DUKE OF WINDSOR

Revive perennial argument

LONDON (AP)—British newspapers divided today in their reaction to a revival of the charge that the Duke of Windsor—while Britain's king for less than a year—wanted to make a personal deal with Hitler.

The Daily Express, published by Windsor's old friend Lord Beaverbrook, again defends the former King Edward VIII.

The Daily Mirror scathingly derides the duke.

The Manchester Guardian says the new report only showed how stupid the Nazis were.

The perennial argument was revived by publication by the British, American and French governments of captured Nazi documents kept secret since the war.

SAYS ALLIANCE URGED

The documents showed that the Duke of Windsor, German emissary to England, reported to Hitler after an interview with Edward VIII.

"A Germany-Britain alliance is for him an urgent necessity and a guiding principle for British foreign policy."

Edward abdicated in 1936 to marry an American divorcee.

Thursday, he was in Europe and could not be reached immediately for comment. But in the past when questions were raised in published Nazi documents, he denied there was anything improper in his connections.

Says Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express:

"The account given by the Duke of Windsor... has no value as evidence. All that can be said is that the Duke of Windsor was a Nazi spreading a story which he knew would be welcome in Berlin."

Mainland link impaired

Campobello residents feel isolated again as $900,000 bridge closed part of time

CAMPBELLO, N.B. (CP)—Residents of this movie-famous island at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy are feeling twinges of isolation again today only months after a $900,000 bridge offered the security of an open link with the mainland.

A federal official here confirmed Thursday that instructions had been received from Ottawa to close the Roosevelt Memorial Bridge between the island and Lunenburg, Me., for certain periods each night beginning Jan. 7.

The instructions said the customs station on the Canadian side of the bridge would be unmanned from midnight to 8 a.m. Monday through Friday and from 2 a.m. to 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The move means in effect that the international bridge will be closed during these times.

However an official of the revenue department in Ottawa said there would be no problem in getting emergency traffic across during the hours the bridge is to be closed.

TRAFFIC LIGHT

Asked for the reason for the closing, he said lack of traffic is "the prime reason."

Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming said he knew the matter was being considered but he was unaware instructions had been issued.

Meanwhile a petition is being circulated among Campobello residents by the board of trade which protests the closing. It is to be sent eventually to Mr. Flemming.

Several Los Angeles hotels are offering a free room with their package deals for New Year's Eve at prices up to $67.

One hotel's plan includes a party at the Coconut Grove, a night's lodging and a bus ride the next morning to the Rose Festival parade in Pasadena.

The most exclusive celebration in the Los Angeles area will be the black-tie affair closing Mike Romanoff's Beverly Hills Restaurant. Many Hollywood celebrities are expected to attend.

Chiefs meet 'Papa' Kennedy

Talk of thrust against Castro agitates exiles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Talks of another thrust against Fidel Castro surged through the Cuban exile colony today even as freed prisoners of the last attempt were reunited with newly arrived relatives.

The relatives, numbering more than 900, came aboard the African Pilot, the vessel that took food and medicine supplies to Castro for release of 1,113 captives taken in the April 1961, Bay of Pigs invasion.

"We shall return," proclaimed Manuel Artime, civilian leader of the attack expedition, who along with other invasion chiefs met with President Kennedy in Palm Beach, Thursday.

"Papa Kennedy," as ex-prisoners call the man in the White House, announced that he will attend a ceremony in the Orange Bowl Saturday honoring the brigade. Exiles looking toward future anti-Castro action interpreted this as a hopeful sign.

The Cuban Revolutionary Council, which dispatched the brigade to the Bay of Pigs, declared:

"An irrevocable resolution unites all of them (the returned prisoners) to return to Cuba with arms in hand to liberate the country from degrading and brutal vassalage to the United States."

Several hundred of the 463 women, 217 men and 242 children permitted to board the African Pilot in Havana—at the sacrifice of losing all their belongings—were quartered in a spacious Miami building provided by the Cuban refugee centre. The centre, operated by the U.S. department of health, education and welfare, also provided meals for returnees until they got settled. Others went to homes of friends or relatives.

The Cuban families committee, which, through New York lawyer James B. Donovan and with U.S. government help, sponsored the return of the prisoners, reported a nother load of relatives will come.

The next boat that takes supplies of medicines and foodstuffs to Havana will return with 2,000 more Cubans," said a Families Committee official. There was no immediate confirmation of this.

Kennedy told the Cuban delegation in Palm Beach that he "hopes some day to visit a free Cuba."

The Revolutionary Council, headed by Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, urged all exiles of military age to enlist in the U.S. armed forces. Some 2,000 already have done so.

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A warning that South Africa must expect increasing racial violence and sabotage in 1963 is published in the Johannesburg Post. This weekly for non-whites has good contacts with sources of information among the Negro majority.

The Post's article remarks that the last two months of 1962 witnessed three clashes between armed Negroes and white police.

"Political activities in this country have taken an alarming turn," says The Post. "There is force, and force is being met by force and the vicious cycle spins faster and faster... South Africa will have to live... with a look over its shoulder in dark streets, with alarm at unexpected noise with fear."

South Africa's top policeman, Lt.-Gen. J. M. Keey, pledged after the three outbreaks that his forces "will move heaven and earth to wipe out the Poqo terrorists." Raids have been staged, especially in Cape Town's segregated native townships of Langa and Nyanga, which are believed to be Poqo headquarters. Poqo is a Negro organization with the motto "we stand alone."

SEES 3 MOVEMENTS

The Post says three underground movements dedicated to sabotage or violence appear to be active in South Africa. It lists these as:

1. The National Liberation Front which says it owes allegiance to the outlawed African National Congress. It claims to have organized escape routes for political refugees and the smuggling of students and nurses out of South Africa.

2. Umkonto We Skowe—the spear of the nation. It also says it is loyal to the banned African National Congress. It asserts it is Negro-led but says it welcomes support from all races.

3. Poqo—a loose terrorist organization believed to be connected with elements from the banned Pan Africanist Congress. It seems to be a right-wing group.

have caused more damage to the wall itself.

They believed those responsible were interrupted. The charge was not embedded in wall, accounting for the comparatively slight damage to the wall and the considerable destruction away from it.

The blast was in the Jerusalem Strasse, 800 yards from the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie, at Friedrichstrasse.

Nobody was hurt.

The explosion was heard for miles and six armed East German guards rushed to the hole.

MASSIVE EXPLOSION RIPS THE BERLIN WALL

BERLIN (AP)—The biggest explosive assault ever against the wall dividing Berlin was carried out before dawn today.

There was no immediate indication of who set the blast.

The explosion ripped a three-foot-square hole in the wall and smashed 600 windows in neighboring buildings, including 150 in a fire brigade headquarters.

West Berlin police said it was the biggest explosive charge laid against the wall in its 16 months of existence, although previous smaller explosions

Airliner rolls, pilot is killed

ROTTERDAM (Reuters)—

The pilot was killed and all three other crew members were injured when a British DC-4 airliner carrying 14 passengers hit a dike and somersaulted four times at an airport near here today.

The plane, owned by British Air Ferries, skidded off the runway at Zestienhoven Airport after landing and hit the dike. The pilot, Capt. John Tootill, was injured and died on his way to a Rotterdam hospital.

An airline spokesman said all the passengers were "okay" but a medical team at the airport was examining them.

The three other crew were taken to hospital, the first officer suffering shock and the flight engineer and a stewardess head injuries.

The four-engine aircraft—a converted airliner used to ferry autos and passengers to Rotterdam from southern England—lost its right wing and an engine when it hit the dike and somersaulted, coming to rest on its back.

Lennoxville residents are honored for roles in school bus accident

CRASH SCENE

APRIL, 1962

Royal Canadian Humane Association parchment certificates have been awarded to two Lennoxville residents for the part they played in a school bus accident that occurred April 10, 1962, injuring 17 Lennoxville High School students.

Announcement of the awards to Gordon Robinson and Douglas Gillam 16, were made by the association today.

Robinson of RR 1 Lennoxville was driving the bus when its brakes failed at the top of the Belvidere Road hill.

There were 30 school children in the bus. Rather than let the vehicle continue down the hill Mr. Robinson turned into the driveway of Eddie Cusseau and the bus came to a stop after crashing into a house.

Douglas Gillam son of Mrs. Fred Gillam and the late Mr. Gillam, of Belvidere Road was a passenger on the bus during the mishap and was responsible for saving at least one person from serious injury and rescuing several others.

A railway yardmaster who risked his life to snatch a small boy from the path of a train has been awarded a bronze medal by the association.

J. W. Ross of Belleville, Ont., was standing on the platform June 21 when he saw three-year-old Ricky Wood wander onto the line and fall into the path of an oncoming train. He dashed across the tracks and pulled the boy to safety with inches to spare.

John Bowman of Grimsby, Ont., was awarded the bronze medal for saving the life of a boy trapped in a burning house Aug. 18.

The association also awarded 19 parchment certificates, two of which are to be placed in prominent locations in Trout River Nfld., and Woody Point, Nfld.

SAVED FROM EXPOSURE

Both certificates were awarded for the action of a number of persons in saving Jeannette Snook of Trout River from exposure Jan. 27.

Certificates also were awarded to: James Ernest Harvey, 21, Belleville, Ont., for saving Andre Morrasse and Jacques Douville from drowning July 12 in Attikamagen Lake, Labrador.

Roderick W. Heighton, River John, N.S., for rescuing Harold Wayne Langille from drowning at the Cape John breakwater, River John, June 23.

Bruce Weir, Sherbrooke, N.S., for rescuing Charles H. Grantham from drowning in the St. Mary's River July 10.

Wallace Squires and William Hoben, both of Dunville, Nfld., for helping in the rescue of Patrick William Murphy and Thomas Joseph Murphy from drowning April 15 at Placentia Bay, Dunville.

Elias Anderson, 14, Burgeo, Nfld., for saving David Lushman from drowning May 18 at Burgeo.

Chinese buildup reported

NEW DELHI (AP)—A massive buildup of Chinese armies in Tibet has been taking place during the cease-fire in the Himalayan war with India, according to unconfirmed reports here Friday.

One report, published by the Statesman newspaper, said the Chinese have raised two paratroop brigades of Tibetan youths and are giving military training to all able bodied Tibetans. The report was from Tezpur, India, army headquarters town in the northeast.

"Tibet is being rapidly militarized and is being turned into an arsenal," the report said. It added roads and airfields are being built.

Other sources have reported a military buildup in the Chumbi Valley of southern Tibet. The valley points like a dagger between the little Himalayan states of Sikkim and Bhutan at the nearby Indian corridor linking the northeast with the rest of the country.

