MILLERAND TO NAME FRENCH PREMIER TODAY

Discussions In Commons Covered A Rather Wide Range

Have Not Reached Agreement On Redistribution

Ontario and Quebec appear to be stumbling blocks in General Agreement on Redistribution Bill—Day Spent On Customs Estimates Brought House Discussions in Supply Which Varied from Imported Coke to Export Liquor Warehouses—Hon. H. H. Stevens Urged Retention of Dumping Clause as Essential to British Columbia Fruit Growers.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, Ont., June 6.—A day spent on Customs estimates brought House discussions in supply which varied from imported coke to export liquor warehouses, from the dumping duty to a new Custom house for Toronto.

On the export liquor warehouses, Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs, declared that licenses for such warehouses were not issued except on the recommendation of the Provincial Government concerned.

J. Morrison (Progressive-Webyburn), claimed that it was a case of "passing the buck"—a charge which Mr. Bureau vigorously denied.

From Progressive ranks came a plea that the dumping clause should be eliminated or sparingly used, and there was reference to its effect on Canadian apple growers.

Hon. H. H. Stevens urged that retention of the dumping clause was essential to British Columbia fruit growers.

All Customs estimates were eventually passed. The first item discussed was one of $633,755 for salaries and contingencies in the Department.

Estimates under the head of Dominion Lands and Parks totalling $158,000 were also passed.

In the Senate a continued debate on charges against the Canadian National Railways was adjourned without definite action.

Today the Senate will not sit.

The proposed amendment to the Militia Act, standing in the name of the Minister of National Defence, readjusting the placing of the authority to call out troops, will be considered in the House of Commons today. Estimates will also be taken up.

YOUNG CLERK SUCCESSFUL IN COURT CASE

Took Action to Establish Her Claim as Eldest Lawful Daughter of Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon.

EDINBURGH, June 6.—(Cable)

—Miss Constance Mary Lyon, the nineteen year old store clerk of Aberdeen, who took legal proceedings to establish her claim that she is the eldest lawful daughter of Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon, nephew of the Earl of Strathmore, has succeeded in her suit, according to the official declaration today of Lord Morrison, who presided over the court at which the case was heard.

Miss Constance Mary Lyon, while pursuing her duties as clerk in a store in Aberdeen, believed that she was a granddaughter of the Earl of Strathmore and therefore a cousin of the Duchess of York. To establish her legitimacy as the daughter of Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon, she began suit in the court of sessions in Edinburgh on May 23rd. She was born in 1904. She claimed that her parents were married subsequent to her birth, thereby legitimizing her.

The chief witness in court in behalf of Miss Lyon was Miss Elizabeth MacKie, of Glasgow, a former resident of Edinburgh. She testified that Hubert Ernest Bowes-Lyon, an officer in the Black Watch, stationed at Edinburgh Castle, met Miss Smeaton, became friendly with her and finally rented a house in Edinburgh and lived with her. Later he went to London and Miss Smeaton also went to London.

A child was born to the pair in London on December 24, 1904, according to Miss MacKie's evidence, and shortly afterwards the mother arrived in Aberdeen with her baby and the child was placed in the care of Mrs. Gellie. The parents and child were brought together twice, Miss MacKie said, and Mr. Lyon never gave any indication that he was not the father. Miss MacKie identified Miss Lyon in court as the child she had known when Miss Lyon was five years of age.

JAPS AROUSED OVER ACTION OF UNITED STATES

Fiery Speeches, Bitter Resolutions and Other Expressions of Intense Opposition to Bar Against Japanese Immigration.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

TOKIO, June 6.—Twenty-five thousands persons heard fiery speeches, bitter resolutions and other expressions of the most intense opposition to the ban against Japanese immigration to the United States at a meeting here last night. Speakers included Shinkichi Ueyugi, nationalist publicist and professor of political science at the Imperial Tokio University; Lieut. General Buejuro Horinouchi, retired, hero of the Tsingtao campaign; Vice Admiral Kamizumi, retired; Kotaro Mochizuki, a leader of the Kensikai (political party) and several other members of Parliament.

The phrases: "We must punish America for the sake of world peace," and "this is a matter for all the Asiatic races," occurred in many of the speeches.

Etsujiro Uyshara, one of the leaders of the Kakushin Club, which as a part of the combined opposition was successful in the recent Parliamentary elections, urged a united rising of all Asiatics against the American exclusion provision. Uyshara was educated in the United States, being a graduate of the University of Washington.

Kotaro Mochizuki, a member of Parliament and proprietor of an English news agency, proposed to the meeting that May 26, the day on which President Coolidge signed the immigration bill, be observed annually in Japan as a "day of national humiliation."

A resolution passed declared in part: "America's anti-Japan movement, worse than disregarding international morality, is fostering racial conflict. We the Japanese people cannot submit to this situation and will oppose exclusion to the end."

MORE MEN JOIN IN LONDON'S RAIL STRIKE

"First Big Test" Appears to Be Developing in Favor of Workers With Communistic Tendencies.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

LONDON, June 6.—London's rail strike grew stronger this morning, and what trade union officials described as "the first big movement" seemed to be developing in favor of the workers with Communistic tendencies.

Trade union circles continue to oppose the strike. The whole staff of the Wood Power station went this morning, necessitating the closing of the Central London Railway, which serves the whole West end, as well as connects with the leading main line railways. Another from Piccadilly to Hampstead was forced to close this forenoon.

The underground railway estimates that six thousands of its men are on strike in sympathy with the malcontents, and restricted service is in effect on this as well as on the other lines in and out of London which are worked by electricity. With the Whit Sunday holidays approaching, a lack of trains will not be much felt in the city, but the holiday-makers are likely to be greatly affected.

HERRIOT DECLINES TO FORM NEW MINISTRY UNLESS M. MILLERAND HANDS OVER REINS OF OFFICE

It is Expected President Millerand Will Announce His Premier Today, After Obtaining Advice of His Friends in French Senate—Millerand is More Than Ever Resolved to Carry Out to Very End What He Considers His Duty—Resumed His Consultations With Political Leaders This Morning.

(Associated Press Despatch.)

PARIS, June 6.—The battle of the Elysee, with President Millerand resisting the efforts of the new majority of the Left to oust him from office in what he considers an unconstitutional manner, continues to be fought.

M. Millerand, who, according to those in his confidence, is more than ever resolved to carry out to the very end what he considers his duty, planned to resume his consultations with political leaders this morning.

M. Herriot, Radical leader, who yesterday declined to form a ministry while M. Millerand continued in the presidency, is consulting with M. Painleve, Briand, Boncour, Varenne and other group leaders.

The plan of the Leftists is to leave the next move to M. Millerand; consequently the Chamber of Deputies today, after dealing with the formal business of ratification of mandates, will follow the example of the Senate and adjourn until Tuesday, by which time the Cabinet President Millerand is seeking to form, ought to be ready to appear in the Chamber. If it is then placed in the minority the President is expected to draw his own conclusion and act in conformity.

It is expected President Millerand will have picked his Premier by this evening, after obtaining the advice of his friends in the Senate.

U. S. Customs Men Made Unsuccessful Attempt to Pierce Lines of Bootleggers in Forest Country—Two Officers Were Wounded—Appeal for Dominion Intervention.

QUEBEC, June 6.—With a man named Johnny Pelletier in the hands of the United States Customs and Revenue men and the latter officials with two of their men wounded, the rum-running situation in Temiscouata County is taking on more serious aspect. The alleged chief of the bootleggers is said to have sworn to get even with the customs men, and is said to have recruited a large force, armed from head to foot. The American officers who were wounded sustained their casualties in an unsuccessful effort to pierce the lines of the bootleggers in the forest country.

United States authorities are reported here to have made representations to Ottawa in order to secure Dominion intervention, and it is said that Hon. P. J. Veniot, Premier of New Brunswick, has also been approached to obtain assistance in suppressing the traffic.

AYER'S CLIFF

PAID TRIBUTE TO LATE MAYOR. AYER'S CLIFF, QUE., June 6.—Following is an address given by the Rev. W. H. Thomas at the Congregational Church, Ayer's Cliff, on May 13th, on the life of the late Frank McVeay.

"In the death of Frank McVeay, this municipality has lost its most esteemed Mayor and one of its most valuable citizens.

"I am told that not long since the roads here were in a poor condition. Less than two years ago when I arrived there were but a few feet of concrete sidewalks. The improvement and progress in these respects are largely, perhaps mainly owing to his public spirited initiative.

