DARING ROBBERY IS ALLEGED HERE ON TUESDAY NIGHT

MAIL BAG CONTAINING FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS SAID TO HAVE BEEN STOLEN IN TRANSMISSION FROM POST OFFICE TO C.P.R. STATION—POST OFFICE AUTHORITIES AND POLICE WILL NOT CONFIRM OR DENY STORY.

A daring mail robbery, which for cunning and boldness is second only to the sensational mail coach robbery on the I.C.R. at Harlaka last autumn, according to persistent rumors current here yesterday, was perpetrated in this city on Tuesday night, when a mail bag, said to contain in the vicinity of fifteen thousand dollars, is alleged to have disappeared in transmission from the Quebec Post Office to the C.P.R. station.

According to the story in circulation, which has not been officially confirmed or denied by Post Office officials or the Police, the mail cart left the Post Office on Tuesday night, October 5th, for the C.P.R. station. The cart contained some fifteen bags of mail which were destined for Montreal by the late C.P.R. train which leaves the Palais Station at 11.45 o'clock.

The mail is further alleged to have been in charge of Mail Conductor G. N. Lafontaine, of Montreal, while the driver of the cart was Leo Pouliot, of Quebec. Neither the conductor nor the driver are said to have noticed anything untoward in the drive from the Post Office to the Station, but when the Station was reached, it was found that one of the bags was missing, and it happened to be one which is supposed to have the fifteen thousand dollars.

Post Office Inspector S. Tanner Green when reached by a representative of the Chronicle last night, refused to make any statement. He dismissed the questions put to him by saying: "I have no information to give at all."

The Police were also noncommittal when approached. They persisted that there was nothing in the rumor, but it appeared as though they had been bound to secrecy by the Post Office authorities, who are presumably anxious to avoid publicity with the hopes of recovering the missing money before the news of its disappearance gets abroad.

Another version of the alleged robbery is that the mail bag disappeared at the C.P.R. station. It is asserted that Conductor Lafontaine left the mail cart to collect the mail box at the Station, and while he was thus engaged and the cart was stopped the mail bag was plucked out from amongst the pile in the cart.

Whether or not the parties responsible for the robbery had information as to the contents of the missing bag, or merely picked one out at random, is not known. It is stated that all of the fifteen bags did not contain money, but several of them did, and the one taken happened to be a money bag.

While the most reliable information seems to indicate, if these rumors are correct, that the missing bag did not contain more than fifteen thousand dollars, there are other stories which maintain that it held upwards of forty thousand dollars in bank notes and other negotiable papers, which in all aggregated a value of one hundred thousand dollars.

The police have now had three full days to unravel the mystery, and what they have discovered in that time, they themselves and the Post Office officials alone know.

The Police would doubtless have full information regarding the money in question including the denominations of the bank notes and the like, and this will go a long way towards helping them to find the guilty parties—if any—should they not be apprehended in the near future.

If, as some contend the money was spirited away in an automobile, after it was snatched from the mail cart, it is probably safely hidden at some distant point at the present time, and those holding it will not venture to place any of it in circulation for some time to come.

Others maintain that the missing money, like that taken in the Harlaka hold-up, is still in the City.

One thing is certain, and that is that the Post Office authorities, will spare no expense to recover the bank notes, if they are missing, and the best detective talent available will undoubtedly, as in the case of the I.C.R. robbery, be placed on the trail of the robbers.

VISCOUNT GREY AIRS HIS VIEWS

Writes Another Long Letter To Westminster Gazette On Ireland.

London, Oct. 8.—Viscount Grey of Fallodon, former Ambassador to the United States, published in the Westminster Gazette another long letter concerning his ideas for a solution of the Irish situation. The letter was partly in answer to criticisms by former Premier Asquith and others of his recent proposals and partly in amplification of them. "The best I can suggest," says Viscount Grey among other things, "is to make it clear that the very starting point of our policy is our conviction of the incapacity of the British Parliament to manage purely Irish affairs and our determination to put an end to the tragic failure. And I want to state beyond possibility of misconception that within certain limits, frankly and honestly stated by us, Irishmen are not only free to arrange their own government but must do so.

"In no other way can I see how to get the Nationalists and Ulster men to realize that they must take account of each other's point of view and make concessions to each other. Protestant Ulster is quite strong enough to make her own terms with the rest of Ireland, but so long as we go on allowing it to be understood that if the Protestant Ulster men and the rest of Ireland do not agree we will still be responsible for the internal affairs of Ireland, they will never agree and one or the other of them will block in London or defeat in Ireland, whatever scheme of Irish Home Rule is initiated in the British Parliament.

"The indiscriminate and cruel reprisals as well as the cruel murders that provoked the mutiny be stopped or else the bitterness here and in Ireland will grow until any sentiment of reconciliation is impossible. But when these are stopped there will still be urgent need for a new departure in Irish policy.

"It was stated that what I suggested the other day is the counsel of a pessimist. The real and worst pessimism to hold that a majority of the Irishmen are absolutely unreasonable and irremediable and that there is nothing for it but a settlement by war and conflict.

"Continuance of the present state of things may render the present situation hopeless and we shall be disgraced if we let the present state of things continue. "But we have, I hold, neither the right nor the need to regard the whole political situation as hopeless until we have made a better effort at settlement than the present policy of the Government."

A MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS POLICY

Will Keep Anglo American Feeling On A Cordial Basis Says Martin Littleton.

New York, N.Y., Oct. 8.—"Anglo-American feeling can be kept cordial if the people of both countries attend strictly to their own business and not meddle with those delicate difficulties in which either may at any moment become involved," declared Martin W. Littleton, former Member of Congress at a luncheon tendered representatives of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce here today by the Merchants' Association.

Mr. Littleton told the British businessmen who came here after attending the conference of the Chamber of Commerce in Toronto, "that our treatment of the Philippines or of the Cubans or of the Porto Ricans shall no more justify the obtrusion of English opinion than shall England's treatment of Ireland justify the obtrusion of American opinion."

"The United States cannot propose the dismemberment of the British Empire in the name of Irish freedom," he said.

"Self-determination cannot be made the wedge which splits apart that union, necessary to all liberty. It cannot be perverted into self-extinction."

In welcoming the British delegates, Mr. William F. Morgan, President of the Association, declared that whatever the United States verdict as to entering the League of Nations, "we must and shall find a way to abolish war."

CANADA IS ASSURED OF AN AMPLY COAL SUPPLY

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—(By Can. Press).—As a demonstration of the determination of United States Inter-State Commerce Commission to maintain heavy shipments of bituminous coal to take ports for shipment to Canada through the bituminous coal ring, nothing could be more convincing than additional figures received today by the Railway Board. They show that during September shipments of the bituminous product of the mines which keeps the wheels of industry revolving amounted to 3,942,000 tons of which Canada will receive 1,121,000 tons. During September 1919 shipments aggregated 2,360,000 of which 645,000 tons came to Canada.

These figures mean that Canada's receipts covering September, proportion to take into account the fact that as heavy as last year.

Total receipts of Canada up to the present time have been 4,983,000 tons of bituminous coal, as compared with 3,886,000 at the same date in 1919. In view of these figures the situation is regarded as being most reassuring.

ANTI-DUMPING ACT IS INVOKED

Against Importation To Canada Of Cheap Sugar From United States.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—The Citizen States Government official at Ogdensburg, N.Y., wired Chief of Police Richard T. Battersby of Jersey City today that there was no truth in the statement made by John Feber, Canadian war veteran, that he assumed a Customs House officer in the border town on October 7. The Ogdensburg official asked that Feber, who is detained here, be held for investigation by the Ellis Island Immigration authorities. The chief communicated with Battersby and was informed that those in charge there would have nothing to do with Feber.

Feber gave himself up to the police here Wednesday night, saying that he had knocked a United States official who tried to prevent his landing at Ogdensburg, off the pier there. He believed the man was drowned. Feber wears the uniform of the Mounted Police. He is 22 years old, he says, and wears decorations won while serving with the Canadians in France.

Chief Battersby has communicated with Ottawa and in the meantime Feber is held in the Hudson County Jail.

Is Not Wanted. Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—It was learned unofficially to-night that officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will make no effort to have John Feber returned to Canada. ## INVESTIGATING EXPLOSION ON OIL TANKER

New York, Oct. 8.—Investigation to determine whether any "culpable negligence" caused the explosion in the British tanker G. B. Crowe, yesterday, which killed five and injured more than a score of workmen, was begun today by District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn. The trio of missing men whom it was believed had been killed by the blast were located today when the force of workmen reported for duty. Only three of the injured remained in the hospital and these were out of danger.

Spurring the belief that the explosion was caused by a blow torch lighting gases in an oil tank, Edwin Showan, one of the owners of the shipyard where the tanker was being repaired, said he believed it possible a lighted cigarette fell into an oil compartment. He declined, however, to make any official statement until the district Attorney and Fire Marshal completed their investigations.

BOMB PLOT MYSTERY FINALLY FLICKERED OUT.

