LOCAL GROUPS ATTEND PEACE RALLY

Plan Service To Honour War Dead

Membership Drive Has Reached 60%

Y.M.C.A. Campaign For New Followers Will be Continued Until Middle of the Month

With five teams having exceeded their objectives, the Westmount Y.M.C.A. membership campaign reached the end of the month Sunday night with 57.2 per cent of its total achieved. It was expected to reach 60 per cent by last night and the drive will be continued until the middle of this month, when it is felt sure that the required objective of 216 new or renewed memberships will have been obtained.

D. Lloyd Adams' team and W. Grindlay's group have each scored 111.3 of their objective, while the aggregation under Rev. Fred C. Mueller has reached 107 per cent. These three are under the division known as the 'Furs.' The team captained by Stan Ross has brought in 100 per cent of its quota, and J. Annesley's group 107 per cent. These two are under the 'Feathers' classification.

The Feathers division is somewhat ahead of the Furs notwithstanding the above figures, their 55 per cent leading the others' 46 per cent considerably.

It is expected that the campaign will close with a dinner about November 15th.

WHEN WALL STREET BURNED MIDNIGHT OIL

The recent crash of stock prices kept the lights burning in Wall Street's skyscraper brokerage offices until long in the night while clerks caught up with the rush of business for which they had not been prepared. The bright windows of the building above boded ill for shareholders tossed on the financial rocks in the storm of selling that wiped out slender margins.

Advertising Discussed By J. Nelson

Rotarians Addressed By Prominent Ad Man on Public Relations of Banking Institutions

Rotarian J. C. 'Lefty' Nelson was the speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Westmount Rotary Club on Wednesday at Victoria Hall, and he took as his subject "Banking and Advertising." Long connected with the advertising line, Mr. Nelson is at present connected with the Royal Bank of Canada.

The meeting was observed as "Fellowship" Meeting, sponsored by the Fellowship Committee and the 'newer' members. Rotarian 'Allie' Boire was in the chair, and the sing-song was led by George Finlayson. The guest singer, Harold Gillingham, was introduced and accompanied by Percy French. Past-president Stan Cayford was named to represent Westmount at the District Conference to be held next May.

Many Problems

In discussing banking and advertising, Mr. Nelson pointed out that the advertising copy-writer was confronted with some unusual difficulties when asked to prepare advertising to aid the banking business. The main source of revenue for banks, he pointed out, is in making loans; and to foster this, advertising has become more than a necessity.

A bank must be careful to whom it makes loans, he said, and in this way the advertising must be designed to reach and appeal to persons who will comply with the requirements asked by the bank. Persons whose reputations and credit are good, who can and intend to repay the loan, must be reached by the advertising message.

Great care is necessary, he said, in drafting the copy for bank advertising; the general solution was to advertise the good standing of bankers and banking in general.

The obligations which a bank bears to its depositors must be rigidly observed, he pointed out, and therefore they often refuse to extend credit to a great many persons who can not be considered as good risks; primarily it is the depositors' money they are risking.

Plan To Observe World Wide Peace Day Celebrations

Number Of Westmount Organizations To Be Represented at Meeting Wednesday in Honour of Internationally Feted Event Against War—Guy Tombs Will be in Chair — Youth Council Sponsoring District Gathering

Guy Tombs will act as chairman, and a large number of local groups will be represented, at the Peace Day rally of the Montreal Youth Council to be held Wednesday in the Montreal High School. Representatives are expected from the Young Men of St. Andrew's Church; The Square Circle Club of Calvary Church; The Westmount Times Club; The Junior Board of St. Andrew's Church; the Cosmos Spoke Club; National Council of Jewish Juniors; and many other young people's organizations with members living in Westmount and the west end of Montreal generally.

Among the speakers at the rally will be Rev. Laurence Clare, Miss Louise Gates, secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association; and representatives of the League of Nations Society, and of the Montreal Trades and Labour Congress. Addresses will be given in both French and English, as the membership of the Youth Council includes a large number of the young people of both languages.

A series of broadcasts leading up to the Peace-Day rally has been given over CKAC, and radio programs devoted to youth and peace and also serving as preliminaries to Youth Peace Day have been given in thirty eight different countries in which the Youth Congress is active.

Among the indorsers of the movement are Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr, of St. Andrew's Church; Rev. Gordon Burgoyne, of the Westmount Rotary Club; Rev. Rabbis Julius Berger, of Shaare Zion Synagogue; Rev. Rabbi Harry J. Stern of Temple Emmanu-El; Joh nB. Frosst; Eugene Forsey, and many other prominent citizens.

Warm commendations have been given the movement by Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada and Archbishop Owen, Primate of the Anglican Church in Canada among many others. The former says:

"It is very right that the Canadian Youth Congress should take part in the activities of a week devoted to the promotion of peace in these distracted times. For youth with the world before it, has a far greater interest in a peaceful future than we older folks who have most of life behind us. Moreover youth has the priceless gifts of youth and audacity, and the peace

Victim Dies As Clothing Takes Fire

Mrs. W. A. Farmer, Western Avenue, Succumbs in Hospital to Painful Burns

A verdict of accidental death was returned in the Coroner's Court Monday in the case of Mrs. William Albert Farmer, of 4275 Western avenue.

Mrs. Farmer, who was in her seventieth year, died Saturday night in the Western division of the Montreal General Hospital as result of burns suffered in a domestic accident in her home two days previously.

Witnesses at the inquest revealed that Mrs. Farmer's clothing ignited as she was lifting a kettle of water onto the stove. The flames burned her severely about the body, arms, legs and face before they could be extinguished.

She was taken to the hospital, where she died two days following the mishap. The victim's advanced age made recovery difficult.

Deplores Debt Increase

Obligations Are Raised

George C. McDonald, President Of Canadian Chamber Of Commerce, Scores Practices

Outrageous abuses of credit in governmental relations were deplored by George C. McDonald, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and a resident of Westmount, in an address he gave before the Winnipeg Board of Trade Monday. "Credit has been extended to various governments in Canada beyond all measure of prudence," he claimed. "It should have been stopped long ago but events kept cropping up which enabled us to keep on borrowing. so that we find an increase in the gross funded federal, provincial and municipal debt of more than $1,800,000,000 in the last six years." This, he pointed out, represented an average of about $30 per head of the population per annum.

Mr. McDonald then turned to a less gloomy side of the Canadian picture. Canada's Gold Mines, he pointed out, had been busy digging out gold for which we had been getting a very good price from "our neighbour to the south,

Tormented Soul Appeals To Us; But We Advise He Start A Fuss

Perhaps we aren't as widely read as we think; or perhaps the person to whom we directed a few caustic comments in this corner a few weeks ago just ignored us; in any event, we are going to try to reach the heart and soul of a certain party once again, sincere in the belief that deep down inside, she really loves her fellow humans, despite her ten or twelve years.

The original complaint came from a man who was (and is) roused at six-thirty every morning by the plaintive notes of a belaboured piano in the house next door, this being the hour at which a certain girl elects to practise her music lesson. Our correspondent sent us a mail despatch, asking us to appeal to his little neighbour through our columns, suggesting that she do her practising at 7.30, in the afternoon, or, better still, not at all.

In good faith and with the sincere belief that the little girl would read the article and govern herself accordingly, we printed his letter. Now, after a lapse of three weeks, we have received another communication from the nerve-racked soul, asking us to do something.

He points out that he rises every morning at 7.30, which is early enough; yet every morning at 6.30 the piano in the next house begins tinkling on some painful tune, which, he is led to believe, the little girl has composed herself. He hasn't spoken to her or her people for fear of incurring possible bad feeling, or perhaps of having her start at 5.30 just for spite.

Our previous attempt, he says, had a profound effect for about three or four days; the practising stopped. Then it started all over again; and at this last writing our writer feels inclined to shoot himself, the little girl, set the house on fire or else move to the middle of Westmount Park and live under the bridge for the rest of the year.

We are sorry if the little girl has started all over again; we are sorry if our good friend is losing his sleep; if the little girl persists in practising at that ungodly hour of the night, we can only advise that he ask her to put a stop to it. Let him present her with a doll, or box of candy, or something similar, then suggest that she do her practising in the afternoon. Otherwise, we sadly fear, she will be startled some morning at about 6.40 by having a pyjama-clad neighbour leap clean through the wall brandishing a shilelagh and with a stark look in his eye.

Little girl, is it worth it?

Clock Story Makes Appearance In Bridlington, England, Paper

While we never made the claim that the Westmount Examiner is read from coast to coast, we always nurtured a secret suspicion that we have a few readers outside the bounds of this fair little city of ours; proof that our belief was not unfounded was received the other day when Mrs. Emily Reed, of Rosemount avenue, wrote and told us that notice had been taken of The Examiner in "The Bridlington Chronicle" of Bridlington, Yorkshire, England— and furthermore sent us a clipping in black and white to prove it. Thank you, Mrs. Reed—your thoughtfulness is appreciated.

And now to pursue the story further, we must go back to the balmy days of summer when your reporter released the story on our local floral clock in Westmount Park, and how it was admired by a passing tourist who stopped to photograph it. We asked for news of floral clocks in other parts of the world—and did we get replies! (Just mention 'Floral Clock' to the editor; even yet he pales at the mere sound!)

