More financial support for Estrie region community organizations

Record Staff

Community health and social services organizations in the Estrie region will benefit from a historic increase in funding.

As of 2019-2020, the Estrie region's community organizations will receive nearly $2.2 million in recurring financial assistance...

Based on the regional guidelines of the PSOC, the increase will make it possible to respond to the needs identified regionally...

For 2019-2020, a total increase of $35 million will support the overall mission of community organizations working in health and social services.

The PSOC respects the autonomy of community organizations to define Got your apples yet?

When the leaves finally give way, just before the gray sets in, the fall offers one more sweet treat for Townshippers-apples.

In fairness, some like them a bit more tart.

To each their own.

Local orchards are blooming and bustling these days with a wide variety of apples.

And for those who miss the apple picking window, an inside source from Grace Village Pavilion told The Record that in the coming weeks, there may be a few apple pies for sale-say, around a thousand.

IRIS Estrie

IRIS Estrie is a community organization with a regional mandate, working with various populations in the Eastern Townships since 1988. The organization's overall mission is to stimulate and develop community action on HIV/AIDS and other sexually and blood-borne infections (STIs). In order to fulfill its mission, IRIS Estrie has grouped its actions into four specific areas: prevention, education, health promotion and intervention.

The services offered by the organization are multiple, and are deployed through six intervention areas for different populations considered more vulnerable to STI transmission. The people reached are sex workers (as well as their clients and third parties), injection and/or inhaled drug users, Men who have sex with men, trans, non-binary or questioning people and youth. In addition, we frequently meet with professionals, interveners and students who are likely to meet these populations in the course of their employment. We are therefore making efforts to train these people by demystifying the reality of our target populations. By the same token, we want to reduce the prejudices that are far too prevalent in society, and that represent a major obstacle to ensuring that these people receive quality services.

In addition to health promotion, IRIS Estrie works extensively with the harm reduction approach. This consists of reducing the negative impacts of a behaviour without requiring its complete cessation. One of our services is therefore to distribute prevention materials free of charge to people in the community. This includes the distribution of condoms and lubricants, as well as sterile consumer equipment for injection and inhalation. In addition, the organization offers screening clinics directly on its premises, as well as in the environments frequented by these people. In order to achieve their objectives more effectively, the organization's workers carry out outreach activities by moving directly to the areas where they can reach their target populations (erotic dance bars, other community organizations, soup kitchens, taverns, injection rooms, streets, parks, etc.). In addition, listening, support and accompaniment are just a few examples of the other services offered at IRIS Estrie.

This summer, the organization saw the birth of a new intervention component called "SuPAIR aidant." This project reaches people who use drugs by injection, inhalation or snorting, as well as people who are homeless or at risk of homelessness. It consists of a team composed of an intervener and peer educators. The interventions carried out are therefore a mixture of knowledge and experience, which makes the services offered very comprehensive. The project is divided into two main actions, street patrol and a safe space. The latter consists of opening a secure room where people are welcome, on Tuesday and Friday afternoons, as well as one Saturday per month, to come for a coffee, snack and meet the workers if necessary.

Finally, IRIS Estrie is one of the three organizations responsible for the Rubber Squad, in collaboration with S.O.S. Pregnancy Estrie, and the Collectif pour le libre choix. This project consists of distributing condoms during special events, such as back-to-school days or directly in bars.

Stay tuned for upcoming events on our Facebook page! Among other things, CatWoman (the intervention component for sex workers) will celebrate its 25th anniversary next year! Also, 3 days of training open to the public will be offered towards the end of January 2020. We look forward to seeing you there!

the match, to Joyce Brock-Cinnamon for her dedication to the paperwork side of preparations and registrations and to all the volunteers who never fail to turn out days ahead to prepare the field.

It was obvious this was not just a banquet and awards night.

This was a family event, in some cases four generations gathered to enjoy a great supper, but most importantly the traditional evening to reward every one of the 65 competitors at the traditional plowing match held the last Saturday of September.

