Man killed

FITCH BAY — (Staff) — A 21-year-old Fitch Bay resident is reported to be in fair condition by La Providence Hospital officials at Magog today following an accident which claimed the life of his companion.

Dead is Frederick Blair, 60, of Fitch Bay, who was killed about 8:30 p.m. Thursday when hit by an automobile while walking along the highway with Richard Yetter, 21, also of Fitch Bay.

Yetter's condition was reported to be good by La Providence officials. He is reported suffering from two broken arms and a broken leg.

Driver of the automobile was reported as George Pelkie, of Fitch Bay.

Ship damaged

NEW YORK (AP)—Flames severely damaged an Argentine cargo-passenger ship berthed at a pier here—and at one point the 549-foot vessel threatened to sink—before the blaze was put out early today by more than 200 firemen.

During the more than four-hour battle to save the 11,340-ton Rio Jachal, 29 firemen were either injured or sickened by dense smoke. Seventeen of them were taken to hospital, none in serious condition, along with one crew member also overcome by smoke.

US would fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary McNamara has given Russia notice that the United States is ready to use nuclear weapons if necessary to defend West Berlin.

McNamara made this point clear in a report Friday that during his trip to West Germany he found nuclear-armed U.S. ground and air units in a high state of combat readiness.

"It is our policy to utilize whatever weapons are required to protect our vital interests, and we quite clearly consider access to Berlin a vital interest to the Western world and to the United States," he said.

Indian Act check

OTTAWA (CP)—A manoeuvre to make the government assess how the Indian Act stacks up against requirements of the Bill of Rights is scheduled Monday in the Commons.

The instrument is a private bill sponsored by Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), a consistent critic of the Indian Act.

If he gets his way, the justice department will be required to go through the Indian Act, determine whether it meets stipulations about equality before the law for all Canadians, and then report its findings to Parliament.

The MP from the west coast says the Indian Act clearly treats Indians unequally before the law in a variety of ways including land ownership, disposition of land, disposal of goods or in liquor consumption.

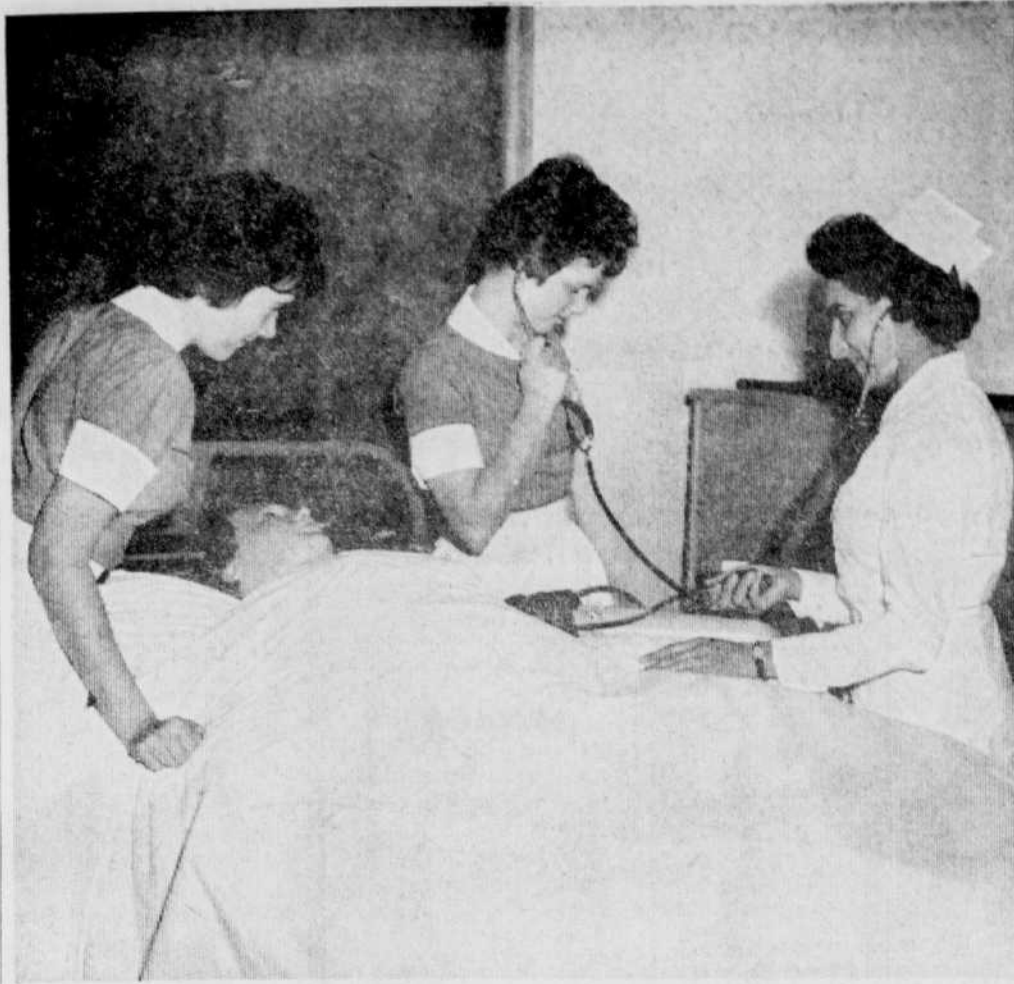

Indian reservation land is vested in the Crown and permission to sell must be obtained from the citizenship minister.

Yemen threat

ADEN (AP)—Warlike tribesmen loyal to Yemen's royal family were reported moving on the capital of San'a today for a showdown with army insurgents who claimed control of the feudal Arab state.

Middle East broadcasts said several Yemeni princes had joined the tribal march, but San'a radio said tribal chiefs had sworn allegiance to the new republic proclaimed after the rebels announced they had killed the newly installed king, Imam Mohammad Al-badr.

'Knock down the Red Dragon!'

India border tension mounts

NEW DELHI — (NEA) —

"O, Youth of India, Rise like Lions to knock down the Red Dragon!" The headline screams at passersby from the front page of one of New Delhi's more sensational tabloids.

It is a call for India to march on Ladakh in the Himalayas, and to throw out the Red China invaders who are encroaching on thousands of square miles of Indian territory.

"Help us, O Lord, to thwart all attempts of the Red Dragon to encircle us," the tabloid intones. "Alight in us that old fire which gave us strength to face the British bullets."

Not all Indians feel as strongly about India's dispute with Red China over Ladakh as this newspaper does, but the mounting tension over the mountainous forbidding region has nevertheless upset this nation of 450 million people as few other issues have upset them in recent times.

What alarms the average Indian most is the almost total blackout of news concerning the government's operations in Ladakh. Granted the inaccessibility of the region, the government seem to be deliberately keeping the nation in the dark as to what is happening in Ladakh.

My applications to visit Ladakh were turned down both in London and New Delhi. No other correspondents, either Indian or foreign, have been allowed to visit this part of Kashmir.

Thus, the clash of the two giants, India and China, on the roof of the world remains shrouded in mystery. What little is known can be summed up as follows:

Since 1957 Red China has been steadily encroaching on India's frontier until today she occupies 15,000 square miles, claims another 40,000 square miles.

Encroachment has been accompanied by a feverish build-up of military forces by both sides of Ladakh until today Indian and Chinese outposts are so interlocked in a jigsaw fashion that they could easily isolate each other. (In this connection, the Chinese complain that their guards are being "encircled.")

This confrontation has led to armed clashes between Indian and Chinese border patrols in which light machine guns and mortars have been brought into play.

Things have now reached the point where "the Chinese cannot advance further into Ladakh without a major conflict," as Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian Parliament on August 14.

The dispute has been accompanied by a flurry of angry notes between the two governments in which the words "aggression" and "provocation" repeatedly occur.

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Ironically, the whole dispute started out as a mild disagreement over maps. In 1954, the year that Red China seized Tibet, Peiping published maps showing great chunks of Indian territory as part of China.

When India protested, Premier Chou En-lai's reply was that the maps were reprints of old ones prepared by a former regime, and that they would be corrected when China's borders were re-surveyed.

The first real shock to India came in 1958 when it discovered that far from correcting the maps, the Chinese had built a motor road across Indian territory in Ladakh, thereby linking Tibet with Sinkiang province. Since then the Chinese have penetrated steadily further south.

