Revolving strikes to be stepped up

Representatives of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) said Tuesday that revolving strikes by federal bluecollar workers will be stepped up today, the 10th day of the walkouts.

All PSAC members will be off the job in Ottawa where there will be a demonstration at Parliament Hill, a representative of the 18,600-member union said.

John Enman, PSAC representative in Halifax, said about half the 1,700 union members there were off work Tuesday at nine locations and strike action will be increased today.

In Vancouver, where no grain has moved to sea since Feb. 18, Bill Janes, PSAC spokesman, also said strikes will escalate.

Bill Doherty, PSAC vice-president, said in Ottawa Tuesday that no formal or informal talks are going on with the government.

He said last Friday that talks broke down because government negotiators would not budge from a position that would give the general labor and trades group of PSAC total payroll raises of 25.7 per cent over two years.

MINIMUM SET

A conciliation report prepared by a union nominee asked for a 20.98-per-cent wage increase in the first year and 12 per cent in the second. The demand is a minimum to which workers expect more to be added.

Problems with mail service because of strikes by postal maintenance workers were eased in Toronto Tuesday by a one-day truce between the post office and striking workers. Ed Roworth, post office spokesman, said pension and other government cheques and other pieces of mail were moved for delivery over the next couple days.

Michael Lyons, PSAC spokesman, said Tuesday the truce will not be repeated in Toronto, where half the mail posted in Canada is handled.

PSAC pickets in Calgary allowed handling of government cheques and no picket lines were set up in Edmonton so postal carriers could deliver pension cheques.

Other aspects of the strike across the country Tuesday:

Nova Scotia—Among locations of PSAC strikes were Halifax and Sydney airports, the air base at Shearwater, naval armament depot at Dartmouth, Canadian forces stations at Barrington and Shelburne, naval ammunition magazine at Bedford and the federal agricultural station at Kentville. Halifax airport was closed for few hours because of freezing rain and fog and reopened when ice on runways melted.

New Brunswick—PSAC airport workers and union members at CFB Gagetown, who earlier were on strike, reported for work. Airports at Saint John, Fredericton and Moncton were closed in the morning because of freezing rain but reopened later in the day.

Quebec—Ancienne Lorette airport at Quebec City was closed when PSAC maintenance workers walked away from icy runways. The strike continued at Montreal International Airport but air services were operating.

Ottawa—Forty postal maintenance workers were on strike but no disruption in mail service was reported.

Manitoba—Grain weighmen and samplers who walked off Thursday remained on strike. Ten runway maintenance workers who were off the job at Winnipeg International Airport Monday night returned to work.

Saskatchewan—The only strike was at federal grain elevators in Moose Jaw and Saskatoon.

Alberta—Postal officials in Edmonton said a strike by 33 postal maintenance workers at the main post office did not affect mail delivery. Grain handlers were also off the job and were expected to remain on strike today.

Queen visits Mexico

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Queen Elizabeth left here early today aboard the presidential train to begin a four-day swing through some of Mexico's major tourist attractions.

A banquet at the British embassy, attended by about 200 prominent Mexicans, was her final official engagement in the capital.

Half an hour behind schedule, she drove to Buen Vista railway station and set off after midnight for Guanajuato, 250 miles away.

For extra safety for the monarch and her husband, Prince Philip, a lone locomotive will run ahead of the train to test the rails.

On her second day in Mexico City Tuesday, the Queen saw relics of the country's Maya Indian past and attended a charro, a Mexican rodeo watched by about 2,000 invited guests.

US urges greater UN peacekeeping role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has asked Israel and Egypt to consider allowing a United Nations peacekeeping detachment to enforce the next Sinai disengagement for the length of the agreement, diplomatic sources say.

The tentative proposal also would prevent the removal of the force without the express approval of the UN Security Council, where the U.S. has a veto.

This would differ from the peacekeeping arrangement set up last year which provides that both sides must agree to an extension every six months.

Israel is sensitive about allowing expulsion of the UN force at the will of Egypt because the late Egyptian president Gamel Abdul Nassar threw out the peacekeeping troops prior to the outbreak of the 1967 Middle East war.

Therefore, a plan to insure the presence of the UN units during the length of the next settlement term has merit in Israel's view.

However, diplomatic sources say such a proposal is only one part of what Israel might accept, and is not a replacement for some sort of Egyptian pledge to refrain from war in the future.

SUPPORT OPTIONS

The diplomatic sources describe Israel as also supporting such options as full demobilization of the Sinai area, easing of the economic boycott and opening of the Suez canal to Israeli goods.

The sources stress that none of these is a substitute in Israel's view for a political settlement recognizing Israel's independence and forsaking the use of war.

In spite of the Israeli response to the peacekeeping idea, U.S. sources doubt Egypt will be as receptive, at least at the outset.

Cairo opposes any sign of permanency from the next interim settlement stage and is expected to be unwilling to give up the right to expel the UN force.

However, U.S. sources say Cairo will be flexible in the interests of reaching an interim settlement. They also say U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger would not have suggested the idea unless he had some reason to believe it stood a chance.

To propose sweeping powers to new national watchdog group

OTTAWA (CP) — A new national watchdog group, with sweeping investigative and subpoena powers, will be proposed to the government next month by the 24,000-member Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

John Bulloch, federation president, said in an interview that the group's job would be to identify the power groups that create wage or price inflation, then recommend steps to neutralize their power.

He said the federation will present its proposal to the cabinet ministers who meet the federation in March in an effort to develop a consensus on an anti-inflation program. About 20 meetings are scheduled with business, labor and professional groups by touring teams of cabinet ministers.

Finance Minister John Turner has said the government is seeking a consensus on how to divide the national pie.

WANT BOARD SET UP

The federation wants a seven-member investigative board, each of the members having the status of judges. They would be nominated by federal or provincial governments, business, labor, agriculture, the professions and consumer organizations, but have no actual affiliation with the groups.

Mr. Bulloch said the group could then organize "flying squads" to move into the offices of a government department, a union, a business, marketing board or professional group that was identified as abusing power or wasting public funds. By "spotlighting" the abuse, the group could cause a public demand for strong government action, he said.

Mr. Bulloch said political leadership federally and the support of at least three of the larger provinces would be preferable before organizing such a watchdog body. It could then be established through federal legislation and given a limited life of, perhaps, five years to guarantee its power would be subject to some electoral control.

LION-SIZED dental project is completed at Atlanta's Lion Country Safari where lioness "Kimba" has her four canine teeth shortened, capped and root canal work completed. Kimba had a fondness for chewing car tires and capping her teeth should eliminate that, zoo authorities say. The shortened teeth will not affect Kimba's eating habits however as the canines are used primarily only for gripping prey.

Urges subsidies to halt milk price rise in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—Paul Couture, president of the Union of Agricultural Producers, said Tuesday the price of milk in Quebec may rise this summer unless the provincial government subsidizes increased production costs.

Mr. Couture said in a speech that the plight of Quebec dairy farmers is felt by consumers who, in the end, must absorb higher costs.

The price of milk, 46 cents a quart at the beginning of January, will rise to 51 cents effective March 1. This latest increase was only half what dairy producers requested from the Quebec Marketing Board.

Production cost increases show no sign of abating, Mr. Couture said. "If neither consumer nor producer is able to meet the rising cost of production, the government must intervene and absorb the difference in cost."

Court dismisses farm wife's claim

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta Court of Appeals Tuesday dismissed a claim for property by a 50-year-old former farm wife and ordered a lower court judge to reopen a hearing into the claim for a lump-sum cash settlement.

Barbara Ann Fiedler won a Supreme Court decision last August giving her one-half interest in the farm she shared with her husband until 1970.

The three-judge court held that while she could not claim property rights the matter of cash settlement based on the value of the farmland was not adequately explored by the first trial judge.

Mrs. Fiedler said she will ask her lawyers to prepare an appeal against the split decision for presentation to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Fiedlers were divorced in 1970. Mrs. Fiedler had taught school for 15 of their 22 years of marriage and had used her teaching salary to support the family while her husband ran the farm.

After the divorce was final, Mrs. Fiedler started legal action to obtain half interest in the farm.

After the original court decision awarding her half interest, Mr. Justice W. K. Moore said if he had awarded the woman cash settlement instead of land interest, the value would have been about half the value of the farm.

Bilingualism premium will not be extended

OTTAWA (CP) — The government does not intend to extend a special seven-per-cent bilingualism premium to all public servants, Treasury Board President Jean Chretien said Tuesday.

Mr. Chretien, replying to Social Credit Leader Real Caouette in the Commons, said the premium is to persons expected to use both French and English in their work.

Mr. Caouette's questions arose from the refusal of certain French-speaking employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Montreal to use English in their work.

He suggested that the bilingualism premium could be extended to all federal employees able to deal with the public in two languages.

Mr. Chretien said the unemployment insurance claimants were entitled to use either official language in dealing with the office. This is their legal right when dealing with a federal department.

But he denied allegations by some of the Montreal employees that those who refused to use English had been harassed and threatened.

Under the law, although a person appealing to a federal office can use either official language, individual federal employees are not required to make their services available in both languages. All that is required is that someone in the office provide the service in the language sought.

Quebec in focus

Rate lowered

MONTREAL (CP) — Bank Canadian National followed the Mercantile Bank of Canada Tuesday in announcing it will lower its prime lending rate to nine per cent from 9¼ per cent effective March 1.

Effective March 1, both banks will reduce interest on nonchequing savings accounts to 6½ from 7¼ per cent. The Mercantile Bank also will reduce its small-business loan rate to nine from 9½ per cent.

Construction

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Desjardins, a former senior labor official in the Quebec construction industry, revealed little Tuesday about the industry and his personal fortune when he testified at a government inquiry.

Desjardins, 44, the former union official described by previous witnesses as the "king" and the "god" of the building trades, did not expose any of the scandals at which he had hinted since the Royal Commission into Construction Union Freedoms began last September.

Desjardins, the former vice-president of the Quebec Federation of Labor and its 23-union building trades council, balked when asked about his revenues for 1974.

Canadian union

MONTREAL (CP) — Opposition to creation of an autonomous Canadian union was aired Tuesday by the Canadian vicepresident of the International Association of Machinists (IAM) at a labor conference among 7,500 Air Canada machinists.

Mike Rygus said moves to lessen the control of international unions in Canada were an abandonment of "common sense, good judgment and realities."

He said his jurisdiction as Canadian vice-president was increased since his mandate comes from the IAM's one million members rather than only Canadian members.

"We've got about as much autonomy now as any organization needs," he said.

Pensioners

MONTREAL (CP) — Thirty old age pensioners were evicted by police from the offices of the department of national health and welfare Tuesday, ending a four-hour occupation to protest late delivery of pension cheques.

Officials said the cheques, delayed by labor difficulties at the post office, would be delivered Monday.

Arsenic poisoning

MONTREAL (CP) — A coroner's inquest into the arsenic poisoning deaths last month of two employees of Canadian Copper Refiners Ltd. was adjourned Tuesday until March 4.

The inquest, which began Feb. 6, was postponed on Feb. 14 to allow specially-appointed coroner Richard Shadley to fulfil a previous commitment.

The inquest is into the poisoning of Paul-Emile Dorval, 19, who died Jan. 9, and Joao Da Costa, 33, who died Jan. 7.

Few ambulances

MONTREAL (CP) — Ambulance service was at a near standstill in the city today following intimidation and sabotage by striking ambulance drivers and helpers at three companies Tuesday.

"They stopped two of our ambulances and warned us our four cars would be turned over if we kept working," said Claude Salvaille, employed by a non-striking service "We had no choice but to stop operations."

Saga of the ship

QUEBEC (CP) — The saga of the cargo vessel answer continued to unfold Tuesday amid speculation that the ship was somewhere near Anticosti Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, about 500 miles northeast of Quebec City.

A spokesman for the marine traffic control centre in Septlles said the 1,800-ton vessel was in an area of ice floes and refusing to acknowledge radio signals from shore.

An official of the New Brunswick transport department said there was little chance she would get much further because of the ice but there was no indication early today that she had stopped.

Buildings checked for radiation

OTTAWA (CP) — Buildings in five provinces are being checked by inspectors for possible danger from radiation, an official with the Atomic Energy Control Board said Tuesday night.

A. E. Nolan, chief of the administration division, said the checks involved buildings where radium-luminous compounds were used during the Second World War.

Most of the companies were small manufacturers and jewellers who received small amounts of the compound, he said. Most of the companies now are defunct, he added.

Five or six locations are being checked in each of British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba, about 25 locations in Ontario and about 20 in Quebec, he said.

He declined to list the exact locations of the buildings in question, saying the public would be advised if dangerous radiation levels were found.

Another official said earlier "if we would tell the names of the places, it would cause undue alarm."

The locations of the companies which used the radium compound come from the board's files. Companies which currently use radioactive material are checked regularly, Mr. Nolan said.

The inspections were initiated after radiation levels up to 800 times safety limits were found on the third floor of a Toronto building. The radiation came from a paint spill which occurred while the premises were occupied by a wartime company which painted luminous dials.

About 250 persons who worked in the building have responded to a call from health authorities to contact the government to determine the nature of the medical risk to which they may have been exposed.

Sulphur from sands studied

FORT McMURRAY, Alta. (CP) — Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd. (GCOS) has launched a long-term program to test the economics of marketing sulphur produced during oil sands extraction.

Pe Ben Oilfield Services Ltd. has been awarded a contract by Northern Alberta Railways (NAR) to transport the sulphur from the GCOS site to the railway's yards where it will be loaded into gondola cars for shipment.

A GCOS spokesman says the company has an initial agreement to sell 100,000 tons of sulphur over the next year. At the end of the first year, GCOS, the broker in Montreal handling the sale and overseas customers will evaluate the economic viability of the project.

GCOS has a stockpile of 400,000 tons of sulphur beside its plant site and is adding to the preceded by a Food Sale in daily as it separates oil from bitumen and produces the sulphur byproduct.

The sale will be the first major movement of sulphur from an oil sands plant. In the past, with the exception of a 30,000-ton trial shipment several years ago from the GCOS plant, the material has been locked in at the plant site because of the high transportation cost.

VIABILITY IMPROVES

The economic viability of the venture has substantially improved recently as the worldwide demand for sulphur has increased and pushed prices to new highs. These higher prices are largely the result of an increasing demand for sulphur in fertilizer production.

B. F. Michetti, Pe Ben vice-president in Edmonton, says his company is moving about 500 tons of sulphur daily from the GCOS plant to the NAR yards, a distance of about 30 miles.

Five trucks, moving about 30 tons a load, are being used on the job. The sulphur is crushed at the plant and moved in powder form.

Ken Perry, NAR general manager, says the sulphur is being moved out on unit trains at the rate of one train a week. The NAR moves the sulphur to Edmonton, where it is transported by Canadian National Railways for shipment to overseas markets.

Rebates working

DETROIT (AP) — A Ford Motor Co. executive says rebate offers resulted in a large reduction in the firm's huge auto inventories in the last month. The offers end Friday.

Vice-President John Naughton said Monday that Ford's dealer stock was cut by 73,000 vehicles between Jan. 10 and Feb. 10—to a 75-day from a 109-day supply.

"The program may have cost three or four times as much as we anticipated, but it certainly did the job," Naughton told reporters.

Car sales for mid-February are expected to be at their lowest level for the 10-day period in at least eight years, auto analysts say.

Deliveries for the Feb. 11-20 period, which the auto companies report today, are estimated at 180,000, compared with 193,893 in the same 1974 period, when fuel shortages hurt car sales.

Auto rebates are expected to provide something of a sales lift, but analysts say the daily selling rate of about 20,000 for mid-February could be the worst since 1962, when the rate was 17,263.

Sales in early February were the lowest for the period in 13 years, despite cash rebates of $200 to $600 offered by the car makers on selected new models.

There have been no indications of an extension of the rebates, even though some industry observers say sales will drop sharply as a result.

General Motors, however, is lowering the sticker price on nine small models $104 to $313 by eliminating some standard equipment.

Ford and Chrysler are expected to make the same move, a reversal from previous policy of increasing prices by making options standard.

The action by GM does not alter the price of a car for a buyer who still wants equipment now to be made optional. But it does lower the sticker price for a consumer looking for a "stripped down" model.

TAX TIPS

Q. I am a farmer and I used 1968 as the year of averaging for income tax purposes and am eligible to average again in 1974. Am I required to average again using 1974 as the year of averaging, or can I wait until a year in which averaging would be more beneficial to me?

A. You may choose any year you wish as the year of averaging, provided that returns have been filed as required and that the averaging period chosen does not overlap another period for which you have averaged.

Q. What is the income tax situation if I sell land with standing crop?

A. If the agreement specifies an amount for the standing crop, that amount is income to the vendor and an expense to the purchaser. If the agreement does not specify an amount for standing crop, then no portion of the selling price is attributable to the standing crop as far as the purchaser and vendor are concerned. To complete the answer, your transaction insofar as the land value is concerned is subject to the capital gains provision which was introduced in 1972.