"I confess to deliberately leading him more than once in conversation to discuss matters municipal. A man talks best about the things he is really interested in, and he was deeply concerned in the welfare of Ayer's Cliff. He had definite plans for its improvement. He thought clearly and estimated different ideas and methods with fine discernment.

"The retaining of his membership in the Methodist Church at Cassville, he was a regular attendant at this church as long as his health permitted, and no preacher could wish for a fair minded and more sympathetic listener. You are here today to show respect and regard to J. Frank McVeay. It will be an empty appreciation unless you imitate him as a regular worshipper of God.

"To his good qualities as husband and father in the intimate relationships of the home life, there are two who in the poignancy of their grief today bear eloquent tribute, his widow whom God sustain, and his little lad whom God guard and keep. We cannot enter into the Gethsemane, but he can who has promised to be the Husband of the widow and Father to the fatherless, a promise that has never failed the believing heart.

"His sickness was unusual. He bore it all uncomplainingly, with the simple endurance of a man. He did not want to die, but he did not fear death. And the end came unexpectedly and peacefully. As I gazed upon the still form where but a few minutes before the spirit had departed, our Lord's words recurred to me: 'He is not dead but sleepeth.'

Sleep on, beloved, sleep and take thy rest, Lay down thy head upon thy Saviour's breast, We loved thee well, but Jesus loved thee best, Good night, good night, good night.

General Notes. The services usually held at the Congregational Church on Sunday morning will be withdrawn on June 8, owing to the pastor's absence at conference in Toronto. Sunday school at the usual hour of 9.30 o'clock.

POWER STILL A HOT QUESTION AT COATICOOK

Town Granted a Higher Tariff Rate for Water—Many Other Matters Before Council.

(Special to the Record.) COATICOOK, Que., June 6.—The matter of rights in the river bed came before the members of the Coaticook Council at their meeting this week at which were present Mayor Baldwin, Aldermen Reburn, Nourse, Snow, Leclerc, Rousseau, Larocche and Laroche.

Mayor Baldwin read letters from the Belding Corticelli Silk Co., Harkins Brothers, and P. L. Baldwin and Sons, Ltd., suggesting conditions under which they would be willing to relinquish their rights in the river bed in view of the power development scheme now under way.

After considerable discussion it was moved by Alderman Snow, seconded by Alderman Rousseau and carried that the mayor be authorized to offer the Belding Corticelli Silk Company three-fifths of the power which the town will develop on their own site, and tax exemption and 1932 as the purchase price of that power site, provided the town comes to an agreement with the other power companies.

Bills amounting to $1042 were approved and ordered paid, on motion of Alderman Rousseau and Larocche. Petitions from the residents of Main, Child, St. Jean Baptiste and Cutting streets, offering to pay $393.75 towards the cost of sprinkling these streets during the summer months were read.

It was decided that the streets mentioned in these petitions be sprinkled and the secretary-treasurer be instructed to collect the amounts subscribed, half on the first of July and half on the first of September, and the roads committee be authorized to make similar arrangements with residents of other streets if deemed advisable.

A petition from some butchers asking the council to reduce the license imposed on butchers' stalls located outside of the public market from $50 to $25 was read. On motion of Alderman Snow and Leclerc, the secretary-treasurer was instructed to prepare for the next session a by-law granting this request.

Dr. Thomas cCurdy explained to the council the necessity of providing crossings for the residents of the west side of Cutting street, where there is no sidewalk, and offered to reimburse the town for the cost of a crossing in front of his own property, if in the town would build the crossing. His offer was accepted.

The award of the Quebec Public Utilities Commission granting the demand of the City Water Company for a higher tariff of rates from the first of April last, and fixing the rate for fire protection at $60 per hydrant from the same date was read, also a letter from the company asking for a conference with the council in order to come to an agreement regarding the settlement of the company's account against the town and the town's account against the company from the first of January, 1922, the date on which the old agreement expired, to the first of April last.

The by-law reducing the price of a license to the holder of a permit under the Quebec Alcoholic Law was read three times and adopted on motion of Alderman Larocche and Rousseau, Alderman Nourse, Reburn and Snow voting against. A motion by Alderman Reburn and Nourse to change the wording of the by-law so as to leave the wholesale beer dealers at $200 was defeated.

The mayor and secretary-treasurer were authorized to borrow $1,000 from the electricity department if needed.

The meeting was adjourned to Wednesday, June 11th.

Confidential reports from Ottawa to ex-service men will also be read. All men who saw service in France are entitled to attend this

There are twelve branches, with a strength of 2,109 members.

LECLERC'S CONDITION IMPROVED

Reports from the Hotel Dieu Hospital this morning state that the condition of Thomas Leclerc, who was seriously injured when his car ran into the "silent policeman" on Belvidere Street a few days ago, is somewhat improved. While his injuries are considered to be very grave, the authorities have been able to take an X-ray. This was impossible before owing to the weakened condition of the patient.

TOURISTS CAMP ON HIGHWAY

Each day sees an increase in the number of tourists who visit Sherbrooke, some continuing on to other points, some remaining here for brief stays. The hotels accommodate several parties each night, with the number growing day by day. The practice of camping along the highway is one which is growing in popularity among certain of the tourists, and many towns on main routes provide camping sites to be used by transient parties.

No such site has been provided near Sherbrooke, but this does not prevent tourists from erecting tents on some sheltered plot of land. For the last couple of days a party has been encamped on the road between Sherbrooke and Lennoxville, and have pitched two tents on a level plot between the highway and the river.

SWIMMING SEASON IS ON

As a proof that everyone is anxious for summer, and that some braver ones are not going to be delayed any longer by cold weather, one only pass across the bridge at the Paton Mill in the afternoon. For the last couple of days the boys have given away to the silent call of the waters, and have been spending part of their afternoon in the peaceful waters of the Magog River. It is an annual affair to see the boys of the city taking advantage of the cool waters. This year, however, they have been somewhat delayed. They have started in for earnest now, and no weather is going to stop them.

EXCITING INCIDENT ON STRATHCONA SQUARE

An incident which had might have had very serious results took place yesterday afternoon in front of the Court House. Two ladies had left their Ford car standing on the high driveway leading into the Court House at the end nearest the Bell Telephone Building. In turning their car so as to get by the other cars which were standing there, the driver of the Ford car either, not thoroughly acquainted with the lay out of the ground, or for some unknown reason, did not give herself sufficient room. Her car came down over the embankment, through the flower bed, and along the walk leading into the Court House. By quick action and presence of mind, the driver managed to avoid the fountain which is situated in the centre of the Square. The car was not damaged, apart from one of the lights coming slightly apart. Those who saw the accident say that it would be almost impossible to come down over the embankment in a car without

REGIMENT WILL SPEND WEEK-END AT LITTLE LAKE

Sherbrooke Regiment to Spend Week-end in the Open—Tactical Scheme Drawn Up.

With the coming of Summer, as promised by the mild weather of the last two or three days, the end of the drill season is drawing near, and previous to the annual inspection of the Sherbrooke Regiment, which will be held on Wednesday, June 7th, at the Sherbrooke Armoury, an interesting week-end will be spent at Little Lake. A tactical has been prepared as follows:— "An enemy force is known to be gathering just across the Southern Border, and there is a strong probability of a raid in the direction of Sherbrooke with the object of doing as much material damage as possible, destroying power stations in order to delay the mobilization of the Northern forces.

The Sherbrooke Regiment, in garrison in Sherbrooke has been notified to guard a sector with its left flank resting on Little Lake, to prevent any infiltration of enemy forces which might destroy the Rock Forest Power Station. "One Company under Major McPresenting the Congregational A/Nulty, O. C. Major W. S. McAllister and Major Robt. Smith commanding half companies, with Capt. Echenberg, Capt. Kennet and Lieut. L. Watson are detailed for this duty. "They will march out Saturday afternoon, 2.30 p.m., following the right and left banks of the River Magog, and taking the usual precautions against attack and aeroplane bombing; bivouac at Little Lake, and form a picket line as selected. Major Bachelier will act as Transport Officer."

This should provide a very interesting and enjoyable week-end. Operations will cease at midnight Saturday, and Sunday will be spent in various ways, bathing, baseball and a band concert. In case of inclement weather, sufficient accommodation has been provided by the kindness of Miss Eva White, Mr. C. F. Waller and Mr. Russell Tate.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE COURSE AT SHERBROOKE HIGH HAS BECOME VERY POPULAR

Course Arranged in "Unit Kitchen Plan" in Order to Give Pupils Experience With Complete Kitchen Equipment.

