3 Face Treason Charges

NEW YORK—(AP)—An American representative at the United Nations has called on the world organization to denounce the outbursts of anti-Semitism throughout the world.

The appeal was issued as a New York court Friday stunned three youthful American admirers of Hitler by charging them with treason. Conviction could bring the death penalty.

Widespread anti-semitic flare-ups were reported in the United States, but the hate demonstrations seemed to be abating in Europe, where they began in West Germany Christmas Eve.

The resolution was presented to the UN subcommittee on prevention of discrimination and protection of minorities by Justice Philip Halpern of Buffalo, N.Y. HAD CO-OPERATION

Halpern, who has served on the subcommittee since 1954, said resolution had been drawn up in close co-operation with the U.S. state department.

The draft, co-sponsored by Britain, France, Austria, Uruguay and Finland, asks the subcommittee to condemn the anti-semitic displays as a violation of both the UN Charter and the declaration of human rights.

It also calls on the UN human rights commission to approve these measures:

1. An appeal to all UN members to take appropriate actions to prevent and punish anti-semitic acts, including adoption of additional laws and enforcement of present ones.

2. Call on all authorities to eradicate prejudices underlying anti-semitic manifestations.

MINOR CHARGE
In New York City, home of more than 2,000,000 Jews, a judge ordered the treason charges placed against three youths accused only of consorting for an unlawful purpose — a misdemeanor.

"As I look at it," said Magistrate Milton Solomon, who is Jewish, "treason exists where one plots a war against society and his government."

One of the defendants, John Wallace, 21, self-styled leader of an "American socialist renaissance party," was boastful on entering the court. But, after hearing the judge's comment, he pleaded "I'm insane — I did this in a state of intoxication."

Co-defendants Hugh Barlow, 20, and Richard E. Phelps, 16, were equally shocked.

Remember Cyril, He's Back In The Spotlight

SLIPPERY THE CLOWN — Cyril the slippery sea lion can't seem to forget all the attention he got in 1958 when he wriggled under a fence at the London, Ont., zoo and started off on a swim that landed him in the United States.

Back at the London zoo after being captured in a Toledo, Ohio, boat house, he's a big attraction for zoo visitors.

Practice time is meal time for Cyril, who now is nicknamed Slippery. He's shown here jumping up for a tasty frozen fish as a lone pool pal looks on.

Slippery's route after he escaped from the London zoo took him down the Thames River, through Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River to Lake Erie. He followed the Maumee River into Ohio but became trapped in shallow rapids. Tranquillizer darts were shot into him but he eluded pursuers until they found him dozing in a boat house. (CP Photo)

Murders Salesman In Bungled Holdup

PARAMUS, N.J. — AP — A masked gunman killed a salesman and wounded two other employees Friday night when he bungled a holdup at a big department store and tried to shoot his way out.

He was captured by the store's security officers after a plucky customer landed a blow on the gunman's head with a can of cleaning fluid.

Several hundred shoppers were in the store, one of five suburban branches operated by Bamberger's New Jersey. The holdup and shootings were at the basement credit counter, in an isolated area not crowded at the time.

The gunman, Edward Lehman, 30, was charged with murder. When men at the county prosecutor's office remarked that he did not look remorseful, Lehman replied:

"What do you want me to do, put on an act?"

Authorities said the gunman entered the store, at the centre of a big highway-shopping plaza, just before 6 p.m. Vaulting over the counter with a handkerchief tied across nose and mouth, he waved a pistol and said:

"NOBODY MOVE."
"This is a holdup. Nobody move."

A large amount of cash was in the department. John Blanch, 39, the credit manager, grappled with the bandit.

The gunman fired. Blanch fell with bullets in the chest and shoulder and a scalp wound.

Leo Zaritsky, 47, was at work in the adjacent furniture department as a part-time salesman. He rushed over, and the gunman fired a single shot into his head. The salesman died where he fell.

Another salesman, Fred Cramer, 41, tried to grab the gunman and was shot in the arm.

Charles Jony, a customer, had just bought a can of cleaning fluid and heard the shots and commotion. Rushing in that direction, he came upon the gunman and swung the can down hard on his skull. Security guards and other salesmen jumped on the bandit, knocking him to the floor, and grabbed his half-empty German automatic.

Ask Nfld Set Aside Subpoena

ST JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has asked the Newfoundland Supreme Court to set aside a subpoena ordering him to appear as a witness in a civil suit involving election spending.

The application, filed with the court Friday by R. A. Parsons, a St. John's lawyer, will be heard Tuesday. Mr. Parsons said he expected to receive procedural instructions today by mail from the prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker was served with the subpoena Wednesday shortly before entering a cabinet meeting in Ottawa. His application to have it set aside says the subpoena is not effective outside Newfoundland.

CIVIL SUIT TRIAL

It summons him to appear at a trial, scheduled to open Jan. 21, of a civil suit involving funds spent in the 1957 federal election by the Progressive Conservative party.

Redmond Grant of Montreal launched a $10,200 action against St. John's businessman William S. Perlin. Mr. Grant alleges that money advanced to the treasurer of the Newfoundland PCs was not used for the specific purpose intended. He wants it back.

About Politics

Suggest Federal Pressure

By CUTHBERT JONES (Record Staff Writer)

Whether Dr. Fernand Lizotte, Union Nationale member for Lislet, sees the light and maintains his membership in the Legislative Assembly or whether he goes through with his announced decision of resigning, his outburst Wednesday is giving satisfaction to the Liberal party.

The reason for the Liberal jubilation is obvious.

Earlier in the week Opposition Leader Jean Lesage declared that the selection of Hon. Antonio Barrette had been forced on the caucus of Union Nationale members by representatives of the federal Progressive Conservative.

This was met by a storm of denials from Union Nationale leaders, who claimed the choice of Mr. Barrette as leader was free and unanimous.

Hardly had these declarations reached the press than Dr. Lizotte called the press gallery members for a conference during which he announced he was quitting the party and resigning his seat in the house because he disagreed with the manner in which Mr. Barrette was chosen.

He told the newspapermen that members of the party had not been free to select a leader of their choice at a party caucus January 7 to pick a successor to the late Paul Sauve. The selection of Mr. Sauve was imposed on the members, he said.

Dr. Lizotte said he felt he didn't have the right to go against the wishes of his constituents.

Furthermore, Dr. Lizotte continued, certain other back benches agreed with him.

Two of those named promptly repudiated Dr. Lizotte's statement, saying he did not have the authority to speak for them.

The latest report is that Dr. Lizotte is to meet Premier Barrette and talk over the situation.

But, say the Liberals, their claims have been justified. Dr. Lizotte has given evidence supporting the charges of Mr. Lesage.

Even of the dispute is patched up, Opposition spokesmen believe their position is improving materially with each passing day. The Lizotte outbreak is not an isolated case.

Predicts Global Action

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Complete global disarmament could be undertaken within the next four years, Amassap Aroutunian, Soviet ambassador to Canada, said Friday.

Speaking to the Hippocratic Society of the University of Western Ontario Medical School, he said two factors favored military demobilization at present: A growing trend among leading nations of the world toward the precepts of disarmament and the active promotion of many of these of the program.

"First of all, one cannot underestimate that the idea of complete and general disarmament attracts more and more people, whole nations in fact, and becomes a real material force of policy."

"There exists at the present time quite a group of states which consistently strives for implementation of disarmament. We hope the other states will join the movement to carry out the noble cause of general and complete disarmament."

SHORTER WORK WEEK

In another part of his address Friday night, Mr. Aroutunian dealt with the Soviet economic program, and said the country's seven-year plan would provide workers with a 35-hour week.

"During the 1960s we are going to transfer all workers and employees to a seven-hour working day. Several categories will have a six-hour working day or less."

"In 1964 we shall start gradually to go over to a 30-hour week for workers occupied in underground work and a 35-hour week for the rest. One can understand that peace is a vital necessity for the Soviet people to fulfil the seven-year plan and to enjoy the rich fruits of their labor under the plan."

Khrushchev Reduces Armed Forces

By DAVID ROWNTREE Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUMMARY OF WEEK: Parliament will be asked to give the vote to all Canadian Indians. Khrushchev says Russia is so strong it can reduce its armed forces by one-third. Finance Minister Fleming warns that Canada's business expansion must not get out of hand.

The throne speech, read to the opening of Parliament by Governor-General Vanier Thursday, said legislation will be introduced to give all Indians the franchise.

Four groups of Indians already have the vote: War veterans and their wives; those in the Yukon and Northwest Territories; those living off reservations; and those living on reservations who pay income tax on money earned on the reservations.

It now is proposed that all other Indians of voting age on reservations be enfranchised. This would add 50,000 or 60,000 names to the 6,300 already on the voting list.

Indian reaction was generally favorable although most who gave their views added they presumed they would lose none of their treaty rights by the change.

FORESTS AND RIGHTS

Other legislation foreshadowed in the throne speech:

Amendments to the federal-provincial tax-sharing agreements in line with action already agreed on with Quebec. This would allow provinces desiring to increase corporation income taxes by one per cent to 10 per cent and use the money to help finance provincial universities on the same scale as the federal university grants program.

URNS STATE'S EVIDENCE

Robert Gebhart was charged with smuggling 65 parrots into the United States from Mexico. He pleaded not guilty, reasoning that no one could really tell where they came from.

Investigators couldn't get the birds to talk in English but when one of them tried Spanish, a parrot answered: "Buenos dias, señor."

Gebhart shrugged and changed his plea to no contest.

TRIM SOVIET FORCES

Premier Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, Thursday that because the U.S.S.R. has the greatest firepower ever possessed by any nation, a reduction of troops is possible.

He said that in the next year or two the Soviet Union intends to reduce its forces by one-third, to 2,423,000 men from 3,623,000.

The reduction won't weaken Russia, he said, because Soviet scientists have a new and "fantastic" weapon "in the hatching stage." This is in addition to a big stockpile of atomic and hydrogen weapons, well-concealed rocket bases and a lead of "several years" in rocket development and production.

The state department in Washington said there would be "no verifiable means of checking" Khrushchev's proposed cuts.

At its first session of the year, the Lockport, N.Y., city council spent most of the time discussing how to speed up meetings. It lasted seven hours.

FLEMING URGES CAUTION

Three dangers confront the economy, Finance Minister Fleming told the Canadian Club in Toronto Monday: Instability, inflation, high costs.

"We must seek to spare Canada the experience of boom-bust," he said. "Excessive fluctuations create fear and disturb confidence in the future."

Fleming made these points: The seller's market is a thing of the past, be careful or you will price yourselves out of the market.

Indications are that public and private investment will set records this year.

Governments must practise what they preach. To this end, the 1960-61 estimates have been given a searching review to eliminate wasteful spending.

Until Canada can generate far more capital than it now does, it will continue to need large injections of money from abroad; he indicated there is no "magic wand" that will make the premium on the Canadian dollar, now at about five per cent, disappear.

Adventures With God

Finds The Old $10 Rocking Chair One Of The Simplest Of Blessings

I sat in the old rocker purring like a kitten. For the first time in weeks the breakfast dishes were washed and in place in the cupboard and I had a few minutes to spare before the deadline to begin writing.

The old chair seemed to snuggle up to me in the most comforting way, like an old slipper or an old glove. Deep down, the spirit of thanksgiving was building over, and I thanked my God for all the simple blessings which have piled up around me through the years.

The old chair was one of these simplest blessings, tailor-made through the centuries by God himself to meet my need. I have often wondered why furniture makers insist upon building high chairs for short people and low chairs for tall people. They make work for bone doctors and a lot of misery for innocent people whose spines are pulled out of line while sitting in a too-low chair.

When I found the old rocker in the secondhand shop, I knew that it had been made to order and I paid my $10 for it with a sense of triumph. At last I would not need a derrick to lift me from one of those low, overstuffed contraptions that take all dignity from a woman when she tries to extricate herself.

The old rocker and I started the Fabulous Fifties together out we had both been on the road a long time before we met, and it was a case of love at first sight.

Like most women choosing a husband, I had some reservations. I told myself "I'll make the old chair over, not changing the basic qualities, but making it safe and sound."

It was following a bout with a rebellious spinal column that I began my search for a rocker that was firm and high, tailor-made to keep me sitting pretty and safely at the same time.

