Faint SOS Signals Spur 80-Plane Hunt For Missing Plane

LONDON — (Reuters) — A massive air armada of 80 planes droned over the grey Atlantic today after a faint radio SOS spurred the hunt for a United States Air Force transport missing with 59 aboard.

Forty planes from six countries were criss-crossing the search area by noon and another 40 were winging in from Newfoundland to join the search, one of the biggest in years.

At sea, warships, liners and tramp freighters kept watch.

Hopes for survivors quickened early today with reports of the SOS messages. The plane vanished Wednesday night on a flight back to the United States from England.

The U.S. Air Force ordered an all-out aerial search for the source of the message, heard Thursday night by at least five transatlantic airlines and the air force base at Lajes, in the Azores.

It was believed the string of SOS signals might be coming from portable transmitters on rubber life rafts carried by the missing C-118 Liftmaster of the U.S. military air transport service.

The air force estimated the signals were coming from a point approximately 150 miles north of the Azores.

The transport vanished Wednesday night on a flight from the air base at Lakenheath, England, to the Azores, en route to the United States. Aboard were 50 U.S. Air Force men returning to their Lincoln, Neb., base and the transport's crew of nine navy men.

The position from which it was estimated the SOS signals came was more than 800 miles beyond the missing plane's last reported position. But an air force spokesman said the aircraft could have lost radio contact with the ocean control tower at Shannon airport and flown on toward its destination before going down.

The SOS signals were not signed and "we don't know whether they came from the missing aircraft or not. We're going to search that part of the Atlantic so thoroughly a fly couldn't hide in it."

Seeks Halt To Trouble At Border

JERUSALEM. —(AP)— The United Nations Palestine truce chief conferred today with Israel and Jordan authorities in an effort to ease tension in the wake of a seven-hour Israeli reprisal raid which left an official death toll of 59.

A UN spokesman said truce supervisor Maj-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada "is taking measures" with authorities from both sides to clear the explosive atmosphere. The spokesman declined to specify what was planned.

Burns acted as fears rose that the Arab states might launch a combined attack against Israel to avenge the assault on Jordan's Kalkilyeh police station which touched off the border battle.

Jordan's King Hussein, who personally directed his troops in the border skirmish, has sent appeals for help to his Arab neighbors.

At UN headquarters in New York, Ambassador Abdul Monem Rifa'i said Jordan is considering seeking an early Security Council meeting on the Israeli issue. He added that if the council and big powers fail to put down "aggressive force" by Israel, Jordan will have to use similar force.

The UN casualty figures placed the Jordanian dead at 48 and the Israeli dead at 11. Israel announced 18 of her men were killed and 12 wounded.

Report British, Egyptian Progress Compromise Moves Made In Suez Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. —(AP)— Egypt and Britain were reported unofficially today to have made conciliatory moves in private talks here on the Suez Canal dispute. But France seemed on the point of breaking off the discussions.

The British, French and Egyptian foreign ministers hold their fifth private meeting today on the canal crisis with United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, president of the UN Security Council, said that 11-nation body will hold a private session on the canal controversy later today and perhaps a public session Saturday.

A usually well informed diplomat said that in the talks so far Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi has agreed Egypt would co-operate in some respects with the Suez Canal Users Association set up by the second London Suez conference last month.

The diplomat, who asked not to be identified, said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has dropped Britain's insistence on international operation of the canal and agreed to Egyptian operation provided international safeguards are set up to guarantee freedom of navigation through the waterway, necessary improvements and reasonable tolls.

Another source claiming to be familiar with the British position said they were willing for Egypt to hire the canal pilots and collect the tolls provided the users association made up the canal convoys and assigned the pilots to individual ships. Also tolls would have to be fixed in accordance with an international treaty Egypt would sign.

Of this report a British spokesman would say only, "Bits of it are wrong—but I'm not going to tell you which bits." Earlier he said details of the London conference proposals for international control of the canal—basis of the Western Big Three's position in the Suez dispute—were "not sacrosanct."

In contrast to these reports of British and Egyptian moves toward agreement, Pineau said the talks sponsored by Hammarskjöld have "not yet" made any progress. He said he is leaving for Paris Saturday afternoon.

A British spokesman denied reports that Lloyd also has booked passage home and issued this statement from the foreign minister:

Passengers 1st Concern

NEW YORK — (AP)— The captain of the Andrea Doria says it was a choice between saving his ship or his passengers when the vessel collided with the liner Stockholm.

Capt. Piero Calamai testified Thursday in a pre-trial hearing into the sinking of his ship off the Massachusetts coast.

Calamai said he was only about 20 or 30 miles from shallow water when the crash came. There, he said, he could have beached his craft or, if he sank, she could have been salvaged.

Right after the collision in the dark, Calamai said, he stopped the Doria's engines. Then he started his left engine, intending to head for shallow water. But, he added: "Immediately I felt I should stop the engines to provide for the saving of passengers."

Outside of court, an Italian line lawyer said that had the badly listing vessel got under way toward shallow water no lifeboats could have been launched, and no rescue ships would have followed her toward shoals.

"We are still engaged in exploratory discussions. They have not yet finished. I cannot yet say whether they are likely to succeed. Time, however, is short."

Fawzi refused to discuss the reported change in Egypt's position but said he thought something would be accomplished. He said he would stay at the UN "as long as is necessary."

U.S. Quells Riot Over Extension Of Base Runways

TOKYO (Reuters) — Armored cars and 800 police reinforcements were rushed to nearby Sunakawa today following riots against the extension of runways of a United States air base there.

One policeman was reported hurt when crowds of local residents led by Socialists clashed with an official team sent to survey land for the extensions.

A police spokesman said about 4,000 persons formed a "human barrier" and defied orders to disperse. Police efforts to break up the crowd touched off a wild melee of flying fists, swinging bamboo poles and stone-throwing.

Police reinforcements were called in to break up the riots, but tension remained high.

43 Dead, 200 Hurt In 48-Hour Rioting; 180 Are Arrested

HONG KONG — (Reuters) — Gurka troops, armed with machine-guns and backed by British tanks, today tramped silent, wrecked streets in this crown colony following 48 hours of savage rioting which cost 43 lives and over 200 injured.

A lone reconnaissance plane droned low over Kowloon Peninsula and the Tsun Wan area further inland where 30 persons died Thursday night in a flareup between Communist and anti-Communist Chinese workers.

Heavily guarded magistrate's court in Kowloon was jammed this morning as 80 rioters out of 180 arrested were formally charged with rioting and unlawful assembly.

