Election machinery of city is outlined

With the newly formed Westmount Voters' Association announcing its intention to contest aldermanic seat number two, the city's electors may be called upon to exercise their democratic franchise for the first time since 1955.

City secretary-treasurer A.W.D. Swan, who in the event of an election acts as returning officer, gave the following details on election procedure in Westmount.

On January 11, between 12 noon and 2 p.m., final nominations are received.

As set forth in the city's constitution, elections take place on the third Monday of the year — this year January 18.

Polls are set up at convenient places throughout the city, and deputy returning officers are appointed.

At the council meeting following balloting day, the returning officer reports on results of elections, and successful candidates are sworn in.

Westmount's last contested civic election occurred in January 1955, when three Council seats were contested. This was the first such occasion since January 1931, when candidates ran for two of the seats then vacant.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Art, puppetry intrigue King's School moppets

By VALENTINA RAHR

King's School pupils cannot be accused of neglecting the arts in their education. This year the youngsters went all out to present a unique program for the Christmas holidays.

A stained glass panel exhibition was displayed in Westmount Library, made by the art group; and a puppet show presented to King's School Christmas Assembly by the theatre group. Under the interested guidance of Mrs. Lonnie Echenberg, Anwoth road, and Mrs. Eudice Garmaise, Claremont avenue, the children from grades two to five have been given various opportunities to acquaint themselves with different forms of art.

"We want to stir the creative ability in every child, and develop his imagination," says Mrs. Echenberg. "If only one medium is used, the child will become stilted. Different mediums — water colors, clay work, cutting and pasting, will open a whole new world of ideas about themselves, different people and countries, plants, houses and birds. It may even make them look at a bird in a different way." "Project 1960" is a panel about six feet long and four feet high, showing part of a city. It will have two-dimensional figures of wire and fabric, houses, city streets, children with skipping ropes, milkman, taxi, butcher, the steel frame of a partly constructed building, parks and playgrounds. A smaller panel showing the figures in the project will be nearer the viewer. The city background will appear on a larger panel set farther back. The contribution made by the Theatre Group is a puppet show which took many arduous hours of work to prepare. "A Christmas Carol," complete with silver haired Scrooge, was made up of papier mache figures modelled on clay heads made some weeks ago. Then the hair and clothes were attached to them, and a puppet theatre was proposed.

Architect Harry Mayerovitch donated his services and drew up a solid puppet theatre, which was constructed soon after. This small theatre will remain as a permanent contribution to King's School art classes, after the presentation of Dicken's "Christmas Carol." The character parts in the story were dramatized, all members of the theatre group taking part. Another unusual experience afforded these youngsters was a visit recently to the Theatre du Nouveau Monde studio on Sanguinet street, where they saw actual sets being designed in miniature and watched them being constructed. A visit to the Orpheum Theatre, to see the preparations for "Playboy of the Western World" was another outstanding event, for they had an opportunity of meeting Robert Prevost, noted stage set designer, who explained to them how to make a working model, and how to plan and execute a stage set. They saw a rehearsal stage, work shops, props being made and stored, and posters made up in Parisian style.

King's School Art Classes are sponsored by the Home and School Association. The art classes are depending on the voluntary help of mothers every Thursday from about 3:30 to 5 p.m., during the hours when children are taking part in the art projects.

Also donating their time are Mrs. T. G. Hardbottle, telephone committee; Mrs. Max Newton and Mrs. Hardbottle, art convenors; Mrs. C. R. H. Porteous and Mrs. M. C. Sheldon, co-treasurers. Max Reinblatt, instructor at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, acts as artistic advisor.

Can't a man get any sleep around here?

The back seat of a car is a poor place for a nap, as C. Laroche of Ville LaSalle found out Christmas night.

Mr. Laroche, asleep in a car driven by a friend, Guy Delage, 26, also of Ville LaSalle, was rudely awakened from his slumber Friday evening by a collision with a parked car opposite 4138 Dorchester street west. Mr. Laroche was taken to Montreal General Hospital where he was treated for a cut on the eye.

