STOP ENGLISH TICKETS, BEDARD TELLS QPF

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec provincial police force has been ordered by Justice Minister Marc-Andre Bedard to stop issuing bilingual traffic tickets and start handing out citations in French only.

A spokesman for the force said Tuesday that members could be issuing French-only tickets as early as next week, when the supply of bilingual tickets runs out.

ROAD BEATING SUSPECT ARRAIGNED

MONTREAL (CP) — Gary Young, a 30-year-old suburban Hampstead fireman, pleaded not guilty Tuesday to charges of assault, fleeing the scene of a crime and having caused material damages of $1,250 in connection with the beating Sunday of Le Devoir courthouse reporter Bernard Morrier.

Sessions court Judge Andre Chaloux ordered Young held in custody pending a bail hearing.

Morrier, who walks with a cane since he injured his hip in a fall two years ago, says he was beaten after an English-speaking man forced his car to the side of the Laurentian Autoroute Sunday, berated him for having a sticker representing a Quebec flag on his windshield, and battered his car with an iron bar.

OLF OFFERS MD REPRIEVE

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government is considering amendments to the Charter of the French Language to allow certain practitioners of essential services more time to pass French tests, Premier Rene Levesque indicated Tuesday.

He was replying to a question in the national assembly from Liberal Michel Gratton, who said patients at a hospital in the western Quebec town of Shawville might be deprived of care if some nurses are unable to pass the mandatory tests.

Driving Week: Nothing special, say cops

By CHARLES BURY

SHERBROOKE — In the last 25 years, over 36,000 Quebecers have been killed in automobile accidents, but local police are taking no special measures during Safe Driving Week.

Quebec Police Force spokesman Sgt. Marcel Charest said yesterday that although the QPF backed the national campaign sponsored by the Canadian Safety League, it would be business as usual for patrolmen this week.

"We concentrate on highway safety 52 weeks a year," said Charest, "it's always one of our main priorities." But special action this week is out of the question.

"All our cars are on the road every day," he said. "So there's nothing more to do. Every patrolman is encouraged to be alert for traffic violations at all times. We have 27 cars out during the day shift, some on investigations and some on preventive patrol. We don't have a quota system, but we all share a concern for safe driving. After all, we're the ones who have to pick up the pieces after a crash. It's pretty disgusting."

According to Charest, drivers should be aware of two main problems at this time of year. "Roads begin to get very icy and drivers aren't used to it. Some don't have their snow tires on yet, so their cars are dangerous. And they should be extra careful."

The second problem is a much more serious one to the police and the Safety League alike: The drinking driver. "At this time of year everyone is going to lots of parties. A lot of alcohol and drugs are consumed. Of course we all know that driving and drinking don't mix, but so many people forget..."

The Safety League annual campaign, always during the first week of December, also stresses the drinking driver. They suggest party-goers take a taxi home if they've had more than a couple of drinks. And if they don't like the idea of a taxi, someone should stay sober for the ride home. Drivers are also reminded that even if they haven't been drinking, drivers they meet on the highway have been. Travellers are urged to drive defensively and make extra allowances for the foolhardy.

Lennoxville Police chief Leo Hamel echoed Charest and the Safety League, although he was not aware that Safe Driving Week was underway. "Frankly, I haven't received any word on this," he said. "But we are always on the lookout for traffic violators. Now that I know about it, we will be taking some extra measures this week. We will be doing a bit of extra radar work, checking for seatbelts, and so on."

But Hamel says that his small force is already working to capacity, and any extra effort would mean overtime bills for the taxpayers. "We have only one or two guys on patrol at any given time, and only one patrol car, so we can only do so much."

"We had a tragic accident last week-end (three were killed in a spectacular crash — see page four), and already it has cost us 17 hours of overtime."

Lennoxville police, like departments around the province, will be starting a major education campaign in the schools in January. "One of the things we'll be talking about," says Hamel, "will be safe driving. We know it's a big problem and the schools are the place to start."

In the last 25 years, nearly 900,000 have been injured in traffic accidents. La Regie d'assurance automobile du Quebec paid out over $241 million in claims in 1978-79. This does not include claims paid for private coverage. Studies show that the use of seatbelts reduces the chance of death in an accident by 85 per cent and the chance of injury by 35 per cent.

'No doubt' MPs should have raise, Pinard says

OTTAWA (CP) — There is "absolutely no doubt" MPs are underpaid and deserve a raise, Government House Leader Yvon Pinard said Tuesday.

But it's too soon to say whether the government will endorse the increases proposed in a report presented to Parliament earlier in the day, he said in an interview.

The study of salaries, allowances and other benefits of MPs and senators calls for raises to double MPs' salaries in three years and push the prime minister's annual income above $100,000.

The report, still to be considered by cabinet and the Commons, proposes lump-sum raises of $3,600 this year and for the next three years to help MPs catch up with civil servants and those in the private sector doing comparable work.

As well, it recommends MPs get an additional annual raise starting this Jan. 1 to compensate for inflation. This year's rate, based on a cross-section of government and industry salaries, would have been 9.5 per cent.

PAY WOULD DOUBLE

If that remains the same, the salary of an MP, who now makes $30,600 a year, as well as a tax-free allowance of $13,500, would increase to about $62,000 by Jan. 1, 1984.

However, for the past few years, MPs' salaries have increased by only seven per cent annually.

The report suggests the prime minister should get an extra payment of $50,000 a year, which would also increase annually according to the formula. Pierre Trudeau now gets $81,900 annually — the same benefits as an MP as well as an extra $37,800 for being prime minister.

The opposition leader and other MPs with extra responsibilities would also get increases.

The report was prepared by Leon Balcer, a Progressive Conservative cabinet minister under the late prime minister John Diefenbaker, and Cliff McIsaac, Liberal MP for Saskatchewan's North Battleford riding from 1974 to 1979.

His study was based in part on the first one of its kind prepared by former Tory MP Alfred Hales following the 1979 election but not finished until last April.

NO ACTION TAKEN

His recommendations were not acted on because the Liberals, as required by 1976 legislation, called for the new report after the 1980 election.

Cheap booze, butts coming for U.S. trips

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians heading for a vacation in the United States next year will be able to buy cheap liquor and cigarettes before they cross the border.

The government announced today that it will establish 30 to 35 duty-free shops at land border crossings sometime next year.

That means people crossing into the U.S. can stop at the border, buy several kinds of goods without paying some taxes, and take delivery when they cross into the U.S.

Foreigners heading home after holidaying in Canada and Canadians leaving on vacations are expected to spend about $20 each at the shops — for a total of about $100 million a year, National Revenue Minister Bill Rompkey said at a news conference.

The shops will sell liquor, wine, tobacco, crafts and Canadiana. Other items might include imported perfumes, cameras, radios, tape recorders, china, woolens and luggage.

Rompkey said he hopes to be able to open several shops at several test sites by the beginning of the tourist season next spring.

Patriation study gets extra time

OTTAWA (CP) — The government demonstrated its first major sign of flexibility in the explosive constitutional debate by agreeing Tuesday to give a parliamentary committee two additional months to study Prime Minister Trudeau's proposals to reform the British North America Act.

The unanimous decision by MPs to extend the committee's life until Feb. 6 came only a week before the committee was to have reported its analysis of the proposals to the Senate and House of Commons.

Both the Progressive Conservatives and New Democratic Party, saying hundreds of people still want to be heard on the proposals to patriate and reform the constitution, had failed in earlier attempts to extend the deadline until February.

Yesterday's decision culminated a day of drama and emotion as Indian chiefs representing thousands of natives demanded what they called their God-given aboriginal rights to self-determination in a declaration presented to Governor-General Ed Schreyer.

In a day often filled with drama and emotion, the Liberal government came under a concerted attack from representatives of about 1.5 million native people and the opposition parties in the Commons.

Representatives of Indians, Metis and Inuit struck at Liberal constitutional proposals and demanded defence of their century-old aboriginal rights.

The Declaration of Rights, drawn up by 400 chiefs who met at a downtown hotel, read in part:

"The Creator has given us the right to govern ourselves and the right to self-determination. The rights and responsibilities... cannot be altered or taken away by any other nation."

The extension raises doubts about the government's ability to proclaim a new constitution by the July 1, 1981 target date and reopens the question of the constitution committee being allowed to travel across the country to hold public hearings.

Since the committee began public hearings Nov. 6, its members have been working at break-neck speed and were faced with the possibility of reporting next Tuesday that they had been given insufficient time to analyse the proposals.

HATFIELD: ONT. MUST GO FRENCH

MONTREAL (CP) — New Brunswick Premier Richard Hatfield says Quebec should be under no constitutional obligation to recognize the rights of its English-speaking minority unless Ontario recognizes the rights of its French-speaking minority.

Hatfield, speaking Tuesday at McGill University and in a later interview, also repeated his request that Ottawa constitutionally enshrine the decade-old official recognition of bilingualism in New Brunswick.

Hatfield, a severe critic of Ontario's failure to give French official status in the courts and legislature, said he will make the requests Thursday to the parliamentary committee studying Prime Minister Trudeau's constitutional proposals.

Vandals hit pool

Vandals struck the Desjardins Park pool and a changing hut over the weekend, causing thousands of dollars damage. This is not an isolated incident; vandalism has become a large problem for Sherbrooke's public buildings. More on Page 3.

CBC's Johnson irate at leaks

MONTREAL (CP) — The alleged leaking of internal documents to federal MPs by CBC Ottawa journalists and any attempts at a "putsch" against the network management are "manifestly unacceptable," CBC president Al Johnson said in a letter published today in Le Devoir.

Johnson was responding to an editorial in the influential French-language daily commenting on rumors of internal skirmishing within the corporation's French-language broadcast system. CBC management was embarrassed last week by critical MPs in committee who used leaked documents to make a case for poor coverage of a number of important news events.

Marc Thibault, news director for Radio-Canada and the man most implicated by the documents, suggested the leak was part of an attempt by network employees to overthrow the current management.

Johnson wrote that if a journalist had turned over internal documents to MPs, "as president, I would not fail to ensure that appropriate sanctions be taken."

As for the so-called putsch, Johnson wrote: "It is I, as president of Radio-Canada, and no one else... who approves the nomination of high-level managers. These people have the right to enjoy the confidence of their president."

Johnson said he "affirms that (those managers) can count on his full support."

Johnson added that he would never tolerate any political pressure being used on the CBC.

"Consequently, the idea that I would accept, or that any kind of putsch could be imposed on me, whoever the instigator, is the purest fantasy," he wrote.

News in brief

No need for panic — Lavoie

QUEBEC (CP) — A Liberal member advised the Quebec national assembly Tuesday that life will continue in Quebec, even if the federal government successfully patriates the constitution.

"There is no need for panic" said Jean-Noel Lavoie (L—Laval). "If patriation occurs, the world will continue to turn."

Farm law attacked by manufacturers

OTTAWA (CP) — Eight farm machinery manufacturers were given leave Tuesday to take their case against a Saskatchewan law to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The manufacturers claim the law, which sets up a fund to compensate farmers promptly if farm machinery defects result in losses, is beyond the power of the province to legislate.

Restoration prize offered

MONTREAL (CP) — One of the largest mortgage loan companies in the country has inaugurated an annual $20,000 prize for the best building restoration project.

Credit Foncier Franco-Canadien wants to encourage the restoration of buildings important to Canadian heritage, company president Robert Gratton said Tuesday.