It was a happy evening with toddlers romping on the dance floor, babes in arms passed around to admiring family members and friends, and grandmothers, smiling proudly. With the traditional generosity of sponsors and the community, just about everyone goes home with either a prize or a door prize, bringing the 66th plowing match events to a close.

Bell tower tours to explore religious heritage of the region

Record Staff

This weekend will be the second edition of the Balade des clochers (bell tower tour), a tourism project, offering visitors a variety of activities to showcase the region's religious heritage.

Organized by the Archdiocese of Sherbrooke, seven churches selected on the territory of the Archdiocese of Sherbrooke will welcome visitors over the weekend to enjoy guided tours, concerts, tastings or craft exhibitions. It will also be an opportunity to learn more about the history of these churches.

The churches participating in the Balade des clochers are:

- Saint-Esprit in Sherbrooke
- The Archdiocese Chapel in Sherbrooke
- Sainte-Bibiane in Richmond
- Saint-Hippolyte in Wotton

- Saint-François-Xavier in Saint-François-Xavier-de-Brompton
- Saint-Théophile in Racine
- Sainte-Anne in Sainte-Anne-de-la-Rochelle

"In Quebec, several municipalities were created at the same time as their churches. The Balade des clochers not only tells the story of these places of worship, but also revives the collective memory of these places," explained Eliane Thibault, organizer of the Balade des clochers.

Each church has its own program. For more information, visitors can obtain the event brochure at the Sherbrooke tourist information office or in the churches of the Archdiocese of Sherbrooke. The information is also available on the Facebook page Balade des clochers and on the website of the Archdiocese of Sherbrooke.

In addition to the scheduled activities, a photo exhibition has been on display since Sept. 29 at the Basilica-Cathedral Saint-Michel in Sherbrooke.

The work of photographer Marcel Morin, on display until Oct. 20, is being auctioned as part of a silent auction, the proceeds of which will be donated to AMEN St-Michel for heritage preservation. The works presented highlight the architecture of the Cathedral, the archdiocese and the private chapel.

Project to expand the CHUS research centre gets the green light

During her visit to Sherbrooke yesterday, Minister McCann also announced the start of work to expand the CHUS research centre located at Hôpital Fleuri-mont, a facility of the CIUSSS de l'Estrie - CHUS. The expansion will allow for the installation of a positron emission tomography (PET) scanner and a CT scanner (CT scanner).

The project, funded by the Ministère de l'Économie et de l'Innovation (MÉI) for nearly $4 million, also received $1 million in support from the Fondation du Centre hospitalier universitaire de Sherbrooke (CHUS). It will eventually meet urgent and growing needs for research projects requiring PET/CT, particularly to improve the prediction of clinical outcomes of type 2 diabetes using molecular imaging.

Health & Heritage in the Spotlight

Richmond Regional High School Community Learning Centre, in partnership with the Richmond CLSC (CIUSSS de l'Estrie - CHUS), Townshippers' Association, and Val-famille, held the third annual Richmond Health and Wellness Fair, on Saturday, October 5 at Richmond Regional High School, in its newly renovated gym. The Health and Wellness Fair is a gateway to community and healthcare resources in the greater Richmond area and aims to link English-speakers with local services and organizations by featuring a diverse program of free workshops, demonstrations, and kiosks. Activities were hosted by local organizations as a way for the public to discover and explore what's offered in the community.

Activities and presentations offered included a chance to cuddle, connect, and communicate with Mother Goose rhymes, stories, and songs; a creative bookmarks workshop with Literacy in Action; theatre Games with It Takes a Village Theatre; a narrated film on the Scots in the Val-Saint-François by the Richmond County Historical Society; Managing Money as a Couple with the Val-Saint-François Women's Centre; Lennoxville & District Women's Centre's Parent Tap program; DIRA-Estrie's Preventing Elder Abuse program; an interactive demonstration by the 4H Square Dancing club; and QAHN's travelling exhibit on Diversity and Achievement. In all, 30 groups and organizations contributed to making the day a success.