Q. In valuing my farm properties for capital gains purposes, should I make separate valuations for my residence and out buildings?

A. Yes. It is advisable to establish the value of your farm residence because, if it is your principal residence, there is an option available on the sale of your farm which would exclude it from capital gains tax.

Q. On the occasion fish are bought from boats where boat expenses are not known until the boat returns to home port. How should we as the buyer handle this situation?

A. Generally, before you can determine the insurable earnings and the premium deduction required for members of a crew, the declaration made to you as the buyer must include boat expenses. The Income Tax Department recognizes the problems created when the boat expenses are not available at the time the catch is sold and under these circumstances it is prepared to accept reasonable estimates of the boat expenses.

Q. How do you determine the earnings from which the fish buyer will establish the insurable earnings of a captain owner for purposes of calculating his Unemployment Insurance premiums?

A. The earnings of the fisherman who owns the boat or gear used in making the catch, and who is a member of the crew, is for any week considered to be the greater of (1) Gross returns of the catch Less (A) Amounts paid to other members of the crew, (B) 25 per cent of gross catch or (2) $50.00.

Q. I know this is a contradiction in terms, but in connection with deductions for Unemployment Insurance premiums who is the "designated employer" of a self-employed fisherman?

A. Any of the following persons under specific conditions could be the "designated employer" of a fisherman in the following order: (A) Buyer; (B) Head Fisherman of the crew; (C) Agent for selling the catch of the crew; (D) Common Agent; (E) Member of crew.

In other words, in the case of a self-employed fisherman the first buyer or acquirer of the catch is the "designated employer" provided the catch in delivered in Canada in a "face to face" transaction by a member of the crew who made the catch.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Profittaking grew steadily stronger throughout the session Tuesday on the Montreal Stock Exchange, sending prices sharply lower in fairly active trading.

Analysts said the heavy selling began on the Big Board, where investors began to unload holdings on news that New York State's Urban Development Corp. might have to default on $104.5 million in bond-anticipation notes due to mature Tuesday.

Brokers also blamed part of the decline on a technical reversal of the upward trend that has characterized market activity this year.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices dropped sharply on the Toronto stock market Tuesday as industrials recorded their largest drop since Sept. 24.

The industrial index, widely-based indicator of market trend, was down 3.30 to 186.50. The index fell .81 Monday following two days of gains.

The Toronto market was following the lead of the New York market where profittaking continued for a second day following recent sharp gains in the market. The Dow Jones average had its largest drop since Nov. 18.

The western oil index had its largest decline since Jan. 30 falling 3.40 to 160.89. The base metal index was off .70 to 66.04.

The gold index, responding to lower bullion prices, eased early gains and was down 15.2 to 430.80.

Rotary Club marks 70th anniversary

HAPPY BIRTHDAY ROTARY — Pictured here is Rotarian Past President Herb Simons giving a brief summing up of Rotary accomplishments over the past 70 years since the club's founding in 1905. He was speaking at the Wellington Hotel yesterday at the regular weekly meeting of the service organization.

SHERBROOKE (RH) — The Rotary Club, celebrating its seventieth birthday this year, has a long history of service to the community, according to Past President Herb Simons who spoke on the subject at the weekly meeting of the club yesterday.

"The first club, begun by Paul Harris of Wisconsin, had only four members," Mr. Simons related. "The second, founded in 1908, had a few more. By 1910, there were 16 clubs in operation in different countries."

The founding of the Rotary Club took place at a significant time in history, Mr. Simons pointed out.

In 1905, when the first group got together, a Japanese-Russian war was underway, and the Czar in Russia had just agreed to give his people freedom of speech. Albert Einstein had just published his first theory of relativity. In France the church and the state were being divided, and Norway was separating from Sweden."

In describing the club's present-day goals, he said that Rotary is still intent upon doing service within the community.

Although the Sherbrooke Rotary's records were destroyed by fire some time ago, Mr. Simons explained that Rotary International had maintained files of the local branch's accomplishments.

"In 1919, we urged the city council here to improve on health facilities in the municipality," he remarked, "and our suggestions were later acted upon. In 1925 and 1926, we offered financial assistance to crippled children. In 1930, we set up a child welfare clinic, and in 1931, we started an anti-tuberculosis campaign."

The list of services goes on and on. High points over the years included the raising of $100,000 in 1962 and 1963 for the building of a Centennial pavilion, later given to the Dixville Home for use.

Mr. Simons mentioned that Rotary's aspirations — dedicated to "the enlargement of experience and the development of friendship" — are as valid now as they were when the service organization first started.

"Rotary International, in light of our seventieth anniversary celebration, has been asking its members 'where are we now?' Mr. Simons remarked. "The answer is, of course, in the minds and the hearts of men who wish to contribute to the community they live in."

Activities at Galt

By Joanne Brown

Last Thursday and Friday senior students spent 3-hour sessions at Bishop's University where the Science Fair was held. There were four of these sessions, to give all the classes a chance to go without causing mass confusion at the university. The Fair consisted of displays in the areas of biology, chemistry, and physics, each section exhibited on a different floor.

During homeroom periods last week students were given orientation, by levels, on the course selection procedures; the guidance counsellor of their house advised the students as to what problems they should avoid when choosing courses for next year. Students are asked to have registered in their courses by March 6.

The Gravediggers, a club designed to study the history of the Eastern Townships, is planning to take a field trip sometime this week to the Stanstead Historical Museum in Beebe. This trip is only for members of the club.

Last Friday there was a dance held in the Athletic Room at noon hour, for the price of 15 cents. Larry Hill of CKTS hosted the event.

Last week John Hayes won the jelly bean contest put on by Level One students. Money made from this contest goes to disabled children in Bogota, B.C. A nickel was charged to guess the number of jelly beans in the jar, which was 492.

This year student council is trying to make school sweaters available to the student body. A committee has been assigned to this but not much has been accomplished as yet.

The Prom Committee has decided on "Paradise" for a theme. Work has begun on tickets and will soon begin on decorations.

Among other activities lined up for March is the MacLeod Basketball Tournament, which will take place on March 7 and 8.

Approximately 300 students and many of the staff of the RRHS attended the funeral service of the late Mrs. 'Bobby' Barrington, House Secretary for Green House, in the Holy Family Church on Tuesday, February 18th, at 2 p.m. Three of the teaching staff, Messrs. A. Price, W. McGee and G. Swift, were bearers.

Rev. Fr. J. Fredette, Chaplain of RRHS, was the celebrant, assisted by Fr. Bacon and four students of the school, namely, Alan Gagne, Richard Morin, Peter Delaney and Dennis Quinn assisted as servers. Mrs. Barrington is greatly missed and will long be remembered by students and staff.

The students and staff of Richmond Regional wish to express their appreciation of the fine outstanding efforts of John Rick, who was the chairman of the school's recent winter carnival. John put in many long hours and inspired a great deal of creative effort from others. It is hoped that carnival chairmen in years to come will be able to match John's example.

Government word awaited on syrup

SHERBROOKE (RH) — The newly-formed federation of maple syrup producers is awaiting a reply from the Agricultural Marketing Board of Quebec on their proposal for a joint plan between the board and themselves for the distribution of maple syrup this year.

Victor Blais, information officer with the Agricultural Producers Union which fathered the federation, said that until farmers receive word from the government, they are powerless to put their plans into operation.

"The plans call for price negotiations with the industries that buy our product," he explained recently. "We also suggest more publicity be used to attract potential syrup customers."

The federation, formed at a meeting of maple syrup producers in late January, was organized in response to poor sales of syrup during the 1974 spring season.

"We have no doubt the marketing board will adopt our plan," Mr. Blais remarked. "It's just a matter of time. But it's important that it's accepted soon, because the season is not too far away."

Mr. Blais added that the proposal calls for the conservation of unsold sap.

"We may not face sales problems at all this year, if we get a good crop of high grade syrup," he stated, "but all the same, we must be prepared. We've recommended that any excess syrup be stored in warehouses to be sold the following year. That way we can better judge what our needs will be in the future."

THE PAULETTE FAMILY QUARTET have played at several community junctions during the past two years. The have prepared a musical program for Ladies' Night at the Sherbrooke Snowshoe Club which will take place on Saturday evening. March 1, at 6:30 p.m. From left to right are Laura (12 yr), Wendy (16 yr.), Jane (10 yr.) and Lynwood (14 yr.). They are the children of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Paulette of Sherbrooke.

Asbestos council holds meeting

ASBESTOS (GS) — An estimated $160,700 has been spent by the Town of Asbestos for work done on sewers, sidewalks and roads. Another $99,000 was spent to buy a truck and hydraulic shovel.

The estimates were submitted to the Asbestos Town Council for their preliminary study by Andre Richard, Director of Municipal Services of the Town of Asbestos at a regular council meeting held last week.

The police radio system is to be completely renewed, the money has been budgeted for 1975 and the town is now accepting tenders.

After hearing a copy of the resolution adopted by the St-Georges de Windsor municipality demanding that the Minister of Transportation undertake repairs on route 249, it was decided to give full support to this resolution and to copy it. A copy was sent to the Minister of Roads in Richmond and to Yvon Vallieres, MNA for Richmond. Route 249 runs into St-Georges de Windsor from the Asbestos gravel pits.

The consulting engineering firm, Lemieux, Royer, Donaldson, Fields, Nadeau, Fouquette and Blais of Sherbrooke, have been asked to prepare preliminary studies for the town. Council authorized a maximum amount of $22,000 for this purpose.

Hotel owners recommended to council that instead of taxing liquor license holders according to their location that they be taxed a flat rate to be standard for brasseries, hotels and bars. The only exception to the tax would be grocery stores. The average tax raised by neighboring towns was $150 annually. The hotels recommended that Asbestos charge $100. Council postponed their decision until a later date.

It was resolved by the council to authorize Yvon Hamel and Serge Charland to assist at the Regional Conference of the Canadian Urbanism Conference to be held in Three Rivers on February 27, 1975. Yvon Hamel was also authorized to attend a meeting to study the remodeling of municipal laws to be held in Drummondville on February 28.

Hotel owner Jacques Gelinas informed council that damages to the ceiling of his hotel were caused by dynamite blasts in the St-Barnabe sector. A police report was completed and pictures of the damage were shown to the councillors. Council suggested that a copy of the report and the pictures be sent to the Minister of Natural Resources to form a part of the dossier on the security zone.

Claims by Marielle Poisson for $93.45 from her fall on the sidewalk and for $76.00 by Andre Chomyn for damages to his car were referred to the town's insurance company to establish their merits.

Union opens city branch

SHERBROOKE (GS) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees, who have some 35,000 members in Quebec and almost 200,000 across Canada, opened a regional office in Sherbrooke Friday.

It is the fifth CUPE office in Quebec, the others are situated in Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers and in the north-west of Quebec.

The CUPE is the fastest growing union in Quebec. It was founded in 1964 and recently opened an office in Three Rivers and now one in Sherbrooke. In a few months a sixth office will be opened in the Matapedia region.

The CUPE has members among school, hospital and municipal employees. In the Sherbrooke region there are 1,000 members. They work at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Town of Magog, Town of Cowansville, St-Louis Hospital of Cowansville, etc...

The Sherbrooke office was opened in order to give the best possible service to its members and to insure the constant presence of the union at the regional level. The representative of the CUPE in Sherbrooke is Michael Cohen, who is well known in the field of work relations. The CUPE plans to be particularly active in the lives of workers in the area in order to identify and understand their problems and desires.

The Quebec Council of the Canadian Union of Public Employees will hold their biennial congress next June in Sherbrooke.

The Elusive Peace

State Secretary Henry Kissinger is back in Washington after his strenuous tour, having left behind a welter of contradictory rumors. And as the time-bombs set to go off in April and May — the expiry dates of the mandates of the UN peace-keeping force in the Sinai and on the Golan Heights — continue to tick, observers wonder what has been done to defuse them.

On the positive side, Dr. Kissinger can boast of the Iranian guarantee to supply Israel with oil; but this is about all the success there is. President Sadat has refused to give any pledge to end the Arab belligerence, suggesting that his guarantee be given orally to Dr. Kissinger and that Dr. Kissinger convey it to Israel. Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy, says, however, that there will be no guarantees whatever, in that any such guarantee would acknowledge Israel's occupation of Egypt's territory.

Who then speaks for Egypt, President Sadat or his foreign minister? Even Mr. Sadat speaks in sphinx-like riddles. In a conversation with two American reporters last week, he suggested that real peace be left to the coming generation. If one is to judge from a recent book that records the conversations of an Israeli journalist, Amos Elon, and the daughter of the Egyptian ambassador to Washington, here indeed would be hope for a normal relationship. However, what is to happen in the next 10 to 15 years before the new generation comes into its own? Another decade of raids, bloodshed and tensions?

* * *

Mr. Fahmy has again reiterated that Egypt will go to war unless the Palestinians receive satisfaction, thus contradicting Mr. Sadat's assertion that Israel's pullbacks be "one by one." The United Nations secretary-general, Kurt Waldheim, has not helped by joining the Arab extremists in demanding that the Palestine Liberation Organization take part in the Middle East peace talks. The PLO does not recognize Israel and refuses to acknowledge its right to exist. So what are the peace negotiations to be about?

Prospects of a Middle East settlement are closely bound up with East-West detente, and although Dr. Kissinger has expressed his hopes that detente will survive temporary setbacks, his critics in the United States Congress add that if it survives at all, it will be as a platonic abstraction devoid of all tangible meaning. The number of critics is growing, a formidable new opponent having arisen in the person of Senator Adlai Stevenson, son of the late famous statesman.

Sen. Stevenson has said that while Congress is fully in favor of detente, it will not countenance "the purchase of detente." The senator has been scathing of Dr. Kissinger's journeying: "Everywhere along the odyssey of Secretary Kissinger, promises are left behind, along with cash, credits, nuclear reactors and arms. High expectations are excited by such attention, then are disappointed. Detente has been pursued by ignoble means, cash."

The accepted idea of how to avoid such a depression, as expressed in the new trendy term of "recycling," is having rather unpleasant repercussions. Arab investors have reintroduced into the West an anti-Semitism such as has not been known since the days of Hitler. Jewish-owned banks in London, Paris and New York are being excluded from handling purely European issues, such as those of Eurobonds. The Jewish-owned Lazard Freres has been excluded even from the new issue of Air France debentures, since a substantial number of shares of the Credit Lyonnais that handles this issue is owned by Arab investors.

Thus peace remains elusive, hatreds flourish, there is no sign of a workable compromise, and above all, no sign of moral fibre among the Western nations that, after 70 years of experience of the havoc wrought by rampant nationalism and intolerance, should know better.

Letters to the Editor

Replies to Caldwell

To The Editor:

Please permit me once again to reply to Mr. Caldwell's letter of Feb. 21, 1975 re. my letter of Feb. 12, 1975.

This time he is right. The English language will never disappear. I am pleased to see he has changed his mind to that. Nor will, as he says, the English speaking communities WITHER AWAY. They have their roots here no matter what; most of them are here to stay.

It is true a lot of people have left Quebec (both French and English) but also a lot of the English have come back. If one were to check they would find it to be a fact. I know quite a few that left and came back. I also have quite a few of my French friends who went to Vancouver, Alberta, Ontario and to the United States and they haven't come back yet. The reason for this is Bill 22. They just won't have that stupid trash crammed down their throat, and if and when they do come back all their children will speak ENGLISH.

This again goes to prove my point that English will always be around. The French (non fanatic) are trying to learn English as a lot of the English (non fanatic) are trying to learn French.

As for the Dean of Bishop's University functioning in French this is good to my way of thinking because there will be more and more French students attending Bishop's in the near future just as A.G.R.H.S. I think it is pretty close to 50-50 right now.

All our top government men speak both languages. They send their children to English schools. Some even go to England to learn the language. They know as I said in my last letter if we know more than one language our chances of advancement are that much better.

The only reason for people leaving is because every once in a while some stupid Jack-Ass comes along to stir them up by saying things that could never happen in a thousand years. It is just like the boy who called WOLF.

As for the land of opportunity, Why Ontario? (because Mr. Caldwell comes from there). There is more to look forward to than that. Why not Albert or any of the other provinces? The whole of CANADA has great promise more so than any other country in the whole wide world. BUT WE HAVE TO WORK AS ONE.

Sincerely,
Eric R. Trussler
Lennoxville

Fighting together

To the Editor:

1. Many thanks to the nurses and staff at the CHU and especially Dr. Calderon. Thanks to all my many friends who sent cards and flowers; they were much appreciated.

2. It would seem that with the words of the Minister of State for Transport, that we have won the fight for the preservation of Melbourne, the valley and Ulverton. This was team work, a community getting together. We can do much by working together, and we could do this in so many other ways, than trying to out do each other.

