ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

CANADIAN.—Col. Gungy was a member of Parliament, but never was in the Provincial Administration.

C. J. C.—There are several potteries in the Dominion. They are of common ware, such as jugs and preserve jars, &c. One is in Cornwall.

CANADIAN.—The prize for the finest wheat at the World's Fair, in 1862, was awarded Mr. Macdonald, of the Talbot District; no record of its weight.

COOK.—Ox heads are esteemed in Europe, for soups and stews; a head in London, England, is worth a dollar or more. In Germany it is looked upon as a very choice part of the animal.

HAR.—The author of the "Cottagers of Glenburnie," Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, was born at Belfast, July 25th, 1758, and died at Harrowgate July 23rd, 1816, without having changed her maiden name.

CULTIVATOR.—Where are the best farms in the Dominion to be found? There are good farmers in all the Provinces, but the larger number of well-cultivated farms near each other, are in the London District, Ontario.

INQUIRY.—Who was Rosa Matilda, the well-known novelist? She was a Miss Lane; her father was a printer, and proprietor of the Minerva Press. She was the wife of Mr. Burns, the proprietor of the London Morning Post newspaper.

HEARER.—We cannot undertake a criticism of the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. We think that his success as a preacher, and his difference from others of the same sect in the United States, is, that he boldly tells the truth without any apology to his audience or any care for their opinions.

ORANGE.—Col. John Bailey Turner died in Ottawa City about three years since. He was an Englishman, the son of a clergyman in Devonshire. He was editor of the Advertiser newspaper in this city 24 years ago, and was District Grand Master of the Orangemen. He edited the Orange Lily in Ottawa.

251 ST. JAMES STREET, Montreal, Sept. 1st, 1871.

TO THE LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OF MONTREAL.

The undersigned, impressed with the want in this City of a pleasant Refreshment Room, where no liquors are sold, and where palatable meals at reasonable rates may be had, has fitted up, at the above address, two Oyster and Chop Dining Rooms, and opened the same on Wednesday, 6th inst. The rooms are neatly furnished and front immediately on St. James street, the promenade of the City. Polite attention will be given all comers, especially Ladies.

As the undersigned is the largest importer and packer of Oysters in the Dominion, receiving fresh supplies daily, the quality of the Oysters can be particularly recommended. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

JOHN B. BUSS.

TERRAPIN.—A splendid supply of fresh shell oysters just received. A good assortment of game always on hand, and cooked to order at the shortest notice. Luncheon daily from 12 to 3.—JOSEPH CARLISLE. 210

The age of railroads and the telegraph give rise to fast living, and increases the desire for making rapid fortunes,—some wishing to outstrip, and others to be at least equal to their neighbors. In order to keep up with this eager and unequal contest, the brain is taxed to its utmost power, while humanity is rendered an easy prey to disease. The Heart, Liver, Stomach, Lungs, or Nervous System becomes affected, and sickness, in the form of Heart Disease, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Consumption, Paralysis or Mania, is the result. The use of FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES will enable the mind to sustain a greater strain unretarded by conflicting thoughts and unweary by continued study. It imparts power of concentration. What before seemed difficult of solution becomes comparatively easy, and the body is physically stronger under its use.

Water-power and Premises with Sixty (60) Horse-power Tyler Wheel, Buildings and Sheds; also Saw Mill adapted for Custom work.

These premises were formerly occupied as a Stove Foundry, and are well adapted for the Foundry Business, having a good Moulding Shop, Mounting Shop, and Pattern Sheds, or they are advantageously situated for an Agricultural Implement Manufactory, or for the manufacture of Sashes and Blinds, in connection with Planing Machines for dressing lumber. The facilities for getting lumber brought to these premises cannot be better, as they are situated on the main road, with direct water communication with all the large lumbering districts on the Ottawa, and lower districts on the St. Maurice. As nearly all the lumber from these districts pass through the Chambly Canal to the markets of the United States, the lumber could be brought to the door. There is a large and thickly populated surrounding country to supply with building material, which is compelled to draw its supplies from a great distance, at a great expense. Enterprise of this kind cannot but do a thriving and paying business. The property will be leased on liberal terms, the object of the proprietor being to get business started. PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, on account of the low state of the water in the Aqueduct, the Water of all the Fountains in the Public Squares will be stopped until further order; and as there is strong reason to apprehend that a considerable quantity of water is daily lost through the care's way in which the water is used in many tenements, Water Tenants are hereby notified that any person who shall misuse, or unnecessarily waste the water, shall be prosecuted in pursuance of the By-Law in such case made and provided.
Water Tenants are further notified that they must keep the distribution pipes within their premises in good repairs, and protected from the frost at their own expense; and that they shall be held liable for all damage which may result from their failure to do so.

Mr. Robert Stuart, Q.C., and an advocate of Scotland, has been appointed Chief Justice of the northwest Provinces of India.
Mr. Lamot's steam yacht Diana was birthed in King William's dock on Sunday afternoon on her arrival from the Arctic regions, where she has been on an cruising expedition. She brings about 1100 seals and one bear. All the crew are well.
The screw steamer Arctic arrived at Dundee from the whale fishing on Saturday with 37 fish, which are calculated to yield 260 tons of oil. This is said to be the earliest and largest cargo that was brought by Dundee from the Arctic regions.

The Right Hon. Robert Lowe, Chancellor of the Exchequer, proceeded to Ardriahg per steamer Iona, on Saturday. He was accompanied by Mr. John Pender, of Minard Castle, Lochfyne, with whom he proceeds on a yachting cruise round the West Highlands.
In reference to Lockhart's attempt to make out an irreproachable pedigree for Sir Walter Scott, Sydney Smith said: "When Lady Candowne asked me about my grandfather, I told her he disappeared about the time of the Assizes, and we asked no questions."

The Duke and Duchess of Argyll, with two of the junior members of the family, have gone to Machrioch House, Southend, their shooting quarters. The visit of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise to Kintyre has been postponed until the 26th inst.
Within the last few years in some parts of Glasgow there were nearly 1000 living upon an acre of land. There is only one place in the British Empire that exceeds Glasgow in density of population, and that is Liverpool, the bad sanitary reputation of which is well-known.