Hutchinson, Kansas, Oct. 8.—Hutchinson's "bomb plot mystery" flickered out today when it was determined that a cylinder found by boys on a creek bank in the center of the city and supposed to contain powerful explosives, was only a discarded piece of fireworks. Local authorities had started an investigation of the strange device, fearing a plot was on foot to blow up the main street viaduct, or, perhaps, the convention hall.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 8.—The authorization of appropriations totaling $1,312,000 for expenditure on missions during the coming year was the outstanding feature of today's sessions of the General Board of Missions of the Methodist Church. Of this amount, $23,000 goes to the Women's Missionary Society, $130,000 for administration, education and miscellaneous, $706,000 for the foreign missions, and $452,000 for home missions.

In addition to the above amounts $547,000 from the Forward Movement campaign was either appropriated or placed in the hands of the local sub-committee for appropriation on property in the Home and Foreign fields.

A committee was appointed to interview a committee of the Federal Parliament, to ask for an increase in the Government grants to the institutions devoted to the education of the Indian population of Canada.

The convention adopted a report that an effort should be made during the coming year to organize connectional relations between the Association and the various state and provincial associations.

The gift of $15,000 from the Rockefeller foundation to be donated this year on condition that the sum of $5,000 be raised from other sources was announced and a letter from the Foundation was read promising within the next two years a further sum of $15,000 if the promise of the public in support of this service bureau warranted the gift.

A FASCINATING WRAP OF ORANGE VELVET

By Gertrude Beresford.

Among the colors that are greatly admired this season those that reflect the varied tones of flare are in high favor. These are best expressed in such beautiful materials as velvet, whose soft folds possess a delightful sheen. Orange-colored velvet is selected for the developing of this attractive cape. The sole decoration of this simply-fashioned wrap is silver fringe which is placed about the shoulders as though to suggest an added cape. The collar of velvet is lengthened into a sweeping scarf that may be draped several times about the neck. This, too, is elaborated with rows of silver fringes that matches the cloth of silver lining.

FOR THE STOUT WOMAN

By Rita Stuyvesant.

It is indeed a problem to gown the stout figure fashionably and still keep to the prevailing modes, but one can modify some of the models with a pleasing result. The shops are catering more than ever to the needs of the woman who measures over forty, and many are organizing special departments for large sizes, and the gowns combine becomingness with style. Rich dark fabrics of a clinging nature are favored, and simple models with long lines describe the styles.

One shop shows a smart gown that comes in navy, brown, black, and taupe, and is cut from a fine, close woven tricot. There is a plain foundation dress of the material with a sleeveless lining attached. Over this is a knee-length redingote, with the lower section set on considerably below the hips to give a long, becoming line.

A slim giraffe of the material is lightly drawn about the waist and finished with a tassel. Silk looped fringe outlines the tunic completely, and even frames a vest of self-material that shows at the front.

Soft black charmuse lavishly embroidered in dull blue beads is used for another gown suitable for afternoon affairs and especially adapted to the stout figure. The bodice is simple, with elbow length kimono sleeves and a deep oval neck, and there is a bit of bead embroidery to relieve the simplicity. The rather full skirt is attached at a low waistline and bordered deeply with embroidery. This charmuse gown slips on, and is opened at the shoulders to allow the head to pass through.

Georgette, heavily beaded, is gaining an unexpected popularity, and although it is shown in custom, taupe, henna, wine, brown and black, the navy beaded in black is in the lead at this time. Simple lines distinguish these gowns, and they are built over a slim foundation of soft navy silk.

And then there are any number of tricotine dresses, both plain and embroidered, especially designed for the woman of ample proportions, that are very striking. If one only chooses long lines and simple, well-cut gowns, she will appear at her best even though she is classed as "stout."

THE GREAT SPIRIT'S FIRE

Down in the Spavanagh hills near the little hamlet of Murphy, Okla., there burns an Indian camp fire that has not been quenched for 50 years. It is the watch of the Cherokees, a fire that is kept burning as a memento to the Great Spirit that the Indians remember his goodness to them and that their hearts are true.

No one knows when the first was kindled, not even Chief Charlie Tee Hee, but B. F. Abernathy, a white man who lives in Murphy, says it was burning 33 years ago when he took up his residence there. It does not always show signs of life, but down in the cone of ashes that has accumulated in the long years it has been going until it is three feet high are embers that are kept alive by an insulation of a gum that is taken from a tree, says a writer in The Daily Oklahoman. Many of the Indians believe the fire cannot die on account of it being a symbol of a covenant between God and man.

On special occasions, such as stamp dances, the fire is allowed to become a good sized camp fire and then the braves sit around it and smoke a peculiar pipe, an all that renews the individual covenant of each, but be it great or small the fire is kept alight by an attendant, the present one being George Potato on whose land the ceremonies are held.—New York Tribune.

The Council of the Quebec Board of Trade held a meeting yesterday afternoon which was presided over by Mr. J. T. Ross. The members present were Messrs. J. H. Fortier, Vice-President; J. Picard, Col. R. M. Backett, S. Barrow, Hon. Frank Carrel, T. Leveseur, Secretary; and O. H. Cote, Trade Commissioner.

Quebec Central Railway. The question of the Quebec Central Railway's running rights over the Quebec Bridge, and its application to the Canadian National Railway's management for the use of the Champlain Market for a terminus was discussed, when the following correspondence was read:

Dear Sir,—I have your letter of August 27th respecting Quebec Central Railway's running rights over the Quebec Bridge and the use of the Champlain Market Station. The Quebec Central people have not yet made any official application to us for the services which you refer to, although it is quite true Mr. Walsh has been talking about these matters off and on for some time.

Government Service. The following is a copy of a letter received by Sir David Watson, President of the Quebec Harbor Commission, from Mr. Teakle, Manager of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine Service, which was ordered published in order to enlighten the local mercantile public on the work being done by the Harbor Commission to bring shipping to this port, and the aid required from the Quebec shippers to make steamship service between Quebec and European ports a success:

Dear Sir,—I am writing you to advise you that the question has been taken up many times with the Canadian National Railway officials, as you will note by the Memoranda of correspondence dealing with the subject and dated from June 17th, 1919, to August 4th, 1920.

Dear Sir,—Referring to correspondence and conversation we have had in the matter of a service out of Quebec next summer, it has occurred to me that announcement should be made that the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., will put on steamers sailing direct from Quebec to London on the opening of Navigation next year, should traffic to fill the steamers be available.

NOT GUILTY WAS VERDICT GIVEN

Montreal, Que., Oct. 8.—Not guilty was the verdict rendered to-night by the jury in the case of Ambrose Bourdage, charged with manslaughter. He was accused of having caused the death of Mrs. Demers by having made her fall down the gallery stairs of his house.

Bourdage gave evidence to the effect that he had merely put the woman outside his door and had left her there with her daughter. He said he was not even aware that she had fallen down the stairs. The woman was in liquor at the time.

Juryman Leduc, who had sat through the proceedings yesterday without understanding a word of the evidence which had been given in French was severely lectured by Judge Monet for not notifying the court of his inability to understand the language.

ONE IMPORTANT RESERVATION

Egyptian Nationalist Leaders At Paris Decide To Accept British Plan.

Paris, Oct. 8.—Leaders of the Egyptian Nationalist Party meeting in Paris have decided to accept with one important reservation the British plan for Egyptian independence which was announced in England last July. This was learned today by The Associated Press from a member of the Egyptian Committee of Four which carried the British plan to the Egyptian people and arrived in Paris yesterday on its way to London.

As a result of their two-day conference the leaders have framed a number of suggestions and counter-proposals which will probably be submitted to a high official of the British Government who is expected to arrive in Paris within the present week. It was intimated that this official might be Earl Curzon, British Foreign Secretary.

The chief reservation made by the Egyptians consists of a demand that all references to the British protectorate over Egypt be completely eliminated from the chief treaty of Versailles and all other existing treaties, including those growing out of the war.

The Egyptians have agreed to permit a certain number of British troops to remain in Egypt, said the Committee member, and have also agreed to pay indemnities to all British and other foreign subjects in Egypt who may suffer through reorganization and the advent of independence.

Mehar Bey, one of the Committee of Four declared that he and his colleagues brought back the unanimous approval of 11,000,000 Egyptian people "who are united to gain complete independence."

"If the situation continues to be as bright as it is at present, Egypt will have her complete independence within a very short time," he added. "The only thing that stands in the way of a complete settlement is the refusal of Great Britain to cling to the word that she no longer intends to retain the protectorate or any shadow of it, over Egypt. All other differences are minor and can easily be settled."

ENGINE TROUBLE DELAYS LECKIE

Trans-Canada Aerial Flight Will Be Continued This Morning.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—Trouble with the port engine of the big P-3 seaplane which Col. Robert Leckie and Major Basil Hobbs will fly to North Bay and thence to Winnipeg, delayed the continuation of the trans-Canada flight from Ottawa this afternoon. Two attempts were made to continue the flight, one at 4 o'clock this afternoon and the other at 7 this evening, but it was found impossible to get away. It was found necessary to strip the machine to get at the seat of the trouble, which will necessitate mechanics working on it a large part of the night. The airman are hoping to make a start tomorrow morning at half past five o'clock, as soon as it gets light. It is proposed to fly to Winnipeg in the P-3 although a relay is standing by at North Bay in case it should be needed. The P-3 arrived here at noon today from Riviere du Loup, Que.

