MISCELLANEOUS EXTRACTS.

Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine for last month gives the subjoined account of the younger Pitt's perseverance, as minister, against a majority in the House of Commons :—

"The lofty perseverance of the minister was among the great qualities which gained this most memorable triumph. He fought the opposition for eleven weeks alone; and during that time he never allowed the most dexterous of his antagonists to gain the slightest advantage over him. He was never betrayed into a rash expression, never inflamed into unbecoming wrath, never entrapped into undue disclosure. He sat, night after night, the same impurturbable depositary of Government, suffering the storm to rage on until it was his pleasure to check its ravings. But when he rose, he poured out the same torrent of eloquence which dashed and withered his enemies; at once caustic and generous, graceful and daring, classical and vigorous, it was equally unrivalled in the discussions of policy domestic and foreign, in the more general contests which turned on political principle, and in those powerful, and sometimes most pathetic appeals, in which he addressed himself to the native-born feelings of honor and patriotism in the breasts of Englishmen. For nearly two months he was constantly repelled, defied, and insulted by the House. He never in a single instance obtained a majority. In the long succession of debates, from the time of taking his seat on the 12th of January, 1784, to the time when opposition finished their career of violence by a manifesto almost of treason, March the 8th, he was defeated in fourteen great debates, the result of any one of which might have sent him from the Treasury Bench to the Tower. Still he persevered with a manliness which conferred the highest panygeric on his nature, a penetration which placed his ability in the highest public point of view, and a confidence in the national character which nothing but singular nobleness in the heart of the minister could have dictated, and nothing but singular virtue in the heart of the people could have sustained. From the beginning he took his stand against the ignorant principle, which we again hear asserted, that "the House of Commons has the right to declare who shall be the ministers of the country." He proved that this power, once established, would be effectually the establishment of a democracy. He was not to be answered by the trifling pretence that the Commons admitted the King's right to nominate; he showed that the royal nomination must be a burlesque where the right of the House of Commons to annul it day by day was assumed as a privilege; that this privilege would make Government a mockery of the hour; that while the votes of a thing so palpably dependant on chance as a majority were to exercise the actual controul over the appointment of the royal counsellors—all that belongs to the stability of public council, all foreign connexion, all the security of laws, must be blown loose to the winds; that the very conception went to defraud the House of Peers of their constitutional share in the public interests; that it would leave the King but in the situation of a head clerk of the House of Commons, and, as the natural consummation of all, that the Commons themselves would be crushed by some burst of national anger, as they had been before—the soldier would, as he had done before, finish what the demagogue began, and the liberties and name of England would of necessity merge in either a rabble republic, an iron despotism, or a helpless slavery to some continental power, provoked by its insults, or tempted by its exposure to invasion."

EMIGRATION.—On Wednesday the brig Dalmarnock sailed from Greenock for New York with about 50 passengers, and on Thursday the ship Camillus for the same destination with 61 passengers. The emigrants for America from Greenock this season, although not so numerous as in former years, are principally people in 'bein' circumstances, and are proceeding to the western world to join their friends who have preceded them a few years. Although the most of the emigrants are going out to New York, still their ultimate destination is Upper Canada; the western canal from the river Hudson to the great lakes being the easiest way of getting into Upper Canada. Several vessels are on the berth at Greenock for New York, Montreal, and Quebec, and the other British Colonies in North America.

The Dublin Satirist says of Lady Sugden, (wife of the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, Sir Edward Sugden,) who had lived as a wife to her husband before marriage, that she is as much entitled to be received at Court as Lady Jersey, the Countess of Blessington, Lady Canterbury, (sister to the Countess,) the Duchess of St. Albans, the Duchess of Cleveland, the Marchioness of Conyngham, the Marchioness of Anglesey, or the Ladies Weymouth, Harrington, Coventry, Westmoreland, Tankerville, Aldborough, Strachan, (di Salsa,) Ellenborough, &c. &c.

Lord Haddington, the new Viceroy of Ireland, on his way to Dublin observing the mile-stones marked "G. P. O." asked the meaning of it, when a wag told him it was "God preserve O'Connell," which much startled his lordship.

The number of private bills already presented to the House of Commons, is 169, chiefly respecting roads, railways, harbours, canals, gas-light companies, water-works, markets, &c.