The parked car was owned by Salvatore Artuso, 27, of Beaconsfield avenue, N.D.G.

Mr. Delage told Westmount police that he was travelling east on Dorchester, when a west-bound taxi cut onto the wrong side of the road. To avoid hitting him, he pulled to the right, striking the parked auto.

Bus, tiny car scrape sides at intersection

A small English car, driven by Terry Mcauley, 28, of 7793 de Gaspé street, suffered minor damage when struck by a 35-foot MTC bus at Victoria and Sherbrooke street Saturday afternoon.

Bus driver G. B. Lachance, 38, of Rosemount, told Westmount police he was preparing to make a right-hand turn, and that the length of his vehicle required to be several feet away from the curb before turning. He stated that he did not see the smaller car, which subsequently became wedged between bus and curb.

Mr. Mcauley, who had pulled up his vehicle between the bus and the curb, stated he honked his horn when he saw the bus signalling to turn.

Irving Backler speaks:

Westmount needs a swimming pool

"A city the size of Westmount should have a swimming pool," maintains Irving Backler, a vice-president of the Westmount Municipal Association and nominee for one of the two city council seats which become vacant in 1960.

IRVING BACKLER
WMA nominee for alderman

"The only swimming available in Westmount is provided by the YMCA pool," he pointed out, "and that cannot and should not be expected to provide for the needs of the many children and adults in the city."

Interviewed at his Roxborough avenue home, Mr. Backler spoke of elections and of the Westmount Municipal Association.

"If the aldermanic seats shortly to become vacant were contested, would you run?" he was asked.

"No," stated Mr. Backler.

"We are not running on a political platform," he explained, referring to himself the second candidate put forward by the Westmount Municipal Association, Mr. M. L. Tucker.

"The council is made up of individuals who carry portfolios such as finance, or light and power, who must consider the city as a whole."

Mr. Backler felt that an election, based on political or geographical subdivisions within the city, might result in favoritism for certain districts.

Now vice-president of the WMA, and at one time chairman of the housing and zoning committee, Mr. Backler said that he felt he had gained "an objective view of what the citizen is thinking" in his work with the Association.

"Actually, I became sincerely interested in civic affairs only when nominated to the housing and zoning committee about three-and-a-half years ago," he said.

He criticized the citizens of Westmount for lack of interest in civic affairs.

"The people and the press complain of not being informed of what is going on," he added. They are behind the times. Open council meetings now precede general committee meetings. In the previous administration, the reverse was true, and motions put forward in council were practically a 'fait accompli'."

He felt that more people should attend council meetings.

Mr. Backler, a professional engineering consultant, has two children: Allan, 18, a second year arts student at McGill University; and Martin, 9, an ardent classical guitar fan, and a fourth grade pupil at Roslyn.

Youthful drivers in traffic mishap

Student Mary Kennedy, 20, of London, Ontario, collided with a 'drive-yourself' auto, driven by Donald MacFarlane, 19, of Lachine late Sunday evening, opposite 40 Belvedere road.

Minor traffic mishaps keep police force busy

The Christmas season was no holiday for Westmount's traffic division, who were kept busy with minor accidents throughout the city.

Shortly after noon Thursday cab-driver Dr. J. Bors Engen, 43, of 5062 Westhill avenue, halted for a fare opposite 4390 Western avenue. A truck behind him, driven by Norman Halley, 24, of 1086 Addington avenue, stopped in time to avoid collision, but was struck in the rear by a second truck, driven by Jean Paul Boucher, 32, of 2639 Radot street, Montreal. The impact caused Mr. Halley's vehicle to strike the taxi.

At 12:15 p.m., Thursday, Russell L. Ambrose, 20, of Plattsburgh, N.Y., and Albert Boyer, 65, of 4469 Western avenue, collided at the Melville-St. Catherine intersection, with resulting minor damages.

In mid-afternoon, at the same intersection, Marcel Rivest, 24, of 1065 Girouard, struck pedestrian Pierre Bonte, 55, of 250 Metcalfe avenue, who told police he had walked in front of the car, which he did not notice. Mr. Bonte was taken to Queen Elizabeth Hospital for treatment.