Laurin defends Quebec artists

MONTREAL (CP) — Education Minister Camille Laurin, taking a verbal swing at Prime Minister Trudeau, presented a white paper Tuesday aimed at improving the socio-economic status of authors and creative artists.

Criticizing Trudeau for an "unjustified attack" against Quebec artists, Laurin said the provincial government wants to help them through various corrective measures, particularly in the case of authors' copyright.

Construction pay rises

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec construction workers worked an average of 60 hours more in 1979 than they did in 1978, the province's construction board said Tuesday in its annual report.

As a result, the 104,600 construction workers in the province earned an average of $12,645 each in 1979, about $1,309 more than they did the previous year.

Vets can sign for passports

OTTAWA (CP) — Passport regulations will be changed to allow veterinarians to act as guarantors for applicants, External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan said Tuesday.

MacGuigan said the list of eligible guarantors for passports "does not function as a recognition of various professions or businesses."

But, as a result of representations on the subject from several MPs, "I have come to the conclusion that it would be appropriate to add veterinarians to the list."

New auditor-general named

OTTAWA (CP) — Kenneth M. Dye of Vancouver has been appointed auditor-general of Canada, the watchdog over federal spending, effective April 1, the prime minister's office announced Tuesday.

A spokesman said the 44-year-old Dye replaces James Macdonell who retired Sept. 13.

Boat people hit 60,000 mark

OTTAWA (CP) — Bouy Sou Troeung, his younger brother and their two families are sure to be confused by the special fuss made over them when they arrive in Montreal tonight on a jumbo jet full of Southeast Asian refugees.

The two Cambodian families — including a baby born in a refugee camp in Thailand last January and six other children — have been designated to represent the final, 60,000th refugee brought to Canada under a special program announced a year ago.

Uniform debate goes on

OTTAWA (CP) — Experts remain split on the importance of separate uniforms for the army, navy and air force despite an exhaustive study of armed forces unification.

George Fyffe, chairman of the unification study group, told the Commons defence committee Tuesday he thinks it is important to recognize the professional identity of the separate services through different uniforms.

But Albert Legault, a study group member, said "this question of uniforms in my mind was never a vital question." It was a symbolic issue that should be left up to the defence department to resolve.

More gas for US

OTTAWA (CP) — TransCanada PipeLines Ltd. has applied to export up to about 24 billion cubic metres of natural gas to the United States over a 10-year period, the national energy board said Tuesday.

The board said TransCanada has applied to export up to about five billion cubic metres of gas to Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co. over a five-year period, beginning Nov. 1, 1981.

It also wants to export up to 19 billion to Boundary Gas Inc. over a 10-year period, also beginning next November.

The board said in a statement that public hearings on the application will be held next year.

M-F still on hook

OTTAWA (CP) — A financing package for financially-troubled Massey-Ferguson Ltd. — including government assistance — has not been put together and Industry Minister Herb Gray refused to tell the Commons finance committee Tuesday when one will be ready.

"It's not fully worked out," Gray told New Democratic Party finance critic Bob Rae who asked whether the government had made up its mind about help for Massey.

"I hope it will be possible before too long for something to be worked out," he told the committee. Questioned later, he would not say whether a settlement is possible by Christmas.

Canadians should pay doctor visits

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians should pay for their first visit to the doctor each year so that the federal government would have more money to pay for programs for the handicapped, a Progressive Conservative MP suggested Tuesday night.

Dr. Bruce Halliday, who represents the Ontario riding of Oxford, made the proposal to the Commons committee on health, welfare and social affairs.

He said most people could afford to pay their doctors for a single visit and the money the government saved could be used to supply wheelchairs and other special aids needed by handicapped people to hold down meaningful jobs.

Baby Doc arrests, expels dissidents

PORT-AU-PRINCE (AFP) — The Haitian government expelled a politician and three journalists to the United States Tuesday and arrested another journalist.

Those expelled were Gregoire Eugene, president of the Haitian Social Christian Party, Marcus Garcia, news director of Radio-Metropole and a free-lance reporter for Agence France-Presse, author Jean-Jacques Honorat and publisher Michele Montas of Conjonction, a cultural magazine.

Drop Grade 13 — Commissioner

OTTAWA (CP) — The chairman of a provincial commission reviewing Ontario's secondary school system has thrown a scare into teachers by advocating abolition of Grade 13.

Although Duncan Green favored such a move during his years as director of the Toronto Board of Education, his opinions have been given more weight since he was appointed to the Ontario Secondary Education Review Project.

Sir Oswald Mosley dies

PARIS (AP) — Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Union of Fascists in the 1930s, died at his home at Orsay, near Paris, early today. He was 84.

Sir Oswald had lived in France since the end of the Second World War. During the war, he was interned in Britain as a security risk until 1943.

The death was announced by his son, Alexander, who did not disclose the cause.

Pilot school to make changes

QUEBEC (CP) — Chicoutimi junior college officials are studying the possible restructuring of the school's controversial pilots' school, Education Minister Camille Laurin said Tuesday. Students and members of a francophone air workers' group, Les Gens de l'Air, have criticized the school for inconsistent evaluation of students and overemphasis on English in its training programs. The school has already said it will institute teacher training programs to improve evaluation procedures.

Mail hearings open up

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial governments and private companies, fearing a post office monopoly over telecommunications services, have been granted a chance to protest before two parliamentary committees.

At the same time, Postmaster-General Andre Ouellet is trying to head the critics off at the pass by agreeing to change proposed legislation to remove the possibility of such a monopoly by the post office.

Health aid goes to Nepal

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has granted $2.99 million to Nepal to establish a paramedic training centre and six rural health posts in its isolated and mountainous eastern region.

A Canadian International Development Agency statement said Tuesday that the 160-student school will be built in the town of Dhankuta. It will be one of four centres the Nepalese government is seeking to establish.

Israeli attack kills civilians

BEIRUT (AP) — Israeli commandos backed by gunboats and helicopters raided Palestinian strongholds 20 kilometres south of Beirut early today, and the Palestine Liberation Organization said two guerrillas and four Lebanese civilians were killed.

The PLO also said the raiders suffered heavy casualties, but the Israeli military command said its forces returned safely to their bases and suffered no casualties.

Polish Politburo purged

Deposed Polish Communist party chief Edward Gierek was stripped of party and government posts Tuesday and four members of the ruling party central committee's Politburo were fired, the official Polish news agency PAP announced in Warsaw.

It said former army general Mieczyslaw Moczar was among those who replaced the four Politburo members.

Mao's wife planned rival's downfall

PEKING (AP) — Jiang Qing, Mao Tse-tung's widow on trial for her life, took the stand again Wednesday and was accused of persecuting her special rival — the glamorous, American-born wife of the late president Liu Shaohqi.

A foreign ministry announcement said the 67-year-old Jiang is charged with planning the downfall of Liu and his wife, Wang Guangmei.

Chretien wants to fight Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government may have to launch another advertising campaign to counter Quebec government ads which subtly aim to build support for an independent Quebec, Justice Minister Jean Chretien said today.

Chretien told a Commons committee the Liberal government has no immediate plans to revive its constitutional advertising campaign which ended in September. But it is keeping a close eye on advertisements in all provinces, especially Quebec.

New US reply to Iran

ALGIERS (AP) — Deputy U.S. State Secretary Warren Christopher on Tuesday gave Algerian intermediaries a new U.S. reply to Iran's terms for releasing the 52 American hostages.

Christopher — on his second hostage mission to Algeria in three weeks — delivered the U.S. clarification to Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia and also gave him a "technical explanation and details concerning the reply to be forwarded to the Iranian government," the official Algerian news agency reported.

Doc sews beads on woman

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Winnipeg surgeon has admitted to playing a joke on an Indian woman by stringing about 30 glass beads to stitches on her chest following lung surgery last week, a native rights group said Tuesday.

"The explanation he gave us was he did it as a joke," said Vera Martin, a member of the Concerned Native Citizens Group. "He did it hoping it would make her laugh."

Dr. John Teskey, a cardiovascular surgeon at St. Boniface Hospital, performed the surgery to remove a lump from the woman's lung.

A hospital official said the doctor would not talk to reporters.

Squatters stay — mayor

NAPLES, Italy (CP) — The public prosecutor of Naples on Tuesday threatened to evict hundreds of homeless victims of southern Italy's devastating earthquake who have occupied private apartment buildings. But the Communist mayor took steps to let them stay.

Special emergency powers permit Mayor Maurizio Valenzi to give the victims the right to stay at least six months in apartment buildings they took over to escape freezing weather.

Valenzi late Tuesday gave the homeless permission to stay in several newly-constructed vacant apartment houses and city officials predicted the mayor would prevent any evictions from taking place.

There were scattered clashes Monday night between riot police and looters in a supermarket, jobless people demonstrating and homeless trying to take over empty apartment buildings, but no violence was reported Tuesday. Police said there were no injuries or arrests.

The military command said the official death toll from the earthquake that struck several hundred southern Italian cities and towns Nov. 23 is 2,915. Of the 1,574 still missing, most are feared dead.

In Washington, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved $50 million dollars in relief aid to the earthquake victims. An identical measure passed the House of Representatives on Monday.

The mayor of Naples, Maurizio Valenzi, a Communist, said he would seize empty apartment buildings if owners would not sell them to the city to house an estimated 50,000 homeless here.

"We pay market prices, but the owners don't want to sell to us because of speculative tax reasons," he said at a news conference. "Now that thousands are homeless because of the earthquake, the situation is no longer tolerable."

US firms blamed for lake dioxin

TORONTO (CP) — Federal government investigations point to two companies in the United States as the major sources of the deadly chemical dioxin TCDD found in the Great Lakes.

And although there is no immediate threat to humans, Environment Minister John Roberts said Tuesday the federal government will convey its concerns to U.S. officials.

"There is no particular reason to believe there is a hazard but we are checking," said Roberts, adding that several federal departments will be asked to monitor detections of TCDD closely because of the toxic properties.

His actions come after disclosure last week that TCDD, most toxic of the 75-member family of dioxins, was found in herring gull eggs in 12 locations in the Great Lakes by researchers from the Canadian Wildlife Service.

Canadian scientists have pinpointed the major sources of TCDD entry into the Great Lakes as the Dow Chemical Ltd. plant at Midland, Mich., and the Hooker Chemical and Plastics Corp at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

This dioxin compound — 2,3,7,8-TCDD — is so deadly scientists don't know how little it takes to kill a person, or quickly it kills.

It is known that one part per trillion in water will increase the risk of cancer for people who drink the water but Roberts said the chemical has not been detected in Ontario drinking water.

In Lake Ontario, levels in herring gull eggs taken earlier this year from nests near Toronto, Presqu'ile, Pictou and Kingston were found to be between 44 and 64 parts per trillion.

