

Career as educator in the E. T. continues

By RONALD TAYLOR

Dr. Harper is a professor of English at Bishop's University. Her career at the university began in 1963 when she was hired as an assistant professor.

A few years later she took on the added duties of Dean of the annex at Bishop's, a small residence for senior women students. With the closing of the annex, Dr. Harper became Dean of Pollack Hall and later Norton Hall, two of the women's residences at the university.

Dr. Harper teaches courses in the history of English literature. "These courses are for those who are doing an in depth study of English," she said. "They are the bones of the English language."

To her work at Bishop's University, Dr. Harper brings a rich background of experience as an educator.

Born in England, she was educated in private schools. In her early years her family moved to Ceylon for a short time. Her university training was at the University of Hamburg in Germany, where she studied German.

When the war broke out, Dr. Harper moved to the Bahamas with her family.

Her first teaching assignment brought her to Chandler on the Gaspé Coast, where she spent three years as teacher and principal. "I taught everything from Latin to physics from Grades one through eleven," she said. The school was a one room building and the enrolment usually ran about 16.

Her next position brought Dr. Harper to the Eastern Townships as principal of the school at Megantic. This was the start of a career as an educator in the Eastern Townships which has kept Dr. Harper here to this day.

Dr. Harper accepted a position as a teacher of English and history at Stanstead College. At the time Stanstead College was co-educational.

She has a great deal of praise for private schools. She pointed out that she was prejudiced, having been educated in them herself, but despite this she feels that they are an advantage to the young. They help a person learn how to get along with others and assist in the development of discipline and self-confidence.

In 1948 she became a teacher of English and history at Lennoxville High School. In her two years there, she was able to complete the work for her masters degree at Bishop's University.

Her next assignment in the Eastern Townships took Dr. Harper to Sutton High School, as principal. During her time at Sutton, a new school was built which involved the consolidation of many of the smaller schools in the district. At the same time Dr. Harper traveled weekly to the University of Montreal where she studied and received her doctorate.

In 1959, Dr. Harper became principal of the Sunnyside School in Stanstead. This was one of her most challenging endeavors since during her stay she had the opportunity to work with a wide variety of students and teachers.

The school offered Grades one to 11 and it accommodated many who had gone to Stanstead College before it became a residential college exclusively for boys. When this change came about it was necessary to deal with young people who were accustomed to smaller schools. And so it was necessary to bring them together through common interests.

After four years as principal, Dr. Harper took up her position in the English Department at Bishop's University. She says that she has always been more than satisfied with the Eastern Townships and that she has no plans to leave.

...and as she sees it

Dr. Harper emphasizes the importance of a good education. "I believe in the Greek ideal of education," she said, "where a person is taught to think out his own ideas and develop himself as a person."

All this leads to the real reason for an education: to enable the young person to become an individual, she concluded.

"People are beginning to realize the potential of education," she said. In the past many schools have concentrated on teaching facts to young students. Now they are outlining a background for the child to develop his skills upon.

The idea of consolidated schools is another step in the right direction Dr. Harper felt. This allows the school board to obtain more qualified teaching staffs. When a number of small schools exist in small areas as they did in the Eastern Townships, it makes it almost impossible for many of them to hire qualified teachers. When the smaller schools unite they can combine their resources and have teaching specialists.

The problem involved with consolidation occurs when the school becomes so large that the personal contact is decreased. If this occurs the individual may be lost in the system. At this age the wide backgrounds of the children must be considered. If the child is not understood and helped he may withdraw into himself and grow into a balanced adult.

Bishop's offers an ideal opportunity for the inter-personal relationships that are necessary to an education. The small numbers allow both students and teachers to know one another at the personal level.

Dr. Harper expressed her feeling that the education system must help the child to find confidence to cope with growing up. "Young people are often confused by too much freedom in their younger years," she said. Often freedom for the adolescent is not defined and the young adult finds himself torn between dependence and breaking away.

In conclusion the education system must direct itself to assist the child in overcoming these problems.

SPIRITUAL HOME

Despite her close affiliation to English, Dr. Harper says that she is intrigued by the French culture. She attributes much of the province's interest to the presence of the two cultures.

Dr. Harper says that she likes the Eastern Townships. She has devoted the greater part of her teaching career to this area and claims that it has all been very rewarding.

Although her true homeland is England, she says that the Eastern Townships have become her "spiritual home". She says that the people of the area have helped to make her feel this way.

Dr. Harper says that she has no plans to leave the area, permanently. She added that she does hope to travel to England next summer and around the world the following year.

E.T. EDUCATOR — Dr. Kathleen Harper has been a part of the Eastern Townships education scene for most of her teaching career. She is seen above in her office at Bishop's University where she is now a professor of English.

Friends will soon be in the dog house

Barry and Jane travel just about every where that Dr. Harper does. She has a custom-made wire partition in the back end of her Peugeot station wagon where the dogs ride — most of the time anyway. And as one of her friends said, very soon the dogs will be riding in the passenger section and her friends will be put in the cage.

Dr. Kathleen Harper has come to be associated with these constant companions. Barry and Jane are springer spaniels; Barry belonging to Dr. Harper and Jane to her sister, Miss Dorothy Harper.

But the three are usually together, and on just about any morning (early) they can be seen taking a walk about the Bishop's campus. A recent rule established by the university bars Barry and Jane's access to the buildings. "Many of my students will be dismayed," said Dr. Harper. "Often people have come to my office and if Barry is not there they ask why. He has come to be a popular fellow on Campus."

Both Barry and Jane have been to school Dr. Harper pointed out. In fact Jane is presently studying at obedience school to obtain her Companion Dog Degree which is equivalent to our bachelor's degree. If she completes this, she is eligible to try for her CDX and Utility which are equivalent to our master's and PhD degrees respectively.

Barry was forced to drop out Dr. Harper explained. He was too distracted by the other dogs.

Sunny and warm

The weather man brings encouraging news for this weekend. Clear and sunny skies will continue throughout the weekend. Temperatures will increase on Saturday. Winds will be light. High today and low tonight in the Sherbrooke area 75 and 50.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

FOR SUNDAY, SEPT. 7, 1969

Your birthday today: A mixed year begins now; personal energy is strewn over several activities, which sustain many interruptions and passing moments of crisis. The later months produce a personal success story of more stable moods and better public acceptance. Today's natives tend to be adaptable, versatile, industrious, and generous politicians.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Attend your accustomed religious observance early this day, then spend the rest of the day seeing what is new in the cultural side of your community.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Start early and enjoy a full day of visiting your friends, doing something to make your home more attractive, writing to overdue correspondents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your mind is active, so make it a lively day to match. Gather your friends for pastimes of a social nature. Carry through with a gala evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Try to manage a day by the water. Your intuition comes in sharp and clear concerning recent acquaintances—if there's a warning here, do not waver in reacting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Better your share in the community expression of faith, enjoy the day with friends. Is there a party to attend this evening?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You finally come to a time for settlement of out-standing conflicts between nearby and faraway interests. You need sound professional counsel on expanding or consolidating what you hold.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): This Sunday is mild and pleasant. Shed a bit of your reserve and informally join your friends. Younger people appreciate you more today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go early to visit people you've neglected lately, particularly if you have a friend in the hospital. At least lay out some scheme for creative work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you don't mind being left out of things temporarily, this Sunday has its own rewards for you. Check travel plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The little extra move you make toward people is well received this pleasant Sunday. Stay aware and alert for surprises. No detailed plan works out quite as expected, but the scrambled results are almost as good and interesting.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make this a long and full day without any sudden sprints or over-action. Creative projects catch your main interest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): This should go into your book as "relaxation Sunday." Enjoy yourself with young-in-spirit friends. Make a journey to a sports event or an outdoor show.

FOR MONDAY, SEPT. 8, 1969

Your birthday today: You have the prospect of now achieving a level where you make decisions for others in your specialty. You will have help and encouragement—all the more as you adjust and turn your energy in the more productive directions. Romantic interests come through quietly and strongly this year. Today's natives are generally well aware of the opportunities to advance and usually well skilled in managing groups.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Today contains a streak of luck, which is favorable in many subtle ways. Information is to be used as soon as you have the story. Something you acquire proves to be of lasting value.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your ideas are easier to present now and likely to find receptive listeners. Make yourself more fully known. Home improvement takes a share of your attention. In the evening quietly strengthen emotional ties.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Attend to all the little errands you have accumulated over the week-end. You are apt to meet interesting new people. The mail may bring useful advice. Romantic interests thrive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Something favorable is coming up in your vocation or career. Your opinion is possibly more accurate today than the official version. Give some attention to your diet; make sure you are not missing any essential elements.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Decisions you made long ago and forgot bear fruit today. Get most of the job done early while the going is good. Put your strongest qualities forward; make the most of a high tide in sociability.

60 children attend classes at Border Bible Vacation School

STANSTEAD — The closing of the two weeks Bible Vacation School at the Gospel Chapel in Stanstead was held on Aug. 22 with a number of parents of the children and friends attending.

Approximately 60 children enrolled in the classes from the Boundary Villages had assembled with the teachers every evening, Monday through Friday for the two weeks.

Walter Scott officiated at the opening ceremonies, which he explained was a sample of what was taught during the two weeks. The youngsters sang with great enthusiasm the songs they had learned about the Love of Jesus Christ. Sidney Young offered prayer.

Large charts were on display and from these symbols and words the youngsters learned a Bible verse a day from St. John's Gospel. Mrs. E. McKelvey's class of 23 sang a motion song, O Be Careful, with Mrs. L. Wallace at the piano. They also sang, Birdie On A Tree-top.

A group of older children presented a pantomime as Mr. Scott told a Bible story about David, The King, and two of his sons.

The theme of the school was Messages from the Bible. There was an excellent display of artwork on tables done by the children, including photo albums, a large wooden key on which to hang keys, the same in a design of a teapot for pot holders, pictures, and numerous novelties made from bits and pieces, showing marvelous ingenuity.

The evening closed with Mr. Young offering prayer and in his remarks said he hopes another school will be held next year.