Many thanks to the volunteers who helped set up the Fair. Stay tuned around this time next year for the fourth annual Health and Wellness Fair. If you have any questions or comments about the Fair or any of the organizations present, or if you would like to become more involved in the Richmond area please contact Siu-Min Jim, Community Development Agent, Richmond Regional High School & St. Francis Elementary School Community Learning Centres at 819 826-3702, Ext. 24026 or by e-mail at richmondclc@etsb.qc.ca.

The following day, Townships Expressions, an initiative of Townshippers' Association that provides English-speaking writers and musicians of the region greater visibility and an outlet to make their work available to the public, participated in Quebec Anglophone Heritage Network's Eastern Townships Heritage Fair, which was held at the Colby-Curtis Museum in Stanstead. Author Ross Murray was on hand to meet attendees and promote his most recent book A Jerk in Progress and to lend a helping hand selling and promoting other artists works.

It is not always easy for artists to publicize and sell their works. Townshippers' Association believes that creative expression is crucial to community vitality. Opportunities for English-speaking artists to become better known within the wider artistic community serve to build bridges between English-speakers and their French-speaking counterparts and contribute to the vitality of the English-speaking artistic community. In this spirit, Townships Expressions prioritizes organizing and attending events such as QAHN's annual Eastern Townships Heritage Fair.

Eco-responsible family fair

Record Staff

The second edition the Salon de la famille écoresponsable will be held this weekend, Oct. 19 and 20 in Sherbrooke.

The goal of the event is to promote companies and initiatives that target the family and have an eco-responsible mission, in order to present solutions that exist to help people live in an increasingly responsible and ecological world.

During the salon, more than 40 exhibitors will present products and services dedicated to families and an eco-responsible lifestyle.

All the companies present offer local products for local families.

There will also be several guest speakers on hand to discuss a variety of eco-responsible topics.

This year, the salon will include several new features. There will be a room dedicated to activities and workshops for the whole family. There will be culinary workshops, physical activities and parent-child workshops, among others. The event will be held at 300, rue Conseil, on the second full floor of the Sercovie building from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and admission is free.

Brome-Missisquoi candidate profiles

By Matthew McCully

The Brome-Missisquoi riding has somewhat of a colourful past at the federal level in recent years.

Outgoing Liberal MP Denis Paradis won the 2015 election with 43.9 per cent of the vote.

In 2011, however, the riding was won by Pierre Jacob, representing the NDP.

In the 2006 and 2008 elections, Brome-Missisquoi went to Bloc candidate Christian Ouellet. The 2004 election was won by Paradis for the Liberals.

Paradis is not running for re-election. There are eight candidates looking to represent the Brome-Missisquoi riding in Ottawa:

- Allard, Monique (Bloc Québécois)
- Bessette, Lyne (Liberal)
- Cloutier, Steeve (Parti Rhinocéros Party)
- Côté, Bruno (Conservative)
- Cotton, Lawrence (VCP-Veterans Coalition Party)
- Dallaire, Normand (Green Party)
- Jetté, Sylvie (NDP-New Democratic Party)
- Poulin, François (People's Party)

The Record got in touch with some of the candidates running in the election to hear what they feel are the most important issues in the riding.

Bloc candidate Monique Allard said that since the campaign has started, the concern she has heard about most from citizens is railroad safety. "We have to follow that closely," she said. Coventry Dump and clean drinking water is another priority, Allard said, as well as making sure the needs of seniors are met. "The price of medication is too high, Allard pointed out. Some seniors, she said, have to choose between buying medication or groceries at the end of the month. "They worked all their lives."

"I love people. I think Brome-Missisquoi could always count on me," Allard said, when asked what strengths would make her a strong MP for the riding. "I spent my life helping people," she said, explaining she is a retired postal worker, and was also the first woman to serve as head of the worker's union.

"I listen to people, she said.

When asked what she would tackle first if elected, Allard reiterated the importance of rail safety. While meeting citizens door to door, Allard said one person presented her with a selection of railway spikes, pulled out of the ground without the help of any tools.

"My door will be open to all citizens,"

Allard said, when asked what she could do to meet the needs of the English population. "We are all part of Quebec."

