KOJE PRISONERS WILL NOT BE SCREENED

Concessions Made To Reds In Return For Release Of Brig.-Gen. F. T. Dodd

Gen. Clark Lists Demands, Concessions In Koje Island Camp Incident.

Tokyo, May 12.—(AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, supreme United Nations commander, said tonight the U.S. Eighth Army agreed to stop screening Red prisoners of war on Koje island in return for the release of Brig.-Gen. Francis T. Dodd.

Clark, who succeeded Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today as U.N. commander, listed the ransom demands by North Korean prisoners on Koje island — and told which demands were acceded to in order to obtain Dodd's release.

Clark's statement said Brig.-Gen. Charles Colson, new commander of the P.O.W. camp, agreed to:

1. Do all within his power to eliminate future violence and bloodshed on Koje. (90 P.O.W.'s and one American guard were killed in two Koje P.O.W. riots in February and March).

2. Stop "forcible screening or any rearming of prisoners of war in this camp" and not make any attempt "at nominal screening." (Allied officers have been screening prisoners of war and civilian internees to determine whether they would resist being returned to North Korea or China after an armistice. What was meant by "rearming" was not explained).

3. Allow the organization of a P.O.W. representative group or commission consisting of North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

Clark said:

"The reply by General Colson to the communist prisoners was made under duress at a time when the life of General Dodd was at stake. The communist demands were unadulterated blackmail and any commitments made by General Colson as a result of such demands should be interpreted accordingly."

Clark did not say whether the commitments would be honored.

The agreements to stop screening prisoners and allow them to organize seemed the only big concessions the army made.

Clark's statement that the Red demands were "unadulterated blackmail and any commitments made by General Colson as a result of such demands should be interpreted accordingly" seemed to hint that the U.N. would not honor the commitments.

Clark said the communists made

Dodd Seizure Was Planned At Least Week In Advance

Koje Island, Korea, May 12—(AP)—Die-hard Red prisoners of war had planned the seizure of Brig.-Gen. Francis T. Dodd at least a week in advance, Koje stockade officials said today.

Dodd, 52-year-old commander of the U.N. Koje island P.O.W. camp, was grabbed by Red prisoners Wednesday and held 78 hours. He was released unharmed Saturday and flown to Seoul Sunday.

Lt.-Col. Grover R. Raven, almost captured at the same time, told reporters that wtihin minutes after the Reds grabbed Dodd the North Korean prisoners were waving banners which said:

"We captured Dodd. If our problems are resolved his security is guaranteed. If there is any brutal act or shooting his life is in danger."

Raven barely escaped capture. He said the prisoner who was trying to drag him into the compound had been bayonetted by a U.N. guard.

Raven disclosed that one month before the Dodd incident Raven himself had been detained forcibly by the inmates of compound 76 about three hours.

He said the prisoners had complained about their food and tried to force him to eat some cereal and soup.

"I refused," he said. "If they had invited me to eat I would have done so gladly but they tried to force it on me and I refused."

Raven was released unharmed after the first seizure.

Brig.-Gen. Charles Colson, named commander of the P.O.W.s after Dodd was seized, said the capture of Dodd was planned and executed by the Reds "apparently to get a hostage so they could make certain demands in return for release of their prisoner."

Colson would not say what demands the communists had made nor did he say whether those demands had been met.

Eighth Army reports on the Dodd capture, however, said the prisoners had been supplied writing paper and a telephone and that Red prisoners from other compounds had been permitted to enter compound 76, where Dodd was held. Those were not all the requests filed by the Reds.

Reporters and photographers were permitted to visit Koje today for the first time since Dodd was seized. However, camp authorities said they would not answer any questions dealing with negotiations with communist prisoners and other "security matters."

Raven said the trouble at compound 76 actually started May 6, the day before the Dodd kidnapping. A work detail of prisoners returning to the compound was searched and found to have "contraband" which Raven listed as four watches, 18 new pencils, two rings, three tooth brushes and a cigaret lighter.

Raven said that when the forbidden articles were taken the work detail refused to go into their compound. They agreed only when told that the articles would be returned and that Dodd the next day would come to talk to them.

The next day Dodd went to the compound. He and Raven began talking with the prisoners through the barbed wire fence. The Red negotiators dragged out the talks, he said, until a work detail went through the main gate where the conference was being held.

The gate remained open several minutes. Raven said he and Dodd were too engrossed in talking with the Reds to notice the gate.

"Several prisoners moved over to close the gate," Raven said, "and then they got behind us."

He said the Red P.O.W.s rushed him and Dodd and that "five were on me and at least 15 had hold of the general."

Raven said he saw Dodd struggling with his captors until the general disappeared behind the compound building. Raven finally fought free with the help of Capt. Joseph S. Hunter, who was in charge of compound 76, and an American guard.

He said the guard had to bayonet one of the prisoners in the face to drive him away.

Raven said infantry reinforcements were rushed to the compound and that the enclosure was surrounded and secured with in 20 minutes.

The prisoner camp apparently was normal today. But the visit of reporters almost caused some disturbance. As reporters gathered at the compound entrance with Capt. Hunter, a spokesman for the prisoners approached and said he had something to say. Camp offi-

Stepped Up Cold War Is Predicted

Bonn, Germany, May 12.—(AP)—West Germany's impending peace contract brought a bloody weekend to industrial Essen and reports today that East Germany's communist rulers are getting ready for a drastic step-up in cold war against the west and tighter Russian-East German ties.

One young communist was killed in the Essen riot, in which police gunfire broke up a clash between anti-Reds and 30,000 communist-led youths demonstrating against plans to rearm West Germany for western defence. Scores of demonstrators were injured and several were arested.

Here in the capital, meanwhile, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met with rebellious leaders from his government coalition forces. Their opposition to the peace pact threatens its chances of ratification by the West German parliament.

Despite Adenauer's urging, the opponents were reported still adamant that Britain, the United States and France concede more before West German troops are furnished for the projected European army. The allies already have said they have gone as far as they will.

As the talks on the peace contract continued in Bonn, informed east-zone sources in Berlin said that communist-surrounded metropolis has been chosen by the Russian and East German leaders as the focal point of their campaign against the western agreement.

These sources anticipated that the East German government may soon demand the unification of divided Berlin and withdrawal of all occupation forces from the metropolis. This, the sources added, may be accompanied by "drastic measures" against West Berlin.

They predicted also that East Germany soon may be declared a "people's democracy" like other Soviet satellites and that its government may be shaken up to weed out anyone not in accord with the full sovietization of the East zone.

Sources close to the politburo of the east zone's ruling Socialist Unity (communist) party said its inclusion in the Russian-led Cominform probably will be announced at a party conference in July.

The East German government already has said it will raise an army — presumably with the present highly-trained police force as a nucleus — to counter West Germany's planned participation in the European army. Announcing their plans for the army, the Reds last week said West German rearmament threatened the country with civil war.

World News In Brief

Ottawa, May 12. — (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today turned down the appeal of Genereux Ruest, Quebec city watchmaker convicted of murder in a plot that sent 23 persons to death aboard a dynamited airliner Sept. 9, 1949.

Seven of the nine judges who heard the case agreed the appeal should be dismissed. Mr. Justice C. H. Locke and Mr. Justice John Cartwright would have ordered a new trial.

The court was the last judicial resort for Ruest, one of three persons found guilty of murder in a time-bomb explosion in a Canadian Pacific Airliner plane over a desolate Quebec province area. He is to be hanged July 25 unless the federal government grants executive clemency.

Toyko, May 12—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who blocked the communists in Korea and engineered the end of the allied occupation of Japan, left today on his way to Europe to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It was only a year, a month and a day ago that Ridgway took over from Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of allied powers in Japan.

As he left he turned over his United Nations and Far Eastern commands to Gen Mark Clark.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers made 28 cuts in a short stretch on the vital Kanggye-Sinanju line near Huichon in the northwest. Nine U.S. B-29s hit the Huichon rail bridge yesterday with 90 tons of bombs. Fighter-bombers cratered rails in more than 80 places on a small section south of Suncho at the same time.

GEORGE DREW VISITS BROME-MISSISQUOI — George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, visited Brome-Missisquoi county over the week-end where he addressed a number of meetings in favor of Henri Demers, candidate in the current by-election. Defence Department's Carelessness, Inefficiency Are Scored By Drew

By CUTHBERT JONES

Bedford, May 12 — Carelessness and inefficiency on the part of the Department of National Defence are to a great extent responsible for the heavy burden of taxation now being borne by the Canadian people, George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, told a rally here yesterday afternoon.

Speaking here and at nearby Brome on Saturday afternoon in support of Henri Demers, of Farnham, Progressive Conservative candidate in the Brome-Missisquoi by-election made necessary by the death of Henri Gosselin, the Liberal member, Mr. Drew reiterated earlier attacks on the failure of the Department of National Defence to protect army stores against theft and destruction.

The initial discovery that something was amiss in this respect was discovered at the Farnham camp, located in the Brome-Missisquoi riding.

"When the disappearance of these stores was brought to the attention of the Government, Mr. Claxton replied that Farnham was only a summer camp and that in any case the loss was only $3,500.

"Even if it was only a summer camp, supplies are supplies and meant the expenditure of taxpayer's money. And any of you who were living in the vicinity of the camp know the manner in which these thefts occurred. They were so open that most of you thought the supplies were being removed upon the orders of the Department. And you know what can be bought for $3,500," Mr. Drew continued.

But, he maintained, it mattered not whether the Farnham thefts involved $1,000, $50,000, or $500,000. They were an indication to the Government that something was wrong and that some action should be taken to protect the taxpayer's money.

However, nothing was done and the situation elsewhere became even more acute.

"At Petawawa, the looters grew so bold they took everything moveable. Not satisfied with this they started on so-called immoveable property, reaching the climax with the removal of a railway siding—rails, tie-plates, spikes and all—which was the property of the Canadian Pacific Railway. When the railway authorities objected, the authorities said something would be done. It was. They took rails from another siding and replaced the first ones. I do not know what will happen when they need to use the second siding," he commented.

The wave of fires which had destroyed military establishments during the past fifteen months was significant, he declared. They all occurred in buildings which contained, or were supposed to contain, supplies of an easily-saleable nature. The most disastrous had occurred at Ottawa.

"Gordon Fraser, Progressive Conservative member for Peterborough, informed Mr. Claxton, Minister of National Defence, in the House that he was prepared to produce men who would state under oath where such supplies

Opposition Chiefs Open Campaign

Quebec, May 12 —(CP)— Quebec Liberal leader Georges LaPalme Saturday opened his party's campaign in the forthcoming provincial election—expected in July—with a request that people vote for a group of men "whose hands are clean."

Also heard at the meeting, in lowertown Quebec-St. Sauveur riding, were George Marler, opposition leader in the Quebec legislature, and Mayor J. A. Mongrain of Three Rivers who may oppose Premier Duplessis in their home constituency.

The Liberal leader, chosen at a Liberal convention in 1950 following the 1948 Union Nationale victory, said Premier Duplessis' main argument for re-election seems to be that he has completed 25 years of political life.

Comparing Quebec's economic development with that of other Canadian provinces, Mr. LaPalme

Ottawa Share Of Taxation Is Too High

L'Assomption, Que., May 12.—(CP)—Premier Duplessis opened his Union Nationale party's campaign in the forthcoming provincial election last night, charging that the federal government's share of overall taxation in the country is too large and deprives the provinces of needed revenues.

The Premier spoke at the arena in this town, 40 miles east of Montreal, where 2,300 persons attended a banquet in honor of the Premier's 25th year of political life.