3. Very sincere thanks to the Record and its staff for their wonderful support in saving the Two Dollar bill site and our community.

Yours sincerely,
Robert W. Simpson

What about Bill 22?

Ed. Note: The following letters are two exchanged between Arthur Beattie of Cowansville and Prime Minister Trudeau regarding Bill 22.

Dear Mr. Beattie:

Thank you for your letter of March 21 (1974) in which you expressed your concern about the language legislation proposed by the Quebec government.

The federal government ensures the rights of both languages in Quebec, as well as in other provinces, through the Official Languages Act. As you know, this legislation guarantees the right to use French or English, according to the individual's wish, in dealings with the federal government as well as in proceedings before all federal courts and administrative tribunals located in Quebec.

In addition, the British North America Act, by virtue of Section 133, also provides for the equality of English and French before the courts of Quebec and in the Quebec National Assembly, a constitutional guarantee which, incidentally, does not exist in the other provinces. According to several newspaper reports, it is my understanding that any proposed legislation to be introduced by the government of Quebec will not intefere with these rights. Indeed, it could not, since these rights are guaranteed by the Constitution.

What exactly the new Quebec legislation will entail is still unknown, however. It is therefore difficult for me to respond to your concern in any precise way. Nevertheless, I would invite you to recognize with me that the government of Quebec has done much in the past to protect the English-speaking minority, and I am confident that in any new laws designed to preserve and to strengthen the francophone character of the province of Quebec the rights of the English minority will continue to be protected.

Yours sincerely,
P.E. Trudeau

Prime Minister of Canada,
Mr. Pierre Elliott Trudeau
Dear Sir:

I wish to remind you of your letter sent me March 21, 1974, in reply to one I sent you the previous date.

You stated in your letter that the Federal Government ensures the right of both languages in Quebec through the Official Language Act.

You also stated the B.N.A. Act, Section 133 provides for the equality of English and French before the courts of Quebec and also in Quebec National Assembly.

If you are still Prime Minister of Canada why do you allow Quebec to act as a completely independent state concerning Bill 22.

We are already paying you to govern Canada and defend its constitution.

Why should we voters and taxpayers be added further expenses of time and money in taking Bill 22 to Supreme Court when our Constitution, the B.N.A. Act has freely provided us protection under the right of disallowance. Every day that you delay to act it is costing you votes and withdrawal of support.

I am also sending you a copy of your own letter and words regarding this matter.

Yours truly,
Arthur W. Beattie
Ex Councillor of
Town of Dunham, Quebec
Missisquoi County

Unions now exploit workers

To the Editor:

It has been said that the ordinary, hard-working manual laborer is the backbone of this, or any other, country. It could also be said that he is the most exploited. For years employers ground him into submission and fattened on his efforts. I would like to submit that this unprincipled role has been taken over by the unions, the very organizations that were originally designed to be his protector.

For several years local non-union carpenters have been harassed by Court Orders and Goon Squads. At the present time two of our carpenters are serving time in the Sweetsburg Jail. Their crime? Refusal to pay their Union dues.

Why don't they join the union? There are other reasons besides the obvious one that a man should have some freedom of choice.

They do not want enforced summer holidays. The construction industry is somewhat dependent on the whims of the weather. Why should part of the short summer months be spent on a holiday they might prefer to take in the winter?

They do not want to go on strike. (Has our society reached such a state that a man must join a union which may then force him to strike against his wishes?)

They do not want to charge union wages. They serve a rural clientele, mostly farmers and shop workers, mainly honest and hard working, who, (perhaps for that very reason) cannot afford to pay union wages for building new homes, or for repairs on old ones.

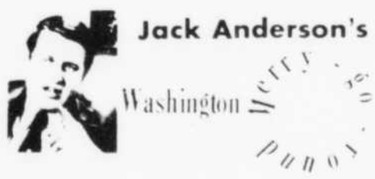
What should our carpenters do? Join the Union and work outside the community on large construction sites where the money seems endless? The consequences — small wage earners and farmers would have to let their buildings fall into a state of disrepair; young couples would be forced to forget about the dream of building and owning their own home; the carpenters could expect to be laid off when the big job is finished or when weather conditions put an end to outside construction. They could then come home and spend the rest of the winter on unemployment. Other local carpenters who pay union dues are doing just that. Through no fault of their own they are now receiving monies from the public treasury. Meanwhile our "convicts" are locked up in jail and the home owners who had hired them are waiting in vain for repairs to be done at wages they can afford.

Or should our men forget about giving an honest day's work at wages they find satisfactory and adequate? Perhaps they should give way to discouragement, throw in the towel, go on welfare and let the government support them and their families.

What would you advise?

Yours truly,
John M. Rhicard

Army's HET headaches



WASHINGTON — As part of our Watch on Waste series, we have written column after column about the millions that the armed services have squandered on worthless weaponry.

Staggering amounts have been lavished on military hardware that should never have been purchased. Often the Pentagon has contracted for new equipment without waiting to find out whether it works.

In a recent report, for instance, we told how the Army had purchased a prize truck before it had passed its field tests. Called the Gama Goat, it was supposed to move, goat-like, over rugged terrain. But the Army turned out to be the goat; the truck virtually shook apart when it left the smooth pavement.

Then there was the GOER, an amphibious Army truck, which was supposed to be able to cross rivers and lakes. But on water, the GOER was a GONER; it had a disconcerting habit of sinking.

Now we have discovered still another Army truck, which probably will wind up on the junk heap. This one — called the Heavy Equipment Transporter or, in the abbreviated language of Army logistics, the HET — has cost the taxpayers close to $30 million.

The HET came out of a joint German-American military agreement to develop a heavy duty transporter. Both sides were supposed to produce their own prototype and then get together to decide which was best.

The Germans signed up their two most experienced manufacturers, Krupp and Faun, to design the German model. The U.S. Army turned to Chrysler, which has had limited experience with heavy equipment.

The field tests, held in 1968, were easily won by the Germans. The German model was so superior, in fact, that the U.S. observers recommended its immediate purchase.

But this embarrassed the big brass at the Army Materiel Command, who had backed the Chrysler venture. They simply ignored the tests, abrogated the agreement with the Germans and awarded a contract to Chrysler for 200 of the semi-trailers that had just been proven inferior.

The brass hats, having refused to acknowledge that the Germans had produced a better cargo carrier, also couldn't admit there was anything wrong with the Chrysler prototype. What happened over the next six years, therefore, was a comedy of errors.

The Chrysler model kept breaking down and the brass hats kept refusing to admit the design was faulty. They backed up their bad judgment, of course, with more and more of the taxpayers' money.

Four years after the contract was awarded, the HET was still failing. The motor didn't meet minimum requirements; the electrical and power steering systems were unreliable; the brakes and transmission lacked durability; and the noise level in the cab was dangerous to human ears.

Our reporter, Ed Tropeano, has interviewed several people who have been closely connected with the project. They say the HET hasn't passed a single test.

Even the Army auditors found the HET to be in sad shape and recommended improvements. Yet the brass hats, rather than admit their own bad judgment, rejected these recommendations, too.

It won't be long now before the great semi-trailers will be delivered to the Army. There is no reason to believe they will perform any better than the faulty test models. This will mean $30 million down the drain.

Footnote: The Army's official comment is that the HET is performing satisfactorily. A spokesman told us the previous testing was "successful" because it had led to "type classification" of the vehicle.

Washington Whirl: House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, D.-Ore., who handles tax legislation, wants to rush through a tax cut to stimulate the economy. He intends to hold up tax reforms, however, until emergency tax relief is passed. To tie the two measures together, he has warned privately, would dangerously delay the economic stimulation...Democratic leaders believe the economy needs a stronger shot in the arm, in the form of tax relief, than the President is asking. Ullman is saying privately that the tax rebate should be at least $4 billion greater than the President has requested. Senate Democrats are likely to press for even more...

Speaker Carl Albert has been urging the Democratic dons in the House to unite behind an economic policy, which would give more relief to the lower and middle incomes. He has stressed that middle-income families carry the biggest share of the tax burden. They are also the most likely to use their tax rebates to buy the automobiles and appliances that would stimulate the economy, he has preached to his fellow Democrats...Albert has also pleaded in the backrooms that the American people are looking desperately for leadership, that it isn't coming from President Ford and, therefore, that the Democrats must provide a united leadership...

The deepening recession is reflected in the dramatic rise in food stamp participants. Four million more Americans have been forced to resort to the stamps since last July. In all, 18 million are now receiving food stamp aid...President Ford's former congressional colleagues, who remember him as a down-to-earth friend, are muttering privately that the White House has changed him. All the presidential pampering, they complain, is making him more aloof and arrogant.

TOWNSHIPS TOPICS — The Quebec Forestry Association will hold a convention in Quebec City starting next Tuesday to discuss the problem of private forests... The Eastern Townships will be well represented and among those going will be Lucien Bedard, manager of the Eastern Townships Forestry Association... The E.T. Branch has done considerable work on reforestation in the last few years and now have 45,572.8 acres of forest farms, the largest individual one being the 35,000 acre farm owned by the Canada Paper Company at Windsor Mills... Realizing the great potential of forest farms in the area, Eastern Townships Forestry Association presented a brief to Hon. J.S. Bourque, Provincial Minister of Lands and Forests, three weeks ago in which they asked for more forestry engineers and more nurseries or enlargement of the ones already in existence... Mr. Bourque promised this help...

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

Lumbermen in the surrounding districts are facing one of the worst seasons in their line of business that they have experienced for a good number of years. There is at the present time millions of feet of logs, both for pulpwood and lumber, lying miles back in the woods, and it is roughly estimated that in the Eastern Townships alone there is as much as six million feet of felled lumber waiting to be hauled to the mills and railways.

The main reason for this slack period in the lumber business is the lack of snow for perfect hauling conditions as a result of the recent thaws that have prevailed in this section of the community off and on for the past month.

Silver Anniversary

DERBY LINE — Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Racine of Derby Line, found Saturday evening, February 15, to be one of surprises in recognition of their silver wedding anniversary.

While at the College Arena in Rock Island for a hockey game, the couple were called out onto the ice prior to the start of the game. They were presented with a lovely pewter vase from the North Country Falcon Hockey team of Newport.

Mr. Racine is the founder of the Falcons and Mrs. Racine is the secretary - treasurer. The presentation was made by Team Captain Guy Gaudreau.

After the game and homeward bound to their Derby Line residence, they found a great many cars parked in their area. As they entered they found approximately 100 people gathered to again surprise them.

Flash pictures were taken then and throughout the evening by Miss Madeleine Roy as a corsage of red roses was pinned upon the blouse of Mrs. Racine and a silver sprayed carnation boutonniere to Mr. Racine.

A delightful social evening followed. A toast was proposed by Germain Choiniere for the continued happiness of Rudy and Joan. Mr. Choiniere and his wife Ruby (Racine) were the attendants at the marriage of Rudy and Joan (Hull) which took place on February 19, 1950.

Buffet refreshments were served. The table of the bride and groom of 25 years was centered with the anniversary cake, and with a floral arrangement of spring flowers, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowen of Rock Island, and with candles in crystal. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais of Derby Line in the theme "stairway to the Sky" having a carpeted stairway sprinkled with blue flower petals, a bride and groom about to ascend to the 25 silver numeral at the top. The cake was further decorated with roses and scroll.

The initial cut was made by the bride and groom amid the popping of flash cubes as photos were snapped, then Mrs. Racine completed the cutting and serving of it.

The couple were the recipients of a money tree that was presented; a maple end table from his business associates, and several other beautiful gifts of silver anniversary crystal and so forth.

Mrs. Patti Racine circulated the guest book with people signing from Orleans, Irasburg, Barton, Newport, St. Johnsbury, Derby, Holland, and Derby Line. Among those attending were Mrs. Racine's mother, Mrs. Elsie Hull, and his mother, Mrs. Frieda Racine, both of Derby Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Racine have four children, a daughter, Laurie, who is with her husband, Gerry Gelinas with the armed forces in Germany, and sons, James, Bruce and Rudy, 2.

The surprise was planned by their sons and daughter-in-law, Patti Racine, Allen and Venyse Moss, assisted by others.

Tennis fashion anyone? Try Texas

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Texas, number three tennis market in the country, has begun an aggressive campaign to push its way into second place in 1975. A major step in this direction was taken early in February when the Apparel Mart, Dallas, sponsored the first of two Tennis Trade Shows scheduled for the year.

The February event was termed a "smashing success" by Heinz K. Simon, Apparel Mart vice president and director of promotion and now also Executive Director of the shows. Buyers from 31 states including Alaska shopped the 200 lines of tennis apparel and equipment displayed on the Mart's fourth floor and the displays and demonstrations in the Great Hall, where a special court was installed for the show.

The presentation of trend-setting tennis fashions for men, women and children, staged and commentated by Kim Dawson, Mart fashion director, was given during a breakfast on the second day of the show. Important names in the fashion lineup included Arthur Ashe and Billie Jean King on the sports side, Pelican Court's bright ideas for toddlers through teens and Oleg Cassini Tennis Club "whites in smashing colors" on the fashion side.

According to Kim Dawson, excitement in tennis fashions is by no means confined to name designers. She predicts increased popularity for separates on the courts this summer. This is based upon the fact that young customers prefer to put together their own looks from wardrobe extenders that serve more than one purpose.

New in the separates category are flair-leg shorts, known as tap pants, reversible wrapped skirts, hip huggers and short pleated kilts.

When it comes to tops, exhibitors at the show say, "The barer the better." There are tanks, halters and midriffs galore. Some of the smartest are made of jacquard knits in silk look blends. Sweater sets consisting of a tank or camisole, plus cardigans, dresses with cut-outs which bare the midriff as well as suspender and youthful pinafore looks.

Newest colors are in the beige-to-brown family and brown bandana prints were noted as accents on traditional white. While designers have added a few golds and greens to their lines for variety, it's the American classics that continue to dominate center court. The strongest break from tradition comes in trims which tend to be gold and frequently offbeat in color.

Again this season knits are more varied than wovens and look newest in open crochet patterns. Terries, especially those with a velour hand, are a big favorite in designer lines. Seminar speakers added zest to the show. They were Kay Dance, founder and president of the Forty Love chain of tennis shops, and Vic Braden, president of the Vic Braden Tennis College.

The Texas Professional Tennis Association held its annual convention in the Apparel Mart concurrently with the Tennis Show and played its annual doubles tournament at Las Colinas Country Club, where a seminar was also given covering doubles strategy and tactics.

Kay Dance, left, who in two years successfully converted a tennis specialty into a six-figure franchise operation, conducted a seminar during the Tennis Show at Dallas. Traditional dress of white sharkskin, center, by Billie Jean King has an international air with flags of all nations as a border for the hemline. Vic Braden, right, president of the National Foundation for Tennis Research, reported on the changing game and its influence on the tennis fashion industry.

Agriculture Yearbook a consumer's must

By Gaynor Maddox

"You can use any food you like if you know how to combine it with other foods to provide yourself a desirable diet."

That quote comes from the recently published 1974 Yearbook of Agriculture, entitled "The Shopper's Guide." It should encourage millions of overweight Americans who want to reduce but dread the thought of entirely giving up some beloved fattening food. This book, properly followed, makes caloric allowances for the special food a person craves compared against other foods which are excellent but not particularly his cup of tea.

"The Shopper's Guide" ($5.70, U.S. Government book stores or by check to Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington D.C., 20402.) is written by a total of 100 specialists. It is divided into six parts and food gets the largest number of articles. It also discusses materials, equipment, gardening, services and recreation.

"The Shopper's Guide" is the 75th volume to carry the title "Yearbook of Agriculture." The first was in 1894 and there have been only a few interruptions during wartime.

The food section in this newest volumen includes such practical subjects, for example, as combining foods for your own advantage, how much food you should buy, organic and inorganic and what they mean, your benefit from nutrition, cans and can'ts for canners and the cold facts about freezing. All these subjects are treated with down-to-earth approaches.

Another useful section of the book rests upon the observation fat." That, from this book, that. "Everyone needs some should be good news to those who use the word "fat" as though it were some illegal form of poisoning.

"Primarily the fats supply energy. But they also carry the fat-soluble vitamins A,D, E and K," it adds.

The book goes on: "Fats also make up part of the structure of the cells, form a protective cushion around vital organs, spare protein foods for body building and aid repair by providing energy. They also supply the essential fatty acid called linoletic acid."

You must have heard it many times before but this passage on fats from "The Shopper's Guide" deserves repetition:

"The body does not manufacture linoletic acid so it must be provided by food. It is found particularly in oils from corn, cottonseed, safflower, sesame, sunflower, soybean and wheat germ. These oils are called 'polyunsaturated.' In planning meals always include some polyunsaturated fats. These foods are usually made from one or more polyunsaturated fats: margarines, salad dressings, mayonnaise, and cooking oils. Poultry and fish also contain linolectic acid as well as othe fats."

