The Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs has delayed for one more year its decision on whether to remain in the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

The vote was overwhelming for "unity" behind a special committee's report of its four-hour meeting last night which included consultation with International President Edward Deignan. The committee, headed by Chief Milton C. Mathers of London, Ont., include 17 chiefs from across the country.

The one dissenting vote was cast by the 72-year-old chief of the Port Hope, Ont., fire department, John Record.

"It's going to cost us $7,000 just to wait a year," protested Chief Record, "and I may not be here to fight it then."

Newly - elected president David Dunnett of Winnipeg promised the delegates that next year's convention in his city would make a final decision.

This is the third annual convention in a row at which the Canadian-international question has come before Canadian fire chiefs.

Today's meeting voted 95-28 to raise its dues to $20 per member per year. This will mean that only half the Canadian dues will go to the international offices in New York.

President Dunnett said he would attend the International Association's convention in Toronto next month and its executive meeting in New York in January. He wants to give Canadian chiefs full answers on two main issues, he said, before they make up their minds.

1) Whether or not it will be possible for Canadian members to have the choice of joining or not joining the International Association in addition to their own;

2) Whether or not deputy chiefs who are full members will be granted the votes they have so far been denied at international conventions.

President Deignan of the International Association said he was "pleased and happy" with the decision to defer. It exemplified "the sound thinking" of the convention, he said.

Neither he nor Chief Dunnett would predict whether or not satisfactory answers would be obtained from the international organization.

On the dues issue, chiefs were less united. Some suggested that recruiting new members would be difficult with dues as high as $20 a year.

Of the 3,500 volunteer and professional fire chiefs in Canada, 700 belong to the Association. When the past year's new members were asked to show themselves on the convention floor, about half a dozen men stood up.

Earlier in the convention, some delegates expressed doubts as to the benefits to be gained from membership in the International Association. Ten dollars of the $15 annual membership fee in the Canadian organization is handed over to the international group.

Find girls

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—Two seven-year-old girls, missing since Sunday, were found by an FBI agent Tuesday locked in the bathroom of an unoccupied apartment about a block from their homes. The girls, Rita Ohlgren and Maria Theresa Morley, were described by an FBI spokesman as "bewildered and hungry." He said they had locked themselves in.

New responsibilities of fire chiefs told by International head

By MYER SHIMELMAN
(Record staff reporter)

The modern fire chief should stop feeling he has to plunge into the smoke with the rookies and become an executive, the president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs told Canadian chiefs Tuesday morning.

Chief Edward Deignan's only reply to stirrings of revolt against continued Canadian affiliation with his organization was to say that he found such differences of opinion "healthy".

The Elizabeth, N.J., fire chief was addressing the second day of the 54th annual conference of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs, which some 470 Canadian chiefs are attending. The session was held at Sacred Heart Academy on Ball Street.

"Extinguishing fires is no longer the number one task of the fire chief," he told delegates. "Public relations, recruitment, pre-fire preparation — all these now rank as high as putting out flames."

When a fire breaks out the chief should set up a control post on the sidewalk from which he directs operations as a general commands a battle. Neither police nor outsiders should be allowed to interfere with the senior fire officer.

"For if you don't give attention to these things, if you don't become an administrator," he warned his fellow chiefs, "your municipality and my municipality will some day hire an administrator to oversee the operations of the fire department, and the chief's position will be pushed back 20 years.

"He will be just another man responding to the siren for the bell."

Chief Deignan hinted that the forward-looking fire chief might also do well to bone up on legal knowledge.

"We have read about doctors' reputations being scarred by malpractice suits in the courts," he said, "but just this past year in my state of New Jersey two cases have come up where it was top fire officers who were were threatened with being sued for maladministration.'

He had been called to Jersey City as an expert witness in a case where a mother had left two children in charge of the house, a fire had started, and although the woman had "tried to put it out before calling the firemen," the children had died.

"Hoses had functioned properly, ladders were sturdy, so it was not the city which could be sued. The plantiff instead threatened the three top fire officials of the city The plantiff had a very sharp attorney, and the chiefs were very apprehensive that in a case where two children had died he might be able to get a sympathetic jury."

In the end this case was settled out of court for lack of lawyer's fees, as had an earlier one for lack of supporting evidence. But the cases were a warning of something that might spread from the New York area to Canada.

"Gentlemen, we have got to know our job better." Chief Dignan also said firemen, civil servants, partially paid, or volunteers, were the backbone of North American civil defence.

Blame NATO for delay in decision

OTTAWA (CP)—In four or five months, Canada will begin delivery of 200 supersonic CF-104 low-level jet bombers to the RCAF air division in Europe.

But, officials say, what role the planes will perform is still indefinite because it still isn't known whether they will carry nuclear weapons.

Officials maintain that the major blame for this indecisiveness doesn't rest with the Canadian government but with NATO as a whole. The alliance can't make up its mind on how to control nuclear weapons. And a solution doesn't appear imminent.

The result, officials say, is that the RCAF air division is in the worst fix it has been since it was sent abroad nearly a decade ago to help defend Western Europe against any Communist assault.

In 1959, the Canadian government agreed to NATO's request that the air division be re-equipped with the CF-104 and its role changed from high-altitude interception with Sabre and CF-100 jets to strike-reconnaissance.

The RCAF was happy to take on this job because it would again assume an offensive role which it lost in 1945 when it gave up its bomber fleet.

With the CF-104, the air division would carry out nuclear strikes at targets beyond the reach of short-range missiles.

The issue of nuclear weapons for the CF-104 is complex. Some European NATO members want a bigger share in control of nuclear weapons. And there is hesitation, if not fear, concerning the possibility of West Germany getting nuclear arms.

The $450,000,000 CF-104 program falls right in the middle of this quandary.

If the CF-104 doesn't carry nuclear bombs in the role of a strike plane, what will it be used for: Officials say they don't know.

It appears extremely likely that the eight CF-104 squadrons will be in full operation long before NATO reaches any solution to the problem of nuclear weapons control. And even if NATO does solve the problem, how can Canada accept nuclear weapons for an offensive role in Europe while refusing to accept them for a defensive role (Bomarc missile and Voodoo jet interceptor) at home?

Again, officials say, they don't know.

Closer control

Would train extinguisher salesmen

Fire extinguisher salesmen should be required to pass a course in fire prevention techniques and insurance companies should not penalize architects who install doors with greater visibility than minimum standards, Lt.-Col. Aime Biron told the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs yesterday.

On his tours of inspection as provincial fire inspector for the Eastern Townships, Col. Biron said, he often meets plant managers who are unaware just what the extinguishers they had bought are for, or why the salesman placed them where he did.

His complaint about insurance companies' attitude on safety arose when he condemned a number of emergency doors in new schools because the window in them was only eight by 12 inches. As a result someone rushing out might push a shorter person on the other side to the concrete. Sherbrooke architects agreed large panels of wired glass were better, but underwriters would not. So rates went up in buildings which used them.

Col. Biron's address also suggested a variety of colors to distinguish uses of fire extinguishers—for wood, vapor, or oil.

In another speech to the Canadian fire chiefs, F. X. Perrault, fire marshal to the Quebec Command of the Canadian Army, said that his service is managing to reduce the number of fires on army property each year, even if the cost of damage remains about constant.

One disastrous fire in 1954 went to $3,000,000 in loss, partly because the thread on the Army's hoses did not fit that of the municipality they were taking water from. Now the expense of Army fire precautions is down to about $57.20 per soldier per year, almost half that of the Navy and Air Force.

The Army carries no insurance, said Mr. Perrault, because at a value of $25 per square foot, its property can be more cheaply protected by its own resources.

The Army maintains a fire-fighting training school at Chiliwack, B.C., set up in 1949 to fill the gap left by the departure of wartime fire pickets from the service. Many buildings they must protect also date from the war. Fire-fighting is a regular trade in the Army.

International Fire Chiefs, President Edward Deignan had earlier mentioned that the U.S. government helps pay for a civil fire school in Michigan.

Charles Mehan, Fire Marshal of Imperial Oil in Montreal, said in another address to the CAFC sessions that chiefs should acquaint themselves with what flammable products are shipped by truck through their areas.

He described best techniques for controlling fires when trucks spill products ranging between two shipped by his company—asphalt, which travels at from 75 to 375 degrees Fahrenheit, and ethylene, which Imperial trucks from Sarnia to Union Carbide's plant in Montreal East at 150 below zero.

Petroleum products are paid for on delivery, said Mr. Mehan, so the oil companies have an interest in fire prevention.

Macmillan returns

Cabinet to study Berlin

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan interrupted his vacation to attend a cabinet meeting here today with the Berlin situation high on the agenda.

It was understood Macmillan heard a report on the latest developments in Berlin, where anti - Communist demonstrations have heightened East-West tensions.

The cabinet met in the light of renewed diplomatic speculation that Soviet Premier Khrushchev might visit the United Nations this fall.

The meeting also was expected to discuss Britain's current negotiations for entry into the European Common Market and the Congo situation.

The cabinet ministers and Macmillan were to return to their vacations after today's meeting.

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet sentries going to a war memorial were sent into West Berlin in armored cars Tuesday night, but heavy rains cleared the streets of the West Berlin demonstrators who had stoned the Russian sentries in buses the three previous nights.

Showing no arms, the three Soviet armored cars and a Russian staff car made the trip from Checkpoint Charlie to the Soviet war memorial two miles away and back without incident.

U.S. military police and West Berlin motorcycle policemen tailed the Russian convoy while it was in West Berlin.

The Russian switch from buses to armored vehicles came a night after a Russian soldier was cut in a bus stoning during the most violent outburst in West Berlin since the Communists began building their wall through the divided city a year ago.

The U.S. Army, meanwhile, stationed an ambulance staffed by three soldiers at Checkpoint Charlie with orders to go to the aid of refugees wounded on the East Berlin side of the wall if it appears the Communists will not render aid.

Allied commandants in West Berlin stressed that the ambulance team will not help East Germans flee to the West, but would take them to East German medical centres.

Stationing the ambulance was an obvious Allied effort to placate West Berliners angered by the shooting Friday by East German border guards of a young refugee trying to scale the wall. The youth fell back into East Berlin territory and East German guards left him there to bleed to death while West Berlin police and U.S. troops looked on.

The incident touched off four successive days of violent anti-Communist — and sometimes anti - American — demonstrations in West Berlin.

The riots drew stiff reproval from the Allied commandants and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt. They declared in a joint statement that the rioting "plays into Soviet hands and must not occur."

