Four Men Held For Questioning Following Robberies In Townships

A ring of thieves, specializing in safe cracking and operating successfully in the Eastern Townships for the past few weeks, may have pulled their last job.

Provincial police are detaining four men—two from Sherbrooke and two from Cowansville—for questioning in connection with the robberies.

During recent weeks establishments in Knowlton, East Hatley, Cowansville, Bedford, Eastman, Sutton Junction, Waterville, Magog, Mansonville and Sherbrooke have been broken into.

The thieves got their biggest loot right here in Sherbrooke at Castonguay and Paquin's Garage. They stole $1,359.19 in cash, checks and notes payable.

It is believed that the robbers got their equipment for the safe cracking from Frank Harrison's Store in Sutton Junction. Recently some $500 worth of tools, and electrical equipment, including blow torches, was stolen.

Flour mills seem to be the thieves' pet attraction. H. Codere's flour mill at Knowlton, Rioux

Flour Mills in Eastman and H. W. Sullivan's flour mill at Mansonville were broken into.

In Mansonville the thieves got exactly nothing while at H. Codere's flour mill in Knowlton they stole $500 worth of tools, tried the safe and failed to pick up a cent.

At Rioux's mill in Eastman the thieves got some $175 in money, flour, a few batteries, fire extinguishers and even a few biscuits.

Sometime ago thieves broke into the Magog Town Hall and stole $500.

Whether the four men, who have been detained by police, are the ones being sought is unknown. They may be part of the ring, or may be the entire ring.

Working on the robberies, day and night, have been Provincial Police Detectives Nick Anderson, of Montreal; Detective Rock Dandaneault, of Cowansville and formerly of Sherbrooke; Detective Rene Coupal, of the local office and Detective Rene Lanthier, of Montreal.

A Ton of Gold certificate has been awarded to the Jersey cow, Greenwood Standard Marie, bred and owned by J. A. Eccles, of Sweetburg, Que. In 1,461 days, in four lactation periods, Marie has produced 2,315 lbs. of butterfat. She is a daughter of the tested sire Brampton Segunda Standard. As a six-year-old Marie made a Gold Medal record of 627 lbs. of fat in 305 days. She also produced over 600 lbs. of fat as a four year-old in 365 days.

In the same herd, Greenwood Jester's May has also qualified for a Ton of Gold certificate by producing in 1,461 days, 2,022 lbs. of fat. Both these cows have completed this splendid production on two-times milking.

BUDGET SURPLUS INFLATIONARY
The fat $500,000,000 surplus swelling the coffers of the federal government does not seem to faze Finance Minister Abbott. The money windfall, he says, will be used to reduce the national debt, a report from Ottawa on Monday quoting the Finance Minister as proposing to apply $250,000,000 of the surplus to this end.

Sounds fine, doesn't it? The St. Thomas Times-Journal comments, and continues that when Mr. Abbott brought down the budget last spring there was nothing said about taxing people half a billion dollars more than was needed for current expenses of government in order to pay off a substantial chunk of the national debt of $11,000,000,000.

Nor does it seem to have occurred to official Ottawa that paying off the national debt is just about as inflationary a scheme as could be devised. For what it means is that $250,000,000 worth of Government bonds will be retired, and their holders presented with that much cash. Money lying fallow isn't much use to anyone, so those who get the money will either spend it or lend it out at interest to those from whom it was taken in taxes.

The fact of the matter is that the financial wizards who advise Mr. Abbott made a fantastic error which has already cost the taxpayers of Canada half a billion dollars, which they need never have paid in taxes at all. Public esteem for Mr. Abbott would be higher were he to frankly confess to have been the victim of bad advice, and to reduce taxes to the point where such a boner could not be repeated in the next six months or so.

STREAMLINING THE SENATE

The move to cut the membership of three important Senate committees, or supposedly important committees, may serve to give the Upper House a more important place in the Canadian Parliamentary picture. The change is designed to permit the Senators to give more detailed study to such matters as external affairs, finances and transport and communications. It is proposed that the smaller committees be furnished with the details of government legislation at the same time it is introduced into the House of Commons. These could be gone over thoroughly and an enlightened report submitted to the members of the Upper House when the legislation actually reached that body.

This would remove one of the complaints frequently heard to the effect that the Senate was given topics of major importance in the closing days of the session and asked to approve or reject the entire measure without having had an opportunity to study it to determine whether it would be bettered by amendments.

Anything that would lead to a greater place for the Senate in Canadian affairs would be welcomed by the people at large. Removed from the fear of group pressure, the Senators are supposed theoretically to give any measure careful consideration on the basis of the interest of the entire country. And it must be said to the credit of the Upper House that they do this as far as possible. But, unfortunately, under the present mode of procedure, they cannot study any measure until it has gone through the legislative processes of the Lower House, which means that many of the most important bills only reach it on the eve of prorogation when they can receive at the best only cursory study.

PROHIBIT BOYCOTTS

When the Federal Government introduces its legislation to prohibit price-fixing by manufacturers and wholesalers, there is one essential provision which should be included. Very careful regulations are necessary, with stiff penalties for breach of them, to prevent manufacturers or wholesalers boycotting retailers. At present if retailers should be bold enough to reduce prices below those fixed by manufacturers or wholesalers, they are under instant threat of their supplies being cut off. Manufacturers or wholesalers involved in this denial of free enterprise simply can refuse to sell any more goods to retailers concerned. Obviously if they could continue such practices after the legislation is passed, they would thwart the purpose of the law. By boycott, they could drive retailers out of business. The new law should have sharp teeth, able to put a severe bite on any who would infringe

it. One of the weaknesses of the Combines Investigation Act has been lack of effective enforcement and lack of sufficiently sharp teeth. The new legislation should be such as to compel respect, with authorities prepared to act vigorously against any who defy it, regardless of how big and powerful they be. And it should be drafted carefully so the best of corporation lawyers can't find loopholes in it.

