadfully from thirst."

"Ich habe es nicht gewollt," said the Emperor, feeling very sick again.

"Are you a Boche?" said the little girl; for the Emperor had spoken to her before in French. "You speak French very well, but I thought you were English."

"I am half English," said the Emperor.

"That's funny," said the little girl. "You must be very careful, for both sides will try to shoot you."

The Emperor gave a queer little laugh, and the moon came out and showed him to the girl more plainly than before. "You have a nice cloak and your uniform is very clean," she said. "How can you keep it so clean when you have to lie down in the dirt when a star shell shines?"

"I do not lie down. I stand up. That is how I keep my uniform clean," said the Emperor.

"But you mustn't stand up," said the little girl. "If they see you they will fire at us."

"Very well, then," said the Emperor. "For your sake, I will lie down while you are with me, but now you must let me take you home. Where is your house?"

"I DID NOT WISH IT."

The little girl laughed. "We haven't a house," she said. "First the Germans shelled our village. Then they took it and the French shelled it. Then the English came and shelled the Germans out of it. Now all three of them shell it. Our house has been struck seven times, and our cowhouse nineteen times. And, just fancy, not even the cow was killed. My papa says it has cost 25,000 francs to knock down our cowhouse. He is very proud of it."

"Ich habe es nicht gewollt," said the Emperor, coming all over bad again. When he felt better he said, "And where do you live now?"

"Anywhere we can," said the girl. "Oh, it is quite easy; you soon get used to it. What are you? Are you a stretcher bearer?"

"No, my child," said the Emperor. "I am what is called a Kaiser."

"I did not know there was more than one," said the little girl.

"There are three," said the Kaiser.

"Do they all have to turn their mustaches up?" said the little girl.

"No," said the Kaiser. "They are allowed to wear beards when their mustaches won't turn up."

"They should put them in curl papers like I do with my hair at Easter," said the little girl. "What does a Kaiser do? Does he fight or does he pick up the wounded?"

"He doesn't exactly do anything," said the Emperor. "He thinks."

"What does he think?" said the girl, who, like all young things, knew so little about people that when she met them she had to ask them a great many questions, and was sometimes told not to be inquisitive, though her mother usually said, "Ask no questions, and you'll be told no lies."

"If the Kaiser were to tell, that wouldn't be thinking, would it?" said the Emperor.

"I suppose not," said the girl. "But, anyhow, what are you doing here so late when you are not wounded?"

"Will you promise not to tell anybody if I tell you?" said the Emperor. "It's a secret."

"I promise faithfully," said the girl. "Please, do tell me. I love secrets."

"Then," said the Emperor, "I had to tell all my soldiers this morning that I was very sorry I could not go into the trenches and fight under fire as they do, and that the reason was, I had to think so hard for them all; that if I were killed they would not know what to do and they would all be beaten and killed."

"That was very naughty of you," said the little girl, "for it wasn't true, you know, was it?" When my uncle was killed another man just stepped into his place, and the battle went on just as if nothing had happened. I think they might have stopped just for a minute, but they didn't. If you were killed, wouldn't somebody step into your place?"

"Yes," said the Emperor; "my son would."

"Then, why did you tell them such an awful fib?" said the little girl.

"I was made to," said the Emperor. "That is what a Kaiser is for, to be made get up and say things that neither he nor anyone else believes. I saw it in the faces of some of the men today that they didn't believe me, and thought I was a coward making excuses. So when the night came I went to bed and pretended to go asleep, but, when they were all gone, I got up and stole out here by myself to make sure that I was not afraid. That is why I stand up when the star shells shine."

"Why not do it in the daytime?" said the little girl. "That's when the real danger is."

"They wouldn't let me," said the Emperor.

"Poor Kaiser," said the little girl. "I'm so sorry for you. I hope you won't be wounded. If you are I'll bring you some water."

The Emperor felt so fond of her when she said this that he gave her a kiss before he got up and took her by the hand to lead her away to a place of safety. And she felt so fond of him that she never thought of anything else for the moment. This was how it happened that neither of them noticed that a star shell had just lit up right over them, and that the tall figure of the Emperor could be seen by its light from ever so far, though the girl, who was a little thing in a dingy brown dress, and whose face was, to tell the truth, not very clean, looked at a little distance like nothing but an ant heap.

A FEARFUL SOUND.

The next moment there was a fearful sound—the sound of a shell rushing through the air so fast that it left the bang of the cannon behind it as it came straight toward them. The Emperor turned round quickly to look, and as he did so two more stars broke out, and another shell began racing toward them from a great distance. And this was a very big one; the Emperor could see it tearing through the air like a mad elephant, making a noise like a train in a tunnel. The first shell burst not very far away with such a splitting crack that it seemed to be right in the Emperor's ear. And all the time the second shell was coming with a terrible rush.

The Emperor threw himself on his face and clutched the earth with his fists, trying to bury himself out of danger. Then he remembered the little girl, and it seemed to him so awful that she should be blown to pieces that he forgot about himself and tried to jump up and throw himself on top of her to shield her.

But you can think of things far quicker than you can do them, and shells are nearly as quick as thinking. Before the Emperor had got his fingers out of the clay and his knee doubled up to rise there was a most tremendous noise. The Emperor had never heard anything so awful, so much he was used to shells of a thousand. You couldn't call it a bang, or a roar, or a crash; it was fearful, tearing, shattering, enormous bang-smash-or-thunderclap-earthquake-and-like-the-end-of-the-world. The Emperor really believed for a whole minute that he had been blown inside out, for shells do sometimes blow people inside out when they don't actually hit them. When he got up he did not know whether he was standing on his head or his heels; indeed, he was not standing on either, for he fell down again several times, and when at last he managed to keep on his feet by steadying himself against something, he found that the something was a tree that had been quite a long distance away from him when the shell came, so he knew he had been blown all that way by the explosion. And the first thing he said to himself was: "Where is the child?"

"Here," said a voice in the tree over his head. It was the little girl's voice.

"Gott sei dank," said the Emperor, which is the German for "Thanks be to God." "Are you hurt, my child? I thought you were blown to pieces."

"I am blown to pieces," said the little girl's voice. "Blown into just two thousand and thirteen little tiny pieces, deeds pieces. The shell came right into my lap. The bottom bit left of me little too; it's over there nearly half a mile off, and one of my thumb-nails is over there, half a mile the other way, and there are four eyelashes in the crater where the four men have left their bodies, one for each, and one of my front teeth is sticking in the strap of your helmet. But I don't wonder at that, because it was coming loose. All the rest of me is just burnt up and blown into dust."

WHO CARES?"

"Ich habe es nicht gewollt," said the Emperor, in a voice that would have made anybody pity him. But the little girl didn't pity him at all; she only said: "Oh, who cares whether you did or not, now? I did laugh when I saw you flop down on your face in your lovely uniform. I laughed so much that I didn't feel the shell, though it must have given me such a dig. You look funny still, holding on to that tree and swaying about just like grandpa when he was drunk."

The Emperor heard her laughing; but what surprised him very much was he heard other people laughing, too, like men with gruff voices.

"Who else is laughing?" he said. "Is there any one with you?"

"Oh, lots and lots," said the voice of the little girl. "The four men who were in the crater are up here. The first shell set them free."

"Du hast es nicht gewollt, Wilem; was?" said one of the gruff voices, and then all the voices laughed, for it was funny to hear a common soldier call the Emperor Billy.

"You must not deny me the respect you have taught me to consider my due," said the Emperor. "I did not make myself Kaiser. You brought me up to it, and denied me the natural equality and innocent play of the ordinary human being. I command you now to treat me as the idol you made me, and not as the simple man that God made me."

"It's not use talking to them," said the little girl's voice. "They have all flown away. They didn't care enough about you to listen to you. There is nobody left but me and the Boche in spectacles."

A man's voice came down from the tree. "I go not with them, because I desire not to associate with soldiers," it said. "They know that you made me a professor for telling lies about your grandfather."

"Fool!" said the Emperor, rudely; "did you ever tell them the truth about your own grandfather?"

There was no answer, and, after a little silence, the girl's voice said: "He has gone away, too. I don't believe his grandfather was any better than yours or mine. I think I must go, too. I am very sorry, for I used to like you before I was set free by the shell. But now, somehow, you don't seem to matter."

"My child," said the Emperor, full of grief at her wanting to leave him, "I matter as much as I ever did."

HE NEVER DID MATTER.

"Yes," said the little girl's voice, "but you don't matter to me. You never did, you see, except when I was foolish enough to be afraid that you would kill me. I thought it would hurt instead of setting me free. Now that I am set free, and it's ever so much nicer than being hungry and cold and frightened, you don't matter a bit. So goodby!"

"Wait a moment!" said the Emperor, in a begging voice. "There is no hurry, and I am very lonely."

"Why don't you make your soldiers fire the big gun at you as they did at me? Then you will be set free, and we can fly about together, if you like. Unless you do, I can't stay with you."

"I may not," said the Emperor.

"Why not?" said the little girl's voice.

"Because it is not usual," said the Emperor, "and the Emperor who does anything unusual is lost, for he is really nothing himself but a usuality."

AN UNENVIABLE REPUTATION

THE French company sent here by M. Bonheur, of the Theatre Francais des Etats-Unis, of New York, closes its two-weeks' season in this city tonight. The public patronage has again been indifferent, and during the past week it has averaged less than for the previous week, despite the fact that Bernhardt was here for four days last week.

There is no explanation of this lack of appreciation to be found in the quality of the plays presented or of their presentation. The company was a good all-round aggregation of sterling artistes, who brought to bear in the interpretation of their respective roles keen intelligence, experience, unquestioned histrionic skill, and unfailing good taste. The artistic direction of such a veteran as Claude Benedict ensured the general excellence of the mis-en-scene.

* * * * * * *

It is clear now that Montreal does not want, and will not extend adequate support to a company of French artistes giving French drama. M. Renson's excellent little stock company at the National Francais is not given anything like the encouragement to which its achievements entitle it. The French-Canadian theatre-goer here is evidently apathetic. He does not care to encourage French drama in the city where it ought to receive the heartiest possible backing.

Well, the producers know the truth now. Had the Comedie Francaise company paid its projected visit to New York this season, it would not have come to Montreal on this account. No New York manager will risk losing money in future upon such an unappreciative and shortsighted public.

Evidently this is the exact impression the bulk of French-Canadian theatre-goers in Montreal desire to create. They have achieved their object with signal success.

* * * * * * *

There are a number of excellent theatrical attractions booked for both English theatres for the next few weeks. On Monday it will be a difficult thing to decide which play to attend,—"Hobson's Choice" at the Princess, or "Common Clay" at His Majesty's. The discriminating theatre-goer will probably solve the difficulty by attending both theatres duping the week. Nobody ought to miss "Common Clay," and "Hobson's Choice" is one of the best productions of the modern English school of playwriting.

* * * * * * *

W. A. Tremayne's new play, "The Black Feather," seems destined to prove a valuable asset to the veteran playwright. Mr. Tremayne has worked long and unobtrusively in our midst for many years. He has trained most of our amateurs,—and Montreal has some excellent amateur material. He has done yeoman work in the direction of amateur productions, and his kindly advice, earnest efforts and unfailing courtesy have won for him the respect of many with whom he has come into contact. It will be a well-merited reward if he finds in "The Black Feather" a source of profit today.

My old colleague and friend, Hector Charlesworth, of Toronto, sends me an enthusiastic eulogy of Mr. Tremayne's latest work. It is first and foremost an entertainment. It makes no pretentions to subtlety or to problem-production. Bu it does afford an audience a good evening's entertainment. That, after all, is, or ought to be, the object of every playwright.

"The Black Feather" comes to His Majesty's Theatre the week after next, and Montrealers will then have an opportunity of showing whether they are disposed to encourage the authors in their midst, or whether we are to have another demonstration of the old, parochial spirit which demands foreign approval before Montreal will add its voice to the verdict of commendation.

* * * * * * *

Sir Herbert Tree is to pay us a visit soon with his production of "King Henry VIII," in which that sterling actress, Edith Wynne Matthison, will appear. Before him, however, the veteran Robert Mantell comes for a week to the Princess.

No man has done more than Mr. Mantell to keep aloft the banner of Shakespeare on this continent. No man deserves better of the theatre-going public. He is still in his prime as an interpreter of Shakespearean roles, and his Shylock is one which will, I am inclined to believe, be handed down to posterity as a tradition not to be despised.

S. MORGAN-POWELL.

ANN STARTS TOURING.