Card: Control hunting in the Townships

By ANTHONY ROSS

NORTH HATLEY — It was democracy in action last night as 45 residents of Hatley Township and other concerned citizens met to discuss a solution to the annual fall bloodletting commonly known as hunting season. Everyone gathered in the Town Hall around 7:30 and Mayor Garnet Card explained the main problem was trespassing.

property and posting has proved to be a complete waste of time," said Card. Lowell Naeve proposed that the Township organize a hunting club where it would be possible to hire game wardens to police the hunters in the area. Another solution suggested was to form a landowners' association but this wasn't discussed in detail because Card didn't have all the information necessary at the meeting.

yet received all the information as to how it would work," Card said. Real Hebert, The Record's fish and game columnist and a member of two hunting clubs himself, described to the meeting how clubs functioned and volunteered his services to the Township to help them draft their own regulations.

people in this area are completely against it," said one resident. "A club is better than nothing but I would prefer a total ban," said another. Hebert and members of the council explained again and again that it wasn't under their power to ban hunting but they could at least have some type of control if they organized a club.

make their views known to the various government bodies. The meeting concluded with the resolution that there would be an information letter circulated to all the taxpayers in the Township informing them of a separate meeting to be held in the near future where they would make concrete proposals on how to deal with the problem and elect a committee to work with other clubs in the province and prepare a set of rules particular to Hatley Township.

sources yesterday agreed action must be taken to curb the growing number of fatalities during the fall hunt. At least three times in New Brunswick forests during deer hunting season this year hunters have been struck by "sound shots" — gunshots aimed at indistinct noise or movement in the woods. Two of the three victims were killed, the cause of their death reported as "being mistaken for a deer."

We need to form a hunting club, Lowell Naeve, left at the table, told Hatley residents.

H. Gordon Green

To most old sinners like myself, the American evangelical faith is a curious mixture of contradictions. Billy Graham, Rex Humbard, Oral Roberts and company all preach humility and the brotherhood of man, yet seem to agree that God is an American citizen and the Honorary President of the Chamber of Commerce. They exhort us to love our enemies, yet found little to condemn in the Viet Nam war except the brothels. They preach forgiveness and champion the death penalty. They hold aloft a Bible which proclaims that it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven, yet all of them live and travel like kings.

So when their gospel would have us believe that God is ready, willing and able to cure everything from cancer and crutches to homosexuality, we low-minded critics aren't likely to be convinced. But the "born again" people never give up trying to convince and hardly a mail goes by without someone sending me another sheaf of tracts or religious magazines which exultantly declare that the age of miracles is not dead, and yesterday, believe it or not, I found myself reading from one of these magazines with genuine interest.

I'm referring now to a publication called "Logos" which carries the sub-title "A Light to Those in Darkness", and in it I find the remarkable story of Father Sherwood, an Episcopalian priest who at the age of 80, married an active, passionate woman of 50. He did not do this impulsively, mind you, but only after he had received a prophecy from the Lord Himself that when the vows were consummated his manly virility would return to him. Or at least enough of it to do what should come naturally on a nuptial night.

But lo and behold, after Father Sherwood and Emma had become one, it seemed that the prophecy wasn't being fulfilled. Or to quote Father Sherwood himself as he relates this tribulation, "I thought back to those early morning hours when I had pulled away from her, angry because I couldn't make myself into the kind of lover boy I thought I would be. Emma was young, passionate, her body yearned to be fulfilled. Yet look what she had picked to fulfill her. An impotent old man!"

Well to make a long story short, and to spare me from having to describe too many embarrassing details, Father Sherwood simply talked to God about his troubles, reminding the Man Upstairs that he had always had faith in His power to perform miracles, and reminding Him too that God had promised to be with him in this great adventure. And praise the Lord, everything was suddenly all right again! Or to quote our 80-year-old believer, "Desire was suddenly back — strong and virile..."

Well as some of you know, my novel bore the title "Diary of a Dirty Old Man", and because there was more fact than fiction in that effort, I was very, very intrigued by Father Sherwood's testimony. Of course I haven't yet experienced the same trouble that plagued him, but then I'm somewhat short of 80 yet. But there will come a time! Oh yes indeed, and then perhaps I'll think back to how Father Sherwood and God triumphed together, and therein find comfort.

Anyhow, I'm going to be reading these evangelical publications somewhat more carefully than I have in the past.

Freud inquest up in air

SHERBROOKE (JD) — The inquest into the November 2 shooting death of Hatley Township resident Walter Freud probably won't be scheduled until next year — if coroner Michel Durand decides to call one at all, a spokesperson for the coroner said yesterday.

"We were supposed to have inquests scheduled every Wednesday, but we've been delayed by a slowdown of lawyers at the Palais de Justice. Two weeks ago, for instance, we sent out all the subpoenas for another case and the lawyers threw everything off by calling a surprise strike."

inquest, but Durand cannot decide without police report, his secretary added. "The same thing is true of the Freud death — without reports Maitre Durand cannot decide whether to hold an inquest."

Freud, 61, was shot on his own woodlot in fading light while cutting firewood. Lorne Gilbert, of Bury, later told police he thought Freud was a bear.

She said police reports are still pending on the death of a 28-year-old woman who was found dead on the shore of Lake Massawippi in North Hatley two weeks ago. Suicide is suspected, in which case there will be no

According to the duty officer at the Coaticook detachment, the police report into the Freud death was sent a week ago. "I have no idea what's holding it up," he said. "As far as I know, we sent it out of here as soon as it was completed."

Vandals hit city building

Vandals are striking public parks in Sherbrooke and causing thousands of dollars in senseless damage. At a new building in Park Desjardins, youths tore insulation off the walls and set fires as well as damaged a swimming pool and other pieces of construction material.

Transport 2000 seeks services

MONTREAL (JM) — Transport 2000 Quebec are requesting support from area commuters to have provincial transport minister Denis de Belleval intervene to prevent the cancellation of all rail commuter services into the city. The non-profit consumer organization argues all commuter rail services will disappear on December 31 as the city of Montreal has refused to sign a letter of intent between the MUCTC, CN and CP rail.

Transport 2000 presented a brief to de Belleval citing the success of the 'Go-Trains' which serve Toronto and its suburbs. have only to look at CP rail's decision to cancel the Montreal-Farnham-St-Theres services in October. If service to the West Island and Rigaud as well as the South Shore and St-Bruno are cancelled, it will only cause further traffic problems, not to mention an increase in air pollution.

Stadler Hurter's fate was similar to Space Research

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Montreal-based firms, Space Research Corp. and Stadler Hurter Ltd., will remember 1980 as the year their forays into the international business scene came to a disastrous end.

Both firms had their operations closed, assets seized by trustees, affairs investigated by the RCMP and several of their top executives charged under the Criminal Code.

Stadler Hurter, an engineering consulting firm, began 1980 by having its creditors, who claim up to $50 million, accept proposals under the Bankruptcy Act.

Three of its former executives — including James Donnelly, now president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. — were charged recently with conspiracy and bribery in Quebec Superior Court.

Space Research, an arms manufacturing firm, filed for bankruptcy this month, claiming total liabilities of $14.5 million. Its Vermont-based affiliate, Saber Industries, went under last summer.

Space Research and Saber were also fined $100,000 in the U.S. and Canada for illegally selling weapons to South Africa in the 1970s. Company founder Gerald Bull and former president Rodgers Gregory are serving six-month sentences as a result.

Only two years earlier, both firms appeared to be on the verge of becoming world leaders in their respective fields.

WON TWO CONTRACTS

In 1978, Stadler Hurter was busy working on two forestry contracts in pre-revolutionary Iran worth more than $220 million. It had won the contracts over stiff Japanese competition.

Space Research had been one of the fastest-growing manufacturers of aviation electronics and weapons-delivery systems in the world.

Space Research's problems also began two years ago, when allegations were made in the news media that the company made secret arms shipments to South Africa through its test range on the Caribbean island of Antigua in 1977 and 1978.

Last month, Britain's ITV television network said South Africa, in collaboration with Israel, exploded a nuclear device over the South Atlantic using a 155-millimetre shell and a giant cannon invented by Space Research founder Gerald Bull, a former McGill University professor considered a genius in ballistic research.

Confronted with mounting debts, Space Research last summer closed its 8,000-acre private compound on the U.S.-Canada border near Highwater, Que., and North Troy, Vt., laid off 200 employees and put its assets up for sale.

Safe Driving Week: We should crack down

Safe Driving Week, like the Year of the Child and the War to End Wars, has no particular distinguishing features. One accident over the weekend brought tragedy and suffering to a large North-Shore family, plus the usual two-car wipeouts, one-car pileups and overturned trucks. We're seeing nothing we don't see every day of the year.

On the Magdalen Islands, there are about 200 miles of roads and at least 10,000 licenced vehicles. It is common to see someone swathed from head to toe in a body cast crutching out from behind the wheel of a new car into a local drinking establishment, where he'll brag about how much he got for wrecking the last car and nearly killing himself in the bargain. They average five accidents a weekend on the Islands, surely an exception, yet somehow typical of Quebec.

What can the police do? The Quebec Police Force can crack down on speeders on the Autoroute, like shooting fish in a barrel and about as useful. The real dangers lie on the thousands of miles of secondary and gravel roads, where high speed and drinking drivers are both featured in a regular billing.

If the price of gas doesn't slow people down, if the price of tickets and the threat of losing points don't have a palliative effect, what will?

There are two cures for reckless drivers. One would be the cancellation of automobile insurance for anyone found guilty of moving offences. The other would be the mandatory suspension of all driving and car-ownership privileges for anyone who has either lost all their points or has been found guilty of driving under the influence, with no chance for suspension for on-the-job use.

Drastic measures. Half of us, including yours truly, would be off the roads. But that's what it will take to reverse the trend.

JAMES DUFF

As Safe Driving Week began, a fatal auto accident occurred outside Lennoxville. Record - Perry Beaton

Inauguration: Washington gets ready

WASHINGTON (CP) — The scaffolding is rising on Capitol Hill and a Hollywood-style entertainment program is taking shape already for Ronald Reagan's inauguration as 40th U.S. president next Jan. 20.

The end of Georgia grits and the beginning of California style is on the way, say chroniclers of Washington's social scene.

But first comes the country's most glorified ritual, the inauguration that is really a four-or-five-day whirlwind of celebrations heedless of Washington's winter chill or the drain on the public and private purse.

Organizers for Reagan, the former movie actor and ex-California governor, have already ensured the 1981 festivities will have a different flavor from the down-home style that accompanied Jimmy Carter's 1977 swearing-in. CARSON STARS

Frank Sinatra will be the producer-director for the gala that precedes the inauguration; Johnny Carson will take on the master-of-ceremonies duties and entertainers from Ottawa-born Rich Little to the singing Osmonds will provide the nationally televised song and dance.

Quite a change from 1977, when Carter arrived late by chartered train from Plains, Ga., (on-board menu: Peanut soup, Georgia ham, pecan pie, hushpuppies and peach melba) to learn that actor Sidney Poitier had broken his leg, country singer Johnny Cash had a sick child and recording star Stevie Wonder was unable to make it on time for the pre-inaugural gala.

Letters

Ashlar Lodge pleased

Editor:

This has reference to the recent article in The Record concerning the social evening sponsored by Ashlar Lodge, No. 31, of Coaticook in honour of one of our older members, A. Lee Pomeroy. This article was of great interest to the members of Ashlar Lodge and we feel that the writer should be thanked. This was a social gathering and so it was unfortunate that some proper information was not given to the press and others present. The basket of fruit given to A. Lee Pomeroy, and Mrs. Pomeroy, was presented by Robert Grady, the present Senior Warden of the Lodge, this Brother is the son of the Senior Warden at the time when Lee was Master, the late Austin

Grady.

We should also remember Lee's wife, Jewel. This gracious lady was also the recipient of the fruit basket and the good wishes from all present, and, I am sure, from many readers. Jewel is confined to her bed and has been for many years, the result of a terrible accident.

It was, and is, felt that we tend to forget the deeds of many of our older pioneer families until it is too late for them to know that we do care and do appreciate their efforts to make a better Canada for us. This was the reason for the social gathering. Once again, thank you and your correspondent for the delightful article.