Manufacturers asked that in the interests of their business that the protective tariff be retained and gave figures to show that the Canadian prices were based on costs of production in American prices plus the tariff.

The Commission leaves for Regina tonight. Sessions will be held there Monday.

Saskatoon manufacturers asked in regard to the tariff: (1) An adequate protection for all industries already established or which it is reasonable to suppose can be successfully undertaken in Canada.

(2) A reduction of the tariff in any case where it can be demonstrated that the tariff is higher than necessary or where it is established, without such cases, that the tariff is being used as a means of taking improper profits.

(3) The appointment of a permanent non-partisan tariff board to keep the Government constantly advised as to changes advisable or necessary in the tariff, either as increased or decreased.

(4) That as rapidly as feasible, the greater of taxation be substituted for indirect.

(5) That above all, the need for national revenue should not be allowed to be exploited for private gain.

J. B. Musselman, General Secretary of the Association, presented the statement. It began by assuring the Commission that the members of the Saskatchewan farmers to Canada and to what they believe to be in true national interest. Their requests for a change in the tariff are not actuated, it continued, by a desire to further their vocational class interests at the cost of others, but for what they believe will be fairer to all legitimate industries in Canada.

"Every threat to the nation's fundamental democratic institutions have come from the industrial centres and not from the farm. We are not wreckers," it was stated. Its support to popularizing direct methods of taxation on the grounds that the greater the proportion of the revenue raised by direct taxation the greater will be the interest of the masses in matters of Government.

The Association further informed the Commission that it believed that an informed agricultural population fully conscious of its responsibility to citizenship and persuaded that it is suffering no legalized injustice from other classes offers the only permanent foundation for the Canadian nation and that any abnormally rapid development of the manufacturing industry under protection affords no such basis.

Grain-raising was stated as the chief industry of the Province and the major source of her buying power and prosperity of the Province depends on its development.

GRAIN GROWERS WANT A CHANGE

In The Present Tariff System And Suggest Five Timely Alterations.

Saskatoon, Sask., Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press)—Farmers in the vicinity of Saskatoon who appeared before the Tariff Commission at its session here today, held the protection of the farms which are driving the farmers to the cities to earn a livelihood. Drought and crop failures, combined with the tariff, have led to the abandoning of many farms and the movement off the land is continuing.

The Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association in a statement asked for the revision of the tariff. Representative farmers from various rural districts gave examples of conditions which, they held, make a change in the tariff essential if the production of the farms is to be kept up to normal.

Few farms in the vicinity of Saskatoon were said to be profitably productive owing to the heavy cost of farm machinery and general upkeep.

Manufacturers asked that in the interests of their business that the protective tariff be retained and gave figures to show that the Canadian prices were based on costs of production in American prices plus the tariff.

AFFAIRS SHOWN IN A NEW LIGHT

Statement Issued By Black Lake Asbestos Bond Holders Committee.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 8.—Black Lake asbestos affairs were presented in a new light today, when a statement was issued by the bondholders and shareholders' committee, appointed last night, in reply to the notice of a special meeting sent out by J. A. Jacobs and the Asbestos Corporation.

The circular was signed by C. E. A. Goldman, John B. Kay and D. J. McDougall. Since their appointment as the committee, Mr. Kay has also been appointed a director of Black Lake.

The circular concluded as follows: "We know that for months your directors have been endeavoring to conclude a satisfactory arrangement with the Asbestos Corporation or Mr. Jacobs for the taking over of the company, but without success. These parties have acquired about 30,000 shares out of a total issue of 40,000 shares, and have joined forces with the idea of getting control of the company, without giving any guarantee of protection to the minority shareholders or bondholders."

"Under the circumstances, we deem it necessary to advise that we approve of the action of your directors, being advised that they have done everything in their power to further the interests of the company, both in its management and in the negotiations which have been carried on and would suggest to all shareholders that they support the present directors, so that they will be able to continue to protect their interests against any methods employed by the Asbestos Corporation or Mr. Jacobs to obtain control of the company, for reasons which are sufficiently obvious."

The Quebec Chronicle

Printed and published by the Chronicle Printing Company, Sir David Watson, General Manager, at the building of the Company, 9 Buelo Street, Quebec.

QUEBEC, OCT. 9, 1920

JUSTIFIABLE INDIGNATION

There is great and justifiable indignation in Sillery and other outlying suburban districts just now at the miserable service provided by the local post office, which consists of a single afternoon delivery.

The post office has provided this service in the past by means of special mail cars operated by the Street Railway and the ground advanced for its recent restriction is the need for strict economy.

No matter what the class of residents affected the principle would remain the same and should be just as strongly insisted upon, but it is material to point out that in these suburbs reside some of the most prominent citizens and heaviest tax-payers in Quebec who, as such, are at least entitled to ordinary rural facilities.

The Chronicle trusts, for the sake of all concerned, that the Department will yet devise ways and means of restoring the morning delivery, in a realization of the far-reaching effects of its well-meant action.

THE TEXTILE OF THE FUTURE

In view of the important part played by the pulp and paper industry in this province and of the possibilities opened up, very special local interest attaches to an article, entitled "Paper, the Textile of the Future," contributed to the October number of Chamber's Journal by Frederick A. Talbot.

The paper generally utilized in Germany and Great Britain at the present time as being best adapted to the spinning process is that known technically as "Kraft" paper, made of pulped Canadian spruce or pine.

But what of the fabrics themselves than can be prepared from paper? Their variety is declared by Mr. Talbot to be endless. The material has been extensively utilized for military and munition work, as well as for other official purposes.

Coming to general industry, we find paper yarn being used for other purposes, some of which at first sight may appear incredible. It provides excellent material for boot-laces, braiding, webbing, and belting, being not only stronger than the ordinary materials therefor, but having the additional advantage of being fireproof and waterproof.

out many inducements. Wear and tear are appreciably less than in the case of woolen carpets. A paper carpet is not only far more durable, but is every whit as warm; and it is more hygienic, inasmuch as the covering may be washed.

What will my lady say to delicate lace curtains wrought from paper, carrying all the fragile-looking tracery of the cotton article, to grace the windows of her house? Yet it is perfectly feasible.

One exception may indeed, be instanced—wearing apparel. It is quite feasible to produce tweed suiting or a costume in paper, and in such a manner as to defy ready detection; but the paper suit or dress, while having good wearing qualities, reveals its composition within a short time through creasing.

In view of the fact that we possess the necessary raw material from which all the products above referred to are produced, Canada ought to be able to manufacture and sell them to advantage in open competition with Europe.

A gentleman addressing the Brockville Board of Trade the other day compared Montreal, in the matter of its shipping facilities to a pig that had both its feet in the trough and did not want any other pig to get in.

For some occult reason the Vancouver Sun has favored the Chronicle with a marked editorial repeating in parrot phrase the stereotyped slogan of Messrs. MacKenzie-King and Ernest Lapointe that "Meighen has no mandate."

WRIGLEY'S ADVERTISING (Printers Ink)

Mr. Wrigley will add $500,000 to his 1920 appropriation, remarking, "Well, I spend more and more for advertising every year."

Right in that little remark Mr. Wrigley gave the chief reason for his success.

Spending "more and more for advertising every year" has made Wrigley not only one of the greatest advertisers in America but one who has attained an amazing record of success.

The outstanding feature of the Wrigley advertising method—as it has been from the beginning—seems to be to have a certain definite aim in view, namely: putting over the product in a sufficient way and to make the size of the appropriation a secondary consideration.

Why is it that you never hear the really big advertisers, of whom Wrigley is a type, complain that advertising is not delivering? They advertise on a broad scale to accomplish their purpose and then they know it is done.

There is nothing superhuman, nothing, mystical, about advertising. It is a plain proposition of having something that the people need and then telling them about it in a big enough way to make them want it.

It is wise to have no arbitrary limit placed on advertising appropriations. The policy in this respect should be determined not by how little can be spent, but on a basis of spending as much as may be necessary to accomplish the desired end.

EXTRAVAGANCE AND YACHTS (Edmonton Journal)

Sir Thomas Lipton denounces the extravagance which he has seen everywhere in the United States and Canada. The denunciation may be justified, but a man who spends millions on yacht-building is not likely to hold forth on the subject of extravagance very effectively.

How the Strike Against High Prices Is Being Won

For a long time, remarks the New York Times, "high prices seemed like the weather, about which, as Mark Twain said, everybody talked but nothing was done. Then the buying public, reacting at last from the wave of extravagance that swept the country in war time, began a few months ago to rebel against the ever diminishing purchasing power of the dollar."

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, October 9th, will be read with great satisfaction by the public. It gives a comprehensive review, drawn from all sources of information, of the conditions of trade in the United States, including the prospects for the country's getting back on a lower price level without affecting the hours or wages of labor.

SHOULD LINERS CARRY AIRCRAFT

Length Of Time To Cross Atlantic Might Be Reduced By Flying Latter Part.