India began to garrison Ladakh as early as 1948 when the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir first flared up. For a brief time the Pakistanis occupied part of Ladakh, but they were driven out in an epic struggle.

Against terrific odds, the Indians succeeded in air-lifting tanks to heights over 14,000 feet above sea level, and they used these tanks to open up the road to Leh, capital of Ladakh, a feat comparable to Hannibal's crossing of the Alps with elephants.

Today India depends increasingly upon helicopters to supply her troops in Ladakh, although she acquired 12 big Russian transport planes for this purpose last year, and has another squadron of planes on order from the Soviet Union.

From European Common Market

No serious agricultural harm seen

By PATRICK FELLOWS
Toronto Telegram
News Service

Canadian agriculture is unlikely to be seriously harmed if Britain joins the European Common Market, says a report by two agricultural economists of the University of Manitoba.

On the other hand, the report says, it is an "over-simplification" to imagine that Canadian farm product exports will remain as they are if Britain remains outside Euromart.

The report, on the implications of the Common Market for Canadian agricultural exports, was prepared by Professor G. Hallett and Dr. Jai Krishna.

It says "there are reasons for thinking that Canadian exports of wheat and oilseeds, which account for two-thirds of Canadian exports of agricultural produce to the United Kingdom, would not be seriously reduced as a result of British membership."

LONG PERIOD
The report adds that "the minor products which might possibly be affected are relatively small in total value and account for a small proportion of total Canadian production."

"Moreover, the change in British policies would take place over a transitional period of seven years, during which even greater changes are likely to be experienced by Canadian agriculture."

There have been great changes in the composition and destination of Canadian agricultural products since the Imperial Preference arrangements made in Ottawa in 1932, the report says.

And it remarks there have also been major changes in the past 20 years in British imports of agricultural products. Some have increased, some decreased.

MAY BE MORE
"In an age of rapid structural change in agriculture throughout the world, these changes are unlikely to have come to an end."

The extreme dependence of Britain on imports of cereals, meat and dairy products from Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and the extreme dependence of these countries on exports of such products to the British market, has already been substantially reduced (except in the case of New Zealand), the report says.

"It is very probable that in some respects this trend will continue, whether or not Britain joins the Community."

For most agricultural products, the Commonwealth Preference system is now of far less importance than commonly imagined, it is stated. On many important products, notably wheat, mutton and wool, there is no preference.

The report notes that wheat, which was the largest single export item before the war, now is second to newsprint.

Canada's role in nuclear age

Shouldn't adopt defensive atom weapons because no effective ones existing now

By PAUL HELLYER
Editor's Note: Paul Hellyer, Liberal MP for Toronto Trinity, outlines the Opposition's view on the Bomarc debate.

Canada should not adopt defensive atomic weapons at this time, because none exist which provide any real protection.

What about the future? No one can foresee the future with clarity, but the position at present is pretty obvious in perspective.

After the Russians succeeded in building an atomic bomb they began — so it seemed at least — to build squadrons of long-range bombers capable of reaching targets on the North American continent. Realizing our vulnerability, we began a crash program of radar lines and interceptor construction.

The purpose of these — and it was never considered to be anything else by the military — was to provide protection for the U.S. Strategic Air Command. Any bombers shot down before reaching their targets would leave more of SAC intact and give more pilots a chance to return to their bases, from which they would deliver their retaliatory blow.

It was at this time — the early 1950's — that the concept of the Bomarc was accepted. A line of pilotless aircraft (Bomarc missiles) was planned to extend from coast to coast to provide increased protection for the atomic deterrent — the striking power of the United States Air Force.

The concept made some sense at the outset. It has long since been overtaken by time and technological development.

October 1957 should be remembered as a turning point in modern military science.

And the Poles like cha-cha

Opera singer likes to do twist

TORONTO — (TNS) — Note to TV variety show brass: I think I've found what you've been looking for: an opera singer that likes to do the twist.

She's Mieczyslaw Lanza, a soloist with the Poznan Philharmonic Choir and Orchestra in Poland. And she says the twist is very fashionable these days in Poland.

"So is the cha-cha," she added as she described the arts of Poland.

In Toronto to visit relatives, the Poznan opera and light opera singer, and singing star of Poznan TV, said western musical trends find instant favor in Poland.

VARIETY
That's why her repertoire in Poland ranges from Mozart, Handel, and Puccini, or in lighter vein, Lehar, Lutoslawski and Offebach, to such all-time North American hits as My Fair Lady, Porgy and Bess, Oklahoma!, and movie favorites such as Never On Sunday.

Miss Lanza recently spent three months in New York, studying TV programming and methods. Her assessment of TV in Canada and the U.S.:

"It's fine entertainment, and you have a chance to see some of the world's greatest artists."

Contrary to some visitors from behind the Iron Curtain Miss Lanza showed no displeasure at the steady diet of TV commercials compared to shows back home.

"If it means a chance to see a great artist," she explained, "I can see that under your system a commercial would have its place."

Miss Lanza has travelled with Philharmonic personnel and small concert groups through Bulgaria, Hungary and last year sang invitation concerts in Moscow and Leningrad.

Like other Polish artists she has also a major role in school concerts in her country. Estimates on the work of soloists and groups from her own philharmonic group show that in the past five years they presented 7,000 concerts in schools in and around Poznan. Miss Lanza herself sang in 400 concerts for young people last year.

Question mark hangs over session

How long will parliament last?

Canada's 25th Parliament opened this week with a giant question mark hanging over it — how long would it last?

Members chosen in the June election gathered in the glittering Senate chamber Thursday to hear government plans outlined in the speech from the throne—a speech that placed emphasis on economic expansion.

Then they settled down to the business of deciding how long Prime Minister Diefenbaker's minority Conservative government will remain in office.

Opposition Leader Pearson, describing the throne speech as "most disappointing and inadequate," held to plans to introduce a no-confidence motion Monday. But his 100-member Liberal bloc cannot overthrow the government without backing from the 30 Social Credit and 18 New Democratic Party members.

WON'T LAST LONG
The Social Credit members announced after a Wednesday meeting that they would not back the Liberals in seeking an early defeat of the government.

But Leader Robert Thompson commented after the throne speech that "if this is all the Progressive Conservatives have got to offer the House certainly is not going to go too long."

Thompson said he will propose a "string" amendment to the Liberal motion early next week. This also would be in effect a no-confidence motion and could topple the government if the Liberals and NDP decide to back it.

Leader T. C. Douglas said the NDP wouldn't decide whether to back the Liberal motion "until we hear further about the proposed policies of the government."

NEW SENATORS NAMED
Two days before Parliament opened Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the appointment of five new senators, including Clement O'Leary of Antigonish, N.S., and Edgar Fournier of Iroquois, N.B., both former Conservative members of the Commons who were defeated in June.

Also named were M. Gratian O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, Allister Grosart, national director of the Conservative party, and Frank C. Welch, president of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association.

DETENTION CLASSES — Although it may not be the best of subjects to start off a Saturday morning column for high school students, I think the following article from Carolyn Thompson Sutton High School, should prove most interesting.

A new detention system has been organized for students of grades eight, nine, ten and eleven at Sutton High School. The staff feels that the students are not making an earnest effort to do their work at its best, causing many of the students to finish high school with marks not high enough to get them into college.

In an attempt to remedy this situation, daily detention classes have been set up at Sutton High School after school for all pupils who have failed to do homework properly and have neglected home study. The new system, Carolyn explains, is an attempt to make students realize the importance of obtaining the highest marks possible throughout their high school years so they will be able to enter college and other higher courses in learning when they graduate from high school.

YMCA DANCE — The Sherbrooke Hi-Y Club will be holding a dance at the YMCA on Dufferin Street tonight says Dave Sinclair, Hi-Y correspondent. Master of ceremonies for the evening will be Norris Gilling. The dance begins at 8 p.m. and ends at 11 p.m.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL RESULTS — Results of elections of Students' Council representatives are still coming in. Three E.T. high school correspondents sent in the following results: From Deborah Todd, Cookshire High School: President, Pamela Lane; vice-president, Patricia Stevenson; secretary, Marilyn Fraser, treasurer, Bill Fredrick; boys' sports convener, Robert Latwood; girls' sports convener, Sharon Heath; social director, Karen Labonte. Class representatives: Grade six, Mita Learned; Grade seven S, Bruce Smith; Grade seven B, Barry Matthews; grade eight, Brian Labere, Judith Waldron; grade nine, Deborah Todd, Lloyd Learned; grade ten, Phyllis Todd, Gerry Williams; grade eleven, Shirley Therrien and Wayne Thornloe.