MOSSADEGH IS FIRST PROBLEM UN MUST SOLVE IN OIL CRISIS
By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington—(NEA)—American television audiences may be in for a new kind of international thrill when Iran's Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh argues his country's oil case before the United Nations Security Council.

He is apt to create considerable American sympathy for his cause, too. For every American who has had any dealings with the old man has come away impressed. He is characterized as being a good bit like India's Gandhi. He is a born leader, the hero of his country. And right or wrong on the oil dispute with the British, he is said to have a good 95 per cent of the Iranians behind him. Not the least of his talents is his ability as a perfect actor. He can "turn on the tears" almost at will. How he does it is his secret. He can also faint under emotional crisis. But doctor members of the Iranian Parliament who examined him after one of these fainting spells found his pulse normal, and nothing physically the matter with him at all.

He is considered a partial paralytic and has carried a cane for a number of years. But on occasion he has been observed by Americans to run up and down stairs without his cane, and with no apparent disability on the left side of his body which has been supposed to be paralyzed.

And he is no backward country primitive. No Middle East mystic. He was educated in France, Belgium and Switzerland, holding a doctor's degree in law. He has served as Minister of Justice, Finance, and Foreign Affairs, as well as Premier of the Iranian Cabinet.

One Of Iran's Richest Men

He is reported to be one of the wealthiest men in Iran. The rich there are mostly land owners and according to the pattern, Mossadegh owns whole villages. Americans who have visited his villages say that they are well run — better than most, and his tenants get better than the usual one-fifth share of their crops.

Mossadegh is, in fact, the author of Iran's great reform movement of the 1920's. And he is also the author of the Iranian oil nationalization law of 1951, which is now causing all the trouble with the British over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. concession. The Prime Minister is the very personification of that issue. Before the Anglo-Iranian dispute can be solved, Mossadegh must be solved.

A year ago, when U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady first went to Iran from India, there was no oil nationalization issue. There was a severe economic crisis, with heavy unemployment. Yet when the Mossadegh nationalization law was passed last Spring, so complete was the faith of the Iranian people in that law that next day they lined up with their cans at the filling stations to get "their" oil. And many of them may not understand yet why they haven't got it.

American mediators like Averell Harriman who have tried to settle the dispute between the British and the Iranians may have thought at various times that a solution was at hand. But Mossadegh always balked them, standing stubbornly for his viewpoint.

Gross take of the Anglo-Iranian company from its Iranian fields has been estimated at $300 million a year. The Iranian royalty under the old 1933 contract was from $40 to $45 million a year. The new contract being negotiated when Premier Ali Razmara was assassinated in March, before Mossadegh came to power, would have given Iran $75 to $90 million. It wasn't enough.

Wasn't Satisfied With Half Of Profits
Then new offers by Anglo-Iranian would have given Iran a 50-50 split on profits, with 10 per cent of the Iranian share each year to pay for the nationalization. That would have given Iran a return of up to $150 million a year. Mossadegh was urged to take it. If he held out he thought Iran would get it all — the full $300 million. So he held out.

American mediators also tried to find some formula which would keep the Iranian fields producing, keep money pouring into Iran to support its tottering economy, unfreeze Iranian royalties now being held back by the British. It was thought this could be worked out by having the British tanker captains sign receipts for the oil "without prejudice" to the Anglo-Iranian case. But the British balked at that.

There is considerable American criticism of the British for their stubbornness. At times it has seemed almost the equal of Mossadegh's. It is said that no American oil company would have allowed its relations with the leasing country to become so bad. It went so far that Anglo-Iranian would not even sell Iranian oil to the Iranians at a price as low as that paid by the British Navy.

What the United Nations Security Council can do about this is the immediate question. Maybe appoint another mediator and try again. At any rate, if a solution isn't found in the next few months, Iran faces a financial crisis that could bring chaos and communism.

PRESS COMMENTS

PUMPKIN PIE TIME

Those who have travelled through the countryside in recent days will have noted the ripe pumpkins in the fields or on roadside stands. This, certainly, is a sign fall is here. Yellow pumpkins at this fact even more clearly than the calendar which doesn't provide for the continuance, some seasons, of a late summer into official autumn. This is the time when pumpkin pie is in the mode — or possible in the mode a la mode. That many of the pumpkin pies we eat will be filled with stuff out of cans, from the pack of a year ago, will not detract from the popularity of this seasonal delicacy. Housewives find it handier to open a can than to go through the somewhat messy operation of carving up a pumpkin and taking out its innards. Canned pumpkin allows pumpkin pie to be eaten throughout the year, which is an advantage. It is well prepared and tasty. It does, however, lack the variety of the days when each housewife prepared her own pumpkins for pies, spicing and flavoring them to suit the dictates of her own palate. Especially when liberally covered with whipped cream, or with a glob of ice cream, pumpkin is one of the finest of pies. If it is a nice deep one, cut in large slices, so much the better.

Glimpses Into The Past

By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

TOWN OF LAKE MEGANTIC
During our months of taking glimpses into the Past we have learned of many places and people who have been instrumental in building up a country of which we are proud, also glad that Prince Philip thinks it a pretty fine place to visit—if not to live in.

In searching for historic facts about our towns and villages in the Eastern Townships we often find ourselves at sea—that is, we see that our knowledge of geography and history is rather weak in spots, also that our knowledge of the country's topography needs a little brushing up, thus we should do a bit of homework on facts and figures, heights of our mountains, length of rivers and so on, not forgetting our counties nicely spread out over a large area in Eastern Canada.