They also said "Communist provocateurs" helped spark the riots in an effort "to sow distrust between the allies and Berliners."

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Rusk pressed for a meeting of the four-power commandants in Berlin in a 20-minute session Tuesday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. The Soviet commandant in Berlin, Col. P. V. Siganov rejected last week a proposal for such a meeting from the U.S. commandant, Maj.-Gen. Albert Watson.

Lesage cautious on power

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage Tuesday night described as "complex and difficult" the question of possible provincial ownership of the vast Shawinigan Water and Power Company.

"Think only of the financial aspects of the affair," the premier said during a televised press conference.

He said a formal announcement of government policy on the matter would be made in the near future but declined to say if it would come before the provincial legislature session is resumed in November.

He said he believed the provinces could band together to establish a national power grid.

"Electricity is a field which comes under the jurisdiction of the provinces," he said, "and I believe they must take the initiative in the question."

Switching subjects, Mr. Lesage said Marcel Chaput, leader of one of Quebec's leading separatist groups, was going too far in demanding the complete separation of Quebec from Canada.

"We should give Confederation a better chance," he said.

He said his recent visit to Western Canada had shown that English - speaking Canadians considered French - speaking Canadians equal citizens.

Wheat sales expanded

Poles sign new contract

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and Poland have concluded an agreement calling for the export of up to 500,000 tons of Canadian wheat to the Communist-bloc country.

Under the deal, signed Tuesday by Franciszek Modrzewski, Poland's deputy foreign trade minister, and Deputy Trade Minister James A. Roberts of Canada, Poland is committed to take 300,000 tons and holds an option on a further 200,000 tons.

The full 500,000 tons would represent 18,750,000 bushels, and authoritative sources said it would bring Canada $42,000,000.

Canada extended the same credit terms it provided on previous wheat sales to Poland—10 per cent down and three years to pay.

If the full sale is realized—and officials here are confident that it will be—it will bring total Canadian wheat sales to the Warsaw Pact nation during the last five years to more than 58,000,000 bushels.

Poland has until the end of January to exercise its option on the extra 200,000 tons or 7,500,000 bushels.

TO MOVE THIS FALL

The other 300,000 tons will begin moving out of Montreal around the end of September, and it's hoped the export operation will be completed before the St. Lawrence River freezes over this fall.

The agreement, announced by Mr. Modrzewski at a press conference late Tuesday afternoon, was the culmination of talks with Canadian government officials including Mr. Roberts and Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton.

Canadian sources said the variety ultimately shipped may depend largely on what kind of wheat Canada, with heavy commitments to other countries, has available.

There has been speculation recently that Communist China will soon contract to buy more Canadian wheat. In the last year or so that country has been one of the principal purchasers of wheat from Canada. Talks between Mr. Hamilton and a Red Chinese trade official were held here last week.

In his talks with Mr. Modrzewski, the Canadian agriculture minister brought up the question of a long-term agreement covering Canadian grain sales to Poland.

Mr. Modrzewski said he told Mr. Hamilton this would hinge on increased sale of Polish goods in the Canadian market.

He also said his country would require "better terms" if it was to continue to buy wheat from Canada.

Solution of plague death near

LONDON (Reuters) — The mystery surrounding the death by pneumonic plague of British germ warfare scientist Geoffrey Bacon may be solved within a week, it was disclosed today.

The British war office said a statement on its secret inquiry into the death of 44-year-old Bacon may be issued at the end of this week or the beginning of the next.

The inquest on Bacon, which was adjourned Aug. 8, will be resumed Aug. 29, when, if it is completed, the coroner's verdict will probably be announced.

Bacon, a senior research officer at a microbiological research establishment at Portion in southern England, was taken ill July 29 and died Aug. 1.

A pathologist testified at the inquest that he died of pneumonic plague, a particular infectious and fatal form of the dreaded "Black Death" which decimated the population of Europe in the Middle Ages.

Fires spread

MARSEILLE (AP)—A brush fire whipped by the fierce Mistral wind of southern France Tuesday crackled through dry bush land. A dozen houses were destroyed in the fire area between Marseille and Toulon and 50 other houses were threatened. There were no deaths or injuries from the flames that raced across the rain-parched land before winds up to 50 miles an hour. About 1,500 firefighters battled the blaze.

Citizens protest firings

WATERFORD, Ont. (CP) — An angry crowd of some 50 persons milled in front of town hall threatening revenge in next year's municipal elections after Waterford town council unanimously dismissed its police chief.

Despite protests from ratepayers, Frank Turner, 39-year - old father of three, was dismissed from his $3,800-a-year job without a hearing at an emergency council meeting Tuesday.

Mayor Stanley Mott accused Chief Turner of numerous offences. The mayor declined to divulge the nature of the alleged offences because "it might jeopardize his (Turner's) future employment."

Chief Turner received $325 severance pay. He served three years and was the eighth police chief in the last nine years in this town 32 miles southwest of Hamilton.

Earlier, Chief Turner said: "I hope they fire me so that I will have some legal recourse."

He did not elaborate.

Quake claims 10

New earth tremors in Italy

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Slight new earth tremors shook southern Italy early today after a severe earthquake that brought death to 10 persons and injuries to dozens.

The major earthquake Tuesday night spread damage and panic across southern Italy. Hundreds of thousands of frightened Italians spent the night in the open.

New shocks rippled the earth at 4:10 a.m. and 7:15. They were slight, but strong enough to topple a few small buildings weakened by the strong quake Tuesday night.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's cliffside vacation villa at Ravello was in the earthquake and about 45 miles southwest of the apparent epi-centre of the worst quake. But only slight tremors were felt in Ravello. There was no damage at the villa, and four-year-old Caroline and the rest of the household remained calm, servants said.

Mrs. Kennedy was visiting in the garden of another villa across town during Tuesday night's quake. Police said she also felt only a slight tremor.

DEATHS IN NAPLES

A Neapolitan woman was struck down by a falling cornice stone and killed. Two other Neapolitans died of heart attacks. Single deaths were reported at Molinara, Salerno and Avellino. Naples hospitals admitted 60 injures.

The top floor of a hospital collapsed at Passo Eclano, 40 miles east of Naples and near the quake's centre. Several patients were reported injured.

Homes and buildings collapsed in at least half a dozen communities east of Naples. A railroad bridge collapsed at Bari, on the Adriatic coast.

Avellino, 30 miles east of Naples, was hard hit. The quake, which measured five on the 12-point Mercalli scale, knocked out the town's water supply and communications. Buildings lay in ruins.

Churchbells chimed wildly throughout the countryside as the ground rocked across the peninsula to the Adriatic.

When the heavy quake came, tens of thousands fled toward the Bay of Naples and open areas in the hills outside the city.

Pope John XXIII sent a message of sympathy and told the pontifical assistance office to provide money and goods for those in dire need.

WINNIPEG (CP) — The repeal Monday of Winnipeg's arly closing bylaw has drawn mixed reaction from downtown businessmen H. R. Screaton, president of the Downtown Business Association, predicted that most stores probably would remain open more than two evenings a week, although the later closing time might not take place for several weeks.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those moaning noises you hear probably are just the anguished cries of the comics, complaining about the killing qualities of television

Look, they wail, Bob Newhart lasted just one season. Sid Caesar's coming back only after a long convalescence from a bad case of over exposure. George Gobel no longer has his own show. Others like Danny Thomas have integrated their routines in situation comedies and now are mostly actors.

Television doesn't seem to have any place for the comedian with set routines except for three minutes once in a while.

But while many comics fret, an astonishing clown named Red Skelton is preparing to start his 12th television season by increasing the length of his show from 30 minutes to one hour.

"They told us to do an hour instead of a half hour," shrugged Cecil Barker, Red's producer for the last seven years, "so we'll do an hour. Red still only works two days a week."

Barker insists that an hour show is in many respects easier to pull off than a shorter one.

"It's the nature of Red," the producer explained. "He gets tired of material when he runs through it too often. Jack Benny, for instance, starts with a reading, follows with rehearsals and then they shoot the show. Red, by his own chemistry, loses enthusiasm, the jokes don't seem funny and his performance goes down. So we don't go through all that."

"We'll get more from our guest stars," said Barker, "and we'll be able to do classy things we never had time for in the shorter show—like an exciting opening each week."

New subway

LONDON (CP) — The Victorian Line — London's first new subway in 55 years — will be built at a cost of £65,000,000 the government announced Monday. Work is to start immediately on the line — which will slice diagonally across central London from Victoria in the south to Walthamstow on the city's northeastern outskirts. It will stretch nearly 11 miles and serve 12 stations.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movies about the U.S. fighting forces, a Hollywood staple since the first days of the Second World War, are in danger of extinction by Pentagon directives.

So says Sy Bartlett, an expert in the service picture. An air force reserve officer himself, he is filming a saga of the Strategic Air Command, A Gathering of Eagles, with Rock Hudson and Rod Taylor.

The movie almost didn't get made, Bartlett said.

"It took the recommendation of Gen. Curtis Lemay and President Kennedy himself to get it past the Pentagon brass," the producer said.

"It's ridiculous," Bartlett said. "The only thing they want to know now is: How will the movie benefit the taxpayers? So we had to explain how it would show the taxpayers what they are getting for their money."

"It would also demonstrate the system of positive control to those who fear that a war can be started through error. And it would show in a very graphic way to the Russians why they would be foolish to start anything."

NO CONCESSIONS

Even after such arguments, Bartlett received no concessions in filming of his picture. He was told he could proceed—but personnel and equipment could not be used for anything beside their regular duties.

"Fortunately, we were able to go ahead because SAC is in daily manoeuvres which we could photograph," the producer said.

Bartlett, an air force reserve colonel, is a champion of the service film not merely because he makes many of them. He thinks they do a good selling job for the United States at home and abroad.

He cited some of his recent ones. Pork Chop Hill, which he made with Gregory Peck, was a realistic saga of the Korean war that demonstrated to the world that the American soldier is "a formidable opponent."

"And of course 12 O'clock High is a classic," said Bartlett, who helped write the air force film. "It is now shown to all air recruits and even at Harvard business school to demonstrate the qualities of leadership."

Funeral is scheduled for Saturday

Funeral for Roland Codere, 47, of Sherbrooke who was found dead Tuesday morning at Little Lake Magog in front of his summer residence is to be held on Saturday morning at 10 in the Notre-Dame du Perpetuel Secours Church in Sherbrooke.