The Premier, whose party took all but 10 of the Quebec Legislative Assembly's 92 seats in the 1948 election, asked Quebec electors to give the Union Nationale a "still more resounding victory."

Some people thought there should be a larger opposition in Quebec's two-house Legislature, the Premier said. But the Liberals had a majority in the Upper House and that was opposition enough.

Oil Strike Talks Start Tomorrow

Denver, May 12—(AP)—With a major settlement for background, striking oil workers and company officials got ready for tomorrow's showdown meeting with the Wage Stabilization Board.

The United States and Britain asked all nations to conserve dwindling supplies of aviation gasoline. They warned global restrictions may follow. Canada had already cut civilian and military flying sharply.

Military flying is down to essentials in the United States. More civilian flights are suspended each day. American motorists are feeling the growing pinch. Three disastrous fires heightened the shortage.

O. A. Knight, president of the oil workers international (C.I.O.) largest of the 2 unions striking for higher wages, has said that, after months of postponement before the walkout started 13 days ago, the striking refinery and pipeline workers are determined not to work without a contract.

Scattered agreements have been signed through the industry. The first major agreement which union officials conceded might set a settlement pattern was okayed by workers yesterday.

It is between the independent union of petroleum workers and Standard Oil of California. It provides a basic wage increase of 18½ cents an hour. That's the compromise figure Knight said would be acceptable instead of the 25-cent raise sought originally on the current $2 to $2.10 hourly rate.

Disaster cut at fuel supplies. Fire following derailment of a freight train near Corsicana, Tex., destroyed 16 tank cars of fuel oil and four of high-octane gasoline. About $250,000 of gasoline was lost in a barge explosion near New Orleans.

Fire swept a five-acre area of crude-oil storage tanks at the Houston refinery of the Eastern States Petroluem Co., a company not affected by the strike.

Washington, May 12— (AP) — Lawyers for the administration and the vast steel industry open oral arguments before the Supreme Court today in an historic effort to settle finally whether President Truman's seizure of the steel mills was legal.

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge David A. Pine, who ruled that Truman's seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

The justice department, supported by the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.), is asking that Judge Pine's injunction against seizing the mils be reversed.

The court may rule only on the narrow issue of the injunction itself and not decide the broad problem of just how much unwritten power a President has to meet a national emergency. Or, the whole case could be sent back to the lower court for further arguments and findings.

There was no indication when the high court would hand down its decision.

School Principals' Problems Discussed At Granby Conference

By ARNOLD BARON

Granby, May 12.—The problem of high school principals and supervisors, torn between their teachers on one side and their school boards on the other, came in for major attention here Friday and Saturday.

The occasion was the annual joint spring conference of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards and the High School Principals' Association, held in Granby High School.

Approximately seventy-five board members and fifty principals discussed the problem separately then gathered together in the gymnasium for an airing of the matter with no holds barred.

No harsh words were spoken. No blood was shed. As a matter of fact, no blows were struck.

Indeed, the whole thing was carried off so beautifully that Robert Flood of Waterloo, first vice-president of the P.A.P.S.B. and co-chairman of the "mixed" gathering with H. G. Greene, supervisor of the Chambly County Central School Board and president of the H.S.P.A., was moved to say:

"We have been holding joint spring conferences for so many years I cannot understand why this is only the first time we have gathered together in one room to hear both sides of the argument at the same time."

After the discussion, the principals felt the Boards now saw it was impossible to divorce principals and supervisors from their teaching staffs, that principals could not be considered general managers of an industry and the teachers only laborers, that the principals' job were that of liaison officers between boards and staffs.

Indeed, the attitude of both factions seemed to be that you cannot run schools on the trade-union idea of capital on one hand and labor on the other. The schools are present for the education of the children and principals are to help both boards and teachers in efforts to further education and better it.

This all was accomplished—or seemed to be—despite the statement of one gentleman, re principals—that "you cannot serve both God and Mammon." He did not elaborate on which faction was which.

These joint spring conference of the P.A.P.S.B. and H.S.P.A. serve as sounding-board gatherings for approval, or otherwise, of ideas for presentation at the annual meetings of each group.

While the spring conferences can approve of measures in principle, the definite decisions are made at the annual meetings. The School Boards' meeting is scheduled for September and the Principals' annual meeting for October, sites have yet to be chosen.

Another dilemma of the principals was discussed at a separate gathering of the H.S.P.A. This is the problem of their dual representation on the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers.

It has been an embarrassing matter for principals in that the H.S.P.A. as a unit sends three voting members to the P.A.P.T. yet principals have votes in local associations of the P.A.P.T.

The old general-manager-worker bogey crept up here too but Dr. Lloyd Patterson, member of the H.S.P.A. and president of the

Endicott Says Germs Used, Denies Implicating Canada

Toronto, May 12— (CP) —Dr. James G. Endicott claims that germ warfare is being used against the communists in Asia. But he denies saying that Canada is taking part in it.

Speaking to an estimated 8,000 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens last night for the closing ceremonies of a three-day Canadian Peace Congress rally, Dr. Endicott, chairman of the leftist body, directed his reply to External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson had been asked in a Commons committee about recent Moscow radio reports which quoted Dr. Endicott as "confirming" that United Nations forces are waging bacteriological warefare on Red China.

The External Affairs Minister said he would question the former United Church missionary, then on a tour of Red China. Dr. Endicott served as a missionary in China for 22 years. He returned home five years ago.

Dr. Endicott told the audience:

"It is alleged that I on my own authority implicated Canada in germ warfare.

"I did not. I gave an honest answer to honest questions about an article in the Montreal Standard on Canada's work for germ war. I did not take the article to China.

"It appeared at length in the Chinese press. The articles, as I have already said, claimed that the head of Canada's defence board told Gerald Waring that 'the future of death on a mass scale is very bright.'

"It said: 'Canada is doing significant work which will be used by our senior partners.'"

(Two weeks ago, Dr. Endicott said in London during a telephone interview with The Canadian Press that he had not implicated Canada in germ warfare. He said he had made "no statement (that) I had knowledge the insects were bred in Canada.")

Dr. Endicott told last night's meeting that if any member of the parliamentary committee feels "the article by Mr. Waring has done Canada an injustice, they are at liberty to write fully to the New China News Agency and set the matter right."

He told of his visit to northeast China where he said he saw the effects of "large-scale U.S. germ warfare being carried out against the Chinese people."

He said he saw and collected many germ-bearing insects and their containers dropped from American planes. He claimed he visited farmers and saw the people being inoculated against diseases.

"I was surprised to see how quickly the Chinese people have organized themselves against this attack," he said.

At an earlier session of the Congress, the germ - warfare charges were repeated by several other speakers.

Foot And Mouth Disease Is Widespread In Europe

By Reuters News Agency

Foot-and-mouth disease, which has led the British government to ban the movement of cattle in England and Wales, is also sweeping Europe and causing big losses in Canada.

Methods of dealing with the outbreak vary. The British government continues its policy of slaughtering herds infected with the disease. Canadian veterinarians also believe that eradication is the only preventive.

France, where the disease has been reported in 87 of France's 90 departments (counties), is trying a new vaccine. Denmark relies on vaccine for healthy animals and serum for sick ones. The Netherlands isolates infected animals and leaves them to die or recover, and vaccinates healthy ones.

Italy, where 120,000 herd of cattle out of a total of about 8,000,000 were affected, applies a mixed method—slaughtering for serious cases, vaccine for the healthy and serum for the sick.

In Italy, West Germany and Austria the outbreak is on the decline.

The World Federation of Animal Protection, which has been meeting at The Hague, the Netherlands, will make an international study of medical treatment as opposed to the British and Canadian method of slaughtering all infected cattle.

Most countries employing vaccine have reported that the main difficulty is supply of vaccine.

Reuters reports give this picture of the ravages of the disease and steps taken to combat it, from various European centres and Canada.

Paris—The agriculture ministry said the disease is not spreading rapidly, and is far less widespread than the 1937-39 outbreak. But it is the worst outbreak since 1942. Cases have been reported in 5,332 of France's 37,983 communes.

At Lyons, only vaccine-producing centre in France, they are using a Danish scientist's method to increase production. Under this process, almost any healthy dead cow's tongue can be used for culture, instead of having to use a live animal's tongue.

The Hague—The Netherlands tackled foot-and-mouth disease in two ways. The infected animals are isolated and left to die or recover. Other animals are immediately vaccinated. Infected quarters are rigorously cleaned and disinfected.

Government experts say about one per cent of infected animals die, although the rest are useless for meat or milk for at least six months.

Immunization by the vaccine lasts about nine months. Developed and produced by Netherlands veterinary experts, it costs about 90 cents a dose.

The disease spread to the Netherlands from Germany. Some 65,000 cattle were infected. Animals were treated for A and O types of foot-and-mouth when it was discovered that a third type—type C—was also present. A new vaccine was produced and all three types of vaccine were used in mass immunization.

Copenhagen—As in the Netherlands, a third type of vaccine was produced to combat type C. Dr. Woeldike Nielsen, government official in charge of the fight against the disease, said: "The results have been excellent. Last Decem-

JACOBY ON CANASTA

CARD RULES ARE VERY FLEXIBLE
By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"There is one situation that puzzles us both in regular Canasta and Samba," writes a Wisconsin correspondent. "Suppose I hold a pair of kings in my hand, with five kings down on the table, with five kings down on the table. The player to my right throws a king.

'Am I allowed to take the discard pile? If so, af I allowed to meld all eight kings in the same meld?"

The official rule is very clear on this point both in regular Canasta an din Samba. You are allowed to take the discard pile with your pair of kings.

In Canasta you would add the three kings to your previous meld, thus making a canasta that contained eight kings. There is nothing wrong with an eight-card canasta. Moreover, you are not allowed to make two separate melds of kings (or of anything else) in ordinary Canasta. Hence your only way of melding the kings would be to put them all together.

In Samba you would have your choice. You would be allowed to put all eight kings into one meld, or you would instead be allowed to start a new meld of kings. I should imagine that any sensible player would want to put all the kings together and score a natural canasta. But if a player foolishly wanted to start a new meld o. kings, the rules wouldn't stop him.

Having stated the official rule on this point, I must now go into the troublesome business of the "house" rules played by some people. There are some Canasta players who have cooked up a rule of their own that forbids you to put more than seven cards in a canasta at any time or for any reason.

Let me make it quite clear that this is not the oficial rule and that it has no official standing.

I will even go further. Canasta players like to invent rules, and some of those inventions are pretty good. But the house rule just mentioned is, in my opinion, very silly and almost unplayable.

Even though I am chairman of the commission that makes the rules for Canasta (together with a similar body in Argentina), I sometimes folow "house" rules when I am the guest of somebody who has a pet invented rule.

But I draw the line at really nonsensical rules, and I therefore will not play in a game that tries to limit a canasta to seven cards at all times. What's more, every good Canasta player of my acquaintance (all over the country) feels the same way about this rule.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Does Nickel pay taxes?

"They sure do, son. In 1951, for instance, the Nickel Company paid over 48 million dollars in income taxes. Everybody has to help pay the cost of Government. All of us pay some share in income taxes, sales taxes and many other kinds of taxes. The industries in this country do pay a large part of the cost of Government."

"Well, how much tax does Nickel pay?"
"I guess it would be pretty hard to figure out all the taxes, but Uncle Jim, who is an accountant, told me that the Nickel Company paid $3.30 per share in income taxes last year but the owners got only $2.60."

Golden Jubilee Rally Of A. Y. P. A. Held In Sherbrooke Over Week-End

St. Peter's Branch of the Anglican Young Peoples' Association were host to members of St. George's, Drummondville; St. Matthew's, Quebec City; and Christ Church, Bromptonville, over the week-end at the Golden Jubilee Rally.