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Stan Freberg is trying to sound the death knell for rock 'n' roll, but he's running into problems.
 The satirist's latest jibe at American manners and morals is a record called The Old Payola Roll Blues. It's a pointed fable about a fast-buck artist who pulls a delinquent teen-ager off the street and makes a rock 'n' roller out of him—in the manner of several real-life top recording stars of the day.
 The con man then tries to bribe a disc jockey to plug the atrocity, is rebuffed and slips out under the door. Virtue triumphs amid the refrain Hello Music.

Hello Swing, Hello Jazz, You Beautiful Thing.
FAST SELLER
 The disc came out last week and took off immediately — in some places. A top Los Angeles radio station played it six times a day. The store sales indicated the record was moving as fast as Freberg's million - and - a - half seller, St. George and the Dragonet.
 Elsewhere, the story is different. Capitol Records says that between 60 and 70 per cent of its field men report opposition in their areas to getting Payola Roll Blues played on local radio stations.
 The author, usually known as Steady Stan, is incensed.
 "The fact that a Los Angeles station would play the record six times a day, even though it is over-length, shows that it must have some value for the public," said Freberg. "The record is not anti-disc jockey. The great majority of disc jockeys are honest."
AGAINST SOME
 "The record is against certain independent record companies that have bought their way to success and have inflicted this atrocity called rock 'n' roll on the unsuspecting public. Music should be selected on its merits alone, not because somebody gets paid to play it on the radio."
 "If stations don't play it, I can only conclude that they must have something to hide."
 This is not the first time Freberg has had problems getting his satires played. His Green Christmas, a tirade against commercializing Christ's birth day, ran into opposition from Madison

SEAL FAT SERVES AS COMBUSTION IN IGLOOS

In the Midnight Country, the Eskimo population of the Great Canadian North, make their living by fishing and hunting.

As seal hunting is more profitable, they devote more time to this principal source of revenue. Seal gives them a fat substance and a thick short waterproof fur. The fur is the joy of the ladies as it keeps them warm against cold climate and winds. The fat substance is processed and used as combustion for the igloos.

The refinery processing to raw fuel, namely naphtha, is more complicated and more costly than the process used by Eskimos on the seal fat. As large oil companies spend millions yearly to produce a better commercial fuel (fuel oil) . . . W. H. # Some Are Burned Old Yule Trees Just Fade Away

By ELAINE SMITH
(Record Staff Reporter)

Thousands were fatally injured about a month ago. They lived in sparkling splendor for a short time but then they perished from lack of attention and water. Death was unavoidable. And now these masses have been burnt or left in chosen spots to decay, without so much as a proper burial ground. During this week thousands of Christmas trees have been discarded throughout the city. Special trucks were sent through all the streets to pick up the remains of each family's Christmas greenery. Then they transported their cargo to a dump where the trees, which once stood so stately in our living rooms were burnt to cinders. We were urged to speed up the death of the greenery by both the Fire Department and the City Health Department. What a comedown for the stars of the Yuletide season! But the Fire Department said that they are a fire hazard to our homes and should be removed after a two-week stay unless they have been watered daily.

The Health Department warned citizens that unless they had their trees near the sidewalk in front of their homes on the particular day that the special truck went by their home, they would be left with one old dead Christmas casualty on their hands. The city employs two trucks and six men to carry out this rather sad duty which will be completed by Jan. 25. In Lennoxville, there was an extra garbage day this week when residents were rid of their Christmas trees. Some of the luckier trees will be put to a second use as decoration for the grounds during the Bishop's University carnival weekend. The rest were burned to death at the town dump. In Sherbrooke, the trees have all been picked up in the East Ward but North Ward residents have one more chance to discard their trees on Monday. The trucks will collect West Ward trees next week, Tuesday through to Friday, and Centre Ward trees should be discarded Jan. 23 and 25.

Three Zone Changes In 3 Years Made For Vallee — Mayor Nadeau

By PAT BOUGIE

Winter Photography

For the next few months snow will be our pleasure or misery. We should photograph its moods in the manner suited to its Jekyll and Hyde behaviour. Some days it presents a fairy winterland, with frost on the trees and bushes forming a contrast against the blue of the sky, and the winter sun travelling in a low arc across its winter path, forming long shadows like fingers across the fields and drifts or, on the other hand, a raving giant with wind whipped drifts and tongues of misty snow leaping into the cold frigid air.

All this will bring problems to the photographer but also, when alert, many fine and interesting pictures with generous rewards. To take a successful picture of winter, or any subject for that matter, one must determine what is a successful photograph. To explain this aim one will have to learn to see photographically.

In this word are a number of hidden tricks, talents and techniques which automatically go together with a bit of practise. Let's take these one by one—first you see a subject worth taking. As we are using the medium of photography, light and shade, various tones of greys and blacks with sparkling highlights all giving a third dimensional effect and must be considered. These are all the secrets of the trade in monotone or black and white photographs. Naturally, in colour, this is increased with the colours of the spectrum. Secondly also, one must watch for the angle of light and background behind the subject—asking yourself is it confusing, unrelated, detracted in tone or shape, do people have telegraph poles sticking out of their heads or wear chimneys for hats; when photographing houses are they held up by hydro wires. These faults are in most cases easily remedied by changing your camera position.

Another point to remember is that seldom do we photograph head-on. This head-on collision of camera and subject is one way to run in that third dimensional effect. As in the case of a person, the shoulders would be turned away from camera position. This method creates a depth and roundness required. In the case of scenery, we rely on bushes and trees. Also, in the immediate foreground one should have shadow or darker tone to hold the picture down, as it were, perhaps an arch or gate framing the view. In the case of a gate, be sure it is open enough to enter, or whoever views your final print could not enter the picture optically. This would disturb the viewer even though your distant scene was interesting. Though the sun should, for the best effect, come from the side, this gives texture in snow and for some unusual shots with a lens shade, unshot to the sun. This is called back-light and gives tremendous depth and mood. Never have the sun behind you as this will flatten out the texture of the snow.

Exposure for winter pictures is a little deceiving to calculate—there is a range of tone in the shadow of the drifts and tree trunks and they all contain detail that should be shown in the final print. The city's zoning by-law has been amended three times during the past three years to accommodate North Ward merchant Gustave Vallee, Mayor Nadeau said yesterday.

"Why did he not ask for a referendum then?" the mayor asked at his weekly press conference.

Earlier yesterday, Mr. Vallee announced that he planned to take court action against the city as the result of an amendment to the zoning by-law Monday night commercializing two lots of the North Ward triangle bounded by Prospect-Victoria-Ontario streets.

"In 1956, Mr. Vallee asked for a construction permit to build a restaurant adjacent to his grocery store (located at the Prospect-Victoria corner). The zoning by-laws was amended for him, Mr. Nadeau said.

Again in May of 1957, Mr. Vallee was accommodated when he asked for a construction permit to build a gasoline service station on the Bromptonville road, the mayor said.

"Finally, in March of 1957 he asked for a construction permit which he was granted for the widening of his restaurants," Mr. Nadeau said. Again, the zone by-law was amended.

FOLLOWED LAHAYE

Mayor Nadeau told reporters that the only reason he voted in favor of commercializing the two plots of land in the North Ward was because Town Planner J. C. LaHaye recommended it.

"This way, nobody can accuse me of siding with either party," Mr. Nadeau said.

"Mr. LaHaye as far as I know, has no personal interests in Sherbrooke whatever. For this reason, I followed his opinion," he said.

In reply to a statement made by Mr. Vallee which appeared in yesterday's Record stating that he had instructed his lawyers to protest against the recent amendment before the Legislature, Mayor Nadeau said Mr. Vallee had the right to do so.

In reply to Mr. Vallee's statement that the city was deliberately abusing the powers given to it in 1937 Mr. Nadeau had the following to say:

"In 1937 the city's charter was amended so that the city could amend the zoning by-law without having to call for a referendum. This was done because the city was getting bigger and bigger. Costs of referendums were getting prohibitive.

The question of the North Ward triangle came into the news August 24 when the city's zoning by-law was amended to permit construction of a gasoline service station at the Victoria-Ontario Streets intersection.

Following a petition signed by 1,200 North Ward residents, the by-law was rescinded. A few weeks later after several other commercialization permits were requested, came the Vallee request for a construction permit to build a shopping center on the triangle.

All requests were refused until last Monday night when two lots on the triangle were commercialized.

By CHARLES CATCHPAUGH

Former members of the 5th C.M.R., and the 35th L.A.A. Bty. paid their last respects to an old comrade Clarence Price, who died December 31st at Ste. Anne de Bellevue Hospital. Clarence was well known in military circles in this district having served on his return to Canada after being wounded in the First World War with both the Sherbrooke Regiment and the 35th Bty. In the First World War Clarence was the youngest Canadian soldier to go overseas.

It was officially announced last Tuesday evening, that Fernand Tanguay, Officer Commanding the 8th Medical Company, RCA MC, had been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Exercise "Nuclear," held last Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday was judged a huge success, and especially the Sherbrooke region operation.

Among the permanent force personnel taking part in "Exercise Nuclear," was WO-1, Wm. Earl, who was attached to the 8th Medical Company, RCAMC up until a year ago. He is now with the 2nd Field Ambulance Company at Camp Val Cartier. Mr. Earl was NCO in charge of the advance party for this week's exercise, and with Capt. Fraser, of the 2nd Field Ambulance, took charge of simulating casualties for Tuesday evening's demonstration.

Militiamen of the 9th Militia Group wondering when the Christmas recess ends, will be interested in the following dates:

Parades for the 27th Field Regiment, RCA, began Wednesday, Jan. 13th.

The Sherbrooke Regiment, RCAC and 8th Medical Company, RCAMC commence training next Thursday evening, the 21st, while the 24 Technical Squadron, RCME open the 19th. The 7/XI Husars Regiment, RCAC and 46th Field Regiment, RCA, open the second half of their training year on the 20th, and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, RCIC, begin Monday the 25th.

The 6th Battalion, 22R of St. Hyacinthe, who also belong to the 9 Militia Group, start training this Monday, the 18th.

Three young men from Sherbrooke, Edward Anderson, Michael Pare and Allan Blais MacEachern, now members of the United States Army, Armoured Corps are home on leave, prior to their departure for Germany.

Pte. Anderson and Pte. Pare were formerly with the Sherbrooke Regiment, RCAC, where they gained considerable tank driving experience, which is proving quite valuable to them now as G.I's.

Following an eight week basic training course, at Fort Dix, New Jersey, they moved to Fort Knox Kentucky.

It's interesting to note the various phases of training now included in the U.S. Army basic, as described by Anderson, Pare and MacEachern. They included: physical drill, first aid, dismount drill, route marching, bivouac drill, M-1 rifle pre-sighting, guard mounting, individual day training, K. D. range, pit detail, transition ranges, infiltration instruction, squad tactics, patrolling, bayonet drill, land mine warfare, use of handgrenades, gas drill, flame throwers and close

Franchise For Indians

Yesterday's Speech from the Throne indicated all Canadian Indians of voting age will be given the right to vote in Federal elections by the new session of Parliament.

The move would affect some 80,000 Indians 21 years of age and over now living in Canada. Their treaty rights will in no way be removed by the new franchise.

Most Canadians will agree with the Government that such a move is a good one.

In modern times, Indians have been well-treated in Canada. Many of them have found for themselves a rich and useful place in our society. Their reservations, generally speaking, have been good places in which to live, properly maintained and properly administered. A great deal has been done for the education of Indians. But the time should have come quite a while ago when we stopped thinking of the Indians as people apart from other Canadians.

While the term "second-class" citizen has seldom been applied to the Canadian Indian, a man or woman who does not share in the responsibilities of our democratic way of life is really just that.

And no one has the right to share this responsibility more than the Indian.

The victory, if there is a victory, is not one which the Government or the Canadian people have achieved. It is a triumph for the Indian people themselves; one which they have earned several times over.

No one should be surprised if they remark, perhaps grumpily: "It's about time."

Guilt By Association

The fallacy of attempting to regulate some particular problem by a general law is again emphasized by certain provisions of the Canadian Combines Act which make it a criminal offence for competing firms to take joint action towards increasing efficiency or taking mutual action for the benefit of the public.

Under existing legislation firms may be sued if they take joint action in research or move to eliminate abuses in marketing and distribution fields. The Combines Act makes no distinction between common action for the benefit of the consumer or that designed to inflict injury upon an outside party.