The Rev. Mr. Dunlop, of Dumfries, would never allow any of his congregation to sleep in church, if his eye caught them. One day he suddenly stopped his sermon, and said, "I doot some o' ye hae taen over mony whey-porridge the day; sit up, or I'll name ye out."
For the accommodation of the traffic in the Currie and Balerno district of Middlethian, the Caledonian Railway Company are constructing a new loop-line from Slatford to Mid-Caldor. The line is expected to be opened in less than a year from this time. The total cost is estimated at £42,000.

From a return just issued, showing the consumption of home-made spirits in Scotland, for the half year ending the 30th June last, it appears that a total of 2,496,601 gallons were consumed in Scotland for the half year, or fully three-quarters of a gallon per head for every member of the population.

Over the whole of Scotland it is probable the new crop of wheat must be 25 per cent short of an average. In the Lothians the barley crop is large, and the quality very good; but in the north of Scotland this crop is inferior to last year's. Oats are below an average crop. Reports about potatoes are very conflicting.
We understand that in addition to a subscription of £50 to the "Craig, Jex-Blake Expense Fund," Sir Titus Salt forwarded £50 to the committee for securing a medical education for women in Edinburgh, to form the nucleus of a fund to meet all expenses that may be incurred in making complete arrangements for the desired object.

A Parliamentary paper, just issued, shows that 193 petitions, with a total of 48,572 signatures, have been presented from Scotland, craving for an alteration of law with regard to the nomination of parish ministers in Scotland. The last petition which was presented by Mr. Miller from the inhabitants of Edinburgh, contained 2,022 signatures.
At the annual meeting of the Clyde Trust on the 5th inst., Bailie Bain explained that the ordinary expenditure during the year had amounted to £133,883 and that the surplus revenue of fully £30,000 had been applied to the construction of new works. He further stated that since the establishment of the Trust, more than a century ago, the sum of £5,316,121 had been expended on the improvement of the river and harbor. By this expenditure Glasgow had been raised from a fishing village to be one of the foremost commercial cities of the world.

Amongst the extraordinary events of the week before last has been the preaching in the Scotch Presbyterian Church of Inverary, Scotland, of the Archbishop of York and the Bishop of Winchester. The service was in the usual form of the Church of Scotland, the Archbishop merely using the English introductory prayers. They preached in their ordinary walking dresses, without robes. The Archbishop of York attempted to make an extempore prayer, but not being used to it, he was obliged to refer to some notes he had made to help him out. The prelates were on a visit to Mr. Elliot, M.P., of that place.

Volume III. No. 235

Friday, October 6, 1871.

THE six o'clock STAR is delivered from the office of publication by careful carriers. Terms, $3 per annum—in advance.

WITHIN the past twenty-four hours we have received two letters, signed "A Friend," containing information, the import of which, at least, we deem it our duty to make public. Our correspondent assures us that there is something very like a conspiracy on foot in certain quarters against the article complained of by Mr. NOLAN DELISLE. We have laid the matter in the hands of competent counsel, and in the meantime satisfy ourselves by announcing that we have means of knowing what goes on behind the scenes. When the time comes for the withdrawal of the veil, we promise the public such a picture of official infamy as will cause many to query "Are we on British soil?"

An easy-going office—The Trinity House; where they affect neither double nor single entry. Mr. THOMAS RIMMER says:

"He had occasion to ask Mr. David not long ago, with a view to obtain some information, if he could ascertain from the books of the Trinity House the name of a pilot who had taken a vessel down the previous year. The vessel had gone out in the usual manner, but there was no record of it in the Trinity House."

AND now it is a Fenian Raid on Manitoba that gives the telegraph operators work. If the young Province is not well supplied with steam fire-engines, we would suggest that no time be lost in securing a few of the most portable and powerful known. Fenian raids are "played out," and the wretched remnants of former absurdities will be best got rid of by a judicious administration of the cold water cure.

WE regret to read in the New York daily Witness that "already a considerable sum has been sunk in the New York Daily Witness, and even in the third month, when the income has been much better than on previous months, the loss, notwithstanding all expenses are on the barest possible scale, has been about $500 a week, a deficit which should be considerably increased by additional heavy expenditures for the use of a fast press and other facilities." Let us hope the end of the next quarter will show a more hopeful state of affairs.

IF the Northern Colonization Railway people expect the taxpayers of Montreal to vote them a subsidy, there will have to be less hole-and-corner work and more light. Yesterday a closed-door convocation of the Corporation and members of the company took place. The business transacted is given out as being "important,"—which is quite probable, considering that a MILLION DOLLARS are at stake,—but we say the people have a right to know what the business was. If it was good news that the directors communicated to the controllers of the people's money, then surely it could no harm to let the people join in the rejoicing. If the directors have a doleful story to relate, then we submit that criminal culpability will rest somewhere if a veil is kept before the eyes of the taxpayers. This proposed railway is a public work, but from its very inception a questionable secrecy and desire for privacy has characterized the doings of its promoters. Notwithstanding the long time it has been talked about, the people looked to for a MILLION DOLLARS know literally nothing definite of the scheme, and we are of an opinion that the directors and manipulators are not in a position to enlighten them. Presently the taxpayers will be asked to vote for a heavy increase of taxation. For what? "Oh," the directors and manipulating members of the Corporation will say, "it's all right; we've held meetings and conferred together, and made everything square. You just vote the money; we'll attend to the spending of it." Once upon a time this style of thing might have been possible, but people are wide-awake to-day. The events now transpiring in New York have not been without good effect upon the lookers-on in other countries. Everything connected with schemes like that discussed in the dark yesterday must be open and above-board. Suspicion always attaches to hole-and-corner work. Once more then—LET US HAVE LIGHT!