Many strangers and some natives are oftentimes puzzled as to the Town of Megantic and the County of Megantic, the former being in Frontenac County and the latter extending north and west from beautiful and historic Lake St. Francis. The town standing quite near the International border is one of the younger settlements in the Townships, as settlers did not come in the early part of 1800; it was then the habitat of Indians, voyageurs and early missionaries, until the arrival of men from across the sea. Many of them chose the rolling country and lands then covered with hardwood trees which invariably became rich and productive farmlands.

Among the first comers was James W. Kelly, retired British soldier who came from Ireland in 1874 after a long military term, part of it spent in the West Indies. Mr. Kelly became one of the lakeside settlement's active citizens. He recorded that when he came there were only two huts in the place chosen by the pioneers, but it soon changed and became an active centre, especially in lumbering and milling. It was called Montecat, then changed to Morinville, after one of the first land owners; later to Chaudiere Pond as it was the headwaters of the Chaudiere River which led to the river and Agnes (her own name) to the opposite side. The first Church (Presbyterian) was built in 1839, then in Agnes, the Roman Catholic, Anglican and Methodist churches were built. A post office was opened in 1877, and Lodges were organized—I.O. O.F., C.O.F., Catholic C.O.F., St. Joseph Society and the R.T. of T. The Prince of Wales Hotel was built in 1878.

For a time prices were exorbitant in such places. Here they paid $11.00 for a barrel of flour; tea was 80 cts. to $1.00 and sugar 16 cts. a pound.

The lake region has been the mecca of sportsmen and travellers and the highway route from Sherbrooke to Megantic is beloved by motorists. Winding through forested lands, farm lands, modest homes and all the way a picture of lasting beauty. The everlasting hills, with valleys lying at their feet, in autumn the glory of color and the keen, bracing air makes this route most enticing. Coming to the Town, set amidst a beautiful surroundings, we see plainly why the early pioneers chose such places for their homes. Looking across the lake we see the border, an invisible barrier between two countries, at peace with each other; lovely summer homes on the shore lines; cottages tucked away amidst trees and all around the result of our pioneers' activity and devotion to their chosen homelands; glimpses on every side and treasured memories of the days when this region was a place of woods and waters; now a centre of modern life and progress.

DON'T DEPEND ON LUCK TO BE WINNER
Were you ever too lucky for your own good? That was the sad fate of South in the hand shown today.

West opened the king of spades against the very neatly bid slam contract. Dummy ruffed, and South made a correct play for the play. He would draw exactly two rounds of trumps and then he would go after the clubs.

At the second trick therefore, declarer laid down dummy's king of trumps. At the third trick he led a low trump from dummy, whereupon East fumbled and pulled out the wrong card. East meant to play the ten of hearts, but he accidentally played the queen.

This was a bit of unexpected luck for South. He had intended to play the ace of trumps, which ordinarily would leave East with the good queen of trumps. East's fumble made it unnecessary for declarer to lose a trump trick. So South took the ace of trump and drew the last trump with his jack, chucking over his good luck and East's clumsiness. There's nothing like a good laugh, is there?

It was then time to go after the clubs, so South led to dummy's top clubs and ruffed a club. Unfortunately the suit didn't break, and dummy had only one trump left. The clubs could not be brought in, and South wound up with two losing spades in his hand. His good luck had cost him a vulnerable slam.

South made a very serious error, of course, when he drew a third round of trumps. He would have made his contract if he had ignored East's third trump and had stuck to his original plan. The curious feature of the hand was that South would have been forced to play the hand correctly if East had made the normal trump play at the third trick. The normal play is for East to play the ten of hearts and for South to win with the ace. Now declarer takes dummy's top clubs and ruffs a club. He ruffs a spade

The Record Short Story
JUST A SUSPICION
By CHRISTOPHER KING

It was the fifth day of the annual Fall heat wave in Chicago. The air was still and humid, not a trace of a breeze. Driving around in a squad car with Sergeant Gilman was like sitting next to a furnace. The car was old and overheated, and so was Bloodhound Gilman. It was 8 o'clock in the evening, and just as hot as it had been at noon, with no prospects of a lake wind cooling the city down a few degrees.

I had parked the car just off Clark Street, arguing with Bloodhound that it was just as hot driving slowly with an overheated motor as parked at the curb. Neither of us noticed the man who ran from the flat building to our car until he banged at the window. He couldn't speak at first, but when he regained his mind, he started it.

"Mrs. Webster's been killed, on the first floor, in the back. I'm running the hose in the back, and think I'll wet down the back steps to cool the off, when I notice the back door open. I go up to close it so I won't get water in the kitchen, and I see her there. I'll show you."

"You the janitor?" Bloodhound asked as we got out.
"Yes, sir."

He led the way, around the side of the building to the back, and up to the kitchen. Bloodhound made him stand at the door. Inside the kitchen, Mrs. Webster lay in a pool of blood. She was fully clothed, about 35 years old, dark hair, coarse features. She had been stabbed four or five times near the heart.

"She's been dead less than an hour," Bloodhound said. "See if there's a phone, and call homicide, I'll look around."

I put the call in, and joined Bloodhound in his search. Some one had gone through the apartment quickly. There was an open jewel box in the bedroom, and four open purses on the floor in the living room. Nothing was left in the jewel box, and there wasn't any money in the purses. It was a tiny three-room apartment, and the killer hadn't spent much time going through it.

"Keep an eye on the janitor," Bloodhound told me. "I'm going down the front way to wait for homicide."