Combines and cartels formed with the main purpose of boosting prices unduly and restricting legitimate competitions are undesirable from the point of public interest. No objection can be taken to legislation designed to curb these practices.

But to declare all such joint action illegal can only result in delaying progress and is, in the words of W. H. Evans, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, "throwing the baby out with the bath water."

With a comparatively limited home market, Canadian producers must often act jointly if they are to bring to the people of this country the latest in technological advances.

Man Bites Dog

Workers clamoring for the right to pay more taxes fall properly into the man-bites-dog category and are news.

This seemingly impossible situation has arisen in the United States. However, the motive is not to enrich Uncle Sam but to qualify for bigger pensions under the Federal Social Security system.

Five unions have formed a coalition to plead their case before Congress. They are contending that tips ought to count as wages in determining old-age insurance for waiters, barbers, bellmen and others whose total income is governed by the generosity of their patrons.

The unions estimate that 1,500,000 workers would benefit from the plan.

Their main argument is that it is not fair to consider tips as earnings for income tax purposes without adopting a similar yardstick for Social Security taxes and pensions.

The Internal Revenue Service demands a full accounting of tips in income tax returns. But these tips are not included in the payroll taxes paid by employers. These workers receive credit for less than their actual earnings when their retirement benefits are computed.

They want a figure for this tip income added to regular income at source so that social security taxes (and eventual benefits) will be related to total income.

Or, to put it the other way, they're clamoring for the right to pay more taxes and that's news.

MOST PLAYERS WOULD PANIC

North decided to respond one diamond instead of a spade because his spade suit just did not appeal to him. South did not know exactly what to bid over one diamond and decided to temporize by bidding a three-card spade suit. Much to his dismay, he found himself at a spade game shortly thereafter.

Instead of panicking as some players might, South proceeded to make the best of an apparently bad contract and wound up with the marbles.

He ducked the first heart but won the second and led a diamond. East ducked so South was in his own hand. He played a second diamond. East won that trick and led a heart which South ruffed.

South cashed his king and queen of trumps, came over to dummy with the jack of clubs and played the ace of trumps. Now he led clubs and West could take his high trump whenever he wished.

Of course, if North had responded one spade he might have reached four spades more normally and given the hand the same play.

Saturday's Sermon:

You'll Need.....

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

As I read my diary one evening lately, an item referring to walking caught my eye. This interested me particularly so just now when these Saturday sermons, at the beginning of 1960, have, as their motif, walking. So off on the magic carpet I travelled back to 1925! And this tale I am going to share with you.

My friend (now the Dean of Huron) and I planned to spend a week away from the McGill campus and, of course, selected the Eastern Townships. The old Brome-Shefford hills invited us to explore them. So did those magnificent hills which encased that beautiful spot — Glen Sutton. We were thrilled with the prospect of this walking expedition and methinks where'er we went, of the talk. By chance, a college professor (whose guests we were one evening for dinner) was apparently pleased to hear of our episode which recalled to him his student days when he holidayed among the Alps.

"In walking I found," the professor reminded us, "You'll need (a) a stout heart and with a smile, (b) suitable shoes.

Don't you think that YOU'LL NEED these two as you set out for the walk numbered 1960? Anyway, without further ado, let us examine the more important of these two basics, THE HEART.

WANTED — A STRONG HEART
As realists we admit that for this new journey along the Road of Life, with perhaps its rough roads and steep hills awaiting, we so much need and so much desire — strength of heart.

For with this basic, holding within its grasp such secrets as confidence, courage and action that issues in successful living, we march into our Promised Land, the Land of Beginning Again. Briefly then, all success depends upon possessing a strong heart!

Wise indeed is the individual who pauses to examine — diagnose is the medical term — the secret of a strong heart. To the lives of those holy and humble men of heart whose names grace the Book of Books — The Holy Bible — we turn for inspiration and guidance. For their hearts, when weakened by an absence of faith, hope and love, they found that God provided the tonic which, in the language of theology, is a renewing power of good cheer and hopefulness? Get close to God and your heart will grow strong!

Do you find yourself lacking in courage? Then get near enough to grasp His all-conquering Hand and you will be able to do exploits in His Name.

Are you conscious of a sad lack of power as a worker? If so, the channels of grace — the sacraments and prayer are available and through them Divine grace will flow into your soul thereby making you strong for His service and enabling you to do all — not some, things.

Remember that in proportion to the degree you strengthen your heart so shall the Church of God be correspondingly strengthened. It is up to you to demonstrate that the Church through YOU practises what She has been preaching down the centuries. Here is adventure, if that is what you desire!

O God with Thy Heart of Love, Who art the Goal of our desires, the Guide of all our journeys, O Thou bless this and any future effort of ours to seek and find true happiness — success if you prefer — by walking in Thy appointed way. And for Thy promise that we shall be adequately shod for such a journey, we thank Thee as forward we walk, knowing that there'll be oil for our feet, with Thy rod and staff ever available to comfort us and, best of all, "Thy Cross BEFORE to guide me!"

(b) SUITABLE SHOES

With the assurance that "They shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be" (Deut. 33:25) the Children of Israel set out and eventually reached their Promised Land. With the same promise, we set out today and come wind, come weather — sorrow, need, sickness or any other adversity, anything, we shall follow Thee as our fathers did, singing: "Through each perplexing path of life our wandering footsteps guide; give us each day our daily bread, and raiment fit provide. O spread Thy covering wings around, till all our wanderings cease, and at our Father's loved abode our souls arrive in peace!"

THE BEST YEAR-YET
So we conclude this New Year series titles LET US TAKE A WALK, - a walk with our eyes and ears so attuned that we see and hear God everywhere, all made possible by a strong heart (Psalm 27; 14) and shoes to match the roads and steep hills be they rough or smooth, straight or winding.

In the belief that "all will be well", into the gracious guidance and protection of One Whose qualifications, experience and personal interest in each individual pilgrim is beyond compare, we commit ourselves, our souls and bodies, as with head, heart and voice we repeat: "Do Thou Guardian of my soul, Saviour, Friend and Guide Infallible, show me the path of Life (Psalm 16; 11).

Forward, my pilgrim brethren, steadfast in faith, joyful through hope with your heart aflame for Christ and His Cause, Go, and 1960 will indeed be a soul-healing, happy prosperous year of grace. A year spent, dear Lord, for Thee, an acceptable year. The best year of our lives. That's my wish! God love thee!

OTTAWA—In the cross-roads general stores, in the hamlets, towns and cities, as far back as memory reaches, the people have talked about the mysterious "they" who are in Ottawa and control our destinies.

If the applecore is blown away, the grain harvest falls or economic ills beset us, the talk is about why "they" don't do something about it.

"They" are the government and Parliament of Canada and now they are together again in Ottawa for the third session since the present Diefenbaker administration was formed.

Usually the gossip does not give them credit for anything but failures of bad judgment.

The criticism usually sounds as though the critics were convinced that members of Parliament, which includes members of the government, are a class set apart.

They seem to assume that these people who are "they" are not affected by the evil they do the citizen generally by heavily taxing him and failing to legislate that all his economic and social troubles will be solved.

Which is not at all the case. If taxes are onerous, if our government fails to do those things which safeguard our economy and our heritage, those evils sit alike on the members of the government and of parliament as on any other citizen.

With all their virtues and weaknesses "they" are back in Ottawa and for the next six months or so the government and parliament will work together through the tradition-encrusted formalities to further mould our present and future destinies.

There is nothing at all mysterious about these people. From John Diefenbaker to the lowliest backbencher they are ordinary, average people who have exactly the same stake in good government and economy and security as every sane citizen has.

They laugh at the same jokes, they have the same aches and pains, they suffer from debt and hard times and family anxieties and eventually they die, just like anyone else.

"They" are you. You picked them from among your fellows and voted them into office and in Ottawa they are your representatives on the board that directs an operation costing close to $6,000,000,000 a year.

They have exactly the same reasons for making that operation a success as you have for wanting them to make it a success.

We have been writing about what this parliament will attempt to do and what it is likely to achieve and where it is likely to fail. Some of the forecasts will be right.

It is certain to do things that many of us will not like and it is certain to fail in doing some things many of us believe should be done.

And if we are honest we will have to recognize and admit that some of its accomplishments will be for our greater welfare and happiness.

What this piece is trying to drive home is that we have to assume that everything this parliament (or any other) attempts is designed to be for the general benefit of the citizens.

Member of parliament or lowly citizen they all sink or swim together. So it is unthinkable that parliament or any segment of it would deliberately attempt legislation that is harmful to any citizen.

But they, like all of us, are human. They will make mistakes and they will form wrong judgments. And they may attempt unwise experiments.

There is where the critics should operate. If government or parliament or both seem to be going the wrong way or to our needs, hit them with everything we've got.

Rally the posse and ride like blazes and try to cut them off at the gap.

That kind of criticism is our right and that is what "they" expect and what they should want from us.

Communication Companies Financial Dealings Viewed

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. Justice I. J. Deslauriers of Quebec Superior Court today opened the way for a court inquiry into financial dealings involving three communications companies.

The companies are Anglo Canadian Telephone Company, General Telephone and Electronics Corporation and Associated Telephone and Telegraph Company. They sought a court judgment to quash an action by Leo H. Benoit, a stockholder in Anglo Canadian, who contends he is "victimized" by transactions among the three firms.

Mr. Justice Deslauriers' judgment said Mr. Benoit complains the firms have acted "in such a way that the financial situation of Anglo Canadian Telephone Company has been changed from what

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

By ROBIN KOTZE

This week-end the Bishop's basketball Gaiters play two key games which may decide whether they will win the Eastern division of the St. Lawrence basketball conference. On Friday they play the MacDonald Aggies at 7:30 p.m., and on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 they meet C.M.R. Both these teams stand just behind the Gaiters in the league standings and therefore are high up in the race for the conference title. At the moment the Gaiters lead the league with two wins and no losses.

On Sunday afternoon, the Gaiters played the Three Rivers "Radisson," and managed to beat them by a score of 45-34. There was no doubt throughout the whole game that Bishop's was going to win, and there was quite an amount of surprise shown at the relatively poor showing of the Three Rivers team. This same team beat Bishop's twice at Three Rivers, once in an invitational basketball tournament in the final round and once in the semifinals of the Quebec Senior "B" basketball championships. This, however, was last year, and since then either Bishop's has improved or the Radisson had a bad day on the court.

The Bishops second team, now playing in the newly formed Eastern Townships Basketball League, narrowly won over Lennoxville by a score of 46-45 on Monday night. Ed Dillane of Bishop's was the high scorer, while Bob Home also scored 14 for the college. For Lennoxville, Sullivan had 15, John Phillips had 11, and Wray had 10.

The women's basketball under the direction of Garth Smith, beat the Sherbrooke nurses by a score of 44-18 on Thursday night. After several minutes of play, Bishop's took the lead and never lost it. With good floor play, alert defensive maneuvering, and strong offensive shooting they had no trouble winning before a large crowd of university students in the Bishop's gymnasium.

On the hockey scene, the Gaiters meet C.M.R. at the Sherbrooke arena on Saturday night. Bishop's has not won any games so far this season, and there is talk around the university of removing them from the league they are now playing in, and perhaps entering them in a local league where the expenses won't be quite as high for road trips, etc. This, however, is not final, and has only been mentioned as a possibility before the Students' Association. The Athletics Society under Brian Stevenson is closely examining the question.

DRAMATICS

The Inter-Varsity Drama League will be holding its annual drama festival at Bishop's this year, and there will be ten colleges from Eastern Canada presenting one-act plays. The performances will be on Friday the 29th of January, and Saturday the 30th.

On Friday afternoon at 2:30, Carleton University of Ottawa will be putting on "Cassandra Singing" by David Madden. Loyola, from Montreal, will be presenting "The Last of My Solid Gold Watches" by Tennessee Williams, and Marianopolis of Montreal will be doing "White Queen, Red Queen" by T. B. Morris.

The Friday night performance will begin at 7:30 and the plays will be "27 Wagons full of Cotton" by Tennessee Williams, presented by the Ryerson Institute of Technology of Hamilton, Ontario; "The Boor" by Anton Chekov, presented by the students of Memorial University, Newfoundland; and "Zoetrope" by Brock Shoveller, done by Sir George Williams College of Montreal.

