

"Army Week" Celebration in Full Swing

Every Soldier at Barracks Receives an Invitation

Sports of All Kinds to Feature Dominion Day and Saturday—Drumhead Service on Sunday

Army Week is off to a good start and everything has been taken care of so that the soldiers will have a splendid time. There will be no lack of entertainment for our boys during this week, and incidentally, the civilian population will be sharing this also.

The people of Huntingdon have responded wonderfully in individually entertaining the soldiers to their homes or providing for them at the Chateaux. The soldiers in camp have been looked after to the extent of 100 per cent, this means that no man at the Barracks will be left unprovided for, in this part of the entertainment. Every man has had an invitation, and the invitations have exceeded the number of soldiers available, so that some people have been disappointed. Several people have extended invitations during the latter part of last week, but these have had to be declined, as there are no further soldiers to fill them. Under these conditions Lieut. Col. Brooks will not hold the buffet supper at the Fair Grounds, as it will be unnecessary. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the invitation of soldiers, wish to thank all those persons who have invited soldiers to their homes, or have contributed cash for the entertainment of the men at the Chateaux. They also wish to extend a special word of thanks to those who have sent in invitations which could not be filled, and to voice regret at the disappointment that must be felt.

All in all, the people of Huntingdon must feel a surge of pride that this part of the programme has been so thoroughly looked after. The soldiers at the Barracks, will feel sure, deeply appreciate the spirit of the people of Huntingdon in opening their homes for them during this week of special recognition of the men of the army.

We would like to bring to the attention of the people a matter which has been bothering some of the hostesses who will be entertaining our soldiers to supper. This is the matter of serving fish on fish days. We understand that the men of the army observe no fish days, therefore it is permitted to serve meat, if so desired or planned. Below we give a typical supper meal as served in the army and scheduled for Fridays:

- Fish Chowder
 - Scalloped Potatoes with Corned Beef
 - Bread
 - Plain Suet Pudding with Chocolate Sauce
 - Tea or Coffee
 - Fresh Apple
 - Cheese.
- Of course this does not have to be followed for serving the meal in the home, but is given as an example of what would be served the men, if they were in camp on that day.
- In addition to the events published in the Gleaner last week, there will be a cricket match between Valleyfield and Chateaugay Barracks, on Saturday, July 4th, with Lt. Walter Lawson in charge. To those not acquainted with this sport, it will provide an opportunity to see what cricket is really like, although it is not so fast and exciting as baseball.
- The matter of the Drumhead service on Sunday, July 5th, has now been settled and will definitely take place as follows: The Roman Catholic service will be held at the Barracks at 9:45 a.m., with Rev. Father Berthiaume, asst. Chaplain of the Barracks and pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Herdman, in charge, assisted by Father Pigeon, of Huntingdon. The Protestant service will take place at 11 a.m. as reported in last week's Gleaner. Both services will take place outside, providing the weather is fine. In the event of wet weather, the services will be held in the Drill Hall. Seats will be provided for the ladies.
- Two band concerts are to be given in Prince Arthur Square through the kind permission of Lt.-Col. C. C. Brooks of M.C. V.D. Commanding Officer of Chateaugay Barracks, C.A. (B.) T.C. 41. The band of Chateaugay Barracks will present these entertainments on Friday and Sunday evenings in Prince Arthur Square from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The band was organized a few weeks ago and as it parades through the town streets, it has received many favourable comments. It is to be hoped the military band will prove an incentive towards having a citizens band organized in the not too distant future.
- On Monday, guards were posted at certain points around the town, these may be seen outside the Gleaner Office, lower bridge, as well as at several other points.
- Following is a list of additional names of persons who have invited soldiers to their homes, or who have contributed for their entertainment at the Chateaux:
- Dr. and Mrs. G. Amyot, 25; Mrs. Frank Benson, 2; Log Lodge, 12; Mrs. R. Taillefer, 2; Mrs. H. Provost, 2; Mrs. O. Michaud, 6; Mrs. D. J. O'Connor, 4; Mrs. McArthur, 4; Mrs. J. Impara, 2; Mrs. C. Moore, 2; Mrs. Tedstone, Sr., 2; Miss Gertrude Hamann, 4; Mrs. J. Holmes, 2; Mrs. W. S. Hatcher, 2; Mrs. Geo. Hampson, 2; Mrs. R. Ross, 2; Mrs. O. E. Langlois, 1; Tedstone Bakery, 2; Mrs. David Booth, 2; Misses Leslie, 2; Miss Helen Kelly, 2; Mrs. Beatrice, 4; Mrs. Lasalle, 3; Mrs. Flora Messier, 3; Mrs. Louis Cappello, 2; Mrs. Gordon McLean, 2.
- Paid suppers at hotel: Misses McGinnis 1.50; Mrs. Jas. Darragh 75; Mrs. Harvey and Miss Campbell 1.00; Mr. Lavallee, Chateau 1.50; Russell Clyde 1.50; Mrs. James Fortune, 75; Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Moore 6.00.

of course this does not have to be followed for serving the meal in the home, but is given as an example of what would be served the men, if they were in camp on that day.

In addition to the events published

Valleyfield Citizen, Held in Germany Since 1941, Returns to Canada

Was One of Passengers on Board Ill-fated "Zamzam" When it Was Torpedoed by Enemy Ship

The minister of external affairs announced last Thursday that a group of ten Canadian women have left Lisbon, on June 22, aboard the Drothingholm and are on their way to Canada. Seven of these women were on the "Zamzam," when it was torpedoed by an enemy ship in the Atlantic, on April 17th, 1941.