Blue and white, the A.Y. colours, and gold to mark the festive occasion were used by Marion Dunsmore and her committee to decorate the St. Peter's Hall. An A.Y.P.A. crest was on display.

The rally began with a banquet Saturday evening under the convenership of Mrs. J. H. Wark. The dinner was chaired by Allen Brown, Diocesan president, and Catherine Wark, president of St. Peter's Branch and vice-president of the Diocesan Council.

Alan Martin, president of St. Matthew's Branch introduced Archdeacon W. W. Davis, rector of St. Matthew's who is soon to leave for Halifax to take up duties as Dean of the Cathedral. Archdeacon Davis in his remarks to the gathering centred his talk around the Association motto, "For Christ And The Church." He was thanked by Catherine Wark.

A presentation to the Archdeacon on behalf of the Diocesan Council was made by Allen Brown. The recipient voiced his appreciation for the kind thoughts that were behind the gift.

Seated at the head table were Allen Brown, Catherine Wark, Archdeacon Davis, Canon and Mrs. E. K. Moffatt, Canon R. Brown, Rev. T. Hardy, chaplain, St. Peter's Branch; Rev. T. Knox, Diocesan chaplain; Rev. and Mrs. A. V. Ottiwell, Joyce Buckland, secretary of the Diocesan Council; John Morrill, of Drummondville, vice-president of the Council, Alan Martin, and Pearl Robinson, vice-president of St. Peter's and Diocesan publicity convener.

Immediately following the banquet, a social evening under the convenership of Pearl Robinson followed. Accompanist for the evening was Barbara Wark. The program consisted of sing-songs and novelty dancing. Prizes were won by Marion Dunsmore, Carolyn Munroe and Anne Gagnon, of Sherbrooke and John Antonescul, of St. Matthew's, as well as Ken Ward, of Christ Church, Brompton.

Refreshments and a service of Preparation for Holy Communion completed Saturday's activities.

Sunday morning a Corporate Communion at 8 a.m. started the day. Breakfast, prepared by Catherine Wark, Barbara Wark, Pearl Robinson, Joyce Buckland and Anne Gagnon, was served in the hall.

The group attended the 11 a.m. service at which Alan Martin and Allen Brown read the lessons. This marked the finale of the week-end's anniversary celebrations.

Campaign For $675,000 To Build New Hospital At Sweetsburg Starts May 15

The campaign to raise $675,000 to build a new 57-bed Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital at Sweetsburg will begin next Thursday and continue until the end of the month.

The new hospital, which will fill a great need in the Brome-Missisquoi area, will be erected on land owned by the present hospital and will be located between the present hospital and the staff house.

OFFER NOT CONSIDERED

An offer of land for the new hospital was made to the Sweetsburg town council by Joseph Pinsonnault, but it was learned today that this offer had not been considered by the governors of the hospital or the campaign committee.

Officials say the new building will enable chronic cases to be treated and will obviate sending such cases to congested city hospitals.

The old building has halls and doorways that are too narrow and that make handling of patients difficult. Operating and delivery rooms are too small and cannot be enlarged.

"When it is remembered that some 1,500 patients and babies will be treated in this building during the current year, it is realized what heroic efforts the nursing staff need to handle the situation properly," one hospital official stated.

Equipment of the present hospital, however, is up-to-date and most of it can be used in the new building.

The present hospital, originally known as the District of Bedford General Hospital, came into being on August 8, 1910, when the trustees of the hospital purchased the hotel known as the American House from the late John Powers. The exact date of construction of this hotel is not known, but it is believed to be about 1830.

The hospital continued to function under the old name until 1931. At that time the Perkins Hospital Corporation and the District of Bedford General Hospital were amalgamated and given the present name of the Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital.

The hospital corporation is at present headed by Ernest Fleury, N.P., of Knowlton, who is president of the board of governors.

The hospital has an endownment fund whose revenue is used to meet hospital expenses. In 1951, this amounted to slightly over $200,000.

The hospital receives patients irrespective of religion, race or color.

Until 1931, the bed capacity was only 17, but this was increased that year to 22. It was raised again in 1942 to 30 and again in 1944 to its present 52 beds.

John W. Sharp is general campaign chairman, with Mr. Fleury the honorary chairman. Honorary patrons are C. J. W. Fox, M.L.A., and J. J. Bertrand, M.L.A.

Bank Robbers Plead Guilty In Local Court

Two Sherbrooke men pleaded guilty Saturday morning in Magistrate's Court here before Judge Edouard Boisvert to the armed robbery at the Caisse Populaire Ste. Therese, 237 King Street, February first.

The two who were arrested by Municipal Police Detectives on Friday are: Marcel Leroux, 22, and Marcel Mackie, 24, both of Sherbrooke.

Judge Boisvert said he was render his sentence on May 14.

The men, one of them armed, both masked, at gunpoint took some $200 from Mrs. Maurice Champagne, young wife of the bank's manager while she was alone in her house, part of which makes up the savings establishment.

The men also took a quantity of change from the till of the bank, the other money belonging to the manager.

Since then, local and Provincial Police had kept a sharp eye peeled for the suspects. Police Chief Edouard Moreau said he had suspected the men for some time and after questioning one of them Friday received a confession which also led to the arrest of the other man a few hours later.

Firemen Busy As High Wind Fans Many Fires

The high wind to which most Sherbrooke residents awakened this morning kept the local Fire Department extremely busy.

The brigade, since daylight and up until eleven o'clock this morning, answered no less than six alarms for fires which had been fanned up by the stiff wind.

All the fires originated in stovepipes and chimneys in homes where the owners were keeping the chill out but with the draft open, in most cases.

The firemen answered alarms this morning at the following addresses: 34 McManamy; corner of Worthington and McManamy; 183 St. Louis Street; 52 Denault Street; 69B St. Henri; and 47 Camirand Street.

No damage was reported in any of these fires.

Besides all this, the Department this morning answered an alarm at the Mailhot Pharmacy, corner of Belvidere and Drummond.

An overflow of oil in an oil furnace had startled an attendent at the drug store. The attendent had closed the outlet of the furnace, the proper thing to do, but called the firemen as a precautionary measure.

Local H. And S. Assoc. To Hold Annual Meeting

The Sherbrooke Home and School Association will hold its annual meeting in the Sherbrooke High School Auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock.

It is believed that all parents with school age children will want to hear what Mr. Logie has to say on this very interesting topic and active participation in the discussion period is expected.

Among other business during the evening it is hoped to have reports by Sherbrooke representatives to the Fifth Annual Provincial Conference that was held in Montreal last Friday and Saturday.

DO THE COMMUNISTS WANT A TRUCE?

With the refusal of Chinese Reds to accept a big United Nations concession in exchange of prisoners, there is a growing doubt in the minds of many Westerners that the Communists really want an armistice.

After their nearly nine months of stalling, the while building their strength, the Ottawa Journal contends that most will agree that they are not interested in a complete cessation of hostilities. It continues:

And, if we believe our favorite theory that it is the Kremlin's plan to keep us in trobule, to keep us divided in strength between Europe and Asia, why should we believe that they do want an armistice?

A large U.S. and UN army is being pinned down in Korea; vast quantities of supplies are being sent there; valuable planes and trained personnel are being lost to us; the cost runs into billions. All this happening with little loss to the Soviets, who are waging Korea's war by proxy, why should Moscow want an armistice — or want it so long as the Chinese do their fighting?

General Van Fleet, commander of UN ground forces in Korea, professes to be untroubled by the prospect of no armistice. Says he: "We can either out-fight them or out-sit them." But there is little sign that the U.S. or UN has the will or the force to go all-out against the Chinese Communists, and not much sign either that the U.S. or UN public would welcome an indefinite "sitting-out" in Korea. Only this past week a Conservative member of Britain's Parliament demanded an end of the "farce" of Korea, and, if we are to judge by what happears in the U.S. press, a growing number of Americans are saying the same thing.

The stark truth is that, militarily, Korea has not brought a UN victory, but only a stalemate, and that in such a stalemate there exists a grave problem and peril.

DROUGHT HITS AUSTRALIA

Although lush growth is now taking the place of burned-over wilderness in the costal areas of Australia, the serious fires of the past summer have occasioned heavy long-term losses. To this must be added the cost of drought which has complicated the food problem not only of Australia itself but Great Britain.

From December to April the central and northern areas which comprise about one-fifth of the country, usually experience moonsoonal rains. This year they have not occurred and are not likely to occur now. The territory covers parts of Queensland, South Australia and Western Australia, the governments of which are facing a terrible problem. Thousands of cattle die every day, more than 300,000 dead having been counted, 200,000 near death, and another 1,000,000 may die unless the unexpected happens and rains come to replenish the earth. The economic loss is terrific. Bush natives who live in areas remote from the cattle ranches are taking their own lives because the game on which they mostly live is dying also.

This large area of Australia has become a gigantic dust bowl, and it is estimated that it will take several years to restock the country. Prices of meat in Australia are going sky-high because of the shortage. There will be no meat exports for perhaps three years. That trade was worth $18,000,000 a year in sales to Britain, and the loss is serious in both countries — Australia in money and Britain in her rationed supplies.

Cattlemen are bitter because the animals could have been saved if there had been railroad connection with the coastal regions, but there isn't — despite the fact that every expert who has reported on the territory and its possibilities over the last half-century has insisted that without railroads development of this semi-desert is impossible.

Britain will be the heaviest outside sufferer, because Australia has been a prime source of cheap meat. To give her economical cuts, all meat exports are compulsorily channeled through the Australian Meat Board. Prices have been fixed under a fifteen-year agreement with Britain, although they are subject to periodical revision. The probability is that the agreement will have to be scrapped and Britain will have to buy meat wherever she can, and at higher prices.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good. Britain may look to Canada for heavy supplies of meat during the next three or four years.

MACHINERY MAKES WORK

One of the first reactions of several Members of Parliament to the statement of Donald Gordon before a parliamentary committee that the Canadian National Railways has ceased buying steam locomotives and will use diesels instead was that the change would bring a loss of employment to railway workers.

They voiced the fear that has been expressed ever since the advent of machinery. Every time some new invention appears, when some new and better machine is placed in operation, there are those who raise the bogey of unemployment, who predict that man by his inventive genius is destroying himself.

Yet the record over a century and a half, or even longer, has shown that machines, far from lessening work, have invariably created new opportunities for employment.

About twenty years ago there was a school of political economists who dubbed themselves the technocrats. Loudly they voiced gloomy predictions that within the next generation machines would create tremendous unemployment. Their arguments appeared so convincing, on paper at least, that they gained widespread support for many of their doctrines. But what actually transpired in these two decades in a country like the United States, where the machine is supreme, was a tremendous increases in employment. There are millions more at work in the United States today than when the bureaucrats were making these bleak prophecies.

The story has been the same in Canada, perhaps even more pronounced. Each year there has been a steady gain in the number of men employed, both in existing industries and in new industries developed by the introduction of machinery.

And there is no reason to believe the story will be any different with the coming of the diesels.

PRESS COMMENTS

VIVA, ALEMAN!

Christian Science Monitor

When the dictator won't dictate, what is a poor people to do? President Miguel Aleman has been a creditable and progressive chief executive in Mexico since his election in 1946. But now President Aleman's term is about to expire and at the same time a new national Congress is to be elected.

The election in all probability will be carried by the Revolutionary Party (stemming from the 1910 revolution of Francisco I Madero and later Venustiano Carranza) whose nominee is Adolfo Ruiz Cortines. Ordinarily the slate for members of Congress would be made up by President Aleman or his prospective successor. But this time neither will indicate a single choice.