The final 4 plays will be on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when McMaster University, of Hamilton, Ontario, will be presenting "Miss Julie" by Strindberg; Queen's University of Kingston, Ontario, "He" by Eugene O'Neill; Macdonald College of Montreal, "Heaven on Earth" by Phillip Johnson, and finally the Bishop's University dramatics society doing the play which was judged the best of the minor plays at the college this year: "Hello from Bertha" by Tennessee Williams.

Saturday night will see the final adjudication, at a banquet held for all those attending the festival, by Rupert Caplan, a noted critic from Montreal. The banquet will be held at the New Sherbrooke hotel. Tickets are on sale at H. C. Wilson's in Sherbrooke, or at the Students' Executive Council Office at the university.

Another presentation of the dramatics society this year will be the major play directed by Professor Arthur Motyer. This year the play will be "Teahouse of the August Moon", which was a smash hit both as a play, and later, as a movie.

There are very intricate problems with the set, and Professor Motyer and the dramatics society are feverishly at work to surmount some of the obstacles. Rehearsals have begun, and the performance is beginning to take shape.

The film society's Studio "A" has adopted a policy of showing more modern and higher class films than last year, and has among its coming movies, "From Here to Eternity", 1953's best picture and the winner of eight academy awards that year. It will be shown on January the 21st in Bishop Williams Hall. Also coming are "High Society" on February the 4th, and "The Desert Fox", "On the Waterfront", and such feature shorts as the Royal Tour of Canada and the Grey Cup football game.

Begin Fish Egg Exchange

QUEBEC (CP)—A load of 500,000 Atlantic salmon eggs passed through Quebec Friday to be distributed to fish hatcheries in Quebec's eastern townships and the states of New York and Vermont.

The artificially fertilized eggs come from hatcheries at Tadoussac, Que., 120 miles down the St. Lawrence River from Quebec.

Meanwhile, 150,000 eggs of speckled trout and 5,000 of brown trout are on their way to Tadoussac from the eastern townships and the two states.

The exchange will allow biologists of the Quebec fisheries department to attempt cross-breeding of trout to produce a more colorful and a better fighting fish.

Legion Branches To Meet

Richmond Legion Branch 15 will hold its joint installation at the Legion Hall on College Street, January 18. Installing officer will be Mr. Ed. Struthers, Provincial President, of Montreal.

Both the senior branch and Ladies' Auxiliary will be installed. Cde. Leslie Dalton, president of Branch 15 will likely be re-elected for another term.

Branch 141, Asbestos will meet Sunday afternoon, January 17th at 7 p.m. in the Legion Hut for a general meeting. Principal item of business will be the final nominations and election of officers for 1960. A good attendance is hoped for.

ANOTHER ART THEFT

Thieves hiding in art galleries at closing time and then working undisturbed have struck three times in Canada in the last four months.

Paintings worth $600,000 were taken at Toronto in September. They have been recovered. Canvas valued at $40,000 were stolen in Vancouver in November. Last Sunday there was another theft at Vancouver, this time of icons and paintings worth $15,000. None of the objects at Vancouver has been recovered.

BUSY SIGNAL

Abby the cat is in disgrace over a $107 telephone bill. Abby knocked the receiver off the upstairs telephone extension while Frank DeCaire of Detroit was making a call downstairs.

The line remained open for 20 hours as the toll charges went up and up.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Toronto artist Charles Comfort, 59, has accepted the job of director of National Gallery. He succeeds Alan Jarvis who resigned last year.

Nevil Shute, British novelist, died Tuesday following a stroke in Melbourne, Australia, aged 60. Among his best-known books are "On the Beach", "A Town Like Alice" — both were made into movies — and "Round the Bend".

Disagreement over nationalization policies, which he opposed, and fuller French cooperation in NATO, which he supported, led to Antoine Pinay's removal Wednesday as finance minister in the de Gaulle government.

President Nasser set off a dynamite explosion to signal the start of construction for the Aswan dam hydro-electric scheme last weekend.

In the village of Lambarene in French Equatorial Africa congratulations poured in to Dr. Albert Schweitzer on his 85th birthday Thursday.

THE WEEK IN QUEBEC

Dr. Fernand Lizotte, Union Nationale member of the Quebec legislature for Pislet since 1948, said Thursday night he may reconsider his decision to quit politics.

He said he plans to meet Premier Antonio Barrette next week to explain more fully his reasons for announcing his resignation from the legislature and the party.

Dr. Lizotte told the legislature press gallery Wednesday that he was through with politics because he disagreed with the manner in which Mr. Barrette was chosen last week as premier and party leader to succeed the late Paul Sauve.

He said members of the party had not been free to select a man of their own choice at a caucus Jan. 7. Mr. Barrette was imposed on the members, he said.

But Thursday night the doctor said he felt he had no right to go against the wishes of his constituents. "I don't have the right to betray or abandon them. They are behind me and if that is their wish I will stay on as their representative."

Spotlight On Business

By GREG MACDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets dropped sharply in all sections this week, at a time when new buying power had seemed to be on its way.

The industrial section, hardest hit during a week of moderately heavy trading, dropped more than nine points on index Monday and Tuesday before regaining some of its strength.

Investors attributed the retreat to Washington's announcement of a balanced budget for next year. Shortly after the announcement the New York exchange began a dive and soon was followed by the Canadian markets.

Other contributing factors are a further indication of tightening money rates in the U.S. and a statement by U.S. Labor Secretary James Mitchell that terms of the recent wage settlement in the steel industry were non-inflationary. Steels reacted as expected to this announcement and suffered losses.

STILL BRIGHT

Despite this week's tumble on Canadian markets, especially the industrial section, investors say they see the present business picture as still too bright to suffer any great relapse.

One example is the fight put up by coppers and gas issues against the downward trend. Although down during the week both issues scored strong gains in some sections.

ed incident, they believe (or hope) but rather is an indication that the Union Nationale party is bursting at the seams now that its founder and long dominant figure, Maurice Duplessis, has been removed.

How valid the Liberal argument may be time will only tell.

MEGANTIC CONVENTION

Probably the situation will be reviewed at length when the Megantic county Liberals meet in Thetford Mines on Sunday, January 24, to select a candidate for the coming provincial elections.

To date three potential candidates have entered the race — Alphonse Olivier, of Plessisville, Emilien Maheux, mayor of Black Lake, and Nelson Poirier, a Thetford Mines business man.

The convention will be held in the Ste. Therese school at 2 p.m. and will be followed by a public meeting at which the speaker will be Emilien Lafrance, M.P.P. for Richmond.

Yamaska County Liberals will hold their convention in the Pierreville municipal hall on Sunday afternoon, February 7. This is the 20th nominating meeting to be held by the Opposition in anticipation of the general elections.

E.T. SITUATION

Sherbrooke County seems to be giving the Liberals their greatest trouble in regards to the selection of a candidate.

When the Megantic Liberals select their man next Sunday, the only open counties will be Sherbrooke, Shefford and Frontenac.

Several candidates are available in Shefford, but the definite choice awaits the decision of Mayor Horace Boivin of Granby. Mr. Lesage has stated publicly that he would like to see the Granby mayor carry the party banner but Mr. Boivin reportedly is reluctant to leave the municipal field — one reason being that he feels the mayor of a growing city should not be too closely linked with a provincial party.

In Frontenac, where the incumbent Union Nationale member, Eloi Guillemette, is faced with internal strife in his organization, the odds-on Liberal favorite is Dr. Gerard Noel, a former member who was defeated by Mr. Guillemette in the last election.

Dr. Noel has been campaigning actively — in the party interest of course — and should meet little opposition when the formal convention is called.

Sherbrooke County Liberal leaders, however, are finding the situation difficult.

Rivalry between certain groups has not been solved with the result that several potential candidates have been eliminated — either because they do not want to become involved in the bickering or because they are actively linked with one or other of the cliques.

When the convention is called, reports say there will be an important difference in the procedure of nominating a candidate.

One spokesman claims that the new process, which must be approved first by the Provincial Federation, will make the selection more democratic than in the past.

He did not say, however, just what the changes will be.

E. T. History Society To Meet

The Eastern Townships Historical Society (La Societe d'histoire des Cantons de l'Est) will hold a general meeting at St. Charles Seminary on Feb. 15.

Leonard Auger of Magog, a noted local historian will address the meeting on Major Rogers, his journey through the Townships in 1759, and the subsequent history of the St. Francis Indians.

Founded in 1927 as a bilingual society it is hoped that renewed interest in things of historic interest in Quebec can be enlarged by frequent meetings.

Two branches, one French and one English, joined together under an honored and historic name, meeting frequently to be addressed by history students from Canada and the New England States, should attract interested persons from all parts of the Townships.

Invitations are being sent to many local people but all interested will be most welcome. Information can be obtained from Rev. Father O'Bready of St. Charles Seminary, Leonidas Bachand, N.P., Gaston Genest the secretary, Dr. Valmore Olivier or B. N. Holtham.

combat. At Fort Knox all three earned high marks in armoured training.

"Old soldiers never die," and it's true. Most of we militiamen like to hear about the men who filled our ranks in days gone by. I hope we'll hear from our veteran organizations from time to time. Active groups like the 117th E. T. Battalion, 5th C.M.R.'s, and "the old gunners" — send along news of your groups too! Also the Canadian Legion, and the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans.

A soldiers' mess is described as his second home. After the face-lifting project in the Sherbrooke Regiment messes is completed, members of that unit, and their neighbours, 9 Militia Group Headquarters and the 8th Medical Company will have plenty of reason to spend more time at their home-away-from-home. The messes are being redecorated, and in several cases, completely renovated. The officers' mess was completely redecorated, while the sergeants' and bandsmen's messes have been completely remodelled. All is completed except the men's quarters, which will be receiving a new floor. This mess was renovated only a short time ago, and indeed provides handsome quarters for the junior NCO's and men.

This column will carry news items from units of the Canadian Army and Army Militia, and R.C.A.F. Reserve in the Eastern Townships, and will appear in our paper each Saturday. All articles should be addressed to this column, care of this newspaper, or sent to the Public Relations Officer, care of 9 Militia Group Headquarters, William Street Armoury, Sherbrooke. Only items received before Thursday noon will be used in the following column.

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle Friday named Louis Joxe minister of education. He replaces Andre Bouloche, who resigned two weeks ago in protest against a new law providing state aid to Roman Catholic schools.

Card of Thanks

CONNERS — We wish to thank our friends and neighbours for their many expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear niece, Hazel, (Mrs. A. C. Hope) of Montreal.

JAMES and HELEN CONNERS

LYON — For the many cards, telegrams, telephone messages, flowers, and personal congratulations from my family, friends and relatives upon the occasion of my 80th birthday, I wish to extend my heartfelt appreciation.

The fact that you shared this day with me gave me much pleasure, and the memories of it will remain with me thru' the years.

Thanks to you all for your thoughtfulness, and may 1960 bring you only happiness.

ELMER P. LYON,
Ayer's Cliff, Que.

OLIVER — We wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all who were so kind to us and helped in any way at the sickness, death and burial of our dear mother, Ceina Marie Oliver. To Dr. Quintin, Dr. Kimoff, the nurses and aides on the second floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital. All who sent flowers, spiritual and sympathy cards, Mr. B. L. Bishop and Mr. P. Bick; especially to Rev. Guy Marston, the organist and choir of St. Peter's Church.

Her family —

MRS. A. VALLEE (Alice),
ANDREW OLIVER,
MRS. M. D. MACDONALD, (Etete).

In Memoriam

THOMPSON — In fond memory of my husband, Frank Thompson, who passed away January 16, 1959. Just a prayer from one who loved you.

Just a memory fond and true, In my heart you will live forever, Because I thought the world of you.

Sadly missed by his wife,
LINA.

Jerseys Make High Records

In the high records made in the Jersey breed for Canada in 1959, one of the leaders is Wendybrook B. R. Ivy, a cow bred by Pierre Veillon, Wendybrook Farm, Sweetburg, and owned by W. S. Taylor, Rothesay, N.B. Ivy went on test as a junior 4 year old and on 3 times milking, in 305 days, produced 12,358 lbs. of milk, 676 lbs. of fat, winning both milk and butterfat honours.
Another winner was Wendybrook Beacon Carina, owned by Pierre Veillon. Carina produced 9,952 lbs. of milk and 550 lbs. of fat, as a junior 4 year old on 3 times milking, leading for both milk and fat for 1959.