I joined the janitor on the back porch. He had been in the back yard 20 minutes, watering the grass, before he went up to the Webster's door to shut it. No one had entered or left the building from the back in that time.

"Did you hear any noise? A scream?" I asked.
"I didn't hear no noise, not a sound except the Kelly kids being put to bed. They wasn't screaming, just laughing and shouting. I don't like this neighborhood, too many young punks hanging around, not working."

I took him up the steps to ask the other tenants. Mrs. Kelly came to the door with five kids, all tickled to see a policeman. She said there hadn't been a sound, and the other tenants agreed.

I returned to the apartment to find Bloodhound with a grief-stricken Mr. Webster. A homicide had arrived, took the janitor away from me, and relegated me to watching the back door, a most uninteresting job. Bloodhound joined me after an hour and announced that they were taking the janitor and Mr. Webster down for questioning; we were included.

On the way down, Bloodhound told me Webster's alibi. He had worked late, phoned his wife early, and told her not to fix supper for him. At 7 o'clock, he left the office, went to Mario's Restaurant for supper, and returned home a little after 8.

I told Bloodhound about taking the janitor with me to ask about

He turned from the door, and walked back in the room. "It's all your fault," he told me. "I could of had this case broken two hours ago."

"What's the matter?"
"You and your food. You almost ruined the only clue we had."

He walked up to Webster, yanked him up from the chair. "You ought to be hungry, Webster, not having any supper."

"What do you mean? I ate at Mario's."
"You did not. You and that little blonde waitress had things all fixed up, she gave you a perfect alibi. You were smart, got to gether with her so that you'd both have the same story about what you had to eat, how much of a tip you left, everything. You made one mistake in your imaginary meal, the salad bowl. Everyone knows Mario's salads have a suspicion of garlic, sometimes a lot more than just a suspicion. Sitting in this hot room the last few hours would have brought it out. I would have, shall we say, noticed you."

"If it wasn't for my able assistant," Bloodhound continued, turning to me, "I would have spotted the absence of any garlic an hour ago, but he had to feast himself on corned beef."

Webster wasn't talking, but you could see the confession in his eyes. The boys picked up the waitress again, just as talked. Webster had promised to marry her, but she had no intention of spending her honeymoon in jail. It was 3 in the morning when Bloodhound and I headed home. He stopped at the delicatessen for two corned beef sandwiches to carry back.

The Doctor Says

PATIENT'S HEALTH MUST BE BUILT UP IN CHRONIC BRONCHITIS CASES

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
"I have had chronic bronchitis for about six years and at times cough a lot, especially when I first get up in the morning. I bring up a lot of phlegm, and I stay quite thin from the coughing every day. Aren't there some shots that would help me so I won't cough so much?" writes Mrs. E. H.

This letter brings up the subject of chronic bronchitis, which is not only a distressing, but also a potentially dangerous condition. Shots probably will not help Mrs. H. unless the infection is active and will yield to penicillin or one of its relatives. Tonics may be helpful in helping to build up her strength but neither of these can be counted on to relieve her entirely.

If bronchitis comes on suddenly, the symptoms at the start may seem to be like those of an ordinary cold. A feeling of heaviness over the chest and pains in the bones and back are common. In mild cases fever may be absent, but in severe cases, it can be as high as 103.

The most characteristic sign is a cough which comes on in paroxysms and causes great distress. At first the cough is dry, but later the secretion becomes more and more abundant and is brought up with the coughing.

Sometimes bronchitis comes on more slowly and is said to be "chronic" from the start. The causes of chronic bronchitis are much the same as those of the acute variety, that is, germs, viruses, irritating fumes and the like. The symptoms are also similar but not so severe.

Drugs may relieve the symptoms somewhat. The substance which causes the irritation should be removed, if possible. Every effort should be made to build up the patient into good health and avoid irritation to the air passages.

Change of climate, when it can be arranged, is an important part of treatment for many patients with chronic bronchitis. Often those who cannot seem to get over their chronic cough at home promptly improve when they go to a warm mild climate, such as southern California or Florida.

Baptist Mission Special Meeting At Coaticook

Coaticook, Oct. 19. — The Baptist Mission Circle held a special meeting at the Church on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day, when the guest speaker was Miss Susie Hinman, who returned to Canada last spring after many years of missionary service in India. Nearly forty members and guests of the Circle were present to meet Miss Hinman, who is well known to many in this vicinity.

Mrs. Gordon Drew conducted the service, and the speaker was introduced by Dr. Johnson. Taking "Idolatry" as her subject, Miss Hinman explained the very real place that idol-worship still has in the lives of non-Christian India, and stressed the need for more extensive mission work to counteract it, and for increased "mission consciousness" in the Churches here in Canada. The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Harold Mayhew, of Dixville on behalf of those present, and the service was followed by a social period and refreshments in the church hall.

MAN RISKS DEATH FROM 26,000 VOLTS TO SAVE BURNED YOUNGSTER

Alexander "Andy" Cartner, daring T.T.C. worker of Toronto, rescues 7-year-old boy from transformer

1. Two young cousins, Raymond Frances and Jim Briden, had crawled under a fence at a Hydro transformer station off Jane Street, just north of Wilson Avenue in Toronto. Being typical boys, they were fascinated by the mysterious looking equipment. Raymond decided he was going to climb the tower. Jim, sensing the danger, warned him against it. But the boy continued his climb.

2. Raymond soon realized his mistake. At the first crossbar, 15 feet from the ground, he touched a live wire and was hurled backwards — his shirt bursting into flames. The boy's foot became jammed between two sections of steel... and he hung, screaming, head down! His chum's yelling attracted the attention of Cartner, who immediately raced 200 yards across a swamp to the scene.

