MONTREAL (CP) — A federal commission into bilingual air traffic control is calling for both French and English to be used integrally in Quebec skies as soon as possible.

The commission made the recommendation in a report to federal Transport Minister Don Mazankowski to be made public later this week. Portions were reported Monday by Radio-Canada, the French-language counterpart of the CBC, and by the daily Le Devoir today.

The report says both visual and instrument flying should be conducted in both languages as soon as technical changes can be made.

It adds that controllers in Quebec should be given responsibility for portions of airspace over neighboring New Brunswick and Ontario, and that the air traffic control school in Cornwall, Ont., offer courses in both French and English.

The commission, headed by three judges, was set up three years ago by the previous Liberal government following a dispute with controllers over the use of French in Quebec airspace.

Sunny skies

A high-pressure area moving across the west has given us some generally sunny skies today and tomorrow in the southwestern regions. There will be a 25 to 35 per cent chance of showers, with variable winds for the Townships area. It will be foggy during the earlier parts of the day, followed by cloudy periods. There is a risk of isolated showers this afternoon. The high today will be 21 with a low near 10.

Metric rollbacks rumored

By NELSON WYATT
SHERBROOKE — The unit overseeing the conversion of local stores to the metric system reacted with surprise this morning when they were informed that there is a possibility that the program may face cutbacks by the Progressive Conservative government.

Loriot Gaudette, in charge of the program in Sherbrooke, said, "It's the first news I've heard of it," when contacted at his home early this morning. He was surprised at the news and pointed out that so far the conversion to the new system had been going well. "Already, 60 per cent of the 200 retailers in Sherbrooke have switched over." With investments in new equipment such as scales required for the switch, costs are estimated to have run into the area of $60,000 to $150,000. Each scale costs between $1,800 and $2,500.

Gaudette was commenting on reports that Don Cameron, Progressive Conservative MP for Kamloops-Shuswap, said that the PC party caucus will discuss rollbacks in the program next week.

Guy Brosseau, in charge of the retail stores equipment conversion and the district inspector for the Department of Weights and Measures, said he knew nothing about any planned cutbacks and declined to comment further.

Mayor Mike Latta of Kamloops, B.C., said Monday he was stunned by suggestions that Canada's metric conversion program may be halted.

If grocery shoppers are finding their food bills high, these days, they aren't alone. High costs of metric conversion have sparked rumors of program rollbacks.

Levesque, PM trade chat

RENE LEVESQUE
...Tories should reveal policy

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Joe Clark and Quebec Premier Rene Levesque exchanged requests Monday for clear positions on constitutional issues.

After their first meeting since Clark was elected prime minister, Levesque said he asked Clark to state the constitutional position of the new federal government before the referendum campaign on sovereignty-association gets under way next spring.

Clark said he asked Levesque when he intends to put the referendum question before the national assembly.

He said he urged the premier to attend the federal-provincial conference on the economy scheduled for November, which the premier has hinted he may not attend.

The two leaders spoke to reporters separately following a private two-hour dinner meeting. Both said they used the meeting mainly to renew acquaintances and did not press each other for immediate responses to their respective demands.

Levesque said that if Clark's position on the Parti Quebecois government's plans for sovereignty-association is any different from the position of the previous federal government, the prime minister should say so.

"Even if there are no changes, that should be stated too," Levesque said.

He said Clark made a mistake during his election campaign when he said he did not recognize Quebec's right to self-determination.

"I think that the general attitude of informed people is that the right to self-determination cannot be contested," Levesque said, adding that the cause of sovereignty-association was helped by Clark's stand on the issue.

Clark said he did, "not intend to use federal-provincial meetings to interfere with (Quebec's) referendum campaign," and that he hoped Quebec would participate in any such meeting.

MAY NOT GO
But Levesque's apparent intention to boycott federal-provincial conferences, at least until the referendum result is known, appeared to be unchanged after

Clark reiterates promise

Petro-Can fated to die

MONTREAL (CP) — Prime Minister Clark says he sticks by his election promise to dismantle Petro-Canada despite advice from Robert Coates, Progressive Conservative party president, that he reconsider.

Coates said during the weekend that Clark should not sell the Crown-owned oil corporation to private interests because public opinion is generally opposed to such a move.

But during a visit here Monday, the prime minister appeared unmoved by the suggestion.

"I think it is essential to change the nature of the Canadian government's presence in the petroleum industry," Clark said in an interview published today in La Presse.

A closed-door meeting between Clark and Montreal business leaders, meanwhile, resulted in agreement that Petro-Canada be dismantled, but with prudence, a prime ministerial aide told reporters afterwards.

IS OPTIMISTIC

In the La Presse interview, Clark also said his government has no intention of unilaterally fixing the price of oil and expressed optimism that Ottawa and the provinces could reach a consensus on energy issues.

"What is good for one part of the country is good for another," he said, adding he is convinced all provinces will accept a domestic oil price increase.

The premiers' conference held last week in Pointe-au-Pic, Que., failed to reach agreement on oil pricing, with Ontario Premier William Davis arguing against any increase beyond the $1-a-barrel already scheduled for January.

Clark said, "There is a way of responding to Ontario's concerns," on the issue, but did not elaborate.

Marois confirms civil servant resignations

MONTREAL (CP) — Pierre Marois, Quebec social development minister, confirmed Monday that six top civil servants in his department have resigned over a difference of policy with the minister.

The six civil servants were members of a steering committee which oversees the allocation of government grants for job-creation projects involving small companies or community groups.

Marois said the six wanted to tighten up requirements for receiving government help under the program, known as Operation Solidarite Economique.

"We didn't want to impose too many requirements on the citizens; we wanted to give them the chance to define their needs," Marois told a news conference in his riding office in suburban Longueuil.

The civil servants are said to have complained of political interference in their decisions on whether to approve or reject grants. Marois said he had received complaints from groups which had been refused grants.

The minister said he visited several of the projects, "and I came to the conclusion that I wanted to keep the basic requirements."

Dief left trust fund of $500,000

WINNIPEG (CP) — John Diefenbaker realized only this summer that a secret trust fund established for him following the 1963 Progressive Conservative election defeat had appreciated to about $500,000. Keith Martin, his executive assistant, said Monday.

The former prime minister wrote his latest will Aug. 7, nine days before he died, and bequeathed the fund for the first time. Martin said during an interview aboard the Chief's funeral train.

Diefenbaker had thought the fund, established by prominent Tories to keep the Prairie politician in a lifestyle suitable for a former prime minister, was considerably smaller. Martin said.

One-third of the money will be donated to Saskatoon's Diefenbaker Centre, which houses many of the former Conservative leader's papers. Another third will be used for the distribution of Diefenbaker's memoirs to high school students and the remaining third for the construction of a boys and girls club in his home city of Prince Albert, Sask.

Details of the fund remain sketchy, including the exact amount it contains because of Diefenbaker's refusal to

Ministers call for finance summit

OTTAWA (CP) — While Prime Minister Clark headed for Montreal Monday to discuss the outcome of last week's provincial premiers' conference with Quebec Premier Rene Levesque, Finance Minister John Crosbie and top aides discussed provincial demands for a greater role in economic policymaking.

In the final communique from their two-day conference at Pointe-au-Pic, Que., the 10 provincial leaders called on Crosbie to convene a federal-provincial finance ministers' conference before drawing up his fall budget.

A spokesman for Crosbie said the minister would make no immediate reply. However, the matter was the day's agenda for consideration.

The premiers specifically asked to be consulted in Bank of Canada discussions leading to a change in interest rates, such as the bank rate increase announced July 22.

They also asked for a greater voice in setting policies to deal with inflation, unemployment, the international deficit and the value of the dollar.

SUGGESTS CAUTION

Herb Gray, Liberal finance critic, said in an interview the finance minister should be cautious in shifting to the provinces any jurisdiction in these areas.

"The federal government cannot abdicate its responsibility for economic policy without harming our capacity to mobilize all our resources in an economic crisis," he said.

Clark's two-hour private dinner with Levesque was preceded by an afternoon session with a dozen prominent Quebec businessmen.

Among those invited by the prime minister were Robert Scrivener, president of Northern Telecom Canada, Ltd., Alex Hamilton, president of Domtar Ltd., Michel Belanger, president of La Banque Provinciale du Canada and Patrick Rich, president of the Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd.

Clark was accompanied by Industry Minister Bob de Cotret and Supply and Services Minister Roch La Salle for the discussions at a large downtown hotel.

FIRST MEETING

The dinner with Levesque, who acted as host and chairman for the 20th annual premiers' meeting last week, marked the first time the two leaders, have met since Clark's election.

The Bank of Canada Act changes the central bank, which is responsible to the federal finance minister, with responsibility for regulating "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation."

The federal finance minister appoints the bank's 12 directors, and these directors appoint the central bank's governor, who advises the finance minister when he believes a change in the bank's trend-setting lending rate is needed.

Bell reports sabotage

MONTREAL (CP) — More Bell Canada equipment was sabotaged during the weekend, company spokesman Pierre Marion reported Monday, as a labor dispute between Bell and its technicians and repairmen continued.

Marion said 15 cables were severed in various parts of Quebec, affecting 4,400 customers. The most serious incident was in Chambly, just south of Montreal, where three cables were cut, affecting service to 1,800 customers. There were other incidents in Quebec City, Montreal, Alma, Roberval, Pointe-au-Pic and St. Romuald.

Meanwhile, Marion said federal mediator Roland Doucet has not contacted the company since his meeting with Bell representatives Friday.

Teachers returning despite hassles

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of the largest teachers union in Quebec says that classes will begin on schedule in September despite a provincial government order-in-council that "totally changed (proposed contract) clauses which (department) negotiators had already agreed to."

Robert Gaulin said that the 85,000-member union was examining ways of putting pressure on the government if it cancels the agreement on the procedures for laying off or transferring teachers.

Tea workers set to strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Employees at the Brooke Bond Foods Ltd. tea and coffee plant here Sunday voted 91 per cent in favor of a strike if the firm doesn't agree to return to the bargaining table by Wednesday. The 203 employees, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, have been without a contract since Dec. 31, 1978. The parties were to have met with a provincial conciliator last Friday, but the company obtained a postponement until Aug. 29.