Under such unusual circumstances the selections will have to be made by the local party "jefes" or, even more unorthodoxly, by the voting populace left on its own. The result may be a Congress consisting not solely of hand-picked advisers but including some members with ideas of their own.

This sort of unheralded development places a great burden and responsibility on ordinary citizens who sometimes, seemingly, would almost rather have their thinking done for them. It is a development which would be very gratifying in a number of foreign countries and in some parts of the United States. For the effects of genuine popular expression, while sometimes temporarily disconcerting, are more often sound and even exhilarating.

FISHING FOR OUANANICHE

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

North Bay sportsmen are preparing for the opening of a brand of fishing that is known nowhere else in the province, if in Canada. It is to be trolling for ouananiche, or land-locked salmon which were stocked in the lake some years ago and have responded in an encouraging way. Last year 10-pounders were being caught and this year it is expected there will be 12-pounders.

So far as Ontario is concerned the ouananiche is a strange fish. It is true salmon. Its centre of abundance is Lake St. John in the Province of Quebec. With the exception of Trout Lake, north of North Bay, no permanent population of the fish has been established in any new Canadian water.

As a game fish it is said to respond only to a large streamer fly, about six inches in length, trolled behind a comparatively fast-moving boat.

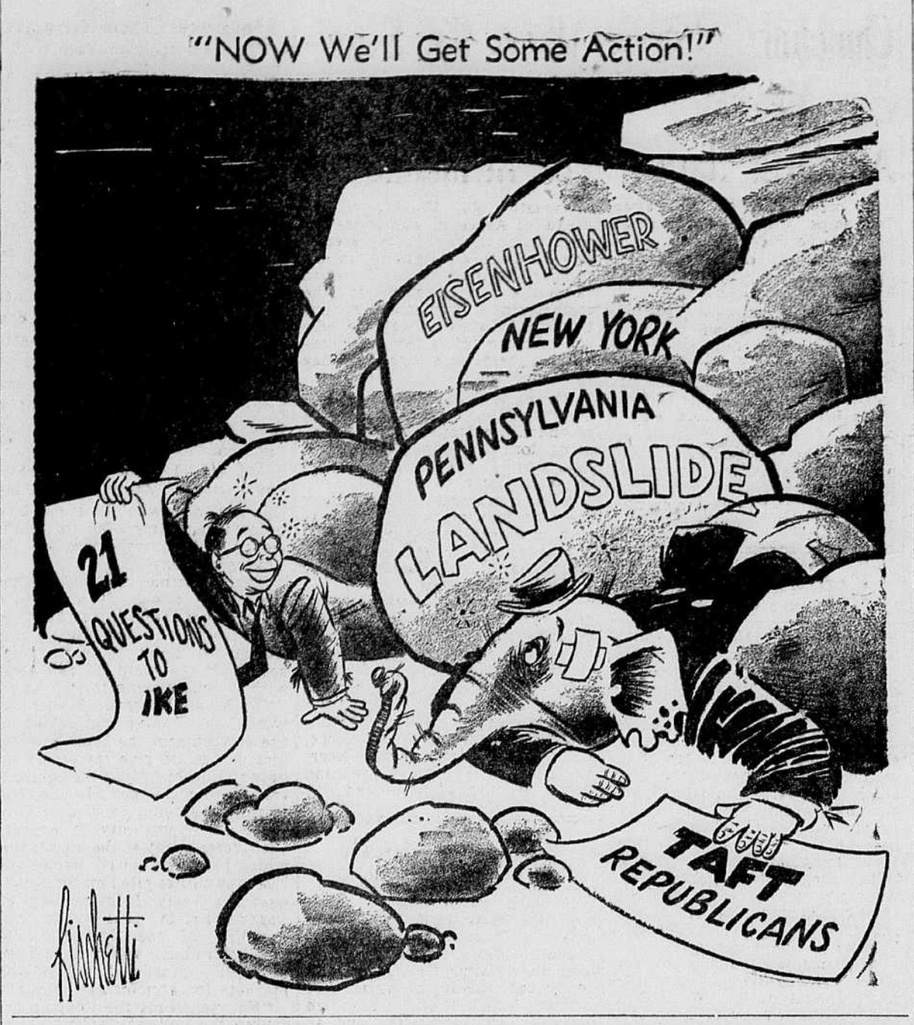
CHANGES ON THE LIBRARY SHELVES

(From the Toronto Telegram)

When people watch television, books are left on the shelf; that is the finding of a survey of 62 libraries in the United States. In all the 62 communities investigated, everyone seemed to agree that the reading of books had decreased with the coming of television. Of 200 people questioned by one librarian, 42 per cent of the adults, 37 per cent of the younng people and 35 per cent of the boys and girls said they were reading less.

This trend is mentioned in the annual report of Charles R. Sanderson, Chief Librarian of the Toronto Public Library. He intimates that it will result in definite changes in the character of the books stocked in Toronto libraries. The advent of television, he points out, has affected mainly the reading of mysteries, detectives, westerns and "the sugar-and-molasses kind of books which we are accustomed to call commercial fiction." Mr. Sanderson has long questioned whether libraries were justified in spending public funds on "fiction of the paper aspirin type where the author has no thought of aesthetic aim, where the motive is only profit by both writer and publisher, and where the reading is merely time-passing in an atmosphere of false psychology and a Sahara of uselesesness." He announces his belief that the curtailing or abandonment of this trival fiction, in order to have more money for worthwhile books, is sound policy.

The Telegram has long contended that real estate should not be taxed to supply the public with frothy fiction any more than with pop and soda water. It is good to have this view authoritatively confirmed. The status of the library as an educational institution should be improved by a judicious pruning of its catalogue.



Carefree Irish Face Austerity As Exports, Farm Output Lag

Dublin—(AP)—The Irish are going to have to work harder and spend less if they want to continue to enjoy one of the highest living standards in Europe.

Finance Minister Sean Macentee says the Republic of Ireland's problem is the same one which is plaguing most of the western European countries — the balance of payments, or the difference between what imports cost and what exports sell for.

In 1951, Irish imports cost the country £62,000,000 more than the exports brought in. The difference was paid for out of wartime-built reserves, estimated as of now at about £350,000,000.

Despite the unbalance, the republic still is one of the few creditor countries in western Europe.

One of the root causes of the republic's balance of payments problem is that agricultural production, the backbone of Irish economy, failed during 1951 to regain even the 1938-39 level.

For the first time in her history Ireland, one of the great dairy countries of the world, is importing and rationing butter.

Of the republic's total population of 2,955,107, almost 645,000 are directly employed in agriculture compared with 212,000 in industry. But the agricultural working population is declining by a degree which one government report says "has assumed the dimensions of an exodus."

The department of agriculture says farm output can be doubled under a government-sponsored rehabilitation plan which now is in progress, and if output can be doubled, exports can be increased by 400 per cent.

"For the Irish at the moment, the vital need is to export in greater volume to every market, but especially to the United States and Canada," Macentee says.

Britain is the republic's biggest customer. In 1950 total value of Irish exports to the United Kingdom was £53,568,944.

Underscoring the need for dollar goods sales are government figures showing that in 1950 the republic sold only $3,690,000 worth of goods to the U.S. but imported $56,000,000 worth.

"It is an unhealthy economy in which net saving has ceased and consumption has outrun income," says Macentee.

"No government could allow this state of affairs to continue. Having reached the end of our external resources, we should suddenly find ourselves unable to pay for one-third of our current imports; employment now maintained on the basis of consuming external capital would come to an end, and an incalculable degree of economic and social hardship would follow.

"Want and hardship and unemployment would become widespread."

Jacoby On Bridge

DON'T LOSE SLEEP OVER POOR HANDS

When the average bridge player gets a long succession of miserable hands, his heart sinks and his brain shuts down. A demoralized expert often plays worse than a beginner.

The opposite is true of my old friend Abe Wechsler, who spends his time as a big bean in the coffee business when he isn't busy as an ace at bridge. Mr. Wechsler moans gently about the bad cards he holds but concentrates on play ing the defense as skilfully as possible. The result is very annoying to his opponents.

Take the hand shown today as an example. South won the opening club lead with the nine and noted that he needed two heart tricks to make sure of his contract. He therefore led a low heart from his hand and played the queen from dummy.

This was a mistake on South's part, as you've surely noticed. (If you don't see the error, don't admit it. We'll come back to it.)

Mr. Wechsler, holding the East cards, pounced on South's mistake by allowing dummy's queen of hearts to hold the trick. This was a very neat bit of pouncing, because it gave South a chance to go down. If East had taken the first heart, nothing could stop declarer from bringing in two heart tricks to make his contract.

Declarer continued by playing the jack of hearts from dummy, and this time Mr. Wechsler won with the king of hearts. Now dummy's hearts were dead. South would have to lead the suit twice more from dummy to set up the last heart, and then he would need a third entry to dummy to cash that last heart. Since dummy had only two entries, this could not be done.

South might have made the contract by good guessing, but he floundered about with unsuccessful finesses in spades and diamonds and wound up with only eight tricks.

While we're congratulating Mr. Wechsler for a very pretty defensive play, let's not forget to roast South for his bad play at the second trick. The right play is to finesse the eight of hearts, or to lead the seven of hearts and let it ride.

This obliges East to win the first round of hearts with the nine. South wins the spade return with the ace (or a club return with the king) and leads his remaining heart. Now South will surely win two heart tricks, and he is not at the mercy of guesses and finesses.

Indian Lad, 11, Is Mathematical Genius

Newcastle, England. — Krishan Kumar, 11, an Indian boy who came to Britain six months ago, invariably has a 100-per-cent mark in mathematics.

Yet Krishan never works out a problem—he merely puts down the answer. The most complicated sums and algebraic problems are just mental exercise.

"Even for an English boy speaking his own language, tackling compound interest, fractions, percentages and algebra in this way would be extraordinary," said headmaster G. D. Pearson.

So far, Krishan doesn't know enough English to allow research into his capabilities. But, as long as he understands the problem, Krishan can easily divide 2341.72 by 1079.1 as other 11-year-olds do simple addition and subtraction.

The Record Short Story

THESE THINGS HAPPEN

By NORA SMARIDGE

Sara Larsen, demonstrator for RoseKreme products, felt a stab of fear as she spotted the man on the fringe of the crowd round the dime-store Beauty Bar. This was the third time she'd seen him hanging around this week. Once she'd caught him staring at her — and he had looked quickly away.

A pickpocket? Or some maniac who might follow her home.

She brought her attention back to her audience, focusing on a harassed-looking housewife. "RoseKreme babies your budget the way it babies your skin," she said brightly. "Consider my complexion, ladies. . ."

My only good point, she thought. It got me this job; my skin, plus the fact that I had the experience of working in a drugstore before I married Tom.

She'd been lucky, getting hired by RoseKreme. Because she wasn't really the type to be a beauty demonstrator. She looked exactly what she was, a middle-aged widow with passable looks and not much style-sense.

She hadn't expected to get the job. She had applied in desperation, disheartened by the dull, badly-paying jobs which were all she had been able to get in the two years since Tom's death. Jobs like wrapping packages and sorting mail.

RoseKreme gave her a discouragaing reception — until they got a good look at her complexion. Her skin was good—fine texture, and hardly a line (she could thank Tom for that. Bless him, he had given her a good life, no cause for worry). RoseKreme decided to try her out. They had made her get her hair styled, told her to use more lipstick, wear RoseKreme's latest shade in nail polish.

She'd held the job two months now, made good money. Soon she'd be able to move to a better room.