The Domestic Science course inaugurated this year at the Sherbrooke High School has become very popular and the results most encouraging. One of the largest and brightest rooms in the school building has been equipped with everything required for the course. The course has been arranged on the "Unit Kitchen Plan" in order to give the girls experience with a complete kitchen equipment, instead of having them use individual gas burners and small kitchen utensils. A knowledge of different fuels is also included in the course, and the pupils are taught the economy and advantages of using either gas, electricity or coal oil. A series of lessons is given in preparing and arranging each type of meal, beginning with the breakfast, then luncheon and finally dinner. It is part of the course not only to be able to prepare these different meals, but to learn, understand and plan the meals according to food value, season of the year and occupation of people. The course also covers the figuring of the cost of the meal per person and for the group. Table setting and service, planning of time to prepare the work and division of labor are also chief considerations. At the recent luncheon served by the class to the teachers of the High School, it was clearly seen that the aims and principles of the course are put into practice, and the way in which the luncheon was managed proved that the girls thoroughly understand their work. The cost, food value of the meal, the menu and decorations for this luncheon were all prepared and figured out by the class. The menu at this luncheon was exceptionally well chosen, and should be a proof to housewives that a first class luncheon of an expensive affair. The cost per person for this luncheon was thirty cents, and the menu consisted of cream of tomato soup, croquettes, cold ham, vegetable aspic, apricot whip, coffee and dates stuffed with nuts. This well deserving and long needed course is meeting with great favour by the pupils, and the School is indeed fortunate in having the course and such a capable teacher.

turning turtle. The driver must have had perfect control of the car, to manage the situation as she did. After the excitement was over, and it was realized that, apart from the flowers, everything was well, the incident was treated as rather humorous. A good Samaritan, however, came to the lady's help and drove her car out of the quiet, peaceful square, back onto the street with the other cars.

SUPERVISE PARKING AT MARKET

During the busy hours at the Lansdowne Market, from about the middle of the morning until late afternoon, a special police officer is employed by the department in the directing the parking of automobiles at the curb. Owing to the large number of automobiles that are left at the curb by their owners, sometimes for an hour at a time, some system of supervision has become necessary in order that as many cars as possible

The authorities wish to educate the motor drivers to park their cars close together, and at right angles to the curb, so that no space will be wasted. In some cases a motorist will leave his car standing at an angle from the curb, completely occupying a space in which two cars might mark out individual spaces by means of heavy lines drawn on the pavement.

LENNOXVILLE

St. George's Annual June Sale. The annual June sale of the Guild of St. George's Church has been an event anticipated by many of the townswomen, not only as an opportunity for securing useful and fancy articles and good home-made cooking, but on account of the social intercourse it affords. The "weather man" is usually kind on the day of this sale, and was particularly so yesterday, the day being almost the first "summery" one of the season. The hall was tastefully set with small tables, decorated with centrepieces of forget-me-nots and pansies, and the sale tables with apple blossoms. Of these the "dollar" table was in charge of Mrs. A. O. Beck, Mrs. Hughes and Miss Derry. The fancy work was in charge of Mrs. Wiggitt and Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. Cann, and the aprons and holders were sold by Mrs. James Johnston and Mrs. Merrill. The food table was in charge of Mrs. McClary, Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Hatcher. Mrs. George Hatcher was convenor of the committee on afternoon tea. Mrs. McCling poured and the members of the Guild efficiently acted as waitresses. The teas were in charge of Mrs. R. C. McFadden and Mrs. Hill, and the guests were welcomed by Mrs. R. W. E. Wright, president of the Guild. From a financial point of view

Stanstead College Notes

The year's work at Stanstead College is drawing to a close. Examinations in the Eastern Township's Conservatory of Music are already under way. The Bugbos Business College will conduct examinations in its work during the coming week, and the government exams in the Academy will begin on Monday, June 16th. The Commencement exercises at the College will take place on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 13th, 14th, 15th. It will be remembered that last year the closing events took the form of a Jubilee celebration and were conducted on an elaborate scale. As the formal closing takes place this year in the midst of the examination period, much less will be attempted in the way of special features. This fact, however, will not lessen the hearty welcome awaiting all past students and friends of the College who come to take part in the final ceremonies of the year. The Annual Convocation will be held on Friday, June 13th, at 2.00 P.M., in Pierce Hall. It has been decided to introduce a new feature this year in that for the first time for a long while the staff will wear gowns and hoods during the exercises. After the presentation of diplomas, the Principal will deliver a short address recognising the students who are graduating and especially referring to those of the staff who are severing their connection with the College. During Friday afternoon some of the finals in the tennis tournament will be played, and at 8.15 o'clock in the evening the annual senior recital will be given in Pierce Hall. This recital is always of great interest to those who are lovers of music, as here will be seen the results of faithful teaching and diligent practice. Saturday forenoon, June 14th, will be seen the result of faithful teaching and diligent practice. Saturday forenoon, June 14th, will be given over to study by those who still have their examinations ahead. At 1.15 P.M., the junior recital will be given in Pierce Hall. Finals in the tennis tournament and baseball will occupy the afternoon. It is expected that the Senior Baseball team will play a visiting team. In the evening on Saturday, the annual college reception will be held in the college parlors. To this event all past students and friends of the college are invited. The Annual Baccalaureate Service will be held in the Methodist Church at 10.30 A.M., June 15th. All past students who will be visiting the College, and all local members of the Alumni are invited to come to the College parlors not later than 10.00 A.M., Sunday

CITY BRIEFLETS

CHANGE "WELCOME" SIGNS
The large electrically lighted signs spaced at the city lines on the Lennoxville Road, Victory Highway and Bromptonville Road, which are designed to welcome tourists to the City of Sherbrooke, are being changed to an inscription which is intended to be more dignified and becoming than that which has been shown since their installation last season. It is understood that they will this year bear matter descriptive of the city, for the information of visiting tourists. The signs were erected last year through the co-operation of the City Council, the Board of Trade and the Sherbrooke Automobile Club.

BUILDING LAWS OBSERVED
Mr. R. H. Gooley, building inspector, has paid several visits to Sherbrooke recently in connection with his work, and reports that building proprietors generally are disposed to co-operate with him in meeting the requirements of the law with regard to fire escapes, employment of labro, etc. Speaking of conditions throughout the province as a whole, Mr. Gooley reports considerable improvement in the country hotel situation, proprietors in many cases making preparations to give better accommodation. He states, however, that there is still very much to be done in this connection, and that it has been necessary to withdraw licenses from hotel and inn proprietors in a number of cases.

U.S. VICE-CONSUL MARCHAND ADDRESSED Y'S MEN'S CLUB

Explained Details of Election of President in United States—Tells Young Men to Take Hold of Reins.

Last night Vice-Consul Marchand gave some very valuable information to the Y's Men regarding the big event in American life, namely, the election of the President. Mr. Marchand gave an insight into the various parties in the United States, the proceedings of the parties in their annual conventions, the difference in the procedure in Democratic and Republican Conventions, and then dealt with the big questions that are confronting the Republic to the South.

In opening his remarks the speaker stated as his emphatic belief that it was the duty of all our English speaking peoples to keep together and have a better understanding on the world problems. He then turned to the place of the young man in politics and government of the country, pointing out that that was the duty for the young man, and in many respects and many places young men were gripping the torch and carrying it forward with unerring grip. He stated the solution of many of the present day problems was with the young man of today.

He then made reference to trade conditions the continent over, stating that on his recent trip he had found slight depression wherever he went, and Sherbrooke was no exception. The factors in the depression were numerous, but it was reckoned that one of the large factors was the Presidential election. Business men the continent over feeling, a great uncertainty, were not buying as in other years. However that was only one of the factors. Others were saturation of the market with different products and the tying up of large sums of money in those products; again large sums of money which otherwise would have been devoted to private enterprise have been invested in Government bonds.

In closing his address the speaker made reference to a statement made by Lloyd George, when referring to Magna Charta Day, June 15th, in which he said that "The friendships of the English speaking peoples was the greatest asset of the world today."

At the close of his address, Mr. Marchand was heartily thanked by Palmer Pitts for the splendid talk. Preceding the address by Mr. Marchand, the president of the Y's Men's Club called on the general secretary to propose a toast to the United States, after which the Y's Men joined in the Republic's National Anthem. The President also named his committee of nominations, namely H. Kennedy, J. Lunn and E. Conley, while the Secretary of the Club reported ninety-five per cent present.

His Lordship Mr. Justice Globensky recently rendered judgment in an unusual action taken by Joseph Blitt, of this city against Bernard Black, formerly of Sherbrooke.