All passengers aboard the Zamzam, except Mrs. Strachan and Miss Turner, were on their way to some missionary post in Africa. These women were released in Germany, but were released in September, 1941, and have since resided in Germany.

Among other Canadian women interned in Germany, and who were not on the Zamzam, was Miss Katherine Scherf, (formerly employed at the American Consulate at Frankfurt, Germany), daughter of Mr. Christian Scherf of Valleyfield, Que.

The Drothingholm will arrive in New York, on July 1st.

Prisoner of War

Flight-Sergeant Everett E. Littlefield, R.C.A.F., grandson of the late Alfred E. Fisher, of Hemmingford, and Mrs. Fisher, who was previously reported as missing, is now known to be a prisoner of war in Germany. His wife, of Walpole, Mass., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Littlefield, of Boston, Mass., correspond regularly with him.

Mr. Roger Charbonneau to Direct Salvage in Quebec

OTTAWA, June 24—To cope with the growing task of organizing salvage in the province of Quebec, Mr. Charles LeFevre, director of the Salvage Division of the Department of National War Services, announced today that three assistants will be given to Mr. Roger Charbonneau, who was charged with this work in October last. Mr. Charbonneau becomes provincial salvage supervisor, with offices at 1212 Aldred Building, Montreal. The province of Quebec, having been divided for salvage purposes into three districts, regional organizers will be designated to assist Mr. Charbonneau. One of these has already been named: Mr. Jean-Paul Derome, of Quebec City, organizer for Quebec, Lower Saint-Lawrence and Lake St. John district.

Enlistments in Quebec

Total Enlistments Given as 74,415; 36,235 French-Canadians

Enlistments in the Province of Quebec since the war began total 74,415 of which 36,235 are considered to be French-Canadians, and 38,180 other racial origins. It was reported in replies tabled in the House of Commons for G. H. Stokes (Con. Hastings South).

Records of the armed forces do not segregate French-Canadians, the replies said. The estimate was reached by taking into consideration names and language spoken.

The Army reported 56,722 active service enlistments in Quebec military districts, with 29,851 believed to be French-Canadians. Navy enlistments at Quebec recruiting stations were given as 5,180, all for active service, with 1,474 French-Canadians.

The Air Force reported 12,513 enlistments, including 352 in the women's division. It was estimated 5,119 were French-Canadian. The categories in which French-Canadian enlisted, with other Canadian and French-Canadian in brackets, were: flying duties, 1,041 (3,231); ground crew, 2,402 (3,205); general duties, 1,582 (669). French-Canadian air women numbered 85 and airwomen other than French-Canadian enlisted in Quebec, 267.

Men Wanted For Royal Canadian Mounted Police

OTTAWA—Men who are not in a medical category now being called for service in the Active Army are asked to volunteer for service as special constables in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Commissioner S. T. Wood, who issued the call this week, pointed out that the Order-in-Council which gives the Minister of National War Services power to call out men in the lower medical brackets for special security guard duty will not be implemented "for the time being."

"Rather than implement this Order-in-Council by compulsory service, the government has decided for the time being to give those men who have in the past, and who may in the future wish to volunteer for such service an opportunity to do so," the Commissioner's statement read.

Those who are subject to National War Service Registration but of a low medical category (B1, B2, C1) as well as others who wished to serve, should communicate with him in Ottawa, he added.

"The rates of pay and allowances which will be paid for this work are identical with those paid in the Canadian Active Army," Commissioner Wood's statement concluded.

Quebec Rebekeh's Donate $769 to Queen's Can. Fund.

The Rebekeh's of Quebec Province have donated $769 to the Queen's Canadian Fund, bringing their total donation this year to $769. The cheque, for $769, presented by Miss Lottie Lothrop of Sherbrooke, treasurer of the Rebekeh Assembly, I.O.O.F., came from all 32 Rebekeh Lodges in the Quebec jurisdiction. The money was raised by individual donations, dances, card parties, sales of work and plays. One lodge, which has always had a big anniversary dinner, forfeited this annual party and turned in the money, which would otherwise have been spent on it to the special "Fund for the Queen's Fund."

Heavy Demands Faced

This donation comes at a time when officers of the fund fear that heavy demands may shortly be made upon their resources, now that they have extended their help to civilian war victims throughout the British Empire.

Overseas Parcels Should be Varied

"Keep Them Small But Keep Them Coming" Soldiers Urge

Men and women in the Canadian Services overseas welcome parcels from home not because their rations aren't adequate, but like other mail, for their morale value.

"Keep them small, but keep them coming," is the theme of many letters arriving from the United Kingdom.

What to send? Home-made sweets are fine, but you'll have to make the necessary sugar from your ration. (Canadian troops overseas are allowed a sugar ration of 14 oz. a week). Hard cookies, short breads, biscuits and fruit breads and cakes are favorites.

If you send home-made candy, pour it directly into a cardboard or tin container lined with waxed paper. Don't cut in pieces. It travels better.

Send soap, pencils, packs of cards, tooth paste, razor blades, cigarettes, tobacco, handkerchiefs, socks, chocolate bars, toffee, fudge, butterscotch, lifesavers and chewing gum. The last two items make good chink fillers between packages as do handkerchief tissues.