The rigid curfew imposed by British authorities Thursday night was lifted briefly to allow the population to buy food. A crowd gathered briefly in a Kowloon market place, but scattered when police threw three tear gas bombs at them, according to reports.

The worst rioting in Hong Kong since the Second World War was touched off Wednesday when anti-Communist refugees from the mainland were prevented by a Chinese official from celebrating the national day of Nationalist China.

A demonstration soon turned into a riot between the refugees and the colony's Communists. In the savage street fighting a Swiss consular official and his wife were attacked in Kowloon and a bank and fire station were set on fire.

Thursday night's fighting was the worst. It started after 10 p.m. in the Tsun Wan area near the border of Communist China after British authorities imposed the curfew.

A shouting group of Nationalist supporters broke into two Communist labor union offices and started smashing and burning office equipment. Communists seized the intruders and a battle raged through the offices and into the streets.

British troops rushed to the area and took control, but not before 30 of the rioters were killed.

A spokesman today denied reports that British troops opened fire at any time during the riots or bayoneted any of the rioters.

Food prices soared in Kowloon today as black marketeers moved in to profit from the disorder. The Hong Kong stock exchange was closed and all schools will remain shut Saturday.

Russia Says Canadian Trade Hurt

LONDON. —(Reuters)— Pressure from the United States has introduced "discriminatory restrictions" which are holding back development of Soviet-Canadian trade, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia says.

Quoted by the Russian news agency Tass, an article written for the first anniversary of Soviet-Canadian trade talks charges "There are small but influential circles in Canada which see their task not in removing obstacles standing in the way of consolidating Soviet-Canadian friendship, but in piling them up artificially."

Nina Guilty But Pays Only Costs

LONDON. — (AP)— Nina Ponomareva, Soviet Olympic discus champion, was convicted today of shoplifting five cheap hats from a London department store but was given an absolute discharge on payment of three guineas costs.

The verdict was handed down by magistrate Clyde Wilson in Marlborough magistrate's court after the famous athlete made a surprise appearance to answer the charges.

She took the stand for 55 minutes and flatly denied stealing the hats. She said she bought them.

Nina's arrest Aug. 29 angered the Soviet authorities so much that they cancelled the Soviet-British track and field meet in which Nina was to be competitor at the White City Stadium.

The Russians called Nina's arrest a "dirty provocation."

Nina did not show up in court on Aug. 30 and Wilson issued a warrant for her arrest. The hefty discus thrower disappeared, presumably into the Soviet Embassy which has diplomatic immunity.

MP Moves For Bilingual Recognition

OTTAWA. —(AP)— Bona Arseneault, Liberal member of Parliament for Bonaventure, wants a constitutional amendment that would recognize English and French as the official languages of Canada.

He filed with the clerk of the Commons Thursday a resolution calling on the government to consider with the provinces such an amendment to the British North America Act.

Mr. Arseneault's proposal comes after a protest by the Ottawa branch of the Protestant Women's Federation of Canada against the use of bilingual street signs in the capital.

He described as "disconcerting stupidity" the federation's claim in a letter to Ottawa's board of control that "the official use of the French language is illegal and a violation of the constitution."

By the same reasoning, the official use of the English language would also be illegal since both English and French were placed on the same footing in the BNA Act of 1867, he said.

CBC May Change Single-Station TV Policy

OTTAWA. — (AP)— The chances are improving for the establishment of two television stations in centres where there now are only one.

The CBC has made it clear it will not object to this change in five-year government policy—with certain qualifications—and a recommendation to this effect could come from the royal commission on broadcasting.

However, no action may be expected before the royal commission report comes down, likely early in the new year.

Federal government policy now restricts all Canadian viewing areas to a single TV station except for Montreal and Ottawa, where there are English and French stations. Six major cities are reserved for the CBC, and there are 28 private broadcasters elsewhere.

As the commission neared the end of its five months of public hearings—likely to end today—CBC board Chairman A. D. Dunton said Thursday he feels the time has come to abandon the single channel policy, on certain conditions.

A major condition, the CBC chief said, should be that in any centre with two TV stations, one should be operated by the CBC. He also listed such qualifications as the second station being compelled to meet certain broadcast standards and carrying a major content of Canadian programs.

Apart from these money-absorbing factors and on the purely dollars-and-cents standpoint, the CBC chairman listed several cities in which he said he would think a second station now would be economically practicable.

He mentioned these, at a guess, as Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and "possibly" Regina. The situation in the Maritimes would have to be studied.

Mr. Dunton said some Southern Ontario areas very likely could support second stations, though there were at present no VHF (very high frequency) channels available there—the type in use in Canada.

In an interview later, he said Ottawa—now with a French and an English station—probably would be a borderline case for a third. It has not an available VHF channel.

The commission also heard Thursday from CBC general manager J. A. Oumet that the government corporation hopes to extend television coverage over about three years to another 10 per cent of the population, bringing this up to 90 per cent.

The capital cost would be $11,000,000, at the rate of some $4,300,000 a year that would take care of amortization charges. The CBC now spends about $30,000,000 a year on TV.

Mr. Oumet also expressed the hope the CBC would be able to get off to an early start in color television, not too long after it "gets off the ground" in the United States. He looked for the U.S. development some time this year.

"I don't think we can wait," he said.

Once color got rolling in the U.S., he said, Canadians would be demanding it. But from a standing start it would take the CBC six months to be ready for transmitting U.S.-produced color programs and between one and two years to produce and distribute its own programs in color.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE NEW YORK SMALL MARSH PROGRAMME

In discussing the problem of providing more ducks, for gunner and birdwatcher alike, we have mentioned various procedures designed to increase duck populations but have made the claim that the most effective measures of all is the provision of the kind of environment that suits ducks. It is doubtful that any group has enough data regarding the breeding of ducks in the Eastern Townships and their migration through them to enable the development of a comprehensive plan for the local increase of duck population, but it is certain that much useful and productive work could be undertaken now. To stimulate thinking on this question it seems well to consider in some detail recent improvements in duck management in New York State. If envy should eventually mount to the point where we do something locally, so much the better. Plans and results of the New York programme are set forth by Robert Wells in "The Conservationist" of October 1951 to January 1952 and in other published articles.