Man charged in blind woman's rape

TORONTO (CP) — A 42-year-old man has been charged in the rape of a blind woman. Police said the 27-year-old woman allowed a man to sleep on her couch last week after he had been introduced to her by a friend. She slept in the bedroom. The woman said she was seized by the throat and raped. The attacker also stole her portable television set, $7 and a pack of cigarettes. Reginald Irvine Hicks of no fixed address has been charged with rape, theft and possession of stolen goods.

Texas governor involved in spill

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Texas Attorney-General Mark White on Monday inspected southern Texas beaches blackened by runaway oil and said it might be months before his investigators know who is responsible for the mess.

White, who said he has the authority to sue Mexico for damages, acknowledged that it is a touchy issue, with local as well as international implications.

"At this juncture we have no indication of fault of any individual, company, or country," he said. "No direct inquiries have been made to the Mexican government."

French air traffic control approved?

MONTREAL (CP) — Radio-Canada says a federal commission into bilingual air traffic control has recommended that French be used for both sight and instrument landings at all of Quebec's airports.

The French-language network of the CBC says the inquiry has already submitted its recommendations to the federal government and will make its report public later this week.

It says the report also suggests French be accepted for air traffic control outside Quebec anywhere the federal government wanted to set up bilingual air navigation districts.

Family burns as father, son watch

AYLMER, Que. (CP) — A father and his son watched in horror Sunday as a car carrying three other members of their family was engulfed in flames, killing them.

Two other persons also died, one in the car and the driver of a motorcycle which collided with the car.

Killed in the car were Anita Lavigne, 49, and her daughters Jennifer, 20, and Karen, 14, and a friend Diana Pessah, 21, all of this community near Ottawa. Motorcycle driver Jeffrey Merrill, 18, of Ottawa, died later in hospital.

Michael Wright, 18, of Ottawa, is in Ottawa Civic Hospital in serious condition.

Police said the women died after the gasoline tank of the motorcycle ruptured on impact with the 1968 Volkswagen beetle. Gasoline splashed over and into the car, ignited and engulfed it in flames. The gas tank of the car also exploded.

John Munro, director of the Diefenbaker Centre in Saskatoon and a long-time associate of Diefenbaker, said the fund may possibly contain considerably more than $500,000.

Some Tories aboard the funeral train refused to discuss the fund and others speculated that money may have been taken out, without Diefenbaker's knowledge, to finance other party causes.

the discussions.

"I don't think anyone has time for a full-fledged conference," he said.

The meeting had been called so Levesque, host of last week's premiers' conference at Pointe-au-Pic, could report to the prime minister on the meeting, which dealt mainly with energy and economic issues.

The prime minister said Levesque summarized the three-day session of provincial premiers but went on to other questions as well, including constitutional issues.

In his brief encounter with reporters after the meeting, Levesque paid tribute to Clark's progress in speaking French.

The two men spoke French for 90 minutes during the two-hour talk, premier said.

Earlier Monday, 2,000 persons waited in the dark morning hours at Sudbury, Ont., for the train to stop and another 1,000 stood under the sunny afternoon skies at Thunder Bay, Ont.

Winnipeg, the first stop outside Ontario since the train left Ottawa Sunday afternoon, drew the largest crowd.

Before each stop, preparations aboard the eight-car train resemble opening night at the opera.

Mounties chuck their brown shirts for scarlet tunics, politicians don sombre morning suits and television crews all but shout, "lights, camera, action," as the train halts.

As the people wait their turn to mount a ramp and view the closed coffin in a refurbished baggage car, politicians such as Health Minister David Crombie and Senator Alasdair Graham, Liberal party president, run down the line, shaking hands the way Diefenbaker did himself during his whistle-stop election campaigns as Progressive Conservative leader.

News Briefs

GM bearing risk prompts recall

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department said Monday it is still investigating complaints from consumers concerning wheel bearing problems in General Motors Corp. vehicles that were not included in a mid-July recall.

Federal safety officials also have not completed an investigation begun last October after one person was killed when a Buick Regal, one of the models recalled in July, went out of control and rolled over after a wheel-bearing failure, a spokesman said.

Avoid extremes, bishops urge

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec's Roman Catholic bishops have called on Quebecers to avoid extremes in the debate on the province's constitutional future.

In a 10-page document entitled "The Quebec People and Their Constitutional Future," the conference of Quebec bishops recognizes Quebec's right to self-determination.

But the bishops, who do not take a stand for or against independence for the province, say "no political or constitutional option can be considered absolute."

Nyad victorious in Gulf swim

JUNO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Diana Nyad, who sobbed when she was forced to quit two earlier long-distance swims, grinned triumphantly Monday as she waded ashore — the first person to beat currents, sharks and jellyfish in a swim to Florida from the Bahamas.

Saluted by the whistles of welcoming boats, the 30-year-old New Yorker swam strongly as she approached a beach where hundreds of persons waited.

She stumbled slightly as she rose from the calm ocean 27 hours and 38 minutes after leaving North Bimini.

Iran gags dissident press

TEHRAN (Reuter) — Iran's ruling Islamic clergy shut down 22 opposition newspapers Monday and ordered political organizations which oppose the rule of Islam to hand over their guns.

Spurred by official reports of a Kurdish rebellion in the west, crowds of demonstrators attended the funeral of revolutionary guards killed in weekend fighting in the region and called for the execution of Kurdish leaders.

Khomeini executes 18 rebels

TEHRAN (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed 18 more Kurdish rebels early today, closed down 22 publications and expelled three more foreign correspondents.

It also said two West German correspondents have been recalled to Tehran from assignments in the provinces and will be ordered out of the country.

Shah asks asylum from Sweden

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — The ousted shah of Iran has asked the Swedish government to grant him political asylum in Sweden, a foreign ministry spokesman said today.

He said the request was made informally through private contacts and will not be dealt with until the shah sends a formal written request.

The spokesman added that Sweden is one of a number of countries being considered by the deposed monarch.

Four dead in light plane crash

LA TUQUE, Que. (CP) — The wreckage of a light float plane which disappeared Aug. 11 during a flight from Drummondville, Que., was discovered near here Tuesday with the bodies of four family members still inside.

The Cessna 185 apparently caught fire after crashing in a wooded area, killing pilot Michel Helie, 40, his 37-year-old wife Estelle and their two daughters, aged 12 and nine. All were from Drummondville.

Canadian Forces aircraft discovered the wreckage while retracing the plane's intended 200-kilometre flight path to a fishing camp at Lac Epinette, near this town 130 kilometres north of Trois-Rivieres.

Thai train wreck kills 50

BANGKOK (AP) — A freight train collided with a commuter train south of Bangkok early today, killing at least 50 persons and injuring more than 170, railway officials said.

They said the accident was the fault of a switchman who fled the scene after failing to signal the freight train to stop.

Most of the dead were children on their way to school and women taking fruit and vegetables to the Bangkok markets for sale.

The officials said the collision occurred as the six-car passenger train was being diverted on to a side track to enable the freight train to pass.

Because the freight train had received no stop signal it slammed into the second car of the passenger train, sending it and the cars behind it crashing from the tracks.

Banks raise mortgage rates

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the Toronto Dominion Bank announced mortgage-rate increases Monday, bringing to three the number of major banks raising rates in the last week.

The Commerce and the Toronto Dominion followed the Bank of Nova Scotia's lead with increases of one-quarter and one-half of a percentage point.

Both raised the three-and five-year closed conventional rate to 12 per cent, up from 11 1/2 per cent. Three-and five-year closed National Housing Act-insured mortgages are 11 1/2 per cent.

Israelis hit Palestine

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes raided Palestinian bases in southern Lebanon on Monday, hours after special U.S. Ambassador Robert Strauss departed for Washington to report Israeli and Egyptian resistance to a new United Nations resolution on Palestinian rights.

The military command said the jets attacked two targets that "served as departure bases for terrorist attacks in Israel."

One Palestinian guerrilla was killed and four Lebanese farmers were wounded, witnesses in Lebanon said.

Cable TV worried about red tape

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian cable television industry, regarded highly for its innovative research, is worried that stifling regulations of the past will continue under the new federal government, the president of the Canadian Cable Television Association said Monday.

In a speech to the Ottawa Rotary Club Michael Hind-Smith said that since the May 22 federal election the CCTA doubts "the new government's ability to act and its intention to allow the marketplace to determine the availability of services."

Carter cruises in style

ABOARD THE DELTA QUEEN (Reuter) — Enthusiastic crowds lined the banks of the Mississippi as President Carter continued today his cruise aboard an old-fashioned river boat.

The president, taking a unique working vacation in search of support for his expected bid for re-election, is sailing on the paddle steamer Delta Queen along a route travelled by author Mark Twain in the 19th century.

Much of Carter's campaigning has been carried out in locks along the river when the Delta Queen has stopped for the water level to be lowered.

Turner Hunter: People make the Ayer's Cliff Fair

TURNER HUNTER: Fair worked its way out of debt.

By CLAUDIA BOWERS
AYER'S CLIFF — "This fair was started in 1845 and this year is the 134th exhibition held in Stanstead County," said Turner Hunter, who's been a showman since 1921 without missing one year.

We were standing in the shadows of long lines of stables, some dating back as far as 1902 when the fair was moved here from Stanstead, some built more recently, all providing adequate facilities for the hundreds of cattle and horses, sheep, swine and poultry that have paraded through for over a century.

"I still have the minute book containing the record of the first Agriculture and Horticulture Society meeting, dated 1845," said Hunter.

"We had a small debt a few years ago, but, by saving on labor costs, and some generous donations from Stanstead County Fair enthusiasts, we have been able to build new stables, make repairs and buy additional land without too much strain on the budget."

This year, Ayer's Cliff is offering a wide variety of entertainment. Grandstand attractions include four Loto Perfecta races and two races open to local buffs on Saturday afternoon and Joe Wood of Toronto who will entertain between classes and races in front of the grandstand during the entire three days of the Fair.

Friday, the crowning of the Wool Queen, a competition open to all women wearing at least one piece of woolen clothing and leading a sheep, will take place in front of the grandstand. The judges' decision is based on the best trained sheep and best woolen apparel. Also on Friday afternoon, children under 12 years of age will parade their calves for the folks and light horses will be judged. A tug-of-war and pony speed classes, including a potato race will also take place.

Official opening of the 134th Agricultural and Horticultural Society Annual Fair will be preceded by more eliminations in the tug of war. At 7 p.m. the finals are scheduled for immediately after the opening at 9:15 p.m.