Bernard Black who was, for some time, a butcher in Sherbrooke, instituted an action on March 13th, 1924, against Joseph Blitt, merchant of Sherbrooke. The fiat requiring the issue of the writ was filled in Court and on the same day a summons for $10,000 damages was issued against Joseph Blitt, at the request of Cohen, Gendron & Gauthier, of Montreal, Black's attorneys. The action was never served on Mr. Blitt and on April 22nd, last, Blitt, through his attorney Col. Emile Rioux, made a motion alleging that a writ of summons had been against him, at the request of Bernard Black, on March 13th, 1924; that the summons and the declaration had never been served upon him although residing in the city of Sherbrooke, at No. 109 London Street, where the action could have been served at any time; that defendant was interested in having the action served upon him at once as he intends contesting same and in his motion defendant asked that the plaintiff be ordered to serve the action within eight days from the service of the motion and in default that the summons and action be dismissed with costs against plaintiff.

The motion was served on plaintiff Black and his attorney's Cohen, Gendron & Gauthier, and was presented to the Court by Mr. Rioux, on May 6th.

His Lordship Globensky rendered judgment on the motion, ordering plaintiff to serve defendant within eight days from the judgment and in default the Court declared the writ null and void, the whole with costs against plaintiff.

This judgment was served upon the interested parties and as the eight days fixed by the Court have elapsed and the action has not been served the writ becomes null and void.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY.

Alderman A. C. Skinner is of the opinion that there has been too much newspaper publicity with regard to auditors' reports and City Hall controversy in general. His contention is that such publicity is harmful to the city and should, therefore, be suppressed. The local troubles were just beginning to develop when he left for his western trip and at Calgary he learned from Associated Press despatches of the resignation of four aldermen.

Alderman Skinner's protest against newspaper publicity in cases such as that which has developed in Sherbrooke's civic affairs will no doubt be endorsed by some and objected to by others and is, therefore, one of those questions to which there are two sides.

Now, just a few words with regards to the other side.

The Shurman reports relative to accounting conditions of the city for the years 1921 and 1922 were handed in at the City Hall following his audits. So far as the ratepayers were concerned, the reports were suppressed. Even some members of the Council had no knowledge of them. The policy of silence was followed. Presumably the mayor and finance committee of which Ald. Skinner was a member read them but the public was kept in the dark with regard to the muddle in the civic records.

There is no evidence that during this period of suppression anything was done in a substantial way to improve the situation.

The first intimation that anything was wrong came from Ald. Houlihan. Then Ald. Crepeau, urged on by the attacks that were being made on him, laid the whole matter before the Council and through the press it went before the people.

The controversy at the City Hall developed and the publicity continued. Four aldermen resigned and metropolitan papers gave front page reports on the Sherbrooke situation.

Reforms are never brought about silently and the withholding of information from the ratepayers because that information is unpleasant and someone outside the city may hear of it has never resulted in improved conditions. We have always protested against the tendency of the City Council to follow star chamber methods and withhold information from the public. An auditor's critical report, filed with out reading, represents money wasted and can have no effect in correcting weakness noted in the system.

There has been a good deal of publicity with regard to conditions prevailing at the City Hall, but the benefits resulting will outweigh the harm. There has been much departmental activity of late to put things into better shape and future reports of city auditors will no doubt show the results.

As for publicity, Sherbrooke has had some of late but this city is not alone in this respect. At Quebec, civic accounts got into bad shape and the government was called in to straighten things out. Quebec will be as popular with tourists as ever. At Toronto, the Home Bank failure has its headquarters and, also, the former Provincial Treasurer and leading financiers are on trial. The Queen City will go on as before. Down in Indiana they have just sent their governor to the penitentiary but the state will not be shamed out of the Union. At Washington three Cabinet members have been driven from office through the oil investigations, but Uncle Sam's credit has not been affected.

Its a good and creditable sign when the people take a hand where their representatives or paid officials have failed and this cannot be brought about without publicity.

If a sore develops in the body politic the best treatment is to let in the sun light of publicity. Under our democratic system of responsible government the cure usually follows. The revelations may not be pleasant but the fault is not with the publicity but with the wrongs or inefficiencies which exist and which will grow worse instead of better if hidden from the light.

We do not believe any community needs regret publicity if fair and in accordance with facts even though this reveals an unpleasant condition of affairs. It is the best assurance that things are on the mend. Accounting is not the only department of Sherbrooke's municipal organization from which the lid should be lifted. The revelations would not be pleasant. Cure, without publicity, is now being attempted and thus far results have been nil. It is not impossible, therefore, that there will be more publicity instead of less.

The newspapers could have ignored the auditors' reports relative to Sherbrooke's accounting system as members of the Council had done for months past. The controversies and resignations that followed could have been passed over as undesirable matter. We believe that readers in general, in such an event, would have felt and would have been justified in feeling that the press had failed in its mission as news gather and we are of the opinion that the best interests of the city as a whole have been served by this publicity, because of the influence it is exerting on behalf of improved conditions at the City Hall.

PRESS COMMENT

BOYS NEED LEADERSHIP.

(Lindsay Watchman-Warder) The most important period of a boy's life is between the ages of twelve and eighteen. Then his ideals are acquired, his character formed. In those years every boy needs to be under the influence of the right kind of a man. He needs such a man's life to supply his ideals and such a man to become his hero. Every boy is a hero worshipper. The reason so many become criminals is that they follow the wrong leaders.

MOVING PICTURES FOR SMALL TOWNS.

(Kingston Whig) As for the theatre in this country it was first brought to the small town by the moving picture. Before the introduction of the moving picture there were structures which purported to be theatres in many of the smaller towns, but the show troupes which played in them were of little worth and far apart. It is to the motion picture that rural Canada is turning for the panorama of Canadian life.

SUPPORT THE PRESIDENT.

(Winnipeg Tribune) There are those, we all know, who would destroy Sir Henry Thornton's usefulness, and incidentally scrap the National Railways, by carping, pin-pricking criticism. This contingency has to be guarded against. The source of this injury is most likely to originate among politicians; the people are wiser and more loyal to their national enterprise. The Senate would be well advised in putting its trust, in the meantime, in the man, Sir Henry, who has shown himself to have a conscientious desire to serve the public. Trust him to check up unfaithful servants under him, and support him in dealing with such as they deserve.

MACDONALD'S STAND ON "RUM-RUNNING."

(Christian Science Monitor) When he gave assurance in the British House of Commons the other day, during a discussion of the question of rumrunning from British ports and possessions into the United States, that he would communicate with officials of the Colonial and Treasury offices "and see if we can do anything to remove this disgraceful blot," Mr. Ramsay MacDonald showed clearly that he personally felt no sympathy for the efforts which have been made to overcome the American law. Of course, the question was brought up in connection with the activities of Lieut.-Col. Sir Brodrick Hartwell, in connection with his liquor smuggling business, on which he has been guaranteeing a profit of 20 per cent, and it is heartening to learn that the suggestion was again made that, if possible, his knighthood honors should be taken away from him, in view of the use he is making of them. All indications point to the fact that the forces of righteousness throughout the world are fighting on the side of the prohibition camp of America.

A MARKET IN SPAIN.

(Toronto Financial Post) According to statements made by Spanish industrial leaders at a recent trade convention, Spain will be in the market to an increasing extent for industrial equipment to be used for manufacturing purposes. With the renewed economic development of the country which is now under way, large quantities of various classes of machinery will be required. The fact was emphasized that agriculture and mining, the leading industries of the country, would permit of much more intensive development than has yet been undertaken. Canada can supply practically all of Spain's requirements in this respect. For some years a considerable quantity of Canadian-made farm implements have been sold to Spanish firms, and apparently a larger quantity will be required in the future. With effective banking facilities in Spain and a favored nations' agreement, it is expected that Canada will take her rightful share of this business.

JAPAN AND THE U. S.

(Toronto Globe) Japanese papers show resentment over the exclusion of their countrymen from the United States, and give warning that it may result in a racial quarrel much to be deplored. The business seems to have been managed with singular lack of tact. There would probably be no serious protest against measures designed to prevent the United States being flooded by Orientals, but this could be done in a manner which would not wound Japanese feelings by a suggestion of inferiority. In fact, what some Americans really object to is, not their inferiority, but their efficiency and capacity for making headway in business. Added to this is the fear of placing too heavy a strain on the American melting pot. European strains may blend, but the difficulty is immensely increased by such wide differences as are shown between Europeans and Asiatics. The Japanese, the Chinese or the East Indian may be just as good a man as his white brother, but it does not follow that a blend of the races is possible. It is a case for wise and considerate diplomatic dealing, and in this respect there is room for improvement.