The Chinese also are reported massing more troops around Rudok in western Tibet, main Chinese military centre facing Indian positions in Ladakh.

The Chinese are holding positions won in fighting during October and November in Ladakh but are withdrawing from invasion salients in the northeast frontier area.

Katanga, UN troops clash in The Congo

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Fighting between United Nations troops and Katangan forces broke out Thursday night in the outskirts of Elisabethville and sporadic firing continued today, it was reported in this Southern Rhodesia centre.

Reports of shooting in the capital of the secessionist Congo province also were received in Brussels and London, where government spokesmen said negotiations were in progress between UN and Katangan authorities to stop the fighting.

The report reaching Salisbury said UN Ethiopian and Indian troops shelled a native district in Elisabethville, but it said the firing did not seem to be a premeditated operation by the UN forces.

The Salisbury report said several casualties were reported in the district.

Reports from the central Congo capital of Leopoldville said cease-fire talks opened late in the morning between Gen. Prem Chand, the Indian UN commander, and Katangan officials.

The report said there had been casualties on both sides in the fighting, but no figures were available.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga was said to have appealed Thursday night to the

Dock strike deadlock continues

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has re-entered the crippling U.S. dock strike with an urgent plea to both longshoremen and ship owners to resume negotiations in the name of the national interest.

The International Longshoremen's Association chief negotiator, however, said only a new proposal by the ship owners can break the deadlock. He expressed doubt about an early end to the six-day-old strike along the East and Gulf coasts.

These developments came as the strike saw its first flareup of violence—the shooting of a dockworker who crossed I.L.A. picket lines in Galveston, Tex. The non-union worker was wounded in the left foot.

The current strike actually started last October, went on for four days and was halted by a federal labor law injunction. It was resumed at the expiration of an 80-day "cooling off" period.

Wirtz, who has been out of the negotiations since the I.L.A. and the ship owners held their last joint bargaining session before the strike started Sunday, scheduled separate meetings

Report epidemic

CALGARY (CP)—The Calgary health department reported Thursday an outbreak of measles in the city has reached epidemic proportions. In the last week, 306 cases of measles were reported, bringing the total number of cases in the city since Dec. 1 to more than 1,500. Last year, in all of December, there were eight cases of measles reported in the city.

Defence loophole seen

Nassau pact is branded 'a hoax'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Anglo-American "pact of Nassau" is seen by some here as a move away from the concept of a multi-lateral NATO nuclear force instead of the announced step toward it.

Some competent sources here go so far as to describe as a "hoax" and "phony" the agreement reached by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan at Nassau last week.

The U.S. agreed to supply Britain with Polaris missiles for British-built nuclear submarines which would be placed at the disposal of NATO. But, in the terms of the Kennedy-Macmillan communiqué, Britain could use the force independently when "supreme national interests are at stake."

Some authorities here regard this as a potentially dangerous loophole. Other NATO members, including West Germany, might obtain nuclear weapons with the proviso that they could be used independently in "supreme national interests."

Consequently, the pact of Nassau is seen as a means of increasing the number of national independent nuclear forces instead of reducing them or placing them under NATO control.

FAVOR U.S. CONTROL

Informants said that, if Canada had the choice, it would list its preference for nuclear control in this order:

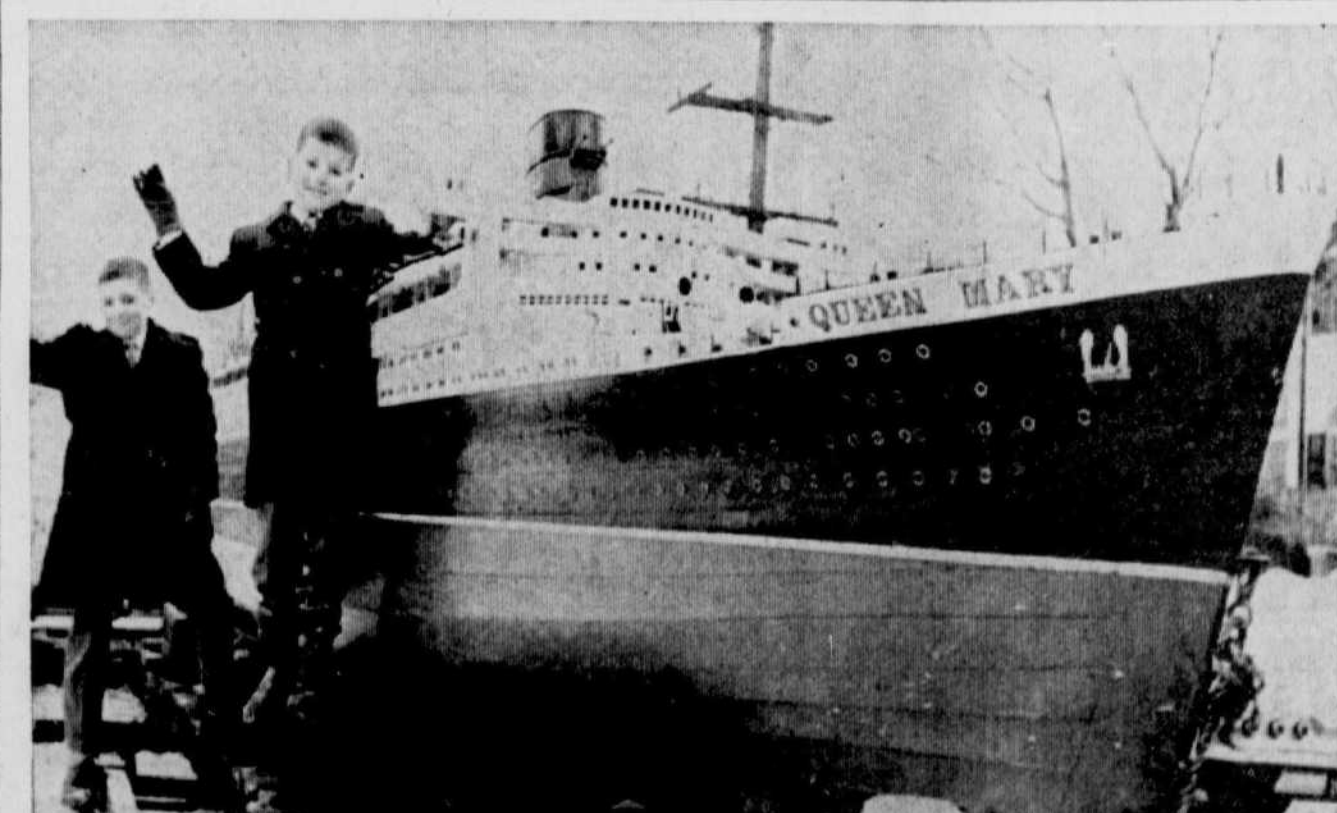

1. Retention by the U.S. of all Western nuclear capability and control. The U.S. had shown, especially in the Cuba crisis, that it was a responsible nuclear power—in short, nuclear weapons were safe in American hands. Disarmament negotiations with Russia would be simpler if there were only one Western nuclear power and European countries might be willing to undertake provision of more conventional forces.

2. A multilateral NATO nuclear force with the U.S. a member and retaining nuclear control. Canada could contribute to such an undersea missile force by helping to man submarines and providing cash.

3. A multilateral NATO nuclear force with the U.S. not a member. This would, in effect, establish two Western nuclear powers, NATO and the U.S.

Competent authorities add that Canada can be said to be already a member of a NATO nuclear force.

A CHRISTMAS LINER — Peter Jarvis, (left), eight, and his brother David, 11, are all set for a cruise on their 21-foot model of the liner Queen Mary. The Toronto youngsters and playmate Phillip Wisener, eight, got the model as a Christmas present from their fathers. A U.S. watchmaker spent eight years building the model which is wired for electricity and has a spotlight, horn, 24 lifeboats, and passenger seats. The fathers hope to try the Queen Mary in the water next summer.

NEW YORK (AP)—A televi-which deals with functions nor-

False cheques

Montreal man faces sentence January 3

A 37-year-old Montreal man who has spent the past two and a half months either in Bordeaux Jail or travelling between court houses in Sherbrooke, Sweetsburg and Montreal, was ordered back to cells Thursday to await sentence January 3 on charges of passing false cheques.

Albert Belanger, of 3512 Shuter Street, Apt. 8, pleaded guilty to charges in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions before Judge Evender Veilleux. Crown Prosecutor Benoit Turmel told the court Belanger was a member of a ring which specialized in forging and passing phoney cheques.

Mr. Turmel told the court he needed more time to review the accused's record before asking the court to impose a sentence. Belanger pleaded guilty to passing two cheques in Sherbrooke for a total of $195.72. Belanger's lawyer, Raynald Frechette, told the court his client has spent the past months in jail and travelling to and from court houses and asked that he be given a suspended sentence.

"He (Belanger) is a man who is a chef, and capable of making $150 to $175 per week when working," Mr. Frechette told the court.

He added that his client was prepared to reimburse the money he received from the cheques.

"He has already spent Christmas behind bars and he has been given suspended sentences in Sweetsburg and Montreal on other charges of passing false cheques," Mr. Frechette said.

Mr. Turmel told the court Belanger spent his time behind bars while awaiting to appear in courts for passing the false cheques.

Court Clerk Jean Marie Gregoire said Belanger would be taken back to Bordeaux Jail if the court decided to postpone his sentence.

Judge Veilleux said since the Crown was unable to say what kind of sentence should be imposed, "he will have to return to cells to await sentencing next week."

City won't tax stamp venders

No tax will be imposed on stamp machines in the city according to a decision taken by the Sherbrooke council Thursday night.

The matter appeared on the agenda when the Sherbrooke News requested to know whether or not they would be taxed for the one that they have in their store.

The decision was reached after council agreed that the machines were installed primarily for customer convenience and not for profit.

Mayor Armand Nadeau reminded the council that a decision not to tax owners of these machines had been taken a few years ago.

Twins healthy
BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Siamese twins were born to the wife of a young airman at Blytheville air force base Christmas Day. They were reported doing well Wednesday in a hospital in Memphis, Tenn. A decision has not been made on when the twins will be separated, said Capt. Martin H. Matz, physician in charge of obstetrics at the air base hospital where the twin girls were born. The girls are joined at the chest and lower abdomen.