NDP candidate Sylvie Jetté pointed to a number of issues in the Brome-Missisquoi riding she felt should be addressed. Protection of the environment and local lakes was top on her list, along with railroad safety. Jetté added that social services for seniors and mental health resources were lacking in the region. The labour shortage was another issue, she said, explaining that steps should be taken to facilitate recruitment in the riding. Public transport is another concern Jetté mentioned, as well as a need to promote local agricultural producers and support the local economy.

With a background as a nurse, Jetté said taking care of people comes naturally to her.

In addition to working as a nurse, she also has experience in management, and is currently teaching at the University of Sherbrooke. Jetté said her management and leadership experience make her a good candidate for Brome-Missisquoi.

When asked about her priorities if elected, Jetté said Internet access is something that should be dealt with quickly for people in the riding. While she said all files would be of equal importance, she would make a plan if elected based on measures that could have a positive impact quickly in the region.

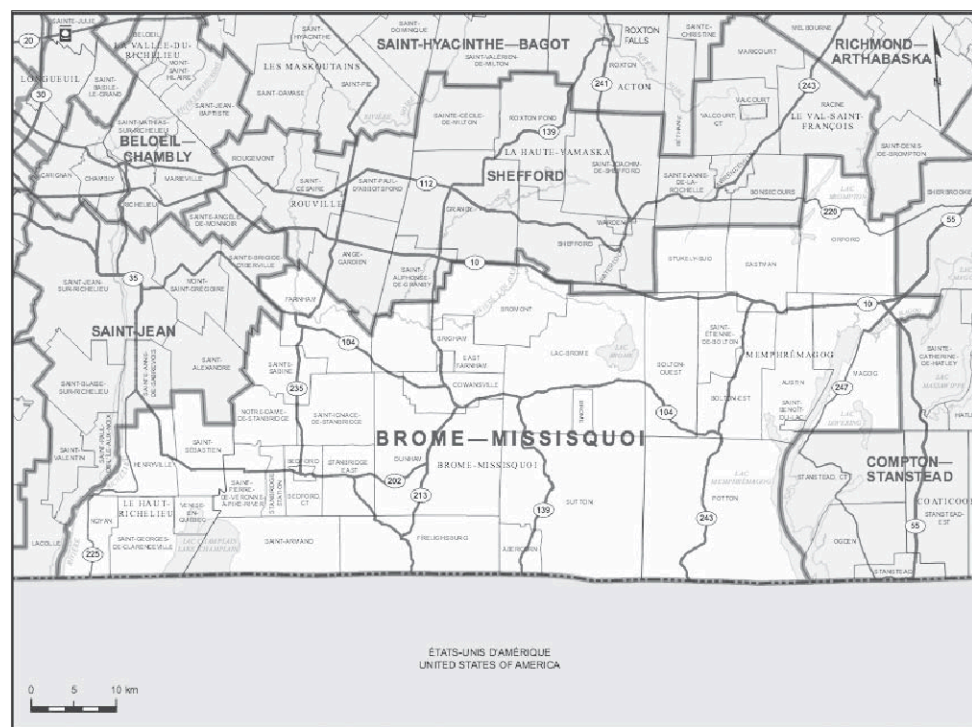

When asked about serving the English population, Jetté referred to the NDP platform to protect the French language, but recognized a need to be sensitive to the English population in Brome-Missisquoi. While she had no specific plan in place, Jetté said she would be vigilant and answer the needs of the English community.

Liberal Party candidate Lyne Bessette identified water and the health of local lakes and rivers as one of the main issues in the riding. She pointed out that because of the proximity with the border, more should be done to ensure actions south of the border don't negatively affect Canadians.

Bessette added that clean water is connected other issues, like the health of the population, and tourism, which contributes to the economy.

"I am from here. I traveled all over the world, and I came back here. This is my home," Bessette said, when asked about her strengths as a candidate.