FEW HINTS FOR PRODUCTION OF GOOD COMBS

Good Stock of Drawn Combs Is Most Valuable Asset that Beekeeper Can Have.

A good stock of drawn combs is the most valuable asset that a beekeeper can have, especially if one is a producer of extracted honey. They are of particular value in a season when the honey crop is light, because they enable the bees to store what little nectar is available instead of using it for the building of new comb. Every beekeeper should endeavor to have a number of new combs drawn during a good season to replace any that may become damaged or broken.

A good comb is one that is straight and containing as few drawn cells as possible. It must also be firmly attached to the frame on all four sides and strongly supported in the frame by means of wire. To produce such combs, the frames must first be tightly wired; No 28 tinned wire is most commonly used. Full depth Langstroth frames should have at least four horizontal wires, larger frames will need more. It is important that a full sheet of foundation be used for every frame; this must be fastened to the top bars and the wires firmly embedded into the wax by means of an electric or spur wire embedder. The foundation may require trimming, as it must not touch the end or bottom bars of the frame by at least one-eighth of an inch or it will buckle after giving it to the bees. Foundation well fastened in the frame will not melt down or sag and the finished comb will not have distorted cells and will not break in the extractor if carefully handled. Bees will not work on foundation unless there is a plentiful supply of nectar coming in, therefore, it should only be given during a good flow. To get the combs well attached to the frames, the foundation should be drawn out in extracting supers, as bees seldom attached the combs to the bottom bars in a brood chamber.

When extracting the honey from new combs, first take only part of the honey from one side, reverse the comb and empty the other side, again turn the comb and finish the extracting; this will prevent breakage. If all the honey is extracted from one side without removing any from the other, the weight of honey on the inner surface of the comb will crack or even break out the whole centre.

EXPERIMENT IN GROWING RED CLOVER SEED

Eleven of Sixteen Dominion Experimental Farms in Western Quebec Grew Red Clover Seed in 1923.

Eleven of the sixteen Dominion Illustration Stations in western Quebec grew clover seed in 1923. This line of work has been carried out on many of the stations since their establishment seven years ago. As a result, the farmers in many districts are growing clover seed for commercial purposes as well as for their own use. Statistics indicate that Canada imported 2,248,010 pounds of clover seed in 1922. In view of the large amount of clover seed brought into the country yearly, it would appear that clover seed-growing could be developed on a much wider scale than it is at the present time. When growing red clover seed from the second crop, as was done on these stations, care must be taken to get the first crop off early and to cut it high so as not to cut off the secondary shoots.

The dates of cutting for hay ranged from June 21, to June 27; cutting seed crop, from September 14 to October 13. The yield of seed per acre varied from 77 pounds to 170 pounds; and the cost per pound, from 8 to 19.5 cents.

It will be observed that clover cutting was general around June 21 and June 27. While these dates cannot be taken as definite for all seasons, they indicate the approximate time to cut the first crop when one wishes to grow red clover seed from the second. The development of the second growth served as a more definite guide for cutting in that the first crop should be taken off as soon as this second growth appears at the base of the plants. The above figures show that red clover seed was produced at a cost of from 8-3/4 to 19-1/2 cents per pound, prices which should warrant more farmers taking up the growing of this crop for home use as well as for sale. Clover grown from such acclimatized seed has been found by actual comparison on the Dominion Illustration Stations to be more hardy and to withstand Canadian winters better than imported seed.

The improvements in this feeder are: first, that the pressure on the descending feed is decreased by the flange at the bottom of the hopper

NOT "GAY KING ALFONSO" YOU HAVE READ ABOUT

Business-Like Ruler, Who Could Be Elected President Any Day by an Overwhelming Popular Vote

THEY say that even a cat can look at a king. But on the authority of a first-hand witness, Alexander P. Moore, United States ambassador to the Spanish court at Madrid, the palace pussy gets no more kick out of her proverbial prerogative than the felines of any other well regulated households.

The sensational stories you may have been reading about the capers of King Alfonso at Deauville and Biarritz are quite untrue, says the ambassador, who was the husband of the late Lillian Russell.

"They can't be," Mr. Moore tells Robert C. Washburn in an interview for the New York World Magazine. "The king wouldn't have time for that sort of thing, even if he wanted to. He works too hard. He works in his office just like anybody else. And he puts in a good day, too."

"One time he was late in coming out to play polo. He plays polo as a relief from his work. After the game I was chatting with him. 'I am sorry I was late,' he said. 'I always hate to be late, but I was kept by my work at the office until after five.' He very seldom is late."

"If Alfonso were not king of Spain he would be the best young business man of Europe. He is a very real power in Spain."

"After I had been in Spain some time the queen mother asked me one day, 'How do you like my boy?' It was just exactly like any other mother asking the question. 'I told her I liked him very much. 'I am glad,' she said, 'I am glad when people like him. I had such a responsibility. He was born a king, six months after his father died. I knew that at eighteen he would take over the actual responsibilities of government, that he would have to have the maturity and wisdom of twice his age. I had to educate him for this, but I didn't want to injure his health. I don't think it has.'"

"He is over six feet tall and very athletic. He loves sports. He is a crack motor car driver, the best horseman I have ever seen, and a fine polo player. He doesn't let them treat him easy when he plays either. He wouldn't play with anyone who wouldn't try to run him down if he could. And he does the same himself. When he plays, he plays hard."

When King Alfonso goes about he never has a bodyguard. There are no motorcycle policemen to run ahead and clear a path, or keep the small boys from running alongside to catch a glimpse of him. There is nothing special on his car except a small crest, just as everyone has over there. The crowds make way nevertheless. He has no secret service men to follow and protect him, as we always have for functionaries in this country. One day when I was with him I remarked to him on the subject.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Why should I have anyone to protect me? I have two hands and two eyes and two legs. He has tremendous physical courage."

"You see, as I know him he is perfectly simple and human. Alfonso was born to rule Spain, and he thinks of the whole country just as his family. He has an affection for his people and he works for them. His connection with the people is a much closer one than the connection of our people with officialdom in this country. He is king, but he goes about with less ostentation than one of our mayors. You take off your hat when you see the king, but he takes off his hat to you, too. It is the custom in Spain for men to take off their hats to each other. There is no great bowing and scraping, no carpets put down on the road for the carriages to drive over, and that sort of thing."

"It is quite unfair to Spain to talk of a change in government such as they had there last fall as a revolution. It is more comparable to an election over here. It is simply a change of ministers. The power of the king remains. He is immensely popular. No party would stand a chance for a minute if it were against the king. It is certain that if he should run for president, no one would have a chance against him."

"We associate violence with revolutions. We call Primo de Rivera a dictator. He is really a premier. There was no violence in Spain last fall. I asked Primo de Rivera one day what was the significance of this martial law that didn't seem to have changed the life of Madrid any. He said, 'Well, we just let the people know that we could enforce it if we wanted to.'"

AMERICAN POLITENESS SEEMS GOOD TO MAGUIRE

You Couldn't Want Anything More Obliging Than a Buffalo Policeman

ALFRED MAGUIRE, former mayor of Toronto, is of the opinion that American politeness at its best is fairly good. To a group of motoring men who were discussing their experiences the other day the ex-mayor related an incident that featured one of his visits to Buffalo.

"You couldn't want anything more obliging than a Buffalo policeman," said Mr. Maguire. "I drove over there one day, and when I wanted to park my car on one of the main streets I could not find a place where there was room and where there were no 'No Parking' signs. I saw a police officer standing nearby and remarked to him that it seemed rather hard to get a parking spot. 'That's right,' he said. 'It does seem pretty crowded. But we'll see what we can do.' Then he took up the 'No Parking' sign and moved it far enough up the street to let me get my car in. You can't beat that for courtesy."

Duse, Spurned, Still Acclaimed D'Annunzio as Priest of Beauty

Having Squandered the Great Tragedienne's Fortune, the Prince-Poet Cast Her Off—Made Her Feel Old—Vivisected Her in a Novel.

IN Italy, Gabriele D'Annunzio has been made a prince. In America, they have put the body of Eleonora Duse on a liner bound for home. Everything she had—name, youth and fortune—the great tragedienne sacrificed for him, only to have her innermost secrets artistically vivisected in his novel, "The Flame of Life."