3. Cartner climbed up the transformer until he could reach the lad. Disregarding the shock he received, he risked the full voltage and twisted Raymond's foot free. Then, holding him with one arm, he slid to the ground. The boy's life was saved. We are proud to honour Andy Cartner, Toronto Transportation Commission worker, through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Surprise Party Held At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, Oct. 19. — Mrs. M. R. Sherman, was guest of honor at a charmingly arranged surprise party upon the occasion of her birthday, when Mrs. N. Claude Whitcomb invited the neighbors to her home to wish Mrs. Sherman "Happy Birthday."

Mrs. Sherman was asked over to assist Mrs. Whitcomb with a task and upon arriving her hostess showed her into the spacious living-room overlooking beautiful Lake Massawippi, where she found her friends assembled who showered her with lovely gifts as tokens of friendship, and each containing their best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

This gracious lady was indeed taken by surprise but soon gained her composure and voiced her sincere thanks, and the sparkle in her eyes expressed her appreciation as much as her words.

A most enjoyable hour was spent and Mrs. Whitcomb served delicious refreshments when the attractive tea table centered with a low bowl of cosmos and green tapers in silver holders was presided over by Mrs. Sherman's daughter, Mrs. L. O. Piercy.

The community join in expressing their good wishes for continued years of health and many more birthdays.

Lions Entertained By Imperial Oil At Cowansville

Cowansville, Oct. 19.—Detracting nothing from the fine speakers heard at the "Lions Den" in Cowansville in the past it is nonetheless apparent that a good movie show will boost attendance which was proven at the meeting held on the evening of Oct. 9 at the Ottawa Hotel where a fine Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed, and where two excellent color films were shown by Imperial Oil Company, Ltd., under the direction of Mr. R. E. Corrigan, resident manager in Granby, assisted by Mr. Paul Boulet, agent for the company in Cowansville.

It was a pleasure to note the attendance of two guests in the persons of Mr. D. L. Hayes, of Cowansville, and Master David Blinn, who accompanied his father, Lion Donald Blinn, of Stanbridge East. While dinner was being served several reports were heard concerning the club's current activities, chief among these being the report of Lion John McClure, whose work as chairman of the Sight Conservation Committee constantly brings praise from all quarters. Lion John stated that the annual drive for funds to assist the Canadian National Institute for the Blind has been started and already shows increasing interest in the community, due possibly to eight cases among school children, and one case of a young mother which were successfully cared for during the past summer months. It is hoped that the $1,000 sent to help the blind last year may be substantially increased during the present campaign.

Lion Mitch Bedard, Esso dealer in Cowansville, presented Mr. Corrigan, and Tail Twister Bill Stowe, a competitor in the field, was quick in picking him up with the fine box for conduct unbecoming a Lion in advertising Imperial products.

Previous to showing his films, Mr. Corrigan gave some very interesting data covering relations between his company and employees. And in reviewing what the company stands for he stated that "It is merely a servant of the public." The first film shown, "From New Lands to Old," was truly a fine educational picture which showed a goodwill motor caravan starting in Paris, France, and continuing through the Balkans to Bombay, India, a distance of some 22,000 miles. The other film, "Vacation in Quebec," took the audi-

"I would also like to express the thanks of the Divisional Board of Management to these and other officers of the Drummondville Branch, and particularly to your very active secretary, Miss Courchesne, for the co-operation given us at all times. Needless to say, we hope that you will approve our actions but if you have any criticisms to make or suggestions to offer, please do not hesitate to do so.

"Organized in 1939, the branch has had an outstanding record of service, it has been frequently said that the strength of Red Cross lies in its branches and in this respect, Drummondville has ever been a tower of strength to the Red Cross in this province. In war or peace, it has been one of our leading branches in all phases of Red Cross work and has contributed substantially to local welfare. In this latter respect, it has helped veterans in need; given emergency aid to many victims of fire and has been active in teaching swimming and water safety, thereby, helping to reduce the appalling loss of life by drowning.

"In September 1950, two Drummondville hospitals, signed a contract with the Society for the free blood transfusion service and since then, Red Cross mobile blood donor clinics have visited Drummondville on three different occasions and have obtained a little over 1,000 bottles of blood.

"This record shows that Drummondville can be counted on to play its part in the work that lies ahead.

"It must never be forgotten that besides its interest in local welfare, Red Cross has obligations Nationally and Internationally. If in these anxious times, there seems to be no way of overcoming the barriers of prejudice and misunderstanding that divide mankind, surely much inspiration can be derived from this great brotherhood of peoples gathered under the Red Cross banner, which has shown in war and peace that men and women of different outlook can forget their jealousies of colour and clan and strive together for no other than the common good.

"The problems of our day are many and hard and we frequently ask ourselves whether we, as individuals, can do very much about straightening them out. May I point out that the whole history of Red Cross is one of great achievements, resulting from the efforts of small groups and individuals, like ourselves, who not only had vision of what should be done, but also the courage to get out and do it.

"And if our predecessors could accomplish what they did in the unenlightened times in which they lived, surely we, with all the advantages of modern life, can face the challenge of the problems that confront us today.

"By doing our utmost to make Red Cross a living symbol of service to humanity, our example may be an inspiration to others elsewhere whose problems may be far more difficult than our own. Thank you."

SAINTS AND BRAVES BATTLE TO 1-1 OVERTIME STALEMATE

Roger Bessette Turns In Ace Performance As Teams Fight To Draw; Chicoutimi Here Tomorrow

Playing with the temperature soaring in the high sixties the Sherbrooke Saints and Valleyfield Braves battled to a 1-1 stalemate last night after seventy minutes of listless hockey before a small crowd of home town fans at the Arena.