WE have already noticed the ridiculous manner in which that most important subject, the navigation of the St. Lawrence below this city, is treated by the Harbor Commissioners and the Trinity House. We presume we are not far wrong when we say that the latter body is a useful one—to the employees and nobody else. Our columns have shown the number of vessels which have got aground below this city during this season; to any other body but our Trinity House this would seem a matter worthy of attention. That venerable corps of ancient gentlemen think otherwise. We should have imagined that the cause of the grounding of these vessels would have been made public. It is true that an investigation of the series of blunders would force a smile even upon the Liverpool shipowner. He would ask himself if Montreal really formed part of the British possessions; he might ask himself what kind of Government it was that permitted such a state of things. In justice to the Hon. Mr. MITCHELL, we may state that we believe he is desirous of cleaning the Augean stable.

Until very lately the Trinity House would not admit that there was a twenty feet channel; it would scarcely admit that it was improved. Vessels grounded, the copper was scratched off the bottom, because the channel was not followed. To complaints on that head, "the channel is not finished," was the reply. In spite of the Trinity House—perhaps because it was averse to it—Capt. ARMSTRONG was sent for last year. Since then the channel is used, but as our readers know, vessels do ground because the channel is not thoroughly known. The Harbor Commissioners wish to prevent delays to shipping, and desire to have the channel put into such a state that no excuse for grounding shall be allowed. The Trinity House steps in and says "You shall not interfere with our preserves."

Notwithstanding all the officious nonsense which filled certain of our contemporaries two years ago, the Trinity House—upwards of five years after the completion of the channel—declared, on the 14th of August last, "that the improved channel is properly buoyed, and to the entire satisfaction of the Pilots who use it." If this be true, then does the Trinity House acknowledge itself the most negligent and the most incompetent body which exists in the Dominion; and we must protest against the waste of public monies annually voted for its maintenance.

WE yesterday briefly noticed that the President of the Montreal and Ottawa City Junction Railway, D. A. Macdonald, Esq., was in town seeking to interest our people in an enterprise which cannot fail to be of immense benefit not only to this city but to a large tract of fertile country at present little known, owing to the utter want of means of communication. Among the good things which may be confidently expected of the above road are these: it will place this city within four hours of the Capital; open up a fine country well adapted for agricultural and manufacturing pursuits; bring to our borders an immense amount of trade, give us cheap fuel and agricultural produce, and head off projected branch lines calculated to divert traffic which legitimately belongs to this city. The want of direct communication with the Capital is admitted on all sides. The tedious Prescott junction route only needs to be mentioned to ensure a significant shrug of the shoulders from all who have to submit to it. The great question has been as to 1st, the best, 2nd, the cheapest direct route. The great obstacle has been the expense of getting from the Island of Montreal to the mainland or peninsula formed by the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers. Several lines have been projected, but the great tem of bridging the Ottawa River has led to their abandonment. The road we have under consideration escapes this great stumbling block by using the fine bridge at St. Ann's. It joins the Grand Trunk at Riviere Rouge, from whence it pursues an almost straight line to Ottawa city, traversing in its course the townships of Soulanges, Longueuil, Newton, Lechiel, Kenyon, Roxboro', South Plantage-Cambridge, Russell, Osgoode and Gloucester entering the capital near the Ridgeway. The distance between the two cities by this route is 113 miles, via Prescott it is 166. The distance saved represents the distance from Prescott Junction to Ottawa. But two bridges of note are required: one across the Nation, at a point thirty miles from the Ottawa,—the whole distance navigable—and one across the Rideau, where the water is shallow, with rocky bed. By effecting a junction with the Grand Trunk at Riviere Rouge there remains only 80 miles of road to build, and that through a country most admirably adapted for a railway. For the most part the line runs through level country; where grades and curves occur, they are of slight moment—neither approaching those on the Grand Trunk. No rock obstructs the way; the cuttings will be through excellent ballast, and all timber requisite for the construction can be cut on the spot.

An important branch line will be run from the 2nd Concession (Lochiel) to Hawkesbury via Vanleek Hill, a distance of some eighteen miles. The total cost is put at $12,000 per mile, say $1,000,000. The grant of the Ontario Government amounts to $198,000. Bounties have been guaranteed as follows: Ottawa, $100,000; Lochiel and Kenyon, $80,000; and Russell and Cambridge, $50,000—making a grand total of $228,000. In view of the manifest benefits which must accrue to Montreal by the construction of the road, the Company expect that she will vote a bonus of $200,000. With the capital thus got together, work would be commenced at once, and the road be in running order within eighteen months.

The gauge will be 4 ft. 8 1/2 in.; a third rail being laid on the Grand Trunk track from Riviere Rouge to Montreal. A company is ready to put on the rolling stock as soon as the rails are laid, and it only remains for Montreal to show a little enterprise.

It may be as well to recount the following facts:—

The road has been carefully located and surveyed.

The fullest estimates have been prepared.

It is a road that does not compete with either an existing railroad or water route; it cuts the peninsula in half, and will give life to a country now locked up.

The company might have made junction with the Grand Trunk above the Coteau Landing Falls, and a ferry steamer running across the river might have directed the traffic into the Eastern States; but they did not wish to make such connections, although large offers, if such had been adopted, were made from capitalists in the States.

The surveys, plans, and estimates are to be seen at the office of Messrs. Legge & Co., St. James street, and will well repay inspection.

THE EVENING STAR is undoubtedly the cheapest newspaper in Canada, containing most news, and managed with more ability than any other in this city.

But the Recollet House is the place for first-class Dry-Goods, at the lowest prices, and for variety of styles, and magnitude of stock, is behind none.

The Fall trade is just opening, and Brown & Claggett have secured such a lot of the very latest novelties that must place them in the van of all other competitors.

The Departments are all stocked with goods to meet every want, and at prices to suit every purse.

Having a resident buyer in London, they have always placed in the hands of the Montrealers such goods as were fashionable in Europe almost as soon as they appeared in London.

Therefore, we would say to the tens of thousands that read our newspaper buy your Dry-Goods at the Recollet House.