The New York authorities have been concerned not only with the establishment of new waterfowl breeding territory, to produce more ducks, but with better management and utilization of existing waterfowl populations. This involved a detailed study of the behaviour of waterfowl in New York State, including censuses taken by airplane, duck banding, regional studies of duck environments, studies of disease in ducks, and of the results of stocking experiments not too different from fish-stocking procedures. In waterfowl management one of the first aims should be to provide for the annual return to breeding areas of a supply of ducks adequate to occupy these nesting areas as fully as possible. The New York experts feel that there should be no hunting in any area until migrating ducks from other areas arrive in large numbers; they have proceeded to change the regulations in the light of these migration dates. When the season opens the local ducks are mixed in with the transients and are thus far less vulnerable to first day gunning. In our area the season opens before the transients arrive in numbers and the local breeding population, the one of greatest significance to us, the one we can manage by manipulating the environment, bears the brunt of the early hunting pressure. Wells makes the unqualified statement that there are many suitable breeding spots across the northern part of United States (and presumably New York State) without nesting ducks, their populations having been "burned off" by unwise gunning in the past. Local hunters should consider this idea and try to decide whether or not there is any long-term wisdom in putting heavy hunting pressure on the local ducks too early in the fall, when they represent almost the entire population of ducks available. The opening dates should be selected in such a manner as to protect the local breeding populations.

Hunting regulations alone can never be refined to a point where they keep up with changing hunting pressure. The New York authorities decided that the situation called for a pattern of waterfowl management areas, suitably located and capable of operating alternately as conditions dictate, as refuges or as public shooting grounds. This should prevent excessive gunning of various segments of the duck population and help to permit an adequate return of breedings birds to the nesting grounds each year. The next logical step is to create more areas suitable for nesting and available either as refuges or public shooting grounds. Such is the philosophy of the New York Small Marsh Programme. Next week we will discuss the programme in action.

COLLARED BRANT

Members of an expedition to Southampton Island, sponsored by the Canadian Wildlife Service and Cornell University, placed yellow plastic neck-bands on several hundred American Brant this summer. Information concerning the migration of these Brant is now sought. The four-inch streamers may be visible for a distance of about one mile, with binoculars. It would be appreciated if any hunters or birdwatchers, shooting or sighting such geese (their necks are black to the waterline) would send in their data in care of this column. Canada geese, with which Brant might conceivably be confused, are now passing through this area.

The next meeting will be held on October 31 at the home of Mrs. Ronald Rowland and will be a masquerade, each member to wear an original costume, for which prizes will be given.

Fat Stock Sale Prices Up

Despite a decrease of nearly 100 in the number of animals offered for sale, a sharp increase in bids resulted in an increase of over $5,000 in the gross receipts of the fat stock sale held in connection with the Sherbrooke Winter Fair and Fat Stock Show as compared with the sales in 1955.

Total receipts yesterday amounted to $48,000 while the 1955 gross was $42,800.

The average price paid per pound for steers was 36.5 cents, up four cents; for lambs, 42 cents, up 12 cents, and for hogs, 46 cents, up 16 cents.

The biggest spender at this year's sale was the T. Eaton Co. whose buyer purchased 41 steers and 40 lambs to spend over $10,000.

The grand champion steer, owned by Dr. G. R. McCall of Lachute, was sold for $1.87 a pound to Steinbergs, who paid 32 cents more a pound than was realized last year for the champion.

The reserve grand champion was sold for $1.22 a pound to the T. Eaton Co. Last year the reserve champion brought $1.02.

Both the champion Hereford and Shorthorn steers brought 58 cents a pound, one being sold to Morantz Meat Co. and the other to Aube's Meat Market, both of Montreal. The steers were owned by N. G. Bennett of Bury and Robert Nichol of Lennoxville.

Lennoxville School Official Honored

Thirty years of service as secretary-treasurer of the Lennoxville Protestant School Board were honored when W. R. Baker was guest of honor at the annual get-together banquet of the school commissioners and teachers presented with an inscribed silver cigarette box honoring his thirtieth anniversary as secretary-treasurer of the Board. The presentation was made by Dr. A. N. Langford, chairman of the school board, who recalled the valuable services rendered by Mr. Baker since he succeeded his father on the latter's death in 1926.

Mrs. Baker was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Langford. Dr. Langford acted as chairman of the evening and seated with him at the head table were Principal E. E. Denison, Mrs. R. Knapp, president of the local branch of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, W. R. Baker, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Denison, Mrs. Langford and R. Knapp. In his opening remarks, Dr. Langford expressed the Board's thanks to the teachers for the excellent work being accomplished at the school and introduced the members of the Commission. Mr. Denison then introduced the teachers, leaving the four new teachers to the last with the explanation that they would have to go through the usual initiation. The new teachers, Miss D. L. Kerr, Miss I. Baxter, Mrs. F. Berry and Miss E. Green, were then presented with corsages. Mrs. Knapp, on behalf of the teachers, thanked the Board for the get-together and gave a brief outline of the aims of the PAPT. The gathering closed with a sing-song led by G. F. Garard, a member of the school board, with Mrs. L. Peabody at the piano, while Miss Baxter led in the singing of Anna Laurie

Important Duty

Welfare Agency Co-Ordinates Relief

By GERALD McDUFF

The Sherbrooke Welfare Agency fulfills one of the most important jobs in this city that of finding relief for the poor, the sick and even the lonely.

Newest of the six agencies supported by the Community Chest drive, the Welfare Agency began about a year and a half ago when a group of citizens decided there was need of a co-ordinating centre to help the underprivileged.

Different service clubs and humanitarian organizations in the community had been supplying the donations to the poor but it was found that there was often duplication.

As Nelson Lothrop, head of the agency, put it, "One family would, for instance, receive as many as five baskets of food, each from a different organization."

To remedy the situation, a meeting of representatives of all the Protestant churches was called and later another meeting with members of various associations, present.

Two committees were formed as the nucleus of the new agency: A visiting committee and a clothing committee. Although it is only the first year of work, the committees have totalled over 400 calls to 51 families. The work is carried out by volunteers on their own time.

The visiting committee is composed of three registered nurses. They investigate needy cases, fill out a prescribed form, describing the conditions and need of the individuals.

In one case history, the nurses found eight people, belonging to two families, living in a two-room shack. Five of these were children, ranging from babies to a twelve-year-old girl who had never been to school.

Although the parents professed to be church members, none of the children had been baptized and two were illegitimate.

As a first step, the workers contacted the Church and had the children baptized. The eldest child was sent to school, provided with clothing and medical care. Food was brought in.

But more than one organization helped in this particular case, thanks to the agency. For example, the I. O. D. E. supplied a layette and a food box; the city, a pile of wood, the Church cared for the spiritual needs and clothing was given from the agency clothing depot.