The following letter has been addressed by a lady to the editor of a contemporary journal :—

"Sir: Having heard there is some difficulty in devising adequate punishment for culprits, and that the treadmill, solitary confinement, &c. have failed in the results, not having proved effective, I have just turned my mind to the subject, having once undergone the penance I am going to describe for unmanageable prisoners. The magistrate could not be severe who only said, 'The sentence of the court is, that the prisoner at the bar be dressed as a lady of fashion.' Methinks I hear the culprit thank his stars for the mercy, until he has gone through the ordeal: it runs thus—the body to be laced in four inches smaller than the natural size, with steel, whalebone, and cotton: let him eat a hearty dinner, then add a pair of shoes particularly narrow across the foot, and a little too short, to make them look small, then let the roots of the hair be drawn up by a french hair dresser; and if you wish to give additional torture, put in a quantity of combs, hair-pins, &c, expose his shoulders to the air, and then make him dance for an hour or two, not forgetting to have a pressure on the chest bone from a broad topped steel busk, and when he is well heated with exercise and indigestion, ask him if he would not rather submit to the tread-mill."—Sheffield Iris.

The 21st of March, the anniversary of the return of Napoleon from Elba, was celebrated by the surviving officers of the ex-Imperial Guard, now at Paris. It brought to mind many mournful but proud reminiscences of the glories of the empire; and among the toasts, was that of their immortal Captain.

The glass-blowers in France carefully confine the knowledge of their art to their own families, teaching it only to their own sons, and even circumscribing their matrimonial alliances within their own circle. Some few days ago, M. Dorlodot, the proprietor of a glass-house at Anzin, being in want of hands, took upon himself to employ as a blower a man who was not of the true blood. The whole race of blowers immediately burst into a blaze, and threatened to blow up the intruder if he was not withdrawn. A parley has, however, ensued, and a negociation is going on, but it is believed that the blowers will preserve their self-established rights.

What strikes every mind in the debates of the English House of Parliament is the clearness, the simplicity, and the frankness of the discussions. The classification of opinions is effected without those mortal delays which cause so much indecision in our Chambers, and open so wide a field for intrigue.—Each of the two great factions which divide the English House, puts forth its leader as the organ of its sentiments, and when Sir Robert Peel or Lord Russell addresses the Chair, it is known that they express the opinions of three hundred individuals. So if a third party, like that headed by Lord Stanley, is conscientiously placed between the Opposition and the Ministry, the chief sums up the sentiments of the whole. This is the work of Parliament simplified, and if other speeches are made on each side of a litigated question, they are intended less for the Assembly than for the country, which watches over the proceedings. That which is done in the lobbies of the French Chamber by dark intrigue, is performed in England with the striking publicity of solemn discussion. Who, in France, would venture to propose the election of a President of the Chamber otherwise than by ballot? who would venture to recommend the public discussion of the merits of candidates? Yet this is done in England with a wisdom and majesty worthy of admiration.—And that discussion relative to the answer to the Crown! In England the members are always prepared because they know what they want. A King's speech is delivered at noon, and the answer is discussed in the evening. No committees, no report is necessary. The minister wants the House to approve, the Opposition requires blame, and a decision is speedily obtained.—(Paris Messenger.)

ROSSI'S SALE.—This clever Artist submitted the relics of his great genius to public competition this week at his late gallery in Lisson grove; the prices which they brought did not come up to the sum contemplated. Sir Robert Peel and several patrons of the fine arts visited the collection. It is said that the Premier is the purchaser of the magnificent statue of Thompson in his study. The two figures which poor Rossi set the most value upon. Eve at the Fountain, and Musidora, are brought in. The following are the prices of a few of the leading statues—A fine terra cotta Model for monument to Lord Nelson, 35 guineas; Eve at the Fountain (bought in,) 300 guineas; splendid model, Parental Affection, 30 guineas; Musidora, from Thompson's Summer (bought in,) 330 guineas; Mercury, 200 guineas; Zephyrus and Aurora (bought in,) 120 guineas; the poet Thompson in his study, 330 guineas; noble statuary marble chimney piece, 160 guineas; terra cotta Group, Edward and Eleanora, 40 guineas; the colossal statue of Napoleon Buonaparte was sold for 235 guineas; the small Eve, 70 guineas; bronze equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington, 105 guineas; the busts from 20 guineas upwards.

AMERICAN PAPERS.

New-York, (Saturday,) May 16.—Congress ha appropriated a sum of money for a dry dock at this port, and the Secretary of the Navy is here to select a suitable position.