As an evidence of the progress of a people in the manufacture and useful arts, and the strides which we are taking as a people towards the front rank among the nations of the world, at Kingston Fair we noticed a display of home manufactured goods, which made us feel proud of youthful Canada.

The new and various branches of industries daily opening to our people will tend more to the moulding us into a nation, as our hopes picture in the future, than all the banking and ha-ha-futinated for a century by our free-trade devotees.

On the counters in the Crystal Palace we were gratified to notice the splendid display made by Fredk. Dodd & Co., manufacturers of Enamel Leather Cloths, of Yorkville, Toronto.

Where did you buy that beautiful Chain? Why, at the West-End Fifty Cent and One Dollar store, opposite Recollet House. Oh, such a rush for them! Nothing like them in the city. Come away at once and obtain one.

FIRE AND MARINE INSURANCE.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY, OF CANADA.

HON. JOHN McMURRICH, President.

BERNARD HALDANE, Esq., Man. Director.

WESTERN ASSURANCE COMPANY.—This Company's business is rapidly expanding, as appears from a comparison of the premium receipts for seven successive years:—

1865.....$97,849

1866.....125,281

1867.....171,969

1868-7 mos.....126,405

1869.....298,801

1871.....346,928

Though the past year has been unusually disappointing to fire insurance companies, involving the Western in losses to the extent of 66 per cent. of the receipts, yet the shareholders of this Company have had the handsome dividend of 13 per cent., and the sum of $30,000 has been cleared beside. These results, though not so favorable as might at one time have been anticipated, are highly encouraging.

There is now a fund of $200,000, in addition to the paid-up capital, set aside, to which additions are being regularly made, giving every reasonable guarantee of safety, and placing the Company in a position where no ordinary kind of adversity will be able to interrupt its progress.

The percentage of expenses to total receipts last year was as low as 17, showing that the strictest economy is practiced, and that business has not been obtained at too dear a rate.—Montreal Times, Sept. 1st, 1871.

How New York is Governed—The Benties of the Ballot.

(N. Y. Times.)

Information has been received at this office of a secret organization, by means of which the Ring has been added to maintain its power for evil in this City, and to roll up those large majorities which have of late years qualified the will of the people of the State.

FRAUDULENT BALLOTS.

upon what should be fair field of a political fight upon election day.

This organization, whose name has only been heretofore known to its members, is gotten up solely, as those who are asked to join it are informed, for the benefit of its members.

as not to be afterwards aware were he has been or who were present at the place of meeting, no advertisement is made nor any publicity whatever given to the meetings, which are held every first and third Fridays of every month.

The President and chief of this repeating army is a well-read, shrewd and unprincipled man, who once a notorious chief of Twentieth Ward repeaters, and who, working in New York resides in Brooklyn. He was at one time on the Police force, either in 1862 or 1869, and is believed now to be holding a sinecure position under the Ring Government. His name is withheld for the present.

The men composing this society are princ-pally of Irish birth, and have been and are now in the pay of the Tammany Ring, who did not hesitate to monopolize their services at the first overture. Their method of repeating is to take board in as many election districts as possible, and register and vote in each, which, with the excellent facilities afforded them by Tammany inspectors and paid roughts, who prevent careful challenging by the opposition, has never been found out.

Of the 15,000 voters 5,000 reside in Brooklyn, and 3,000 in Jersey City. This leaves only 7,000 of the number entitled, legally, to a single vote in New York.

Give to each one of the 15,000 three votes and the 15,000 is multiplied to 45,000. Deducting the 7,000 legal votes and we have 38,000 fraudulent votes, and the added 8,000 who reside in the two other cities swell the fraudulent vote to 46,000.

With this society, other

GANGS OF REPEATERS, corrupted inspectors and false-counting, office and sinecure holders, cajoled followers and the riff-raff of the unthinking, what wonder that Tammany thieves should fold their arms, and, when honest citizens call them to account for their iniquities, quietly acknowledge their misdoings and ask them, "What are you going to do about it?"

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM.

This preparation is made from our native Red Spruce Gum, which gum has been held in great esteem by the Indians of Canada and the North West for the relief of pulmonary complaints, from time immemorial.

A large amount of the Spruce Gum is held in complete solution in the Syrup, consequently all the balsamic and soothing effects of the Gum are preserved, which is not the case when it is taken in high wines, according to old-fashioned usage.

FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CHEST IRRITATIONS and THROAT AFFECTIONS, this Syrup will be found invaluable.

Persons who are very susceptible to changes of weather would do well to keep it in the house, and use it on the first appearance of cough. Price, 25 cents per bottle, at all drug stores, and at the store of the manufacturer, HENRY R. GRAY, DISPENSING CHEMIST, 141 St. Lawrence Main Street. (Established, 1850)

LOVE'S REDEMPTION;

The Baronet's Wife.

"She will be entirely at the mercy of Sir Henry Seltón, with the one advantage that a second marriage will leave no question as to the validity of her position."

"Entirely at the mercy of Sir Henry," repeated Archie, mentally, "and he so embittered against her! Poor girl! hers is a strange destiny indeed!"

He repeated the substance of that conversation to Miriam when he saw her a day later. She listened to him very calmly, and smiled when, in his gentle way of putting it, he told her the law would deny her right to the title of Sir Henry Seltón's wife.

"Let them tell me so," she said; "but heaven made no such law, and men may take what means they will, so that they set me free from Talbot Grey. My husband will not mind what men say, so that he knows I belong to him alone."

Seeing Archie look unusually grave, she asked him reproachfully if he doubted the baronet, and he answered with a negative.

"No, Miriam; but I was thinking how all this must pain and trouble you."

"And I am thinking of the recompense this pain and trouble will bring. I wish I had confided in Sir Henry from the first; but I can explain everything when we meet again. It will be over soon, Archie."

"Next week: and you need not appear in court. Leave it to Pulteney and Sir George Pembroke. Let them arrange with Grey's solicitors, and admit that one thing which will save further delay."

"Yes, I will admit it," she said; "but with this understanding, that I still looked upon Sir Henry as my husband, and I did so even when I knew Grey had returned."