Among those who kindly vouchsafed information was Mrs. Emily Reed. She told us about the clock on the Prince's Parade at Bridlington, and mentioned that "it was really lovely." There also was a floral staircase and flower carpet, recalled Mrs. Reed, which also fitted the description. Mrs. Reed is a frequent visitor to Bridlington.

We were pleased to print Mrs. Reed's letter in bold type and give it prominent position. Mrs. Reed sent a copy to a friend who lives at Whitby, near Bridlington. This friend knew personally the editor of the Bridlington Chronicle, to whose attention the matter was quickly brought—and the editor, in view of the fact that the Bridlington floral clock had been mentioned in an out-of-the-way part of the world like Canada, wrote a large article on the subject, and quoted our own words to the effect that we were "literally snowed under with letters, comments and information on flower clocks" when we asked if there were any other devices in the world similar to Westmount's own time piece.

Again, thank you, Mrs. Reed. We'd like to send a word of advice to the editor of The Bridlington Chronicle—if Bridlington residents are as well-travelled as Westmount residents, we advise him earnestly not to ask for information on flower clocks unless he is prepared to augment his staff and work late at nights sorting out the mail.

Sorry? No, we're not sorry we did it; we're glad, and we may do something similar again in the near future. And again we thank heartily all those who wrote to us on the subject.

Discussions Held Weekly

Westmount Group Has Had Rapid Advancement Since Its Inception Two Years Ago

Formed two years ago by a number of young Westmount residents for the purpose of discussing world problems, the Westmount Times Club has enjoyed rapid development since its inception. A number of prominent speakers have addressed the open meetings, which are well attended, and the program for the coming term includes a number of interesting features.

Meetings are held every Thursday evening in the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Alderman Dave Rochon, of Montreal, is scheduled to address the group next week.

Two years ago Paul Frankel, Howard Levinson, Pat Hadden of the Spoke Club, James Gibson, of the League of Nations Society, and Miss Mary Harrison decided to form a group to further enlightening discussion of the many serious problems in economics, politics, international affairs, etc., confronting the world, with the object in view of keeping young people better informed on these vital questions.

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1937

WHY DID WE FIGHT?

Armistice Day reminds us that the British Empire went to war unwillingly and almost totally unprepared because she held sacred a treaty that a power-mad German emperor dismissed as a "scrap of paper"—and because Britons and other liberty-loving people knew that those great liberties that Anglo-Saxons had struggled for and won through long centuries were being challenged with military might. The long struggle which followed was a fight to save those rights, to save democracy.

Those rights are again being challenged in the world today. There are again power-mad despots openly scoffing at the theory of the sacredness of personality, of personal liberty, of freedom of worship, of the press and assembly—despots who are doing their utmost to manoeuvre international relationships into a position where they can challenge with military might the liberty-loving peoples. It is time, indeed, to be on guard in our own country, for there are forces at work throughout the Empire trying to undermine the foundations on which our British system is founded. Particularly in this Province of Quebec are these forces at work. Our English language has been removed from its position of equality with the French, and made a mere translation, and a new form of government—corporatism—is being openly advocated to displace the British system. Freedom of assembly is gradually being denied under a screen of anti-Communism—the evil of Communism apparently being made the excuse to substitute something equally as repugnant to those reared in British traditions of Parliamentary government. Yes, it is time to be on guard. Some say it is time to consider if, in the interests of liberty, it is wise to grant liberty to those who are advocating the destruction of liberty. But the British theory is based on the belief that liberty is its own greatest safeguard — that a country is safest and most progressive when its government is based on the strength and wisdom of the collective mind of its people, expressed in free assembly, in a free press, and at the polls in free, secret, ballotting. And history has proved the British system right. Mussolini, Hitler, and Stalin would still be on soap boxes in Hyde Park were they Britishers. The British system is to "let the crack-pots rave" and trust in the wisdom of the people. The little progress made by both Fascists and Communists in Britain is ample proof of the good common sense of the mass of the people.

BUY A POPPY

Last year, Canada remembered her war dead in so inspiring a fashion at Vimy—the memorial itself, the Pilgrimage of veterans and mothers and wives, the participation of the King, the President of the French Republic, the Prime Minister—that every Canadian must feel pride in a duty so wholly and beautifully done.

Some expression of that feeling is very likely to be made by Canadians on November 11th. this year when, with the appeal of the Poppy Fund, the opportunity is given to render some measure of gratitude to those who, one might say, fell in the war but did not die.

For that, in effect, is what happened to many thousands of Canadian young men. Wounded, damaged in body and spirit, those multitudes of our fellow men have survive twenty years of pain and handicap, of distress, frustration and disappointment in the daily race of life, regardless of all the help Government and Municipalities can devise for them. On the base of the indescribably beautiful Memorial on Vimy Ridge, there are carved in the solid stone, the names of the 11,283 Canadian soldiers whose bodies have never been found, whose names do not appear on a headstone in any of the numerous Canadian cemeteries scattered over France and Flanders. Thus no man is forgotten. The Poppy Fund, insofar as the funds it can raise permit, has attempted to see that no man of those living be forgotten. The things Government cannot undertake to supply, clothing, furniture, the simple amenities of comfort in a home, are the routine provisions of the Poppy Fund. It is practically all voluntary. It tries to be, on behalf of its countless contributors on Poppy Day, the good Samaritan to the forgotten fringes of the veteran problem.

The Canadian Legion which conducts the campaign in Canada is only one unit of the British Empire Service League which on November 11th, in its world-wide associations in the British Empire, is selling poppies to fellow Britishers in every corner of the globe. The British people have their various national holidays and red letter days, but in the gift you make on Poppy Day, you are sharing in a duty universally British.

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

Conducted by Howard S. Ross, K.C.

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

Do not let us be misled by bogeys. The causes of trade barriers are not economic nationalism. They are the lack of it. They consist in the unwillingness of industrialized nations to consume as much as they produce. Even at this moment, at the peak of an artificial boom created by the state spending the incomes of unborn citizens, there is everywhere anxiety and threatened surpluses of unsaleable production. Trade barriers, within frontiers and along them, are due to the fact that buyers, nations and individuals, never have enough purchasing-power to accept all the goods offered by sellers; and the new conditions no longer oblige the sellers by taking the goods on credit.—New English Weekly (London).

A study of 50,000 cases of alcoholism, admitted to the Boston City hospital since its founding in 1864 has been completed. The report states alcoholism has assumed the proportions of "a great chronic emergency." It was found that while more cases were admitted to the hospital during prohibition than ever before, the number was increased still further since repeal. The findings, the authors of the study say, indicate that alcoholism is a disease requiring treatment, "as a major scientific problem." They recommend a staff and wards in a hospital designed solely for alcoholic patients. They also advocate an educational campaign.

Fundamentally, say the authors, alcoholism may be increasing because "people today are possibly not built to stand the type of living they have to live, and excess strain causes something to go wrong with the human nervous system and the mind." The author found that deaths from alcoholism are increasing, out of proportion to the increase of alcoholic admitions. In the years since repeal of prohibition, the annual deaths from alcoholism at the hospital doubled.

The majority of alcoholic patients treated are males, who outnumber females 7 to 1. Men are treated in largest numbers between the ages of 36 and 40, women between 41 and 45.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan the noted U.S.A. physicist, said recently, "We must decide between a despotic world of dictators and free press. "But how can we have a free press until we first have free natural resources for those willing to do the work necessary to make the resources usable and free and pure money to use as a medium of distribution so that the good things will pass free of profit or any tribute to all who have done their share of the useful work of the world?

Glad Wealth Gone — Six years ago Everet W. Hill, owning numerous utility properties, one of them a chain of cold storage houses across Oklahoma was worth at least 2,000,000 dollars. A few years before he served as International President of Rotary and visited Rotary clubs all over the world. Reverses brought by the depression left him penniless in 1932. Leaving his fine home in Oklahoma City, lost in the crash, the first thing he did was to go on a fishing trip, mingling with the hill folk of southeastern Oklahoma from whom he learned a new philosophy of life. He always had enjoyed writing and this gave him an opportunity to try out his ability along this line. Since 1932 he has lived in quiet seclusion supported by his writing and declares he has enjoyed life far more than at any time during his years of affluence. He says he would not like to have wealth again.

AN IMPROVISATION

The following verses were composed by Joseph Cosins, the nom-de-plume of a seventy-one year old local resident whose hobby throughout life has been the writing of poems, short articles and various essays, which have appeared in a great many local and Old Country newspapers. The scene which inspired the following lines was witnessed one morning at Montfort, in the Laurentian mountains.

O'er "Napoleon's Cap" and "Baldy" 'ere September Blustered in,
I wandered as the work-day, crowned with sunbeams did begin;
And I felt the breath of Autumn blowing lustily and strong,
Imbuing me with ardour, though the trail was rough and long.

O the Great Laurentian Mountains give new life and strength to those Seeking rest from city labours, whilst forgetting Fortune's blows:
So if e'er you make the journey, fleeing from work, toil and care,
You'd receive a joyous welcome from the folk now living there.