The clothing committee includes about six ladies who willingly volunteer their time as well as their knitting and sewing ability to provide apparel.

Clothes are donated to the agency and stored in the special depot. Mr. Lothrop notes that the agency is always happy to receive clothing donations provided, of course, they are clean and useable.

Supplying material relief is not the only work of the agency. There are broken homes to be reconciled, prisoners to be rehabilitated and the lonely to be comforted.

Another case, the agency was informed of was an elderly lady, living alone in a third story flat on Sherbrooke's main thoroughfare. She was crippled and had not been out of the house in four years.

She was placed under a doctor's care and provided with the necessary drugs, all the expenses being paid by the agency. But the case has not ended there. The agency has arranged for her to do some light sewing work for

We're Anti-Liberace

Men, let's face it. Even when he goes to Europe, you just can't escape that man.

That man, of course, is Liberace, whose prattling and jiggling is affecting the British fair sex just about the same way as it did their American and Canadian counterparts.

It's enough to make a man shudder. Just when we thought we were going to have a holiday from the Liberace technique and the drivel that accompanies it, we discover that the newspapers are full of his latest British conquests.

From the days of the caveman, the male has built his whole approach to successful attraction of the opposite sex on the basis of virility. From the time they are six or seven years old, young lads begin to flex their muscles and throw back their shoulders to the supposed delight of awed young ladies in the neighborhood.

In their teens, our young men anxiously feel their cheeks for some sign of stubble that will signal the crossing of some vague threshold of manhood. They eagerly check weight and height, vying intensely for the prestige that accompanies size and strength.

Throughout their school-days, they are never allowed to forget the importance of building the body beautiful. Exercise, exercise and more exercise to the accompaniment of cheers from the sidelines and approbation of parents.

Is it all in vain? Are we to discover that the fair sex shuns brawn in favor of a snickering, simpering piano player, complete with wave set, manicured nails and idiotic candelabra, who intentionally gives the impression that he couldn't tie his shoelace without puffing?

There is just no denying that hordes of women seem to thrive on this piano-tinkling sweetheart. They support and defend him with all the ardour of an Elvis Presley follower. And they do it in the face of ill-hidden revulsion from about 99 per cent of the males they will ever meet.

Does this call for revised thinking? Perhaps it's like that theory that women dress, not to impress men, but to compete with and be admired by other women. It's a revolutionary thought that men have been building bigger and better bodies simply to win admiration from each other.

Certainly, there's a significant section of the female population that hasn't been impressed.

Polio Shots For Adults

As the 1956 polio season draws to an end, it becomes increasingly evident that the Salk vaccine has had amazing success.

Yet the job is far from finished.

For one thing, there are still children who have not received the minimum amount of vaccine.

In hundreds of communities where the needs of youngsters have been met, it's time for others to line up for shots.

The misconception that adults are immune to polio and do not need vaccine is unfortunately widespread.

Actually, authorities warn that polio rates have increased perceptibly in the 25-to-35 age bracket over the last 10 years.

This is an important reason why everyone in the country should take shots as soon as enough vaccine is available.

Certainly the days of critical vaccine shortages are over. Today the goal is to eliminate the complacency of adults and parents who neglect to provide protection for both themselves and their children.

This And That...

Since apparently there is no end to reprisals for reprisals... the Israel-Jordan border incidents appear extremely unlikely to end in the near future. A few more reprisals and neither side will be able to remember what started the chain in the first place.

With apologies to Canada's Major-General Burns, who seems to be doing everything physically possible to halt the Israel-Jordan border-crossing incidents, this seems to be a case in which "Burns fiddles while Israel and Jordan roam."

Light On A 'Hidden Problem'

(Toronto Telegram)

One of the baffling problems of our society is the retarded child. The causes of retardation are so varied and complex that they are bewildering to parents. Because of mistaken notions about this condition many parents deny themselves aid which could contribute considerably to the easing of their burden. Perhaps more than anything else, such parents need to come together to draw strength from each other in their desire to provide the best care for their children. Isolation only increases the burden.

It is heartening, therefore, that parents, delegates and friends from the ten Canadian provinces met last week in Toronto to form the Canadian Association for Retarded Children. The new organization coordinates the activity of 70 local groups which have recently sprung up across the country. It has adopted a program of education and rehabilitation, research, legislation and home care, which gives promise of bringing the "hidden problem" into the open and stripping it of much medieval thinking that has clung to it in the past.

The immensity of the problem can be seen in the fact that there are an estimated 480,000 retarded persons in Canada. Each of these must be measured in terms of the concern he causes to the family involved and the care that is individually administered. Retardation is not always present in the same degree. It requires a special kind of ministry and compassion.

The meeting in Toronto brought together people of various races and creeds. This alone is a sign of the organization's fundamental and universal appeal. In their common brotherhood, those who lead and participate in the new association will find renewed hope that the problem will be eventually understood and progress made toward its solution.

COMMUNIST CRITICISM

(Windsor Star)

Suppression of criticism is a mark of dictatorship. The reason is apparent. A dictatorship cannot long exist if people have freedom to exercise fully their scope of criticism. Because a dictatorship is contradictory to the desire for freedom inherent in humanity. Thus the limited freedom to criticize now existing in both Russia and China has some significance. This is so even if the criticism seems largely self-criticism; that is, criticism from within the Communist ranks rather than from the public at large. Once any criticism is permitted it is not so easy to set boundaries to it.

The Communist Party in Russia has indulged in an orgy of criticism of Stalinist policies. Though Stalin personally is made to bear the brunt of it, by implication at least the criticism extends to all who were his colleagues or flunkies. In the Western world criticism is regarded as healthy. It is believed essential to good government, to forward progress. Undoubtedly lack of criticism has been an impediment in all dictatorships, because weaknesses could not be exposed.

It poses a dilemma for Communist leaders. Can they keep their grip on their people if they allow criticism of themselves full scope? That is why the criticism permitted is thus far of a limited variety.

JACOBY On Bridge

SOUTH LIMITS SPADE LOSSES

South refused the first club trick today, but saw no reason to refuse a second. His play took a little thought.

South needs three spade tricks to assure the contract, and he doesn't know which opponent has the ace or whether the suit will break 3-3 or 4-2. How should he play the spades in order to have the best chance to develop three tricks? South's best chance is to lead toward the two honors. In this case, South leads a low spade and dummy wins with the queen.

South now gets to his hand with a diamond and leads his remaining small spade. West is obliged to play the ace, capturing only small cards. This is exactly what South has been hoping for.