London, Oct. 8—Nowadays it takes about nine days to steam across the Atlantic, at any rate for the great majority of passengers; and by the end of the sixth day, or even earlier, travelers are tired of the voyage and are chafing at its slowness.

Such a procedure would be quite simple, falling easily within the capabilities of aeroplanes of today. It would have nothing of the fearful riskiness of the flights last year by Sir John Alcock, or by Harry Hawker and Commander Read.

In addition to the passenger, special mails could be quickened by this method, an extra fee being charged. And in view of the present tardiness of the Anglo-American mail, there is no doubt that all that the business communities on both sides of the Atlantic would be glad to pay an extra 5 d. for the saving of two or three days.

A type of aeroplane should be used capable of carrying 1500 pound of passengers and mails, which load would bring £600, and this would be ample to cover the cost, including overhead and personnel charges. The proposition should, of course, be regarded not solely from the point of view of immediate profit, but as the beginning of an inevitable development and the company which first sets to work will be the first to gain the experience which will be essential later on.

Crossing the Atlantic, by the way, is the only possible means by which one can obtain a true idea of the remarkable nature of the flights of the trans-Atlantic airmen last year. It seems incredible that any man could have essayed it, and that one machine should have covered the immense distance in one flight.

sunsets and dawns, while the ship wins steadily on. And last year, in the period of a summer day's daylight, an aeroplane with two men in it just jumped across. It may be long before anything approaching that feat becomes a regular mode of trans-ocean travel, but a sound beginning could already be made in the direction indicated.

NO WELCOME FOR MEIGHEN Winnipeg, Oct. 8 — No official welcome will be extended to Right Hon. Premier Arthur Meighen by the Manitoba Government on his arrival here, it was announced following a meeting of the Provincial Cabinet today.

The Government considered that as Premier Meighen is on a political tour it would not be fitting to extend an official welcome on such an occasion.

"The Government officially welcomed the Premier to Manitoba last summer", a Cabinet Minister pointed out.

CAMPAIGN MEETING WITH GREAT SUCCESS

Subscriptions For Laval University Flowing In, And Large Amount Subscribed.

The sixth day of the campaign for subscriptions for the Laval University saw a grand total of $602,700, being piled up.

Another striking artistic success was scored here last night by the Creator Grand Opera Company when Faust, Gounod's masterpiece, was well acted, charmingly sung and brilliantly orchestrated.

A large audience filled the Theatre from orchestra to pit, the only notable vacancies being in several of the boxes.

At the principals, Charles Milbau, as Faust, Alice Heuler, as Marguerite, Nino Ruisi, as Mephistopheles, Wadsworth Provandie, as Valentine, Henriette Wakefield, as Siebel, etc., filled their respective roles most worthily.

The management was somewhat disappointed, that Henry Weldon, who is suffering from a severe cold, was unable to sing the role of Mephistopheles, but Nino Ruisi did full justice to the exacting part, although he sang in Italian, while the other members of the cast sang in French.

Both Mrs. Heuler and Miss Wakefield, as Marguerite and Siebel, respectively, displayed charming stage presence and, being in excellent voice, they aroused the audience to enthusiastic applause.

Lucia will be presented this afternoon and the closing performance to-night will be Otello.

Cleveland Tribe Safely Encamped on Own Wigwam, And Radiate Confidence—All Seats Gone, And Scalpers Hard At Work—Big Thing In Ohio City.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Safely encamped upon their own reservation, the Cleveland Indians, winners of the American League pennant, will renew their battle for world's series baseball honors here tomorrow. The Brooklyn Nationals, conquerors of the Speaker tribe in two out of three Eastern games, are likely to find their rivals a far different combination from that which fell twice before the attacks of the Robins at Ebbets' Field.

SIR BARTON IS IN GREAT TRIM

Canadian Horse Breezed Half Mile In Better Than Fifty Seconds Yesterday.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 8.—Man O'War rested today, but Trainer Plustel announced that the famous American champion would be breezed tomorrow for the benefit of the race fans. Since his arrival here the Glen Riddle Farm stud has merely been given a short walk on the track, the rest of the time being spent in his special quarters.

Sir Barton, on the contrary, is being limbered up spiritedly. Yesterday he was cantered around the track but showed considerable stiffness from his train journey. Today he was breezed a half mile in 49 4-8 seconds.

Excitement over the coming race, which has assumed the character of an international duel, is now at fever pitch. The entire grand stand has already been sold out, according to reports, the only available reserved seats being held by scalpers who are demanding $5 for $1 seats.

The Cleveland Club must win the game tomorrow as the diamond bet average citizen cannot help, but up to the moment the umpire calls "play ball" he can so charge the atmosphere with winning psychology that defeat for the invaders is but a matter of routine performance. This is his duty as he sees it, and it is being done with a thoroughness and efficiency which bodes ill for the Robins.

Cleveland has concentrated her mind upon winning and for fear that the community mind may not bear overwhelmingly upon Uncle Robins and his Eastern upstarts the entire great lakes and middle western section is rushing to its assistance. At least that portion of the population which is held in hope of a happy day has an outside chance of hotel accommodation of foothold inside the Indians' half park. Hotels are swamped by the rush of fans from other cities and ticket speculators take their lives in their hands every time they show the corner of a seat coupon peeping from their pocket.

Although the baseball amphitheatre which will be staged to narrow the fourth game of the 1920 world's series, holds less than 30,000 spectators, fully half that number of out-of-town fans here tonight clamoring for a place to sleep and a chance to buy a ticket at any price. Rooms are unavailable except in private houses, for every hotel is queuing twice its normal quota. Tickets can still be purchased but at a cost which would stagger the baseball fan of mid-summer. Single seats for Saturday's game were offered for sale at from fifteen to thirty-five dollars, according to location. Despite the efforts of the club officials to discourage the practice, seats were readily made all this afternoon and evening in the spread between these figures.

In such an atmosphere of enthusiasm, confidence and prodigality, it is not surprising that the spirits of the badly clawed Indians should promptly revive upon their arrival here this afternoon. Chief Trip Speaker and his warriors, once they felt the familiar trails under their spiked moccasins, chanted their war cry with renewed vigor and proclaimed that a Cleveland Indian is never defeated until his scalp lock is lost.

Wilbert Robinson, the Robins' leader, had his Indian-killing Brooklynites out for preliminary manoeuvres in the Cleveland wigwam this afternoon and reported an early ambush. All he would say now was: "We have a winning advantage now and expect to hold it."

Close followers who have viewed the battles to date with impartial eyes, express the opinion that the superlative will be won and lost back on the plains of Brooklyn. It is the opinion that the two teams are so evenly matched that with a fair distribution of baseball breaks, each should win an equal number of battles here, leaving the score four games to three in favor of the Nationals. Those who lean strongly to the belief that the local team will win here give the Indians three games and the Robins one, which would still take the players back to the East for the final battle. Much is expected to depend upon the manner in which the Brooklyn players react to the real world's series today which they are sure to encounter at the coming game. Cleveland rooting for her home club is certain to stimulate the Speakerites to still greater heights or clear off their feet, as a question that only tomorrow and the following days can answer. Speaker is expected to start Covelskie who turned back the National League in their first game for the championship. The latter has had three days' rest and is reported to be able to repeat his initial success. The Brooklyn team stated emphatically on the way West that they would surely beat him the second time out but Cleveland players are thought to be about ready for a lasting campaign themselves and it may be that the fans of the

LOUIE GRATTON MADE FAST TIME

Paced Two Miles In Two Minutes Flat Yesterday At Lexington Races.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8.—In winning the Board of Commerce Stake, which featured the programme for Friday, Louie Gratton, driven by Vic Fleming, paced the two miles in 2:00 flat, one mile being faster than has previously been paced in a race this year and tying Prince Lee's record made the previous day as the fastest pacer of the year. Her controller was Samardo, driven by Stokes. Single G., idol of the trotting public, was away off form and achieved only fourth money.

The Lexington Stake for two-year-old trotters was second in point of interest, being won by Favoron, owned by Mrs. Agnes Edman and driven by Fred Edman. This was his seventh victory in the Grand Circuit and he has started in more races this season than any two-year-old.

Frank H. Ellis' Miss Willoughby, making her first start, performed like a tried campaigner. She was bought by Mr. Ellis twelve months ago at the sale here, unbroken, for $7,000.

Edman had a good day, for he landed Jay Brook first home in the 2:08 pace in 2:03 1-2, 2:03 3-4, after losing the first heat to J.W.S., in 2:02 3-4.

Miriam Guy won the two remaining heats in the 2:11 trot, postponed from Thursday, trotting the last heat in 2:06 1-4.