The Record's Farm Report

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN FLUX
Throughout North America dairy production is swinging away from butter production to fluid milk sales. In the United States butter consumption has dropped from 16.9 pounds per capita to 8.5 pounds in the last 20 years. In Canada the drop has been from 31.9 pounds per capita to 20 pounds in the same period in spite of many restrictions on the use of margarine.
However, milk not used for manufacture, that is, fluid milk sales and milk and cream used on farms, increased in Canada from 35.5 per cent to 41.4 per cent and in the U.S. from 45 to 50.7 per cent in the same 20 years. The advantage in the sale of fluid milk is substantial. In 1958, 49 per cent of milk production was for butter and brought in 36.7 per cent of the total returns while 34.2 per cent was for fluid sales and returned 48.2 per cent of the revenue. In short, roughly twice as much was paid for milk for fluid use as for milk used for butter.
This is forcing practically all herd owners where dairying is the main enterprise to get into the fluid milk market. As the fluid milk market requires bulk tank collections and the necessary equipment to supply top quality milk, much larger herds will have to be kept to justify the additional costs.

SHEEP BAN EASED
Considering the importance of the Canadian ban on U.S. hogs it may be significant that two American states have just lifted embargoes imposed on Canadian sheep last year. California and Montana established the barriers because of an alleged danger of Canadian sheep introducing scrapie disease.
Agriculture minister Harkness said changes made in Canada's scrapie control program last August made it conform with U.S. regulations. Then, representations were made to these two states and the embargoes were lifted, effective December 31, 1959. This new move should be helpful to Western Canadian sheep ranchers, aiding in the restoration of a market for feeder lambs.

HUMANE SLAUGHTER RULES
The new regulations under the Humane Slaughter Act went into effect for cattle, calves and horses on January 1. Clauses relating to slaughter of sheep and swine are effective December 1, 1960. This gives the plants with federal inspection—where approximately 83 per cent of meat and meat food products are processed—time to provide for the necessary changes in killing procedure for hogs and sheep.
Since regulations have just been forwarded to meat packers, the reaction to the new rules is not certain. On the whole, it seems likely it will be favorable even though the costs of slaughter may be increased. The use of carbon dioxide gas to produce rapid unconsciousness may slightly increase the cost of killing where this method is employed.
The Jewish method of killing by means of one cut with a special knife causes instantaneous unconsciousness so is fully as humane a killing method as any other employed.

Farm Forum Activities

COOKSHIRE
The many complexities of trying to improve farm conditions by price supports were well brought out in the discussion at the Farm Forum Jan. 11. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Learned at Learned Plain, and in spite of extreme cold there was a good attendance. The radio broadcast was interesting, though it did not seem to lead to any general agreement.
The first question in the Guide was, Can price support programs be used to control production and at the same time maintain adequate income levels? All answered, No. Price supports are of little use unless production can be controlled, and price supports administered have failed to control surpluses. Deficiency payments should benefit more farmers, because, for instance, it would encourage 50 farmers to raise 100 hogs, rather than one big farm operation raising 5,000. This should help to maintain an adequate income.
Question 2, Is there any alternative to government control of farm prices under surplus conditions, led to a number of suggestions. Farmers should assume more control of their marketing through co-operatives and marketing boards. It would help if the cost of handling between producer and consumer could be reduced; modern methods of packing, etc., add to retail cost. More immigrants could be brought in to use up the surpluses. Also more might be done to feed needy people in depressed countries; the money which the government is putting into price supports might be used to subsidize exports to needy countries.
Question three asked, Should price supports be used to slow down the economic pressure tending to fewer farms? Price supports do seem to favor larger farm operation; deficiency payments may help the small farmer more, and help to keep him on the farm. If a farm cannot be run on a paying basis, it should not be kept going by government supports.

During the business session plans were discussed for a card party and sale table to be held in St. Peter's Parish Hall, on next Fourth Night, Jan. 25.
The usual period of recreation followed, and lunch was served by the hostess.
The next meeting, Jan. 18th, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. McVety, with the subject for discussion, Adjustment through Farm Credit, the third and last of the series on agricultural adjustment.
THIRD RANGE
The Jan. 11 meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richie Harrison with ten members present. The broadcast was considered good and very interesting.
The questions were discussed. We don't agree on support programs, since the scheme has been taken advantage of by the large producers, causing the surplus to get out of control.
We feel the only alternative to government control of farm prices under surplus conditions is limited deficiency payments. We do not feel that price supports should be used to slow down the economic pressure tending to fewer farms.
Following the discussion period, cards were played at two tables.
Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Melville Page.
The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch MacDonald on Jan. 18.
HIGH AND LOW FOREST
The Forum met on Jan. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graham, Jr., with 28 present.
The discussion was lively.
It was agreed that production can't be controlled with an adequate income at the same time. Farmers have to be organized to be recognized.
Some thought if large feed companies would stay out of farming there wouldn't be such a surplus and the law of supply and demand could take over. It wasn't clear how it could be done but it was felt that there should be a way for the smaller farmer to make a decent living.
Money was voted to help the Provincial Forum on expenses of the longer Forum year. Music and 500 were enjoyed and lunch was served.
The next meeting will be at Russel Thompson's.

Do-It-Yourself

Gird Home With Stoppap Armor

By MR. FIX
Winter brings on its own set of repair problems, every one an emergency. Damage brought on by wind, snow and sub-freezing temperatures can't be handled leisurely. There's no time for shopping around for materials and tools, no time for complete repairs.

POWER FAILURE—This could hit just you or the entire neighborhood. Flashlights should be handy, not at the bottom of junk box. Have a supply of extra cells and bulbs.

Get out the gasoline lantern you use for fishing and have it ready to use. A good size electric lantern is almost a must if you find yourself working outdoors at night.

If you depend on electricity for heat and cooking better get out the camp stove too. Canned heat will serve in a pinch.

A supply of candles and matches should be within easy reach. Some old glass bowls or wide-mouth jars can be used to hold the candles to keep them from blowing out and to cut down the fire hazard.
If there is a power failure, your efforts should be directed toward making yourself and family safe and comfortable. Leave the repairs to the utility company crews. Never touch wires that have been blown down.

DOORS AND WINDOWS—A supply of plastic sheeting will form an emergency barrier if a window breaks. The material sold to make your own tack-on storm windows will do.

While it may seem obvious, a hammer and nails, or a staple gun should be in your tool box for the job.

Use plastic sheeting to make storm door repairs too.
If the storm door gets caught in a gust of wind, it may bang back and forth enough to spring the hinges. Loosen the screws in the hinges until you can get the door closed, then tighten up. Plan to use another door for entrance and exit until you can replace the hinges or reset them.

If the door cracks or splits, metal mending plates and screws will hold the sections together.

GUTTERS AND DOWNSPOUTS—Even if the gutters are in excellent condition, have a few spare hangers and nails on hand. A load of ice can ## weapons in winter home defense

weaken gutters considerably. If the gutters are old and in danger of splitting or breaking, have some repair materials on hand. Asphalt coating, fiberglass patching material or burllap, rubber or roofing or building paper will cover most emergencies.

Electric resistance cable laid in the gutter or wrapped around a downspout will prevent ice from forming.

Don't attempt to make gutter repairs in a storm. Get assistance—someone to hold the ladder—when you do tackle the job. If water is flowing over the gutter due to ice, use salt or other ice-melting chemical to break the barrier.

PIPES—It's possible they'll freeze up. Remember to turn off the water supply to outside faucets and to drain them. Should a pipe freeze, open the faucet and use heating cable or an electric hair dryer to thaw the pipe—if there's power.

If there is no power, use a blow torch—very carefully—keeping the flame from staying on the pipe too long. Watch out for inflammable materials nearby. Other tools that can be used: soldering iron, heat lamp.

Keep a few pipe clamps on hand in case a pipe splits and the leak is minor.

If you're adept at plumbing repairs, keep some lengths of pipe and couplings on hand for major repairs. Otherwise, turn off the water and call a plumber.

MISCELLANEOUS—An ax will always be handy— to cut wood for the fireplace or to lop off the limbs of a tree that has blown down next to the house. Know where your calking gun is and have a supply of compound for the cracks that suddenly open up on a windy day. Store gasoline, other inflammable fluids in metal containers and place in garage.

L'ville Wing Projects Aid Physiotherapy Dept.

The annual meeting of the Lennoxville Wing of the Sherbrooke Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. John Anido, Divinity House, Bishop's University. The president, Mrs. Leigh W. Bladen was in the chair and opened the meeting with prayer.
Mrs. Bladen asked for the annual reports from the various officers and conveners which all revealed a busy year. The treasurer, Mrs. A. S. Mitchell, announced that $400 was given to the Sherbrooke Hospital this past year for the Physiotherapy Department, which is the special interest of the Wing.
A motion was passed that $120 be transferred from the general account to the bursary account.
Active plans for the annual bridge are being made and the date is set for Wednesday, February 10. Mrs. Douglas Ross is the convener with Mrs. A. S. Mitchell as co-conveners.
Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Honorary President, Mrs. Austin Scott; hon. vice-president, Mrs. R. H. Fletcher; president, Mrs. Leigh W. Bladen; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Douglas G. Ross; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Stewart W. S. Aird; treasurer, Mrs. A. S. Mitchell; secretary, Mrs. K. Lane; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph Rafal.
The conveners of the various committees are as follows: Mrs. W. S. Varney, knitting; Mrs. R. A. Gilham, sewing; Mrs. H. S. Horsfall, hostesses; Mrs. W. K. Baldwin, telephone.
The meeting adjourned and the hostesses served delicious refreshments.
The next regular meeting of the "Wing" will be held on Wednesday, March 9, at 8.00 p.m.

Mix Up Some Tasty Muffins

"Quick breads" is a term used to describe breads and rolls leavened by baking powder rather than yeast. While yeast breads must undergo a rising and kneading process before baking, quick breads do not, thus the reason for their name. Of all the quick breads, muffins take the least time to make... a boon for many a hurried housewife.
The big secret in making successful muffins lies in the stirring. The mixture should be stirred only enough to moisten the ingredients, leaving the batter with a rough appearance. The muffin pans should also be generously oiled and the baking done in a hot oven. Wheat-Germ Muffins have a particularly light and tender texture, and a not-too-sweet, but delicious flavor. Try serving them with soup or a main-course dish. They can also be served with butter or margarine and jam for tea.
WHEAT-GERM MUFFINS
(Yield—1 Dozen Muffins)
1 1/2 cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 2/3 cups once-sifted pastry flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 table-spoons granulated sugar, 2/3 cup wheat germ, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/3 cup shortening, melted.
Grease 12 average-sized muffin cups. Preheat oven to 400 deg. F. (hot). Sift together into a bowl, the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; mix in wheat germ. Beat eggs well; stir in milk, vanilla and melted shortening. Make a well in dry ingredients; add liquids and mix until all dry ingredients have been moistened—do not overmix. Two-thirds fill prepared muffin cups with batter. Bake in preheated oven 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm or reheated with butter or margarine.

Accentuate Negative and Your Age Will Surely Show

If you don't want to call attention to your age, don't:
— Begin remarks with, "At my age..."
— Wonder out loud what the world is coming to.
— Talk about how awful young people are today.
— Begin remarks with, "I guess I'm old-fashioned but..."
— Resist anything new just because it is new and you only trust the old and familiar.
— Spoil the effect of a pretty, new dress with some remark such as, "I hope it isn't too young for me."
— Talk a lot about the good old days.
— Point out to young people how easy they have it today and how much harder you had to work when you were young.
— Turn up your nose at everything of modern design—without even trying to see if it has any merit.
— Talk about the state of your health continually not failing to add, "At MY age I guess you just start falling apart," or, "But I guess I'm lucky at MY age not to be in worse shape."
— Feel free to offer advice to anyone, making good use of the phrase, "I'm old enough to know..."
— Figure there's no point in putting a bright face on things if a sigh will get you sympathy.
— Talk about the things you've had to give up as you have grown older.
— Keep reminding folks that you don't expect to be around many more years.
You can make sure that others will think of you as "old" if you want to. But why do you want to emphasize your age?