"That, of course, will be explained," said Archie. "The admission is but a point to solve a legal difficulty, and the world will perfectly comprehend it. By this time next week, Miriam—"

"I shall be with him—he will come to me! You know where he is, Archie, and can write to him the moment the verdict is given."

"Yes," said Mr. Ravel, bravely, "or take you to him if you like; and in the meantime what will you do, Miriam, to occupy yourself? You must not sit and think too much about it."

"I have no wish to think of anything else, Archie. It will be such an answer to the bitter scandal I have endured when I stand by his side before those who have slandered me. I almost feel as if I could forgive them then."

Archie gave her a few sympathetic words in reply, while he tried inwardly to see how he could use the short time left so as to make Sir Henry believe the truth, and spare Miriam the agony of going to him or writing to him, only to be sent away or answered in bitterness. It must be done—he was resolved on that; but how was it to be done? Sir Henry, slow to doubt, would be as slow in restoring back his faith.

"But we will hope for the best," Archie thought, with his sanguine heart. "If, at the worst, Miriam has to force him to see her, he cannot resist the sight of her beauty, or the sound of her voice. Even should he persist in doubting, he will forgive her."

The seven days went on, the trial came and ended, and it ended exactly as Sir George Pembroke had predicted. Miriam's marriage with Sir Henry Seltón was set aside as invalid on the very grounds set forth by Pembroke—there was no substantial proof of Talbot Grey's decease.

The rest was arranged between the mutually opposing solicitors, and Miriam's very love, when made to suit a legal purpose, was declared a crime. She had, by her own confession, kept Sir Henry in wilful ignorance of Talbot's return, and continued to live with him as his wife. For such a course of conduct the law has but one term, and she had committed a crime which gave the verdict to Grey.

And so they were divorced, and Miriam stood in the world once more as Miriam Medhurst—no longer Mrs. Grey—so the judgment said, and she never had been Lady Seltón. The judge himself, in summing up, said it was a case the Legislature had scarcely provided for, and a great moral responsibility rested on Sir Henry. Of Talbot he spoke in terms that, though studiously polite, made that gentleman's cheek hot with shame.

"Whether it would have been better for Mr. Grey to have taken action for the restitution of his wife instead of seeking a divorce on the grounds advanced," he said, "is a moral question which the petitioner can best answer to his own conscience. The points of law are clearly with him, and perhaps the lady may have reason to congratulate herself that it is so."

Talbot smiled bitterly as he saw how the well-conveyed irony told against him with the spectators, and he had asked himself what they would say if they knew how merciful he had been to the woman whom he believed sought his life in the very moment when he had made her a generous gift for the purpose of saving her from peril.

"But there is one who will not misjudge me," he said, mentally, thinking of Georgina. "She knows what I have endured for the sake of a woman who told me to my teeth she did not love me, and while I have her sweet faith, I have little need to care for the sneers of the judge, or the scorn of the curious rabble here."

That reflection contented him, and he left the court with a proud and firm step, which was not without effect on those who knew him. He saw Mr. Ravel and Ted Pulteney in the court entrance.

"Well," said Archie simply, "it is over, Mr. Grey."

"Yes," sighed the other, "it is over, and the result will please her ladyship, I am sure."

"There is not a doubt of it," said Talbot, with a dignity to which his worn and delicate appearance added; "but I tell you, Mr. Ravel, that in my soul there is no thought of her which is not full of high respect; no wish that is not for her happiness. I believed I wronged her in thinking as I did think once—that she tried to do me a deadly injury. I forgave her even when I thought so."

"It is over," Archie repeated, "and I fear neither your good opinion nor your wishes will help her to happiness. She is a woman remember, Mr. Grey, and must pay the penalty for having thrown the tender love of her girlhood upon the sickle passion of a weak-minded boy."

"You are speaking to my son," said Talbot's father, sternly, "and perhaps it suits your usual courage and good taste to insult a man who has but very recently risen from a bed of sickness."

"It suits me to tell the truth always, my dear sir. Your son is free; he has obtained his freedom by fixing a shameful sin upon an innocent woman; he has formed such a misconception of the pure affection of a wife, that I wonder how he can hope to gain the respect and sympathy of any woman worth loving."

"Come, father," said Talbot, quietly, "Mr. Ravel will think better of me on reflection, and I may tell him that, though the lady on whose behalf he speaks so warmly has no legal claim upon it, it's my moral duty, as it is my intention, to see that she does not suffer by any course Sir Henry Seltón may take."

Mr. Ravel thanked him in Miriam's name with subdued satire, and they parted with a touch of stilted courtesy on either side. The drama of life is played with such wonderful regard to the proprieties that it would puzzle disinterested lookers-on to tell whether the man and woman they see in pleasant talk together are cordial friends or bitter enemies.

CHAPTER XLVI.
AT CUMBERLAND.

There was something very solemn in Talbot Grey in the thought, that he and Miriam were parted for ever. He recalled very vividly that scene at the little church near Rylands when he stood at the altar with the innocent young girl by his side, and promised sacredly to love and cherish her till death parted them.

He remembered, with a pang of self-reproach, how he stole out that fine spring morning, and met Miriam at their trysting-place down the green lanes of his home. He remembered the tremulous joy in her face when she saw him, and what sweet and passionate promises he made as they went towards the church—life would be too short for such love as theirs. There was nothing in the wide, wide world which could make him change.

He reflected on it with a tinge of shame in his cheek. What could she think of him if she recollected the past as he did? There was little in his conduct which would admit of palliation. From first to last it had been solely governed by selfishness; she trusted him, and he broke his word. There was a sting in Archie's reminder, that within two months of his return he tried to win another lady, and that his object in obtaining the present divorce was that he might marry again.

And he was free by the verdict of the law. Society held him blameless, while it fixed a stigma on the proud and beautiful woman whose nature was the very type of purity. He had taken her from a man who loved her, stripped from her a name she wore with honor, and left her poor in heart, poor in reputation—a divorced wife, with no right to his or Sir Henry's home or name.