IVOR WHITEHOUSE, Secretary

SPA agrees

Editor:

Our support goes out to you for your stand on the hunting issue. "Let's get these jerks off our land, out of our counties, out of our lives." In that statement alone, you have summed up not only our position but also the sentiments of hundreds of people who are fed up with this annual orgy of blood-letting.

Recent events, such as the shooting of Mr. Freud on his own private land, clearly demonstrate the danger inherent to the hunting season. Not only are farm animals and pets killed and private property destroyed, but innocent people are slain. It is of no consolation to the widow of this man that "Biron said Quebec's estimated 750,000 hunters cause fewer accidents now than 10 years ago" (Gazette, Nov. 8). As long as one person loses his life or limb as a result of another person's pastime, that pastime, that hobby must be condemned and stopped. If it is not eradicated soon, then the tragedies of the Chute and Freud families will be repeated.

Unfortunately, however, the taxpayer is wooed and listened to only at election time and it would be naive for anyone to hope that the barbarism in this province will cease. But if the government can zone land areas as agricultural, then why cannot these areas, such as are found in the E.T., be considered as areas where hunting and trapping are banned? Moreover, how can such dangerous activities as hunting and trapping be permitted in populated rural areas? Are the two congruent?

Nature lovers and private property owners are taxpayers whose rights have yet to be respected. If the government is to allow hunting to continue, then it must also provide safeguards for the non-hunters. Stricter penalties should be induced for violations of the government regulations. The discharging of an armed weapon on private land must be severely prosecuted. The death of a person, resulting from a hunting expedition should result in financial restitution to the victim's family of an amount equal to at least 1/4 of the victim's income for a period of at least 10 years; and in the case of a death of a minor or non-wage earning person, the death should be treated as involuntary manslaughter before the courts. Eventually, hunting should be permitted only in government regulated parks, and nowhere else.

Unless government action is seen soon, property owners will be compelled to initiate vigilante groups to do the job which society's protectors are failing to do. But for those who are shy about direct action to protect one's life and property, the answer, for the time being may be just to cower in one's house and wait for the end of yet another season, and that is neither fair nor just.

It is indeed unfortunate that the paper which condemns the hunt and advocates its banishment, continues to publish a column which expounds on the delights of inflicting death to living things. Real Hebert writes about the trapping of wildlife as if he were writing about harvesting squash - without emotion. How can any human being be so dispassionate and oblivious to the thousands of hour of suffering that animals endure in traps?

In the townships, trapping, as deer hunting, takes place on private land or near it. It is an unwelcome and unsolicited intrusion of the countryside. Every week, an animal is brought to our S.P.A. with the mangled remnants of a limb; wildlife and pets are the traps' victims. One day, a child may also be caught in one.

And yet, despite the cruelty and the agony inflicted on living things with the capacity to feel pain, Hebert chooses to not even mention this aspect of trapping and instead dwells on the abundance of species that can be trapped.

Surely, a column which encourages its readers to kill animals through a slow and painful death, is not compatible with the editorial views as in "Ban the Hunt!"

As a start towards the abolition of hunting, let us, the Record readers, see the removal of Hebert's column! After all, "the fact that there are conscientious hunters who care about others no longer matters. The rest more than makes up for them."

P.L. GRANT, Public Liason S.P.A. de l'Estrie 920 Queen N., Sherbrooke, Que.

Europe TV is what U.S. wanted theirs to be

North Americans are invariably very impressed by European television. This is not so much because European TV is good but rather because North American television is so inexcusably bad. It is ironic that the nation which pioneered this medium should today find its airwaves the most abused in the western world. North Americans are fed a diet of soap operas, situation comedies and cops and robber thrillers that, at best, are adolescent escapist fantasy and more often simply tripe. Worse is the incessant barrage of commercials which not only abuse and offend the adult mind but do irreparable damage to children by way of destroying their concentration span.

The truly sad thing about television in North America is that in the 40's and 50's when it was being developed and pioneered, it was intended to be something far different to what it is today. In fact, European TV has become what the American pioneers envisaged when they began their work.

Britons today spend a fair proportion of their time in front of the telly and there are relatively few homes which don't have a telly in the front room. The sets don't look much different to ours except that the choice of channels is, in most parts of the country, limited to three: BBC 1, BBC 2, and ITV, of which only the third is a commercially run operation with regular advertising. The British Broadcasting Corporation channels are publicly funded. Every year television sets in Britain are licensed, like we license our cars, and these fees provide British viewers with their best viewing, commercial-free viewing.

Of the three channels, BBC 2 is the most unusual by our standards in that for much of the day it transmits programs for the Open University. One can quite literally earn a university degree in Britain by watching TV. Programming can begin quite early in the morning with lectures on everything from mathematics to music, from physics to business administration. In the evening BBC 2 is more likely to show films, often relatively new American releases, documentaries, high brow talk shows and the news read with subtitles for the hard of hearing.

Fonda Fortnightly

Competition for the television viewer is fierce and both BBC and ITV run similar programs. There are soap operas like the long running Coronation Street; British-made cops and robber shows, like Minder, variety shows, music shows, situation comedies and talk shows. While most of these are British, the Britons have a passion for the worst of American tripe. One can catch Charlie's Angels, Starsky and Hutch, Mork and Mindy and the ubiquitous Dallas. And that's not to mention the now defunct American series like Star Trek and Bonanza.

As is the case in North America, weekends make a lot of TV widows as armchair athletes watch interminable sports shows. While baseball and football are the big killers in the States, horse racing and cricket are the big offenders in England. (A cricket test match can run for five successive days and take upwards of six hours a day.) But British TV seems to give a lot more time to the sports shunned by professional athletes, but which are nevertheless very popular. Canada's premier dart player, Roy Hogg, faced the best in the world in a recent competition show on TV; another Canadian, Cliff Thorburn, a world champion, led a losing Canadian snooker team against the world beating Welsh.

But the sports and sitcoms don't make up the bulk of television viewing. British TV in fact comes close to fulfilling the intended role of the medium. It brings images and ideas from all corners of the world into viewers' homes. It introduces art, music and thought, from the past as from the present, to a much wider public. It stimulates the mind and enriches daily lives.

This same kind of enlightened, commercial-free programming can be enjoyed in North America either by investing in a television with UHF and tuning into the Public Broadcasting System from the U.S., or, better still, tuning into Radio Quebec. It's like the BBC, but it's closer to home.

England comprises a land mass of some 50,000 square miles — a mere bagatelle by Canadian standards. A small country, but old, it is easy to accept the vast amount of history and culture to be found here. What is far more surprising is the topographical diversity this country has to offer. The rolling hills given over to agriculture, the copses, the meandering rivers and small lakes and ponds, reminiscent of Constable landscapes, look and feel very English. The flatlands of the Fens don't.

The Fens is an area just north of Cambridge, cut by the Ouse River, and some thirty miles south of the Wash, the big bay which makes a dent between Norfolk and Lincolnshire. It is a piece of land that has undergone a curious evolution. For thousands of years before the Roman occupation of Britain, some 2,000 years ago, the area had slowly changed from ancient forest to lonely marsh. The continual action of inundation and flooding was followed by an emptying process caused by the rivers which found their way down to the sea along the east coast.

The Romans, with their genius for civil and military engineering, set to work to drain these areas affected by tidal waters. They built dykes to hold the sea back and causeways to get from one part of the fen to another. When the Romans left the island the work of reclamation ceased; by the time of the Norman conquest in 1100, the fens were again sea and marsh. Higher pieces of land were islands — the Isle of Ely, 25 miles from the nearest body of water, dates its name to this period.

For a time this was an isolated, almost uninhabited area. It became a refuge for hermits, holy men and robbers. The establishment of religious communities, in those days largely dedicated to farming, led to renewed efforts to reclaim the land. In the 15th century canals were dug; in the 17th century Parliament hired a Dutch engineer to start draining the fens in earnest. This was done first with windmills and then with steam pumps. Today the area covers about 1,000 square miles and offers the richest soil in the country.

Driving through the fens, like driving through the prairies, can be awfully dull. The fens is the only place I've found in England that has straight roads. The area is still sparsely inhabited with villages relatively far apart and very few houses to be seen between them. The land is completely given over to farming. We noticed one sign, almost literally in the middle of nowhere, advertising eight and a half acres of land for sale. Farmers seem to commute to their fields and during busy seasons install themselves in small trailers.

Centuries of sea water have left the fens with pitch black, peaty soil. In late October, when we drove through, most of the crops had already been harvested and the soil turned over. Carrots were being picked by a massive machine, onions and turnips were being loaded into semi-trailers, only cabbages and kale seemed to be left in the fields. At one point we saw four men, each with a shotgun slung over his arm, pacing through a field of kale; they were shooting rabbits, not for sport but simply to better protect their crop.

There were few trees to be seen other than a few orchards on the border of the fens and there were no hills save for the small promontory upon which Ely itself stood clustered around its 14th century cathedral.

I'm not very keen on the Canadian prairies and I'm none too keen on the fens and Isle of Ely either. England has far prettier places to offer, places that didn't attract hermits and robbers and other slimy creatures. Slimy creatures? It would seem that in the middle ages inhabitants of the area kept body and soul together by farming small strips of land and by wading into the surrounding marshes to catch eels. Hence the Anglo-Saxon name, Ely.

Sherbrooke's Mr. Rotary

SHERBROOKE — The Sherbrooke Rotary Club decided to make their November reunion a commemorative one in honour of Douglas Stevenson, whose sudden death in September robbed the club of a 49-year member.

The special speaker was Dr. Gordon Thayer, former district head introduced by Dr. Gordon Loomis and thanked by Jawley Griffith.

The present district chief of no. 785 Jules Chatot and former chief Alonzo Malouin of Drummondville as well as Wendell Fitts, president of the district committees were present.

Doug Stevenson was a director of Rotary International and had a long business career, as insurance agent first for Sun Life and later for Great West. He fought in two world Wars. In 1915 he joined the Canadian Artillery and fought for 20 months in France until he was wounded. In 1918 he joined the Royal Air Force.

Following is the text of Dr. Thayer's speech to the club: DOUGLAS A. STEVENSON TRIBUTE

Rotarians throughout the world, individually and collectively, are a living force in human relations and service to mankind. For a half century Douglas A. Stevenson was a Rotarian who exemplified the best in human relations, and dedicated service to fellow man. Doug, known world-wide as Canada's "Mr. Rotary" passed away Monday, September 8, 1980 at the age of 88. He would have reached 89 the following Friday.

Past Director of Rotary

International, Paul Harris Fellow Doug was born in Montreal, September 12, 1891. After high school he had a long career in business. He advanced rapidly from a grocery salesman to head buyer for a wholesale grocery firm. Subsequently, he built up a large and loyal clientel selling group insurance and pension plans as an agent first for Sun Life and later for Great West Life insurance firms.

Sherbrooke Rotary Club paid tribute to Douglas Stevenson, a 49-year member who passed away in September.

the members to assign him the responsibility of reading, approving the minutes of the meetings and the final report. He was most diligent in holding to the agenda and deliberations through extensive reference material. The end result of his dedicated commitment was a timely report with recommendations to Rotary International. Chairman Stevenson and his committee gave the foundation a purpose. Doug also played a major role in the drafting of a constitution, rules, by-laws and regulations to permit the foundation to fund a year's study and travel abroad to another country for any deserving college or university undergraduate or graduate proposed by Rotary clubs around the world.

we failed to keep it shining as brightly as when we received it."