Saturday, the judging of calf club inter-club exhibits starts at 9 a.m., ending with the calf parade at 4 p.m. Saturday evening, the Family Brown, well-known western performers who appeared at Ayer's Cliff Fair two years ago will be back with a brand-new show.

The Sunday program includes an appearance by the Waterville Band at 12:30 p.m., heavy horse pulling with teams coming from as far away as Maine and other parts south of the border starting at 1 p.m., the horse, cattle, and machinery parade at 2 p.m., capped with a performance by Paul Riddell's Hell Drivers.

"The Main Building is full to overflowing and we have even converted the pony barn into space for commercial exhibits," said Hunter, "and we have the most entries in the poultry section, with one exhibitor making 90 entries alone."

...and Doug Johnston, president of the Horticultural Society, has exhibits in every class — cattle, hogs, poultry and horticulture.

According to Hunter, who has been Agricultural Society secretary for the past seven years, entries are up in cattle, swine, sheep and goats this year with 64 Holsteins entered and nearly as many Jerseys. One new attraction in the horse section will be the appearance for the first time at Ayer's Cliff of several four-horse pony hitches.

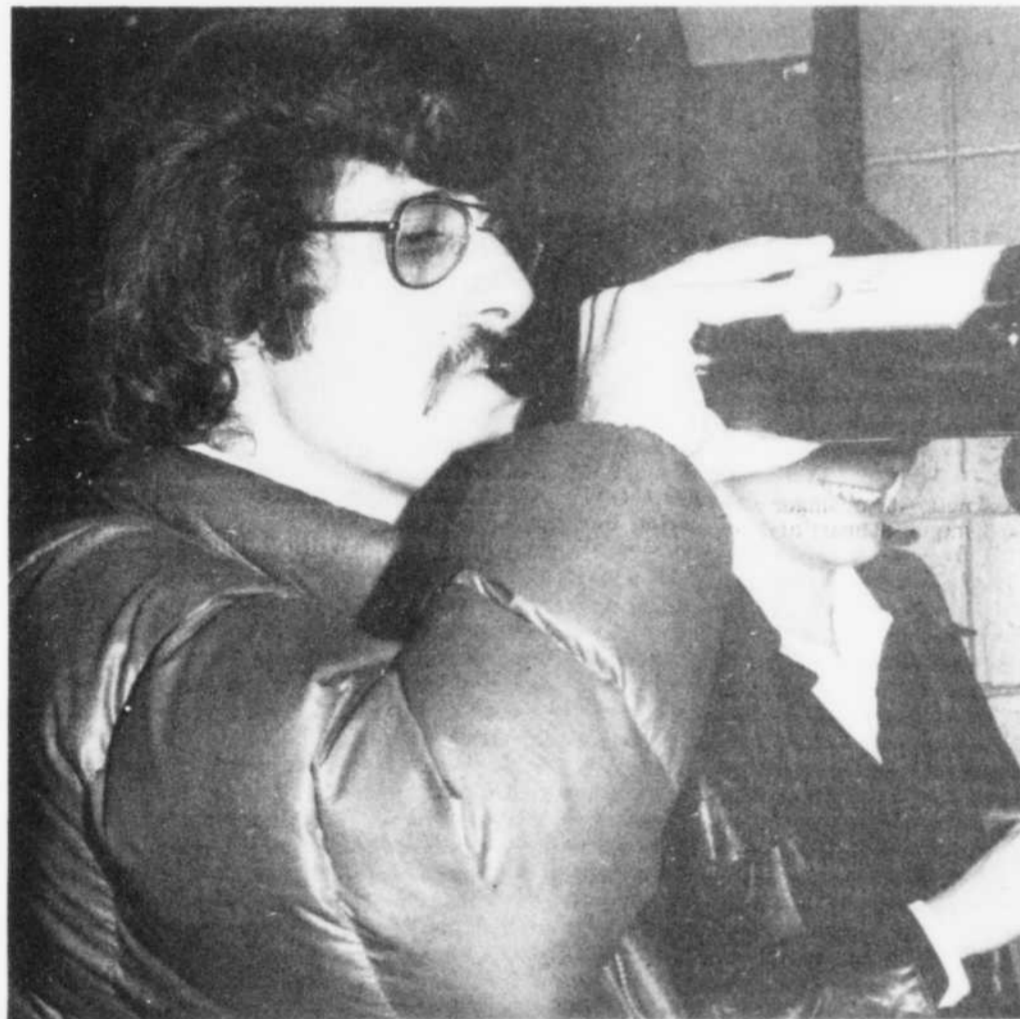

The administration credits their continued success on the excellent relations between the town and the fair organizers, as well as the volunteer labor that turns out to help without charge in the multitude of jobs which must be done in preparation for the fair.

"Through the years, we have been able to build several new stables," explained Mr. Hunter, "mainly because everyone, including the calf club, came and worked for nothing. Certainly the government helps and so do private donations, but without the volunteer help we just couldn't do it."

We're not the heaviest drinkers, but we're up there

Quebec Liquor Board wine has grown in popularity during the current QLB employee strike, but imported wines were the province's preference.

OTTAWA (CP) — Quebecers prefer beer and imported wine, in Atlantic Canada they like rum and in Ontario and the Prairies, whisky is the favorite drink.

But tipplers in British Columbia and the Yukon seem to like everything. The northern territory has the highest per capita consumption of beer, wine and spirits while British Columbia is second in wine and liquor. It is third, behind Quebec, in per capita consumption of beer.

Statistics Canada's most recent report shows Canadians quenched their thirst with more than 440 million gallons of beer in the year ended March, 1978, about 18.7 gallons or 277 12-ounce bottles for every man, woman and child in the country.

They also knocked back 42.2 million gallons of liquor and sipped 37 million gallons of wine. At an average of 1 1/2 ounces of liquor each, that's 4.5 billion cocktails, nearly 200 for each person in the country.

Sales totalled more than $4 billion, but that does not include markups by bars or grocery stores, such as those in Quebec which sell beer and wine.

Taxes on liquor, wine and beer sales enriched provincial treasuries by $1.3 billion in 1977-78.

Yukoners appear to drink more per person than anybody else. While average annual beer consumption in Canada is 18.7 gallons, the average in the Yukon is more than 29 gallons. They also consumed more than 2 1/2 gallons of wine for each resident, compared with a national average of 1.6 gallons, and 3.6 gallons of spirits, compared with the Canadian average of 1.8 gallons.

INCLUDES TOURISTS

Officials at Statistics Canada say these figures may be distorted because they do not distinguish between consumption by the territory's 22,000 permanent residents and the large number of summer tourists.

But there is less likelihood of distortion in figures which show British Columbia second in per capita consumption of liquor — at 2.4 gallons — and second in wine, almost 2 1/2 gallons each.

In B.C. nearly three-quarters of the wine consumed is the domestic product, with the rest imported.

After the Yukon, Quebec leads the list in beer consumption at about 21 gallons for every resident.

And Quebec is third in wine consumption with about 1.7 gallons per capita. But about seven of every 10 bottles are imported.

Albertans like wine almost as much as Quebecers but prefer the domestic variety. Only about four out of 10 bottles consumed in the province are imported.

And while beer consumption in the oil province is less than the national average, it ranks fourth in per capita consumption of liquor at 2.3 gallons a year.

TASTES VARY
 As the most populous province, Ontario's total consumption of beer was highest at 158 million gallons. But on a per capita basis, it was about average at 18.7 gallons.

Ontarians also drank an average amount of wine — about 1.5 gallons per person — and a slightly more than average amount of spirits — 1.9 gallons per person.

But Ontario residents prefer whisky, mainly rye, nearly four times as much as rum, which ranks second in the province in popularity. Vodka is third and gin fourth. That same pattern applies throughout the West and North.

In Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, rum is nearly twice as popular as whisky followed by vodka and gin. In New Brunswick, whisky has a slight edge over rum with vodka third and gin fourth.

But gin is the preferred drink in Quebec — twice as popular as whisky, which is second, and three times as popular as rum. Liqueurs rank fourth and vodka fifth.

Sweetsburg Ward

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Lionel Dion and Jacques Michel renounced their rights at their preliminary hearing, chose trial before a magistrate alone and pleaded guilty to charges of having sequestered living unit officer Robert St. Pierre and willful property damage at the Cowansville federal institution on July 3.

Defence lawyer Robert LaHaye, with the consent of the Crown, produced an affidavit from St. Pierre stating he had neither been physically harmed nor molested during the incident which cancelled a pop festival featuring some of Quebec's top recording artists.

act and asked me to represent them. "I arrived at the scene and was appraised of the situation by the director. When I met with them the hostage was immediately released and did not appear to be at all traumatized. They committed the act with a homemade weapon, not a firearm.

"Considering all the facts and following discussions with the Crown I feel the interests of justice would be well served with three years from today."

remarks were accurate and agreed three years would be an adequate sentence.

Judge Normandin said it was a reprehensible act and slammed visitors who smuggle drugs and alcohol to inmates. "They should be on trial today.

"I must consider there was no bodily harm of the hostage as one of the special circumstances in this case and my sentence should not be considered to establish local jurisprudence, three years from today, concurrent on each count."

Dion and Jacques thanked the judge as they left the court in handcuffs and leg irons.

Jacques, 25, of Montreal, was serving six years and eight months on charges of armed robbery. Dion, 32, of the metropolitan area, was serving six years for a similar offence. Both would have been eligible for parole in a few months.

Conrad Despault, of Ste. Angèle de Monnoir, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Farnham when he had consumed 240 mgs. of alcohol. He explained he was tired and had stopped to rest when the police picked him up. "You weren't tired, you were too drunk to see," Judge Normandin commented before fining the accused $240 and costs, in default 30 days. He was allowed 45 days to pay the fine and costs.

Steve Buczak, of Carignan, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving on the Eastern Townships Autoroute when he had consumed 150 mgs. of alcohol. Crown attorney Yves Lagace said, this was his eighth conviction of a like nature.

"My client needs time to dry out," Pierre Gibeau said. "He was handed 90 days in Longueuil on a similar charge on June 20, and 90 days, consecutive, in Sherbrooke on July 24."

"He still has two months to go on the latter charge," Judge Normandin said. "90 days concurrent."

