

Dog Lovers in Their Glory This Week; A Big Turn Out of Pets Small and Great

CANINE ARISTOCRATS IN MONTREAL—(1) "Sutton Boy" and "Boys Rangen," claimed to be the best two English Setters in Montreal, owned by H. H. Wootton, Montreal. (2) Four Pointer Puppies, owned by Ed. Outhet, Montreal. (3) "Maxim's Bernice," the property of Ed. Outhet, Montreal. (4) Setters and Pointers, owned by H. H. Wootton and Ed. Outhet, of Montreal.

ELABORATE preparations are being made for the Dog Show which is to be held in the Victoria Rink, in this city, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, May 15, 16 and 17. The rink is now being prepared for the reception of the canines, among which will be many famous dogs from all parts of Canada and the United States. Indeed, the Show promises to be the very best of its kind in the history of Montreal, not only because of the large number of entries assured, but also because of the varied character of the breeds that will be on exhibition. The coming Show is attracting such widespread attention that The Standard has devoted several of the pages in its Illustrated Supplements this week to the portraiture of some of the dogs which will be seen there.

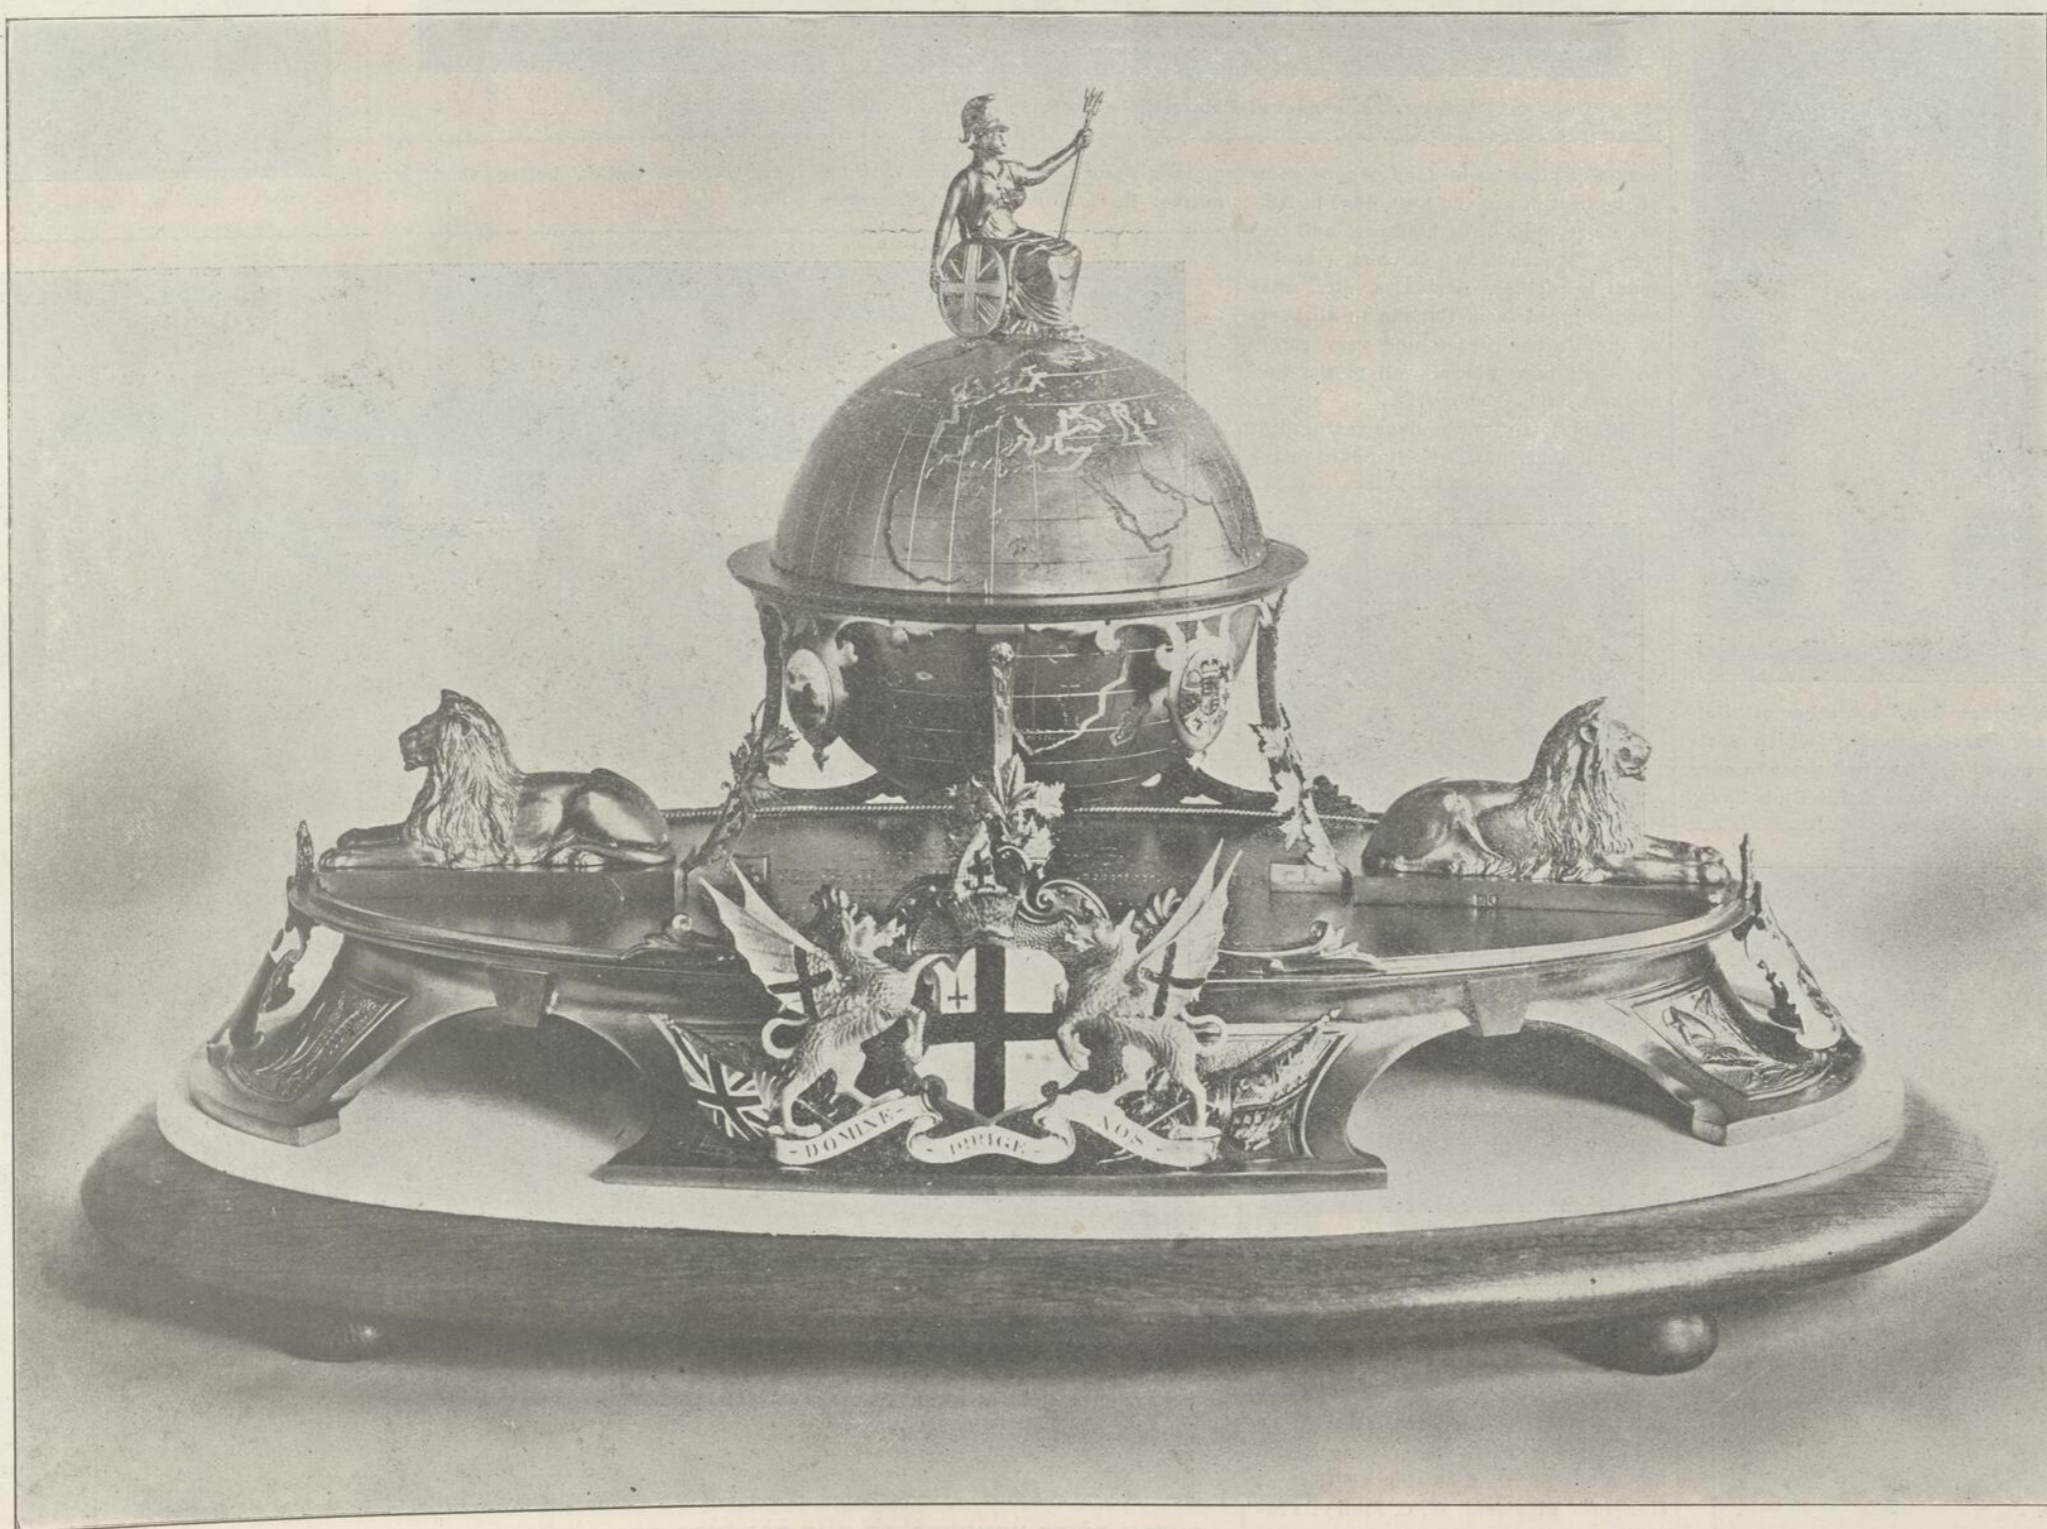

A stroll through the aisles of a dog show by a visitor will develop a fund of inquiry, speculation, temporary amusement or surprise, as the particular canine subject under inspection may suggest. That will rather cause one to understand the development of the enthusiasm pervading the rank and file of the fanciers and breeders.

For instance, the attenuated Dachs-hunde, generally referred to as the frankfurter dog, and a variety that affords an inexhaustible subject for the cartoonist, is as game a sporting dog as can be found.

Bulldogs, that only are good looking, in the eyes of the fancy, when they are extremely ugly, wrinkled and bow-legged, had particular uses for these abnormal conditions in the old days, when the barbarous pastime of bull-baiting was in vogue.

Airedale terriers undoubtedly had Irish terriers partly as ancestors. They possess much of the type and conformation of the "Micks," with all of the latter's gameness and good qualities. As an all-round dog this breed has the choice. Contrary to general information, he is a remarkably good dog to the gun in upland or marsh, retrieving, for instance, equally well on land or in water.

Cocker spaniels are most useful dogs for a sportsman. They will go into and through close cover and thorny brush that would stop either a pointer or setter.

LONDON HONORS THE COLONIAL PREMIERS—The 18-carat Gold Casket in which the Freedom of the City of London was recently presented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, G. C. M. G., Prime Minister of Canada. The other Premiers attending the Colonial Conference were also presented with caskets somewhat similar in their designs to the above.

THE Casket, illustrated on this page, is strikingly original in its bold conception and freedom of design, and takes the form of the Globe, surmounted by a finely-modelled figure of Britannia.

The Globe, which contained the Scroll of the City of London, rests on a framework particularly graceful in character. The four supports are beautifully curved, their lower portions having the Maple Leaf and Wheat, the floral emblems of Canada, entwined around them. Pendant from the frame, to which they are attached by artistic scrolls, are four escutcheons, bearing the arms of four Colonies enamelled in proper colors.