Doug was married in 1925 to the former Eva Dresser, they had no children. His wife died in 1977. He is survived by two sisters, Mary in Richmond, and Elizabeth in Montreal.

His friends in Rotary International mourn the loss of his light.

It was not always smooth going for Doug because of his inherent drive to serve. Along with his countrymen he enlisted in two World Wars. In 1915 he joined the Canadian Artillery and was assigned to France for 25 months where he was wounded. Soon after recovery in 1918 he transferred to the Royal Air Force. Despite the demands of his insurance business, after the war years, he found his ideal for service in Rotary, when he became a member of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club in 1930. Stevenson is best known for his 50 years of dedication to the principles and spirit of Rotary International - "Service Above Self". Fellow Rotarians in the Sherbrooke Club soon recognized Doug's dedication and quality of inspiration. He served on many club committees and was elected president for the 1933-34 Rotary year. Under his leadership the club reached its highest peak with 127 members.

For more than a decade Doug was involved with Canadian-wide Rotary affairs and Rotary International Committee Assignments. In 1940 he was chairman of the Canadian Advisory Committee. A year later, 1941, he served on the Rotary International Presidential Nominating Committee. He served one year, 1942, as chairman of the 1942 Rotary Convention Committee planning for the Convention in Toronto. He resigned before the convention opened to join the Armed Forces. After this tour of duty he became active in the Provincial Command of Air Cadets. Additionally, he played a leading role in organizing and supporting the local Air Squadron sponsored by the Sherbrooke Rotary Club but his Rotary activities reached beyond the Sherbrooke club. For many years he was Sargeant of Arms at the International Assembly of in-coming District Governors, Lake Placid, New York.

In 1945, a distinguished honor was accorded Stevenson when RI

President, Tom Warren of England appointed him chairman of the organizing committee of the Rotary International Foundation. Prior to this, several committees had been formed. Their reports were in limbo because new presidents and the in-coming board of directors was not prepared to act on the reports.

A report was to be submitted to Tom in sufficient time to reach his board of directors. The first order of consideration for the committee was two fold: (1) to determine whether the foundation was necessary because of the 4th Object of Rotary; (2) and, if so, what it should attempt to accomplish.

The majority of the foundations programs, as they exist today, are based essentially upon recommendation of Stevenson's committee. While adhering to the objectives in the report, other foundation committees in recent years have broadened the scope of awards and grants beyond undergraduate and graduate college fellowship to include: technical training, teachers of the handicapped, journalism, and special awards. Doug lived to know that more than 16,000 Ambassadors of Good Will had been awarded scholarships or grants by 1980.

Rotarian Stevenson was a fortunate choice for chairman of the 1945 Foundation Committee. He engendered confidence that warranted

Buildings quakeproofed

MONTREAL (CP) — A different way of making buildings shock-resistant may prevent much of the damage wreaked by major earthquakes, says a Montreal engineer.

Avtar Pall, a senior structural engineer with Montreal-based S.N.C. Group, said in an interview that he has devised a method which can make a building "flexible" during seismic shock — not only preventing the building's collapse but also lessening death tolls caused by falling furniture, interior walls and ceilings.

"The concept is to consume energy by braking rather than by breaking," said the 41-year-old native of India, who immigrated to Canada five years ago.

"We don't stop a car by hitting something," he explained. "We apply a brake. Motion can be slowed down by means of friction."

Pall said a building can be made flexible by bolting what he describes as a "friction device" made of asbestos fibre and metal particles — similar to a brake lining pad — between strategic joints.

Current earthquake-resistant designs rely on the ability of a structure to dissipate shock through beams, columns and braces.

But the rigid materials invariably crack, bend and twist in an earthquake, Pall said.

In steel-framed buildings, Pall's friction devices are meant to be installed at the crosspoints where the braces between supporting beams meet.

Pall said the devices — which can be installed in existing buildings — could cut costs of new buildings.

Plan a different Christmas

Eating in

BY JUDITH KELLOCK-HEWARD
AND PAT TRACY

It occurs to me we might do something different for Christmas this year — consign the turkey to New Year's and branch out to something quite new and exciting for Christmas. You might start off with a gazpacho, cool, seasonal and full of the color of an Andalusian summer: scarlet tomato wedges, shining black olives, crisp green pepper.

That as the beginning. For the main course, for a real tack-in, you might pot roast a capon.

Rub the bird all over with a cut lemon and then with butter or herb butter. Stuff him with lettuce, carrot and onion, to keep in the moisture. Truss him well and lay him on his side in the roasting pan. The oven should be 350 degrees. Let him do on one side for 20 minutes, and then on the other for another 20. For the last 20, he will be sitting up on his back, getting his breast a lovely brown. Salt and pepper him and serve him with bread sauce.

For a spectacular ending to this effort, here is a recipe for a rich, sweet, creamy sort of dessert that lets you know it really is a dessert. It's not a wishy-washy low calorie let's pretend kind of confection but a no-nonsense coffee-toffee pie. Pass the whipped cream.

GAZPACHO ANDALUZ
2 large tomatoes, peeled (1 1/2 lbs)
1 large cucumber, pared and halved
1 medium onion, peeled and halved
1 medium green pepper, quartered, seeded
1 pimiento, drained
2 cans (12-oz size) tomato juice

One-third cup olive or salad oil
One-third cup red-wine vinegar

1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
2 cloves garlic, split
1/2 cup packaged croutons
1/4 cup chopped chives

In electric blender, combine one tomato, half the cucumber, half the onion, a green pepper quarter, the pimiento, and 1/2 cup tomato juice. Blend, covered and at high speed, 30 seconds, to puree the vegetables.

In a large bowl, mix the pureed vegetables with remaining tomato juice, 1/4 cup olive oil, the vinegar, Tabasco, salt, and black pepper.

Refrigerate mixture, covered, until it is well chilled — about 2 hours. At the same time, refrigerate 6 serving bowls.

Meanwhile, rub inside of small skillet with garlic; reserve garlic. Add rest of oil; heat. Sauté the croutons in oil until they are browned. Set aside until serving time.

Chop separately remaining tomato, cucumber, onion, and green pepper. Place each of these, and the croutons, in separate bowls. Serve as accompaniments.

Just before serving time, crush reserved garlic. Add to chilled soup, mixing well. Sprinkle with chopped chives. Serve the gazpacho in chilled bowls. Everyone helps himself to the accompaniments. Makes 6 servings.

COFFEE-TOFFEE PIE

Pastry Shell:

1/2 pkg piecrust mix
1/4 cup light-brown sugar, firmly packed
3/4 cup finely chopped walnuts

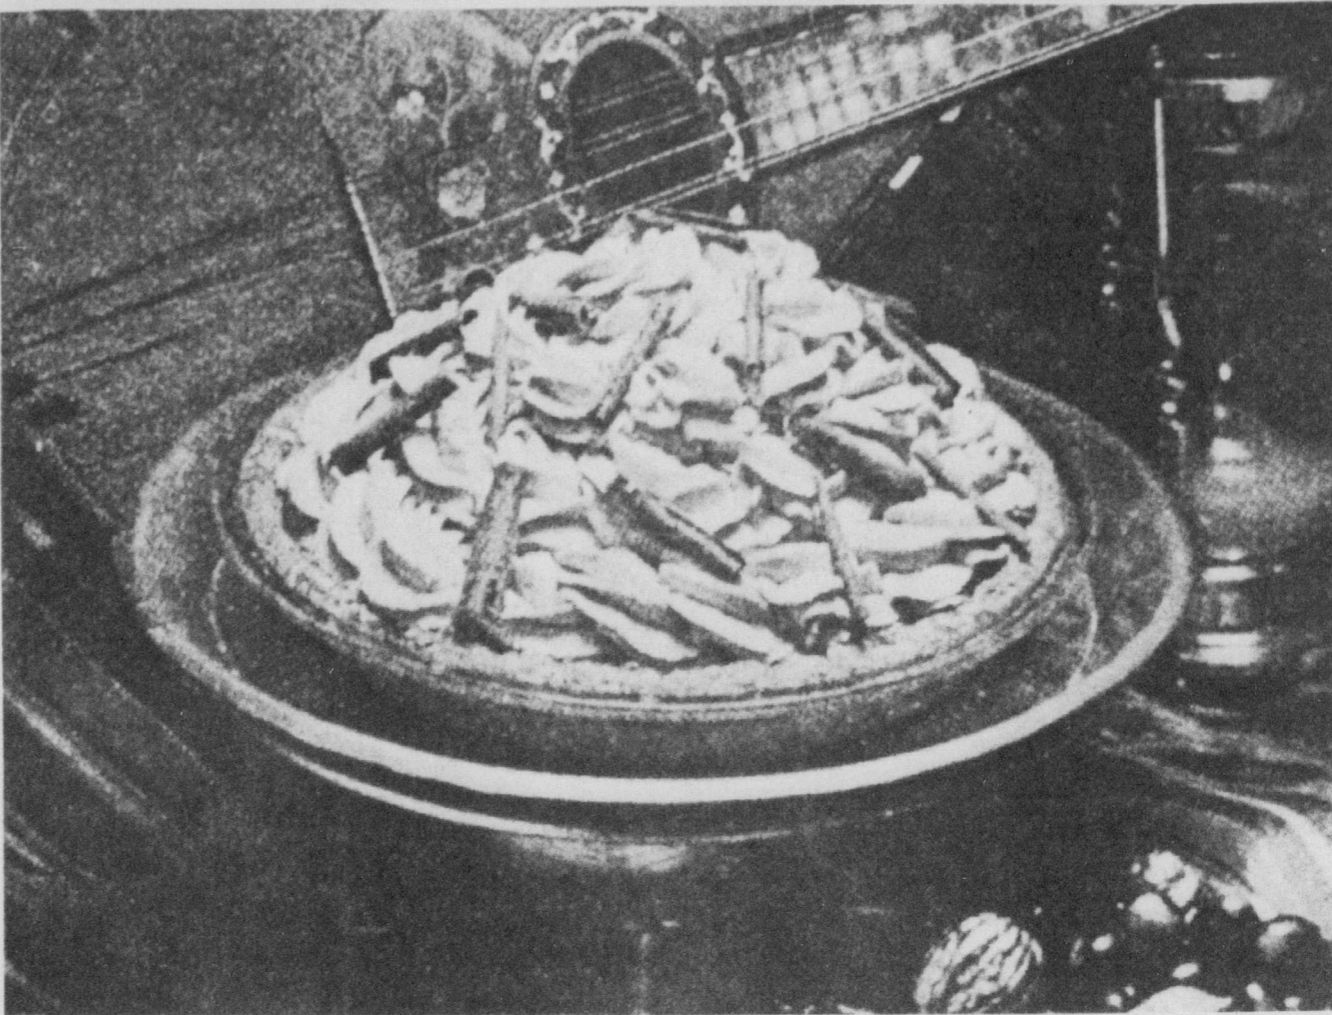

1 square unsweetened chocolate, grated
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Filling:

1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1 square unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
2 teaspoons instant coffee
2 eggs

2 cups heavy cream
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
Chocolate curls

Preheat the oven to 375F. Make Pastry Shell: In medium bowl, combine piecrust mix with brown sugar, walnuts, and grated chocolate. Add 1 tablespoon water and the vanilla; using fork, mix until well blended. Turn into well-greased 9-inch pie plate; press firmly against bottom and side of pie plate. Bake for 15 minutes. Cool pastry shell in pie plate on wire rack.

Toffee pie is not for the serious calorie counter.