The school was organized by Mr. Young and the teachers and assistants were Mrs. Sidney Young, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Down, Walter Scott, Mrs. L. Wallace, Mrs. E. McKelvey, Ben Young and Harold McKelvey, Mr. and Mrs. George Coburn, Miss Elsie Murphy, Miss Janet Down, Miss Peggy Young and Miss Doreen Neill. Miss Neill was in charge of handicrafts.

At the close refreshments were served. The teaching staff and Mr. Young received many compliments on the wonderful two weeks' even children of the communities.

Sawyerville

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cairns, Compton and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Young, Grimsby, Ont., were recent guests of Mrs. James Parkinson. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bellam and sons, Richmond, Va., were calling on Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bellam and Mrs. James Parkinson recently. They were trying to locate other Bellams as they had thought they were the only Bellams around. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walsh of Derby Line, Vt.

Mrs. E. E. Goodenough, Sherbrooke, spent a few days with Mrs. L. H. Hunt and Miss Blanche Hunt. Callers were Mrs. L. C. Roy, Toronto, Ont., Mrs. Fern Lusk, Cookshire, and Mrs. G. Beauchene, Victoriaville.

Tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barber were Mrs. Charles Ellis, Bromptonville, and Mr. Roy Cummings, Richmond. Callers were Mr. and Mrs. John Bain, Birtchton.

Information given to parents on school situation

SCHOOL VISIT — Alexander Galt Regional School teachers visited the construction site of their future school on Tuesday. Seen above teachers are mounting buses at Bishop's University where orientation talks are being given. The talks will continue until the school is ready to be occupied.

LENNOXVILLE — Ian MacLeay, principal of the Alexander Galt Regional School has told students' parents in a letter that authorities are not certain when the institute will open but upon completion it will be one of the most advanced in the province.

The letter explains some of the problems being met because of the late opening and gives reason for the delay.

Because of the seriousness of the situation and for the interest of the many Eastern Townships' citizens who are directly or indirectly affected by the delay an unabridged text of the letter appears below.

This letter concerns your youngster's education for the coming year. I know that you have many questions. Indeed, many of you have phoned me to express your concern.

Why isn't our school ready? Didn't you say it would be? Why don't you use those empty classrooms? Can't you at least give out books so the students can study at home? When WILL the school be ready? What do you plan to do until it is ready?

The following points may help to answer some of those questions which on the surface may appear simple but are really complex.

The school is not ready for many reasons, none of which have anything to do with your school board or its officers. We have attended weekly meetings with the architects, engineers, and contractors on the site. As the summer progressed it became more and more obvious that the contractor was not only behind schedule, but also seemed unable to do the work necessary in order to complete the building according to his stated schedule. As late as August 1, when we questioned him as to why this was so, the replies always involved such reasons as: "bad weather", "union problems", "not enough workers", "poor co-ordination between the many sub-contractors and suppliers." Nevertheless the contractor maintained that the three-house blocks and access roads would be ready by September 1, even if this involved the use of three shifts. They were never used.

In the opinion of our architects, the building could have been completed on time if they had been.

It is virtually impossible to find sufficient space for all youngsters in their former schools:

St. Patrick High School in Sherbrooke will be used to store equipment and as a centre for book distribution to which I will refer later.

Mitchell Elementary School is now a French Catholic school operating at full capacity.

Sherbrooke High School is now occupied by the English-speaking Protestant elementary pupils. This is at capacity except for three classrooms on the top floor.

Lennoxville High School has absorbed all the Waterville students, since the Waterville School has been closed, and will be sold as soon as we remove the equipment now stored there, and scheduled for Galt Regional.

Princess Elizabeth Elementary in Magog no longer has its usual annex available, which means that there is little effective space left in the school.

The annex of the Ayer's Cliff school is also unavailable.

Sunnyside High School in Stanstead is filled to capacity because of the closing of the Beebe Elementary School.

This pattern is similar in other school communities in our area.

The total effect of the above is that over half of the students scheduled for the regional are unable to return to their former schools.

Even if the highly specialized program which our students have selected permitted us to use the few existing classrooms in our old schools, they are to be found over such a great area (Magog to Megantic, Stanstead to Windsor), that it would not be practical.

As to the problem of when the school will be ready, we simply don't know. We hope that the tens and elevens will be brought in about the beginning of October, and the other classes by early November, earlier if at all possible in both cases. Our problems are further complicated by the fact that our school will have about 200 students more than it is designed for. This means that even specialized areas such as the gymnasium must be ready for we have no other place to put the 180 pupils per period scheduled for these areas. Even the auditorium has been scheduled for three separate classes per period.

In the light of the above, what are our plans until the school is ready?

It is our intention that no one in grades 7, 8 and 9 will lose his year because of late opening. This does not mean an automatic pass. What it does mean is that the courses which they will follow once they arrive at school, will be shortened to suit the time available to cover them but there will be no loss of essential content. The staff is presently working on this.

We plan to eliminate the formal examination periods as a method of making up for lost time. These will be replaced by short tests given over a period of time throughout each school term. In this way several weeks will be saved, and it is, furthermore, a move that is in keeping with modern educational practice.

We are presently collecting all available textbooks from our three holding areas for delivery to and distribution from St. Pat's High School in Sherbrooke. As soon as we are ready, it is our plan to make available whatever texts which can be used for effective home study.

Where possible, course outlines and directed assignments will be provided. This program will begin with Grades Ten and Eleven.

Quite obviously, this is not the way which we would choose to open a new school. We believe, however, that when it is completed our community will have one of the most advanced schools in the province and will provide opportunities not now available, nor will they be for some time to come, in many, many other provincial school areas and districts.

Uncola people are unhappy about being underpaid

SHERBROOKE — (SL) — Placard-carrying employees of Seven-Up Sherbrooke Ltd., continue to picket the east-end beverage plant, it was learned yesterday.

Drivers, bottlers, helpers and warehouse workers went on strike last Friday in response to the company's alleged refusal to drop clauses "endangering" the jobs of its employees.

The workers, represented by the National Syndicate of Employees of Seven-Up and affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, indicated their dissatisfaction also with salary and fringe benefits.

Since June both management and the 25-member union have held six meetings.

Richard Tremblay, manager, said the crux of union and management strife is salary, which is paid along with a commission bonus. Figures were unavailable.

One employee, carrying a sign labelled "Justice Out," said salaries vary among workers but the end result, he said, is very much the same on all levels.

"We are being paid the minimum wage allowed by the provincial government," he said.

The clauses which are said to endanger their jobs were explained to the Record.

One clause, he said, calls for outside bottling by an independent bottler, and another, which gives the owners a free hand in the distributing field, would give management the alternative of allowing third party individuals to buy the trucks and take over the distribution as agents.

"Since nobody among us can afford to buy a truck and assume the dealership," he said, "Gaston Gregoire (plant owner) can end our jobs tomorrow if the two clauses are maintained."

Jean-Louis, head of the local union, said no meeting has yet been planned for further negotiations.

LIS will defend itself

MONTREAL (CP) — A French unilingualist group involved in Wednesday's violence at suburban St. Leonard says it is planning legal action against Mayor Leo Ouellet because of inadequate police protection.

Raymond Lemieux, head of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire which organized a meeting Wednesday to discuss action against the proposed opening of an English private school, told a news conference Thursday:

"Two weeks ago, he (the mayor) warned the government of possible violence. Knowing this, he should have organized better protection."

Mr. Lemieux blamed the violence on English-Canadians opposed to the "national interests" of French-speaking Quebecers.

"It is only the English who stand to gain anything from the struggle, not the Italians or any other immigrant group."

Immigrants to Quebec will have to be assimilated into the French-speaking group, he said.

"It is costing the Quebec people $500,000,000 each year to accept the immigrants that settle here, and 85 per cent of them are blending in with the English sector of the population."

"It is not that we are anti-Italian but simply that continued immigration is conflicting with the national interests of the province."

PLAN SECOND MEETING

Mr. Lemieux said the LIS would hold another public meeting next Wednesday and the group would set up "our own measures of security."

Mayor Ouellet charged Thursday that the Quebec government doesn't want to do anything about the suburb's school crisis.

Kidnappers demand prisoners

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP) — Communist raiders kidnapped U.S. Ambassador Charles Burke Elbrick Thursday and demanded that Brazil release 15 political prisoners as the price for his life.

Four gunmen, some of them bearded, ambushed Elbrick's limousine on a Rio street and drove off with him in a station wagon. A report said he was chloroformed. A political manifesto left behind by the abductors said the 61-year-old Elbrick was seized because he was "the symbol of exploitation."

The document said Elbrick's life "is in the hands of the dictatorship"—meaning the military government of Brazil.

The kidnappers said Elbrick will be executed if the government does not accept their demands within 48 hours—by Saturday afternoon.

They demanded that the 15 political prisoners be flown to Algeria, Chile or Mexico where they would seek political asylum.

FORCED FROM CAR

The kidnappers forced Elbrick from his limousine as he rode back from lunch at his residence to the downtown embassy offices.

Police sources said four men armed with guns cut off the Cadillac limousine with a small Volkswagen.

They took Elbrick to a Volkswagen station wagon and fled, leaving behind the embassy driver, a homemade bomb that did not go off, and the ransom note.

To climb Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters) — Eight mountain climbers flew into a Himalayan airstrip Thursday to begin a reconnaissance climb on Mount Everest, the world's highest peak. Six Japanese and two Sherpas are joining five other members of the party at Lukla airstrip to explore a new route for a 1970 Japanese expedition up the south face of the 29,028-foot mountain.

USW, Screen Plate settle

LENNOXVILLE — (CJ) — The first labor agreement between the Union Screen Plate Co. of Canada and its workers was approved at a meeting of Local 7531 of the United Steel Workers of America held Wednesday night. Bruno MacDonald, USWA representative, announced Thursday.

The two-year agreement, concluded after three months of negotiation, provides for wage increases of 20 cents an hour in the first year and another 20 cents for the second year of the contract.

Various other adjustments bring the total increases from 40 to 87 cents an hour over the two years. Under the new contract the starting rate for new employees will be $2.30 an hour during the first year and $2.50 during the second. Provision is made for nine paid statutory holidays.