The Ziegfeld "Follies" have gone on the road, taking with them little Ann Pennington and her even smaller Hula Hula costume. But before she left New York Miss Pennington took her costume to a vacant field in the vicinity of Scarsdale where a little Hawaiian village had been erected. Thither there also repaired the Hawaiian orchestra to whose melodious strains Miss Pennington has been dancing the Hula all summer. Then while the camera man ground his crank, the celebrated dance was accomplished in most approved style. Now it is being incorporated into the circus episodes of "The Rainbow Princess," in which the little dancer will be starred by the Famous Players on the Paramount Program.

A YOUNG AVIATRESS.

Helen Badglet, the 7-year-old Thanhouser actress, is much elated over the fact that she was allowed to make the ascent in an aeroplane the other day making a scene for "A Modern Monte Cristo," instead of using adummy, as her director had originally planned.

TILLIE IN FILMS.

"Tillie's Night Out," featuring Marie Dressler, promises to be a funny film indeed. There are automobile collisions, involuntary dousings in the ocean and a few things of that kind in addition to the humors of Coney Island, where most of the scenes are taken.

Live News About Plays and Players

The Trinity Players will open their season this year on November 1, with the production of C. Haddon Chamber's comedy "Passers By." The performance, which will be repeated on the following evening, will be given in the Church Hall, corner of St. Denis street and Place Viger Square, in which depressing and entirely unsuitable cellar-like apartment the Trinity Players manage to thrive year after year.

At the Theatre National Francais on Monday evening a gala performance will be given for the benefit of the Belgian Company of the 167th Battalion, C.E.F.

On this occasion, as stated elsewhere, a famous Belgian comedy by a noted Belgian dramatist, will be given. Musical numbers will be contributed by Miss A. DeCary and Miss Bruyet.

Tickets for this benefit performance are on sale at the room of the 167th Battalion, at 86 St. Denis street, at the Star Branch Office on Peel street, and at the theatre.

At the Princess next week a stirring little one-act war play, entitled "Tommy's Bit," by Lance-Corp. Leroy Clemens, a member of the Signalling section of the Duchess of Connaught's Own Canadian Rangers, will be performed as a curtain raiser before "Hobson's Choice" every evening, starting on Wednesday.

Corp. Clemens is no stranger to Montreal theatre-goers, for he appeared here two years ago in "Quinney's" and made many friends. Before this he was not unknown in the United States as an author and actor, having written a number of successful plays and having had engagements with many of the leading stars. Since he joined the Rangers a good deal of his time has been taken up with recruiting, and he has proved himself a forceful speaker.

On Monday night the officers of the Rangers will occupy the boxes at the Princess and many of the men not on duty that evening will also attend.

Two Montrealers will appear on two different theatre stages here next week. Richard Milloy with headline on the Francais in a playlet of his own writing, entitled "The Boss." Mr. Milloy had a hankering for the stage as a boy and on leaving the Archbishop's College here at the age of sixteen, secured his first engagement in New York. He did not appear in his native town until six years after, when he played in Richelieu at the old Academy Theatre. He was later a prominent member of the Procter Stock Company at His Majesty's and was in Madame Modjesta's Company for some time. His wife, Mabel Craig, appears with him in "The Boss."

The other Montrealer is Madeleine Kingsland, who is now making a hit in burlesque. Miss Kingsland has graduated from the chorus of a musical comedy. During the past five years she has made rapid progress.

Julius Tannen, the energetic young man who played Mawruss in "Potash and Perl Mutter" for two years, is a believer in theories. He has a profound faith in athletics for men, votes for women, movie "actors" for movies, and art for art's sake.

"I used to be in the wholesale drug business," he said, "and I became an actor because there was more money in it. Of course I believe in art for art's sake and all that sort of thing, but I also believe in an adequate return for your services for old age's sake.

"I am artist enough, however, to believe that the actors of the legitimate stage who are selling themselves to the movies, will live to regret it, and that until an actor or actress is ready to forsake the speaking drama for good, he or she should steer clear of the screen.

In "Hobson's Choice," the comedy of English provincial life; which will be seen at the Princess next week, the dramatist Harold Brighouse, has turned back the hour hand of time for his story to the mid-Victorian era when the attire the ladies wore was, to say the least, the acme of quaintness.

To the present-day devotee of fashion it will seem difficult to realize, when watching the doings of the picturesque Lancashire family depicted in "Hobson's Choice," that the odd costumes worn by the three beautiful young women of Hobson's household could have been considered lovely at the no great distant period of thirty years ago, in the early eighties, when mi-lady got herself up in a tight-pointed bodice, ruffled skirt and "pullbacks."

It all seems a bit grotesque to us in this year of our Lord 1916, but we cannot deny either the quaintness or the charm of the dresses worn by Maggie Hobson and her sisters. Be it known, moreover, that they were quite up to the minute in the matter of style, scandalizing their tyrannical father by their adoption of the bustle, but looking lovely enough to soften even the ire of that critical boot-maker when they donned their frocks of Dresden silk in honor of Maggie's self-appointed marriage.

Cleves Kinkhead, the young author of "Common Clay," says that he wrote that play against the advice of every person who saw the manuscript before its completion and that it had its genesis in impressions gained when, as a child of five, he watched the housemaid making the coal fire in the grate on a chilly winter's morning.

The socialistic tendency of his writing is clear enough, but he says he stumbled blindly upon the theme which is the basis of "Common Clay."

To the majority of those who will see that play next week it is not at all likely to matter how it came to be written. The point which will impress most people, I fancy, will be the courageous manner in which the young dramatist has handled his theme and the great advantage when dealing with subjects which squeamish people gossip about in whispers, of calling a spade a spade.

Special to the Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Oscar Hammerstein went to his former habitat, the Manhattan Opera House, to see and to applaud the Diaghileff Ballet at their opening this week.

The novelty of the occasion was the undersea ballet from Rimsky-Korsakoffs opera "Sadko," so pat at a moment when this country is uncommonly taken up with undersea affairs. It was danced delightfully, in a most imaginative and beguiling Hall of the Tsar of the Seas, in which greens and blues blended or contrasted with enchanting effect. This ballet is founded on the story of a roving musician who marries the sea king's daughter.

Maud Allan held her spectators spellbound at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre in a program of "Symphonic Dances." Her interpretative dances arranged for eight of Chopin's preludes were delightful in their graphic exposition of varied moods—love, pity, terror, exaltation. In fact in all her offerings was she equally delightful.

"THE MUSIC MASTER" AGAIN.

"The Music Caster," by Charles Klein, with David Warfield in the leading role, is again with us. At the Knickerbocker Theatre they are turning crowds away.

Mr. Warfield says he does not act this part, but feels it. His portrayal is indeed workmanlike and satisfactory. He uses his hands to advantage, but his shoulders speak volumes.

"A Daughter of the Gods," with Annette Kellerman, opened at the Lyric Theatre this week. Extensive alterations have been made in the playhouse for the occasion and an augmented orchestra, under the direction of Robert Hood Bowers, composer of the musical score for the picture, will be among the features.

Cyril Maude's season at the Empire Theatre will commence Oct. 30, at which time that actor will appear in a new modern play entitled "The Basker," the author of which is Clifford Mills, an English dramatist.

PAVLOWA AT HIPPODROME.

Mme. Anna Pavlowa introduced a new number called the Pavlowa Polka in the ballet feature of "The Big Show" at the Hippodrome this week. In this new creation, for which the music is by Tschaikowsky, she is assisted by Volinine.

Belie Ashlyn, who lately returned from a highly successful engagement at the Empire Theatre, London, where she made a great hit in her imitation of Doris Keane in "Romance," and who has been appearing as a special feature in "Le Pollu" at the Garrick Theatre, has been engaged by the Winter Garden management as one of the leading principals of "The Passing Show of 1916," when it goes on tour.

In the Film World

Press Agents' Announcements

IMPERIAL

No more interesting film has been seen in the world than "The Battle of the Somme," which is being shown for the last time today. The Imperial theatre has many times been offered films of the different topical events of the war, but owing to its policy of only accepting the best and most authentic film produced, whether dramatic, comedy or topical, it has been necessary to refuse them. This fact has been fully appreicated this week by the many thousands or persons who have seen the picture which has been the topic of conversation everywhere, throughout the week; and the many patrons who have been thrilled by actual pictures of the world war, will find that the policy of the Imperial theatre, of showing the best of the world's pictures, is always adhered to.

The attractions announced for the coming two weeks are a proof positive of this policy. Charlie Chaplin will be seen exclusively tomorrow only in "The Trysting Place," a comedy as farcical as any in which he has appeared and one which has already stood the test of popularity. He is funny alone, but with Mabel Normand, the comedy becomes the more entertaining; and in this comedy showing tomorrow, both of these entertainers are at their best. Charlie has the past of a husband of a woman who maintains that the husband should cook and do household duties whenever called upon. The husband is a shirker in this position and yet when his wife is around he is exceptionally obedient. This picture is an added attraction to the feature photoplay also on the program tomorrow and showing for tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday, the Frohman production "The Intrigue," in which appears Lenore Ulrich. Miss Ulrich is popular, both as a stage and as a screen star. She was the original "Bird of Paradise" in the stage play of that name. Her last screen appearance was in "The Heart of Paula," which was shown in this theatre. In "The Intrigue" she appears as a representative of an enemy force working in America to prevent a patent on a powerfully destructive gun from reaching the opposing country. There are other noteworthy features on this three-day program, the funny cartoons of Mutt and Jeff and the world's news in pictures as seen by the extensive organization of the Pathe Weekly.

The comedy drama "Phantom Fortunes," is on the program on Wednesday and Thursday. The popular comedian, Barney Bernard, is in the lead of a very good company.

ST. DENIS.

The program for the coming week will be headed tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday by a Morosco photoplay entitled "Her Father's Son," with Vivian Martin. The heroine disguises herself as a man, plays the spy and is arrested. After much tribulation, she arrives at the finish of a delightful comedy gowned in a "ravishing creation of muslin frills." Miss Martin makes of this story an exceptional and interesting photoplay. The time is that of the Civil War and the scenes are laid in the South.

On Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a surprise is offered in the Chaplin Revue of 1916, in which Charlie amuses everyone with his drollery. What is it that makes the public laugh at Charlie Chaplin? This is a question that scores have asked. It is not his own laughter for he rarely laughs and seldom smiles. Almost throughout the five acts, his face is sad and expresses pique, anger, resentment, stupidity, but rarely joy or fun. The psychology of his causing others to laugh does not lie in making his spectators laugh with him. This Chaplin Revue is in five parts and is composed of a selection of his best work. Included are "The Tramp," "His New Job" and "A Night Out." They have been skilfully connected to make a complete five-act story. In these comedies there is nothing objectionable, nothing but good, clean fun, fast and furious.

This comedy is only part of the program which will be well rounded out with other features.

STRAND.

"Love Never Dies" is the photoplay for today and tomorrow, with Ruth Stonehouse and Franklin Farunm in the leading roles. The story tells of how a girl would dance all day while her sweetheart played upon the violin Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." Fate separated them, then strangely threw them together in later years. They renewed their love, were once more torn apart by misfortune, but in the end were happily reunited. Miss Stonehouse gives a series of charming interpretative dances during the play. There will also be another episode of "The Secret of the Submarine" and the war budget.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the popular star, Edmund Breese, will be featured in Alfred Sutro's drama "The Walls of Jericho," which ran for two years in London. This is a story of English society life. The story revolves around a self-made millionaire who marries a lady of aristocratic birth. Then there will be another episode of "Liberty" and the Universal Weekly.

REGENT.

A remarkable series of sea scenes are shown in "The Eye of the Nnght" the leading feature for today and tomorrow. This is a story of an English sea coast village during this war. The veteran screen star William H. Thompson, takes the part of a lighthouse keeper. The first air raid made upon the East coast by the Germans is shown, also a transport rocking in a storm, the blowing of the lighthouse, and the burning of the lightkeeper's cottage. Nearly 1,000 persons were employed in the filming of the picture, and an entire English village is shown with the inhabitants moving about and plying their various occupations. Then on these days there will be the popular comedian, Mack Swain, in a Keystone; and the British and Canadian armies at the Front. In addition to the regular program there will also be a Mary Pickford picture.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to another episode of "Liberty" and a Keystone comedy "The Surf Girl," Frank Keenan will be seen in "Honor Thy Name," a Southern drama. The great point of the drama hinges upon a father's sacrifice to save his son, and this is accomplished in a runaway, with horses dashing over a precipice and rolling a sheer hundred feet to the rocks below.

TIVOLI.