Remains are resting at the Brien Funeral Home on Ball Street. Mr. Codere is survived by his wife, the former Yvette Beaudoin, his five children, Louis, Danielle, Francois, Martine and Dominque; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Codere; two brothers, Hector and Jean-Moise Codere and two sisters, Mrs. Jean-Marc Roberge and Mrs. Bob Smith of Thetford Mines.

Mr. Codere completed his studies at the seminary St. Charles Borromee in Sherbrooke and later graduated from the Higher Commercial Studies school in Montreal. From 1940 to 1946, he served in the Canadian Army overseas where he received a citation during the Battle of the Rhine in 1944.

In 1948, Mr. Codere became secretary of the Codere Ltee. in Sherbrooke. Ten years later he was appointed secretary of the Alouette Motel Inc. That same year, he became president of the Corporation of the Hotel Dieu hospital of Sherbrooke and in 1959, he was appointed treasurer of the Fiduciary Society of the University of Sherbrooke.

In 1959, he was named director of the Sherbrooke Trust Co. and in 1960, he was elected president of the Canadian Wholesale Hardware Association.

Aylmer fire chief describes force

Says community PR vital to volunteers

By MYER SHIMELMAN
(Record Staff Reporter)

Good public relations with the town folk and town council as well as good discipline within the brigade all combine to make an excellent volunteer fire brigade delegates to the 54th annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs were told Tuesday afternoon by Rollie Geurtin chief of the Aylmer Volunteer Fire Brigade.

Chief Geurtin's force numbers 25, all volunteers, five of which are officers.

The one startling difference between the Aylmer volunteer fire department and other fire departments around North America is that the officers are elected by the men rather than being appointed.

Elections if wanted are held every two years, and Chief Geurtin reports that no one had called for an election in the past four years.

Aylmer is a residential town of some 6,300 persons, and it has no trouble getting volunteer firemen.

To become a volunteer fireman in this little community, one must apply in writing to the chief.

If the application seems serious enough, the applicant is given an interview with the chief at which time the "cards are laid on the table."

If after the interview, the applicant still wants to join he is put on the force for a probation period of six months.

During these six months he is trained and is given the full pay and responsibilities of the other volunteers.

After the probation period is over and if he seems acceptable to the department, another six month period ensues. After the latter six months are over he is issued his own uniform and the other necessary equipment.

The Aylmer fire brigade meets every Wednesday evening and from early spring to late fall training periods are held outside. In the winter, sessions are still maintained weekly but then they are indoors.

As for remuneration, each volunteer receives two dollars for every fire he attends and if the fire should last more than an hour he gets a dollar and a quarter for each ensuing hour.

If a volunteer misses two meetings within a year he is called in to see the chief, and a third missed meeting, without a "good" excuse puts the volunteer off the force.

The Aylmer fire brigade has two trucks; built in 1958 and the other in 1931 and both along with a small emergency vehicle are stored in the brigade's headquarters which used to be a provincial garage.

To raise the money needed to maintain the Aylmer volunteer fire brigade the volunteers hold three events annually; a public subscription campaign, a fireman's dance and a fireman's picnic. These three provide the brigade with $3,000 which is enough to carry it through the year's activities.

During fire-prevention week, the brigade gives drills, demonstration, and lectures as well as holding a parade on the opening day.

The parade is held in conjunction with two other neighbouring villages which also have volunteer brigades.

As for the future, Chief Geurtin hopes to install radio equipment in the fire trucks, to get an improved alarm system for the town and to improve the inspection system which is presently in operation.

Watches over DuPont plant

Industry fire chief must keep 'nagging'

One of Canada's top industrial fire chiefs has a job his wife says would be called nagging if she did it at home. He must, says Joseph R. Boucher of the DuPont plant at Shawinigan Falls, Que., keep after all sections of his company's plant to take precautions which cost money without increasing production.

Inspection of buildings important

Knowledge of the type and construction of a building is very important for adequate and efficient fire fighting, delegates to the 54th annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs were told Tuesday morning by Armand Durette, director of the Montreal Fire Department.

Director Durette told the assembly that in Montreal periodic checks are made on all institutional, commercial, and industrial buildings as well as oil and gas yards, lumber yards and all other places which might be the scene of holocausts.

"From these checks, we get information which we incorporate into pre-fight plans so that should the fire ever come about we will have a first step in combatting it," he said.

"In checking the buildings and other potential fire-areas we check the class of the building as well as its occupancy and type. However, some of the main check points are the dimensions of the building with special note being given to height and number of stories, type of construction and special factors involved in the spread of fires such as shafts and stairways or any other vertical openings.

"Common fire hazards such as combustible material lying around are also checked as are special fire hazards.

"Checks are also made on available fire-fighting equipment and thus we get information for better and more efficient fire fighting."

WOMEN CHIEFS

Some native tribes in the Togo republic in west Africa have women chiefs.

Chief Boucher spoke Tuesday to the 54th annual conference of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs, mostly made up of municipal chiefs paid and volunteer, on fire-fighting in private industry.

Chief Boucher recalled the case of a manager who wanted him to sign one of the permits DuPont requires for any open flame job in its plant.

"Let's do a vapor test," the chief said, in spite of the manager's haste. The area to be welded contained sufficient traces of a carbon and sulphur compound to blow the roof off if a torch had been applied.

The plant uses 450 types of chemicals in large volumes.

Management usually backs me up in my efforts," says Chief Boucher, "and of course all effort would be useless without the cooperation of employees."

"We select our plant squad of fire-fighters from those among our 600 employees who can leave their jobs at any time without badly upsetting production.

"We often run into reluctance, strong reluctance on the part of the employees to take positions on the fire squad. We overcome this by building up the idea that these are specially selected men for an important job.

"We provide our squad with best in boots, hoses, and extinguishers. It has a very good psychological effect on the men to know that management is willing to spend money in this way."

Fire safety precautions

Constant check made of CPR equipment

The Canadian Pacific Railway maintains a constant and regular check on all its buildings and rolling stock and all other possessions, delegates to the 54th annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs were told Tuesday morning by H. C. Harmon, an assistant manager of the railway.

All major installation are checked three times a year while the minor installations are given checks twice a year and once yearly checks are given to smaller and less important installations" he said.

"The importance of fire fighting in an industry such as ours cannot ever be underestimated," Mr. Harmon said. "if one or more of our installations ever burned out, then communications would be seriously hampered".

In outlining the history of fire fighting in the railways Mr. Harmon told of the original volunteer railway fire brigades which are still in existence in some of the smaller communities.

"Now, however," he went on to say," we have a large, modern and highly efficient department to take care of the threat of fires and this department covers all segments of the CPR empire; from railways to hotels, and from telecommunications to gas and oil installations."

In charge of these operations are two supervisors and six officers.

"In fact," Mr. Harmon said, "in our new buildings we are installing sprinkler systems as a further precaution".

"Another precaution which we take at CPR," he said, "is that we insist that all trucks in our 'piggyback' system are carefuly checked as to types and safety of gas heaters, cooler, motors, etc, and that all be marked as to load if it should in any way be apt to start a fire."

The CPR gives its employees periodic literature and lectures on what to do should a fire start and what equipment should be used. These campaigns are stepped up during the national spring clean-up and fire 'prevention' weeks.

Give contracts

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Highways Minister F. W. Rowe announced Tuesday that contracts have been awarded for the construction of two bridges on the Trans-Canada Highway in Western Newfoundland at a combined cost of about $500,000. The construction of the bridges by McNamara Construction Company will complete for the present major structures to be built on the route, Dr. Rowe said in a statement.

Accept contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — Some 5,000 woodsworkers in British Columbia's southern interior district have voted to accept a new contract granting a 10-cent-an-hour increase over two years, the International Woodworkers of America Union (CLC) announced Tuesday.

Coaticook High gives wheelchair to hospital

The Sherbrooke Hospital has been presented with a new whell chair.

The chair was donated Tuesday afternoon by representatives of the Coaticook High School Junior Red Cross Society to Miss Clara Aitkenhead, director of nursing at the Sherbrooke Hospital and Harry Allnutt, hospital adminstrator.

Grades 8, 9, 10 and 11 students of Coaticook High School raised the money during the '61 school year by holding dances, white elephant sales and penny races said 18 year-old Merle Sutton, a grade eleven student at Coaticook High School and 1962 president of the school's Red Cross Society who was on hand for the presentation.

"We had heard of other schools making a donation of a wheel chair to a hospital so we tought it would be a good project for our school," said 17-year-old Glenda Patterson, a 1962 Cookshire High School graduate who has plans to enter training as a nurse at the Sherbrooke hospital this September. Glenda was 1961 president of the Coaticook High School Junior Red Cross.

This is the first time that Coaticook High School Junior Red Cross has carried out such a project.

Three plead guilty

Charges follow series of sports club thefts

Three of four youths who pleaded guilty in Sherbrooke District Court Tuesday afternoon to several theft charges had their sentences postponed until September 15, by Judge Redmond Hayes.

Fernand Laplante, 19; Hubert Corbeil, 20; and Gaston Prochu, 19, all of Sherbrooke, and Real Lallier, 20, of R.R. 4, Lennoxville, were arrested by Sherbrooke Municipal police Tuesday afternoon.

Lallier, who pleaded not guilty to the charges, will appear in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Thursday to face trial.

Crown Attorney Benoit Turmel asked Judge Hayes for permission to detain Lallier for 48 hours because provincial police wanted to question him along with the three others in connection with several other breakins outside the city limits.

Mr. Turmel was given permission to detain the accused and no bail was set.

Laplante was charged with theft at the Sherbrooke Miniature Golf Club, theft at a Sherbrooke club, a camera theft and a fourth theft at the Dollard Sports Club.

Hubert Corbeil, was charged with theft from the Dollard Sports Club and a camera theft along with theft from a Sherbrooke club.

Prochu, was charged with theft from the Miniature Golf Club, and another club.

Lallier, pleaded not guilty to charges of theft from the Dollard Sports Club, and theft from the Miniature Golf Club.

The four accused were taken back to cells yesterday afternoon where they were questioned by Quebec Provincial Police in connection with other robberies outside Sherbrooke.

Gilles Arsenault, 20, Gaston Roy, 19, both of St. Foy, near Quebec City, and Adrien Fournier, 19, of l'Ancienne Lorette, pleaded not guilty before Judge Redmond Hayes in Sherbrooke District Court Tuesday morning to two car thefts last weekend.

The trio was arrested by Quebec Provincial Police near Magog shortly after they started out with a car taken from the Murray Magog Used Car lot.