We are happy to learn that the Harlæm rail-road will now be shortly completed.

Books were opened at the Commercial Bank, in this city, during the last three days, for an additional capital of 5000 shares to the New-York and Harlæm rail-road, 20 per cent of which was required to be paid down. The number of shares subscribed for during the three days, was 16,446—more than three times the amount required.

Extract of a letter from Oswego, (United States) May 11th, 1835 :—

"It affords us pleasure to inform you that several schooners from this port, laden with merchandize from New-York for Ohio, have reached their destination, and delivered their cargoes. Notwithstanding the spring repairs on the Welland canal have retarded our navigation through that channel two weeks after all the other parts of this route from New-York to Cleveland were open, still we have been able to transport goods from New-York to Ohio, and wheat from Ohio to New-York, (provided the Girard's cargo has arrived,) flouring the wheat on its way, while our rival route is closed up by ice at Buffalo.

"Our ship-masters all agree in saying that the Welland canal is in prime order, and promises despatch and certainty to the trade."

New-York, (Saturday) May 10th.—The present season is not much unlike that of last year, when we had no warm weather from the middle of April, till after the middle of May. It is on record that on the 25th of May 1834, ice was found in the gutters of our streets. Yesterday the weather was not cold enough to make ice. It may be consoling those who begin to despair of having summer, to bring to mind that we have quite as fair a promise of it as we had at this period last year.

Mr. Sheridan Knowles, has taken passage in the Columbus, 16th June packet, for Liverpool.

A BULL FIGHT WITH STEAM.—A few days since, as the locomotive steam engine was passing along the Colombia railroad, the engineer espied a noble bull driving across the field, apparently to give battle to the machine. He was coming at the top of his speed, his tail stuck right into the air, and his head down, as if for immediate attack. As the bull errant rushed onward, the director checked the car, and received the blow upon the front wheel. The animal recoiled several steps—the puffing of the steam pipe seemed to challenge him to a second onset, and on he came, bellowing and tearing up the earth while his eyes seemed to shoot forth baneful fire. The engineer thought his safety consisted in moving—he therefore put on the whole head of the accumulated steam, and the car started like the wind. The enraged beast struck short of his aim, missed his footing, and rolled down a high embankment, to the infinite gratification of those who had watched his behaviour, and to the glory of the engineer,—(*U. A boat was launched at Catharine slip yesterday, by the Gondola Boat Club, that for beauty and elegance surpasses any thing we ever saw. It is 28 feet long, will carry fourteen persons, and yet is so light that two men can support it on their shoulders with ease. The seats are covered with rich striped cushions, and a splendid canopy, extending the entire length of the boat, surrounded with rich fringe and tassels, is supported over it with small iron pillars. In point of finery the gondolas of Venice may outshine this boat, though we suspect when you come to the rowing part of the story, the members of our Gondola Club would row the Venetian oarsmen up salt creek in less than no time.—N. Y. Sun.

In the brig Angola, which sailed from Boston on Friday, for Smyrna, went passengers, Dr. Asahel Grant and lady, of Utica, (New-York,) and Miss Rebecca M. Williams of East Hartford (Connecticut.) Dr. G. and lady are on a mission to the Nestorians, in Oormiah, the north west part of Persia, and Miss W. to Beyroot, in Syria: sent out by the American Board of Foreign Missions.

Some few cases of cholera have occurred in this city; but they are justly attributed to imprudence or intemperance on the part of the victims. The small pox has also attacked a few of our citizens; but it does not appear to be very dangerous. In other respects New Orleans is now healthy in general.

CAPE DE VERDS.—Capt. Rider, arrived at Salem, states in relation to the Portuguese soldiers who revolted at Port Praya, in March, that they were guilty of the most atrocious outrages, murdering many persons with savage cruelty, and plundering the town at their pleasure. Finally they seized three vessels in port, one of which was the ci-devant New-York news schooner "Evening Edition," and made their escape, all but thirty of them who had gone into the country after a supply of bullocks, and were seized by the natives. The revolters took possession of the custom house, and plundered it of all its contents, throwing into the streets a valuable cargo of silks belonging to a French vessel in port, and stored in the custom house. Six of their own officers were among the persons murdered by the mutineers.