William Farnum once more brings into play his great strength in the newest of William Fox's pictures of the great Canadian Northwest, "The End of the Trail," which will be seen today and tomorrow. In this photoplay, Farnum takes the part of Julius LeClerq, a French-Canadian factor in a Hudson's Bay trading post. Gladys Brockwell is seen as Adrienne Cabot. Willard Louis is seen as "Devil" Cabot. Others in the cast are H. A. Barrows, William Burress and Harry de Vere. "The Girl From Frisco," and a Luke comedy complete this program.

On Monday and Tuesday, Bessie Barriscale and Charles Ray will be seen in the Triangle-Ince comedy-dram, "Home." The cast includes Clara Williams, Louise Glaum, George Fisher, Joseph J. Dowling, Agnes Herring and Thomas S. Guise. "The Girl and the Mummy" is the Keystone comedy. The third episode of "The Shielding Shadow," with Grace Darmond, who has recently appeared in person, are on this program.

DOMINION.

William Courtenay in "The Island of Surprise" and the fifth episode of "The Crimson Stain Mystery" are offerings for tomorrow (Sunday only). For Monday and Tuesday William Fox presents William Farnum in "The End of the Trail," a Canadian story and full of beautiful scenes in the Northwest. The seventh episode of "Liberty," and other pictures will be shown.

For Wednesday and Thursday Metro offers Harold Lockwood and May Allison in "The River of Romance," and the third episode of Pathe's serial, "The Shielding Shadow" in which Miss Grace Darmond is featured.

The showing for Friday and Saturday will be Mary Miles Minter in "Dulcie's Adventure," a drama of love and intrigue. Dulcie belongs to a Southern family and is made the victim of an ambitious aunt who seeks to build up the depleted family fortune by marrying her to an adventurer posing as a millionaire. The eleventh episode of "The Grip of Evil" and other pictures conclude the bill.

LONDON.

For today and tomorrow, Florence Turner, is seen in a screen version, of Henry Edwards' famous play, "Doorsteps." Comedies, including one that stars Billie Ritchie, round out the program. The story of the little boarding house slavey who becomes a leading actress and through adversity falls back once more to poverty and menial labor, gives Florence Turner a rare chance to show the powers of dramatic expressions that have placed her among the admired artists of her time. A surprising development in the plot gives the former idol of the stage one last chance again to appear before the footlights. She cleverly wins an interview with a prominent theatrical manager and using her knowledge of the underworld, steals his watch to show that she can qualify for the part of a pickpocket in a big drama about to be produced. She is mistaken for a thief but is destined, later, to win back fame and fortune for herself as well as the prosperity and recognition of the author of the play.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Footlights of Fate" will have its premier showing in Montreal. It is from the novel "Joan Thursday" by Louis Joseph Vance. The fifth episode of "The Crimson Stain Mystery," starring Maurice Costello, will also be shown.

NEW MINTER FILM

HOW THEY DO IT.

Grace Valentine, who is co-starred with Lionel Barrymore in "The Brand of Cowardice," a forthcoming Metro wonderplay, told Billie Burke the other day that she was coming up to her country home north of Yonkers for a call. Grace said she would bring some friends along. She did, and they included Director John W. Noble, Mr. Barrymore and twenty other players. The players made themselves at home, and used Miss Burke's beautiful grounds to photograph several important scenes.

BRENNAN WITH PETROVA.

Edward Brennan, the popular leading man, who has appeared in many Metro productions, has returned from Kansas City, where he recently directed a big feature picture depicting the history of that State. Mr. Brennan is now working with Mme. Petrova.

ENGLISH FILMS OF COMIC TYPE NOW BEING MADE

The movement to substitute British films for American is being steadily developed, says the London Times. The filming of well-known plays with casts which include some of our most famous actors and actresses has proved successful, and additional picture reproductions, such as The Passing of the Third Floor Back, with Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson in the part he has played so often, "The Vicar of Wakefield," with Sir John Hare and Miss Laura Cowie in the company, and "The Lyons Mail," in which Mr. H. B. Irving will appear, are now being arranged.

A new enterprise which has just been undertaken by the Ideal Film Renting Company is the production of British comedy films. Since the war began nearly all the so-called humorous pictures shown in cinema theatres have been imported from America, and it is believed that a large section of the public are satiated with the crude and often vulgar films which they find in the programs. Apart from other considerations, the point of American humor is frequently obscure to an English audience. An endeavor is now to be made to present a funny story acted by recognised English comedians. One film, in which Mr. George Robey plays the chief part, has already been completed, and for other pictures the services of Mr. George Formby, Mr. Nelson Keys, and Mr. George Gregory have been secured. Still another film is being planned, with M. Leon Morton as the central figure.

DOUBLE EXPOSURES

A NEW WALTHALL PLAY.

Henry B. Walthall will soon begi work on "The Truant SoSul," a stor written by Victor Roussseau, the famous novelist. Essanay promises this will be the best Walthall story ever filmed. About 600 scenes will be taken.

MARY'S FIRST RELEASE.

Mary Pickford has decided upon November 6 as the release date through Artcraft Pictures Corporation of her first superior production made since she became an independent star. On that day, then, "Less Than the Dust" will be shown simultaneously in eighty theatres in the United States.

KATHLYN TO LECTURE.

Kathlyn Williams has been honored with an invitation from the Wisconsin State University, to deliver a series of lectures on the art of making motion pictures. Although very busy on "Redeeming Love," her initial Morosco-Paramount subject, Miss Williams has arranged to accept, realizing the honor conferred upon her.

LOTS OF FUN.

Richard Bennett and Mary Miles Minter were competitors last week in court scenes under the "big glass." Bennett was a judge sentencing his son to the electric chair. Miss Minter was on trial for the theft of money which she did not steal, but declared herself guilty to save the name of a millionaire's grandchild.

CHIC RIDING HABIT.

Vivian Reed is winning new laurels as an equestrienne in the "Light of Western Stars." Maybe her chic riding habit that was designed by herself has something to do with her fondness for riding. It is of cream serge with knee length belted coat and with it she wears black riding boots and a smart black velvet tam o'shanter.

FARNUM'S NEW RECORD.

Dustin Farnum, the Pallas-Paramount star, has returned from another fishing trip to the Catalina Islands where he and his popular brother Bill have established a new world's record in fishing. Together, they caught ten monster swordfish and as a result of their remarkable catch, were elected members of the very exclusive Tuna Club of Catalina, which is restricted to forty members.

TO STAY WITH MOVIES.

Contrary to the rumors that have constantly found their way into print for the last few weeks to the effect that Marguerite Clark, the internationally popular Famous Players star, would abandon the screen and return to the stage, it is announced that Miss Clark has just renewed her contract with the Famous Players. This announcement permanently dispels the cloud of conjecture and rumor which followed the report that Miss Clark would return to the stage under the management of Charles Dillingham.

NEW USE FOR PHONTS.

For the first time in the history of motion picture making an army of two thousand photoplay actors on horseback and afoot was directed, in scenes representing the great French battle of Patay, by a system of telephones installed by Cecil B. De Mille, producer of the picture based on the story of Joan of Arc. The star of the production is Geraldine Farrar, famous Metropolitan prima donna, who participated in the midst of the stirring battle scenes.

MARY'S FIRST VENTURE.

Brief as has been Mary Pickford's experience with a motion producing company of her own, she has evolved a system which for economy beats anything the industry ever saw, a system that doubtless will be eagerly appropriated by other producers. She calls it her interlocking directorate, a term which she once saw in a casual perusal of a financial page, and has since remembered. This means that instead of waiting a few weeks after a feature is finished for the director to cut and assemble it, then more waiting while he takes a brief vacation and prepares a new story for production, Mary Pickford will have alternating directors and thus lose very little time between her pictures. Under the new system Maurice Tourneur will direct the second Pickford releases for Artcraft Pictures Corporation, while John Emerson is cutting and assembling the first, "Less Than the Dust," for release in a few weeks.

GOING SOME.

The first time on record that any oath was ever paged at a big circus was on the night of September 26th, at Los Angeles, when the wheelworks at Barnum and Bailey circus were stopped to find President H. M. Horkheimer, of the Balboa company. The occasion was the kidnapping of the Balboa boy star, Little Mary Sunshine.

EITHER WILL DO.

"With her hair up she is Billie Burke; with her hair down she is Mary Pickford." So the Man in the Street characterizes Claire Whitney, Fox Film star. Miss Whitney has often been taken for the heroine of "Gloria's Romance," and those who have seen her with her hair down have remarked on her resemblance to the former star of the Famous Players Film Company.

BOOTS AND SADDLES.

A screen adaptation of "Boots and Saddles," the play by Eugene Walters, has been announced for release by B. F. Moss. The photo play has been filmed by Horkheimer Brothers at their Long Beach studio. The screen adaptation was made from the play by Director Harvey under the supervision of E. D. Horkheimer, and it runs full five reels, chock full of "stuff."

WHICH?

Recently in one week two girls applied to Secretary E. D. Horkheimer, of Balboa, for positions in stock. Both were pretty and looked like they might photograph well.

One of them could swim, shoot, ride, skate, dance, box, play any old game, and was willing to enter the kindergarten and win her way if possible.

Special to The Star by Eva Follet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Caruso has a mustache! This is his thirteenth season at the Metropolitan Opera House and he will open the season in November in Bizet's "The Pearl Fishers" with Frieda Hempel and De Luca.

Other new works to be produced are "Francesca da Rimini," with Mme. Alda, Signor Martinelli and Signor Amata and "Iphigenia in Tuaris". "L'Elisir d'Amore", "Lakme," and "Thais."

Anna Case, young American who is in the Metropolitan Company sang in concert this week. It is a delight to hear such pure, liquid tones, so clearly attacked, so firmly sustained and dynamically graded with such delicacy. Her enunciation was admirable in the several languages which she used.

October 22 and 27 are the opening dates for the New York Symphony concerts. Walter Pomroseh, conductor, has assembled for these concerts a fine list of soloists including, Alma Gluck, Mischa Elman, Schumann-Heink, Gulomar Novaes, and Ethel Leginska. The choir from the Cathedral of St. John the Divine will assist at the concert of December 21.

Miss Paquita Madriguera, the Spanish pianist, who was a protege and pupil of Granados, arrives in this country from Spain where she has been spending the summer, the last part of October. She will give her first New York recital of the season on November 4 at Aeolian Hall.

With Jacques Thibaud, violinist, arriving on the Lafayette this week came Robert Lortat, a French pianist, who like Thibaud has been granted a leave of absence from the French Army to make an American tour. Lortat will make several New York appearances both alone and jointly with Thibaud.

FRITZI SCHEFF IN MUSICAL COMEDY.

Fritzi Scheff is to star in musical comedy again. November 27 she will appear in "Husbands Guaranteed." Her husband, George Anderson, will be in the cast. "Husbands Guaranteed" has been adapted from a Viennese semi-musical show of the lighter variety, by Joseph Herbert. Abroad the production had but four numbers. On this side of the Atlantic it will have eighteen, the additional songs having been composed by August Kleinecke.

Mrs. Fiske has inaugurated her first road tour in three years. The distinguished actress will be seen in principal cities throughout the country in "Erstwhile Susan." She will make long stays in Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago, and will later tour to the Pacific coast.

PLAYS THAT CONTINUE.

Commencing on Sunday and continuing throughout the week, the justly celebrated Battle of the Somme pictures will be shown at the Francais Theatre. On Sunday the first filming will be at 1 o'clock and will be continuous throughout the day until 11 p.m. The famous pictures will be shown in connection with the usual Sunday entertainment.

On Monday and throughout the rest of the week, there will be three showings of the 5,000 feet of film each day, at 2 o'clock, at 7 o'clock and at 9 o'clock. At each performance the full vaudeville bill will be presented. The Francais prices are for Sunday, 10 and 15 cents, with the boxes 25c. The week-day matinee prices are 10 and 15 cents, and the evening 10, 15 and 15 cents, with the boxes at 35 and 50 cents.

The Battle of the Somme pictures are the authentic ones taken under the direction of the War Office by its own Topical Committee and approved of by the King, Lloyd George, General Joffre, Sir Douglas Haig, and acclaimed by the press of Great Britain as the most wonderful ever shown. Critics of renown vied with each other in lavishing praise and millions saw and still are seeing the pictures throughout Great Britain.

It is impossible to take the films in at one viewing. There is too much to be seen to appreciate it all in the brief time it takes to run off the 5,000 feet. All that is glorious in the present glowing page of British history is there shown, and for that reason a second and even a third view brings out much that escapes one in seeing the pictures for the first time.

