Accused alien smugglers plead not guilty

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were charged in sessions court Tuesday with conspiring to illegally smuggle a group of Guyanese nationals from Canada into the United States.

Gagdat Baboolal, 30, a Canadian citizen born in Guyana, and Gerard Bolduc, 27, of Ayer's Cliff, Que., pleaded not guilty and chose trial by judge and jury.

Judge Gilbert Morier released both men on the condition they report to the RCMP once a month, that Baboolal turn over his passport to the court and that Bolduc make no attempt to apply for a passport.

RCMP immigration division officers said Baboolal was arested in Toronto and Bolduc in Ayer's Cliff on Monday.

The RCMP say they have broken a smuggling ring that transported "at least 80" aliens across the Quebec-Vermont frontier.

On June 18, nine Guyanese, two of them children, were picked up by an RCMP border detachment after being abandoned by their guide near the border town of Rock Island, Que., 125 kilometres southeast of here.

VIOLATE U.S. LAW

The charges specify that Baboolal and Bolduc conspired together and "with persons presently unknown" to conduct a smuggling operation in violation of U.S. immigration and naturalization law, as well as Section 423 of the Canadian Criminal Code, which makes it an offence to conspire to violate the laws of another country. The maximum sentence is two years.

Defence lawyer Lynne Kassie asked for a "publicity ban" on Tuesday's hearing because of the media coverage drawn by the case. But Crown prosecutor Ronald Schacter argued there was nothing in law to allow a publication ban on arraignments.

Judge Morier rejected the motion, saying "the freedom of the press is something important to me." A ban could be granted later during the preliminary inquiry.

Roller slalom...

Visitors to Orford last weekend couldn't help but feel that something was definitely missing. The crew on the hill had the boots and the skis, but they were lacking in one thing — snow.

Using Canadian-designed, Montreal-made skis called Ski-Traks, part-time Cherry River resident Marc Ruel tackles Orford's grassy inclines. Pierre Bigeault, the ski's promoter, says it's possible skiing could become a year-round sport here, as it has in Europe and the United States.

Two Laurentian resorts have opened their doors to summer skiers and it is expected that another area will be available in the near future. Like snow skiing, international championships are featured and Bigeault's wife has gained fame as one of the leaders in the sport.

Landry: Textile phase-out a mistake

By ANNA FUDAKOWSKA

SHERBROOKE — Quebec has no intention of phasing out the province's 100,000-employee textile industry despite a recent study questioning its future, Economic Development Minister Bernard Landry said yesterday.

Responding to a C.D. Howe Research Institute study by Accent-Quebec co-ordinator Caroline Pestieau, Landry said nations which have phased out their textile industries to end tariffs against lower-cost imports, have subsequently reinstated the industry.

Sixty per cent of Canada's textile industry is concentrated in the province of Quebec. The study carried out by Pestieau suggests gradual elimination of Canada's textile industry and says that to maintain high tariffs and other barriers against imports is prohibitively expensive, whereas it is comparatively cheap to help the industry and its workers adjust to a phasing-out.

"The questionable practice of keeping an increasingly less competitive industry going was often brought up in the classes of the regional school I taught at," Landry told a press conference following a morning's study session with local and regional officials.

"The inevitable answer was always a 50-50 split - half the students were for its elimination and the other half for its maintenance. Now as then, it is the best thing I can say to illustrate the two schools of thought which have always surrounded the textile industry question."

Landry said although the Economic Council of Canada was not a regional school, it too was divided in its opinion; a federal government document on the subject revealed that, contrary to the institute's study, the council talked of the possibility of increasing the Canadian textile industry as regards both production and number of workers. He also affirmed the advisability of relocation of workers in other industries.

Asked about differences in asbestos-industry health reports by Quebec and New York's prestigious Mt. Sinai Research Institute study, Landry stated that insofar as he knew the latter study was of all-round inferior quality. The government study shows that only 2.37 per cent of asbestos workers in Thetford Mines have asbestosis to varying degrees while the New York Mt. Sinai School of Medicine study declared that one out of three Thetford Mines workers died of asbestos-related disease.

He also stated that he knew nothing regarding the recent Quebec government policy on the accessibility of death certificates to the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine. The new policy went into effect in January, 1978, when the Mt. Sinai researchers were working to update their study to the end of 1977, at which point they were in-

Free certificates for researchers, labor judge says

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec government should make death certificates available to researchers doing mortality studies on occupational diseases such as asbestosis, a Quebec labor court judge said Tuesday.

Judge Rene Beaudry, author of a 1976 study on health conditions in the province's asbestos industry, was commenting on a report that the Quebec government refused to supply death certificates earlier this year to a team of New York researchers updating a study of mortality among asbestos miners.

The government won't release the certificates because it wants to protect the confidentiality of the information, the judge said in an interview.

However, researchers doing such studies only use the information to compile group statistics, and individual files always remain confidential, he added.

UN caucus restates federal commitment

LAC A L'EPAULE, Que. (CP) — The Union Nationale Party, plagued by organization problems and falling popularity with the electorate, emerged from a three-day caucus Tuesday with a renewed commitment to federalism.

"The Union Nationale is not a separatist party and it is not a pro-independence party," UN Leader Rodrigue Biron told reporters at a government fishing lodge, 50 kilometres north of Quebec City.

Biron, accused in the past of hedging on the party's position in the proposed referendum on Quebec independence, was the most forceful he has been on the subject.

"The Union Nationale will say no to any question in the referendum which would lead to the separation or independence of Quebec and will say no to any question in the Parti Quebecois' direction."

Biron also announced there would be "major changes" in the party's organization following its showing in last week's byelection in the Montreal riding of Notre Dame de Grace.

The UN candidate polled only 395 votes in the race compared with more than 8,000 for the party's representative in 1976. The Liberal won easily.

Biron announced that Andre Bellerose, his executive assistant and a former aide to Progressive Conservative Claude Wagner, will take over from Bertrand Goulet (UN—Bellechasse) as director general of the party.

Earlier in the day, Liberal Party Leader Claude Ryan said "the dismantling of the UN has begun very seriously."

Ryan said that Biron's policies were so "contradictory and so wishy-washy" that the electorate was turning away from the party.

RYAN MOCKS PQ 'CLEAVAGE' FIND

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Claude Ryan says he is surprised that Premier Rene Levesque has just discovered there is a cleavage between language groups in Quebec.

"Who has provoked the linguistic cleavage in Quebec but him and his party?" Ryan asked reporters today. "He makes me laugh."

Levesque said Monday he fears that the province's social peace would be affected if the vote in his government's planned referendum on Quebec independence is divided on language lines.

Ryan said the PQ government's legislation since it came to power in 1976 has promoted French unilingualism and has already caused linguistic divisions.

The problem now is to heal these divisions, Ryan said, adding: "The only viable solution is the Liberal party."

Ryan is in the capital for party meetings. On Monday, he attended a golf tournament organized by a Liberal social club.

JUNE INFLATION SOARS

OTTAWA (CP) — Sharply higher food prices, mainly for beef, once again pushed up the inflation rate in June. It now is at its highest level so far this year, Statistics Canada reported today.

The 12-month inflation rate in June was 9.2 per cent, up from nine per cent in May.

The consumer price index, the generally accepted measure of inflation, rose by nine-tenths of one per cent in June. This follows a 1.4-per-cent increase in May.

Supermarket prices for beef cuts were up by 11.1 per cent in the month and now are 70.3 per cent more expensive than a year ago, the government agency says.

Fresh fruit prices increased, especially for apples, but prices for fresh vegetables were lower because higher potato prices were more than offset by seasonal declines for lettuce and tomatoes. Fresh fruit prices are nearly 39 per cent higher now than a year ago.

Pork cost more last month than in May and in three of the western provinces, dairy product prices rose.

HOUSING COSTS RISE

Housing costs increased, mainly for homeowners, accounting for most of the price increase in items other than food, Statistics Canada said. Prices for some cars were up, as well as for certain clothing, train and inter-city bus fares.

The consumer price index stood at 175.1 in June, compared with 173.6 in May and 160.3 in June last year.

Trudeau proposes constitution talks for mid-September

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has proposed that the 10 provincial premiers meet him here in mid-September for the tough and contentious job of constitution changing.

He said in invitations released Tuesday he hopes the premiers will be ready by then for indepth discussions on federal proposals for constitutional change plus any alternatives to those proposals.

He suggested that the premiers come here in the week of Sept. 11, say Sept. 13-15.

Trudeau's suggestion comes about three weeks after he introduced legislation in the Commons calling for constitutional changes that are designed, among other things, to give the provinces more say in the way Canada is run.

The changes have met mixed reaction in the provinces. The majority of premiers have been cautious, feeling that the federal government has not consulted them enough and that Trudeau is in too much of a hurry.

Quebec, whose separatist government has the least interest in constitutional change, has said it would attend a first-ministers meeting on the matter.

Two die in Laval escape bid

MONTREAL (CP) — Four prisoners shot their way out of the maximum-security Laval Institute on Tuesday, killing one guard and wounding three others, then slipped through a massive police dragnet and melted into the densely-populated east end of Montreal.

A fifth prisoner who tried to make a break was shot down before he could get past the grey stone walls surrounding the 105-year-old prison. He died on the spot, but it was not immediately clear whether he was shot by guards or by one of his fellow escapers in the heat of battle.

The four at large, all considered extremely dangerous, were believed to be somewhere in the city's east end by nightfall, but police admitted they could not be sure where to look for Andre Chartrand, 23, Jacques Massey, 36, Ghislain Gaudet, 27, and Pierre Vincent, 35.

Jean Lachapelle, 41, the fifth member of the escape party, was probably killed by a stray bullet from one of his cohorts, said Gerald Marineau, regional director of the federal penitentiary service.

But other reports said Lachapelle was shot by guards and that he was found with a .22-calibre pistol in his hand and 15 bullets in his pocket.

Lucien Gagne, president of the guards union at the penitentiary, said all the prisoners were apparently high on "home-made brew."

'THEY WERE STONED'

"They were stoned during the breakout," Gagne said. "We found two partially empty containers."

The dead guard was identified as Guy Fournier, 29, a married father of a two-and-a-half month old infant.

Wounded in the incident were guards Marc Drouin, 22, Richard Rolland, 28, and Gaston Langelier, 48, the prison's deputy director of security. Drouin was reported in serious condition in hospital, while the others were in satisfactory condition.

Synopsis

A high now over the great lakes is slowly moving southeastward as the low over easternmost Quebec is decreasing. A cold air flow over western Quebec has given temperature quite below seasonal normals. Western Quebec will experience fair conditions during the next few days and the skies over eastern Quebec will clear gradually. There will be a raise in temperatures reaching values above normal Thursday in most part of the province.

Winds today westerly 15 to 35 km-h and Thursday southwesterly 15 to 35 km-h in all regions.

Canadian money streaming into Florida

MIAMI (CP) — Canadian money is not just flowing into sun-drenched Florida. It is rushing south with all the force of a burst artery.

The universality of the flight of capital makes it impossible to measure with precise statistics. But the signs of the torrent are everywhere.

Officials at every government level, real-estate people, businessmen, chamber of commerce directors, all cite evidence of a surging flow of money from the weak Canadian economy.

The money is being brought by elderly persons seeking retirement homes; by small businessmen looking for a motel or restaurant that will make their fortune; and by large investment companies that want bigger fortunes and less bureaucracy.

A Florida study found that in 1974 Canadians owned $112 million worth of Florida property, plants and equipment.

Today, Canadian officials estimate, Canadian investment in Florida real estate is more than $450 million. Stressing that the estimates are conservative and many investments do not come to their attention, they say the $450 million will be at least $1 billion in five years.

The estimates could well be extremely conservative.

At Homestead, 25 miles southwest of Miami, the Hudson Bay Co. is a principal shareholder in an 18-year, $1.8-billion project that will produce a community of 15,000 housing units.

CANADIANS BUY

To the west, Baycrest Consolidated Holdings of Mississauga, Ont., is building a 1,200-home development called Maple Leaf Estates. Of the first 300 units sold, 270 went to Canadians.

Even if all the 270 bought the lowest-priced unit, $24,000, that would be $6.5 million in individual investments.

No one knows how many Canadians own motels and restaurants in the scores of fragmented municipal jurisdictions in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties.

But in just one of those municipalities, population-130,000 Hollywood, the Chamber of Commerce includes 10 Canadian motel owners, most of relatively recent arrival.

Chamber president Lewis Soli says the Canadian investors are starting to get competition from West Germans: "On one particular square block where we had a lot of motels and hotels for sale at one particular time, two of them were purchased by Germans, two of them were purchased by Canadians—and one of them was purchased by an American."

'Buy Canada' campaign to expand

YORKTON, Sask. (CP) — Food products should be stamped to tell grocery shoppers whether they are buying Canadian or imported goods, the 10 provinces' agriculture ministers agreed this week.

William Newman, Ontario agriculture minister, said the ministers concurred that imported goods should still be stamped by their grade or standard but only Canadian-made goods could carry the Canada label.

Gaetan Lussier, deputy federal agriculture minister, said Ottawa would like provincial agreement on a campaign to encourage the buying of Canadian products. It could be modelled on the shop-Canadian program that the federal commerce department has initiated for products manufactured in the country.

Food products now are required to be stamped as to their grade or standard, but not country of origin.

The provinicial ministers agreed on little else during their day-long meeting Monday to present to federal Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan, who joined the discussions Tuesday.

However, the Prairie ministers will go after Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board, when he meets them today during the final day of the conference.

Alberta wants the minimum price to farmers for milling wheat raised to $6 a bushel from the current $3.55. That would mean at least a five-cent increase in the price of bread.

Saskatchewan wants revisions to the federal feed-grain program to reduce costs to farmers.

Agreement on harmonizing federal and provincial programs to stabilize farm income during periods of low prices appears far from certain even though it was an area in which federal officials were hoping for progress.

Newman said that during discussions Monday, there appeared "to be only a glimmer of conscensus" among the provinces on how to approach the federal proposal to have Ottawa take over programs for six major commodities and to leave the provinces to deal with regional and specialty crops.

Edger Kaeding, Saskatchewan agriculture minister, said the provinces think Ottawa has to increase its funding for stabilization. Jean Garon, Quebec agriculture minister, said there are a lot of details Ottawa has to clear up.

The Quebec government will be after agreement from Ottawa to permit livestock producers to buy surplus milk powder at the same price for which it sells on the world market.

He said it did not make sense for the Canadian dairy commission to spend money to dispose of surplus powder on world markets when it could sell it to Canadian farmers at the international price and reduce losses.

FILM PROTECTION...

Don't believe those Ministry of Transportation signs posted at Canadian airports which state that "Baggage x-ray units have been tested and proven safe from spoilage to photographic film." Several independent scientific field tests have proven conclusively that airport x-ray screening can damage even ordinary photographic film. Most professional and amateur photographers share this opinion.

FilmShield lead-laminated protective pouches afford complete protection for your valuable holiday and family film. Filmshield retails for $7.95 (Canadian) and is available in major department stores and camera-photographic supply shops throughout Canada.

Heavy water's key to nuclear power system

TORONTO (CP) — A drink of heavy water tastes no different from the water you would drink from a tap, a stream or a well. But it would be an expensive drink—about $1,061 a gallon.

Yet Canada's multi-million-dollar nuclear power industry was launched on it—only 42 gallons. That was the whole world's supply at the time and it was spirited out of wartime France.

Today at the Bruce nuclear power development, near Kincardine, Ontario Hydro produces that much heavy water in two hours. A second Bruce plant will double the output starting next year; a third plant will triple it in 1981.

The 1,300-acre Bruce nuclear complex is, and will remain, the world's major source of this uncommon water. What makes the stuff so valuable is that it is the key to Canada's nuclear power system. Heavy water is the medium in which natural uranium atoms produce steamraising heat to churn electric generators. This moderating fluid also serves as coolant, transferring heat from the nuclear reactor to the generator steam system.

About 200 gallons is needed for every megawatt of generating capacity installed. To make New Brunswick's first nuclear power station operational two years from now, Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. (AECL) has ordered $102 million worth of heavy water from the Bruce plant.