Other adjustments provide for 25 cents an hour bonus for rotating shift workers on Sunday, 10 cents extra for the second shift and 15 cents for the third shift. Regular day shift workers will receive time-and-a-half on Saturday and double time Sunday.

The contract also includes the seniority clauses and other provisions generally included in new agreements, according to Mr. MacDonald.

The company negotiators were headed by Howard Sawyer and the union committee comprised Roger Cartier, Robert Lake and Tony Deacon with Bruno MacDonald as adviser.

Bedford Grade 11's

Some students accommodated

COWANSVILLE — The District of Bedford Regional School Board has made arrangements to conduct Grade 11 classes in rented school facilities at Cowansville. Grade XI pupils will be picked up by local buses and transferred to Express buses for transportation to the registration centre on Friday, September 19, at 9:15 a.m.; on Monday, September 22, classes will begin.

Instruction will be given in five subjects — English, French, Mathematics, History, and Physical Education. Department Heads and senior teachers will carry out the program which is designed to minimize any time loss resulting from the delay in opening caused by the strike of construction workers last June.

Courses requiring specialized facilities will not be started until the Regional High School is complete and ready for occupancy during the first week in October.

Registration for all other pupils Levels 1 to 4 (Grades 7 to 10) will register according to the locality in which they reside. Express buses will leave from the school mentioned:

Monday, Sept. 22: Cowansville, Cowansville Elementary School; Farnham, Farnham Elementary School.

Tuesday, Sept. 23: Bedford, Butler Elementary School; Clarenceville, Clarenceville Elementary School; Stanbridge East, Stanbridge East Elementary School; Sutton, Sutton Elementary School; Waterloo, Waterloo Elementary School.

Thursday, Sept. 25: Granby, Granby Elementary School; St. Patrick's, St. Patrick's Elementary School.

Friday, Sept. 26: Knowlton, Knowlton Elementary School; Mansonville, Mansonville Elementary School.

On the day that a pupil is to report to school he will take his regular bus or walk to one of the local schools which will serve as transfer points for express buses. There the pupil will board an express bus to the registration centre. Teachers will assist in the transfer to the express buses and direct pupils once they arrive at the new school campus.

The registration day will end at 1:30 p.m. in order that pupils may return to the transfer point in time to pick up local buses for home. Pupils will require on these days a lunch, 10 cents for milk, a ball point pen or pencil and the green information sheet which bears their name, and indicates their House and Level.

BARN FIRE — The heap of rubble, shown above, and $17,000 damage, was the result of a fire on the outskirts of Waterloo last Saturday when the barn belonging to Carmel Chagnon went up in flames. Waterloo firemen, under the direction of Deodat Cabana, received the alarm at 10 a.m. Monday. They fought the fire for three hours, and thus prevented the flames from reaching the house nearby. The blaze started in the section of the barn housing the hay. The damages included the loss of dairy equipment owned by Carmel Chagnon's brother Jacques, of the Chagnon Dairy Ltd.

Undue delay apparent in emergency planning

Most Sherbrooke district residents will appreciate that the officials of the Eastern Townships Regional School Board have been under intense pressure during the past few weeks as the result of the delay in the opening of the new Alexander Regional School at Lennoxville.

The delay in the completion of the structure means that hundreds of students in this section of the Eastern Townships will lose from one to two months instruction, a loss that might well cost them a year because they will be unable to meet the examination standards set by the provincial education authorities.

Parents and students alike will welcome the announcement of the school board officials that plans are now being formulated to overcome the problems and that meetings will be held by parents' groups to evolve some emergency program to rescue as far as possible the handicaps to be felt by the young people.

But at the same time the parents may be excused if they express misgivings over the apparently belated efforts to work out a solution.

For some weeks it has been obvious that the new school would not be completed in time for the regular opening date but insofar as the students or their parents are concerned there seems to have been no advance plans made to meet the inevitable problem of late opening.

Even with the best of co-operation and goodwill between all parties concerned in the crisis it seems certain that at least a week will elapse before any emergency action can be taken — meaning the loss of two weeks for the students at a critical time in their career.

It gives one a great feeling of confidence when the nearest thing to hand on the doctor's desk is the prescription pad rather than the scalpel case.

More frankness needed

Either the United States is beginning to bring its troops home from South Vietnam because the South Vietnamese are attaining the capability to take their places, or the withdrawal is merely another dubious attempt to end the endless war.

The announcement that President Nixon will delay indefinitely a decision on further troop reductions beyond the 25,000 actually being withdrawn, pending evaluation of current North Vietnam military action, uncomfortably suggests the latter — that troop withdrawal is the Nixon administration's version of President Johnson's bomb-then-pause-then-bomb-some-more policy.

It is explained that the President does not wish to deprive himself of bargaining latitude at the Paris peace talks by giving the impression that America is committed to withdrawal no matter what the Communists do. The delay is a warning to Hanoi that the United States will not stand idly by if the North continues to mount offensives and carry on the war as usual.

The tactic may be worth a try, but it is not likely to accomplish any more than similar stratagems have accomplished in the past.

If South Vietnam is not yet able to defend itself without the shield of half-a-million United States' troops, and if no one knows when or if it ever will be, nothing is gained by fooling the people of the United States and their friends on this score.

Washington certainly is not fooling the enemy.

Perhaps there wouldn't be so much campus unrest if the unrestful bathed oftener.

Resignation of Lesage could cause long term Grit split

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Trois-Rivières Le Nouvelliste: The leader of the Quebec Liberal party, Mr. Jean Lesage, caused a real flap . . . when he announced that he was stepping down from his post and was calling a caucus meeting Sept. 15 to choose a date for a leadership convention.

Since the defeat of the Liberal party in 1966 the leadership of Mr. Lesage had been contested constantly, so that he had to spend most of his time trying to stay in the saddle.

We said earlier that the Liberal party would become the party of division if Mr. Lesage resigned. We believe it more strongly than ever. There are within this party a good half-dozen candidates, more or less ambitious, who were only waiting for Mr. Lesage's departure to start shining their shoes. These men will not rally around a new leader easily. One name that must appear on this list is that of the former justice minister, Mr. Claude Wagner, who can claim much of the credit for the political assassination of Mr. Lesage.

We don't see how the Liberal party of Quebec, or what is left of it, can rally around a leader now that discord and treason seem to have become the golden rule in the party.

It is often said that politics is a thankless profession, and Mr. Lesage today is a living illustration of this . . . He was never forgiven for the defeat of June, 1966, as though he were the only one responsible.

The resignation of Mr. Lesage marks the end of an era. We must recognize that this man has served his province and his country well, and can depart with his head held high. We cannot say as much for certain people who are getting ready to share the spoils. — Sylvio St. Amant Aug. 29.

Granby La Voix de l'Est: The federal resources minister has just submitted to the minister of English-speaking parents deprived of Grades 1 and 2 classes in English, has decided to open his mouth. He first repeated that the government does not have the power to reverse the decision of the local school board; then he warned them the parents the government will not tolerate their defiance of the law by providing basement classes not recognized by him; and finally he politely advised them to open a private school which by virtue of Bill 56, in effect since June 30, could benefit from grants of up to 80 per cent of its cost provided it meets the standards.

Mr. Cardinal thus admits without saying so that the decision of the school trustees is unjust and that parents still have the right in Quebec to choose the language they want for their children's education, either French or English. . . . And seeing that he simply suggested that the English-speaking parents of St. Leonard take advantage of Bill 56, why didn't he do it two months earlier? Is it not making fun of people to invite them to set up, in eight days, a private school of about 14 classrooms, with all the organizing and initial expenditure this involves?

If he wants to avoid the worst, he should get to work this week . . . to make the job easier for them. As for those who openly announce their intention to make trouble and prevent the opening of an English school in St. Leonard, they should be taken in charge without delay by the minister of justice, whose responsibility it is to prevent a civil war in this unsettled community. — Renaude Lapointe Sept. 2.

Quebec L'Action: The member of the National Assembly for Louis Hebert, Mr. Jean Lesage, has just resigned as leader of the Quebec Liberal party. . . . Many people will share our regret that he has chosen not to try his luck again at the leadership convention. . . .

The door now is open to Mr. Jean Marchand, who has always wanted to make a career in the Quebec Liberal party but didn't want to risk it while Mr. Lesage was leader. Now he can permit himself this experience. In our humble opinion, although it is perhaps too early to take a stand on the subject, Mr. Marchand has little chance of becoming Mr. Lesage's successor. Surveys conducted by L'Action reporters lead us to believe that the people are well satisfied with the services rendered by Mr. Marchand as a federal minister, but are totally uninterested in his entry into provincial political life.

In the present climate of our society, it appears that Mr. Claude Wagner has an excellent chance of being chosen. His name was mentioned by nearly everyone we questioned on the subject over the last two days. Mr. Wagner personifies the strong, radical man, qualified to bring order to a society that suffers from lack of discipline and sometimes appears headed toward anarchy.

Mr. Lesage was a moderate man within his party. He often had to make prodigious efforts of diplomacy to calm different currents of thought and maintain his authority. On many occasions he prevented his party from falling into the hands of radicals of the left or the right.

It will require plenty of talent on the part of his successor to steer as skilfully, and through as many storms, the ship that Mr. Lesage has steered for more than a decade. — Roger Bruneau Aug. 29.

Quebec Le Soleil: Contrary to predictions in certain quarters . . . Premier Bennett has led his team to power in British Columbia with an increased majority. . . . The defeat of the New Democratic Party was even more crushing in light of the fact that the new premier of Manitoba, Ed Schreyer, fresh from the June 25 Manitoba election victory, went out to encourage his colleagues, and that NDP organizers from Saskatchewan and Manitoba also went to work in British Columbia, in a strategy that may be described as new, curious and debatable.

Since the leader of the Victoria government selected free enterprise as the main issue of this election campaign, and if we must judge from his resounding victory, then the people chose free enterprise. We have to face the facts. . . . The Bennett victory will have wide repercussions in Canada. Ironically, they will perhaps be most incisive in Manitoba, in view of the fact that Premier Schreyer threw his 10-gallon hat into the ring. It didn't match the 20-gallon hat of William Andrew Cecil Bennett. — A. Tremblay

He master-minded Hellyer's bid for the Liberal leadership, and losing — a new and apparently traumatic experience for Lee — left. . . . Let's look, though, at the others, the non-Lee types, through Walter Turnbull's coldly critical eyes.