WE SAY YOU SAY

Westmount election is right and good

OVER half Westmount's citizen ratepayers, who each week read their paid-for copies of The Examiner, will understand the delight with which this paper reports that there likely is to be, at long last, a municipal election.

Some, we know, will not agree with the principle which we have been espousing now for two or three years — that elections and public discussion of public affairs are good things.

Westmount by habit does not go in for municipal voting nor for full open debate on civic business in City Council.

Instead, over the years the custom has grown that the Westmount Municipal Association nominate mayors and aldermen and that, unopposed, they are elected by acclamation to work in the main behind closed doors.

WHY are they unopposed?

Because Westmount is an extremely well run city, perhaps the best in the country. Efficiency is the hallmark. The public has little complaint with the day to day operation of the municipality. Under such circumstances few are going to take the trouble to question or follow Council's activities, let alone actively oppose the candidates of "the establishment."

But the WMA itself is concerned over the apathy of Westmount residents in municipal affairs. This is much of the WMA's own making. The WMA has placed itself between Council and people, like a screen against sight and sound in both directions. Council works in a vacuum devoid of public interest or even appreciation; the public just doesn't learn what's going on in its own City.

Sufficiently disturbed has been a group of people who this week formed the Westmount Voters' Association.

Its chairman, Rev. Wm. Morris, would have run but is not qualified. He would have been a worthy candi-

Reporters please Welfare group

Sir: As an agency we want to thank you for the wonderful space you gave us in three of your weeklies recently — The Monitor, The Examiner, and Verdun Guardian.

We especially want to pay tribute to Miss Bartlett and Mr. Church. Miss Bartlett wrote the most outstanding piece of publicity we have had in many years, and Mr. Church really took some charming pictures. More than this, we want to go on record that we have never worked with more co-operative and charming newspaper people than these two young people who represented you.

I have been told by reporters over and over that they get "bored with welfare." I did not have this feeling in dealing with either Miss Bartlett or Mr. Church.

It may not seem to you to have been a very important thing that you did in telling our story, but we would like to assure you that this is not so. We are very sure that your publicity will have many positive repercussions in our favor. To begin with, the community will know better what a big job our agency is doing and, we hope, will be more understanding and more generous when the Red Feather canvasser calls. In the second place, people reading about our work, particularly in the Verdun area, may be interested in becoming foster-parents, and nothing more valuable than this could possibly happen to us. In the third place, our ambition is to help every child who is deprived of a home to grow up somewhere where he gains a feeling of pride in himself and of worth. He can only do this if the community sees him as worthy of opportunities. We think a story such as you have told will help to make the homeless child understood and valued, and should help to create the feeling of acceptance that is necessary to his growing up.

And so from board and staff, may we thank you for the space, for the time, and for the craftsmanship with which you presented our story. We hope that you will also extend to Miss Bartlett and Mr. Church our very sincere thanks for all that they have done for us.

date and it is hoped to find another of his quality.

Long Westmount tradition which bars elections as "not quite proper" and open Council meetings as "unnecessary" will make it a tough fight.

Rev. D. W. F. Morris

M. L. Tucker, DSO

Rev. W. D. F. Morris was slated to contest aldermanic seat no. 2

Westmount next month may still have its first municipal election in five years.

A nomination meeting, reported as "enthusiastic" and "unanimous," Monday evening at his home, 8 Winchester avenue, named Rev. William D. F. Morris, assistant minister of St. James United Church, to contest aldermanic seat No. 2 on Jan. 18.

However, yesterday just before presstime Mr. Morris announced that his candidacy has had to be withdrawn because the Westmount city charter specifically disqualifies persons in holy orders, such as himself as an ordained minister, from holding office.

The committee also adopted a name, "Westmount Voters' Association," and established as its primary purpose to force an election in Westmount and to put forward a candidate.

Mr. Morris continues as chairman of the new association and told The Examiner yesterday morning that the group would select a new candidate, within the next few days it was hoped.