The above Portuguese soldiers arrived about the 10th of February, their officers bringing their families with them. On the night of the 21st of March, the soldiers rose upon and imprisoned their officers, seized upon the person of the Governor, whom they confined a prisoner in his own house, and took the entire possession of the whole place. Many private houses were completely stripped by them of every thing valuable and the occupants fled at midnight for their lives. The next day they declared for Don Miguel, and paraded about the town playing his march. They then made known their design of plundering and burning every house in the place, and of taking the lives of the inhabitants.

The greatest confusion and alarm prevailed, and the people fled in every direction. None remained, excepting the families of the Governor and of Messrs. Gardner and Merrill. The latter gentleman is American Consul at the Islands. He applied to the commander of the revolutionary troops and demanded protection as an American. He was directed to hoist the American flag over his house and property, and was promised that it should be a sufficient protection. This promise was faithfully kept, and a guard was stationed at Mr. Merrill's residence.

The most horrible part of the story remains to be told. The above narrated events took place on Sunday, and on Monday they imprisoned the wives and families of the officers, (already imprisoned,) and on the night of the same day, they took from the prison these unfortunate men, led them to a retired spot, a short distance from the town, and there most inhumanly shot them down in cold blood.—But one individual escaped, and that escape was almost a miracle. By this time the soldiers had become somewhat alarmed by the report of an armed force marching against them from the country, and commenced making preparations for departure. A party of them were searching for bullocks, and discovered this body of men coming towards St. Jago. The rebels collected their whole force to oppose them, but seeing their superiority in point of numbers, made the best of their way on board of two brigs then in the harbor, and which they had previously got ready in case of such an emergency, and succeeded in effecting their escape entirely unpunished.

UPPER-CANADA.

The following is the description of a piece of plate presented to Archdeacon Strachan, on the 8th instant, by a number of respectable inhabitants of Toronto, as a mark of respect for his unremitting services during the Cholera of 1832 and 1834.—The execution of the plate, which cost £100, was entrusted to Mr. Stenett, Artist :—

"The Vase presented on this occasion is composed of massive silver of the British standard, its height is eighteen inches and capable of containing six quarts. Its design is purely Grecian. It is supported on a pedestal or tripod (of the same material) standing on three richly embossed feet. On the tripod, in an incumbent posture, are three figures, chimeras, whose wings embrace the foot of the vase, which is also supported by a centre-piece of scroll and foliage; the body of the vase is richly ornamented by bold flutes alternately, embossed with the honeysuckle flute on a dead white ground; the handles are very richly displayed, with foliage dividing into two stems, the ends of which are beautifully enriched with sprigs of the grape vine, and rest on the mouth border of flutes. The contrast between the dead white ornaments and the rich colour of the burnishing, is very judiciously arranged. The inscription is on the tripod, and is as follows :—

"This Vase was presented to the Honorable and "Venble. Archdeacon Strachan, D. D., by a num-"ber of the inhabitants of the City of Toronto, as a "memorial of their respect and gratitude, for his "fearless & humane devotion to his pastoral duties, "during seasons of great danger and distress, from "the visitation of an appalling pestilence.

"For he that in these things serveth Christ, is acceptable to God, and approved of men."—Rom. 14—18." (Courier.)

RIDEAU CANAL.—The steam-boat Margaret arrived on Thursday with 25 or 30 passengers. The Rideau came up from Bytown yesterday in the short space of 34 hours—some say 32½ hours—passing through 39 locks. Business on the Canal is going on briskly.—(Kingston Chronicle.)

We hear the Rice Lake Plains are again extensively on fire.—(Cobourg Star.)

TAXATION IN UPPER CANADA.—Among the substantial benefits, the most important perhaps which any people can enjoy, is the small amount of direct taxation to which the people of Upper Canada are subject. Before proceeding to the facts which I am about to submit, let it be premised, that of the taxes alluded to, no part whatever is applicable to the general expenses of the Government. They are levied for local purposes, and are expended in the several Districts where they are collected for the benefit of the Inhabitants of those Districts. But to proceed to the statements, from the tables which have been prepared, the aggregate amount of rateable property in Canada for the year 1834, is as follows :—

Acres of land—4,122,296 uncultivated, and 1,004,773 cultivated—total, 5,166,929 acres.

Houses—squared timber, one story 3,568, with 122 additional fire places.

Do.—Of two stories 482, with 169 additional fire places.

Framed, brick, or stone of one story, 9,968, with 3,880 additional fire places.

