LIBERAL CHIEF DENIES EXPENSES PAID BY BEAUHARNOIS COMPANY

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King Admitted, However, that When Leaving Bermuda He Found that Senator McDougald Had "in Part Settled Account of Myself and Senator Haydon"—House Passed New Australian-Canadian Trade Treaty Without Division After a Lengthy Discussion.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 23.—A denial that any bills of the Beauharnois Company were paid by the House of Commons yesterday by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader. Referring to the evidence presented before the special parliamentary committee inquiring into the Beauharnois Power project, Mr. King stoutly denied the company had paid his and Senator Haydon's travelling expenses while on a vacation in Bermuda two years ago. It was "wholly erroneous" and misleading. In addition, never on that trip or on any other occasion had he discussed with Senator W. L. McDougald anything pertaining to the Beauharnois project.

After a day-long discussion the House passed the new Canada-Australia Trade Treaty without division. General acclaim for the underlying principle of development of Empire trade was expressed by members on all sides, but the Liberals, in particular, were sceptical of the treaty being of any material value to Canada because of the very high tariffs on Canadian goods must surmount before entering the Australian market.

Obviously affected by the circumstances, his face pale and speaking in a low, restrained voice, Mr. King said he had been "horrified" when informed that a voucher had been produced before the Beauharnois committee, purporting to cover his and Senator W. L. McDougald's expenses on a trip to Bermuda two years ago. It was revealed at the committee hearing that this voucher was included, through error, in Senator McDougald's personal expenses account which the Beauharnois company, being paid in the usual manner, without the Senator's knowledge or consent, his secretary passed it on to the Beauharnois company when making up Senator McDougald's personal account.

In the first place, said the Liberal leader, Senator McDougald was not his travelling companion on the Bermuda trip. He made the trip with Senator Andrew Haydon, Senator McDougald joining them for a few days at the islands.

When leaving Bermuda, said Mr. King, he found that Senator McDougald had "in part settled the account of myself and Senator Haydon."

"Senator McDougald," he continued, "did not pay any expenses whatever of either Senator Haydon or myself for transportation from Ottawa to Bermuda either by land or water, nor did he pay any transportation whatever from Bermuda back to Ottawa. All he did was pay, himself, some of the hotel expenses while he had been a guest with Senator Haydon and myself there."

His first conversation in visiting Bermuda, proceeded Mr. King, was to enjoy a much-needed vacation. The second was to determine the effect of the contemplated Dunning Budget upon the fruit and vegetable growers of the islands. Not a cent of his expenses, he concluded, had been charged against "any account of the Government or any organization or company of which I had any personal knowledge whatever."

SENATE DEFERS IDENTITY CARD BILL HEARING

Amendments to Pensions Act Discussed During Senate Session Yesterday.

OTTAWA, July 23.—Third reading of Senator C. P. Beaubien's bill to provide for alien identification cards was held over until today, after a rather lengthy debate in the Senate yesterday. When Mr. Beaubien moved third reading of the measure, Senator Dandurand asked what method was to be adopted for identifying gunmen and other bandits who invade Canada from the south.

Senator Beaubien replied that every person who crossed the line had to register. He said the Immigration Department had objected to the proposal that Americans who came to Canada to reside or not should be obligated to take out an identification card, and therefore Americans were excluded from the operation of this measure.

Senator Dandurand: "So that suspicious characters who invade our towns and cities remain under the control of the police and on suspicion can be arrested and have their records investigated?"

Senator Beaubien replied that he knew the law was not satisfactory to those who wish it applied to all aliens, but that the committee felt it should follow the recommendations of the Immigration branch.

He thought this bill included Americans and he thought it a mistake for the Senate to enact such a half-baked measure. Canada had suffered far more from aliens whom this bill would not begin to reach.

Senator Beaubien replied the bill had the approval of the Immigration Department, and the measure would not apply to incoming Americans. It did require Americans to register at the border. Those Americans in Canada who had been here for five years and had not taken out naturalization papers would not be affected by the bill.

The bill amending the Pensions Act was given its third reading. Senator Willoughby on the second reading said the number of pensions disposed of by the pension tribunal was 2,151.

They averaged 100 per week and it was expected by increasing the number of members of tribunals to raise the average to 140 each per week. There remained undisposed before the tribunals 27,678 applications for pension.

Hon. Dr. King argued that in increasing the number of members of tribunals consideration should be given the members of the appeal court which was abolished last year. Hon. Senator Dandurand stressed the importance of appointing good men. It was heavy work and required great courage to do justice both to the applicant and to the federal treasury. They wanted to do the right thing by the soldiers, but should not permit abuses that were seen in the United States pension laws following the Civil War.

Clarence H. Mackay, 57, head of the Postal Telegraph Company, and Anna Case, 42, former soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who were quietly married in a surprise ceremony at Mackay's Long Island estate, are shown here. This is Mackay's second marriage. Ellen Mackay, a daughter, married Irving Berlin, the song writer, in 1926.

DECISION WAS RENDERED BY PRIVY COUNCIL

Appeal of Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada from a Decision of Supreme Court of Canada in Dispute With Superintendent of Insurance Allowed With Costs.

LONDON, Ont., July 23.—The appeal of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada from a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in a dispute with the Dominion Superintendent of Insurance was allowed with costs, by the judicial committee of the Privy Council today.

The judgment disposes of a case arising out of a desire for the correct definition of the terms of the Sun Life's charter involving its capitalization. In 1868 through its original act of incorporation the Sun Life's capital was set at $4,000,000. In 1871 the act was amended and contained a slightly ambiguous clause, and it is this the company wished to have clarified. The Sun Life claimed a capitalization of $4,000,000, but the Dominion Superintendent of Insurance, G. D. Finlayson, struck it out from the official returns, setting the capital at $2,000,000. The company originally introduced a bill before Parliament seeking to clarify its charter. This bill was opposed by the Superintendent of Insurance for three sessions. Finally a compromise was reached by which the case was referred to the court, an appeal was made to the Exchequer Court, which agreed with the Superintendent of Insurance. The company then appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, which by three to two judges dismissed the case. Following the close decision of the Supreme Court the company decided to take the case to the Privy Council.

AN IMPORTANT NEW DISCOVERY IS ANNOUNCED

Termed Greatest Victory in the Isolation of Bacteria Since Discoveries of Pasteur.

EVANSTON, Ill., July 23.—Dr. Arthur I. Kendall, professor of bacteriology at Northwestern University, in a lecture last night announced the discovery of what his colleagues termed the most important victory in the isolation of bacteria since the discoveries of Pasteur.

Addressing a gathering of scientists, physicians and educators, Dr. Kendall said his findings opened the way to determining the exact source of certain diseases heretofore shrouded in mystery.

These diseases, colleagues at Northwestern said, included influenza, infantile paralysis, rheumatism and sleeping sickness.

While Dr. Kendall's experiments so far have been limited, he surmised that a majority, if not all, known bacteria can be subjected to his new method of isolation.

In commenting on the bacteriologist's discovery, Dr. Edward C. Rosenow, head of this department at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., said "new fundamental facts have here been learned about the unsolved problems of medical science."

Dr. Kendall has been on the Northwestern staff since 1910.

Non-Aggression Pact and Commercial Working Pact Between France and Russia Forecast.

PARIS, July 23.—A non-aggression pact and a commercial working agreement between France and Russia were forecast in international circles today.

It was learned that at the suggestion of Moscow the French Foreign Office is actively engaged in drafting the terms of the non-aggression pact as a supplement to France's recent action annulling her decrees against Russian dumping, especially of wheat.

Russia has denounced her decrees which prevented purchases in France. It is understood a Russian commission is due in Paris soon to negotiate the placing of large

LAST WITNESS MAKES APPEARANCE BEFORE BEAUHARNOIS COMMITTEE

Investigators Retire to Prepare Special Report—Auditor States "Water" Exceeds Seven Million Dollars—Sweeney Accepts Responsibility for Payments to Political Parties.

OTTAWA, July 23.—The total cost of the Beauharnois project to date is $29,753,816, F. King, auditor, told the special committee investigating the power development at its closing session yesterday. Of this sum slightly over seven millions represented "water" and not water power. To G. H. Montgomery, chief Beauharnois counsel, Mr. King admitted that he had not taken into consideration any value that might be attached to the company's charter from Quebec or the approval of its plans by the Government.