Homemaking

Green thumbs just beginning to nurse plants in their homes will be surprised to hear about giving the plants a bath. Leaves must be clean so a plant can breathe. There is a soapy solution to spray on gardenia plants, for example, to loosen and wash off, sooty mold.

Life Memberships Awarded To Three W. F. Members

The regular monthly meeting of Group I of the Woman's Federation of the Lennoxville United Church was held in Douglas Hall with the president, Mrs. A. R. Parsons in the chair.
The devotional period was led by Mrs. R. S. Lipsey, who took as her topic, prayer. The secretary, Mrs. A. N. Flint, read her report and the treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, presented the financial report for 1959.
It was decided to continue the use of the birthday and flower boxes at each meeting and to have a travelling apron for the year 1960.
On behalf of the group Mrs. A. B. Lovelace presented W.M.S. Life Memberships to Mrs. R. S. Lipsey, Mrs. W. A. Hyndman and Mrs. J. S. Marlin.
A portion of the study book, "Africa Disturbed," was reviewed by Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie.
April 8th was the date decided upon for the annual musicale and tea.
The following committees were named by the president: Apron Mrs. H. C. Wright and Miss F. Crane; lunch, Mrs. H. Nettleship, Mrs. W. A. Richardson and Mrs. L. Hogg; knitting, Mrs. A. Hall and Mrs. A. W. Bradley; food table, Mrs. J. D. MacFadyen, Mrs. A. J. MacIntosh and Miss M. E. Farnsworth; supply, Mrs. L. Davidson and Mrs. R. A. Lipsey; study book, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie; musical programs — Mrs. L. B. Pierce; dining room — Mrs. W. J. Lane and Mrs. A. N. Flint.
The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction after which two young artists, Bill Aird and Gary Taylor presented piano selections.
Hostesses for the afternoon tea were Mrs. L. Davidson, Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie and Mrs. A. N. Flint. Mrs. G. Coxon presided at the lace covered tea table which was centered with a blue and silver motif and white tapers.

Women's Sphere

BRIDESMAID — Princess Anne, nine-year-old daughter of Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, made her first appearance as a bridesmaid, Jan. 13, at the wedding of Lady Pamela Mountbatten in Romsey, England. ## Royal Children Have Gala Day At Wedding In Romsey

By ROSANNA GROARKE
ROMSEY, England (Reuters)—The royal children had a banner day Wednesday at the royally-sprinkled wedding of Earl Mountbatten's daughter and an interior decorator.
The bridesmaid, Princess Anne, 9, looking sweet as a tea cake in a pink-sashed white dress, performed her first public function in serving as a bridesmaid at the marriage of Lady Pamela Mountbatten and David Hicks, both 39.
Prince Charles, 11, passed one of his boyhood's milestones. He turned up at 8:00-year-old Romsey Abbey in his publicly-worn pair of long pants, part of a natty navy blue suit.
Prince Philip, a nephew of British defence staff chief Mountbatten, brought the two children here. But Queen Elizabeth, expecting her third child later this month, remained at Sandringham.
Lady Pamela, a great-great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria, and her husband were to leave for New York at nearby Southampton aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth. They are bound for a Bahamas honeymoon.

St. Andrew's Missionary Group Holds Annual

Members of St. Andrew's Missionary Society held their first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. G. Stevenson.
Mrs. W. Laurison conducted the worship period.
The reports of the various secretaries showed a successful year's work and the treasurer announced that a substantial sum had been sent to the Presbyterian General Fund as well as to the Expense Fund.
The new slate of officers presented by Mrs. G. M. Dick was elected as follows: President, Mrs. G. Stevenson; 1st vice president, Mrs. Beulah Page; 2nd vice president, Mrs. H. Kendall; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. H. Miller.
Letters of thanks were read for Christmas remembrances and Mrs. Stevenson read a paper on the need for Christian literature in Canada.
After planning the program for the year, the meeting closed with a hymn and prayer. Mrs. Stevenson, assisted by Mrs. L. Dunsmore, served refreshments.

Identical Cakes To Mark Birthday Of Guiding

TORONTO (CP)—Thousands of birthday cakes, all made from the same recipe, next week will mark the 50th year of girl guiding in Canada.
The Canadian movement, which began in St. Catharines, Ont., half a century ago, will hold a national golden jubilee party here Jan. 20. Canada's chief commissioner, Mrs. Rankine Nesbitt, will cut a huge birthday cake.
Smaller cakes will be sent to each of the provincial organizations and the Federation des Guides Catholiques de la Province de Quebec for birthday parties at the provincial level.
The same recipe has been distributed to the 6,500 girl guide packs so they may have their own cake at local birthday parties.
One of the original leaders, Mrs. Percy Stock, will attend with other representatives of the first St. Catharines pack, registered with the parent association in England in January, 1910.
There now are more than 175,000 brownies, girl guides and rangers and 25,000 leaders in Canadian guiding.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond H. Sargent of St. Hubert, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Eva, to Mr. James Keiller, son of Mrs. Agnes Keiller and the late Donald Keiller, also of St. Hubert. Miss Sargent is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Deadman of Eastman, Que., and Mr. Keiller is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Keiller of Perth, Scotland.

Glorious Physician A Book To Be Devoured

DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN by Taylor Caldwell, 572 pages — DOUBLEDAY & COMPANY — $4.50 —

"Today St. Luke is known as the author of the third book of the New Testament, but two thousand years ago he was Lucanus, a Greek, a man who loved, knew the emptiness of bereavement, and later travelled through the hills and wastes of Judea asking, 'What manner of man was my Lord?'"

This Lucanus is the man of whom Taylor Caldwell writes in DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN.

This book has been on the stands for weeks — and my only excuse for not reviewing it sooner, is that this is not a book to be scanned or skimmed. It is a book to be devoured. To be read slowly, lovingly, thoughtfully — and reviewed in the same way. It is a timeless book which can, and should, be kept on your library shelves — to be read as profitably decades from now as it is today.

At the same time this is not a completely satisfying book — at least to this reviewer. But then — in every Biblical book I read perhaps the reason it is not satisfying is that I too am searching — just as Lucanus was searching in every person he talked to who had known Christ. Due to the accident of Time I can be no more successful, in this flesh at least, than Luke was in seeing the Master!

Luke never saw Christ. His first visit to Israel took place almost a year after the Crucifixion. Luke visited all the places where Jesus and His followers had been, questioned all those who had known Him. Luke knew Mary, Christ's Mother. By Catholics he has been called, "Our Lady's first troubadour" because only to Luke did Mary reveal the Magnificat. According to Taylor Caldwell, Luke loved Mary above all the women he had ever loved.

But despite all this, the whole book is pervaded with a wistfulness — that same wistfulness perhaps that is felt by every seeking soul in the world — but which is intensified in Luke because though Luke actually occupied the same world as Christ, yet he still didn't see Him!

There are repeated references to the evils of Rome in this book and these evils are couched in such familiar terms that one wonders if the author intended a parallel to the present and perhaps even hoped for the soul-searching that recently preceded "payola", quiz-show scandals etc., when she wrote warningly of Rome that "There is no escaping the evil of a debased people."

Since Lucanus was primarily a physician, Taylor Caldwell has given through his patients a panoramic view of life as it was lived — and suffered — in that era. Unfortunately this reviewer felt that the characterization of Lucanus occasionally had to take second-place to this picture of the times, — to the book's weakening.

But despite the few disappointing facets we have pointed out in DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN, we still feel that this is a tremendous book. Taylor Caldwell says she was 46 years in the writing of it. "The first version was written when I was 12 years old, the second when I was 22, the third when I was 26 and all through those years work did not cease on this book. The last version began five years ago."

If Taylor Caldwell could devote 46 years to the writing of this book, surely the reader could profitably afford a few days, or even weeks such as this reviewer spent, on such a book.

MacLennan Sees Sadness In Youth

MONTREAL (CP) — Author Hugh MacLennan says the youth of today is "one of the gentlest generations" marked by a "certain sadness which is a mature sadness."

Speaking in one of a series of lectures sponsored by the Montreal Protestant school board, he said the collective purpose of democracies today seems to be to produce, distribute, consume and "move large objects from place to place with increasing speed."

"The great thing in favor of this system is that it is producing one of the gentlest generations."

Mr. MacLennan, who is an English lecturer at McGill University as well as a novelist, said the young today talk to me as if I were their junior. They think people my age and their parents' are nice people. They don't have any subconscious desire to murder their fathers."

KING'S ROW — There's no question about the favorite subject of this Tehran, Iran, sidewalk artist. Portraits of the Shah abound. A white-veiled woman hurries by in front.

Characters Make Hair Stand Up

CIDER WITH ROSIE by

Clarke, Irwin—$4.00. This is a very confusing book to read. It appears to be the story of the author's life from the age of three until his twentieth year in a small, unvisited country village in England.

Each chapter of this book supposedly tells of a different period aspect of the author's life. Throughout each chapter runs a strong thread of high good spirits and boyish pranks which gives the reader the decided impression that our hero enjoyed the most robust of health.

Three-quarters of the way through the book however there is an informative little chapter entitled "Sick Boy" which left this reader open-mouthed. It is completely out of context with the rest of the book and I see no need for its inclusion. According to this chapter Laurie Lee was often a "sickly boy" who was frequently on the brink of death and to whom raging fevers and the accompanying delusions were a common occurrence.

This chapter only serves to make the book more boring. The characters in this book generally, make your hair stand on end. This was not a quiet, well-adjusted, happy little valley. Rather, it was peopled with freaks, degenerates, and illegitimate children to mention but a few.

The writer had very little that was kind and wholesome to say about any of his childhood associates. His Mother was extremely flighty and unpredictable and his Father preferred to live elsewhere as a fine gentleman. The school teachers had hard flinty exteriors, the Squire was aged and odd and the parson was eccentric.

Despite the abundance of descriptive and freely flowing words, this is not an easy to read or very interesting book. This reader did not have the compelling urge to read on and on. Rather, the urge was to leave the book only partially read, indefinitely. Shirley Simpson.

A UNESCO Report:

The World Of Sholom Aleichem Has Long Vanished From Earth

By BERTHA GASTER

The world into which Sholom Aleichem, the great Yiddish writer, was born a hundred years ago is a world which has vanished from the earth. The small and poverty-stricken Jewish community that he knew in his boyhood, packed into crazy wooden houses round the market square, with its old synagogues and tumbledown religious schools, living an isolated and almost medieval life unchanged from generation to generation, has been dead and gone these forty years. And the language in which he wrote, the mother-tongue at that time of over ten million Jews, is dying too.

Young Sholom Aleichem, then Sholom Rabinovitch — one of many children of a merchant who in the Ukrainian Jewish townlet of Voronovo, in 1859, passed for a rich man — spent his early and most formative years in this teeming ghetto world, dominated by religion and traditional observance, where Yiddish was the universal vehicle of speech. Life around him was hard. His first schooling was devoted, with liberal assistance from the rod, to the interminable study of Hebrew, the Holy Law and all its ramifications. In his spare hours he helped his mother in the small grocery shop and at the market stall in fair time. He knew all the shifts of poverty when the family fortunes changed and his father, a ruined man, opened an inn in the neighboring town of Pereyaslav. Poverty and starvation, oppression and endurance seen daily in every street and every neighbour's house made a lasting impression on the boy.

The child had an irrepressible gaiety in him, an eye to the comic and ridiculous, mimicking, despite repeated drubbings, every gesture and movement of the old teacher at his prayers, the "bride squinting at the bridegroom with her one eye and licking her lips like a cat that has just eaten cream", the women weeping farewells. Years afterwards, as his daughter recalled, the little man with the clever wrinkled face and kindly eyes would strut up and down the drawing-room mimicking the just-departed guest for his children's delight.

His father gave the boy a modern secondary Russian education, rare at the time among Jews, and if the first language in which the aspiring young writer tried his hand was Hebrew, the second was Russian.

"The alternatives", he wrote in his autobiography, "the alternatives were Hebrew or Russian." But it never occurred to anyone that Sholom would some day write in Yiddish. After all, could you consider Yiddish a language? Everyone, naturally, spoke Yiddish, but who thought of writing it! Yiddish was referred to as a "jargon good only for women."

As a boy Sholom had seen his father and his friends roaring with laughter one evening over a book written in the depised "jargon." As he watched them chuckle, he envied the author of the work and he grew up wanting "to write books that Jews would read and which would make them laugh."