Allowance won the first heat of the 2:17 trot, but was distanced in the second heat, due to a break. James Smith's Lucille Bingham trotted in 2:03 3-4 against time, going three-quarters of a mile in 1:30 1-4. Summary:

2:11 Trot, 2 in 3, One Heat Thursday, Purse $1,000. Miriam Guy, b.f. (Squires) 2 1 1, David C. W. (Miller) 1 4 3, Trampeter, b.g. (Rolley-Macey) 5 2 8, Fernie McKinney, ch. h. FIRST AERIAL RACE TAKES PLACE TODAY. Montreal, Oct. 8.—Four Curtis biplanes are competing Saturday afternoon for the first aerial races ever staged in Canada from the new aviation field at the old Polo Grounds, St. Laurent, in flights to St. Lambert and back, a distance of 16 miles each way. The race will be a handicap event, open to all flying machines of the land type for pilots holding Air Board certificates. For the race the Montreal Branch of the Aerial League of the British Empire is offering a handsome silver competition cup. There are four contestants, all Montreal men and the races will be run in heats, the winners of the first two heats will compete in a final heat for the cup. It is expected that with so short a course the planes will be visible from start to finish of the course. Contestants must fly at 2,500 feet at the turn, the turns to be judged by the ground judge at the golf green of the Country Club at St. Lambert, with one turning target for each machine. Should the weather prove unpropitious the sports will be adjourned to next week.

INVESTIGATE CROOKED SERIES AT CINCINNATI. Cincinnati, O., Oct. 8.—Inasmuch as essential parts of the alleged conspiracy between gamblers and eight White Sox players to "throw" the 1919 world's series, were believed to have been formulated in Cincinnati, Judge E. T. Dixon, in the Criminal Court today, instructed the grand jury to investigate those phases of the alleged plot.

ROEDIGER, A LOVER OF ENGLAND. The appointment of Carl Roediger to the German Embassy in London will interest many who know him as Oxford where he was one of the most popular of the Rhodes scholars, and the hundreds of American newspapermen and women who dealt with him at the Foreign Office in Berlin the first two years of the war. He differed greatly from the chief, Mr. Zimmerman, who was referred to in diplomatic circles as "the pack-horse of the service."

Mr. Roediger spoke delightful English, with, if one may call it so, an Oxford accent; and he wore the most perfect English clothes. One started as one saw him—might this not be Downing Street? It was he who soothed the local criminal police when they had snatched up American girls who believed in free speech and freely had opinions that were overheard in restaurants and were overheard in restaurants and on the telephone; it was he who made what few attempts were made in 1916 to arrange public and open conferences for the newspapermen with testy German officials; and who, always sad, reluctantly saw the correspondents depart in the winter of 1917. He was a German, but more, he was a European who had loved England and who understood her.

RACE POSTPONED. Halifax, Oct. 8.—The fishing schooner ocean race for a purse of five thousand dollars, which was to have been sailed off the harbor here today was postponed by the sailing committee when a flat calm greeted the vessels at the starting line this morning.

SMITH BEAT DELMONT. Montreal, Oct. 8.—The lightweight fight to-night at the Mount Royal Arena between Lidgett Smith and Micky Delmont went the score of ten rounds and ended in Smith slightly outpointing Delmont. Jack Remait, French-Canadian heavyweight, knocked out Jack Donovan, of Buffalo, in the second round of a ten round bout.

ELECTION BOARD RESIGNS. New York, Oct. 8.—The Election Board of the West End District of the Second Ward of Long Branch has resigned because they declare under the provisions of the Nineteenth Amendment giving the franchise to women they would have to go from house to house and ask the women voters questions they are "generally disinclined to answer." They say the pay is not sufficient to compensate for such a hazardous task.

LADIES' GOLF FINALS FOR TODAY

Both Senior and Junior Championship Events Will Be Decided This Morning.

Play in the Handicap Medal Round for the Boulton Plate took place yesterday morning. In the Golfing Week of the Quebec Ladies' Golf Club, and some very close play was witnessed.

The winner turned up in the person of Mrs. E. G. Meredith, who had to work very hard to gain her victory. Some excellent scores were turned in by the junior players, and from their showing yesterday, they will be a power to be reckoned with before long.

Although Mrs. Meredith was the winner of the Boulton Plate, she was closely pursued by several of the players, but they could not quite catch up, and thus their efforts were unavailing.

The morning the finals in all competitions will be played, there being four events on the card. The finals for Senior and Junior Championship Competition, and the finals for the Senior and Junior Consolation Competition.

Play will start at 10:30, and the following shows how the players will be paired: Senior Championship, Mrs. Handsombdy vs. Mrs. Boulton. Junior Championship, Miss A. Stuart vs. Miss L. Thompson.

WHEN SELLING PULP GOOD PROPOSITION

Times When It is Better to Sell Raw Material Rather Than Product

Public attention has been focused so much on newspaper prices which have advanced very considerably in the past year that the increase in pulp prices has gone unnoticed. At the peak in June, or what many regard as the peak, some Canadian ground-wood pulp sold at $150 a ton. The present price is running around $125 a ton. A couple of years ago a great many mills were selling this at $25 to $30 a ton. Sulphite pulp, which sold for $70 a ton and $80, and even lower, has been selling around $165 to $175 and even higher for the unbleached, and as high as $240 to $260 a ton for bleached, in the latter case four times as much as it sold for within two years.

At the present basis of ground-wood and sulphite pulp prices the newspaper mills are in the curious position of manufacturing paper at a loss, that is, theoretically. That is to say, that if they closed their newspaper mills and sold their total production of groundwood and sulphite pulp for their product, they are receiving for their newsprint even at the high present market price. Taking 100 tons of newsprint as a unit there would be required some 80 tons of groundwood pulp, which could be sold, say, at $135 a ton, or $10,400. The proposition works out roughly as follows:

80 tons groundwood at $135... $10,400. 25 tons sulphite at $165... 4,125. Total value of pulp used at current market prices... $14,525. 100 tons newsprint at $110 a ton... 11,000.

Loss to mills through making paper... $ 3,525. This condition is naturally regarded by the mills as a transient one, and none would think of neglecting the permanent newspaper connections to grasp at this enticing albeit product of a temporary trick of the market.

Wants will render the prettiest faces unsightly. Clear the excesses away by using Holkova's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

is the case with most New Yorkers, the players persuaded their fellow-traveler not to miss the opportunity. He looked the falls over very carefully and returned to his hotel. "Well, what do you think of it for a wonderful sight?" asked one of the ball players. "I'll say," said the New Yorker without undue enthusiasm, "that she certainly throws a mean leap."

BENNY LEONARD SCORED KNOCK OUT

Lightweight Champ. Stopped Johnny Sheppard, Of England in Third Round.

Paterson, N.J., Oct. 8.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, tonight scored a technical knock-out over Johnny Sheppard, of England, at the sixth regiment armory. The bout, which was scheduled to go twelve rounds, was stopped by the referee in the third round when the contest was stopped. Leonard completely outfought his opponent in the first two rounds and was about to finish him in the third when the contest was stopped. Leonard weighed 137 pounds and his opponent had a pound less.

Boyo McCormick, champion-light-heavyweight of Ireland, had the better of every one of the ten rounds in his contest with "Dummy" Martin, of Brooklyn. It was McCormick's first appearance in the East. He weighed 160 pounds and Martin 162 1/2.

ALASKAN PAPER IS TOO FAR AWAY. American Publishers Not Impressed With Optimistic Reports to Washington

New York, Oct. 8.—American users of newsprint are now looking with hopeful eyes toward Alaska as a new source of supply. Enthusiastic reports during past few days have been appearing in the American newspapers as the result of the return of Col. W. B. Greley, chief of the United States Forestry Service, from Alaska, after a tour of inspection. According to these reports the Alaska Pulp and Paper Company, a California corporation, is constructing a large mill for the manufacture of pulp in South-Eastern Alaska, near Port Snettisham. This will give direct access to 100,000,000 feet of timber. A second mill will be constructed near Juneau. This will have access to 1,250,000,000 feet of timber. The limits of both companies lie in the national timber reserves. Col. Greley is quite enthusiastic about the prospects of the new Alaskan pulp and paper industry. He claims that the territory should turn out at least 1,500,000 tons of paper annually.

This government-inspired enthusiasm regarding the resources of Alaska, is not regarded very seriously here, however, among those closely in touch with the paper industry. Alaska is a very long way off they point out, from New York state, which is the greatest consumer of newsprint in the Union, and freight rates from the Pacific coast are not growing any less. Further the problem so far as the American manufacturer of newsprint and paper is concerned is to obtain a better supply of raw material at a reasonable distance from his mill. Mills, unfortunately cannot be moved to Alaska, and thus the paper man finds little consolation in the good news from Washington regarding Alaska.

Chronicle's Review of Coming Attractions For Next Week

THE VICTORIA
Anita Stewart fans will have an opportunity of seeing their favorite tomorrow afternoon and evening, when the dainty star will be seen in "Clover's Rebellion." This is the only picture in which Miss Stewart is supported by her husband, Rudolph Cameron, and this should be enough to draw capacity audiences, for it is not often that husband and wife play together in the same picture, but there is a capital story, one that holds interest from start to finish, to back it up. The picture is booked for tomorrow only. The third episode of the Ruth Roland serial, "Ruth of the Rockies," will be shown tomorrow, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as well as a comedy.

For the first half of the coming week, Dorothy Dalton will be seen in "The Market of Souls," a picture with a story concerning two brothers and a woman. One of the brothers is an idealist, and a gentleman of the finest honor, while the other is a profligate lying wastrel. The woman—a sweet-faced nurse—one of the most appealing figures recently seen on the screen, is thrown by fate into the arena of life, to be fought for by the brothers.