SHERBROOKE (NW) — Workers at the Unitcast plant have refused by a vote of 90.6 per cent a final offer from their employer and voted in favor of a strike mandate by a vote of 94 per cent, during the current contract talk. A strike is not an immediate possibility as another meeting between management and the union has been scheduled for this weekend. Though the workers turned down the offer, company officials said recently talks have been going smoothly. The final offer by the company was for a pay hike of 60 cents, 50 cents and 45 cents spread out over a three-year period. The union is demanding a raise of 80 cents, $1.60 and $1.45 over a three-year period. About 170 workers employed at the Unitcast plant are affiliated with the CSN.

One man's memories: An old friend remembers Chief

James Johnston, national director of the Progressive Conservative party in the Diefenbaker years, was one of the last persons to talk to the Chief before his death. Now publisher of Cobourg Star and Port Hope Guide, he draws a highly personal and affectionate picture of his friend.

Somehow we might have expected the Old Chief to have dropped in a ferocious battle against a fire-breathing dragon. We long suspected that he hoped the end would come on his beloved Parliament Hill.

Instead he quietly slipped away in his own den. For once, John Diefenbaker was not able to do it his way.

Some years ago I heard him say: "I wish I could live another 50 years just to see how it all turns out."

We thought he would.

I talked with John Diefenbaker Wednesday at noon and shall always treasure that fact. He was full of his usual fire and his ideas danced around the globe.

He talked of Lusaka and Rhodesia and just as easily swung to the size of the Federal deficit. There was excitement over his September visit to China.

In a few days he was going to northern Canada to open a new road and I asked him joshingly if it was an "igloo to igloo" highway — the term the Liberals used for the road to resources program introduced when he was prime minister.

"They used to laugh," he growled. "Damn Grits!"

As the conversation ended with a "see you soon" I never expected it would be never.

And in common with thousands of Canadians to whom he seemed like a father or grandfather, I can think of a hundred things I intended to tell him, a thousand yarns he will never laugh at.

John Diefenbaker treasured his friendships and he kept them alive all across this country. He gave so many Canadians a glimpse of greatness, a sharing in the pleasures and triumph of seeing things and doing things through him which they would never see or do themselves.

He stayed at Windsor Castle. The Queen made him a Companion of Honor. He knew Churchill, De Gaulle, Eisenhower. But he never forgot that as a boy on the prairies, it was Louis Riel's Metis military commander Gabriel Dumont who taught him how to shoot a rifle.

He missed his beloved wife, Olive, who always stood by his side. He'd telephone her throughout the day. She was as strong as he was. Recently, he was able to laugh at the memories of some of her stories. So, too, with mention of his brother Elmer, whom he always credited with helping him to continue school.

DIDN'T HOLD GRUDGES
 Dief had a long memory but he did not hold grudges once the differences were settled. Many good men were inadvertently involved in the terrible debacle of 1966 when a few small men hacked down the Chief and left a shattered Conservative party. Dief had long since let bygones be bygones with those who made amends, but he never forgave those with blood on their hands.

What do I remember of John Diefenbaker?

Courage . . . tremendous courage. "I don't walk through side doors," he said as he strode into a hostile crowd. Then as the hooligans threatened to clout the 68-year-old prime minister: "You lay one hand on me and I'll give you the worst trimming of your life."

Laughter . . . loud, raucous, wild, uncontrolled laughter and fun, a super and devastating sense of mimicry which ranged from Lester Pearson to Winston Churchill to Jack Pickersgill to Jackie Kennedy.

Integrity . . . "How were you ever able to put up with 50 years of dealing with those bastards?" I once asked. "Well," he said, "always be able to tell them to go to hell. But never let the bastards — that is your word, not mine — never let the bastards ever get to you."

Cunning . . . what cunning: "I will just say enough in the House to get the Grits going, and they will not know what I intend to do."

Humor . . . or just plain devilment. In the midst of a Liberal crisis, a Liberal cabinet minister's car mysteriously sprouted a sticker "Don't Blame Me — I Voted Conservative." The minister reached his car in front of the Parliament building, glowered at it, looked up at Diefenbaker's office window and shook his fist. And who was watching but the Chief who had inspired the gag.

Intelligence . . . John Diefenbaker could read a book a full page at a time. He could go through a complicated legal or economic report in a few hours, then deliver a key speech in the house.

Memory . . . like an elephant's. Just after moving to Cobourg, I passed on some sage remarks from one of the local philosophers that were critical of the Chief. "Who told you that?" he stormed. When I refused to say, he paused. "Wait a minute," he said. "It sounds like Bob Neill." It was.

John Diefenbaker was a sensitive man but he tried not to show it. Late in 1967, a few days after he had been ousted from the Tory leadership, the crowds, including dozens of children, gathered around him at Expo in Montreal. He wiped a tear from his eye. "I thought they would have forgotten me."

He was always surprised that his friends loved him for what he was. Out of office, he could do nothing for them — or so he thought — but he did everything for them just by being Dief.

It is a day of sadness. But it is also a day of happy memories — the memories of the old Chief who put his country and his people first.

By this afternoon, he will have called on St. Peter and told him how he wants Heaven to be run.

Try it and see

Quebec Education Minister Jacques-Yvan Morin says the constitution for an independent Quebec would include written guarantees of rights for the province's English minorities — if we wanted them.

But, the minister adds, they wouldn't be necessary or even a good thing, because Quebec doesn't intend to place those rights in jeopardy and "constitutions are traps for those who think they're all you need to protect rights."

We want written guarantees for Anglophone rights. We want those guarantees to include clauses providing for English-language schooling for all Quebec children who speak English as their mother tongue, as decided by educators, not bureaucrats. We want guarantees giving all English-language social and cultural organizations the right to conduct their affairs in English. We want to see enshrined in a Quebec constitution the right of all Quebecers to communicate with their government in either French or English.

We agree with Mr. Morin about one thing — constitutions are traps. If the British North America Act of 1866 had gone further to protect and foster the rights of the French Canadian culture in the rest of Canada back then, we probably wouldn't be involved in a unity crisis today.

But we still think enshrinement of English-language rights is critical to a unified Quebec. We'll take the risk of having history prove us wrong.

This shaggy dog story is true

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — It's not often that a shaggy dog story turns up in a dead-serious, top-secret government document, but we came across a pip in the otherwise grim reports on foreign intelligence operations.

It's a tale worthy of Ian Fleming's fantastic plot by Nationalist China's secret service to assassinate the late Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai with a detonating dog.

The scheme is reminiscent of our own CIA's cockamamie plan to cause Fidel Castro's beard to fall out with poisoned foot powder, with the difference that the explosive-dog caper was taken seriously. It was actually approved at the highest levels in Taiwan.

The plot was unwittingly instigated by President Nixon's surprise initiative toward Red China in mid-1971. This unexpected opening to Peking "overturned the premises and priorities with which the Taiwanese Government, in directing its intelligence activities, had theretofore operated," explains a secret Senate report.

Prior to the U.S. initiative, Chiang Kai-shek's intelligence agents had concentrated on conventional espionage against Red China and the Taiwanese independence movement. But with the threat of United States and United Nations recognition of Peking, the Nationalist agents began a crash program to discredit the communist regime and persuade the world that opposition to it was world-wide.

The most drastic of these measures was the plan to assassinate Chou, who had scheduled a trip to Paris to drum up European support for Red China's admission to the United Nations. It was approved by the Nationalist leadership despite opposition from the military, who feared the assassination would incite a Red Chinese attack on Taiwan.

The Chinese planned to use members of a neo-fascist group in Milan to carry out the actual attack. The group was already in the pay of the Nationalists' secret police.

"The plan called for a trained dog, having been provided with an article bearing Chou's scent, such as a hotel bed sheet, to run up to Chou at some point during his Paris visit," the report states. "At that time a remote control bomb carried by the dog would be detonated."

Although an intelligence source acknowledged that the scheme sounded "funny," he assured our associate Dale Van Atta that it would have been "very effective." At any rate, the caper progressed to the point that a Nationalist emissary had arrived in Switzerland with the money to pay for the operation.

But events in Red China aborted the bizarre assassination attempt. The then-Defense Minister Lin Piao was accused of trying to assassinate Mao Tse-tung and was killed in a plane "accident." Chou canceled his Paris trip to look after his own interests in Peking.

On Oct. 25, 1971, the U.N. General Assembly admitted Red China and expelled Taiwan. The assassination plan against Chou was dropped, and Taiwan's secret agents turned their efforts to equally deadly — if less imaginative — undercover crimes in the United States. We'll report on this tomorrow.

Telling the trucker's side of it...

Enclosed is an article on truckers taken from the August 9, 1979 edition of the Sherbrooke Record. Having read the article about all the havoc that truckers cause, I feel that there are two sides to every story, but quite often the public hears only one.

Enclosed also is a clipping taken from the magazine "Overdrive", a U.S.A. published magazine, the July 1979 issue. I would be pleased if you would take the time to read it and comment on it and the excerpt from your paper.

Yes, I drive a truck in both Canada and the U.S.A. I have no argument that there are truck drivers that should have another occupation because they have no regard for other people's rights on the highways, but there are car drivers in that same category as well.

You can't imagine the harassment that is handed out to truck drivers, by numerous law enforcement agencies. The trucking industry is a virtual gold mine for U.S. cities, provinces, etc. Can you imagine the frustration for some truckers, who have been held out for hours, and sometimes days, plus fines, only to get out on the highway again, to be blessed with a lot of joyriding drivers, and in some instances, those who are out there only to antagonize the truckers, because they had been cut off a couple of months ago by a long-gone trucker.

Take for instance a three-lane highway. Trucks are not allowed to travel the inside lane. So you have two cars going 40 mph, side by side, the inside lane being open, but they occupy the other two lanes. A trucker is more or less trapped, so he has to follow at 40 mph. Going into that inside lane entails a fine of $50.00. Or have you ever seen a car, on a four lane highway, in the extreme left lane, suddenly decide he is going by his exit, and cut across in front of everyone to get off, with no signal light. It's some sort of feeling, to know you are driving a truck, with 80,000 lbs. gross weight, and you have to pull all stops to avoid hitting a car in this situation. It scares the daylight out of you, and the driver of the car is completely unaware of what he has done. Why aren't four wheel operators educated a little on the maneuverability of eighteen wheelers?

Where are the law enforcement agencies or government offices when it comes to informing the public. Why not take some of the money from fines, licences, fuel taxes, tolls, etc. and save a few lives and spare a few gray hairs, and have these drivers informed? A lot of the fault lies in the fact that they just don't realize what they could be causing. Small cars particularly, are lost to the view of a truck driver, when they approach on the right hand side. How often have I seen the inside lane open, and car comes up behind, passes on the right side, then pulls in front of the truck with a few feet to spare.