The Globe and frame stand upon an oval plateau of solid silver, richly gilt, rendered light and graceful by four supporting open arches, and on the plateau beneath the Globe appears the following inscription:—

"Presented, with the Freedom of the City of London, to RIGHT HON. SIR WILFRID LAURIER, G.C.M.G.,
Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada,
By the Corporation of London. Guildhall, E.C., 16th April, 1907."

The obverse of the base has a background formed by the Union Jack and the Royal Standard both in enamel, with the full Blazon of the Arms of the City of London in the centre, the Dragons being modelled in silver, and the Shield, Crest and Motto enamelled in proper colors; while on the reverse appear the arms of Canada, and, on the ornament above, the recipient's monogram, which is thus associated with the Arms of the Colony for which he acts.

At each end of the plateau are given the arms of the two remaining Colonies.

The six caskets presented to The Hon. Alfred Deakin, Australia; The Hon. Sir Joseph George Ward, K.C. M.G., New Zealand; The Hon. Leander Starr Jameson, C.B., Cape Colony; The Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond, K.C.M.G., Newfoundland; The Hon. Frederick Robert Moor, Natal; and Gen. the Hon. Louis Botha, Transvaal; are identical in all respects with the casket illustrated, with the exception of the position of the various coats of arms and the floral emblems.

Mr. James Lindsay, of "Matchmaker" fame, another Montreal gentleman who has often been called upon from outside cities to place their dogs, has kindly consented to judge the different classes of the "terrier" family, and, as he is a well-known connoisseur of this breed, he is bound to give satisfaction. Mr. Hayward, an English gentleman who is at present visiting the West, will judge "bull dogs." As this gentleman is a larger breeder of bull dogs, having had over 500 in his kennel at one time, and having acted as judge of that breed at several English shows, the Committee are quite proud of ob-thus communicate his wants to his master. The Bishop of Ripon has not found time to make a study of his pets in the same way that Lord Avebury has done; but he is nevertheless much attached to George, a pug, whose character, alas, has a number of black marks against it.

George, in fact, is a pug possessing a very combative disposition, and has a partiality for worrying sheep. He has already been the death of several, and would doubtless find very much in common with Gyp, Mr. W. P. Frith's pet fox-terrier. "Gyp," says the veteran Royal Academician, "may be called a 'gay dog,' for he has a habit of stopping out all night and returning about 5 in the morning, when he barks and

Mme. Patti has possessed many pets, but none of them ever held such a high place in her affections as Richi, a little dog presented to the prima donna by a Mexican friend. It is said that this lucky favorite is provided with a complete wardrobe, including night-gowns made of costly silk, and seven collars—one for each day of the week. And when not out with his mistress, Richi reclines in a handsome wicker basket specially designed for his comfort.

WORLD-FAMOUS DOG LOVERS.

Amongst those who have become world-famous in literature, the arts, science, and the drama, dogs have ever been prime favorites. Landseer, Leighton, Dickens, Pugin, the eminent architect, Rousseau, the philosopher, Scott, Tennyson, and Darwin were all passionately devoted to canine pets, while Rider Haggard's Dog "Poacher." The favorite pet of Mr. Rider Haggard is a dog named Poacher, whose history is both interesting and remarkable. Poacher's mother was a famous lurcher—a poacher's dog—and was well known all over West Norfolk. She was set on Mr. Haggard's keeper one

TRIBUTE TO A DOG.

Senator Vest, of Missouri, was attending court, in a country town, and while waiting for the trial of a case in which he was interested, he was urged by the attorneys in a dog case to help them. Voluminous evidence was introduced to show that the defendant had shot the dog in malice, while other evidence went to show that the dog had attacked the defendant. Vest took no part in the trial, and was not disposed to speak. The attorneys, however, urged him to make a speech, else their client would not

Type of Modern Revenue-Producing Property.

Montreal is just awakening to the demand for accommodation such as the modern apartment house alone can give, in keeping with the popularity achieved by such buildings in New York and Boston and other large cities.

To-day, Montreal, is unable to cope with the heavy demand for such accommodation due to large additions to our local population, as a result of the Dominion's prosperity.

The above property, containing six choice suites of apartments, is located in the heart of Montreal's residential section, close to Mount Royal and adjacent to the Uptown Retail Shopping District.