Letters to editor

Another apology in order

The Editor:

I received this letter in this morning's mail. If this is true I am sure one devil of a man and I surely owe this gentleman an apology which is given sincerely. I would appreciate you publishing this letter from Mr. Martin.

Many thanks for your tolerance in all this bother and you may be sure it will be the last time from me. My thanks again.

Sincerely,
J. B. SWIFT, SR.
Lawrence Colony.

Mr. J. B. Swift, Sr.

Dear Sir:
After reading the Sherbrooke Record dated Aug. 27, I feel that there is an apology due me through the same paper that carried your malicious accusation and pure undiluted lies.

For your information there are a few things that I would like to set you straight on.

In the first place I have never received a deed to my home, one reason being I have never asked for one.

And if anybody owes the Minister an apology it is you, Mr. Swift, for saying that I received a deed. I have had to show a location ticket on two different occasions to prove that the Minister and his staff were not lying, but it was you who got his wires crossed.

This location ticket was not to my home but to a support lot. Also in the paper you stated that this so called deed had come

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

Yes-man role for advisers to ministers

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Once was that a prime minister struggled along with the help of only one executive assistant, and only the most senior members of his cabinet made do with a special assistant.

(EAs as executive assistants are known in these federal corridors of power as a scratch above SAs.)

It was only 10 years ago, but it might as well have been 100.

Things have changed that much.

The prime minister now has assistants — executive, special, administrative, legislative, program, plans, press and regional — 17 deep.

And even junior cabinet ministers have two, three or four.

What do these EAs and SAs do?

Well, here it is straight from the man who has three, Veterans Minister Jean-Eudes Dube.

His EA, Mr. Dube has reported in writing to the Commons, "gives overall direction for the administration of the minister's staff, conducts confidential research and offers special and confidential advice at the minister's request, on all matters within the discretion of the minister."

Get that: "offers special and confidential advice on all matters within the discretion of the minister."

It has to mean that the EA is a decision-maker and policy shaper with his hands on the levers of power, at least in the Veterans Affairs Department.

The EA, P. B. Curd gets $17,200 for all this, up $2,200 from last year's $15,000.

In the salary scale for EAs and SAs, this is about halfway up the pay wall between a ceiling of $21,000 and a floor of $10,000.

A few holes have been poked in the ceiling for three top-rated brains in the prime minister's East Block think-tank, with Marc Lalonde getting $34,000, Jim Davey $24,000, and Ivan Head $23,165. The other 14 trail off to a mere $12,000.

Walter Turnbull, who almost single-handedly ran — and alone ruled — Prime Minister Mackenzie King's office, publicly has pinned the label "tire inflators" on this tribe of ministerial assistants.

He doesn't discriminate. To Turnbull, they're all "apple-polishers."

But he errs with his generalization, for there have been — and still are — some real hot-shots among them.

One was Bill Lee, EA to former Defence and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer.

Bill Lee was credited — or debited — as the real power behind unification of the Armed Forces.

He master-minded Hellyer's bid for the Liberal leadership, and losing — a new and apparently traumatic experience for Lee — left.

Let's look, though, at the others, the non-Lee types, through Walter Turnbull's coldly critical eyes.

They're unabashed "yes-men," he says, and "highly prized by cabinet ministers."

There is the poor cabinet minister, bleeding from thousand wounds to his ego. And there is the executive standing by with the soothing ointment of flattery, the comforting verbal salve that the minister is gloriously marvellous.

"Flayed by the Opposition, needed by the press, pestered by constituents, prodded by cabinet colleagues, the deflated minister goes back to his office looking for people who will puff him up again," relates Turnbull on the basis of a life-time watching Ottawa from the inside, part of it as Mackenzie King's hatchet-man.

The flattened minister easily finds his inflators.

"Nobody," insists Walter Turnbull, "can get a job, now today, with the government who in any way questions, much less criticizes the federal establishment."

Mackenzie King was different, he relates, because he "deeply distrusted anyone who, right off the top, agreed with some hard decision made only after searching thought and soul-scanning."

Mackenzie saw that kind of instant agreement as apple-polishing and instinctively knew how dangerously destructive it could be.

How different now, laments King's inner guardsman, the men around the ministers.

"Safety first types," he calls them, "nice guys, glib talkers" who are afraid to tell the cabinet minister the way-it-is, because they know if they do, the next thing they'll hear will be his cry: "Off with his head, he brings me bad news."

went to Mr. Gosselin's office and after telling him the truth I didn't have to apologize for anything, and I have every reason to believe that as I left his office we were closer friends than we had ever been before.

If you have any doubt of this get in touch with the Mayor of Island Brook or Mr. Archie French.

Now, Mr. Swift, do you think that I am asking too much when I ask you for an apology not by phone, not by word of mouth, but through the same paper that carried your false accusations.

Now, Mr. Swift, somewhere in my travels I read part of a book and I wonder how many of you have read the same book. As I remember, somewhere in it it said, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," and it also said, "Thou shalt do unto others, as thou wouldst have done unto you."

As far as your petition is concerned that was printed in the paper, I gave that to Rev. Jones in Bury, with the understanding that he was taking it the following morning to Mr. Gosselin's office to present it to Mr. Hood who was some way connected with the ARDA plan of reforestation, and Rev. Jones, Mr. Hood and Mr. Gosselin were supposed to discuss it together.

How in the name of heaven, you accuse me of having anything to do with it ending up at the Sherbrooke Record. I didn't know it was there until the reporter asked me if she could use some of the petition signed by the people of Lawrence regarding reforestation.

I have one more thing to set you straight on. On Aug. 18 I

Yours truly,

Cowansville housing crises becoming more serious

By ROBERT FLEURY

COWANSVILLE — Cowansville has a housing shortage. There are 4,000 persons employed here. Six hundred are living out of town. Half of these would like to live in Cowansville, if there was place for them.

To find out more about what was going on, the Record spoke with Jean Leduc, director of Services for the city of Cowansville. Material used for this housing study comes from him.

Statistics for 1969, originating from city hall indicate 15 percent of the working population lives outside of the city. Many of these workers have shown their willingness to set up house in Cowansville, but because of a housing shortage, the transition has been impossible. The majority of these outsiders do not in fact have the necessary financial resources to build their own houses.

Appraising housing construction in the past years, figures show 1965 was the best year, with 278 dwellings being built, a total expenditure of $2,472,200. Repairs excluded. During the year 1968, only 42 apartments were built, for the sum of $527,000 while in July of 1969, residential housing permits worth $447,000 created 49 new apartments, which represents more in the past six months than the whole of 1968.

Single unit building has been decreasing since 1965, with a slight rise during 1969.

Granby, with three times the population, is plagued by the same shortage, but because of the lack of new industry.

During 1968, 24 single family homes were erected in Granby, and 12 apartment buildings ranging from two to nine apartments each running the total for year up at 56 new dwellings.

Home building for 1968 is valued at $780,200, compared with $2,012,000 for 1965. Single house construction dropped from 135 in 1965 to 24 in 1968. Duplex construction dropped also. In apartment type constructions with five or more apartments, 36 were added in 1968 and none in 1965.

The number of new commercial buildings is dropping dangerously. They were valued at $333,000 in 1965, at $118,000 in 1968, and have fallen as far down as $4,000 for the first six months of this year.

Industries and institutions growing, with Vilas, Bruck Mills, Tupperware, and Albany Felt, enlarging their plants, along with Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Hospital, St. Leon school. The most remarkable building so far is the Bedford Regional School.

This work means more construction workers. Statistics indicate the inflow is out of proportion with the increase in housing. Although business is stable, construction will not remain the same, since it will be affected by an urban renewal program. A number of these businesses are worried and concerned with its effects.

Cowansville's proposed urban renewal plan, set to begin in 1970, will increase labor and commercial personnel, with the construction of another commercial centre.

Again, business and industry will meet the same problem, the shortage of housing for their employees.

The findings of this study reveal that construction costs and mortgage interests have increased, leaving a small minority of people with access to self-financing. Borrowing from banks has become difficult, with small salaried individuals cheated of the opportunity of ever owning their own house.

Half of Cowansville's working population is making under $5,000 a year. With new requirements from mortgage agencies, only 10 percent of the population can afford to own its own home.

Aside from not being lucrative, home owners are also burdened by the high cost of service taxes, jeopardizing the continuance of single housing construction in the area.

New zone laws will have to be implemented if apartment construction is going to stamp out single housing. Demands have been made to have locations zoned for multi-family building in Cowansville.

Plans have been drawn by municipal authorities to promote housing development in Cowansville.

The plans include a change in zoning to allow four storey construction within the city, the construction of low cost housing by the city for people affected by urban renewal, and the erection of homes for the aged. The Foyer de Cowansville corporation is anticipating building a 40 bed establishment, all within the urban renewal plan.

Asked about the effectiveness of these measures to stamp out the housing crisis, Service director Leduc replied the solution relied upon personal initiatives, "the city having done all it can".

The housing crisis in Cowansville will get worse with the number of workers living outside Cowansville increasing.

Cowansville's endeavors will integrate the population growth and rearrange its housing facilities.

Much remains to be done and if Laval interests are concerned about Cowansville, it should be suggested that local interests unite to equip Cowansville with the housing it is badly in need of.

ROTP — Sherbrooke's high percentage in recruiting for the summer months by the Canadian Armed Forces, was exemplified Thursday, when 12 candidates for the Royal Military College in St. Jean were sworn in by Col. J. J. Dunn, senior Militia Advisor for the Sherbrooke region. Seventy-two applications were received in the Sherbrooke office headed by Capt. J. R. B. Lachance, and the 20 percent accepted is above average in relation to the numbers taken at other depots. Also on hand to witness Thursday's ceremonies was Major J. G. Despaul, C.O. of the Montreal region recruiting centre, who complimented the high quality of recruits coming from the Sherbrooke district. The cadets in the front row are: from the left, Pierre Trepanier, East Angus; Jean St. Arnaud, Sherbrooke; and Benoit Roberge, Windsor, with Col. J. J. Dunn.