Wrap foods carefully. In packing cookies, line the box with waxed paper and put a thin cardboard between each layer. Place less perishable kinds at the bottom.

Use sturdy lightweight container and stout wrapping paper and wrap or tie all parcels securely. Remember the 11-lb. maximum. A lot of goodness and variety can be packed into a 6-lb. parcel.

Cousins Represent Three Branches of Forces

Reading from left to right, first: Sgt. Arthur Hampson, son of Mr. H. A. Hampson, of Athelstan, who went overseas with the Royal Canadian Regiment, First Contingent, in 1939. He has returned to Canada to complete an officer's course at Brockville, Ont. Second: Lawrence G. (Larry) Hampson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hampson, of 6184 N. D. G. Ave., Montreal, and grandson of Mr. James Hampson, of Huntingdon, who was recently appointed Probationary Sub. Lieutenant in the R.C.N.V.R. Third: F/O Ken. Hampson, R.C.A.F., son of George Hampson, of Sanford, Man., and nephew of H. A. Hampson, of Athelstan, who has returned to Canada after a year as navigator and observer with the R.A.F. in Libya.

Camouflage

Khaki, the name which unofficially has been used to describe all the drab and grey-green uniforms in British armies, had its origin in "khak," a word of the East Indian-Urdu language meaning dust.

The color, which makes the soldier hard to distinguish from the natural background of scenery, was apparently first used by the Guides, a mixed regiment of troops, in India about 1848. During the Indian Mutiny 1857-8 most British troops wore the color and it was also general in the South African War.

LOOK OUT, ADOLF, HERE HE COMES

Symbolizing the offensive spirit of the Canadian soldier this drawing by Grant Macdonald, Toronto artist, shows an infantryman with a Sten carbine at the firing position. The new Sten sub-machine guns, now being manufactured in Canada, can be fired from the shoulder or the hip and is well adapted for use by shock troops and paratroops.

Experiences Five Sinkings, English Lad Tells Story

Young Lad Recuperating Here in Huntingdon, Expects to Return to the Sea

During the past few days a young English lad from Manchester, England, has been working at the Red and Gun Club. This young lad has been a seaman for the past three years and during that time has been sunk five times, four times by torpedoes, and once by a dive bomber. On four occasions he was rescued within a comparatively few hours, and ended up with seven. He spent four months in hospital after being rescued, but the fifth sinking was followed by 7 days drifting on the high seas before being rescued, and three days without food. In their boat or raft they started out 12 in number, and ended up with seven. He spent a month in hospital after being rescued. During his time under such precarious conditions, he dropped 58 pounds in weight. During the last three days or so floating on the high seas, he says he lost much blood from a finger and gash in the forehead, which wounds were received when they were machine-gunned after being torpedoed. The last ship he was on was 18,000 tons. The lad has spent three months recuperating since leaving the hospital and in the meantime has regained much of his lost weight. He expects to be called back to the marine service any day. He hopes some day to be out of the marine service and enter the air force, as his father is an airman and likewise other members of the family. Being sunk by a dive bomber is much more harassing than being torpedoed, says our informant.

NO HOARDING, PLEASE

"Hoarding" does not apply only to rationed commodities but a recent announcement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board states.

It is every bit as illegal to stock up with supplies of boots and shoes, canned goods, clothing or other consumer goods as with tea, coffee, sugar and gasoline.

Purchases of any commodity should be limited to what is "just and reasonable."

High School Gives Up Tea

Teen-age boys and girls in Winnipeg set an example to their elders last week by voting to dispense with the serving of tea at their annual graduation ceremony.

The decision was taken by the students themselves as their own idea. One or two elders insisted that you can't have a reception without tea.

"You can't have tea without endangering sailors' lives," said the students.

There was no tea.

TABLE OF FOUR MAKES A MESS

Mess, term applied to gatherings into which members of a regiment are divided to rank, such as Officers' Mess is the term applied originally to a group of four people eating together at one table and served with the same dishes. In the Inns of Court in London the original number is still preserved, four benches or four students sitting together.

Ulysses Etienne

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Etienne, of Valleyfield and formerly of Huntingdon, recently received word that who has been overseas for some time, Ulysses, who joined the R.C.A.F. on September 9th, 1939, time has returned to Canada to continue a course to be an officer. He is now visiting with his wife, in Montreal.

$50 Pay For Soldiers Is Applied in House

A suggestion that the minimum rate of pay for Canadian soldiers be increased to $50 a month was made in the House of Commons on Thursday, by Arthur Slaght (Lib., Parry Sound), and was applauded by members in all parties.

He commented on the recent United States Senate action fixing a $50 monthly minimum for American soldiers and added: "We ought to put the same legislation on our statute books at once."

Soldiers of Canada and the United States had everything in common.

"I don't want to feel that our boys, who will be standing shoulder to shoulder with the gallant soldiers of the United States in the struggle to come, will be getting $39 while the others will be getting $50," he believed.

"If this could not be done, the difference between the present minimum rate of pay and $50 should accumulate and be paid the soldier at the end of the war."

HIS GIRL WROTE

Private Joe Di Mercurio of Battery A, 32nd training battalion, found himself in a rather embarrassing position recently. He received a letter from his girl friend—in shorthand.