The exterior and interior finish of this building is in keeping with the most modern specifications; the heating and sanitary arrangements are perfect.

This particular property offers a most substantial revenue, as a critical investigation will prove.

AS announced in the News Edition of The Standard last Saturday, Miss Adelalde Allen, of Atlanta, Georgia, who was called the "prettiest girl I have seen in the South" by President Roosevelt during his tour, and who has since come to be known in consequence as the "Roosevelt girl," has gone to New York as the bride of Leonard Day, a lawyer of New York city. The President's reference to Miss Allen as "the prettiest girl" was made at a reception to him in Atlanta during his tour of 1905. Secretary Loeb had reminded him that it was time to go, when the President replied, "All right, Loeb, but I must meet that young lady over there. She is the prettiest girl I have seen in the South." Miss Allen, when presented, was highly complimented on her beauty by the President, whereupon she naively replied:

NEXT WEEK'S MILITARY TOURNAMENT IN THE ARENA—"Fan Tableau," to be executed on Friday and Saturday, May 17 and 18, by the Gentlemen Cadets of the Royal Military College.

THE MILITARY TOURNAMENT.

At the Military Tournament and Tattoo at the Arena, on May 17th and 18th, the Royal Military College Cadets from Kingston are to give a performance of free gymnastics and gun drill. The free gymnastics are a system of gymnastic exercises which are carried out without any apparatus whatever. These exercises are in use in all military institutions throughout the Empire. The system is based on the Swedish method of physical training, together with many of the exercises used in the Sandow system of physical culture. The exercises are varied and novel, the rhythmic movements of some being particularly pleasing, and the precision with which the others are done will prove most interesting. Briefly, the exercises are as follows:—

Trunk, arm and leg exercises, individual standing. Trunk, arm and leg exercises, with mutual assistance, individual standing. Trunk movements on the ground. Leg exercises, varied Southern hospitality has blinded you to our defects." The South has long been famed for its beauties, but Canada seems to have its share after all.

As the weeks roll by, The Standard's Quest for the most beautiful Canadian Girl grows in popularity. The plates given in this issue are a selection from photographs of those whose friends have forwarded them in the competition. Many enquiries have been received from all parts of Canada, asking as to the conditions governing the Quest. These conditions are such as can be availed of by everyone. All attractive Canadian girls can have their photos forwarded by their friends or photographers—all are welcome to assist in the Quest. Practically all the Provinces have now sent photographs of favorite daughters, and from now on a series of very attractive pictures should be the result.

One mother writes, asking if she can enter the photograph of her daughter, who is now out of the country, studying music in Germany. All Canadian-born girls are eligible. Only professional beauties, actresses and models are debarred.

One of the most interesting features of The Standard's Beauty Quest is the interest being taken in it by The Standard's French-Canadian readers. To give all the beautiful Canadian girls, of French descent, a special chance, arrangements have been made by which the well-known photographers, Messrs. Lapres & Lavergne, will take free the pictures of those who may

"WHAT WE HAVE WE'LL HOLD"—Here is a striking instance of the pertinacity of the British bull dog. The pipe seen in the picture was placed in the mouth of this dog in the morning, and he held it thus for several hours, every attempt to take it away resulting in failure. The dog's name is "Kilburn Boss," and he is the property of Mr. J. Sheehan.

an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death.

Then Vest sat down. He had spoken in a low voice, without any gesture. He made no reference to the evidence or the merits of the case. When he finished, judge and jury were wiping their eyes. The jury filed out, but soon entered with a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $500. He had sued for $200. It is even said that some of the jurors wanted to hang the defendant.

"Very well, sir," cried Dr. Kwack, after his quarrel with the undertaker, "I'll make you sorry for this."
"What are you going to do?" sneered the undertaker. "Retire from practice?"

think he had earned his fee. Being thus urged, he arose, scanned the face of each jurymen for a moment, and said: "Gentlemen of the Jury:—The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter whom he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, when the wintry winds blow, and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens.

It occupies the elevated ground between Cote des Neiges and the town of Outremont. The contour of the ground is unique, rising in sloping terraces to the crest of the hill. This situation precludes the possibility of any obstruction to the view.