A bit of practical warning from the book: Shop for groceries after all other errands. Take food home and refrigerate or freeze perishables immediately. Purchase food from stores that are clean and have sufficient light.

"The Shopper's Guide" contains excellent sections on federal food standards, nutrient labeling and guidelines and how USDA grades can help you stretch your food dollar.

Fashion and Beauty Tips

Casually suitable

Among the most important trends in men's leisure suits is the outerwear shirt look complete with button-placket front, wider sport collar and cuffs.

Shimmering knits

Fantastic knits for men come in a shimmer selection of many solid spectrum shades from perky pastels to deep vibrants. They look like silk.

New vulgarity

For the courageous comes the cut-out, one-piece swimsuit which makes the topless number of a few years ago look positively demure. It is the ugliest, most vulgar fashion to hit the beach. Fashion news may be made by shock value but this is a disaster. Nudity would be less offensive.

Jeweled scent

There is no reason to add to the contents of an already stuffed evening bag by carrying perfume. There are so many beautiful replicas of antique lockets and rings which open to offer you a cream perfume to keep you beautifully scented for many an evening. The jewelry is beautiful, too.

Dry skin conditioning

If you want a moisturizer there is a new lightweight cream on the market whipped into a remarkable treatment for anyone with dry skin. It was created for anyone from 20 on up in age. The woman who gave us this miracle worker doesn't equate dry skin with aging skin. She knows that you can suffer from dry skin at 20 yet get no help because you have been conditioned to believe that dry skin is a problem for mature women only. Not so.

Ann Landers

Ann admits to bad advice

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to your answer to the 26-year-old woman who had been married four times, had five nervous breakdowns, two children, another on the way, and was considering marriage to a 24-year-old man. Anyone with such a history at 26 must have had a load of personal difficulties which contributed to her marital and emotional breakdowns.

Unless some significant progress has been made in working out these difficulties, it is unrealistic to expect that a fifth marriage would turn out any better than the first four.

Your advice — "Grab him" — seemed totally misdirected. You never even raised any of the important issues, such as: Is the woman receiving ongoing treatment at the present time? Is the man similar to any of her previous husbands (or her father)? Has HE been married before? Does HE have a psychiatric history? Sorry, but you blew it, doll. — A Social Work Student

Dear Student: You are right. I did. Thank you for pointing out the inadequacy of my response. The reader was certainly entitled to a better answer than I gave her, and I appreciate your letting me know it.

Dear Miss Landers: I have been a housekeeper for a wealthy woman for four years, but I am not allowed to answer the door or the telephone. If an appliance is broken, I am not supposed to mention it because such things irritate her. ("They don't make things like they used to.")

I must serve meals seven days a week — breakfast at 8:00 a.m., lunch at 12:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. If I announce a meal four minutes early I am told, "Your are four minutes ahead of schedule."

On days when madame drinks a little more than usual she doesn't respond to the dinner call until 7:15 or 7:30 p.m. By then the food is dried out. She then complains that it is inedible.

This is a good-paying job, but is it worth the money if I get ulcers from aggravation? What do you advise? — Heading For Loonsville

Dear Heading: Madame is not playing with a full deck. What's more, there is no way one can rationalize with a disturbed person who has the added problem of alcoholism.

Get another job even if it means less money. (Incidentally, honey, nobody should have to work seven days a week. Lincoln freed the slaves in 1863.)

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who really bugs me. Whenever we talk on the phone (which is quite often) our conversations are always interrupted by one or more of her children who have questions that require answers.

Without excusing herself she launches into lengthy discussions (or arguments) with the kids and I am left dangling on the other end.

Should I ask her to call me back when she is finished with her children so we can have a decent conversation? Am I wrong to think this is rude? Or must kids ALWAYS come first? —Cut Dead

Dear Cut: I have three lovely grandchildren who sometimes pull this on their mother, Margo. Here's how SHE handles it. In a pleasant tone (no anger) she says, "I'm talking to Gram now and when I'm through I'll be glad to answer all your questions. Run along."

Dr. Lamb

Which therapy best for arthritis of hips?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you refer me to any information on the treatment of arthritis? Recently a relative in his late 50s developed pain in both hips which the doctors have diagnosed as arthritis. I am wondering if exercise is the best therapy or if rest, which is more comfortable, may be recommended.

I understand there is no cure, but hope the pain could be lessened. He uses a cane, so far with difficulty.

DEAR READER — Arthritis of the hip joints is a fairly common problem in men. This is usually osteoarthritis or wear and tear arthritis.

Osteoarthritis affects the weight-bearing joints most frequently, hence the hips, knees and ankles.

The various forms of arthritis are discussed in a book I wrote with LaRue Stone called, "There's Help for Arthritis." You can get a copy by writing to me in care of this newspaper, at P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019 and asking for the book. Send one dollar for the book plus 25 cents postage and handling. Or you might find it among the paperbacks at your book store.

It is important to maintain the full range of motion of all joints regardless of the type of arthritis. That is part of the objective of continued exercise. However, in osteoarthritis there is often a tendency to overdo it. Rest is equally important. Characteristically in osteoarthritis rest will relieve the pain. The use of a cane and crutches are efforts to decrease the work and help to relieve the arthritis.

A person with osteoarthritis causing pain should try to limit the amount of activity. A good program is to be up and about for only part of the day, then get the weight off the hips by lying down for a couple of hours. Remember the purpose of the exercise is only to maintain full range of motion and muscle strength. Otherwise the joint does better getting as much rest as possible. A combined rest and suitable exercise program is best.

You can get a lot of good out of some instructions from a good physical therapist or from a specialist in physical medicine.

Finally, I'd like to mention that in advanced cases of osteoarthritis of the hip joint, if necessary, the whole joint can be replaced. Hip joint replacement has progressively improved and is an important aid in treating many cases of arthritis involving the hip joint.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 10 years old. I would like for you to explain what convulsions are.

DEAR READER — They usually occur after you have lost consciousness (passed out). The brain has centers in it that control the contraction of your muscles. These start causing your muscles to contract on their own. The result is the sudden contraction and movement of the arms, legs and other parts of the body.

The contractions can be irregular with no rhythm or they can occur in a rhythmic fashion.

Convulsions can occur with a deep faint from any cause, or in the presence of a fever or a variety of disorders that may affect the brain. They are more common in children during illness with fever than in adults.

The Bermuda Cup

Pros stoop to amateur signals in world bridge classic

By Oswald Jacoby

SOUTHAMPTON, Bermuda — (NEA) — Here is one of the hands that caused all the ruckus. It is from the world championship bridge tournament in Bermuda and the accusations of cheating have hit the front pages of major newspapers throughout the country.

This hand is from the first night of competition, Friday, Jan. 24. The members of the French bridge team sat North and South while two new members of the Italian team, defending its world title, sat East and West. On this particular hand Gianfranco Facchini sat East while Sergio Zucchelli sat West.

The monitor that night was Bruce Keidan, a correspondent for the Philadelphia Inquirer. He was the first official to recognize any irregularity. He noticed Facchini tap his partner firmly on the toes during six of the 16 hands played. Three other officials noted similar movements on the following day.

A member of the French team, sitting South, was the dealer. He opened the bidding with a standard one notrump. North's reply was a two-diamond Jacoby transfer bid which asked his partner to bid the next highest suit. South obliged with two hearts, putting the final contract in the stronger hand. This is the primary purpose of the Jacoby transfer.

Zucchelli opened the 10 of spades, a most unusual lead in view of his club holding. This lead held the contract to just four tricks. A club lead, on the other hand, permits South to take the first trick with his ace and dump the lone spade loser from dummy on his king of clubs, giving declarer an extra trick. On this hand, the Italian team only picked up one IMP (International Match Point). If North held one more spade, the different leads could have spelled the difference between making the contract and being set. In this vulnerable situation it would have meant a shift of 12 IMPs.

Twelve IMPs could easily change the team standings.

It was on this hand and others that the World Bridge Federation resolved that Facchini and Zucchelli be severely reprimanded for improper conduct in respect to Facchini's moving his feet unnaturally and touching his partner's feet during the action and before the opening lead.

Starting Jan. 27, boards were installed beneath tables to prevent foot signalling for the remainder of tournament play.

As a mathematician who didn't witness any of the displays of "footsies," I do not believe the many inspired leads could have been made merely from the bidding which took place on the questioned hands.

The questioned hands were those where officials witnessed foot signals. Time and again the leads were unusual and just what the partner would "order" if he were permitted to do so.

These charges in no way incriminate the other skilled experts of the Italian team, headed by Giorgio Belladonna and Benito Carosso, two former members of the famed Italian Blue Team. The other two new members, Arturo Franco and Vito Tittale, appeared to be very skilled and talented bridge experts. In no way should this reflect on their outstanding play.

The tournament has been hosted beautifully by the Bermuda officials. On the other hand, I find the World Bridge Federation has been lax on limiting the length of play permitted. The U.S. team representing North America, along with Brazil representing South America, have held their play within logical time limits. The Indonesians, representing Asia, and the Italians, representing Europe, have been permitted to run far over the scheduled time limits.

The North American team had previously stated they would withdraw from the tournament if the Italian team was not banned from the competition. Louis Mathe of the American Contract Bridge League, Edgar Kaplan (both former world champions) and myself, captain of two championship teams, convinced members of the U.S. team they should remain in the competition under protest. Under these conditions the U.S. team met the Italians for the first time Jan. 27.

The bidding screens were used for the first time in the world championship matches, mainly to prevent any accusations of cheating. But as I stated before the tournament: "Don't bet on it!" In bridge anything can happen and usually does. That's what makes it the classic game it is.

I'm just sorry it might reflect on the other four members of the Italian team, who have displayed some of the best in expert play and bidding. For one who assisted in breaking the Japanese code in World War II, I regret that the two members of the Italian team, Facchini and Zucchelli, were so unimaginative as to use a code that must have prevailed in the earliest neighborhood bridge games. Surely in expert play, we should be entitled to something a little more sophisticated.

Union marks 30th anniversary

DERBY, Vt. (IH) — A gala birthday party was held at the Elks Club in Derby, Vt. on Saturday evening, February 22, when the 30th anniversary of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, Lodge No. 1896 took place with 338 persons gathered to celebrate, they being employees of Butterfield's Canadian Plant and guests.

The celebration arrangements were carried out by the officers of the Lodge and their committeemen. As the people gathered they were welcomed by them.

The "happy hour" was followed by a buffet dinner banquet served by the Elks Club members and their Auxiliary ladies. Through their courtesy there was a huge birthday cake, double tier, decorated in white with pink and white inscription and flowers.

Boyd Gilbert, the Lodge president offered the blessing. He introduced the head table and welcomed all to the party. Head table guests included Mike Rygus, general vice-president, I.A.M. & A.W. from Ottawa, Ont., William Boychuck, Grand Lodge Representative, from Lennoxville, Salvatore (Jess) Galazzo, who has served the Union Lodge as its president for 19, close to 20 years, and Mrs. Galazzo, both of whom were guests of honor at the party.

Melvin Van Sickle, company vice-president and general manager, and Mrs. Van Sickle; Malcolm MacDonald, manager of administration, and Mrs. MacDonald; Paul Stratton, Canadian plant manager and Mrs. Stratton; Armand Dussault, Lodge financial secretary; William Comstock, Jr., recording secretary; Frank Anderson, conductor; John Pierce, Sentinel and their ladies; also Mrs. Boyd Gilbert and Mrs. Boychuck.

Mr. Gilbert also introduced his committeemen, Thomas Bowen, Paul Morel, Tom Robinson, Eugene Carbonneau, Merrick Belknap, Donald Lafoe, Floyd Webb and Hector Channell. Mr. Gilbert spoke in English and French as he introduced, welcomed and spoke in tribute of the men who made the party such a tremendous success.

Another highlight of the evening was the presentation of 25 year certificates and pins to Elmore Moss, Ellie Hartley, Gaspard Couture, Elwyn Shepard, William Stuart, Merle Whipple, each of whom received them from Mr. Gilbert. Others to receive them but not present at the gathering were Ross Royea, Roland Sheldon, Douglas Stewart and Romeo Larocque.

Mr. Gilbert presented 15 years to Neal Batchelder, William Black, Denis Daviau, Guy Fisher, Lionel Fortin, Antonia Masse, not present they will be given to Leopold Lacroix and Lucien Bilodeau.

Mr. Gilbert called the roll of deceased members of the past five years, totalling 14 men. A moment of silence was observed with thoughts of them.

Among those attending were several retirees and those in the recent lay-off and their ladies.

Mr. Rygus, in his address made reference to the unique situation here at the Border Villages, the Butterfield plants, one in each country under one roof with two separate staffs, under one president.

He paid high tribute to the officers of the Union Lodge 1896 who have carried on so efficiently the 30 years; he noted the grand feeling when the news was heard that members of the local Lodge had become "millionaires" as he referred to the 10 Olympic winners in November.

He congratulated the men who had been presented the Veteran badges, those who have done work for the Lodge and "the girls" who have done their share, noting the old saying "behind every successful man is a good woman."

He commented on his pleasure to be at this gathering where, "We with the management break bread." He referred to the unique situation here where probably is found the only factory straddling a border. Harmony and friendships exist and "at the next party invitations should be sent to Prime Minister Trudeau and to U.S. President Ford to see how you do it."

Mr. Van Sickle, speaking on behalf of the company offered congratulations on the anniversary; he paid tribute to Mr. Galazzo and said, "We respected your position as you respected ours" and wished him well upon his upcoming retirement. He extended to Mr. Gilbert the best in his position as president of the Local Union Lodge.

Mr. Van Sickle, noted there have been a few lay-offs, but he and Mr. Stratton have just returned from a business trip to Ontario and they are encouraged with their sales department. Hopefully all can be gainfully employed. To the employees he expressed appreciation for the men's skills and loyalties and on behalf of the Strattons, the MacDonalds and the Van Sickles, expressed appreciation for the invitation to attend the celebration.

Mr. Galazzo, called upon to speak, said, "I'm going to miss all of you," and asked for the same co-operation shown him to be shown to Mr. Gilbert. His remarks was followed by standing ovation.

Mr. Dussault, secretary of finances for 26 years, spoke in tribute of Mr. Galazzo who said, "He did his best to fulfill the mandate given him, his work and strength to Union Local 1896."

Mr. and Mrs. Carbonneau then presented to Mr. Galazzo a white carnation boutonniere and to Mrs. Galazzo, a lovely deep red corsage and silver ribbons. Four of the committeemen advanced and placed on a table four matched pieces of luggage. The couple plan a trip to his native Italy.

With deep feeling, the Galazzo's thanked everyone and his words were followed by cheers from everyone else gathered as they wished Jess and Agnes all the best and appreciation of his many years as an officer in the Lodge.

The Shangrila orchestra then began to play music for the remainder of the evening of dancing.

It was a party that will long be remembered as a tremendous success by all who attended for it was like one big family event.

The Local Lodge was established in 1945. The first president was Jack Anderson and the second, Elbert Embury. Both are now deceased. Mr. Galazzo was vice-president for five years then elevated to the office of president close to 20 years ago. This year Mr. Gilbert was elected as president when Mr. Galazzo announced his intention to take early retirement from Butterfields.

Danville Cancer Society holds meeting

DANVILLE (MF) — Once again the Danville Branch of the Quebec Cancer Society sponsored the showing of English and French films dealing with educating the public of the need for early detection of cancer, of its treatments and of the latest developments in combatting this disease.

These were shown by John Pedeneault. Two of the Branch's faithful workers, A.W. Bishop and Mrs. Ernest Frost were to have been presented with framed certificates in recognition of their many years of service, but, unfortunately, they had not been framed when Mr. Pedeneault went for them, so they will be presented at a later date. Mr. Bishop expressed his appreciation and also spoke of the work being done by this branch.

It is gratifying to know that for the size of the town the contribution to this cause is most noteworthy.

Mrs. Frost also said that she has had the privilege of organizing the very first campaign before any branch was formed here and that her interest in this work had been genuine as her mother, the late Mrs. C.E. LeRoux had died of cancer of the lung.

Mrs. Frost, who was wearing a twin sweater set, removed her coat sweater to show the audience that in spite of radical mastectomy in early September, she had perfect use of both arms and that the operation had in no way changed her appearance.

She also told of being able to obtain a temporary form from Mrs. Leo Proulx to be worn until her incision was sufficiently healed so that she could wear the prosthesis which she had bought in Montreal. Praise was also due the lady who had been her fitter on this occasion. One of Mrs. Frost's big factors in her recovery was the attitude of her family and friends, and that should be stressed whenever a patient is ready to come home from the hospital.

One of the films dealt with methods of campaign management. It has been found that united campaigns are not the answer to this particular society's needs and, along with the personal touch of the door-to-door campaign is the distribution of pamphlets, telling of the work of the society and of the progress being made in research.

Recently two Montreal doctors discovered a method of detecting cancer in its early stages.

