VERDUN

The City of Verdun is ideally located at the south-western limits of Montreal on the banks of the St. Lawrence River, which is about 8 miles wide at this point. The municipality was incorporated as a village under the name of Riviere St. Pierre in 1874, changed to the Village of Verdun in 1876, erected into a Town in 1907 and a City in 1912. Since 1901 its population has increased from 1898 to 72,845. Possessing very few industries it is almost entirely composed of homes and stores. Its famous boardwalk is now being replaced by a modern asphalt promenade, brilliantly lighted, along the entire three-mile river front, and banked with attractive lawns and shrubbery. Municipal tennis courts, a bowling green and a dance pavilion are also situated here. In addition a very modern Municipal Auditorium and Hockey Arena has recently been opened, seating 4,500, as well as two magnificent open air municipal swimming, pools, both on the river front.

Great success has been achieved in the building of homes under the National Housing Act, the City offering suitable lots for sale at very low prices. On this plan a small model village is being constructed.

Educational facilities are excellent, with thirteen Catholic and eight Protestant schools. There are two hospitals and eighteen churches. Public services such as health, police, water and electricity are of the best. Through its Municipal Playgrounds Commission the City Council gives special attention to providing and supervising playgrounds for children, and new areas are continually being designated for this purpose.

The form of civil government consists of a mayor and eight aldermen elected every two years. Four aldermen are elected by proprietors only, and the Mayor and four aldermen by all rate payers. The City Manager System has been in force since 1933. The Mayor and four aldermen constitute an Executive Committee. Population, 72,845.