As an athlete, Bessette said she faced

The Brome-Missisquoi riding is comprised of the following municipalities: the Parish Municipality of Saint-Sébastien; the municipalities of Henryville, Noyan, Saint-Georges-de-Clarenceville, Venise-en-Quebec, Magog, the Village Municipality of South-Stukely, Austin, Bolton-Est, Eastman, Saint-Benoît-du-Lac and Saint-Étienne-de-Bolton; the township municipalities of Potton and Orford.

many challenges and made many sacrifices to reach her goals. Her discipline has helped instill core values of perseverance and determination, qualities she believes would make her a good representative for the riding. Bessette added that after following her athletic career, she has been out in the community giving back by organizing events and conferences. "I am a fighter. I will fight for your rights," she said.

According to Bessette, the Brome-Missisquoi riding is a good example of cooperation between the French and English populations. "It's great to see," she said, adding that she is fluently bilingual and connected to both communities.

Normand Dallaire, Brome-Missisquoi's Green Party candidate, identified the labour shortage in the riding, and the protection of local lakes as main issues.

Dallaire also stressed the importance of supporting local agricultural producers.

When asked about his strengths as a candidate, Dallaire explained that he is involved in several community organizations. He chose to run as a Green Party candidate because of his passion for the environment, pointing to his background in environmental studies.

"I bring people together," Dallaire said, adding he would use his experience in different sectors (technology, agriculture, tourism) to unify groups and create good synergy.

Dallaire said that if elected, his first priority would be to put pressure on the U.S. to address the Coventry Dump. At the national level, Dallaire added that the Green Party would sink its teeth into tax havens and tax evasion, and recuperate those funds for green initiatives.

Dallaire admitted he is not bilingual, but was prepared to engage with the English population. His vision for the riding is a bright future for French and English speakers, adding that it should be equitable.

Conservative Party candidate Bruno Côté declined The Record's request for an interview.

People's Party François Poulin did not respond to interview requests before press time.

The Record was unable to reach Lawrence Cotton, who is running for the Veterans Coalition Party.

SCIENCE MATTERS

On October 21, vote for climate solutions!

By David Suzuki

Politicians are finally talking about climate change. How could they not? In Canada, more than 800,000 young people and their supporters took to the streets on September 27, joining more than 7.6 million worldwide, to demand that adults take the crisis seriously.

It was exhilarating to see half a million people marching in Montreal, more than 100,000 in Vancouver and many smaller marches throughout the country. But is it too little too late?

I don't think so, but every day we stall means emissions continue to rise, making it increasingly difficult to avert the worst consequences. We've already pumped so many greenhouse gases into the atmosphere and destroyed so many carbon-storing natural areas that the planet would continue heating even if we halted emissions immediately.

For decades, I and others have been speaking about the need to conserve energy, shift to renewables and protect natural spaces, all while being told the transition won't happen overnight. Meanwhile, over many nights and days, Canada has continued to expand fossil fuel development and infrastructure, and representatives from across the political spectrum argue we need new pipelines designed to last at least 50 years to transport dirty fuels the world has committed to moving away from in less time!

It doesn't make sense to pin our future on a polluting, climate-altering sunset industry that already employs far fewer people than the clean energy sector. It's why we must take the upcoming federal election seriously. Fortunately, every major party now has a climate plan. Unfortunately, not every plan will get us to our Paris Agreement targets — and even those targets seem inadequate in the face of escalating consequences.

Although the only discussion now should be about solutions and how to implement them quickly, some people in and out of the political sphere still refuse to accept the massive amounts of evidence for human-caused global heating and the need to address it. A common refrain is that Canada produces a relatively small percentage of emissions, so it doesn't matter what we do.

Most countries could use the same excuse, and it ignores that we don't account for the emissions from burning the fossil fuels we sell globally. And while it's true Canada produces less than two per cent of global emissions, we have one of the highest per capita rates, behind the U.S. and Saudi Arabia, and we're the 10th largest emitter overall. Countries like Canada that contribute two per cent or less to emissions add up to close to half the emissions, which means we all have to do our part. The top 15 emitters, including Canada, generate about 72 per cent.

China produces more than 27 per cent (although far less per capita than Canada), the U.S. produces just under 15 per cent, and India, in third place, produces under seven per cent. More than 90 per cent of emissions have occurred in less than 100 years, with more than half in less than 30!