Scene after scene of amazing fascination, some startling, some sensational, are thrown on the screen during this picture, which has spots where tears start, and a sort of cold hand clutches at the throat of the spectator, probably the most gorgeous and exciting spectacle of its kind ever filmed is a hilarious banquet in a great, gilded "palace of joy" in New York on New Year's Eve.

There will be a comedy, as well as the Ruth Roland serial.

For the last half of the week, Mary Pickford will be seen in a picture of one of her most popular roles, "Stella Maris," in which the favorite of all motion picture fans has a dual role, playing the part of Stella Maris and Unity Blake, each an entirely different role, and with a powerful appeal. A powerful cast in support of the popular star in this production.

The eighth episode of the Warner Oland serial "The Third Eye" is also on the bill for the last three days of the week, as well as a comedy and other subjects.

THE EMPIRE
There are few better known personages on the screen than Irene Castle. Famed as a dancer, she who took first New York and then the rest of the world by storm, Mrs. Castle later proved in several dramatic productions that she possesses acting ability far above the ordinary. After her first leap into prominence as the foremost exponent of the modern dance with her late husband Vernon Castle she was induced to appear in motion pictures, with the result that today she is known not only as the graceful and beautiful young woman who wears the most exquisite clothes with splendid emotional qualities and a sincerity that appeals to men and women alike.

In "The Amateur Wife" her latest picture which will be shown at the Empire for four days, beginning tomorrow (Sunday), Mrs. Castle has ample opportunity to wear the gowns for which she is famous and prove her right to be called the beauty of the screen, but in the opening scenes of the story she is far from an alluring creature. She portrays a French convent maid—awkwardly dressed and wearing her hair in braids, who is injected into the life of New York by her mother a musical comedy queen. Later she blossoms out as a society queen and the reigning beauty of the social whirl. Comedy, sharp tragedy, dramatic fire, beautiful costumes, a story that is calculated to put at the heartstrings of all lovers of romance, are some of the outstanding features of the picture, that make it unique and appealing. In addition to the feature subject there is a Prizma Natural Color Scenic, the Screen Magazine, the Illiterate Digest and a refined Strand comedy.

For the latter half of the week there will be another big feature offered at the Empire, as well as a comedy and other subjects.

THE ALLEN
Tomorrow afternoon and evening, the Allen will show "Mars Ankle" featuring Douglas MacLean and Doris May. This picture has been playing since Thursday, and is being held over in order to enable those who have not yet seen it to witness the film.

The comedy and other subjects will also be shown.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Constance Talmage will be seen in her latest production "Perfect Woman." This is a picture that gives the fair Constance plenty of scope to display her versatility and the insects pep and go into the picture that is delightfully refreshing. It is a typical Constance Talmage picture, and should be witnessed by large crowds. The popular star worked night and day to make this picture so that she could start on a hard earned vacation, which she is spending in Europe at the present time.

There will be a comedy and other subjects on the same bill.

The musical portion of the program, from tomorrow until Wednesday, will consist of a special program by the Allen Concert Orchestra, the feature of which will be the selections from "Mikado," Sid Hoffman is the director of the orchestra.

For the latter half of the coming week there will be a joyous drama entitled "Teachers Pet." This is a Booth Tarkington story and con-

THE CLASSIC
For the first half of the coming week, the management of the Classic will present Will Rogers in "The Strange Boarder." This is a picture that equals the best efforts of Rogers in the past, and contains several amusing scenes, while the story is one that is calculated to hold human interest from start to finish. Rogers is as popular as ever, and his work in this film is well worth watching.

There will be a comedy, Topics of the Day, The Classic Weekly News and an educational film will also be on the same bill.

For Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Corinne Griffith in "Baby's Candidate" will be the feature attraction. If you enjoy the thrill and suspense of election, if you are interested in a battle of wits and strategy; if you like a love story when you will enjoy the picture. Parts of it are like taking a vacation and rambling through the woods and fields or following a stream fishing from brook trout. These scenes are contrasted with life at the capital of the United States and the excitement that accompanies a red hot election campaign.

The characters are quaint. They have the cleverness, thrift and energy of the New Englander. Several of them are typical of frequenters of the village store or the hotel porch. They are the elderly men of the town who solve great affairs of state while seated around the stove in the village store, chewing tobacco. Then there are the young people, full of life and ambition, who believe in action rather than words.

The star as daughter of the worst tempered senator at Washington does some excellent work, and outwits anyone she chooses. The picture itself is a story of life as enacted in any small village, and should go well with local lovers of motion pictures.

Another episode of the super-serial "Hidden Dangers" featuring J. Ryan and Jean Paige, is also on the bill, together with a comedy and other subjects.

THE AUDITORIUM
The management of the Auditorium have a pretentious bill for tomorrow afternoon and evening, when four big pictures will be shown. Babe Ruth, the home-run king, who clouted fifty four circuit drives for the New York Yankees this season, will be seen in the act of how it is done. The pictures were taken by an ultra-speed camera, which registers faster than the usual machine for this purpose, and all the motions of the famous batsman goes through are seen distinctly. The film also shows Carl Mays, the famous "submarine" pitcher.

A "Snub" Pollard comedy, entitled "Rock A Bye Baby," and an educational review are on the same bill together with a five reel feature picture.

For the whole of the coming week, starting on Monday, there will be five excellent acts of vaudeville, in keeping with the usual standard of the theatre. Each of the five acts is a top-liner, and ought to go big with Quebec theatre-goers.

The picture end of the program will see "The Girl With Jazz Heart," a special feature, and rip-roaring comedy, entitled "Jiggs in Society," which follows the antics of Jiggs in "Bringing Up Father" which appear in nearly every newspaper on the continent, will doubtless wish to see this super-comedy which promises to be one of the "hits" of the year.

LONELIEST PEOPLE IN THE WORLD TO GET MAIL
London, Oct. 8.—(By Can. Press)—The loneliest people in the world, the inhabitants of the little island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic, will shortly learn something of the big movements of the outside world when the annual mail reaches them.

Two mail bags contain letters and other packages addressed to the settlers on the island, are now on their way to Cape Colony. Thence they will be conveyed by H.M.S. Dartmouth from Simonstown to Tristan da Cunha direct.

Many of the settlers are descendants of the crew of the Bounty, who landed on that lonely coast, but eventually grew to like the place. Incidentally a British garrison was maintained on the island until the death of Napoleon at St. Helena.

Cattle and sheep raising, poultry farming and vegetable growing, with ample fishing facilities, make up an ideal sort of existence of the Robinson Crusoe type.

Many delightful situations. The story is one that will appeal to all, both young and old, and should draw big crowds to all performances. A comedy and other short subjects will also be shown.

VERY PROGRESSIVE VITAGRAPH HAS STEPS ARE TAKEN GOT ANOTHER STAR

By Motion Picture Industry in New York—Shown By Developments

Catherine Calvert Signs Contract Covering Period of Three Years

That the motion picture industry has taken two very progressive steps this year is indicated by recent developments in New York City, the marketing and financial headquarters of this gigantic business.

The indefinite Broadway run for featured photoplays established a precedent which had merely been dreamed of by picture producers. And it also marked a step upward for the entire industry owing to the fact that it placed the motion picture in the same category with the Broadway play which has always been the one form of entertainment that New York took pride in boasting about.

The first picture play to establish a reputation for a "Broadway Run" was "Humoresque," a film version of Fannie Hurst's compelling story of mother love. This photoplay enjoyed a run that lasted through the entire summer, thus establishing a precedent and setting a record.

Present indications are that Broadway runs for photoplays will be very much a part of New York's elaborate entertainment program. Several pictures are scheduled to be shown in this manner during the coming theatrical season.

Another step that marks a distinctive move upward for pictures is represented in the photoplay road-show. It is predicted by President Benjamin A. Prager, president of Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, that all of the biggest picture offerings will be sent on the road out of New York in 1920-21, with elaborate prologues and big orchestras. The personnel of these orchestras, says Mr. Prager, will correspond to casts, numerically at least, of the stage plays that go on the road.

This prediction, Mr. Prager's made just before he left Los Angeles where he had been arranging Mayflower's 1921 product schedule, is already bearing fruit in the announcement that D. W. Griffith plans to put his latest production "Way Down East" on the road following its Broadway run at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, where it is now showing.

CHANGE NAME OF TOWN
The name of Sisson, the little town under the shadow of Mount Shasta, in northern California, may be changed to Salisbury, Monroe Salisbury, the well known screen star, has been up there for a week filming the final out-of-door scenes for "The Barbarian" feature. So popular is the star with the townspeople that there is a definite movement on foot to apply his name to the village. "The only advantage that I can see in the proposed change," Salisbury said, "is that one who slatters cannot say 'Sisson' in less than twenty minutes."

FILM NEARLY READY
With final editing of "Ladies Must Live" rapidly a close, George Leane Tuher, producer of "The Miracle Man," has begun preparations for the production of his third independent film to be presented by the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation.

"A Marvellous Thing"
When the cures effected by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil are considered, the speed and permanent relief it has brought to the suffering wherever it has been used, it must be regarded as a marvellous thing that so potent a medicine should result from the six ingredients which enter into its composition. A trial will convince the most skeptical of its healing virtues.