West takes his clubs, but South is out of danger. He can get a second spade trick with the king and a third with dummy's jack.

If West had not been obliged to play the ace of spades on the second round of that suit, dummy would then win with the jack. Then South could still play for a 3-3 break in the suit. He would thus win three spade tricks if West had the doubleton ace or if the suit were 3-3.

It would do no good to return a

ENOUGH ENCORES

(Wall Street Journal)

It was in a remote section of the country that a widower married a very religious woman who was also an extremely thrifty housewife. She was never one to waste food, and therefore the largest percentage of her meals consisted of leftovers. One day she baked a large ham, and for days after that her husband ate it three times a day—minced, deviled, in sandwiches and with eggs. At the end of the week, as he started to eat some ham hash, his wife asked:

"But dear, aren't you going to say grace before the meal?"
"I will, sweetheart," he said, "if you can name one thing on this table that hasn't been blessed five times already."

CLUMSY ESPIONAGE

(Peterborough Examiner)

The Russians have not the gumption to make a clear distinction between spies and foreign service officers; they seem to think that a spy and a diplomat are the same thing. This is certainly not very clever of them, and has diminished the value of their embassies very sharply; they need diplomats, like every other country, and having made all their diplomats suspect, they will have to work hard and long to secure them any prestige or privilege.

How successful Russian spying is we cannot, of course, tell. But if it is all managed in this clumsy way it commands no respect, and need not be feared.

What we may well fear—if we have to be afraid of something—is the change in the scientific attitude within Russia since the death of Stalin. Soviet scientists now enjoy full freedom to work as they please—the first requisite for really good work. And the present regime has repeatedly said that it will do everything that national encouragement can do to make Russian science the most advanced in the world.

What are we doing to counter that?

SELECTING SENATORS

(Lethbridge Herald)

We suggest that, instead of filling any Senate vacancies now, Mr. St. Laurent consider making an undertaking that if his government is returned to power in the 1957 election he will call a federal-provincial conference as soon as possible thereafter to devise a new method of selecting senators. Such an undertaking would relieve the pressure which must presently be on the prime minister. It would encourage a thorough airing of the Senate problem and its possible solutions during the election campaign. And it would, we hope, result in a really useful measure of Senate reform—perhaps by changing it into an elected body of the sort previously discussed in these columns.

Special Service At Anniversary Of Sutton Church

SUTTON — N. E. Peveril, of Sherbrooke, was guest speaker at the anniversary services held in Olivet Baptist Church. He was assisted by Mrs. Peveril, who sang a solo.

Mr. Peveril expressed his belief that the strength and weakness of the church was within itself, and that its power and influence rested mainly upon the actions of its members and of their standards.

He felt that one main trouble in Canada is the fact that since we are citizens of a so-called Christian country, we feel that we are all "born Christians" without need for any deeper belief in the church and its cause. As a result, we had the tendency to take our Christianity for granted, so many of us remain Christians in name only.

Miss Lucie Mesnard, regional director of the Red Cross, visited the Red Cross room, where she was greeted by members and guests, and shown an impressive display of finished articles. It was her first visit to Sutton, and judging by her complimentary comments regarding the quality and quantity of the work, she found the achievements of the Sutton women most satisfactory.

The regional director gave an instructing talk concerning the various forms of aid within the scope of the Red Cross and also mentioned projects the organization planned for the future.

Miss Mesnard pointed out that in 1885, Major-General C. S. Ryerson had first unfurled the Red Cross flag in Canada. From small beginnings, the work had grown to its present high stature and still should continue to expand.

At the close of the visitor's remarks, she was thanked by Mrs. Arnold Thompson. Tea was then served by the hostesses. Later, meeting with the executive, Miss Mesnard asked and answered many questions relative to the work of the branch.

LIONS CLUB

This week, the Lions Club is making a door to door visitation to give residents the privilege of contributing aid for the National Institute for the Blind. Many will wish to share in this project to help the unfortunate sightless. The Lions wish to emphasize, too, that all collections will be forwarded to the Institute, no part being taken out towards coverage of expenses of the collectors.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hough were "at home" to many of their friends on Saturday evening in St. Paul's Church Hall, McManamy Blvd., the occasion being their 25th wedding anniversary.

The head table, covered with a cut work cloth was centered with a three-tier wedding cake tastefully decorated and white tapers in silver holders and red and white carnations in crystal vases completed the attractive arrangement. Mrs. Reginald Farmer and Mrs. Irvin Richards convened the enjoyable supper.

The guests of honor were the recipients of many gifts of silver, crystal and tableware as well as numerous cards. A plant of bronze chrysanthemums was also sent by Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcock.

In expressing their appreciation, Mr. and Mrs. Hough paid tribute to the wonderful friends they had made since coming to Canada seven and a half years ago, friends who had made them feel they really belonged here.

Homemaking

Here is a time-saving tip for the lunch-maker of the family. Set aside a "lunch drawer" in your kitchen, preferably near the bread box, and keep it supplied with all the extras needed to prepare school lunches — waxed paper, paper napkins, plastic containers and polythene bags. You will be amazed at how easy this daily chore becomes with everything so handy.

Suits have more pattern this year than last. That's due, of course, to the subdued trend in accessories—now, with plain tie and shirt, a man can wear a glen plaid suit, say, without any worries.

Need Stressed For More Workers In Red Cross Group

The Lennoxville Branch of Canadian Red Cross Society, whose workroom is located above Montgomery's Store on Queen St., is requesting more workers to complete the allotment on hand. The workroom is open Mondays and Wednesdays from 2 to 4 p. m. and work may be done there or taken home.

One shipment consisting of 180 sewn and knitted articles, mostly children's clothing, was sent in the summer and another of 58 articles, sweaters and other knitted goods was sent in September.

Miss Lucie Menard, Field Director of the Quebec Provincial Division, was guest speaker at a recent meeting held in the Women's Institute room when members were present from Bury, Scotstown, Cookshire and other points. She discussed the various aspects of Red Cross work in peacetime and stressed the need for more sewers and knitters. The chief project at present, she said is providing clothing for 5,000 children in Gaza. Suitable patterns for garments have been procured and the ready-cut garments can be obtained at local branch workrooms.

One of the reasons why "going steady" isn't a good idea for teen-agers is that there are usually hurt feelings on the part of one or the other when a couple "breaks up."

When teen-agers are free to date anyone they choose, dating is much less complicated.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead, —active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order, —helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

I'm mighty pleased with me!