Police recovered the first car, which was stolen in Quebec City, near the car lot where the second car was taken after they arrested the trio.

Arsenault, who appeared in court in Quebec four months ago for car theft, was represented by lawyer Ronald Frechette, who told the court his client had just finished a course in electricity and was looking for a job when he was arrested.

"He took a course in electrical work, is that why he started playing in cars?" Judge Hayes asked.

In reply attorney Frechette asked the judge that his client be released on bail until his trial.

Judge Hayes allowed the trio to be released on $500 cash bail or $950 property bail, each.

The three will appear in court to face the charges, probably next week.

Brings doctors, clergy closer together

Clinical pastoral training bridges hospital gap

The clinical pastoral training movement has contributed a great deal towards the overcoming of mutual suspicion and misunderstanding between doctors and clergy in the hospital, the Sherbrooke Hospital administrator said Tuesday.

Speaking to the Sherbrooke Rotary Club Harry Allnutt said: "Many a young curate has fumbled his way through his first experiences of hospital visiting, wondering more and more what he is there for. He has sometimes been rebuffed and made to feel in the way and refused access to the bedside because "we are expecting the doctor" or "he is too ill to receive communion."

Many a doctor, on the other hand, said Mr. Allnutt frequenly looked on the clergy as bulls in a china shop, as an untrained menaces, ignoring principles of hygiene, tiring patients with long visits and claiming exemption from the visiting regulations.

The hospital administrator, very frequently being neither doctor nor clergyman, is in a position to recognize where both sides have been at fault, Mr. Allnutt pointed out.

He noted that doctors in a hospital may have been too apt to dismiss as unimportant the fact that medicine was originally a priestly craft. With this loss have gone certain aspects of his craft which must somehow or other be preserved in order to treat the whole man, he said.

The administrator noted that a change in the character of hospital care has aggravated this condition and modern medicine has laid too much stress upon the material needs of the patient.

"On the other hand, the adminstrator cannot help noticing that not everybody feels the need for special instruction," said Mr. Allnutt. "Nor do they all seem to realize how different an approach must be made to Mr. Jones as the donor of a new altar cloth and Mr. Jones as a sufferer from some painful disease.

Mr. Allnutt, however, said that clinical pastoral training has resulted in a marked improvement in relationships among the medical staff, clergy and the hospital personnel.

This training program has been carried out for the past 10 years at the Sherbrooke Hospital. The Sherbroke Hospital is the first short-term general hospital in Canada to set up such a course.

Collaborating are Dr. T. J. Quintin, head of the Department of Medicine at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Rev. John Anido, Bishop's University's professor of Pastoral Theology and the hospital adminstrator, Divinity students from Bishop's during Lenten term take part in a ten-week course at the hospital.

The course has three parts: (1) lectures by the medical staff and by clergyman or hospital visiting chaplain in the morning; (2) afternoon visitings with patients and (3) a seminar where discussions are held to evaluate the results of visits to patients.

"The whole program, though less extensive than some of those conducted in the United States, has proved itself to be of unquestionable value," Mr. Allnutt said, "The students receive an insight into the work and skills of the hospital's staff and both sides have an opportunity to explore those areas best suited for joint action on the part of the hospital staff and visiting pastor to aid in restoring the whole man to health."

Seated at head table with the speaker were Jack Thompson, Bert Lyon, Evans Joslin, Gene Gingras, Lee Watson, Cliff Bryant, and Ken Halpenny.

Personnel lack hampers drug study

Proposals that the federal Food and Drugs administration be divided into two separate departments, advanced as a result of the recent thalidomide crisis, fail to strike at the basic problems of controlling drug distribution in this country — the lack of sufficient trained personnel to cope with the wide variety of new drugs coming onto the market each month.

Probably separating the two services night be desirable but unless the new department has sufficient manpower to perform its functions properly, the Canadian people might be lulled into a feeling of false security engendered by a paper reorganization.

Originally, the two services were established as a single agency because the vast majority of pharmaceuticals in the market were comparatively simple. The main problem facing the control authorities was to ensure the purity of the drugs and to assure that they were up to the strength advertised by the manufacturers. Similar supervision was also required for processed foodstuffs. In most cases the desired results could be obtained by simple chemical tests in the laboratory and the analysis could be performed by a chemist.

But this simple supervision, especially in the case of some of the new wonder drugs, is not sufficient today. The drugs have become so complicated and the possible ill-effects on the human system so varied that tests of purity and potency mean nothing.

No criticism has been made of the quality of thalidimide, for instance.

The difficulty arose from the lack of sufficient experts in health departments throughout the world to make the tests required and the failure of government agencies to establish an international clearing house for the exchange of information.

Accumulated hatred vented on Wall

The riots and unrest that have culminated the first anniversary of the building of Berlin's infamous wall occurred in spite of every precaution by both sides to present the Wall from becoming the cause of an incident that could heat up the Cold War again. In West Berlin, officials had held only a three-minute silence at midday to mark the anniversary, and a voluntary curfew in the evening.

But what could not be prevented was the accumulated feeling of hate that has been building up in West Berlin all year. It has been a feeling that has not been without its outlets.

Just a few months ago, as the wanton shootings by East Berlin guards continued, gangs of students were formed in West Berlin. They became well-armed, and provided with explosives, started a partisan war against the Wall.

Every second night over the past month, a charge of explosive has gone off somewhere along the concrete wall, tearing holes into it, hurling debris and dirt over to the other side. Heckling of border guards, stone-throwing and even minor violence has been going on intermittently.

It was not surprising, therefore, that the outbreaks of the last few days should occur. They but needed the occasion — an anniversary — and an incident — the death of a young refugee boy just inside the east — to flare up.

Now West Berlin Mayor Willie Brandt wants a Western pledge of aid for refugees who are wounded on the wall and fall back on the East German side out of reach of West Berliners. However humanitarian the spirit of the request is, under present circumstances, it sounds like a politically-impossible one to grant.

And, if the East Berlin shootings continue, there is no telling to what lengths outraged West Berliners will go to vent their wrath on the Wall.

It's so easy to tell other people how to do things that you never get around to doing yourself.

The readers say:

Make sure of facts – union leader

Dear Sir:

I received a clipping from The Canadian Press Clipping Service of an article carried by your newspaper in the July 27, 1962 issue, under the heading:. "Union Leader Preachs Law Defiance" which deserves some comment.

It appears that certain newspapers, in their eagerness to discredit the trade union movement and its leaders, cannot be bothered to make sure of their facts.

Your article referred to the "prospective encroachment of the United Steel Workers." This is completely untrue! The United Steel Workers are not involved in anyway. It is the United Automobile Workers that is trying to gain bargaining rights in the Malton plants that have been held by the Machinists' Union for some 20 years.

Furthermore, the reporter who quoted me at this meeting, which I am told was later carried by the Canadian Press News Service, was somewhat off the beam.

I realize that when a speaker does not read from a written text then he is at the mercy of the press reporters and it is amazing what reporters can sometimes do by taking a quotation out of context.

I have checked my notes that I used at this meeting and I clearly recall making the statement: "we'll use legal methods and some not so legalistic methods" which has a completely different meaning from what I was quoted. I explained to the members present the complex procedures in the legal methods we would use—we planned to make application for certification to the Labour Relations Board if the Company refused to recognize our collective agreements. In addition to this, I explained the other methods we would use—the "no-raiding" provisions under the Canadian Labour Congress Constitution, and also the procedures under the IAM-UAW "No-raiding and Mutual Assistance Agreement." These were the methods I was referring to when I said "some not so legalistic methods." As you can see, the statement and the explanation I gave at the meeting have no relationship at all to the contents of your article.

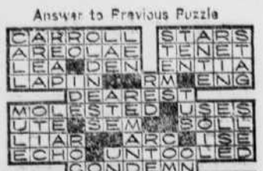

For your information, The International Association of Machinists has been in existence for almost 75 years. We have earned a reputation second to none on the North American continent when it comes to observing the laws and using ethical methods. My own personal record is well known to many and speaks for itself. We have used only legal methods and will continue to do so without the advice and biased newspaper articles. Neither our Union, nor I personally, have preached nor practised "defiance of the law" or "contempt for the law" and I strongly object to any newspaper making such nonsensical statements about me.

I would appreciate it if you would show the respect that I would expect of a responsible newspaper by carrying this letter in the "Letters to the Editor" columns of your newspaper at the earliest possible date.

Yours truly,
Mike Rygus,
General Vice-President,
International Association of Machinists.

As immigration slows down

Critical time for ethnic press but members are not depressed

By LEON KOSSAR

TORONTO — (TNS) — The critical period has set in for Canada's ethnic press, for the lean immigration years have become leaner. But the papers are meeting the challenge of immigration cutdowns with consolidated efforts that are producing new circulation harvests.

The latest foreign-language press survey shows that 123 weeklies and news monthlies, in 28 tongues, are now being published across the nation.

Their combined circulation adds up to 703,610, and editors here are quick to point that this would mean a readership of at least 2,000,000 after the papers are passed among family and friends. This is the highest figure recorded to date.

Several of the papers publish partly in English, or at least offer an English supplement, and it is the feeling among some editors that, like it or not, this practice will be extended further if papers wish to reach second and third-generation Canadians of their own language background.

PURPOSE DEFEATED?

Others, of course, counter this argument with claims that such forms of publication defeat the purpose of these newspapers, which is to translate news and editorial opinion into other languages for those less familiar with English.

Over this loom the spectres of immigration statistics, long the indicators of new blood for ethnic press readership. The six-month 1962 immigration figure shows a total of only 34,061 immigrants, and by the end of the year may record the poorest immigration of any postwar year.

The Canadian Ethnic Press Federation has just published a file on Canada's language press, complete not only for its own membership of 54 papers, but also for the 69 others not within the membership of the federation, but democratic in concept.

Toronto federation officials are optimistic about the future.

"This is the real test," said secretary Dan Iannuzzi, publisher of the Corriere Italian group. "When immigration is down some of the new papers, born when times are good, may falter.

"But all indications now are that both advertising and circulation are on the increase. Most of the papers keep their readers for at least a generation."

Vice-president Karl Julius Baier, publisher of the German-language Torontoer Zeitung, said it might have been easier if immigration continued to increase — "but, on the other hand, it might have caused some of the newer papers to overshoot their possibilities."

He added: "Canadian industry and business are generating more interest in the ethnic press, and they use it as a complement to their advertising in the dailies."