For the rest of his life Sholom Rabinovitch — who came to be known to millions by his pen-name Sholom Aleichem — "peace be with you" — the familiar Hebrew greeting — poured out Yiddish novels, plays, pamphlets and articles in unending profusion. The Yiddish language, which he helped to create as a literary medium, is dying. All but a remnant of the millions who spoke it in Eastern and Central Europe were exterminated by Hitler; the Jewish masses of Russia and America have for the most part abandoned it; and the rise of Hebrew as the Jewish national language in Israel has almost completed its destruction. Sholom Aleichem's books however have spread all round the world in translation.

When he died in 1916 in New York, at the age of fifty-seven, 15,000 passed before his open bier. Over a 150,000 people lined the streets as he was carried to his grave, for no writer has been better loved by the common people. That tie of love which bound him all his life to the obscure and defenceless poor was expressed in all its fullness in the opening words of his will — "Let me be buried, not among the aristocratic, the distinguished, the rich, but in the midst of simple Jews and workers, with the people, that my tomb may shine on theirs, and theirs on mine."

ACTING SUCCESS — Jacqueline Ellis, 25-year-old Victoria native, is a hit as co-star in Marcel Achard's new London play, Rollo. ## Adventures with God

it more to my liking, eye-wise." So, a fresh coat of varnish and new upholstery put the prized piece in good order, and the passing years have justified the expenditure.

From the quiet hours spent in the comfortable oaken chair have comereams of dreams and thousands of wonderfully inspiring meditations. Thoughts that have first challenged me, and later brought comfort and challenge to readers on this and other continents.

LONG-TERM PLAN

Today as I rocked the "few spare minutes" stretched into an hour as I reviewed the events of the ages, and tried to fill in the details of the romance of the rocker, which eventually led to the fulfillment of my dreams and filling a personal need.

God was not advancing an idealistic theory when He said through the Psalmist "The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me." (Psalm 138:8) but He was stating a fact.

He will perfect that which concerns the individual, as well as that which concerns the universe. But it may take all of time and a long stretch of eternity to complete His plans for us and our world.

That is why we must place implicit faith in Him and His wisdom and purpose, and exercise patience to wait and hope and trust while He works all things out for our perfecting.

I reckon it took 200 years to grow the oak tree from which He fashioned the old rocker. And, while it was still in the acorn stage, and I was unheard of, or unthought of, except by God, His plan, for perfecting my estate were well in hand.

FROM TINY ACRORN

I tried today to visualize the parent tree that produced the acorn that produced the tree from which the old rocker was made. I could visualize the acorn lying on the ground for a long period until nature got around to giving it a little personal attention.

Then one spring day the soft winds blew and the warm rains came. God touched the dormant acorn and life stirred within the shell and it burst and began to feed upon the rich soil; soil that had been made rich by the death of a million trees. And it began to grow, and it grew for possibly 100 years, and it produced thousands of tiny acorns and scattered them around to produce more wood for more rockers for more people.

Somewhere along the line, a baby was born and grew tall and older and less active, and the old lady and the old rocker were suddenly brought together in an amazing way.

And so the story unfolds. Behind the chair—a Father's care and provision for His child. Long planned and faithfully executed were His promises to "perfect that which concerneth me," and you who may read these lines with a shrug of your shoulders and a sneer of doubt.

LEONARD LYONS, one of the brightest chroniclers of life in Manhattan, came up with one of the most amusing Jack Benny stories to date.

Benny had been attending an evening performance of Jackie Gleason's smash Broadway musical, Take Me Along, and after the final curtain decided to go backstage and congratulate Gleason.

As Benny and Gleason were chatting in the latter's dressing room, a waiter arrived with Gleason's usual after-performance snack, a bottle of vintage champagne and a heaping bowl of imported caviar. Gleason reached for a pencil to sign the tab, but Benny rose quickly, grabbed the check and said, "Please, Jackie, let me sign it!"

Gleason shrugged and gave him the pencil. Whereupon Benny wrote with a great flourish, "Jackie Gleason."

A friend of ours swears this happened. At a recent convention in Toronto, a group of Texans were being briefed on how to behave in this country by their leader, a huge Texan with a 10-gallon hat.

"Now look, boys," he said, "These Canadians are pretty sensitive about their national pride so the best way to handle the natives is to humor them."

"If they tell you Canada is bigger than Texas, agree with them!"

CONTROVERSIAL ART — Several persons stop to gaze at a painting by one of the world's most controversial artists at the Beaverbrook Art Gallery in Fredericton. The huge canvas — Santiago el Grande by surrealist Salvador Dali — was bought by Lady Dunn, widow of Canadian industrialist Sir James Dunn, and presented to the gallery. The painting had been scheduled to hang in the Escorial Palace outside Madrid. It shows a great horse bearing St. James, patron saint of Spain, upward into heaven. ## Notings

We often call books our friends. But can book make friends for us? I think they can and so I was delighted to hear of a recent Canadian Christmas gift of books which I suspect may turn out to be one of our best ambassadorial efforts of 1959.

The story came to light in a publicity release from Trinidad. "In the true spirit of Christmas, Gladys Taylor Canadian children recently gave more than 2,000 books to children in the West Indies 'get-to-know-us-through-our-books' gift began when a librarian in Trinidad mentioned to Mr. Guy C. Smith, Canadian Commissioner, that the children's libraries in the smaller islands had been 'read to death' and were in a disgraceful state.

Mr. Smith wrote to the Department of External Affairs in Canada. The personnel of this department took not only an official but a personal interest in the request. They surveyed their own libraries, talked to their children . . . to their friends . . . and the result was 2,000 books."

I can imagine the pleasure the children of Trinidad will have in reading these books — but what none of us can even guess at is the back-log of Canadian goodwill this gift may engender in a generation that will one day be the leaders of their country. Perhaps that is the key to good diplomacy. Give the children of the world Canadian books — and the adults of the world, if not of this generation then of the next — will be our friends!

It should be of special interest to Eastern Townships readers — in view of his early close connection with this area — to know that Yousuf Karsh's book PORTRAITS OF GREATNESS, was the first day of its sale — completely sold out in its first edition, both in Canada and the United States.

This means a first-day sale of 3,000 copies in Canada and about 30,000 copies in the United States. Quite an achievement for a Canadian book — and it is still going strong, not only on this continent but in Europe also.

Yousuf-Karsh's relatives have lived in Ste. Marie de Beauce ever since they came to Canada from their native Armenia in 1948. Yousuf, himself, first became interested in photography — along with his brother Malak — in the studio of his uncle, George Nakash, well-known in Sherbrooke before he moved to Montreal.

Not every writer lives up to the picture of eccentricity many readers have of them. But the late Nancy Jones of Winnipeg was one of those who did.

Her friend, Vinia Hoogstraten, also a Winnipeg writer, tells this story of her:

According to Vinia, Nancy had such an off-hand attitude to what she wore on her head that it was sometimes a little unnerving.

For instance in her first book FOR GOODNESS' SAKE, Nancy herself tells about a velvet toque her small son put through the washer but which she, due at a minister's wives tea, wore anyway.

As so often happens — and it probably explains why writers of deeply-researched books are in greatest demand as public speakers — some of the most interesting tidbits of information gleaned in research can't always be used in the book and thus end up in a foreword or one of the author's speeches. This is the case in Taylor Caldwell's foreword to DEAR AND GLORIOUS PHYSICIAN reviewed elsewhere on this page. In it for instance, she mentions such intriguing details as an ancient book written by an unnamed nun of Antioch or a Babylonian cure for cancer by the use of strange "stones".

LEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

JEAN LESSARD NAMED TO OLYMPIC SQUAD
A citizen of Sherbrooke gained another laurel for the Eastern Townships when he was named to the Olympic ski squad which will represent Canada next month at Squaw Valley.

Jean Lessard worked hard to make the squad and it is not something which just happened over night. It goes back quite a few years when Jean and his brothers took up skiing and after several years of hard work he reached one pinnacle in winning the Canadian Skiing Championships last year at Mount Orford.

His aim was set to make the Olympic squad and with this in view he trained all summer during the heat and everything else to put himself in top form for the call. Jean could be seen at 6.30 pedalling a bike along Queen Boulevard after doing several laps around the track at the Parade Grounds and many a morning he ran into him along with several of his friends.

We are glad to see he made the team and before he left for B.C. he told us that he would make it, and that he did. We think the City of Sherbrooke should be proud of Jean Lessard for conferring such an honor on our city.

When you stop to think how many skiers have tried to accomplish such a feat it makes the honor all the more outstanding. Jean has proven to our young, and coming, skiers that with hard work the top can be reached.

The various skiing clubs of the Townships along with Bob Gingras, Mike LeProhon and several others commenced a special fund to raise money to send him to the trials and the Olympic Games. Bob was named chairman of the committee and we understand that close to the sum of $2,000 has been raised but even with this high amount it isn't sufficient to send Jean much further.

It would be a shame at this stage if Jean should be obliged to return home especially after making such a fine showing in the trials. They move to Sun Valley this weekend then Alta, Utah, and Aspen, Colo., before moving to the Olympic site for the big test.

This is one individual who deserves the backing of every sports-minded citizen because he has proven worthy of all support we can give him. So if you have a little cash hanging around give Bob Gingras a call. Every little bit helps. So how about it?

The annual meeting of the Yamaska Conservation Association will be held in Granby Wednesday evening at 8.00 in the Canadian Legion Memorial Hall which is located on Court Street. There will be no guest speaker as the evening will be devoted to club business.

It is the 10th anniversary year and all members are urgently requested to be on hand for the gathering. Reports will be given and the election of officers will take place. At the same time a film "The Great Country" will be shown and all in all it should be a very interesting evening. So don't forget to be on hand and at the same time you run a chance of winning a smart new Scott Atwater motor as a door prize.

George Masse, local representative for Molson's Brewery, with the aid of the Elks Club of Sherbrooke has come to the fore and once again the golfers of the Townships will be able to practice their favorite game indoors until the snow melts away. This is the third season that Molson's have sponsored such an event and it certainly meets with the approval of all the club-swingers around these parts.

George tells us that the school will be open every day from 1.00 until 4.00 in the afternoons and 7.30 till 9.30 in the evening. On Saturday the school opens at 11.00 and closes at the same time. There is nothing doing on Sundays.

This is open to all golfers of the Townships with no restrictions. Joe Leblanc will be on hand to give lessons and these can be made by the individual. Golfers must bring their own clubs.

We think it is a fine gesture on the part of George Masse and Molson's along with the members of the Elks Club, who did the digging and levelling job which consisted of a lot of work, and on behalf of the golfers we convey a hearty vote of thanks to all.

See where the Big Four Football Union and the CBC have started their fight over the price for television rights for league games. The league is asking $300,000 for the rights but the CBC has indicated the price is too high.

The debate will commence later this month and no doubt it will be tossed around like a greasy football before it is settled. The Big Four claims they won't cut the price and they think the CBC will give into them. "We feel the Canadian people want to see Canadian football on television," stated president Jake Gaudar of Hamilton. So it looks like another long drawn out affair.

Norm Farrell was elected president of the Sherbrooke Country Club at the annual meeting and from the look of things he has a good board of directors to help him out. Chairmen of the various committees were well named and it would appear the club should be in for a good season.

Alex Allard was named vice-president, while Art St. Onge, George Beaulieu, Sanford Carter, Jimmy Planché and Ed Martin were the new men elected which gives President Farrell a well-balanced group to work with.

Montreal's Bob Cleroux Signs To Meet Willie Besmanoff In Gardens

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal heavyweight Bob Cleroux has signed to meet German-born Willie Besmanoff in a 10-round supporting bout on the Feb. 5 boxing card at New York's Madison Square Garden, it was learned here Friday.

Cleroux, leading challenger for George Chuvalo's Canadian heavyweight title, has won 17 of 19 pro bouts, scoring 15 knockouts. But the 21-year-old will be facing his first "name" opponent in Besmanoff.

The Dortmund battler, fighting out of Milwaukee now, was ranked among the top 10 in the heavyweight division last year but this season slipped.

Cleroux was offered a Jan. 1 bout at the Garden against Pete Radamacher of Columbus, Ga., but had to turn it down after developing a sore wrist in training. The Montrealer's lone pro defeat — he has one draw — occurred in the Garden last year to Buddy Turman of Tyler, Tex.