Ditto—Of two stories, 2,962, with 2,686 additional fire places.

Flouring Mills, 328, with 192 additional pairs of stones.

Saw Mills, 788—store houses 138—Merchants' shops 1,068—stone horses 264—horses, 42,958—oxen, 42,795—milch cows, 99,823; young cattle, 35,795—carriages, 266—pleasure waggons, 1,170—town lots, 3,460.

The total assessed valuation of this property is £4,106,677 14s. 10d.—the amount of rate collected on which is £18,670 18s. 6d—and for the Representatives' wages £2,650 15s. 4d—making the total amount collected £21,331 12s. 10d.

The official return of population shews a total of 321,903—giving a general average of about one shilling and seven pence of taxes per head. But as there is reason to believe that the population returns are very incorrect, and that the population amounts to at least 350,000, the tax per head is less than what is here stated—at the latter amount it will not average quite one and three pence per head. Supposing families to average five in number, each head of a family at this rate pays 6s. 3d. for his household.

The foregoing statements produce the following results. The average of Land is about 100¼ acres to each individual, or 502 acres to every five—of houses of all kinds the average is one to every twenty of the population—of horses, there is one to every eight persons—milch cows, not quite one to every four or about each family.

The total assessed value gives an average of a little more than £11 to each individual, or £55 to to every family of five persons.

One item worthy of remark is that the sum paid by the people to their Representatives, amounts to more than one-ninth of the amount collected, or upwards of eleven per cent. of the whole tax raised for all other purposes, exclusive of the additional charge that will be required in future to four members.

On the whole it may with safety be asserted, that there is not perhaps an instance at this moment in the world, of a people more lightly burthened with direct taxation than the people of Upper Canada—which, with a population of 350,000 souls, at the very low rate of assessed value, pays a total sum of only £31,331—being an average of less than one shilling and three pence each :—88 per cent of which is expended for local purposes among the people where it is collected, and the remaining 12 per cent. paid to their Representatives in Parliament.—[Correspondent of the Courier.]

Montreal, May 20.—The case of the Alliance Fire Assurance Company vs. Richard Owston, which was to have been tried before a Special Jury, has been traversed, for certain reasons, to the June Term of the Court of King's Bench.—(Ami du Peuple.)

Extract from the London Correspondence of the Farmer's Advocate, dated London, 27th March, 1835.

"Lord Brougham presented to the House of Lords the petition from your Convention; he spoke a pamphlet distributed by Chapman, and being now too insane to know what he is about, did not observe that the petition was drawn up before the change of Ministry, and was consequently against that of which he considered himself the grand mover; it was exquisitely absurd. Lord Aberdeen and Lord Ripon gave it him well. Now for the sequel. The next night Brougham presented a petition from a Clergyman, saying that for the future, he would do no more than present them, and would vote for nothing, handing the petition to be read by the Clerk. Again the night after, forgetting his declaration, he presented another petition with an awful long speech, but strange to say, not a single Lord vouchsafed a word, and it was laid on the table unnoticed!

As I generally give you as much Colonial news as possible, and the 'on dits' as well as matters of fact, I will tell you it is said the Dublin North American Colonial Association for an Ottawa Company, is broken up! The Irishmen, Paddy-like, got quarrelling for joy among themselves, as their scheme appeared to be succeeding. I saw Sherriffe in the city this morning, but he was engaged, and I did not choose to interrupt him. How far, and in what way, his Ottawa scheme was connected with the Dublin one, I cannot tell you. The Irish one, as intended, by its promoters, was never likely to succeed.

Yesterday, the first annual festival of the "Children's Friend Society" was held at the London Tavern. My attention was called for the first time to the apprentices taken at Quebec and Montreal, from the importation of these boys last spring. It is to be sincerely hoped that they have proved worthy of the care and expense bestowed upon them. A second number is now going out to you in the Eleutheria. Among other toasts was "Lady Aylmer, and the Ladies' Committee of Canada."

P. S. 29th. Thaddeus Osgood is in limbo. Imprisonment for debt is not yet done away with. Were he free he would probably take charge of the boys going to Canada, from the Children's Friend Society; he is a strange man.

John Blackwood, Esq. late of Montreal, of whose illness I have already written, died last night—a short illness truly. He caught cold in a heavy squall whilst on horseback, having taken shelter where a thorough draft came upon him. I hear that Mr. Robert Gillespie was with him at the awful period, and that he is an Executor.