"You know . . . I'm one of those fellows who confidently stuffs his pay in his pocket . . . only to find that the money magically got itself spent —on what? I never knew.

Then it happened . . .

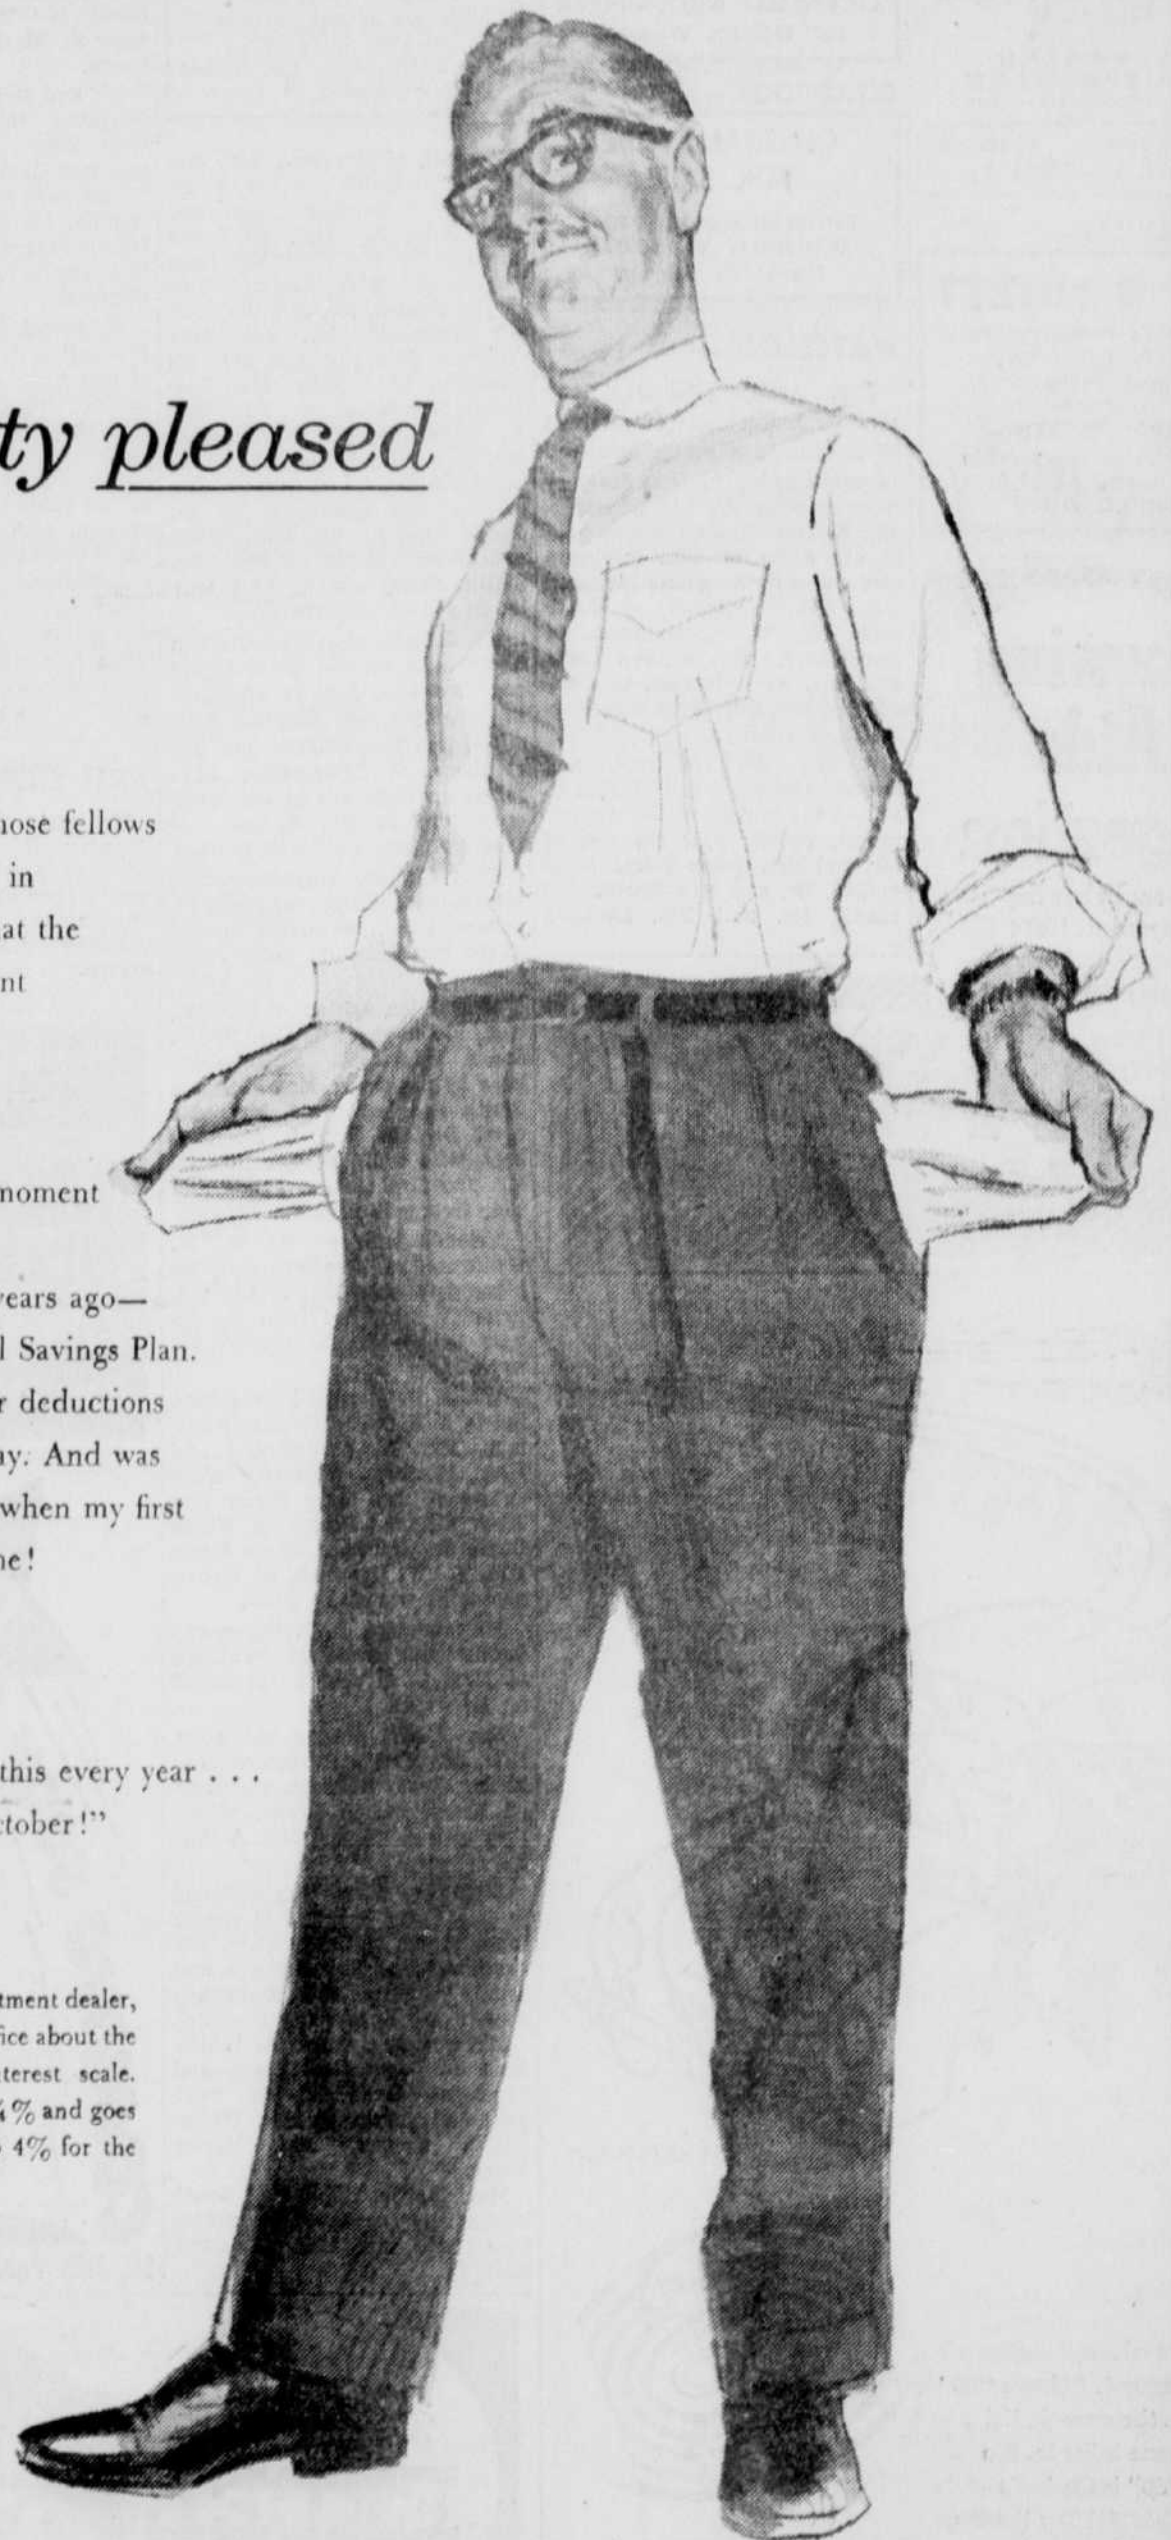

In what I considered a weak moment I signed up for a couple of Canada Savings Bonds a few years ago—through my company's Payroll Savings Plan. I really didn't miss the regular deductions—not after the first one anyway. And was I a surprised and happy man when my first paid up bonds were handed me! Money I'd saved!*

I'm mighty proud of me!

Naturally, I've kept on doing this every year . . . and I'm doing it again this October!"

Red Wings Rally To Down Black Hawks 3-1 While Leafs And Bruins Battle To 4-4 Tie; Rangers At Chicago Tonight

The National Hockey League got started on another 70-game schedule Thursday night and there was no inkling of any surprises for the 1956-57 campaign.

Detroit Red Wings, expected to be among the top three when things wind up next spring, spotted an early goal to Chicago Black Hawks and rallied in the last two periods to take a 3-1 decision. Such power was not surprising. The Wings have had it for years.

In Boston, Toronto Maple Leafs drove from behind four times before they ended with a 4-4 tie against the Bruins. Neither team showed exceptional play.

The experts won't get a chance to appraise all six clubs for another two weeks or so. But the way it stands now Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, should take first spot. The Wings and New York Rangers probably will battle for second place with the other clubs scrambling for what positions are left.

Detroit grabbed its victory on goals by Norm Ullman, Metro Prystai and Ted Lindsay. The best Hawks could do was a goal by Hank Ciesla at 2:29 of the first period while Lindsay was in the penalty box.