Joe would like to know what the letter contains, but he is afraid to let anyone else read it.

Is that any way, he asks, to "Keep 'Em Happy?"

Crop Report Prov. of Que.

Eastern Townships and Ottawa Valley—Although recent heavy rains caused considerable flood damage on low-lying lands in the Eastern Townships, they were generally speaking, beneficial and crops are making satisfactory progress. Moisture is ample and warm weather is now required. Seeding of grains is completed and growth has been rapid. Hay has made rapid progress and a good crop is indicated. Pastureage is in very good condition. Peas and corn are seeded in most districts and growing well. Tomato plants are making good progress. Potatoes and other roots are promising. Orchards are in good condition and strawberries promise an average yield in most districts. Transplanting of tobacco plants, delayed by heavy rains, is nearing completion.

Lower St. Lawrence and Lake St. John district—Heavy rains caused considerable damage to crops on low lands but conditions on the whole are favourable and growth has been rapid. Seeding of grains is completed and crops are making satisfactory progress, especially on high ground. Hay is in good condition and prospects are favourable. Pastureage is excellent. Planting of potatoes and other root crops is completed in most districts and good progress is shown. There is sufficient moisture and warm weather would be beneficial.

Cool Suggestions for Warm Weather Days

As the temperature rises, the desire for good home-made ice cream makes itself felt more and more often. Thus, the following suggestions are timely:

Crushed hard candy is good when added to plain vanilla ice cream. Have your rolled slices or balls of ice cream in coconut or crushed cookie crumbs? They are delicious. Or, try adding one-half cup of macaroon crumbs, graham crackers, ginger snaps or grape-nuts when making plain vanilla ice cream.

Here are two easy-to-make refrigerator ice creams. I suggest either for a hot June or July day or evening:

Strawberry Revel Ice Cream
1 pkg. vanilla freezing mix
1 pint light cream
1 cup red strawberries
1-3 cup sugar
1-2 tsp. cornstarch thinned with 1 tsp. water
Whip cream and freezing mix together until smooth. Pour into freezing tray. When partly frozen, soft mush stage, add strawberry syrup and fold it in. At serving time fill the strawberry in the ice cream. Finish freezing.

*Add sugar, water and cornstarch to strawberries and cook over low flame a few minutes until clear. Cool, chill in refrigerator before adding to ice cream.

Vanilla Rennet-Custard Ice Cream
1 rennet tablet
1 tsp. cold water
1 cup milk, not canned
1-2 cup sugar
1-4 tsp. vanilla
1 cup heavy cream

Dissolve rennet tablet in cold water. Warm milk, sugar, and vanilla to lukewarm—not hot, stirring constantly. Remove from stove. Add dissolved tablet. Stir a few seconds. Pour at once into refrigerator tray. Set until firm—about 10 minutes, then cool in refrigerator 1-2 hour. Whip cream and stir into rennet-custard. Place in freezing compartment. Stir twice during freezing period.

Eating in War Times

What happens to plain Mr. and Mrs. Everyman and Everywoman when grim war brings shortages of many foods we have long been accustomed? Now that we are at war and certain popular foods may suddenly become scarce, it seems fitting that we should study what has happened abroad, and plan our menus so that we continue with a balanced diet in spite of shortages.

First reports from our European cousins were of two kinds. One dealt with the famine or near-famine in certain occupied or devastated lands. The second report told of increased health in Britain, where the people were forced to eat less than usual, and for this reason alone, were in better physical shape than before. Overeating and the restricted diet was exactly what the doctor ordered.

It is undoubtedly a fact that most of us would be far more healthy if we ate less. But when this reduction occurs we must still secure a balanced diet or the bad effects will more than offset the good.

For instance, the British diet of today shows a big need for fresh fruits. Scarcity of raw fruits has reduced the daily Vitamin C intake in a group of women examined to 269 milligrams—a bare one-third of the amount recommended. Where in 1935 these women averaged 291 ounces per week, they now average about one-half ounce.

Their consumption of tinned fruit has dropped from 1.7 oz. to 1.5 oz.; dried fruit from 1.1 oz. to .8; and tomatoes from 4.9 oz. to nothing. Cooked fruit has increased from 7.5 oz. to 11.4 oz.

The raw fruit of the British probably consists of about half apples and pears, with bananas taking care of the other half. Whereas in 1935 only three of the 63 women examined had eaten no raw fruit of any kind, in 1941, fifty had secured no raw fruit.

Fruits, the survey shows, in 1935 furnished more Vitamin C than all other sources in the 1941 restricted diet. As Vitamin C is the one food constituent that must be secured daily (the body does not store it as a reserve), this forced reduction of raw fruits, is serious.

An interesting observation in the field of Vitamin C deficiency has been reported recently: An American research doctor in England called attention to the many little bandages seen on passers-by, and said:

"The people are lacking in vitamins in their blood and when they scratch themselves, the scratches do not heal rapidly. You, however, might scratch your hand and in a day or so the scratch will heal, whereas in these people it takes a couple of weeks."

Fortunately for us, we can avoid this Vitamin C deficiency by using a little sound sense. Almost every section of our country produces a number of fresh fruits. California ships oranges and lemons; the entire year—and these two fruits stand high in the list of Vitamin C foods.

Increase your orange juice intake in the morning. Use more citrus salads and fruit cups. Drink more lemonade. Do these things and you will have no trouble in securing your necessary quota of this important Vitamin C, no matter what other foods are impossible to obtain.