From Pam Hutchison, Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School at Danville: President, Kathy Barnard; vice-president, Martha Smyth; Brian Carr, treasurer; Gordon Scott, secretary. Editor of the Fibre, the school yearbook is Valerie Engles. Social committee chairmen are Sheila Dennis and Pam Hutchison.

From Nancy Robins, Ayer's Cliff High School: President, Robert Thompson; vice-president, Keith Doherty.

S.H.S. OPERETTA — Students participating in the coming Sherbrooke High School operetta began their twice weekly visits to the music room for rehearsals this week says Janet Baker, S.H.S. correspondent.

The Mikado is the name of the operetta this year to be sponsored by the Students' Council. Although all the parts have not been chosen some of the students taking lead parts are Bob Leech, Scott Davidson, Jim Litter, Peter Smith, John Grondin, Beth McIntyre, Gail Bishop, Sharon Edwards and Jeanine Bertrand.

VOLLEYBALL PRACTICES — Volleyball practices have started at the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School. The practices are to be held on a girls' and boys' team to represent A.D.S. and the annual volleyball tournament in November.

Election campaigns begin

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

The Sherbrooke district will experience its first week-end of election campaigning for the Nov. 14 provincial vote with party conventions being held by the Liberals of Stanstead and the Union Nationale in Compton.

Tonight a general meeting of the Stanstead County Liberal Association will be held at the Msgr. Durand School in Coaticook for the purpose of selecting a candidate.

The gathering is regarded as something of a formality as no opposition is apparent for Georges Vaillancourt, of Coaticook, who has represented the county in the Liberal interests since 1960. But the convention will serve as a kick-off for the Liberal campaign in that riding, with a number of speakers being scheduled to address the public meeting which follows the formal convention.

Union Nationale supporters in Compton have scheduled a great rally for Sunday evening at East Angus when they will offer the candidacy to Claude Gosselin, MLA for the past five years.

This gathering, too, will serve to open the campaign, with a public meeting in the parish hall at eight.

The Compton Social Credit convention, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until a later date, the county organization has announced.

In other E.T. constituencies the parties are marking time, although Sherbrooke County Liberal

Two names most prominently mentioned for the Sherbrooke Liberal nomination are Marcel Boivin, former MP, and Guy Genest, a Waterloo attorney, both of whom have indicated their willingness to come before the convention.

In Stanstead County, the Union Nationale convention may be held late next week, with Roland Dionne, of Magog, favored for the nomination.

City awaiting answer to golf club letter

Sherbrooke's city lawyer, Albert Rivard, said Friday he is still awaiting the Sherbrooke County Club's answer to his letter insisting they comply with the agreement they signed to keep the Vermont Street exit from the club closed.

Mr. Rivard did not say what legal action he would take if the city did not obtain satisfaction from the club.

The letter went out, he said, Thursday after Monday's city council meeting heard a new report that the exit was still in use. Having several times asked for the closing of the exit, which Mr. Rivard says Vermont Street residents want eliminated, council placed the matter in the lawyer's hands.

"I have heard that there is a notice posted on the golf club bulletin board telling members to leave by Vermont Street," said Mr. Rivard, "so I do not think the use of the exit can be without the permission of the club."

The legal status of the written agreement to close the exit, signed by the club and the city, would be raised by a new refusal to close, said Mr. Rivard.

Practical use of color films discussed

Last week, we discussed the different types of color film available to the photographer. This was mostly a technical analysis.

Today, however, we will try to understand these films in the film's capability.

The contrast in color pictures is not the result of light conditions but in the color contrast of the scene photographed. Just for an illustration, let us visualize hazy sun conditions. The sun is veiled by a layer of thin cloud and yet is still visible and in the scene below in this light, we have picked for our subject, a large maple in beautiful hues of red and gold. Remember that our principle subject will contrast with the various greens of the grass. Beyond this perhaps lies a field of tall grass which is perhaps tan or sand colored and in the distance is a backdrop of hills or mountains in a soft pastel haze of purple and blues.

Under such lighting conditions you have the separation of your subject. The tree and the color present in the leaves will give you contrast against the greens of the grass. And with this type of light you get good color rendition in the shadows.

The mood of the scene has been set and your color film will record this faithfully and when viewing the slide or print you will have a sense of Fall. You will almost be able to touch those enjoyable days before Winter. In all its beauty one can almost smell the dried leaves and the smoke from woodfires already lit to warm the house on those cool Fall evenings.

FALL BOATING — The scenery becomes a colorful panorama just about this time of the year and by taking along your camera you'll be able to obtain many a fine shot. Colors reflecting in the water and autumn splendor in the hills make breathtaking color shots. Taken with a Rollicord camera, F11, 1/250th of a second. (Record photo by Doug Gerrish)

Aided by Community Chest

Seek building for Scouts' camp

This is the fourth in a series of articles on organizations and services which operate with the help of the financial assistance they receive from contributions to the Sherbrooke area Community Chest Campaign. This year's drive runs from October 9 to 29.

By JAMES DAVIES
(Record Staff Reporter)

The construction of a two story permanent structure at their Lake Lovering camping grounds to be used by the Cubs on overnight hikes is the principal project contemplated for the future by the officials of the Sherbrooke District Council of the Boy Scouts.

In a recent interview with the District Commissioner Percy Gray and Stan Lothrop, president of the Sherbrooke Scouts Council, they revealed to The Record that one of the major concerns of the Sherbrooke area Scout movement at the present time is the absence of facilities that could permit the Cubs to draw up an overnight hiking program.

If the contemplated permanent building at Lake Lovering could materialize then the youngsters would have a comfortable shelter to accommodate them.

What is visualized for the future is not the construction of elaborate sleeping quarters but rather the building of a $5,000 shelter that would provide the Cubs with a place to lay out their sleeping gear.

However, the one problem confronting the association and the one which prevents the project from getting off the ground is a painfully recurrent one — the lack of money.

One probable solution to their difficulties suggested by the two Scout officials was the possibility of saving $1,000 each year over a period of five years.

This $5,000, they feel, is sufficient funds to cover the expense of the construction. However, the association's only source of money is the Community Chest Campaign, and unless it is exceptionally successful they will not be able to accumulate the funds. They are keeping their fingers crossed.

In addition to their long range plans for a building, the association's immediate plans centre on the celebration of their 50th anniversary at Lake Lovering from Oct. 5 to Oct. 7.

This Camporee will be a three day camping session for 300 to 400 Scouts during which time they will be permitted to invite their parents to tour the 65 acre camp site and familiarize themselves with some of the activities.

Guest at the camporee will be Maj-General D. C. Spry, director of the Boy Scouts' World International Bureau.

The Scouting organization in the Sherbrooke area is continuously expanding and the two Scout officials were optimistic about the future of Scouting in the district.

Last year, as an indication of the growing popularity of the movement, three new troops were added to the existing 11 ones.

Around the campus

at Bishop's

By JEFF GARLICK
(Special to The Record)

With September here Bishop's campus is once more swarming with bearded freshmen, honking as they turn corners and chanting the Alma Mater.

Enrolment has passed the half-thousand mark as 180 fresh swell the numbers to 528. This represents an 18% increase over last year, due to the greater number of admissions and the relatively low 10% failure rate.

Hazing or freshman initiation, long on the decline, has finally died. President of Second Year, Brian Arnott, has replaced it with a constructive introduction program. Most are glad to see this unpopular, and sometimes barbaric practice disappear, especially the frosh.

Bishop's French-Canadian neighbor, University of Sherbrooke, has been host this week to the 26th National Congress of the National Federation of Canadian University Students (NFCUS). One hundred and forty delegates, including David Williams, David Smith and Don Cochrane from Bishop's, are attending this legislative assembly of the national student body.

SPORTS

In the athletics department, things got underway early, as prospective football talent returned to train before the start of lectures. Head coach Bruce Coulter, assisted by John McClellan and Charley Warner, are pleased with the efforts to date, but refuse to make any predictions. Gaitsers open their season in Sherbrooke Municipal Stadium next Thursday against University of Sherbrooke, as the Green and Gold enter their first year of Ottawa-St. Lawrence league play.