The crown thinned, and Sara started thankfully for her lunch. The last two days had been trying, with the sales crowds pouring in from Fifth Avenue. And this morning had been a nightmare. A shopper's purse had been stolen when she laid it down, and the way she acted you'd think Sara had been responsible. Another had set down a box of soggy cream cakes; it had split, showering the stock with cream and crumbs.

Then, to crown it all, that man had appeared again. Maybe she ought to report him. But if she were just imagining things, it wouldn't be so good.

In the cafeteria, she decided to ask Elsie's advice. Elsie Wilson supervised the employes' cafeteria; she had worked here for years. Elsie was experienced; she knew plenty.

Elsie caught on at once. "A thin, dark man pulling a now-you-see-me-now-you-don't-act?" she asked. "Is he dressy?"

"Kind of ordinary," Sara frowned. "You wouldn't notice him in a crowd." Any more than you would have noticed my Tom, she thought. But Tom wasn't ordinary when you knew him. There was his smile, the nicest ever. And his eyes—gray, honest eyes.

"Must be Mr. Tennbaum," Elsie said. "He dresses that way not to be conspicuous."

Sara flushed. "You mean he's a store detective?" She should have plained everything.

"Not exactly. He's a spotter for RoseKreme." Elsie grinned. "Supposed to be anonymous, but you can't put anything over on me." She explained, "He drops in to check on you demonstrators. Makes sure you're not giving the customers any backtalk. And that you look right—no straggly hair or chipped nail polish."

Sara felt sick. He'll have plenty to report about me, then." She sighed, "I had a terrible morning."

"Better perk up this afternoon, then. It was Mr. Tennbaum who got Wanda fired. Not that I blame him. Wanda was a mess." Elsie smiled encouragingly. "Maybe it'll work out the other way for you. If he hands in a good report, you may be promoted to another store. Maybe a department store out on the island. You'd like that, huh?"

"Sure," Sara tried to smile, touched by Elsie's kindness. But it didn't really matter. Nothing mattered much to her since Tom had died.

Maybe she could make friends easier on Long Island. Meet someone and get married again.

Because I'd give a lot to get married again, Tom, she thought. It's not that I've forgotten you, or ever could. You made me happy. Too happy, maybe. Seems as if I can't take the loneliness.

She'd tried making friends, but it was hard in a city. You could meet women at card parties and church affairs. But not men. Unmarried men, that is.

She took Elsie's advice and perked up that afternoon, making her smile bright, trying to put a lilt in her voice, draw the crowds. And she did well—until the tired mother came in, just before closing time, dragging a little boy with a flag. She started pawing through the RoseKreme nail polish. Then, as the last-minute mob bore down on the Beauty Bar, she picked the boy from under their feet and sat him up on an empty bit of the counter.

"Take it easy with that flag, honey!" Sara smiled at him. She ought to make the mother lift him down again, and she ought to stop him waving that flag around before he hit something. But it was near closing time anyawy, and he was a cute little fellow. The kind she'd wanted, but she and Tom had been lucky in every way but that. "Watch out now—"

She broke off with a cry. Already the flagstick had hit a powderbowl. And the child, twisting round, knocked against a hanging shelf. Losing his balance, he slid off the counter, powderbowls crashing after him.

"Junior!" His mother screamed, pushing towards him. "Junie, Bar. She should have—"

A bigger crowd collected, but Sara didn't notice. Slipping from behind the Beauty Bar she pulled the scared little boy to his feet. None of the glass seemed to have cut him, so she lifted him quickly out of the danger zone just as he started to yell.

"You're okay, Junior." Relieved, his mother started to scold him. "You shouldn't have—now, stop that—lissen, now—"

"Just a minute," Sara said. She scooped up a package of candy from the candy counter with a quick "Pay you later" to the clerk. Gently, she pushed it into the child's hand. "There now," she soothed. "Stop crying—be a big boy!"

"Oh thanks, Miss." The mother was embarrassed now, suddenly realizing that she was the center of a crowd.

She pulled the little boy with her, disappearing rapidly. And Sara, coming to herself, found that she was standing out in the aisle, her counter unattended.

She should not have acted so impulsively. She should have let the mother see to her child. She should have seen that the glass was swept up at once. She should have kept her eye on the Beauty Bar. She should have—

And, at that moment, she saw the man again, and her heart plummeted. Mr. Tennbaum. She might have known. He'd seen the whole thing. And after this morning, too. Sara's hands shook as she tidied up the counter. Stupid woman that she was, she'd never hold down a job like this. She was like Wanda—a mess!

She was making for the bus when she saw him again, at the bus stop. Sara stared. Why, now she was closer, he looked a bit like Tom. Something about his shoulders, the way he wore his hat pulled down.

She must have been staring harder than she knew, because he turned round and recognized her. His look startled her. It was kind, sympathetic, as if he knew what she had been through.

It was because of that look that she dared to do what she did. She went forward quickly, and said, "Mr. Tennbaum—could I speak to you a minute?"

He looked surprised, but he moved out of the crowd and Sara followed, beginning to tremble. "It's about today," she stammered. "I'm not usually so clumsy or impulsive-acting, honest I'm not. It was just one of those days." She added, the words tumbling over each other. "I know you got to turn in your report. But maybe—well, I need the job, Mr. Tennbaum!"

"But I'm not Mr. Tennbaum, the man said. He reddened. I'm Pat Cavanaugh, from Connor's, across the street. I work in their shipping department."

"Connor's?" Sara gasped. "But I—I thought you were a spotter for my company. I've seen you around a few times. I thought you were keeping an eye on me."

"I was." He had a nice voice, nice eyes, too, blue—and as honest as Tom's. "I've been trying to get up nerve to speak to you. I found out you were a widow, so it wouldn't be out of order to ask you out. But I—well, when it came right down to it, I hadn't the nerve—"

"Ask me out?" Sara's heart began to jump. "But—but why me?" The store's full of younger women, she thought. Prettier, smarter.

"I took a liking to you, I guess," he said. His smile was shy. "These things happen." Then, as the School Principals'

P.A.P.T., urged the principals to be members of the P.A.P.T. because of their "educational leadership in the community."

J. Edward Perry, of Knowlton, chairman, reported on progress made by a group of principals working on a curriculum change which would get more pupils to stay in schol for longer periods of time. The plan is a long-range one and years will pass by before it can be fully instituted.

The school board members, under Mr. Flood, who replaced Dr. C. N. Crutchfield, of Shawinigan Falls, president, because of the later's illness, discused a variety of subjects including membership and fees are relating to the future of the P.A.P.S.B., finance, teacher-board relations, buildings, P.A.P.S.B. hockey league, and heard reports of committees.

Among the subjects which will be presented at the annual meeting are a plan for revision of fees in which the boards would pay for membership on a school's per capita basis and the painting of all school buses a uniform color.

The revision of membership fees plan was set up by a committee under the chairmanship of Wesley H. Bradley, Q.C., of Sherbrooke, O.R. Jackman, of Granby and Mr. Flood. Owing to the absence of Mr. Bradley, shaken-up in a highway accident last week, the measure was presented by Mr. Flood and approved by the gathering in principle.

Mr. Flood suggested that, for the sake of safety, all school buses be painted the same color so that buses belonging to schools could be recognized from a distance. The meeting approved of this measure and voted that the color be yellow-orange.

Mr. Flood said that there is a law forbidding motorists to pass a school bus which had come to a stop but this observance was "largely negative."

"There are not enough traffic cops to enforce this measure," he said. "One or two good accidents will set back the cause of consolidation very much. We would forcefully suggest that all schools adopt this color when next they paint their buses and that contract buses also use this color."

On the motion of Harry Jones, of Bedford, seconded by Abel Whitehead, of Bury, the meeting passed a resolution to send formal note of sympathy to the family of the late Eric Fisher, great friend of Protestant Education in Quebec.

Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant Education for Quebec and Hon. C. D. French, Provincial Mines' Minister and Compton County School Board member, were present for the Saturday morning P.A.P.S.B. meeting. They were also special guests at the closing luncheon.

Dr. Percival brought greetings from the Department of Education and the Quebec Home and School Federation which was meeting in Montreal that day. In a brief address, Dr. Percival spoke of the improvements in Protestant education over the past twenty years.

Hon. C. D. French brought greetings from the Provincial cabinet and expressed his pleasure at the interest taken by the group in the improvement of Protestant education.

Mr. Greene, president of the Principals' Association, and banquet chairman, thanked Malcolm Dunsmore, principal of Granby High School, and O. R. Jackman, chairman of the Granby School Board, for their efforts in making the conference a success.

Alderman Ralph Allen brought the greetings of the City of Granby. Other speakers were: Mr. Jackman, Dr. Patterson, Dr. J. D. Jefferis, professor of education at Bishop's University; Dr. Flood and L. F. Somerville of Richmond.

Guest speaker was Claude Richardson, Q.C., a well-known Montreal lawyer. "If I were a teacher," he stated, "I would stress four R's —reality, a search for; reconciliation, of conflict; rectitude, and responsibility, an abiding sense of."

He said a reconciliation of conflict, particularly in the "so-called labor problem," between those who own and those who "are dispossessed" would pay off in social dividends.

In the matter of rectitude, rather lack of it, Mr. Richardson chastised his fellow lawyers as much as any other group. "We should defend a man only if we are convinced of his innocence."

The conference got underway Friday evening with a reception at City Hall by Mayor Horace Boivin. His worship made a brief address, expressing his pleasure that the groups had chosen Granby as the site of their conference and his sympathy as a public figure to the schools for their budget-balancing difficulties. This latter was prompted by the difficult experience of men in civic life in balancing their municipal budgets but he added Granby has been most fortunate in this matter.

Attending the conference from this district were the following principals: S. L. Hodge, Thetford Mines; W. W. Gibson, Sherbrooke; S. J. Olney, Magog; E. E. Denison, Lennoxville; Frank Trecartin, Bedford; C. W. Dickson, supervisor, Richmond; L. F. Somerville, Richmond; George Rothney, Asbestos; N. A. Todd, Drummondville; John Wood, Cowansville; J. E. Perry, Knowlton; W. W. Roberts, Cookshire; Malcolm Dunsmore, Granby.

Board members attending from this district were: Abel Whitehead, Bury; Robert Flood, Waterloo; H. S. S. Sanderson, Stanstead; Mrs. Eileen Miller, N. R. Mitchell, G. D. McKenna, O. R. Jackman, W. R. Bradford, Dr. B. S. W. Brown, all of Granby; H. E. French, Drummondville; J. A. Hill, Drummondville; S. M. Paige, Windsor Mills; G. Marveau Alexander, Richmond; Duncan L. MacLeod, Milan; Robert A. Smith, Scotstown; Spencer Brock, Danville.

Chinchilla Club Has Meeting At North Hatley

A meeting of the Eastern Townships Chinchilla Club was held at the Pleasant View Hotel, North Hatley, on Saturday evening, under the chairmanship of R. E. Price, president.

Tentative plans were made and a program was drawn up for a field day and banquet to be held in June when E. D. Gunter of Hamilton, inspector and secretary-treasurer for the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada, will be present.

After the discussion of other business on hand, the meeting adjourned with the serving of refreshments by the entertainment committee.

In his reply, Colson said, "with reference your item one of that message, I do admit that there have been instances of bloodshed when many prisoners of war have been killed and wounded by U.N. forces. I will do all within my power to eliminate further violence and bloodshed. . . .

Colson did not accede to the second demand, for the U.N. command to abandon its principle of voluntary repatriation in truce negotiations at Panmunjom.

"That is a matter which is being discussed at Panmunjom. I have no control or influence over the decisions at the peace conference." Colson told the prisoners.