Stanstead hires village supervisor for efficiency

STANSTEAD — Commencing in mid-October, the municipality of Stanstead will have a working village supervisor. John Wilson, of Stanstead, has been employed on a one year contract with Homer Smith, who has been a village maintenance man the past few years, working with Mr. Wilson. The council has studied this matter quite extensively and feels that "if you want efficiency and service we will have to pay for it." It will cost up to a maximum of $2,000 a year more. In 1968 salaries for maintenance cost about $8,000, with some 15 different men employed on seasonal jobs, garbage pick-up and other work.

A letter was read from the Ursuline convent asking that the Council take steps to curb noisy motorcycle nuisance at night time as it causes a disturbance to the ill and the students. There were also verbal complaints made and the matter was turned over to the police for action.

Mayor E. J. Struthers noted three letters received from people at a distance seeking information on former people of Stanstead being traced. Mr. Struthers was able to furnish information in each case.

Councillor Howard Majury, Industrial Committee man, reported he had been in consultation with Henry Derek concerning having industry here. It was noted that the survey states that Stanstead has much to offer in the way of facilities to include the new Route 55 highway recently opened for travel.

Donald Prangley, council chairman of roads said he had received complaints of surface water troubles on Pierce Ave., he said "something has to be done to correct the situation" and will be further studied with a report to be forthcoming very soon on the most feasible way to handle this.

Leo Goudreau, a Stanstead businessman, was at the meeting and asked to rent a portion of the newly acquired garage from Quinn transport. The council agreed to rent to Mr. Goudreau with Mr. Prangley in charge of making the agreement as to charge an insurance.

Mayor Struthers reported on a special meeting of the County Council to study the new laws concerning nominations and elections of Mayor and Councillors in Municipalities. In November the seats now held by Edward Hyatt, Delmar White, and Roger Roy as well as the seat of Mayor will be terminated. The notice of motion given at the September meeting will bring nominations at Stanstead on Oct. 27 between the hours of noon and 2 p.m. and if necessary for an election it will be held on Nov. 3. Mrs. George Winter, the secretary, was named clerk of the elections.

The County Council will meet

Sept. 10 at Ayer's Cliff. In the absence of Mayor Struthers, Pro-Mayor Edward Hyatt was named to represent the Council at the meeting. Mr. Hyatt was asked by the Stanstead Council to extend an invitation to the County Council to hold meetings here in Stanstead.

In February the Boundary Rotary Club is sponsoring a Dog Sled Derby with approximately 1,000 visitors, to include several dignitaries, planning to attend. The subject of participation and welcome on the part of the Municipality was discussed with plans to be made at a later date.

A committee of Howard Majury and Edward Hyatt was named to work with the committee, Donald Prangley and Eugene Lachance to look into the matter of a heavier piece of equipment for sidewalk snow removal, they may call a special meeting or report at the October meeting on a decision.

The secretary was asked to write letters of appreciation to Mrs. Ellen Wallbridge and Mrs. J. Curran for their gifts of park benches to the Hackett Park, now in use.

Rock Island election date set

ROCK ISLAND — A meeting of the Rock Island Town Council was held Tuesday evening, Sept. 2.

A notice of motion was passed on the by-law concerning the November nominations and elections for a full council and Mayor. Rock Island being under charter, according to the new laws, all must be elected or re-elected at the one time and for a three-year term.

The by-law is that nominations will be Oct. 27, election on Nov. 3 with the council meeting to be held seven days later which will be Nov. 10. A copy of the by-law is to go to Quebec department.

Also on election day the referendum will take place by separate ballot for pay for the Mayor and Aldermen.

The valuation roll is now open to the public. A special meeting and hearings of property owners will take place at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 29. The secretary, Mrs. M. Masse noted there are some complaints received so far concerning increase in property assessment.

The valuers, professionals from Sherbrooke this year, had not assessed Federal property in the Town so they must return to do so.

The chipwagon in Rock Island was further discussed. However, it was agreed that the Town Council has no jurisdiction over this as it is being operated on private property and as long as it does not constitute a nuisance, there is nothing that can be done by the Council.

Letters of appreciation were read from the Intermediate Hockey League and the Broomball teams for past donations and appeals for continued assistance this coming season.

The Town Mayor was named as delegate to represent the Town of Rock Island on the Lake Massawippi Water Protection Board.

Lesage will still golf

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff)

SHERBROOKE — Golf tournaments, especially those sponsored by clubs and other social organizations, generally are basically for the enjoyment of the members and guests participating, but recent developments in the Quebec political field lend special interest to the annual tournament being staged by the local Reform Club at Belvedere Golf Club next Saturday, Sept. 13.

Opposition Leader Jean Lesage, who has cancelled all formal engagements following the announcement of his resignation as leader of the Liberal Party, has indicated he regards this as a strictly social event and will honor his pledge to participate, being the patron.

But other politicians, especially those frequently mentioned as possible successors to the provincial Liberal throne, have shown remarkable unanimity in accepting the invitations extended by the golf committee chairman, Francois Poulin, and have indicated informally they will honor their promises to be present.

Among the potential candidates before the leadership convention planned early in January who will be out to meet the boys, and prospective delegates, are Federal Economic Development Minister Jean Marchand; former Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner, one of the leaders in the opposition to Mr. Lesage; Robert Bourassa, MNA for Mercier, economic expert of the Opposition; former Municipal Affairs Minister Pierre Laporte and possibly Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Executive Committee for the City of Montreal.

The attendance of these big guns does not mean the tournament will turn into a political rally.

Far from it.

In fact every effort is being made to assure political speeches are conspicuous by their absence.

But with anywhere up to 300 active partisans present — and most of them potential delegates to the leadership convention — it is reasonable to assume that the possible candidates will not lose the opportunity to shake hands and otherwise improve their personal image.

The resignation of Mr. Lesage has somewhat interfered with the plans of the party organization to complete the selection of candidates in the Eastern Townships ridings and the conventions in Sherbrooke and Wolfe Counties scheduled for this month have been deferred until after the new leader has been chosen.

New test detects pregnancy in 20 seconds

"Am I pregnant?" This has traditionally been one of the most personal and important questions a woman asks her doctor.

And the time between question and answer has always been a most anxious — and sometimes agonizing — waiting period, both for the woman who wants to become pregnant and the one who does not.

The reason for this time lapse has been the necessity in the past for time-consuming analysis of the patient's urine in outside laboratories utilizing laboratory animals. More recently, the time lapse was shortened with the development of procedures that can be implemented in the doctor's office. However, because these tests are often difficult to interpret, most doctors do not do tests in their own offices, but rather send them out to a lab. This can mean a wait of up to three days for results.

Today, the waiting period has been entirely eliminated with the introduction of the first practical chemical test method for doctors' use to detect pregnancy.

Now available to doctors for the first time, the test was invented by Harry W. Gordon, Ph. D., director of scientific research for Julius Schmid, Inc., a leading manufacturer of pharmaceutical and contraceptive products.

Dr. Gordon reports that clinical tests have found the Twintest test to be as effective as any standard immunologic screening test for pregnancy now in use. Because of the speed and reliability of the method, and the fact that no special equipment is needed, it is expected that the test will be used widely in doctors' offices as a routine examination technique, Dr. Gordon said.

Perfecting after extensive research, the Twintest test analysis is based on a color reaction that occurs when a sample of the patient's urine is mixed with a few drops of a special reagent. The doctor merely matches the specimen to a predetermined color chart to obtain a positive (pregnant) or negative (not pregnant) reading.

Among the most important advantages provided by the Twintest test is the ease and economy with which doctors can check all women patients of childbearing age for pregnancy as an added measure of caution, especially before prescribing certain types of drugs.

Sunday Sermon Subject for September 7, 1969

The limitless resources available to humanity when God is recognized as the inexhaustible Source, will be explored at the services in the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Man." Appropriate Scripture selections are highlighted by the following from Daniel: "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong." Correlative passages from the denominational textbook will include: "When man is spoken of as made in God's image, it is not sinful and sickly mortal man who is referred to, but the ideal man, reflecting God's likeness" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 6, 1969

Your birthday today: Expansion in your interests and activities is likely this coming year. Your drive to consolidate your position results in more growth, requires more effort than you expect. Emotional ties deepen through the year. Today's natives, however expansive, usually follow a systematic approach to problems without much outer show of excitement.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It is so easy today to run yourself ragged doing all the chores yourself. Get help. Find some time for visiting people and places you have not seen lately.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your circumstances are much smoother now. Beginning important projects is not favored now, as you do not have available the energy needed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Use soft answers to make this a peaceable day. Catch up on correspondence, accounts. Leave money matters pretty much as they are for the moment. Gather friends for a quiet evening.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): This quiet, sensible day should be an interlude from serious concerns. You'll find many ideas and projects are overly optimistic, and some of them collapse.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get busy on the kind of life you would like to lead. If given half a chance, your friends and loved ones are extraordinarily helpful in a quiet way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A change of tempo now—things move faster and, if you are alert, more profitably. Money requires special attention today. Tonight relax and have fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be intrigued rather than annoyed with your friends' curious notions about dress and fads. Take everything in moderation today—recreation, pastimes, study, and meditation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): While the vitality of most is at a relatively low level, press gently for what you want. Make a serious study of your goals and your present operations. Resolutions are in order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Pleasant news on some money matter is promised. Friends, relatives, neighbors are reasonably congenial but unlikely to lend you anything of real value.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The most direct route is the only one. If you have clear knowledge of some upcoming changes, act now to earn a fee or a capital gain. Romantic feelings arise and flower, assuming reasonable situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The probability of new problems today is very low, so that there is opportunity to rescue yesterday's errors. Extra rest will be beneficial this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Anything speculative has a powerful attraction for you now—but for the time being you are unlikely to win at games or gambling. Your digestive system needs protection against excess of any sort.

Miscellaneous bridal shower

ULVERTON — Miss Margaret Davidson was the guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower held in the Ulverton Church Hall August 30. The hostesses were Mrs. A. B. Lyster, Mrs. J. L. Macey and Mrs. R. Nixon.