PAINKILLER
IN USE OVER 100 YEARS
The best Household Medicine
TAKE IT FOR CRAMPS & CHILLS, APPLY IT FOR SPRAINS, BRUISES, ETC.

Orange Cooler
2 cups orange juice
1-4 cup lemon juice
1-4 cup maraschino cherry juice
1 cup ginger ale
2 tsp. honey
1 pint vanilla ice cream
2 tsp. sliced maraschino cherries
Mix fruit juices and ginger ale; add honey; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add ice cream; stir until blended. Serve in chilled glasses and top with cherry slices. Makes 1-2 quarts.

Iced Coffee
For iced coffee, use 2 heaping tablespoons decaffeinated coffee for each cup (1-2 pint) of water. Extra strength coffee is necessary on account of the melting ice. Use either drip or regular grind decaffeinated coffee, depending on your favorite method of making it. Remember that decaffeinated coffee, when "perked," needs slightly longer brewing to bring out its full, rich flavor.

A smart new way to make decaffeinated coffee in the refrigerator is to pour it into an ice cube tray, cool it and freeze it in the refrigerator. At serving time fill the glasses with coffee-ice cubes, then fill with hot milk—do not bring the milk quite to the boil—and you have a delicious iced coffee. It's a thrifty beverage, for the hot milk gives it a consistency like that of coffee observed with rich and expensive cream.

Raspberry Mayonnaise

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

How our standards of comfort and enjoyment alter as the result of inventions! Some of us may have heard it remarked in past years how peculiar it was that some certain person had never been on a train in his life, and one considered such a person pitifully out of touch with life and society behind the times. But this point of view has been changed by the invention of the automobile. Listen to this extract from a letter which I received from a high school student who described a trip to Ottawa. "The day came at last. What a time we had! It was a day never to be forgotten. We enjoyed the trip (on the train) ever so much as some had never ridden in a train before. It was a treat for me, too."

So it seems that in our modern world to travel on a train is, if not exactly peculiar, at least a thing in the lives of many people. The letter speaks well, not only for the descriptive ability of the student but also for the course in English composition as taught in our public schools. Continuing, the writer says: "We had our dinner in the restaurant in the Chateau Laurier and it was very delicious, but very costly, too. After dinner we wandered about the building for a time. We saw the great dining-room, the ball-room, and lounges, and some saw the swimming pool. All the furniture was antique, and there were lovely little tables with polished tops and quaint cabinets made of dull red and yellow wood in nearly every room. Nearly all the floors were carpeted and the seats were the most comfortable I ever sat in; you sank away down and felt very luxurious. There were beautiful flowers in different parts of the building."

After our tour of the Chateau we went to the Parliament building. Here we were given a guide. We went to the Peace Tower first. It was so high that the people on the ground seemed like dolls, and the cars like toy cars. On the way down from the Tower we saw the carillon bells which play music. The largest of these weighs ten tons and the smallest ten pounds. We heard the bells playing and the music was very sweet. We saw the keyboard at which the carillonneur plays; the keys are great wooden pegs. It is supposed to be one of the finest carillons in the world.

I think, perhaps, we shall remember our visit to the Chamber of Remembrance best of all. It was a beautiful room with stained glass windows, and unbelievably life-like scenes depicting the phases of the last war chiselled in stone all around the room, and great blocks of stone, taken from France and Belgium, inlaid in the floor. In the centre was a glass-covered box containing the Bible given by the Prince of Wales, and in which will be placed when completed, the Book of Remembrance. There was a very solemn atmosphere about the room, and we couldn't help wondering if perhaps those who were remembered there hadn't given their lives in vain, because once more young lads are making the same sacrifice as they did twenty-five years ago." (Of an unnatural thought especially in the mind of one so young as the letter-writer. Older minds have struggled with the same doubt. Yet—perish the thought!)

"We saw many other places; the library, which is the oldest part of the building, being the only part saved from the fire and having all the original furnishings, which are now quaint and old-fashioned; the Hall of Fame; the memorial to the dumb animals killed in the first Great War; and a great column spreading out at the top like a tree which represents Great Britain and her colonies. We were admitted to the House of Commons while it was in session, and most of us were surprised at the way the Government is carried on. "Older people have been surprised too." The members talk a good deal among themselves and little boys carry notes from one member to another. ("Surely a spectacle not calculated to edify students released from High School discipline!") We heard an interesting speech about war work given by a member of the Opposition. ("Stealing the show or just showing off was he? I wonder!")

TEA RATION SIMPLIFIED.
"How much tea is a reasonable ration?" many housewives ask. The reason for the question is that they do not know how much they have been in the habit of buying. They want to abide by the regulations but they don't know how much to cut in half. Figures show that the consumption of tea in Canada averaged one and one-fifth ounces per week for every man, woman and child. By eliminating the babies and younger children the per capita average of tea-drinkers is shown to have been in the neighbourhood of two ounces a week. Thus the whole thing is simplified—if you don't know what half your purchase was, play safe and restrict each member of the family to one ounce of tea per week.