Mr. Morris, a wartime Spitfire fighter pilot who served with No. 401 "City of Westmount" Squadron in Germany, was to oppose M. L. Tucker, DSO, 352 Kensington avenue, candidate of the Westmount Municipal Association of which Mr. Tucker is a former officer.

Though two seats are open, the Voters' Association was putting forward only the one candidate. The Municipal Association on Dec. 8 also nominated Irving S. Backler, 44 Roxborough avenue, for seat No. 1.

Mr. Backler told The Examiner in an interview that if he was opposed, he would withdraw his own candidacy. Mr. Tucker stated that he would run if his election were contested.

M. Garber and F. E. H. Gates are the retiring aldermen whose three-year terms are expiring at this time.

A four-point platform was adopted by the Voters' Association at its Monday evening meeting. The points are:

(1) Aldermen and mayor to be elected by popular vote;
(2) Public business to be discussed and transacted in public;

(3) Representation by population according to geographical areas as stated in paragraph four, article 30 of the City charter;

(4) Better and more effective planning for the development of Westmount.

The last article is to take in a revision of the building code and development of industrial areas, parks, etc.; not relaxation but sterner restrictions.

It was made clear that the new association at the moment is only an ad hoc committee established for the purpose of the 1960 municipal election. The feeling was that it might be reconstituted later, perhaps even with a different name.

'Certainly I would run' states nominee Tucker

"Would you run for alderman if the seat were contested?" was the question asked M. L. Tucker, DSO, 352 Kensington avenue, nominated by the Westmount Municipal Association to run for council seat No. 2.

"Certainly I would," was Mr. Tucker's reply. "I would hope to contribute in whatever way I could towards continuing the very good council government we now have."

"I also wish to point out," he continued, "that I would not be running for the Westmount Municipal Association, but for the citizens represented by the Association."

Mr. Tucker, who has been a resident of Westmount since 1932, joined the housing and zoning committee of the Westmount Municipal Association shortly after the end of World War II, and was at one time chairman of the committee.

Expressing the opinion that the present city council is "one of the best we have ever had," Mr. Tucker spoke of the private bill currently being presented by the city at Quebec, part of which is aimed at consolidating the rights of tenant voters.

"A tenant is entitled to a vote," Mr. Tucker felt. "As a resident of the city, it will not only give him a say in civic affairs, but an interest as well."

He added he believed that it was necessary for a council to have the broad interests of the city as a whole at heart.

The principle of geographical representation, in accordance with the democratic system is a good one, he added.

"In a larger community you may find that certain districts have better treatment than others. But in a city the size of Westmount I believe that it would not make a great deal of difference," he pointed out.

'We must expand' states president of School for Crippled Children

The School for Crippled Children, which will celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the first meeting of the Committee of Organization next February, must improve and expand its facilities, if it is to continue to fulfill its proper function in the community, A. H. Marden, 22 Renfrew avenue, told The Examiner.

Mr. Marden, recently elected president of the School for Crippled Children, retired in December 1958 as vice-president of Dominion Tar & Chemical. Since then he has been devoting much of his time to community services.

Mr. Marden stated that for some time the board of governors of the School for Crippled Children have been aware of the need for additional services which could be rendered the crippled child if the space and staff were available.

"We are proud," Mr. Marden continued, "of our contributions in the past, but the time has now come to re-assess our position and to study the needs of the future so as to make provision for them."

He mentioned that good practice in the education and rehabilitation of the crippled child is to have classes of from 12 to 15 pupils.

"Our smallest class at the present time numbers 16, our largest 32. We are now performing 56 functions in 27 places, including halls, which is not at all satisfactory. For recesses we have only a very small backyard and a balcony. Our buses have no proper place to load and unload pupils. Our elevator can only accommodate two wheelchair cases. We now have 32 wheelchair cases, and numerous pupils entirely dependent on crutches. In spite of these difficulties our staff are carrying on and doing an excellent job, which is much appreciated."

When questioned about finances, Mr. Marden stated that the School is largely dependent upon its two major campaigns. "Our annual appeal by letter is presently in the hands of the public. We are asking for a minimum of $70,000 this year, in view of the largest enrollment in our history. Next May we will have our usual tag day.