HYDROGEN HEAVIER

You drink the equivalent of a glass of heavy water in every 7,000 glassfuls of water you consume. What makes it different is that the hydrogen is heavier. Heavy hydrogen (deuterium) makes heavy water, or deuterium oxide, as the experts call it. This denser fluid slows down neutrons, those atomic core fragments that trigger nuclear activity.

Moderately slow-moving neutrons split uranium atoms to ping off other neutrons. Heat is produced in the process. The heat makes steam to spin the turbine-generators for electricity.

This Canadian nuclear power system, using natural uranium (without enrichment), is one of two routes to electricity that were spun off from the wartime atomic bomb project. While Enrico Fermi at Chicago used graphite blocks to moderate neutrons in enriched nuclear fuel, an Anglo-French-Canadian team at Montreal used heavy water with low-grade uranium. The heavy water has proven about eight times more effective than graphite in moderating neutron activity.

Canadians stayed with the natural uranium-deuterium oxide system. It paid off when Candu reactors began producing power in the 1970s at Ontario Hydro's Pickering station with 99-per-cent reliability. The heavy water is expensive to produce but there are commensurate fuel savings in not having to enrich the uranium.

COSTLY TO PRODUCE

Heavy water is expensive to produce because the one-in-7,000 molecules do not part readily from their lightweight kin. There is just a Celsius degree and a half between the boiling points of heavy and tap water.

AGRICULTURE NOTES

The Department of Agriculture is implementing a horse breeding programme to improve the genetic potential of equine stock.

A breeder wishing to benefit by this assistance must own a stallion or a minimum of 10 mares, all light- or heavy-type, draft or saddle horses, which must be approved by a Department inspector in order to participate in the programme. Any studs and mares that a breeder wishes to register in the programme must be thus approved by a Department inspector.

Standardbreds (pacers) and non-standards are ineligible for the programme.

Jean-Guy Gelinas, agronomist with the Department's Livestock Productions Service, states that the Department is offering technical and financial assistance.

As regards technical assistance, the Department has made inspectors responsible for: 1) registering approved stallions and mares; 2) officially certifying births and identifying crossbred and purebred colts; 3) issuing a certificate of origin for the colts and registering them in the breed register.

Financial assistance follows one of the following methods:

a) A subsidy is granted for the breeding of all purebreds registered in the genealogy book of the "Canadian National Livestock Records" and born of a mare and a stallion registered in the programme; this aid based on the age and qualities of the horse, may be increased to a maximum of $400. A subsidy of up to $300 is also provided in the case of a horse born of a crossbred mare. If the hybrid is a male it must be castrated before the age of 18 months.

b) The Department grants financial assistance to owners of stallions on the condition that each animal is registered in the programme, has covered a minimum of 10 females (they having been admitted to the programme) and has sired a minimum of 5 colts recognized by the programme. The owner receives $50 a month. This year, stallions are given a two-year period in which to cover a minimum of 10 mares; but, beginning next year, the time limit will not be more than one year. The stallion whose offspring, after 3 years of testing, proves to be a quality inferior to the provincial average for its breed, will be excluded from the programme.

c) The Department subsidizes certain organized exhibitions, permitting breeders to show their registered horses to the public. The allotted sums must be distributed in the following way: 60 per cent to the owner of the show horse; 25 per cent to the owner of the mare which has bred the show horse; 15 per cent to the owner of the stud which has sired the show horse.

preventive veterinary medicine

The Quebec Department of Agriculture is maintaining its animal health programme, commonly called the preventive veterinary medicine programme, which is applied everywhere that livestock breeding and poultry raising are practised.

Under this programme, any farm producer may receive aid from veterinarians specialized in the prevention of livestock diseases. Also, the fact that, by virtue of the contributory animal health insurance, the majority of veterinarians in the agricultural sector are engaged in what is known as curative medicine, prevention is left to government veterinarians, whose main field of action it is. They are qualified to pursue the necessary epidemiological investigations.

The professional help offered by these government veterinarians in the field of prevention is as follows:

— study sessions with members of insemination clubs, livestock improvement clubs and GERA's (farm profit and loss study groups);
— participation in adult courses;
— advice given through media, farm journals, radio and television programmes;
— individual visits at the request of veterinarians or farm producers.

limestone

During the 1978-79 fiscal year, the Quebec Department of Agriculture grants financial assistance to farmers who use limestone to improve their soil.

This assistance, which varies according to the parish in which each farm is situated, is proportional to the number of tons delivered and used in conformity to the "Agricultural Limestone" programme.

To benefit by the programme the farmer must: 1) be a producer within the meaning of the Farm Producers Act; 2) have soil analysis of acidity done on samples of the soil he wishes to correct; 3) purchase limestone from an accredited quarry; 4) enlist the services of a trucker who meets Department standards; 5) use the limestone solely for agricultural purposes, and spread it upon delivery.

The regulation requires, among other things, that an accredited quarry: 1) be operated in Quebec; b) have proper grinding and sifting equipment; c) sell a product which meets standards of quality; d) is able to weigh the trucks before and after loading by using computerized or public scales, etc.

As regards the transport of the limestone, a list of truckers is posted in the regional and local offices of the Department. The Department inspects the quality of the trucker's equipment and of the services he provides to farmers. The name of any trucker who fails to meet Department requirements is deleted from the list.

The farmer owning a truck may himself transport the limestone to the farm and spread it.

Every application for assistance under this programme must be made on a special from and submitted to the local Department office with the trucker's invoice and a certificate of weight attesting to the quantity delivered.

The Department requires that the limestone have a neutralizing power of at least 85 per cent and that, depending on the fineness of grinding, 95 per cent of the product must pass through a sieve of 10 meshes to the inch, and 40 per cent, through a sieve of 100 meshes to the inch.

MEMO

Farm Safety Week

In 1975, over 20 Quebecers died in industrial type farm accidents. Of all the causes of these accidents, human failure played a major role in events leading up to the accidents.

National Farm Safety Week, sponsored by the Canadian Safety Council in cooperation with Agriculture Canada, will take place between July 25 and 31 in an attempt to make farmers more aware of the safety measures they can take to prevent accidents. This year's Safety Week will be emphasizing the use of personal protective equipment.

All farmers working on machines will be encouraged to use protective boots, gloves and hats in their work. They will also be reminded to have regular maintenance checks on equipment and read all instructions for use carefully.

In a letter endorsing Farm Safety Week, federal Minister of Agriculture Enguene Whelan stated that "Canadian farmers are among the most efficient food producers in the world. But they can increase that efficiency still further by eliminating farm accidents."

AMC sales up

American Motors of Canada Ltd. has announced a 17 per cent gain in passenger car sales for June.

"Things are looking up, and we foresee a continued market improvement with a real consumer buying surge developing from now through the end of September while the government's provincial sales tax reduction program is in effect," says AMC of Canada's director of sales Ronald Hogue.

June passenger car sales totalled 2,106 units last month, up from 1,800 units recorded last June. June Jeep sales of 748 units established a new all-time high and a 10 per cent increase over June last year. The previous record Jeep sales month was 681 units set last May.

Meanwhile, General Motors of Canada has announced a new all-time monthly sales record for passenger car deliveries in June. June deliveries of 47,067 cars were 21.6 per cent higher than a year ago and 1.6 per cent above May of this year when the previous historical high was established.

June truck deliveries of 17,606 were also at record levels for the month, exceeding the previous record high, June 1975 by 11.7 per cent and above last June by 26.3 per cent.

Apple producers eligible for aid

QUEBEC (PT) — Quebec apple producers who grow new varieties of apples will be eligible for financial and technical aid, Jean Garon, Minister responsible for agriculture, announced last week.

Under the program, designed to provide more variety for the consumers, growers who have a maximum of three hectares are eligible for grants providing that they begin growing varieties other than MacIntosh at a rate of half an acre over a period of six years. Government aid will vary from $1,250 to $5,475 per hectare. Grants will be awarded after an inspection of the orchard and soil by government officials.

The move is intended to revitalize the apple industry in the province by providing more varieties for sale here and outside Quebec.

Immigration objectives attained

QUEBEC (PT) — Quebec has attained most of the objectives of its immigration policy for the year 1977 - 1978, Immigration Minister Jacques Couture announced last week.

Under the immigration department, Quebec now has more control over its immigration policy, both in the selection policy and as the mechanisms used to familiarize immigrants with the government services and community resources. The department has also become more decentralized with the hope of being able to extend more services to the new Quebecers in the near future.

TEACHER BATTLES CEQ

JACQUES POISSON: Coaticook teacher seeks justice

By DAVID VINEBERG

COATICOOK — A young Coaticook teacher has launched an action against his local union, culminating an 18-month legal battle over his dismissal.

It began in early 1977; the Catholic teachers' central, the CEQ, was again mobilizing Quebec teachers for a possible strike. Teachers at the local level were holding their own meetings; at a February 8 teachers' meeting at La Frontaliere school in Coaticook, Jacques Poisson, a zone director of the union's regional council, proposed a moderate course of action to his fellow teachers. He drafted a resolution which would prevent teachers from striking if the majority of them voted against a strike. His proposal was accepted with 55 affirmative votes out of the 73 teachers in attendance.

On the provincial level, the CEQ sent out a bulletin outlining and encouraging harassment tactics to be applied to the local school administration. At La Frontaliere, Poisson, like the majority of teachers, felt militant action was not necessary since job condition negotiations between local administrators and teachers was making progress.

One bulletin from the CEQ encouraged teachers not to hand in marks or to assign homework. It stressed boycotting after-school activities like drama and sports, adult education classes taught on overtime and administration meetings. It said that school commission meetings could be disrupted through en-masse attendance and added that the records office could be thrown into havoc if all the teachers entered simultaneously, demanding to see their personal files.

On February 18, Poisson seconded a resolution calling for teachers to continue giving classes in the event of a general strike. Forty-two voted in favor, 26 were against and there were 3 abstentions or null ballots.

Following the second meeting, a group of 10 or 11 teachers approached the union's regional disciplinary committee and filed a complaint against Poisson. They accused him of showing a lack of union solidarity.

Led by president Jean Gagne, the disciplinary body recommended Poisson be expelled from the union, Le Syndicat des Enseignants de l'Estrie, giving as a reason Poisson's refusal to follow union by-laws and his not properly carrying out the duties of a union officer.

The regional board of directors next received Poisson's case. Acting on the disciplinary arm's judgement, they formally dismissed Poisson.

Poisson's lawyer John Hackett argues that his client was never given the chance or time to present a complete defence. Poisson had witnesses at the board of directors meeting but he was refused rights to cross examination, said Hackett.

On appeal, Poisson went to the 70-member regional council, the last union organ that could reinstate him. Represented by a CEQ ombudsman, Poisson's appeal was turned down.

Hackett argues that several things were highly irregular in the appeal proceedings.

Poisson requested that the appeal vote be carried out by secret ballot. The decision though, was reached by a show of hands, done immediately after the hearing. Sitting on the regional council were members of the board of directors, led by their president, Ginette Pepin of Magog. Pepin has a great deal of influence, Hackett says.

"It doesn't make sense to allow members of the board of directors to sit on the regional council in appeal of one of their own decisions," Hackett adds.

Since last March 15, Poisson has continued teaching at La Frontaliere, although not a union member. He has tried to use the union ombudsman to help him get indemnified but this has met with refusal. Union officials say he is not entitled to the service, although, he still must pay union dues.

The young Rock Island resident's fight has received support from fellow Coaticook teachers; Hackett has a petition showing 55 teachers' signatures under a demand for the outcast teacher's reinstatement.

Hackett will appear before a Superior Court judge on July 25 to try to convince him that a hearing is necessary. Should Poisson win, Hackett feels the moderates will have made their point and will not be pushed around by the CEQ in the future. He also thinks a victory may initiate changes in the powerful union's committee structure.

LDSB, ETRSB enrolment down

School tax cuts ahead

By PAT TRACY

LENNOXVILLE — School taxpayers will get a break this year, according to Wendell Sparkes, Director General of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board.

Because of the declining enrolment in local elementary and regional high schools, the ETRSB has taken measures to cut back school expenses in 1978-79.

The Lennoxville District School Board and the St. Francis District School Board, both having taxing powers, will cut taxes from $1.20 to $1.15 per $100 in the next year.

The board also announced that 48 per cent of the students currently attending ETRSB schools are covered by different interboard agreements. Wendell Sparkes explained that these students were under the jurisdiction of another school board, but had chosen to attend ETRSB schools because their school did not provide the services they required. A majority of these students are English Catholics, wishing to attend a Protestant school, he said.

Sparkes expects this number to decline rapidly because Bill 101 will render many of the students covered by the interboard agreements ineligible to attend English schools. This decline will also mean a steeper decrease in the population of the schools under the ETRSB.

While they are not happy with the changes that Bill 101 will bring, the director general is optimistic. "We respect the PQ government in that they were elected democratically and have the right to make laws, however, we are working with the Protestant school board of Quebec and we hope it will be changed."

In other school board news, the Lennoxville District School Board has elected Mrs. Marguerite Knapp as chairman of the board. She was recently re-elected to the Ward 11 seat in Lennoxville.

At a recent meeting of the LDSB, a request for the implementation of a board-wide immersion program was received from the local parents' committee. The brief stated that in order to become a "fully functional citizen of Quebec, a student must become bilingual; (and the board is doing) a disservice to our students not to provide greatly expanded instruction in French."

Given budget constraints and parental opinion, the board agreed to look into the possibilities for increased French language education in the future.

Garon: Whelan doesn't make sense

YORKTON, Sask. (CP) — Quebec Agriculture Minister Jean Garon said Tuesday he cannot get his federal counterpart Eugene Whelan to understand a plan to make surplus milk powder available for livestock feeding.

Garon said in an interview that Ottawa "doesn't seem to understand the problem."

"The arguments made by the federal government don't make sense to me," he added.

Radiomutuel ruling in August

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canada Labor Relations Board will decide by the end of August whether to impose a first contract in a long-running labor dispute at Quebec's Radiomutuel radio network, board president Marc Lapointe said Tuesday.

Investigators are scheduled to receive submissions from the parties this month, and public hearings will be held in mid-August, he said.

Lapointe took the unusual step of calling a news conference to reply to media criticism of the board for its handling of the Radiomutuel affair.

Certain editorialists in the French-language press had insinuated that the board was under pressure from the federal government to draw out its deliberations in the Radiomutuel case.

Golden-agers open season

Golden agers in Sherbrooke now have a place where they can gather to exchange stories, listen to music and dance. The 'Centre de plein air age d'or du Parc Victoria' opened yesterday for the summer with Sherbrooke residents and visiting groups in attendance. The recreation area in Victoria Park is reserved for golden agers Monday through Thursday with Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday set aside for music and dancing.

In addition to dances, the centre offers shuffleboard, croquet, bowling and giant checkers, played on a board measuring 20 square feet. Picnic facilities are provided. While the activities are mostly in French, English golden agers are welcome.

Two charged with pot smuggling

Trafficking hearings Friday

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Raymond Kyling of Frelighsburg and Danny Westover of South Stukely entered no pleas at their arraignment in Granby court July 7 on charges of having conspired with one or more persons to illegally import approximately 48 kilos of marijuana into Canada on or about May 25. Defence lawyer Pierre Gibeau chose jury trial and preliminary hearings were continued for the form to July 14.

Sessions court judge Bernard Legare upheld a Crown motion for preventative detention and remanded the men in cusody pending a bail hearing here yesterday.

Crown attorney Claude Noiseux told the court yesterday he had no objection to the men obtaining their provisional freedom following discussions with the arresting officers and the defence attorney. He then suggested they each be required to post $10,000 in property bonds and be ordered to remain in their homes between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Judge Guy Genest told the accused they could obtain their freedom pending trial if they met and upheld the conditions demanded by the crown.

Kyling and Westover were apprehended near Frelighsburg by a joint force of members of the Granby detachment of the QPF and the RCMP who had been investigating drug trafficking in the Brome-Missisquoi-Shefford area over the past few months. Their arrests were the result of the first sanctioned wiretaps in the judicial district of Bedford.

Ray and Reid Coulombe, both of South Stukely and John Picken of Waterloo also presumed suspects in the same ring obtained their provisional freedom on varying amounts of cash bail for similar charges in Granby, last month. Ghislain Tremblay of Chicoutimi, an other co-accused, was refused bail and was remanded in custody pending trial.