Northmount has the most beautiful outlook of any part of the Island. From any point of view the spectator cannot fail to admire the truly marvellous panorama extending for miles without interruption. Lake St. Louis reveals its picturesque beauty; Back River and the Ottawa River can be seen glistening in the sun, with the distant Laurentian range of mountains completing a perfect picture undimmed by smoke and unmarred by factory chimneys.

No other spot can compare with Northmount for scenic beauty, and it can be compared with Ste. Agathe for the pure air which makes it a cool spot on the hottest day of summer.

Owing to the lofty ozonized altitudes, this select spot of the unique Mount Royal is unparalleled for its salubrity and renovating health power. Though only a stone's throw from the centre of the city—a simple matter of twenty minutes' ride on the electric cars—it is near enough to the commercial heart of the Metropolis, and far enough away to make it an exceptionally attractive and peaceful suburb.

The natural desire of everyone compelled to carry on their occupation in a large city, with its harsh din of traffic and noise which interrupt all peace of mind, is to have a home removed as far as possible from all association with the daily strenuous commercial activity,—in other words,—a home of rest for the tired brain and body, where the leisure hour can be spent in peaceful enjoyment with the beauties of nature, far from the association of sky-scrapers and electric signs.

With many, the desire to own a home is a daily ambition, but they are prevented from realizing this cherished hope owing to lack of the necessary funds to meet the outlay. In this connection, the Company controlling this popular suburb is prepared to have their own architect furnish plans, and guarantee to erect your house in three months from date of signing contract, provided the purchaser guarantees ten per cent. of the cost. The balance of the purchase price can be paid off by easy payments, equivalent to paying rent, which enables anyone to possess a home designed to their liking, and in keeping with their earning power.

Another point to remember is the actual increase in value of your investment which the above system of payment offers the purchaser.

The picture here given of Northmount is a faithful reproduction of this popular suburb, void of all exaggeration; consequently, when you visit the property in person, your own judgment will decide on its future development and value in view of its natural location and contiguity to the Metropolis of the Dominion.

The above description of Northmount, coupled with your own conception of its future, may claim your interest, since the property is on the market, in suitable town lots, at moderate prices and easy terms, from its present owners, The Northmount Land Company, Limited, whose head office is at 71 St. James Street, Mr. Edouard Gohier, Managing Director.

THE Children's Anti-Cigarette Campaign inaugurated by The Standard has proved a movement which has excited a very great amount of attention both in the city of Montreal and throughout the country. The volume of correspondence on the subject, which, from the first, was very large, has not diminished, and inquiries are coming in by mail and telephone as to the scope of the work.

Many clergymen and religious organizations have written expressing deep interest in the campaign, and pleasure and confidence in the success of the work which The Standard has undertaken.

The boys of the city continue to daily call at The Standard Office for pledge-cards, and many letters are being received from outside towns asking for cards in various-sized packages.

The campaign was inaugurated primarily to try and save the young boys from the cigarette habit.

In this connection, a prominent member of Parliament who brought up recently the subject of the terrible ravages of cigarettes among young Canadian children before the House of Commons, calls attention to a remarkable case which is attracting much attention in Ottawa. It seems that not only boys, but some young girls also, have acquired the habit of smoking cigarettes.

In Ottawa recently the Children's Aid Society investigated a case which has many remarkable features. It is the case of a young lady not eighteen years of age, very attractive, and gifted with rare talents; she was born of respectable parentage, and casually acquired the habit of smoking cigarettes. She presently found cigarettes as essential as her daily meals. The parents discovered the smoking, and forbade it with kindly advice; but the grip of the cigarette proved stronger than the girl's will.

For fear of being locked in the house or kept from obtaining the cigarettes, she hid them in her hair and shoes. Continued searches only sharpened the girl's wit, as when one hiding-place was found out, she invented another. It went on from time to time, until the parents at last succeeded in keeping the cigarettes away from her.

The child at this grew hysterical, and it was feared by experts that the deprivation of the cigarettes would have the result of turning her insane. At this point the mother and father called in the assistance of the Children's Aid Society, and asked their co-operation and advice to prevent the young girl from becoming an inmate of a madhouse. The case is one to deeply appeal to parents.

In this issue of The Standard is Important Manifesto

The following important manifesto has been signed against juvenile cigarette-smoking by many well-known public men. It has been signed by leading and representative men of all ranks and classes. The movement has the warmest sympathy and approval of the Duke of Fife, the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London. Two thoughts appear to be uppermost in the minds of the signatories.

viz.—(1) That the time has arrived for the Legislature to take action in this matter; and (2) that the absence of home discipline in regard to this evil, is a great hindrance to teachers in their efforts to repress the habit amongst their scholars.