Education is still one of the main aims of the society — of how patients can be helped — both materially and mentally.

Gift cupboards are kept in each branch and hospital shirts are made of men's used shirts which prove a blessing to a patient in their early stages of recovery. True, they are not a very glamorous outfit, but they are comfortable. More publicity is badly needed through papers, television and radio to make the public more aware of the danger signals, of the chance of complete cure and of the opportunity of helping your fellow man.

On March 21st the annual launching of the campaign for funds in this division will be held in Drummondville and it is hoped that there will be a number from this branch attend. For quite a few years the Cancer Society has maintained the same slogan — "Cancer Can Be Beaten."

A social hour, with coffee and doughnuts being served by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, brought the evening to a close.

Legion L.A. Branch 242

NORTH HATLEY — The Royal Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary, United branch 242, North Hatley-Waterville held their regular meeting at the Legion Home on Monday evening, February 10.

The president, Mrs. W. Beland was in the chair and opened the meeting.

The secretary, Mrs. A. Ditchburn read the minutes of the last meeting and executive meetings and a good financial statement was given by the treasurer, Mrs. W. Woodward.

The president of the Senior branch, Mr. G. Gauthier and the 1st Vice-President, Mr. F. Stone attended the meeting. They asked the Auxiliary to serve a supper at the Legion Home after a broom ball game on Friday, February 14. The Auxiliary was also asked to serve refreshments at a card party on Tuesday, February 18 at the Legion Home and at a dance on February 22nd.

A report from the Community Club was given and all committees reported.

The first Bingo of the year will be held at the Legion Home on March 14 at 8 p.m. and thereafter will be held every two weeks.

It was announced that a Youth Service would be held at St. Barnabas Church on Sunday evening, February 23rd at 7 p.m. As the Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies are sponsored by the Legion and Ladies Auxiliary, it was hoped that members would attend.

The meeting closed, after which delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Riley and Mrs. G. Price.

The hostess gifts were won by Mrs. J. English.

The next meeting will be held at the Legion Home on Monday evening, March 10.

UCW Meeting

MELBOURNE RIDGE — The Feb. meeting was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. V. Thormin, and opened by repeating the U.C.W. purpose.

The devotional period was taken by Dianna Taber who read a story titled 'One Step at a Time.' The scripture was read by Marg Smith. The hymn 'What a Friend we have in Jesus' was sung. Rev. Thormin closed with a scripture reading and prayer.

The roll-call was answered by 10 members. Three patterns for a banner to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the United Church were submitted.

The minutes were read and approved.

The correspondence was thanks from Crystal Beers for a gift. Thanks was received from Muriel Parks for sympathy extended, from Rev. Thormin and Mary Wood for sympathy extended and cards received in their bereavement.

Three In Memoriam donations were made to the heart fund. A letter and drawing was received from our foster child in Hong Kong. It was suggested that we should write more frequently to him. Joan Morrison offered to write him this month and members will take their turn each month.

Treasurer's report was read.

Supply — Dianna Taber reported she had received thanks from Mr. and Mrs. Burgess in Belavista, Angola, for bandages sent and also read a newsletter from that country.

Sunshine — Mary Wood reported sending cards and a card was signed for a member shut-in.

Literature — Myrtle Johnston reported that the Observer subscriptions have been sent in.

Card Convenor — Marg Smith reported she has the new spring catalogue and has sent an order for cards. It was decided to give the profits made on selling cards last year, to the Stewards for repairs on the church.

The program for 1975 was planned and will be ready for the next meeting.

The committee to choose a pattern and colors for a banner are Maudie Thormin, Shirley Fowler, Joan Morrison and Noreen Wilkins.

The meeting was closed by the reading of a poem God is not Dead.

Lunch was served by the hostess Mrs. Thormin who was assisted by Noreen Wilkins and Dianna Taber.

Box social enjoyed

BIRCHTON — Friday evening, February 14, brought many hearts, cupids, etc. in brilliant red colours of the day, to the United Church hall in Cookshire.

Why? It was a celebration in the form of a Box Social. Guests were welcomed by the President of the Cookshire-Birchton Youth Group, or by his representatives.

Each lady brought a well-filled tastefully decorated box. These boxes were auctioned off by Mrs. Nick Turchyn, who seemed to have the ability to persuade the buyers —the men — to dig deeper into their pockets than they had planned to. Of course they could salve their consciences with "the cause of raising funds for Youth Exchange Trip was a worthy one."

When the buyer and the maker of each box had located each other, the pairs gathered around the tables and enjoyed a really bountiful supper.

Then with Elliott Smith and Gail Harron officiating at the Bingo Shuffler, different games of Bingo were played — occasionally a marathon which earned special prizes — a very special one, handmade and donted by A. Halsall — was a lamp, won by Mrs. Howard Picard.

The Youth Group express appreciation of the support given them to make the evening a success, both socially and financially.

Regina rink still undefeated, Quebec in third

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Marj Mitchell's Regina rink, defending the Canadian women's curling championship won the last six years by Saskatoon-area clubs, appears headed for a showdown tonight with Alberta.

The Saskatchewan foursome racked up its fifth consecutive win Tuesday night, hanging an 11-6 defeat on Ontario's Bea Cole of London.

But Miss Mitchell, a 26-yearold social worker, isn't about to forecast a sweep for the Prairie rink, especially with games today against the popular host New Brunswick entry skipped by Ivy Lord of Saint John and Sharon Grigg's Medicine Hat club.

Sharon, with four wins in five starts here, has the best chance to throw a wrench into Saskatchewan's domination of the championship that goes back to 1969 when Joyce McKee started the provincial sweep.

"We can't let down at all," Miss Mitchell said after her win over Ontario. The Ontario rink conceded the game after picking up two in the eighth end.

"We've got to curl well . . . better than we have been to keep winning."

In other Tuesday night games, Gail Hiscock of St. John's cracked five in the fourth to lift Newfoundland to a 12-5 win over New Brunswick. Diane Blanchard's Prince Edward Island crew from Charlottetown registered its first win, 9-8, over Joan Mogk of Souris, Man.; Marion Radcliffe's Kelowna, B.C. club took Lee Tobin's Quebec foursome from Montreal 9-4, and Alberta easily handled the Phyllis MacDonald Nova Scotia representatives from Halifax, 10-2.

In the afternoon draw, it was Quebec 8 Ontario 7, Newfoundland 8 Nova Scotia 6, British Columbia 14 New Brunswick 3, Alberta 5 Manitoba 4, and Saskatchewan 8 P.E.I. 5.

Today's afternoon draw has Manitoba going against Nova Scotia, P.E.I. meeting Quebec, New Brunswick against Saskatchewan, Newfoundland playing Alberta and Ontario playing B.C.

The evening draw, in addition to the Alberta-Saskatchewan showdown, has Newfoundland against B.C., Nova Scotia meeting Quebec, Ontario playing P.E.I. and New Brunswick facing Manitoba.

"We have been consistent," said Miss Mitchell, "but not really curling as well as we can, not as well as we have been the last two or three weeks."

The Saskatchewan skip said there were probably a number of factors contributing to what she feels has been a spotty performance by her rink.

"I think it's just getting used to arena ice. The ice has been really pretty tricky in a few spots, there's a lot of falls and so on.

"Our team depends a lot on sweeping and quite a few of our misses have been misjudging the sweeping call. We call it a little too quick and it falls back on us. Or we wait just a split second too long and it curls by and only gets half the rock. We usually get them on the nose."

Standings after five rounds of the Canadian women's curling championship:

	W	L
Saskatchewan	5	0
Alberta	4	1
Quebec	3	2
Newfoundland	3	2

Olympic plan drafted

TORONTO (CP) — James Worrall, a member of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) denied Tuesday a report in the Montreal Gazette that the IOC is drafting contingency plans to save the 1976 Games should Montreal prove unable to hold them.

Tuesday's Gazette quotes IOC sources as saying the IOC is considering four alternatives: Spreading the games across Canada; asking Los Angeles, a defeated bidder, to stage an emergency Olympics, or returning the Games to Mexico City, where they were held in 1968.

Two other plans, the newspaper said, would be to spread the Games all over the world in the form of 21 simultaneous world championships, or offer them to a combination of German cities in the Ruhr Valley.

Worrall said in Toronto the report has "no credibiity at all."

He said his first reaction to the story was that he and the newspaper's reporter had not been at the same meeting.

Expos sign top shortstop in Julian Perez

MONTREAL — The Montreal Expos have signed Julian Perez, a highly-sought 16-year-old short-stop from Pajardo, Puerto Rico, to a minor league contract.

A switch-hitter who consistently hit .340-plus in Babe Ruth and Amateur Baseball in Puerto Rico, Perez was signed as a free-agent for the Expos by scout Tom Giordano.

Perez is 5'10" and weighs 195 pounds.

He will report to the Expos' minor league camp, in Daytona Beach, Fla., in March, and likely will be assigned to Lethbridge, Alta., the Expos' new entry in the Pioneer League.

Luster, who spent nine seasons with Toronto Argonauts and the other five with Montreal Alouettes, was an Eastern Conference all-star six times.

Owners get best of arbitration

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's arbitration cases came to a close Tuesday, but their aftertaste lingers on.

There were 15 arbitration cases this year. The record will show that the owners won nine of them.

Oakland's Charles O. Finley, who has sat in the arbitration hot seat more times than any other owner, recognizes the irony of knocking a player in arbitration, then expecting him to put out 100 per cent during the season.

"One of the minuses about arbitration, is that I have to sit there and tell a player, in front of a lot of other people, why he shouldn't get a raise," he said.

Minnesota Twins' Rod Carew, the American League's leading hitter last year, lost in his arbitration battle.

"I'm disgusted," Carew said. "Now I know what kind of organization the Twins are.

"I know what they think of me. They don't consider me a superstar. I'm just a number."

LEFT HEARING

Ralph Garr, the National League's top hitter in 1974, came here for an arbitration battle with Atlanta Braves. After Garr made his pitch, he asked the arbitrator if he could be excused.

"I didn't want to hear myself get cut up," Garr said. "They can cut you down so much that it makes you not want to play.

"I don't see how management can win these things," Garr added. "Win or lose there's gonna be a funny feeling for Ralph Garr towards Atlanta management."

Garr won his case, receiving $114,500 for 1975 instead of the $85,000 the Braves felt he was worth.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, said some of the teams lose dignity by attacking their players.

"They try to make the player look like dirt," Miller said. "All that does is damage morale."

APPROACH DIFFERENT

But not all teams take that philosophy into arbitration.

"It's like solving a business problem," said Peter Bavasi, vice-president and general manager of San Diego Padres.

"We don't emphasize the negative. We focus on comparability. Like, we'd say this man is comparable to 45 other players, so he deserves a salary of this many dollars."

But Miller points out that boxscore-type results are deceiving. He says arbitration had a forceful indirect effect on salary increases for many players.

"Take Joe Rudi for example," Miller said. "Finley offered him peanuts and Joe said he was going to arbitration.

"They settled out of arbitration and Joe signed for the exact figure he was requesting in arbitration."

Connors-Newcombe tilt slated biggest purse

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest single purse in tennis history—perhaps more than $1 million—will be on the line when Jimmy Connors and Australian John Newcombe clash in a challenge match April 26, possibly at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

"Everything is set except the site," Bill Riordon, Connors' manager, said Tuesday in Syracuse, N.Y., where Connors played an exhibition match.

Caesars Palace, site of Connors' $100,000 victory over Rod Laver Feb. 2, is reported to be balking over demands for $400,000, which would supplement the $600,000 to be paid by the Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) for live television coverage.

Also to be worked out is the split of the prize money. Newcombe, still in Australia, is reported to prefer a ratio—such as 60 per cent for the winner and 40 per cent for the loser.

Riordon is holding out for the winner-take-all arrangement used in the Laver match in which Connors collected the $100,000 prize. But the two players also received $60,000 each from television receipts.

"There is a magic quality about a winner-take-all challenge match," Riordon said. "There is magic in the $100,000 figure, although it could be raised, I suppose, to $150,000.

"Personally, I would like to see that format retained with the two players sharing the television money. It could be a very nice payday for both, especially the winner, maybe as much as $500,000."

Newcombe has beaten Connors the only three times they have met, the last a 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, 7-6 battle for the Australian crown in January.

Nowak fits in with Bruins

Hank Nowak didn't take long to fit in with the big, bad Boston Bruins.

Playing in his third game for Boston, he scored one goal and got into two fights Tuesday night while the Bruins were beating Pittsburgh Penguins 6-4 in a National Hockey League game.

"You can't do better than that," said Boston coach Don Cherry, summing up the performance of Nowak, just acquired from Detroit Red Wings.

"He scored the winning goal and had two fights. AND HE TOOK ON A PRETTY GOOD ONE IN (Bob) Kelly."

In Tuesday's other NHL games, Toronto Maple Leafs clubbed Minnesota North Stars 9-2, New York Islanders shut out St. Louis Blues 3-0 and Chicago Black Hawks whipped Washington Capitals 6-2.

PLAYED WITH ESPO

Nowak was playing on a line with NHL scoring leader Phil Esposito.

"I haven't practised with the line yet but I talked to Esposito before the game," he said. "He told me where he'd like me to play and where he plays."

"They've always been the big bad Bruins. I hope I'll be a big bad Bruin."

The Bruins came to life in the third period with goals by Carol Vadnais, Nowak and Andre Savard.

Rookie defenceman Claire Alexander, called up in January from Oklahoma City Blazers of the Central Hockey League, scored three goals to power the Leafs past Minnesota.

Toronto, which outshot the Stars 45-23, got a goal and two two assists each from Errol Thompson, George Ferguson and Lanny McDonald.

PLAYERS SCUFFLE

The Chicago-Washington game featured a series of third-period fights triggered by a scuffle between Mike Marson of the Capitals and Phil Russell of the Black Hawks.

Marson apparently drew blood from Russell, who has 200 penalty minutes to his credit this season, when a stick caught the Black Hawk in the face.

The other two fights were between Washington's Mike Bloom and Chicago's Darcy Rota, and Capitals' Yvon Labre and Black Hawk Grant Mulvey.

Dale Tallon scored his first two goals of the season for the Hawks.

Goalie Glenn Resch got a rare start for the Islanders and responded by blanking the Blues.

Resch, who last played Feb. 8, praised his defence, then complained about the lack of action at his end of the ice. He faced only 17 shots.

THIRD SHUTOUT

Jude Drouin, Lorne Henning and Ed Westfall backed Resch's sparkling goaltending with second-period goals. Resch recorded his third shutout of the year and beat the Blues for the second time this season.

The victory put the Islanders six points in front of Atlanta Flames for the third-place playoff spot in the Patrick Division.

Tonight's schedule has St. Louis at New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers at Atlanta, Vancouver Canucks at Montreal Canadiens, Washington at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles Kings at Detroit, Minnesota at California Golden Seals and Kansas City Scouts at Toronto.

North Hatley to hold Senior Mixed Bonspiel Mar. 4th

NORTH HATLEY — A meeting of the Ladies branch of the North Hatley Curling Club was held on February 18 in the clubroom, with the Vice-President Ann McVittie in the chair.

In the absence of the secretary, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Janet McLellan. Treasurer, Imogene Browning gave the financial report.

The Senior Mixed Bonspiel, in charge of Ruth Knutson, will be held March 4 to 7. On March 7 a sherry party will be held and a supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. The finals will be played at 8:00 p.m. Mrs. Browning will convene the kitchen during the Bonspiel.

Plans were finalized for Invitation Day to be held on March 13th. Madeleine McClary will convene the dinner.

Muriel Taylor read a letter from J. Robinson regarding the McCallum-Filly Bonspiel. Attention was also drawn to the three days of weekend curling to be held at the Border, Magog and North Hatley Clubs. Curling will be held at the North Hatley Club on March 8 and a supper will be served.

Problems threaten Quebec beef farms

Grocer and farmer Wesley Nichol of Lennoxville.

By GEORGE STEDMAN
(Record Reporter)

The beef industry in Quebec is facing difficulties as an independent agricultural industry. Farmers, faced with high feed costs, low market prices and competition from western Canada and the United States are finding that beef cattle are only profitable when raised as a sideline.

The problem stems from a variety of sources, but starts with the consumer. For too long Canadians have been spoiled with low prices for high grade meats. Large chain stores avoid marketing the lower grades (B, C and D rather than A grades) out of fear that the consumer will not buy them.

For their part, consumers, unsure of the relative merits of the lower grades, buy A only. G. Lalonde, Research Officer at the Lennoxville Research Station, explained that although 28 per cent of the meat consumers live in Quebec, only 6 per cent of the beef is produced here. Almost 80 per cent of the beef sold in Quebec is imported from the west where A grade beef can be produced more readily.

The emphasis on dairy farming in Quebec (approximately 80 per cent of Canada's dairy cows are in Quebec) means that most of the beef comes from a cross between beef bulls and dairy cows. A cross between only beef cows, as is done in the west, is more likely to produce the A grade meat that is in demand.