WERE CANADA BELGIUM

An Englishman said to me the other day: "Even yet, you in Canada do not realize this war."

We think we do realize it when we see our always mounting list of casualties; when we see our men going off to France to fight for us; when we read the deathless tales of Canadian heroism, and yet I am beginning to think that the Englishman was right. We make our little moan because sugar is twice as dear and all our food necessities are mounting; we grumble because we have so many little hardships to which we have been unaccustomed but we would have to go to France and Belgium to really realize what war means.

It would be a good thing for us all, I think, if we could do that, if we could really get the knowledge of war conditions inside our brains and inside our hearts, for, were we able to do so, there would be no necessity of a recruiting campaign. Every Canadian would dedicate his or her life to the cause of the Allies if, for no other reason than to save Canada from the fate of Belgium.

Today I have read a book by Pierre Nothomb, a Belgian writer, which is vouched for by Carton de Wiart, Belgian Minister of Justice, who has written a preface for it, and which is sponsored in Canada by the Belgian Consulate, so that there can be no doubt of its authenticity. Mr. Nothomb's book, "The Barbarians in Belgium," gives a plain, simple and unvarnished story of the German invasion of Belgium and the atrocities which marked it, a story which, by reason of its very simplicity and lack of "fine writing," leaves you quivering with horror and rage.

One passes over the Germans carelessness of property rights, their insane and causeless destruction of churches, libraries, universities and art-galleries, their burning of whole towns and villages, their confiscation of bank accounts, jewels and personal property, disgusting as all this is, but one cannot pass over the frightful crimes which Germany has committed against the civil population of Belgium, the account of which you read and then read again, wondering if it can possibly be that these things are true and then convinced that they are so because every instance in the book is sworn to by competent and reliable witnesses, and you are repeatedly told that the book is an under-estimate of conditions, rather than an over-estimate because many of the atrocities committed are too terrible to be put on paper for civilized people to read.

Catholic Canadians especially should read the chapter entitled "Their Defiance of the Almighty." A priest vouches for this description: "The Germans descended like a swarm on the village of F. on Tuesday, April 20th. They set fire to 190 houses, and 1,000 of the inhabitants are homeless. Twenty-two persons at least have been killed without any reason. Two men, named Macken and Loods, were buried alive before their wives' eyes. The Germans seized me in my garden, bound my hands behind me, and ill-treated me by every means in their power. They erected a gallows for me, saying they were going to hang me. One of them pointed to my head and my ears, and went through a pantomime of cutting them off. They forced me to stare at the sun for a long time. They broke the arms of the blacksmith who was a prisoner with me, and then they killed him. At a given signal they forced me to enter the Burgomaster's house, which was burning, and then they took me out again. They went on like this all day long. Towards the evening, they let me enter the church, saying that it was the last time I should see it. At a quarter to seven they released me, the cavalrymen striking me with their whips and I passed. I was bleeding and had fallen unconscious. I remember an officer giving me to my feet and ordering me to go away. A few yards off they fired at me. I dropped to the ground and lay there as if dead. That was my salvation."

The priests in all districts were used as examples. If hostages were needed they were first to be seized. After recrossing the frontier of the Belgian Luxemburg, the Prussian commandant shouted: "We shall shoot all priests. We have already shot five." The cure of Harcourt was bound to a horse which was set off at a gallop. When a church was reached, this priest, a limp human rag, half-dead, was propped against a wall, and shot.

The chaplain of Bonce was bound back to back with a neighbor, and both were pierced with bayonets. The cure of Spontin was suspended alternately by his feet and hands, stabbed with lances and then shot. The Abbes Zender and Jacques and M. Globden, cure of Letours, were acting under the orders of the German commandant, by helping to bring in the wounded near Teth. When all the wounded had been put into the motor ambulance, the German commanding officer ordered the three priests to line up on the road and they were shot to death. At Villers-en-Fagne, a French Jesuit was officiating temporarily in the parish. They shot him in the presbytery and then set fire to it. German officers amused themselves by dressing up in priests' robes and then committing all sorts of crimes in these costumes. The cure of Gelrode was commanded, if he wished to be spared, to renounce the Catholic faith; he chose, rather, to die and he died in agony.

The Germans forced the priests to be present at revolting crimes. They used the sacred linen in the churches for the most profane purposes. They profaned the churches and forced open the receptacles in which the consecrated vessels were kept. They stabled horses in the sanctuaries, whose tombs and altars they had broken, and scattered and trod under foot the relics of the saints, and their treatment of the nuns is a subject not fit for discussion on this page.

I cannot bring myself to discuss the chapter on the treatment of women. It is too terrible to be written about calmly. Every newspaper reader is familiar with the Bryce report of the Belgian atrocities and it is unnecessary to go further into this phase of them.

"As a rule," says Mr. Nothomb, "those upon whom they inflict suffering, for the pleasure of seeing them die slowly, are old men, women, young boys, and little children." Women and children were locked into houses and then the houses were set on fire and all the inhabitants left to burn to death. General Dernette, aide-de-camp to King Albert, saw, at Hofstade, the dead body of an old woman pierced by ten bayonet wounds. She was still holding in her hand the needle and thread with which she had been sewing. They came into houses to ask for food, and as they were being served, cut off the hands of the woman feeding them. After an old peasant had given them all the hay and feed in his stable for their horses, they kicked him against the wall and shot him. An old man, aged seventy, brought them buckets of water for their horses and was killed outright by way of thanks.

At Ans a little boy of six was playing with a toy pistol. A German soldier shot him dead because he was playing at soldiers. A child three years old was burned on his nose and the thumb of his right hand by German officers with their lighted cigars. Children of two, three and four years old were assassinated. I cannot give some of the horrible details of the crimes against children. No woman can read the book without being moved to tears.

Mr. Nothomb gives authenticated proof of the fact that all these crimes were planned beforehand, and were committed, for the most part, in cold blood. Occasionally, he says, the German private soldier showed some sympathy, but the officers were never seen to express the faintest sign of pity. Can one wonder at that grim and terrible prayer in the play that Sarah Bernhardt played here last week, "Father, forgive them not, for they know what they do"?

Do you remember when John Bunyan says, "There, but for the grace of God, goes John Bunyan?" In reading "The Barbarians in Belgium," one feels like saying, "There, but for the grace of God and the power of the British navy, is the fate of Canada." We are told, and one can have but little doubt that it is true, that plans for the re-arrangement of all the Canadian cities, according to German ideas, are on fyle in Berlin. Thinking Canadians do not doubt that the Germans had the riches of Canada as one of their objective points in contemplating the results of "The Day."

And yet there are people in Canada who say, "This war does not concern Canada. Let Great Britain pull her own chestnuts out of the fire."

Suppose we all agreed to that, and then the day should come when Canada should meet the fate of Belgium.

MARGARET CURRIE.

PAINTING COMPETITION

Here are some children of a long ago day, in their garden of what we would call old-fashioned flowers. See how well you can paint them and their treasures. Maybe you will earn a nice watch thereby.

COMPETITION RESULTS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

You will need to give great care to the painting of the flowers and bushes in the old garden in this week's picture. The clothes of the lady and children may look very odd to you but just such costumes were worn a good many hundred years ago in England.

Be sure that you use a flesh tint that is not too deep in color. If you mix red and yellow and keep your color very pale you will probably get a good shade.

Once again I must remind you to read the rules very carefully. Yesterday more than twenty paintings arrived at The Star office by the second mail and so of course could not be counted—Your Editor.

STERILIZES HER WORDS.

1. Do you think a girl should be laughed at if she likes a young man that don't care for her?

2. Can a young man make a young lady "love" him if he tries to make her jealous by keeping company with other girls?

3. Do you think one should act after the way they feel? I often get a feeling not to do this or that in which I find myself, it is often very useless and yet at times I am very glad. My friends think me very funny. I am not superstitious, except when I get this odd feeling rising within me. I act justly. I disappoint my friends many times, by not going where they wish me to, or doing as they wish me to, I would like your opinion please.

4. What cap I do to make my hand-writing better. I've just finished my course for stenography but I don't like to take up a position until I can write nice.

5. What can I do? There is a young man whom I have been friends with when but a child. We had a dispute and I accused him of something. I don't deny it was my fault, he really was innocent — he being well read in fictions and always the hero of everyone in his mind. I too was young then although I suffered for it, I considered him right in acting as he did. I wouldn't have cared for him, as much as I did had he been otherwise, but, there is a limit. I tried to make up friends with him. It didn't go, he always was obstinate and acted the goat many times. I really didn't care for myself but my friends — although they were my friends—I didn't wish them to get the satisfaction. For they were the ones who framed up our quarrel. I acted like he did or rather to say as he wanted me to. And whenever I wanted him to do something it was useless to expect it of him. I don't want you to be bored with my story. I am sorry I can't make it shorter. After many years we are friends again, for which I have to thank a friend of his. For sometime he was very nice to me but the old habit came back again. If I am glad to see him one time the next time I meet him he has a peculiar look on his face and his actions are intolerable. If I receive him cool, he is upset; although he never tells me, yet his actions speak. Perhaps some of your readers have met such a person and probably they can give me an idea what to do. I have tried all kinds of things, but, they don't work. I don't want him to feel that I don't want his company, yet I must not show it, if I do, what I once did acting in the manner he does, it will mean another six years of mad acts. I can't understand him, I once thought him sensible, I presume I will change my mind. I wanted to have a good talk with him, but it seems no use. He is so funny beyond words. The three reasons why I don't want to break friendship with him are these—one because of satisfaction of my friends, second ditto towards his friends and third because I don't see why two people can't be friends without making a fool of themselves when either party think of nothing else but friendship. I don't feel guilty this time. I haven't done anything to offend him that I know of. I am very careful in my actions towards him and almost sterilize my words when I speak to him. I would very much like to have a good talk and he should tell me what the fault is. But. How can I make him and is it worth while?

Hoping you will make the best of my story, and— Thanks very much for giving an opportunity to helpless people like myself.

1. I would be greatly obliged to you if you would give me your advice on this subject. Is it right for a young lady to make an appointment with a gentleman who did not keep his previous appointment with her because he had to go to some other entertainment. LITTLE STORIES for Bedtime

T. W. Burgess

LIGHTFOOT GETS WARNING.

(Copyright, 1916 by T. W. Burgess.)

The hunter with his gun set forth,
And light of heart is he;
The meadows and the forest green
Are beautiful to see.

Behind him grief makes moan.
His heart is light, and yet, alas!
'Tis hard as flinty stone.

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy at the top of his lungs.

Anyway, that is the way it seems to the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. There is nothing they can do but hide or run or fly, and there is no place where they can feel perfectly safe even for a little while, for even when he is still far away his terrible gun strikes them down. And so there is no joy in the beautiful autumn season. Instead of a season of joy, it is a season of fear, of terror, for the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest, and they cannot understand why this should be.

Lightfoot the Deer lay hidden in a thicket near the edge of the Green Forest thinking of these things, wondering why those who seemed so glad to see him about in the summer should suddenly seek to kill now, and his heart was heavy, for he could not understand it at all. So far no hunter had found him, but he knew that it was only a question of time when one would, and then he would have to use all his cunning and all the wonderful speed of his slim legs if he would save his life. All the time his big ears were set to catch every teeniest, weeniest sound, and his wonderful nose tested every Merry Little Breeze that came that way for the dreaded man-smell.

Presently along came Sammy Jay in that silent way of his which some people are unkind enough to call sneaky. It really isn't sneaky at all. You see, Sammy wears such a bright handsome coat that he is easily seen, so if he wants to keep out of sight it doesn't do for him to make a sound. Right through the thicket where Lightfoot lay stole Sammy Jay and Lightfoot didn't know it. Sammy looked down at Lightfoot and his sharp eyes saw how Lightfoot's big ears were listening for every sound and how his keen nose was all the time gently sniffing. He knew just what it meant. He knew that Lightfoot was listening and smelling for danger.

Now, while Sammy Jay isn't hunted by most hunters, as are Mrs. Grouse and Bob White and Bobby Coon and Peter Rabbit and Unc' Billy Possum and Lightfoot the Deer and some others, there are a few hunters who will shoot at him just to try to get his bright blue wings, or because they haven't seen any one else. So Sammy takes precious good care at this season to keep as much out of sight as possible, and he hates the hunters, as do all the other little people. But, being such a smart fellow, he doesn't wait, as so many have to do, until the hunters find them. No, sir, he goes hunting for the hunters. That is just what he does. He says he knows better what to do when he knows where the hunters are. So he slips silently about looking for them.