THE DOG WHO ENGAGED A CAB
Elma M. Peterson

It is in Hellerup, a pleasant suburb of Copenhagen, Denmark, that the wire-haired terrier, "Bole," basks in the understanding care of his adoring master and mistress. Should a glimpse of sea through the foliage lure you into the quiet, tree-lined paths of the Lillestrandvej, you would probably see him trotting contentedly home after his daily dip or, if you showed the slightest inclination to turn in as you passed his doorway, hear a sharp, quick bark from his favorite lounging place on the wide window sill in his master's study.

In usual terrier style, Bole listens intently when talked to and, with eyes aglow and tail awag, succeeds in making himself understood, not only by those familiar with his habits, but by strangers as well. There is one quite outstanding example of his ability in this respect.

One evening his master and mistress, on a leisurely drive about Copenhagen, stopped at a park. As they strolled through the green-bordered paths, Bole dashed delightedly here and there among the trees and bushes, bringing from a clear pool or joining in the playful antics of other canines. When they were ready to leave the park, Bole was nowhere to be found. After extensive searching they were obliged to search on without him.

It was one o'clock when they were aroused by the telephone. The voice at the other end of the line informed them that he was a cab-driver.

"A dog with your name on his collar came to my cab," he said, "and seems to insist upon being taken somewhere."

The distance was rather great but you may be sure he was told to bring the dog home.

And that is how Bole, the terrier, with the cool reasoning of a human, engaged a cab and brought about a happy reunion with his master and mistress.

Good Job
Two office boys were discussing business.

"Have you got a good job?" asked one.

"Yes," came the prompt reply. "I can get to the office any time I choose before nine, and leave just when I please after six."

W.A. Teaches Soldiers to Mend and Knit

At the request of Chateaugay Barracks' authorities, darning and mending instruction has been started by the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Huntingdon Branch, on Saturday, Mrs. L. T. Brown, Convener of the Mending Committee, and Mrs. G. Dixon, Mrs. A. A. Lunan, Mrs. W. D. Shanks and Mrs. H. R. Clouston, president of the Auxiliary, were met and taken to the Barracks. Four companies were paraded to meet them for lessons.

Mrs. Clouston addressed the troops, telling them that on a march each foot moved three thousand times an hour and that wrinkles or knots soon disabled a man. Strong soaps or too hot water shrinks the wool and one gets the effects of bunions and hammer toes. A few minutes care of the socks prevents suffering and loss of manpower and also makes for great economy in these times of wool shortage.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Shanks each took a company on the parade ground. Mrs. Lunan instructed a company in the drill hall and Mrs. Dixon a company on the fair grounds.

Arrangements are being made for these classes once a week, with special care each time that new troops arrive.

Each day of Army Week the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary are visiting the Camp Hospital and taking permissible dainties with them.

HEMMINGFORD BABY BAND IS PROGRESSIVE

A happy group of Baby Band members and their mothers assembled in Hemmingford United Church Hall, Saturday afternoon, June 20th, from 3 to 5 p.m., to join with their leader, Mrs. Earl MacNaughton, in presenting a varied and interesting program prepared for the semi-annual Baby Band party.

After the opening hymn the Gift Boxes were dedicated with a brief prayer. This was followed by recitations, songs, games, etc., which delighted the mothers and friends who were present.

Mrs. Carl C. Dean, wife of a former minister at Hemmingford, was present, and in a very charming manner addressed the mothers on "Special Objects" to which the Baby Band givings will be applied. Six little tots then came forward and were presented with Life Membership Certificates.

An educational motion picture on "Evangelism" was then shown, followed by a Walt Disney production, which brought great pleasure to the hearts of the little ones.

Dainty refreshments were then served from prettily decorated tables.

FRIDAY FISH DAY
TUESDAY FISH DAY

"We fish don't swim in the ocean only to be eaten on Friday and what with submarine warfare it is increasingly difficult to stay out of trouble all week," the chairman of a codfish colony said in an underwater interview last week, explaining that numbers of his colleagues were not only willing but eager to win dietary recognition on another day besides Friday.

"Tuesday, for instance," the elderly doyen of the codfish colony said. Comparing the value of fish with other foods, the chairman quoted the late Sir Wilfred Grenfell, famed medical missionary, whose autobiography points out that whales live on seafood and attain flamboyant proportions and unprecedented vitality.

Besides fresh fillets of cod, fish markets now have an extensive variety of other fillets and smoked fish of many kinds, the season for fresh Restigouche salmon is in full swing, though there are equally nourishing cheaper kinds of salmon, and fresh frozen fillets that taste just as good as though caught just a few minutes before being introduced to the pan.

HOW TO BUY FISH
Demand absolute freshness—shown by firm flesh which springs back when you touch it. Eyes should be bright. Gills should be fresh in color.

HOW TO KEEP FISH—UNTIL YOU COOK IT
Wrap fresh fish in waxed paper and place in the refrigerator. Keep packaged frozen fish frozen until ready to cook and allow a little more time for cooking.

FISH NEEDS CAREFUL COOKING TO BE GOOD EATING
Fish is always tender. Cook it evenly at low or moderate temperature so it will not dry out and get tough.

Ask your fishmonger the best way to cook different kinds of fish—whether to broil, bake, fry or boil them.

DID YOU EVER TRY?
Flaking the left over fish to mix with mashed potato for fish cakes next day?

Cream sauce to serve on toast? Making a salmon loaf from canned pink salmon which is inexpensive? Dressing up the fish by pouring over it a little melted butter flavored with lemon or Worcestershire sauce?