I am not supporting bad drivers, because they are numerous. I just feel that both sides should be heard. Thank you.

WILFRED PATRICK
 Melbourne

On October 2, 1978, I was enroute to Florida from Wisconsin. It was about 11 p.m. and I was having trouble with my alternator so I decided to stop at a service station on Highway 50 to have my batteries charged. The station was closed so I tried to make it to the Standard Truck Stop in Seymour, Indiana.

The scales were closed, and I was past them when Officer Fields stopped me at the shopping center on Highway 50 and gave me a ticket for no taillight. At this time my truck stopped running. Officer Fields called a wrecker to try and start my truck; he said that he was taking me back to the scales.

He knew I was having trouble with my alternator, but he refused to wait until I could have it fixed. I had admitted that I was overweight and showed him my weight ticket, but nothing I could say would convince him to wait until the truck was fixed to weigh it.

A small wrecker from Bill's Wrecker Company, driven by William J. McDonald, was called to the shopping center. They tried to start my truck but could not. Mr. McDonald climbed under the truck and released my brakes by putting plugs in the park brakes and released the brakes on the trailer.

They pulled me around the shopping center for about an hour. Officer Fields climbed on my steps and watched to see if I was turning the switch off. The chain they were towing me with broke three times in the shopping center. Before I could say anything, they had pulled me onto Highway 50 heading East. I had no brakes and no lights.

They pulled me past the Standard Truck Stop and a set of scales, and turned onto Highway 31 North. They had an officer sitting under the red light to stop the traffic, because I could not stop. Highway 31 North is downhill all the way until you come to a high bridge. Mr. McDonald knew I had no brakes and he had hooked the chain to my steering axle on the driver's side. He told me to put the truck in neutral.

When we started down the hill the truck was going too fast and I could not do anything. The wrecker pulled to the right and pulled me into it. The chain broke and pulled my steering axle back under the truck and broke it. I was sailing down a hill with no lights, no brakes and no way of steering the truck. I jumped out of the truck just before it went off the hill.

I was taken to the hospital in an ambulance and was released that night. An officer took me to the All-State Motel in Seymour and I told him I would wait there for my wife to come and get me. The next morning, October 3, she picked me up and we went to see about the truck.

They had someone from Alberring's Garage there to pull the truck out. Someone from the Seymour newspaper was there, taking pictures, but was told not to print anything about the wreck. I was in a lot of pain then, the hospital people had told me to go home and see my doctor as they couldn't tell if my arm was broken or not. So my wife called the police station and told them she was taking me home. They said they wanted to talk to me about the trailer being overweight. She told them they had the trailer and the load of potatoes, and that we would be back as soon as I had seen a doctor.

We were almost in Kentucky when ten police cars and about twenty policemen stopped us and said we were to get out of the car and put our hands on top of the car. Some of the officers had pulled their guns.

They asked me to go back with them because I had left the scene of an accident. When I got back to the station, they arrested me. When my wife got there she asked again why they had brought me back and this time the excuse was that my truck was overweight.

We waited about three hours, and then they came up with a criminal recklessness charge. I asked them what for, and they didn't know. They had to look up the charge to tell me what I was charged with. I asked who had filed the charge, and they said it was William McDonald, the wrecker driver. I had to make a $1,000 cash bond and was told it had to be $1,000 cash for the criminal recklessness charge. They told me I didn't have to make bond for the overweight because they had the truck and trailer.

I hope that this case will soon come to an end and I hope other truckers won't have to face this kind of trouble.

Bee-keeping depends on sunshine

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — The mud flaps on David Schmidt's truck read: "Bees do it — support your local honey."

Schmidt is one of 205 registered beekeepers in Alberta's Peace Country. The area produced 6.6 million pounds of honey last year, about 36 per cent of the provincial total. Alberta produces about 30 per cent of Canada's honey.

Sunshine is important to Schmidt, particularly at this time of the year when he extracts honey from colonies or hives. When the sun is behind clouds the bees stay in the colonies, eating up honey and his profits.

On days when the weather is poor, Schmidt must go into the fields and flush the bees from their hives by placing acid boards, painted black to absorb heat, on top of the colonies and sprinkling carbolic acid over them.

The resulting fumes drive swarms of angry bees from the hives, a procedure which often means as many as 40 beestings for Schmidt and his helpers.

To bee-keepers that's just part of the job. There's no swelling, although there is the pain.

This summer's weather has been hot and dry, which is not ideal. Fields must be moist for optimum nectar-producing conditions.

Don MacDonald, supervisor of apiculture for the province, says the 1979 honey yield will still be good but it's not going to be a bumper crop.

HIGH PRICES
That's unfortunate, he said, because the price of honey is high now.

Schmidt, and most bee-keepers like him, regularly feed tetracyclin, a broad-spectrum antibiotic, to their colonies.

Harvey Lerer, a scientist at the Beaverlodge Research Station who specializes in bee diseases, says the drugs are fed to control some bacterial diseases within the colonies.

The antibiotics are administered when there is little chance any of the drug would end up on the honey.

Lerer said the antibiotics are the same type as those used in animal feed and without them "we would be in real trouble," as foul brood diseases could easily destroy entire colonies.

MacDonald said Alberta's richest honey-producing area is a strip of land between the British Columbia to Saskatchewan borders, about 160 kilometres north and south of Edmonton.

But Peace Country bee-keepers hold the record for the most bee hives per capita. The average bee-keeper in Alberta maintains 80 hives; in Peace Country, 200 hives.

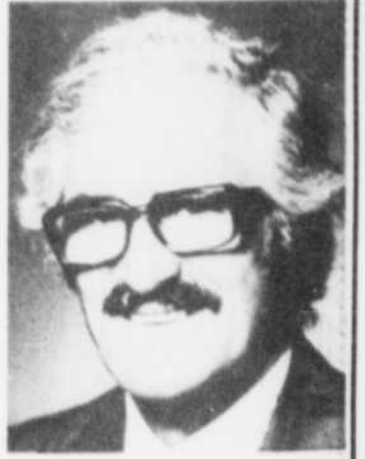

For Schmidt, the number of hives needing his supervision is close to 900. Each of his hives produces an average of 150 pounds of honey a year.

He said many people seem to have the impression that all bee-keepers have to do is to put bees in hives and take a trip in the fall to collect the sweet reward. In fact, colonies require constant maintenance.

Optimist election

ST. LOUIS — Lionel Grenier of Terrebonne, Quebec, was named president-elect at the 61st annual convention of Optimist International. He will succeed President designate James E. Creed of Fort Collins, Colorado, on October 1, 1980.

An active Optimist since 1965, Grenier previously served as an International vice president and as a governor of the Quebec Maritimes District, an administrative division of OI.

Stevens out to 'blow up' crown corps.

OTTAWA (CP) — Those unfamiliar with Sinclair Stevens' colorful speech habits were understandably disturbed last week when the Treasury Board President spoke of "blowing up" a few Crown corporations.

"We're trying to identify how many of these animals are running around," Stevens told reporters at a news conference called to outline his plans for reducing the size of government.

"Our counter is up to 401

(Crown corporations) and still counting."

He said many of them could be eliminated without parliamentary approval because bureaucrats had developed the practice, under the previous Liberal regime, of setting up government-owned enterprises and subsidiaries without informing elected representatives.

"If they could create a company that casually, we certainly don't have to rush back to Parliament to have it blown up or ended."

But his program, in its current form, is riddled with questions:

—Which Crown corporations are prime candidates for dismantling or sale? Stevens says it would be premature for him to disclose this information.

—When will the process — which the Conservatives have labelled privatization — begin? Stevens says it is up to the prime minister to make any announcement.

—Will the activities of the soon-to-go Crown agencies be handled as effectively by the organizations which are to replace them?

—Who will buy them? At what price?

—Will the process jeopardize the future of those Crown agencies which now are beginning, for the first time in years, to show a profit?

Stevens says the Conservatives have begun a study to identify candidates for privatization.

"There are a number of them. We're making good progress," was all he would tell reporters.

Two Crown agencies which appear certain to be on the cutting list are De Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. and Canadair Ltd., the country's two major aircraft manufacturers.

Astronomers stage infinite argument

MONTREAL (CP) — Leading astronomers, here for an international convention, spent a large part of Wednesday debating one of the most perplexing questions of the times: What is the size of N?

N is the astronomical symbol for the number of advanced civilizations in outer space.

There was no consensus. Some argued that N is quite small, if it exists at all, while others maintained it is relatively large. A third contingent was of the opinion that N could be either large or small.

In the end, however, the astronomers acknowledged they are still far from determining whether there is N at all.

The astronomers who debated the issue are among 2,000 scientists attending the 17th General Assembly of the International Astronomical Union at the University of Montreal.

During a symposium on, "The search for life in outer space," topics included recent techniques for searching for intelligent radio signals from our galaxy, the findings of the Viking mission to Mars and methods of finding planets around nearby suns.

Most agreed that great technological advances have been made in these fields in the last 20 years, since the birth of radio astronomy and the space age, but no new facts have been found to prove the existence of extraterrestrial life.

"The only new fact that has been added is that there seems to be no life on Mars," Philip Morrison, professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a pioneer in radio astronomy, said.

Many astronomers appeared eager to continue an extensive search for extraterrestrial life but there were dissenters who hinted it may all be a waste of time and money.

Michael Hart, professor of astronomy at Trinity College in San Antonio, Tex., is one of the leading exponents of the latter view and claims to be gaining support amongst his colleagues.

Hart argues the chances are slim that there are intelligent life forms in outer space.

Lefebvre-Pratt

The marriage of Audrey Mae, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pratt of Lennoxville to Private Guy Grant Lefebvre, only son of Mrs. Shirley Lefebvre and Mr. H.T. Lefebvre, both of Edmonton, Alta., took place on July 14, at 2:00 p.m., at St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville. Rev. Canon A.M. Awcock officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with red and yellow roses mixed with coloured gladioli. The pews were marked with a rose and small satin ribbons which were the colors of the bridesmaids dresses, centered in the middle of the large white satin bows.

Mrs. Pennington, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Lois Sparks, who sang "A Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of poly georgette. Her floor length dress with chapel length train, was appliqued with rows of white lace roses. The shoulder cape, of white nylon sparkle, had the same lace roses appliqued to match her dress. Her veil was held in place with a rhinestone crown, and she carried a bouquet of red and yellow roses with baby's breath.