There was a little self-extenuation in the fact that the plea which gave him the required verdict was used by her sanction; but where was his chivalry when he took advantage of a circumstance which he himself contrived at? He had literally sacrificed her to his own interest, and argue what he would, there was the unalterable fact, Miriam stood, without home or name, at Sir Henry Seltón's mercy, and if rumor spoke truth, she had not much mercy to expect from him.

His belief in Miriam's guilt of the attempt on his life was shaken more and more upon reflection. In the belief itself he had been mainly strengthened by his father, whose own conviction nothing could alter. The old man went sternly into the question of motive.

"You were in her way," he said, "and her way only. Your choice of a false name gave her a chance, which she took advantage of. Many women have done more for less than a title."

He said the same when the trial was over, and Archie left Talbot with the stinging words of rebuke. There was no sentiment in the old man—a woman's beauty had no power with him.

"There is some truth in the rumors we hear, depend upon it," Mr. Grey the elder remarked; "that fellow would not take the trouble to defend her as he does if there were not. You have done your duty well, my boy, and have no reason to be pained by anything he may say."

"I feel that I have done what is best," Talbot replied. "She ceased to love me long since, and it was useless to fetter each other as we did; but I was to blame in the outset, and people will not hesitate to say so. Mr. Colchester himself has not a very high opinion of me."

"That will not affect his daughter. Men with your money and position are not picked up every day, and even if the girl does not care for you she will be glad to hear of your freedom."

"Why?"

"Because you can marry her."

"If she does not care for me?"

"Men consult their own pleasure in marrying. Talbot. If the girl becomes your wife you will take the love for granted."

Talbot did not take that view of the matter without reserve. He liked to think Georgina would accept his conduct to Miriam as strong proof of his love for her; but he was troubled with a misgiving that what he had done would appear mean in her sight. He forgot for the moment how much gentler women are in their judgement of men than of each other.

"I must make an arrangement for Miriam's future," he said, "for we do not know how Sir Henry Seltón may act. His name has been so slurred that he must have been pained bitterly, and should be chosen to abide by the legal decision, she will be left to the world—"

The unfortunate exile who has seen the end of his Imperial Greatness, wept when he found himself so mercifully dealt with by his Antagonist and Captor, King William of Prussia. CLOTHIERS.
 To AMERICAN GENTLEMEN.—From the knowledge we have of the commercial spirit that exists generally throughout the Union, and the appreciation they extend to great individual efforts, we feel sure that a few remarks on a similar subject will not be unacceptable.
 Gratitude on the part of the press of Canada would also, perhaps, be wanting did we not from time to time point to the enterprising and singular success of one of our most energetic merchants, J. A. RAFTER, of Notre Dame street. Few, indeed, have taken hold of the great medium of intercommunication between the manufacturers and the masses (the press) with the same liberal, sagacious and far-seeing judgment as our townsman Mr Rafter has, and the result shows the correctness of his views. While absent in Europe during the great visiting season of Americans in Canada, the complete and strict system laid down and carried out at the great West-end Store, No. 468 Notre Dame street, worked admirably. At present the large importation of woollens and gents' furnishing goods arriving are giving a new impetus to his extensive business. He is not only driving an immense trade in Canada, but has almost surpassed it in the widespread and steady increase of American patronage he has met with. Few establishments can stand higher with Americans for straightforward and honorable transactions than does the firm we allude to, Messrs. Rafter & Co.
 No matter how inexperienced, or no matter how limited to time, or perfectly a stranger in Canada the customer may be, at Rafter's he will be treated with in the most conscientious and obliging manner. Very likely this is more the secret of his success than the almost unexampled natural energy and enterprising mind he possesses. Americans are at once taken with such men, and a reciprocal confidence is established.
 For some weeks to come the American travel will continue, and it is a usual occurrence with them to buy up largely in Fall and Winter Suits while on this side of the line, so that to many tourists who have not been at Montreal for some years we respectfully suggest that they would pay a visit even through curiosity to our great West-end Store, where we feel assured that our passing remarks will be appreciated.

MERCHANT TAILORS,
 252 ST. JAMES STREET,
 Next door west of the Ottawa Hotel.
 MCM. & Co. beg to announce that they have opened the new store, No. 252 St. James street, where they propose carrying on business as Merchant Tailors. It will be remembered by many of their former customers that for a lengthened period they did probably the largest first-class Tailoring Business ever done in Canada. They consequently possess a knowledge of the business in all its details, such as can only be acquired in the management of a business similar to that alluded to.
 Their acquaintance with the most celebrated makers of goods in England and elsewhere, together with the arrangements they have perfected for a regular supply, will enable them to offer the newest and most reliable makes of goods.
 Their ability to manage the artistic and mechanical departments of a first-class business will not, they think, be questioned by those acquainted with them. In the fitting of pantaloons they flatter themselves they can combine elegance with perfect comfort. Attention will be given to Boys' and Youths' Dress, Ladies' Riding Habits and Servants' Liveries.
 Their prices will positively be moderate. Fixed prices strictly adhered to.

A silver service was presented to J. J. O'Scanlon, Esq., of Havre, France, bearing a suitable inscription, to testify the gratitude of the committee for the valuable services rendered by Mr. O'Scanlon as their delegate and able representative in France. Mr. O'Scanlon returned thanks for the compliment bestowed him.

The recent French embassy to Ireland is a more notable fact in the history of these troublous times than many people seem to imagine. It is, in the first place, a tacit recognition by France of the distinct nationality of Ireland; and in the second instance, a warm and cordial expression of French gratitude for Irish sympathy and for Irish aid in the hour of France's direst need.—[Tablet.]

Saunders says it is stated that, in accordance with a desire expressed by the Queen, special sketches are being prepared for her Majesty off Killiney Hill, which, with the castle, etc., will be sold next March in the Landed Estates Court. The impression is very strong in certain quarters that the beautiful hill will be purchased on behalf of the Queen for the purpose of establishing a royal residence there.