That is what he was doing when he passed through the thicket where Lightfoot lay. He was glad to know just where Lightfoot was. So far as he could he made it his business to know where his neighbors were. Can you guess why? Because down in that mischief loving heart of Sammy Jay's is the true spirit. It is by knowing just where certain neighbors are that Sammy sometimes is able to warn them of danger when they do not suspect it is near.

Sammy had not gone far beyond the place where Lightfoot the Deer lay when he caught sight of something moving among the trees. It was moving very slowly and carefully. Sammy silently flew to the top of a tall hemlock tree where he could see better and at the same time not be seen himself. Just as he suspected, there was a hunter with a terrible gun. He was studying the ground very closely, as if following tracks, and he was headed straight toward the place where Lightfoot was hiding. Sammy hadn't a doubt that the hunter was trying to steal up on Lightfoot to shoot him.

"Thief! Thief! Thief!" screamed Sammy at the top of his lungs.

Lightfoot knew what that meant. In an instant he was on his feet, looking, listening, smelling. A full minute he stood, then with a bound he was away. That hunter was after him! There was no doubt about it. In his heart Lightfoot blessed Sammy Jay for the warning Sammy had given. As for Sammy, he chuckled as Lightfoot bounded away and the hunter shook his fist angrily in Sammy's direction.

Next story: Lightfoot's Cunning.

A SMART AND GIRL-LIKE SUIT

By MAY MANTON

8970 (with Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Belted Coat for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

9081 (with Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Four-Piece Skirt for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

One must have a smart street suit to be in readiness for the season and here is an excellent model. Girls will surely like it, for it is youthful in the extreme while it shows the newest features. The gabardine with touches of velvet is very handsome but you could make it more winter-like and perhaps a little handsomer by using fur banding for the collar and cuffs and making the belt plain, or by making the entire collar and cuffs of fur or, if the fur is not obtainable, one of the very beautiful fur cloths, ederella or something similar. Mulberry is the color of this suit and mulberry is to be extensively worn.

For the 16 year size the coat will require 3¼ yards of material 36 inches wide, 3 yards 44 or 2¼ yards 54, and for the skirt will be needed, 4¼ yards 36 or 44, 3¾ yards 54; it is 3¾ yards in width at the lower edge.

The pattern of the coat No. 8970 and of the skirt No. 9081 both are cut in sizes for 16 and 18 year. They will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of 15 cents for each.

STRIKE IS FIXED FOR WEDNESDAY ON C.P.R. RAILROAD

Troop and mmunition Trains Will Be Run as Usual

QUARREL WITH THE COMPANY, SAY MEN

Minister of Labor Still Hopeful Way Out May Be Found

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Apparently negotiations between the Canadian Pacific Railway and its conductors and trainmen reached such an impasse yesterday that the men's executive pretty well arrived at the conclusion that a strike was inevitable, and it is said that strike orders are now posting throughout Canada to take effect Wednesday next, unless in the meantime a way out is found.

On the other hand, Grant Hall, vice-president and general manager, could add nothing to his statement that so far as the company is concerned, the door to negotiation is still open.

For the first time the general public began to take seriously the prospect of a strike, and with the knowledge that at this season the resources of the system are strained to the utmost in marketing on the one hand the produce of western farmers, and on the other bringing in heavy shipments of merchandise from eastern points, influential business agencies are working hard to bring about a settlement.

STAGE SET FOR A STRIKE.

James Murdock, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Trainmen, says: "The stage is set for a strike, and the only thing that will prevent it is a settlement which must be made by the company. No other interests can interfere. Our position is final."

An important development was the announcement by the men's executive that, in event of a strike, permits would be issued to union men to operate troop and munitions trains:

"Our quarrel is with the company and not with the country," James Murdock, chief executive of the trainmen's brotherhood, put it.

Mr. Murdock said that the two points still in dispute are first with regard to mileage, the men regarding a reduction from 6,600 to 5,000 miles as a basis beyond which overtime should be paid each month; and the second in regard to the claim of the men that they be paid for the grant in terminals prior to going out on their run.

Neither side would make any official statement, but the opinion was expressed by a man intimately associated with the situation that there was no real ground for alarm, that the company, with a tremendous wheat crop still to be moved, would not stand for any tie-up of the principal transportation system, and if, as was hardly likely, agreement was not to be reached by further mutual concession of the parties to the dispute, then the Dominion Government would almost certainly step in, and one way or another would operate the road.

SOLUTION MAY BE EFFECTED.

These say that it is a clear case for the Minister of Labor to interfere and prevent what would be little short of a public catastrophe as far as the west is concerned. The situation as regards a board of conciliation clarified somewhat with a very well defined report last last evening that the company would make a formal request of the Department of Labor for such a board.

If this proves correct, as there is the best of reason to believe, it means that the centre of interest shifts from Winnipeg to Ottawa. There is little doubt but that the Minister of Labor will grant this request, notwithstanding the fact that the men have already, through their executive, asserted that in view of the present matters in dispute having been before such a board in 1914, when a majority award not acceptable to the men was made, they now feel that they are now free from the necessity of first treading the path of mediation before walking out.

The vice-president, Mr. Hall, would neither deny nor confirm the report that the company had applied for a board of conciliation.

Special to The Star From Our Own Correspondent.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—The Department of Labor was advised yesterday that trainmen in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway plan to strike on Wednesday next. The Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Railways, stated last night that he is in constant touch with both sides and has not abandoned hope of a settlement.

The Minister of Labor has suggested both to the company and the men that a board of conciliation adjudicate upon the issue. This proposition has not yet been accepted by either side.

A conciliation board investigated the case two years ago and this the men claim obviates the necessity of a further board now. They hold it is a compliance with the Lemieux Act requiring conciliation before a strike can occur. The award at that time was accepted by the company but not by the men.

STATISTICS SHOW ASSESSED VALUE OF UTILITIES' HOLDINGS

Civic statistics completed for last year show the value of the assessed holdings of the big railway and utility companies in the city. The assessments are levied on lands, buildings, rails, poles, wires, etc. The Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railways are shown to have the largest assessed holdings. Following is the table:

COMPANIES' ASSESSMENTS FOR THE YEAR 1915.

	Land	Buildings and plant	Plant on streets	Rails, poles etc.	Total
Montreal Tramways Company	$2,361,160	$1,955,025	$1,203,270		$5,519,455
Grand Trunk Railway System	$7,790,815	$1,861,435		$313,250	$9,965,500
Canadian Pacific and Ontario and Quebec Railways	$12,464,275	$4,991,435		$310,800	$17,766,625
Canadian Northern Railway System	$3,551,211	$ 430,275		$637,400	$4,618,886
Lachine Jacques Cartier and Maisonneuve Railway	$ 676,840	$ 18.750			$ 695,590
Montreal Light and Power Company	$ 875,030	$1,239,750	$2,154,340		$4,269,120
Montreal Public Service Corporation	$ 415,230	$ 211,550		$206,610	$ 833,390
Shawinigan Water and Power Co.	$ 101.800	$ 1,200		$ 17,500	$ 120,500
Montreal Water and Power Co.	$ 117,700	$ 714,600	$1,816,600		$2,648,900
Bell Telephone Co	$ 433.420	$ 980,350	$1,540,266		$2,954,036

The assessors say that a new move has been made by the special civic committee on revenue, to get Legislative consent to the imposition of a tax of five per cent on the gross earnings of all utility companies which "specially" use the streets. These companies do not include the big railways. It is generally held by the controllers, that it is not fair one or two utility companies should be taxed on their earnings while others are not. The five per cent tax on the additional companies, it is figured, would mean an annual increase of revenue of $500,000. Controller Villeneuve says that such a sum, reaching the civic coffers every year, would go far towards keeping the city out of future financial difficulties.

BELGIAN TOWN FINED.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Oct. 21.—The Belgian town of Lierre has been fined 50,000 marks because, on the occasion of the recent national fete, some of the inhabitants had hoisted a big Belgian tricolor on the top of an oak tree. In order to defend the tree against German assaults, they had surrounded it with barbed wire.

Crime continues to decrease in England. During the past year the number of prisoners fell from 114,283 to 64,160, a decrease of 50,123.

GENERAL HAIG IN CABLE ASKS MORE AUSTRALIANS

Stirring Message Helps Campaign for Conscription Referendum.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 21.—The conscription campaign is exciting tremendous feeling. Meetings for and against are being held in every town and hamlet in Australia nightly, and tons of literature are being circulated.

The message from Sir Douglas Haig, published today, greatly strengthened the conscription cause. He says the Australian divisions in France are far below strength, drafts not arriving in sufficient numbers.

The divisions have fought splendidly; their heroic efforts will live in history, but cannot continue to achieve the results unless their strength be kept up. The success of the past few months justifies absolute confidence in our power to win final victory, but the war is not yet won.

To complete our work and secure an ending peace the "utmost efforts of the Empire and its Allies are required for a long time yet."

He hopes strong drafts will be despatched and their strengths maintained.

Premier Hughes, commenting on the cable, says it is a complete endorsement of the Government policy and a crushing refutation of statements that further men are not needed. To all, except enemies of the Empire, Haig's message must carry absolute conviction, the Premier declares.

The Inter-Parliamentary conference will meet in London next spring, instead of in Rome this fall, as originally planned.

CHURCHES APPEAL FOR ARMENIANS

Special to the Star by United Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.Armenian and Syrian Relief Day, which occurs tomorrow, by virtue of a proclamation of President Wilson has been made the subject of a special message by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Congregations, Sunday schools and other church organizations are requested to discharge their duty "of prayer, sympathy and sacrifice."

The message is signed by Professor Shailer Matthews, President of the Council, the Rev. Frank Mason North, chairman of the executive committee and the Rev. Charles MacFarland General Secretary.

The suggestion is made that the land ships, "tanks," be named Lusitania, Cavell, Fryatt, Louvain, and the like, each name reviving an outrage by the Huns. If this were done the tanks as they went into action would have the same effect on the enemy as the ghosts on Richard III and Macbeth.

MOTORING NOTES AND NEWS By R. H. P.

Do you know that during the past season over SIX thousand American cars crossed the border into the Province of Quebec on tours? Such is the case, and reckoning that each car brought in an average of five persons, which is not a large number for a touring party, that means that 30,000 people came into the province. And it has been calculated that every tourist leaves at least ten dollars in the district he or she visits, in the hotels, the garages and the stores. Thus the good roads which the province has provided have been the means of bringing in $300,000 during the past season.

And more than half of this number came in over the Rouse's Point route via the King Edward Highway. It would be interesting to calculate what the number of tourists would be if there were three or four highways linking up the province with the United States. That they want to go other ways than over the King Edward highway to Montreal is evidenced by the returns which have been secured by the Automobile Club of Canada from the different Customs offices along the border. There are a baker's dozen of these and the returns up till Oct. 15, have been secured from only seven of them as yet. But they provide some startling figures as to the growth of the tourist traffic as compared with last year.

At the Lacolle Customs office last year there were 1497 cars of American register passed through. This year up to the middle of October the number was 3,629, more than double. At the Rock Island office, which connects with Derby Line and Vermont districts, there were 688 last year—this year there have been 1933 so far—more than treble the traffic, and the reason is the excellent highway connecting with Sherbrooke. No less than 27,000 cars passed over the border in one direction or the other during the season at this point. At the Dundee office, connecting with the Fort Covington route, there were 301 cars last year, this season the number has grown to 403. At St. Armand, connecting with St. Albans, the number has increased from 139 to 213, while at Mansonville, connecting with Newport and other Vermont points there were 234 against 224 for all last year. At Novan Junction, connecting with Alburg and Vermont, there were sixty-six American cars recorded against twelve last year, while at Cummins Mills, connecting with Beecher Falls there were forty-three cars passed through.

No returns have been received yet from Abercorn, connecting with the Richford route, although it is expected this office will have heavy figures, being on the good roads leading to Sutton and Brome Lake. Nor have any figures come from Lacole Junction, which is on the old International highway covering the historic route along by St. Johns and Chambly from Rouse's Point. Another point from which heavy returns are expected is Armstrong, the port of entry from Jackman, Maine, over the splendid Lewis-Jackman highway to the ancient city of Quebec, and connecting up with the new Quebec-Montreal provincial highway. Returns have also to come in from Coaticooke, Hemmingford and Huntingdon, the latter connecting with Trout River, a popular spot for American tourists.—When all these are in it is anticipated that the grand total of American cars entering the Province of Quebec will be around seven thousand. Nothing further need be said to emphasize the value of the free permits for thirty days given to tourists by the Federal Government, and the provision of good roads.