The matron of honour, Mrs. Elizabeth Hillard, only sister of the bride, wore a head band of rose buds and rose made of the same material as her flower cape, her floor length gown was of plain green chiffon georgette with a waist length cape of flowered chiffon. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations mixed with colored mums and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids wore floor length gowns of chiffon georgette, each having a different brocade design, nylon shoulder capes with matching head bands of rose buds, and rose made by the groom's mother, Mrs. Shirley Lefebvre, and white gloves, a gift from the bride.

Miss Carolyn Wright of Hatley was in orchid and carried a nosegay of pink carnations, daisies and baby's breath. Miss Cheryl Sterling of Nova Scotia, cousin of the bride, wore yellow and carried a nosegay of light orchid and dark purple carnations and baby's breath.

The junior bridesmaids, also nicely attired, Miss Judy Lefebvre, Edmonton, Alta., sister of the groom, wore a floor length gown of chiffon nylon with white Easter lilies and lily of the valley, with a plain beach shoulder cape trimmed with green satin ribbon and white gloves. She carried a bride's umbrella filled with yellow carnations.

Miss Debbie Head, of Sherbrooke was in a pink chiffon style dress similar to the bridesmaid and also carried a bride's umbrella filled with pink carnations.

The little flower girl was three-year-old Laura Hillard, from Beaver Lodge, Alta., niece of the bride and was dressed in a floor length gown of baby blue lace and a shadow of pink and blue chiffon shoulder cape trimmed with pink and white lace, a pink bow in her hair. She carried a small basket of rust colored mums, mixed with baby's breath.

The ringbearers, nephews of the bride, were Jeffrey and Kenneth Hillard, who each carried a white satin pillow with rings for the bride and groom.

The best man was Private Chuck Mizener, and the honour guard and ushers were Trooper Manfred Weber, Corporal Richard Hillard, brother-in-law of the bride, Howard Pratt, brother of the bride and Albert Head.

The bride's mother wore a plain cream and yellow gown white accessories and a white rose corsage.

The groom's mother chose a floor length chiffon blue flowered dress with elbow cape sleeves and a pink rose corsage.

The bride's grandmother was attired in a floor length gown of dusty rose and matching chiffon cape, and a lily corsage.

Private and Mrs. Guy G. Lefebvre

The reception was held in St. George's hall where St. Monica's Guild served a buffet supper. The bride's three tier wedding fruit cake was made by her mother and decorated by Mrs. Mildred Goodfellow. Miss Laurie Lefebvre was in charge of the guest book.

The out of town guests were from Edmonton and Beaver Lodge, Alta., Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Cookshire, Sawyerville, Eaton, Bulwer, Hatley, Asbestos, Island Pont, Vt., and Lennoxville.

The bride and groom left for a week of camping at Rock Forest, the bride wearing a beige skirt, white blouse and a yellow corsage. The couple will move to New Brunswick in October, where they will make their home.

Prior to the wedding, the bride was given a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Calvin Picken and her youngest daughter Sue, together with Mrs. Arnold MacKeage and Mrs. Don MacMillan, which was held at the home of Mrs. Calvin Picken in Bulwer, where 30 friends gathered, and completely surprised the bride.

On July 10, a trousseau tea was held in honor of the bride at the home of her parents.

A Blue Jean Party was held on July 11 to entertain the long time friends. This was a hay ride in the country, followed by a Barbecue with hot dogs and hamburgers, at the bride's home.

Friday, July 13, the rehearsal dinner was held by the bride's parents with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hillard and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Head being the conveners. Following the dinner, the bride and groom presented their attendants with gifts. After the rehearsal the attendants decorated the church and the wedding couple's cars.

50th wedding anniversary

STANSTEAD (DB) — On Saturday evening August 11, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bishop of Rock Island were very surprised on being invited to the Legion Home in Stanstead to find about 100 relatives and friends waiting to congratulate them on their golden anniversary. On entering the hall Ricky Bishop pinned a corsage of white roses on his grandmother's dress, while Tammy Bishop pinned a white carnation on her grandfather's lapel.

Seated at the head table with Mr. and Mrs. Bishop were the latter's brothers, Joseph and Roland Talbot, her sister, Mrs. Irene Wilson and Leslie's brother and niece, Howard Bishop and Miss Muriel Bishop.

A bouquet of four red roses representing their four children were presented by their granddaughters, Judith and Kathleen Bolduc.

Delicious refreshments were served, including a beautiful double ring cake iced in white and trimmed with white roses and green leaves, with a gold 50 on the top. It was made and decorated by Mrs. James Bailey of Dixville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop expressed their thanks for the gifts and currency and for coming to their party, also to their children, who had worked so hard to make this anniversary such a pleasant event.

Albert Bullock, from his wide selection of records, supplied music for dancing.

During the evening, the happy couple received a phone call from their son Ray, living in Texas, and unable to attend.

Guests were from Coaticook, Knowlton, Montreal and the Three Villages.

unmarried mothers are printed in our newspaper along with the names of married women just became known. I was shocked.

It seems the first baby born in our county this year was to an unwed mother. The hospital by-passed her. The honor (along with the party -- and gifts and newspaper publicity) went to a child born an hour later -- of married parents.

The unwed mother, instead of being grateful for the consideration, raised a stink. She insisted her rights had been violated, and that she had been discriminated against. So, from that time on, all names of new mothers are published in the paper -- married or not.

How ironical that the trouble started in, of all places, a Catholic hospital! Women's lib, is there no limit? — A Youngstown Reader

Dear Youngstown: If the unmarried woman wanted her name in the paper she had a right to demand that she not be passed over. Not all people feel the same about out-of-wedlock children.

For your information, several newspapers around the country publish the names of all new mothers -- married or not. I feel sure, however, if an unmarried mother asked that her name not be published, her wishes would be respected.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman whose husband couldn't remember his mother-in-law's name (after 22 years) made me sit down and write this letter.

I am married to a man who can't remember his phone number, his age, or a few other things.

It's been the same for 10 years.)

When we go shopping he has to ask me what size shoe he wears -- same for socks and shirts. The man can never remember where he parked his car.

He cannot tie a bow -- only a half loop. Although we have had a joint checking account for 20 years he has never written a check. (Doesn't know how.) Don't ask me why I married him. I don't know. What do you make of such stupidity? — Lydia

Dear Lydia: Sounds like more than "stupidity." I suspect the man has had problems which may be organic in origin. Has he ever been tested? I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: Maybe I can say something to that young woman who was so broken up because after living with her boyfriend for two and a half years he refused to marry her. She felt used and disgraced.

I wish I could trade places with her. My live-in guy married me because I threatened suicide, told him he would burn in hell for his sins (I was a virgin), and a few other things.

Well, he did marry me and it was a disaster. Four months later I was glad to see him leave. He was lazy, sloppy, a liar, and ran around behind my back.

Anyone who says living together will give you a clue as to what married life is like is nuts. Ask me. I've been there. — Della

Dear Della: You and lots of others. I hate to say I told you so, but -- I told you so.

Mail often arrived by rock

The column is a blend of Ann Landers and Polly's Pointers.

The columnist, Brian O'Connell, says that he gets many letters from troubled readers of his pieces in the weekly Antigonish, N.S., Casket. The letters sometimes are wrapped around rocks that arrive through his front window. A sampling of readers' questions and O'Connell's answers in his column of advice:

Q I am in love with a boy in my class who is 14 and he won't look at me. What to do.

A Belt him with a sock full of wet sand. It's the little gestures that count.

Q My mother-in-law is coming for a visit and I do want to be pleasant. Any suggestions.

A Leave. The question-and-answer column is among scores of Periscope pieces O'Connell has written for The Casket since retiring as public relations director for St. Francis Xavier University.

Many of the columns are reprinted in O'Connell's first book, Magnets and Meatloaf, published by The Casket Printing and Publishing Co. of Antigonish, with drawings by cartoonist R. W. Chambers.

The title is derived from O'Connell columns paying tribute to a huge magnet he borrowed to pick up roofing nails blown into his yard by a hurricane in the midst of one of his home-construction projects and to the culinary delight of third-time-around leftover meatloaf.

The book's biographical notes say O'Connell is an unhappy man who looks back at such trials in life as the semi-colon and Donnie and Marie Osmond.

But the columns suggest that unhappiness doesn't run deep in Brian O'Connell.

He pokes fun at everybody -- including himself -- and every institution.

He's the father of seven and grandfather of even more -- all of whom, he claims, are "out to get me." But the tenderness he feels in this role shows through.

In one column, he bemoans such Christmas miseries as trying to gear up his "old bones" for one more game of horse with a grandchild and cats climbing to the pinnacle of the decorated tree. It ends with a verse describing the panic he feels at the thought that perhaps next year no one will come home.

REMEMBERS WHEN Many of his columns deal with his early memories of growing up in Halifax where he had a grandmother who stayed up to all hours smoking a pipe and whose philosophy was that early to bed and early to rise "would bore the hell out of you."

He often complains about the liabilities of getting old, but notes that "golden oldies" can get away with a bit of lying and with tripping people with their canes.

Politics is another of O'Connell's pet subjects. For example, again from his question-and-answer column:

Q If Canadians had to choose tomorrow between Joe Clark and Pierre Trudeau, who would they choose?

A Guy LeFleur. Magnets and Meatloaf, by Brian O'Connell; The Casket Printing and Publishing Co.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I clip and save the Pointers and have them at hand for reference but I lost the one that told how to clean stuffed toys and my granddaughter has so many that really need cleaning. I would appreciate it if you could repeat or even give another idea concerning this. — LUCILLE

DEAR LUCILLE — One reader wrote that she added a bit of powdered bleach to warm detergent suds, dipped a brush in the suds and went over such toys and animals with the brush. The same method was used for rinsing with clear water but care must be taken not to let too much moisture soak through to the stuffing unless you know what it is. After such a treatment the toy might be tossed in the dryer on Air Fluff" to speed the drying. Long-haired animals that just seem to have loose dirt could be sprinkled with a half-cornmeal, half-salt mixture, leave it on a while and then brush out. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To clean stuffed animals I open the back or some other seam, remove all the stuffing as it usually is cotton. I refill them with shredded foam, resew the seam and toss in the washer and they come out beautifully. — MRS. E.S.

Polly's Note: Of course, this is dependent on the fact that the outer covering is washable.