"Our income from government and city grants pays only seven per cent of our cost of operating the school. Thus the generosity of individuals, firms, and organizations is necessary to our survival, and is much appreciated by our board of governors.

"As it was felt in 1951 that we lost during the summer a great deal that we gained during the school term, we established a camp at Lake Massawippi. This endeavour has been an outstanding success, and our enrollment has increased every year, until in 1959 we had 134 campers."

Mr. Marden stressed the fact that the school is not connected financially with any other institution, although it works most co-operatively with others of similar name and function.

"Don't forget us," said Mr. Marden, "when you consider your charitable donations, but unless the cheque is made out to 'The School for Crippled Children', it will not help us to educate over 200 physically disabled children of many races, colors and creeds."

Mr. Marden declined to state specific future plans, "for," he said, "this is a board decision." He did say, however, that immediate consideration is being given

A happier New Year
By
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

As we look back over the past year we must regret some of the things we have done as a nation; and still more some of the things that we have done personally. And if we regret them then we cannot say that the Old Year has been a consistently happy one. Yet quite sincerely we wish one another a very Happy New Year. May I suggest that we think instead in terms of a Happier New Year and set about taking steps to make it so. What prevented the Old Year being a happy one? Was it the obstinacy and unreasonableness of the other man who stood in our way and would not allow us to realize the happiness we had set our hearts on? Or, in a wider field, was it the pig-headed selfishness of another power which wanted to get more than its share of the world's property, the share, in fact that we wanted for ourselves? To come a little nearer home; we should like to enjoy the advantage that should accrue to an island, and enjoy the wonderful waters of the Ottawa and the St. Lawrence; we complain of the pollution of the rivers by the various communities up-stream. But I do not seem to have heard anything about what we do concerning the river down-stream.

I wonder if there is not something suggestive in holding our Christmas Day and our New Year within a week of one another. There is no historical reason why we should. No one knows the exact date of our Lord's Birth, and there is no reason why the New Year should begin on January 1st. But there is a psychological reason why we should celebrate Christmas just after the shortest day of the year, when the sun has begun to grow in strength; and there is equally good reason for beginning the year when our Lord has come to make all things new. Perhaps the chief newness that our Lord brought into the world was the newness of thinking of the other man first. Perhaps the other nation has some reason for the action which we do not like;

Silent film series planned for Museum

Is the film America's most outstanding contribution to the art of our time? In January, in its regular Wednesday evening film shows, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts will try to answer this question by showing, on three consecutive Wednesday evenings, films representing, first of all, American silent film technique at its most refined, secondly, the story of the silent film in France and its influence on American movie-makers and finally, the coming of sound with outstanding examples of the first sound pictures made.

The first picture in this series, "The Last Command" (1928), will be shown on Wednesday, January 6 at 6:30 p.m., and at 8:30 p.m., in the Lecture Hall in the Museum. This film directed by Joseph Von Sternberg, with Emil Jannings is one of the few serious films with a Hollywood setting and is based on an actual incident in the film capital.

The New Year

Old year is dead, — a new one dawns,
A year of peace and happy days,
When truth, and justice, right the wrongs,
Made by man's hard, and selfish ways.

True lives, are made of little things,
Of kindly words, and smiles, and acts
The happiness, that each can bring,
By giving, what our brother lacks.

Grosvenor, treasurer; Mrs. W. G. Wilson, recording secretary; Mrs. T. C. Darling, 68 Aberdeen, Westmount, corresponding secretary; with Mrs. J. C. Newman, Mrs. S. A. MacSween, 6216 Monkland avenue, Mrs. Alfred N. Miller and Mrs. Donald A. White as members at large.

Appointed chairmen of standing committees were Mrs. A. Monsaroff, 4 Merton Crescent, Hampstead, membership; Mrs. Howard Turner, 4300 Western avenue, Westmount, publicity; Mrs. D. Ross McMaster, clothing room; and Mrs. B. S. Johnston, by-laws.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Dr. H. Lehmann, clinical director of Verdun Protestant Hospital, who spoke on "Promising Advancements in Psychiatry." Mrs. Alexander Hutchison was in the chair and the report of the nominating committee was made by Mrs. Dent Harrison.