It's taken us hardly any time to pollute air, land and water and alter the climate with our wasteful consumer and car culture. There's no reason to continue down this road. It's been proven many times that money, cars and excess stuff don't bring happiness. In Canada, we could go a long way by being less wasteful, but that's just a start.

We've put off tackling the problem in a meaningful way, and people — especially youth — have had enough. There's no shortage of solutions; we just need political will. It's time for us all to demand that politicians stop thinking in short-term electoral cycles and start focusing on the future.

We should all examine the roster of candidates and parties where we live, compare their environmental platforms and records, and ask local contenders about their climate commitments. Remember, in Canada, we don't vote for a prime minister; we vote for a member of Parliament to represent us.

Thanks to the tremendous efforts of so many — youth, Indigenous people, environmentalists, politicians, business leaders and innovators — the climate crisis has become Canada's top election issue. We must ensure it stays top of mind, no matter which party or parties end up governing after October 21.

Whether you vote in an advance poll or on election day, vote for climate solutions!

2019 Fund-Raisers

We have just completed a very successful fund-raiser for the Terry Fox Foundation for Cancer Research where a record amount of $5038.55 was raised, from the collection of returnable cans and bottles, sales of the Terry Fox T-shirts, and from donations. We could not have accomplished this without your support for Terry Fox. This is greatly appreciated, and we thank everyone for their support.

This amount, along with the funds donated by the Wales Home contribution, is included in the Grand Total of $9715.55 raised for the Terry Fox Foundation Richmond and vicinity! Quite an accomplishment!

For the rest of the year, we will be raising funds for the Wales Home Foundation by collecting empty soft drink and beer cans and bottles. Your empties can be dropped off under the deck at Bev Taber-Smith's house, 8 Melbourne Ave. N., in Richmond. Or you can call me at 819-826-3929 to arrange a pickup.

We would appreciate if you would think of us with the upcoming gatherings, parties, especially during the festive Christmas season!

Thanks to the Townships community, along with other friends and families for the continued support for this and other worthy causes.

Antoine Coulombe started in net for Shawinigan, stopping 11-of-14 shots through 26:47. Justin Blanchette turned aside 17-of-20 attempts the rest of the way.

MOOSEHEADS 4 ISLANDERS 1

CHARLOTTETOWN _ Maxime Trepanier scored three minutes apart in the first period, including a short-handed goal, as Halifax (7-4-0) extended its win streak to five with a victory over the Islanders (7-1-2).

PHOENIX 5 TIGRES 1

SHERBROOKE, Que. _ Samuel Poulin scored twice and Bailey Peach had a goal and a helper as the Phoenix (9-1-0) downed Vicoriaville (2-7-2) for their fifth straight win.

Laursen named Provigo, Robert Lafond Bishop's Athlete of the Week

Kicker Noah Laursen (Calgary, Alta./Bishop Carroll H.S.) of the Bishop's Gaiters football team is the Provigo, Robert Lafond Bishop's Gaiters Athlete of the Week after his record-setting performance in Friday night's win over the St. Mary's Huskies.

Laursen set a Bishop's Gaiters record with five made field goals in their 23-15 victory. In total, the second-year business major accounted for 17 points (5-6 FG's, 1 rouge, 1-1 XP). He was successful on 37, 28, 21, 31 and 13-yard field goal attempts. His 31 and 13 yarders came in the final minutes of play to force the Huskies to try to score a converted touchdown after they had cut the lead to 17-15. The win moves Bishop's into sole possession of second place in the conference at 4-3.

For his efforts, Laursen was also named Subway Player of the Game.

The Gaiters are back in action on Saturday, Oct. 19 when they travel to Sackville, N.B. to face the Mount Allison Mounties (2-4). Kickoff is set for 3 p.m. Atlantic time and the game can be viewed live at www.austv.ca.