4th April, 1835.—People have been puzzled to know what motives could induce Roebuck to be such a violent partizan, especially in a matter in which it seemed as if he could have no personal interest. The public however, does not know, nor would it believe that all this zeal and fury is paid for or rather to be paid for—for it certainly has crept to one or two knowing ones, that this virtuous and indignant little fellow, is intended to be saddled on the Canadas by Papineau, possibly at an expense of £1000 per annum; he therefore is working hard just now, in hope rather than fruition—the period of hardest work for little minds.

The House of Commons was besieged on Thursday, by people connected with Canada, to see Roebuck bring forward his three grand motions—the equalization of the timber duties—the abolition of free and common Soccage Tenure in Canada, and substitution of the old, worn out, abominable Feudal System—as well as to annul the act of the British American Land Company; none of those gentlemen could get admittance, and so far as these matters were concerned, it signified not, for none of them came forward, only Young's petition.

As Roebuck has missed his motions, the lists are so full, and there is so much work for the House, it may be long before he can get an opening to shew his desire of murdering the Canadas.

It is reported that he says he will destroy the B. A. L. Company—that he positively did not know that the Bill was passing the house. To say that "he lied" would be but little, for Viger, his familiar, knew it as well as he; but they both knew also, that any attempt to stay its progress would be useless, and therefore it has been by them thought best to declare to their party that they knew nothing of it. Were that fact, it would say but little in favor of the attention of those gentlemen to their business and their duties, for they both knew that in 1825, the inhabitants of the Eastern Townships, got up petitions to His Majesty's Government, and deputed Mr. W. B. Felton to urge the formation of the Company, and that in 1832, the same gentlemen sent home Mr. Brooks, as Agent for the same purpose, and that the Company has had to work its way through four changes in the Colonial Office. So much for truth, consistency, or attention to their duties. Let these learned Gentlemen choose which ground they will stand upon.

The remains of the late John Blackwood of Montreal, were consigned to the tomb this morning in the Vaults of the Scotch Church, in Regent Square. I saw the procession, and the faces of the venerable Adam Lymburner, within a week of his 89th year, two Gillespies, Logan, Gould, Pemberton Miller, two Forsyths, McGillivray, and several others—report says that he has left a large fortune.

Sherbrooke, May 18.—We have just learnt that of three families who sold their farms in Melbourne, and emigrated to the West, no doubt with the expectation of finding the "land of promise flowing with milk and honey," after having wandered about a year, in search of an utopia, and having spent their all, one of them has just returned to Canada, having lost his wife and one child, who became victims to the unhealthiness of the climate about the shores of Lake Erie. The two other families are now on their way, both having suffered severely from sickness, determined to purchase back their farms, and spend their days contentedly, being perfectly satisfied with the West, and believing that they can do as well in Canada as any where else. We hope that this experiment will at least induce others, who may have taken the Western fever, to reflect, and carefully enquire whether they may not be better off in their present circumstances, and prospects, than they can reasonably expect to be, to remove.—(Advocate.)

QUEBEC:

FRIDAY, 22nd MAY, 1835.

The Sir Howard Douglas, M'Kissock, 22d April from Liverpool, unfortunately, from some oversight of the captain, brought no papers. All the information that can be obtained from Capt. M'Kissock is that Sir Robert Peel still remained at the head of the Government.

We have been kindly favored with a hasty perusal of the Dublin Advertiser of the 14th April, brought by Capt. Hunter, of the brig Tom Bowline, from that port; from which we make the following extracts :—

"London, Saturday evg., 11th April, 7 o'clock.

"Sir Robert Peel is again Prime Minister, and there is every probability that Parliament will be dissolved immediately.

"Sir Robt. Peel had several interviews with the King this day.

"Lord Grey has declined taking the Government."

(From the Evening Mail of the 12th.)

"Half-past six o'clock.—Sir R. Peel is now for the second time to-day, with His Majesty. All the sections of the Whigs have failed in forming an Administration. O'Connell has been the last stumbling-block: the King will not listen to his name being in any arrangements.

"The King will go down on Monday and dissolve the Parliament, stating in his Speech from the Throne, the vexatious and factious opposition which his servants have met, and the unconstitutional mode in which his just prerogative has been questioned. He will conclude by an appeal to the loyalty and attachment of his subjects

"The Navy and Army Estimates are passed. The Mutiny Bill has been read a third time in the Lords, the Duke of Wellington having moved the suspension of a Standing Rule of the House for that purpose. It will receive the Royal Assent on Monday."