When referring to campaign fund contributions, Mr. Sweeney said there had been "Mac" approval" by the board of directors to their payment. He explained the money had been paid by Beauharnois to a company owned entirely by him. He was responsible for the repayment of the sums, and already had paid back a considerable proportion.

Peter White, K.C., committee counsel, advised it was impossible to locate for examination the secretary of Senator W. L. McDougald. It was stated yesterday by the Senator his secretary, through error, had included in an expense account of his the expenses of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King for a trip to Bermuda two years ago.

K. M. Cameron, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, when put on the stand by Mr. Montgomery, said the Saint John power development was an example of a company which, after receiving the approval of the Dominion for its original plans, altered them and had not been requested to re-submit them for further consent.

No legal arguments will be presented to the committee, it was decided today. It will be necessary to hold several examinations in camera where the report is being considered but no further evidence will be submitted.

At the opening of the morning session Achille Bergevin, of Montreal, was called by Peter White, committee counsel. Mr. Bergevin said his only reason for wishing to appear before the committee was to correct an erroneous impression about himself given in previous testimony.

For 34 years Mr. Bergevin had been interested in power developments along the St. Lawrence and he told the committee he had studied the Beauharnois project several years before either R. O. Sweeney or incorporation of the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company by the Robert heirs. For a number of years he represented Beauharnois county in the Quebec Legislature.

Mr. Bergevin filed with the committee a long series of letters touching on the Beauharnois project development and also the first plans made in 1882 by John Sullivan.

In answer to Hon. W. A. Gordon chairman of the committee, Mr. Bergevin said he had received from Beauharnois 1,550 class A shares and $3,500. He had sold the stock at between $10 and $12 a share. "It wasn't given you for your 'nuisance value' was it?" the chairman asked. That was all he had received, the witness replied, for years of work in attempting to promote the enter-

BANK OF ENGLAND RATE WAS RAISED TODAY AS PROTECTIVE MEASURE

LONDON, July 23.—The bank rate was raised today from two and one-half to three and one-half per cent. The increase in the bank rate was decided upon by the directors of the Bank of England as a protective measure, made necessary because of the outflow of gold which, during the week ended yesterday, totalled $15,219,704 (about $76,000,000).

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE TO PROCEED WITH CASE

Charges Against Leo Bouchard, Former Civil Service Commissioner, Likely to Be Heard This Fall.

OTTAWA, July 23.—The Ottawa Citizen says today it has learned the Department of Justice intends to proceed in court this fall with charges standing against J. D. Leo Bouchard, of Ottawa, former Civil Service Commissioner. The charges, embracing forgery and fraud, are connected with alleged wrongful marking of examination papers entered by candidates for postal work in Montreal.

Some months ago Bouchard was found not guilty of conspiring with Lionel Chartrand, former income tax branch employee, to have examination papers marked so that certain Montrealers might enter the Postal Department. The allegation was that these men had paid sums ranging up to $500 into the so-called "job ring."

Following preliminary hearing in Montreal recently, Chartrand was committed for trial in that city early this September on charges of fraud against the Government in accepting money from men in Montreal and district on representation that he could secure civil service posts for them.

LINDBERGH'S IN READINESS FOR ORIENT FLIGHT

Flight Will Cover Nearly 7,000 Miles, Which Is Almost Half Distance Flown by Post and Gatty.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has announced that he and his wife will take off next week on their flight to the Orient. He was not ready to name the day of his departure because it had not been determined upon.

His route lies over Canada, the Hudson bay district and through northern Alaska, down the eastern coast of Siberia to Tokyo. He will then fly to China, but their itinerary in that area has not been fixed.

Before starting for the Orient, Colonel Lindbergh said he would go to Washington for a final conference with State Department officials, and to obtain clearance papers.

Whether he will head for Canada from Washington or return first to New York still is to be decided. The remodeled Lockheed Sirius racing monoplane which Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh will use now is at a pontoon factory at College Point, Long Island, undergoing final adjustments. It will be ready in two or three days.

The Lindberghs' first stop will be Ottawa, Ont., where, he has informed, United States Minister Hanford MacNider, they will spend the night there.

Col. Lindbergh has emphasized that the flight is in the nature of a vacation, and no definite schedule will be maintained.

After Ottawa the Lindberghs will touch at Moose Factory on James Bay, Churchill on the western side of Hudson Bay, Baker's Lake, Akavik, and Point Barrow and Nome, Alaska.

From Nome they will head for eastern Siberia, stopping first at Karaginsk, then Petropavlovsk on the Kamchatka Peninsula, Nemuro, Japan and Tokyo. At Tokyo refueling and other preparations will be made for the trip into China.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's route to Tokyo, via Point Barrow in the Arctic Circle, will cover nearly 7,000 miles, computed by rough draft maps on an air line. This is almost half the distance flown by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in their recent trip around the world.

NEW SOUTH WALES CARRYING OUT ECONOMIC PROGRAMME. SYDNEY, New South Wales, July 23.—Premier J. T. Lang, of New South Wales, gave notice in the State Legislative Assembly today of his intention to introduce a bill at the next sitting to lower the salaries of civil servants to a maximum of $2,500 a year. This is in accord with the economy recommendations of the recent conference of premiers at Melbourne.

SCHEME TO RELIEVE GERMANY OF HER TROUBLES HAS BEEN DEVISED

Conference of Seven Powers Finally Came to Agreement—British, United States and Italian Delegates Express Satisfaction at Situation—German Chancellor Unusually Grave Following Meeting.

LONDON PAPERS PREDICTING A NEW ALLIANCE

Germany, Great Britain and United States Believed to Have Drawn Closer as Result of Parley.

LONDON, July 23.—The Seven Power Conference concluded today. Its results, as forecast last night, were two-fold. It recommends the following proposals to the leading banks of the respective countries for relieving the immediate situation in Germany.

(1) That the central bank credit of $100,000,000 granted to the Reichsbank under the auspices of the Bank for International Settlements be renewed on maturity for a period of three months.

(2) That concerted measures should be taken by the financial institutions in different countries with a view to maintaining the volume of credit they have already extended to Germany.

The conference also recommends that the Bank for International Settlements should be invited to establish without delay a committee of representatives nominated by the governors of the central banks to enquire into the immediate further credit needs of Germany and study the possibilities of converting a portion of the short-term credits into long term ones.

The conference further considers that if these measures are carried through they will form the basis of more permanent action.

The conference thus confined itself to immediate relief for Germany. Its proposals aim at stemming the rapidly ebbing tide of credits. The conference leaves the permanent problem untouched.

As the delegates said their good-byes today they all voiced their appreciation of the general spirit of goodwill and co-operation. Nevertheless the Germans showed obvious disappointment that more was not accomplished. The common criticism head in London was that the conference had done little more than the central banks themselves might have accomplished.

Yet apart from its decisions the conference, coupled with the preliminary conversations in Paris, may have a wide effect on Franco-German relations.

"I hope," Premier Laval, of France, said significantly, that the conversations between the French and German ministers in Paris may be the prelude to a series of similar conversations leading to political co-operation between France and Germany."

Chancellor Brüning emphasized the importance of Franco-German co-operation. It was very different that in circumstances like the present that statesmen of different nations should meet together as often as possible, he said.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald said, "we are very well pleased. An agreement between seven powers is not easy to get, but it has been reached and it will be of greatest importance in helping Germany."

Chancellor Brüning hurried out of the Foreign Office, pausing long enough to say that he had to leave right away. He appeared unusually grave.

The Chancellor and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius are to have a private talk tonight with Secretaries Stimson and Mellon, who will be their guests at dinner. It was explained that the conversations to be held in Berlin with Premier Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary, Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson will be postponed until Monday because Dr. Brüning wants to show the United States representatives conditions in Germany first.

"It looks pretty bad," one of the financial experts with the German delegation said, "help in the form of cash is not forthcoming, and the Chancellor's position will be very difficult when he returns to Berlin. I wonder if Mr. Stimson will see things in a different light when he gets to Germany."

Mr. Stimson himself told a correspondent as he left the Foreign Office that he was "thoroughly satisfied." Dino Grandi, the Italian Foreign Minister, said, "I am very happy over the result."

THE WEATHER

FAIR AND A LITTLE COOLER. Pressure continues low over Eastern Canada and a trough extends southward from the Lower Lakes, with high pressure over Manitoba and Minnesota. Light to moderate showers have occurred in the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Northern Ontario. It has been fair in Southern Ontario and in the Canadian West, and temperature has been very high in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

TERMS OF AGREEMENT ARE EXPLAINED IN COMMUNIQUE

LONDON, July 23.—An official communique issued at the close of the Seven Power Conference on relief for Germany today said:

"The international conference has concluded its labors. The following declaration was adopted:

"The recent excessive withdrawals of capital from Germany have created an acute financial crisis. These withdrawals have been caused by a lack of confidence which is not justified by the economic and budgetary situation of the country."