Life, as they say, stages unexplainable contrasts. D'Annunzio, it is reported, will himself when the liner docks with the body of the woman whose suffering, endured because of him, brought her unenvied renown as a priest of sorrow. But announcements of the prince-poet's approaching self-destruction have appeared before.

Duse, as a matter of fact, never grew bitter towards D'Annunzio. Even on the last tragic tour of America to retrieve her diminished fortune, she emphasized that "I have a bitterness towards him now. Love is worth its price," she told Prosper Baranelli, who reports his interview in the New York World Magazine. "There is regret for the parting, but no regret for the love. It is over, but the memories are left. Gabriele D'Annunzio and I are still united in the bonds of the spirit. To me he is still the sublime master, the flame of talent, the priest of beauty."

That is how she regarded him even a few days before her death, the homage of the creator toward the thing created. For it was the enamored and worshipful Duse who carried D'Annunzio to the greatest height of his glory.

When she met him she was in her mature years, at the height of her reputation. For twenty years she had been famous as a tragedienne. Only Sarah Bernhardt disputed with her the crown of supreme eminence in the theatre. D'Annunzio had from his earliest years been a poet and novelist of precocious reputation. But he had never written plays. It was Duse who turned his mind to dramatic writing. She staged his works with everything lavish that could make them successful. She acted in them herself. She backed them with the large fortune she had earned, even when they gained no favor with the public. She even acted popular things in her repertoire to make more money to devote to the plays of her lover.

Supreme Stroke of Cruelty

BUT even at the height of her devotion, he began to inflict upon her those supreme strokes of cruelty which afterwards raised the talk of the world. Persistently unfaithful to her, he paraded the fact.

About the most ruthless form of blackmail was his notorious novel, "The Flame of Life." It came as a surprise to Duse. He did not show her the manuscript until it was done. Here she gazed upon their mutual love dissected with the coldest of scalpels. Intimate confessions of her past life were embodied without consideration or scruple.

"Will you publish this?" she asked, sadly. "Yes." "Why will you do such a thing?" "I need the money." "How much can you get for this manuscript and how much do you need?" "Ten thousand lire."

She got 10,000 lire for him and kept the manuscript. D'Annunzio spent the money, and then again upon him came the crazy need for cash. He had kept a copy of the manuscript he had given to Duse. This copy he took to a publisher and sold it.

Duse vowed she would kill D'Annunzio. But soon she was with him again, and the pit of doom was before her.

Even a more fiendish form of cruelty he had in store. "It was that he made her feel old," says Alice Nielsen, the celebrated prima donna, who played in the same theatre and lived for a while at the same villa with Duse and D'Annunzio at this time. "With a ceaseless inference in his speech and attitude he forced a palsying sense of age upon her when she was really in the very flower of her genius and beauty. To me, she seemed the more youthful and joyous of the two.

Eleonora Duse

"I remember one evening at her villa in Florence. D'Annunzio was sitting in a big, throne-like chair at the head of the table, for he always affected the pontifical. He was holding forth about women, and expressed the opinion that all women after forty should be chloroformed, as by then they had lost all attraction for men, and were, therefore, according to his warped point of view, useless to themselves or anybody else."

"You must not laugh when the great maestro gives his opinion," Duse reproved the American prima donna, who could not restrain herself at his preposterous ideas.

Glories in Hurting Women

ALL through his life D'Annunzio has seemed to glory in hurting women. There is the case of his wife, the infatuated Princess di Galles, whose fortune he squandered, before he cast her aside.

For twenty years Duse, for her part, brooded in nun-like seclusion. She felt that no blessing could ever come to her again. But with her American tour, she seemed to have recaptured her youth. Money and acclamations were showered upon her, before the end came so unexpectedly at Pittsburg from the results of a cold.

The Italians were enraged with D'Annunzio. He was a great genius, and that, in their eyes, placed him, perhaps, above the common moralities. But the woman had great talents, too. Debts came upon him. No hand helped him. He had to go into exile in France and to a much advertised romance with Ida Rubinstein, the dancer. Here he made capital out of his eccentricities. In a vault under his mantelpiece, covered with a black marble slab, he buried a beloved salamander. His pet goldfish, Lou-Pe-Li-Tel, possessed two qualities rare among human beings, he said; it was "clean and silent."

It was the war that gave D'Annunzio his chance of redemption. As famous as his poems and novels became his daring air raids. It was perhaps his oratory that brought Italy into the war on the side of the allies. It was D'Annunzio who took possession of Fiume in the name of his countrymen, in open defiance of his own government and the rest of Europe.

And now, simultaneously with the annexation of the city by Italy, comes his award, the princedom of Montenevoso. But he is still the same D'Annunzio, the most eccentric mass of contradictions on the continent. One day he is burning his sixteen military decorations on his own rock-hewn altar underneath which lies the body of his own unknown soldier. The next day he is seeking the lost fountains of youth by means of Doctor Voronoff, whose secret visits are noticed.

On his left hand middle finger, Gabriele wears a ring with a large emerald. It once belonged to Cesare Borgia. Behind the stone there is just enough space for the poison philtre that the poet has always carried with him. "You never know," he has said. "I may need it some day."

Is this day to be the day the body of Duse comes back to Italy?

ORDERLY TO MINISTER, LAUGHS AT FATE'S TRICK

HERE is a delightful little story about Mr. John Lawson, who is financial secretary to the war office.

Recently, in the course of his duties, he paid a visit to the Woolwich arsenal, in the company of several high military officers.

During the tour of inspection, Mr. Lawson was taken into the officers' mess, and was treated with all the courtesy that befitted him as a minister of the crown.

Suddenly, in the midst of it all, he began to laugh.

"Why do you laugh, sir?" asked an officer. "I can't help it," replied Lawson. "The last time I was here, I was a mess orderly!"

They Only Amuse Us

FORTUNATELY for the amusement of the world there are people who take themselves very seriously. They can keep up a quarrel for years, and often thrust an impudent tongue out from the grave by reaffirming in a will their opinion of the person they had not loved.—Yol in the Saturday Review.

Pastor's "Resurrected Man" Vanished Like Thin Smoke

Drowned Originally, But Returned to Spirit His Family Away With Him—Had One Last Fleeting Ghostly Look at the Parson

(As told by the Rev. W. B. Caswell, Simpson Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, former chaplain of the "The Little Black Devils"—the Winnipeg Rifles.)

"SOME years ago I acquired a house. I thought I had made a very wise investment, and I looked forward to enjoying the rentals therefrom, for my income was a somewhat slender one. Fate however decreed otherwise, for contemporaneously with the house I acquired a new parishioner, an Englishman, newly arrived from the old country, who was without employment and whose sole possession was a large sized family. Homeless and jobless, I felt there was nothing for me to do but put him in the house. This I did, and my rent became at the same time a matter of the purest speculation.

"For a month or so he continued to live there, and I continued to go without rent, and then one day I was informed that disaster had overtaken my tenants. The father had vanished, a pathetic little heap of clothes by the lake side being all that was left of him. Dragging operations proved of no avail, no trace of the body could be found, and so I devoted myself to doing what I could to comfort the widow and orphaned children. 'You must stay in the house,' I told them; 'it is yours as long as you wish it.' Then mentally saying farewell forever to my rentals, I returned to my own home.

"One day some months later I got another message to hurry to the house. I did so, and was met by the parishioner who had telephoned to me. She was waiting at the gate of the house, which a glance assured me had been most completely evacuated.

"It has come! It has come!" she announced hysterically.

"What has come?" I asked, rather testily, I am afraid, for the house and the tenants had proved very trying.

"Do you believe in the resurrection?" she asked.

"Yes," I replied.

"He is resurrected," she said; 'he has come back, and taken his family away with him.'"

"Sure enough my tenant, reported drowned in all the newspapers, had come to life again in some mysterious manner, reappeared and spirited his family away with him.

"I was somewhat relieved to get my house back, for the next tenant was a good rent payer, which was certainly more than 'my resurrected man,' as I called him, had ever been. I rejoiced in the mother's joy at the return of her husband, wished I could shake hands with them all around, and then prepared to forget all about the matter.

"I was destined however to see 'my resurrected man' once more. I was in the middle of a sermon, when suddenly I found myself wandering for my gaze kept turning to a face that stared at me from the centre of the congregation; it was 'my resurrected man,' and after the service I hurried cut to shake his hand and learn from his lips something of his story. But I was doomed to disappointment; he must have slipped away during the blessing, and from that day to this I have never seen him again.