And you'd hear the feathered songsters, warbling on the trees,
See the wild canaries flying on the cool late summer breeze:
Hear the "whip-poor-wills" sweet love song, proving Nature reigns supreme,
Where her Flora grows in Splendour, though to us, 'tis but a dream.

There the Habitant Canadiens, a breed from mother France,
Worked hand-in-hand, in amity, with Britishers whose stance
Was made by great adventurers, those pioneers unknown,
Who blazed the trails in Faith and Love, for those they called their own.

"L'ENVOI"

O! No camouflage of Nature's Gifts, could ever here obtain.
Just the will of God the Father with simplicity doth reign:
And the unadorned earth-virtue gilds the hills like sunset rays,
Exemplifying Faith and Love, when Truth unto Him prays.
Like these great Laurentian Mountains may my soul unfettered rise,
"Till, before jacades Eternal, it waits God's last surprise".

—JOSEPH COSINS.

Aim In Life Seen As Aid

Westmount Girls' Hi-Y Met Thursday Night at Local Y.M.C.A.

A definite aim in life towards which one should strive unceasingly was advocated by Mr. Mussels, of Westmount High School, in addressing members of the Westmount Girls' Hi-Y Club at the regular weekly meeting Thursday evening of last week in the Westmount Y.M.C.A.

Taking "Purpose" as his topic. Mr. Mussels went on to show that the development of character and personality was in a large measure achieved by dogged persistence and adherence to one's ideals and continued striving towards a definite goal.

Following the serving of supper, Miss Lucille Christmas presided at the piano during a sing-song.

It was announced that the guest speaker for the following week would be Dr. J. A. Nutter.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE NOTES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 7th, is "Adam and Fallen Man."

The Golden Text is: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing." (John 6: 63).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved. But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest, that they are wrought in God." (John 3: 19-21).

"When we wake to the truth of being, all disease, pain, weakness, weariness, sorrow, sin, death, will be unknown, and the mortal dream will forever cease." (Science and Health, pages 218, 219).

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH NOTES

Sunday morning in St. Andrew's Church, Rev. F. W. Kerr will preach a sermon on "Making a Raid on Lodebar." This land of Lodebar is a remote and desolate place to which cripples and other unfortunates are sent to be forgotten. But because of the ministry of the Son of Man, once a year a great host of Montreal men and women laden with gifts of remembrance, make a visit to this land, and bring these shadowed souls out into the sunlight. On Sunday evening Dr. Kerr's topic will be "Turn Your Sickness Into an Asset," a sermon suggested by an article in the current number of Reader's Digest.

Westmount Baptist Church Notes

On Friday Evening, November 5th. Rev. J. A. Johnston will present a Travelogue of Still and Moving Pictures entitled: "Here, There and Everywhere." These films and photographs portray beauty, history and romance in Canada, Britain and Europe. The lecture will conclude with films showing the trooping of the colours, the review of the grand fleet and the coronation of George VI and Elizabeth.

On Sunday morning Mr. Johnston will speak on: "Alternatives that Fearless Men Face." Communion and Reception of Members at close of service.

The Sunday evening sermon theme will be: "The Cross that Shines Above Our City." This will take the form of a challenging interpretation of the real meaning of the cross.

On Sunday, November 14th, Pro. H. T. de Wolfe, LL.D. of Acadia University will conduct both services.

Edgar Kennedy at the age of 50 hasn't a grey hair in his head. He is what the French call 'un chauve.'

CALVARY CHURCH NOTES

On Sunday morning a guest preacher will occupy the pulpit in the person of the Rev. J. G. Brown, M.A., B.D., newly inducted assistant minister of Erskine-American United Church. This will be Mr. Brown's first visit to Calvary.

At the evening service at 7.30 members of the Young People's Union will conduct the service. In place of the sermon, a Sacred Recital will be given by Miss Mildred Connerty, of Merrickville, Ont. Miss Connerty's recital will include scenes from "The Trial of Jesus" John Masefield's great dramatic masterpiece. The order of worship will be enriched by violin selections of sacred music by Miss Norma McLean.

The Church School will meet at 11 a.m., and 3 p.m. with organized classes for young people at the afternoon session. The Men's Brotherhood will also meet at 3 o'clock.

The Young People's Union will meet on Monday in Macaulay Hall at 8.15 p.m. and invites young men and women to join them.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet on Wednesday, at 8.15 p.m. in the church parlours. On this eve of the Armistice Remembrance Day, the Christian Missionary enterprise should appeal to all because of its possibilities in the great cause of Peace and goodwill among men.

This Friday night, Nov. 5th, at 8.15 p.m. a Fashion Show will be held in the church hall sponsored by the Women's Association.

MELVILLE CHURCH NOTES

On Sunday Melville Presbyterians will observe the fifty-second anniversary of the congregation. There will be special music suitable to the occasion.

The Boys' Brigade, Melville Company, is increasing in numbers and activities and promises soon to be one of the "livest" companies in the Montreal district.

The Sunday School which was closed because of the scarlet fever scare begins again on Sunday.

Arrangements are now being made for a good St. Andrew's night celebration which will justify the expectations of the promoters for the "best ever."

Mary Munn In Piano Recital

One of the most unusual events of any musical season will take place November 15 at the Ritz Carlton Hotel, when Mary Munn, distinguished blind pianists who makes her Montreal home in the west end of this city, will be presented in recital.

Miss Munn is exceptionally well-known here, having received her education in Montreal. She has just returned to this continent after a successful concert tour of Europe during which she was heard in Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London.

Press notices in these cities were emphatic in their praise of her faultless technique and fine programmes.

There lies behind this pianist one of the almost unbelievable stories of the realm of music. Born blind, she has risen to great heights in the music world though never able to glimpse a keyboard itself.

Mary Munn is better known on the Continent than in Canada. Below the border, too, her talent is recognized, and her recent concert in Town Hall, New York, resulted in a nationwide broadcast series for the National Broadcasting Company.

Sees Danger In Pacifism

May Supplant Principles, Tells Army Service Corps at Church Parade Sunday

With no intention of glorifying war but solely wishing to point out the dangerous aspects of international strife, Rev. E. A. Findlay, rector of St. Clement's Church, said that he feared pacifism might reach a stage where "we will begin to think more of our skins than of our principles," in preaching the sermon at the annual church parade Sunday morning of the 3rd Divisional Royal Canadian Army Service Corps to St. Stephen's Church.

Mr. Findlay expressed the opinion that nationalism these days is being over-emphasized, as might be observed in various parts of the world. Modern inventions, however, such as the radio and the airplane, which had done so much to bring the nations closer together, should also be largely instrumental in ushering in an era of world peace.

It was the refusal to know and to understand one another that was at the root of national quarrels, and so long as such an attitude obtained there would always be danger of international strife, he said.

There was a good attendance of members of the unit under the command of Major G. A. Greig, M.S.M., who read the Lesson during the service which was conducted by Rev. Harold S. Laws, the rector.

Neat appearance, good coverage and splendid results make our ads outstanding.

High School Commencement Is Truly Colourful Function

Mayor Jenkins, Prof. J. Hughes, Col. F. M. McRobie, J. Aird Nesbitt, S. F. Kneeland, Rev. J. A. Johnston, Principal Parker And Others Attended

by Melville Sinn

". . . . coffee, ice-cream and cakes is all we have to offer you this evening but to partake of these you are all welcome," and with these words Col. F. M. McRobie, chairman of the Westmount School Commission brought to a close another colourful graduation ceremony at Westmount High. The beaming graduates grasping diplomas in one hand and nervously smoothing down that ruffled frock or bulging shirt front with the other, eagerly sought out parents and friends and amidst a crescendo of hoarse young laughter and feminine twitterings, drifted slowely towards the beckoning fragrance of fresh coffee and modern rhythm that eminated from a softly lighted gym. As one of the lingering graduates stepped from the already dimmed auditorium he was seen to stop and glance back at the rows of empty seats that became vague in the semi-darkness. His thoughts flashed back to what he had witnessed that evening.

With the School Orchestra playing a spirited march the dignitaries had assembled upon the platform. His Worship Mayor Jenkins, Professor John Hughes, M.-A. Macdonald, Professor of education at McGill University, who addressed the graduates, Col. F. M. McRobie, chairman; Mr. J. Aird Nesbitt; Mr. S. F. Kneeland, Superintendent of schools; Rev. J. A. Johnston, B.A., and Principal Parker as well as other prominent leaders of education in the City of Westmount.

Rev. Johnston led the gathering in the opening prayer and Doxology after which Col. McRobie briefly advised the graduating class of what the world expects of them and how to conduct themselves when thrown upon their resources.

A pleasing piano solo was rendered by Doris Kert while the school orchestra played two marches. The Girls' choir, under the direction of Mr. Fred Whiteley performed acceptably to round out the musical portion of the program.

The feature of the evening was the address by Professor John Hughes who chose as his subject "Education," and opened up many new views to his audience along this line of thought. The majority of the Professor's remarks were directed to the graduates as he stated that there is always something to learn and that people may continue educating themselves well after middle age.