TREASURE VAN

Treasure Van will be in town October 1, 2 and 3 at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. This project is sponsored by the World University Service of Canada (WUSC) and is designed to raise funds for aid to foreign students. Exotic articles ranging from shrunken heads to wineskins (always the most popular item) will go on sale Monday at 3 p.m., with stalls open for business on Tuesday and Wednesday from 11-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. The local WUSC committee will be trying hard to break last year's record for sales of $1,700.

DRAMATICS

In the dramatics department, casting has taken place for the minor plays to be presented this term. President Bob Harlow seems well-satisfied with the actors chosen and with his student directors.

STORE

Bishop's students, in an effort to cut the costs of university education, have taken over, to some extent, the sale of textbooks. These are purchased by the Biology Club, direct from the publishers, and sold to students at very reasonable rates. Another innovation in this line is the council store, operated by Store Manager Ross Paul. Pocketbooks, paper, clipboards and other such equipment are available at near-cost prices.

DEBATING

Debating is also getting up steam with workshops to train the uninitiated. Bishop's annual debating tournament, in competition for the Hart Trophy, will take place on October 26 and 27. Tournament Chairman Dave Smith will send invitations to every university in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. The topic for debate is "Resolved that university education be free of charge."

TRIP

The Canterbury Club, an Anglican student organization, has planned to spend this weekend at Quebec Lodge, on Lake Massawippi. Buses leave Saturday morning and will return Sunday night.

PUBLICATIONS

In publication circles, the first issue of The Campus, Bishop's weekly newspaper, will hit the streets Wednesday night. Ann Thompson, Editor of Bishop's literary magazine, The Mitre, is soliciting submissions for the November issue.

Jewish community marks New Year

The Jewish community in Sherbrooke and the world over Friday began their New Year 5723 of the Hebrew calendar and at the same time began observing those Ten Penitential Days during which they examine their moral and religious state, repent of past feelings, and pray to God for forgiveness, said Rabbi Abraham Lieberman, of the Sherbrooke Synagogue.

Rosh Hashana (New Year) is the first two days during which time the Jews repent and resolve to improve during the coming year. It is on this occasion that God judges them, said Rabbi Lieberman, and decides what course a person's life will follow in the coming year. On Rosh Hashana the Shofar (ram's horn) is blown to usher in the new year and to arouse in the people the desire to follow those laws revealed at Sinai.

One of the symbolic rituals performed on Rosh Hashana is the eating of a sweet fruit symbolizing the hope of a coming "sweet" year. The religious ceremony on Rosh Hashana lasts for five hours, and will be held at the "edifice" Fri. Sat., Sun., at 8:30 a.m. with the Shofar being sounded at 10:30 Sunday morning.

Yom Kippur, or the "Sabbath of Sabbaths," is the tenth and most holy of days during the year for the Jews. On Yom Kippur, God, according to the Jewish tradition, signs the book on which he has written His Judgment on Rosh Hashana. Yom Kippur is a day that the Jews fast and refrain from most material pleasures.

Religious services on Yom Kippur last all day from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. On Yom Kippur the end of the Ten Solemn Days is marked by the blast of the Shofar.

Other important Jewish holy days during October is the festival of Succoth. This ceremony lasts for nine days and its purpose is to commemorate the exodus of the Jews from Egypt about 3000 years ago.

Among the rituals of the holiday are the eating in succoths which are small booths with a thatched roof in imitation of the booths used by the Jews on their departure from Egypt. On the ninth day, the reading of the Torah is completed for the outgoing year and the new reading is begun. Succoth services for this year will be held as follows: Oct. 12 and 13 at 6:15 p.m.; Oct. 13 and 14 at 9:00 a.m.; Oct. 19 and 20 at 6:15 p.m.; and Oct. 20 and 21 at 9:00 a.m.

One South African student, Adrian Leftwich, president of the National Union of South African students, has already been imprisoned under this law for his writings against apartheid.

The motion was passed unanimously, except for Memorial University. The Newfoundland institution refused to explain to the plenary session the reasons for their decision. Later, however, in a statement to the press they outlined the following reasons:

• Such a move, coming from a student organization, would bring harmful repercussions to the South African students from their government.

• A blockade of this sort, in actuality, would have no dire economic effects. The USSR would likely step in and be willing to take up the excess trade. This would then contribute to the furthering of Communist aims.

Suppose, for example, that Canada were to place an embargo on South African diamonds. This would mean our purchases would have to be made from Amsterdam, whose diamonds come from Johannesburg anyway. There would be no hardship for South Africa, but a rise in the price of diamonds in Canada.

The position of Education Information Officer is a newly-created one. Mr. Cochrane's duties will include the implementation of high-school speaking tours on the local level, in an attempt to acquaint high school students with the opportunities and availability of higher education.

Mr. Cochrane will also act as liaison for NFCUS with such organizations as the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the National Film Board and the Canadian University Foundation.

During the past year, NFCUS had drawn up a charter of Student Rights and Responsibilities. In a close vote, it was decided to table this document until next year, in order to allow time for student councils of the various universities to familiarize themselves with it.

RIGHT GOVERNMENT MUST BEGIN WITH GOD.

LECTURER DECLARES

How scientific progress enables each individual to make a really positive contribution toward the establishment of better government, locally, nationally and internationally, was discussed by a Christian Science lecturer in an address prepared for delivery in Victoria Hall, Westmount, on Monday evening, September 24.

The speaker, Charles Louis Reilly of Los Angeles, is a member of The Christian Science Board of Lecturers.

Mr. Reilly noted that there are millions of sincere people who recognize the need for individual responsibility in working for secure and honest government; but he thought a great many of them just don't know what they can do about it.

The starting point, Mr. Reilly stressed, must be clearer understanding of the basic principle that true government begins with God. "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people, will never become an accomplished fact," he declared, "except at it arises from a people self-disciplined under God. We all need to seek carefully God's government in human affairs." Mr. Reilly's lecture was sponsored by First Church of Christ's, Scientist, Westmount.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. Thomas Elliott, were his two daughters, Mrs. J. S. Macfarlane of Stratford, Conn., and Mrs. C. C. MacCallum of Simsbury, Conn.

Mrs. R. Ryan, Montreal, has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Ida Holbrook, Bank Street, also Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood Cookman spent a weekend at the same home, visiting Mrs. Cookman's mother, Mrs. Holbrook, and calling on other friends.

Through a clerical error on the part of the management of the Park Plaza Hotel, Toronto, a social item appeared in this column recently, worded, "Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Dollansky, Gordon Street, have been recent guests at Toronto's Park Plaza." This should have read, just "Mr. Dollansky," as he was unaccompanied.

VEECK—AS IN WRECK

VEECK—AS IN WRECK by Bill Veeck with Ed Linn, Putnam's, 380 pp.

This book is the biography or autobiography (depending upon how much of it was written by Veeck and how much by his collaborator) of Bill Veeck, the controversial ex-owner of the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox.

As a sports enthusiast I have read literally dozens of books on sports in general and baseball in particular, and this is one of the two best ones.

Veeck was most unpopular with the majority of the bigwigs of baseball and correspondingly popular with players and fans. This book will be welcomed by baseball's brass in just about the same manner that The Ugly American was received by the U.S. State Department.

As an example of the punches he throws, here is one of his statements about Ford Frick, the Commissioner of Baseball: "Let us be fair. Ford Frick does not try to do the wrong thing. Given the choice between doing something right or something wrong, Frick will usually begin by doing as little as possible."

The book tells the fantastic story of a man who rose from an $18-a-week office job in the Chicago Cubs organization to the ownership of two different major league baseball teams, each of which moved from the second division to a pennant under his leadership.

Here is a man who fought an unending (and successful) battle against stuffed shirts inside and outside baseball. He believed, as a baseball owner, that baseball was meant to be fun and he conducted his baseball teams in this way and so trod on the toes of tradition.

The book is written in an easy and forthright manner. It is informative, witty, interesting, and easy to read. Most sports lovers will like the book, all baseball fans will love it, and a great many non-sports readers will enjoy it.

LIBERTY SILVER DOLLAR: "I have a 1922 Liberty Silver Dollar of the United States in good condition. Is it worth very much?" — R.Z.