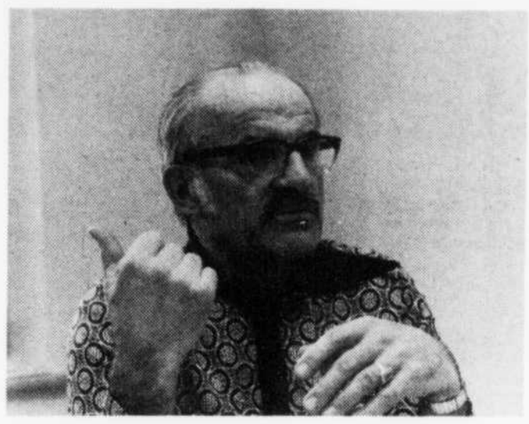
Farmers who rely on beef for their income, like W. Brand of Massawippi, are being forced to diversify into other areas. Mr. Brand operated a feed lot, that is he bought calves, fed them, and then hopefully sold them for more than what they cost him. Mr. Brand has not been so fortunate recently. Three years ago he had 300 head, and was one of the largest beef farmers in the area. Now he is down to 35. Mr. Brand described the beef industry as "no good at all."

Clifford Wallis, also of Massawippi, explained that he was able to sustain the low market price better than Mr. Brand because beef is only a sideline to his dairy operation. He does not rely on beef to do anything more than supplement his revenue from milk. Most of the beef produced in Quebec comes from dairy farms such as Mr. Wallis'.

One solution to the dilemma faced by beef farmers is to raise cattle on grasses instead of grain. Wesley Nichol, who operates Nichol's Grocery Store in Lennoxville as well as a beef farm, said that in order to raise cattle on grass you need "good grass".

Mr. Lalonde said that Quebec can produce feed grasses better than most of the other Canadian provinces.

The question of grass-fed beef brings us back to the consumer. Cattle raised in this fashion usually produce B and C grades of meat rather than the preferred A grade. Mr. Lalonde criticised the large chain stores for not offering lower grade meats. According to Mr. Lalonde, "Consumers would not know the difference between the A, B and C grades." In the same way that people are allowed to choose between luxury cars and economy cars, he suggested that stores offer a range of different priced grades, to let the consumer decide what price he wants to pay for his beef.



Research Officer G. Lalonde of the Lennoxville Experimental Farm.

The outlook for the future of the beef industry appears glum. Mr. Nichol perhaps summed up the whole situation when he said it's "Tough nowadays."

Mr. Brand was no more optimistic. He has been switching into vegetable farming and feels that the beef price "will stay low for the next two years" if it comes up at all. He bought calves, fed them for a year and ended up selling some of them for less than what he had originally paid for them. That's no way to turn a profit.

Wesley Nichol estimated that he is losing $100 an animal now and if it wasn't for the store he wouldn't be able to raise beef at all.

Dr. C.B. Haver, an agricultural economist and Dean of Bishop's University, pointed out that "Economically, the largest source of beef in Quebec are half-breed calves from dairy cows." Mr. Lalonde warned that some of the trends in breeding may not be beneficial. For instance, he noticed in the experiments carried on at the Research Station that crosses between exotic (foreign) and dairy cows produce a big frame animal that is heavier than the usual, but these breeds tend to take two or three years to stop growing and to start putting on fat.

Therefore, the farmer must feed the animal much longer at additional cost to himself. The big beef producers out west use only beef animals for breeding and have been much more successful in producing A grade meat.

New crop insurance law set

QUEBEC — The new crop insurance law, which has been in effect since January, will affect all agricultural producers in the province who wish to protect their regular and commercial crops from damage from weather and other natural catastrophes.

Regular crops can now be insured for the following eventualities: snow, hail, hurricanes, excess rain, drought, frost, wild animals, insects, plant diseases for which there is no adequate remedy and ground swelling due to frost or ice-formation during the months of November and April. The latter is awarded insurance if the crops involved had been individually insured a year earlier.

Commercial crops are now offered protection from the above-mentioned risks, and also from damages caused by wind-excesses, humidity and heat.

Up to 80 per cent of the crop value can be reimbursed under the new legislation.

In the extensive farming sector, the government will insure four categories of crops. They are: 1 — forage crops, which comprise hay and cereal straw; 2 — the cereals: oats and mixed spring barley and wheat; 3 — fodder corn; 4 — hay and corn for silage together.

It is important to underline that due to this new law for crop insurance, the farmer can insure the category of crops of his choice beforehand, on condition that the full extent of the cultivation in the category that he chose is an object of the insurance.

As an example, a farmer who grows 15 acres of oats and 10 acres of barley will have to insure the 25 acres which constitute the total of the cereals. He cannot, therefore, insure only oats or barley separately, with the two cereals being in the same category.

To be eligible for the benefits of the new crop insurance, farmers must conform to the four conditions set up for their large production farms. They are: 1 — only crops which serve in the feeding of farm animals are insurable; 2 — the producer must cultivate a minimum area of 10 acres of a crop for that harvest to be insured; 3 — the crop insured must produce varieties of seeds recommended by the Quebec Vegetable Production Council or accepted by the bureau and is cultivated by the methods generally recognized and recommended. 4 — the producer must be able to furnish a plan of his farm to the bureau which gives precise yields of his crops.

On top of this, the grower who desires insurance for his crops must, before April 30, ask in writing to the bureau on the prescribed formula to this effect and the amount of eligible contribution.

It is required besides that all producers who want to modify their agricultural program as part of the objective of the insurance, should advise the bureau without delay and no later than the first of July.

Nevertheless, if a grower doesn't conform to the conditions described, he will not have any right for reimbursements of contributions and the insurance will not be valid for the part of the program which he declared to the bureau.

Aim to set up new QFA

MONTREAL — There will be a meeting of the Quebec Farmers' Association at the Knowlton Intermediate School on Tuesday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

A group of farmers held a meeting in Cowansville last week, with the intention of setting up a strong new QFA local group to represent English-speaking farmers in Brome-Missisquoi County.

All interested people are urged to attend the first meeting of this new group in Knowlton.

Statistics on dairy industry

QUEBEC (RH) — Statistics indicate that dairy production in Quebec is on the rise in certain instances and on the decrease in others.

Figures released for the 1974 production year show that the province was responsible for producing nearly half the creamery butter in all of Canada. Quebec farms manufactured 106,157 pounds of butter in 1974 as compared with a Canadian total of 219,692.

On the whole, however, butter production was down from a similar period a year earlier. Farms in this province only produced 91 per cent of the dairy product total of 1973.

On the other hand, cheese production was up over 1973. Quebec produced 110,433 pounds of cheese in 1974, representing over half the total Canadian production of 175,446 pounds, and 121 per cent of the 1973 figure.

In the Eastern Townships, whole milk production was down last year from the 1973 total of 13,772 to 11,544 quarts. This was 84 per cent of 1973's whole milk production total.

Two per cent milk manufacturing was on the increase, nonetheless. Companies in the Eastern Townships produced 103 per cent of their 1973 totals, or 6,095 quarts of two per cent milk, as opposed to 5,906 of the same product a year earlier. Strangely, however, skim milk production was down to 88 per cent of the 1973 statistic, when 658 quarts were marketed. 577 quarts were sold in 1974. Similarly, chocolate milk manufacturing plummeted to 79 per cent of 1973's totals. 568 quarts were placed for sale in 1974, compared with 719 quarts in 1973. Also cream production fell to 92 per cent of the 1973 figure. In 1973, 418 quarts were marketed, while only 386 quarts found their way to grocery stores during the same period of time in 1974.

If you must walk on ice, take a long pole with you.

Quebec Jersey Cattle Club holds annual meeting

By ROBERT SIMPSON
(Special to The Record)

The Quebec Jersey Cattle Club was founded 54 years ago in the City of Sherbrooke. This central region has always benefitted by the most Jersey breeders in the province. It was therefore fitting to have the Annual Meeting in the Granby area, at the Grand Bien Motel in Granby, Que., on Feb. 8, 1975. Close to 100 persons gathered, including government personel, A.I. leaders and friends to hear of the progress being made in the Jersey breed.

Being a bi-lingual club all reports were available in French and English, and this gave a very homey atmosphere to the gathering in the Belle Province de Quebec.

The President, Robert L. Younge of Shawville, gave a thorough report of the year's activities, and gave a very warm welcome to all in attendance. He remarked membership was up slightly, as well as registrations and transfers and the increase in classification showed more breeders were following type, which is to their benefit both for the shows and for the generally known fact that Very Good and Excellent classed cows give more milk.

He said the success of our club, the future of the Jersey, the cow with all the extras, depends on everyone connected with the breed doing their best to promote the Jerseys, by good management, participation in the exhibitions, advertisements in the farm papers and word of mouth.

Although we choose the Jersey cow because of its qualities as an efficient producer, and the intelligence of the breed, which makes working with them a pleasure, we must do our utmost to pass the word along to the below average farmers so that they may reap the benefit of the Jersey and become viable farmers in this ever changing world in which we live.

The Secretary-fieldman, Robert Simpson, gave a detailed report to the meeting of his activities. He was most pleased with the assistance of the various agronomes and the Government personnel. He felt that local clubs in the province, numbering nine, should work more closely with the fieldman and the directors in general.

United we stand, devided we fall, it takes us all to keep the promotional swing moving. In the fieldwork end of his position he had travelled upwards of 17,000 miles visiting clubs and breeders. It was most gratifying to see the improvements being made, both in the size of the herds, the quality of the cattle and the greater use of the testing services (Record of Performance, Dairy herd Improvement Testing as well as Postal Services in the outward areas).

He was delighted with the turnouts at the barn meetings, the calf rallies, and the promotional sales. The breed was very happy to co-operate with the government on the young heifer sale at St. Hyacinthe, and the animals that were bought by young breeders cannot but assist in their herd improvement policy.

The animals sold were from record dams with good Breed Class Average figures - the type that builds profitable herds of the future.

He urged breeders to sell nothing but good mother cows, then along with the services of the good sires at the Artificial Insemination Unit at St. Hyacinthe new breeders would soon become the Jersey breeders of the future, viable and happy.

He remarked that the potential now for new breeders is great. With the saturation of the beef market, with the high price of concentrates and hay, many farmers are now looking at our smaller cows, the fantastic records now being made in many of our good Quebec herds. As the years revolve, change also comes. Now is the time to change the idea of many that we may have a slightly smaller cow but one that gives many times her body weight in good high protein milk.

In presenting the budget, the club was in solid financial condition, with a working surplus in savings of over $4000 - the floor thanked the Government of Quebec, Dept. of Agriculture for its most acceptable grant for breed promotion work, and the Quebec Joint Dairy Breeds for their assistance both monetary and improvement in various other aspects at various levels for all breeds including the Jerseys.

Reports were then heard from the nine club secretaries, most reported a successful year and that the year ahead more concerted efforts were to be made especially in the breed papers and media at large to promote our breed.

The noon time break for refreshments and a very enjoyable luncheon furnished by the Quebec Club followed. Guest speaker for the luncheon was Dr. Roger Giroux, Tech Research Director of the Co-op Agricole of Granby, Que.

He spoke of the tremendous development in this well operated co-operative and invited members to visit at any time. Some problems had developed in the cheese section and that this being alleviated by more acceptable high solids milk - which the Jersey cow has in abundance.

A presentation was presented to him by the president. He also stayed on for the afternoon session and ably assisted in the discussions regards milk, etc.

Claude Hayes, Director of the Artificial Insemination Unit at St. Hyacinthe gave a very timely address and presented the C.I.A.Q. Perpetual Trophy for the cow bred by a unit bull with a highest Breed Class Average combined. It was won by the Willi Steiner family of Cowansville, Que., with their cow, Elsmead Royal Penny - 3 yr-old with 11,988 lbs milk 732 lbs fat, testing 6.11 per cent for the combined B.C.A. of 416. The sire of the winning cow also bred by the Steiner farm, Dairyland Jerseys is Dairyland Pearls Royal, Excellent-Gold Medal sire and is now in service at the Unit.

Claude Hayes was presented with a framed photo by the president for his co-operation with our breed. Mr. Hayes also donated three vials of semen from Quebec's most famous sire, Wendybrook Dreams Beacon and these were sold later by auction for $275. - another vial donated by Leo Choiniere of St. Cesaire also sold for the sum of $100.

During the afternoon session much discussion arose regards the pricing of milk. This discussion was mainly on the fact of the protein in our milk and that this was not being recognized as it should be. A committee in Ontario is making a very thorough study into milk contents and it is hoped that some changes will be made which will benefit all including the consumer.

As the constitution was open many changes were made and accepted by the meeting. It was felt that it will be more workable, and to the advantage of our breed and membership in the future.

Suggestions for nominations to the National Club were made: Clifton Berry of Lachute, Hugh MacDonald of Lennoxville, Guy Poirier of St. Dominique, John R. Ross of Bromptonville and Robert L. Younge, Shawville, voting to take place in October by Ballots mailed from the National Club. Members were again reminded that they can vote for any member in good standing, the main thing was to vote and show their interest in the club both provincially and nationally.

Many awards were then made: Quebec Class Leaders both for Milk and Fat, Richmond Inter-Club Judging Trophy for men, won by the Shawville Club, Dubuc Trophy Inter-Club for ladies - won by the Shawville Club, the Robert Simpson 4H Trophy for 4H members won by Juniors in the Maska Club, Junior Rally organization awards were presented to Guy Poirier of St. Dominique and to Gaby Marquis of Isle Verte.

Merit Wards (not more than two annually) to persons who have assisted the breed for many year were presented to Pierre Veillon of Cowansville, and to Arthur Stevens of St. Felix de Kingsey. Directors at large were named, Clifton Berry of Lachute, Que., Hugh MacDonald of Lennoxville and Leo Choiniere of St. Cesaire, Que.

John R. Ross of Bromptonville was elected President, Guy Poirier of St. Dominique, 1st Vice-pres. and Willi Steiner of Cowansville, 2nd vice-pres., Robert Simpson of Melbourne was renamed secretary-treasurer and fieldman.

Business completed, a wine and cheese party followed. The cheese was donated by the Co-op Agricole de Granby and the wine by Aubin St. Pierre (Ford Tractor and equipment dealers), Douville, Que.

A delicious banquet was then tendered, enjoyed by all and a fun evening followed with dancing to the Ed Styles Orchestra.

A great day ended for a great group of breeders and their friends.

W.H. and F.M. Society

BEEBE — The February 19 meeting of the W.H. and F.M. Society was held in the parlor at the Advent Christian Church when a small number of ladies were in attendance.

All were pleased to see the president, Mrs. Ezra Woodard out again after being shut-in for some time due to illness.

Before the business meeting a quilt was tied.

Mrs. Woodard conducted the business meeting when a short prayer was offered, due to absence of the devotional leader.

Routine reports were approved. One bill was presented and voted to be paid.

Correspondence was read including the "Call to Prayer." A letter regarding the Spiritual Life Chairman hand book and a letter from a lady inquiring about the quilts which are made and sold by the Society.

All were reminded of the World Day of Prayer which will be held on March 7 at 3 p.m. in Wesley United Church.

A bring and buy sale will be held at the next meeting when hostesses will be Mrs. Ruth Ashman and Mrs. Wynn Wilson.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Glen Salls and Mrs. T. Middleton, when a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Junior Choir party

BEEBE — The junior choir of Wesley United Church held their Valentine party in the basement of the church which was decorated with hearts and cupids by the members.

Patty Phaneuf was chosen as queen while Doreen Smith was chosen as princess. No king was chosen as there are no boys in the choir.

At lunch time, red candles in crystal holders, Valentine motif serviettes and candies with a heart-shaped decorated cake, made by Mrs. Miller of Rock Island were used as table decorations.

Seven choir members and one guest were seated at one long table, while at another table were seated, the Queen, the princess, Mrs. L. Goodsell, Miss V. Moranville, Mrs. E. Wadleigh and Mrs. C. Cooper.

Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cookies, cake, cocoanut balls with chocolate milk, the gift of the dairy, were served to terminate a very pleasant evening.

Lauren is back in town

The same Bacall, only more so

By Dick Kleiner

LAUREN BACALL: The Look fooled them.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "Murder On the Orient Express" is what's called a movie movie — meaning that it's a motion picture in the old style, a film with a beginning and a middle and an end.

Fittingly, it is full of movie movie actors, including Lauren Bacall. It's her first film in some time and she's as welcome as the flowers in spring, tra-la. Since the picture is doing well at the box office, indicating a hunger for movie movies, maybe we'll be seeing more of them — and more of her.

"This was one of the few decent scripts to come my way in a long, long time," Bacall says. "I got to play an interesting woman. It's funny how 'Orient' has been misinterpreted by some people including that woman on The New Yorker, Pauline Kael. She didn't understand what it was all about at all."