DEAR POLLY — When giving gifts that I have knitted I always cut the fabric content and fabric care portion from one of the labels and include that with the gift card. This informs the recipient about possible allergic reactions as well as the way to properly care for the gift. — ADALYN

DEAR POLLY — I have a handy cleaning tip. When you are scrubbing the toilet bowl pour a bucket of water in the bowl. This will cause the water to flush out, but the bowl will not fill up again and you can scrub away on the empty bowl. — JORN

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — These days many of us are saving materials that can be recycled and I have found an easy way to handle old newspapers. They are hard to bundle and get so dirty to handle when being stored before they are picked up. All of us who are savers" usually have a lot of the large-size grocery bags so I just fill a heavyweight bag with folded newspapers and they just fit. This makes an easily handled bundle and the bags also go into the recycling process. — KATHERINE

Smart days, glamorous nights

TORONTO (CP) — If you're shopping for Canadian fashions in the coming weeks as fall descends, the message is clear — smart dressing for day, all-out glamor for night. Shape and color are what make the difference in this year's clothing. The silhouette is slim, curve-conscious and controlled — in contrast to the studied careless look with slouchy shapes, oversized jackets and layers worn in the past.

Hemlines are shorter, touching just two inches below the knee. Black is the most important color, often accented with brilliant colors.

It turns up for daytime in tailored suits, slim skirts, curved jackets, straight seven-eighth-length and princess-shaped coats and sweater dresses.

ACCENTED WAISTS For evening, it is in its glory in cocktail dresses, sexy, long dresses and wasp-waisted ballgowns.

There's a whole range of brights again turning up — yellow, red, pink, purple and teal.

Here's a round-up of the looks you'll see in the weeks to come. It can be your shopping guide for fall:

Suits are the big news. If you add one new outfit to your wardrobe, it should be a suit. It's a good investment because you can wear the jacket and skirt with other items.

The newest suits have dressmaker touches — darts, seaming, tucks, piped trims, velvet collars and cuffs. For evening, they are trimmed with silk braid, sequins or beads and are paired with luxurious blouses, sweaters and strapless beaded tops.

COATS FITTED

The newest coats are fitted with seaming, tucks and darts at the waist. Even the classic reifer has fit and flare. Quilting still is strong and reversibles are popular because of their practicality.

Knits are prevalent, especially in dresses. There are flared shapes and chemises in bi-colored and tri-colored jerseys and T-shirt shapes in bright tweedy sweater knits.

For after-dark, there are rhinestone sweater sets, sweaters embroidered with sequins and beads, lacy mohairs, fluffy angoras, Lurex and metallic-shot knits that glow.

Skirts will be slim. The kind to invest in have kick pleats and subtle slits to distinguish them from last year's too-high slits.

Pants still are narrow but not as pegged as last season. The newest to watch for are loose and straight and cut above or at the ankle. Stretch stirrup pants also are making a comeback.

The most popular fabrics are wools, tweeds, plaids, gabardines, knits, velvets, corduroy and soft leathers. For evening, look for silk crepe de chine, lame, brocade, Lurex, satin and sequined chiffon.

Cleaning stuffed animals

DEAR POLLY — The half pint freezer boxes are great for holding cake that you want to put in lunch boxes. The cake stays fresh and the icing intact on a nice-sized serving of a single-layer cake. Of course, they are brought back home to be used again and again. — ETHEL

DEAR POLLY — A reader wanted to know how to remove milk stains from furniture. Dip a cloth in vinegar and rub the stain. Wash with that pure white bar soap, rinse and wipe dry. The milk stain should be gone. (Polly's Note: I would use white vinegar and test before using.) — MURIEL

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — To save energy we have TV-watching parties. We invite neighbors and friend to watch special programs like the World Series, Academy Awards, hockey games, etc. This also gets the neighbors together for an enjoyable evening.

The following is what I call my Carter Crust" I substitute peanut butter for half the butter called for in a Graham cracker crust. Mix and bake as usual and have a pie with a delightful flavor. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — On a recent trip to the cabin at the lake I forgot to take any pants hangers so I took two clip clothespins and clipped them on a regular metal coat hanger and then put the pants, skirts or slacks in the clip clothespins.

Buttons are now so expensive so whenever I discard a garment I first cut off the buttons, slip them on a string and tie the ends together so when I need buttons there is no more searching around for matching ones. — MARY P.

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — As one of my Sunday School pupils handed me a bottle of glue it spilled all over my gabardine pants. I tried softening the glue in warm water but it had already dried so I took them to the dry cleaners but they could not remove it so I wonder if you could suggest anything I could try. — DIANE

DEAR DIANE — There are many kinds of glue and they are removed different ways. If the dry cleaner had no success it is maybe a lost cause. But the following methods are suggested for removing regular glue or mastic. Soak in warm water and detergent, apply a bit of household ammonia and rub between the fingers, rinse and wipe dry with a cloth. Or you could try soaking in lukewarm water and white vinegar. Washable fabrics (except acetates) might be sponged with acetone that is left on long enough to dissolve the glue and then wash in warm suds and rinse. Acetone is flammable and should be used with care. Always test the effect of anything on your particular fabric. — POLLY

Animals, entertainment at weekend's A.C. Fair

AYER'S CLIFF (DB) — The 134th annual Ayer's Cliff Fair opens Thursday night at 6 p.m. It runs through to Sunday night at the local fair grounds.

Animal competition judging gets underway Friday morning, August 24, at 10 a.m., with horses coming under the scrutiny of the judges. This will be followed by sheep and cattle. A highlight of Saturday's program is a Loto Perfecta horse race at 1:30 p.m.

Entertainment is a big part of the fair. Friday evening, popular country singer Joe Wood of Toronto will perform at the main grandstand. The Family Brown will be the feature attraction Saturday night.

These events are the only ones to which admission will be charged. On Friday afternoon and evening, Les Voltigeurs will perform their acrobatic feats — they'll keep you on the edge of your seats.

Rector is bid farewell

WATERLOO — On Sunday, Aug. 12, a good number of members and friends from the four churches of the Parish attended the 11 a.m. Communion Service in St. Luke's Church. Choir members of St. James, Foster and St. Matthews, South Stukely joined in a combined choir to render four familiar hymns.

Rev. N. Tucker gave a very inspiring address as his farewell one, after having spent five years here.

At the close of the service, all were invited to a social hour held in the Church Hall, where light refreshments were served buffet style.

In a very fitting and jovial manner, Irving Slack presented, on behalf of the congregation, a small picture of St. Luke's and a purse of money. Mr. A.J. Buckland also added to Mr. Slack's remarks and wished both Rev. and Mrs. Tucker happiness in their years of retirement. Both Rev. and Mrs. Tucker replied and stated how much they had enjoyed their time spent here.

Their present address is 18 Regent St., Amherst, N.S.

In September, Rev. and Mrs. Wilmur Davidson will be moving here, from Brome.

Club meets

TOMIFOBIA (DB) — On Monday evening, August 6, the ladies of the Tomifobia Christmas Club held their monthly gathering at the home of Mrs. Frances Leith in Tomifobia.

Bingo was played during the evening with everyone winning prizes and Mrs. Robert Leith the lucky marathon winner.

Mrs. Ellen Sayers, a member, who will be moving away in the near future, was presented with a gift from her friends.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, including a special Bon Voyage cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Helen Huckins, with white icing trimmed with orange and green flowers.

The September gathering will be at the home of Mrs. Helen Huckins, Tomifobia.

Francis Fifty Plus Club

RICHMOND — An executive meeting of the St. Francis Fifty Plus Club was held in the Church Parlor on July 31st.

Mrs. Armstrong reported she had made and sold one hundred and four pins. One of the vice-presidents, Mr. H. Griffith, was named chairman of the Nominating Committee, the other two being Mrs. Kathleen Patrick and Mrs. Hilda MacNaughton, who were appointed at the general meeting held on Monday, August 6.

The annual meeting of the society will be on October 1st. Each committee head is to have a brief report on its activities during the past year. At about 3 p.m. there will be Arts and Crafts also, cards on that day. Membership fees will be due at that time.

Miss Lanigan has agreed to make a poster (after the annual meeting), with the names of the officers and committee members, to be put in the Church Hall.

Arrangements are being made for a bus trip to Woolco and the Museum at Valcourt on August 21st. Mrs. Cecil Ross and Mrs. Marguerite Denison will phone the absentee members concerning the trip. The money will have to be in by Saturday, August 18, that the bus may be engaged.

A list of proposed handicraft demonstrations has been posted in the Church Hall by Miss Lanigan. Members are asked to put their names down for the ones in which they are interested, and, also, to suggestions to the list.

The fourth birthday party is planned for October 15. The Second Winds, a singing group from the Sher-Lenn Club will entertain our group on this occasion. Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Henderson, and Mrs. Doyle are the Committee to look after these arrangements.

Birthday Party

FITCH BAY — On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Webster, Mrs. Howard Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Warner, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Markwell and family at Ayer's Cliff, the occasion being to celebrate Miss Angela Markwell's birthday. Those attending were all relatives of Miss Markwell. She received many nice gifts, as well as money, and a very nice birthday cake made and decorated by her mother, Mrs. Markwell.

A delicious buffet lunch was served, which included the birthday cake, as well as other goodies.

Games were played and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Everyone left for home wishing Angela many more happy birthdays. Angela's birthday was August 9, but was celebrated two days later.

DAVID GREEN
...two TDs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes have begun to put their Canadian Football League season together, with running backs David Green and John O'Leary, wide receiver Bob Gaddis and quarterback Joe Barnes operating with precision Monday night.

"Everybody got down on us early, but we hung together and we're going to be there at the end," said Barnes after throwing two touchdown passes, one to Gaddis and one to O'Leary, in a 32-14 conquest of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Their third consecutive victory moved the Alouettes, with a 4-2 win-loss record, into a first-place tie with Toronto Argonauts in the Eastern Conference. Ottawa slipped to 2-3-1 and is third.

SCORES TWO MAJORS

The Alouettes, who scored but five TDs in their first five games, piled up a net offence of 288 yards, including Green's 153 yards on 21 carries for two touchdowns — a 34-yard dash in the third quarter and a one-yard plunge in the fourth.

Don Sweet kicked four converts and a 30-yard field goal, and Wally Buono contributed a 56-yard single point with a punt before 51,487 fans at Olympic Stadium.