"In order to insure maintenance of the financial stability of Germany, which is essential in the interest of the whole world, the Governments represented at the conference are ready to co-operate, so far as lies within their power, to restore confidence."

The Twins Learn Fast

If you remember what you're taught, You'll seldom be by trouble taught. —Mrs. Fleetfoot.

"We'll remember that, too," promised Kid Antelope.

There is a world of truth in that saying of Mrs. Fleetfoot's. The trouble with most of us is that we forget what we learn, and forget ten knowledge is of no use whatever. It is those who learn quickly and remember what they learn who most easily avoid trouble. No one knows this better than Mrs. Fleetfoot the Antelope, so she took great pains to teach the twins, Kid Antelope and his sister, the things that they should know, and she made them understand from the beginning that remembering the things they were taught was quite as important as learning them in the first place, and often would be the means of saving their lives.

Now baby Antelopes are not like little human babies, helpless for a long time. It is only for the first week or two that they spend most of the time securely hidden. By the time they are two weeks old they can follow Mother and use those slim little legs of theirs with astonishing speed for such little people. Of course, they cannot run fast for long distances. That requires some strength. But by the time they can follow Mother, they have learned well the lessons of instant obedience and hiding by lying perfectly still. So it is necessary for them to run long distances to escape enemies. They just simply hide at Mother's signal.

Mrs. Fleetfoot knew that Speed-foot the Coyote and Mrs. Speedfoot and King Eagle and Mrs. Eagle knowing of those twins it wouldn't be safe to leave them long in any one place lest they be found by accident, so each morning before daylight she led them a short distance and then carefully hid them. All through the day she fed and kept watch a short distance from them, going to them only to feed them, and then when she was sure that no keen eyes were watching her.

"My dears," she would say, "always keep watch of the white around my tail. When you see that suddenly grow twice as big as it usually is, drop instantly where you are and lie perfectly still. You will know that I have seen possible danger."

"Yes'm," replied Kid Antelope very promptly. "Yes'm," replied his twin sister. "And never forget it," warned Mrs. Fleetfoot.

"No'm," replied the two, and they never did. Many times a day Mother would suddenly flash that signal and down would drop the twins and never so much as lift a head until she called to them. Sometimes she would steal back to see how well they were obeying. Even then, although they knew she was there, they would not move until she told them to.

"There are other signals made with that white patch which you will learn later as you grow older," she told them. "Sometimes you will see white flashes so far away that you cannot see the ones who make them, but you will know that they are made by other Antelopes who have discovered you and are signalling you to join them. As you grow older you will have just such a signal patch and will learn how to use it. If we should be found after dark and have to run, you will be able to see my signal patch and follow me. At such a time you must never take your eyes from that white spot ahead of you. Never forget that."

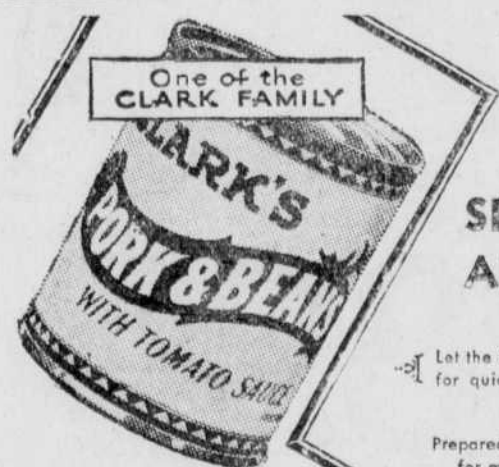

"We won't," replied the twins together. And they never did. "Your eyes are most important, but your noses are even more so," continued Mrs. Fleetfoot. "The flash of the signal patch doesn't always mean danger, but when you see it there comes to your nose an odor of musk it does mean danger."

"We'll remember that, too," promised Kid Antelope.

So the twins, even though they were very young, began to learn the important things of Antelope life and they learned fast.

E. T. REGIMENT VETERANS PLAN GREAT REUNION

Country Fairs to Be Scene of Gathering of Former Members of 117th Eastern Townships Regiment.

Of all the units of the Canadian army that went overseas, probably none was closer to the hearts of the people of the Eastern Townships than the 117th Overseas Battalion. The regiment was composed principally of Eastern Townships boys, the majority of whom are still residents of the district, and with the idea of forming an association to perpetuate the history of the unit, forty-five former members gathered at the Sherbrooke Regimental Armory for the purpose of forming a regimental association.

As an initial step to this end, it was decided that a re-union of former members be held in the near future at one of the county fairs, when the election of officers will take place. This re-union will take the form of a all day picnic, the date to be announced in the near future.

Members have also under consideration the publication of a history of the unit, and communications have been opened with the Records Office, at Ottawa, so that all data on file there will be available for the historians. The members charged with this task hope to have the preliminary work completed in time for the re-union this fall.

Col. Sam Eichenberg and Sgt. Major E. Kingsland, of Magog, were appointed joint secretaries of the association with full power to make all arrangements for the re-union.

In addition to those in attendance at the meeting, letters were read from many former officers and men, all of whom promised their co-operation and attendance if the gathering was held at a week-end, so the decision was arrived at to hold the re-union on a Saturday.

RUTH AND HIS MATES AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT

Ruth Registered Two Homers and Gehrig One Yesterday—Chicago Climbed Back into Third Place at Expense of Boston.

NEW YORK, July 23.—When nominations open for the champion "hard luck" player of the 1931 baseball season, Remy Krenner, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is in line for a good many votes.

Krenner has been pitching a fairly good brand of ball, but he pitches seldom have backed him up, and as a result he is far down the National League list with only six victories against twelve defeats. So far he has pitched 160 innings and allowed 104 hits. Yesterday the Pirate hurler suffered another setback to make it four defeats in his last five starts, three of them by one run margins. Krenner pitched eight shutout innings against Brooklyn in his second game of yesterday's double-header, but lost a three to two decision. One bad inning, the second, when three hits and a bad throw by Traynor gave the Robins all their runs.

Pittsburgh won the first game by ten to six when the Brooklyn defense went to pieces in the sixth inning just as Joe Shauts hit a line drive.

The Chicago Cubs furnished the real feature for the National League yesterday as they edged out Boston by five to four in an eleven inning clash and climbed back to third place in the standing. Woody English made the winning wallops, a single that brought in Hemley.

John McGraw came back to the New York Giants' bench and promptly saw his team drop to fourth place through a four to three defeat at the hands of the Cincinnati Reds. Although McGraw shook up the batting order, the Giants could not hit Red Lucas effectively. Philadelphia and St. Louis were routed out.

With the American League race looking more and more like a cut and dried affair, the New York Yankees stepped out to grab a share of the limelight. The Yanks got only an even break with Detroit, losing the first game by three to two as George Uhle held them to six hits and winning the second by nine to five. But Babe Ruth clouted two homers and Lou Gehrig one, and Ben Chapman stole his thirty-seventh base, all in the second game.

Philadelphia's Athletics increased their margin to nine full games with their ninth straight triumph. The A's landed on Mel Harder in the seventh to beat Cleveland as Rube Walberg turned in his fourteenth victory of the season, while Washington took a beating from the St. Louis Browns. Two Senator moundmen, Crowder and Burke, proved easy for the Browns, yielding fifteen hits, while Sammy Gray granted only six.

Deep in the second division, the Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox put on a good private scrap, dividing a double bill. Boston took the first game by three to two in a fine pitching duel between Danny MacFadyen and Red Faber, while Chicago pounded out a nine to three triumph in the second clash as Al Thomas continued the good mound work and Johnny Watwood led a fifteen-hit attack with five safe wallops.

TENNIS GAMES WERE PLAYED AS SCHEDULED

Inclement Weather Did Not Cause Single Cancellation in Last Evening's Carded Matches—Two Seeded Teams Eliminated in Ladies' Doubles.

Despite the inclement weather which threatened to cause the postponement of the City Tennis Championship Tournament matches scheduled for last evening, the sun co-operated with the local officials to run off all games according to schedule. As a result, four of the five events are in an advanced stage. No matches in the mixed doubles division have been played to date, but on the slate for tomorrow appear four contests in this section.