Munsan, Korea, May 12.—(AP)—The United Nations command today accused the communists of using the Korea armistic talks for a propaganda sounding board.

A U.N.C. communique said the Reds fired "their most vicious propaganda attack on the 10-month-old armistice negotiations" in a 34-minute "tirade, obviously prepared in advance" and "filled with invective, distortions and palpable lies."

Another plenary session was scheduled for 11 a.m. Tuesday (10 p.m. EDT, Monday). But Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, senior U.N. delegate, told the Reds the U.N. command "formally dissociates itself from the propaganda purposes for which you are utilizing these meetings."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il delivered the blast at the U.N. command. It was studded with Red accusations that the allies mistreated Red prisoners of war.

Never had reporters covering the negotiations in Panmunjom seen the usually mild-mannered Admiral so angry. After the 52-minute session Joy said:

"We were subjected today to one of the most vicious propaganda blasts we have ever had. The communists told us in effect that unless we intend to disrupt the meetings they would insist on meeting every day and use these meetings overtly for propaganda although they did not use those words."

Albert Gaudreau Chosen Again For Richmond

Asbestos, May 12—Albert Gaudreau, of Asbestos, who is the sitting Union Nationale representative for Richmond County in the Quebec Legislature, will again carry the party banner in the forthcoming Provincial general elections. His name was the only one to come before the party convention held here on Saturday evening.

His name was presented by J. O. Michaud, of Richmond, and was seconded unanimously, the offer being formally extended by Philippe Roy, of Richmond, who acted as chairman.

After the acceptance speech by the candidate, a political rally was held at which, the principal speaker was Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and of Hydraulic Resources.

Mr. Bourque reviewed the general record of the Duplessis administration, with special emphasis on the extension of the rural electrification services in the province which came under his department.

Other speakers included Jacques Auger, of Montreal, Wilfrid Labbe, M.L.A., for Arthabaska, Henri Vachon, M.L.A., for Wolfe, and Dr. E. Jacques, of Richmond.

ber 13,000 new outbreaks were reported. There were 123 in March and only 73 in April."

Bonn, West Germany—Fewer than 1,000 farms now are affected by the disease, an agriculture ministry official said. Standard measures are vaccination and an embargo movement of animals outside affected areas.

Berlin—East German authorities report only a few isolated cases of the disease near the West German border. Animals in farms along the border were being vaccinated.

Vienna—More than 2,000 farms in Austria are affected by the outbreak, which began last Nov. 11. Most infected animals have been cured through inoculation. The serum came from West Germany, Italy and France. Farms and villages affected by the disease are put under a strict quarantine.

Rome—Italy has lost one per cent of her cattle in the epidemic since last fall but it now is well on the decline. Out of 8,000,000 head of cattle, 120,000 were infected and about 80,000 died or were slaughtered. Serious cases are slaughtered but medical treatment has been used to control the disease—vaccine for healthy cattle a special serum for diseased cattle, with sulfa drugs to prevent malignant heart complications. Both vaccine and serum are produced in Italy.

Ottawa—Canada's first outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease now is five months old and it has cost farmers in the affected area in Saskatchewan 1,742 head of cattle.

London—The British government is determined to maintain its policy of slaughtering animals infected with foot-and-mouth dissease. Officials in London regard this as the only means of checking the outbreak which since last November has broken out in 262 places and has led to the slaughter of 15,169 cattle, 9,623 sheep, 6,589 pigs and 20 goats.

cials immediately told him to stop talking and to go inside.

Correspondents were asked by the authorities to move away to prevent any incident. As they complied, prisoners returned to the compound, waving a petition.

Camp officials were in control outside the prisoner compound. But it was obvious that the communist prisoners were running things to suit themselves inside.

Opposition Chief

said it did not equal Ontario's nor that of some western provinces.

Moreover, he said, salaries in Quebec were inferior to those in Ontario. The agricultural class was in the same situation compared with Ontario and some of the western provinces.

Teachers were poorly paid, he said, and the government was more interested in building schools than in paying the teachers.

He said Quebec's civil servants were paid "starvation wages" although the government recently granted "meagre increases on the eve of an election."

Ottawa Share

tive Council is Liberals, 16; Union Nationale, 7; vacancies 1. Voting is seldom according to party lines in the Council where members are appointed for life.)

The Premier didn't refer to Liberal Leader Georges LaPalme by name when he asked his listeners: "Should a man who was an unknown in Ottawa become the first man in Quebec province?"

Mr. LaPalme was Member of Parliament for Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm riding when he resigned to become Quebec Liberal leader in May, 1950.

The Premier said he wanted Quebec province to be master of its destiny. To achieve this, he said Quebec needed its rightful share of taxation revenues.

Ottawa reaps 77 per cent of overall taxation and 13 per cent is collected by the province. The balance goes to municipalities, he said.

Defence Departments

could be purchased openly on the streets of Ottawa at a fraction of their real value," he continued, "but neither the Minister of Defence nor the Minister of Justice took any notice of his offer."

The Government had cut off a parliamentary inquiry, or any other inquiry, into the thefts by declaring that such a probe would prejudice the position of six men who were before courts in connection with the Petawawa thefts. This was a specious argument because the men would have been protected by the evidence act if they had been summoned by an inquiry to tell what they knew.

The reason they had suppressed any discussion was that it was not the six men who were on trial before the country but the inefficiency and incompetence of the Government itself.

The Government had become crazy with power, he maintained as evidenced by a statement of the Finance Minister, who said in Commons: "Don't try to kid yourselves. If we want to get away with it, who's going to stop us?"

The Brome-Missisquoi by-election would not involve the defeat of the Government, he told the electors, but it did give the people an opportunity of telling the administration they did not like the way things were being handled. It gave them an opportunity to express their resentment at the high taxes, which had been raised despite the heavy surpluses piled up during the past few years. It gave them an opportunity to protest the mishandling of the foot-and-mouth disease situation which threatened to deprive Canada of its hard-won markets for agricultural products.

"No one claims the Government caused the outbreak of this dread disease," he said, "but we do hold the Government at fault for not acting more promptly when it appeared likely that the cattle were suffering from this plague."

He also criticized the failure of the cabinet to protect the textile industry and other lines from the cut-price influx of foreign products which was resulting in Canadian unemployment.

In his address here, he declared himself in favor of the establishment of a French-speaking military college in this province.

Speaking in French from a prepared statement later released to the press, he said in part:

"I would now touch on a question that my good friend, Leon Balcer, deputy for Three Rivers, has several times discussed: That of the establishment of a military college in Quebec. With my colleague, Mr. Balcer, I believe that such a college would give excellent results and that it would contribute greatly to maintaining national unity and in establishing equality of treatment in the armed forces by giving to the young men of the Province of Quebec the chance to receive the same groundwork as in the English-speaking military colleges. This is not the first time, which I referred to a military college in this province. For example, I made it a short time ago in Montreal. I also suggested that we might call this college "Cartier College" in tribute to Sir George-Etienne Cartier who once occupied the post of Minister of National Defence. But Mr. Claxton told Mr. Balcer such a college would cost too much. Remember, Mr. Claxton is at the head of a department which has been most guilty of extravagances during the past few years."

In his address at Brome, Mr. Drew declared that never in the history of Canada had the Liberal and Conservative parties been further apart. The Conservatives were guided by five basic principles, all starting with the letter "C". These were:

1.—The Crown "and all it stands for, because the Crown is the continuing symbol of freedom that we assess as the very lifeblood of our country."

2.—The Country—"this Canada, which must live in united harmony along lines established by men and women living here."

3. — The Commonwealth, and "wholehearted participation as a partner in that Commonwealth which has been a source of our principal markets over the years."

4.—The Constitution, designed for a federal system to guarantee the people a "balance of power concept, must be kept within this frame of reference."

5.—The Commons — "most important of all, because all the rest depend on it for their interpretation."

"It means the people. The House of Commons is simply the House of the People. Our whole democ- that."

The "most important of all" principle is being violated by the racy depends on recognition of Liberal Government, said Mr. Drew.

A resolution that all medical expenses be deducted for income tax purposes was adopted in the House by unanimous vote of "every member of all parties," yet two weeks later, when Finance Minister Abbott presented his budget, "he informed us he was not paying any attention to that unanimous resolution of parliament."

That, said Mr. Drew, shows "this Government considers itself above Parliament."

Speaking of special powers given the provinces through the Canadian constitution, he said:

"The provinces must not be left dependent on a handout from the central government if unity is to be built up in the years ahead.

"We believe in the constitution as the basis on which we can preserve our civil rights and by which we can prevent any completely tyrannical dictatorship in Ottawa in the days to come."

Other speakers at the various meetings included the candidate, John T. Hackett, Q.C., and John Crankshaw, Q.C., of Montreal, Maurice Archambault, of Farnham, and Col. J. E. R. Roberge, of Coaticook.

Cowansville W. I. Heard Fine Paper On Gardening

Cowansville, May 12 — Mrs. Rowe, and Mrs. William Beattie, entertained the Women's Institute at the home of the latter, on May 6. In answer to the roll call, the members named and described a number of common weeds, which invade gardens.

In response to a letter from Mrs. Reed, convener of the committee, on pooling of fares the delegate to the Provincial Convention, was instructed to vote in favor of the paying of twelve dollars as an average amount from each branch.

The Institute accepted with pleasure an invitation from the Fordyce Women's Institute to the present at a meeting in the United Church parlors, on June 4.

A notice was read in regard to a handicraft exhibition at Macdonald College, in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, June 24-26.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Gordon Brown, convener of Agriculture, who read a very interesting and well written article on the making of good gardens.

Among many helpful suggestions for increasing the pleasures of gardening, which the writer gave were the following: To plant at least two new flowers or vegetables each year; to maintain a composite pile; to make an early detection of blight or disease and burn the infected plants immediately; to gladden one's friends with gifts of produce or flowers. The article closed with the beautiful poem by Edgar Guest, on "The Loveliest of Gardens." The president thanked Mrs. Brown for this stimulating article.

Arrangements were made for a representation of members to attend the County Meeting, on May 7, at Stanbridge East.

An exchange of plants took place.

Very delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Hitchcock.

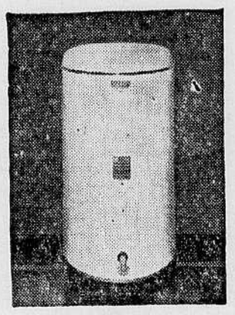
HOT WATER SERVICE



Insist on a RUUD . . . it gives service.

Whether at home, in town or in the country, there's nothing like a hot bath to keep you fresh and rested in the worst heat wave. And there is nothing like hot water all the time to speed household chores or, in mud-pie season, to wash these dirty little hands and faces or launder their soiled clothes.

For all the hot water you need, nothing can compare with an electric automatic water heater. It requires no attention and costs so little: 25¢ per person per week. For hot water service at the turn of a faucet, it's RUUD automatic water heater.

The Middle-Age Myth

Plan For Middle Years While You're Young

This is the first of six articles by a noted woman medical adviser who shows women the sound and sensible approach to middle age. An authority on psychosomatic medicine, Dr. Adele Streeseman has practiced industrial medicine, served as a psychiatric consultant, and for 15 years has been medical adviser to the Women's Prison Association of New York City. She is a Fellow of the American Psychosomatic Society and the author of the book, "You're Human, Too," published last year by Coward-McCann.

By ADELE E. STREESEMAN, M.D.

There is a current advertising campaign which features the picture of a famous movie star and beneath, a line that runs something like this: "Will you look as young as Gloria Swanson at 53?"