PROPOSED SITE—As part of an overall plan to change traffic patterns in the downtown area, the City of Sherbrooke intends to build a bridge across the Magog River, linking Big Forks Street, above, with a new highway that would be built parallel to the Canadian National Railway tracks on the north bank of the river, below. The project estimated at $430,000, would be the second phase of a program which includes building another bridge over the St. Francis River from the foot of Montreal Street in the North Ward to Terrill Street in the East Ward. This would cost an estimated $1,280,000 and would include the building of traffic circles and expropriation of properties in each ward as well as the bridge construction. Poisson at Scotstown

Vote is possible on a $12,000 loan

SCOTSTOWN — (Staff) — Mayor Frederic Poisson told The Record Thursday council may call a referendum on a $12,000 loan bylaw to cover the purchase of and renovations to the town hall for a new industry during the first week of February, the same time as general council elections.

Mayor Poisson said in an interview that the referendum "may be called providing final arrangements for the purchasing of the town hall for about $6,000 have been agreed upon between the municipality and the company."

The town would loan the money to the company to purchase the town hall from Scotstown. The company would then reimburse the money to the town over an undetermined period of years, said Mr. Poisson. In the meantime the town will rent the premises to the company, he added.

Mayor Poisson would not release the name of the new industry, or what sort of operations would be carried out. "The company is at present operating in another town and does not wish to be named as yet," he said.

Mayor Poisson earlier announced that the new industry is scheduled to start operations January 15. The location will be rented until after a decision is reached on the referendum. The referendum would be called the first week of February at the same time as elections for two aldermen "to save the municipality double expenses," Mayor Poisson said.

The $12,000 would be taken from the municipality's $50,000 industrial credit fund, if the loan bylaw was approved by town taxpayers, he said. The money taken from this fund, said the mayor would not effect the municipality's 1963 budget.

Council's procedure in adopting the loan bylaw was sharply attacked this week by ex-mayor Donald D. MacLean who said in a written statement to The Record dated December 23 that the steps taken by the mayor were not carried out "according to law."

In a telephone interview Thursday, Mr. MacLean said that the bylaw was introduced at a special meeting of council December 7 and that a notice was posted for a public meeting to be held December 13. "This was not done according to law," he said.

A loan bylaw must be introduced at a general meeting of council and a notice of motion must be given at the previous general meeting to the effect that such a bylaw will be introduced, he said. "This was not done either," he said.

Twenty-seven signatures were registered against the loan bylaw at the public meeting, said Mr. MacLean. Twenty signatures are needed to force a referendum at Scotstown, he added.

Mr. MacLean also claims that this new industry is a "farce." "Last October a new industry was established in the town hall and employed about 12 women. The business concerned

Liquor hearings in Sherbrooke January 8, 9

The Quebec Liquor Board will meet in Sherbrooke on January 8 and 9 to examine applications for liquor permits in Sherbrooke, according to a city council announcement Thursday night. There will be, according to the council, requests made by three people for tavern permits.

Those mentioned as applicants were: Yvon Ellyson of 796 McManamy Boulevard; Denis Proteau of 176 9th Avenue South, and Roland Boulanger of 2062 Denault Street.

Council have in the past made known their opposition to the establishment of more taverns in the city.

Bernard Mountain has not appeared before the court of sessions here yet, and it is all due to the mountainous piles of mail the post office received during the Christmas season.

Bernard Mountain is charged with breaking, entering and theft, and was to appear before Judge Patrick Delaney here Thursday to answer to the charges.

The case was postponed until Jan. 22 however, after Crown Prosecutor Claude Nadeau explained that his instructions from the Attorney General's office at Quebec, which he had been expecting by mail, had not yet arrived.

"It must be a delay attributable to the heavy Christmas mails," Mr. Nadeau said.

Philippe Grondin and Jean-Luc Paquette were both fined $25 and court costs after they pleaded guilty to charges of not paying their union dues.

They both appeared before Judge Patrick Delaney here Thursday.

Barnstorming charge at Sweetsburg

Plane was in the air, but who was in it?

By PAT BOUGIE
(Record staff reporter)

SWEETSBURG — Special Crown Prosecutor Gilles Couture, of Farnham is having a hard time proving that a Farnham man, and owner of a four-seater airplane, did some barnstorming May 18 over Farnham and asked that the case be postponed until Jan. 3 to give him sufficient time to get another witness to testify against Raymond Gelineau.

Gelineau is charged with flying too low, barnstorming and of not entering his flight in his log book. Testifying against Gelineau Thursday was John Leat, 39, of Farnham, a licensed pilot who flies in his leisure hours.

He told the court that on May 18 near the outskirts of Farnham he saw a plane bearing the identification CFLP fly less than 400 feet above ground, power glide and barnstorm for one half hour.

He was not able to identify the pilot, however. Bedford RCMP Corporal Paul Maynard produced the log books in which the flight was supposed to have been registered but pointed out that this had not been done.

Although it was established that there was barnstorming on that day, nobody could point out the pilot of the plane, and Crown Prosecutor Gilles Couture, of Farnham, asked that the case be postponed one week to give him time to contact a witness who saw the pilot of the plane on that day.

Rene Dupont of Cowansville was ordered to pay a $50 fine and court costs in addition to having his driving permit suspended for three months after he pleaded guilty here Thursday to a charge of impaired driving. Dupont appeared before Judge Patrick Delaney.

and breaking and entering. Clohosey pleaded guilty to stealing $58 cash and a $19 watch from Gaston St. Pierre, of Farnham, Dec. 19 and a charge of damaging the property of Pierre Robitaille of Farnham, Dec. 22.

Clohosey is out on $250 bail pending his sentence. Jean-Guy Dufour of Waterville pleaded not guilty here Thursday to a charge of wife beating and had his trial scheduled for Jan. 15.

Dufour appeared before Judge Patrick Delaney. Jacques Fortin, of Stanbridge Station, pleaded guilty to stealing an estimated $14 cash and four cartons of cigarettes from the Lloyd Miller Motel at Philipsburg here Thursday but had his sentence postponed until Jan. 3.

Sentence was postponed until Jan. 3 here Thursday as Jimmy Clohosey, of Farnham, pleaded guilty to a charge of property damage

The theft occurred Dec. 23.

Mrs. Aurele Bilodeau, owner of the Fairview Inn at Bromes, was ordered to pay a $100 fine and court costs or spend one month in jail after she pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the Quebec Liquor Act.

She pleaded guilty to serving alcoholic beverages without a meal on Sept. 2, a Sunday.

Antoine Connelly of Sherbrooke did not want sentence passed on him Thursday, so he returned to the Sweetsburg jail for another week. Connelly pleaded guilty to stealing $400 worth of merchandise at Valcourt December 16, but Thursday he asked the Judge that sentence be postponed until next Thursday.

Sherbrooke council

No decision reached on contractor issue

No decision has yet been reached by the Sherbrooke city council as to the definition of a local business firm.

Discussion on the matter which appeared on the agenda was put off to a later date by the council at a meeting Thursday night.

When the decision has been made, council will then judge the eligibility of firms for work on city projects on the basis of this definition. Council have agreed that only local business firms will qualify for city contracts.

Suggestions to be taken into consideration by the council as possible qualifications for a firm before it be accepted as a local firm are the following:

- 1) That its main place of business be in Sherbrooke.
- 2) That it have within the city limits a permanent office supplied with an employee on its payroll who is available to supply information on the business.

- 3) That the firm be registered and pay the cost of its permit and/or its commercial licence at Sherbrooke city hall and that it pay a property or tenant tax as well as a business tax.
- 4) That it transact its business through a bank or caisse populaire situated within the limits of the city.
- 5) That it have a telephone number listed in the Sherbrooke directory.
- 6) That it have fulfilled the aforementioned conditions at least three months prior to being accepted as a bidder on local contracts.

Judge Veilleux told the accused the court was in contact with his parents and they wouldn't have anything to do with him, "so where are you going to spend the New Year's holidays if we set you free?"

Crown Attorney Turmel then told the court the accused would probably return home and cause more trouble on New Year's Day, "so I ask the court to keep the accused in jail until after the holidays are over so he can find himself a job then."

Paquette then told the court, "I have already been asked to spend the holidays at a farmer's home where I worked for room and board."

Judge Veilleux then told the accused he was sentencing him to 10 days in jail for his second crime but it would be served concurrently with his first sentence to allow him out of jail for New Year's Day.

A council decision to be applauded

Included in city council deliberations which led to the ill-advised decision to build a new bridge across the St. Francis River from Montreal to Terrill Streets was another decision to build a roadway paralleling the CNR tracks from Big Forks Street, across the Magog River to the new bridge.

This latter move can only be applauded. The present Big Forks arrangement makes for some of the wildest traffic tangles in the city. Congestion in the Big Forks area at rush hours or during heavy shopping periods spreads to the whole downtown area, and indeed, is often responsible for starting traffic jams which otherwise would not occur.

A wife may get her husband to think as she does, and then she changes her mind.

Some miss the meaning of Christmas

The period after Christmas is for people a low point on the barometer of their feelings. Somehow, Christmas, despite the tinsel, the visits from friends and the family get-together, did not afford the pleasure that had been anticipated.

The presents were as nice and as abundant, perhaps even more gaily wrapped, than last year. The turkey was certainly as savory and the helpings were as generous. The children even had a brighter twinkle in their eyes. But, expectations were not met.

In looking about for reasons for their post-holiday depression, some people will blame the commercialization of Christmas. They will argue that it should be a time of simplicity with a minimum of emphasis on buying elaborate presents; a Statistics show that most college classes are led by girls as well as most college men.

Doukhobor problem part of tradition

This is not meant to put a damper on the optimism of people who are looking forward to 1963 as the year when mankind will be blessed with peace, prosperity and lower taxes.

But it can be said with a near-hundred per cent accuracy that Canada's Doukhobor problem will continue and that no matter what terms are offered hardy and, it would appear, chronically dissatisfied people, no adequate solution will be found.

And it follows that if the Doukhobors' determination to have their demands recognized does not wane, they will be parading about the western scenery, shedding their clothes, as usual. This, of course, will depend on what kind of weather the almanac is predicting for the west coast.

Other papers say:

Drivers' rights and responsibilities

Questions have been raised about the legality of the spot checks being conducted at this season by Metropolitan Toronto Police. This, of course, is a matter for the courts to decide, and it is possible that they will be given an opportunity to do so. If the checks are found to be illegal, the law should be amended to make them legal as soon as possible.

The checks have two valuable results: They discourage drinking drivers (which is why they are intensified at this festive time of year) and they get defective cars off the roads.

But spot checks, while they should be maintained, are only one part of a program of automobile safety, and action should be taken to draw up and effect such a program. Spot checks can turn up burned-out lights or bad brakes, but a more systematic and widespread inspection is necessary for public safety.