Men's and ladies' doubles predominated the play last evening. Two upsets marked the progress of play in this section. Misses Bernadette Langis and Evelyn Veilleux, seeded number three, fell before the strokes of Misses Anita Toule and Annette Coderre in straight sets, while Misses Joyal and Blouin, ranked number four, succumbed to Misses Forest and Tremblay in a match which required three sets.

Two matches in the men's doubles also went to three sets. The closest game was between Litch Crochetiere and Maurice Jarsons against Leo Gagne and R. Vincent. Gagne and Vincent captured the initial set at 7-5, but Crochetiere and Jarsons evened matters with a 6-4 verdict in the second set. After establishing an early 3-0 lead, and later a match point lead at 5-3, Crochetiere and Jarsons were finally defeated 7-5. There was little to choose between the two pairs. Baily and Simoneau were also forced to three sets before they could dispose of Norman Lowe and Ash Wheeler. The winners won the first set at 7-5, but were only able to capture on game in the second set as Lowe and Wheeler rallied to win at 6-1. Baily and Simoneau took the deciding set at 6-4. Workman and Echenberg accounted for a good pair in R. Gagne and Lenny Wolfe, winning by a count of 7-5 and 6-3, while the present titleholders, Gregoire and Bertrand, advanced with a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Royer and Fortier.

In the only ladies' singles match played, Mrs. Lowe advanced to the semi-finals when she drove her way to a 6-4, 6-2 victory over her doubles partner, Miss Helen Wolfe.

The results of the games yesterday are:
Men's doubles—Lanctot and Ledoux defeated Harper and Coombs, 6-1, 6-0; Reid and Hammond defeated Smith and Cook, 6-1, 6-4; Baily and Simoneau defeated Lowe and Wheeler, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4; Bertrand and Gregoire defeated Royer and Fortier, 6-4, 6-2; Workman and Echenberg defeated Wolfe and R. Gagne, 7-5, 6-3; Mac Dunsmore and Pim Crochetiere defeated Bob Dunsmore and McCullough, 6-3, 7-5; Langis and Biron defeated Mooney and Kelly, 7-5, 6-1; L. Gagne and R. Vincent defeated Crochetiere and Jarsons, 6-4, 6-5, 7-5; Rouleau and Richard defeated R. and G. Labrecque, 6-3, 6-0.

Ladies' doubles—Misses Adams and Bradley defeated Misses F. and T. Boisvert, 6-1, 6-2; Misses Houle and Coderre defeated Misses Langis and Veilleux, 8-6, 6-1; Misses Forest and Tremblay defeated Misses Joyal and Blouin, 6-4, 6-5, 6-3; Misses Daignault and Goyette defeated Misses Fitzgerald and Von Berg, 6-1, 6-1.

Ladies' singles—Mrs. N. Lowe defeated Miss H. Wolfe, 6-4, 6-2.

MIXED DOUBLES FEATURE DRAW FOR TOMORROW.
Mixed doubles feature the draw for tomorrow. Two singles matches are also carded. In the hope of running off many games on Saturday afternoon, a revision of the schedule will be made in case the courts are not in fit condition tomorrow evening.

The games carded for tomorrow are:
At St. Francis Courts—At 5:00 p.m., court number one, Miss Evelyn Murray and Hugh Crochetiere vs. Miss Isabel Mitchell and Carvel Hammond; court number two, winner of Gregoire vs. Echenberg will play Dr. Dubergier. At 6:00 p.m., court number one, Mr. and Mrs. N. Lowe vs. A. W. Reid and Miss Olga Reid; court number two, Miss H. Wolfe and A. Ledoux vs. Miss M. Moore and G. Cote.

At the Country Club Courts—At 5:00 p.m., court number one, Miss B. Langis and R. Langis vs. Miss B. Bradley and Bob Dunsmore; at 6:00 p.m., winner of Rouleau vs. Workman will play L. Wolfe.

DANVILLE DEFEATED THET-FORD MINES IN FRIENDLY MATCH
DANVILLE, July 22.—A most interesting day's golf was staged at Danville on Saturday, July 18th, when Danville received the Thetford Mines club in the second of their annual home and home games. These annual games are looked forward to with much enthusiasm and Saturday's proved one of the most interesting yet held in the series. Earlier in the season, the Danville club journeyed to Thetford, where they were quite badly beaten and thus the victory on Saturday in a measure satisfied their desire to turn the tables.

A team of sixteen players, accompanied by a goodly number of ladies, made the trip and enjoyed the hospitality of the home club, where weather and playing conditions were at their best.

ANNUAL MIXED FOURSOME SET FOR SATURDAY

A Large Entry Expected—Course Is in First Class Shape, With New Eleventh Green Ready—Entries Close Saturday Noon.

Of all the events held at the Sherbrooke Country Club each year, few, if any, attract the interest that is displayed in the annual mixed foursome competition, which will be played on Saturday afternoon. The fixture, which is open to all lady and gentlemen members of the club, is a two-ball handicap competition, and partners will be drawn for immediately preceding the match.

With the whole course in the best of condition, an unusually large entry is expected, with many wishing to try the new eleventh green, which has just been placed in operation.

For the convenience of entrants, entry lists have been posted at the club house, or entries may be made with Mr. Philip Robins not later than Saturday noon.

Following the match a special dinner will be served at the club house.

NOT FOR SIBERIA WILL WE SACRIFICE CANADA.

The only protest against the cessation of business relations with Russia and the abrogation of all trade arrangements comes from the entry port of Vancouver, where an harbour and grain elevators were built with Government aid for the export of Canadian wheat. Russian wheat had well-nigh made these elevators just an harbour sky-line, but still the Vancouver editors see naught but an economic blunder in Canada's declaration of distrust of Russia, its Sovietism, and its credit.

Russia repudiated all her debts to foreign merchants just ten years ago. She defied the debtors to collect for any goods sold to her or to secure any money or interest on moneys loaned to the Russian Government.

Russian securities became as valuable as fool's gold—which is iron pyrites as it shines with a brassy eye in the streams.

Yet these simple and guileless editors who only know about business on pay day would ask us to resume business relations on a big scale with the lot of Weary Willies who have seized the reins of Government in a helpless, war-ridden country. And that before they have redeemed by either promise or repentance the repudiation of their obligations.

Trade agents and trade spies are in Canada all the time trying to persuade the simple-minded that Canada is making a huge mistake.

Canada can sell millions of dollars to Russia, but Canada is not big enough to collect the millions when Russia again repudiates her debts, as she surely will under a Soviet regime that is without honour and without a moral regret.

Canada is an industrial country as well as being rich in natural resources and with fertile fields. Why should we risk our products and our money in a country that is without probity, and is as joyous in repudiation as the bankrupt who repeats his business failure time after time without shame.

Why should Canada encourage trade relations with a country which competes with it in all farm products?

Not even to oblige the shippers and longshoremen in the Pacific Ocean ports will we sacrifice our workmen for a semi-barbaric Government.

CANNOT CLEAN UP THIS MESS WITH WHITE KID GLOVES.

Why the Prime Minister of Canada should wish to disassociate himself and his Government from the plain statements of facts given by John T. Hackett, M.P., for Stanstead, is beyond the comprehension of anyone who has studied this gigantic drain on the country's resources. We will print the speech made in the House of Commons by Mr. Hackett just as it was delivered, and would ask our readers to carefully peruse it as a dispassionate review of the calamity which hangs over Canada.

The political mind is timid in approaching the subject, for political operation too often means political subjection. Those who have lived in Ottawa can understand the various and the nefarious influences brought to bear upon the members of Parliament. It is only those who "hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may," that are able to withstand the manipulations of the crew of lobbyists who infest the cabins of the Ship of State.

Few are the statesmen who understand that the white glare of publicity will not only protect them, but that it will send the bandits and self-seekers to their hiding places. The politicians who have not yet reached the higher moral planes in public service are usually timid and afraid to tackle the powers that are entrenched behind the power of patronage for themselves or for their friends.

The best railway ties in Canada come from the Eastern Townships, and there are tie contracts to be placed somewhere to keep some man quiet. With a purchasing power of millions the political operators are able to spread their buying to sundry places where it will do the most good. They are ever buying protection from criticism, and it is not until they overstep the bounds and do something so glaring that it becomes a menace and a misdemeanour that public gossip is followed by a demand to smoke out the whole mess.