WHAT DO YOU SERVE WITH FISH?
For the main plate—Fish, mashed potato and another cooked vegetable.

For a crispy lift to the appetite—Coleslaw; a green salad, raw carrot sticks.

To fill the gaps—Bread and Butter. To end with that satisfied feeling—Something light and sweet, or cheese and crackers.

Have you received your referential vitamin chart? Write for it to the Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto. Ask also for a fish recipe booklet giving 100 recipes for fish.

At the Movies

HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY

In the two hours of running time is unfolded a chronicle of a few years in the life of a Welsh mining family and other characters in the town. In the beginning "the valley was green" and that family of six sons and a daughter was happy but unhappiness came in several forms. There was the economic stress of a strike and unemployment which drove four of the sons out of the valley. Physical suffering included injury to the baby son, the narrator of the story, which almost made him a cripple, and the death of the eldest son and the father in two mine disasters. Personal misery came from the unhappy marriage of the daughter to the son of the mine owner and the gossip which linked her with the young minister, though their love was silent, and the suffering of the parents seeing their family split up.

The film is not without its light moments despite its background and basic theme. There are a number of good laughs and delightful scenes of family life. Also there is some noteworthy singing by the Welsh Singers. Though a small boy is one of the chief characters there is little in this picture that would interest children. But it should send all others from the theatre praising it.

Showing at O'Connor Theatre, Sunday and Monday, July 5-6.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, she wore a floor length gown of white sheer, having a draped bodice and long sleeves. Her veil of tulle illusion reaching to the hem of her skirt, was held by a wreath of orange blossoms worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried an arm bouquet of Tailsman roses.

Alaska May Prove a Stepping Stone to Japan

ALASKA—Picturesque land of glaciers, gold mines and salmon streams is a pawn of tremendous importance in the Pacific war. With its tall of Aleutian Islands stretching almost to Asia, it is the United Nations' bridge to Russia—and a spearhead pressed close to Japan.

The late Billy Mitchell, farsighted prophet of airpower's role in modern war, once remarked:

"He who holds Alaska holds the world."

Mitchell saw Alaska as a bastion at the top of the globe, from which airpower might dominate the whole north Pacific. Like Greenland and Iceland in the North Atlantic, Alaska gains its strategic importance from the curvature of the earth.

OS SHORT ROUTE

Because the world curves as it does, Alaska and the Aleutians lie along the shortest route from San Francisco to Tokyo.

Dutch Harbour, midway in the Aleutian group, is almost equidistant from San Francisco, Tokyo and Pearl Harbour. What's more, it's closer to both San Francisco and Tokyo than Pearl Harbour is and thus may become the key to the north Pacific.

Only in recent years has the United States come to grasp its strategic value. The U. S. bought Alaska three-quarters of a century ago, back in 187 when Secretary of State Seward negotiated a deal with Czarist Russia. The Czar needed some ready cash and sold out his holdings for $72,000,000—about two cents an acre.

But, to an America just emerging from a civil war, that was a steep price. Most people considered Alaska a barren arctic wasteland, and the deal soon was nicknamed "Seward's folly."

Gold turned the deal into one of the most profitable real estate transactions ever made. The big rush came in 1898, when 18,000 sourdoughs stumbled through Chilkoot Pass into the rich streams of the Yukon country.

REPAID 200 TIMES

The Klondike gold rush repaid America three-times over in a single year. And in 75 years of only limited exploitation, Alaska has paid for itself 200 times in gold, salmon, furs, copper and timber.

Today, salmon is the real paydirt of Alaska. Along the swift-running streams where silvery salmon return to breed, fishermen catch 35 to 50 million dollars worth of salmon each year.

Gold still flows freely from the rich veins of the Yukon country. The yield now runs about $25,000,000 annually. Down through the years, $227,000,000 worth of copper has been extracted from Alaska's mines—but the supply is petering out now.

Despite Alaska's enormous wealth, the United States for years left it almost unguarded. Only 300 troops were stationed in the territory to protect an area of 584,000 square miles—one fifth the size of the 48 states.

Strategic Dutch Harbour and other outposts in the Aleutian chain were undeveloped. For, up until 1936, the limitations of the Washington Naval Treaty prevented us from establishing bases there.

But all this has been changed by the impact of war. Five major bases now have been developed with lightning swiftness to tighten the grasp on this rich and strategic land. At Dutch Harbour, Kodiak, Sitka, Anchorage and Fairbanks, army and navy technicians have been working miracles.

Moreover, Japan's treacherous attack on Pearl Harbour, has spurred development of a highway to Alaska—through the Canadian wilds. Across 1,100 miles of forest, bulldozers and tractors are hacking a path to link Alaska bases with the arsenals back home.

When the job is completed, convoys of trucks will speed supplies to Alaskan outposts in half the time now taken by boats. And flanking this highway is a chain of newly-constructed bases, built for the swift transfer of airpower to the Far North.

Vast strides thus has been made to build up Alaska as a base. But, in the crucial role it is destined to play in the Pacific struggle, Alaska will be on as strong as Germany, France and Italy combined.

Alaska's tremendous shoreline is another defensive weakness. It stretches 4,700 miles, or longer than that of the continental United States. And, if you count the coasts of its hundreds of islands, the total shoreline to be guarded runs to 26,000 miles.