There is no premium on a 1922 United States Silver Dollar which has been in circulation. There were over 83,000,000 silver dollars minted in 1922 and there must be thousands in circulation. At the World's Fair in Seattle there is an exhibit of 1,000,000 United States silver dollars of various dates.

U. S. GOLD DOLLAR:

"Kindly tell me the value of a U.S. gold dollar 1864, also Upper Canada token one penny 1857." — Mrs. N.P.M.

If this gold coin is not worn it should be worth around $75.00. The mintage was less than 6,000. This plus the fact the gold dollar being such a small coin would be easily lost, has made this a scarce coin. However, the Upper Canada tokens of 1852 and 1857 are not at all scarce and are worth from about 40c.

Medical research appeal made tempting for young

THE CURE SEARCHERS by Max Braithwaite, Ryerson Press, 173 pp., $3.75.

This is a story of medical research, written for youngsters, perhaps in the home of enticing them into that field. It is written most simply, conversationally, and briefly, so it is the sort of book that boys and girls may easily be persuaded to read.

Its place is on the shelf of a school library, in the vocational guidance section, where it may justly prove to be very popular.

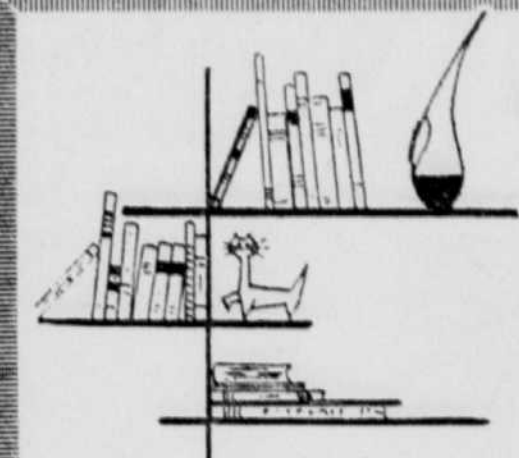

The Cure Searchers is one of a series of books that the Ryerson Press is undertaking to publish. There are other titles on other subjects now available, with more to come. These are Canadian books, and the Ryerson Press people are to be commended for their enterprise in publishing them. A comparable series has appeared in the U.S., but these books from Ryerson are far more suitable for young Canadian readers, simply because they are written for and about them, as Canadians, not their American counterparts.

The story in The Cure Searchers is that of a research professor and his family, with special reference to his 14-year-old son; their ups and downs and hopes and discouragements.

The way in which the son's impatience and rebellion change to respect and understanding is told convincingly and without sentiment. Altogether, this is a good book to recommend, particularly to librarians but also to anyone who has access to high school readers.

By GLADYS TAYLOR

The Very Rev. George Dorey, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada wrote in a foreword to HISTORICAL SKETCHES OF THE CHURCHES IN THE COWANSVILLE-DUNHAM PASTORAL CHARGE (a new book by Ruby G. Moore.)

"To gather up the records of the past is not only an interesting occupation but work of truly national import... Canada may be a relatively new country but we have already developed some roots of which we should be aware... Mrs. Moore and those associated with her are to be commended for bringing to us the story of the early days in the churches of Cowansville and its neighboring communities..."

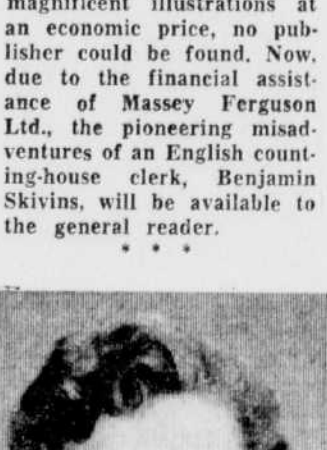

There is little I can add to Mr. Dorey's deserved tribute to Mrs. Moore for her work except to say that I am sure many in the Eastern Townships will find this attractively set-up book a storehouse of information and nostalgia.

Not only the present but all future generations of this area owe Ruby Moore — and many like her who are giving of their time, talent and energy in the preserving of local history — a great debt of gratitude.

Mrs. Thelma Reid Lower, who recently made a trip across Canada in search of material for a poetry anthology which she is compiling, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Vancouver Branch of the Canadian Authors Association.

A book that has waited more than sixty years for a publisher finally appears this month. THE MIGRATION OF SKIVINS (MACMILLAN OF CANADA) was produced at the turn of the century by John Francis Wilson, a farmer living in Manitoba, but because it was impossible to reproduce the magnificent illustrations at an economic price, no publisher could be found. Now, due to the financial assistance of Massey Ferguson Ltd., the pioneering misadventures of an English counting-house clerk, Benjamin Skivins, will be available to the general reader.

Drury paints new political panorama

A SHADE OF DIFFERENCE by Allen Drury, Doubleday, 603 pp., $7.95.

After nearly a week in the company of Mr. Drury and his friends in and around the White House and in the corridors of the United Nations, one can never again be quite the same. In the intervals of work and other activities it will take most people six or seven days to get through the 600 pages of this novel. If they read it with any care they can hardly fail to respond to the easy style, the humour and pathos and the sense of great issues that the author deploys so abundantly, and be moved by it all.

The main locus of the story is the United Nations building on Turtle Bay, New York, with off-stage noises in Washington, and the plot revolves round a kind of dialectical "putsch" organized by His Royal Highness the M'bulu of Mbulu, from Gorotoland, otherwise and inconspicuously known as Terrible Terry. Gorotoland at this time is a British dependency, under sentence to receive its independence in a year's time, but Terrible Terry seizes the opportunity offered by the meeting of the Assembly first to put pressure on the British to grant independence NOW, regardless of the consequences, and second, to use the color-race issue to give himself one crowded hour of glorious life on the world stage by making a monkey out of the United States.

He also believes in having himself a ball at other and more intimate levels, aided in particular by the shrewish wife of the U.S. Representative from California.

The suave M'bulu gains all his objectives with brilliant success. The frenzy of race bitterness is fully exploited; the President, Congress, and people of the United States thoroughly humiliated; and the United Nations, its Secretary-General, its Charter, and its procedures, reduced to a bear garden.

But Mr. Drury is not a cynic, not merely a reporter, though he is thoroughly familiar with both roles. The fact that an extract from Senator Fry's last speech to the General Assembly is printed before the table of contents — like a homiletic next — suggests that Mr. Drury is in fact an idealist.

It is his idealism that makes this story of human frailty bearable, and through the mouths of Harley Hudson, the U.S. President, Senator Hal Fry, Cullie Hamilton, the Negro representative from California, and others, he is not afraid to declare his convictions.

Senator Fry is stricken with leukemia and when he rises to speak — he had already collapsed once — for the last time, he knew that in a matter of days he would be dead. Thus, he says, "I have no more axes to grind in this world... The disease I have is leukemia. No votes can be changed on that... Everything is over — for me."

From this advantage point the appeals in old-fashioned (or what one of the newspaper men would call "corny") words: "Let us love one another." If we don't, mankind, which stands on the brink of utter disaster will be lost, for "Who will save us, if we do not save ourselves?"

But if Mr. Drury is an idealist he is certainly not a romantic.

The vehicle of his story is the United Nations and anyone who has not worked in that organization and is interested in its fate — and who can not be — can learn much from these pages about it: the confusion of tongues and motives, the baseness and nobility, the hurry and clamour and misunderstandings, the sarcasm and unscrupulousness, the courage and naïveté and patient diligence, the ceaseless talk and relentless intrigue, private and political, the "crowded elevators," the "heavy accents" of the young lady at the telephone desk calling delegates to official lounge, the cold-blooded chatter of the newspaper correspondents — all in the glossy smooth, Babylonian grandeur of the gleaming structure on the East River.

This and much more is the mise-en-scene of A Shade of Difference. On canvas it would resemble a giant mural by Correggio or Canaletto in The Last Judgment or the Fall of Man, infinitely complex and crowded to the edges with the writhing antics of homo sapiens.

The vast scene is not merely a spectacle of human passions and conflicting ideas. Mr. Drury has a strong sense of character, and after 600 pages one gets to know intimately the polite but cutting Lord Maudulayne from the United Kingdom, the coolly sceptical ambassador from France, the "jolly" M'bulu, the calculating Felix Labaiya from the Philippines, the tortured but heroic Cullie Hamilton and the scores of others milling about the corridors.