Meanwhile, make Filling: In small bowl, with electric mixer at medium speed, beat the butter until it is creamy.

Gradually add granulated sugar, beating until light. Blend in cool melted chocolate and 2 teaspoons instant coffee.

Add 1 egg; beat 5 minutes. Add remaining egg; beat 5 minutes longer. Turn filling into baked pie shell. Refrigerate the pie, covered, overnight.

Next day, make topping: In a large bowl, combine cream with 2 tablespoons instant coffee and the confectioners sugar.

Refrigerate mixture, covered, 1 hour. Beat cream mixture until stiff. Decorate pie with topping, using pastry bag with number-6 decorating tip, if desired. Garnish with chocolate curls. Refrigerate the pie at least 2 hours. Makes 8 servings.

Another dish with a Continental flavour — and deliciously different:

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI
3 cups diced cooked chicken (see instructions below)

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 lb. mushrooms
1 tablespoon lemon juice
7 tablespoons flour (one-third cup plus 2 tablespoons)
3/4 cups chicken broth (Please note below)
3 tablespoons white wine
1 cup half and half
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt (or more)
3/4 cup grated cheddar cheese

12-oz. package of noodles
Melt 5 tablespoons of the butter in a heavy pan, add the flour and blend well. Add broth, continually stirring to keep it smooth. Add the chicken, wine and cook till thickened. Add half and half, salt and pepper. Keep warm over low heat. Cook the

Refrigerate mixture, covered, 1 hour. Beat cream mixture until stiff. Decorate pie with topping, using pastry bag

STEWING CHICKEN
Cut up 3 1/2 to 4 lbs. stewing chicken (after washing)

Cover with 3 1/2 quarts water, bring to a boil skimming off any froth as it collects.

Reduce the heat and simmer.

Add 2 bay leaves, 2 garlic cloves, 2 whole onions, 2 whole carrots, 4 whole allspice, 8 peppercorns, 1 tablespoon parsley flakes, 2 tablespoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon mustard seed and 4 celery tops with leaves.

Simmer for 3 1/2 hours or until chicken is tender. Remove meat and vegetables and strain the broth.

Strip meat from bones, discard the bones and the skin. Set aside the meat and amount of broth required for Chicken Tetrazzini. The remainder of the broth can be refrigerated for some other dishes.

Ms. Alaska has problem

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Sandra Lashbrook says she was depressed at her showing in the Miss America pageant and decided to "let myself go a little bit."

Now the Miss Alaska Scholarship Pageant board has decided that the 22-year-old brunette, who weighs in at 139 1/2 pounds, can't be seen in public in her role as Miss Alaska until she loses 6 1/2 pounds.

Lashbrook said she wants to keep the crown she worked so hard for.

"I want to be known as Miss Alaska; it means a lot to me," she said. "I look fine. I don't look so bad anyone needs to be ashamed of me. I just think they're going to extremes."

Lashbrook said she performed all summer weighing about what she does now.

"I carry it very well," she said. "It's very hard to detect. I get compliments on my looks every day. I don't walk around in a bathing suit."

CLOTHES TOO SMALL

Carol Beck, the board's executive director, said Lashbrook's wardrobe was selected for a five-foot-seven woman weighing between 125 and 130 pounds.

"The maximum of 133 was agreed upon for clothes to fit properly," she said.

The board issued its directive three weeks ago, Beck said, after the reigning queen from Eagle River was warned to lose weight. Lashbrook now weighs about five pounds more than when she won the Miss Alaska crown May 17.

A memo from Beck entitled "Do You Really Want To Be Miss Alaska?" laid down the law on Lashbrook's weight.

After detailing the successes of previous Miss Alaskas in dealing with weight problems, the memo pointed out how other state beauty queens were put out to pasture over the issue of pounds.

"We are deadly serious about the weight problem because it reflects a deeper problem — a problem of attitude," the memo said. "A problem of co-operation."

Mary sunshine is a dying breed

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet you've had it with the secretaries who resent being asked to get coffee for the boss, but please hear me out.

I get coffee not only for my boss but several other bosses in this office. This means collecting money, getting the paper cups and plastic spoons, making the coffee and serving it, cleaning the urn — along with a cheerful "Good morning" for everyone who comes in.

I love it! It's not a chore. It's a ministry. Some people say thanks, other don't. But I don't care. I don't need praise. I do this simple chore because it makes me feel good to be of service to others. Sign me — A Very Happy Secretary In Columbus, Ohio

Hello Mary Sunshine: A "ministry," yet, I'm glad you didn't sign your name. Knowing your identity would be more responsibility than I want. Too many secretaries out there would cheerfully strangle you, dear.

Thanks for letting me know you exist. You're the last of a vanishing breed.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going out with "Jake" for a year and a half. We have done almost everything two people can possibly do together except DANCE.

For the whole year and a half I have been ducking any invitation that might include dancing. Jake is extremely good-looking and very sexy. All my girlfriends would give anything to get him away from me. The problem is that he is a very good dancer, and I am a klutz.

The other night a friend of mine had a block party. Suddenly, everyone was dancing. I wanted to die right then and there. Jake asked me to dance at least four times, but I turned him down. When he danced with my girlfriends I became very jealous. The evening was a nightmare.

I have tried dancing in the mirror, but I look like a fool, I've asked several people to teach me to dance, but they tell me I am too stiff.

I'm afraid I'm going to lose this guy because I now know how much he enjoyed dancing and I don't fit in. This whole thing is killing me. What can I do? — Two Left Feet East Of The Hudson

Dear N.Y.: If you've managed to hold Jake's interest for a year and a half with no dancing, it can't be of such great importance to him.

Since you feel threatened, I suggest you ask Jake to teach you to dance. Make up your mind you are going to learn, and you will. Start by standing together and swaying with the music. Then, let him show you how to move. Pretend you are a rag doll in his arms. Relax. You may never win the magnum of champagne, but at least you won't suffer an anxiety attack whenever Jake gets near a dance band.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on the mother whose young daughter went to work as a groom in a stable. She said the girl went from "Pardon me" to "Stick it in your ear, lady." The implication was that jockeys and trainers are a bad influence — generally disreputable people.

What gives her the right to make such a generalization? I've met quite a few people who work with horses and there hasn't been one I didn't like. The woman owes a lot of apologies — especially to the jockeys. They may be smaller than most men but they are really a great group of guys. Just sign me — I Love Longacres

Dear Long: AND gals. Ask Fred Astaire. He recently married one.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please make it clear whether or not people who write to you have to sign their real names? My friends and I have gotten into quite an argument over this.

What confuses me is when someone writes in and says, "Please don't use my right name." Does this mean the person DID use his right name?

I don't recall seeing any names in your column except those of experts. Thanks for clarifying this. — Connie In Lyndurst, Va.

Dear Connie: Some people do sign their right names, but it is not mandatory. I will print a letter with or without a signature if I feel it is legitimate. Most people who write about personal problems ask me not to use their real names, and I respect their wishes, of course.

Strangely enough, some folks who write about intimate problems say, "I don't care if you use my right name — everybody in town knows about this already." In such cases, I choose not to use the real name because it might prove embarrassing to the family.

School Committee meeting

The Ayer's Cliff School Committee held a meeting on Nov. 10, 1980. Guest speakers were Mrs. Ride and Mrs. Verpaelt for the Ayer's Cliff public library. They gave a short talk on the use of the library and number of books available. The committee felt there should be more publicity to the French population of the town about the library. It was reported that the parent-teacher interviews were well attended. Thanks were sent to the UCW for a donation to the cafeteria. There was a total of 182 volunteer hours for the month, 159 hours from the cook, Mrs.

Powers. A pamphlet entitled, Mainstreaming, was discussed. A conference dealing with learning disabilities and mainstreaming into regular classes will be held March 18-20, 1981, at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal. Anyone interested in attending must have their applications in by January 1, 1981. The meeting was adjourned with refreshments. + + + On November 11 the teachers and students went from the school to the Cenotaph. There they said prayers and sang O Canada in English and French and observed silence in remembrance.

"WE WILL NOT BE KNOWINGLY UNDERSOLD ON TURKEYS"

Dominion's advertised price per pound for turkeys will not be higher than the advertised price per pound for similar sizes, grades, and qualities of turkeys at any of the major chains in this area. If Dominion becomes aware that any of the 3 major chains in this area are advertising similar sizes, grades, and qualities of turkeys at a price per pound lower than Dominion's advertised price, then Dominion will immediately lower their price per pound to match the lowest major competitor.

THE CHRISTMAS TURKEY

Traditionally, most of us enjoy a delicious turkey dinner for Christmas and I for one, would not want to change that at all. But we shouldn't forget that turkey is also an excellent nutritious meal any time. Turkey meat is very lean and can replace chicken in many recipes. Why not use your turkey leftovers and prepare a variety of cold dishes that are not only economical, but tasty as well. Try turkey stuffed tomatoes, open-faced sandwiches garnished with pineapple and cheese. Let your imagination go wild and invent your own salads. Or try the following recipe...it's great!

WALDORF TURKEY SALAD

3 cups of cooked turkey, cubed • 1 1/2 cups sliced celery • 1 cup diced apples
• 1/2 cup chopped nuts • 1 tsp. salt • 1/4 cup salad dressing.
Mix turkey, celery, apples, nuts and salt together in a bowl. Blend in salad dressing.
Refrigerate. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with paprika. Makes 6 portions.

WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES!

Values effective until closing Tuesday, December 9th, 1980 in Dominion Stores:

Ruel can't understand injury jinx

MONTREAL (CP) — It's been a year since Claude Ruel replaced Bernie Geoffrion as head coach of Montreal Canadiens and little has changed in the interim.

The National Hockey League club was plagued by injuries when Ruel assumed the coaching duties last Dec. 1, and the same holds true today.

"How to explain it I just don't know," Ruel said after practice Tuesday. "It seems that every day I've come to the Forum there have been four or five players out of the lineup."

"It's not an excuse, but we have had a lot of injuries, illnesses and absences," he said. "I've never seen anything like it in my entire hockey career."

When the Canadiens take on the Sabres tonight at Buffalo, the team will be without the services of five of its regulars — defencemen Guy Lapointe and Larry Robinson, right winger Guy Lafleur and centres Doug Risebrough and Pierre Larouche.

GOES WITH SEVIGNY

Goaltender Denis Herron will also be out of the lineup as Ruel has decided to use Richard Sevigny as backup netminder to Michel Larocque.

Robinson, recovering from a shoulder injury, is plagued by the flu, while Lapointe is out indefinitely with a charley horse suffered against Minnesota North Stars on Saturday night.

Lafleur, weakened by a bout with inflamed tonsils, is expected to skate today but will not make the trip to Buffalo. Risebrough, suffering from an arthritic shoulder, is out indefinitely, and Larouche is recovering from a cracked bone in his left hand.

Montreal players have already missed a total of 83 games this season due to injuries and illnesses.

Ruel insisted that despite suffering three consecutive setbacks at home against the North Stars, New York Islanders and Calgary Flames, the team has not played poorly.

NHL: Bourne's pair leads Islanders

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Bourne scored two powerplay goals to lead New York to a 5-1 National Hockey League victory over Colorado Rockies on Tuesday night, extending the Islanders' unbeaten streak to 15 games.

Bourne opened the scoring at 5:51 of the first period on a tipin just inside the crease, following a Stefan Persson wrist shot. Persson added another goal 77 seconds later with a long slap shot that beat Rockies goaltender Al Smith on the glove side.

Bourne's second goal came midway through the third period, giving the Islanders their 13th win, with two ties, in their last 15 games.