Professor Hughes concluded by congratulating Westmount High and Argyle Junior High on the splendid work they were carrying on in educating the youth of Westmount. Col. McRobie tendered a vote of thanks to the speaker. Although Professor Hughes' address was the feature of the evening, many of those present who have sons and daughters progressing through the lower grades of the high, were vitally interested in Principal H. B. Parker's annual report as it revealed to them what was being done along the line of education in Westmount.

Mr. Parker in his report stated that the real disability under which the pupils in the school of today are labouring is not the curriculum, but the complex social life—radios, movies, cheap magazines, sports and certain outside activities. To these in Westmount must be added the over-privileged child. However those who graduate from Westmount High find little difficulty in entering Universities, and no less than five such institutions across the border harbour members of this year's graduation class.

The average attendance throughout the year was 94.6 per cent. The enrolment of the school was nine hundred and one, an increase of eighty two over the previous year. Of the one hundred and sixty-one who wrote the final examinations, one hundred and twenty-four graduated, which is not only the largest number of pupils to graduate from this school in any one year, but the largest percentage of passes in this school in the last ten years.

Athletic Organizations, the Dramatic and Debating Society, The School Magazine, The St. Johns Ambulance corps as well as Public Speaking and Charitable work help to balance the students education. In conclusion the Principal thanked the members of the Board for the interest that they had shown in the school in the past year.

The award of honour was presented to John H. Baker of the graduating class, by Donald Smith, Secretary of the Old Boys Association of the school. This award is presented annually to the boy in the fourth form who is voted by his form mates the most popular all-round gentleman in the form.

To conclude the program Harriet Bloomfield delivered a faultless Valedictory. Col. McRobie then extended an invitation to all present to be the guests of the school at the dance and reception.

The solitary graduate standing at the door of the now empty auditorium wanly as his thoughts flashed back over these proceedings, for he knew that the link of fellowship and learning that held him for four happy years at Westmount High had this evening been severed. The realization that he no longer was a part of the old school caused a lonely feeling to creep over him, but this soon vanished as he turned and walked briskly into the atmosphere of joy and gaiety that prevailed as thickly as the purple streamers in the crowded gym.

COMMENCEMENT AT ARGYLE TONIGHT

A varied program has been drawn up by Principal J. W. Brunt for the second annual com-Commencement Exercises of Argyle Junior High School, which take place in the school auditorium this evening. An address will be given by Rev. Lawrence Clare, M.A., and musical numbers will be rendered. The distribution of prizes and certificates will also take place.

AT COLLINS' NEW CHAPEL

Looking through one of the family rooms to the Chancel of the new chapel. The corner of the console of the electric organ may be seen here.

New Collins Chapel Is Real Achievement Of Architectural Art

Domed Ceiling, Indirect Lighting, Tiled Floor, Electric Organ, Combine For Comforting Effect—Stained Glass Window Effective—New Structure is Latest Link in Policy of Improvement

Its doors open to Sherbrooke Street, the new Collins Funeral Chapel, at the intersection of Marcil avenue, seldom fails to draw the attention of passers-by as they look down the sombre aisle to the beautiful stained-glass window at the rear.

Following a policy of steady improvement the new Collins Chapel rises at the intersection, as a tribute to one of the leading business men of the west end community. A member of the Notre Dame de Grace Business Men's Association, prominent in social and business affairs Mr. Collins is a leading figure and has recently completed this handsome chapel as the latest link in a policy chain that has the interests of the public as its prime motive.

Adjoining the chapel are family rooms, handsomely furnished, that are a boon to the family in their time of grief. Here the relatives may hear the service, the music, the words of the officiating clergyman, and yet feel secure in the privacy offered.

The chapel itself with its domed ceiling, its indirect lighting, its quartered-oak pews, its asphaltile floor, is an example of architectural achievement that is not rivalled in Montreal and districts.

At the rear is a stained glass window, of magnificent coloring, symbolim of the Resurrection and standing out as a precious jewel in the more-than adequate setting of the chapel itself.

The chapel seats three hundred persons, and there is room for an additional hundred in the ante rooms. The other sections of the Collins Funeral home, the entrance hall, the mortuary chamber, the special rooms, the hall-ways, all are refurnished and refinished, and present a favorable compliment to the new structure, beneath which is a large garage for the housing of the many Collins vehicles.

The music is provided through the Northern-Hammond electric organ, truly an achievement in itself.

New Organ

"Purchase of the organ," Mr. Collins said, "is in keeping with my policy of providing the finest and most dignified service. The solemnity of organ music makes it a natural part of the funeral rite. Hitherto, however, the cost of pipe organ is, together with their unwieldy size, virtually eliminated them from consideration for even the most modern of funeral homes and, as a consequence, other substitutes were employed. The Northern-Hammond has overcome all this. Small in size, and of good appearance, it makes it possible to bring to the funeral service the majestic music which has been lacking. I believe that it will add definitely to the services in the new chapel."

Although many similar institutions in other parts of the country have purchased this new instrument, it remains with Mr. Collins to be the first in Montreal, thereby showing a very progressive spirit and desire on his part to furnish the best.

Plan to Observe . . . .

we decide will never be achieved by the timid or the pessimistic, or by the devotees of traditions which have lost their meaning. It demands colour, bold thinking and a resolute courage. Canada as a sovereign people, cannot escape the duty of playing a part in the world's affairs, and Canadian youth cannot be wanting in the cause which must be largely in the hands of youth. I send you my warmest good wishes for the success of International Youth-Peace Day."

Archbishop Owen, in his endorsement of International Youth Peace-Day, says:

"I understand that you desire to observe International Youth Peace Day on November 10th. I write to say that our Church is of course intensely interested in peace, and endeavours to do everything in its power to strengthen the cause of peace. I feel myself, that it is essential that peace and justice should go together, and that in all our efforts to promote peace we should remember the claims of Justice. Assuring the Canadian Youth Congress Movement of my interest in the longings of our modern youth for peace, and trusting that they, and all of us who are striving against hatred may be widely guided in the effort to promote "peace and good-will among men."

TO MEET FRIDAY

The King's School Teachers and Home Association regular monthly meeting has been postponed from Nov. 8th to the afternoon of the 12th at 4 p.m. A tea will be held.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

STORY TELLING

It's the story-telling picture that carries real human interest appeal.

ALMOST all of us have had the experience of calling on friends who persist in getting out their collection of snapshots and parading them before the eyes of their defenseless guests.

Now please bear in mind that I harbor no thoughts of this practice as being a breach of social etiquette. On the contrary, I am for it. But—there are many kinds and classes of snapshots. There are, for instance, the snapshots that are very good as far as exposure, sharpness and composition are concerned but with practically no human interest appeal. We can class these as record pictures.

Have you ever heard of story-telling snapshots? I'll wager that many of you haven't. For that reason this week's Snapshot Guild will be devoted to story-telling pictures.

From the cradle to the grave we hear stories — and like them. All through our lives we retain our interest in story-illustrations. It is this appeal that takes us to the movies and causes us to look through the pages of daily newspapers and magazines for pictures that tell stories of human activities.

When it comes to taking snapshots, however, so many seem to forget about story-telling subjects. They pick up their cameras and just shoot. There is a better way to take pictures.

There is a vast difference between a close-up view of a person and a story-telling picture. A close-up — whether head-and-shoulder, three-quarters or full length—is more or less a record picture to show the image of the person photographed, but it does not tell a story. You may take a picture of Peggy standing looking at the camera. A fine picture, no doubt, bearing all the earmarks of good photography properly exposed and a good example of composition, but still a record-type snapshot. Let Peggy be pictured raking the leaves and you have a story-telling human interest snapshot. Today as you're glancing through the newspaper, notice for yourself whether record pictures of people looking at the camera or story-telling pictures of people doing things interest and please you more.

Before taking a picture give it a little thought and if it is to be a snapshot of an individual, have him doing something and not staring at the camera, simulating a victim of amnesia.

I don't want to seem to lecture but I do want to impress upon you the importance of giving serious thought to your picture taking. If you will keep this story-telling idea foremost in your mind when you take your next pictures, I am sure they will be more interesting to you and your friends.

Ideal Floor Scheme Used At Collins'

B. P. Tile System Makes New Building One of Most Modern And Beautiful in Montreal District

The selection of B. P. Tile Flooring for the new chapel of D. A. Collins at Sherbrooke and Marcil Ave., is in line with the modern trend to resilient tile flooring. Color and decorative design supplied in these tile floors follow the new architect's and decorator's demand for creative character in the floor. Desire for quiet, comfort and freedom from the shackles of floor maintenance causes builders of new residences, as well as churches, hospitals and schools, to insist on a floor of this type.

In the recreation room, the vestibule and hall, the sun porch, and, in the newest houses, in living rooms, dining rooms and den, B. P. Tile Flooring brings the floor into the general color scheme and permits appropriate patterns for each room, banishing the drudgery associated with hardwood floors.

The new kitchen and bathroom floor finished with B. P. Tile Flooring eliminates the cold and damp associated with hard tiles and supplies a warm cushioned floor in appropriate colors which requires almost no care. The new tiles are fireproof and waterproof too.