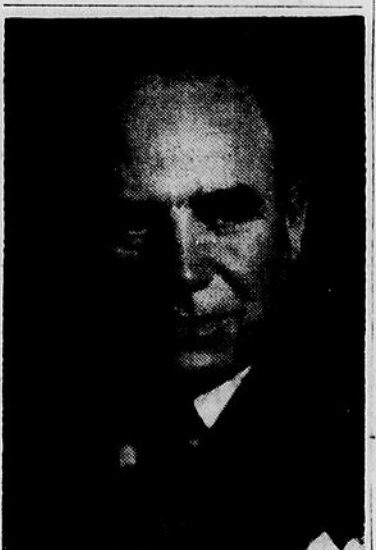

The Province of Quebec does not operate a provincial mental hospital as do other provinces. Early in its history, the provincial government started the present practice of contracting with certain religious orders for the care of its mentally-ill citizens.

HOSPITAL DRIVE

In 1875, when a movement was started to provide a separate service for the mentally-ill Protestants then being cared for in French-speaking Catholic hospitals, it was necessary for representatives from the Protestant community to work out plans acceptable to the provincial authorities. As the Montreal business and medical men leading the drive for such a Protestant service felt it wiser to work through a non-profit corporation rather than through any one Protestant denomination, they organized a privately-operated psychiatric hospital.

Over the years, since the hospital opened in 1890, many interested individuals, church and community groups, service clubs and a variety of social and business organizations have entertained patients, provided seasonal gifts or made donations to the hospital.

Charles Roberts, medical superintendent of the hospital, called an informal meeting to discuss the advisability of organizing an auxiliary. Those invited were either active volunteers or persons particularly interested in the hospital.

A volunteer organization was formed. But its structure and membership differed from the typical women's auxiliary of a general hospital because of the need for male volunteers.

Now four of the members who originally planned this auxiliary head the newly-formed auxiliary of the hospital, as was decided at their first general meeting.

Lectures on 'Marriage' to commence January 4

Young people who marry today cannot model their marriage on the example set by their parents. No matter how happily their parents lived together modern youth enters marriage without a model to follow, says marriage counsellor Mrs. Dorothy Freeman.

Associate professor of the McGill School Work and a staff member of the Red Feather Marriage Counselling Centre. Mrs. Freeman will lecture on marriage in a McGill Extension Department course starting January 4 be given in conjunction with the Marriage Counselling Centre.

Such courses offer a great deal to modern young people because a brand new pattern of marriage has emerged in our culture, Mrs. Freeman says.

"We are aware that great changes are taking place in the marital customs of Japan and other eastern countries but most of us do not realize how greatly the institution of marriage has altered in our own country," she says.

Mrs. Freeman explained that the concept of partnership marriage spread rapidly during the war. "Partnership marriage offers more possibility for happiness but, in such marriages, where roles are not clearly defined, there is great need for maturity and adjustment."

Mrs. Freeman stressed that family life still prepares the individual's basic attitudes towards marriage. "To-day, however, different ingredients go into a marriage," she says. "A woman does not necessarily play the role her mother played. She often brings to marriage a superior education and experience in the business world."

Many difficulties in the marriage relationship occur because one partner has expectations that the other does not fulfil. Often this is because the two partners do not agree on what the role of husband or wife entails.

Mrs. Freeman said that the marriage and family life course which will be given in the New Year will be the first such course held on the McGill campus. The course will be open to university students, the general public and to young people, whether engaged or not.

"Emphasis will be given to the expectations of marital partners in our rapidly changing society," says Mrs. Freeman. "It is amazing," she says, "how many women marry a man without knowing what his views are on such an important matter as whether or not she holds a job."

"We feel that the frank discussions that will take place together with the talks by specialists will give to-day's young people a better idea of what modern marriage means and of what each is looking for in a mate."