What this traffic means to the city was emphasized at a meeting of the proprietors or managers of some of the principal hotels in the metropolis, held at the headquarters of the Automobile Club in mid week. There were present Mr. Quick, of the Ritz Carlton; Mr. Raymond, of the Queen's Hotel; Mr. Grant of Freeman's Hotel; W. S. Detlor, representing the Hotels Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway and J. A. Flanagan, of the Flanagan Hotel, Malone, N.Y. The latter attended at the invitation of the Club to give the hotel proprietors of the city some idea of the amount of tourist traffic that is hungering every year for somewhere to go where the travellers can get not only good roads and good scenery, but also good hotel service.

Every hotel man present had the same story to tell—they could not accommodate all the tourists who drove into the city. It was remarked that even now there are scores of tourists coming in every day, and that during September alone there were more tourists in the hotels than in the whole of last season put together. They all agreed that when the good roads of the province become better known in the big centres across the border there will be no limit to the traffic.

There was an unanimous expression of opinion among the hotel men that they should do all in their power to promote this wider knowledge, and generous support was promised the secretary of the Automobile Club, in the getting out of the Tour Book which is now being prepared, and which will contain a great number of tours to and from Montreal which at present are not recorded in any guide book.

Particular interest was taken in the announcement that there would be many half day, day and week end tours in the vicinity of Montreal which will serve to keep the tourists in our midst for several days, with consequent pleasure to them and benefit to all classes of the community, for it is well known that no tourist likes to visit a place without buying something to take away with him. And the stores of Montreal are the equal of any to be found on the American continent; while the scenery to be found within the limits of these runs is such that it takes second place to none. If only there were a good road up into the Laurentian Mountains, with the necessary hotels to accommodate the hundreds of tourists who would be attracted to them, what a harvest could be reaped every season.

The remarks of the visitor from Malone on this subject were very much to the point. "We realize so much what this businesss of catering to the tourists means," he said. "Not a fraction of our people have ever been to Montreal simply because they are not aware of the ease with which they can reach it. I have just come over the King Edward highway, and I can assure you that it is equal to almost any of our state roads. Our people want a place to go, they have got money to spend, they are delightful people to meet, and all you have to do is to give them the service and they are willing to pay for it. We have many tours through our northern section of New York State, from Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and other places. We have another one going through the Adirondacks, and another through the White Mountains. You have your road complete from the border through to Montreal and then from Montreal to Quebec and beyond.

"All through the mountains this year we could not take care of the business; all the hotels were turning people away. Why was that? Because we have the good roads to attract them, and have good hotels for their accommodation. You also have the good roads, and in many places you have excellent hotel service. Then get after the people. Let them know you are on the map. Let them know how to reach you, what you have to offer them, what they can do when they get here. Within five years you are to have an international highway running through from coast to coast, and you have the scenery right under your noses here. There is no border line for the automobile tourist. We are all one family, there is a friendly spirit between us. Have bureaus of information in your hotels, let the tourists know where they can go, and instead of having them only for one meal you will have them for two or three days.

"Find out from every tourist what his plans are, tell him what runs he can make, the road he takes, the conditions of travel, look after him and arrange his reservations in the next place he is going to from you for there is nothing that pleases a tourist more than to feel that he is being thought of, and that he has not to worry about whether he will be able to get accommodation when he arrives at his next stopping place. There is a wonderful future opening up for you if you go after it and from what I have seen here you are fully alive to the possibilities, and will reap the harvest that is coming to you."

President A. L. Caron also spoke in the same vein. "The figures of the tourist traffic this year will be nothing to what they will be when the province becomes known," he declared. "The roads are a revelation to the people who have come over them, and everyone benefits from the visit of an automobile party. It is a sort of reciprocity."

The entente cordiale between the automobilists of the Province of Quebec and of the New York State further cemented during the last week-end, when the president of the Automobile Club of Canada, A. L. Caron, the vice-president, J. A. Davis, and the secretary, G. A. McNamee, and myself, paid a further visit to Malone. The two first named had learned from the O. R. and the A. O. C. of the excellent roads to this little township, and of the hospitality provided there, and being both good roads enthusiasts decided to pay a visit to find out for themselves the real condition of affairs.

What they found was that the conditions outlined for them fell far below the actual facts,—there was no limit to the hospitality and welcome given by the boosters of Malone to their guests, and in this Mr. Flanagan and Mr. Mason took the leading part. Their desire was to make the Canadian people "better acquainted" with their friends across the border, and from Saturday evening, until well on into Sunday midday, with of course a proper interval for rest, there were introductions and exchanging of opinions with this one object in view. The visitors were treated to a musical farce comedy at the local theatre, and afterwards were entertained to a supper which was in reality a banquet at the Elks Club.

On such an occasion it was not possible to separate without some speeches being made—and the ball was started rolling by Good Roads Flanagan, who was good enough to assure his guests of the honor which the people of Malone felt in having the president and vice-president of the Automobile Club with them, and as it were give official endorsation to what had been said about the place by others. He spoke of the proximity of Malone to the Canadian metropolis, and the splendid roads which connect the two, and the close personal relationship that existed between the people. The value of the closer feelings of friendship which were bound to flow the exchange of visits was also emphasised, and the promise was given that for every tourist that came out of Canada into New York State, double and treble that number would travel into the Dominion in the future, especially now that the King Edward Highway was in such an excellent condition.

The president of the club was not a whit behind his best in praising the good roads movement and the beneficial results that always followed the construction of improved highways. He regretted, however, that he had not been aware of the accommodation provided for tourists in the northern section of the State before the end of the season, and assured the people of Malone that next summer there would be such an army of Canadian tourists visit them that would tax their hospitality to its limit. He pointed out that it was only ninety-five miles from Montreal to Malone, that there was a dustless macadam road throughout the whole distance, and that it was altogether a most delightful run. There were remarks in similar vein made by Mr. Woods, a Canadian who, paying the Franklin County Fair a visit some o..h9gloa ?-eqq peyy,rC Hda years ago liked the town so well that he settled there, by Mr. Kirkpatrick, by the O. R. and the A. C. C. and by others, and there was not the slightest doubt that the friendships which were made or cemented at the gathering will mean much to the prosperity of both the province and the State in the years to come. To hundreds of people the town is well known as a summer resort, but the boosters are not content with that—they are going after the winter travellers. They have mountains all around them, and they are working hard to arrange for tobogganing, bob-sleighing, skiing, snowshoeing and skating on a big scale—and if present indications count for anything, they will very likely succeed.

From Malone we went on a tour of the lake district, and to show the genuine desire of our hosts to assist the automobilists of Canada to enjoy their tour, one came with us pointing out the things of interest, and making us acquainted with people everywhere. Not only does he know everybody in his own district, but through the three counties we traversed he seemed equally at home, while his knowledge of Canadian people, prominent in the national life or in the large communities in which they live, was astounding. Consequently he was a boon companion, and made the tour, which will probably be known in the future as the St. Regis tour, particularly enjoyable.

The first leg of the journey was from Malone to Saranac Lake along by the delightful Salmon River. It is a winding country road through mountainous country, and leads past Chasm Falls, which is a charming spot. This is a great hunting country, and the road runs through preserves belonging to people prominent in the United States. We made a little detour down to the Summer hotel at Meacham Lake and then went on past McColloms encircling Clear Pond and passing by Chain Pond and Mountain Pond and on to Barnum Pond and Osgood Lake, finally reaching Paul Smith's, where the famous hotel bearing the name of the founder of this resort is.

Situated on the Lower St. Regis Lake, connecting with Lake Spitfire and Upper St. Regis Lake, Paul Smith's is one of the oldest resorts in the Adirondack Mountains. Paul Smith started the colony in 1858, and now the district is the summer home of wealthy Americans like Whitlaw Reid, Rockefeller, Anson Phelps Stokes, the Vanderbilts and McAlpins. These all have their mountain camps in the locality, while in the hotel itself hundreds of guests can be accommodated. On leaving the hotel you pass by the little church-yard in which the pioneer is buried, and where Dr. Trudeau also has his last resting place. The road runs through many State plantations, in which are planted Scotch, White, Bull, Red and other pines, all showing vigorous growth, and an evidence of the authorities' belief in re-forestation.

The scenery is delightful, for on every hand there are ranges of mountains, the beauties of which cannot be described, and which can only be appreciated through a personal visit. The White Face Mountain stands out prominently from the rest, while the air is so invigorating that it is no wonder Saranac, which we presently reached, is such a popular resort for people who need rest and recuperation.

From Saranac we ran on past Flower Lake to Lake Placid and Mirror Lake, which are divided by the grounds of the great Stevens Hotel, capable of accommodating over four hundred guests, and which in common with all the hotels in the Adirondacks this season, has proved incapable of accommodating all who desired to stop. Every farmhouse in the district has apparently been filled with tourists this year, and there is no doubt but what the war has opened the eyes of the people of North America to the many beauties they have right at their doors. The famous Placid Club, to which so many Montrealers are members, is just outside the village, and then there is the popular golf club.

The beauties of Wilmington Notch were, to me, a revelation of the magnificence of the scenery of this district. The mountains towering on either side of a perfect road, flanked with trees covered in rich autumn foliage, and the waters tumbling alongside over a boulder-strewn bed, made a picture worthy of being reproduced on canvas. From Wilmington to Upper Jay, and on to the famous Ausable Chasm, past Bluff Point, that popular rendezvous for Montreal motorists, and along the shores of Lake Champlain to Plattsburg we went, and only the shades of night prevented me, I am sure, from seeing further beauties along the route. One thing I could see, however, and that was that practically the whole distance there was excellent road, and in the one or two small sections where the wearing surface had begun to show signs of the traffic, inquiries elicited the fact that these sections would be repaired before the heavy traffic of next season went over them.

And from Plattsburg we ran to Rouse's Point and on to Montreal, bringing Mr. Flanagan with us in order that he might see for himself the splendid condition in which the King Edward Highway is now for the major part of the distance, and so be able to direct the tourists from his district as to the fine highway provided by the Provincial Government for their benefit. The complete tour covers a distance of 270 miles, being ninety-five and a half miles from Montreal to Malone via Rouse's Point, 105 miles round by Lake Meacham, Saranac Lake, Lake Placid and Ausable Chasm to Plattsburg, and sixty-nine and a half miles from Plattsburg to Montreal via Rouse's Point, the tourist only doubling over his route from the last named point to the city, a distance of forty-four miles. As there is a good chain of hotels throughout the tour, this makes a most enjoyable run, and it is easy to forecast that next season the St. Regis tour will be one of the most popular itineries of the motorist.

Business

demands more than appearance. It insists uninterruptedly upon powerful service, while requiring a consistent appearance as a basis of business dignity. The beauty of Scripps-Booth cars is merely an outer expression of inner harmony.

Scripps-Booth

From the very heart of things—from the heart of machinery, rods, cams and valves operating in perfect unity of purpose—rises its wonderful reputation for smoothing out rough roads.

From speeding on suburban boulevards to winding the tortuous sand and rocky roads of a trans-continental trip, Scripps-Booth has responded to all that has been asked of it and more. It has fought its way over mountain passes, and has barked defiance at desert and cactus trail—not one car but hundreds—and has stood the test. No car enjoys so many miles per day in the hands of the average owner as does the Scripps-Booth.

For city work it is known as ideal; few, except owners, realize its country road value. Note its comfort-action the next time one passes your car on rough going.

Scripps-Booth is a new spirit in motoring.

MOTORING NOTES AND NEWS

By R. H. P.

At the quarterly meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association executive at Ottawa on Monday, a delegation will wait on the Minister of Public Works with reference to the question of federal aid for main highways, the provision of warning signals at dangerous railway crossings and other matters affecting the encouragement of tourist traffic and the provision of good highways in the Dominion.

The annual fall social and supper of the Quebec Automobile Club, held at Kent House, proved a most enjoyable function. It was mentioned in the course of the speeches that recently in Quebec alone there had been cars to the value of three-quarters of a million dollars sold, and the President, Frank Carrol, urged every member to regard it as a personal duty to boost the province. The Hon. J. C. Kaine assured the motorists and good roads enthusiasts of the continued good-will of the Provincial Government, while Lieut.-Col. Talbot said that the present feeling of apathy and indifference must be destroyed in order to bring Quebec's importance before the world. The report presented by the energetic hon.-secretary, Lionel P. Beaupre, was of a most gratifying character, and showed what good work the Club had accomplished in the past year.