The City of Vancouver was bought at wholesale by the Canadian National with a $9,000,000 hotel. All the city did want was the money that was spent, the C. N. R. backed the Liberal candidates in the province with the cry, "Hands off the C. N. R." They won and lost. The railway is not yet big enough to own and control the votes in every city. They supported the former Government just as did the Beauharnois Power—and they are not repentant, but simply grief-stricken and propitiating like a collection of fawning Uriah Heeps.

Premier Bennett cannot afford to either dally with this great question, with its ever-increasing load of debt, or to try to placate the executive who resemble "Solomon and all his wives" in their extravagance, and who have only the vanity of the Queen of Sheba in their mental make-up.

Starting with the finest railway personnel in the world, the whole executive structure of the old Grand Trunk railway will be quickly demoralized if there be not some drastic change in the policy and the organization.

The present management is but reaching out to bedeck itself with superlatives and let cost be what it may. As Mr. Bennett says, in the somewhat mild manner of the little teacher talking to the big pupil, "No matter has given me more concern or pressed more heavily upon me than has the railway situation in Canada."

Well it may. It is a problem and a situation which must be handled without gloves—and settled to the satisfaction of the burdened taxpayers this session.

It has been said that Mr. Hackett has not made any constructive suggestions. He certainly has, and he has others to present when the ripe moment arrives. Mr. Hackett urged that the steamship department of the C. N. R. be abandoned. He has the promise that it will be. He urged a reduction in the huge salaries of the chief directors. The promise is made that this will be done—with reservations.

But we have the remedy and the constructive plan, though it may entail some destruction and demolition. You cannot clean up a mess with white kid gloves.

EDITOR'S NOTE BOOK.

Leon Trotsky one of the Robespierres of the Russian Revolution, has escaped to Turkey to hide from the wrath of the Charlotte Cordays who helped to dethrone him. Trotsky does not like England or the English because it reminds him of the time when he was a tailor in a New York clothing sweat shop, sewing on linings and studying how to be a red, red Communist. He found the panic-stricken Russians, as badly led and equipped as they were when whipped by the Japs, when he was sent home by Germany to act as a verbal smallpox epidemic. His demoralizing influence found fertile ground. But what has happened to Trotsky has happened to all revolutionists, with the possible exception of Oliver Cromwell. Leon Trotsky's fellow-conspirators fell upon him because he was a bit smarter than they and because he strutted much like a foreign-born Newshy on Park Row in New York.

Another of the many Commissions erected by the Government at Ottawa and carried on at great expense is the Grain Commission. It is appointed to hear complaints between buyers and sellers of grain. Last year the Grain Commission heard 169 complaints and the total salary list and perquisites of the body is around $75,000 a year. The Chairman, E. B. Ramsay is paid $12,000 a year and $2-1/3 expenses. His two colleagues draw $10,000 each, and the outside assistants get $7,500 a year. Truly, we are an extravagant young nation. With the selection of janitors, typists and wash-ladies taken away from the patronage of the members, new boards of commission give them their opportunity.

Hon. Robert Forke seems to be quite obtuse on the meaning of "cost to the country." He says the Grain Commission, one of the many foolish Boards erected at Ottawa for the purposes of providing alibis for members, did not cost the country anything. The salary list of $75,000 a year, and the other expenses were paid by the Government, to be sure, but they had extracted the amount from the farmers' grains whilst they were in bulk transit. So that the grain-growers of Western Ontario got $100,000 less than they should have gotten. In the long run the country pays for this lack of knowledge of economics.

Talking about the unlucky number thirteen, the Hon. Arthur Meighen formed the thirteenth ministry in Ottawa since Confederation. And now he is a member of the Ontario Hydro Commission at a salary about one-quarter of what Sir Henry the Extravagant would think he is worth. Only a paltry $10,000 a year, there or thereabouts. The Meighen ministry lasted less than three months, the shortest on record.

RUSSIA PLACES LARGE ORDERS WITH BRITAIN

Members of British House of Commons Told that Russia is Ordering $500,000 Worth of British Machinery Every Day.

LONDON, July 23.—Disclosure was made in the House of Commons yesterday that the Russian Government was ordering $500,000 worth of British machinery every day and that arrangements were being made for $30,000,000 worth this year.

The statement was made by Thomas Johnston, Lord Privy Seal, during debate on the Government's granting of $12,500,000 credits to Russian business men. The House took no vote, but the debate was remarkable for the almost complete absence of anti-Soviet oratory, even from the Conservatives, and for the purely business attitude in which the subject was discussed.

One Conservative, in fact, Major R. C. Glyn, pleaded for cessation of "political propaganda" in Britain against Russia.

"It is fatal to approach this subject with party prejudice," he said. "In Russia, a great new experiment is being carried out. The House of Commons is being asked to supply goods to meet its demands some other way than by the usual means. I am convinced that the most vital importance of this is for us to study the psychology of young Russia and the outlook of those people there, who will one day be competitors of our children in world trade."

Major Glyn suggested that British firms in Russia pool their organizations and their credit, and that British commercial representation in Russia should be increased.

The complaint of Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, who launched a Conservative attack, was that the United States had not found it necessary to grant credits, yet had captured a larger share of Russian trade than Britain. In granting credits, he said, the British Government was merely raising up a new and powerful competitor.

MARRIAGES

PATTENDEN-VAUGHAN
STANBRIDGE RIDGE, July 23.—St. James Church, Stanbridge East, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, July 18th, when Miss Freda Maud Vaughan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vaughan, became the bride of Mr. John P. Pattenden, recently from Long Island, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. Mr. Nesbitt.

The bride, who looked charming in a gown of white silk and lace with large white picture hat, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. C. Moore, on the arm of her elder brother, Mr. Carl Vaughan, who gave her away. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Vaughan, niece of the bride, wore a becoming gown of coral pink with large white hat and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Clifford Vaughan, nephew of the bride, acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. Neil Lagrange and Donald Stolliker.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. W. N. Martindale. About a hundred and fifty guests were present.

The presents were numerous and very beautiful and after the reception Mr. and Mrs. Pattenden left on a motor trip. The bride wore a travelling costume of beige color flat crepe with hat to match and long tweed coat.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, to the best man a silver cigarette lighter and to the ushers silver pen knives. The bride gave the groom a sterling silver cigarette case, the bridesmaid a silver compact and the ushers silver salt and pepper containers.

Among the guests from a distance were Mrs. Macey and two sons and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hawley, from Sutton; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Scribner, from Brigham; Mrs. L. L. Thomas and Miss M. Thompson, from Bedford; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Sornberger, from Prelechar; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cole, from Flint, Mich.; and Mrs. E. H. Campbell, Mr. Clayton Campbell, from Miss Phyllis Campbell, from St. Armand.

GENUINE FACTS REGARDING C.N.R. PRESENTED BY STANSTEAD MEMBER

John Hackett's Purpose in Reciting Facts Is to Acquaint Country With Great Enterprise and Its Cost During Last Twelve Years—Disbursements Which Have Been Made Either in Cash or Credit by Canadian People Since 1919 Total Immense Sum of $1,663,675,517.61.

So trenchant and true is the arrangement of facts presented in the House of Commons by John T. Hackett, M.P., for Stanstead County, in his attack against the Canadian National Railways, that we deem it worthy of a verbatim report. In speaking of the report of the special committee appointed by Parliament to consider the gravity of this question, and to offer a constructive programme of relief and retrenchment, John T. Hackett said:

Mr. John T. Hackett (Stanstead): Mr. Speaker, before this document is relegated to the limbo of things futile I should like to say a few words about its subject matter. The Canadian Government is engaged in a very large way in the business of transportation both on land and sea. On land the Canadian National Railways own and operate 23,668 miles of first track steam mileage in which are included 3,342 miles of eastern lines. Eastern lines are defined as the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927 and the lines lying east of Levis. From July 1, 1927, the rates on those lines have been reduced by 20 per cent, and the government has made up the difference. The Canadian National Railways also operate 77 miles of electric lines, at sea they operate a coastal service on the Pacific coast; three of them in the triangular service between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle; two other ships are in the island service; two ships, the Dalhousie City and the Northland, on Lake Ontario are operated under the same management, Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Navigation Company. They operate also two vessels plying between Chicago and Depot Harbour, a car ferry between Pictou and Mulgrave, and a car ferry between Borden and Tormentine. The Canadian Government Merchant Marine owns a fleet of thirty vessels; a few years ago there were 60 vessels. The total tonnage at the present time is 239,170 tons. The Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited operate six ships between Canada and the West Indies with a total tonnage of 60,592 tons. The government owns and will soon operate the Hudson Bay railway with a mileage of 510 miles.