The draw showed both teams into a two-way tie for second position in the Senior Group standing with three points apiece.

League-leading Saguenay heads here tomorrow.

Rolie Hebert will lead his pace-setting squad into town tomorrow evening to tangle with the Saints in a regular fixture of George Slater's Group. The Sags are at present perched on top of the pack with a two-point advantage over the locals and Valleyfield.

The weather failed to help the game any, as no doubt the players felt like the spectators, too warm. It was only in spots that the teams resembled hockey players. It was one of the warmest nights yet for an game and naturally this didn't help matters any.

Bill Kyle put the locals out in front in the middle session after teaming up with Jimmy Planché and Pete Wright. The flashy pivot-man deflected Planché's shot into the meshings behind Leclerc from close quarters. This was all the scoring until the middle of the final frame.

Roger Bessette was the big factor in the Saints' outcome as time after time he was forced to extend himself to keep his net clear while his mates were sitting out infractions of the rules. In the opening period the Saints played off short-handed for ten minutes and this forced the netminder to work a little overtime in the clutches.

Paul Leclerc, at the other end of the rink, had his busy moments, and was diving and sliding around to keep the rubber away from his doorstep.

Toe Blake's big line of Joannette, Bisailon and Corriveau carried the brunt of the attack for the Braves and they were always dangerous whenever they were on the ice. Corriveau accounted for the lone tally for the Braves in the final session when Joe Lepine was sitting out a penalty when the locals had one man too many on the ice.

Adj. Coo, Bud Smith and Gilles Dube seemed to be the best unit for the Saints and got into more scoring positions than the rest although Bill Kyle registered Sherbrooke's goal. Big Jimmy Planché was in the right spot several times but it wasn't his night as he just couldn't buy a goal. He had been clear in his mercy more often than any other player but couldn't beat his former mate.

At the start of the middle session play began to jump up a little, but once the heat took over the pace slowed down again. The Braves had their moment as Planché let go with his shot and Kyle tipped it in the net to give the Saints a 1-0 lead. Just before the end of the frame Sandy Milne drew a penalty.

The Braves really turned on the pressure in the third but Bessette rose to the occasion and smothered their attacks at his citadel. Three penalties in a row slowed the pace up a little but the goalies still had their busy spots.

Joannette seemed to be getting closer all the time as he kept battling at the puck from the edge of the crease but Bessette kept clearing it in time.

Planché was given a golden opportunity of putting his mates ahead when Bill Kyle put him right in. He shifted Leclerc out of position but his shot missed the corner of the net.

Coach Dugre called for a change and when one player started for the bench he decided to stay on a little longer and the Saints had an extra player on the surface. Referee Sibby Munday thumbed one off and Big Joe Lepine stepped into the breach.

The Braves with the man advantage jumped to the attack and after holding them off for close to a minute Corriveau finally managed to tip in a rebound over Bessette's prone position.

In the overtime Bobby Pepin came the closest for the Saints when he broke away but his slider missed the corner of the net as he went down. Ferguson got in twice but like his mates he failed to click.

The Braves seemed pleased to settle for a tie and were playing it close. Bisailon got in the clear but Bessette knocked down his effort and the song sounded before anything further happened.

Letters To The Sports Editor

Dear Sir:

With your permission I would like to, on behalf of the Sherbrooke Hockey Club, take up a little space on your sports' page to present the team's viewpoint regarding the Bobby Millon case.

It seems that Mr. Millon can't understand why he wasn't cut loose without paying for his outright release. The team had paid a $1,000 last year to have him reinstated in amateur ranks and figured they should have their money back, hence the reason for asking reimbursement.

As you all know, previous to this year, any pro desiring to play amateur had to be waived out of all the professional circuits. In Millon's case, New Haven had picked him up when the Canadiens let him out and were asking the regular fee of $2500 for his release. After considerable bartering, with the help of Frank Selke and Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, New Haven finally agreed to accept $1,000 for his release and a player given by Frank Selke.

The directors after debating the case decided that they would have to insist on the payment of the sum as they weren't in any financial position to write it off. Mr. Millon was told this when he was advised that he was no longer considered in the team's plans and that he could try and make a deal for himself. As for being declared a free-agent, this is a term which is used in hockey circles and means that a player is on his own. Trusting that this will clarify the team's position in the matter and that the executive is making for the executive is the main reason why the executive is asking for reimbursement.

I remain,

FOREST KEENE,
(Business Manager of the Sherbrooke Hockey Club).

Jersey Joe Walcott Says Doesn't Feel Old; Plans To Keep Fighting As Long As God Gives Him Strength

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Old, old, old, Jersey Joe Walcott. The way they talk you expect to find a codger tripping over a snowy beard.

"They'll have to help him up the steps into the ring," one fellow wrote the other day.

Well, Jersey Joe was in town yesterday to accept his heavyweight championship belt. You never saw a more alert, healthy specimen. The kind of a man who can knock off your block with one punch. Just like he did last July with Ezzard Charles.

Will the layoff hurt? Will Walcott at 38 be the man he was at 37? Ask the man. What difference will a year make?

"If a man lives like some folks live, two months would make him too old," Walcott said.

"People call a man old just because he's 37. Every man isn't the same at 37. They don't notice how he lived in his teens. That's the most important part.

"Clean living and hard work. That makes the difference. I'm going to keep on fighting as long as God gives me strength."

Joe is edging up on that 38th birthday next Jan. 31. Some say he's older. He insists the records are right.

What about his next fight? When? Who? Where?

The return bout with Charles was put back until "after the first of the year" at a conference last summer. It won't be held until June.