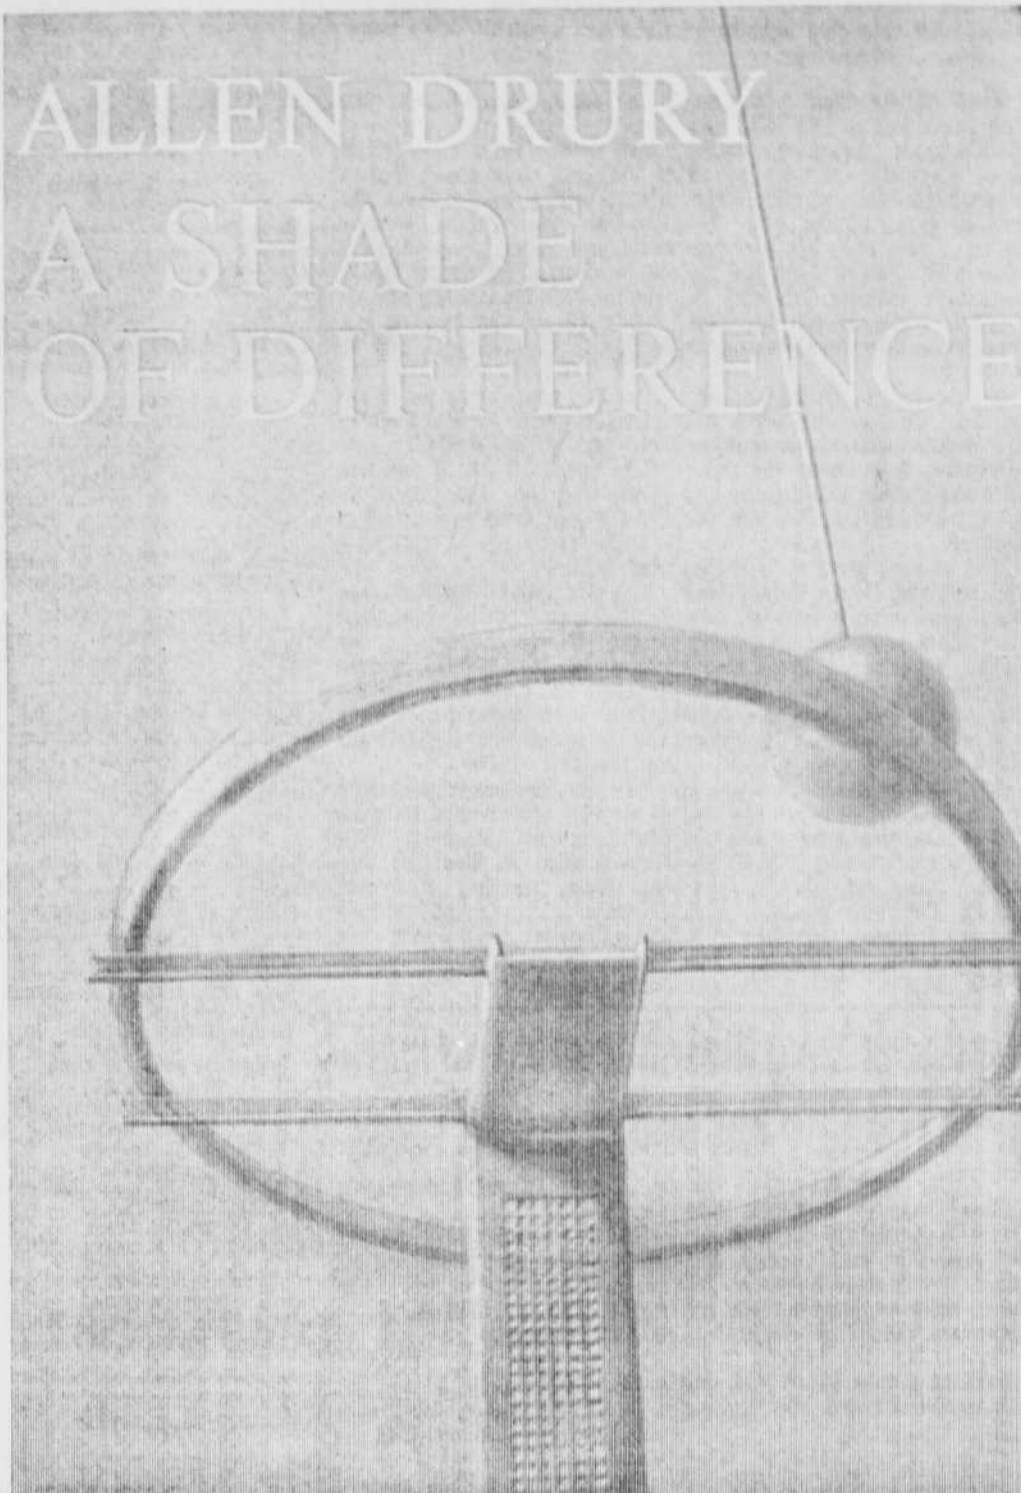

However despite his uneasiness in the romance department, he manages to tell a story so mirth-provoking, so achey-sweet, so mist-on-the-river beautiful that you put down the book with regret.

It is good to have W. O. Mitchell safely ensconced in High River, periodically turning out such thoroughly captivating books.

One of the best vignettes is done on Maudie, Hamilton's coloured maid, whose appearance with hot food and good drink at critical moments, mixed with her shrewd philosophy, takes so much of the intolerable tension out of the dreadful dilemma of her master.

When a novelist tells a good story, with great dramatic skill and insight, peoples it with human beings, and bases it on vast world issues, he may be said to have done much of what a good novel demands. I would say that Mr. Drury has done just this. For some the book will be too long, with too much background, flashbacks and repetition, and in parts lacking in pace. Also it lacks subtlety. It is more like a remarkable photograph blown up to world size than the transmuted interpretation of artistic creation. This is another kind of work. It is not the medium of the author of Advice and Consent or A Shade of Difference. But one can't have everything, and in this volume Mr. Drury has packed more than one reading alone will disclose.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

HEROIC MUSIC FOR ORGAN BRASS AND PERCUSSION: Trumpet voluntaries, tunes, airs and marches of Purcell, Handel, Croft and Clarke and the heroic music of George Philipp Telemann; E. Power Biggs, organist; the New England Brass Ensemble (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6354) — The brilliant sounds on this recording provide a good test — if any is needed — of the listener's stereo equipment. Musically, the combination of organ, brass and percussion, as applied to the baroque compositions of Clarke, Handel, Purcell and Telemann makes for pleasant listening. The works are short and tuneful, and for the most part, brash and peppy. The musicians suit mood to music.

STRAVINSKY: The Flood; the Columbia Symphony Orchestra and chorus cond. by Igor Stravinsky and Robert Craft; Mass; the Columbia Symphony woodwinds and chorus, conducted by Igor Stravinsky (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6357) — It was inevitable that television should produce serious music even as the motion picture has. The Flood, a dance drama, was telecast June 14, 1962. Divorced from its visual aspects as it is on this recording, it becomes a spare, intense musical drama, perhaps in need of some amplification since it is freed from the inexorable time limitations of TV production.

The mass is a lovely serene work with a fragile quality to it. Unpretentious in character, its performance is marked by moderation and sweetness.

Orwell's powerful view of 1930 and its 'isms'

THE ROAD TO WIGAN PIER by George Orwell, Penguin Books, 204 pp., 60c

The first half of The Road to Wigan Pier is a series of informative essays on condition in the mining areas in England during the 30's; the second half deals with man, socialism, communism, present (the 30's) day democracy and their effects, practical and theoretical.

The author has the ability to see "isms" and "cues" quite objectively and he spares us neither his good nor his bad opinion of either, though he writes, "... perhaps this misery of class-prejudice will fade away, and we of the sinking middle-class... may sink without further struggles into the working class where we belong, and probably when we get there it will not be so dreadful as we feared, for, after all, we have nothing to lose but our aitch." For he believes that socialism in spite of its faults can cure the ills from which the middle-class suffers.

Orwell is a powerful writer; in chapter one the reader will positively smell the odours in the boarding house where the author lived for a time while gathering material for some of his essays, and will experience, with the author, the dangers and difficulties attendant upon the literal getting to and from any particular section within the bowels of the mines, and will understand the heartbreak — and pleasures — of mining life.