HALF AND HALF

A federation director, Japanese editor Ken Mori of the New Canadian, said his paper now caters to half a readership in Japanese, half in English, and the paper is divided accordingly. "It keeps the young people interested in the social and community life of Japanese Canadians across Canada," he said.

For more than 50 years the ethnic press has been exerting a steady, determined effort to aid integration and develop new avenues of communication between native Canadians and new arrivals.

Officially, their rewards have been little except for occasional government advertising. Many organizations and individuals throw in cash every year end to keep some of the smaller papers solvent as a service to their section of the Canadian community.

Canada should express its thanks, in a tangible way, to these papers for a job well done — a job that continues.

One method, I repeat, could very well be to set up a series of special publishing projects, commemorating the history of each group through its own newspaper resources, for Canada's centennial year. Such projects could be financed from the special funds allotted to the centennial, or, in some way, through the Canada Council.

Let's make the progress of Canada's first 100 years as a nation known to all our citizens, through every language medium at the command of the centennial planners.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 22, 1962 . . .

The International Red Cross was established in Geneva 98 years ago today —in 1864—to protect and care for the sick and wounded of war. The move was inspired by Henri Dunant, a young Swiss, who five years earlier had come upon the scene of the battle of Solferino in northern Italy and organized a civilian corps to care for the wounded.

1865 — William Sheppard of New York patented the first liquid soap.

1935 — Alberta elected its first Social Credit government, under William Aberhart.

Plastic surgery is thought of as a modern development of medicine, but as early as 800 B.C. the Hindus restored missing facial features. For instance, the caste of potters were quite expert at restoring noses. Of course, the need for surgery arose for quite different reasons than it does today: noses were often sliced off as a punishment for various offenses.

EYES ON EUROPE

By WALT MAKDATOR

One of the most puzzling aspects of the neo-Nazi demonstrations in Britain is the reaction of near hysteria shown by a segment of the public towards them.

Fascist groups are not new to the British Isles. They were evident as early as the 1920's, and although suppressed during World War II, became active again shortly after.

In recent years, Fascist speakers have been allowed to spew out their philosophies of racial hatred in Hyde Park without anyone paying too much attention to them. On the whole, Britishers tended to laugh off the speakers as cranks and lunatics.

But now, suddenly, Britishers have stopped laughing.

Instead of merely ridiculing them as in the past, they now pelt the Fascists with stones and bottles.

Why? What caused the normally restrained English people to riot in London and Manchester following the rallies staged by Sir Oswald Mosley's British Union Movement and Colin Jordan's National Socialist Movement?

It certainly couldn't be because the populace believes this handful of fanatics poses a serious threat to the country.

Surely not even an alarmist could believe that either Mosley or Jordan will be able to persuade a majority of Britishers to embrace Fascism. Britain still carries the scars of the last war. And she would never mock the memory of the men who died in the war against Nazism by changing her mind and saying that Hitler was right after all.

Some people have charged that the riots were caused by Communists.

If they had taken place in Glasgow, the stronghold of Communism in Britain, this charge might be conceivable. But it is hard to believe that the Communists in London and Manchester are either well enough organized or strong enough in numbers to muster the thousands of people that were involved in the violent protests against the Fascists.

A more plausible explanation might be that the Fascists, with their incessant anti-Semitic oratory, have simply worn out the patience of the citizenery. Britain and the world still feels the impact of the Eichmann trial.

But at the moment the British Fascists are playing down their anti-Semitic propaganda, and emphasizing anti-Negro doctrines instead.

With slogans such as "Keep Britain White," they hope they can win the support of the growing number of people who are opposed to the great influx of West Indians and Pakistanis into Englnad.

Although there is a strong undercurrent of anti-Negro sentiment in Britain, it is not attributed to racial or color prejudices in the main.

Those who do resent the West Indians and Pakistanis do so because the immigrants are taking over jobs, and more important, are proving a drain on housing, of which there is an acute shortage.

But although they may resent the colored immigrants for these reasons, the average Britisher will not tolerate the use of violence against them, such as the Fascists instigated at Dudley, in Worcestershire and South London.

Added to this, Britishers have traditionally championed Negro rights in the southern United States. They do not now fancy being branded as hypocrites for allowing the Fascists to advocate discrimination against Negroes in Britain.

As a consequence, the Fascists are creating more opponents than recruits for their cause with their "Up the white man!" slogan.

Whatever the cause of the riots, they will continue so long as the swastika-obsessed fanatics are allowed to stage public rallies and commit racial slander on their platforms.

If the Fascists wish to meet in private, dressed in their swastika badges and SS daggers, to babble to each other about the wonders of Hitler and Himmler, then by all means let them. Allow them the freedom of speech to poison their own minds.

But if the British government hopes to end the rioting, it will have to prohibit the Fascists from staging public rallies. The people have already proved they are not in the mood to listen to drivel of racial hatred in their parks and city squares.

First district cub camp is held at Lake Lovering

The first District Cub camp in the Sherbrooke District was held at Lake Lovering last weekend. Twenty-nine sixers and seconds from packs in the area were present to enjoy two days of tenting. R. Tracey, the District Cubmaster, was camp chief and with the assistance of seven leaders, carried out a full program of activity.

During instruction periods, each boy had a choice of an outdoor badge or test he could study and try to pass, and during the four swim periods, many boys qualified for the swimmer's badge.

Cubmaster Gary Quinn of 1st Sherbrooke conducted the campfire program on Saturday night during which members of each of the five tents put on a skit.

Sunday morning "rise and shine" whistle at 7 a.m. received little response, in contrast to the 5 a.m. activity the first morning. A wee voice from deep in a sleeping bag in one tent suggested to a tentmate that he get up and see what the whistle was for.

District Commissioner, P. Gray, visited the camp on Sunday for morning inspection of the tents. A Cub's Own service was held in the quiet of the birch grove with prayers and hymns.

For the last meal, the Cubs built their own fires and roasted hot-dogs. By five o'clock, tents were being taken down and a general clean-up was under way bringing to an end a very successful Cub camp.

Hopes for missing girl wane

BEETON, Ont. (CP)—Hopes of weary parents and searchers for the safety of Thomasina Baker waned Tuesday night despite a publicized description of her possible abductor and $5,000 reward.

A child's crumpled red sock found at the edge of a swamp was the only result of a search by 200 men of every field, culvert, bridge and ditch within 200 square miles surrounding this community 50 miles north of Toronto.

The 10-year-old girl was lured into a car by a man Sunday night as her three - year - old brother Allen looked on.

Stress on astronaut recorded

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Confident smiles to the contrary, it costs in terms of stress and wear and tear to make the kind of orbital adventures Soviet and U.S. astronauts are making.

U.S. space experts have detailed information about the medical performance of their astronauts. Little is known of the physiological reaction of Soviet astronauts to the rigors of space flight.

One sign of stress can be associated with weight loss, more specifically loss of large amounts of water.

Indications of this came from Tuesday's conference reviewing the technical details of M. Scott Carpenter's flight May 24. It was the second orbital flight in a U.S. spacecraft.

Carpenter, a 154-pounder at flight time, dropped six pounds by the time he weighed in aboard the recovery ships some 15 hours later.

Most people lose some weight in the course of a strenuous day. But there are indications water loss can be caused by hormonal activity—more specifically activity of adrenal gland hormones, believed to be indicators of stress.

RELEASES ADRENALIN

The adrenal gland produces a variety of hormones, and some of them have been shown to be factors in the body's reaction to stress. Meeting a sudden challenge, adrenalin is released into the bloodstream and keeps every muscle alert. Other adrenal hormones regulate other body systems, including the release or retention of water, perhaps in response to other kinds of stress.

U.S. space doctors are concerned with how much water to permit their astronauts to drink before and during spaceflight. The problem is keeping a proper water balance in the body. John Glenn, on the first U.S. orbital flight, became slightly dehydrated. His water intake was limited, but his water loss was called normal.

Carpenter lost about three time as much water as Glenn lost during a similar experience, indicating there may be broad personal differences.

Rita anemic

NEW YORK (AP)—Actress Rita Hayworth interrupted rehearsals for a broadway play Tuesday to enter hospital. The nature of her illness was not clear. Her agent said the 42-year - old screen star faced "complete nervous exhaustion." However, a statement released at the hospital said: "She is slightly anemic. She will be here for several days for a complete checkup . . ."

Complete iron mine financing

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pickands Mather and Co. reports the huge $235,000,000 iron ore project of Wabush Mines in northern Labrador, owned by companies from four nations, definitely will go forward now that a $130,000,000 financing arrangement has been completed.

Pickands Mather is managing agent for the project, which has a program calling for initial production of about 5,000,000 gross tons of iron ore concentrates a year. The Wabush Mines are considered to be the largest single ore body in North America and contain an estimated 1,000,000,000 tons of crude ore.

Ten iron and steel companies are participating in the Wabush Lake project.

They are:

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.; Steel Co. of Canada, Ltd.; Interlake Iron Corp.; Inland Steel Co.; Pittsburgh Steel Co.; Dominion Foundries and Steel, Ltd.; Societa Finanziaria Siderurgica per Azioni of Italy; Pickands Mather and Co.; Mannesmann A. G.; and Hoesch A. G. of West Germany.

TO BE JOINT VENTURE

Wabush Mines is a joint venture of Wabush Iron Co., Ltd., owned by the U.S. participants and the Italian firm, and Steel Co. of Canada, Dominion Foundries and Steel, Mannesmann Canadian Iron Ores, Ltd., and Hoesch Iron Ores, Ltd.

Wabush Securities Corp. is providing the financing for the U.S. and European participants through the sale of $130,000,000 in U.S. funds of 29-year first mortgage and collateral trust bonds to four insurance companies in the United States and Canada. Sales of the bonds to the insurance companies was arranged through Koehn, Loeb and Co. of New York.

Under the financing plan, Wabush Iron, Mannesmann Canadian and Hoesch Iron Ores will borrow up to 75 per cent of their combined proportion of the estimated $235,000,000 investment from Wabush Securities Corp.

Steel Co. of Canada and Dominion Foundries are not participating in the financing and will provide their proportionate share of the investment themselves, it was stated.

The ore body to be worked is known as lean ore, containing about 36 per cent iron and 52.5 per cent silica. The processing method to be used will produce a high-grade concentrate containing 66 per cent iron and 2.25 per cent silica.

MacLeods, MacDonalds hold family gathering

BARTON, VT. — The third annual picnic of the MacLeods and MacDonalds was held at Crystal Lake here on Sunday, Aug. 12. The register showed that 126 members of families, who are descendants of the Scottish pioneer settlers of the Lingwick- Winslow region, signed in.