The funeral of private Timothy Conroy, a member of the Irish Brigade in the service of France, took place on Aug. 29, and was largely attended. The deceased arrived in Dublin from France on August 25 in a delicate state of health, and died on the following morning. The deceased was a native of Roscommon, Queen's County, and was about 21 years of age when he volunteered to serve with the Franco-Irish Ambulance, which left Dublin for France in Oct., 1870.

Hugh McGeehan, painter, a prisoner in the jail at Derry, attempted to commit suicide on the 1st ult., by cutting his throat with a piece of glass broken out of the window of his cell. McGeehan was arrested on the 27th of August for being drunk and making use of party expressions. When brought to the police court he snatched the sword of a policeman, and with it endeavored to stab another prisoner. He was then committed to jail till the 7th of September, and shortly after his admission he attempted to take away his own life. Several doctors were shortly in attendance, and sewed the wound, from which blood flowed rapidly. McGeehan lies in a dangerous state, and but slight hopes are entertained of his recovery.

PAIN KILLER
 Husband.—And what does the Parson's wife say about it?
 Wife.—Why, it does everything but impossibilities; she cures Cough, Throat, Canker, Rash, Croup, Cough, Colds, Bowel Complaints, Cramps, Neuralgia, Rheumatism; in fact she is a host of Doctors all in herself; if she has a bottle of Pain-Killer with her.
 Husband.—she needs to be; I never saw such children as hers and always cutting their fingers, spraining their ankles and falling down stairs.
 Wife.—Yes, and the Pain-Killer is magical when used for Sprains, Bruises and Fresh Cuts. That reminds me: Willie cut his finger awfully this morning; I will hasten and put some Pain-Killer on it.

The Pain-Killer is an internal and external remedy for pain. For internal pain, Cramps, Spasms, Sudden Colds and Bowel difficulties, a few drops in water will give immediate relief. As a liniment it is without an equal; it stops pain almost instantly. Be sure and get the genuine, made by Perry Davis & Son, and sold by all Druggists and Grocers.

A Good Medicine.
 The sale of Mr. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been quadrupled within a year or so. It is really a good medicine, well adapted to build up the system and impart vigor of body and mind. It is recommended by our best physicians, and we are glad for the sake of the public as well as of the manufacturer, who is one of our best Chemists, that Mr. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites are in such demand in all parts of the Dominion. Owing to fiscal obstructions they cannot be sold in the United States, whose patent-medicine-afflicted citizens are thus deprived of the advantage of using a really good invigorating medicine.—St. John N.E. Journal, 7th Dec., 1888
 A factory has since been established in the United States.—Editor.

2nd EDITION.

Encouraged, doubtless, by that Yankee, the murderously inclined are giving full vent to their evil passions. The latest tidings of a murder? No. Manslaughter? No. An aggravated assault? No. Common assault? No. Well, we are at a loss to find a term; but the fact is, a bailiff of St. Stanislas, named Borden, has been shot dead while walking down a street at Three Rivers. Judging from the Latour street case, it will be a waste of public money to effect an arrest and attempt to get the law carried out. It would be better to give the money to the dead man's family.

ROUND TOWN.

M. A. Desjardins, late editor of the L'Ordre, leaves for Europe to-morrow accompanied by Judge Loranger.

One end of the stone wall surrounding the hay market has been torn down to widen Inspector street, but no further demolition has yet been made.

Accidents are constantly occurring at the Point St. Charles railway crossing. Yesterday morning James Mooney, was unloading his cart near the crossing, his horse took fright at a passing locomotive and ran off. When Mooney sprang at the horse to attempt to stop him getting on to the track, he was knocked violently to the ground, and the wheel of the cart, which was loaded, passed over the poor fellow's chest and neck. The blood flowed freely from his mouth and ears, and Dr. Rodger, of Point St. Charles, who attended to Mooney's injuries afterwards had him sent to the hospital. Within the last three weeks some serious accidents have happened, and it is evidently the duty of the company to adopt remedial measures. A tunnel would meet the case.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH.

Before Judge Badgley.

Duncan McDonald deposed: I am in the employ of Buchanan, Leckie & Co., they are the agents of James Hennessy & Co.; they have been agents for about 13 years; I know the private mark of Hennessy & Co., it is an arm and battle-axe; I went to prisoner's place of business last May and purchased a hundred labels—invoice receipted by prisoner produced and read—one of the labels shown to the jury; the label shown is a forgery but is not quite an exact imitation, the battle-axe not touching the top line as it does in the genuine label.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stephens; I do not know that these forged labels were put on genuine brandy; the most important difference between the counterfeit and the genuine label is the battle-axe; Buchanan & Co. sell their brandy also in bottles to grocers; I do not know who counterfeited the labels in question; Buchanan & Co., never imported any isocels, nor had any struck off.

William Hodgson deposed to being in the employ of Law, Young & Co. Witness visited prisoner's place of business on the 31st May, and talked with prisoner about purchasing counterfeit labels; prisoner said he could furnish me 25,000 Hennessy labels in two weeks. Witness told prisoner that the imitation of Hennessy's label was not very good; prisoner said the genuine label was being changed so often he could not keep up with it.

Adolphe Bissonette, High Constable: In the beginning of June last I arrested the prisoner on a charge of forging Hennessy's labels; I found a large quantity of labels on the premises. (Box of labels produced and identified.)

Frederick Bernard Matthews deposed:—I am one of the firm of Buchanan, Leckie & Co.; we are the sole agents in Canada for James Hennessy & Co., and have been for thirty years; they have a private trade mark, it is a wreath of grape leaves with an arm and battle-axe. The label shown me is a counterfeit. Witness explained the points of difference between the genuine and the counterfeit. The counterfeit would deceive almost any one unacquainted with the genuine; Hennessy & Co. do not export any labels; they refuse to issue any labels except on their bottled brandy. These counterfeits are used to defraud Hennessy & Co. the genuine brandy is worth about $8 a case, the imitation is sold at from $5 to $6.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stephens.—I do not remember the names of all the partners in the firm of James Hennessy & Co.; Mr. James Hennessy is not in the firm now; this label has been used by my knowledge for about 25 years; I do not know if James Hennessy & Co. is a registered firm; I do not know how Richard Argus Hennessy became interested in the trade mark; I believe the trade mark is registered in Canada; the firm of James Hennessy & Co. is not registered; the trade mark was registered in Canada, I think, in 1868 or 1869; I think the registration is simply an arm and battle-axe; I think that the whole label is described in the requisition papers.