A few words about him:

They were sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, husbands, wives, fathers, mothers, friends and neighbours. They were a new generation of teachers, doctors, lawyers, farmers and businessmen who set aside their hopes and dreams to fight for our freedom. The Record would like you to join us in paying tribute to the many Townshippers who served their country in time of war. Send a photo of a veteran(s) in your family at the age they were at the time they served and a brief description, to allow Townshippers to say a collective thank you. The Record will publish a special section November 7 on Townshippers' contribution to the war effort.

Death

Henry S. de Römer (1926-2019)

Passed away peacefully in Asbestos hospital (Québec, Canada) on October 8th. Born in Latvia, of mixed Polish-German descent, the son of Baron Antoine C. de Römer and of Countess Anna Soltan. He was married 51 years to Marie-Thérèse (née FitzGibbon) of Limerick, Ireland. He is survived by his three sons Richard, Marcus and André.

A McGill graduate, and professor of Geology in Argentina, but most of all at Concordia University in Montréal, where he was chairman of the department. He also worked many summers for the Québec Ministry of Natural Resources. He loved history, and was above all an ardent Roman Catholic.

A funeral Mass will be held at Ste-Bibianne church in Richmond on Friday, Oct. 18th at 11:00 a.m., followed by interment at Ste-Bibianne cemetery.

Military Whist starts again at St. Anne's

Thursday, October 10 signaled the beginning of the Military Whist season at St. Anne's Church, Richmond. Everyone was welcomed back and play got underway for an entertaining evening. At the conclusion, a delicious lunch was enjoyed and the winners declared.

Taking first place with 30 flags was the table of Patsy Biggs, Collette Pageau, Ghislaine Redburn and Raymond Fortier. With 26 flags, second place was earned by Gerry Willett, Charlie Hodge, Raymond Mastine and Lucie Beaudin. The table of Lise Boisvert, Jim Stevens, Norma Morin and Elizabeth Mastine took the low score honours. Three persons had a hand of 4 kings and by the cut of the cards, the winner was Collette Pageau.

Eighteen door prizes were taken home by Annie Day, Robin Converse, Shirley Smith, Elizabeth Mastine, Gordon Irwin, Leslie Brock, Ferland Lussier, Shirley Noble, Larry Frost, Carol Nixon, Andrea Blouin, Loretta Irwin, Collette Pageau, Wanda Viens, Lise Boisvert, Donna Ham, Lucie Beaudin and Guillaume Desharnais. Peter Boisvert claimed the grocery box.

While the Hall was being tidied, the men kindly put away all the tables and set up the long tables in preparation for the Rummage Sale taking place on Saturday, October 12. Thanks, everyone, for the help.

We look forward to seeing the card players back on Thursday evening, November 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Your Birthday

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 2019

Tidy up unfinished business and head in an innovative direction. Use your expertise, knowledge and experience to take advantage of an opportunity that interests you. Traveling, learning, socializing and personal growth will be the fuel that ignites your soul and enlightens your mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Keep clearing the way to freedom. Size up what you've been going through and face your feelings head-on. It's time to make room for the people and pastimes that bring you joy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Reconnect with old friends or family, or visit a destination you haven't been to for a long time. The memories will help you recall something that will ease your stress and enhance your outlook.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Concentrate on getting ahead. Channel your energy into something that will enhance your reputation, status or position. Volunteer your services to a worthy cause. Make a statement instead of being a follower.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Put more emphasis on improving yourself and spending time with people you find mentally stimulating. The combination will ignite your imagination and set the stage for a new adventure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Put emotional issues in perspective. Make decisions based on what's valid and in your best interest. Don't let yourself be guilted into paying for something you cannot afford.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — An unusual opportunity is waiting for you. If you mingle with people who are leaders in fields that interest you, you'll get firsthand information that will give you a head start.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Don't jump into something without the approval of someone who will be affected by your choices. It's essential to have the support and personal guidance of someone you love and respect.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Sign on the dotted line and keep your plans moving forward. Entertain the thought of a partnership if it will help you reach your goal. Romance is on the rise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Look for opportunities that will encourage better relationships. Trust, honesty and equality will be required if a partnership is going to go the distance. Stick to the standards you set.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — If you brainstorm with people who share your vision, you will come up with a plan that will lead to a better future. Socializing or a romantic evening is favored.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) — Be direct, know what you want and put your plan in motion. A change at home may not suit everyone you live with. Be willing to make adjustments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — If you participate in events that interest you, you will learn valuable information that could change the course of your life. An unexpected offer will lead to an exciting partnership.