It's a springboard for thought. But that's only one-tenth of it. Actually, the question that every woman who's now in her twenties or her thirties or even her early forties should put to herself is: "What kind of person will I be when I'm middle aged? Emotionally, physically, financially —just what will I be like?"

The first step in building a life that's sound emotionally and otherwise in middle age is to start while you're young. It's like saving up for a rainy day. You must have something in the bank, emotionally, to see you through. This means planning ahead, many years before your children leave home, before your looks change or go.

Look at the unhappy faces of many middle-aged women

Look about you. Look at the discontented, unhappy faces of many women who are middle-aged today. Note the deep lines of self-pity, the worried looks, the antagonism towards the world. These are the women—so many of them —who did not plan ahead, who did not save for the rainy day of middle age.

As a psychiatrist, my daily working life is made up of trying to help just women. As they pass through my office, they unfold haunting stories of wasted youthful years. Now, they have reached an important turning point in their lives and they are unprepared. They don't know how to readjust to it. They are suffering from a kind of trauma. Some of them have husbands who are straying. Others have worries over financial insecurity, or dread of being physically unattractive or fear of the "change of life."

Altogether, their stories make up a great parade of woe. And it's a parade that the woman who is young now need never join—if she will plan ahead.

Perhaps the greatest single difficulty women have to overcome in approaching middle age is this nation's immature worship of youth. Leaf through a magazine. It's filled with ads telling women how to say young-looking, how to choose clothes that aid in regaining a youthful appearance, how to r tain a youthful energy and glow.

A woman who looks and dresses youthufully in middle age is bound to remain attractive to men, these ads imply. Thus, she's in no danger of losing her husband.

Is this true? Divorce courts give evidenc to the contrary. Through them passes the daily parade of slim and youthful-looking middle-aged women whose husbands are shedding them for one reason or another.

It's beyond disput that to be slim in middle age is healthy and that to be attractive is a great aid to one's morale. But the solution to all problems does not lie in physical appearance. There's much more to it that that.

Tomorrow: False accent on allure.

DOROTHY DIX

Dating Question

Reader Claims "Merry-Go-Round" Is Training for Divorce Court

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: When our marital advisors continually urge girls to look around, encourage them to meet many young men, and vice versa, I am a little disgusted. For what can be more confusing than to get on the date merry-go-round? Certainly adolescence is a period of change, but is this eternal jumping very good training for a right marriage? Rather, isn't it perfect training for the divorce court—the eternal triangle played up in every play and movie?

The advice to make every date think you are interested in him alone seems to me to place everyone in an insincere light. True, one should be polite and friendly, but no more.

If parents, schools and churches would see to it that more opportunity was given for group entertainment and there was less emphasis on dating, it seems to me our young people would have a better chance to make marriage successful. There should be more stress on character development, and less on being an interesting "date."

A. F.

ANSWER: Young people begin to show interest in the opposite sex at about the age of 14. It would be most unfortunate if, at that age, they felt impelled to pick out, once and forever, a future mate. "Dating" is an inescapable step in the process of growing up, and whether we oldsters approve of it or not, it's here to stay! For the better interests of all concerned, it's best that dating in the tender years should be as varied as possible. This does not make for a "merry-go-round," as you call it, but for a well balanced social life, during which a girl can learn to evaluate the good and bad qualities of her friends.

GIRL LEARNS MUCH

You might raise the objection that marriage is not fundamentally a question of evaluation; it is usually purely and simply the result of "falling in love." True, but if a girl has learned to appreciate and expect courtesy, consideration and reliability in a boy, that's the kind of man she will in all probability fall in love with. That's the kind of man she will marry!

Much more likely to be divorced court material is the girl who, lacking all appreciation of finer masculine qualities or any basis of comparison, marries the first man who proposes simply because he's male! These are the women who become dissatisfied with their hasty choices and are easy prey for every roving Romeo.

I am certainly not suggesting that a girl's dating should be indiscriminate, but neither should it be numerically restricted. Quality, not quantity, should be the first object always.

There is no insincerity involved in a girl making her "date" feel important. In the vast majority of cases, he is important to her, and for the moment, at least, very much the "only one." Learning to make the other half of a two-way conversation feel important is one of the social graces we all have to learn. Whether it's a first date, a business associate or a fellow club-woman, at the moment of contact he or she is entitled to our entire attention and interest.

Group activity should, as you suggest, be given more promotion by schools and churches. In this instance, I think the church has an even greater part to play and one that is too often neglected. However, "dating" will ultimately be an outgrowth of such activity anyway, at least until the realm of human emotion changes considerably.

If you are a parent, A.F., learn to guide your children wisely through the dating years. Dates are, I might add, a delight to the youngsters but an awful headache to parents!

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been separated for nearly a year—six months legally. Our two children are in my custody. How long should I wait before going out again? An old friend has asked me out but I don't know what to do.

DORIS H.

ANSWER: There is no reason why you shouldn't accept a date now. Be careful, however, that loneliness doesn't lure you into another unwise entanglement. As a divorcee you are bound to be the object of easy gossip, and you must exercise every precaution to safeguard your reputation—for your own sake and that of your children.

CLEVELAND'S "BIG FOUR" HURLING STAFF COMES THROUGH

Bob Lemon And Mike Garcia Polish Off Browns To Cop Twin Bill As Sox Shut Out By Yanks; Dodgers Win

What happened to the lively ball? Like the dodo bird, it appears to have become extinct.

Two years ago the pitchers were wailing about two much jackrabbit in the ball. Now the hitters are doing the moaning and groaning.

The major league season is less than a month old and already 28 shutouts have been pitched. American League hurlers, who have turned in 17 whitewashing jobs, have spun seven 1-0 games to equal their full-season total of 1951.

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees pitched brilliant 1-0, two-hit victories yesterday. That boosted to 35 the total of games this year in which a team was held to four hits on less.

Only four home runs were hit yesterday. That raised the two leagues' total to 217, 70 fewer than the total at a corresponding date last year.

Lemon's two-hit victory was followed by Mike Garcia's eight-hit, 3-1 triumph that enabled the Indians to sweep a doubleheader from the Browns and increase their Americans League lead to two games over the runner-up Washington Senators.

Lemon was extended to the limit as New Garver, Brownie ace, yielded only four hits himself. Three of them came in the last half of the ninth to furnish the only run. Dale Mitchell's two-out single with the bases loaded broke up the mound duel.

The Indians collected only five hits off loser Cain and two relievers in the second game but made them all count for Garcia's fourth victory.

Reynolds, who hurled a no-hitter aganist the Red Sox last September, nearly duplicated the stunt. The only hits the Red sox got yesterday were first-inning singles by Dom DiMaggio and Vern Stephens a sthe Yankee righthander registered his 1-0 triumph at the expense of Mel Parnell.

Hank Bauer singled with one out in the fifth, advance dto second on a grounder an dscored on a line single by Irv Noren.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox into third place, 10 percentage points behind Washington.

The Senators defeated Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2, in 11 innings of the first game of a scheduled double-header. Rain washed out the second tilt after two scoreless innings.

Detroit Tigers snapped their seven-game losing streak, nipping Chicago, 2-1, after the White Sox had won the first game of the doubleheader, 6-5. Rookie George Lerchen's eighth-inning single drove Johnny Lipon home from second with the winning Tiger run in the eighth. Minnie Minoso's two-run homer and strong relief pitching by Saul Rogovin, another ex-Tiger, won the opener for Chicago.

Brooklyn Dodgers whittled New York's National League lead to one game, edging Philadelphia, 4-3, in 10 innings.

An error set up Brooklyn's winning run. Pee Wee Reese got a life on Granny Hamner's bobble, stole second an dscored on a two-out single by Roy Campanella.

Joe Adcock walloped two homers and a single to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Chicago Cubs split a twin bill with Pittsburgh, losing 11-2 after winning the opener, 8-2. George Metkovich drove in three runs with a triple and three singles to help Bob Friend register his second Pirate victory. Hank Sauer backed up Paul Minner's five-hit pitching in the opener with a home run, double and single.

The scheduled doubleheader between the Giants and Braves in Boston was rained out.

Three Rivers Sweeps Both Ends Of Twin Bill From Drummondville As Braves And Athletics Divide Pair

Three Rivers Yankees took both ends of a home-and-home Provincial Baseball League doubleheader from Drummondville Cubs Sunday while at St. Hyacinthe Athletics and Quebec Braves split a twin bill at Quebec. All other games scheduled Sunday were postponed because of rain.

At Three Rivers in the afternoon game, the Yankees capitalized on six hits, walks and two Drummondville errors to take the game 9-6 and in the evening fixture they came from behind to edge the Cubs 6-5.

At Quebec, St. Hyacinthe took the opener 5-1 and Quebec the abbreviated nightcap, 3-2.

In Saturday games, Drummondville downed St. Hyacinthe 7-4; Quebec trounced St. Johns 10-1; and Three Rivers walloped Granby 15-2.

In the Yankees' first victory, Three Rivers bunched three runs in the bottom half of the second inning against the Cubs 'two and were never headed. They scored twice more in the third, three times in the fourth and once in the fifth.

One marker in the third, two in the sixth and another in the final frame completed the Drummondville scoring.

Humberto Robinson, who went the route for Three Rivers, was credited with the victory. Ackroyd Smith, relieved in the third, was the loser.

The Yanks' second win was more difficult. Cubs piled up three runs in the bottom half of the opening frame, but the Yankees came through with a single in the third, two runs in the fifth, and singles in the last three innings to take the game.

Yves Aubin went the route for the Yankees, allowing nine hits. Melvin Doxtator went to the mound first for the Cubs. He was replaced by Bill Gilday in the eighth and Dante Cozzi got into the game in the final frame in a futile effort to stop the Yankees.

Both teams erred three times.

At Quebec, in the nine-inning opener, each team got seven hits but St. Hyacinthe came through with three runs in the third, enough to win the ball game. Hugh Mulcahy was the winner.

In the seven-inning nightcap, Quebec crossed the plate with single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth, enough to offset the two runs that St. Hyacinthe got in the sixth.

Tht Athletics were limited to five safeties and Quebec picked up seven. Each team erred once afield. Dick Cordero was credited with the victory.

E. P. Taylor Denies Race Track Story

Toronto, May 12. — (CP) — Industrialist E. P. Taylor Saturday denied a report that he is heading a syndicate which plans to build a modern race track here and "put Toronto in the big on racing."

"I want to say definitely that the rumor is untrue," said Mr. Taylor.

The report said Mr. Taylor, acting for a syndicate, planned to buy Dufferin Park, Thorncliffe and sufficient stock in Woodbine to gain control of that track and then build a new track to replace the three.

Johnny Longden Needs Only Couple More Winners To Enter Magical 4,000 Circle With Gordon Richards

Inglewood, Calif., May 12.—(AP)—This is the week Johnny Longden should ring up his 4,000th win in a horse race—a record unapproached in American racing and a mark held by only one man in the world.

Longden, a remarkable athlete at the age of 42, needs but three more victories to hit the 4,000 figure.

He will have ample opportunity at Hollywood Park, which opens its annual summer meeting tomorrow for a 50-day run.

The likeable little veteran from Taber, Alta., almost attained the 4,000 mark in the meeting that just closed at Golden Gate. Saturday he rode two winners out of four mounts—and lost a third by a nose—to reach No. 3,997.

Fame, fortune and banquets are nothing new to the little man. But his friends say this 4,000 distinction is one he has anticipated with great pride.

The only other rider who has reached, and passed, the figure is Gordon Richards of England, a man about Johnny's age and with whom he became close friends during a trip abroad in 1949.

Longden began his career on the race tracks in 1927—with one, yes, one, victory.