My purpose in reciting these facts is to acquaint the country with this great enterprise and its cost during the last twelve years. The amounts which I shall give are disbursements which have been made either in cash or credit by the Canadian people since April 1, 1919. I may say that at the present time these disbursements amount to $1,663,675,517.61. I have before me the details of this sum. In cash we advanced between April 1, 1919, and March 31, 1923, $389,743,789.34. From April 1, 1923, to December 31, 1930, we advanced $57,432,852.91, making a total of $447,226,642.25. We guaranteed the bonds of the Canadian National Railways to the extent of $569,609,027. Included in that amount are $77,000,000 of retirements. In addition to this new capital we have secured to the railways $216,207,141.67, guaranteeing the interest in perpetuity on the Grand Trunk railway guaranteed and debenture stock of that amount. Moreover we have guaranteed the principal interest of Canadian National Railways debenture stock, of which there now remains outstanding $20,550,114. There has also been purchased equipment, for which equipment trust notes have been issued and remain outstanding to the amount of $84,680,000. All of these debentures are not guaranteed, but the conditions under which they were issued make the country entirely responsible for them if the railways continue to operate. Under the Maritime Freight Rates Act there has been paid to the Canadian National Railways $7,897,360. The requirements of the Canadian National Railways for deficits, acquisitions and betterments for the present year are $120,000,000. I want to say on that score that the amount estimated was $104,000,000. It was admitted, however, by the railway management when before the committee that although the estimates were prepared in April they were already $13,000,000 short. I think in view of present conditions it is a conservative estimate to place those requirements for the present year at $120,000,000. Furthermore we are pledged for $48,250,000 after this year's programme of construction is completed; that includes branch lines, terminals at Montreal and the hotels at Saskatoon, Jasper and Vancouver.

With regard to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, we were told that if this business were wound up today it would have cost the people of Canada $81,122,769.90, without allowing anything for interest. The deficit on the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, if we assume that it will be this year what it was last year, will be $588,500. We invested in the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamship Company $9,804,715. The deficit on that service last year was $523,136.98, and it is fair to assume it will not be less this year. This makes no allowance for interest.

Our investment in the Hudson Bay railway is something like $45,000,000, but since 1919 we have put into the Hudson Bay railway and terminals $31,756,417.

Mr. Spencer: Does the hon. member think the last item should be debited against the Canadian National Railways?

Mr. Hackett: If the hon. gentleman were listening he would not ask the question. There also has been spent on the car ferry at Prince Edward Island $2,500,000. Under the Maritime Freight Rates Act there has also been paid $2,922,891 to railways other than the Canadian National.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I do not think these figures can be controverted; in fact I have culled them from the records of the company and of the department. But it is one thing to hear and quite another thing to comprehend them. We all know that there comes a time when language itself fails us. We know that the symbols of speech when used to express either facts or phenomena do not convey very much to us. It will be recalled that after the Franco-Prussian war when France, the richest nation of Europe, was condemned to pay to Germany $1,000,000,000, or 5,000,000,000 francs, it did not mean very much to any body, because 5,000,000,000, or even 1,000,000 francs, was so far beyond the experience of the ordinary individual that it meant nothing to him. But when the gold began to move from France to Germany in carload lots, then the people understood what it meant, a carload was something within their grasp; then they realized the enormity of the indemnity which their country was called upon to pay.

This is the difficulty which confronts one when he attempts to explain something that is beyond the experience of his audience; it is the difficulty of the schoolmaster; it is particularly the difficulty of the clergyman. Who has not listened to laboured efforts on the part of clergymen attempting to describe the celestial sphere, or the beatific vision, or the deity or something else that has never been heard or seen? I recall once hearing a clergyman say in an attempt to describe eternity, that if a mountain which rose high above the plain were worn down to a level with it by the brush of a swallow's wing which passed over it once every thousand years, then eternity would only have begun.

I think the Canadian people find themselves somewhat in a similar difficulty when attempting to comprehend, to understand, to grasp the full meaning of the indebtedness that has been placed upon them in the last twelve years. When one is confronted by this difficulty he resorts to indirect and possibly to inadequate means; he resorts to comparison, to anything that may illustrate, even indirectly, the point which he is trying to make. With that end in view may I point out that in the first forty years of Confederation we added to our national debt at the rate of about $7,000,000 a year, so that on the fortieth anniversary of Confederation we had added but $280,000,000 odd. Yet over the last thirteen years we have added to our national liabilities something like $180,000,000 a year for the purposes of transportation alone. The total expenditure of the government of Canada for all services is but $383,000,000, including something over $25,000,000 of capital expenditures. Yet the Canadian National Railways alone and may say to the hon. member Battle River (Mr. Spencer) that a few moments ago I was not speaking exclusively of the Canadian National Railways, I was speaking of the venture in transportation on land and on sea, of the Government of Canada, whether administered by the Canadian National Railways or otherwise—yet the Canadian National Railways spent, not $380,000,000 which the nation spent to carry on its work, but $421,071,409. The total payroll of the government of Canada in all services was but $90,808,425.71, whereas the Canadian National Railways paid out in Canada alone $159,675,000 for wages. The carrying charges in the form of interest on the funded debt due from the Canadian National Railways to the public at the end of this year will be $60,000,000, and in 1919 it was but an insignificant figure. On the eve of the war the total expenditure of the government reached the unprecedented figure of $144,000,000 a year. Yet the railways required for this country in new capital in 1920, $144,670,450 and $148,000,000 in 1930. I have cited these figures not for the purpose of arguing that any or all of these amounts have been improperly spent. I am attempting merely to make the point that the business of transportation as carried on by the Canadian National Railways is a far greater business in dollars and cents, in enterprise, in salary and in number of employees than is the business of administering Canada itself. And what precautions have we taken, as a people and as a parliament, that this administration be carried on as it should be? When money is spent by governments they are very carefully scrutinized; estimates come before a committee and sometimes before a senate in special committee, either in asking questions or in making any inquiry he desired to make, even though he was not a member of the committee? Mr. Hackett: We have gone on with this noble experiment, as it has been called by some of its protagonists, for nearly thirteen years, and I submit that there are two or three facts which are absolutely incontrovertible. The first is that there is not in Canada sufficient business to maintain these railways in the state of efficiency in which they are operated at the present time. Fact number two is that we cannot go on paying into the coffers of this company, to make up deficits, to acquire betterments and build extensions, a hundred to a hundred and fifty million dollars a year. The third point I want to make is that the management has failed in the task which was allotted to it. The management was set up for what purpose? It came here to solve our railway problem. Has it done so?

An hon. member: Yes.

Mr. Hackett: Yes? Any hon. gentleman who thinks our problem has been solved may select for himself either category, that of the innocent or the ignorant. Any man who has seen our debt increased by $1,600,000,000 in the last twelve or thirteen years; any man who has seen the dead weight imposed upon the people increased to $60,000,000 a year in the payment of interest on funded debt alone and who thinks a solution has been found does not commend himself, I submit, to the good judgment of the people of the country.

I admit that the service provided by these railways is good; I admit that the personnel, the equipment and the road bed have all been carried to a high point of efficiency. But I consider that the capital expenditures and some of the administrative charges have been injudicious, lavish and incurred without any regard to our needs or our capacity to pay. Show me a single venture in the Canadian National enterprise that has succeeded according to the rule of profit and loss. There has not been a single venture, whether it be in the hotels, whether it be in the triangular or the coastal service on the Pacific, whether it be in the administration of the merchant marine, or whether it be in the Canadian National West Indies service, that has yielded one cent of profit.

I know that my hon. friend who sits opposite, the hon. W. E. Aulic, has said forthrightly that public ownership of public utilities has a greater and higher aim than that of profit; it is service, and service at cost. I ask, at what cost? The hon. gentleman possesses a serenity which I admire; but he is also capable of talking with his tongue in his cheek, and when he asserted the other day that opportunity to discuss how a few hundred dollars have been spent. When ways and means resolutions come before parliament they are debated very carefully, yet when we called into existence the Canadian National Railways the very first thing we did was to kill the watch dog. By the statute which brought the Canadian National into existence we eliminated any interference or supervision by the auditor general, who is sent into every department of government to scrutinize, to check up and to certify as to the exactitude and propriety of every cent of expenditure. Yet when it came to the Canadian National Railways; when it came to this question of transportation in which we have millions of dollars invested, we utterly failed to exercise the most elementary prudence.