First Medical Sign Painted on Shutter

Grand Old Man of Canadian Medicine Tells of Independent Days for Doctors

THERE were no medical laws sixty years ago, when Dr. J. S. Black, the grand old man of medicine in Nova Scotia, began to practice. Registration, when it was made compulsory at last, in 1873, had to be verbatim, he says in some racy reminiscences in the April bulletin of the Medical Society of Nova Scotia.

"I well remember the first medical sign I ever saw in Nova Scotia," he writes, "I think it was in 1862, at my first visit to the province, riding towards Wolfville, on the old post road. I saw a small unpainted house, on a window of which was a shutter, which I thought was a large box cover, and on this was painted, in good sized black letters, 'T. R. Jones, M.D.' I never saw the man, but he must have been a character, from the stories told of him. He was shrewd and Irish and had the very pleasant wit of his countrymen."

"One story is as follows: Someone told him that he must get a license from the medical board at Halifax, or he would be fined. Straightway he posted to Halifax for his license. He was referred there to Dr. John Slayter. The doctor saw that he had a character before him, and humored him. 'Mr. Jones,' he said, 'I understand you have a large number of cases of diphtheria in your practice.' 'I have that,' said Jones. Then the doctor asked, 'Would you tell me what is your treatment of this disease; I understand you have much success in its treatment?' 'Ah,' said Jones, in good, rich brogue, and putting his thumb to his nose, 'and wouldn't you like to know?' So ended the examination for license."

Aristocrat Joins Ranks Of London Mannequins

Miss Elizabeth Ponsonby, Daughter of Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs Appears in Fashionable Dress Parades

THOSE Ponsonbys!—London has held up its hands at their doings so long and so often that they have grown weary, but they had to be elevated again recently when it became known that Miss Elizabeth Ponsonby, daughter of Arthur Ponsonby, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, has been appearing as a mannequin in fashionable dress parades here, and proposes to continue doing so.

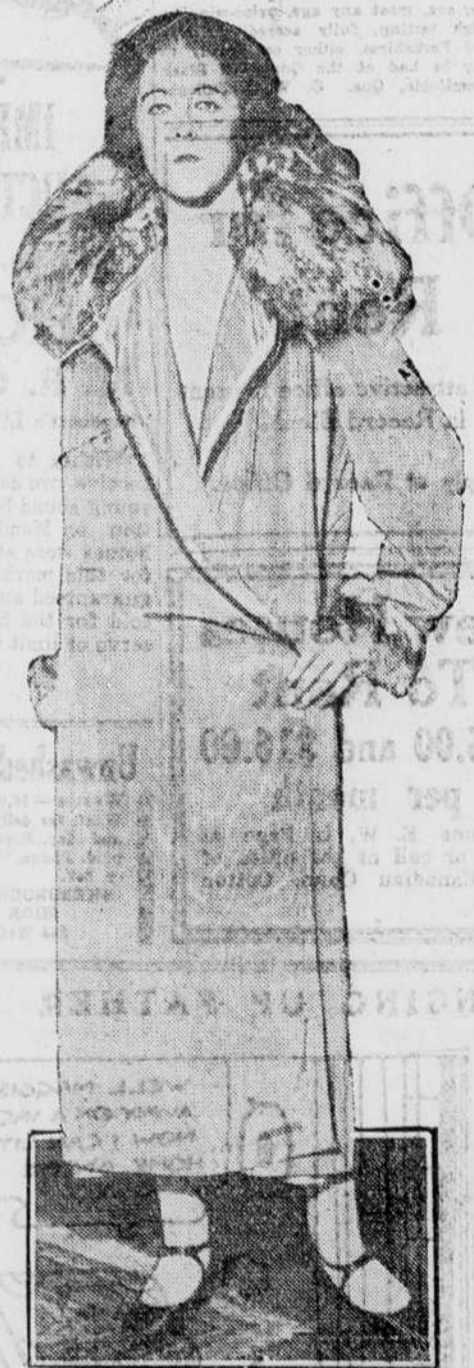

Arthur A. W. H. Ponsonby, a kinsman of the Earl of Bessborough, was once a page to Queen Victoria, and was at one time in the diplomatic service. Now he is known as one of the ablest men in the Labor contingent in parliament. It was he who electrified his friends last year by introducing a bill to abolish hereditary titles in Great Britain.

His daughter, Elizabeth, is a grand-daughter of the late Sir Hubert Parry, Bart., and of Lady Maud Parry, sister of the fourteenth Earl of Pembroke. In 1922 she startled her friends by exclusive social circles by joining the Compton Comedy Company at the Nottingham Repertory Theatre, and further surprised them by sticking to her chosen career and winning a modest success in it.

Recently it was learned that Miss Ponsonby acted as a mannequin in a fashion show last October and has been appearing in the same capacity frequently since then at fashion shows of the West End.

"I am not doing it regularly," she explained, "but at intervals, to oblige a friend. At first I got very tired standing and walking about so much, but after a little I got quite used to it. My success has been so gratifying that I have been asked to be a mannequin for Ascot races.

Some people imagine that there are but two real renting seasons each year, and that it is useless to try to find tenants at other times.

But people are renting homes and business places every day. And the advertised properties are the ones that figure in these transactions.

Truly, the renting season is over for unadvertised houses and apartments. But it is still fairly active for those landlords who utilize the classified columns persistently.

DEATHS REPORTED

MISS RUBY MIZENER, KNOWLTON

Knowlton, June 5.—Miss Ruby Mizener, who was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Mizener, of Knowlton, passed away on Friday evening, May 30, at 6.30 o'clock, at the age of 22 years and 2 days, after a long illness which she endured with Christian fortitude and cheerfulness. She was the first to break the family chain, being survived by father, mother and two brothers, Messrs. Lester, of West Bolton, and George, of Foster. The deceased was a member of the church and an active worker in church and social circles. Being very musically inclined, it was a delight to her during her whole illness for friends to drop in and play and sing the ballads she so loved to hear.

The funeral was held at the Methodist Church on Monday afternoon at one o'clock, the crowded church and beautiful flowers testifying to the high esteem in which she was held. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Hagar, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Huxtable, of South Stukely, whose church the deceased attended before moving to Knowlton. Mrs. Morgan Knowlton sang "I Shall See Him Face to Face," and the choir rendered favorite hymns. The bearers were classmates and neighbors, Messrs. Orville Williams, Guy Perkins, Claude Whitcher and Alfred Harvey.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, consisting of a spray from the C.G.I.T., of which the deceased was a member, all of whom attended the funeral in a body; sprays from the Creek, West Bolton Ladies' Circle; United Circle of Young People of West Bolton and South Stukely; Mrs. Sarah Williams, Mrs. Geo. Bril and Miss Marion Inglis; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Robb and Mrs. and Mrs. Lee Boyd; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mizener and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Swett, of Sutton; Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Taylor and Miss Burk, Westmont; Misses Margery Swett, Beatrice Swett, Ethel Spencer and Marion Phelps, of South Stukely; floral anchor, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Phelps, of West Bolton; wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Guy Duboyse, Montreal; wreath, Mrs. Walter Phelps, Mrs. W. CUBS TOPPLED OVER M'GRAW'S AGGREGATION

Giants Used Four Pitchers and a Trio of Pinch Hitters in Effort to Turn Tide of Victory.

(Associated Press Despatch) NEW YORK, June 6.—Dogging the heels of their metropolitan rivals and frantically tearing at the portals of baseball fame, the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago Cubs, the surprise teams of the 1924 season, are seriously threatening the existence of the four-time pennant bubble mythically blown by Managers McGraw and Huggins.

The Yankees, forced into idleness by dampened atmosphere, pulled into a tie with the Red Sox when the Browns lowered the colors of their Boston rivals by 5 to 2.

The Cubs, playing almost desperately, topped over the faltering Giants. McGraw despatched four twirlers to the mound, offered up a trio of pinch hitters and even swapped catchers for luck, but the Cubs were not to be denied. Vic Keen found the going quite rough, but splendid support behind him and timely hitting in the pinches by the Cubs enabled him to weather the smoldering storm, Chicago winning 6 to 4.

The Dodgers and the Reds are jockeying for position in the race for third place in the National League. Both exterminated their rivals yesterday, the Dodgers winning from the Pirates 6 to 2.

The Phillies gained on their seventh place rivals, the Cardinals, by walloping them 4 to 2.

Washington made a slight impression in Detroit's lead over the Nationals in the American League race by topping the Tigers in a free-hitting contest by 9 to 7.

The Indians and Athletics engaged in an old-fashioned slugger battle, the Indians finally emerging victorious by 5 to 4.