The story concerns two brothers and a woman. One man is an idealist and a gentleman of the finest honor. The other is a profligate, lying wastrel. The woman—a sweet faced nurse—one of the most appealing figures recently seen on the screen—is thrown by fate into the arena of life, to be fought for by these brothers.

You will soon forget the struggle—or its end. Scene after scene of amazing fascination. Some sensational, some startling, some that clutch at your throat and start the tears. With magnificent "acts" and hundreds of players in the cast.

Probably the most gorgeous and exciting spectacle of its kind ever filmed is a hilarious celebration in a great, gilded "palace of joy" in New York City on a New Year's Eve.

HAS WONDERFUL MACHINERY NOW

For Expansion of Great Britain's International Trade—To Strengthen Hold

New York, Oct. 8.—(By Canadian Press)—Never before in her commercial history has Great Britain possessed such wonderfully perfected machinery for the expansion of her international trade as that through which she is now, through governmental and private organization, seeking to strengthen her hold on foreign markets.

That is the gist of a report made by P. Harvey Middleton, assistant manager of the foreign trade bureau of the Guarantee Trust Company of New York, who has just returned from Europe where he made an extensive study of British trade organizations.

British business men, Mr. Middleton's report sets forth, are not only determined to win back all of the trade taken from them in pre-war days by Germany, but to establish British commerce so firmly in every part of the world that other nations will be hard put to maintain their trade.

One of the mediums through which British overseas trade is destined to expand, the report says, is the British Trade Corporation, incorporated in 1917 with an authorized capital of 10,000,000 pounds sterling. Though designed to assist the small exporter, the policies of this mammoth corporation have been to date freely available to the largest manufacturers of the empire, and it is only one of the numerous agencies at present facilitating the expansion of trade.

In addition to the elaborate commercial undertakings through which the trade interests of the empire will be cared for, an intelligence bureau is maintained to provide up-to-date and reliable information concerning conditions in foreign countries where trade may be sought. This bureau is being fostered through the British Overseas Bank, an institution formed by several English banks in March, 1919, to develop overseas trade along specialized lines.

DANISH PAPERS ARE CHARGING PARTIALITY

Copenhagen, Oct. 8.—Danish papers have been outspoken in their criticism of alleged partiality in the judging of the Olympic games at Antwerp. They complain that awards were given on the principle of "Let the best man win if he is an ally."

The National Tidende's special correspondent at Antwerp declares that all games were umpired with a bias of the allies. Typical in this respect, the correspondent says, was the sword combat between Denmark and Italy. All experts were agreed, he states, that Denmark was superior; nevertheless the umpires gave the victory to Italy.

That's a fair question. Here's the answer. The old-fashioned method of crushing the cane in the Islands, by Windmill power, suggested the name. That's well worth remembering. WORK STARTED ON BIG PRODUCTION

The Son of "Get-Rich-Quick
Wallingford" in Pictures
Soon

After several months of preparation, work has been started on the production of "The Son of Wallingford," another big Vitagraph special upon which several hundred thousand dollars will be expended. The story is after the best style of Lilian and George Randolph Chester, who have won international reputations as creators of that lovable vagabond, J. Rufus Wallingford and his partner, Blackie Daw. Every effort has been put forth to make this new story superior in every way to all previous Wallingford stories.

The production will be made in Vitagraph's Brooklyn studio with a special cast. Progress is being made slowly in the selection of the players in order that the best talent available may be secured. Mr. and Mrs. Chester have drawn up detailed descriptions of each character, that the actor may interpret the role with all its subtlety.

Location finders are actively engaged scouring the country for ideal locations. Many of the scenes are laid in picturesque villages and long country roads and it is the aim of Vitagraph to select sites that will cause the scenic background to stand out clear cut and emphasize the action of the story.

One of the big spectacular scenes will be a pageant, fashioned after an Indian Durbar. This will play an important part in the story and will be handled by experts who have witnessed several of the pageants in India.

The son of J. Rufus Wallingford, who has now grown to manhood, will be the principal character and is opposed to his father in several battles.

Mr. Chester will personally supervise the direction and editing of the production, that the screen character of Wallingford may enjoy the same of the namesake in fiction. This character is referred to among English speaking peoples more frequently than any of the creations of Charles Dickens. While "J. Rufus" and his side partner, "Blackie Daw," will appear in the new adventures of the Wallingford family, "The Son of Wallingford" will not be in any way a sequel to the earlier stories of Wallingford.

J. Rufus, indeed, in the story, is shown in a minor role compared to that of his clever and resourceful son. The new story is calculated to win new fame for the Wallingford family, but not by increasing that which was attained by "Blackie Daw."

Rufus, indeed, the famous father, opposed to his son in several battles of wit, comes off a poor second best, even though still supported by "Blackie Daw."

Those who have read the story declare that it has all the cleverness and ingenuity which characterized the earlier Wallingford stories, with the added charm of a riper style. They declare that it places extraordinary obligations upon Vitagraph to do full justice to the material and the public demand for a big super-feature. These obligations will be fully met.

J. Rufus Wallingford, accepted throughout the English speaking world as the incarnate symbol of clever and conscienceless money-getting, was a man of a one-track mind, so far as his general purposes were concerned, in spite of his remarkable mental resourcefulness. His son, James R. Wallingford, as presented in Mr. and Mrs. Chester's new novel, possesses all his father's shrewdness and will to win wealth, but modified by a strain of honesty derived from his mother. Wherever he clashes with his, as yet more famous father, the son not only is on the winning side, but on the side of right and fair play as well.

A case in point is where J. Rufus Wallingford and "Blackie Daw" launch a scheme for a pageant in a small American City, following the general plan of an Indian Durbar. They plan to carry it forward for their own financial benefit, without regard to its effect upon the resources of the town. James R. Wallingford, however, takes a hand in the affair, and as a result nobody loses anything except J. Rufus, and his loss is only some questionable pride of achievement.

The new story offers splendid opportunity for scenic display, and other events and situations in the remarkable story, "The Story of Wallingford," provide unusually good material for an enthralling and striking motion picture play. The best resources of Vitagraph, it is announced, will be devoted to making the production a pronounced success.

GREAT GAME DRIVE IN SOUTH AFRICA
Johannesburg, South Africa, Oct. 8.—A great game drive is in progress in Zululand, with the object of stopping the ravages of the tsetse fly, which is fatal to equines and bovines.

Whole tribes of Zulus, attracted by the prospect of unlimited meat, are taking part in the drive. They are mostly armed with assegais, the native spears.

It is thought however, that the size of the drive is defeating its own object. The wild creatures have become panic stricken and the ludicrous situation now exists of the hunters having become the hunted.

The great cordon of white men and Zulus has been broken in several places by charging herds of frantic antelope and other animals, and the hunters have been compelled to split up into small parties for their own safety.

ANGLO SAXONS LOST TEN TRIBES

Claim The Proofs of The Contention Will Be Published
Shortly

Herbert Garrison, secretary-general of the British Israel World Federation, recently announced that proofs have been obtained which would prove absolutely that the Saxon race is descended from the famous Lost Ten Tribes of Israel, and that they will be published shortly. The theory is not a new one, and no in which he developed the argument doubt many readers will recall that Rev. Joseph Wild, formerly of the Bond Street Congregational Church, used to discourse on the matter frequently and did indeed write a book at length. Dr. Wild was the first or one of the first of what may be called "topical" preachers in Toronto and drew large crowds by reason of his unconventional subjects and the eloquence with which his ideas were presented. It is recalled by an old worshipper that on one occasion he proved that Noah's Ark had landed in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. It was not Dr. Wild, however, but a bishop in another church, who expressed the view not long ago that instead of man having been descended from monkeys, monkeys had in fact descended from man. The absence of monkeys from Ireland would seem to cast a doubt on the theory.

Dr. Wild found most of his evidence in Biblical prophecy. Beginning with the statement that David's seed and throne are to last to the end of time, he found that the only throne which would likely fulfil this condition was the throne upon which Queen Victoria then sat, and indeed in the light of the recent war, there is reason to believe that the last throne of all will be that of Great Britain. When Dr. Wild wrote it seemed to be most strongly challenged by the throne of Russia, and it is unlikely that ever again there will be a throne in Russia.

"God," said Dr. Wild, "made the children of Israel, and throne of David His executive for civilization, evangelisation, order and conquest. Through them God will conquer the world to a universal peace."

It is well known that David had many wives, but the wife through which the Saxons are supposed to have descended is Bathsheba, formerly the wife of Uriah, the Hittite, whom David was to be destroyed through the battle with the complexity of Job, the able if unscrupulous captain of the host. However, the little irregularity by which David secured Bathsheba is supposed to have been compensated by the fact that she became the mother of Solomon. So that on one side of the house, at least, we would appear to have had some distinguished ancestors, if the theory of Dr. Wild and the statement of Mr. Garrison are to be relied upon. According to Dr. Wild, Adam lived from B. C. 4000 to B. C. 3070 though contemporary and subsequent scientists have dated the beginning of the world from a somewhat earlier period.