Lauren Bacall started out her Hollywood career as a sex symbol, nicknamed The Look. At the beginning, there were few who thought she was a real actress, but she fooled them. She turned to the stage after the bottom dropped out of the movie business and established herself as a top actress.

Today, she still has the same slim figure, the same husky voice and the same tawny handsomeness she had when she was a teen-age discovery. Yet she is now a grandmother.

She's also still operating the same salty tongue, and, as always, she likes and dislikes with intensity. At the moment, the chief objects of her fine feminine fury are writer Joe Hyams and the income tax people.

"I'm very upset with Joe," she says.

She believes he is making capital out of his slim friendship with her late husband, Humphrey Bogart.

"He's got another book coming out on Bogie and me," she says. "I think it's terrible that our life has become public property. But I'm told there's nothing that can be done about it — that I'm a public person, public property.

"If that's true, there should be some reward, as well. Like not having to pay taxes."

She feels, and there's some justification for her position, that if her life belongs to the public, then she should be compensated for it in some public way. And, since she doesn't particularly like the way she's treated by the I.R.S., that's uppermost in her mind.

"Tax people are worse on actors than on most others," she says. "I tell them I have to have a mink coat for public appearances and some little tax man says that's tough. He says his wife would like to have a mink coat to go out in, too, so he disallows my claim. He says I can go out in something other than mink. He doesn't understand."

She's just warming up.

"The tax situation really galls me," she says. "I made a fortune out of 'Applause' but I don't have a quarter now. I wasn't able to spread my income out, like people can do in other fields. I think the whole thing is terribly unfair."

But she still enjoys life, taxes and writers aside. Home for Bacall is New York and there's a reason.

"After Bogie died," she says, "there wasn't much here for me. Besides, if I lived here alone, I know I'd become a beach bum. In New York, there's more for a single lady to do. Here in Hollywood, it's always a question of status — you have to live in certain places, drive a certain kind of car, wear a certain type of clothing.

"I like luxury as well as the next person, but I don't want to have to do things."

For a while, she thought seriously of settling in London, which she likes very much. Only problem was the inability of Americans to work there, because of restrictions. She enjoys London life but couldn't stand the inactivity.

After all these years, she's fully aware of both the good and the bad about the acting profession. And, weighing the one against the other, she says she'd still go into it, even knowing how rotten things can be some times.

"The joy of performing," she says, "is so special that it far weighs all the bad things — and there are some very bad things. It's the most insecure profession in the world, for one thing."

All this soul-searching has been brought home to her lately because one of her children shows signs of wanting to act.

"Neither of the Bogart children is interested in the theater," she says, "but I think young Sam (Sam Robards, her son with Jason Robards) has it. He's 13 now and I definitely think he's going to be an actor.

"I'm telling him of all the pitfalls but I would never actively oppose him. I know how it is at that age — nothing could have possibly kept me from becoming an actress when I was a teen-ager."

Not even knowing about income taxes and writers.

Parents must praise kids for good behavior

TORONTO (CP) — Thistletown Regional Centre, a treatment centre for emotionally disturbed children, is advocating in classes and workshop sessions that parents praise their children for good behavior.

Jeff Sherman and Peter Lorimer, clinical psychologists from the centre, are instructing parents how to raise children. The two men have named the workshops Catching a Kid Doing Something Good.

The concept of the program, started early last year, is to prevent mental illness among children so that costly treatment will not become necessary.

Dr. Jalal Shamsie, psychiatrist-in-chief at the centre, said in an interview that parents can prevent problems by reacting properly to common situations.

For example, he said a child might throw a tantrum when his mother is too busy to get him a cookie.

"If she gives it to him in the midst of his screaming, then she has rewarded the child for throwing a tantrum. The child very quickly learns that if he wants a cookie, all he has to do is put up a loud fuss.

"But if she ignores him—and this will not be easy for the first few times—chances are that he will look for another way to get his cookie. Then she can reward his acceptable behavior with a cookie."

PARENTS INSTRUCTED

Since the first workshop was held at a community centre in suburban Etobicoke, four 10-week courses and more than 40 workshops have been given to parents and teachers.

The workshops include demonstrations on such topics as how to teach a child to stay with his mother during a shopping trip.

Some role-playing demonstrations by the two psychologists include the use of tokens, or points, as rewards in cases where behavior had deteriorated to such a degree that praise alone was not sufficient.

Mr. Lorimer said: "Parenting has always been thought of as something you are supposed to know about naturally.

"Many mothers and fathers are embarrassed to admit that they have minor problems with their children."

What do parents think of the program?

GAINS INSIGHT

"I never realized until now that I haven't been consistent with my kids," said Michele Chatterton of Toronto. She said she gained further insight into reasons why she has had minor problems with her children.

Another mother said: "I've been arguing for ages that it is not necessary for kids to fight all the time—that there must be a better way.

"Maybe now, I'll find it."

A third mother said: "I've got more out of this than 15 books.

"In retrospect, it all seems so obvious. Now is the time for mothers to learn about their children—not in five years when the real trouble has started."

Demolition hammer destroys city's character

MONTREAL (CP) — A conservation leader says the character of this old city is being destroyed by "the demolition hammer of so-called progress."

"Much has already gone beyond recall," said architect Michael Fish, 41, co-ordinator of Save Montreal, formed in 1973 as an alliance of citizen groups.

Mr. Fish told a reporter unplanned development is robbing Montrealers of their architectural heritage not only along stately avenues but in humble districts that once enjoyed a flavor all their own.

Verbal and sometimes legal battles are being waged between developers and conservationists in the midst of the first construction boom to hit Montreal since the years leading up to Expo 67.

Mr. Fish criticized developers, financial institutions, the municipal administration of Mayor Jean Drapeau and also the attitude of the Quebec government as represented by Cultural Affairs Minister Denis Hardy.

He said Montreal authorities seem mesmerized by tall buildings and grandiose plans for a stadium for the 1976 Olympics at a time when other cities are thinking more in terms of quality of life.

"We have a situation of anarchy in the downtown area," said Mr. Fish.

"Under a law-and-order guy like Drapeau, my words may seem unbelievable, but they are true."

Old Montreal—the St. Lawrence River area where the city was born 332 years ago—has been protected by provincial and municipal decrees for nearly 10 years, many buildings having been restored to French-regime authenticity.

In modern times the city's financial and commercial centre moved westward to the foot of Mount Royal, into what is generally termed English-language territory. But Mr. Fish said no ethnic controversy is involved in the conservation problem.

"Much of Old Montreal is English and much of what we are trying to preserve is French. Both groups have contributed to this drive. I'm sure the mayor and the cultural affairs minister do not see these things as English or French. They are equally bad with both groups."

Mr. Fish said Montreal has a greater "stock" of old buildings than other North American cities, most of which have already destroyed their 19th-century architecture.

VALUED HIGHLY

"Those that have any left, value it highly. Toronto has classified 2,000 buildings, 500 of them smack in the downtown area."

But Toronto could boast nothing like the endangered old mansions located in an area known variously as the Old Square Mile or the Golden Mile on the slopes of Mount Royal. Many of these were built by the men who fashioned much of the transportation, financial, banking and institutional sinews of Canada.

"North of Sherbrooke Street lie some of the most significant buildings in Canada," said Mr. Fish. "Between Cote des Neiges and the McGill University area are 161 buildings from the most opulent neighborhood in the history of the nation.

"These 161 buildings, all pre-1920, are remnants of the colorful, tempestuous period when our nation was extended from ocean to ocean. They formed part of a tapestry of man-made and natural beauty . . . in the last year 28 similar buildings within this neighborhood have been demolished."

APPEAL LAUNCHED

Mr. Fish was interviewed on the same day that Save Montreal ran full-page advertisements in three Montreal newspapers—two French-language and one English—calling on the public to help save a century-old Roman Catholic convent on Dorchester Boulevard.

"All you have to do is keep quiet, and the mother house of the Grey Nuns at Guy and Dorchester will soon return to ashes and dust," the advertisement said.

"In place of this beautiful historic building and the 10 acres of delicate landscape in the heart of downtown Montreal, we will be heirs to still another lifeless block of concrete, still another monument to our cultural death."

On behalf of the Quebec government, Mr. Hardy had already classified the chapel of the nunnery as an historic site but Save Montreal described that as only a "token gesture."

Paul-Allan Dubuc, general secretary of Save Montreal, said that in a site such as the convent—a three-wing, five-storey, greystone structure topped by a tower—it "is the 'ensemble' and not a part of it that is important."

SAYS RISK EXCESSIVE

Mr. Fish contended the city has been guilty of excessive demolition ever since the Second World War and that there is enough vacant land in Montreal to take care of growth needs for 60 years. He also described present commercial building as extremely risky in view of the uncertain economy.

Is the government a Public Relations firm?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Federal government is plunging ever deeper into the high-rolling world of public relations, with a bankroll said to exceed $200 million annually backing an information bureaucracy of 863 persons at last count.

That represents growth of more than 100 per cent in five years.

The ranks of the functionaries continue to swell—there are 403 vacancies as well—and the hardware assembled for helping spread the message includes fully-equipped TV studios.

It is an entrenched information and propaganda machine of imposing proportions that seeks to buff the federal image to a high gloss by publishing, broadcasting and sometimes suppressing facts and opinions about the government and those who run it.

Critics, including some who work within the machine, have been asking if bigger really means better.

They say only a handful of departments and agencies, such as the agriculture department with its appeal to a specific audience, are doing a justifiable public relations job.

COST UNCERTAIN

The people in charge say they do not know how much it all costs, though a Senate investigation last spring said $200 million was a good guess.

In addition, they say they have little idea how effectively the machine is improving communications between the people and the government. Some say they doubt things have improved much since 1969 when a study on information reported that Canadians were woefully ignorant of government programs.

Critics say there still is much truth in the 1969 study's complaint that the propaganda machine is riddled with inefficiency and waste.

For example, the critics talk about:

—The spending spree that outfitted 50 departments and agencies with expensive television production equipment, some of it reported on the verge of breakdown after three to five years of use.

—The dispatching of a health department film crew to the 1972 Olympics in Munich without proper credentials. Denied admission to the games, the crew took pictures of the stadium which became part of a 25-minute children's movie called It's Not The Winning.

INDEX SCRAPPED

—The timidity of the Public Service Commission in scrapping plans to publish an index of training films when a count revealed a larger number of English-language films than French.

—The days, even weeks, frequently taken by government information offices to produce a simple press release or speech and the bursts of frantic, eleventh-hour activity on overtime pay when deadlines draw near. At the Indian and northern affairs department, most public pronouncements are screened and approved by at least seven persons.

—The man who quit his full-time information job with the government and was hired back on a part-time contract basis. As an outsider he was paid about the same for two days of work weekly as he had been for five.

WI Meeting

MELBOURNE — Fourteen members and four visitors attended a meeting of Gore Branch Women's Institute presided over by Mrs. Dale Hughes which was held at the home of Mrs. Betty Vogelsanger in Melbourne.

Publicity conveners of the other branches as well as the county convener were invited to attend this meeting but due to various other activities or illness in the home only four were able to be present.

The president opened the meeting with a welcome to the guests and the Collect was repeated in unison. Minutes were read and approved as was the treasurer's report. The usual donation was made to the Save the Children Fund.

Correspondence consisted of letters of regret from conveners unable to attend, thanks from the Dixville Home for Christmas gifts received and a letter from Macdonald College. This last urged that the annual report be promptly mailed, these to be drawn up in duplicate by each convener without benefit of the usual forms and promptly mailed to appropriate county conveners.

Members were reminded of the Handibags to be made 10 inches by 12 inches and brought to the April meeting.

Announcement was also made fo the annual County meeting to be held in St. Francis Elementary School on April 26, as well as of convention dates May 26-29 inclusive.

The fact that the W.I. pins now cost $6.50 each and were bought by some of the members for about 65 cents 50 years ago caused some comment and elicited discussion re the branch providing pins for new members, these to be returned to the branch when and if the members dropped membership in the branch. No decision was arrived at.

The increase of F.W.I.C. fee from $1.00 to $1.25 was considered reasonable. It was noted that the A.C.W.W. Food for Hungry Fund is now designated as A.C.W.W. Nutrition Education Save Sight Fund.

The branch was proud to learn that of all countries where W.I. is active, Quebec sent most stamps to the convention in Australia and of 556 ditty bags sent from 46 counties in Quebec, Richmond sent 101.

It was noted that wool for knitting is available from Save the Children Organization and Adelaide Hoodless roses are still available.

1975 being National Women's year each county is urged to become involved with some worthwhile project of its own choice.

Nominees still needed for county offices of secretary, treasurer, publicity, Agriculture and Health and Welfare.

Muriel Duffy and Ruth Mountain were appointed a committee to select and buy gifts for five members who had perfect attendance at the meetings during the year.

County Education convener reported just one more program to be sent to her before she could have the booklets made up.

The Publicity convener mentioned the TV program Take 30 on Feb. 7 when the proper voting age was discussed. Various comments were made by the members of the branch, on the subject. The new method of reporting from branch to county was briefly discussed.

Education Convener, Miss Muriel Watt presented a reading entitled The Age of Celsius and Mrs. Hume, one of the members, offered to make copies of a comparative table of Farenheit and celsius temperature readings to be given to members for reference.

The mystery parcel donated by Mrs. Muriel Griffith was won by Mrs. R. Duffy.

The March meeting will be held with Mrs. Lyall Newell and Mrs. S. Husk as assistant hostess.

The meeting was adjourned and the publicity convener conducted a contest entitled Verbal Burbles which was won by Mrs. Dorothy Oakley.

Before this, just as an ice breaker, the members were asked to each make free hand drawings using squares as instructed - no questions allowed. This proved to be an exercise in good listening which makes for good communications and publicity. The results were then compared to the drawings from which the instructions were given.

Tea was served by the hostesses Mrs. Vogelsanger and Mrs. Gee.

After the serving of refreshments announcement was made that some one was sitting in a marked chair. Mrs. Oakley, guest from Spooner Pond branch discovered the mark on her chair and was presented with a small prize.

Vestry meeting

WINDSOR — The Vestry Meeting of Christ Church, Brompton, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Robinson following the afternoon service at St. George's Church on Sunday,with Canon W.E. Walker, of Richmond, presiding over the meeting and thirteen members in attendance.

Mrs. Mildred Holliday, vestry clerk, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The people's warden, Guy Robinson, gave the financial report showing a satisfactory balance with all commitments having been met. Two services had been held at Christ Church in 1974. The Cemetery report was also given, showing a good standing.

Mrs. Harold Robinson gave the Ladies Aid report. It had been a quiet year with only one meeting held. A substantial bank balance was reported.

Mrs. Wm. Holliday was named delegate to Synod, this year to be held in Quebec City. Mrs. O. Daigneault was named substitute delegate.

The election of officers resulted as follows: people's warden, Guy Robinson, re-elected; vestry clerk; Mrs. Mildred Holliday; auditors, Marion Mackey and Mrs. O. Daigneault. Mr. Harold Robinson accepted the appointed office of clergyman's warden for another year.

The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with the business discussion of the future of Christ Church.

At the close of the afternoon the hostess served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Harold Robinson.

MEETING PLACE — Donald Henderson is the popular host of Meeting Place, a series of hour-long programs of Canadians at worship seen every Sunday morning at 11 a.m. on CBC-TV. Services originate from various churches and synagogues in Canada — from Cornerbrook to Vancouver. An innovation this year is the brief summary of church and religious news delivered by Henderson at the end of each program.

Ask Dick Kleiner

Separately together

By Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Please advise if Andy Williams is still married? Separated? Divorced? Or what? — HUGH STORY, Mobile, Ala.

The status of Andy and Claudine Longet Williams is officially — separated. But they are very together for separated people. They've recently returned from a skiing trip to Gstaad, Switzerland, and, presumably, have gone their separate ways since they got back to Los Angeles. A friend says, "They're separated but they get along very well."

DEAR DICK: Will you please set me straight about Tony Orlando and Dawn. Every time I have seen the show, there are two girls. Which one is Dawn? — J.W. WILSON, Augusta, Ga.

They're both Dawn — collectively. Thelma Hopkins and Joyce Wilson were an act known as Dawn before they met Tony. When the three decided to combine forces they called themselves Tony Orlando and Dawn.

DEAR DICK: I'm having a problem finding information on Jay Silverheels. So far, I've found out is that he was Tonto on The Lone Ranger. I'm making a report on him for class and need more information. Can you be of any help? — CAROL CASSAGNE, Westwego, La.

But, of course. He's one of Hollywood's busiest Indian actors. He grew up on a Mohawk reservation in eastern Canada. His first triumph was in sports — boxer, wrestler, hockey and lacrosse player. He toured the U.S. with a lacrosse team and ended up in Los Angeles, did some stunt work and decided to stay and become an actor.