This closed the case for the Crown. Henry Gray Dickson, lithographer, deposed to being foreman to Mr. Gebhardt; has been for three years; all work passes through my hands; the labels in question were not made by Mr. Gebhardt; I know the labels produced in Court; I saw the party who sold them to Mr. Gebhardt; it was in February, 1871; this was the only kind of Hennessy label Mr. Gebhardt had in his store.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie: The two labels shown me are not struck from the same plate. Mr. Gebhardt brought the labels from Mr. Verlack; I do not know where he lives; the labels could not have been made by Mr. Gebhardt at his store without my knowledge.

Peter Hamilton Stewart—I am engraver for Mr. Gebhardt; I do not know the engraving for the establishment; I cannot swear that the two labels shown me were stamped from the same plate. The labels shown me were not manufactured by Mr. Gebhardt; I never knew him to manufacture any Hennessy labels. From the appearance of these labels I should say they were of foreign manufacture. I have seen these labels sold in shops in Canada and the United States.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie.—The prisoner is not a practical engraver or lithographer. Joseph Whelan, apprentice engraver to Mr. Gebhardt, deposed that he saw the case of labels come to the store; they were brought by a boy named Harry Brown who was in the employ of Mr. Verlack. I have never saw any Hennessy labels manufactured in the shop.

John E. Weir deposed that on 31st May he went into Gebhardt's store; Mr. Hodgson was in the back office; heard conversation between Mr. Gebhardt and Mr. Hodgson; Hodgson wanted to buy some Hennessy labels; Mr. Gebhardt told him that Hennessy labels were imported, and he could obtain any quantity for him; Mr. Hodgson asked Mr. Gebhardt if he manufactured the labels; and Mr. Gebhardt said he did not; he did not say he could manufacture.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie.—Mr. Gebhardt told Mr. Hodgson that he imported both labels and capsules.

Maximilian Kollmar deposed that the stick of wood produced was his; he had made some stamps six or seven years ago and marked this piece of wood.

Charles Verlack was called but did not appear. Gabriel Verlack was also called but did not respond.

John Gardner and William Duncan McLaren testified as to character.

Mr. Ritchie stated that the evidence having failed to prove the charge in the indictment he did not intend to press the same.

His Honor then charged the jury that the prosecution having failed it was their duty to find a verdict in the prisoner's favor; and the jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty."

The jury was then again sworn and proceeded with the charge of counterfeiting the trade-mark of Martel & Co.

Mr. Ritchie said he had only the same evidence as in the Hennessy case, and the jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty."

Court adjourned until 3 o'clock.

G. W. WARNER & SON, Cor. Notre Dame & St. Frs. Xavier streets.

Many are the facts creditable to the growth and rank of Montreal, and much is her wealth, style, and generosity praised by all visitors; our wharves please them, our new Custom-house astonishes, our Bridge amazes them; the Court-house, with its massive exterior, its capacious chambers and ground corridors, compare favorably with the first buildings in Washington; our new markets attract every eye, and would please too if they were clean; our Churches outshine all on this continent, while our new St. Peter's bids fair to make us, as an Episcopal City, rank with Rome itself. Neither are visitors disappointed in examining the wealth and variety of Notre Dame street; the shops are not equal to all in Broadway, but are not far away from even the best there. But surprise and admiration culminate when people, eye, the most experienced, visit Harper's new Dollar Store to view the thousands of different articles arriving daily, at No. 267 Notre Dame street, opposite the Blue Store, the only One Dollar Store in the street or city.

The new Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia Pa., is connected by street cars, with the Baltimore Depot.

In Harper's Dollar Store there is only one price; there a stranger or citizen cannot be taken in by exorbitant prices, or selling a 60 cent article for $1.00. This is the only Dollar Store in the Province of Quebec 267, Cathedral Block, Notre Dame street. 230-6

3rd EDITION.

ACCORDING to an article published in the Daily News, and reproduced by the Witness, the St. Patrick's Society had a most unseemly meeting last Monday evening, when the question of the Presidency was brought up. We exceedingly regret that anything should occur to bring reproach upon a society so powerful for good, and trust that ere long the more intelligent members will see fit to initiate a movement for the making of all such meetings open to the press. Publicity is the safety valve of society; its absence fully accounts for such scenes as occurred on Monday. If the article referred to exaggerates and distorts, the Society has itself to blame for the great injury that will be done a noble cause. In the St. Patrick's Society, as in many other quarters, the great want is Light.

All that can be heard about Langorin's mission to British Columbia is the most fulsome personal praise. We cannot hear of what business he has transacted. It is all personal triumph—a sort of royal progress.

Grain is now coming into market in fair quantities. Prices are low and not worth quoting.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Concerning the "Libel" Suit.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR.

Sir,—In the antagonism shown by the authorities against THE EVENING STAR, the people at large perceive that their liberties and constitutional rights are attempted to be crushed and assailed by that party now in power which has proved itself extreme in all its views and actions. This fact has everything to fear from an outspoken and independent press, which will not surrender its rights to proclaim the truth and protect the public interest, despite the frowns or threats of any party, however powerful for persecution. I and many friends feel that those who attempt to stop your honest avowals of the public right will yet find out the truth of Lord Byron's word— " Methinks I hear a little bird that sings, The people once will be the stronger!"

These are not the times when liberty of speech, backed by truth and a desire for the public welfare, shall be put down by a questionable authority, pursued with an equally questionable animus. You may rest assured that the people of the Dominion will see that their rights are assailed in your persecution, and free speech takes its initiation from the fear of an inquiry into some abuses too long neglected in their exposure, and that this fear has called forth all the cunning and force that could be enlisted to stop their development.