Conspiracy to illegally import narcotics carries a minimum seven-year penitentiary term upon conviction.

KEITH SPICER COMMENTS:

PQ cabinet excels at globe-trotting goofoff

Gear up, friends, with binoculars, Sherlock Holmes deerstalker cap and a passion for watching exotic birds. This month we witness the year's most marvellous migration: the goofing off of politicians to every part of the globe except the place that elected them.

The feds do it, the provincials too, even the municipals. The idea is to sneak away at taxpayers' expense when holidaying citizens, newsmen and elected assemblies won't ask what noble public purpose sparked the junketing — like inspecting pollution on the beaches of Hawaii.

It's a grand old democratic tradition, and who can begrudge our masters a bit of sun as long as they keep their hair shirts on?

One family of Canadian politicians with real imagination on this score is the Parti Quebecois cabinet. Not ones to skulk about only when school is out, they get itchy feet all year round.

According to the Quebec government's own reckoning, the big summer migration for PQ ministers began in early April. In the past 90-odd days, 10 different ministers have visited 38 foreign cities, not counting Ottawa and other foreign ones in English-speaking Canada.

Leading the list of globetrotters with 11 cities in five countries is Immigration minister Jacques Couture. This latter-day Ulysses has sought refuge in Belgium, France, Italy, Switzerland and Portugal.

Economic Development minister Bernard Landry comes second with eight cities, all in the U.S., a consistency showing either a deep PQ priority to convince American businessmen to bankroll Quebec's independence or a deeper addiction to American hamburgers.

Transport minister Lucien Lessard wins third place with five countries in western Europe. If he can learn from our friends in France, Germany, Holland, Sweden and Britain how to make our trains run on time with decent meals, God bless him.

Intergovernmental Affairs minister Claude Morin and Cultural Development minister Camille Laurin tie for fourth place, with four countries each.

Dr. Laurin, knowing where the real highbrows are, stuck to France, Germany, Belgium and Luxemburg. Mr. Morin, apprenticing for his planned job as first foreign minister of an independent Quebec, found southern comfort in Houston, Austin and Atlanta. But he also hit diplomatic highspots in Washington (for all that matters), London (for the Commonwealth), Brussels (for the Common Market) and Paris (for tea and sympathy).

Minister of State for Planning and Development Jacques Leonard came next with just London and Paris. There he studied decentralization with two of the most rigidly centralist governments in the western world. Both Britain and France are grappling with ways to give regional cultures something like one-fifth and one-tenth the autonomy Quebec already enjoys.

Four other ministers, including premier Rene Levesque himself, have so far managed only one foreign country each. Mr. Levesque did quickie visits to Boston (Harvard), Whitefield, N.H. (premiers and state governors club), and New York. The last was a flag-showing but mainly economic visit he made this time without a tuxedo.

The other long-weekend trippers? Courtly Education minister Jacques-Yvan Morin went to Paris, no doubt to cheer up his French counterpart who worries that over 80 per cent of French highschool kids choose English as a second language.

Lovable Finance minister Jacques Parizeau had a yen to go to Tokyo, where he borrowed lots of money and a little time to get Quebec's economy back into shape before the referendum.

Industry and Commerce minister Rodrigue Tremblay dropped in on Geneva. There, presumably, he saw at first hand how Canadian trade negotiators at GATT talks are preparing to "adjust" (that is, wipe out) Quebec's vulnerable textile, clothing and shoe industries by letting in much cheaper Asian products.

In all, our footloose PQ friends are racking up an impressive record. If they keep it up, they risk equalling the all-time record for overseas junketing set by Alberta premier Peter Lougheed (Greece, Germany, Saudi Arabia). Mr. Lougheed's record so far is threatened only by Ontario premier Bill Davis (Britain, Israel, Florida) and possibly now, for sheer pretension, by B.C. opposition leader Dave Barrett: this summer Mr. Barrett is noisily visiting Britain to drum up the jobs he failed to create when he was premier.

How useful and how risky are the PQ travels?

On the plus side, and teasing aside, many of the visits are sound and profitable ways of advancing Quebec's interests, especially economic and cultural. Non-Quebec Canadians who see in all such tours nasty proof that the Quebec government is merely guilty of prestige-boosting freeloading should remember that, to varying degrees, all provincial governments try to defend their interests abroad.

Ottawa, however pure its intentions and dedicated its salesmen, can rarely know and promote products, as well as governments closer to the factory, workshop or school.

The PQ visits are also useful in making foreign governments aware of Canada's constitutional and economic difficulties. Naturally, the PQ story is a highly colored one, indeed a depressing one: investors are used to thinking of Canada as a stable market of 23 million consumers.

But the PQ is a key part of Canadian reality. And it may not be an entirely bad thing that Canada's friends abroad (especially in NATO) grasp that "rich, reliable" Canada needs a little extra understanding these days, instead of an extra squeeze on defence or tariffs.

PQ propaganda abroad, by the way, may rebound to help Canada by its very dogmatism. The "separatist" example scares many governments with restless cultural minorities — probably a good half of all countries in the world.

Already the press in nearly every interested country, even some papers in France, has come out with editorials backing a united, if rebuilt, Canada. That goes from the Boston Globe and the New York Times to Paris' Le Monde to, for intriguing reasons, Moscow's Pravda.

The risks to the PQ government match in potential impact the goals it pursues — external allies and investment.

First, the above editorials do get quoted in Quebec (though some pequiste newsmen underplay them), and this invites Quebecers to take a second, skeptical look at the messianic claims of PQ leaders about the "inexexorable river of history" leading Quebec out of Canada. Federal or "English-Canadian" arguments for Canada carry far greater punch when made by allegedly prejudice-free foreigners.

Second, high-profile PQ visits abroad risk high-profile rebuffs, humiliating to the PQ's referendum cause. When Claude Morin tried to see a senior U.S. State Department official in April he was shuffled down to the desk officer on Canada — an offer the touchy Morin had to refuse to save his government's face as a "soon-to-be-sovereign" authority.

When Uncle Sam got alarmed at the PQ program's reference to possible pullout from NATO and NORAD, he sent in his Quebec City consul-general Francis McNamara to bring the PQ government discreetly to heel. PQ apologists tried to make Morin's public climbdown pass for cleverly "pragmatic." But it underlined perfectly how an "independent" Quebec might carry still less sovereign clout than a Canada three times larger.

The deepest risk for PQ foreign travel remains the good old-fashioned resentment of Quebec taxpayers. Anger at the then-Liberal government's "Parisian splendors" was one factor that defeated premier Jean Lesage in 1966.

Former premier Robert Bourassa's red-carpet trips to Paris, and his too-visible limousines, bodyguards and hairdresser at home, tarred him too with the image of a high-on-the-hog leader.

With the cost-and-tax-cutting tidal wave of California's Proposition 13 sweeping North America this summer, the PQ had better mind its junketing Ps and Qs or it will quickly end up looking like the party of Louis XIV.

For new Liberal leader Claude Ryan there may lie here a fair-and-square issue every inflation-harassed voter can understand. Ryan, whose penny-pinching ways in running the daily Le Devoir were legendary, could get away with it without a trace of phoniness.

The question is: can the PQ cabinet, with its often affected roots in social democracy, get away with so much gallivanting? In Quebec's upcoming referendum and later election, the working class and first class will not mix well.

Ambulance wars

Ambulance service, or a possible lack thereof, is paramount in the eyes of the Town of Brome Lake council these days. During the regular June session, they decided to maintain their combined police-ambulance service, which has functioned extremely well since its inception in 1971. The municipal force has averaged between 75 and 100 trips annually at no extra charge to residents.

Complaints concerning the municipal service have been negligible to our knowledge since this service began. Yet flunkies from Quebec, bureaucrats to the hilt with little or no knowledge of Brome County, have informed the town their service must cease by January 1, 1978 — just because the station wagons used by the municipality don't conform to the province's new ambulance norms. (The roofs aren't high enough for heart-attack victims.)

Council, during this month's meeting, adopted a resolution which read "the present service will be continued until the government establishes its own service and that no applications be made to conform to the new regulations."

The motion to defy Quebec's edict was carried with no abstentions, although a source close to the council indicated all councillors agreed continuation of the status-quo would be preferable.

Instead of a painless part of their annual taxes for service, TBL residents will have to pay a minimum $45 a ride plus $1.25 a mile.

Our provincial technocrats have proposed that one ambulance would be sufficient to serve the needs of the county. Imagine the ambulance in Austin, Leadville, or for that matter, West Brome, picking up a case for the BMP Hospital when there is an accident involving one or more persons who might be in danger of losing their lives due to a lack of proper attention.

It would not be the first time such a situation has arisen, and it certainly would not be the last.

Members of the QPF, despite their personal desires, are not permitted to lend physical assistance at the scene of an accident until either a doctor or a qualified ambulance driver arrives on the scene.

There are records in the annuals of the Cowansville QPF describing how people have frozen to death while awaiting an ambulance; accident victims bleed as police look on, helplessly.

There was a holocaust in the Knowlton Ward during the early hours of Easter Sunday morning, when three people perished and another three had to be transported to hospital. Both TBL combined ambulance-squad cars were used, as well as an ambulance from Cowansville. One of the victims taken to the BMP, and later to the Montreal General, might have been in far worse shape had the ambulance service not been immediately available.

Controlled, limited ambulance service in urban areas may be a good thing, but another aspect of the government's policy, which would see the abolition of an expert paramedic service in Montreal makes one hope those bureaucratic policymakers in Quebec will some day need the services they've abolished.

Ambulance service is one issue Quebec should leave in the hands of the electorate until the bureaucrats have proven that they know what it's all about.

It would appear only normal for the citizens of the Town of Brome Lake to air their feelings on this issue by writing the town council, MNA Armand Russell and Premier Levesque.

Fight the good fight

Editor:

I am wondering what our English population thinks of the new law "everything in French"? At first it was to be bilingual country, but now all has changed.

I was wondering how they figure we are going to get any tourist trade, especially when tourists can't even tell what they're buying or where they're going.

I know I would sure take my holidays anywhere but in Quebec (and I did) — While in Nova Scotia we met travellers from California and they said they were really surprised at the way they had been treated in Quebec, and that in no way, would they travel back through that province, nor would they say anything good about this province when they get back home. — (This sure made us feel good to say we were from Quebec).

It's not only visitors; just look at the families who have moved out of Quebec, also the different businesses — if Quebec separates, just how do they plan to make a living?

When I was young our neighbors were mostly French, and we all got along as one big family. I really wonder what has changed all this? I do believe it's the younger generation thinking they are smarter, but I think time may prove differently. As for Levesque and his bright ideas, I think he'd better change some of his ways.

I do know if I were younger, I'd be in Quebec just long enough to buy a one-way ticket, and that would be "out".

I do think we English are not fighting back enough; has anyone any suggestions? By the way I have some French ancestors also.

Let it be

Editor:

This a.m. the radio quotes a local MLA suggesting Charles Marion's confinement cell be preserved as a tourist attraction. Wednesday's Record contained an editorial in a similar vein.

Please, please, these tourists we can do without, although with luck they will quickly lose interest and return to their easy chairs in front of a T.V. set. They will not enjoy the beauty of the countryside, peaceful for the most part, also wild, rugged and difficult to traverse. The reason, apparently such a monstrous blot on the landscape was constructed.

The site should be levelled; let nature take over again. The criminals saw an advantage in that! Let its presence convict those responsible for the crime, but don't allow it to pollute the area for any longer than that.

B. BEAULIEU,

EDITOR'S NOTE: We had written our editorial with tongue in cheek. Mr. Grenier, we believe, was serious. In any case, we understand the weight of tourist traffic will soon collapse the structure.

Washington Merry-Go-Round — by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

Soviets smothering yet more dissent

WASHINGTON — Soviet rulers are trying to stifle voices of dissent behind prison gates and asylum walls. Yet smothered cries of protest continue to reach the outside world.

We have just received a summary of a manuscript of dissent smuggled out of Russia portraying the torments that a Soviet dissident faces for daring to speak his mind. The author, Alexander Podrabinek, is facing trial and imprisonment.

His book, "Punitive Medicine," is an expose of the psychological and physical punishments imposed on those who incur the displeasure of the Soviet hierarchy. It tells a grim story of how the Kremlin uses medical torture to punish critics.

Agents of the Soviet state police broke into Podrabinek's apartment last year and accused him of committing "anti-Soviet fabrications." They seized the manuscript of his book, but a copy was smuggled out of the country. A summary of it has been given to us by the respected Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

Podrabinek has written a stinging indictment of the Soviet authorities for clapping dissenters in psychiatric hospitals and subjecting them to beatings, drug injections and other forms of torture. Many have been reduced to a zombie state.

The brave Podrabinek estimates that at least 1,000 Russians have been confined in "special psychiatric hospitals" merely because they spoke out against the regime. He found the institutions differed little from the Siberian prison camps described by Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn in his "Gulag Archipelago" accounts. They are surrounded by high walls, barbed wire and menacing watch towers.

The healthy political prisoners are assigned to cell wards where they must exist among mentally ill inmates who are prone to violence and dementia. Savage beatings of inmates by orderlies, many of them convicted criminals, are common-place.

Podrabinek tells in his book of a hospital director personally beating four inmates who desperately sought to escape. But he tells about a more insidious form of punishment — the wet pack. Troublemakers are swaddled in strips of wet sheets, which contract on drying, to constrict the body of a victim so tightly that he shrieks in pain.

The manuscript charges that at the special political prisoner hospital in Leningrad, some stubborn recalcitrants must endure such punishment every two hours. The torture may be repeated daily for as long as two months.

Another blood-curdling form of punishment consists of "compulsory immobilization." Inmates are strapped to the frame of a bed and left neglected for as long as the doctor wishes. This may last for hours, days or weeks.

According to Podrabinek, the use of drugs as punishment is even more diabolical. One commonly used drug is haloperidol. It renders the patient frantic with a constant need to change body positions without ever finding comfort.

The doctors also inject inmates with sulfazin, which racks them with intense pain after several doses. The afflicted patient can neither sit nor lie down comfortably. Another drug, a sedative called aminazin, has been given in such great doses that it results in addiction.

The goal of the treatment is to obtain the abject subjugation of the dissident. By suffering, the doctors hope, the critics of the Soviet state will recant their anticommunist beliefs, acknowledge they are mentally ill and promise never to repeat their "crimes."

Even on the everyday level, the harassment of the confined dissidents is stolidly pursued by their warders, Podrabinek reports. Inmates are allowed a bath and a change of linen only every 10 days. Sometimes, they are punished by being denied toilet facilities for unendurable durations.

Even under the threat of imprisonment, Podrabinek maintained a jaunty air of defiance for his persecutors. A few months before his jailing, the dissident Russian was intercepted by KGB agents for interrogation in the middle of a skiing trip.

He dashed off a sardonic letter to KGB chief Yuri Andropov praising the secret police's "heroic young men who, in fulfilling their civil duty, freeze in cold December nights at the entrance to my apartment, or chase after me during rush hours."

Podrabinek urged the head of the secret police to "provide your workers with skis and sleds" so they could "enjoy the recreation activities of those Soviet citizens whom they are guarding."

He added this footnote: "Next Sunday, I plan to go skating."

Drug Drive: The drug industry is waging a determined campaign to save expensive brand-name drugs. The industry is upset because a growing number of states is passing laws encouraging doctors to prescribe cheaper generic drugs. This, of course, is cutting into their profits.

So the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association has launched a pressure campaign to convince doctors not to prescribe the cheaper brands. They have sent lobbyists across the country to make sure doctors get the message.

They have also taken out ads in medical journals. A typical ad contends: "Substitution is bad medicine. That's why most doctors prescribe brand-name drugs. They don't bargain with your health."

The industry neglects to mention that the Food and Drug Administration has certified most generic drugs to be just as good as the costlier brands.

Honored on marriage

BULWER — On Wednesday evening, July 5, friends and relatives fathered at the Bulwer Community Centre to honor Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Ross, whose marriage took place at the chapel at Plymouth Trinity Church in Sherbrooke on June 24.