Seapower and airpower to break up any invading force at sea. Offensively too, seapower and airpower will determine the role Alaska plays in the grand strategy of the war is essentially a base—or string—of bases—stretching like a bridge to the threshold of Asia.

BOARD OFFICIALS HAVE CARDS. All officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are furnished with identification cards which they may be asked to produce if any doubt of their identity arises. There have been cases, it was learned at the Board, of impostors misrepresenting themselves as Board officials.

TAKES IN BIG AREA. The Montreal regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is responsible for half the area and two thirds of the population of the Province of Quebec. Organization completed to date divides the territory into 15 sub-regions to which appropriate officers have been appointed to serve the public.

TEA RATION HINTS. Never mind about a spoonful for the pot. Use level teaspoons—not heaping ones. Water for tea must be boiling. Don't let tea stand on the leaves—pour it into another heated pot.

SAVE SUGAR—SAVE SHIPS. Many tea and coffee drinkers have tasted those beverages for the first time now that rationing has come in. Previously they stirred so much sugar into the cup that much of the flavour was lost. Now they have given up sugar and like the result.

B. Y. O. T. What does "B. Y. O. T." mean? You'd better learn because it may be used on invitations as often as "R.S.V.P." is today. It means, "Bring your own tea." Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in announcing the tea and coffee restrictions, pointed out that "ships and sailors' lives must not be risked to bring in from abroad a single pound of supplies which we can do without."

Obituary

THE LATE STANLEY GEBBIE. The death on Thursday, June 25th, of Mr. Stanley Gebbie, at the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, was received with much regret by a large circle of friends.

Mr. Gebbie had undergone a very serious operation three weeks before and seemed to be gaining nicely, when complications set in. Everything was done by doctors and nurses to save him, but of no avail.

Mr. Gebbie was born and educated in Howick, having entered the home branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at an early age. He advanced quickly, due to his ability and a pleasant disposition. His transfers were few, and each branch felt it keenly when they had to part with him.

For the past eight years he was manager at Beauharnois. He was a keen cyclist and always enjoyed joining with the home team. The funeral which was largely attended, was held on Sunday, at 2:30 p.m., at Riverfield Church, and conducted by Mr. McBride and Rev. H. Brown of Ormstown.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his parents and two brothers, Irwin and Kenneth of Montreal, who have the sympathy of the community. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Keeping it Dark. An old couple on holiday went to a music-hall. Among the "turns" was a snake charmer who, at the conclusion of his performance, invited any person in the audience to come on to the stage and attempt the art of snake-charming.

Huntingdon

The Huntingdon Branch of the Red Cross wishes to acknowledge with thanks the following donation: $5.00, Mrs. John Farrell. A conference is being held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church this week for the Ministers of the Synod. The meetings, which are open to the public, were started on Monday evening and the last one will be held on Thursday morning.

Mr. Lawrence Riel has purchased the house and property recently owned by Mrs. Margaret Kidd. The house and large corner lot are situated on the corner of Bouchette and York streets.

Try and Beat It. "Down where I live," said the Texan, "we grew a pumpkin so big that when we cut it my wife used one-half of it for a cradle." "Well," smiled the man from Chicago, "that's nothing. A few days ago, right here, two full-grown policemen were found asleep on one beat."

10,000 Instruments Keep Army in Step Bugle, Bagpipe and Bass Survive Though All Other Oldtime Traditions Swept Away in Modern Military Set-up—Some Are Costly

"Sound the trumpet, beat the drum." Since the days of Jericho, Johnny-the-soldier-boy has demanded martial music. Canada's fighting men of today are no exception, and the Department of Munitions and Supply is helping to maintain tradition by assuring the armed forces an ample supply of bugles, drums, and even less commonplace instruments.

With negotiations under way for the purchase of 200 bagpipes, the number of musical instruments bought by the department for the three services since the war started totals nearly 10,000, involving an expenditure of $300,000. The new bagpipes will cost a little over $80 each and specifications call for first quality African blackwood, mounted in imitation ivory, and supplied complete with tartan covers, cords, and tassels. To keep our warring Highlanders in fighting mood, the best is none too good.

Some fifty types of band instruments, including several species of drum, horn, trombone, saxophone and saxophone are among the purchases made by the department. In addition, there are large quantities of accessories and spares, such as heads, straps, sticks, and aprons, for the drums; cords and chains for the bugles and trumpets; mouthpieces and reeds; instrument cases and music card holders, and maces for the drum majors.

For the men in uniform, the bugle is not only an alarm clock; it is a chief signal, a rallying call, and a toll bell. Evidence of its importance to military life is apparent from the fact that since the beginning of the war, 2,170 have been purchased, together with 2,267 trumpets.

The purchase of these band instruments, however, form but a very small part of the duties of the man who buys them. As head of one of the 12 divisions of the General Purchasing Branch of the Department of Munitions and Supply, his responsibility is to order, arrange for the purchase of, and receive, as well as a tremendous diversity of wartime requirements.

Great changes have taken place in the art of warfare. Gone are the bow and arrow, the sword and the lance, the cavalry horse, and the scimitar. But the trumpet blare and the roll of drums still echo on the battlefields. Essential to the morale of the men who fight our battles, martial music will remain until the end of wars.

"Sound the bugle, beat the drum!" and watch Johnny-the-soldier-boy pull out his chest, straighten his back, and walk to battle with a song and a smile.