On arrival, Miss Davidson was presented with a corsage and escorted to a decorated chair. Corsages were also presented to her mother, Mrs. Elmer Davidson and her future mother-in-law, Mrs. John Harriman.

After the many and varied gifts had been admired, Miss Davidson thanked her hostesses and friends.

Refreshments were served buffet style. The shower cake which was made by Mrs. J. L. Macey was iced in white and yellow. Several large bouquets of gladioli were placed in the hall.

Friends were present from Cowansville, Drummondville, Richmond, Melbourne, Lisgar and Ulverton.

Stanstead County Women's Institute hears guests at quarterly session

STANSTEAD — S. W. Rowe and J. M. Hawkins, director and assistant of Adult Education, Regional School, were the speakers at the Stanstead County Quarterly meeting held on Aug. 13 at the Mansur Schoolhouse.

Mrs. George Hood, Stanstead North, host branch welcomed the members.

The roll call was responded to by members of Ayer's Cliff, Beebe, Hatley, Hatley Center and Stanstead North Branches.

A card was signed to be sent to Miss Maude Kezar, Ayer's Cliff Branch, an active member for many years, who on August 12 observed her 94th birthday. A card was also to be sent to Mrs. John MacKay, of North Hatley, another active member of many years, who on August 13 was 80 years young.

Miss Viola Moranville, president, said a gift to WKE Radio station from the County was much appreciated by the management. She reminded members that Nov. 20 the quarterly broadcast will be heard over CKTS radio station at 10:30 a.m., given by Mrs. Ezra Woodard, citizenship convener, of Beebe.

Mrs. Myers, a new resident in Beebe, formerly of Montreal, was welcomed by the members.

Members were asked to keep postage stamps for assistance in Missionary work among lepers. Miss Moranville also displayed FWIC stamps and invited all Branches to purchase and use these from National office in Ottawa.

Mrs. Wendell Cass, convener of agriculture, noted copies were ready of the School Fair program and recipes, and asked delegates to distribute them to the school students in their areas to save the high costs of postage through the mails.

WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Mrs. T. Keane, Education Convener, announced Miss Diane Prangle, of Stanstead, the winner of the Estelle Holmes Memorial Scholarship. Miss Prangle has been accepted at Macdonald College for the teachers course. The cheque will be presented her in September. Mrs. Keane also noted a truck load of books to go to the Renfrew Library in Montreal and ways to take them there were discussed.

Mrs. R. Knight, publicity convener, asked all Branch publicity conveners to send their news in before the 15th of each month, the deadline for the Macdonald journal.

Miss Moranville congratulated Stanstead North Branch for participating in the July celebrations at Derby, Vt., by entering a float.

The County activities at Ayer's Cliff fair were completed. Mrs. John Johnston, convener of the tea room, for her helpers, checked contributions of food from the various branches for the three days of the fair. Workers for the sales table were in charge of Miss Moranville and Mrs. Archie Moulton, and others. To be in the Exhibit room of the main building, Miss Moranville noted considerable vandalism done around the tea room exterior.

Mrs. Douglas Johnston asked members to save their aluminum pie plates which can be used in the Horticultural building for the fair and later, at the school fair.

There was discussion about medical assistance for two girls residing in the County. There will be further inquiries by the Welfare and Health convener, Mrs. Dale Miller.

It was noted that the next quarterly meeting will be held in October and not November, as has been the usual custom. The change being made because the weather is usually bad then. It will be held at Ayer's Cliff, the date to be set by them.

Mr. Rowe and Mr. Hawkins gave a most informative talk about Adult Education opportunities.

A supper was served by members of Stanstead North Branch, Mrs. Edgar Hill and Mrs. Franklin Miller were conveners, they were assisted by Branch members.

Kingsey Falls

Mrs. Mabel Blake entertained the Kingsey-Falls-Danville Ladies Aid in her home on Aug. 20. During the business period it was agreed that a contribution of $50 be made to the Danville Protestant Cemetery Association to be used for the upkeep of the Cassidy Cemetery, Brownleigh. The September meeting is to be held on the regular day in the home of Mrs. Eva Leith and Mrs. Mabel Brown.

Wales Home visit
CLEVELAND — The August meeting of the New London U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Banfill. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer, after which the various reports were given.

Four members of the group visited the Wales Home in June. Other shut-in and hospital calls were reported.

Quilt blocks are to be brought in to the Sept. mber meeting. It was reported $25 had been paid to the M and M Fund.

September donations are to be brought in by Mrs. Russell Sloane and Mrs. Royce Taylor. A jumbled words contest was held by Mrs. C. Banfill, with Mrs. P. Pearce being the winner. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Wm. Harris on the regular day.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

49th anniversary of Milan church marked

MILAN — A church service commemorating the 49th anniversary of Bethany Presbyterian Church in Milan, was held here on August 17.

Rev. Donald J. Gillies, Vancouver, B.C., who ministered here in 1931, while a student at Presbyterian College, conducted the service and preached the sermon, entitled Remove not the Ancient Landmarks.

The choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Scottstown, assisted in the singing of the hymns, and Henry Moulard rendered two solos during the service.

Mr. Gillies paid tribute to the sterling qualities of our forefathers who first settled in Winslow 118 years ago in 1851, where they established St. John's Church. As the settlement extended eastwards, several miles from the village of Stornoway, another church, St. Luke's, was built in the Gisle district 100 years ago. And in 1920, Bethany Church was constructed in the village of Milan, making this the 49th year of service to God's word and witness.

Mr. Gillies also paid tribute to the memory of those ministers who have served these three congregations. Among those at St. John's, Winslow, were Ewen MacLean, John MacDonald, Angus MacLeod, John Buchanan, James Buchanan, Roderick MacKenzie and Murdo MacKay. At St. Luke's, Gisle, was Hugh Lamont, Adam MacQueen, Neil MacKay, Duncan MacLeod, Hector MacLean, Roderick MacLean, Duncan Fraser, Malcolm MacLeod and Alister Murray. At Bethany the names recorded are Malcolm MacLeod, Alister Murray, Alexander MacKay, Malcolm Gillies, Hugh Nugent, R. D. Sandford, D. Bhe, R. Rowat and Donald Gillies. Among the student ministers are the names of Norman MacKay and Andrew Patton.

The large group of worshippers enjoying the fellowship hour, came mainly from the immediate area, and letters of encouragement and support were received from as far away as the New England States, Colorado, California and Western Canada.

During the afternoon, approximately 50 people attended a memorial service at the Marsboro Mills Cemetery

Way's Mills

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cianciolo, Melrose, Mass., have been spending a holiday at their summer home, Fernbank.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holmes and three children, California, spent several weeks with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes, Ayer's Cliff and their brother, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Holmes.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alcide Beaudin were, Mr. George Wright, Mrs. Alice Latour, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barlow, and four children, all of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. E. Beaudin, Beebe, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lemelin and son, Larry, Coaticook.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Walsh, daughter, Wendy, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Herron and family, all of Montreal, spent some time in the Walsh's summer home.

Friends are extending congratulations to Mr. George Wright, who celebrated his birthday August 17.

Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Standish and two children of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holmes were baptized recently at the United Church, Rev. G. Joysey, Rock Island, officiating. Following the baptisms the Holmes entertained their family at the Union Hall at supper. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hibbard, Ayer's Cliff, and Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Standish were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Standish.

Ideal setting for the Caribbean traveler

CASTRIES — The Caribbean-bound traveller who seeks a mixture of sophistication along with an unspoiled way of life, with something in between thrown in, can scarcely do better than take in Barbados and its two closest neighbors, St. Vincent and St. Lucia.

Barbados, of course, has for many years now been the most popular rendezvous for Canadians in the eastern Caribbean, and probably the most popular of all islands in the Caribbean region in relation to its size. St. Vincent, in complete contrast, is among the least spoiled of Caribbean islands, while St. Lucia, developing probably as quickly as any as a tourist rendezvous, combines something of the atmosphere of the other two with an ambience distinctly its own.

What the three islands have in common are tropical year-round climate, plenty of sunshine, excellent beaches, tropical flowers, friendly birds, and clear, warm blue-green waters.

Barbados, an island that has been British from the start (it is now an independent member of the Commonwealth), offers the visitor the widest range of hotel accommodation and a pleasant variety of night life in addition to such daytime activities as sunbathing, swimming, snorkelling, scuba-diving, deep sea fishing, tennis and golf.

For sightseeing, part of a day is enough for a drive around the island, taking in the luxury hotels of the west coast, Sam Lord's famous castle on the southeast, and the wild, picturesque northeast coast — the most dramatically beautiful part of Barbados — where Bajans themselves like to holiday. If your timing is lucky, you'll see the fishermen bringing in their catches at Bathsheba.

Bridgetown, the capital, can be visited on another day. Shopping is not the frantic exercise there that it is in Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, in the American Virgins, and in its own quiet way Bridgetown offers some better bargains, particularly in Oriental fabrics, imported perfumes and liquors, and some other duty free items. The Flying Fish club is a fine spot for lunch and there, over a Barbados beer or rum — both excellent — one can watch the activity in and about the careenage.

The Bridgetown museum has some good Indian relics and Pelican Village near the deep water harbor is a showplace of island art and crafts.

Visitors, of course, are intrigued with the British atmosphere of the island — the old English dialect of the Bajans, the lanes through fields of sugar cane, Trafalgar Square with its monument to Nelson, the coral buildings in English gothic. Cricket is a favorite island sport.

St. Vincent, 100 miles due west and slightly smaller than Barbados, has until quite recently been best known for its arrow root crop. Although arrow root remains one of the island's claims to fame, there is crop diversity today and Vincentians are taking a more active interest in tourism. The island's admirers, quite naturally, hope that it will remain the way it is — a quiet, easy going place with a few small, informal hotels — but this is a dream, for St. Vincent has the potential for great holiday popularity, and with jumbo jets just around the corner, a marked growth in tourism over the next decade seems a certainty.

Paradoxically, St. Vincent, the quiet island, boasts one of the most luxurious resort hotels in the Caribbean.

Both St. Vincent and St. Lucia changed hands frequently in the 18th century battles for control of the Caribbean, with the result that both English and French place names abound.