The three Wing goals were scored on close-in shots. Ullman took a pass from right winger Gordie Howe in the second period to beat netminder Al Rollins easily. Prystai scored on Alex Delvecchio's goalmouth pass while Chicago's Jack McIntyre was sitting out a minor penalty. Hawks put on the pressure until Lindsay deflected them with a goal on Howe's pass at 15:12 of the final period.

Referee Frank Udvari had a quiet night. He called only five minor penalties, three to Hawks. Attendance was 10,731.

A crowd of 10,512 was on hand at Boston to see the new edition of the Bruins. Boston scorers were Allan Stanley, Don McKenney, Gerry Toppazzini and Johnny Peirson. Tod Sloan led Leafs with two goals. Left winger Sid Smith and rookie Gary Aldcorn got singles.

It was a good evening for Leaf defenceman Jim Thomson. He was named Toronto team captain just before the engagement and turned in a great game. Although he didn't score a goal, Thomson set up Smith for the tying goal at 8:46 of the third period.

Smith was Leaf captain last year but resigned after he slipped from a 33-goal man two years ago to a mere four last season.

One game is scheduled tonight. Rangers meet Hawks at Chicago. The Bruins are at Montreal Canadiens Saturday, and Wings meet Leafs at Toronto. On Sunday it's Canadiens at Boston, Toronto at Chicago and Rangers at Detroit.

Bishop's University Opens Regular Schedule Tomorrow With Macdonald; Gunning For Their 3rd Straight Title

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 the Bishop's University Gaits will open the 1956-57 Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference "B" Section football season in a home game on the University gridiron against the Macdonald College Aggies.

The Bishop's squad will be seeking to extend their unbeaten streak to 14 games in the opener as well as starting the quest for their third consecutive championship of the league. In the past two years the Purple and White twelve have run roughshod over all opposition in winning successive titles.