The Ontario Government, which plans in 1964 to alter its licensing system so that licenses are issued every three years on the driver's birthday, should also consider the whole business of licensing with two related matters in mind: Safety and insurance. Safety, certainly, is the proper business of government; it is a vital part of the continued life and well being of the community. Automobile insurance is so closely related to this that it can be regarded as an aspect of the problem.

What can be done? First, a systematic program of inspection of automobiles should be undertaken. Spot checks are valuable, and should be continued: their existence, however, does not eliminate the need for frequent and thorough vehicle inspection. Cars should be checked for mechanical faults regularly and often. If proof cannot be produced that an auto has been approved, a license for it should not be issued.

Along with regular checks of cars, public safety requires systematic re-testing of drivers. Many drivers have not been examined for years, if ever. Skills and physical ability can and do deteriorate with age, sometimes to the point where a driver is unknowingly a menace to himself and to others on the roads. When he finds out, it is too late.

Insurance is the third aspect of the problem. While an uninsured car is not necessarily more likely to cause an accident than an insured one, the presence of insurance in most cases reduces the hardship associated with accidents.

While they are taking a good look at automobile licensing and safety, Ontario's legislators should make sure not only that a driver keeps his car and himself in safe condition, but also that he takes steps to pay for any damage he causes. The only way to make sure that he does so is to make it compulsory that automobiles be insured against public liability and property damage.

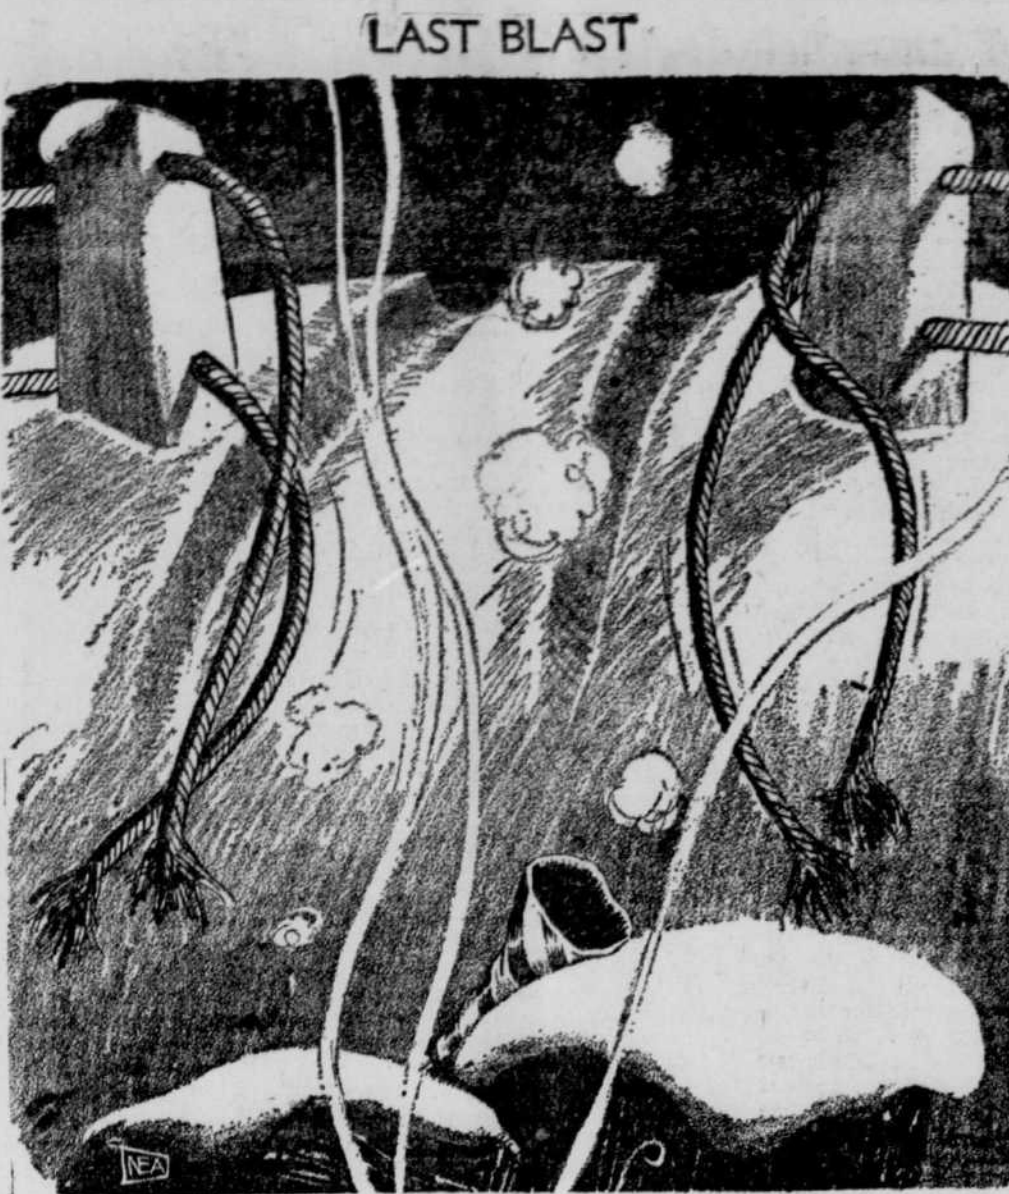

The Unsatisfied Judgment Fund although it has recently been improved, is no substitute for proper insurance, and will not be accepted as such for much longer by the people of this Province!

When the Ontario Government revamps its auto-licensing system, it can contribute to the public good by dealing with the wider problem and taking steps to see that automobiles are both safe and insured before they are allowed on the roads. There would appear to be much to be said for a system that would combine safety checks of vehicles and drivers, licensing and the issuance of insurance.

When is next federal election?

A year of political indecision is ending on note of suspense

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—A year that experienced political confidence, indecision and then confusion is ending on a note of suspense.

The big questions on the threshold of 1963 were: When will the next federal general election come? What will be its outcome?

The year 1962 started with the Progressive Conservative government, re-elected in 1958 with the biggest parliamentary majority in Canadian history, confident that it could stem the resurgence of opposition parties. Liberals, New Democrats and Social Crediters were equally confident.

But the result of the June 18 election was indecision on the part of the voters. They elected the second minority government in five years, the Conservatives squeaking back into office after skidding from 203 of the Commons' 265 seats at dissolution to 116.

The opposition parties, by joining forces in the new Parliament, produced an air of confusion heightened by rumor and speculation.

One big question remained unanswered: What, if anything, has happened since June to change voters' sympathies in March, 1963, the earliest that another election now is likely to be held?

Four provincial general elections proved little. Liberal governments in Quebec and Newfoundland and Conservative governments in Prince Edward Island and Manitoba were dramatically re-elected.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is reported holding himself in readiness to decide soon whether to seek a stronger mandate quickly or to bide his time.

The government can call an election at any time. Many observers think Mr. Diefenbaker will do so before the opposition parties can unite to defeat him, though he said in early December that the government at that time had no thought of an immediate election.

The Liberals, who doubted their Commons representation in June and believe their popularity is still growing, have been chafing for an early election. But their efforts to this end in Parliament have been frustrated so far by Social Credit voting support of the government.

Liberal Leader Pearson says that in the next campaign his party will concentrate on the positive features of its program and not, as was the case last summer, on the negative features of the government's record.

The Social Credit party, back in the new Parliament after being shut out at the 1958 election, has been showing growing impatience with the government.

Its leaders, newcomer Robert Thompson and Real Caouette—not yet the firebrand in Parliament that his election campaign indicated he might be—insisted there was no friction between them although at times their pronouncements on national issues were at variance. This, other parties say, is bound to reduce Social Credit's strength.

The New Democratic Party was pushed from third to fourth place in numerical strength in the Commons by the June election, a surprise and disappointment to many who thought the marriage of the old CCF party with organized labor would increase its appeal.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas, defeated in Regina City in June, won an October byelection in the British Columbia constituency of Burnaby-Coquitlam to return to the Commons after 17 years as CCF premier of Saskatchewan.

There also was a change in the face of the Conservative cabinet. Mr. Diefenbaker in August carrying out the second biggest ministerial shuffle since gaining power in 1957.

Donald Fleming, plagued with budget deficits throughout his five years as finance minister and author of emergency measures in June to meet a foreign exchange crisis, was transferred to the justice portfolio.

Davie Fulton was moved from justice to public works, then announced he would stand for the provincial leadership of B.C.'s Conservatives at a January convention.

George Nowlan, a politically popular figure but a man of indifferent health, moved from national revenue to finance. He is expected to present his first budget soon after the Commons returns from its holiday recess, scheduled to end Jan. 21.

Reported to be figuring prominently in budget and economic planning generally is Wallace McCutcheon, former right-hand man of Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor. Mr. McCutcheon gave up more than a score of directorships to become a senator and minister without portfolio in August.

Party standing in the Commons as the year ended was: Conservative 116, Liberal 99, Social Credit 30, NDP 19, Vacant 1, Total 265. The vacancy Braemar, Scotland, was in the Liberal victory in June was voided by the courts.

ASSIGNMENT WASHINGTON

with B. T. Richardson

WASHINGTON (TNS)—The United States is full of ex-Canadians but no one has yet calculated their influence upon America. It is far greater than the Americans suspect.

The Americans worry about distant lands, but not about those nearby, unless it is Cuba which commands the attention an elephant might give to a stinging bee. Cuba has proven itself violently alien to the American way of life.

But not Canada. The Canadians are much like the Americans, as the saying goes. This is both true and false. A Canadian passes unnoticed in the one-half or one-third of the United States that is near the border of Canada, plus California where no one attracts much attention.

For his part, the American from New York or Michigan or Ohio may slip across the border and no one could tell that he is not a Canadian. Even the French-Canadian loses his identity against the American background more quickly than does the Canadian from Ontario. The French accent is not a Canadian characteristic down here; it is just another note in the general dissonance of English as spoken in America.

THE CANADIANS and the Americans are both peoples of the New World, and the proportion is about the same as Scottish to English in the United Kingdom. The Scotsman blends into the English landscape and works his way up quickly, just as Canadians like Cyrus Eaton, Gisele MacKenzie, Kenneth Galbraith, Robert Goulet and Sammy Perlman (editor of Daily Racing Form) have done well for themselves and for the United States.

The Canadian is the Scandinavian or the Scotsman of North America. His accent has some distinctive and droll elements in it, but not so pronounced that he enjoys the same lampooning that, say, President Kennedy receives on the American stage and television for his broad Harvardisms.