Mabel and Curtis were invited to come to the centre, after they failed to co-operate with more elaborate plans to surprise them. They were met at the door by their matron of honor, Catherine Lowd, who pinned a pink rose corsage on Mabel, and Alberta Everett, who pinned a white boutonniere on her father, then Gerald and Ernie joined the group and they formed a reception line at the front of the hall.

The Country Kids Orchestra supplied excellent music for dancing and Henry Musty acted as emcee for the evening. The bridal couple led in the grand march and the evening passed very quickly, as everyone seemed to be having a good time.

At the supper hour, a head table was set for the bridal couple, the Lowds and the Everetts. The rest were served buffet style.

The table was covered with a white linen cloth, and the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in white and silver centered the table. On either side were white tapers in crystal candle holders, surrounded by pink rose buds. Other bouquets of flowers were placed around the hall and blue and white streamers and blue wedding bells completed the decor.

Mr. Morris Smith presented Mabel and Curtis with a purse of money and some gifts and the best wishes of their many friends and relatives, and wished them many years of wedding bliss. Curtis, on behalf of his wife and himself, expressed appreciation for the party and to the orchestra.

Mrs. Lowd and Mrs. Everett also had been presented with rose corsages and Gerald and Ernie with white boutonnieres, these were made by Alice Merrill and the flowers came from the gardens of Gwen Robinson, Helen Johnston, Stuart Merrill and Gerald Lowd. Alice had also made and decorated the cake.

On Sunday, July 2nd, twenty-two relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald in Minton, at 12:30 p.m. to enjoy a buffet luncheon in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacDonald's 45th Wedding Anniversary. On entering, the bride and groom were supplied with corsage and boutonniere by Mrs. Stanley MacDonald.

At dessert time, the cake, made by Mrs. Eldon Macdonald and decorated by Mrs. H. Robertson, was cut by the bride with the groom lending a helping hand. This delightful celebration was planned and carried out by daughters-in-law Benita and Janet MacDonald and sons Stanley and Eldon MacDonald. The weatherman was most co-operative. Not a little time was spent in admiring Benita's flower beds.

Baptism

BULWER — On Sunday morning, July 2nd, at the regular church service of the Bulwer United Church, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Clough of Toronto presented their infant daughter for baptism.

Rev. Carl Gustafson performed the ceremony and the baby was given the names, Teresa Dawn. The baby's godparents, maternal aunt Karen and uncle Roger D'Aoust, were at the front of the church with Merle, Jeff and baby Teresa.

Teresa wore a long white crocheted dress made by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clough and a white sweater set made by her father's twin sister, aunt Jennifer, Mrs. Brien of Montreal.

Mrs. W.S. Laberee presided at the organ for the service, following which, the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Grapes entertained at a buffet dinner.

The christening cake was made by grandma Marguerite and decorated with pink roses and blue bootees by Mrs. Stuart Merrill.

Guests were present from Toronto, Montreal, Ormstown and the surrounding area.

Buckland-Bachelder wed

A pretty late spring wedding took place at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Newport, Vt., on Saturday, June 3, at 3 p.m., when Rev. Robert Castle united in marriage in a double ring ceremony, Leslie Rae Bachelder and Karl Howe Buckland.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Wendell Lorimer and the late Allyn Bachelder and step-daughter of Wendell Lorimer of Batesburg, South Carolina; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Buckland of Hydesville, Vt., former residents of Newport.

Mrs. H. Moloney played the traditional organ music. Arrangements of white chrysanthemums adorned the Holy Altar, the guest pews were marked with white satin ribbon bows.

The bride was escorted down the aisle on the arm of her grandfather, Moody Davis who gave her in marriage.

The bride was wearing a Queen Anne model gown of white nylon organza over peau de soie fashioned with bishop sleeves having wide venise lace cuffs, the empire bodice was enhanced with lace and seed pearls that edged the lowered neckline. The back interest was soft gathers at the waist to form a bustle that draped to a cathedral train that was edged with lace at the hemline. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion, edged with venise lace, was held in place by a bandeau of lace and pearls. She carried a white leather bound bible faced with red sweetheart roses, baby's breath and white satin ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Donald Fournier, the matron of honor in palest yellow; the bridesmaids, Miss Kathi Bachelder in apricot; Mrs. Sheryl Warner, in mint green, both sisters of the bride and Miss Jill Buckland, sister of the groom, in pale blue, wore gowns styled alike of silk polyester knit having halter with lace in floral design on the bodices that were topped with a matching capelet of nylon sheer with a floral lace wedding ring collar.

Their nylon picture hats were in colors to match their gown, they carried nosegays of a red sweetheart rose in the center surrounded by miniature carnations tinted to match and edged with ruffled lace.

Miss Lynnea Duncan, the flower girl, was in a gown of palest yellow bridal satin having a sleeveless bodice and neckline that was topped with a matching capelet. A matching yellow velvet sash featured the waistline and the same was worn in her hair. She carried a nosegay of red sweetheart rose, yellow carnations and lace.

John Scott Feeley was groomsman, he and the groom wore vested tuxedos in light blue with deeper blue trim and blue tinted carnation boutonnieres.

The ushers, Blaine Bachelder, brother of the bride, Bruce Buckland, brother of the groom, and Terry Shaw wore tuxedos of light blue jackets trimmed with black and black trousers. Their boutonnieres were blue. The ring bearer, Bruce Duncan, wearing a matching tuxedo and carnation boutonniere carried the marriage symbol rings on a heart cushion of white peau de soie, trimmed with lace and lily of the valley.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Lorimer wore a gown of peach polyester silk; Mrs. Buckland, the groom's mother was in silver blue silk; Mrs. Moody Davis, grandmother of the bride chose a jacket gown of beige knit sprinkled with multicolor flowers; Mrs. Gordon Bachelder, the bride's paternal grandmother was wearing a gown of multicolor floral design on white polyester; and Mrs. Emma Buckland, the groom's paternal grandmother was in a gown of blue and white floral printed silk. Their gowns were complemented with a corsage of yellow orchids.

The reception took place immediately after the ceremony at the Municipal Hall in Orleans, Vt., where the bride and groom received the best wishes of 200 guests.

A buffet supper was served. The bride's table was centered with the four-tier white fruited wedding cake, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Davis and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais in white with garlands of red and pink roses and greenery. White colonial pillars separated the tiers that were enhanced with small wedding bells. The top was a miniature bride and groom within a larger wedding bell and against a pearl heart.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the groomsman and responded to by the groom. Richard Farrah's band from Newport played music for dancing.

Before leaving for their honeymoon in Vermont and New Hampshire, the bride tossed two long-stem roses that were caught by Miss Connie Kittredge. The traditional blue satin garter, tossed by the groom was caught by Greg Duncan. For her wedding trip the bride chose a white sun dress trimmed with multi-color and complemented with a corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckland are residing at Prouty Drive, Newport.

Mrs. Blaine Bachelder, sister-in-law of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Guests attended from Montreal, Batesburg, S.C., Cornwall, Angus and Thornton, Ont., Baldwin's Mills, Ottawa, Lennoxville, Magog, New Bedford, Needham, Wilbraham, Agawam, Mass., Smithfield, Rhode Island, Rutland, Hydesville, Bennington, Roxbury, Newport, Derby, Vt., Waterville, Maine, North Charlestown and Plymouth, N.H., North Hollywood, Calif., Orleans, Vt., and the Border Villages.

Rehearsal Party

Following the wedding rehearsal the evening prior to the wedding of Leslie Rae Bachelder and Karl Howe Buckland, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Buckland, were host and hostess for the traditional party which was held at Wayne's Fisherman Platter in Newport Center for a full course dinner.

It was a happy occasion for the bride and groom, their wedding party and a few close friends.

Later, the bride and groom exchanged gifts, the bride presented her attendants with their birthstone pendant on a gold chain which they wore at the wedding. The groom made gifts of leather billfolds to his groomsman and ushers and to the ring bearer, a backgammon game.

Lottery winner 'loves work'

REGINA (CP) — Life has been good for Jim and June Waldner since they won $1 million a year ago in a lottery but they have shunned the champagne and Rolls-Royce route in favor of more modest, if comfortable, living.

Waldner, 32, was working on his electrician's papers and managing some small business interests when his ticket came up in a Loto Canada draw. He and June bought an 1,800-square-foot, three-bedroom home for $139,900, a couple of cars, new furniture and a 26-foot motor home.

But Waldner has continued to work, primarily at a campground venture just east of Regina, and has invested some of his winnings in other enterprises.

"I love work," he explained.

He is president of a chain which deals in Captain Scott's Fish and Chips franchises in North America and spends about 10 days a month in Vancouver working in the head office. As well as a third of Captain Scott's, he holds 10 per cent of a chain of pancake houses and has dabbled in real estate around Regina.

SEEKS MORE EARNINGS

Not all of the money is tied up in business risks. Waldner has tucked some away in bonds and given some to his family. But it's almost as if he has to earn more to be able to spend more.

"The way I look at it, if we stick our money in the bank, in 10 years what's that million dollars going to be worth?" he said in an interview.

"Whereas, if I invest it, that million could grow 10 times. . . . I figure in 10 years a million dollars isn't going to be as much. If we're going to live this kind of lifestyle, we've got to be more or less assured of what happens in 10 years.

"If your money is sitting in the bank, you're going to collect $4,000 a month, or whatever it is, but in 10 years what's that $4,000 worth?"

Investments are more than just a hedge against inflation for Waldner. He has a need to be busy and a need to feel he earns what he buys.

SPENDS RELUCTANTLY

He and his wife bought a new station wagon as soon as they won their money and have travelled to California and Cuba in the last 12 months. But it took time for Waldner to learn how to spend and even today he won't cater to his own whims.

Before his number was drawn, he was working long hours and pouring any extra cash into his campground.

"You just don't have the money to spend. When I went to buy all these clothes, I only spent about $350, but I got sick to my stomach. It was hard. I never did that before, spend that kind of money."

Currently he has his eye on a $37,000 sports car. He looked at one last fall, but settled for a three-year-old Jaguar instead.

"I didn't want to buy it because it was so much money. I'd like to feel good about it when I buy it."

Waldner figures if his investments return $500,000 or more this year he can see his way clear to laying out $37,000 for a car.

Mrs. Waldner found spending a bit easier. It only took her a day to decide she could afford a $150 necklace after the ticket was drawn. "If I've got money I like to spend it," she said.

The best moment in her mind since winning the million was buying the furniture for their home, soon to have a swimming pool added to it.

"To be able to go in and not even look at the price, just to do what you want to do," she recalled warmly. "Not to have to look at the price tag on a chesterfield and know that you can't have it. To be able to go into a store and say, 'Gee, I like that; give me that one.'"

As a couple—with a girl and a boy aged 5 and 3—they don't find themselves bumping into each other because Waldner works about as hard now as he did when he was struggling to make a living.

"I'm out every day at the campground or at something else. I work maybe eight hours a day, nine hours a day. And I have lots on my mind, so I don't see June every minute of the day."

As he explains it, without a campground to run and investments to watch, he'd be bored. But with all that activity, he feels no greater sense of freedom.

"I haven't had a chance to stop yet. People are phoning me and I have to get things organized.

Bunk beds controversial

Dear Readers:

Recently a youngster wrote and confessed his fear of sleeping in the bottom bunk bed. He wanted to know if I had ever heard of an upper bunk falling on a person in the lower bunk — and if so, what happened.

Having had no experience with bunk beds, I turned to my readers. The results were staggering. Want to read over my shoulder?

From Moose Jaw, Sask.

Dear Ann:

I'm a mother of ten children. We had bunk beds all over the place and that youngster who wrote to you need have no fear. Bunk beds are 100 per cent safe. They are built so that upper mattresses and frames are just a little larger than the bottom ones. If the upper falls, it will get stuck. It can't crash to the lower bunk.

Mrs. M.C.

Dear Mrs. M.C.:

Thanks for your opinion. Here are a few others:

From Greenwich, Conn.:

I'm sending a picture of the upper bunk, moments after it dropped onto the lower bunk and fractured our six-year-old's shoulder. My husband had the presence of mind to take this picture in case we had any trouble with the insurance company.

Portland, Me.:

Our eight children always invited sleep-over guests, so we had bunk beds in three rooms. Every upper fell at one time or another — no serious injuries, but awfully scary to hear a crash and screams in the night, so we traded the bunks for trundle beds which fit under one another for storage during the day. This solved the problem.

From San Marino, Ca.:

I served as a WAC in World War II and had plenty of experience with bunk beds. During training I was assigned a lower bunk. The gal above me was 5-11 and weighed 165 pounds. I had frequent nightmares that she'd come crashing down, so one day I asked her if she'd mind switching bunks. She was very agreeable. Would you believe one week later, I fell on HER!

Bloomington, Ind.:

When I was in college my roomie took the upper bunk. He snored something terrible and it used to annoy the hell out of me. To get him to change his position, I would lie on my back, raise my feet and give him a few sudden bounces. One night he was snoring louder than usual (too much beer) and I really let him have it. Down came his bunk. The entire structure collapsed. He laughed his fool head off and I got a lump on my head the size of a goose egg, but luckily no fractured skull.

OPERATION BUDGET

Mrs. Dabarno
When you have a family you like to save a little bit, especially a family like mine, they never stop eating... I find I save more when I buy at Dominion, than any other place.
I like Dominion better than other big supermarkets, the service is good, the cashiers are very nice, and I love Dominiprix... that's the reason I always come.

Mrs. McGowan
...we're saving a few cents here and there. It helps us because everything's getting so expensive now... Oh I much prefer shopping at Dominion

Mrs. Ginette Petrocco
At Dominion, I can see how much I'm saving. With Dominiprix the difference is easy to see. When you can see 30 27 cents difference and 40 cents on an article, that says a lot. I really notice how it all adds up when I see how much I save at the checkout counter

Mrs. Claudette Villeneuve
I shop regularly at Dominion. I have noticed the new ways to help shoppers save. The prices are lower. When I go to other stores I compare prices and it is cheaper here. I always come back to Dominion

Mrs. Victoria Alexander
It was nice to see prices going down for a change.
After comparison shopping at another major supermarket, I couldn't find anything cheaper than at Dominion.
I found savings of 2 or 3 cents on smaller items and on larger items I was surprised to find some which were 40 or 50 cents cheaper at Dominion.
I like Dominiprix because I know how much I save.

22nd annual Oddfellows Conclave

LENNOXVILLE — A chartered bus carrying lodge members and friends left Lennoxville on the morning of June 23rd to attend the 22nd annual Northeast Oddfellows Conclave at the University of Maine, Orono, Maine. A mid-morning break was enjoyed when orange juice and homemade doughnuts were served by Audrey Pratt and Carolyn Wright, members of Myrtle Lodge. The doughnuts were made by Mrs. Carl Speck and Mrs. Peter Maurice.

The next stop was at the White Birches Rest Area where a picnic lunch was enjoyed. Ideal weather prevailed throughout the trip. Roses, lupins and daisies added much to the beauty of the scenic countryside.

Shortly before 4 p.m. all arrived at the university. Upon entering Hancock Hall they were warmly greeted by a welcoming committee. After registering they were assigned to comfortable rooms where there was time to relax before dinner.

At 6:30 all gathered in the William G. Wells Commons dining hall where a delicious beef banquet was served to over five hundred guests. At each place setting was a souvenir of Maine, a ceramic potato given by Audrey Rutherford, President of the Northeast Association. The invocation was given by Rev. Maurice Amnott, Grand Master of Maine. The general chairman, H. Kenneth Small introduced the guests at the head table. Among those who spoke were the town magistrate, Marc Schmur; Mavis M. Paull, IARA President; Edward Hyatt, Marshal of the Sovereign Grand Lodge; Audrey R. Rutherford, NEOFA President.

The programme included the Union Bell Ringers of Congo Church, Hancock, Me., who delighted the audience with several musical selections. Joe Perham kept the guests in stitches with his Downeast Humor, ending with two vocal solos sung to his own guitar accompaniment. The Maine-ly Music Chorus of barbershop singers directed by Norman Buzzell entertained with harmonious renditions of many old songs. Explaining that one of their projects was to help children with speech problems they sang, "We Sing That They May Speak" for which they received a standing ovation. The benediction was given by the Chaplain of the Northeast, Henry E. Perrin.