They started arriving at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, most of them bringing picnic lunches. The weather was perfect for the picnickers, the older ones enjoying the warm sunshine while they visited, the youngsters wading and swimming at the beach.

The register was in charge of Karen and Queenie Gignac, Kathleen and Duncan McLeod. The oldest member registering was Mrs. Christie J. J. MacLeod of Sherbrooke. Travelling the greatest distance to attend was Mrs. George MacRae, Catherine MacLeod, of Los Angeles, Calif. The age of the youngest was not recorded

Among those attending for the first time were: Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Merrill, Barre, Vt.; Mrs. Edith Murray, Newton, Mass.; Mrs. Catherine MacRae, Los Angeles; Arthur MacLeod, Irene Hebert, Mary Polli, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert MacLeod, Mrs. Christine Ewen, Grantieville, Vt.; W. J. MacLeod, Brownville Junction, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Longmoore, Wells River, Vt.; Miss Christine Horan, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie MacLeod and Cheryl, East Angus.

Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald Sherbrooke; Mrs. Helen MacDonald, Milan, Que., Robert Smith, Scotstown, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond MacLeod, Bury, Miss Frances Smith, Lennoxville, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith, Ste. Rose, Que.; and Mrs. Mildred Scotten, Lyndon, Vt.

The register showed clansmen coming from Drummondville, Scotstown, Milan, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Montreal, East Angus, Fitch Bay, Bury, Ste. Rose, and Huntingville, in Quebec; Lyndon, Wells River, Boltonville, Lyndonville, Graniteville, Derby Line, Montperier, Newport, Washington, Northfield Essex Junction and Barre in Vermont; Littleton and Concord in New Hampshire; South Hadley, Springfield and Newton, in Massachussets, and Los Angeles, Calif.

A history of the individual MacLeod and MacDonald families is urgently needed and a detailed story concerning each family should be compiled and forwarded to Duncan McLeod, Milan, Que.

Plans for the 1963 reunion are presently being made and the date has been set for August 11 next year.

Magog ladies feted at belated birthday party

MAGOG — On August 15 the mutual friends of Mrs. Hedley Nicholl, of East Bolton Road, and Mrs. Iris Dingman, Merry Street gathered at the home of Mrs. Nicholl to celebrate their birthdays. The event was belated on account of Mrs. Nicholl's recent illness.

During the afternoon Evangelist Farkingson made a brief call. He read from the Scriptures and led the ladies in prayer.

When the presents had been opened and admired Mrs. Nicholl thanked her friends not only for the gifts but for all their kindness to her during her long illness. She read a poem by Augusta Moore, which she said expressed better than she could her appreciation and gratitude.

The two identical birthday cakes were trimmed with yellow flowers and yellow and white candles. The beautiful bouquets of gladioli, gifts of Mrs. F. Hopps and Mrs. A. Seymour, also added color to the happy occasion.

The hostess, Mrs. H. Hudson, assisted by Mrs. J. Hurlbut, and Mrs. A. Seymour, served lunch.

Dear Gaile: Some time ago I read in your column, I think, that it was improper to wear chiffon before 5 p.m. I stand corrected if it wasn't your column, as I do read your column regularly and seems I saw it there. I am having a discussion with my neighbor which is gettng rather heated. Any help that can be given by you will be greatly appreciated.

— Mrs. M. M.

Dear Mrs. M.M.: No, it wasn't my column. It's true, of course, that a very dressy black chiffon is not meant for daytime wear, short length or not. Styling has a great deal to do with the time when a dress may be worn. But here is an expert answer from designer James Galanos, who says:

"I have done many shirtwaist dresses in chiffon, certainly for daytime wear. In fact, the chiffon shirtwast dress might be termed an American classic. But I've also used a chiffon blouse with a tweed suit and I've done chiffon shifts for day wear.

In the last five years or so, we've lost many of our inhibited notions about fabrics. Wool, for instance, is now for evening. And corduroy is sometimes combined with satin."

Dear Gaile: You do so much for everyone that I have decided to ask your help with my problem. I am 54, weigh 121, am 5 feet 4, have black-brown hair with some gray in it. My complexion is fair with freckles though I try to protect my skin from the sun. My eyes are hazel. Now, I find that I need glasses. (My face is oval.) What color and shape do you suggest? What styles do you prefer? — C. R.

Dear C. R.: To take your last questions first, you really haven't a fashion color problem. With your hair and fair skin you can wear the high colors, pastels and deep colors, too. This will be largely a matter of your own personal preference. Certainly many shades of blue would look lovely on you and so would the blue-greens. Try color with a critical eye.

As for style, you have no weight problem and so you can (and should) follow the current fashions. Advice as to the right frame for your glasses comes from designer Martin Singer of the Harlequin Corporation. He says:

"You are fortunate in having an oval face as almost any frame shape will become you. But you might try one of the new fashionable narrow frames. Or, perhaps one with a slight upward tilt at the temple. And the straight narrow frames are very smart. As for color, if blue is one of your best colors and your closet is filled with it, then follow through with pretty clear blue frames. But since glasses are fashion accessories, why not have two pairs in two colors? And don't forget to let your eye shadow pick up and emphasize the color of the frame."

Fruit salads, combined with leafy greens, beautiful to behold

While salads or leafy greens are centuries old, recipes for fruit salads began appearing in cookbooks less than 200 years ago. Probably because tropical fruits such as oranges, grapefruit, lemons, bananas, pineapples, tangarines and avocados seldom reached that part of the world where cook books were written. Even fruits of the temperate zone had such a short season that there was never enough variety to provide the color, flavor and texture contrast we love in a well-made fruit salad. Today, with jet-age transportation and efficient cold storage we have a choice of luscious fruits from which to make an endless variety of tempting salads.

A few rules—quite simple ones—should be kept in mind when making fresh fruit salads:

Use only fully ripe fruits. Pears, avocados, bananas, cantaloupes may have to spend a day or two or more at room temperature to become soft-ripe.

Dip peeled avocados, bananas, pears, peaches and apples in lemon juice to prevent darkening.

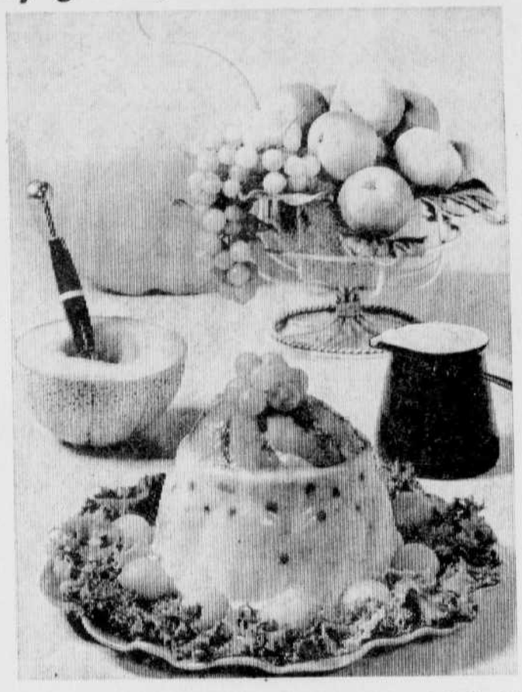

Cut fruits into rather large cubes or slices; minced fruit doesn't look good. Invest a little effort in fancier cuts now and then. It will pay off in the compliments received. It takes only a minute and an inexpensive little cutter to make colorful melon balls. Run the tines of a fork the length of a peeled banana to give the slices a pretty serrated edge. Cut fresh pineapple into slender sticks instead of cubes.

Add citrus segments to a fruit mixture just before serving; otherwise they lose too much juice while standing.

Thin mayonnaise or sour cream with orange or grapefruit juice. Other fresh fruit juice, too, if there's an electric blender handy. Whipped cream and mayonnaise make a de luxe dressing for fruit salads.

Since garnishes should be edible (generally) decorate a fruit salad with a perfect whole strawberry, a cluster of grapes, sprigs of mint, melon balls and slices or thin wedges of unpeeled orange, lemon, pears, apples. Since tomatoes are fruit—botanically speaking —those delightful little cherry tomatoes may be used as a garnish for fruit salads.

Strictly for ladies' day are such pretty garnishes as nasturtium flowers and leaves, squash blossoms, rose petal and orange or lemon blossoms. Tuck these flowers in close, though not actually touching, the fruit mixture.

Easy to make, delicious to taste and beautiful to behold, this fresh Fruit Salad Mousse which contains grapes, cantaloupe balls and slices of ripe peaches.

FRUIT SALAD MOUSSE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup hot water, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup fresh lemon juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 medium fresh peaches, ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup green seedless grapes, 1 cup fresh cantaloupe balls, 1 cup diced fresh peaches.

SALAD GREENS

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add hot water and stir to dissolve gelatine. Blend in sugar, lemon juice and salt. Peel the 2 peaches and cut them into ½-inch slices. Dip slices in gelatine mixture and arrange as desired in the bottom of an oiled 1½-quart mold. Chill gelatine mixture until about as thick as fresh egg whites. Combine mayonnaise and sour cream and fold in along with fruit. Turn into the mold over the sliced peaches. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Just before serving, turn out onto a serving plate. Garnish as desired with grapes, cantaloupe balls and salad greens.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

RAINBOW FRESH MELON MOLD

2 cups fresh honeydew balls, 2 cups fresh watermelon balls, 3 cups fresh cantaloupe balls, 1½ envelopes unflavored gelatine, ½ cup water, 1 cup boiling water, 5 tablespoons sugar, 5 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt, fresh mint leaves.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE DRESSING

Oil a 2-quart melon mold. Fill with three layers of melon balls, having honeydew as first layer, watermelon as second and cantaloupe the third layer. Soften gelatine in cold water. Stir in boiling water, sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cool. Pour into the mold over the melon balls. Chill until firm, and ready to serve. Just before serving turn out onto a serving dish. Garnish with fresh mint leaves. Serve with Roquefort Cheese Dressing.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE DRESSING

¼ cup sour cream, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, ¼ cup crumbled Roquefort cheese. Combine all ingredients. Serve with fruit salad.

Yield: ¾ cup.

Fashion Tips

FRESH FASHIONS

Don't watch for a single "look" in fashion this fall. Fashion is evolving season by season, just as it should. The new fashions will have a fresh different look.