The Canadian speaks in a sibilant, high-pitched voice that is unlike that of the Texan or the Southerner or the Middle Westerner or the nasal New Englander. But it's astonishing how many Americans talk like Canadians.

This should be no mystery. Many Americans are Canadians under the skin. The Northward pull in American life is only now beginning to assert itself, to balance off the pull of the South which was one of the great preoccupations of the century of U.S. history that focussed on the Civil War, and the pull of the West, which is in crescendo now as California lays claim to outdoing New York with Los Angeles the biggest city on the continent.

AFTER THE California story, the Canadian story will be the next chapter of North American history.

The first thing the Americans will have to do is to explore the unknown country of their relations with Canada. They will find that this is not simply a matter of absorbing a few more states.

If the Canadians made up their minds tomorrow to join the United States, they would not get in as a political unit. The United States Congress would not, and could not, accept the terms.

The true Canadian nation consists of people who have rejected the United States, for every Canadian could at one time or other become an American. The legal requirement is easy.

The Canadians, for their part, would find that only 10 per cent of the Americans now have an active opinion about Canada, mostly favor-

Re-alignment of manufacturing units announced by DOMTAR organization

Recently Dominion Tar & Chemical Company, Limited announced the formation of six wholly-owned operating subsidiaries to administer the manufacturing and marketing program previously carried out by its six operating groups. This second development stage of the DOMTAR organization involves some re-alignment of manufacturing units within these new companies as well as appropriate adjustments of titles.

In this area, Dominion Tar has two major manufacturing units, the Kraft Paper Mills of St. Lawrence Corporation, at East Angus, as well as a similar mill of Canada Paper Company at Windsor Mills, and their respective converting operations. The two paper mills, formerly part of the Kraft and Fine Paper Group, are now operated by DOMTAR Pulp & Paper Limited. The converting operations, which turn out paperbags, gummed tapes, and other related items, are now operated by DOMTAR Packaging Limited.

The organization of DOMTAR Pulp & Paper Limited provides for a central management and administrative staff located in Montreal and the consolidation of all operations into two operating divisions: The Howard Smith Division manufacturing and marketing fine, coated and specialty papers, and the Kraft and Boxboard Division producing a wide range of bleached and unbleached kraft papers, roofing, regular and industrial packaging papers, paperboards, clay coated and regular boards.

The officers of DOMTAR Pulp & Paper Limited include: E. P. Taylor, chairman of the board; W. N. Hall, president; S. A. Kerr, secretary; Harry E. Mason, vice-president and managing director; W. H. Aird, vice-president in charge of marketing; W. P. Nesbitt, vice-president, manufacturing; A. J. Philip, vice-president, Kraft and Boxboard Division; J. H. Robertson, general manager, Howard Smith Division, and J. M. Thompson, vice-president in charge of administrative services.

The four other major operating subsidiaries of Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. include DOMTAR Chemicals Limited, DOMTAR Construction Materials Limited, DOMTAR Consumer Products Ltd., and DOMTAR Newsprint Limited.

The strike of 60,000 longshoremen has effectively closed all East and Gulf coast ports to all but military, emergency and dangerous cargoes, which the union itself has exempted from the strike provisions.

As Wiltz scheduled his meetings, ILA Executive Vice-President Thomas W. (Teddy) Gleason, the union's chief negotiator, set a meeting of the ILA's wage scale committee for today. He said he didn't think the strike would end in "the next few days" no matter what, since any agreement reached would have to be ratified by the union members.

In Galveston, where the Texas Forwarding Company has been using dockworkers not belonging to the ILA to unload banana boats, Robert L. James, 37, was shot in the foot Thursday night while he and another man were working by a conveyor belt unloading a Swedish banana boat.

In Florida, a circuit court judge ordered longshoremen to unload 12,000 stems of bananas from a Netherlands freighter.

He based his injunction against the strikers on a banana-handling contract which had been extended until Jan. 10 and included a no-strike agreement.

resident manager; Georgetown mill, W. J. Crichton, resident manager; and the Don Valley mill with G. H. Smith, resident manager. J. R. Nixon is general sales manager and M. R. Reany, divisional controller, both reporting to the divisional general manager.

The four other major operating subsidiaries of Dominion Tar and Chemical Co. include DOMTAR Chemicals Limited, DOMTAR Construction Materials Limited, DOMTAR Consumer Products Ltd., and DOMTAR Newsprint Limited.

KATANGA, UN TROOPS

spokesman said Katanga radio reported silent earlier today by the South African Broadcasting Corporation from Johannesburg, was shut down by a technical accident, not because of military action.

The Salisbury report said a meeting took place early today between representatives of the Katanga government and Elud Mathu, the Kenya UN representative in Elisabethville, but it did not appear that a cease fire was arranged.

It was not clear which side fired first.

A UN helicopter with six men aboard was shot down near the Katanga government installation Christmas Eve. One man, an Indian lieutenant, died in a hospital after being wounded by gunfire. The other five were beaten up before being returned to their forces, the UN said.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

HIGH CARDS ARE TO MAKE POINTS

The ostrich buries his head in the sand and believes that his enemies can't see him. Some bridge players bid that same way and are about as successful as the bird.

East had a good raise for his partner's overcall, but chose to withhold it on the theory that if he bid his opponents would get to game and if he kept still they would settle for a part score. It never occurs to the ostrich. East that if the opponents have a game they will bid it anyhow.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—IT was a good year for going to the movies, even if 1962 didn't produce any film that seemed to be an enduring classic.

The general run of Hollywood film provided entertainment of a wide variety. There was less dwelling on the sordid, although the year did bring Lolita and A Walk on the Wild Side. Movie makers found that sex and shock didn't necessarily guarantee box office.

Here are the dozen American-made movies that seemed the most meritorious of 1962:

1. Lawrence of Arabia. Too long and sometimes diffuse, it was nevertheless a monumental achievement in the use of the film medium.

2. To Kill a Mockingbird. A modest lesson in human dignity, it got closer to the heart than any recent movie.

3. Long Day's Journey into Night. Terrifically acted, this filmed stage play was a potent and demanding experience.

4. Billy Budd. An effective parable of good versus evil, it was notable for the angelic performance of Terence Stamp.

5. The Longest Day. Almost as good as the original stage production.

6. Miracle Worker. A beautifully acted duet between Anne Bancroft and Patty Duke.

7. Music Man. A bit overproduced, it was still a miraculous musical, thanks in large part to the driving performance of Robert Preston.

8. Mutiny on the Bounty. It made up in beauty and size for what it lacked in dramatic impact.

9. Freud. A remarkable intellectual experience, it was a brave and successful attempt at plumbing the hidden reaches of the mind.

10. Counterfeit Trail. Here was high adventure at its best, a drama that moved fast yet managed to be moving.

11. Manchurian Candidate. Its audacious science-fiction plot was not to be taken seriously; it could be enjoyed as a suspense film ranking with the best of Hitchcock.

12. Birdman of Alcatraz. It managed to take a difficult theme and turn it into engrossing drama.

The year's worst: The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was the end of a long campaign for Peter O'Toole.

"Campaign is a good word for it," says the actor who is starring as Lawrence of Arabia. "When I agreed to do this picture, they told me it would take five months," he said. "That was two years ago last October."

He had reckoned without the wiles of his employer, producer Samuel Spiegel, a man bent on perfectionism (On the Waterfront, Bridge on the River Kwai).

Theirs was not an immediate attachment. "We met first in 1958, and San was unimpressed," he re-

No. 3 Chefs of the Eastern Townships

AYER'S CLIFF — Chef Paul Chamberlain, a veteran of the 2nd World War, and a native of the Eastern Townships, says "The first basic training I received in cooking was with the Boy Scouts, when I was about 12 or 13". "A rough way, but never-the-less it all helped," he added.

Some years later, chef Chamberlain, enlisted in the Canadian Army, and as a cook, continued to learn the culinary art.

Married, and the father of four children, chef Chamberlain says, "I like to help my wife with the cooking at home." "With four children to look after, a little help goes a long way", he added.

Chef Chamberlain, who for the past 2 years, has been the chef at the Ripple Cove Inn, Ayer's Cliff, enjoys his work, cooking all kinds of dishes, but his speciality is bread making. "I make rolls by the dozen," chef Chamberlain said.