On Saturday morning there was a tour of the Maine Air National Guard Station where talks and films explaining how airplanes are refuelled in flight were enjoyed. In the afternoon a tour of the University of Maine Farm where computerized methods were demonstrated was provided. Shopping near Bangor was also on the agenda.

The chairman for the evening entertainment was Ronald A. Overlock, PGM of Maine. An impressive Flag Pageant was presented by officers of the United States Marine Corps. Each participant bearing a flag was dressed in keeping with the period in history which he represented. The history of each flag was given by a narrator.

Next followed the presentation and seating of officers. Among the distinguished officers on the platform were Mavis Paull, IARA President; Audrey R. Rutherford, NEOFA President and her officers. Officers from the Quebec jurisdiction included Thornton Cleveland, PGM and Past NEOFA President; Edward Hyatt, Sovereign Grand Marshal who represented the Sovereign Grand Master; Lillian Adams, President of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec; Doris McHarg, President Department Association LAPM Vermont-Quebec; Stewart Bullock, Grand Patriarch Grand Encampment of Quebec; Fred Currier, representing the Grand Master of Quebec carried the Quebec flag escorted by Lt.-Col. Harry Burt, Vice-President of the Department Council.

Fine precision work was exhibited in the beautiful Drill Pageant in which sixteen teams participated. The president, Audrey Rutherford presented a trophy to the captain of each drill team.

On the return trip on Sunday, stopped for lunch at the party Welsh's Restaurant in Gorham, N.H., where they also visited their beautiful gift shop.

Golden Agers enjoy trip

KNOWLTON (KT) — A trip to Three Rivers for Knowlton Golden Age Club members was enjoyed on June 27. A chartered bus pulled away from the Legion Hall parking lot promptly at 9 a.m. with every seat occupied. After a stop over this side of their destination for luncheon, they arrived at dockside in Three Rivers at 12:30 p.m. and the group of 44 spent the next hour "doing their own thing", either shopping or looking around.

Some found the historic St. James Church, the oldest Anglican church in Canada which was built by the Roman Catholic Recollets Fathers in 1670 and the nearby Ursuline Convent which was built nearly two years after the first convent, established in 1697 burnt down in 1752. The Recollets gave up their monastery to the Sisters and went to live in another part of town during that period. A walk along the "promenade" was also of interest.

Boarding the M-S Jacques-Cartier just before 2 p.m. a most pleasant 2½ hours was spent cruising up and down the St. Lawrence River in company with four other chartered bus groups aboard. Of special interest was passing under the impressive Laviolette Bridge spanning the river and the various vessels at dockside, among which were several from Panama and a large boat from Thunder Bay. An informative commentary was given in French and English. Some passengers engaged in a game of "musical chairs" in one part of the ship and there was some group singing (Grayson Cousens was part of that group!) in another.

Disembarking just before 5 p.m. they headed for home, stopping on the way for supper this side of Drummondville at a Le Voyageur Restaurant. The two young people on duty coped excellently with the sudden surge of unexpected customers and are to be commended for their handling of the situation.

From this point on, heavy rain and thunder was experienced until reaching Knowlton a little before 9 p.m. The expertise of "Maurice" at the wheel removed any qualms the weather conditions might have brought. His pleasant courtesy always adds much to these outings.

UCW meeting

AYER'S CLIFF — The members of the United Church Women were entertained for the June meeting at the home of Mrs. Galen Young in Massawippi with Mrs. Maurice Dezan assisting hostess. Fourteen members and seven visitors were present.

The meeting was conducted by the President, Mrs. Dezan, who welcomed everyone and opened the session with the repetition of the Function and Purpose. For the devotional period she played a tape by Barry Moore entitled, "The Foolish Cross" and she closed the devotions with her own prayer.

She then introduced Alfred Keeler who gave a very comprehensive presentation of the situation regarding Pinecroft, Magog area Senior Citizens' Home, telling all just how the project stands at the present time. He also answered several questions.

The routine business was handled. Plans for the food sale that was held June 23rd were finalized and the quilt blocks were discussed briefly.

At this point three young girls from the Ayer's Cliff Elementary School arrived. They had been invited by Mrs. Pierce to give their speeches that they had prepared for the Public Speaking Contest at school.

Claudine Benoit spoke on Bees; Diane Doucet told all about the big brown bears of Alaska and Helen MacKinnon spoke on her trip to Ireland last summer. Everyone enjoyed these young speakers who were introduced and thanked by Mrs. Pierce.

Business resumed following this pleasant entertainment. The new treasurer, Mrs. R. Clough gave a full audited report of the finances at present. Mrs. Opol Smith turned in $167.50 from the sale of Anniversary plates.

Correspondence consisted of a thank you note from Elizabeth Cooper for our donation to the student exchange trip to Port aux Basques this summer and a letter from our foster child Elizabeth Tiam of the Phillipines. Mrs. Pierce agreed to write a letter this month and Mrs. Young's granddaughter Patty will be asked to write in July or August.

Plans, committees and price for the Smorgasbord to be held August 12 were discussed at some length.

Members are reminded that there are to be sale tables of miscellaneous articles, food and mystery parcels. The men will be asked to assist with kitchen duties and the dishes.

The next meeting will be Sept. 20 with Mrs. A. de St. Croix as hostess.

At the close of the lengthy business session, the hostesses served delicious breads, squares and cheese assisted by Mrs. Claire Shipway. All enjoyed the outing to Massawippi and the delightful surroundings of Mrs. Young's lovely home.

HOLIDAY CUISINE

Round of beef is very good when cooked over charcoal. It isn't always necessary to buy the most expensive cuts of beef for your barbeque. A marinade will help tenderize less tender cuts of beef.

A good minimum thickness for charcoaled steaks is 1" thick, although 1½" and 2" are even better.

Here are a few suggested cooking times for charcoaled steaks:
1" thick — Rare: 5 minutes each side
Medium: 7 minutes each side
Well done: 10 minutes each side
1½" thick — add 2 minutes to above times
2" thick — add 5 minutes to above times

Depending on the cut of meat, you should leave meat in marinade for 2 to 3 hours, or for even up to 2 or 3 days. Marinades can be made with oil, seasonings, wine, lemon juice, vinegar or tomato juice.

Easy Marinade:
½ cup corn oil or soya or sunflower oil + ½ cup lemon juice + ½ tsp salt + ½ tsp pepper + 1 garlic clove, chopped + 1 tblsp chopped parsley or other herbs (tarragon, basil, rosemary, marjoram, etc.) BLEND ALL INGREDIENT VERY WELL!

Dissidents' relatives barred from trial

MOSCOW (AP) — Anatoly Shcharansky's mother and Alexander Ginzburg's wife were barred from courtrooms today on the third day of the dissidents' trials.

In Moscow, the secret session in Shcharansky's spy trial ended at mid-day and his brother, Leonid, was permitted to enter the courtroom. But Shcharansky's 70-year-old mother, Ida, was turned away as she has been every day of the trial.

She said her exclusion from the courtroom was "a sadistic torture, a mockery of a mother."

In Kaluga, 100 miles to the south, Irina Ginzburg was forbidden to attend her husband's trial after she was ejected for outbursts Tuesday.

"They told me, 'we'll see,' nothing more," she said. However, Ginzburg's 70-year-old mother, Ludmila, was permitted to attend.

In Moscow, about 30 uniformed policemen, 15 supporters of the dissidents and a few Western reporters stood outside the courthouse.

OFFERED SUPPORT

Also there to offer support were Boris and Natalia Katz and their baby Jessica, whose problems digesting food have drawn offers of help from United States hospitals but irritation from the Soviets, who say they can cure her and refuse to let her leave.

About 100 supporters stood with Ginzburg's wife outside the courthouse in Kaluga.

One of them was the wife of Yuri Orlov, whose sentencing May 18 to seven years in a labor camp plus five years banishment from Moscow was the first in the current round of dissident trials.

Shcharansky, 30, faces the death penalty on a charge of spying for the U.S. He is accused of passing military secrets to Los Angeles Times reporter Robert Toth, who has denied the allegation.

Ginzburg, 41, is charged with anti-Soviet activities for his distribution of dissident literature and his management of exiled novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn's fund to aid the families of political prisoners. It would be his third conviction and he could get 15 years of imprisonment and Siberia exile.

"...LIKE A GIANT FLAME THROWER"

TARRAGONA, Spain (AP) — "It was like a giant flame thrower," said a French woman who survived when a runaway tank truck loaded with propylene gas exploded in a campsite on Spain's northeast coast and killed between 119 and 125 persons, police reported.

More than 200 other campers were in hospital with burns. Many were reported in critical condition.

Most of the 500 to 600 vacationers registered at the camp on the Costa Brava 80 kilometres south of Barcelona were from other West European countries. Many of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, and identification was difficult.

The campsite "resembles hell or what we think hell is like," said one policeman working amid the charred remains of automobiles, trailers, campers and tents.

The permanent campsite is one of a score along the popular Costa Brava. The lunch-hour explosion blackened more than 160 acres and was heard four kilometres away.

CONFUSED OVER TOLL

Earlier reports put the death toll at near 200. Officials blamed the higher estimate on "great confusion."

Vincente Mirabet, the head of a burn treatment unit at a Valencia hospital, said 40 victims were admitted there and most were in critical condition.

"I don't think many will survive," he said.

Police at noon put the death toll at 119 and said half a dozen persons were missing.

Police said the 38-ton singletrailer truck was loaded with 43 cubic metres of gas when it left the highway while rounding a curve, crashed through a stone fence and exploded.

Witnesses said the truck was going about 65 kilometres an hour when the driver lost control.

The blast set off a chain of explosions as campers' bottled cooking gas blew up. No trace of the Spanish driver was found.

News Briefs

Soviet recce flights photographed

HALIFAX (CP) — The Canadian Armed Forces on Tuesday released close up photos of two Soviet military TU-95 maritime reconnaissance aircraft intercepted June 24 by two Canadian forces CF-101 aircraft off the coast of Newfoundland.

The intercept by the Canadian Voodoos of 416 "Lynx" Squadron, from Chatham, N.B., was made about 270 kilometres off Newfoundland. It came after the Soviet planes had been detected by radar along approaches to the North American continent.

In one photo a Soviet crewman is clearly visible through one of the aircraft's windows giving what appears to be a thumbs-up sign to the Canadian interceptors.

Danson: Airborne to remain

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Barney Danson moved Tuesday to defuse a growing controversy over the future of the elite Canadian Airborne Regiment, saying there are no plans to disband or to relocate the 1,000-member unit.

Danson also told a news conference he hopes recent remarks attributed to Col. Jacques Painchaud, commander of the Petawawa-based paratroop regiment, that Danson should resign are all a mistake.

However, Danson made it clear "appropriate action" will be taken against Painchaud if statements attributed to him are found to be accurate.

Tory raps Loto-Canada giveaway

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Paul Dick (Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton) said Tuesday he fears the last chapter of the Loto Canada story has been written with Canadians still unaware the federal government is exporting potential jobs.

He called for a formal commitment from the government that the federal lottery corporation do all its future buying in Canada.

Rhodesian guerrillas kill three

SALISBURY (AP) — Black guerrillas attacked a military-escorted convoy of 50 vehicles Tuesday, killing three persons and wounding eight.

An armed forces spokesman said most of the cars and buses in the convoy carried white tourists.

Greenpeacers refused to leave

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) — Greenpeace Foundation president Patrick Moore and photographer Rex Weyler refused three requests to leave a fisheries office in St. Anthony, where they were protesting the annual Newfoundland seal hunt, a court was told Tuesday.

CBC scrambles to avert strike

EDMONTON (CP) — CBC technicians have invited the corporation to return to the bargaining table in an effort to avoid a strike during next month's Commonwealth Games.

Bryon Lowe, co-ordinator of network services for the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians, made the announcement Tuesday.

He is optimistic the two sides can reach an agreement before the Games start Aug. 3.

He said technicians would start moving into Edmonton as early as Monday to prepare for the Games.

Singles abortion rate soars

OTTAWA (CP) — Hospitals under federal and territorial jurisdiction performed 57,620 therapeutic abortions during 1977, more than 60 per cent of them on single women, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

The federal agency said the abortion rate—the number of therapeutic abortions as a percentage of live births—was 16 per cent, up from 14.9 per cent in 1976.

Of the total, all but 56 were performed on Canadian residents.

Incomplete figures for the year also indicate Canadians obtained 2,182 legal abortions in the U.S., two-thirds of them in New York state.

Of the total of 57,131 women who obtained abortions, more than 60 per cent were single, 29 per cent were married and the rest were separated, divorced, widowed or living with a man.

Bolivia's junta tactics rapped

LA PAZ (Reuter) — A team of international observers accused Bolivia's military rulers Tuesday of using widespread fraud and intimidation in support of their candidate in Sunday's general elections.

Levesque's language "crude"

OTTAWA (CP) — After accusing some Parti Quebecois workers of being fascist and militaristic, Marc Lalonde, federal-provincial relations minister, condemned Quebec Premier Rene Levesque Tuesday for using offensive, crude language.

In a speech prepared for a Trois-Rivieres, Que., service club on the federal government's constitutional proposals, Lalonde said:

"Mr. Levesque has a narrowly-defined and very limited way of seeing things and a very personal way of expressing his views, using the crudest, if not the most offensive, adjectives in the French language."

Lalonde, whose job is to create harmony between Ottawa and the provinces, said it is up to individual Quebecers, "faced with the uncompromising, stubborn attitude of their government," to work towards renewal of Confederation.

However, Lalonde said Levesque and his government are less radical than some of the Parti Quebecois workers, whom he said use militaristic words when discussing what Quebec must do to become independent.

"It would be extreme to attribute to the Parti Quebecois government the paternity of fascist trends of several of its militants."

Hotel collapse kills four

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — Searchers recovered three bodies after the four-storey Denver Hotel collapsed during preparation for demolition and buried a work crew in bricks and concrete. A fourth man was missing.

After working through the night, exhausted workers early today called a halt in their search for the missing man. The search was to resume today.

Three bodies were taken from the ruins Tuesday evening, including that of Weldon Johnston, owner of Johnston's Used Building Materials and Demolition, which was preparing to bulldoze the building.

Federal nurses walk out

OTTAWA (CP) — The contract dispute between the federal government and 1,900 nurses warmed up Tuesday when most of the nurses abandoned their posts across Canada.

About 60 per cent of the nurses are in a legal strike position and union negotiators asked them to stop work to back contract demands. The others, designated by the government as essential employees, remained on duty.

The union, the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, said it called the strike following "a complete breakdown of negotiations."

River turned green — and died

SAINT ANSELME, Que. (CP) — The Etchemin River, which flows past this community 25 kilometres south of Quebec City, has turned green.

Scientists from the province's environment protection service are trying to discover the cause, which has led to thousands of fish dying.

Alberta storm cleanup continues

EDMONTON (CP) — While residents in north-central Alberta began cleaning up in the wake of Tuesday's mammoth rain storm, Saskatchewan braced itself for a similar onslaught today as the storm front moved eastward.

An 18-hour drenching dumped 90 millimetres of rain, equal to the average downfall for the entire month of July, on this city of 500,000, forcing municipal officials to declare a state of civic emergency.

Garneau breaks leg

QUEBEC (CP) — Raymond Garneau, who last April ran unsuccesfully against Claude Ryan for the leadership of the Quebec Liberal party, has broken his leg.

Ryan told reporters Tuesday he learned of the accident last week, shortly before the two were to have met for a game of golf.

Court pulls plug on tot

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Supreme Court refused Tuesday to block a lower court order allowing a hospital to disconnect a respirator which had maintained a heartbeat in a four-year-old child described by doctors as "brain dead."

After the ruling, officials at Children's Hospital unplugged life support mechanisms on the body of Stacey Ellison. All bodily functions stopped and the body was removed and delivered to the coroner for an autopsy.

The child's mother, Denise Ellison, 24, has been charged with aggravated assault and third-degree murder. She is undergoing a mental evaluation before trial Aug. 14.

Woman expecting test-tube baby

LONDON (AP) — A British woman is expected to give birth by caesarian section within two or three weeks to what experts believe will be the world's first test-tube baby, her gynecologist said Tuesday.