DEAR DICK: I just read a manuscript titled "The Antenati," which has been sold to Putnam and been retitled "Damon." I understand it has been sold for a movie. I've also heard that the author, C. Terry Cline Jr., from Mobile, has a wife, Linda, who has also sold a book for a movie. Is this true? — ARLTON PAIGE, Mobile, Ala.

I have been flooded with letters from Mobile about the Clines and their successes. And it's all true. Producer William Castle has bought "Damon" — for $350,000 — which is about a four-year-old boy (Castle will make him 9 or 10) with adult sexual powers. "It's in bad taste," Castle says, "and I'm trying to lick it without making it a 'Deep Throat.'" And Linda Cline's book, "Weakfoot," has been optioned by the Disney studio for either a movie or a two-part TV show.

DEAR DICK: I recently saw a movie called "Them" on TV. James Arness and James Whitmore made it in 1954. My husband said Carroll O'Connor was in it. Could you please let me know if he was? I said he wasn't. — SHARON CADEAU, Toronto, Canada.

You're right. O'Connor couldn't have been in a '54 film — he made his first movie in '62.

DEAR DICK: What is the age of Redd Foxx of Sanford and Son and when and where was he born? — MRS. A.A. DE LALLO, English Center, Pa.

Foxx was born in St. Louis, Mo. That's definite. The date is less definite. Officially, his birthday was Dec. 9, 1922. There are some who doubt that year. It makes him 52.

DEAR DICK: Will Michael Landon go back on Bonanza if it returns to TV? — NORMA JORGERSON, Olney, Mont.

Not much chance of Bonanza coming back. Anyhow, Landon has himself a hit with Little House on the Prairie, so he's very happy where he is.

PRO AND CON: Some weeks ago, in response to a question, I said I didn't think Carol Burnett's show was vulgar. Lots of mail on that one, split about 50-50 between yes, she is vulgar and, no, she isn't. Typical letters:

DEAR DICK: You've got a lot of guts (saying Carol Burnett isn't vulgar). When a TV performer wraps her legs around a man and gyrates her hips, it's not childlike innocence. Why are at least three organizations trying to get her off the air? Her program is considered vulgar in decent society. Show your real guts by printing this. — J.F. KUZYNS, Dearborn, Mich.

Program for elderly

OTTAWA (CP) — When the newspaper in Oak Lake, Man., ceased publication in March, 1974, the retired people in the Oakview Club decided to replace it with a newsletter.

With the help of a $5,508 New Horizons grant, the Oak Lake Town and Country News now appears every second week.

Groups across the country have received a total of $18.15 million for 3,280 projects since the New Horizons program for retired Canadians was introduced by the federal health department in 1972. The average grant has been about $5,500. More than 655,000 retired persons have been involved.

Some projects are aimed specifically at retired persons and others at the community at large, but all involve people who have retired from the labor force.

In Glace Bay, N.S., $7,772 was granted to a town band of retired musicians and other elderly persons with musical ability.

In Winnipeg, the Golden Age Project was granted $7,225 to enable retired persons to assist primary-school students during classroom hours.

And in Oak Bay, B.C., a lawn-bowling club was granted $3,080 to install a permanent water sprinkler system for two bowling greens.

PARTICIPANTS UNPAID

In order to be eligible, a group must have at least 10 volunteer directors, a majority of whom are retired. No salaries are paid to participants although occasionally a co-ordinator is hired to get the project under way.

After an application has been screened by the regional and central offices of New Horizons, it is referred to Health Minister Marc Lalonde's office for a final decision. Grants are usually for 18 months, although 18-month extensions are sometimes given.

The limited duration of the grants irks Walter Turnbull, president of the Ottawa Senior Citizens' Council. The council received a New Horizons grant for production of a TV series entitled Coming of Age, which in 1972 was chosen the best community-produced cable-television program in the country.

The series was first financed under the Local Initiatives Program (LIP) and later by New Horizons. For the last six months, he said, the program has been dependent on the generosity of the local cable-TV company.

Congregational meeting

BURY — The annual congregational meeting of the Bury United Church was held in the church hall on Jan. 30, 1975.

Prior to the meeting a delicious casserole and salad supper was served to the church members and their families at 6 p.m. by the U.C.W. members.

The church meeting opened at 7:30 with 25 members present and Rev. G. Lokhorst in the chair.

Rev. Lokhorst opened with a short Scripture reading from Ephesians, Chapter 4, followed by a prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mr. Ronald Stokes, and approved.

The report of the Board of Stewards was read and adopted.

Mrs. Walter Atkins, treasurer for the U.C.W. gave her report which showed a very busy year and a satisfactory balance at the end of the year.

The trustees report was also read by Mr. R. Stokes.

Mr. G. Lokhorst stated that the Pastoral Charge report and 1975 budget was not yet printed, but would be distributed to everyone at a later date. The Board of Stewards were re-elected with no change, as were the Board of trustees with the addition of Mrs. Beulah Aulis by a motion from the floor.

It was decided that on the Sundays in the months of May and June, September and October, when there is to be no regular service, that we try to hold a song service, one of the members of the session take a service, and the UCW take one of the services, and perhaps some local boy take a service so our church will not be closed on any Sundays during those months.

Rev. Lokhorst discussed the possibility of some union services with St. Paul's Anglican Church in Bury on the second Sunday of the month during February and March. The first Service held in the United Church on Feb. 9 and the one on March 9 to be held at St. Paul's Church, Rev. Lokhorst being in charge of both services.

The congregation voted their approval of these Union Services on a trial basis for the two months mentioned and more later if they prove satisfactory to both churches.

Rev. Lokhorst was requested by one of the members to try and arrange an ecumenical service with the four churches some time during the year.

Some repairs to the church were mentioned and Mr. R. Stokes agreed to look after same as soon as possible as he felt it would be easier to get workmen and carpenters during the winter season when their business is not so pressing as during the summer months.

The meeting closed with a prayer by Rev. Lokhorst.

A donation of $25.00 to the scholarship and bursary fund at A.G.R.H.S. and $15.00 to the Lennoxville Elementary School were voted.

Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace then held a talk and discussion on Consumer problems which proved most interesting and enlightening and included false advertising, varied size packages, poor quality materials in high priced clothing bought at reputable stores, boxed items only partially filled, to name a few and many good household hints given.

Mrs. Dorothy Geddes read an article on physical fitness for health and vitality and mention made of a Home Service for Senior Citizens and reported 420 cancer dressings on the last work day.

All conveners were reminded to have reports ready for the up-coming annual meeting on March 8 and the usual forms will not be available this year.

Mrs. Sterling Parker and Mrs. Earl Findlay were named as a nominating committee and Mrs. Dorothy Geddes and Mrs. Hugh L. Wallace with Miss Atto as a program committee.

Concluding a busy session, tea was served by Mrs. Sterling Parker and Mrs. George Povey.

COOKSHIRE — Mrs. P. Gaudine entertained the February meeting of the U.C.W. of Trinity United Church at her home, with Mrs. Heatherington as joint hostess, with 14 in attendance.

Mrs. Gaudine stated that seeing this was the beginning of Lent, people should not be thinking of what they would be giving up, but of how much more they could take on or do for other people.

She played a number of selections on the Hi-Fi, which were scheduled for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of church union. Mrs. Heatherington played the hymn 'They'll Know We Are Christians' on the piano, and the ladies quickly caught on to the tune and sang the words from their printed sheets.

Mrs. Gaudine then showed a film on the consummation of church union service in Toronto, June 8, 1924, and the progress of the United Church during the past 50 years, and a number of the ladies joined in the singing of the hymns as they were shown on the film strip.

The president, Mrs. Stanley McVetty, thanked Mrs. Gaudine for her interesting program.

Following the reading of the minutes by Mrs. G. Connor, and the treasurer's report of Mrs. Earl Parker, routine business was conducted.

A number of thank you notes were read for cards sent out.

The president thanked the ladies for the generous support of gifts for the bale which is to be sent to Africa, she also read a letter of thanks and appreciation for gifts which had been sent previously.

North's five-club response to Blackwood showed all four aces. South thought about bidding seven for a moment and then decided to take what should have been a sure profit at six.

The play looked simple enough. He led a low spade to his king at trick two and continued with a second spade to dummy's ace. West showed out and all of a sudden there were problems. South had a sure trump loser and there were some slight worries about his fourth heart.

He solved the problem nicely. His next play was to cash dummy's ace of hearts. Then he led a heart toward his hand. East could ruff if he wished, but in that case he would be ruffing South's losing heart. So East discarded a diamond.

South took his queen of hearts, entered dummy with the king of diamonds and led another heart. East could do nothing better than to discard again. South won that trick with the king of hearts, led his 10 of hearts and ruffed in dummy.

East could overruff, but once more he would be ruffing South's losing heart. Again, careful play had prevailed.

UCW meetings

BEEBE — The Febuary 2nd meeting of Unit one U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. George Wilkinson with co-hostess, Mrs. Agnes Myers.

Mrs. Margaret Mosher, the president, asked all to join in the Function and Purpose, the Lord's Prayer and observance of silence in memory of two departed members, Mrs. E.E. Shepard and Mrs. Cecil Miller.

The theme of the devotions, led by Mrs. Myers was "Joy of Service," closing with a poem "My Master was a worker" and a short prayer.

Routine reports were read and after a few corrections, were accepted.

Treasurer stated that a small sum was realized from the congregational luncheon, after all expenses were met. This luncheon was not put on as a profit making project.

World Day of Prayer service on March 7th was discussed. Plans to be finalized at a later date.

Mrs. Myers gave a full report of the 50th Anniversary birthday party which she, with two other members, attended in Sherbrooke.

Due to absence of the literature chairman, Mrs. Madge Miller read an article from the News Views magazine.

Each committee chairman reported on the activity of each committee since the January session.

Bills were presented and voted to be paid.

Thank-you notes to be sent to members of Unit two for supplying the dessert at the congregational luncheon and to Mr. O. Palmer for printing which he did on a copy machine.

The February letter to the foster child will be written by Mrs. A. Myers.

Dates were set for upcoming events, subject to change - Rummage sale - April 25-26; and October 17-18, Christmas bazaar and supper, November 15.

Invitations are to be extended to members of Unit two, Graniteville U.C.W., and the younger women discussing the formation of the third unit, to all attend the March 12 meeting in the church parlor. The film, "Heritage for the Future," will be shown. This deals with the growth of the church and changes since joining the Union.

It was suggested that the unit take an interest in a forgotten child in the Butters' Memorial Home in Austin and get more information regarding sending cards etc. to cheer the forgotten child.

An appeal was made for snapshots taken over 25 years ago or longer to be used as part of the anniversary program. A committee was formed to look after this.

Hostesses for March 12 session will be Mrs. Janie Denney and Miss Mary Lees with others assisting.

A light lunch was served when a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

WAY'S MILLS — The February meeting of the Way's Mills U.C.W. was held on the afternoon of the 12th at the home of Mrs. W.B. Holmes, Maple St., Ayer's Cliff.

The theme of the worship service, conducted by Mrs. Weyland Pope, was "Gentleness." Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Arthur Jordan and, with Mrs. Holmes at the piano, two hymns "Jesus is the Man" and "Jesus the Very Thought of Thee" were sung.

Mrs. C.D. Pedersen, chairperson of Christian Development, had a very interesting program based on articles from "The Living Message."

Mrs. James Dunn conducted the mission study from the book "A Time Like This" and discussion followed the presentation of questions prepared by Mrs. Muriel Cass who was unavoidably absent.

At the business session Mrs. Dunn acted as secretary in Mrs. Cass' absence.

The sum of twenty dollars was realized from Mrs. Dunn's diligence in making attractive hats for various ladies for the benefit of the U.C.W. treasury. Bandages for lepers were received as well as more material for knitting these. Banners are to be made for the churches at Way's Mills for Easter.

Mrs. Mayhew gave a report of the meeting of the Union Progressive Club and the ladies are happy to know that renovations will be made to the union hall at Way's Mills. The U.C.W. has promised a generous donation for this project.

Mrs. Pedersen is in charge of the World Day of Prayer service and the bilingual service sheets were distributed. Following the service there will be tea and a social hour at the home of Mrs. Foster.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess with the President, Mrs. Carl Mayhew, pouring at the lace covered table centred with a floral arrangement of hyacinths flanked by pink tapers.

Mrs. Foster will be hostess for the March 12 meeting.

BISHOPTON — Mrs. Ralph St. Pierre entertained the Bishopton U.C.W. at a dessert meeting, which was opened by Mrs. Rufus Stevenson with the Purpose, Collect and Lord's Prayer repeated in unison.

Mrs. Ralph Gilbert led the Devotional Period with Hebrews Chapter 10, Don't Abandon Assembly, followed by prayer.

Roll call was answered by eight members repeating a Bible verse. Four visitors were also present.

Mrs. R. Gilbert gave the financial report.

The dates were set for the Strawberry Supper June 28 and the Fall Supper October 25.

It was decided to make a donation to the piano fund at St. Paul's Rest Home in Bury.

Correspondence was read by Mrs. R. St. Pierre. Thank-you notes from Miss Fannie Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. George Howes and also gave a report of cards sent out in the past year.

A letter about Presbytery meetings was read by Mrs. Stevenson.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Dorothy Ainsworth.

Meeting was closed by repeating the Benediction.

The Day Under Your Sign

ARIES (Born March 21 to April 19): Your experience will pay off, but you have to be where it can be seen and appreciated. Don't be shy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Curtail expenditures for the time being. You can find ways to do this without any hardships.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Planetary influences favor taking definitive action instead of further delaying decision.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Don't be apprehensive. Proceed with assurance, and others will accept your idea as valid.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Let others have a chance to express themselves, too. You tend to overpower them at times.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't fret if some minor adjustments must be made. It's a give-and-take world. Learn to give.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Your intuition will steer you in the right direction—follow it. Don't be afraid to take a chance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Cooperate with those who have your interests at heart even though it means hard work on your part.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your analysis is sound. Have confidence enough to approach the right people with your concept.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Employment changes denoted in many Capricorn charts. Be flexible if such a move is necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't be an easy mark. Bargain may not be what it seems on the surface. Check quality carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Some changes on the domestic scene—mostly trivial. Don't make a big thing out of nothing.

Best-priced Belted

2 + 2 POLYFLEX: 2 Polyester Belts, 2 plies of Nylon in an exciting new construction. Captures many of the best characteristics of both belted and non-belted. No question about it, Polyflex is outstanding value! A cushioned safe ride. (See Nevada Test Results posted in all our stores).

Best for strength, mileage

4 + 2 GLASS-BELTED: A husky giant of a tire with 6 plies under tread instead of the usual 4. Two Glass Plies + 4 stronger-than-ever Nylon plies spun from 66 filament, the Du Pont cord that makes high-speed driving twice as safe. (See Nevada Test results posted in all our stores).

Vestry meeting

DANVILLE — The annual Vestry Meeting of St. Augustine's Church was held on Sunday, February 2nd, following a service of Holy Communion. There was an attendance of nineteen. The Rev. R. McCulloch opened the meeting with prayer, and remembered departed members by name.

Mrs. Fred Mitchell was re-elected Vestry Clerk for another year.

The ladies of the Anglo-Craft Group were thanked by Mr. McCulloch for providing coffee and doughnuts, which were much appreciated, during the meeting.

Minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed.

The financial statement and reports of the various organizations were passed out in book format, which was prefaced by the Rector's letter to the congregation in which he had stated that he felt it was a good year for which we had much to be thankful, there had been more acts of worship than in the previous year, the average attendance had been better and the giving had increased.

However, he felt we should make every effort in the year to come to change the hearts and minds of those members who never worshipped or contributed their time, abilities or money to the spread of the gospel.

He expressed personal thanks to the Wardens, members of the Select Vestry, choir, organist, servers, sidesmen, members of our women's groups, ladies of the Nearly New Shoppe, Altar Guild, Young People's Groups, Church School and all concerned members of the Parish, and closed with the wish that each would have the joy of knowing that we are doing His will as we enter into the demands and challenge of His work in 1975.

Mr. Reginald Evans was re-elected Rector's Warden.

Mr. Roy Bushey was elected People's Warden and Mr. Geoffrey Rowley, treasurer, replacing Mr. Albert Gillim.

Mr. James Pye agreed to carry on in the office of Envelope Secretary. Messrs Stanley and Melvin Taylor were re-elected to act as auditors with Messrs Henry Lockwood and Stanley Taylor as Synod delegates, and Mr. and Mrs. Syd Griffin as alternates.

Reports of all the organizations showed a very active and rewarding year. The annual turkey supper put on by the men of the parish proved most successful, as well as the Bazaar, sponsored by the ACW.

The Green Thumb Sale, in its third year, is eagerly looked forward to and the Nearly New Shoppe reported an active year in helping to fill a need in the community.

Various items of business arising from the minutes were discussed and new business brought up to be decided upon.

The meeting was brought to a close with prayer by Rev. McCulloch.