Though the past fifteen years may have seen a good many reforms, The Road to Wigan Pier is a book well worth reading for anyone who has an interest in the need for social changes.

Well-cooked 'stew' of children's fare

RUBABOO, Stories for Young Canada, W. J. Gage Ltd., 203 pp., $4.00.

The title "Rubaboo" comes from the Indian word meaning stew, and the book has a mixture of contents which comes out as a pretty good addition to the reading diet of young Canadians from about nine years up.

There are 15 stories, six poems, two articles, one actable play, and two articles. About half the stories are personal experiences and childhood reminiscence. The others are Indian, Eskimo and animal stories. The play is science fiction and the poems are on varied Canadian themes. The two articles make a welcome change in this type of book.

There is a certain freshness and vigour about most of the writing and the recognizably Canadian scene is a relief in a sea of Americana.

This is a good book for gifts or for prizes and awards.

Stories, some satisfactory, some rose-pink

BOOKS by Murray McLean, Simon and Schuster, $2.25.

"This is a one-of-a-kind book," say the authors.

It does have delightful rose-pink illustrations — and one word reminders of many hours of reading pleasure — hours which have been enjoyed by parents and may be enjoyed by children.

However the book has only a tenuous charm, which may escape the more robust-minded child unless he has been tamed by a sick-bed or made immobile by rain.

Not for every taste.

INJURIES TAKING HEAVY TOLL OF QUARTERBACKS
Judging from injuries to football quarterbacks one gets the impression it is open hunting on signal callers. The latest to join the over-crowded ranks is Don Getty of the Eskimos. He is their second Q.B. to be put out of action. Parker was injured on Labor Day and is still ailing.

Knees seem to be the prime targets for the big line-men and a lot of injuries come away with such tactics. A player is stopped, and two or three jump him although he is motionless and the whistle has gone.

We think the referees are to blame for a lot of this uncalled roughness. Once in a while they call a roughing penalty but before they do they let ten or twelve infractions go uncalled.

The case of Clark of the Als is a good example and we don't blame Perry Moss for sounding off in this case. We think he had a perfect reason for doing so. The refereeing in the East has been just plain lousy. The ump's at times seem lost when it comes to calling infractions and pacing off the yardage. In fact they even go the wrong way.

The Als have been hard hit by the injury jinx and they lost two more Thursday. If it doesn't stop pretty soon we don't know where the Als will be able to get players. It is a new lineup each game which means reshuffling a complete team.

Coach Moss and his Als did well in holding the Bombers as they did Thursday considering the number of men out. They lost Ron Brewer with a broken ankle and centre Joe Stracina with an injured knee to raise the number to nine on the injured list.

With Getty and Parker both out for the Eskos Coach Eagle Keys is forced to throw in Jim Walden, a castoff from Als, to fill the breach.

The Ticats lost Bernie Faloney, who had an operation on his knee Wednesday, and have been using Frank Costantino, a Canadian, at the important spot. They may use rookie import Bob Zuger, who has been playing on defense, as a replacement.

Following this rash of injuries, perhaps the teams will get after the officials but so far Perry Moss is the only one who has sounded off. Maybe Jungle Jim will voice his opinion now. It will be interesting to see how many will get hurt on the weekend.

Avery Brundage, I.O.C. president, is at it again. The I.O.C. mandate, just released, aims to wipe out half of the American Olympic squad by banning subsidized athletes as well as "state amateurs" such as in Soviet Russia and satellites.

If Mr. Brundage continues this sort of action we wonder where he will get the athletes to compete in his famous Olympics. Everybody will be banned. We know he is an iron-fisted champion of amateurism but one must use a little sense in the matter.

The mandate drew quick rebuttal from the U.S. Olympic committee and the NCAA. They claim if athletes can measure up to the rules set down to enter colleges then they can qualify for the Olympics. The NCAA is very strict on special scholarships to athletes and can meet the special Olympic oath.

The Sherbrooke Beavers opened the season's activities with the signing of veteran defenseman Bert Bourassa. He is the first to agree to terms with Coach Gilles Dube.

The local member has been scouting around the country for the past few weeks in an effort to line up new material and from reports it seems he has landed some pretty good boys. No names have been released as yet as Coach Dube will wait until the training camp opens.

The sale of season tickets has started and Al Caplan, vice-president of the club, has been put in charge of this department by President Ivan Dugre with Paul Blouin and Roger Bourgault as co-workers. Holders of last year tickets are asked to contact any of the three for their reservations.

The Harness Racing Institute of America has just released a new guide to Harness Racing, 1962, which all racing fans should secure and glance through for some detailed information on the sport. It would be a big help and at the same time would help instruct fans on the game.

It gives the history of harness racing and explains the language of the sport. At the same time it explains how to pick a winner and how to read past performances which would be a big help to all interested in the game.

Charters-Worth win Serpentine Rally sponsored by E.T. Motor Club, ten teams take part in 254-mile event Provisional results for the Serpentine Rally, a Regional Championship event organized by the Eastern Townships Motor Club, were released today. The standings show the team taking 3 of the first 4 places, and the Team Prize as well, with a total of 26 points. Winners of the Canadian Johns-Manville trophy, were John Charters and Ian Worth of the Renault Team, who managed to complete the 254 mile route, and 19 time controls with a loss of only 4 points. Following close behind in 2nd place, with a score of 7 points, were teammates Sam Nordell and Robin Edwards. The third crew of this Renault Team that has been sweeping all before them this year, Grant McLean and D. Gallop, finished in 4th spot with 15 points.

Two E.T.M.C. crews rounded out the first 5 places with Ken Perkins and Ken Christie in 3rd place with 14 points and Joyce Strew and Martha MacDonald in 5th with 23 points. Although this was the first attempt by E.T.M.C. in organizing an event of this calibre, it in no way resembled an initial effort. All phases of the event showed a polish that would be envied by many a far more experienced club. Accurate instructions, thoughtfully placed controls, interesting route and knowledgeable marshalling all

C-2 Pace main event on weekend racing card

Grand Wil draws pole position in big class Sunday afternoon with two C-3 races. Claing suspended Sherbrooke Racing Club has come up with another top weekend card at the local track. Andre Olney, secretary, has a full list with a total of 160 horses competing on Saturday and Sunday's card. Every race has eight starters as well as several eligibles.

A few new stables will be making their appearance to add to the ever-increasing ranks of new entries. The racing secretary has been in contact with new stables the past couple of weeks and now that accommodations are available they have commenced to move in.

Rene Claing drew a suspension from the judges following Wednesday's program while three other drivers were issued severe ultimatums regarding careless driving. Claing drew his enforced rest after his performance with Prince Lou for inconsistent driving. He won in 2:11 1/5 when in his previous race he was clocked seventh in 2:16 4/5.

This evening eight paces are on the card with two trots. All are straight classes. On Sunday afternoon it is about the same with the pacers holding the top hand with eight to two for the trotters.

The classes seem well balanced and the fans should see some good races before the winners cross the wire. All classes, both programs, are single dashes. This tends towards making better racing as the drivers must go all out as they don't get a second chance.

On Sunday the main event is a C-2 pace while there are two C-3 events, one a pace and the other a trot. Grand Wil, K. Heagan's American entry, has drawn the pole position with Sammy Herbert, Gee Dee Frisco, Flagman, one of the favorites, Mighty Gerry C and Tony Clapp completing the class.

This should be a close affair as the last time these horses met it was a battle from the wire to the finish. Gordon Adamson's young Tony Clapp is one who must be given strong consideration for the top money. Tony Clapp was second last Sunday in 2:06 2/5 followed by Grand Wil and Flagman. Indirect Boy topped the event but Claing refused to make entry since he is suspended. Kate Peters was fifth while Gee Dee Frisco won the C-3 Pace in 2:09 3/5 and drew a promotion. It looks as though it will be a hard battle.

The C-3 Trot is the first race Sunday with eight starters. Last Sunday Candy C emerged the winner in 2:11 while Prince Gerry C was a close second. Sir Arthur Volo won Sunday in 2:13 1/5 which puts together the trot trotters.

The C-3 Pace has a good class of starters and should be close duel, Eveana, Bartlett Hanover, Prince E. Grattan, Success Tess, Laurina Rosecroft, Eldora's Irishman and Mervin Hall comprise the event and anyone is capable of pacing home the winner.