The woman was referred to by the doctor only as Mrs. A, but The Daily Mail identified her as Lesley Brown, 32, of Bristol, the wife of Gilbert John Brown, 38, an employee of British Rail.

The newspaper said the baby is to be born about eight months after the implant.

The woman's pregnancy was brought about after nine years of marriage. A defect in fallopian tubes had prevented her from conceiving.

China cuts Albanian ties

PEKING (Reuter) — China has cut all economic and technical aid to Albania, once its closest ally, following attacks by the Albanian leadership on Chinese policies, diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the decision.

The diplomatic sources said Peking told the Tirana government in a note dated Friday that it was cutting off its economic and technical aid.

formed by the Quebec government that they will no longer have access to Quebec death certificates. The team circumvented this legal obstacle by hiring more staff to trace the families involved and getting permission to obtain the certificates.

Dr. William Nicholson of the Environmental Sciences Laboratory of New York's Mount Sinai School of Medicine said in a recent interview that such a policy could short-circuit any independent mortality study in the future as well as it brings to a halt any significant study of workers' health in Quebec.

It was pointed out to the minister that the government study included 18-year-olds and recently-hired employees while the American study included those unable to come to work due to sickness, retirees, ex-workers who have cancer and those who changed jobs at the first sign of a cough or chest pain.

The minister said the American study had not taken into consideration all of the technological improvements in force in the industry over the past few years which would eliminate many of the possibilities of the cause of asbestos-related disease and therefore it was unnecessary to survey that wide a gamut of asbestos workers. Although asbestos-related diseases encompass mesotheliona, asbestosis and cancer, the latter kills far more asbestos workers than asbestosis.

Yesterday's study session was related to socio-economic development in the Eastern Townships, a biggest-ever roads-improvement grant of $30,000,000 from the provincial government. Orford Park is definitely to be expanded, while the sports and recreational potential of the Lac Megantic area is to be explored and tapped. Landry also mentioned the formation of a network of sugaring-off cabins to promote tourism in the area.

Regarding the installation of a federal cartographic centre in Sherbrooke and the ensuing complaints of anyone transferred to Quebec and working having to speak French. Landry reiterated they have six year's grace before having to send their children to school in French while if he and his family moved to Saskatoon, for example, they would not have the choice at all.

Massawippi roundup

NORTH HATLEY (BP) — The Legion strengthened their hold on first place in the Massawippi Valley Softball League with an 8-2 victory over ANAF here last night in one of four games. Huntingville, Johnville and Ayer's Cliff Blues were also winners.

Legion took a 4-0 lead and built it up to 7-1 after two innings as Jack Brunn struck out 10 and limited ANAF to five hits for his eighth win of the season. Bob Lamey smashed the ball way out of the park for two runs in the second inning while Doug Chute also went two for three, getting a home run.

Huntingville went ahead for good in the game in the third inning, breaking a 5-5 deadlock as they downed Waterville Golf 9-7. Dean St. Onge had three hits, including a triple and a double, while scoring three runs himself. Ken Robichaud and Al Bradley both had two hits. J.C. Houle, Bruce Neil and John Barter brought in two runs each for Waterville.

Deauville was slowly but methodically thrashed 33-0 by Johnville for their 12th loss of the year. Ray Matheson had four hits, including a home run, and four RBIs, while Jack Ellyson had three hits and seven RBIs, Claude Quirion got three hits and six RBIs and Paul Ruel brought home seven runners.

The Blues had no less than a seven-run lead throughout the game but needed it as the North Hatley Coffee Mill made a seven-run outburst in the seventh inning in a 22-17 losing cause. Henry Rathier belted a grand slam homer and had six RBIs in the game and Bob Fisher got a triple, a double and a single for two RBIs. Doug Wing had three Ayer's Cliff hits. Tim Bradley made three hits for three RBIs as Brian Derby, John Haller and John McLeod each got a pair of hits for the Coffee Mill.

Games Monday night saw Golden Lion Pub thump Bill's Country Kitchen 24-4, Ayer's Cliff Reds slip by Huntingville 6-5 and Johnville down Compton 11-6.

Little League results

SHERBROOKE — The Yankees picked up their seventh win of the season last night with an 8-5 victory over the Expos in Sher-Lenn Little League play. The Twins downed the Elks 9-3 in Sher-Mont action.

Robin Badger struck out 12 and pitched a four-hitter as she went on to win the game for the Yankees. Brian Young brought home two runs with a double and Simon Lessard knocked a triple and a double for the winners. Losing pitcher Daniel Aube gave up seven hits but struck out seven while getting a two RBI double for his Expos.

Francois Turcotte was tagged for 11 walks and eight hits but still hung on for the Twins victory. Serge Mathieu smacked a homer and a single for two RBIs and Eric Bindo brought in a run on two singles. Stephane Boule got two singles for the Elks, while also handling the throwing duties, giving up six hits and walks while striking out seven.

Two games are on tap at the Parade Grounds tonight at 6 p.m.

Rangers sign defenceman

DETROIT (AP) — Dean Turner, University of Michigan hockey star, passed up his last two years of college eligibility and signed a three-year, $250,000 contract with New York Rangers.

Turner, a hard-hitting, 20-year-old defenceman, said Tuesday he had planned on playing in the 1980 Winter Olympics, until he saw the terms of the Rangers' latest offer.

Swim team wins in Germany

DARNSTADT, West Germany (CP) — Canada won the team championship at the annual Youth Festival international swimming competition.

The Canadian team won 16 individual gold medals and picked up a silver medal in a relay race at the competition which ended Monday. The team finished with 583 points. Runner-up Israel scored 240 and third-place Switzerland had 211.

Michele Coulombe, 13, of Montreal, led the Canadians with eight individual gold medals and was named the meet's most outstanding competitor.

Balloonists decline challenge

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Citing what they term historical and distance reasons, a team of British balloonists has declined an American challenge to race across the Atlantic ocean in balloons.

A British team spokesman here, Alan Noble, said a group in Boston has issued the challenge but it has been turned down. He did not name the Boston group.

The other factor is time. The British team wants to leave today on the trip already tried by 17 balloonists, all of whom have failed.

However, Christopher Davey and Don Cameron, the British balloonists, said Tuesday they will meet at 3 p.m. local time today and if all the signs are right, including meteorological reports, they will head out over the Atlantic.

Major league to meet in Canada

SAN DIEGO (AP) — For the first time, major league baseball's winter meetings will be held in Canada next year, the National Association of Professional Baseball announced Tuesday.

John Moss, chairman of the site selection committee, said meetings will be held at Orlando, Fla., this year, at Toronto in 1979, Dallas in 1980 and Miami in 1981.

Moss also said a delegation will travel to Vancouver next month to check that city's qualifications for 1982.

Vancouver returned to the Pacific Coast League this season. It is the proposed site for a domed, downtown stadium within five years.

Garvey named MVP in all-star action

SAN DIEGO (AP) — National League supremacy in the annual all-star baseball game has reached such a high point that relief pitcher Bruce Sutter could comment, "We were three runs behind and that made the game even."

He and the rest of the NL squad, including Steve Garvey, the most valuable player in Tuesday night's 7-3 victory over the American League, felt confident the big guns would start booming.

Garvey drove in two of the National's three runs in the third, knotting the count 3-3, and the Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman tripled in the eighth to spark a four-run outburst.

The right-hander with the blacksmith arms earned his second MVP award, the first coming in 1974 when he won his starting job because of write-in votes. No other player has twice won the honor that was started in 1970.

So the National League now has won seven in a row, 15 out of 16 and 20 of the last 22 in the mid-summer competition.

"I thought it was gone," said Garvey of his eighth-inning triple that banged against the right field fence about five feet from the top.

BEGINNING OF END

That was the beginning of the end for hard-throwing Rich Gossage of New York Yankees, the reliever who took the loss.

Garvey scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch and the NL hit safely three more times before the inning was over.

Said winning manager Tommy Lasorda of the Dodgers: "We never had a doubt when we were three runs behind. Everyone felt we were going to win. And I didn't want to be the manager who lost to the American League."

The AL jumped into a two-run lead in the first inning before a crowd of 51,549 in San Diego Stadium. Rod Carew, the majors' leading batter, blasted a leadoff triple off Vida Blue. He did it again in the third, scoring each time and becoming the only player in the 49-game history of the event to have two triples in a single game.

And Blue failed to become the only hurler to win in each league as it was 3-3 when he left.

The San Francisco southpaw was followed in order by Steve Rogers of Montreal, Rollie Fingers of San Diego, Sutter of Chicago Cubs—who wound up the winner—and Atlanta's Phil Niekro, who pitched to the final batter.

HAS NO ANSWER

Baltimore veteran Jim Palmer started for the AL and shut out the Nationals through two innings before running into trouble in the third.

Billy Martin of the Yankees, the losing all-star manager for the second straight year, had no explanation for the NL domination.

Lions blast Bombers

British Columbia Lions appear to have found the legs to compliment the arm of quarterback Jerry Tagge.

The legs belong to Canadian Football League rookie running back Larry Key.

Key's legs carried him into the end zone three times Tuesday against Winnipeg as the Lions put it to the Blue Bombers 30-14 at Empire Stadium.

The Florida State rookie ran for 184 yards on 18 carries and brought the crowd of 25,808 to its feet nearly every time he was given the ball.

His touchdown gallops came on runs of 11, eight and 42 yards as he became the first Lion back to gain over 100 yards in a game in two years.

While the crowd in Vancouver was on its feet for Key, the 25,319 patrons at Landsowne Park in Ottawa were on the edge of their seats as the Rough Riders knocked off Montreal Alouettes 17-10.

A text-book game it wasn't as a total of 12 turnovers were registered—each club coughing up the ball six times.

The victory was the Rough Riders first in the last nine meetings with Alouettes stretching back to 1976.

B.C. coach Vic Rapp lauded the performance of his offence, particularly the output by Key.

A MODEST MAN

"We thought Larry could play off his college credentials and certainly tonight he gives us great hope for the future."

Key, a five-foot-nine, 185-pounder, was modest about his accomplishment after the game and gave credit to his offensive line.

"I don't think everyone should expect this kind of game out of me all the time," he said. "It's just one good game and we'll have to wait until next week to see what happens."

Tagge did not leave it all up to Key. He hit on 16 of 26 passes for 220 yards.

Heavily criticized after a 46-1 loss to Edmonton Eskimos in their final pre-season game, the B.C. defence harassed Winnipeg's quarterbacks Ralph Brock and Harry Knight throughout the game.

WHA: Bulls decision pending

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — There are indications that Birmingham Bulls will remain in the World Hockey Association next season.

Owner John Bassett, who met with his 32 limited partners Tuesday night, was to reveal his decision at a 10 a.m. news conference today.

After the meeting, Bassett said the partners decided that Birmingham is a major league city and will not accept minor league hockey.

Bassett had said that if the Bulls dropped out of the WHA, he would join the Central Hockey League.

He has until 5 p.m. today to notify the WHA and CHL of his intentions.

Meanwhile, there were reports that Bassett was considering merging the Bulls with Indianapolis Racers.

MERGER CLOSE

Don Lerose, Racers executive vice president, said Tuesday that the merger, aimed at making the Racers a contender, was very close. The new team would be based in Indianapolis.

Bassett commented, "I don't relish the thought of having invested all the money I have on operating in the WHA and not have a say in their future. Merging my interests may very well be in the best interests of my partners in Birmingham and Toronto."

On another matter, Bassett has joined with Birmingham businessman A. E. Burgess in trying to secure a National Football League franchise for Birmingham.

Bassett said Alabama Hockey Inc. is changing its name to Alabama Pro Sports Inc. The organization, he said, would be the nerve centre for the hockey club and the quest for an NFL franchise.

Bassett owned Memphis Southmen of the defunct World Football League. Burgess was the main financier of Birmingham Americans in the WFL.

MEAT ALTERNATES — NOT EXACTLY STEAK, BUT...

Although meat may be a popular part of your family's meal pattern, there is a wide choice of alternates of both animal and vegetal origin, including poultry, cheese, fish and dried legumes.
Dried legumes, such as peas, beans and lentils, are particularly flavourful, versatile and inexpensive meat alternates. There are dozens of varieties of dried legumes each with its own distinctive appearance and flavour. Outstanding among the legumes is the soy bean which contains a higher proportion of protein than other dried beans and peas.
The trick for getting the most out of vegetable proteins is to combine a plant food low in one kind of amino acid with a food that compensate for the deficiency. As a general rule: combine grains with legumes, seeds or nuts with legumes, or any plant food with a high quality animal protein. But make sure the combinations are eaten at the same meal. Good combinations include: macaroni and cheese, whole grain cereals with milk, baked beans and bread, beans and rice, or casseroles in which one or more animal proteins are combined with beans, pasta or rice.

Once upon the hill...

West Brome church resurrected as concert hall

Story by Inge von Glasow
Photos by Kendall Lougheed

The "little church upon the hill" in West Brome has opened its doors again to welcome people, but the services performed now are not the usual gathering of the congregation for Sunday sermon, but an invitation to witness God's glory through the sound of music.

After many years of desolation and decay the West Brome United Church building found its resurrection on June 11, 1978, as an auditorium, where a baroque concert was given by the Dornal Ensemble of Montreal.

The concert was an unexpected treat for many area residents, and 60 guests gave the ensemble a standing ovation after their performance.

Carol Millar, soprano, Richard Hague, baritone, Robert van Wyck, flute, Robert Bousquet, oboe, Elsie Lougheed, spinet and Constance Pathy, viola da gamba, offered works by Purcell, Quantz, Telemann, Bach, Loeillet, and Helyhutchinson.

Miss Millar and Mr. Hague are members of the Tudor Singers and their well-trained voices blended harmoniously with the presentation of the musicians. Most members of the Dornal Ensemble are professional music teachers, and usually perform at CEGEPs and universities.

The organizer of the concert was Mrs. Constance Pathy. She is a devoted musician and a graduate of the McGill Faculty of Music, where she obtained her performance degree for cello.

For Mrs. Pathy it was a dream come true when she was able to purchase the vacant church. "I came to this area when my husband bought a farm here," she said. After friends told her about the little church she proceeded immediately with inquiries, because she realized the possibilities of the building.

As soon as the purchase offer was accepted, Mrs. Pathy began to plan on paper. Eventually the restoration started, and the old church had a future again.

She will present another free concert in August. "I decided on medieval music this time and hope that the audience will enjoy it as well."

She was pleased about the response to her first invitation. "We usually play for the enjoyment of the musicians, and of course an audience," she admits. Mrs. Pathy hopes that she can present two more concerts before Christmas," but I just have to wait and see."

This project was accomplished through Constance Pathy's own initiation and fiances, and it is her wish to be able to continue with it in the years to come.

The "little church" was built in 1857 by members and friends of the New Connection Methodist Society, and has played an important role in the community for more than 106 years. Presumably the last service was held in 1963 after which the doors were closed; the little church had outlived its congregation.

It would seem that the members and friends of the New Connection Methodist Society of 1857 would be delighted about the new role their church has in 1978; surely just as much as area residents, who can witness it now.

The Dornal Ensemble photo at left gave a Baroque concert to mark the reopening of the West Brome United Church as an auditorium on June 11.

Space saga 'fears' unfounded

Reviews by Katharine Snow

A HOUSE IN SPACE, By Henry S.F. Cooper, Bantam Books Inc., 183 Pages - $1.95 (PB).
THE HIGH FRONTIER, By Gerald K. O'Neill, Bantam Books Inc., 326 Pages - $2.75 (PB).

When first confronted with these books on space, I groaned and very gingerly picked up the smaller of the two.

My apprehensions, however, were quite unfounded. The book was easy to read, interesting, filled with recent scientific information concisely presented, and it gave a most unusual insight into the characters of the astronauts who, at three separate times, lived aboard the spacecraft, Skylab.

As well as dealing with the temperaments of the involved astronauts, one learns about the type of clothing they wore, how they slept and what they ate, the arduous routine followed each day, the exercises essential to their well-being, and the recreations they enjoyed. Particularly interesting were the shoes they wore. The soles were aluminim coated with rubber to which the astronauts could fasten one of two different varieties of cleats. The floor in many parts of the spacecraft was made of triangular metal grids and without the cleats which the astronauts could fit into the grids, they would have been forever floating away.