Not only builders of new homes, but those who wish to modernize and bring the advantage of fresh new materials into older homes can transform residence floors by installation of B. P. Tile Flooring directly over existing floors.

B. P. Tile Flooring are manufactured by Building Products Limited, Montreal.

Obligations

"who had been consistently burying it in the ground. Canada's base metal industries, he said, have profitted greatly by the armament race in Europe and Asia.

The speaker expressed the hope that the Rowell Commission on Dominion - provincial relations might present a solution to Canada's debt problem and stated his opinion that it would be "enormously beneficial to the taxpayers" if customs and excise taxes, succession duties, sales taxes, income taxes and corporation taxes should all be collected by the federal Government.

The Chamber of Commerce president thought he might have been putting too much stress on the responsibility of governments in those matters.

"The people," he stated, " who are really responsible are the great public — ourselves — our Boards of Trade — and those organizations which go to our governments shouting for more and more expenditures. In Canada, this has been aggravated by the jealousy of the different parts of the country watching each other in the matter of federal benefits.

"The result of this clamor," he declared, "for more and more governmental expenditure, not merely in terms of a capital nature like railways, wharves, bridges and hotels, but also for increased social services, have brought it about that the elected representatives in our Parliaments, reflecting public opinion, press for more and more expenditure instead of fulfilling the function for which they were intended to serve, namely, to act as a check on the administration."

Turning to labor, Mr. McDonald claimed that as labor was an essential element in industry it should be considered more as a partner with an equal voice in the enterprise than as a commodity which is bought and sold at a price.

"The failure to realize this fundamental truth," he concluded, "has cost and is still costing capital a pretty penny and is also injuring the cause of labor."

The railway situation is responsible for more than half of Canada's present gross federal debt and "is by far the greatest menace to our future prosperity."

"I do believe," he stated, however, "that governments and government officials are alive to the seriousness of the situation and are trying to preserve our financial integrity," but added "except insofar as political expediency continues to prevent the necessary steps being taken."

Discussions . . . .

twice-a-month in the home of Paul Frankel, Strathcona avenue, and when a guest speaker could not be secured the group held informal talks and debates on world problems.

The builders built better than they knew; in a short space of time the meetings became so well known and won such favour that it became necessary to hold them weekly. The club membership grew, and its following rapidly increased; and a year ago another change became necessary, and meetings have since been held in the Y.M.C.A., which offers somewhat more spacious accomodations for public meetings than a private home.

The program for the proceeding season calls for a number of 'Youth Symposiums', in which vital problems confronting the younger generation of today will be discussed. Such questions as 'Youth and Peace,' 'Youth and Unemployment,' 'Youth and Political Isms,' are slated for discussion.

A debate is planned on the resolution that 'The Canadian Youth Congress is of vital importance to every thinking youth of Canada'; this was scheduled to be held this week, but had to be postponed to a later date in order to allow further preparation.

A large attendance is expected for Ald. Rochon's address on Thursday evening. Meetings start sharp at 8.15.

TO BEAR WESTMOUNT BANNER AT KINGSTON

Wilf Spearman, Howard Matheson, Victor Hesse, John Lewis, Stan Gilpin and Brockman Brace will represent the Westmount Y. M.C.A. at the Conference being held by Young Men at Kingston this week end. Discussion leaders include Dr. W. A. MacIntosh and Prof. J. O. Watts, of Queen's University, R. E. G. Davis, Arnold Ward, Hart Devenny and Wm. R. Cooke.

Rob. Morris Members At Church Here

Annual Service of O.E.S. Lodge Held Sunday at Calvary—Rev. T. W. Jones Preached

Members of the Rob Morris Chapter, O. E. S., attended the annual church service of the chapter on Sunday evening, held at Calvary Church. The members were headed by Mrs. M. Hobbs, worthy matron, and Mrs. Elsie A. Buckingham, secretary. Bro. the Rev. T. W. Jones, M.A., B.D., preached the sermon.

Mr. Jones took as his text "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever." The theme was taken from Whittier's poem, "Snowbound."

Mr. Jones said that the principles and ideals of the Order were exemplified in the characters taken from the Scriptures and revered in the teachings of the Order, whose prayer was "Shine on, oh star of hope, of faith, of loyalty, and of love, until all the shadows flee away in the dawning of the everlasting day."

H. B. Parker Speaker At Boys' Hi-Y

'Nails' Used as Simile in Interesting Address by Local Educationist— Girls' Night on Wednesday

The guest speaker at this Wednesday's meeting of the Hi-Y Club was H. B. Parker, principal of Westmount High School. Mr. Parker's subject was "Nails." This may seem a queer subject upon which to speak, but the High School Principal used nails as a clever simile to boys and girls.

First of all, Mr. Parker held up a plain ordinary nail and remarked that to be of any good, a nail must be driven. (Boys too!) then he held up a series of about twenty other nails, from the glass headed "Sissy" nail to the common downtrodden, unseen floor nail, or "teacher." This speech was not new to the club. Three years ago, Mr. Parker spoke on the same subject and the club unanimously voted that he repeat it.

Mr. Parker was introduced by Campbell Mussells and was thanked by Tom Chown.

After supper, the usual short sing-song was held with Ted Neill leading, followed by the prayer, and then by Mr. Parker's address. After the speech, the meeting opened for business. Bob Allan read the minutes of the last meeting. These were accepted with one small correction. Then came discussion of the important subject of "Girls' Night" which will be held Wednesday. At this meeting, each member of the club will bring a girl. After the usual supper, at which Major Bassett of "The Gazette" will speak, a dance will be held with Art Morrow's orchestra supplying the music.

The event will commence at 6.30 sharp.

TEMPLE EMMANU-EL NOTES

"Religion and World Peace" will be Rabbi Stern's subject this evening; "The Prayer for Peace" will be discussed at the junior congregation service tomorrow morning.

Rabbi Stern is being feted this week end on the occasion of his having completed ten years as leader of the Temple Emmanu-El congregation.

U. S. TO GET FIRST GLIMPSE OF DUCHESS' FALL WARDROBE

Simplicity Distinguishes Darkish Costumes Picked For Her American Visit

"Hats" said the Duchess—and Madame Suzy produced this collection for the former Wallis Simpson. Rear, left to right: Navy felt, worn at back of head, trimmed with red grosgrain ribbon and small flat bow at back; black velvet "bonnet," Directoire inspired, trimmed with small golden beige bow under upturned rolled brim, with streamers; copper coloured felt, with skull-cap crown and upturned brim that finishes into two outstanding triangles. Front row, left to right: "chechia" toque in corded velvet with ribbon bow trimming on side; black felt toque with scalloped edge trimmed with small black and gold feather mounts on each side; Persian inspired turban in bright sapphire blue velvet. Crown is of narrow velvet ribbon and the rolled torsade is finished with a little bow at the side. The milliner at right is wearing model of black taupe felt and working on a navy felt, also part of the hat wardrobe selected by the Duchess of Windsor for her American visit.

Paris—The presence of the Duchess of Windsor in Paris has caused quite a flutter in the more exclusive dressmaking establishments, all anxious to have the privilege of dressing one who was not only the heroine of the most romantic love story in modern history, but also considered the best-dressed woman of 1937.

Her first visit, however, was for her favourite couturier, Mainbocher, who has dressed her for several years and who made her wedding gown and trousseau. Anxious to add new winter clothes to her wardrobe, the Duchess was shown the entire collection in a private salon, while a crowd gathered outside to catch a glimpse of her as she left, accompanied by three detectives.

The innate simplicity of the Duchess of Windsor was apparent in the fact that she did not pudge it necessary to make her first appearance in Paris in last-minute styles. She traveled and did all her shopping in ensembles that Mainbocher made for her last spring, only having one or two new autumn hats made to wear with them. Like all women of good taste, Her Grace preferred to get the atmosphere of the latest fashions before making her decision.

As a result, America probably will be the first country to see the great majority of the items in the Duchess' fall and winter wardrobe. Many of the costumes will not be delivered to her until she returns from Germany just prior to sailing for the United States.

Blacks, Browns, Dark Reds

Mainbocher reports that with the exception of a blue traveling ensemble, the Duchess has chosen mostly black, brown and some of the dark damask reds for her winter wardrobe. Day dresses are in soft woolens, faconne wool jersey and the more discreet plaids. She ordered several of the new long-waisted and draped jersey sweaters which Mainbocher has featured this season as being more personal and more Parisian than the more banal kind which so often look as though you could buy them by the dozen.

Dinner dresses — some short, others ankle-length—are in georgette and lame, and with high front necklines and long or short sleeves. Formal evening gowns of black velvet, tulle, lame and broadcloth were chosen. Several of the models were beaded and pailletted, and some had the very new longer silhouette that molds the hips. As a matter of fact, the Duchess of Windsor has selected dresses which are the essence of Mainbocher's collection, perhaps not the most spectacular ones, but just those models the average woman of good taste will wear and feel comfortable in

The ultra-low decolletes which caused such a sensation when the collections were shown in August do not figure in her wardrobe.