FUR CHOKER

Thought for that out-of-fashion but still-good fur collar: Detach it from the coat and have it made into a little fur choker to wear with your new collarless coat or suit.

GOLD PUMPS

Contrary to what some women seem to think, gold leather is not for street wear. Those pumps in gold with medium heel are definitely for evening.

AROMATIC HERB

Now grown mostly as a decorative plant, hyssop may also be used for flavoring salads and soups.

SHARP CHEESE

Parmesan cheese, the Italian skim-milk product of sharp flavor, is mostly used as a grated dressing.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Damp mop gives floors that smooth, even shine

DEAR POLLY — I have been doing my kitchen floor without touching it. I wash the linoleum with a small cellulose sponge mop that squeezes almost dry with a lever at the base. After the washed floor is dry. I pour liquid self-polishing wax on the floor and then quick as a flash spread it smooth and even with the still damp mop. The wax dries to an even shine. Any wax remaining in the mop is washed out quickly with warm water.

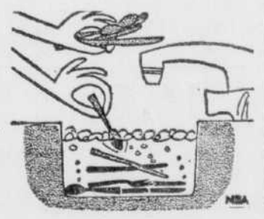

EASY-DOES-IT

DEAR POLLY — After using all the sweet pickles, I keep the juice that is left in the jar. It is wonderful for seasoning deviled eggs, ham salad and many sandwich fillings. Another trick is to drain plain canned beets and then heat them in the pickle juice. My family hated beets; now they love them.

MARY C.

DEAR POLLY — Perhaps some of the girls who don't have dishwashers hate washing flat silver as much as I do. I put it all in the bottom of the sink before washing any dishes. By the time the china and glassware are washed, the silver is clean. Just lift it out and rinse with real hot water and it dries in a few seconds.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

BRIDGE REMAINS PART GUESSING

Hand 11 showed a gain of 10 more International Match Points for America when the Italian West went down at three no-trump while the American East wrapped up four hearts.

Strangely enough if declarer were looking at all the cards he would have no trouble making a slam at either hearts or no-trump, but neither declarer had this remarkable vision.

The Italian West won the second spade with the king, led the ace and another heart and finessed dummy's jack.

Opening lead—♠ A

South made his queen of hearts and three more spade tricks by North and South set the hand.

East took the same play at four hearts and tried to break the clubs instead of finessing, so wound up with only 10 tricks, but 10 very nice tricks.

nI case you want to second guess the declarers, don't do it. Each took the best line of play, but it is unfortunate that the best line of play doesn't always work. If it did, bridge would be a far simpler game and bridge players would have far fewer gray hairs.

There was also a guess in the bidding. East hod to decide between a pass of his partner's three no-trump and a bid of four hearts. Fortunately, the American East made the right choice.

CARD SENSE

—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Dmd.	Pass	1 Spade	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

Spades A-Q-4, Hearts K-Q-7-6-5, Diamonds J-9-7-6, Clubs 2 .

What do you do?

A—Bid three diamonds only. You like this hand and will make further moves later.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues with a bid of three hearts. What do you do now?

Country Fried Chicken

2½ to 3 lbs. of TableRite Frying Chicken, Cut-Up — 1 cup of Flour — 1 tsp. of Salt — ½ tsp. of Pepper — ½ tsp. of Ac'cent — ¼ tsp. of Thyme — ¼ lb. of Salt Pork, Cut in Slices — ¼ cup of Butter — 1 slightly beaten Egg — 2 tbsp. of Milk — ¼ cup of Water — 1 cup of Light Cream.

The easiest way to dredge chicken is to place cut-up chicken and dry ingredients into a paper bag. Fold opening over securely and shake until each piece is well-coated with mixture. Remove coated chicken from bag but reserve flour. Fry salt pork in heavy skillet until crisp, remove and set aside, add butter to pork fat. Combine egg and milk and dip each piece of chicken. Heat fat, add chicken and brown chicken quickly on both sides. Add water, cover tightly, reduce heat to low and let cook for 30 minutes. Check occasionally and turn if necessary . . . Remove chicken to heated platter. Blend in 2 tbsp. of seasoned flour. Let cook until lightly browned. Add cream gradually while stirring madly to keep the sauce smooth. Let heat through, pour over chicken. Garnish with parsley and crisp salt pork pieces.

Acton edges Granby 4-3 to cop third, Beavers fined

Jim Maloney hurls Reds to 2-0 win over Cubs to gain on leaders as Pirates stop Mets, Phillies win

Around about June, manager Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati Reds had a perplexing mathematical problem. No matter how he added things up, his search for a fourth starting pitcher invariably left him with three. Then Hutch had a hunch —Jim Maloney.

It's August, the defending champion Reds have pulled to within five games of the leading Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League race and are only 1½ back of the second-place San Francisco Giants. One of the major reasons—Jim Maloney, 22.

A righthander who started in the Cincinnati organization as a shortstop, Maloney continued his fine hurling Tuesday with a four-hit performance while Marty Keough's two-run homer provided the support for a 2-0 triumph over Chicago Cubs.

It was the fourth consecutive triumph for Maloney, who has solved Hutch's pitching problem by joining Bob Purkey (19-4), Joey Jay (18-10) and Jim O'Toole (13-13) to form the Reds' big four. Maloney is 8-4 and has allowed only six runs in the last four starts.

KEOUGH WINS GAME

Keough took over where the Reds' big hitters—Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson and Gordie Coleman — failed against Don Cardwell. The 28-year-old utility man, acquired from Washington Senators and hitting at a .288 clip, stroked the game-winner in the eighth inning after a single by Leo Cardenas.

The triumph was the Reds' 14th in their last 17 games and moved them another step closer to the Dodgers and Giants, both idle Tuesday.

Milwaukee Braves edged St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 in 10 innings with reliever Claude Raymond (3-2) of St. Johns, Que., picking up the victory.

Pittsburgh Pirates extended New York's losing streak to 13 games with an 8-6 triumph in the opener of a doubleheader before the Mets came back to win 5-4. Art Mahaffey got Philadelphia Phillies off to a sweep over Houston Colts with a 5-3 first-game triumph for his 17th victory before the Phils made it 15 in row without a loss over the Colts by winning the nightcap 7-4.

Maloney and Cardwell (6-12), who had compiled a string of 17 straight scoreless innings, were locked in a shutout duel until the eighth.

MISSES TOUGH CATCH

Cardenas started things with his third hit of the game. Keough failed in an attempt to bunt the first pitch, then took a called strike. He drove the next pitch to right field. George Altman tried for a shoestring catch and failed. The ball rolled to the wall as the runners raced home. That was it.

The Cards tied it in the ninth frame on a run-producing bloop single by Charlie James, but the Braves came up with the winner in the 10th on a double by pinch-hitter Joe Torre and a two-out single by Lee Maye. Earlier, Tommie Aaron homered for the Braves while brother Hank extended his hitting streak to 21 games. Gene Oliver homered for St. Louis.

Raymond has saved nine games since joining the club June 28 from Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Don Ferrarese (1-4) was the loser.

METS DROP OPENER

The Pirates came up with four runs in the ninth inning of the opener—three on a throwing error by third baseman Felix Mantilla—to beat the Mets and Roger Craig (7-20). Reliever Diomedes Olivo (4-1), who singled across the fourth run, got the victory. Frank Thomas' 29th homer for New York went to waste.

In the nightcap, Marv Throneberry came out of the coaching box and tagged a two-out, three-run, pinch-hit homer that enabled the Mets to snap their second longest streak of the year. Robert G. Miller (2-1) was the winner. Elroy Face (8-5) lost.

465 to compete in annual age-class Can. championships at Waterloo

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — A record 465 track and field athletes from eight provinces compete here Friday and Saturday in the annual age-class Canadian championships for 20-year-olds and under.

"It will be the strongest group of juvenile athletes ever to assemble in Canada," meet director Russ Echlin, a Waterloo bank manager, said today.

"This is the first time the federal government has contributed in hard cash to such a gathering and the record entry is the result."

The Dominion branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, organizers of the meet, received $50,000 from the government's new $5,000,000-a-year program to aid amateur sports.

It earmarked $7,500 to help pay transportation costs of 175 of the athletes.

The budding track and field stars will rub shoulders with three juniors who have already blossomed into international performers.

They are Bruce Kidd, 19, the crack distance runner, Abigail Hoffman, 15, the 880-yard specialist, both of Toronto; and Yvonne Breeden, 15, Vancouver's ace sprinter. All three will represent Canada at the British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, in November.

In addition, three other athletes selected for the Empire Games will star in special senior events which will not count in the championships.

They are Harry Jerome, 22, of Vancouver, winner of both sprint events in the recent Empire Games trials held in Toronto; Jimmy Irons, 24, of Brampton, Ont., a distance specialist; and Bill Crothers, 21, of Toronto, 40- and 880-yard star.

Stoney Creek loses in LL World Series

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) Canada's young baseball representatives were eliminated Tuesday in the 16th annual Little League world series but will have a crack at a consolation prize later in the tournament.

The Canadian entry — the Stoney Creek, Ont., All-Stars—was defeated 13-1 by Kankakee, Ill., as Dan Brewster pitched a no-hitter in the second game of the tournament.

Pitman, N.J., defeated Del Rio, Tex., 2-1 in the opener, sending the Pitman club against Kankakee in the semi-finals Thursday.

In today's games San Jose, Calif., meets a team of United States boys whose parents are stationed in France and Monterrey, Mexico, meets Kunitachi, Japan, in the second game. The winners will meet in another semi-final.

Eight teams are entered in the series and the four losers will play each other to determine the winner of the consolation event.

Yanks blast Angels in 10th to win 11-4

Bill Rigney's stomach must be in sad shape. Especially after the beating his Los Angeles Angels took from New York Yankees in the American League Tuesday night.

The Angels' manager, just out of the hospital for treatment of a stomach disorder, watched his scrappy club tie the league-leading Yankees in the ninth inning, then had to witness a seven-run explosion in the 10th that gave the Yanks an 11-4 victory.

Rigney suffered a soft jolt when Bill Skowron drove in the tie-breaking run. The roof fell in when Tony Kubek and Clete Boyer got run-producing hits and Roger Maris belted a grand-slam homer.

The victory in the opener of a key three-game series boosted the Yankees' league lead to five games over the Angels and Minnesota Twins, who moved into a tie for the runner-up spot by defeating Washington Senators 5-2 on the combined four-hit pitching of Jack Kralick and Ray Moore.

Detroit Tigers beat Cleveland Indians 10-1, Robin Roberts pitched Baltimore Orioles to a 9-1 triumph over Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox downed Kansas City Athletics 11-6.