A special sign is being got out by the Automobile Club of Canada to warn motorists when they are approaching areas in which there are schools. It will be a red disc with the following in white letters: "School district ahead. Please drive slowly. Safety first. Automobile Club of Canada." Similar warnings have for some time been erected in the vicinity of public schools in the United States, and being of striking design have caught the eyes of motorists and proved effective.

NEW SALES MANAGER OF McLAUGHLIN COMPANY

Percy J. Wood, whose appointment as sales manager of the Montreal branch of the McLaughlin Motor Car Company, has just been announced. Mr. Wood succeeds the late C. M. Bennett, has been for three years with the McLaughlin Company, previous to which he was connected with the Pope-Hartford Motor Car Company of Canada. He is well known in Automobile circles in Montreal and throughout the province.

MANY MAKES OF AUTOS TO BE SHOWN AT THE SHOW HERE

Eastern Canada's National Motor Show, which will be held in Almy's Building from January 20 to 27, 1917, reflects in an emphatic way the success that has followed the automobile industry during the present season. It also emphasizes the importance attached to this annual event by the motor car trade, the success of past years having made plain the immense value of the publicity secured through displays that attract the attention of the vast multitudes attending the great fair.

Almost every manufacturer of any pretensions will be represented. As it is, visitors are given a fairly comprehensive idea of the immense amount of capital that has been invested in the motor car industry in Canada and the remarkable measure of success that has attended the development of the trade. Cars of every style and price will be displayed and it would indeed be a captious individual who would find himself unable to make a choice from among the magnificent models exhibited. The volume of the motor car industry is exceeded only by steel and cotton, and those directing the affairs of the vast business feel deeply their responsibility and are steadfastly and earnestly co-operating along conservative and constructive lines.

Sensational rumors to the effect that a price-cutting war is imminent among motor car manufacturers are confusing, misleading and unfounded.

Every nut and bolt on the car should be tried every week. If secured by a split pin it is safe, but others should be tried without a wrench. Do not put this off from week to week as the weeks soon lengthen into months and some part comes loose, causing damage that could easily be avoided.

At the first sign of a slipping clutch, tend to it at once. If a leather-covered cone clutch, use neats-foot oil. If a dry-plate clutch, the spring may be weak. If a multiple disc running in oil, the oil may be too thick. If this trouble is neglected rapid wear follows and it may end in an expensive repair.

WILLYS-OVERLAND CARS MUCH USED AS POLICE PATROLS

There is probably no more exacting work for the automobile than that of the police department of our large cities. Both ambulance and patrol motors require a high type of motor and chassis. In ambulances it shall be smoothness of operation and the elimination of all jolting as well as absolute reliability. Speed is also an essential as the life of a patient frequently depends on the speed with which he can be taken to the operating table. There must also be promptitude in starting and no delays on the road from engine or other trouble.

Municipalities are finding their requirements met by the Willys Knight cars and as the result of satisfaction given by the ones they already have in service, Knights are being ordered to replace other types, when new cars are required.

The Police Department of Hamilton have just ordered the fourth Overland or Willys Knight car.

The latest Willys Knight will have an ambulance body for use in connection with the Mountainview Hospital. The chassis on which this ambulance body is to be mounted Police Commissioners have also recently purchased an Overland Chassis for the police patrol now in use.

After greasing the front wheels do not set up the bearing too tight. Set up the adjusting nut until it just binds and then loosen it slightly. When you set up the lock nut it will bring it about right. Test again before replacing the hub cap. Wheel should turn freely, but have no side motion.

That thirty-five cars will start in the Vanderbilt cup and International grand prize races at Santa Monica in November, is the prediction of Race Manager Paul Derkum, who bases his prediction on the fact that there will be a long string of automobile events in the vicinity of Los Angeles during that season.

A small portable vise that can be fastened to a table or the top board of a fence will be found useful to carry in the tool box. It will come in handily many times when you would least expect it.

WEEK END TOUR IS FROM CITY THROUGH THE LAKE DISTRICT

Good Roads and Beautiful Scenery for 270 Miles are Features of Trip Through Adirondacks Which is Described in This Tour

The tour outlined this week is once more in territory which for the most part is over the border line, but it is one which should prove popular to Montrealers because of the beautiful scenery through which it runs and of the excellent roads throughout the entire distance.

Starting from Victoria square the route is over the King Edward Highway so far as Rouse's Point. There after passing through the Customs formalities, encountered at 44.0, the tourists proceeds along the shore of Lake Champlain for three quarters of a mile and then turns to the right and proceeds to Champlain. On crossing over the bridge turn to the right by the hotel through the village, and just before reaching the railway tracks turn to the left along the new state road, passing Ferry's Mills, keeping to the left at the fork 52.1 and bearing right at 53.8. Three miles beyond keep to the left at the fork and on reaching Moores turn to the right through the centre of the town, and bear left over the bridge three miles beyond, passing by the Dunn cemetery just after. Proceed through Ellensburg Corners to Ellensburg Depot, bearing right away from the bridge, and four miles beyond this point keeping to the right at the fork. Proceed on to Chateaugay and half a mile beyond the four corners keep to the left at the fork and down sharp grade, using caution in descending to the bridge by Grove Mills. At the irregular four corners a little beyond bear to the left pending the completion of the new state highway and go through Burke's into Malone. This route is the reverse of that given last week, and the two together make an enjoyable run of 95.5 miles each way to Malone and back.

Resetting the speedometer at the monument at zero, proceed south along Main street and immediately turn left at Harrison place, keeping sharp to the left at next turning into Duane street on the Saranac road. The road runs through Whippleville and along by the Salmon River, and keeping to the right at the fork 7.4, proceeds up steep grade over Chasm Falls. At the twelve mile mark there is a long pull up Studley Hill, and at 14.3 keep to the right at the fork by the cemetery, the left hand road leading to Loon Lake. The road is narrow and there are many sharp curves, while after passing through Duane Centre there are a couple of sharp descents. The road continues past Lake Meacham, twenty-three miles from Malone, and by McCollom's five miles beyond, passing along by Clear Pond, Chain Pond, Mountain Pond, Barnum Pond and Lake Osgood before reaching Paul Smiths on the Lower St. Regis Lake.

There the road turns to the left just before reaching the big summer hotel and continues past St. Gabriel station, turning to the right at 39.7, the left hand road leading to Loon Lake via Bloomingdale. Two miles beyond is the right hand turning for Saranac Inn, but the road to Saranac is straight ahead, past Peck's Corners and Colby Lake. On reaching Saranac turn to the left by the Riverside Inn and proceed past Lower Lake and follow the state road to Lake Placid past Stevens House. On reaching the lower part of the village no the shores of Mirror Lake, turn to the right and keep straight on past the golf links, reaching the famous Wilmington Notch at the sixty-three miles mark. A mile and a half beyond this keep to the left at the fork and proceed through Wilmington, turning to the right at the four corners to enter the village, and to the left at the four corners in Jay after making a long descent.

To get out of Plattsburg the route turns left on Cornelia street and then right on Montcalm avenue, turning to the left at the end of the road on to Bailey avenue, and soon after curving to the right on to the Beekmantown Road. Keep to the left at the fork half a mile beyond the village and proceed through Beekmantown then turning to the right and to the West Chazy, turning to the right at the four corners. Three quarters of a mile beyond turn left at the irregular four corners and proceed to Chazy, turning right three miles beyond the church over small bridge till the end of the road, when the route is to the left across a small bridge and then right. Proceed through Coopersville and turn to the right at the four corners after crossing the iron bridge, then continuing along the lake shore to Rouse's Point, from where the King Edward Highway runs into Montreal.

This makes a nice week-end trip, the distance from Montreal to Malone being 95.5 miles from Malone to Plattsburg by the lake district 10.5 miles and from Plattsburg to Montreal via Chazy 69.6 miles. All the way there are good hard roads, one or two of the sections of the state roads are worn, but are easily travelled, and these will be repaired by next season.

Advice Given by Expert on Carburetors

There are many motorists who have Stromberg Carburetors on their machines. There are scores of others who if they had demonstrated to them the tremendous economy in gasoline consumption effected with the Stromberg Carburetors would be owners of them. In order to give the latter an opportunity Mr. Chadwick, the carburetor expert of the Stromberg Company, is in the city today, and will give advice to all owners possessing these carburetors or demonstrations to others. He can be reached on application to Lariviere, Inc., 911 St. Lawrence Boulevard, with whom appointments can be made.

LOAN OF CARS WAS AID TO BIG BENEFIT

Those in charge of the Cabaret at the Military Benefit at the Arena were having a hard time of it this week until C. S. Hoben lent them aid. Many of those taking part are performing at regular theatres, and it was only with difficulty that they could be rushed out and in on time. Finally Mr. Hoben, who is manager of the Ford Company, had his attention brought to the matter, and he loaned two cars every afternoon and evening.

THE KAISER AND THE BELGIAN CHILD

"That is a very long word; I never heard it before," said the little girl's voice. "Doesn't it make a shell that can't get away from the earth, no matter how hard it tries?"

"Yes," said the Emperor, "just that."

"Then we must wait until the Tommies or the Hairies give you a dig with a great shell," said the little girl's voice. "Don't be down-hearted; I think it very likely they will if you stand up in the light. Now I am going to kiss you goodbye, because you kissed me very nicely before I was set free. But I'm afraid you won't be able to feel it."

HIS GRIEF.

And she was quite right, for though the Emperor tried his hardest to feel it he felt nothing. And what made it very tantalizing was that he saw something. For he turned up his face to where the voice came from when she said she would kiss him, and then he saw flying down from the tree of a most lovely little rosy body of a tiny girl, with wings, perfectly clean and not minding a bit that it had nothing on, and it put its arms round his neck and kissed him before it flew away. He saw it quite distinctly, and this was very curious because there was no light except dim moonlight in which it should have looked gray or white, like an owl, instead of rosy and pretty. He felt a dreadful pang of grief at parting from her, but it was all spoiled by some real men suddenly speaking to him. He had never noticed them coming. They were two of his officers, and they asked him with great respect whether the shell had hurt him. The little angel disappeared at the first word they spoke. He was so angry at their driving it away that he could not trust himself to speak to them for fully a minute, and then all he said was to ask them rudely the way back to prison. Then, seeing that they did not understand what he meant, and were staring at him as if he were mad, he asked again the way back to his quarters, meaning his tent. They pointed it out, and he strode along in front of them until he reached it, all the sentinels challenging him, and saluting him when the officers answered them. Then he said good night, very shortly, and was going in to bed when one of them asked him timidly whether they were to make any report of what had happened. And all the Emperor said was: "You are a couple of —— fools"; and the —— was a most dreadful swear.

Then they stared at one another, and one of them said, "The All Highest is as drunk as a pig." It was lucky that the Emperor was thinking about the little girl, and did not overhear what the officer said. But it would not really have mattered, for all soldiers use bad words without meaning anything.

LAST TWO SHOTS OF DOZEN FINALLY WOUNDED SOLDIER

South African Had Remarkable Series of Close Shaves

CAPETOWN—Astonishing experiences of South Africans in the big push in France are described in soldiers' letters which make novels of romance read like Blue-books, says the Daily Express, London.

Pte. Gordon Smith, for example, who was in the Somme advance, thus cheerfully describes a few close shaves in a letter to a Port Elizabeth friend:

A bullet struck one of Dick's cartridge pouches, and exploded three rounds. He wasn't injured. The next day a shell bowled him over like a ninepin, but didn't damage him. Two days later, on the Sunday, we charged at 10 a.m., and just as Dick jumped into a German trench he was shot in the head and left shoulder. He may have had a lot of other accidents that I don't know of. He hadn't much time to tell me anything. The only way of communicating with each other was by writing what you wanted to say on a slip of paper. The din was so terrific we couldnt speak to each other.

Before Saturday I had a good few narrow shaves, but at long intervals. On Saturday and Sunday they all seemed to come at once. In one hour on Saturday I was buried twice by great shells. The second time my pals had to dig me out. Again on Sunday I was buried almost at the same spot. From 10 a.m., when the fun started, I had a good many close calls.

My rifle was badly damaged—hit in four places. First, the bayonet was smashed by a bullet; second, a bullet went clean through the butt about eight inches from my shoulder; third, a bullet smashed the woodwork about the centre. The rifle was still good then, but the last shot damaged it altogether. It struck the bolt just above the magazine and split the steel so much that I couldn't work the bolt. I threw it away then and took one from a dead man lying near.

One bullet made a hole right through the top of my steel helmet, taking a little hair with it. Another struck the top cartridge pouch of my equipment just below the heart and exploded seven cartridges. Another took the front of the pouch clean away. Another severed the strap attached to my water bottle. Another went clean through my waterproof sheet which was rolled and strapped on the back of my belt, and a whizzbang shell nose-cap knocked a small roll of sandbags clean off my shoulder, to the strap of which it was fastened with a piece of string.