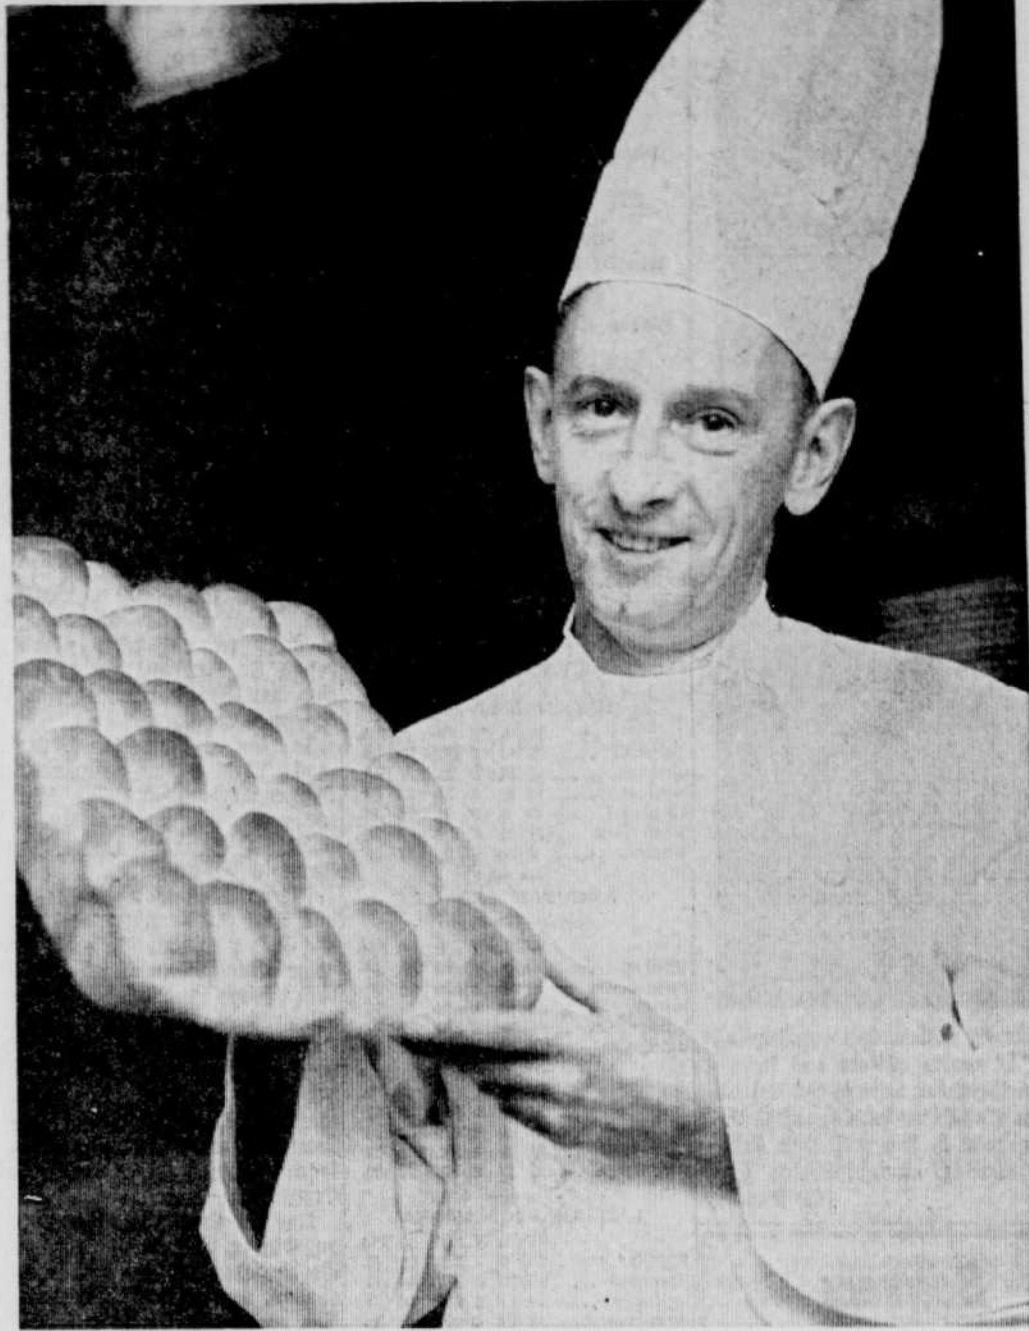

"A special favorite bread of mine is an orange raised bread which you might like to pass along to your readers," Chef Chamberlain, remarked. So for all of you who would like to try something different here is the recipe:

ORANGE BREAD
1 cake compressed yeast, 1/4 cup lukewarm water, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup melted shortening, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 2 egg-yolks or 1 whole egg, 1/2 cup candied orange peel, about 4 cups flour.

Add the 1 tablespoon of sugar to lukewarm water; add yeast, broken in pieces, and let stand until yeast is soft. Mix orange juice and boiling water; when lukewarm, add yeast and 1 1/2 cups of flour. Beat until smooth. Stand in a warm place until light and full of bubbles. Add salt, beaten egg, remainder of sugar, shortening, orange peel, and enough flour to make a dough that can be kneaded. Knead well. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Turn onto moulding board; mould as desired, in rolls or loaves. Place in bread pans or greased baking sheet, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 to 390 deg. F.). Raisins may be added, if desired.

COOLING BREAD
Never leave hot bread in pans after taking from oven. Remove at once and turn out on a wire rack or clean cloth to enable the air to cool it quickly. If a soft tender crust is desired, brush the top of the loaves with melted butter two or three minutes before removing them from the oven. Never wrap bread in cloths. As stale bread will absorb moisture from a fresh loaf, the bread box should be kept clear of odds and ends of stale bread. The stale bread need not be wasted. Dry in a slow oven, then put it through the food chopper. Sift the crumbs. Save the course ones for use in puddings, pancakes and other batters. Use the fine ones for crumbling foods for deep frying.

CHILLED DOUGH
If, by accident, a batch of rising dough becomes chilled, warm it carefully by placing the bowl in a pan of warm water (95 to 100 deg. F.), turning the dough over as the portion touching the bottom of the bowl becomes warmed. Care should be taken that the dough is not over heated.

Food Tips

MOLDED VEGETABLE SLAW
An extra special salad to serve is molded vegetable slaw. Prepare a package of lemon gelatin according to package directions, using the liquid from canned mixed vegetables as part of the liquid. Add salt and vinegar to taste; chill until partially thickened. Add the drained shredded cabbage; chill until firm. Unmold on serving plate and surround with crisp greens. Pass mayonnaise.

truss. Place breast side down in shallow roasting pan. Do not cover, do not add water nor baste bird. During the roasting, spoon or siphon off the fat as it accumulates in pan. Set this fat aside to use in cooking or as shortening. When goose is approximately two-thirds done according to the time table turn breast side up and continue roasting excess fat drains into the roasting pan.

For testing, open bag and test for doneness as above. For a speedy dessert and a simple one but a little rich try folding a small can of strained apricots processed especially for babies into 1 cup whipping cream stiffly whipped adding a little sugar if more sweetness is desired. Spoon into parfait glasses and top with toasted slivered almonds and a few bits of diced cherries if you wish. Chill several hours and serve with macaroons — delicious but so easy to make. (TNS)

Andrea Gustafson marries Ernest Lothrop

STANSTEAD — The marriage of Andrea, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson, Rock Island, to Mr. Ernest Ashford Lothrop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lothrop, Sherbrooke, took place at Stanstead South church, on Saturday afternoon, December 22, at four o'clock. Rev. Nettie Hoffman, New York, assisted Rev. Gustafson at the service. The bride was given in marriage by her father, after which he officiated for the single ring ceremony. Mrs. Alan Greer played the wedding and soft Christmas music and accompanied members of the church Junior choir who during the signing of the register sang, Tidings of Peace. The church was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season, with mugo pine, white candlelights, miniature tinsel Christmas trees, and baskets of evergreens and white poinsettias. Mugo pine and red satin bows marked the guest pews. The bride wore an original

Her fingertip length veil of tulle, was held in place by a lace cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations.

Mr. Nelson Lothrop, Jr., was best man for his brother and the ushers were Sutherland Stewart and Gordon MacDonald, Montreal.

Mrs. Gustafson, mother of the bride, was in a sheath of champagne satin brocade and wore a matching satin hat and corsage of bronze baby chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Lothrop was in a dress of spruce colored satin with which she wore a pink velvet petal hat and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The reception took place in the church hall, decorated in Christmas motif and lighted candles. The bride's table with a white and silver cover was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, decorated in white and topped with wedding bells and doves. Holly encircled the base of the cake and was used on the guest tables to encircle the candle holders.

Neale Fraser and Rod Laver sweep singles for Aussies to win Cup 5-0, Laver to turn professional Saturday

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Neale Fraser and Rod Laver, two of the latest in Australia's long line of tennis champions, closed out their Davis Cup careers with victories today which gave Australia a 5-0 sweep over Mexico in the 1962 challenge round.

It was the last big time match as an amateur for both.

Fraser, 29, limping and leg-weary, put on a tremendous fighting exhibition for a 3-6, 11-9, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4 triumph over Mexico's No. 1 ace, Rafael Osuna, in a marathon match that lasted two hours, 45 minutes.

The handsome Melbourne left-hander, who won Wimbledon in 1960 and the U.S. championship in 1959 and 1960 announced it was the swan song of his long competitive career.

"I have been travelling around the world playing tennis for 10 years," he said. "I have had it."

Then Laver, winner of every major tournament during the last year, turned back talented Antonio Palafox, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Laver is expected to sign a $10,000 contract for a professional career Saturday.

He will begin his tour against Lew Hoad in Sydney Jan. 5.

A crowd of 5,000 at Milton Courts—chased to cover once by a 23 minutes shower—cheered the Mexicans in their attempt to salvage something from the one-sided series. But Fraser was too big in service and in heart and Laver was too good.

Sound football will do the trick, says veteran Y. A. Tittle, out to make amends for 37-0 walloping

NEW YORK (CP)—How do New York Giants propose to de-throne Green Bay Packers as National Football League champions?

"With sound football," answers quarterback Y. A. Tittle. "Blocking and tackling—no garbage."

Tittle and his New York teammates have lived with a bad dream since last New Year's Eve. The horror film always has the same humiliating ending—Green Bay 37, New York 0.

Tittle was talking about the 1961 game Thursday after a satisfying workout for the title rematch with the Packers at Yankee Stadium Sunday.

The battle starts at 2:05 p.m. EST and will be carried on the CBC's Dominion TV network.

"No excuses," he said. "We've been beaten real bad—37-0. But no club is that much better than another in this league. When you get off to a bad start the other team gets momentum. Then you try things that you shouldn't and things go from bad to worse. It's a good thing it ended when it did.

THIS YEAR DIFFERENT?

"This is another year. I figure it's an even game."

Although the eastern division Giants finished with a nine-game winning streak and Tittle broke the league record with 33 touchdown passes, Green Bay is a one-touchdown favorite.

New York coach Alie Sherman is inclined to rate the 1962 Packers better than last year's western division champions.

"They're a young team and another year of seasoning always helps a young club."

Ralph Guglielmi, Tittle's understudy at quarterback, was allowed to practise Thursday and the club physician said his gimp right knee will be ready for action Sunday.

Enjoy Skiing

By ANNE HEGGTVET

Today's article is the third of them across your knees once you are seated.

Advanced teaching techniques have cut down learning time considerably. If you are a beginner and are able to spend some time at an area where you can get professional help, it is advisable. Not only will you progress more rapidly but you will enjoy skiing much more.

Most ski areas cater to beginners and provide very gentle slopes on which to learn. This usually means the pupil must know how to ride ski-lifts immediately.

NO TEAR

The day of the rope tow is almost gone. Now everyone can wear attractive ski clothes without worrying about excessive wear and tear. In North America, the T-Bar, poma-lift and chair-lift are the most common conveyances.

When riding all three types it is best to take your poles off your wrists. You can carry them under your arm with the rings behind you except on the chair-lift where you can hold Letting poles dangle or drag isn't advisable as there is a chance they can become entangled causing you to fall off the lift.

To get on the T-Bar or poma-lift, stand in the track and take the T-Bar or stick as the attendant hands it to you. Once you grasp it, slide your skis along in the tracks so that you don't start with a sudden jerk.

Before getting on a chair-lift, be it single or double, look to see on which side the iron support is located.

Some lifts have a centre post but some double chairs have posts on each side of the chair.

Always turn your head and look over your shoulder to the side the bar is on. Take hold of it as the chair approaches then gently sit down.

Miss Heggtevit will answer questions from skiers as space permits. Address: Enjoing Skiing, in care of the Sherbrooke Daily Record. (TNS)

USC may lose Heller for Rose Bowl tilt

The Southern California football team was jolted Thursday as reserve back Ron Heller was injured and may be lost for the Rose Bowl game against Wisconsin New Year's Day.