St. Vincent's two largest towns have very definite English names (Kingstown, the capital, and Georgetown) while its highest mountain, the famous, or infamous, 4,048-foot-high Soufriere is just as definitely French. Soufriere erupted in 1902 along with Martinique's Mont Pelee, covering and enriching the soil even of Barbados, a hundred miles away, with its ash. For the climber-hiker, Soufriere presents a challenge, but you quite definitely need a guide. An easy way to get some idea of the devastation caused by the 1902 eruption is to drive to the Dry River north of Georgetown — a river of cinders and clinkers, not of water — where the lava flowed to the sea. Even today, nothing grows in the "bed".

Kingstown has several tourist attractions, among them the deep water harbor built with Canadian government help, the oldest botanical gardens in the West Indies, and St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church with its unconventional potpourri of architectural styles.

The town itself, stretching along the waterfront, is a spacious, busy West Indian community with a large market. Department stores sell everything from tabasco sauce to automobiles. A boutique offers dresses made of hand-dyed sea island cotton and uses raffia ingeniously.

Besides the usual West Indian activities, St. Vincent offers visitors two unique outings. In one, the tourist heads for Chateaubelair north of Kingstown and sails out with the fishermen to catch a whale. The second, considerably less rugged and no doubt more interesting for most travellers, is a boat trip to Bequia, the closest of the Grenadine islands. It's an interesting sail, and a new hotel on the island provides a pleasant spot for lunch.

Because of Mount Soufriere, many St. Vincent beaches are of sparkling black sand. But even here the island offers variety for there are other beaches where the sand ranges from golden through to grey. You can take your pick.

St. Lucia, the "giant" of the three (about 1½ times the area of Barbados) lies 20 miles north of St. Vincent. This is a lush, lush island and to the casual eye seems even more mountainous than St. Vincent although its highest point, Mt. Gimie, 3,154 feet, is almost a thousand feet lower than Soufriere. The island's two famous cones, Grand Piton and Petit Piton, have been landmarks for sailors for centuries and are among the most photographed sights of the Caribbean.

St. Lucia is a banana island and is the headquarters for Windward Islands banana growing. Prior to boat days banana trucks rear around the hilly, curving roads carrying bananas to dockside for loading onto Geest boats.

Castries, the island capital, has one of the best harbors in the Caribbean and thanks to it St. Lucia is a favorite stopping point for cruise ships.

Most of the town's wooden buildings have long since disappeared in flames and the new stucco structures give Castries a modern appearance. A large department store features an import boutique and several shops carry Swedish and British crystal and china. One specializes in carvings, paintings, weaving and handicrafts from other islands.

Despite the Pitons, the spectacular sight of St. Lucia is its Soufriere, which islanders call the "only drive-in volcano in the world". The trip to it is worthwhile, not only for the opportunity to see the volcano, but for the spectacular scenery en route, including beautiful Marigot Bay where Dr. Dolittle was filmed.

Soufriere itself can be smelt and the sulphur fumes spotted well before you reach the volcano. And it is true — you can drive right up to the very brim and, with the help of a guide, walk around the steaming sulphur vents and between the boiling and hissing pools.

The French legacy remains in St. Lucian family and place names, the creole food, the patois, and carnival. St. Lucians follow the custom of French islands by erecting elaborate tombstones to their dead, and in parts of the island they still celebrate the feast of the dead by tidying up the graves and lighting candles on the tombstones.

This island is blessed with long, fine beaches. Hotels are not numerous but are varied, from a small cottage colony to a large North American resort type unit, and new ones are on the horizon.

Besides swimming, fishing, boat chartering and tennis, golf is now available — on a new course at the northern end of the island.

Getting to these islands is no problem, with Air Canada providing frequent service directly out of Canada for Barbados, and LIAT and Caribair, the island-hopping air services, carrying on from there.

Cookshire couple is feted prior to departure

COOKSHIRE — A farewell party was held in the Cookshire United Church Hall for Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacRae, who will be leaving town shortly to live in their new home, which they have bought in Lennoxville.

Raymond Stevenson acted as chairman for the evening, and called on the Rev. A. Fairbairn to welcome the guests, and to give a few remarks on the honored couple.

A sing-song was held, and Miss Thelma Crawford, of Lennoxville, sang two solos,

WIDELY VIEWED

An estimated 1,700,000 vacationers visit Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills of South Dakota every year to view the statues of three great United States presidents carved in the face of a mountain.

Three Villages

Miss Elizabeth Young, Stanstead, a student nurse at the Sherbrooke Hospital, has completed her affiliation at the Children's Hospital in Montreal and is now at the Douglas Hospital in Verdun for three months.

Misses Pauline and Helen Routhier, Burlington, Vt., spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adalbert Routhier and family, Derby Line.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and Bonnie, Rock Island, visited their daughter and sister, Mrs. Gordon Mosher, Mr. Mosher and Jeffrey at Pembroke, Ont., and together visited Algonquin Park, Lake of Two Rivers, Muskoka Valley, Santa's Village in Bracebridge and at Baptiste Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Mosher returned here with Mr. and Mrs. Smith to spend a few days and also visited Mr. Mosher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mosher, North Hatley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hector Channell, Stanstead, were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Langley in Portland, Conn., and the foursome also spent a few days at a summer resort beach in Rhode Island.

Mrs. Lydia Palmer, Montreal, spent a few days at the home of her brother, Mr. E. Goff Probyn, Mrs. Probyn and Arlene, in Stanstead.

Mr. and Mrs. Allison Dustin, have moved from Georgeville to Rock Island to reside. Mr. Dustin is employed at Stanstead College.

Mrs. R. W. Cairns, Derby Line, was in Montpelier, Vt., a few days with her daughter, Mrs. E. Beach Bly and Mr. Bly.

Mrs. Richard McLeod has sold her home in Derby Line to Wayne Gray. Mrs. McLeod plans to leave in the autumn to reside in Epping, N.H., to be near her family. For the present she is staying at her home in Derby Line.

Mrs. Blanche Boucher, Salem, Mass., has been spending a few days with cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Poulin, Derby Line.

Mrs. Isabel Jones and Mrs. Irene Faye, who were at a camp at Shadow Lake, Vt., visited the former's cousin, Mrs. Daisy Piatti in Derby Line for a day.

Denis Fortin, wounded in Vietnam by shrapnel from mortar fire on June 16, afterwards evacuated to Guam and the United States, is on a 20 day leave and visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fortin and family, Derby Line. Following his leave he will return to the Naval hospital in Chelsea, Mass., and later will return to Vietnam to finish his tour of duty. Another brother, Gerald, is with the forces in Vietnam.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

is in with the king of diamonds and plays another heart.

South is back in dummy and leads another diamond. If East plays the ace South ruffs, plays the ace, king and another club, ruffs that third club in dummy and discards his last heart and club on good diamonds.

If East ducks the second diamond, South discards and keeps on with diamonds.

Why did we say that this line was almost surely going to work? It depends on finishing at least one high diamond in the East hand. Is that almost certain?

On this hand it is. If West held both ace and king of diamonds, he would have led one of them.

Here is a Victor Mollo hand that presents a tough problem indeed, but one that careful planning should solve. Not that there is any sure-fire way to make six spades but merely that there is one line of play that is decidedly best.

The line is to work on setting up dummy's diamond suit. With this in mind South wins the heart lead with his ace and plays out his ace and king of trumps. He rather hopes that trumps will break 2-2 but doesn't really care. As long as all four don't show up in one hand, South is almost sure to succeed.

When West shows out on the second spade South leads a third spade to dummy's queen and plays a diamond. If East puts up the ace South will ruff but let's assume that East ducks. Now South discards a low heart. West

Padres take Dodgers 3-0, Davis' streak snapped

Twins' Cesar Tovar belts grand slam in 10th to defeat Athletics

The pitch from Gary Ross of San Diego Padres came in high and tight. Willie Davis swung and missed it for a third strike on a 1-2 count.

Thus came to an end Thursday night the longest consecutive game hitting streak in the major leagues in a quarter of a century.

The centre fielder for Los Angeles Dodgers had hit safely in 31 consecutive games and was within hailing distance of the modern National League record of 37 set by Tommy Holmes of the old Boston Braves in 1955.

Not only did the Padres stop Davis, but they blanked the Dodgers 3-0 dropping them to third place behind San Francisco and Cincinnati in the NL West mad scramble. It was the only game scheduled.

USED TWO PITCHERS
"Well, at least it took two of them to get me," said a disappointed Davis.

He referred to Dick Kelley and Ross, the two Padres pitchers. Kelley started, but had to leave in the third inning because of a sore shoulder. Ross came in and completed a four-hit shutout. He and Kelley each yielded two hits.

Davis' night went this way. In the first and third innings he grounded out to Jose Arcia. Then in the fifth he grounded out to first and followed with a strikeout in the eighth.

Al Ferrara, a former Dodger, drove in all three runs for the Padres. He doubled home Robert Pena and Ollie Brown in the third and hit a home run in the sixth.

The Athletics are alive but not at all well in Oakland.

Home for a crucial four-game series with first-place Minnesota, the Athletics gave the Twins a good run but faded and took a 10-5 shellacking Thursday night.

The loss dropped the Athletics 7½ games back of Minnesota in the American League West and the villain of the show was little Cesar Tovar, the slap hitter-turned-sluggo.

Tovar ruined the evening—and maybe the whole season—for the Athletics with his first career grand slam. That shot won the ball game for the Twins after the game Athletics had battled from behind to tie it in the bottom of the ninth.

Elsewhere in the American League Thursday, Baltimore Orioles nipped Detroit Tigers, 5-4. California Angels shut out Chicago White Sox 1-0 and Kansas City Royals topped Seattle Pilots 5-3. The other teams had the day off.

The Athletics, needing a sweep of the series to make a real dent in the Twins' first-place cushion, led 4-1 going into the eighth inning.

But Minnesota struck suddenly, scoring four runs—the last two on Harmon Killebrew's 40th home run of the season. That gave the Twins a 5-4 bulge into the ninth.

But Oakland's Sal Bando, who had homered earlier, opened with a single and was sacrificed to second. Then an error by defensive replacement Frank Quilici allowed Bando to cross with the tying run.