Elsewhere in the NHL last night, St. Louis Blues exploded early in the third period on goals by Jack Brownschilde and Ralph Klassen to edge Quebec Nordiques 5-2. The victory enabled the Blues to stretch their unbeaten streak to six games (five wins and a tie).

In Boston, veteran Jean Ratelle scored a fluke goal on a power play in the third period to lift the Bruins to a 5-3 win over Detroit Red Wings.

Rick Middleton moved over the red line and fired the puck into the Detroit zone. Goaltender Gilles Gilbert moved out of the net and went to the boards to try to control the puck. However, the puck took a strange bounce off the boards and came out to the corner of the goal.

As Gilbert made a desperate dive, Ratelle swept in and poked the loose puck into the net for his fifth goal of the season.

The Wings are now winless in 15 road games.

Massey-Vanier overpowers BCS 7-2

By ANTHONY ROSS
COWANSVILLE — Massey-Vanier Vikings overcame a lackluster first period and scored four unanswered goals in the second to defeat Bishop's College School 7-2 in senior high school hockey action yesterday.

BCS took command of the game in the first period and jumped out to a 1-0 lead on a goal by Brian Bell. If it hadn't been for the excellent play of the Viking goaltender Dean Hadd, they might have been out of the contest very early.

The visitors only had 22 shots on net but at least half of them were good scoring opportunities. Massey-Vanier tied things up late in the first and scored three goals in three minutes early in the second to take a 4-1 lead.

"When they scored those three goals in the second it seemed to break our backs. We had been in control up to that point but couldn't score and at that point the tide of the game changed," said losing coach Cliff Goodwin. Massey-Vanier added one more goal in the second and then rounded out the scoring with two in the final period while BCS countered with one of their own. "We didn't play a good game and if Hadd hadn't played well in the first it might have been a different story," said Viking coach Bob Kay. "Our team has to play much more disciplined hockey. There was far too much individual play but at least we finally had a good third period and I'll take two points whenever I can get it," concluded Kay.

Goodwin was disappointed after the loss but is still optimistic about his team's chances this season. "We impressed upon the guys that they have to play all 60 minutes in order to win. They let down for three minutes in the second and it proved to be the game. Massey-Vanier is probably the best squad in the league but we will win our share of games," commented Goodwin.

Kreiner second in opening downhill

RECORD NEWS SERVICES
VAL D'ISERE, France — Canada's Kathy Kreiner finished second in the opening World Cup ski race here today. Kreiner, skiing technically as an independent entry as she has her own coach and is paying her own way, clocked a time of 1:34.07 in the women's downhill. Swiss veteran Marie-Therese Nadig won the race in 1:33.10. West Germany's Irene Eppie was third in 1:34.77. The results are subject to official confirmation.

Kreiner, of Timmins, Ont., was in top form during practice runs for the downhill and Eppel was in the top five in practice.

The women's downhill course has been redesigned because of light snowfall and many skiers do not like it. "This is more like a giant slalom course than a downhill," said Nadig. "There are several sharp turns at the top of the course and it's difficult to set a rhythm."

The season opened without the two finest women racers of the seventies, Annemarie Moser-Proell of Austria and Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein. For the first time in several years, the women's championship is wide open.

Moser, with a record 62 World Cup wins, has turned professional and Wenzel, the reigning world champion and winner of four Olympic medals, is out until January with an injury.

The men's season gets underway Friday with the downhill. Canadian Ken Read has won here before and says he knows the Val d'Isere course better than any other. While the Canadians, dubbed the 'Crazy Canucks' in Europe, are one of the strongest forces in downhill, they have virtually no chance of doing well in the overall standings as they specialize only in DH events.

Other team members are Steve Podborski of Toronto, Dave Murray of Whistler, B.C., Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, and Chris Kent, a youngster from Calgary.

Beavers edge Royals 5-4

By MATTHEW ELDER
SHERBROOKE — Have the Beavers turned things around?

In the days since the departure of former coach and general manager Ghislain Delage, the Sherbrooke QMJHL entry has shown signs of promise and last night's clutch 5-4 win over Cornwall Royals would indicate that, yes, they are finally on the right track.

The Beavers came out flying last night, outshooting the Royals 17-6 in the opening period but could muster only a 1-0 lead on Mario Dore's goal at 15:08.

Cornwall stormed back early in the second and before the period was two minutes old were ahead 2-1 on goals by John Kirk and Gilles Crepeau. The spirit of last spring's torrid QMJHL final was in the air, however, and the Beavers came out ahead 4-3 by the intermission. Gerard Galland notched his 18th of the season just shy of the midway-mark of the period and Richard Bourque restored the Sherbrooke lead at 12:57.

The teams traded goals as Eric Calder tied it up at 16:27 and captain Robbie MacKenzie replied for the Beavers just before the period expired.

Dore's second goal three minutes into the third proved to be a necessary insurance goal as Roy Russell put the game back in reach for the Royals at 10:44. But that was all for Cornwall as Corrado Micallef held the Royals at bay until the final buzzer.

"Corrado has to be one of the best," raved Royals' coach Bob Kilger afterwards. Micallef turned aside 34 shots while veteran Tom Graovac kicked out 38 Beaver blasts. Kilger, however, shouldered some of the blame. He suggested that perhaps his role as coach of the Memorial Cup champions — who represent Canada at a world junior tournament in West Germany over the holidays — sparked many of the Beavers to put in stellar performances in bids to join the reinforcements Kilger is seeking around the league. He had mentioned the names

NEW YORK (AP) — When we last left our story, Jimmy the Greek had thrown a punch at his NFL Today colleague Brent Musburger. Now for the latest development:

Two Sundays ago, the show's leading lady, Phyllis George, burst into tears after The Greek made a remark about her husband, John Y. Brown, governor of Kentucky.

It all started when The Greek did public relations work for Brown.

On Nov. 23, the NFL Today crew of Brent Musburger, Irv Cross, The Greek and George were preparing for their show. The Greek responded to George's cheerful pre-show overtures by making the crack about Brown. Or so CBS sources say.

A witness on the set thought it was all a joke, but George didn't and cried. Producer Ted Shaker comforted her. And the show went on.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Al Davis, the managing general partner of Oakland Raiders, blasted National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle Tuesday night, saying, "He ought to shut his mouth and leave the politics to the end of the season."

Davis was reacting to what he called Rozelle's "sympathy and credibility given to the boycott idea." Angry Raider fans want home games boycotted in protest to a planned move to Los Angeles.

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Charboneau, a sometimes-bizarre personality who brought power hitting to Cleveland Indians, was today named the American League Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Charboneau, 25, drew 15 firstplace votes from the 28-man BBWAA committee for a total of 102 points, far ahead of second-place finisher Dave Stapleton of Boston Red Sox.

CHICAGO (AP) — Pitcher Bill Gullickson of Montreal Expos will be honored by Chicago baseball writers Jan. 17 at the annual Diamond Dinner. Gullickson will receive the Headline Award for striking out 18 Chicago Cubs in one game. He also had a 10-5 won-lost record and a 3.00 earned-run average after joining the Expos in midseason.

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino was presented with a record-tying fifth Vardon Trophy on Tuesday night, recognizing him as the golfer with the lowest stroke average on the 1980 PGA tour.

Trevino, who also won the Vardon three consecutive years from 1970-72 and again in 1974, joins Ben Hogan and Billy Casper as the only five-time winners. Trevino finished 1980 with a stroke average of 69.73, just under Tom Watson's 69.95.

John Drew scored 39 points, five in overtime, as Atlanta Hawks defeated Philadelphia 76ers 112-108 in a National Basketball Association upset Tuesday night.

Elsewhere the scores were: Milwaukee Bucks 119, Utah Jazz 108 in overtime; Boston Celtics 94, Detroit Pistons 85; Phoenix Sun 122, San Antonio Spurs 107; Cleveland Cavaliers 109, Dallas Mavericks 102; Indiana Pacers 113, New York Knicks 96; Chicago Bull 129, Denver Nuggets 124; Washington Bullets 107, Kansas City Kings 103; and New Jersey Nets 1188, Portland Trail Blazers 105.

Cowansville Swim Club news

COWANSVILLE — Cowansville Swim Club swimmers have had good results at the season's early swim meets. At Tracy, many Cowansvillers swam in the finals. Dana Whittall made the finals in every event she entered, winning two gold medals, two silver and a bronze while Martin Maheu won a bronze to round out the 11-12 age group medals. In the 13-14 group, Janet Pincott won the two breast stroke events. Cowansville finished seventh out of 13th despite entering just 10 swimmers.

In the first Quebec Cup event in Dollard-Des-Ormeaux, Graham Pincott was the only participant from Cowansville as only the best seniors in the province participated. In the 1500 m. freestyle, Graham lowered his previous time by 20 seconds.

The first Bout-de-Chou meet of the season was held in Granby on November 16. Many of our swimmers in the 10-year-under group had excellent results. Seven-year-old Alexandre Leduc came in first three times and second once. Eight-year-old Marie-France Beaudry won two gold and one bronze. Mark Tector, 6, won one gold and one silver. Eight-year-old Chris Norris won a silver, Pierre-Michel Beaudry, 10, came in third three times and ten-year-old Cameron Wessel and Patrick Turner, 8, each won bronze medals.

Wales Home news

MRS. M. ARMSTRONG RICHMOND — Through the kindness of Brian Woods, principal of Danville, Asbestos Elementary School, a delightful little movie, "Ring of Bright Water" was enjoyed by several residents on a recent Sunday evening. The story involved a small, tame, otter "Mickey" and with his sleek coat and playful manners he readily captivated his audience.

The "Florence Group" formed in Ulverton in 1961 and which now has several Wales Home residents as members, met in the Rec. room for the annual meeting on Nov. 5. We have supported from 1-3 children in foreign lands under "World Vision of Canada" for nearly 20 years and at this meeting unanimously agreed to accept one more Korean orphan, making a total of three our responsibility at the present time.

Mrs. Florence Doyle, a resident and for whom the group was named, is still the president, the sec'y is M.G. Armstrong and the treasurer is Vera Miller. A picture of a small group of dedicated ladies which over the years has accomplished much in assisting in the Christian education and care of unfortunate children.

The lucky winner of the painting done and donated by Harold Knight and on which tickets have been sold for some months, was Mrs. Mary Clifford of Melbourne. Mrs. M. Armstrong drew the winning number and the lovely picture was presented by Mrs. L. Farley, matron. The proceeds will be used for Christmas presents and festivities in the Home. Thanks to everyone for supporting this project and congratulations Mary.

The large reception room was filled to capacity on Nov. 11 when residents and staff gathered for Remembrance Day services. Members of the local Canadian Legion and the Women's Auxiliary assisted by Mrs. Farley presented a very touching ceremony honoring the dead of the past wars. There were several war veterans among the residents and they had the place of honor, seating together in a group.

Many miles separate Granby from Richmond, nevertheless our good friends of the Kiwanis Club attended by several ladies came by bus recently and presented a variety programme. They were welcomed and introduced by Hawley Griffith and M.C. for the occasion was K. Ossington. He first introduced the Club President H. Lawrence who spoke briefly then Miss L. Duperron who accompanied herself at the piano as she rendered several lovely songs.

Mr. M. Harris was on hand to mystify everyone again with his famous magical tricks. Mr. P. Dunn amused everyone as he recited that old favourite written by Drummond - "Village St. Marteau". Several songs were enjoyed with Wm. Munroe at the piano then the residents were invited to join in a sing song of old familiar tunes.