Last year against the Macdonald Aggies, the local club won the first game with ease, triumphing 13-1. In the return tilt however, the Gaits were forced to come from behind in the dying minutes to eke an 11-7 victory. It was one of the closest calls for the Bishop's crew all season.

Bishop's will be at full strength with one exception. Brad Mitchell, the first-string, 200 lb. tackle will be forced to miss the game because of a bruised lung sustained two weeks ago. Mitchell expects to be ready for the following week's game. In all other departments coach Gordon "Beef" Ross has his men in top shape. Rookie Jim Murdoch is nursing a charley-horse but expects to be ready at game time Saturday.

Trenholm Takes Top Spot In Richmond Darts

The once-under-rated Trenholm Dart team have taken over first place in the Richmond zone by winning over Legion 24-16 in a game played in the Trenholm club in Melbourne.

Ray Lampron's crew finally broke the Legion win-streak after the former went through last year without a single loss. Legion now holds down second place with the other three clubs. Rovers did the same over RDC for their first win of the young season, 24-16.

Len Knowles teamed with Harvey Brock for a five-round win to lead their team to victory. Two of their teams won four out of five — Fred Mastine with Russ Stevens and Bill Brock with J. P. Langlois. Effie Lampron and Bert Lockwood came through for a three-round win. For the Legion, there were two four-round winners. Earl Coppings with Ted Nixon and Eddie Campbellton with Jim Neckie. Bert Deane teamed with Percy Frazer, losing five straight.

Best RDC could do was four rounds won by two teamsters — Fred Roberts and Real Provencal with Ray Lancaster and Roger Champagne. The Pariseau brothers lost four rounds while Selah Burroughs and Bernie Labree lost five.

RCMP Musical Ride Main Feature Of Kiwanis Horse Show; Western Classes Hold Spotlight; Ten Classes Tonight

Gaily decked out in a sterling silver ensemble Shiny Boy, a cream gelding owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bowen of East Corinth, Vt., walked off with the honors in the Open Parade Class last night in the second evening of the Kiwanis Horse Show at the local Arena.

Shiny Boy was put through his paces by George King and gave the meagre crowd of fans a dazzling performance. It was one of the better classes of the evening with ten horses competing for top money.

Mrs. Hall-Holland, judge for the show, put the contestants through their paces and the western exhibitors gave a real show. White Eagle, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. Hodge, edged out Miss Nancy Nicol and her Palomino, Mantea, for second place while Leo Dore and his Golden Prince finished fourth with the final ribbon going to the Cote des Neiges' entry, Reve d'Or.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police staged their famous Musical Ride and was greeted with applause at every turn. The Mounties put their horses through the various drills in perfect precision and completed it with a charge the full length of the Arena. They will put on their Ride again tonight and finish up tomorrow evening.

The Bonnie Brook Farm entry of Kalamara Count of Me, ridden by Andy Lacelles, was tops in the saddle class, 15-2 and under, and walked off with the honors in easy fashion. George Bishop, owner of All copped second with J. R. Desaulniers' Dolly Grey taking third and Mrs. Loveland's Jill finishing fourth.

In the Hunter classes the honors were divided with the Mont Gabriel Club's entry of Blue Fern with Miss Lois McCann up copped the Ladies' Working Hunter with J. A. Desfosses' Conquistador walking off with the Light-weight class.

The Knock-down-and-out was won by Pierre Perras on Little Mum while he also rode Forest Echo to second place to make a clean sweep of the event. In the Ladies' Hunter two went over the course on their first trip

Trois Rivières Braves Make Final Appearance Here Sunday Afternoon; Seeking Their 6th Consecutive Win

Trois Rivières Braves will be making their final appearance of the season here Sunday afternoon in a regular fixture of the Q. R. F. U. The tilt will take place at the Park Avenue Stadium and is slated to commence at 2:00.

The Braves possess one of the strongest teams ever to take part in the Eastern Section and will be gunning for their sixth consecutive victory of the current season. They have registered 132 points while holding the opposition to 14.

On their last appearance at the local ball park the Braves were held to a 13-7 score their lowest of the season. Since then they stopped the Athletics 35-1 on their home grounds and then belted Quebec 28-6, 30-0, 26-0.

Playing Coach Eddie McLeod, who holds down the quarterback position, has assembled a very strong aggregation to represent Trois Rivières. Several of his members have performed in circles.

Des Finlay last year turned out with the Montreal Alouettes along with Danny Johnson while Jimmy Chambers, the fleet-footed half with the Braves, was a member of the Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial League for two seasons.

Coach McLeod is recognized as one of the better placement

Quarterback Shuffle On Again In Big Four

The quarterback shuffle, the Big Four football union's most popular play this season, may be back in full operation again tomorrow.

Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats have used a total of seven starting signal-callers in exhibition and league games this year. They seem to have things set now but Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders may take up the slack.

Als' coach Peahead Walker is faced with the problem of replacing Sam Etchevery, whose bruised knee may force him out after 69 straight games. Walker will use Bruce Coulter, a competent Canadian, if The Rifle can't go against Argos in Toronto Saturday.

Ottawa also has quarterback trouble. Coach Frank Clair may have to fall back on Chuck Harding, used mainly on defence this season, when Riders meet Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Saturday, because first-string Hal Ledyard is on the limp.

In the Western Interprovincial Football Union Saturday, the two teams tied for first place, Edmonton Eskimos and Saskatchewan Roughriders, clash at Regina.

In other weekend games, the Winnipeg Blue Bombers are points behind the league leaders, travel to Vancouver Saturday and visit Edmonton Monday. The fourth-place B. C. Lions, after meeting Winnipeg Saturday, travel to Calgary to meet the Stampeders Monday. The Lions need victories to keep their playoff hopes alive.

Dick Irvin Takes Over Position With NHL, Named Goodwill Ambassador; To Boost Hockey In General For Loop

MONTREAL — Dick Irvin, veteran hockey coach who retired two weeks ago because of ill health, has been appointed by the National Hockey League as a goodwill ambassador.

Irvin, now 64, will have something of a roving commission. It will be his job to boost hockey in general and the NHL in particular. Dependent upon his future health, Irvin will likely make public speeches, appear on television and radio and conduct schools for coaches throughout Canada.

Irvin's health was not good during his last season with Canadiens, particularly during the playoffs in the spring of 1955. His health improved and he took over the Hawks last season. He had to delay his appearance at the Hawks' training camp this year and remained with his players for only a week.

Irvin said he feels fine some days now and on others not so well. He said he had to give up coaching the Hawks because he wasn't able to give 100 per cent to the work because of his health.