Dodgers have their backs to the wall, time running out and pressure rising

By BOB GREEN
Los Angeles Dodgers, who were supposed to have things all locked up last Monday, suddenly have their backs to the wall, time running out and the pressure mounting hourly.

It was Monday that the Dodgers held a four game lead and an apparent lock on the National League pennant.

Since then, however, Walt Alston's suddenly faltering heroes have lost four of five, San Francisco has grabbed three of four and the difference is only 1 1/2 games.

Two nights in a row now the Dodgers have blown a chance to clinch at least a tie for the No. 1 spot. All they had to do was win. Each time they lost. Friday night the margin was 3-2 in 10 innings. San Francisco was rained out in its game with Houston and faces a twin bill with the Colts today and a final windup game Sunday.

Los Angeles has two left, both against the tough Cards. The situation remains the same: A Dodger victory or a Giant loss gives the Dodgers at least a share of the top spot, any combination of Dodger victories and Giant losses totalling two gives the pennant to the Dodgers.

For San Francisco to win, it would take three Giant victories and two Dodger losses. For the Giants to tie, they must win at least two, and the Dodgers lose two.

Charles James was the chief tormentor of the stricken Dodgers Friday night, driving in the winning run with a two-out single in the 10th off Ron Perranoski. It was the eighth loss in 11 games for Los Angeles.

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees came from behind in the seventh inning and beat Chicago White Sox and 42-year-old Early Wynn 7-3, spoiling Wynn's third bid for his 300th career victory.

In the other games, Minnesota clinched at least a tie for second place in the American League with an 11-5 rout of Baltimore. Detroit whipped Kansas City 7-3, Chicago Cubs beat New York's Mets 3-2, Pittsburgh stopped Milwaukee 8-2 on Bob Veale's three-hit pitching.

Rocky Colavito and Al Kaline each hit two-run homers, Colavito's 37th and Kaline's 29th, in the Tiger victory over the As. The game was called in the seventh because of rain, and drew the smallest major league crowd of the season, 588.

Veale, a left-hander recently called up from Columbus, had a no-hitter going through 6 1/3 innings for Pittsburgh before allowing a double and two singles. Don Clendenen drove in five Pirate runs with a homer, a double and a single.

Bob Will's two-run pinch double was the big blow for the Cubs as the Mets lost their 119th. Cincinnati jammed in seven runs on 10 hits in the first three innings, then coasted in against Philadelphia.

York Rangers defeated Seattle Totems of the WHL 7-3 at Seattle.

Bruins, who have won only 30 of 140 games in the last two seasons while finishing a poor last, are the only NHL team beaten by a minor league team in the pre-season schedule.

Hull-Ottawa also gave them their lumps. And Bruins had to b sharp with three last-period goals to defeat the EPHL Kingston Frontenacs 4-3 this week.

In the only AHL exhibition Friday night, Buffalo Bisons dropped their fourth game in five starts, a 4-2 loss to the defending champion Springfield Indians at Welland.

Halter puts ban on PA boys as cheerleaders

WINNIPEG (CP) — Commissioner G. Sydney Halter of the Canadian Football League does not want public address announcers at football games to become cheerleaders.

During the fourth quarter of a game between Montreal Alouettes and Winnipeg Blue Bombers here Thursday night announcer Hal Perry suggested to the fans that clapping would keep them warm. On the next play Winnipeg's Roger Hagberg ran for 64 yards and Perry told the crowd it was remarkable what a little clapping could do.

Halter, sitting in the press box, immediately registered a complaint. Halter told Perry he wanted no more cheerleading.

PA announcers, as game of officials, come under the commissioner's jurisdiction.

MISSSES BEG TEAM — Nancy McCredie, 17-year-old southpaw athlete from Brampton, Ont., missed a place on Canada's British Empire Games team although earlier this year she set a Canadian senior women's record with a discus throw of 151 feet, three inches. Miss McCredie, who took to discus and shot put seriously only six months ago, set the Canadian mark at the Canadian Age-Class championships but her best discus distance at the BEG trials was 140 feet, 5 1/2 inches. Riders at home to Ticats today

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders, a football club which has got out of the habit of winning games lately, gets its second chance of the season today to try to topple the proud Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Lansdowne Park here.

With only six games to play, the contest kickoff at 2 p.m. EDT is being billed here as a key encounter which may settle whether the Rough Riders can slip past the league-leading Ticats into the top spot of the Eastern Football Conference and thus earn the coveted bye into the final of the playoffs.

At present Riders trail the Hamilton club by three points and if they win today it's possible the battle will go right down to the wire when the two clubs meet in Hamilton the last day of the regular season, Sunday, Nov. 4.

St. Francis Xavier are underdogs in their meet with McGill Redmen

By BRUCE STOVEL
MONTREAL (CP) — St. Francis Xavier, a team with a string of 32 straight victories since 1950 in Maritime college football, are underdogs for their clash with McGill Redmen today for a special trophy.

"We're theoretically underdogs," admitted coach Don Loney of the X-men in an interview Friday night.

"That's the only fair way to look at it. We lost to McGill 21-7 last year and we'll be using kids with an average age of 19 against a team made up mostly of graduate students."

Loney says the forecast of cool, cloudy weather with brisk winds will work in favor of his team.

"They seem to have a passing attack based on the throwing talent of (quarterback Tom) Skyepek," he said.

"We're mainly a running team, and with two rookie quarterbacks we can't afford to go to the air to any great extent."

Proceeds of the game will go to the Canadian Paraplegic Association, donors of the Churchill Trophy. The Redmen won a pre-season contest at Antigonish, N.S., home town of the X-men, by a 21-7 count last year.

The Churchill Trophy had previously been awarded to the winner of an East-West college playoff. But the Canadian Paraplegic Association decided this year to give it to the winner of the exhibition contest between St. Francis Xavier, perennial maritime champions, and the Redmen, one of the two top teams in the east in the last two years.

Loney said the heavier McGill line was the deciding factor in last year's game, enabling the Redmen's two fullbacks, Bob Milligan and Ian Monteith, to pile up yardage.

"But we've put our line into top shape for this game," he said.

Fall Ramble event to be held Sunday

The annual Orleans Country Club Fall Ramble will be held tomorrow and it is expected a large field will compete in the popular event.

This is an 18-hole tourney open to all three classes, A, B and C, with prizes for the low gross and net winners in each class. Last year 104 golfers took part in the tournament.

R. Garback, of Montpelier, Vt., emerged the winner last year when he posted a 73 to nose out Jean-Guy Blanchard of Lennoxville by one stroke. V. Rushford of Newport, Vt., won the low net in class A while B. Wilson of Mt. Orford was second.

Starting times will be allotted as soon as players register. Players from St. Albans, Lennoxville and St. Johnsbury have sent in their names and it is expected on Sunday morning several will turn out.

Four unbeaten teams in NFL clash Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — The pattern of the Western Conference on the National Football League should be established after Sunday's games that pair the four unbeaten teams in two titanic struggles.

Green Bay, the defending champion which has allowed only seven points in two games, entertains—if that is the word —Chicago Bears at Green Bay.

Detroit's new, powerful attack—led by Milt Plum, Dan Lewis, Nick Pietrosante and Tom Watkins—has rolled up 90 points in two games. The Lions' tight defensive unit should be tested by Baltimore's Johnny Unitas and the Colts' newly uncovered ground game built around fullback Mark Smolinski. The two unbeaten meet at Baltimore.

Other games have Washington at home to St. Louis Cardinals, Cleveland visiting Philadelphia, New York Giants at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at San Francisco, and Dallas invading Los Angeles.

In the American Football League it will be Buffalo at Dallas, only unbeaten team in the league, Denver at New York for the Titans' home opener, and San Diego at Oakland. Boston and Houston have the day off.

Fernandez is favored over Charlie Scott

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Gunning for a knockout and a possible shot at the world welterweight title, Jorge Fernandez of Argentina remained a solid favorite Friday to defeat Charlie Scott of Philadelphia in their fight tonight.

The match, scheduled for 10 rounds, goes on in the Las Vegas convention centre. Ranked fourth in the 147-pound division, Fernandez would like another go at champion Emile Griffith.

Twice, Griffith has outpointed the Argentine, but Jorge is still angry over a decision given Emile in their first encounter in New York in July, 1960.

Scott has been stopped but twice. Gil Turner did it in 1954 and Isaac Logart in 1958.