Heller, a sophomore who netted 216 yards in 55 carries as the Trojans compiled a 10-0 record this season, suffered an injured left knee while blocking in a dummy scrimmage at Pasadena, Calif.

"Someone just fell on him," said coach John McKay. "He can barely walk."

Wisconsin spent much of a two-hour practice session sharpening its passing attack, triggered by quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

"We didn't have the boys going all-out because we don't want them to reach a peak too early," Badger coach Milt Bruhn said.

GET WEATHER BREAK

In Austin, Tex., the weather cleared Thursday and University of Texas coach Darrell Royal took advantage of it, sending his Longhorns through a 1½-hour practice session in preparation for the Cotton Bowl game against Louisiana State Jan. 1.

For the second consecutive day Royal had quarterbacks Johnny Genuag and Tommy Wade concentrating on their passing. LSU is unscored on by running in the last 16 games.

In Miami, Fla., the Oklahoma and Alabama football teams plunged into heavy workouts under a hot sun, pointing to what seems sure to be a rugged battle in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

Coach Bud Wilkinson, holding secret practices to install some new Oklahoma plays, was concerned by the absence of his quarterback, Monte Deere, in his hotel bed fighting off an attack of flu and tonsillitis. Deere is expected to be ready for the game.

KIDD LEADS POLL — Bruce Kidd, Toronto middle distance runner, is Canada's outstanding male athlete of 1962 in the annual Canadian Press year-end poll of sports editors and broadcasters. He won a gold medal in the six-mile race and a bronze in the three mile at the British Empire Games in Australia. Bobby Hull, (top right) Chicago Black Hawk star who equalled the National Hockey League record of 50 goals in a season, placed second in the poll. Don Jackson (lower right) of Oshawa, Ont., who won the world figure skating championships and then turned professional, was third.

Maroons rally to down Saints, Beavers win

A goal in the dying minutes again the Saints fighting back of the game, by Jean-Guy Papillon, gave the Maroons a close 4-3 win over St. Francis.

While Andre Boisvert's hat-trick paced the Beavers to a convincing 6-1 victory over the Indians last night in the Sherbrooke Junior Hockey League twinbill at the Arena.

It was the Maroons' seventh win in eight starts this year and gives Coach Mush Morehouse's club a four-point lead over the Beavers, who slid into second place following their win. The Maroons hold a game in hand over Rollee Lacasse's Beavers.

The Maroons were obliged to rally to post their win over Mutt Dussault's crew, Jean-Guy Papillon paced the Maroons with his two goals, one the winner, while Rejean Leblanc and Jean-Rene Denis notched the other. For the Saints Guy Beliveau came up with two markers while Labar got the other.

Papillon gave the Maroons the lead in the first frame but Beliveau evened the count a few minutes later. In the mid-die session Leblanc made it 2-1.

In the third period Boisvert put the decision out of reach of the Indians with his two goals to complete his hat-trick. The Indians didn't come up with their usual strong game. Their passes were going astray and they seemed to lack drive. Their goalie can't be blamed for the defeat as his mates failed to give him any protection.

President Dugre's loop don't return to action now until Monday, Jan. 7, when St. Francis will tangle with the Beavers in the first tilt and in the second the Tech School will clash with the Maroons.

Red Sullivan rumored as Rangers' coach

NEW YORK (CP) — George (Red) Sullivan, fiery playing coach of Baltimore Clippers in the American Hockey League, is reported to be taking over the coaching job of the National League's New York Rangers from general manager Muzz Patrick.

In a radio interview Thursday night, Dave Anderson of the New York Journal-American said he learned the change will be made within the next 10 days.

Sullivan, 33, a native of Peterborough, Ont., was captain of the Rangers and left the team last season after five seasons as a New York centre.

Before joining the Rangers, Sullivan spent two years each with Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins.

If the report is true, it will be an odd switch.

Speculators said Sullivan left the Rangers last year because Doug Harvey, a former Montreal Canadiens defenceman, had been named playing-coach.

Extend lead in loop, M. Parsons, P. Ellis and R. Beaudoin pace attack, Magog Aces at Richmond tonight

ROCK ISLAND — (Special) — Rock Island Jets took their fourth game of the year from the Windsor Paper Makers here last night, an 8-3 victory before a quiet Thursday night crowd.

M. Parsons, P. Ellis and R. Beaudoin each scored two goals apiece for the Jets.

Tonight the Richmond Braves host the Magog Aces and Sunday the Aces pay their first visit of the year to Windsor.

Pierre Langlois centered a near-perfect pass to Pierce Ellis in the second minute of play but Jacques St. Laurent slid across the goal-mouth and smothered the puck. Parsons, a first-year centre man, gave Rock Island a 1-0 lead at the five minute mark as his pass ricocheted off a Windsor defenceman into the open corner.

Pete Doucet, playing his first game for the Paper Makers, tied the score seconds after following a beautiful end-to-end rush. Marcel Leblanc gave Windsor a 2-1 lead at the ten minute mark as he tipped in Maurice Audet's rebound. Pierce Ellis, the league's leading scorer, tied the score on the next play after snaring Marcel Benoit's rebound off the post.

The period ended 3-2 as Wayne Crack won a face-off in the Windsor end, stuckhanded through two Windsor players, faked St. Laurent out of position and backhanded a shot to the open side.

In the period St. Laurent made 12 stops as compared to Provencher's four. The Windsor goalie was particularly brilliant on Menard, (twice) and Reynold Beaudoin.

Pierce Ellis notched his second goal of the night, and gave the Jets a commanding 4-2 lead after three minutes of play in the second period. The goal followed pin-point passes from Parsons and Beaudet. Rock Island surged into a commanding 5-2 lead at the five-minute mark as R. Beaudoin beat St. Laurent after taking passes from Wayne Crack and Luc Gregoire.

Ray St. Cyr, the little veteran winger picked up from the Sherbrooke Beavers in the off-season, scored his first goal of the year and cut Rock Island's lead to two goals at 15:19 after win, making 37 saves compared with 34 for Boston rookie Ed Johnston.

Bathgate and Bucyk moved up into a three-way tie for third spot in the goals department with Gilles Tremblay of Montreal. The three have 15 goals each, seven fewer than Mahovich and two fewer than second-place Parker MacDonald of Detroit.

The Bruins took an early lead on Toppazzini's goal in the first period.

But Balon tied it and Rangers scored twice—Henry and Ingarfield being the marksmen—during Boston penalties to open up a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period.

FLOODGATES OPEN

Gendron pulled the Bruins closer with a quick goal early in the second period. But Horvath and Prentice scored before the period ended to make it 5-2. Rangers scored four more in the third to Boston's one to pile up the win.

Bathgate, though one of the more graceful players in the league, is a strong performer. In his eight full seasons in the NHL, he has missed only five games.

He has a hard shot with pinpoint accuracy. But his chief asset is his heady playmaking. He has played centre off and on, though most of his time has been spent on his present right-wing spot.

Last year he led the league in assists with 56, tying Chicago's Bobby Hull for the league scoring title with 84 points.

SCORERS ENJOY FEAST

Bathgate's linemates, Dean Prentice and Earl Ingarfield, each scored twice. Dave Balon also scored two goals, while Camille Henry and Bronco Horvath each tallied once.

Boston's scorers were Jerry Toppazzini, Jean-Guy Gendron and Johnny Bucyk.

Ranger goalie Gump Worsley played a big part in the lopsided win, making 37 saves compared with 34 for Boston rookie Ed Johnston.

Canadian armed forces acquire tools for nuclear warfare during the year

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's armed forces in 1962 acquired more of the tools for nuclear warfare but the year passed without a government decision on whether to acquire nuclear warheads.

During the year the RCAF acquired two nuclear carriers and began taking delivery of an other.

The Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, which can be armed only with a nuclear warhead, was installed on 56 launching pads at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., but remained without warheads.

RCAF air defence command was re-equipped with the American Voodoo jet interceptor which can carry the Genie nuclear rocket, and the RCAF air division in Europe began taking delivery of the CF-104 low-level nuclear bomber, designed to carry a nuclear bomb.

Four of the nine fighter squadrons in Canada were disbanded, the remaining five being re-equipped with 66 Voodoos, of which two were lost in crashes.

AUSTERITY HITS ARMY
At year's end, four of the 12 squadrons in the air division overseas and its radar control unit were disbanded. The remaining eight squadrons, which have flown Sabre jet day fighters for several years, are to have their new CF-104s by summer, 1963.

The Canadian infantry brigade group in West Germany put the Honest John artillery rocket into service. It is designed to carry a nuclear warhead.

The summer austerity program resulted in an $86,000,000 cut in the 1962-63 defence budget, reducing it to $1,590,000,000.

Impact of the cut fell mainly on the army. During the 1961 Berlin crisis an 11,000-man increase in army strength to 59,000 was announced. Army manpower rose slowly to more than 52,000 but was rolled back to 50,000 by austerity.

The austerity program also resulted in some equipment cuts and stretch-outs, particularly in the field of national survival (civil defence).

HOPE FOR TEST BAN
Readiness of the armed forces to swing into action quickly was tested in the Oct. 22-28 Cuba crisis. Air defence command went into an increased state of readiness—although defence authorities said this was purely academic in view of the lack of nuclear armament.

In the Cuba crisis, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Canada in recent years had acted responsibly by not contributing to extension of the nuclear family.

He had said earlier in the year that the question of acquisition of nuclear weapons was "hypothetical" as long as disarmament negotiations remained "to the fore."

In late November, the East-West disarmament conference resumed at Geneva with renewed hope for at least a ban on further nuclear testing.

NAVY GETS 'COPTERS'

In this context, a government decision in 1963 on nuclear weapons appeared no closer than it did in 1962 though several persons in close touch with the situation said the decision now boiled down to "when," not "whether."

In their opinion, a decision will more or less have to be made by mid-1963 when the overseas air division is re-equipped because Canada committed itself to a nuclear role in Europe in 1959 and NATO will expect this country live up to that undertaking.

The re-equipment programs were the main advances in the services.

A major one for the navy was a start on the fitting of helicopter hangers and landing platforms on seven St. Laurent class destroyers. For the army, 20 prototypes of the Bobcat armoured personnel carrier are to be delivered in January or February.

The RCAF, with an assist from the navy, began installation of an underwater submarine alarm system in the Atlantic.

MOVE HEADQUARTERS

The RCAF's air defence command headquarters at year's end was preparing to move from St. Hubert, Que., to its new underground combat post near North Bay, site of the only SAGE (semi-automatic ground environment) electronic control centre in Canada.