Mr. Heggveit said that Anne will spend about a week at home before resuming skiing in United States international meets. She is Canada's leading hope in women's ski events of the winter Olympics which open Feb. 18 at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Michael Guzzell, President Of Canadian Ski Association, Defends Policy Used To Select Ski Squad

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP) — Criticism of the policy used this week in the selection of the alpine teams to represent Canada in the forthcoming Olympic games was termed "unfounded" Friday by Canadian Amateur Ski Association president Michael Guzzell.

Guzzell said he has complete confidence in his international competition committee chairman Newt Robinson of Trail, B.C. and the two men's team coaches—Franz Trischler of Austria and Andy Tommy of Ottawa.

Beavers Hosts To Rockets, Meteors At Vict'ville Sunday

Normie Dussault And Gilles Dube Will Be In Uniform For Locals; Canadiens Gunning For Big Win

Can the Sherbrooke Beavers halt Drummondville's winning streak? This question will be answered tomorrow afternoon at the Sherbrooke Arena when the Dube squad will host to the league-leading Rockets in one of the games on tap in the E. T. Intermediate Hockey League. In the other fixture Asbestos will move down to Victoriaville to tangle with the Canadiens. Granby has the bye for the weekend.

The Rockets have a four-point lead over the second-place Victoriaville squad while the Beavers are just two points out of second spot. All these teams are in action Sunday and a few wins in the right way could tighten things up in a real fashion.

The Beavers will have their coach, Gilles Dube, back in action after sitting out a three-game suspension. Normie Dussault will also be in uniform but it is doubtful if the two other injured players, Pee Wee Theriault and Bob Bedard, will return yet.

In their last outing, in Asbestos, the Beavers pulled another surprise by knocking over the Meteors of Asbestos with only twelve men in uniform. The Meteors had two new players back in the lineup in order to try and reinforce their squad. It is also rumored that they may have a new coach in charge. This will give Roland Rousseau more time to devote to playing.

The Rockets will be gunning for their ninth straight victory, the longest of any team in the O'Donnell circuit this season. Their last defeat was a 4-0 blanking at the hands of the Granby Vics. Coach Poliquin will have a complete team on hand for Sunday's tilt.

The Meteors will be trying to improve their fourth-place position at the hands of the Canadiens while the Peppin club will go after a win and hoping for a loss to the Rockets to get back in the battle for first place.

Ingemar Johansson's Sensational Knockout Over Floyd Patterson Voted Upset For 1959 In Poll

Ingemar Johansson's sensational technical knockout victory over Floyd Patterson in last June's heavyweight championship bout Friday was named the upset of the year for 1959 in the annual Associated Press poll.

A 5-1 underdog, the husky Swede floored Patterson seven times in the third round before the one-sided match was stopped. It was the most stunning boxing upset since 1936 when Max Schmeling, the black giant from Germany, flattened Joe Louis.

Johansson's conquest was tabbed the most unexpected sports result by 63 of the 114 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the poll. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Ingo's triumph received 239 points.

The Los Angeles Dodgers' National League pennant victory collected 15 firsts and 67 points. The Chicago White Sox' first place finish in the American League race drew 12 top positions and 38 points. The New York Yankees' third place windup was named first on 19 ballots and piled up 40 points.

Archie Moore Almost Stole Show But Ingemar Johansson Grabbed Split Decision At Boxing Writers Dinner

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore almost stole the show at the boxing writers dinner, but Ingemar Johansson grabbed a split decision in the last round. Moore was a spellbinder Thursday night. Impeccably attired and sporting a goatee, the world light-heavyweight boxing champion told 500 diners how he wanted to fight Johansson, the heavyweight king.

"I suggested a round or two with him," he said, recalling a conversation with Ingemar. "That's a lot of money, I would like that." Ex-champion Joe Louis walked past just in time to hear Archie mention the money.

Anne Heggveit Returning From Europe For Rest

OTTAWA (CP) — Hal Heggveit, father of Canadian Olympic skier Anne Heggveit, said Friday his daughter is returning from Europe for a rest.

He said in an interview Anne is overtrained and needs a vacation. She will not miss any major competitions, however.

Twenty-one-year-old Anne, voted recently as Canada's women athlete of the year, has been training in Europe since Nov. 1. She was eliminated in the Grindelwald races in Switzerland last weekend and Friday was 29th in the opening giant slalom of the International Hahnenkamm in Austria.

Mr. Heggveit said that Anne will spend about a week at home before resuming skiing in United States international meets. She is Canada's leading hope in women's ski events of the winter Olympics which open Feb. 18 at Squaw Valley, Calif.

Tomy Lee And First Landing Clash Again

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Kentucky Derby winner Tomy Lee and First Landing renew an old argument today in the $50,000-added Santa Anita Maturity at a mile and a quarter Jan. 30.

Eleven four-year-olds were entered Friday in the mile and a furlong race that should establish the likely favorite for the $100,000-added Santa Anita Maturity at a mile and a quarter Jan. 30. It will be the first meeting between Tomy Lee and First Landing since the derby. First Landing was third.

A rule imposing an automatic $25 fine on players taking part in fights they did not originate was adopted by governors of the National Hockey League 19 years ago today. It was an attempt to discourage the free-for-all brawls that marked some games in New York, Chicago and Montreal in the 1941-42 season.

English Football Backs Up Referee

LONDON (AP) — The disciplinary committee of the English Football Association ruled Friday that referee Alf Sturgeon did the right thing when he sent all 22 players off the field and declared a soccer game abandoned.

Sturgeon, a London traffic cop, explained why he took this drastic step in a Southern League game between Dartford and Gravesend, Dec. 26.

"When one player was socked in the stomach by another player after a lot of rough play, I thought 'that's enough' and off they went."

It was the first time in British soccer history that all 22 players had been sent off. The same teams had played on Christmas Day and received a general warning from the referee.

Grand Jury Finds Dentist Guilty Of Bribery

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An Allegheny County grand jury Friday indicted a 33-year-old dentist on charges of attempting to bribe two Pittsburgh basketball players.

The indictment was returned against Dr. Edward H. Sebastian of suburban Kennedy Township, a one-time Pittsburgh dental instructor.

Dr. Sebastian is accused of trying to bribe the two players to shave points so the could win bets on games.

The accusations were made by John Fridley, 20, of Sharon, Pa., and Richard Falenski, 21, of Latrobe.

Fridley and Falenski said Dr. Sebastian promised them half of his winnings and offered other inducements including dental school scholarships.

Dr. Sebastian has denied the charges.

Yugoslavia Quits Games

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Yugoslavia bowed out of the 1960 Winter Olympics Friday. Yugoslav Olympic officials apparently felt their athletes would not make a good showing.

Yugoslavia had planned to enter the men's and ladies' alpine and cross-country ski competition and ski jumping.

Ken Watson On Curling No. 14

'Duster' and the 'Dolly' Key to Scot Curling

(Canada's "Mr. Curling," Ken Watson of Winnipeg, is covering the Canadian curling scene for The Sherbrooke Record. This is another in a series of 20 articles.)

My first curling game in Scotland was played within the friendly confines of the Ayre Ice Rink which all true Scots know is only a skip's roar from the home of Scotland's immortal bard, Robbie Burns. John Watson of Ayre, who disclaims any relationship to my genealogical tree, was my host and opposing skip. After the preliminary introductions to the players over a wee dram in the rooms I was ushered out onto the ice surface where a brush and a "duster" were shoved into my unsuspecting hands. Presumably they represented the official insignia of a skip's authority so I tried not to look alarmed.

To tell the truth I was familiar with the traditional brush or "coo" which had been used by the touring Scots in Canada, but the "duster" had me cornered. It was a piece of light yellow flannel around fourteen inches square. Just when I wondered if I should mop my perspiring brow with it I looked about at the games on either side and saw dusters to the left of me and dusters to the right of me. Some were lying crumpled on the handle of a stone in the rings, some were tucked under the front rim of a rock and others lay sprawled on the ice many feet in front of the rings. Obviously they weren't being used by the skips for blowing their noses.

By this time my lead player was crunched and waiting impatiently at the hack. John Watson, sensing my consternation and abysmal ignorance, then took pity and explained to me that the position of the duster on the ice simply indicated to the player the ultimate destination of his stone. Henceforth, with an air of bravado that belied my inner feeling of foolishness, I deposited the duster in the manner of a flirtatious mademoiselle dispensing her favours by daintily dropping her perfumed handkerchief.

A few days later I had the exhilarating experience of curling outdoors on Todd's Mill Pond at Lasswade just outside of the beautiful city of Edinburgh. This time as skip, an oversized broom and a solid wooden object shaped like a five pin bowling ball were thrust into my hands. They told me the wooden bottle was called a "dolly" and it took the place of a duster in outdoor curling. This provided some reassurance as I felt I could handle a bottle more expertly than a duster so the game was on. But this was only the beginning of the story.

After the match, while we gathered before the warmth of an open fireplace in Leonard Todd's home and the Scotch mist had somehow reappeared in the doors, our host revealed the story of the evolution of the dolly.

A half century ago Todd recounted the Scots curlers on the lochs had actually used a hollow, wooden bottle to mark the spot on which to place a draw or a guard. This bottle contained an elixir to toast the victors after the game or console the pangs of the vanquished. And we betide any curler who dared throw enough weight to shatter the thin frame that housed its rewarding contents.

Now I think I know why our genial Scots curlers prefer quiet draw weight.

Minor Hockey Week In Canada Opens Jan. 23

Minor Hockey Week in Canada will be held this year from Jan. 23 to Jan. 31. During this week special programs are out on with special minor hockey games to try and attract parents to the rink. The motto "Minor Hockey is a Family Affair... Do Not Send Your Boy Alone to the Rink... Accompany Him!" is emphasized to the utmost.

This is the time parents are asked to turn out to see what their boys have learned in hockey and what improvement has been accomplished. It is also the time that credit is accorded to coaches, managers and organizers of minor hockey. All work done for minor hockey is benevolent and no one is paid, either player or coaches or managers or officials. Hockey is a game that helps develop the physical and mental parts of a boy and shows him to accept authority of his coaches or superiors. In school hockey when a boy fails to attain high enough marks he is suspended for a few games.

Last year there were in the Province of Quebec 980 clubs with 10,444 players duly registered. The Eastern Townships had 150 clubs with 1,849 players registered. St. Maurice Valley had 37 clubs with 666 players. Quebec City 25 clubs and 287 players. And Montreal City and District had 744 clubs and 7,668 players.

Johansson And Edwin Ahlquist Are Waiting Decision From NY Athletic Commission Before Making Next Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson and his adviser, Edwin Ahlquist, are waiting today for a decision by the New York State Athletic Commission before making their next move.

Although Johansson and Ahlquist agreed to confer with members of Roy Cohn's eight-man group known as Feature Sports, Inc., Ahlquist repeated his earlier statement that "absolutely nothing can be done until the commission makes its decision."

Both Ahlquist and Johansson agreed that things should be cleared up by Feb. 15 if the champion is to box Floyd Patterson in New York in June as planned. Patterson was knocked out by Johansson last June 26 in Yankee Stadium.

CBC Will Negotiate With Big Four And Western Football For Television Rights As In Past Years-Fraser

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will negotiate for Big Four and Western football television rights this year as in other years.

CBC Vice-President R.C. Fraser said Friday in an interview that the corporation is ready to sit down for preliminary discussions with the leagues.

"We'd like to know what is available," he said.

Published reports have said the CBC will not bid for the TV rights this year.

CBC sources say such reports are unfounded but indicate that the corporation will insist on reduced prices.

It paid $312,000 for Big Four rights and $150,000 for W.F.U. rights last year. It lost money on both contracts when it was unable to dig up sufficient sponsorship.

The football leagues have relied heavily on income from television rights. They have not been able in past years to find private sponsors who would pay anywhere near what they got from the CBC.

The Big Four will look into the TV rights question at its annual meeting Jan. 29-30 in Toronto. Talks with the CBC likely will follow sometime in February.

However, Jake Gaudar, Hamilton Tiger-Cats general manager and chairman of the Big Four television committee, will as usual look into the possibility of private sponsorship first.

Cost of televising football games — for such things as network space and equipment — runs almost as high over a season as the cost of the rights themselves, and perhaps higher in the west.

The over-all cost to a private sponsor, therefore, becomes almost prohibitive.