By the Eluthería, Capt. Wheatley, from London, 15th ultimo, the Exchange has been put in possession of papers to the evening of the 14th, three days later than the above. The following is the only news of interest :—

(From Sanders' News Letter.)

London, April 14th.—Earl Amherst, His Majesty's Commissioner to Canada, accompanied by his nephew the Earl of Helsborough, and his Secretary Mr. Elliot, will embark for that Colony on the 20th instant. His Lordship and suite will take their passage in the Pique, 36 guns, a new ship commanded by the Hon. Capt. Rous. The mission of the noble Earl will be temporary, as he is expected to return in eight or ten months; and the Countess and Lady Sarah Amherst therefore will not accompany his Lordship.

THE FUNDS.—City, Saturday, 11th April, twelve o'clock.—Consols, 92⅜ ½, for the new account, and 92¼ ¼ for money.

Four o'clock.—Consels closed for the account at 92¼, buyers.

Lord John Russel was married this morning, at St. George's, Hanover Square, to the Dowager Lady Ribbledale.

Paris papers of the 9th April report a part of the sitting of the Chamber of Deputies of the same day, on the order of the day for the discussion of the Report relative to the American Indemnity Bill.—The Duke of Fitz-James delivered a written speech against the proposed grant of 25,000,000 francs.—(Times, 11th.)

We have been favored by J. Leaycraft, Esq., with files of Grenada papers to the 11th April. They are without any news of importance. No disturbances appear to have taken place among the negroes, with the exception of some slight insubordination in the Charib country, which however had been put down, and the apprentices had again returned to their labour.

Some reports have got into circulation respecting a successor to Mr. Justice Kerr. We believe they are unfounded. It is said that no successor to that gentleman on the King's Bench will be named here for some time, and that he may again resume the duties of his office, having been dismissed by Mr. Rice from the King's Bench, on grounds founded on charges relating to the Vice-Admiralty Court solely, which have become the subject of re-examination by the Colonial Minister. The new Ministry may, however, change this state of things. As to a successor on the Vice-Admiralty Bench, the common rumour is, that a list of several applicants has been sent to the home authorities for selection.

About forty boys, sent out by the "Children's Friend Society," from London, have arrived by the Eluthería. We understand they proceed to Montreal, where Mr. Orrick, the Society' Agent, resides, to be apprenticed to different professions in that city and in Upper Canada.

On Wednesday last, an Irish boy, on crossing the heights of the Côte d'Abraham in a dog-cart, was precipitated down the cliff, nearly fifty feet perpendicular. This is the fourth or fifth accident, attended with disastrous effects, which have recently occurred at this place. Demands for some improvement, by which these accidents might be prevented, have already been made, but without success. The recovery of the boy is despaired of ROBBERY.—This morning, between two and three o'clock, a gang of seven or eight thieves entered the house in St. Helen Street, opposite St. Patrick's church, occupied by Mrs. Montgomery, widow of the late Dr. Montgomery. Having entered the house, three of the villains proceeded to secure Mrs. M. with Eliza M'Lellan and Hugh Fitzpatrick, a youth, her two servants, by covering them with blankets and carpets, threatening their lives if they resisted, while the remainder ransacked the whole building, breaking open every chest and trunk which they discovered. After concluding their search, they returned to the room in which the three men had secured Mrs. M. and her servants, and assisted their companions in binding them more securely; by which means they were prevented for some time from giving the alarm. The person who first bound Mrs. M, was a tall cadaverous man, with large whiskers, and spoke French, in which language the whole conversed, occasionally speaking a little broken English. The thieves made their entry through the back yard and went away by the front door, which they left open. Among other articles taken away were six or seven dozens new silver spoons, without mark—a silver watch, marked "Dr. Montgomery" on the cap—a small box, containing some valuable jewellery, a mourning ring, marked "To the memory of the Rev. Dr. Sparks"—a plain broad gold ring, with Dr. Sparks' name on it,—and a great quantity of other effects, to an extent which Mrs. M. cannot yet ascertain. A more daring and atrocious robbery has seldom been heard of; the time at which it was committed being near day-break, and about the time that our vigilant guardians of the night ought to be going their last rounds to see all safe.