Ten Hats from Suzy

There seems no likelihood of the Duchess buying clothes anywhere else. She has looked at furs at Paquin's, but has not yet made her decision. These included long fur coats and capes. She has also shopped at some of the specialty shops along the Faubourg Saint Honore, known to all smart women who visit Paris.

Madame Suzy, the well-known modiste on the Rue de la Paix, was called in to show her collection to the Duchess of Windsor at her hotel. She ordered ten hats from the collection itself, nearly all off-the-face models or toques, and chose the more conservative among the styles which Suzy launched this season. One especially attractive model in black velvet of Directoire inspiration, with a "bonnet" crown fitting snugly on the back of the head, is trimmed with golden beige ribbon to wear with sables. Several of the other models are black and there are one or two in navy blue, and one in a deep shade of sapphire, her favourite colour. She wore a Suzy hat on her first official visit with the Duke of Windsor at the Exposition.

OF COMEDY AND DRAMA

"Wee Willie Winkie" Is A Thrill-Packed Film

Adventure as only Rudyard Kipling could write it blazes from the screen in the Twentieth Century-Fox picturization of his "Wee Willie Winkie," which opens at the Westmount on Wednesday to run until November 13th, with Shirley Temple and Victor McLaglen in the starring roles. This feature will follow to the Seville, Monkland and Snowdon Theatres directly.

Adventure—rugged as the kilted Highlanders holding Khyber Pass, colorful as India's jeweled and brazen hues, strange as the skirling bagpipes one the roof of Asia, romantic as empire's last untamed frontier—fills every moment of this exciting film, the most spectacular production in which Shirley Temple has ever appeared.

When the bonnie plaid of Scotland flashes on India's saffron hills, and warmad tribesmen strike from Khyber Pass, when the rifles crack and the Pathans raid, when the bagpipes skirl and the regiment charges—you'll know that you're seeing one of the greatest pictures ever made, with a Shirley Temple whose power to stir your emotions will be the wonder of your life.

"Wee Willie Winkie" starts off colorfully and excitingly in the railroad station at Rajpore, India, where Shirley and her widowed mother, June Lang, have arrived to take up residence at a frontier army post commanded by her grandfather stern old C. Aubrey Smith. Before their eyes, Khoda Khan, a fierce native chieftain is caught in a gun-smuggling attempt and arrested, losing from around his neck in the scuffle a treasured amulet, which is picked up by Shirley.

Unhappy at the post under the gruff discipline of the colonel, Shirley decides to win his affection by becoming a soldier, and Michael Whalen, a young lieutenant who has taken a fancy both to her and her mother, puts her under the care of the burly sergeant, Victor McLaglen. The latter dubs her "Wee Willie Winkie," because of the quaint way she has of screwing up her eyes when she asks questions.

Shirley's attempts to impress her grandfather only land her in more trouble, but she wins the gratitude of the imprisoned Khoda Khan when she returns his amulet. The proud chieftain is freed in a surprise raid by the Pathans, and the border blazes in crimson warfare, which costs McLaglen's life, among others.

Because she feels that both Khoda Khan and her grandfather would remain at peace if they could, Shirley takes a desperate step to end the bloodshed, and sets out at night for the Khyber Pass lookout of the tribesmen. When they discover her loss, the Highlanders set out grimly for Khyber Pass, determined to rescue her or die in the attempt. With the lives of those she loves at stake, Shirley makes one last desperate gesture to save them and bring peace, in a remarkable sequence which brings the picture to a thrilling climax.

Cesar Romero, Constance Collier and young Douglas Scott have prominent roles in the film. Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, selected John Ford, noted Academy Award winner, to direct "Wee Willie Winkie," from the screen play by Ernest Pascall and Julien Josephson. Gene Markey was associate producer.

Teacher: Now, Tommy, if your mother gave you sixpence and your brother a shilling, what would there be?

Tommy: "A fight, miss."

Newspaper War Yarn Makes Exciting Film

A powerful story of a newspaperman who placed principles ahead of life itself, only to have his own daughter undo his work brought Fred MacMurray, Frances Farmer, Charlie Ruggles and Lloyd Nolan to the screen of the Westmount Theatre on Sunday for three days, following to the Seville, Monkland and Snowdon, in the dynamic "Exclusive."

The story concerns the efforts of a corrupt politician, played by Nolan, to wreak vengeance on a reform newspaper by establshing his own scandal sheet which he uses for blackmail purposes. He tries to lure Ruggles and MacMurray away from the reform paper with tempting salaries but they remain loyal to the paper they helped to build.

When Ruggles' daughter, played by Miss Farmer who is also MacMurray's sweetheart, hears of this, she is furious. Unable to understand the principles of her father and sweetheart, she accepts a post as reporter on Nolan's paper. She soon becomes the newspaper sensation of the town. Nolan uses her ability to dig up the past of one of the town's leading merchants, causing him to commit suicide.

A highly dramatic moment arrives when Ruggles is forced to write the story of the suicide. Still sticking to his principles of clean and accurate journalism, he is forced to begin his story with the dramatic sentence "Tonight my daughter killed a man."

When Miss Farmer's usefulness to Nolan becomes outlived, he decides to put her out of the way, fearful that she will reveal the extent of his corruption. In a thrilling, action-packed climax MacMurray and Ruggles save the girl and rid the city of Nolan, but not before Miss Farmer pays a terrible price for her belief that journalism is "just another racket."

"Exclusive" is an important picture in that it is the first film using the newspaper business for a background which provides an accurate insight into the workings of clean journalism versus the "yellow" and scandal sheet variety. It is also important because it presents newspaper people as newspaper people know them—not the ever light-hearted, wise-cracking, more-often-than-not drunken cynics, but men imbued with high ideals and the courage to pursue them. The accuracy of the picture is in large measure due to the fact that it is from the pen of John C. Moffitt, former motion picture critic of the Kansas City "Star" and one of the country's outstanding newspapermen.

lot at Burbank, Cal., they have three large gasoline motors attached to airplane propellers which are capable of developing 270 horsepower. This arrangement is known as the 'Big Wind.' When in action it can stir up a most realistic cyclone, tornado or what have you. M-G-M borrowed the apparatus for the filming of Dorothy Lamour's "Hurricane," and if you're blown out of your seats when you see the picture you'll know what we mean.

A short-circuited wire in a prop building caused a miniature conflagration at a quickie studio the other day. Instead of wasting water on the blaze they shot the scene and re-wrote a script dealing with a tenement house fire. Such is Hollywood.

Levitan At Tudor Hall

One of Canada's greatest young pianists makes his second annual appearance at Tudor Hall Monday evening next, when Samuel Levitan appears in concert at the popular midtown concert hall. Last year Levitan drew a large crowd to his Tudor Hall recital, and has since won favour throughout eastern Canada.

A program of unusually wide appeal includes works by Bach, Shubert, Beethoven, Debussy, Czerny, Liszt, Chopin and two contemporary American composers, Frances B. de Leone, Ella R. Beaudoux.

The Beethoven work is his Sonata in F Major Op. 10, No. 2. "Jardine sous la Pluie" and "Claire de Lune"—the latter by special request—are Debussy's contributions to the program. Liszt's "Liebestraum" and Chopin's Scherzo in B. Flat Minor, are also amongst the works to be heard.

The concert by Samuel Levitan Monday evening at Tudor Hall will mark his only public appearance this season.

On and Off the Set

By Morty Greenberg

One fire to cope with is a big enough task but Franchot Tone finds himself between two fires in the current picture at the Westmount. The title is "Between Two Women," and the two women are Virginia Bruce and Maureen O'Sullivan.

Jackie Coogan was asked how he felt about his recent narrow escape in an auto smash-up. "Heaven is a nice place," he replied, "but there's no sense overcrowding it."

For those of you who enjoyed "Theodora Goes Wild," Columbia has just released "The Awful Truth" starring Irene Dunne in another comedy role. Cary Grant has the male lead.

Bang!—A bullet flies through the air! Another indian bites the dust and Buck Jones returns to the screen in the first of a series of western dramas called "Hollywood Roundup." Helen Twelvetrees also appears in this picture after a two year sojourn in Australia.

Danielle Darrieux the new French star made a decided hit at her studio. During the filming of hed first venture "The Rage of Paris," she was being shown some takes from the first scenes of the picture. "Bon — bon," exclaimed Danielle, in her native tongue. Ten minutes later six prop boys entered and proferred her with six boxes of chocolates.

OF..... MASKS AND... MIKES ...AND THINGS

By JACK HIRSHBERG

RADIO . . . THE EDUCATOR !

If you are one of those who think that cream is heavier than milk simply because it appears thicker, then you are humbly requested further to peruse these lines, and to gain some appreciation of the great educational role played by radio today.

Taking to heart the many harshly-worded notes which daily fill the press with ridicule of radio and condemnation of its programs as a dire insult to public intelligence, a Manhattan radio writer and your humble pen pusher have taken upon themselves the task of determining just what the intelligent quotient of this much-abused public might be.

After five weeks of intense research—with street corner as laboratory and pedestrian as subject—we martyrs to the cause of education have reached some amazing conclusions.