How is that for a narrow shave? All in one morning too. At last they got me one in the wrist and one in the right thigh. Went to hospital and had the bullet extracted. Am feeling O.K. again and ready for another go.

Banbury Fair, famous in nursery rhyme, was not held this year. The Munitions Ministry prohibited it, saying it might interfere with the production of shells.

OLD GOVERNMENT HOUSE NEW HOME FOR THE KILTIES

Special to The Star.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 21.—The Old Government House here, which for many years was the headquarters of the Governors of New Brunswick, is to become New Brunswick Convalescent Home for returned soldiers. At a conference at Ottawa Lieut.-Col. P. A. Guthrie discussed the matter fully with Sir James Lougheed, chairman of the Military Hospitals Commission.

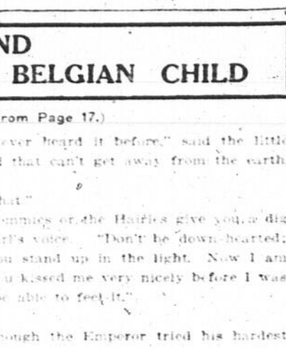

Brig.-Gen. MacLean, who is soon to resume the duties of O.C. of the New Brunswick troops, was present at the conference, as was also Prof. T. D. Kidner, secretary of the Technical Education Division of the Commission, who recently made an inspection of the Old Government House property.

Definite arrangements were made that if the house is fixed up for the 236th overseas battalion, New Brunswick Kilties, Sir Sam's Own, it shall be taken over as soon as the Kilties leave and will be a home for New Brunswick's returned soldiers.

The Clark Convalescent Home at St. John will be used for special cases, of which there will be sufficient to take up all available accommodation.

Plans are to make Old Government House a modern technical school, where returned soldiers, whilst being cared for, will be given instruction in agriculture, mechanics and all useful training to fit them for work which they will take up after the war.

There will be a full staff of teachers, and property adjoining the buildings will be used for agricultural educational work, so that there will be practical demonstrations right on the grounds.

Fed on Virol since four weeks old

59, Meadow Street, Moss Side, Manchester.

Dear Sir,

Enclosed please find photo of my little girl, aged eight months. She has been fed on Virol from being four weeks old. This speaks volumes for the qualities of Virol, considering she has travelled round the country with us from being three weeks old, and has never ailed a thing. She is in perfect health and has cut six teeth. I am never tired of recommending Virol to my fellow artistes.

I remain,

Yours faithfully,

Mrs. Tom McKay.

Money for "Rubbish."

That pile of discarded household furnishings in your attic is of value to some one who perhaps today is looking for just those things. Clean out the attic and dispose of the useable articles and offer them for sale in the Montreal Daily Star Want Ads.

MURPHY'S---The Woman's Store

New Fashions

The "Senorita" Scarf

is aptly named—its softly lustrous quality, its glowing colors, make it equally adaptable for an evening shoulder wrap, or neck scarf. Fancily knit and in a big selection of pastel colors.

Women's Shoe Section

Tartan Colorings

echoes the bright colors of tartan cap and scarf sets forming a band of the jaunty tam, and bordering the long scarf. Of finest quality brushed wool, particularly attractive in rose shades, green, sky, etc.

The Golden Age

So pronounced is the preference for metal cloths, plain and brocaded, that Paris dressmakers refer to the present season as "L'Age d'Or," the Golden Age. See the gorgeous examples imported by Murphy's Silks Section.

The John Murphy Company Limited

FIRST BRIGADE TO ADVANCE IN OPEN SINCE MONS FIGHT

Special to the Star.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 21.—A thrilling story of "the first brigade in the whole British Army, since Mons, who attacked absolutely in the open and attained an important objective" has arrived here. This is the fifth brigade to which a famous Montreal battalion belongs.

In a letter from Lieut.-Col. A. E. G. MacKenzie, Commanding Officer of the "Fighting 26th," New Brunswick, to his former Commanding Officer, Lieut.-Col. J. L. McAvity, who was invalided home this summer, the story of their remarkable advance is told. Extracts from his letter follow:

"France, September, 23, 1916.

"Dear Colonel,—We have been most highly complimented by everyone, from the Corps Commander down, and I am sending a personal letter from the Brigadier. I think the battalion did very well indeed, and any praise they receive is well merited.

"You have heard of the battalion "going over the parapet." There was no parapet for us to go over—just the shell-pitted ground with the village to be attacked 2,500 yards away. A whole brigade formed up in the open under shell fire, the worst we ever had seen—and we have seen St. Eloi and Zielbeke.

"At 5 o'clock we "kicked off," two battalions just in front of us, fifty yards or more away; we in the rear waves. This meant, of course, the more shelling. In front, a German balloon was looking us in the face and, no doubt, directing the artillery fire. It was like a parade movement on Manchester's field, only we had no shells there and no waving of swords here.

"The men crept forward yard after yard, dodging the barrage fire; we did not dodge them all, and many a poor chap was wiped out on the way across. On went the crowd and on went we. The village was reached at last, and our special job started.

"We had to clean out the Huns from their dugouts, put their machine guns out of business and mop up the snipers who were making trouble for us.

"We did it in good shape and bagged between 500 and 600 prisoners. We are officialy credited with 600 prisoners, more than our whole strength.

COUNTER-ATTACKS AT NIGHT.

"This was all in daylight. That night we had strong patrols through the village and our men dug themselves in behind and in the village. The next night we dug ourselves in on the east of the village, with one company in reserve. We repelled numerous counter-attacks. The next afternoon the Montreal battalion attacked through us and suffered heavy casualities, and that night we had to repel more counter-attacks.

"We deemed the situation critical and we sent up our reserve company. We were relieved about midnight and glad we were to get out. When we got out we realized that the brigade had made history and that the 26th New Brunswick, was not ashamed of itself.

"I am afraid we have made, in the last few days, a great reputation to live up to. Our casualties, considering the action, were comparatively slight, between 300 and 400. We only took in twenty officers and came out with nine, including the M.O. I wish I could tell you about some of our men. Frank Fairweather (Captain), was killed by a bomb; Ward (Lieut.) was sniped, Brock (Lieut.) killed by a shell. They all died almost instantly.

"Brock's name should be written large in the history of the battalion. He was in the Army Service Corps and was transferred to us at his own request. He felt he was not doing his full "bit" there and, I think, realized that with his ability and courage he could be of great use to us. He was; he was a tower of strength to his own company and his quiet courage was a great inspiration to his men.

ALL DIED LIKE HEROES.

"Clarke, from St. Stephen, a recent arrival, more than made good in a trying and difficult situation and set a fine example of devotion to duty. Ward, as you know, was splendid as usual. Captain Williams from Woodstock, I think, died early in the day. He was a recent arrival and was doing good work. I cannot say enough of these men. They all died like heroes. Of the wounded I will say nothing. They were all equally brave and courageous. I do not think any of them were dangerously hit.

"The thing is, that this is the first brigade in the whole British Army, since Mons (so we are told) who attacked absolutely in the open and obtained an important objective. I wish I were a Gibbs or a Palmer to write the story. It would wake every man with red blood in his veins to be proud of his Province and make those at home who could have been here ashamed that they were not.

"The mopping up of the village was a picnic. Just think, 500 prisoners, as many prisoners as we were strong, almost. They came out of the dugouts like flies to surrender, and we got lots of souvenirs. The only thing was getting them out. Guns, machine guns, trench mortars, etc., fell to our share. We would not risk men's lives getting them out. We lost, as it was, a lot of them while taking prisoners. We had as part of our bag, two battalion commanders, one a baron, and numerous officers.

"Well, Colonel, I thought I could tell you this story. It is very disconnected and disjointed, but you will read between the lines what we have been through.

Yours sincerely,
A. E. G. MACKENZIE.

NOTES AND QUERIES

SUPPORT OF MOTHER.

Q.—Please tell me how much my son and daughter will have to give towards my support; I am a widow; the daughter I live with is a widow with small children; she goes out to work every day; I have three sons and other daughter; one son resides in States, two here; one gives willingly other son and daughter I am always sending to for help but do not get always get it; one son gets $15 per week, the other $20; daughter's husband is in [illegible] How much is each one supposed to give?—Anxious Inquirer.

A.—It would be impossible for us to say what amount. All your children must join in your support to the extent of their means and their position in life. The husband of the daughter must also contribute. The law does not make [illegible] responsible for the support of parents.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION.

Q.—My husband slipped and fell, fracturing right arm, while employed in a factory in this city; he had left machine on which he was working and was on way to put on hat and coat to go to lunch when accident happened. 1. Is he entitled to compensation under Workman's Compensation Act. 2. How much is he entitled to? 3. How should he proceed to obtain it?—Mary O.

A.—1. Yes. 2. A certain proportion of his wages. 3. Consult a reliable lawyer.

CLAIM TO HUSBAND'S MONEY.

Q.—Noticed your answer to a woman's question, what she could claim of her husband's money if he died without making a will. Your answer is that she is entitled to half his money. Can you inform me what becomes of the other half when they have no children?—J. G., Montreal.

A.—The other half goes to his heirs at law, of whom she is one. She gets one-third. The father or mother or other relatives get two-thirds.

LODGER AND HIS ROOM.

Q.—Engaged a room several months ago; asked for a commode so I might wash in my room; got it on understanding I would be permanent, verbally; now I do not know what day I may be called away; pay by the week in advance. Am I compelled to give no notice by law, and how much?—J. P. McGuire, Montreal.

A.—You can leave at end of any week without notice.

MAY VISIT CHILDREN.

Miss J.S.S.—You are entitled to visit the three children; but is it wise for you to do so, unless you can take charge of them? You can compel the father to surrender the children to you and to help towards their support; but again, would this be wise?

CANNOT BE COLLECTED.

Q.—Am I forced to pay a small debt that has been owing for eleven years, and they are now trying to collect?—Mrs. L.E.

A.—If it is for goods supplied, they cannot collect it now.

INTEREST IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Q.—Can interest be collected on an agreement of sale in British Columbia when, overdue? If so, what rate? Interest is not mentioned in agreement.—

A.—We believe interest can be collected at the legal rate of five per cent, but for a final opinion a British Columbia lawyer should be consulted.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE BY RANGERS IN NEW CAMPAIGN

The inter-regimental recruiting campaign of the Duchess of Connaught's own Irish Canadian Rangers progresses well. Each platoon is trying to outdo the others. D Company is in the lead with platoons 15 and 17 tied for first place.

Out of twenty applicants yesterday, eight passed the medical officer. Every man was a Montrealer. There are still a few vacancies in the Irish band for men who can play even a little. Young fellows have here an opportunity to step on and [illegible] musical as well as a military education.

The first indoor band concert of the battalion will be given this evening at the Arena, at the closing of the Military Benefit of the Soldiers' Wives. Leader Band Master Sergt. Ingram has prepared a popular program, which is as follows:

THE PROGRAM.

March—"Laugh a Gallagh."
Overture—"Jesper Star."
Waltz—"The Skaters."
Reverie—"The Mountain Dell."
March—"United Empire."
Overture—"Peter Pan."
Selection—"Where the River Shannon Flows."
Cornet solo—"Under the Stars."
Waltz—"Elaine."
March—"Come Back to Erin."

PUBLISH BOOK.

"The Story of The Irish-Canadian Rangers" is the title of a military work now going to press. This book embodies the history of the organization and its accomplishments. It describes how the organization grew from two members—R. J. Tribey and M. J. McCrory—to the present great movement embracing the formation of an overseas battalion. The book also deals with the recruiting system employed by the unit, and how the D.C.O.I.-C.R. attracted widespread attention.

It is profusely illustrated and contains the latest photograph of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught. The work also contains a facsimile of Her Royal Highness's address, specially prepared for this work. The introduction is written by the Hon. C. J. Doherty, the honorary colonel of the battalion, while a special article by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, entitled "Ireland's Efforts," deals with Irish character. P. M. Wright is the editor. Besides the letter press, the volume contains fifteen full-page illustrations, three groups, six supplements, taking in the reviews of the 55th and 199th battalions.

The Rangers' recruiting detachments have secured twenty more applications for enlistment, making over sixty in the last three days. One of the applicants was a strapping six-footer from Nova Scotia.

How to Easily Shed That Bad Complexion

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercolized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle a bit coarser, a new, youthful skin appears, soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In ten days to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt and remarkable results.—Popular Medicine.—Advertisement.