STAGE SET
In the 10th the Twins quickly loaded the bases on a double by Tony Oliva, an intentional walk to Killebrew and an unintentional one to Chuck Manuel.

That set it up for Tovar, who never before had hit a grand slam and only had 21 career homers in four big league seasons.

The Athletics had company as victims of late-inning thunder.

Detroit took a 4-1 lead into the ninth inning against Baltimore before the Orioles erupted.

Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson unloaded consecutive home runs, tying the score and then Dave Johnson doubled and came around with the winning run on a fly ball and a ground out.

Tom Tresh and Al Kaline had homered earlier for the Tigers.

Ken Tatum pitched his way out of an eighth-inning jam and preserved California's squeaker over Chicago.

Tatum, scored on only once in his last 17 innings, came in with runners on second and third and one out. He retired Luis Aparicio on a ground ball and got Pete Ward on a pop fly to end the inning.

The Angels pushed across the only run of the game in the first inning on a walk to Sandy Alomar, Jay Johnstone's bloop single and a ground out.

Seattle dropped its 15th consecutive game at home, bowing to Kansas City and Dick Drago. Mike Fiore ripped a first-inning home run for the Royals and Drago helped his own cause with a run-scoring double—his first major league hit.

Don Mincher hit a two-run homer for the Pilots.

Hunting and fishing in the E.T

By NORM NICHOLL

SMALL GAME HUNTING - in the province will be opening next Saturday, September 13. In this group-spruce grouse, ruffed and sharp-tail grouse, European (Hungarian) partridge and hare are included. On the following Saturday, September 20th the migratory bird season will open.

At this time, it must be noted by the so-called experienced and novice hunters that they must respect the properties and rights of the land owners on whose land they use in the pursuit of their sport.

In fact, it will be noted that many areas of the townships and province as a whole are becoming more restricted for this use. More land is being posted by private clubs and by property owners. Why? Well, check with the land owners' broken fences; wounded or killed livestock; stray bullets landing in homes and buildings; littering and the list is endless.

It is therefore up to hunters and fishermen alike to create an atmosphere of trust and respect between them and the land owners. This can only be done by each having respect for the other. It is however up to the hunters and fishermen to take the initiative and create an atmosphere in which the land owners will have a feeling of trust with sportsmen using his property.

Perhaps a chat with property owners in your favorite area will prove beneficial to the continuing use of land to pursue your outdoor sport.

PROTECTION SERVICE REPORT - for the month of June shows that the service handled some 972 cases and netted $17,184 for the provincial treasury. The breakdown was moose — 32; deer — 15; Fur-Bearing Animals — 15; Partridge — 5; Migratory Birds — 34; Miscellaneous — 279; Fishing — 592. The districts report the following: Abitibi — 58 for $3,120; Chicoutimi — 22 for $375; Gaspé — 9 for $665; Hull — 21 for $270; Montreal — 351 for $3,176; Quebec — 130 for $2,508; Rimouski — 37 for $1,930; Sept-Isles — 87 for $1,905; Temiscaming — 37 for $415; Trois-Rivières — 79 for $1,410; Sherbrooke — Migratory Birds 1 for $25; Miscellaneous — 55 for $555; Fishing — 85-$830 for 141 and $1,410. The above figures do not include cases pending hearings or for time spent in jail.

HUNTERS SHOOT - this Sunday September 7, commencing at 10 a.m., rain or shine. The annual shoot will be sponsored by the Sand Hill Rifle Club. Here's your chance to get some trophies and in perhaps pick up a prize too!

LAKE MASSAWIPPI F & G - Protection Club Inc., will be holding a directors' meeting this coming Wednesday, September 10 at Ripplecove Inn, Ayer's Cliff commencing at 8 p.m.

Another season for Als

By BRIAN HANNA

For Sherbrooke baseball fans, the season seems to have ended quite abruptly with the sudden elimination of the Sherbrooke Alouettes in their square-off with the Drummondville Royals.

The key to a successful season is the ability to win consistently on the road—provided that you win at home. This is what the Als were unable to do, during the semi-finals much to the disappointment of the hometown fans. The team was beset by injuries and a lack of effective hurlers to maintain a starting rotation in the series, and when baseball is 75 per cent pitching... that really hurts.

Not many teams are able to roar back and capture a two-out-of-three-game sequence, or such when facing elimination. The Alouettes were not an exception to the rule.

Regardless of the different calibres of baseball, from the major league levels to the Piedmont League—when playoffs start, the pressure mounts.

A most memorable case of a come back was the 1958 World Series when the New York Yankees, down 3-1 in games to the Milwaukee Braves pulled it out from under to win.

But, all miracles aside, and beyond their play-off misfortunes, the Alouettes did enjoy a relatively good season—finishing up with a 39-33 record for second place while providing fans with many bright moments.

The Drummondville Royals copped the league title on the basis of sound pitching and timely hitting. Despite the loss of batting champion, Leroy Gregory, the team appears healthy enough "to collect all the marbles."

While for the Alouettes, it will be "wait till next year."

Hill leads Alcan qualifiers

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — Dave Hill's 16 under par finish in the Greater Hartford Open gave him an amazing 68.58 scoring average for three tournaments to lead 13 survivors into the Alcan Golfer of the Year Championship at Portland Golf Club, September 25-28.

Hill finished a walkaway 11 shots in front of his closest challenger in the race for the 12 berths allotted U.S. forces for the "World Championship" and the year's top prize, a $55,000 jackpot. Gene Littler won the 13th spot as one of the year's three leading money winners.

Hill scored a total of 823 strokes at New Orleans, Philadelphia and Hartford. He had missed the fourth qualifier, the Western Open. Under the Alcan format, the low 12 and ties on a best three-out-of-four tournament basis qualify for the Alcan.

About the racing scene...

Jackie Stewart at Grand Prix

TORONTO — Jackie Stewart, one of the most exciting drivers in Grand Prix history, will be leading the Matra International team in the Player's Grand Prix of Canada, September 20, at Mosport Park.

Stewart has driven his French-built Matra, powered by a Ford-Cosworth engine, to five victories in the seven Grand Prix races to date. He retired while leading the Grand Prix of Monaco and finished second to Belgium's Jackie Ickx in the German Grand Prix.

The 30-year-old Scot has won everything else — the South African, the Spanish, the British, the French and the Dutch Grand Prix.

Stewart will actually be arriving in Toronto on September 15, and making public appearances.

Joining Stewart in the 90-lap race for $150,000 in prize money will be France's Jean-Pierre Beltoise and Johnny Servoz-Gavin, giving Matra a complete three-car team entry.

The Matra team is in its second year of a return to Grand Prix racing. Last year, Stewart finished the season in second place behind world driving champion Graham Hill.

Before joining Matra, Stewart drove for the BRM team. In 1965 he won his first Formula One event capturing the Italian Grand Prix and placing third in the world drivers championship. Stewart has also competed at Indianapolis 500 on two occasions.

Stewart has great respect for Formula One racing and the men competing for the world championship.

"The company you are in is very fierce. The Grand Prix drivers of today are very professional gentlemen and there is no room for mistakes," says Stewart.

Stewart is a trained engineer and he points out that this may not be of great importance, but it is advantageous.

"It helps you to understand a bit about what goes on. If there's a sudden miss in the engine, you can make up your mind about what sort of miss it is," explains Stewart.

Hot competition

With only two races left in the championship season, competition in the Molson formula series and the Alitalia production car series is very hot. In both championships there is still a mathematical chance for the leader to be unseated and this should ensure some good racing in the supplementary races at Le Circuit Mont-Tremblant on Sunday, September 7.

Canadian Formula drivers will have lots of opportunity for competition on Sunday, since they can compete in the Molson regional championship race and many will also drive in the feature race for Formula B cars in the American SCCA Continental Championship. Among the local drivers who will be entering the SCCA Formula race will be Jacques Couture, in a Lotus 59 Formula B, Eligio Siconolfi in a Crossle Formula B, Wayne Spears in a Brabham Formula B, Ian Coristine in a Merlyn Formula Ford, Randy Fraser, also in a Merlyn Formula Ford and Real Desrosiers in a Moleba Formula

B, all of Montreal; and Peter Broeker of Pointe Claire in a Stebro Chevron Formula B.

In the Molson championship, Peter Roberts of Granby is leading the series after five of seven races, with 77 points. Ian Coristine is second with 50 points, followed by Real Desrosiers with 48 points; Jacques Couture who has won the last two Molson races has 40 points, and Eligio Siconolfi has 36 points.

In the production car championship for the Alitalia Trophy, Derek Johnson is leading the eight race series after six races with 48 points earned with six consecutive wins in the Todco Camaro.

He is followed in the championship by Jacques Duval in a Porsche with 44 points, Bob Barrell of Lachine in a Cooper S with 40 points and T. S. Graham of Montreal in a Bobby with 26 points. The drivers in the production championship count their best six finishes of the eight races in the series, so this weekend they will eliminate the least successful result of the season from their total score.

Because of the tightness of the racing schedule on Sunday, the races for class B and C in the Alitalia series will be combined, although the drivers will still receive their points according to their position in class. There will also be prize money for the Production car races (classes A, B and C) and the Molson race, on the basis of $200 for 1st, $150 for 2nd, $100 for third, $75 for fourth and $50 for fifth.

Montreal Rally

The Lower Canada Motor Club offers 350 miles of challenge in the Great Montreal Rally. Eurocan Motors awards valuable Pirelli and Marchal prizes to the winners. And National champions like Klaus Ross and Paul Manson provide the competition.

The Great Montreal is a National class A car rally starting on Ile Perrot Saturday September 6th. Crews will rally overnight on roads selected for driving challenge north northwest of Montreal and end with a tie-breaking competition on Sunday morning. "Elementary navigation and Mini-Stages will again be featured," stated the organizer. This rally will be held under the General Competition Rules of CASC.

The Peugeot team of Ross-Remington, Schmidt-Schmidt, and McEachran-Chappell, the Renault of Gee-Manson, and the Rainville-Edwards Simca will be among those striving for the valuable National points in this weekend's Great Montreal.