As interesting as all their observations and scientific data are, it is the intimate, personal glimpses of the men themselves that most fascinates the reader. Each one reacted differently to the new environment and to the duties involved. Even Conrad, the commander of the first crew, a man "the stuff of which astronautical legends are made," remarked as he neared the end of his mission that Skylab was a nice place to visit, but he was not sure about living there!

The men of the first and second crews adapted to the routine and the confines of the spacecraft far better than those of the third and final crew. These latter were impatient, annoyed at the inconveniences and the confinement imposed by the spacecraft and were openly rebellious about carrying out the rigorous schedules given them daily from the base at Houston.

It is a book for our times. The author, a staff writer for The New Yorker, has specialized in covering the NASA space missions. There are fifty-four NASA photographs. Mr. Cooper has put the Skylab experiments together in a style that is interesting, informative, humorous, and that acquaints us quite painlessly with pertinent and important facts with which we should have at least some familiarity if not an intimacy.

Heartened by my enjoyment of the first book, I tackled the longer one, "The High Frontier". Again, a wonderful surprise! THis is a book of serious intent, but it unfolds as a tale from Arabian Nights. It sets forth the vision of a futuristic paradise on Islands in space, self-sufficient colonies hovering between the earth and the moon.

Gerald K. O'Neill is recognized as the world's leading authority on space colonies. He feels that it is not premature to envision life in a pollution free, climate controlled, solar heated, lushly vegetated space colony as early as the 1900s.

He first presents a bleak picture of our immediate situation in the world. He deplores the overpopulation, pollution, famines, inflation, disasters from floods, tornados, electrical storms, wars, and our alarming shortage of energy.

In contrast to this somber state of affairs, he invites us to a colony in space where energy and power will be low cost and inexhaustible; where the world there will be solar heated, the amount of sunlight for a day-night cycle or for crop growing will be determined at will simpiy by admitting and shutting out sunlight in the measures we desire. Mineral rich soil brought from the moon will have no weeds. There will be no destructive insects, no mosquitoes either! We will transfer from earth only the species that we wish to have, these brought up to the colony in a Noah's Ark fashion, two by two.

Sunlight will enter at a selected time and be slanted by reflecting mirrors at a selected angle. The view of the blue sky will be more artful than natural.

Our health will improve and our life span lengthened. The risk of accidental death will be lowered. The elderly and the victims of cardiovascular diseases can simply move to low gravity areas where they will be able to move about freely and take non-tiring exercise.

It requires a bit of imagination to visualize these habitats in space. They are all to be formed in variations of a basic sphere, cylinder or ring shape, suspended in space, maintaining gravity by rotation. I felt some worry about a water supply but the author deals with this reassuringly. Hydrogen will be brought from earth and combined with eight times its weight in lunar oxygen. Once established, the water will be continuously recycled.

Professor O'Neill makes it all sound believable. Even the skeptics will be forced to have second thoughts. He tells us that within the next two decades thousands of people now alive will be able to choose whether or not they would enjoy living and working in this new type of world.

A selection of people will be made to try out for this form of living. If one survives the three-week trial period in orbit without too much space sickness, he may then transfer to a "liner" travelling out to dock on one of the established colonies.

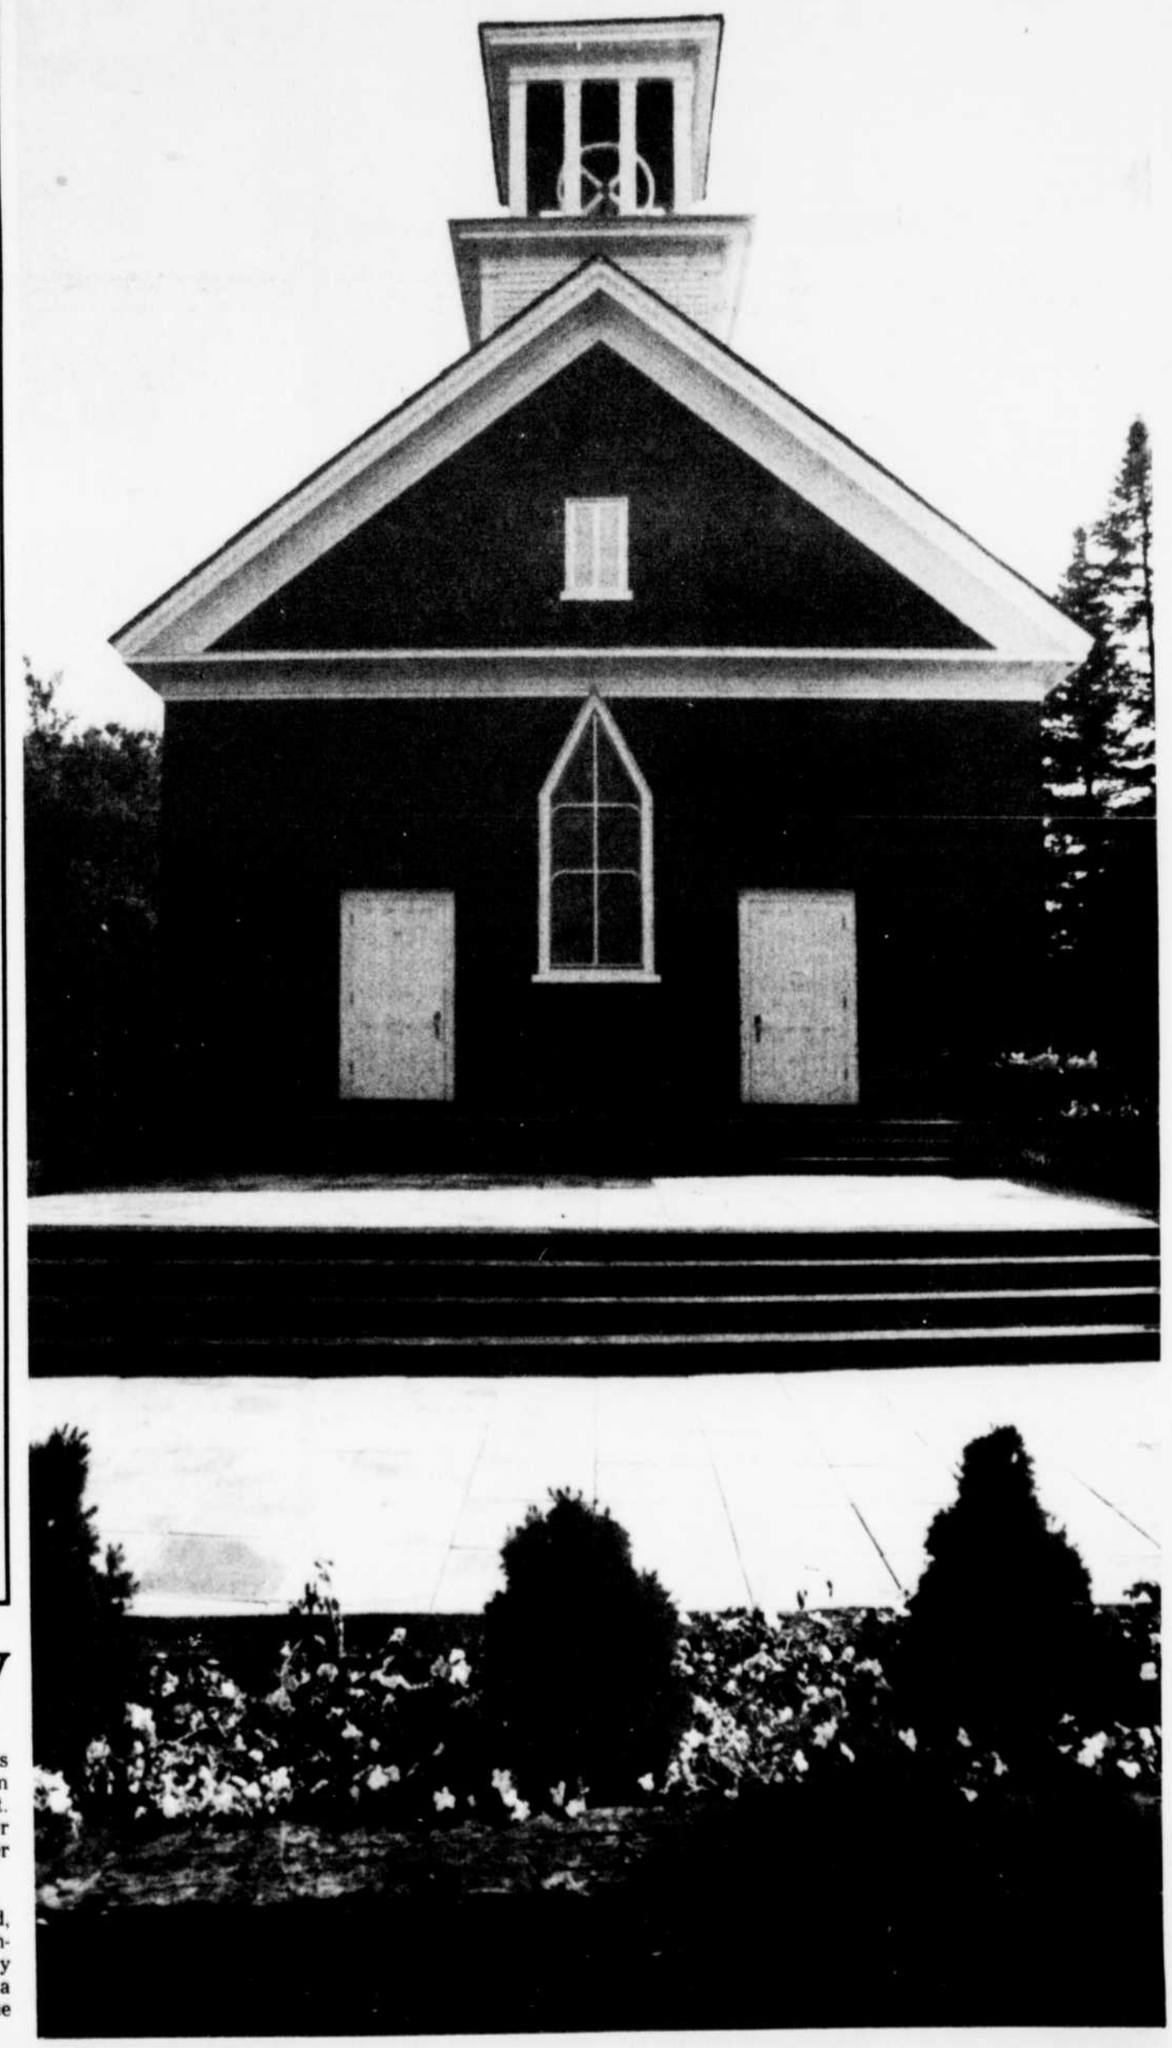
Each colony is to have its own farm area and residential district. As I understand it, the industrial areas will be some distance apart. There will be low-rise terraced apartments, each with its own garden and sunshine in every window, shopping complexes, restaurants, theaters, parks and swimming pools.

Solar satellite stations will be assembled in space near the communities to supply energy for the earth. One colony may feature a Hawaiian type climate year round while another may opt for a Maine climate. Thus, it will be possible for one to leave the luxurious warmth of one colony, travel inexpensively and briefly to the next one to enjoy an afternoon of skiing! Fresh fruit and vegetables will be always in season because of the agricultural cylinders for each month, each having its own day length.

Transportation will be inexpensive and will be provided by accelerating an engine vehicle to a high cruising speed by an electric motor at one community and then slowing it to a halt by an arresting cable at the other end.

This is an extremely difficult book to review with any brevity. There is so much to tell! There are chapters devoted to methods of transporting necessary materials from the earth to space for the assembling of the colonies. One section deals with satellite power without which, Professor O'Neill states, private capital will have to spend about $800 billion on nuclear and coal plants in the next twenty-five years. He sees very little hope for the future of our world unless this move to space colonies is instigated and carried out.

The book is skillfully illustrated by Donald Davis and must be read to be appreciated. To merely hear about it might cause one to dismiss it as sheer nonsense. The Professor and his prestigious colleagues are completely serious and are issuing a warning. Whether you are the adventurous type who might enjoy living in a rotating steel shell or whether you are of the breed that might suffer the WAIDH syndrome (What Am I Doing Here?) I recommend the reading of this timely and totally fascinating book.



Sherbrooke poet makes anthology

SHERBROOKE (PT) — Diane Boudreau, a Sherbrooke poet and song writer, will have her work published in 'Great Contemporary Poems' the anthology of California editor Eddie-Lou Cole in August.

For Boudreau, 21, who will translate the work from French to English herself, this publication is another stepping stone to having her work known outside Quebec. A number of her poems and articles have been published in Quebec magazines such as Poesie, Encracinement, and Canton s'met a faire de la poesie. To this list she adds three published collections of her works.

Ms. Boudreau completed her education in Sherbrooke, graduating from Universite de Sherbrooke this year with a major in literature. She has been a substitute teacher in area elementary and high schools and worked as a secretary for the Municipal Library during 1974. Her experience also took her through a year with the student press at the Sherbrooke CEGEP.

Many conferences and organizations have invited Boudreau to address them and give poetry readings. The local St. Jean Baptiste Society, as well as other groups have seen fit to honor her for her work.

Ms. Boudreau still has, unpublished, a collection of poems and a novel entitled Blanche et Francois. An essay about freedom and life in Quebec and a fourth collection of poems are in the preparation stages.

Our congratulations go out to Miss Wendy Cox, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cox of the Keough Range, who had outstanding success in her final year at St. Patrick's School in Thetford Mines. Wendy was not only a member of the group from that school which won the Provincial championship, as a team, in written tests in mathematics, but she also captured third place, individually, in the same contest in competition with 500 pupils from ten other schools in the Province — well done, Wendy. This young lady has enrolled as a grade seven student for the coming term in the Andrew Johnston Memorial School where we are certain that she will add further laurels to her name.

Mrs. Ann Little, and daughter, Lauralie of Lennoxville, were weekend guests at the Allan Little and Forrest Wright homes.

They plan to do considerable sightseeing in the Maritimes, after which they will proceed home through the United States. It will be recalled that Mr. Leggatt served for a time as a student minister in St. Andrew's Church where he made many friends. Due to illness, he was obliged to give up his studies and is now employed in the main post office in Oakville.

Mr. Robert Foy of Lachine was a caller at the Little home.

We are pleased, indeed, to report that the health of Mr. Willie Breton is improving steadily at his home here following a forty-four day sojourn in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Arthabaska. Keep right on that one-way street, Willie.

The annual July church parade was held on Sunday, July 2nd, to St. Andrew's Church with some fifty members of the Order in attendance — some of whom were not actually in the parade because of the long walk from the hall to the church. A splendid sermon was heard from Mr. Young, who also delighted the large congregation with his rendition of a solo accompanied by Mrs. Young on the organ. Following the return of the parade to the hall, the ladies of Orange Lily Lodge No. 1041, of the L.O.B.A., served an impromptu lunch. Many complimentary remarks were heard from the visitors concerning the appearance of the interior and exterior of the hall.

Loudoun Youth Band: From Scotland with love

By KAY TAYLOR

KNOWLTON — Drying their tears, Knowlton waved goodbye as the 14 chaperones and 33 members of the Loudoun Youth Band from Scotland headed for Cranston, Rhode Island on the second leg of their Canadian-American tour.

The band — composed of students 11 to 18 years old — has won international acclaim in the few years they have been playing. While they were in Knowlton, the youth band performed for audiences at the Knowlton United Church and on the grounds of the local academy. A concert scheduled for Saturday's July 1st celebrations had to be cancelled because the group's instruments were late arriving due to a strike in Scotland.

A large crowd gathered for their Sunday evening performance on the academy grounds. The program, which extended long past the scheduled hour, clearly demonstrated the qualities which have won the group international fame.

The Loudoun Youth Band was formed in 1974 from graduates and members of the Loudoun Academy Band. After much negotiation, the band, under the direction of Jack Malpass, was accepted for membership into the Scottish Amateur Band Association.

Although they have only competed in three Scottish Championships, they have represented their country as many times in the National Finals in London. Since they were first invited to compete in Scotland in 1976, the band has gone from being a fourth to a second-section band. During the past two years, the group has collected fourth and third-section titles.