Conclusions

In the first place, three men out of five do not know a pretzel has three holes, and four of five indignantly favour a law prohibiting protoplasm, but don't know why.

Scarcely ten per cent of those questioned knew that five times zero is zero, and only two per cent knew the latest method of folding baby's diaper.

This essay is not meant to be humorous, and should be studied seriously from a purely academic point of view. We pioneers in modern education have only fallen arches to show for our labours, but these shall not have been suffered in vain so long as you who read this report harken to the need for better education of the masses. We should hate to see radio programs cater to the mass mentality as measured by us at Peel and St. Catherine!

Challenge

It is only human that you scoff at your neighbours' ignorance and this writer's superiority complex, and smile securely when contemplating your own vast store of knowledge. However, if you find yourself up in the clouds, we suggest you try your powers of deduction and analysis on the following test, allowing yourself approximately half a minute per question.

1. On what side is Africa bounded by the Pacific Ocean?
2. Write eleven thousand, eleven hundred and eleven.
3. Which is the right bank of a river?
4. Who may be credited with the expression, "Step on it"?
5. How many columns are there on a page of the telephone book?
6. Name the Dionne Quintuplets.
7. In alighting on the ceiling, does the common housefly do a half-loop or a barrel roll?

These, as you can easily see, are problems which concern every one of you in your daily pursuit of happiness and grub. They are straight-forward queries, with no attempt at deception. If you cannot answer them, and belong to the Honorable Order of Those Who Pass the Time by Condemning Radio Programs, we suggest you send in your resignation.

ANSWERS TO TEST

1. On no side.
2. 12,111
3. Right bank going downstream
4. Sir Walter Raleigh
5. Four
6. Annette, Emelie, Yvonne, Cecile, Marie
7. Ours do a barrel roll.

Police Seek All Traffic Lawbreakers

Carelessness Main Cause of Several Minor Mishaps During Week — Stop Signs Passed

A number of minor accidents occurred throughout the city on the week-end, resulting in a number of smashed fenders and dented car bodies. Two mishaps were caused when drivers allegedly failed to stop at "stop" signs, and an auto making a left turn in front of Victoria Hall collided with a bicycle, damaging the machine but not hurting the cyclist. The bicycle-auto mishap occurred Friday evening at 8.15, when a car driven westward on Sherbrooke street by D. McSweyn made a left turn to enter the driveway to Victoria Hall and collided with a bicycle proceeding east on Sherbrooke driven by Laurence Fuller, of 4925 Piedmont street. The front wheel and fork of the bicycle were damaged. Fuller reported the collision at the police station.

Shortly after half past one Friday morning a car driven up the Clarke avenue hill by George Paulo, of Verdun, stalled when its driver according to his statement, attempted to shift gears in the middle of the incline. The car backed down the hill, but the driver had presence of mind enough to turn into the curb; the car over-ran the curb, rolled across the front lawn of the home of George Cross, 434 Clarke, and finally came to rest after damaging the steps and brick wall at the front of the Cross home. The lawn was somewhat damaged also.

Friday afternoon at 2.05 Miss Alice Pretty, Outremont, was knocked down when struck by a car driven by J. D. Heaman at the corner of Dorchester and Hallowell. Heaman's car was making the turn from Hallowell to go eastward on Dorchester, and the driver claims he did not see the woman until it was too late. He swerved to the left, but the right fender struck her. She was taken to the Montreal General Hospital in an ambulance, where first aid was rendered by Dr. Letourneau. Constable Tremblay investigated.

At about nine o'clock Friday evening two cars collided at the intersection of Victoria avenue and Cote St. Antoine road. The cars were driven by Clifford Trueman, 67 Clandeboye, who was going east on Cote St. Antoine, and George Boucher, 9003 Lajeunesse street, who was driving north on Victoria. Trueman's car suffered broken headlights, damaged radiator grill, right front fender bent, and the front bumper was broken; the left running board, two left doors, rear left fender and part of the rear trunk were damaged on Boucher's car. Each claims he failed to see the other till it was too late to avoid the crash. Boucher denied the claim that his lights were out.

A backing taxi in the driveway in front of Victoria Hall damaged the fenders of a Packard sedan driven by Charles Lindsay, 534 Clarke, which was drawing up behind it Friday evening at about 10.15. The taxi was driven by Marcel LeRose, 705 Querbes avenue.

Saturday night at 11.58 opposite 539 Victoria avenue, the parked car of Basil Smith, a salesman for the Auer Light Manufacturing Company Ltd., was struck in the rear by a northward driven vehicle. The driver of the offending car was examined for the police department by Dr. McNaughton, who stated that while he smelled of alcohol he was, in the doctor's opinion, able to drive properly and account for his movements. The driver claimed he was crowded in toward the curb by a car which passed him going up the hill. He was brought to the station when it was found he was not in possession of a registration card for the "drive-yourself" vehicle he was running.

SENIOR GRIDDERS MUST WIN FROM McGILL TOMORROW

Billy Soden's Westmount Team Can Clinch Title By Victory Over Collegians

Four-way Tie Is Possible However — Locals Lost To Railroaders at Alexandra Park on Saturday — Fumble and Blocked Kick Told Story

Billy Soden's Westmount Senior gridders will meet McGill Saturday at the Westmount Athletic grounds in a contest that will mean the Q.R.F.U. championship for the locals, if they win. On the other hand if the Red and White manage to defeat the Westmounters, and Yellow Jackets of N.D.G. down the Nationals, then a four cornered tie will result for first place in the loop, and things will just be starting.

On Saturday the sons of Soden travelled to Alexandra Park and were defeated by Nationals 15-8, a fumble an a blocked kick proved their undoing and the victory for the railroaders put them in a tie with the locals for first place honors in the Senior Q.R.F.U.

The strong wind aided the kickers of both teams with Riddell kicking all eight points of the locals on rouges and Mullins getting four.

In the second quarter Mullins snared a Westmount fumble and raced thirty yards to a touchdown and Beatty fell on the ball behind the Westmount goal line after a blocked kick.

With the wind at his back Riddell piled up four points in the first quarter, one of the kicks being an attempted placement, but this was rapidly cut to two on the change of ends when Mullins received the wind advantage.

Then came C.N.R.'s break and Mullins scooped up the ball on a fumbled play and kept going till he had crossed the Westmount line. The C.N.R. half booted another single before half time to put the home team four points up.

The third session was a repetition of the first with Riddell plugging steadily away for singles with the help of the wind. Four more points were added to the purple and white's total and the score was tied at 8-8.

When the field was reversed Mullins had his innings again. Westmount was driven deep into its own territory and Nationals attempted a field goal. The ball went wide of the posts and the Westmount receiver ran it into the clear. Riddell dropped back behind his goal line for the kick but C.N.R. broke through to smother the ball and Beatty fell on it for a major score.

Nationals, with a five-point lead tucked away, had little difficulty holding the Westmounters at bay while Mullins banged over two more rouges.

The teams:

Nationals.		Westmount
Curran	f. wing	Walker
Bowden	half	Smaill
Mullins	half	Swindon
Burton	half	Lennox
Scott	quarter	Riddell
Preece	snap	Farha
Berriault	inside	Tracey

BRASS BOYS BOW BEFORE WM. COOPER

Brass' Battling ball booters in the Y.M.C.A. Volleyball League were downed Tuesday evening 3-2 before an aggregation under the direction of W. E. Cooper. All the members of Brass' team were natives of Canada, while those on the other were born in Scotland or England. Possibly this divison was arranged to cause international strife.

At any event the decision is not considered finished, and Cooper's Canuck-Killing Picts, Scots and Anglo-Saxons will meet again with Brass' beaten bad boys Tuesday of next week to carry the battle further.

The English and Scottish team: W. E. Cooper, Dave Glen, Dick Hamilton, L. W. Townsend, Wm. Taylor, Wilf Spearman; the Canadians:—W. Brass, Lloyd Adams, J. Constardine; J. Morrow, H. T. S. Yeats, Stan Loucks.

ACADEMY CHAMPS

Strathcona Academy's junior football team climaxed a banner season Tuesday at Westmount Park with a 17-2 victory over the Westmount aggregation, to annex the interscholastic championship.

In the tilt, Moster registered two touchdowns, Benjamin one, and Snow booted two converts for Strathcona's total. For the Westmount team, Law snared a Strathcona ball carrier behind the Academy line for a safety touch.

Decide Title Today At 3.30

St. Leo's intermediates meet St. Lambert this afternoon at the former Westward Grounds, at 3.30 to decide who leads the Interschool League. St. Leo's led the loop before their 7-3 defeat at the hands of the river-lads Tuesday.

St. Lambert was forced to come from behind to win Tuesday. The scoring was opened when Murray, of St. Lambert, booted for a rouge in the second quarter but before halftime McGovern, of St. Leo's, kicked a field goal to send his team into the lead. The third quarter passed without a score, but in the final session a St. Lambert attack was culminated by a touchdown when Don Hall crossed the goal-line. Hall converted his touchdown to complete the scoring.