The following old offenders, who broke from the jail of this city on the 19th instant, no doubt formed part of the gang:—Joseph Lemair, Pierre Provost, and Francis M'Coy. We understand that the police are on the alert to apprehend all suspicious characters.

Last night, Mr. John Clearihue, Baker, St. Joseph Street, was attacked in Parloir Street, near the Hotel-Dieu, by some ruffians, who seized him, and while one held his hand on his mouth to prevent him from calling for assistance, the others rifled his pockets of cash to the amount of nine or ten dollars.

MEETING OF THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

The Annual Meeting of the Quebec Auxiliary Bible Society took place at the Court House, in the chamber of the Court of Appeals, on Wednesday last, at two o'clock, P. M. The Hon. Chief Justice Sewell was in the Chair, and Jeffrey Hale, Esquire, acted as Secretary. The meeting was composed, as usual, of all denominations of Protestants, uniting for the attainment of the common good. The President having opened the business of the meeting, by stating the objects for which it had been convened, the Secretary read the Report of the Committee, which was adopted and ordered for publication.

The Rev. Mr. Lord, from Upper Canada, stated to the meeting that he wished to bring under its notice an individual who until lately had walked in the paths of darkness, but who was now converted to Christianity.—He alluded to an Indian Chief, named John Sundays, from Upper Canada, who, he regretted to say, was in a very poor state of health.

John Sundays then came forward and addressed the meeting. In the course of his address, he said that the Indians where he came from, until lately, worshipped the sun, moon and stars, rivers, birds and beasts. He also produced a bible and prayer book, translated into his own language, which he read with considerable fluency, and appeared by his quotations to be very conversant with the English version of the scriptures likewise.

The meeting was also addressed by the following reverend gentlemen:—Messrs. Lord, Roach, Clugston, Blanchet, Wilkie, Shenstone, of Three Rivers, and two other rev. gentlemen lately arrived. The Hon Chief Justice also delivered a most eloquent and impressive address relating to the general objects of the Society, which, from want of room, we are compelled to omit.

The following gentlemen were appointed to form the Committee for the current year:—

Messrs. E. Baird, D. Burnet, R. Cairns, Jun., D. Cameron, J. G. Clapham, J. B. Edie, Captain Elgee, R. Haddan, G. Henderson, W. Hossack, R. Latham, D. Logie, R. May, David M'Callum, J. M'Kenzie, P. Moir, J. Musson, D. A. C. G. Rae, O. L. Richardson, J. Whitney; Mr. J. M'Leod, Treasurer; Mr. J. Hale, Secretary; Mr. D. Campbell, Depositary.

POSTSCRIPTUM.

The steamer St. George arrived this afternoon at five o'clock, and brought the Morning Courier of yesterday. No account of the 16th April packet. Among the passengers by the St. George, were Major Airey, Military Secy. and H. G. Forsyth, Esqr.

The new ship Douglas, built at Montreal last winter, arrived this afternoon in tow of the steamer St. George. She is about two-thirds full, and, after taking in the remainder of her cargo, will sail for London about Monday next. Captain Harby, formerly of the Cherub, will take the command of the Douglas; and Captain Scott, (formerly mate) will take home the Cherub.

COUCHING.—Mr. Editor, Will you be pleased to publish the following observations made by a person from gratitude on being restored to sight after having been deprived of that inestimable blessing for several years. I owe the happiness of my restoration to the skill and assiduous attention of John Racey, Esq. M. D. of this city. For the space of eight years, by the thickening of the crytaline humour, I had already lost the use of the right eye. From the same cause the left eye grew gradually weaker for four years, and my sight had been for a considerable space of time barely sufficient to render objects visible. On the 26th of February last, Dr. Racey, in presence of several of my friends, performed an operation on the right eye, by which in a surprising short time the cataract was extracted.

No serious accident attended this delicate operation. On the 26th March following the same operation was performed on the left eye with similar dexterity and success. The persevering daily visits, the continued watchfulness, and the delicate treatment on the part of a physician who shewed himself to be the feeling and benevolent friend of his patient, effected his rapid recovery. With the assistance of proper glasses, I now enjoy at the age of 65, the inestimable blessing of seeing and recognizing the countenance of my friends—of acting and reading with ease.

For the interest of humanity, and for the information of those who may happen to be afflicted in a similar manner with myself and from a feeling of justice and gratitude towards Dr. Racey, I have published the above facts, which above every other consideration have the merit of being strictly true.