Spaghetti junction drives to the table

By Phillip Alder

Henny Youngman said, "How to drive a guy crazy: Send him a telegram and on the top put 'page 2.'"

How to drive a driver crazy: Ask him to negotiate a spaghetti junction.

This deal is like one of those confusing intersections because there are several different possibilities.

Let's start with the driver — the declarer. How should South play in four hearts after West leads the diamond queen?

Even though West has only 11 high-card points, his excellent six-card suit makes his hand well worth an opening bid. North has a textbook, if minimum, takeout double. Then, over East's one-spade response, South bids what he hopes he can make.

In this deal, both sides have chances to make winning plays. The declarer has three top losers: one spade and two hearts. So he is already under pressure. But he also has a third-round diamond loser and must be careful with his trumps.

If South wins the first trick and immediately plays a heart, West might win with his king and play a second round to his partner's ace. Then it would surely be the work of a moment for East to lead his last heart and cause declarer's car to skid off the road.

Before touching trumps, declarer must ruff his diamond six on the board and trump it with the heart jack. He cannot risk East's overruffing with a low trump. Whether East discards or overruffs, South then has the green light to draw trumps as quickly as possible. He takes three hearts, two diamonds, four clubs and the diamond ruff.

Sending love after loss

Dear Annie

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 2019

Dear Annie: When I lost our son to suicide in 2012, there were no words to take away the pain. I understood that clumsy attempts to console were well-intended and appreciated the intent.

However, there was one card that meant so much that I still keep where I can see it. It says, "Everything that love could do was done."

I would like to help people understand that after a deep loss, one will always have times of sadness. It helps to be allowed to express those sad feelings when they arise. It helps to speak of the one you have lost and to have others share memories of that person.

It is best to respect those sad feelings and not trivialize them with any "get over it" sort of remarks. Sadness and grief cause many to be uncomfortable; therefore, they want those feelings to go away. But it is best to understand that they are part of life, and we can help each other just by being present and caring. — Missing David

Dear Missing David: I am so deeply sorry for your loss. Thank you for sharing your experience with others. I'm wishing you comfort.

Dear Annie: The letter from the woman whose daughter had a miscarriage and had to take vacation pay was infuriating. First of all, the Family and Medical Leave Act requires that employees of companies with more than 50 employees are entitled to "take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave in a year to care for new children or seriously ill family members, or to recover from their own serious health conditions."

This is what the Act says about miscarriages: "A pregnant woman can take FMLA leave for incapacity due to pregnancy ... for prenatal care, to recover from childbirth or for other serious health conditions related to pregnancy, such as a miscarriage."

In addition, the Pregnancy Discrimination Act says that an employee cannot treat you worse than other employees because you are pregnant or have a condition related to pregnancy. Miscarriage is such a condition under the Act.

In other words, unless she worked for a small business (as defined by the Act), the daughter was entitled to unpaid time off that did not cut into her vacation time.

Of course, the real issue is that the United States is the only industrialized country that doesn't provide paid leave for such situations. I suggest that the woman who wrote the letter and her daughter lobby their representative and senators to strengthen the law. The FAMILY Act, which is pending before Congress, would ensure that workers can take up to 12 weeks of paid leave for pregnancy, the birth or adoption of a child, recovery from a serious illness or to care for a seriously ill family member.

This is the pro-family, pro-business, pro-economic security, pro-health solution. — Pro-Family

Dear Pro-Family: I agree with you wholeheartedly that it seems especially cruel to make employees take "vacation" time for a miscarriage. Unfortunately, many small businesses could find it difficult to grant 12 weeks of unpaid leave. Picture a small restaurant with only one waitress. However, there are business owners who make do — hiring a temporary waitress, for instance, during the leave. Thank you for your informative and compassionate letter, and for furthering this conversation.