Before the band members left for the States, they presented Mayor Blackwood, Tom Barr and Albert Smith with tokens of appreciation from their burough. Blackwood, in return, gave the group a Canadian flag for their Burough Council Room.

While in the United States, the Loudoun Youth Band will pay a return visit to members of the Cranston High School youth band. They returned to Scotland on July 14.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

When a person is young and the heart is gay
He can be slighted and ignored and it soon goes away
But as we get older and we get more sincere
Those things really hurt, they cut like a spear

The ones who will hurt us, we'd never expect
That's why when it happens it has more effect
We're put on this earth to suffer such pain
But some think it's funny and make it a game

Maybe some day as they come near their end
They'll remember the ones on whom they could always depend
But then it's too late cause they've gone on ahead
And we can't make amends; not after they're dead.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

This hand was an important one. It was played in a Boston regional and upon its result hinged the prestigious knockout championship. It was as simple as this: If East-West defeated five spades doubled by two tricks, they would win the tournament by two IMPs. If they defeated it by only one trick, they would lose by three IMPs.

Of course, every partnership should try to score the maximum on every hand. Mercy or carelessness have no place in bridge. The diagrammed hand dramatically depicts a determined defense that plucks declarer clean.

North's bidding is high but, in fact, he was right to bid five spades as a sacrifice. East-West are lay down for five clubs.

East made a key play at trick one to set the stage for what was to follow. He dropped the jack of clubs under his partner's king. This suit preference signaled West to switch to the highest of the unbid suits — hearts. It turned out to be a real winner.

West dutifully switched to the heart 10, which was covered by the jack, king and ace. Declarer played a trump to dummy's jack, won by East's ace. East returned the jack of diamonds which West won with the ace. The contract was already down one.

West realized that East's emphatic suit preference at trick one had to be based on the possession of the singleton king of hearts. With two or more hearts and the king he would not have been in a rush to have the suit played.

West led his remaining heart and East ruffed. Down two!

Gossage paintings displayed in Cowansville

"King of the Mountains" (above) is one of several paintings by Eve Gossage exhibited recently at the Cowansville Art Centre.

COWANSVILLE (KT) — A recent exhibition of paintings by Eve Gossage at the Cowansville Art Centre was well received. The display was open to the public on June 17 and 18 and on the following Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25 showings were arranged for groups during the week on request.

Gossage uses the nom de plume "hu-GO" and her work reflects her individuality. It is strong and technically solid. The clear, strong colours are well integrated and the angles are of particular interest.

A portrait entitled "King of the Mountains" (26" x 36"), depicting an old man seated in a wooden armchair, stole the show. The model was a local man, easily recognized. "Greenhouse" was found unusual with a different approach. It combines deep green, purple and sharp green leaves with splashes of pink flowers and yellow mums in the background.

A still life in blues, sandtones and whites features lovely transparencies and, for many, a pastel, "Winter afternoon," was a particular favorite.

"Decorative Still Life," is almost Mexican in color -- bold stripes, red-purple and green fruit contrast with the gold-dusted background. Another eye-catching canvas, "Spring Yellow" shows yellow tulips on a stark white table.

The Members Exhibition opened at the Cowansville Art Centre on July 5, was also open to the public on Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9 and will be on July 15 and 16. For group showings during the week, call 263-0636.

WMS meets

MELBOURNE — The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church met in the MacIver Hall of the church on June 28.

The devotions were led by Mrs. Agnes Morgan, who chose the hymn, "Oh Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," to open the meeting. Her Scripture reading was taken from the Gospel of St. Matthew, and her Meditation was on the words of Jesus - "Go, Ye-". It stressed the need to go forth, in visitation to the sick, the shut-ins, the lonely; in sharing each other's burdens where possible; in doing these things cheerfully and remembering that we are never alone in our work, that too much "Rest leads to Rust!" After prayer, the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was sung, bringing devotions to a close. Mrs. Dorothy Oakley was asked to lead the devotions in September, when the group resumes meetings, after the holidays.

Mrs. Muriel Stalker, President, opened the business portion of the meeting. Roll Call was answered by six members. Minutes were read and approved, and correspondence read, amongst which was a letter from the Rev. David Craig. This was supposed to have reached Mrs. Joyce McLeod before the Presbyterial Rally on May 27, in Scotstown. Since it had not done so, photostatic copies were sent by Mrs. McLeod to the various groups, to be read at regular meetings. Rev. Craig had sent greetings from Presbytery and had regretted that he was not able to present these in person.

The annual Tea for residents of the Wales Home was held this year in May, and this proved to be a more acceptable time of the year in which to have this outing. It was decided to have the Tea in Spring, in future, rather than in the Fall as had been done previously.

Miss Barbara Dougherty gave her report as Treasurer. A donation had been received and will be deposited in the Expenses account.

Mrs. Margaret Converse and Mrs. Dorothy Oakley had attended the Rally at Scotstown and they gave a report on this. Rev. Ross Davidson had kindly driven several of the W.M.S. members from his own church and also Margaret and Dorothy, the latter two had given the opening devotions and the In Memoriam. Miss Dorothy Dodds, Miss Doris Blaise and Miss Margaret Boyd had been guests, and the entire meeting was most interesting and helpful. An amusing skit was presented by several ladies who had a great variety of reasons why they, or their group, had so little time for W.M.S. work. A delicious casserole lunch had been enjoyed at noon, and tea and cookies served before the members left for their homes. Mrs. Yvette Larochelle had given the Courtesies, and Mrs. Young had led the closing devotions.

Margaret Converse had attended the weekend Retreat and gave a good report on this. It had been decided that a one-day retreat only, will be held in the future, the next one to be on Sept. 8, 1979.

Each member then read a portion from the Glad Tidings on the Caribbean. Next year's study will be on China, and the Study book and map will be ordered.

After the closing prayer, members left for their homes. No meetings will be held until September.

Inspiring church service held

RICHMOND — A summer service was held at St. Paul's Church, Sydenham, on Sunday, June 11, 1978, but this was no ordinary service.

First of all, St. Paul's is a country church, situated two miles from the village of St. Felix de Kingsey. Built in 1840, it has been the scene of many joyous and some sorrowful events.

In 1957, with a dwindling number of parishioners, the church lost its full-time minister. Since that time, St. Paul's has been under the jurisdiction of the rural dean and services have been held only once or twice a year.

The church has always been staunchly supported by several local families, notably the Abercrombies, Mastines, Moores, Taylors and Wrights.

Recently, however, the church has received a boost, in the form of newly-kindled interest from both inside and outside of the community.

Harvest services have been a regular event throughout the years.

In recent years, Mastine, Moore, Taylor and Wingeat children have been baptized in the church. And in July, 1975, the Mastine-Wingeat marriage was the first one to be held in St. Paul's in 24 years.

The June 11th service was inspired by Mr. William W. Evans, student of the ministry in Montreal. Mr. Evans, whose ancestors once lived in this community conducted the service. Rev. W.E. Walker of Richmond officiated at the baptism of Jeffrey John, son of Marilyn (nee Mastine) and John Wingeat.

Rev. Matthews of Drummondville read the lesson. The organist was Mrs. Sharon (Moore) Lake, granddaughter of the late Mrs. William Shaw, former organist of St. Paul's for many years.

The words of Mr. Evans, together with the music by the organist and the occasion of the baptism, encouraged reminiscences of our ancestors and of times gone by.

Everyone left with hopes that other services will be held during the course of the summer and fall.

Feted on birthday

MAGOG — At the home of Mr. and Mrs. F.E. Davidson, Georgeville Rd., Magog, Canada Day and the upcoming birthday of Miss Irene Davidson T.A. was celebrated on July 2, 1978.

After the singing of O Canada and toast made to Canada, the guest of honor was presented with a corsage, as was Mrs. Annie Drummond of Georgeville who had celebrated her 99th birthday on June 15.

Being such a lovely day the party was held on the patio and spacious grounds. The trimmings were carried out in red, white and blue in honor of Canada Day. The party was given by the Davison families.

The guest of honor was presented with a basket of lovely gifts and currency.

After much visiting and picture taking, dinner was served, consisting of Kentucky Fried Chicken, salads, rolls and the traditional birthday cake.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Lavoie, Melbourne, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Tex Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Teatroe, Kimberly and Colin, Mr. Kenneth Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Senectiko, Jeff and Jason, all of Toronto, Mrs. Carol Clark, Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott and Derek, Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Davidson, all of Pointe-aux-Trembles, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Knowlton, Knowlton's Landing, Mrs. Lucille Gauthier and Miss Denise Gauthier, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ward, Ville Brossard, Mrs. Pearl Tibbetts, Mr. Alex Davidson, Mrs. Margaret Durley of Magog, Mrs. R. Puddicombe and Mrs. Annie Drummond, Georgeville, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davidson and Mr. and Mrs. John Philips of the immediate area.

Happy Gang annual report

SUTTON — Forty two Senior Citizens of the Happy Gang met on Tuesday, June 27 at 1 p.m. at the Ski-to-Korner Restaurant, Maple Street, where they were served a delicious dinner by the owner and his employees.

After dinner they all went over to the United Church Hall where we were joined by a few more members who could not go to the dinner.

Mrs. Lequin, President, called the meeting to order and welcomed everyone present and wished them a happy afternoon.

She then called upon the Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Bernice Russell for the year's report. She gave a full report of all the meetings and activities during the year. Starting from June 14, 1977, up to this meeting.

There has been an average attendance of 38. We have had several donations of money and playing cards. And have made several donations and remembered our sick and shut-ins, also birthdays with cards.

We lost two members by death, a donation to Grace Church Memorial Fund in memory of Mrs. Nettie Patten and for Mr. Lucien (Johnnie) Ouimette, a mass at St. Andre Roman Catholic Church.

Cards and games were enjoyed and prizes given at every meeting. We have had speakers and demonstrations at some of the meetings. Donations were also given to Calvary United Church for the use of the Hall, the Red Cross and other organizations.

A motion was made to give Calvary United Church Board, $100.00, and $25.00 to the Canadian Red Cross. Both of these motions were accepted and carried. We started the New Year with a fair bank balance.

Miss Evelyn Harvey gave her report of all the tours and trips. There were ten trips taken. She wanted to thank all who had helped her to arrange these trips and a special thanks to our bus driver, Maurice Lacroix for his assistance and cautious driving.

We have been invited some sunny afternoon in July to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Eberts, Mountain St. to view their antiques and for afternoon tea.

Cards were signed to send to Mrs. H.H. Robinson and Mr. Harry Hawley for get-well wishes, also a 50th anniversary card to Mr. and Mrs. H.H. Robinson.

Miss Evelyn Harvey P.P. was asked to take the chair for the election of the officers for the coming year. Mrs. R. Miltimore. Mrs. M. Ouimette and Mrs. C. Boright were the nominating committee. Mrs. Miltimore presented the new slate as follows:

Past President, Miss E. Harvey, President, Mrs. L. Lequin, re-elected, Vice-President, Mrs. L. Miltimore, Secretary, Mrs. H. Woodard, Treasurer, Mrs. B. Russell. These officers were all accepted.

Mrs. Lequin took the chair and named her committees, which are: Kitchen - Mrs. A. Paul, Mrs. B. Boule and Mrs. Lavalliere; Tours, Mrs. E. Harvey, Cards, Mrs. B. Russell, Programs, Mrs. L. Cooke and Mrs. V. Boucher, Hall, Messrs C. Boright, James Robertson, John Payne, R. Gibson and H. Hawley.

500 was then played at 8 tables, prizes going to Mrs. M Miller. Mrs. M. Gagne and Mrs. H. Bresee, Messrs. J. Robertson, J. Payne, A. Sherrer. At the Game Table, Mrs. J. Payne and Mrs. R. Miltimore were the winners. Door prize went to Mrs. R. Roy.

One bill was presented and paid. The collection was $20.00.

It was decided to carry on with the meetings during July and August on the 2nd and 4th Tuesdays. If not a good attendance on July 11, we will close and reopen on September 12.

On June 29, 44 people boarded a bus for Ausable Chasm. All had a good time, including the trip through the Chasm. The scenery was beautiful and all enjoyed their dinner.

Hope to see a good attendance on July 11 and bring a senior friend.

Red Cross meets

WI MEETINGS AROUND THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS

WATERLOO — Thirteen members and one visitor attended the July 5th meeting of Waterloo Warden W.I. held at the home of Mrs. Mary Emmett.

The Motto for the month was "Teach the young how to think, not what to think."

Roll call was answered by naming the subject best liked when attending school. spelling and geography seemed to lead.

Minutes and financial report were read with no bills being presented.

Some W.I. cookbooks were sold, also the 12 A.C.W.W. pins had been received and were bought by members.

Pennies for Friendship were collected and the mystery package given by Mrs. Sicard, was won by Mrs. Ramsay.

Plans were completed for attending the County picnic on July 11th. Several items of knitting were brought in for Cansave.

Four convenors gave short reports. An afghan and a crocheted centrepiece were handed in as a start towards the autumn fund raising project.

As this was Education convenors' meeting, Mrs. George had a contest on names of books and their authors. Prizes in this went to Mrs. Maynes, Mrs. Sicard and Mrs. Plunkett.

Delicious refreshments were served by co-hostesses, Mrs. Hilliker and Mrs. Sicard.

The August meeting will be held with Mrs. Joyce Hogan.

DUNHAM — On Wednesday, July 5, eleven members of Dunham Women's Institute met for a regular meeting. The President, Mrs. Ruby Sherrer welcomed Mrs. Reda Lewis and two other guests.

The meeting opened by repeating the Mary Stewart Collect in unison, also Salute to the Flag, and O Canada in keeping with our Nation's birthday.

The Motto: It is not the number of square miles that make the country, but the number of square people.

The roll call: What I like about living in Canada, everyone agreed it was a very nice place to live.

Mrs. C. Martin for Citizenship read an article, born July 1st, 1867. Mrs. R. Selby, convenor for Sunshine gave a short report.

Mrs. Barbara Harvey offered to research and write the History of the Dunham Branch of the Women's Institute, especially the last twenty-five years through the monthly meeting records.

The members were reminded of the membership drive in September, also the semi-annual meeting to take place in September. Mrs. Lewis brought the A.C.W. pins that the members had ordered, also some cookbooks for sale.

Business being concluded, the meeting closed with the Pennies for Friendship, and tea money; the members also had a short contest, Canadian Rivers. Lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

STANBRIDGE EAST — The July meeting of Stanbridge East W.I. met at the historic old Ten Eyck home with Mrs. John Ten Eyck as hostess, assisted by Mesdames V. Casey, C. Symington and J. Rhicard, with Mrs. C. Rhicard presiding.

Motto was "Teach character in the home and it will flourish in the nation", the roll call "Name a place in Missisquoi Co. that should be considered a historic site" brought a splendid response from the members who named several historic areas such as the early Baptist church at Abbott's Corner built in 1802, the Negro Burial ground at St. Armand. The members always find it most inspiring to hold their meeting at this historic spot where Andrew Ten Eyck settled in 1794, and where the seventh generation is still carrying on the fine farming tradition started by him. This also is the spot where the Rev. Caleb Cotton lived when he was ministering to the Church of England parish in the early 1800's.

$50.00 was voted for the Retarded Home at Bedford. Twenty-four Handibags, valued at $6.00 each, 14 knitted articles, 1¼ lbs. remnants, also Campbell Soup & Dominion Store coupons were sent to Can-Save. Four boxes of good used clothing was sent to Mrs. S. Simpson for "Families for Children's Agency", Pointe Claire, Que.

Our County President Mrs. M. Lewis of Sutton was a welcome guest and explained some of the projects proposed by F.W.I.C., one being the writing of a history of a pioneer woman in your Branch. Members were also urged to bring their Branch Histories up to date. Mrs. Lewis also brought the A.C.W.W. pins and the Quebec cook-books and several were sold.

Conveners reports were interesting.

Mrs. Short, Citizenship Convener had prepared an informative questionnaire on Canada, 1st prize won by our President, Mrs. C. Rhicard, second prize drawn for, won by Mrs. Corey.

A new member was welcomed, we now have thirty-two on the roll.

Tables were laid in the lovely spacious dining-room and kitchen and a most bountiful salad tea was served by the hostesses.

Do your part.