"We're waiting until they (the International Boxing Club) call up in January," said Felix Boechchio, Walcott's manager. "We won't fight until June. As of now, the opponent is Charles."

Walcott told reporters he weighs 200 pounds—six over his weight for the last Charles fight.

Joe Baki To Meet Gino Buonvino Tonight

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Joe Baki, a ring rusty 31-year-old heavyweight from Kulpport, Pa., gets another chance to make the grade tonight in a 10-rounder with Gino Buonvino, a roly-poly fellow from Bari, Italy.

Baki is a 3-1 favorite to knock out Buonvino. He can hoist himself up the comeback trail by a convincing and early kayo.

Buonvino, a wide-open swinger, was once knocked out by Lee Savold in less than one minute.

Buonvino has had only one fight this year—an eight-round preliminary decision over Georgie Kaplan.

Baki had only nine fights since 1946 but was a sensation in Britain for a short time in 1947 after he knocked out Bruce Wodecock.

John Bailey To Report To Glace Bay Miners

Glace Bay, N.S., Oct. 19.—(AP)—John Bailey, owned by Detroit Red Wings, is scheduled to join Glace Bay Miners today, Coach Bud Poile announced last night.

A product of the Detroit chain and recent member of Windsor Spitfires of the O.H.A. junior loop, Bailey played with Denver in the defunct United States Hockey League last season.

A winger, Bailey is coming to Miners on a 24-hour recall arrangement. Poile stated. He now is on the Cleveland list and on loan to Miners.

Bailey is one of three Glace Bay newcomers. Ron Rohmer, also a left winger, and Len Haley, who operates on the right line, joined Poile's youth movement yesterday.

Tony Trabert Given Leave To Play Tennis

Bainbridge, Md., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Tony Trabert yesterday received the Navy's permission to interrupt his basic training for 90 days so he can represent the United States in the Davis Cup tennis matches in Australia.

"I'm lucky," said the 21-year-old Cincinnati baller.

He'll start his leave Saturday upon the completion of his fourth week in camp.

Trabert, who won the 1951 National Intercollegiate and clay courts championships, was called up as a reservist after the summer tennis campaign.

Bill Larochele Is Released By Riders

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Bill Larochele, speedy backfielder with Ottawa Rough Riders, has been dropped from the roster of the local Big Four club, Coach Clem Crowe announced yesterday.

The 24-year-old college star with University of Western Ontario several seasons ago, will be replaced in the backfield by Bernie Brennan, an Ottawa home-brew.

The coach said Larochele has not been playing as well as in other seasons.

Heavy Football Week-End In East And West; Jammed With Playoff Berths In Confused Situation

Usually the bottom-placed clubs in any league get the brush-off in pre-game notices, but that isn't so in this week-end's Canadian football picture. Watch those weak-sister Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampeders—they can cause a lot of grief in the Big Four and Western Canada Unions.

Both still are licking their lips after tasting the sweet fruits of Grey Cup triumphs in recent years—the Stampeders in 1948, the Alouettes in 1949—and, of course, they don't like the idea of sitting this one out. This year, too, the potential Grey Cup game is a record-high $112,000 which means the seven-per-cent of the gross gate for participating clubs will be a financial plum.

The Stampeders and Alouettes aren't fussy who they knock over. And it's a cinch both will be out there Saturday with the old college try.

Calgary's hopes of getting to Toronto next month for the crowd drawing Grey Cup went with the Western winds a couple of weeks ago and their nuisance value mounted with each succeeding western conference game. They get their last crack of the season Saturday in the schedule wind-up against Edmonton Eskimos.

A big Calgary victory and Saskatchewan win over Winnipeg would send the Eskimos and Blue Bombers into a not-too-healthy sudden-death semi-final. This prospect for any coach or team is by no means comforting.

The Alouettes, unless the Stampeders, have a mathematical chance of snatching a Big Four play-off berth—but it is slim. If they don't click, they can still upset the applecart on play-off plans of the other Big Four clubs.

Sharply on time and anyone desiring to make the trip is asked to be on hand then.

Last week Commissioners' High dropped a close game to Sam Abbott's Stanshead crew in Quebec and the local team is looking forward to a hard fought contest with the boys from the Capital City.

Following today's fixture the Quebec team will travel to Stanshead for a return game tomorrow afternoon and will be out to try and divide their two-game series with Abbott's big red and white machine.

Marcel Pelletier minutes after the opening whistle and Laliberte made it 2-0 for the Cats.

The lead was cut when Leger picked up a pass in front of the Shawinigan nets and shot it into the corner.

Tray tied it up early in the middle frame. Chicoutimi went ahead four minutes later when Moore pushed a loose puck into the cage during a power-play in the Shawinigan territory.

With the Cats short-handed, Tkachuk bagged a goal on a pass-out play.

At 11:11 of the third stanza, McKenzie scored during a scramble, again while the Cats were short-handed, with Sam Mulholland away for tripping.

Reid got Shawinigan's third and last goal.

Dawson fired the puck past

Quebec Gridders To Meet Sherbrooke This Afternoon And S. W. C. Tomorrow

The Sherbrooke High School football team will be hosts to Commissioners' High School of Quebec City this afternoon at 3:30 on the school gridiron.

Chicoutimi Downs Shawinigan Falls And Moves Into Top Spot In Q. S. H. L.

Shawinigan Falls, Que., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Chicoutimi Saguenays last night took over sole possession of the Quebec Senior Hockey League's first place, defeating Shawinigan Falls 5-3 in a game before 4,500 fans.

Saguenays have five points for two victories and a deadlock in three starts, two points ahead of Sherbrooke Saints and Valleyfield Braves who fought to a 1-1 overtime deadlock last night.