The armed forces continued to make a major contribution to United Nations operations in Egypt and The Congo. They took on a small extra UN job, due to end in May, 1963, in Dutch New Guinea which was being turned over to Indonesian administration.

In November, Canada promised military aid to India. The first assistance was six Dakota transport planes, flown to India by the RCAF.

The Doctor Says

'GLUE SNIFFERS' INHALE TROUBLE FOR THE BODY

Ferdinand the Bull loved to sniff the flowers. Some children are known to sniff gasoline. But now there emerges another form of sniffing that is more dangerous than gasoline sniffing that appears in children (Mostly boys) of ages 7-17. This consists of sniffing the plastic cement used to make model airplanes.

This type of cement has been in the market for many years, but no glue sniffing was observed as a health problem until two or three years ago.

As with gasoline sniffing, most of the children who took up glue sniffing for "kicks" were emotionally disturbed. But this factor alone would not account for the habit.

The intoxicating effects were probably discovered by chance after working with glue. Then, as the feeling of elation was recognized, as a result of the sniffing, intentional repetition of the experience was sought. This was possibly to escape an emotionally unsatisfactory or unpleasant environment.

Plastic cements contain highly volatile solvents which vary with different brands. But they all contain a combination of such chemicals as benzene, alcohol, acetone, butyl acetate, carbon tetrachloride, and chloroform. The children who use these glues for sniffing develop a certain amount of tolerance so that they cannot get the desired effect without using an increasing number of tubes. It does not follow, however, that their internal organs develop a similar tolerance.

While the "jag" may last only 30 to 45 minutes, chronic poisoning of the liver, heart, kidneys, blood-forming organs, and nervous system slowly develops. A real binge may cause loss of consciousness.

While the body is being slowly poisoned, more noticeable effects of prolonged use may be observed. These include halitosis, excessive secretions from nose and mouth, irritability, loss of appetite, loss of weight, and lack of mental alertness.

Sniffing is a habit rather than a true addiction. Fortunately, stopping the habit does not produce painful withdrawal symptoms. However, children can become emotionally dependent on it.

As a result the child may steal the tubes of may become involved in a serious fight over the possession of them. This may lead to other crimes and to arrest.

KNOWLTON — Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 29, held its annual Christmas party on Dec. 20, when 27 members gathered for this event, which has been taking place for many years.

The meeting was presided over by the Noble Grand, Sister Eleanor Tibbitts, the business period included the reading of the minutes and correspondence by the secretary, Sister Nellie d'Artois, statements by the financial secretary, Sister Mabel Tibbitts and the treasurer, Sister Pearl Windle.

Gifts were exchanged and a salad supper served.

A drawing on a turkey, which had been donated by the Noble Grand, was held and won by Aubert Mailhot, of Granby.

no habitual glue sniffing has ever been reported in persons employed in the manufacture of the cement. Because the habit among children appears to be spreading rapidly, the manufacturers in some states are being strongly urged to add something to the glue to give it a mildly unpleasant smell. Dealers are requested to take greater precautions against theft of the tubes.

Gladys Hunter, secretary; Mrs. Aileen Arbery, treasurer; Mrs. Mavis Chamberlain, sergeant at arms; Mrs. Ruby Simpson, installed in the Senior branch were: William Comstock, president; Donald Pringley, vice-president; William Pope, secretary; O. LePoidevin, treasurer; and Douglas Greenleaf, sergeant at arms. Harold Beane is honorary president and Jack Heald the immediate past president.

Others installed on the Senior branch executive included: Public relations, Donald Whitehouse; house and building, Keith Armstrong; Bulletin, Ronald Badger; Poppy Fund administrator, Howard Wells; poppy campaign, Douglas Greenleaf.

Brief remarks were given by the out-going and in-coming presidents. Mrs. Miller was presented with the past presidents pin.

A short meeting took place, and plans were completed for the children's Christmas party and for the distribution of Christmas hampers by the men after being packed by the Auxiliary members.

During the social part of the evening, lunch was served by members of the Auxiliary.

Vacationing Canadians flock south in record numbers—change course

The annual southbound pilgrimage of Canadian sun-worshippers is in full swing with the Caribbean cutting itself in for a bigger-than-ever slice of the mid-winter tourist trade from this country.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press indicates a record number of travellers will head for warmer climes this winter and shows some changes in the pattern of popularity of winter vacation spots.

Most noticeable trend among tourists from Eastern Canada is a growing preference for the Bahamas, Bermuda and such Caribbean islands as Barbados and Antigua. Florida remains popular but is getting a slightly smaller percentage of the trade.

From Manitoba to the west coast, there appears to be a growing interest in Mexico though Hawaii is still a favorite, particularly among British Columbians.

Although Florida's cold weather has gone and the sunshine has returned, the publicity given to the chilly conditions early in December turned some Canadians to looking for other vacation spots.

CARIBBEAN TREND

A Halifax travel agent said he didn't think the cold snap would have a lasting effect on Florida fortunes. There was a trend, though, to vacations in smaller Caribbean islands, particularly the Virgin Islands, French Martinique and Antigua. Many are going to Nassau.

The growing popularity of winter vacations is reflected in figures for one Halifax firm which expects to book 1,000 travellers compared with 800 last winter.

The West Indies remain the most popular target for Newfoundlanders, more than 200 of whom are expected to take off, many of them after the year-end holiday season.

A Charlottetown travel agency says the trend in Prince Edward Island is definitely away from Florida vacations, with the Caribbean winning more visitors and cruises starting in New York capturing others.

Florida is still most popular for New Brunswick tourists but more are going to Bermuda and the Caribbean, especially Barbados. The use of bigger, faster jet aircraft is a factor.

CRISIS FEAR GONE

Trans-Canada Air Lines in Montreal says it expects to take about 35,000 passengers to Florida compared with 32,000 last year and will handle about 26,000 to the Caribbean, particularly Barbados and Antigua, as against 23,500 last winter. The Bahamas are also getting a big share of air travellers.

The Cuban crisis may have scared off some travellers a month ago but travel agents report there is no indication that any fears remain.

Sun-seekers pouring through

Toronto are favoring The Bahamas with Florida next, followed by Bermuda and Mexico. TCA said it booked 1,218 to Nassau over the Christmas holidays, a 20-per-cent increase. The 1,180 heading for Tampa, Fla., and 1,045 going to Bermuda represent increases of 15 per cent.

Canadian Pacific Airlines was booked solid through the holiday season on flights from Toronto to Mexico City. It was able to carry about 1,000 persons, 25 per cent more than a year ago, by using bigger jet planes. CPA's Christmas traffic to Rome was up 55 per cent.

Winnipeg agents say Hawaii and Mexico are top draws for Manitoba travellers, followed by the Caribbean and Bahamas. However, one firm finds itself wrapped up with bookings for trips to Europe next summer. And another, Mackie Travel Service, reported fewer inquiries. Doug Mackie suggested the war scare and the devaluation of the Canadian dollar as reasons.

HAWAII OFF

A Regina agent says the Caribbean is big this year and Hawaii has fallen off. Mexico is expected to get big play in February. Another agent is doing most of its business with Honolulu-bound vacationers with the Caribbean second and cruises third.

Mexico has inched ahead of Hawaii for Edmonton travellers and one agent says slightly lower air fares may be the reason although over-all costs to either place still run about $25 a day. The Bahamas and Israel are coming in for increased business.

Lilies of valley thrive indoors

By MARGARET E. DOVE

Lily of the Valley, an old-fashioned favorite garden flower, is an almost foolproof plant for forcing indoors.

During May and June stems of the fragrant white stems are often hidden among the masses of green foliage which carpet the ground; indoors in winter, however, the blooms appear high above the more fragile green foliage.

IN MOIST FIBRE

For indoor winter bloom one must purchase specially prepared forcing pipes which have been pre-treated in cold storage. The pipes usually come into bloom 2-3 weeks after planting and are available during December and January.

Pipes placed close together, leaving the tops exposed, are planted in moist bulb fibre, sphagnum moss, vermiculite or in bowls
holding pebbles and water.
They are kept in a cool spot and given dim light.

When the bud stalks are visible they are given good light, not sun, in a cool room, 65-68 degrees, until they come into bloom.

The stems push up faster
if kept out of the sun. Adequate moisture must be maintained at all times at the roots.

BUYING 'PIPS'

Lily of the Valley pips may be purchased by the dozen, half dozen, or by the hundred. For the best effect a container should hold at least five pips.

Pips may also be purchased already planted in small containers of prepa-

ed sphagnum moss and these make ideal gifts.
The delicate fragrance from a bowl of these exquisite blossoms will fill an entire room (TNS).

Year of St. James Church was

Do-it-yourself

Take the wobble out of old chair

By MR. FIX

If a chair squeaks and groans when folks sit in it, when it begins to sway dangerously, then it needs retreating to your workshop for some repair work.

Resist the temptation to break it up. But don't put off repairing it. One loose part will place undue strain on the rest of the chair. Once the item is in pieces, repairs may involve skills you don't possess.

The likeliest trouble will be loose joints. Glued joint work loose in time due to use, heat and moisture. While you don't want to stop using your furniture, extend its life by keeping it away from radiators during the winter.

Single Joint

If you are regluing a single joint, start by freeing the joint with a mallet or padded hammer. Clean off all traces of old glue from the surfaces you will reglue.

Use sandpaper or a file if the glue is heavy. New glue will not stick well to old, so make certain the joint is absolutely clean.

Put a small amount of glue on each surface. Too much will not hold. Fit the joint together and apply pressure. Use clamps or tie the parts of the chair together and insert a piece of wood between strands of the rope so that you can tighten the rope turniket-like.

Larger Rung

Sometimes the run is a loose fit. No amount of glue will help in this case. Before gluing enlarge the size of the rung. One method is to cut a small slit in the end of rung, later inserting a thin wedge of wood. Drive the wedge in with care to avoid splitting the rung.

Another method is to coat the rung with glue and then wrap a layer of thread around it.

In each case, once the rung is enlarged, glue as before.

Drastic Action

If the chair sways generally and more than one joint seems to be involved, then more drastic measures must be taken.

Remove the chair seats. Turn over the chair and you will find that the seat is held with was sung.

screws through gluing blocks making them secure with glue in the corners of the chair. If you have removed many Remove loose rungs. Then remove gluing blocks and break apart all other joints that are firm should remain.
If any of the rung ends are broken, or any of the dowels are broken (many joints use glue and dowels instead of screws) then drill out the broken part and insert new dowels, surface to prevent damage.