TOURISTS FIND WESTERN CITIES TRUE PARADISE

Beauties of Vancouver and Victoria But Little Known to the Easterner.

The two chief cities of British Columbia, Vancouver and Victoria, are among the most beautiful and interesting on this continent. The saying "See Naples and die, see Quebec and live for ever" is not wide enough to take in these delightful centres on our Pacific Coast. Of them it might be said: "See Vancouver and Victoria and re-discover Eden."

Take Vancouver: It stands as a fitting climax to the long train journey through the glories of the Canadian Pacific Rockies, for which these have prepared the traveller, an epitome to the scenic panorama Nature recites to us as we proceed westward. Its land-locked harbour, one of the finest in the world, mirrors the mountains and the primeval forest. Its great white buildings are dazzling in the sunshine. On its many hills, thousands of pretty bungalows in design reminiscent of a Swiss chalet, stand among tulips and roses. Almost in the midst of its sky-scrapers, its perfect, natural Stanley Park with its Zoo, its enormous trees and its sandy paths down which the stately couples stroll, nurses in its heart the grave of Pauline Johnson, the Indian poetess who loved it so well and who enshrined her love in deathless verse. On the broad waters of Burrard Inlet ships of all nations move their gay flags, standing out like painted boards in the breeze, some on their way to and from Europe via the Panama Canal, or South America or the magic lands of the far-off Orient. Among them the stately "Empress" liners stand out for what they are: Empresses indeed, sovereigns of the seas.

Vancouver has been rightly called "Canada's window on the Pacific." It might better still be called "Canada's Pacific portal," for through it pass men from every Asiatic race—tall Sikhs grave and dignified, in their turbans, westernized Chinese merchants and Japanese students, mingling with the cosmopolitan crowds of Canadians and Americans. Though the percentage of Orientals in Vancouver is not excessive, one finds enough of them to give the place a fascinating atmosphere. There is a real China-town, at night a place of strange shadows, where chop-uey houses flourish by the dozen, posters in black and scarlet flame upon the walls and a crowded theatre offers the spectacle of brilliantly clad actors and actresses going through their curious pantomime. Chinese and Japanese shops lure one irresistibly to explore their depths and revel in the treasures or Oriental art with which they are packed. Also there is a Hindu temple, its darkness heavy with incense, sonorous with the boom of gongs and rustling with the movement of many worshippers.

Vancouver is not only a great modern port, but is also the centre of the business of the lower mainland of British Columbia, and of the province's immense lumber trade. Beside False Creek the rip and whine of many mills is heard day and night. Their waste-burning chimneys rise up like great towers all along the creek, glowing during the hours of darkness like so many blast-furnaces, a weird and impressive sight.

INFECTION SURE IN HOME WITH TUBERCULOSIS

Eighty-five Per Cent. of Homes Where There Is Tuberculosis Become Infected.

ATLANTA, June 6.—The results of the examination of 1465 school children in four prosperous farming counties of Minnesota show that only a little over ten per cent. of these children showed positive signs of tuberculosis infection. This statement made by Dr. S. A. Slater, superintendent of the Southwestern Minnesota Sanatorium at Worthington, Minn., is as pointed out by him, in sharp contrast with the results obtained by investigators in large cities where as many as 98 per cent. of the children examined were found to be infected.

Of 551 children who gave no history of exposure to tuberculosis, only thirty of five per cent gave a positive reaction to the Von Pirquet test for tuberculosis infection. In a group of 848, where a history of tuberculosis contact or exposure was doubtful, eight per cent gave a positive reaction. But in a group of 64, where there was a positive history of exposure to tuberculosis in the family, fifty-two or 81 per cent. responded positively to the tests for tuberculosis infection. "This emphasizes," says Doctor Slater, "the fact that it is practically impossible for a child to live in a home where there is an open case without becoming infected, especially where the patient has not been instructed how to take proper precautions to prevent the spread of infection."

which is Vancouver has grown up in the past thirty-nine years, the foundations of the city having been laid when the directors of the Canadian Pacific came out on the new-built, trans-continental line and selected the site as the company's Western terminus. The city has since been once burnt to the ground. But Vancouver hardened and improved through contact with fire.

Four hours' sailaway, beyond the Straits of Georgia, is Victoria, at the southern end of Vancouver Island, a city which is perhaps the fairest Jewel in Canada's bright crown. One approaches Victoria through a labyrinth of rocky, pine-crested islands, after many twists and turns, as one should approach royalty. The fact is appropriate, for Victoria is truly regal, as much so as the great queen whose name she bears.

She is essentially a home city, clean and bright and fresh as a wood-nymph, which she so closely resembles. Industries are there, of course, some of them very powerful, and great ships come and fleets to call upon her and she knows what modern trade and commerce mean. But she is, above all else, a city for those who love beauty and peace. Secure among her flowers, in her refreshingly mild climate, knowing "neither hail or wind nor any snow", she languishes away the years, content merely to be beautiful.

They call Victoria "a bit of Old England", which she undoubtedly is, as much so as an English girl some years out from home. This is partly due to her long career as a garrison town for Imperial troops and a base for the Royal Navy; and partly due to the fact that so many English people, seeking a country approximating as closely as possible to the Motherland they knew, drift gradually and steadily westward until at last, with a sigh of content, they cast anchor in this island which is as much like England as any Canadian island can be. Victoria looks English, feels English; and, again, is English.

From Victoria the visitor may sail forth into the heart of Vancouver Island, which offers many inducements. A thousand miles of splendid motor highway penetrate its forest depths. Picture after picture, of quiet lake, in land sea and tree-clad mountain, opens out before one on every side. The fishing is magnificent. Cougars, or mountain lions, may be hunted in remote fastnesses. Frequent beaches of the type so often read of and so seldom met with summon one irresistibly to "Come on in, the water's fine". There are lumber camps, Jap fishing boats, Siwash Villages (on the western coast) with grotesque totem poles in their streets, and a thousand other interesting and romantic things to see.

Altogether the coastal cities of British Columbia, with the districts surrounding them, are, in their own distinctive way, as pleasant to visit and as beautiful as anything farther south on the Pacific seaboard.

(Associated Press Despatch) ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 6.—Discovery in an antiseptic developed in the late war of a drug which promises to prove a positive cure for sleeping sickness, until now one of the most baffling of diseases, was announced to the convention of the American Psychiatric Association at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel today by Dr. E. A. Strecker and Dr. G. F. Willey, both attached to the Pennsylvania Hospital for Mental Diseases at Philadelphia. Drs. Strecker and Willey described the new drug as "neutral acriflavine." It is injected into the veins of the patient and has already proved successful in a number of cases in the Philadelphia institution. Finding of the drug, the doctors said, served to overcome one of the most difficult obstacles in the treatment of sleeping sickness, which has been the discovery of a medicine which could penetrate the tissues without destroying them.

Cycling Far Easier than Walking

FRANK Jones used to complain about his feet getting so hot and aching from his long walks to and from work on the hard roads and pavements. One day when he felt more tired, and his feet hurt him worse than usual, he happened to see a man going by on a bicycle.

"Cycling is far easier than walking," said Frank to himself. And all day long while he was working that thought kept running through his mind.

That night, on the way home, he dropped into a C.C.M. dealer's and looked over the different C.C.M. models, choosing one that suited him in every way.

Since then Frank's feet have had a much easier time and he's quit complaining. In fact, he's boasting now about how fine and fresh he feels since he started cycling.

He also tells how quickly and easily he cycles to work and home again—how he saves the shoe leather he used to wear out on the hard cement walks—how he saves valuable time by cycling instead of walking.

If you gave Frank a chance he would tell you all about the C.C.M. Triplex Crank Hanger—the wonderful power plant that responds to the slightest pressure on the pedals and makes the C.C.M. run so smoothly, quietly and easily.

He would show you the strong, powerful frames of English Seamless Tubing—the bright silvery nickeling that won't rust because it is done over copper—the sparkling enamel that is baked on over a coat of anti-rust so it will stand rain, snow and all kinds of weather—the new Gibson Pedal with its rust-proof aluminum frame—and the C.C.M. Hercules Coaster Brake that coasts so easily, has such braking power, and is ounces lighter than the old-style side-arm type.

The C.C.M. dealer will, also, be glad to tell you all about the C.C.M. and to show you the new models—the Standard, the Special, the Sport model, the C.C.M. Flyer, the Curved Bar model.

Prices are $15 to $20 lower than the "peak" prices. A Big Dollar's value for every dollar you invest in a C.C.M.