Condredge Holloway hooked up with Richard Holmes on a 60-yard pass-and-run play for Ottawa's only major, and Gerry Organ kicked a convert, field goals of 37 and 15 yards and a 29-yard single on a missed field goal attempt.

Riders end Mike Fanucci was missing with a broken hand, Montreal defensive end Junior Ah You was ejected in the third quarter for kicking Ottawa tackle Tom Davis and the Alouettes lost guard Pat Bonnett for the season with torn knee ligaments.

DRIVES KEY VICTORY

Barnes pointed to two long scoring drives as a key to Montreal's victory — one an eightplay, 70-yard march for the opening TD by Gaddis on an 11-yard pass at 6:28 of the first quarter and the other an eightplay, 65-yard mission capped by O'Leary's 14-yard catch-and-run major with eight seconds left in the first half.

The latter gave the Alouettes a 17-10 halftime lead and, as it turned out, the winning points.

While Green was the big back on the ground, O'Leary caught five passes for 49 yards. Gaddis hauled in four for 49 yards as Barnes completed 13 of 19 for 128 yards. Ron Calcagni threw an interception on his only attempt in a relief role.

Holloway completed 11 of 22 tosses for 189 yards, with backup Jimmy Jones completing two of three for eight yards.

Mike Murphy was Ottawa's top ground-gainer with 29 yards on six carries as the Alouettes outshone the Rough Riders' 226 yards of total offence and outdid them in first downs 19-13.

Green's starry night started unceremoniously when he fumbled on Montreal's first play from scrimmage, but that was wiped out by an Ottawa offside. The Alouettes' second-year back fumbled again in the third quarter, but tight end Nick Araki recovered for Montreal.

Why is Joe Barnes (above) the Als' No. 1 quarterback? Last night's stats against archrival Ottawa tell the story.

Alouettes' top ground-gainer with 29 yards on six carries as the Alouettes outshone the Rough Riders' 226 yards of total offence and outdid them in first downs 19-13.

Green's starry night started unceremoniously when he fumbled on Montreal's first play from scrimmage, but that was wiped out by an Ottawa offside. The Alouettes' second-year back fumbled again in the third quarter, but tight end Nick Araki recovered for Montreal.

Jim Walker didn't know what he was getting into when he made the trip to Edmonton Eskimos camp this year.

The only Canadian Football League game he had ever seen was last year's Grey Cup game shown him on film by Eskimo coach Hugh Campbell.

A six-foot, 235-pound defensive tackle from University of Arkansas, Walker didn't know the Eskimos already had one of the best defensive lines in the league.

But he made the team as a back-up, an unusual role for an import, and has spent the season spelling off all the Eskimos' starting front four.

The Eskimos put their 3-0-2 record on the line against Winnipeg Blue Bombers tonight in a Western Conference game scheduled to start in Edmonton's Commonwealth Stadium at 9:30 p.m. EDT. There are no plans to televise the game.

An interlocking game in the East sees B.C. Lions, leaders in the West with a 4-1-1 record, go against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, winners of only one game in six starts. The game in Hamilton was scheduled to start at 8 p.m. EDT with coverage on the full CBC network except for blackouts in the Hamilton area.

On Wednesday, Calgary Stampede's play Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina in a game scheduled to start at 10 p.m. EDT with television coverage on the CTV Western network.

At some point tonight, Walker may go up against Charlie Turner, a three-time all-Canadian offensive tackle who retired from the Eskimos near the start of the season but joined the Bombers last week.

Winnipeg coach Ray Jauch said he was looking forward to watching Turner work against Edmonton defensive linemen Ron Estay and Dave Fennell.

"Turner has played against both of them in practice many times and he can handle them. It'll be a matter of personal pride with Charlie, going against his old buddies."

The Bombers made room for Turner, a 10-year CFL veteran, by putting running back Larry Washington on the injury list.

Parrish homers beat Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Larry Parrish got off to a slow start in the National League home run derby because of an ankle injury in spring training, but since the

All-Star break he's slammed 10 homers.

He belted two Monday night as Montreal Expos won their fifth straight game, a 5-2 decision over Cincinnati Reds.

Tony Perez also homered for Montreal, his 12th. Both Cincinnati runs came on home runs and each marked a milestone.

George Foster hit his 21st home run in the sixth, Johnny Bench hit his 14th in the second inning to tie Frank Robinson's club record of 324 home runs.

Both Foster and Bench came to bat with the bases loaded in the third, but Expos pitcher Dan Schatzeder, 9-4, got Foster to fly out to centre field and struck out Bench.

Monday night's game was delayed 20 minutes because of rain, but the Expos jumped on Cincinnati starter Fred Norman, 10-10, immediately.

Montreal got two runs in the first on a single by Perez and a sacrifice fly by Gary Carter. Parrish led off the second with a homer and Perez hit his in the third.

Parrish led off the fourth with his second homer, this one off reliever Frank Pastore and the Expos got just two singles the rest of the way.

Cincinnati had only one fewer hit than the Expos, but stranded nine baserunners.

Both Cincinnati runs came off Schatzeder, but Scott Sanderson shackled the Reds for 1-3 innings. With two outs in the ninth and the tying run at the plate, former Reds pitcher Woodie Fryman came in to get Joe Morgan to fly out to right field to end the game.

BORG FINESSE DEFEATS McENROE

Bjorn Borg, shown above after his win at Wimbledon earlier this year, beat John McEnroe in two sets yesterday to win the Canadian Open Tennis Championship.

TORONTO (CP) — When Bjorn Borg speaks, words such as perfect, right and pleased flow freely from his mouth.

Usually, the 23-year-old is referring to his tennis game. It was no different Monday following his 6-3, 6-3 win over second-seeded John McEnroe of the United States in the men's singles final of the Player's International Canadian Open championships.

"I think I played well," said Borg, echoing similar comments from earlier last week when he all but obliterated his opponents in earlier rounds of the $210,000 Grand Prix tournament.

"I did the right things. I returned low and I always got a second chance on my passing shot. I was pleased."

"I made too many mistakes out there early in the match," said 20-year-old McEnroe. "You can't do that against a player like Bjorn and hope to win."

The match brought together two of the best in the game, each with contrasting styles. Borg serves and volleys his opponents to death while McEnroe likes to attack and rush the net.

On Monday, every time McEnroe rushed the net, Borg hit a sizzling passing shot crosscourt. When the American stayed back and played Borg's game at the baseline, the top-seeded Swede eventually conquered with a winner.

Borg took home $28,000 U.S. for the win while McEnroe won $14,000. The final had been put off to Monday because rain Saturday postponed the semi-finals to Sunday.

SERIES EVEN

The victory evened their career mark at 3-3 and set the stage for a rubber match between the two stars this year.

In February, Borg beat McEnroe at Richmond, Va., in a three-set semi-final match in which the Swede had saved eight match points. A month later, McEnroe beat Borg in a New Orleans semi-final in which the American saved two match points.

In other tennis action Monday, Stan Smith of the United States defeated Romanian Ilie Nastase in straight sets 7-6, 7-5 to capture the $10,000 first prize in the finals of a $50,000 international tennis tournament in Cleveland.

In Halifax, Victoria Basset of Toronto upset top-seeded Michelle Karis of New Glasgow, N.S., 6-1, 6-2 Monday to win the women's singles title at the Maritime Invitational Open Tennis tournament. Karis is the top-rated player in the Maritimes.

CFL fines players for dress

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football League fined six players $100 for not conforming to dress regulations, commissioner Jake Gaudaur announced Monday. Larry Highbaugh, Joe Holton and Gregg Butler of Edmonton Eskimos played a game with knee pads outside their uniform pants. The rules order that all protective gear be worn under sweaters, pants and stockings. Brian Herosian and Larry Riley of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Jim Marshall of Toronto Argonauts did not wear regulation pants that meet the stockings below the knee.

Soviets win dual swim meet

MOSCOW (CP) — A Canadian record performance by Alex Baumann of Sudbury, Ont., and a pair of wins by Wendy Quirk of Edmonton were the only bright spots for Canada on the final day Monday of a two-day international dual swim meet against the Soviet Union.

The Soviets won the meet 199-145 with the Soviet women winning 86-79 and the Soviet men 113-66. In last year's dual meet between the two countries, the Soviets won by just 12 points.

The 15-year-old Sudbury youth set his record in the 1,500-metre freestyle race when he finished third behind winner Vladimir Salnikov. Bob Beylis of Vancouver was fourth.

Baumann was timed in 15 minutes 45.34 seconds, almost 26 seconds behind Salnikov's winning 15:19.18.

One Ton yachts sabotaged

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP) — Silver Fox, skippered by Ed Simmons of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club, won the 218-mile Lake Ontario international yacht race Monday. The Canadian boat beat Boomerang, skippered by John and Chuck Tompkins, of Detroit's Bayview Yacht

Clark to punt for Rams

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Among the National Football League rookie hopefuls at the start of Los Angeles Rams' camp was a rather unlikely prospect, Ken Clark of England and Canada — and two previous pro football players.

However, the 31-year-old Clark, a punter with an unorthodox style left over from his soccer-playing days, won a job Monday when Glen Walker, the Rams' punter the last two years, was waived.

"I'd already decided I'd just finish out my career in the CFL," said Clark, who played the last four years in the Canadian Football League following a stint with Portland of the now-defunct World Football League.

Ex-Steeler Gilliam mugged

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore city police have charged one man and are looking for three others in connection with the beating of Joe Gilliam, a quarterback for the semi-pro football Baltimore Eagles and former Pittsburgh Steeler.

Gilliam was found beaten in the head Monday night on the city's west side, police said. He remains in stable condition today at the University of Maryland's shock trauma unit.

Police said Gilliam's car, a 1977 Buick, registered to the Royal Oil Corp., where he works, was parked on a vacant lot in the 2500 block of Salem Street with all of the windows smashed. The report said the attack occurred in an alley adjacent to where the car was found.

Hart-Furlano box tonight

MONTREAL (CP) — Gaeten Hart could have his hands full when he defends his Canadian lightweight boxing championship against 21-year-old Nicky Furlano of Toronto in a 12-round bout at the Montreal Forum tonight.

Furlano has been warned by Tray Travis, his long-time trainer-manager-friend, that unless he comes away with a victory or at least an extremely strong showing against the champion, his career could be finished.

The challenger from Toronto has been a protege of Travis since he was 12 and the way the manager views the fight is that Furlano "better do it this time or he's all washed up."