THE MANIFESTO.—In view of the great increase of late years in cigarette-smoking amongst the young, it is felt that a strong expression of opinion may be of use in drawing national

EMPLOYERS STUDY STANDARD'S LEAGUE ROLL OF HONOR.

It will be of interest to parents and teachers, as well as to scholars about to start out in life, to know that The Standard's Anti-Cigarette Honor Roll is consulted by many of the large employers of labor before engaging boys to take into their firms. The League lists are daily scanned, and where a young candidate's name appears he gets the preference. The lists are always open for inspection.

Doors Closed to Youthful Cigarette Smokers.

The growing youths of Canada will perhaps be surprised at some of the doors which are closed to boys who get the cigarette habit. Here are a few of the big concerns in the United States, employing great armies of assistants, who have put up the bars: Union Pacific Railroad, Swift & Co. Packing House, Chicago, Marshall Field, dry goods, Chicago, Lehigh Valley Railroad, United States army positions, United States naval schools, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad.

Athletic Clubs.—"Cigarettes are prohibited to all athletes in training for our competition games." (The restriction of numerous schools and colleges in Canada and the United States).

"No boy can be a fine athlete, football, baseball or basket-ball player, runner, jumper or gymnast who weakens his heart and poisons his blood by cigarette smoking."

Business College.—"This is our experience in teaching more than fifty thousand young people: cigarettes bring shattered nerves, mental weakness, stunted growth and general and physical and moral degeneracy. We refuse to receive users of tobacco in our institution." (H. C. and S. A. Spencer, Spencerian Business College).

"I will not try to educate a boy with the cigarette habit. It is wasted time. The boy couldn't learn. Trying to teach him would be like talking to a block of wood. Cigarettes are poisonous. A boy who smokes cigarettes can't learn anything. His mental faculties are blunted. His physical being is wrecked."—Professor Wilkinson, School Principal.

"One poor fellow I knew was a complete wreck (a high school boy). He could not get his mind on anything except cigarettes. He couldn't study, his eyesight was affected, he was haggard and pale, he was nervous and dejected, he couldn't remember anything longer than a minute, he was beyond redemption. He left school."—Professor Coy, High School Principal.

"Boys who smoke cigarettes are always backward in their studies. They are filthy in their personal habits, tending to viciousness, they are hard to manage, dull in appearance. There is danger of such boys making weak and undesirable citizens."—Principal W. S. Strickland.

(All these instances are from the school principals of one large city.)
Ayer's Company, Lowell, employs hundreds of boys. They issued the following order: "Believing that the smoking of cigarettes is injurious to both mind and body, thereby unfitting young men for their best work,—therefore, after this date, we will not employ any young man under twenty-one years of age who smokes cigarettes."

John Wanamaker's.—"The application blank to be filled out by boys applying for a position reads: 'Do you use tobacco or cigarettes?' A negative answer is expected, and is favorable to their acceptance as employees."

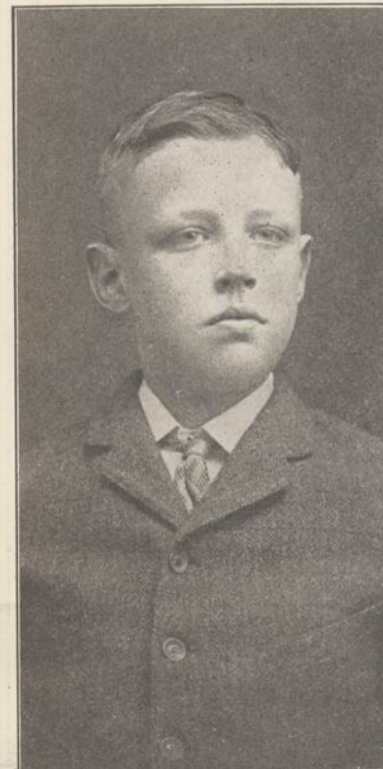

Morgan & Wright Tire Company, large employers.—"No cigarettes can be smoked by our employees."

Western Union Telegraph Co. will discharge from their employ messenger service boys who persist in smoking cigarettes.

Burlington Railroad, and all railroads mentioned, have issued orders that "positively forbid the use of cigarettes by employees while on duty."