HITS TWO HOMERS

A pair of bases-empty homers by Lee Thomas were the big blows as the Angels pulled into a 3-1 lead over the Yankees after five innings. A two-run shot by Elston Howard in the sixth tied it.

The Yanks moved in front in the seventh but the Angels battled back to throw it into extra innings on a walk and singles by Billy Moran and Leon Wagner in the ninth inning. The deluge followed, making Bud Daley (6-3) the winner and former Yankee Ryne Duren (2-9) the loser.

Kralick (9-8) had the Senators blanked on two hits until the eighth inning when a two-run single by Don Lock brought on Moore. Moore struck out Jim King to end the uprising.

The Twins jumped on Dave Stenhouse (10-9) in the fifth frame when singles by Bernie Allen and Zoilo Versalles, Kralick's sacrifice and Lenny Green's single got two runs across. Allen's run-producing single and a sacrifice fly by Versalles in the sixth put it out of reach.

Jim Bunning (13-8) fired a four-hitter for the Tigers. He was backed by a 14-hit attack while allowing the Indians' only run on a first-inning homer by Al Luplow.

STRIKES KEY BLOW

The Tigers took the lead in the first frame with Dic McAuliffe's two-run single the key blow of a four-run rally. McAuliffe had four singles for the night and drove in three runs. Steve Boros homered for the Tigers as the Indians went down to the 32nd defeat in their last 44 games. Jim Perry (9-10) lost.

Roberts (8-6) limited the White Sox to seven hits and didn't allow a run until Floyd Robinson homered in the ninth.

The Orioles did their damage early against Early Wynn (6-10) who was seeking the 299th victory of his career. Wynn forced in a run with a bases-loaded walk in the first inning, then was tagged for a grand-slam homer by John (Boog) Powell that wrapped it up. Roberts' triumph was the 242nd of his career. He's third among active pitchers behind Wynn and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee Braves.

Carl Yastrzemski paced a 15-hit Red Sox offensive that overwhelmed the Athletics and Bill Fischer (4-5). The Boston outfielder drove in five runs with a homer, double and single contributing his two-bagger to a three-run first inning that started the Red Sox off.

Norm Siebern hit two homers for the Athletics, each time connecting with a mate aboard to raise his league-leading total of runs batted in to 95. Earl Wilson (11-5) got the victory.

Rangers offer $30,000 to Doug Harvey

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Rangers confirmed Tuesday that an offer — described by a spokesman as "fabulous" has been made to Doug Harvey to return to the team this season as a player only.

The veteran defenceman resigned in June after one season as player - coach of the National Hockey League team.

The club spokesman said a Montreal report that Harvey had been offered $30,000 was "on the right track," but he declined to confirm the figure.

Harvey hasn't indicated yet whether he plans to accept, the spokesman said.

"We're giving him all the time he needs . . . no one is trying to pressure him into a quick decision."

Harvey, 36, played 14 seasons with Montreal Canadiens before joining Rangers in the fall of 1961.

Rangers general manager Muzz Patrick told a reporter meanwhile that no definite decision has been made yet on who will coach Rangers next season. He said Bert Olmstead and Emile (The Cat) Francis are being considered for the job, along with others.

Olmstead, 35 - year - old left winger, was acquired from Toronto Maple Leafs in June. Francis, a veteran goalie, coached the Rangers' Guelph Royals farm team last year and joined the New York club in July.

"We think we will have the thing settled by the time we report to training camp," Patrick said. The Rangers go into training at Vancouver Sept. 12.

Als open here tomorrow night with Granby, baseball clinic to be held by Pittsburgh Pirates at local park

Sherbrooke Alouettes will open their bid for the Eastern Provincial Baseball League championship tomorrow evening when they will be hosts to the Granby Knights in the first tilt of a five-out-of-nine series, announced Yvon Ellyson, manager of the Als, last night.

A baseball clinic will be held tomorrow at the local park for youngsters 15 years and under. This was made possible through the efforts of Manager Ellyson. Two major league scouts from the Pittsburgh Pirates, George Owen and Bill Bryan, will be on hand to conduct the clinic. This is open to all youngsters of the district.

President J. D. Loignon fined Coach Claude Groulx $100 and the Acton Vale Beavers $50 for deliberating dropping three games in an effort to pick their spot in the playoffs. This was announced last night from Acton prior to the game in which the Beavers edged Granby to cop third spot in the standing.

President Loignon stated that that such acts were bad for the league and any jockeying around must end. If the season hadn't ended the team and coach would have drawn a more severe punishment for their unjustified acts. E. Cabana, president of the Beavers, stated that his club was guilty but that they weren't the only ones to do such things. The games were against Coaticook, Granby and St Johns.

With all playoffs determined the teams will open their bids for the league final honors with Granby and Sherbrooke meeting in the main series, while Drummondville and Coaticook get together and St. Johns takes on Acton Vale.

The Beavers, following their fine, copped third spot in the standing last night when they posted a close 4-3 win over Granby to determine the third and fourth position in the standing. Following last Sunday's game Drummondville, Granby and Acton were tied for second and President Loignon ordered a special playoff.

John Elias of Granby and Henri Corbeil of Acton staged a stiff battle on the mound. Each club was guilty of three errors and these were costly to Granby as the tying and winning runs were counted on misues.

Granby tallied in the opening inning and added one more in the sixth before the Beavers managed to register their first marker In the seventh Granby made it 3-1 but this didn't last long.

In the seventh the home club came up with a big rally to count two runs and knot the count. Carter, who had received a walk, and Forte who singled, crossed the plate when Valois' fly was dropped. Another error allowed the winning run home after Steve Oleschuck tripled and went home on a bad throw to third in an effort to cut him off. These two errors caused the downfall of the Knights.

Andre Tielemans of Montreal wins boys 18 and under championship at Ottawa, several upsets registered

OTTAWA (CP)—With eight closed titles decided and at least two rounds completed in eight open singles events, the Canadian junior tennis championships were scheduled to start eliminations in five doubles events today.

Tournament officials were hopeful of getting all decided by Saturday, provided good weather continues to favor the annual event.

The boys' 18 and 16 closed titles were decided Tuesday with the top seeds in each event dominating over their opposition.

Andre Tielemans, 18, of Montreal, took the championship for boys 18 and under by defeating Bob Moffatt, 16, of Vancouver 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Moffatt took the title in his own age division by defeating Barry Shakespeare, 15, of Halifax, 6-3, 6-0.

The other six closed titles produced three upsets.

Jacques Crotty, top seed in the boys' 14 event was eliminated in the quarter final by an unseeded player and the championship went to second seed Terry Leach of Ottawa.

In the girls' 12 event, in which there were only five entries, top-seeded Ginette Crotty fell in her first match and the title went to third - seeded Donna Shakespeare, 12, of Halifax, after she eliminated the second seed.

The biggest upset was the defeat of Vicki Berner, 17, of Vancouver, girls' 18 champion for two years who was beaten in the final Monday by second-seeded Faye Urban, 16, of Windsor.

The other three events went true to form with Bill Macdonell, 11, of Downsview, Ont., taking the boys' 12; Andree Martin, 14, of Montreal, the girls' 14; and Rosemarie Fletcher, 16, of Ottawa, the girls' 16.

CGIT girls enjoy camping, Christian fellowship at lodge

MAGOG — For 61 senior members of Canadian Girls in Training nine days of camping and Christian fellowship ended last weekend.

The girls, ranging in age from 14½ to 17 years had come from all over the Province of Quebec to gather at Cedar Lodge, eight miles from Magog on the Georgeville Highway.

"Our aim here during camp stay is to extend and instruct the purpose of CGIT," said camp skipper, Miss Margaret Quigley, CGIT secretary for the Province of Quebec. "That is to help these girls to become girls that God would have them be and to help them to grow up in this way."

About 240 intermediate and senior CGIT girls have attended the four different camp stays at Cedar Lodge this year.

Lake Memphremagog's Cedar Lodge was built in 1893 as summer headquarters by Samuel June Barrows, a soldier, minister, legislator, writer, editor, newspaper man and reformer who came to Memphremagog with his wife and daughter in 1877. It was Mr. Barrow's practice to have some 40 children spend the summer at his lodge every year.

Over the past 64 years the Lodge had been used by many. Today, the Lodge is not only camp for CGIT girls but for boys from the United Church School of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery and for boys and girls from the Baptist Sunday School of Montreal.

The Lodge consists of the main hall built of huge cedars; seven cabins named Faith, Hope, Charity, Dopey's Cabin and the nurses, skippers and cooks cabin, a Krafte Shop, and 13 tents for campers. The most impressive part of Cedar Lodge is the spectacular view from the Main Lodge. Situated 80 feet above the lake level, the main lodge looks through tall trees, over the lake.

By SANDRA PICKFORD
(Record staff reporter)

One hundred steps, which have tired two generations, lead up to the porch from boating and swimming. Five camp fire circles and an open-air chapel which overlooks the complete camp.

While at camp the CGIT girls are under the guidance of Miss Quigley, director, and business manager, Mrs. Blanch Hyatt of Sherbrooke, a member of the provincial CGIT committee who the girls nicknamed KoKo; Nurse Mrs. W. B. Elliott of Lachine, nicknamed Patchie Pill-Pusher and ten counsellors.

Camp life begins like any other camp life. A morning dip at 7.30 a.m. and flag raising.

Then something different — morning watch.

"This time means the most to the girls I think," said Miss Quigley. "They all find a corner, sit down, and study their scripture reference for the day. Everything is so still and quiet during morning watch.'

After breakfast there is tent cleanup when the girls compete for Suzy Supreme, a doll awarded each day to the girls who have the cleanest tent.

Bible study in groups followed by swimming instruction leads to the counsel ring where the girls make plans for programing. These might include hikes, mock trials, mock weddings, a utensil dinner or father and son banquet, or a p.j. fashion show.

After dinner there are sing songs, rest hours and swimming. Probably the most interesting time of the day is when the girls divide into interest groups. There are many to choose from; including tips for teens, where the girls learn stance, beauty tips and in general how to be a popular teenager. There are also handicrafts, camp crafts, dramatics, recreational leadership and many others.

A senior camp project is to collect material for a newspaper. A group of girls carried out a series of interviews with the counsellors and gathered several ideas for articles. There is only one issue. It is mimeographed in Montreal at the CGIT headquarters, Council of Christian Education. A copy is sent out to each of the senior campers.