More than this, when we created this vast corporation, which constitutes the greatest mass of property brought under centralized control in Canada, and one of the greatest masses of property subject to unbridled control in the world, what precautions did we take? We put it into the hands of a manager, and over that manager we put a board of directors. Who constitute that board of directors? Honest gentlemen? That is conceded. Honourable gentlemen? Oh, yes. Good railway men? I do not know how many of them would know a hay rake from a hand car. What qualifications have they for the high office which they hold? There may be some exceptions but many of them have not, either by experience, by training or by aptitude the necessary capacity or opportunity to protect the country's purse. In my humble estimation if there is one thing more futile than the board of directors of the Canadian National—more futile, be it understood, for the purpose of which directors are supposed to exist, which is to direct, to control, to supervise and to safeguard the interests of the shareholders, who are the people of Canada—it is this select committee on railways and shipping which in a few short sittings, it is supposed to check up the millions of dollars annually spent and make a report on the actions of the management. If it were not so tragic it would be amusing. That a people who pride themselves on their enterprise and who have taken their place in the world as a nation of business, be so absolutely lacking in the elements of common sense is beyond comprehension.

Mr. Beaudin: May I ask the hon. gentleman a question? Was he restricted in any way before that special committee, either in asking questions or in making any inquiry he desired to make, even though he was not a member of the committee? Mr. Hackett: We have gone on with this noble experiment, as it has been called by some of its protagonists, for nearly thirteen years, and I submit that there are two or three facts which are absolutely incontrovertible. The first is that there is not in Canada sufficient business to maintain these railways in the state of efficiency in which they are operated at the present time. Fact number two is that we cannot go on paying into the coffers of this company, to make up deficits, to acquire betterments and build extensions, a hundred to a hundred and fifty million dollars a year. The third point I want to make is that the management has failed in the task which was allotted to it. The management was set up for what purpose? It came here to solve our railway problem. Has it done so?

An hon. member: Yes.

Mr. Hackett: Yes? Any hon. gentleman who thinks our problem has been solved may select for himself either category, that of the innocent or the ignorant. Any man who has seen our debt increased by $1,600,000,000 in the last twelve or thirteen years; any man who has seen the dead weight imposed upon the people increased to $60,000,000 a year in the payment of interest on funded debt alone and who thinks a solution has been found does not commend himself, I submit, to the good judgment of the people of the country.

I admit that the service provided by these railways is good; I admit that the personnel, the equipment and the road bed have all been carried to a high point of efficiency. But I consider that the capital expenditures and some of the administrative charges have been injudicious, lavish and incurred without any regard to our needs or our capacity to pay. Show me a single venture in the Canadian National enterprise that has succeeded according to the rule of profit and loss. There has not been a single venture, whether it be in the hotels, whether it be in the triangular or the coastal service on the Pacific, whether it be in the administration of the merchant marine, or whether it be in the Canadian National West Indies service, that has yielded one cent of profit.

I know that my hon. friend who sits opposite, the hon. W. E. Aulic, has said forthrightly that public ownership of public utilities has a greater and higher aim than that of profit; it is service, and service at cost. I ask, at what cost? The hon. gentleman possesses a serenity which I admire; but he is also capable of talking with his tongue in his cheek, and when he asserted the other day that

Small fractional losses predominated.

ORGANIZATION OF NEW BUREAU IS SUGGESTED

Lady Member of British House of Commons Favors Bureau for Investigation of Personal Grievances.

LONDON, July 23.—Wanted: A bureau for investigating personal grievances. Admitting we are overstocked with societies, Eleanor Rathbone, independent member for the combined universities in the House of Commons, nevertheless submits in the Manchester Guardian an interesting case for the establishment of this extra one. She instances the experience of former Inspector Syme, who after more than twenty years of agitation, has only recently brought authorities to admit his dismissal from the Metropolitan Police was unjust.

Another case cited by Miss Rathbone is that of Miss Violet Douglas Pennant, who is still demanding an open enquiry to reveal the reasons why she was suddenly dismissed from her position of commanding the women's branch of the Royal Air Force.

"How much more effective," declares Miss Rathbone, "not only in redressing but preventing injustice, would be the known existence of such a bureau than the mere chance that the perpetrators of injustice might find they had caught a Tardis of the type of Syme or Violet Douglas Pennant. Miss Rathbone suggests success in these two instances proves that, given equal tenacity of purpose, powerful friends and ample command of means, similar success may follow.

"I assumed that responsibility."

Mr. Sweezy explained that the money he paid for campaign funds had been loaned by Beauharnois to another company which was owned by him. He was responsible for the repayment of the loans, and had already paid back a considerable proportion of them.

"Did you see the directors and discuss with them individually these matters?"

"One or two. I am not sure." He thought he had talked it over with Geoffrion, but no decision was reached.

"Who was the other one?" asked the chairman.

"I don't recall, really."

"Was it not a case where silence gives consent?" asked S. W. Jacobs (Lib., Cartier).

"That's the point. I don't think you could pin it on anybody."

"What was the limit?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"Well, it stands now at 180,000. I have paid the rest of it back since."

As to the assent of the directors, Mr. Sweezy said that "in matters of this kind, it was in the early stages of the game, and they didn't know much about these things."

Robert Gardiner, (U.F.A., Acad.) recalled Mr. Sweezy's former testimony in connection with the invitation extended to western members of Parliament to visit Beauharnois.

"Has any other invitation been sent to members of Parliament?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes, we have sent them out from time to time." He could not name those who had taken advantage of the invitations, but they were members from all parties in the House.

"Did you pay their expenses?" Mr. Gardiner asked.

"Well, we entertained them on the spot, and in Montreal the Board of Trade did likewise."

"And these western members were on the same basis?"

"Yes."

"But you did pay Mr. Hodgson $2,000," suggested Mr. White. (The reference was to H. C. Hodgson of Winnipeg, who received that sum in expenses for bringing several members to visit Beauharnois.)

"That was different," replied Mr. Sweezy. "You are suggesting that this $2,000 was for these western members."

"Nothing of the kind. You did pay Hodgson $2,000 and one of his duties in connection with that was to organize this particular visit."

"Yes, May I add he had other duties that were not a part of this?"

That concluded Mr. Sweezy's evidence at this stage.

Mr. White advised the committee he had been informed Senator McDougall's secretary, could not be located. The secretary was stated yesterday by Senator McDougall to have made the error by which expenses of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King for a trip to Bermuda two years ago were included in an expense account put into Beauharnois by the Senator. He is in Montreal, but they had not been able to get in touch with him.

A. P. King, committee auditor, was then called and was asked to analyze the balance sheets of Beauharnois as of December 31, 1930, and May 30, 1931. Mr. King showed the capital of the company was $31,800,000, made up of five management shares, 1,799,995 Class A shares and 30,000,000 sinking fund bonds.

The auditor was then asked to set aside a number of items bearing on transactions which had no reference to the construction work of the company. These involved stock purchases by Beauharnois in which it took losses and other similar accounts which were shown to have a depreciated value. The total set aside in this fashion, Mr. King stated, was $7,079,000 or about one-quarter of the capital stock.

G. H. Montgomery, K.C., chief counsel for Beauharnois, Mr. King said he could not tell from the company's books whether any value had been placed upon the shares obtained from Quebec before the second syndicate assumed the assets of the first syndicate for one million dollars. This might account, Mr. King admitted, for the $700,000 difference between the purchase price and the assets of the first syndicate.

The first syndicate, before being acquired by the second, had secured a charter and other important potentialities, said Mr. Montgomery.

"It was cashing in on hopes?" asked Mr. Gordon.

"Not cashing in, it was something that had been acquired," replied Mr. Montgomery.

Before the second syndicate was sold, continued Mr. Montgomery, the plans had been approved by Ottawa and he suggested this was an asset, not shown on the books, but which had a distinct valuation.

"I saw no assets on the books with respect to that," said Mr. King.

Mr. Gordon: "Is it fair to assume from the figures supplied to you by the company's auditors that $7,079,000 is what is usually characterized as water?"

"Yes," replied Mr. King.

Mr. Jacobs: "There is nothing in the books relating to the contracts?"

"No."

Dealing with discount on bonds, Mr. King said it was an ordinary feature. He was "not in the habit of treating it as water," nor did he consider the $3,000,000 item, represented by a discount on the $30,000,000 bonds, as improper or unusual.

"It is not fair to say that the discount is measured by the hazard?" asked the chairman.

"Yes."