Germain Leger, Dick Wray, Dick Moore, Jim McKenzie and Pete Tkachuk scored for Chicoutimi, while defenceman Bob Dawson, Spike Laliberte and Mel Reid accounted for the Cats' goals.

A total of 4,500 witnessed the game.

Losing New York Giants Set Record In Money Received In World Series

Cincinnati, Oct. 19.—(AP)—The World Series money melon was cut yesterday, and while New York Yankees got the most money, the losing Giants set a financial record in the 1951 classic.

In collecting $4,951.03 for each full share, against $6,446.09 for each Yank, the defeated National Leagueers got more dough than any other second runner in the history of the baseball classic.

The previous high for a loser was $4,820.40, paid to Brooklyn Dodgers in dropping the 1941 series to the Yankees.

The cut for each Yankee receiving a full share this year was only the fourth highest. The best was the $6,772.05 collected by the victorious Cleveland club of 1948 when it defeated the Boston Braves.

One of the oddities this year, too, was the fact that pitcher Jack Kramer got his share as a Yankee, after being with the Giants earlier in the season.

He was released by both clubs, but remained with the Yanks long enough to rate a part share—$3,222.

The world champions voted full shares to 31 members and part shares to 16 others in the organization.

The Giants decided to give 29

Moncton Hawks Still After New Players

Moncton, N.B., Oct. 19.—(AP)—Playing coach Johnny Horeck last night announced that three newcomers will join the Moncton Hawks today.

Horeck went to work Wednesday night after Moncton Hawks absorbed a 13-2 lacing at the hands of Saint John Beavers in a Maritime Major Hockey League game here. Last night he said he had added strength for three departments.

Tommy Lockhart, 21-year-old netminder with Marlboros of the Junior O.H.A. and practice goal-keeper with Toronto Maple Leafs last season, is flying in from Toronto.

Also slated to join the club today are Ronnie Matthews of Sydney Millionaires and Tom Kilbey of Glace Bay Miners.

Matthews is one of two players who will receive from Sydney in exchange for Laurie Peterson. He is a defenceman but can also take a turn on the forward line and is a good goaltender.

Kilbey has been released by the Miners and is coming to the Hawks for a tryout.

Horeck said last night the moves were only part of his plans to bolster the Hawks. "We have a few more holes to plug before the team will be set for league competition," he said.

Charlottetown Upset By Glace Bay While Halifax Downs Saint John In Maritime Major Hockey League Tilts

Charlottetown Islanders suffered their third defeat in as many games last night, Glace Bay Miners taking the Maritime Major Hockey League game 4-3 at home.

The champs of the old Big Four were a disappointed bunch when defenceman Dan Wendley of Glace Bay scored the winning goal with only 2½ minutes left in the third period.

Charlottetown trailed 2-0 going into the second period but scored two in that stanza while holding off Glace Bay. Miners went one up early in the third but forward Ray Marshall tied the score at 14:12. Then Wendley combined with Glace Bay coach Bud Poile to spoil the game for Charlottetown.

The win put Glace Bay in first place. Tonight they play in Charlottetown.

Halifax St. Mary's defeated Saint John Beavers 3-1 last night in the Nova Scotia Capital. Despite the score the game was close. Beavers, playing their third straight night, were dead tired before the game ended.

Coach Peanut O'Flaherty of Saint John said his team played as well as could be expected. "I've never seen anything like this," he exploded. "Just think of it. A 90-game schedule. They'll probably be even more tired Friday night against Sydney in our own rink."

Two of the three goals in the third period came after a mid-ice free-for-all which saw four players chased to the penalty box, two of them with majors and two with minors. Johnny Dutchak of Islanders and Len Haley of Miners received majors as the featured battlers.

The four penalties were handed out at 13:45. At 14:12 Islanders tied the score at 3-3 and 45 seconds later Miners shot the winning goal.

Phil Dalgleish shot the opening goal at 13:07 and Bloomer followed at 17:50 to make it 2-0 for Miners.

Big Bert Olmstead, Passed To Canadiens By Detroit, Shapes Up As Perfect Feeder For Richard

Has anybody seen rave notices about big Bert Olmstead lately—or since he joined the Montreal Canadiens in a straight player swap with Detroit Red Wings last Dec. 19? It would be a shout in the right direction if a few of the huzzahs passed to National Hockey League players were sent his way.

The six-foot-two winger from the village of Sceptre, Sask., has been doing a nifty job of patrolling his side of the boards since Red Wings exchanged him for Leo Gravelle. And probably the first to admit it would be goal-a-game Maurice Richard who needs no introduction to North American hockey fans.

Big Bert happens to be a great supporter—in point of goal-getting—for the Rocket. When Richard scores, look for the name of names in parentheses behind him in the period goal-scoring summaries.

You guessed it, one usually is old reliable Olmstead. The Rocket needs no one to make him look good in hockey regalia but the 25-year-old Olmstead, who has been knocking around in pro hockey since 1945 and most of it in the minors, is a real guy to have on your side.

It would be a job for the figure fighters to toe up the exact number of assists credited to Bert on Richard goals last season. But Olmstead was a familiar name in the period summaries to the folks who followed that sort of stuff.

To many hockey followers outside of Montreal, he is the "other player" on the line with Richard and Elmer Lach, the starchy play-making center who first saw the light of day in Nokomis, another Saskatchewan village.

Richard brought his 1951-52 season's goal average to one a game last night as he scored once in Canadiens' 3-2 victory over New York Rangers before a 14,233 crowd at Montreal. And Mrs. Olmstead's boy was in on the assist with Butch Bouchard.

It was the Rocket's fourth goal