Boys Brigade Notes

Westmount Company

The First and 11th Companies pooled their programme Friday night, the party being held in Calvin Westminster Church Hall, and ending up with the usual Hallowe'en spirit. More joint activity for the Westmount Companies has been planned.

Remembrance Day to be observed this Sunday: The Bible Class will take as its theme "Peace through The Prince of Peace"; and a two-minute silence will be observed in remembrance of those who gave their lives during the Great War. The Non-Commissioned officers will take active part in the service, Thomas Mulligan reading the lesson and James Patterson and Robert Beal leading in the responsible reading and prayers. The Brigade throughout the world is observing this Sunday in like manner.

Tonight activities will be as usual in the Church Hall, starting at 7.15 p.m. sharp. The Squad Medal will be awarded this week to Corporal James Patterson for having the highest total points for October. A special installation ceremony will be held for newer members who will receive their membership badges.

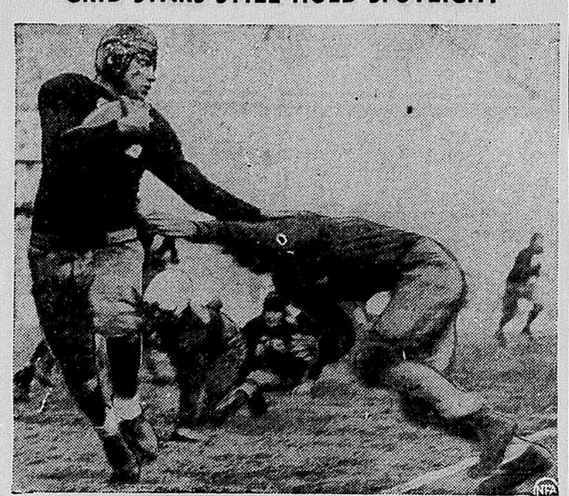

The Christmas Cheer work will be commenced almost immediately and will work jointly with the 11th and 17th Companies of Westmount Boys will receive further detail tonight.

JOLIAT NOW OLDEST PLAYER IN N.H.L.

With the retirement of Frank "King" Clancy from active play to the role of manager of the Montreal Maroons, little Aurel Joliat of Montreal Canadiens becomes without question the player of lengthiest continuous service in the National Hockey League. The "Mighty Mite" of the Canadien left-wing broke into the National League in 1922, and holds the remarkable record of having served but only fifteen straight seasons, but all with the same team, possibly a record for major professional team sport of any kind. Joliat is starting his sixteenth season with Canadiens in the coming National League campaign.

Neat appearance, good coverage and splendid results make our ads outstanding.

GRID STARS STILL HOLD SPOTLIGHT

Rugby is still the big thing in the sport headlines. The wins of Westmount Seniors have kept interest alive locally and all eyes will be turned to the Athletic Grounds tomorrow when a win over McGill will clinch the championship for the Sodenites.

Sizing Up The Senior Grid Situation As Clubs Enter Schedule Final Tomorrow

Four-Cornered Tie Would Result if Cellar Clubs Defeated Top Teams—Lanthier Picks His Winners—Off the Shoulder Comment Given

BY ELMER LANTHIER

In its first year of activity, the Senior Quebec Rugby Football Union, can at least lay claim to the fact that, if nothing else, it is giving the football loving public a tight fisted race to the very end. The situation in senior grid ranks today is a unique one.

In surveying the big front, which, perhaps, is not yet the popular one from an attendance viewpoint, we find Westmount and Nationals linked in first place with three wins and two losses apiece. Deadlocked in second, and incidentally last place, are McGill's Redmen and N.D.G. Yellow Jackets, known in some parts as Nodegas, Mic Macs, etc.

To size up the present situation is not difficult. What is strange, though, is what might happen tomorrow afternoon. At that time bottom teams play the leaders and victories for the underdogs would complicate matters somewhat, creating a four-team tie on the final day of the schedule. Who could ask for anything more interesting?

Victories for the leaders tomorrow would result in Westmount and Nationals ending up in a deadlock. A loss sustained by either would give the other the league title but the defeated club would be tied by its victor and out of the running. Tomorrow may not see the end of senior league battling. Perhaps it will be the start of real grid competition.

Evenly Matched League

That all four clubs in the senior loop are evenly matched clubs has now been brought home vivdly to followers of football. Three weeks ago, Westmount looked good to this observer as the logical champion. But today he would not dare fathom or attempt to prognosticate the eventual outcome. To state that the worm has turned since the schedule opened would be rolling it over easily.

Today we still have the same four clubs that started grid work in a very amateurish way over a month ago, but there has been a decided change since then. Much can happen in a minute, much has happened in a month.

Take those McGill Redmen, for instance. From Nationals, Yellow Jackets and Westmount camps I hear cries of "You take 'em, we don't want 'em." All kidding aside, though. Buster Fletcher's gang of intelligentsia's have gradually adopted that "devil may care" attitude. Reference is made to their work with the forward pass, and work it has been.

Forward Passing "Bug"

This flinger, Bradsher, has been getting a lot of arm exercise in aerial offensive wodk. Last Saturday at N.D.G., he twirled over 25 passes and although only eight were completed, the fact of the matter is still there. McGill has definitely got the forward pass "Bug" and things may happen.

Football followers will readily recall the first McGill-Eastward night game a few years back. McDonald's team went aerial in a big way. You remember that offensive. Who could forget it?

But the question now before the house is: "Will McGill take up where they left off last Saturday." If they do, watch out Westmount!

As for Nationals, well, they are apparently out of the deep slumber that seemed to envelope them a few weeks ago. With the addition of veteran Dunc. Smith, Bill Neale and a couple of other brutish and beefy bone-twisters, who answered the call to arms when the C.N.R. cause weakened, the club is now a desperate unit and is living up to the reputation that earned them a place in the senior league, when at a meeting of the executive, all were of the opinion that "we need C.N.R. because they'll add colour to the league."

Yes, N. D. G. must watch Ray Mullins tomorrow and keep tab on a hefty line from Alexandria Park.

Westmount Still Effective

Bill Soden's Westmount team, most members of which, comprised the Eastern Canadian Junioar Championship squad last year, is still an effective machine, despite the comment of McDonald, Smith and Fletcher.

Westmount's backfield, young, fast and lacking only in experience has staunch men in Riddell, Thompson, et al. and is a unit of energy that will still irk, or perhaps, we should say erg, the best of them, despite losses sustained to date.

As for the Yellow Jackets, which, from this observer's casual glance, were definitely dormant in the sleepyiest way up to last week, tomorrow's "croocial" game (as Reg. Wallace put it) will tell the tale. McDonald's starry group of backfielders, stand-outs when we consider them individually, and that hefty line up front will still have to go some, and then some more, to polish off Nationals.

How We Rate Them

Tackling the problem in a more griddy manner, we are inclined to call them tomorrow in this wise:

Westmount to beat McGill.

Nationals to beat Yellow Jackets.

At Westmount it will be strength in kicking and on the half line against possible power in forward passing.

At Royal avenue, Ray Mullins, Gordy McBurney and Walter Morley will be after punting honors. But the National line is considered by this observer to have just that extra ounce of solid concrete to be the stronger stone wall.

Of course, we might be all wrong. But that is how it sizes up today from this lookout. After tomorrow, it may be: "Look out, Lanthier."

Dominion Douglas Cagers To Play Senior But Lose Buster Allen, Alan Mills

Two Outstanding Stars to Remain With Mates on British Consols Team—Macklaeir Joins Amicis—Grads in Stiff Workouts—Cy James Handles Westmount 'Y' Entry in Local Cage Loop

The welcome news that they had been accepted in the senior section of the M. B. L., was tinged with disappointment in the Dominion Douglas cage camp on learning that they were to lose Buster Allen and Alan Mills two experienced senior players from whom much had been expected. The two players mentioned have decided to remain with the rest of their team mates of last year's British Consols team, who have moved over bag and baggage to play for Nationals.

At any rate Coach McKee, with no more "drifting" material to worry about can buckle down to serious business with the remainder of his squad. In lanky Ed Scarffe, the double 'D' team possess one of the neatest working centres in the league, Scarffe a scoring ace and a "bug" on rebounds, has only to keep up the high calibre of play he has been showing in practice to prove himself a star in major company. The good performance by Art Cochrane at his first practice Monday also served to ease some of the headaches suffered by Coach McKee.

Down at the Westmount Amici workouts, tough scrimmage sessions are the rule. The acquisition of Wilbur Macklaier, a high scoring forward from last years North Branch team, should be a decided help. With Ronnie Blackburn hard working centre giving standout performances in all practices to date, Coach Jimmie McCormick should have no worries concerning this position.

While Cliff Melville did not turn up at last weeks work out, nevertheless Manager Howard Eakin hustled the Queen's Grads squad through stiff practice. With two of the veteran members of the team. Art Wright and Milt Cameron, showing mid season form, Manager Eakin needs only to strengthened up on his reserve forces to floor another formidable team.

The announcement that Cy James will handle the Westmount Y team this season should be the signal for much activity on the part of Johnnie Eaves' men. James, who coached Central Y teams last season should get better results with the high class material at hand this year. The call for practices will be issued