"The issue of a stock bonus, particularly with the second degree securities, is not unusual, is it?" asked Mr. Montgomery.

"I don't know, sir," said the chairman, "that in addition to the $30,000,000 of another class, and it is with these securities that they are presently carrying on their operations, is that right?"

"Yes."

"Am I correct in this: From time to time as the company is requiring money, the transaction is for them to increase their borrowing and place these interim bonds with the lenders as their security?"

"Yes."

A resolution of the directors had authorized the company to go up as high as $50,000,000 but only $20,000,000 had been issued. The chairman had in mind Henry's evidence that the cost of the project would be $76,000,000, and in his estimation more borrowing would have to be made over and above the $30,000,000 collateral first mortgage bonds already issued.

K. M. Cameron, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, was recalled by Mr. Montgomery and questioned in regard to other power development projects throughout Canada which had been approved by Order-in-Council. In respect to one of these, the Saint John Power Development, Mr. Cameron stated that the scheme had been changed after the approval of the federal authorities had been granted. At that time the Department of Justice had been consulted as to whether or not it was necessary, under the Navigable Waters Protection Act, to obtain formal approval of the change. The ruling of the department was that unless the change was material, further approval was unnecessary.

In answer to a question by Mr. Lennox, Mr. Cameron said that he had held the impression that the ultimate intention was to come back and apply for practically the whole flow of the river.

Mr. Montgomery asked leave to place upon the record correspondence which passed between the Governments of Canada and the United States at the time the application of the Beauharnois Company was approved. It consisted of two letters, the first signed by Hon. Vincent Massey, then Canadian Minister to Washington, and written to Hon. Frank B. Kellogg, then Secretary of State of the United States, and the other an acknowledgment from Mr. Kellogg to Mr. Massey. Mr. Massey sent Mr. Kellogg a copy of the Order-in-Council under which the scheme was approved, and stated that it was understood the proposed canal would form a link in the St. Lawrence waterways in the event of that scheme being proceeded with.

rate, for many goods to enter the country.

Elaborating this point, Hon. W. D. Euler, former Minister of National Revenue, cited the following prohibitive rates in the Australian tariff which would apply to Canada:

Clothing, 90 per cent; boots and shoes, 67 1/2 per cent; cordage and binder twine, 40 per cent; paint, 35 per cent, and machinery, 35 per cent.

When A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, referred to a possible influx of Australian eggs, Hon. H. H. Stevens said none had come in under a free tariff and he could see no reason for anticipating large imports under a two-cent tariff. The Minister of Trade and Commerce believed also the five-cent duty against butter was adequate protection for the Canadian farmers and dairymen.

Premier Defends Trade Treaty with Australia

OTTAWA, July 23.—The House of Commons yesterday gave second and third readings to the measure implementing the Canadian-Australian Trade Treaty, but only after it had been subjected to a bitter attack by many former Liberal cabinet ministers, and as equally well defended by Government supporters.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, one of the negotiators for Canada of this treaty, in commenting on it to the House said: "Australia now extends the British preference to Canada on 415 items. True, on some of those items the British preferential rate will be high and will not permit of change, but this preference will give us perhaps 200,000 items upon which we may enter the market of Australia in competition with the United Kingdom. Whatever possibility any other country may enjoy of entering the Australian market we certainly enjoy the best opportunity with any and all of them."

"That trade, under the British preference, last year amounted to $277,000,000. That is, Great Britain shipped goods into Australia, to that extent, and the preferences netted Great Britain under that preferential rate $35,000,000. That is what it is worth to Great Britain. We have now an opportunity with Great Britain on all the range of goods that she sold to Australia. Australian imports are now divided as follows: United Kingdom, 42 per cent; United States, 23 per cent; and the rest, 35 per cent. It is important to remember that we maintain the spread between the general tariff and the specified rate to Australia."

"We are asking the House to look upon this treaty as a genuine effort on the part of Canada as a whole, irrespective of party affiliations or business interests, to bring to us a better place in the world market. We believe the treaty will be of advantage to the whole of Canada, much more than is, perhaps, at the present time understood. We offer this treaty to the House in that spirit that Canada as a whole has sought to work out, and we believe we have succeeded in bringing before Parliament a trade agreement with a sister Dominion, which agreement, while it may not be perfect or wholly satisfactory is at least for the time being the best we could have secured, and one that will be of advantage to Canada, and, hope, also of advantage to Australia."

"The agreement provides," said Premier Bennett, "that such commodities as Canada produces and Australia requires shall find a favored market in Australia and that such commodities as Australia produces and Canada requires shall find a favored place in the Canadian market. That is the first great principle which governed in the negotiation of this agreement."

"In the second place, it is provided that where goods or commodities are produced in Australia which would compete with Canadian goods, then there must be such tariff provisions as will ensure fair competition in Canada to the goods from Australia, and, equally, goods produced in Canada which come in competition with Australian goods in Australia shall, by virtue of the tariff provisions, enter into a favored place in Australia with Australian goods."

"This measure of reciprocity in trade between the two countries is further predicated upon the thought that the agreement must be of mutual advantage to both countries. If the principles which I have alluded to are applied, obviously there will be of mutual advantage to the communities affected. Unless a trade agreement benefits both countries it is not usually of very much use, but we believe and the Australians believe that the application of these principles will be mutually advantageous to Australia and Canada."

"We are sure that this agreement will expand the trade of Canada in the east as well as in the west, and it will afford an opportunity for raw materials to be sent to the west, and for finished goods to be sent to the east. If our people believe that too favorable treatment has been extended to Australia, in the main it will be because they have not perceived the agreement with care. No agreement can be of service which does not afford a fair opportunity to Australia as well as ourselves to seek in her markets."

"In Australia," said Mr. King, "they have done what my right hon. friend is attempting to do in Canada. They have made it possible for us to enter the British preference for commodities produced or manufactured outside of Australia to be imported into this country. What the result of the policy has been one has to study the conditions in Australia, to learn. Certainly it would not be proper to refer to a condition in any other country, particularly that of a sister Dominion. I think, however, the general position of Australia, as contrasted with that of Canada, is well enough known to enable us to see for ourselves that the policy of making a tariff, both general and preferential, so high that commodities cannot enter a country and that thereby trade is in a large part restricted, is not a policy, in the long run, would make for good."

"In connection with the Australian tariff there is a 50 per cent surtax. There is another circumstance which is most important and which, I believe, will determine in a large part the fate of the proposed treaty, namely, the position of the currency in Australia at the present time. As is generally known, the value of Australia is considerably depreciated, and in estimating how far it will be possible for Australia to purchase commodities from Canada we have to take into account the position of the credit and currency of that country. As is generally known, the value of Australia is considerably depreciated, and in estimating how far it will be possible for Australia to purchase commodities from Canada we have to take into account the position of the credit and currency of that country. Again I say that, in my opinion, the position of Australia is most important and which, I believe, will determine in a large part the fate of the proposed treaty, namely, the position of the currency in Australia at the present time. BIG INCREASE INDICATED IN AUTO TRAVEL

Total of 599,568 Automobiles,
Carrying Nearly One and Three-Quarter Million Passengers, Crossed International Border During Fiscal Year.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., July 23.—The annual statement of highway travel for the fiscal year, issued by Collector Harry C. Whitehill, shows that a total of 599,568 automobiles, carrying nearly one and three-quarters million passengers, crossed the international boundary into the Vermont Customs district during the twelve-month period. This number of cars represents an increase of more than one hundred thousand over figures for the preceding fiscal year, and is nearly 155,000 cars greater than the number recorded during the year 1929. As compared with the fiscal year 1928, the increase amounts to 250,742 cars, or more than seventy-six per cent.

The increasing popularity of the Vermont highway routes with the tourists is indicated in the large proportion of visiting cars recorded by the customs during the year. Nearly fifty-seven per cent of all the cars inspected at the different ports and stations came either from states outside of Vermont or from the various Canadian provinces. The number of these visiting cars recorded during the year was 340,817, of which 164,809 cars were registered in Canadian provinces, while 175,908 were from outside states. The number of cars of Vermont registration inspected during the year was 258,751.

Of the various ports into the district, the highway through the port of Derby Line seemed to be the most popular with the motorists, the Customs Office at that point having reported the inspection of 146,398 cars during the year. The route through Swanton was almost equally as popular, that customs station reporting 132,170 cars examined. Records at other ports and stations in the district show that 1,838 cars were examined at Canaan; 61,828 at North Troy; 47,609 at