Since then he has been perhaps the hardest working gentleman in the business, and certainly one of the most successful.

Three times—in 1938, in 1947, and 1948—he has been the national riding champion, and every year the London name is prominent among the leading riders in America.

Johnny shies away from questions about his wealth. But in 1946 his community property was estimated a $750,0000, and its certain the money-winning Longden hasn't lost any of it.

Gehrmann Still Has Plenty Of Kick Left

Atlantic City, May 12.—(AP)—Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin showed that his famous finishing kick is just as good in a straightaway race yesterday when he won the fifth running of the Boardwalk Mile in a record for the event of 4:05.3.

Coming from behind down the Boardwalk just as he likes to do in races on orthodox curved tracks, Gehrmann spurted into the lead 30 yards from the end to beat Horace Ashenfelter of the New York Athletic Club by a 1½ yards. Bill Ashenfelter, former Penn State star running unattached, was another five yards behind his brother after leading at every quarter-mile post.

In most races the time would be sensational, matching Gil Dodd's United States indoor record and Gunder Hagg's U.S. outdoor record. But the race's time is never listed in the record books because of the unusual conditions.

The runners were aided by a wind of eight miles an hour yesterday, for example.

Browns Offer Garver To Tigers For Kell

Detroit, May 12.—(AP)—The Detroit Free Press said yesterday St. Louis Browns have offered ace pitcher Ned Garver to Detroit Tigers in return for third baseman George Kell and other players.

The Free Press says the Browns wanted "to involve a half-dozen players in what would have been one of the biggest deals in baseball history."

Vice-President Bill DeWitt of the Browns came to Detroot for two days to confer with General Manager Charlie Gehringer of the last-place Tigers, the paper reports.

"Several other key players on both teams were involved," says the Free Press.

Manager Red Rolfe confirmed there had been trade talks.

"Yes, DeWitt was here to see us but as far as making hhat trade it would be silly," Rolfe said. "We need infielders, not pitcherc."

Black-Eyed Susan Goes To Real Delight

Baltimore, May 12—(AP)—Calumet Farm's Real Delight, the odds-on choice, romped home to a 4½-length victory Saturday at Pimlico in the $25,000-added Black Eyed Susan Stakes for three-year-old fillies.

The race, worth $16,500 to the winner, formerly was known as the Pimlico Oaks.

Taking command early under the direction of Eddie Arcaro, the filly never was headed. She ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:51 4/5, a second of the track record set by Chains in 1948.

F. Eugene Dixon Jr.'s Dinewisely took second place in a close finish over Joe W. Brown's Parading Lady, rated second in the betting.

Real Delight paid $2.60, $2.60 and $2.20 Dinewisely $4.80 and $2.20 and Parading Lady $2.20.

Arcaro let Real Delight go along with plenty of power to spare until the stretch. Then Real Delight pulled away.

Davis Cup Second Round Completed Saturday

London, May 12.—(AP)—The lineup for second round play in the European Zone Davis Cup tennis eliminations was completed Saturday with the addition of France and Yugoslavia. The second round must be completed by May 20.

France gained the second round when its doubles team of Robert Abdesselam and Paul Remy defeated Norway's Erik Hessen and Sverre Lie, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2, at Oslo.

At Helsinki, Yugoslavia moved up when Vladimir Petrovic turned back Pentti Forsman of Finland, 2-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-3, in the day's opening singles match. Having clinched the series, 3-1 Yugoslavia's Josip Palada then gave Finland's Sakari Salo the victory in the final singles match by default.

Thus, France will meet the Netherlands and Yugoslavoia will face England in the second round.

Other second round pairings: Switzerland vs. Argentina; Chile vs. Sweden; Hungary vs. Belgium; Egypt vs. Italy; Monaco vs. Denmark and Brazil vs. Germany.

Betsy Rawls Sets Hot Pace In Weathervane

Seattle, May 12—(AP)Betsy Rawls of Austin, Tex., fired a blazing 69--six under women's par—to win the Seattle link of the Weathervane Open Golf Tournament today and take an 11-stroke lead over the field in the cross-country event.

Miss Rawls turned the corner in 31, six strokes under par and shot the back nine in par 38.

Her total for two days of play was 139—11 strokes better than Alice and Marlene Bauer who finished second in this 36-hole stage with 150s.

Miss Rawls' total established a competitive women's record on the Broadmoor Course which recently underwent a slight change on one nine. Marlene Bauer's 71 in match play two years ago had been regarded as the course record.

Ottawa Comes To Life And Cops Two Fom Red Wings While Royals Extend Lead With Duplication

Lou Limmer, former home-run king of the American Association, is beginning to find the range in the International League.

The lanky first baseman of Ottawa Athletics clouted a homer in each game Sunday as Ottawa defeated Rochester Red Wings 9-5 and 7-3 to sweep a four-game series.

Limmer, property of Philadelphia Athletics, now has hit five homers during the month to bring his output to the season to six. He led the Association in home runs with 29 in 1950 while at St. Paul.

Lefthander Joe Murray won the opener for Ottawa in a relief role. He allowed only one run over the last six innings. Ed Hrabczak went the distance in the second game. Limmer homered with the bases empty in the opener and with one on in the nightcap.

The league-leading Montreal Royals also won a doubleheader, beating Toronto Maple Leafs 7-2 and 2-0. The victories enabled the Royals to pull foru games in front of Buffalo Bisons.

Lefty Mal Mallette scattered nine Toronto hits in the first game while the Royals amassed 16. Don and Charley Thompson led the assault by driving in six runs and collecting four hits apiece.

Bob Alexander blanked the Leafs on five safeties in the second game. Royals scored in the third on a double, sacrifice and single and again in the sixth on Junior Gilliam's home run.

Adoubleheader between Buffalo and Syracuse, and a single game between Springfield and Baltimore, were rained out.

Sam Snead Proves No Place Like Home As He Shoots Four-Under Par Rounds To Win Greenbrier Open

White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., May 12—(AP)—There's no place like home, of course, and for Sam Snead there's no place like his home course.

Sam proved it again yesterday with a four-under-par 66 in a drenching rain to win the $1,800 first prize in the Greenbrier Open, played over the layout where he also picks up loose change as golf professional.

It was the Slammer's fourth straight sub-par round and gave him a 72-hole total of 264. His 16 strokes under par were six better than the second-place effort turned in by Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill., who pocketed $1,000.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., copped third with a 271 and $700 in prize money.

Although the 6,368 yard Old White course was drenched in a downpour, the veteran Snead shot like the sun was out as he birdied five of the last 18 holes. His only real spoiler was the fifth hole, where he took three putts.

On the 525-yard 17th the defending Greenbrier champ got onto the green in two with a pair of powerful pokes. He barely missed an 18-foot putt, then sank an easy one footer for a birdie four.

George Fazio of Pine Valley, N. J., and 27-year-old William Ford of the Detroit auto clan won the pro-amateur version of the Greenbrier with a best-ball score of 122 for 36 holes.

Fazio got $1,000 for it and Ford a silver tray.

The amateurs, three playing with each pro, represented leaders of industry and the social set.

The Duke of Windsor was among them. He shot a creditable gross score of 82 in today's 18 holes and with Vic Ghezzi shared a pro amateur score of 127.

Armageddon Upsets Field In Withers

New York, May 12.—(AP)—Armageddon, a one-eyed son of Alsab, followed in his daddy's footsteps Saturday when he won the $31,050 Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

John C. Clark's Charlie McAdam, the 8-to-5 favorite, was a disappointing seventh.

Alsab, 1942 Withers winner, also grabbed a share of the triple crown that year when he took the Preakness. His sleek bay son is expected to run in the Baltimore Classic next Saturday.

Armageddon, struck in the left eye by a flying rock last Oct. 16 when he won the Champagne Stakes here, hadn't won a race since in seven starts. But he sped home Saturday by 3½ lengths before 37,958 fans. Second was Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' One Count, and third was Primate.

The winning entry returned $21.20, $8.30 and $5.40.

Vic Seixas Walks Off With Coral Beach Event

Hamilton, Bermuda, May 12—(AP)—Vic Seixas, No. 1 ranking player of the United States, won the Coral Beach Invitation Tennis Tournament Saturday by overwhelming Mexico's Gustavo Palafox, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

The lean Philadelphian also shared the mixed doubles title with Kay Hubbell of Conway, N.H., but failed in his bid for a triple sweep when he and Palafox bowed in the men's doubles final.

SHERBROOKE ATHLETICS DROP OPENER TO ASBESTOS 11-5

Slim Crowd On Hand To Witness E. T. Intermediate Curtain-Raiser; Hon. J. S. Bourque Registers First Hit

Tony Pinard's Athletics of Sherbrooke dropped the opening tilt of the E. T. Intermediate Baseball League yesterday afternoon at Dufresne Park to Asbestos 11-5 before a slim crowd who braved the inclement weather.

Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands, Forests and Hydraulic Resources, registered the first hit of the 1952 season when he belted out a clean single off one of His Worship Mayor E. Levesque's tosses. Maurice Gingues, M.P. was in the catcher's role but failed to get his hand on the first heave as Mr. Bourque laced it out ot left field to officially open the local baseball season.

Failure to hit in the clutches proved costly to the local squad while the crew from the Mining Town belted J. L. Pepin, the A's starting hurler, for a total of nine safeties and touched his replacement, R. Gautreau, for three and chalked up only two runs.

The Pinard coached team touched R. Gauthier for nine hits but the best they could do was to get five runs. His team gave him wonderful support to help kill of several local rallies.

Sherbrooke failed to get to Gauthier until the fourth when they bounced two hits, both two-baggers by Gagne and Lefebvre, with an error and a walk to register their first runs. Until then, the Asbestos hurler had given up only one hit.

On the other side of the sheet, the visitors got to Pepin and shoved three runs across the plate. They added one more in the third and then in the fourth they chalked up four more before Manager Pinard sent in Gauthreau to kill the rally. In the fifth, he ran into a little trouble and gave up a run and in the sixth they registered two more for their last runs.

In the fifth, Jean Paul Lefebvre came through with a circuit blow with one mate aboard. In the eighth, Gaudreau led off with a single and then Forgues drove out a double to score him but then Gauthier tightened up and kept the A's away from the plate to end the game with his team leading 11-5 to cop the opener.

In the ninth, Manager Pinard sent two pinch-hitters to but but they both lifted high flys to the outfield while Dube was called out at the plate to end activities.

University Coaches Threaten To Withdraw From Olympic Cage Trials If Ridd Is Allowed To Play

London, Ont., May 12—(CP)—Two university coaches last night threatened to withdraw from the forthcoming 1952 Canadian Olympic basketball trials.

In a prepared statement, Coaches Dr. Maury Van Fliet of the University of Alberta, and Johnny Metras of the University of Western Ontario, said they objected to meeting a "composite team" from the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association.

The University of Alberta and the University of Western Ontario are scheduled to start their Canadian College Championship series here tonight. The winner of the best-of-five series is scheduled to meet Tillsonburg Livingstons, C.A.B.A. champions, in the Olympic Trails commencing May 19.

Although no names were mentioned, it has been revealed here that Metras and Dr. Van Vliet protested against a C.A.B.A. ruling permitting Tillsonburg to use Carl Ridd, a member of the Winnipeg Varsity Grads, in place of Tommy Gibbons who was ruled ineligible for the Olympic series because of his American citizenship. Tillsonburg defeated Winnipeg for the C.A.B.A. championship.

The joint statement said that under an agreement between the Universities and the Association each member of the C.A.B.A. championship team would be a regular member of that particular team under the official C.A.B.A. constitution.