This completed the programme - then several door prizes were won by those whose names were drawn. Mrs. Emma Watt very graciously thanked the guests for the pleasant afternoon and invited a return visit. They have promised us a treat of Florida oranges at Christmas time - sounds good!

The Nov. Birthday party was a small one number wise but with Norma Lester at the piano and several games of Bingo in progress, everyone had a marvellous time. The hostesses were all members of the Young Women W.I., namely P. Henderson, N. Lester, M. Stimson, R. Van Wersch, C. Vaitekunas, M. Pariseau and Pat Henderson, who served a lovely lunch of home-made bread, jam and cheese, along with a delicious cup of tea. This was followed by a slice of lovely birthday cake made and iced by Janet Banfil complete with a brilliant sparkler. Those enjoying the party were: I. Blanchette, E. Jeffreys, E. Shaw, J. Beers, E. Marston, T. Frazer, E. Rothney, W. Clark, G. Griggs, A. Burne, F. Fletcher, F. Brainard, E. Goodsell and Gladys Perkins who thanked the hostesses in a very pleasing manner. This is Mrs. Perkins first birthday with us. Each guest of honor received a pretty little gift as the party broke up.

One of our maintenance staff, an industrious and enterprising young man - Kevin Goodfellow, has been busy in the workshop making a Billiard table as well as a folding ping pong one. These will be placed in a game room recently made available on the 4th floor and will be used by both residents and staff. Thanks Kevin.

Card Parties

SUTTON — The Odd-fellows and Rebekas of Sutton sponsored a 500 card party in the Fraternal Hall Friday evening, November 21, with cards being played at nine tables. Prizes went to Mrs. Leila Peron, Mrs. Dorothy Chute and Mrs. Jean d'Arc Eli; Men's, Walter Miltmore, Real Beaulac and Lyle Bresee.

Door prizes were claimed by Marion Robertson, Irene Williams, Pat Bays, Hazel Foster, Simonne Gagne, and Madeline Perry.

There will be another card party in the same hall on December 5 at 8 p.m. All are welcome. Sponsored by Golden Rule Rebekah lodge. Lunch and prizes.

WINDSOR — Lower Windsor Ladies' Aid held a "500" card party on Saturday evening, Nov. 22, at the Langlois home. Cards were played at fourteen tables.

The following people carried off the prizes: Helen Chartier, ladies' high score; Shirley Paterson, second; and Meryl Nutbrown, consolation. Stuart Nutbrown, gents' high; Chuck Nixon, second; and Lloyd Oakley, consolation.

The floating prize for the nine of hearts bid went to Evariste Fredette.

Door prizes were claimed by Chuck Nixon, Peggy McCourt, Mona McGee, Mr. Dupuis, and Gerry McGee.

A drawing was held on three articles, a pair of heavy socks made by Mrs. Brock was won by J.G. Langlois, as well as a pair of knitted slippers which were made by Mrs. L. Watson. Clarence Chartier held the remaining winning number and received a tray.

Lunch was served at the close of the evening. This was the first and last card party of the season. Thanks to all who have come out to lend their support. See you next year, which is really creeping up very quickly.

Seniors meet

SAWYERVILLE — The Bury Jolly Seniors were guests at the Happy Gang Seniors' meeting on Nov. 18, in the United Church Hall.

A pleasant afternoon was spent playing 500, Tuck and Canasta.

A delicious supper was served to 73 with 31 coming from Bury.

Cards were signed to go to three sick members.

Winning prizes in 500 were: ladies' - Mme. O. Boutin, Mrs. Zelma Graham and Mrs. Gladys Allison. Men - M.D. Blue, A. Lizotte and Lionel Allison.

Tuck - Lillian Lizotte and Christine Perkins. Door prizes, Verda Gilbert, Marie Lavierre, Fay Coleman and Eleanor Blair.

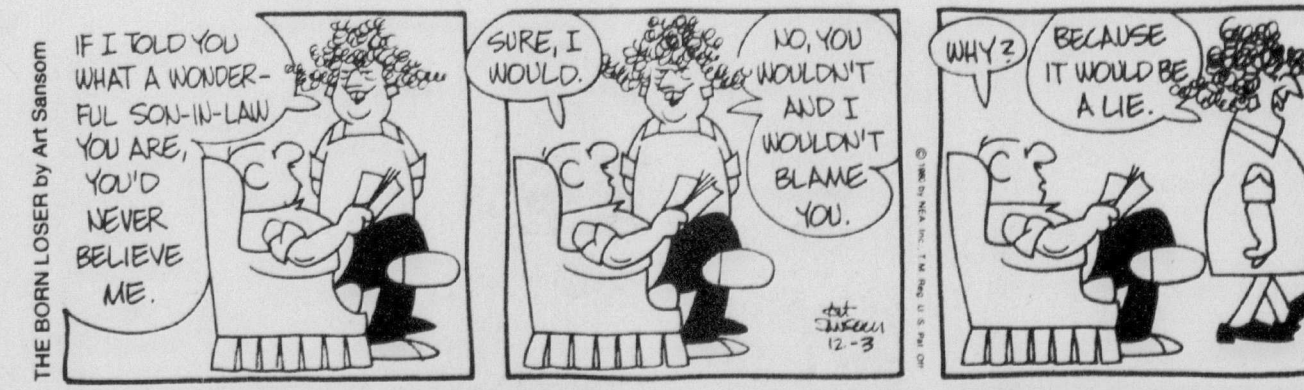

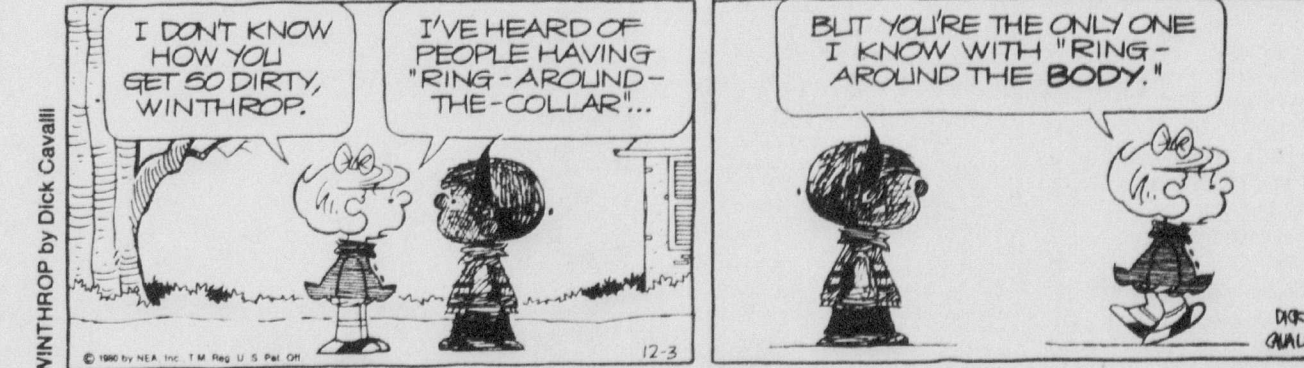

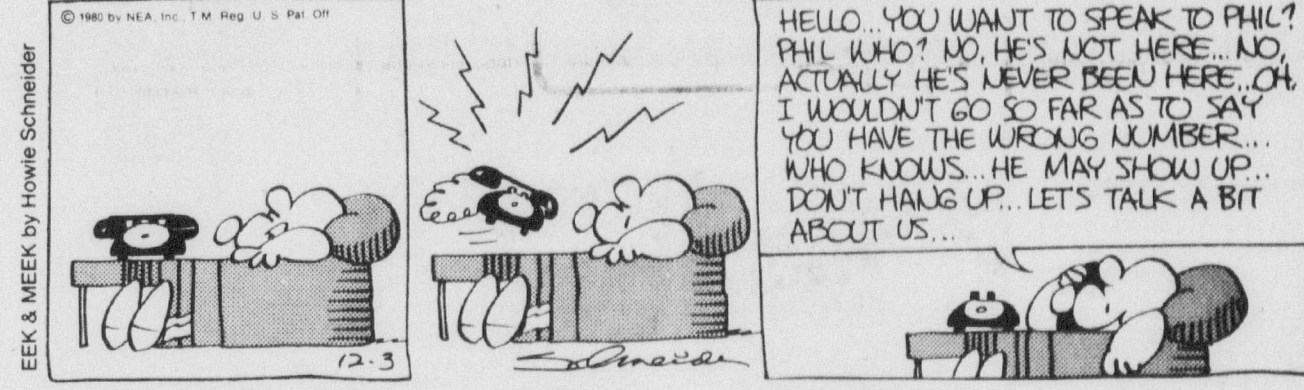

Mrs. Lionel Allison on behalf of the Bury Group, extended thanks for the nice afternoon and for supper.

All enjoyed the time together meeting friends and making new ones. The next get together for the Happy Gang will be the Christmas party on Dec. 2, meeting at noon for dinner for members only. Each member to bring a gift for exchange.

Your Birthday

December 4, 1980

Bonds will be shored-up this coming year between you and the one you love. If there is not a No. 1 in your picture presently, this situation will soon change.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Let your compassionate urges prevail today if you see a situation where you can be truly helpful. The good you do will not go unrewarded. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your sex appeal is a bit more pronounced than usual today. Members of the opposite gender will be watching your every move and, what's more, they'll like what they see.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Success is likely today because your objectives will be clearly defined. Although you will be assertive, you will win your way with diplomacy and tact.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your kind words today will have great emotional impact and not be quickly forgotten. Friends need to hear them said and none can articulate them better than you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be supportive of the one you love today. Your thoughtfulness will not be readily forgotten. Put your needs in the background temporarily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Forego the crowds today. Spend as much time as possible alone with the one you love. Outside interests pale beside what you can offer one another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Tasks which are labors of love will prove enjoyable today and will also help freshen your outlook for other projects. Give them top priority.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are presently unattached, this could be an exciting day romantically. Seek out places where you'll have the opportunity to meet new people.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're extremely adept today at doing things which can add fresh charm to your surroundings, even if it's only rearranging the furniture.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone whose respect you've been anxious for will be greatly impressed by the way you conduct yourself today. Let your pleasant personality shine forth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons with whom you have strong emotional ties could be fortunate for you today in financial or material ways. Make your wants known.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be too surprised today if you receive a compliment from a member of the opposite sex you thought never noticed you. This person is more than just casually interested.

ACW meeting

WINDSOR — Mrs. Marg. Sundborg was hostess for the November meeting of St. George's A.C.W., held Thursday afternoon, Nov. 20, at her home. Ten members and five guests were present.

The president, Mrs. A. Oakley, called the meeting to order with prayer, followed by the minutes of the previous meeting. Correspondence included several thank-you notes.

The amount of twenty-five dollars was voted to the Wales Home and the same amount to the Sherbrooke Hospital. Mrs. Sundborg is to send Christmas cards to shut-ins.

An election of officers was held with all officers being re-elected by acclamation.

Mrs. Oakley made a presentation of a card, signed by all, and a gift of currency to Mildred Holliday, in appreciation of her fine job as auctioneer throughout the year. Mildred voiced her thanks and appreciation in a few well-chosen words.

An auction of donated articles was held with Mrs. Holliday doing the honors.

The meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Allen, followed by a social hour. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. MacLeod and Mrs. Lemoine.

There will not be any meeting in December, the next to be held on Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 2:00 p.m. at the home of Agnes Oakley.