However, Dr. Wild drew up a genealogical table beginning with Adam and continuing to David (B. C. 1085-1015) which was in conformity with the marginal calculations that appear in the New Testament.

From David he branched off to include the ancient kings of Scotland and Ireland as well as Argyle-shire and Great Britain, and ran down the stretch to Queen Victoria.

If he proved his case up to that point, nobody need have the slightest doubt about carrying it on for the next two generations and acclaiming King George V. as a descendant of King David and Bathsheba. Said Dr. Wild: "If we once get a clear idea who the seed of David are then we can search among the people of the earth to find them. Of the special marks one was that they were to possess the gate of their enemies: The Anglo-Saxons possess the gates of their enemies? Yes, says Dr. Wild, and he names the Guernsey Islands, Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus, the Suez Canal, Aden, Pashawa, Bombay, Calcutta, Singapore, Malacca, Penang, Hong Kong, Sarawak and Labuan. It might be added that the war has added to these gates.

There also has reduced to naught who might have been listed as enemies in David's time or Dr. Wild's."

Dr. Wild said that the Anglo-Saxon race was destined to rule over the rest of the world, and bring about an era of universal peace. The rule would not be wholly good, due to human imperfections, but the bad would be greatly outweighed.

He saw Russia as the chief power for evil, and who will say that his opinion of more than thirty years ago is not the opinion of millions today. Dr. Wild thought that the world would come to an end toward the close of this century, or as soon as all the prophecies in the Bible had been fulfilled, and especially when the other nations had been brought to understand that it was for their own good and to carry out the decrees of Providence that they should be ruled over by the Lost Tribes, their heirs and legatees.

UNITED STATES IS GREAT COFFEE DRINKER.
New York, Oct. 7.—More coffee was drunk in the United States during the year ending June 30, 1920, than in any previous year on record, according to figures received by the National Coffee Roasters Association from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce. The period covered coincides with the first year of Prohibition.

The total coffee consumption in continental United States for this period was 1,368,000,000 pounds and the per capita consumption 13.7 pounds. This is a total increase of 399,000,000 pounds and a per capita increase of 3.71 pounds over the preceding twelve months. On a basis of forty cups to the pound the Association estimates this increase at sixteen billion cups of coffee.

The Association calls attention to the fact that a report of decreased coffee consumption during 1919, announced a few days ago in one of the printed reports of the Department of Commerce, referred to the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919. This 1919 report, says the statement, has no bearing upon present consumption or present conditions, except as a basis of comparison.

A GERMAN REPORT ON SOVIET REGIME

Explodes Theory That Bolshevik Russia is Land of Peace and Brotherhood

Berlin, Oct. 8.—The outstanding feature of the political situation in western Europe at present is the revelation from Bolshevism or Communism, which is certainly taking place in working-class circles. The reports of the British, French and German Socialist delegations which have recently visited Russia, paradoxically enough have done in that direction what four years of anti-Bolshevist propaganda, heavily loaded with atrocity stories, failed to do. Vast masses of workers in Great Britain, France and as the writer has particularly observed, in Germany, while still in revolt against what they regard as the hardships and callousness of capitalism are less disposed than they were to look to Russia for remedies. They are, perhaps, prepared to bear those ills they have than to fly to others they know not of.

It seems more and more clear that granted imagination and a readiness to make sacrifices on the part of those who must benefit from the system, capitalism can yet be adopted to meet the needs and respond to the aspirations of the workers of Europe. So far as Germany is concerned the most compelling case against Bolshevism has yet been made come from the Independent Socialists' deputation which has just returned here from Russia. As has already been pointed out in the press, the German Independent Socialists are revolutionary Socialists who differ more in tactics than in ideals from the Communists, a fact which of course greatly increased the value of the evidence which they now advance against the Soviet system of government. The Independent Socialist deputation in question went to Moscow a few weeks back to plead for admission to membership of the Third International, or, as it is now called, the Communist International.

Mr. Dittmann's Report. "The truth about Soviet Russia" is the title of a report embodying an account of his experiences which Mr. Dittmann, one of the leaders of the deputation, has published and which has created very great interest in Germany. Mr. Dittmann divides his report into two sections, one dealing with the conditions of the thousands of German workers who have gone to Russia during the past few months to find work and the other summing up his general impressions about Russia under Communist rule. An analysis of the second section of his report may be left to a subsequent article. Many of the German immigrant workers are employed at the town of Kolomna near Moscow.

"In our tour through one of the factories which formerly employed 17,000 workers and now 5000," says Mr. Dittmann, "we saw that conditions of work there left much to be desired. Workers' tools were in many cases very inferior and the machinery defective. The German workers employed in the factory in question told us that the delays in the work were interminable and the factory was very badly managed. In spite of the undernourishment and bad conditions of work each German, we are told, did as much work as five Russians. We were invited to a meeting of German workers employed at the factory visited. The first spokesman told us that they had come to work in Russia under false pretences. They had been deceived by emigration agents and now the Russian Government refused to allow them to return to Germany. Food conditions, the spokesman continued were so bad that they existed with difficulty. 'Here we must starve,' he went on. 'The bread, alike had and disagreeable to the taste, is full of wood shavings. Housing is equally bad. We had to live here first of all in railway coaches without any coverings and now we are herded together in houses and have to sleep on straw. We are taunted with being intruders and counter-revolutionaries. There is no Communism here.'" Mr. Dittmann adds that the next spokesman for the German workers, all of whom it should be remembered, were Socialists spoke in a similar strain. He said he had given up a little house in Germany with a garden and vegetable plot attached but now he bitterly realized his mistake.

"As to the so-called 'high wages,'" continued the second speaker, "what is the good of getting 12,000 rubles a month if other costs 3500 rubles a pound and other foodstuffs, for example potatoes, even more." Other German speakers urged the Socialist deputation on its return to Germany to do their utmost to put an end to emigration to Russia. I was hardly to be expected that the Soviet authorities would let go unchallenged such an appalling description of conditions in Russia and the Bolshevik leader of the factory, Comrade Makaroff, after the German workers had spoken, addressed the Socialist deputation.

His speech (says Mr. Dittmann) manifested a complete lack of comprehension of German mentality and irritated the German workers so much that interruptions from them during his remarks were numerous and noisy. He sought to show that the dissatisfaction of the German workers was unfounded and maintained that present industrial conditions under the Soviet regime were much better than those which prevailed under the Czar.

Twelve Hours a Day. "The Russian workers," he conditions. If you Germans were to have better conditions and to be treated more favorably great bitterness would be aroused. Only counter-revolutionaries and bourgeois want special conditions. You should help up instead of lying." "We want to work but not in your factories," retorted one of the angry Germans. "The Russian workers work 12 hours a day," retorted the Russian Communist. "They are compelled to, otherwise they will be shot," interrupted another worker. "That is false," replied the Communist leader. "It is true," retorted a score of indignant Germans. "Force is only used against those who won't work," retorted the Russian. "No work no bread, is our motto," I am astonished you make no effort to help the great revolution that do you want?" "We want to return to Germany," came back the reply from ten assembled Germans.

"Vorwärts," the well-known moderate German Socialist newspaper, discusses under the caption, "The great deception." Mr. Dittmann's report on conditions in Russia and says that exposure in question may perhaps finally explode the Bolshevik Russia is a land of peace, plenty and brotherhood, where jaded workers may find freedom from the hardships of capitalism.

Dublin, Oct. 8.—No attempt has yet been made by the government to suppress effectively the Sinn Fein civil courts. Where the Sinn Fein arrest and try prisoners for criminal offences the police interfere, release the men charged and break up the courts where they can be discovered. But civil trials, in the nature of arbitrations between warring parties, are openly held every day in many districts they have completely superseded the King's Courts and include members of every class in the community Unionists as well as Nationalists.

The Sinn Fein Judges, appointed by election are sworn in publicly with due ceremony and regular attorneys, though nominally officials.

The Westmeath County Council has decided that all British court-houses in the county shall be closed and have asked the Republican police to prevent the buildings from being used for the holding of courts not recognized by the Republican Government.

The criminal trials are of every kind and it is claimed that in cases of theft the Republican police are very successful in recovering the stolen property. Breaches of order in drinking shops are severely dealt with and illegal attempts to obtain drink at prohibited hours are sternly punished. In Shankill, County Dublin, the Republican police closed a drink shop where disorder occurred and in County Louth they have prohibited all dancing in public houses. Illicit distilling is being everywhere suppressed.

An interesting point has arisen in case of the asylums. Commitment of lunatics must be on the order of magistrates. But the asylum authorities are now in most parts of Ireland Sinn Fein law. Accordingly magistrates are ordered by men acting under the authority of Dan Eireann, and the asylums may have to face legal actions for the unlawful detention of the men committed. They have resolved, however, to face this risk.

MINISTER MADE NICE FIND.

Regina, Sask., Oct. 8.—When Augustus H. Ball, deputy minister of education, dug up in his garden recently a potato in which was embedded an unblushing corkscrew, some of his friends were unkind enough to suggest that the bottle could not be far away.

They were entirely wrong. The bottle was discovered—or at least a part of it—several blocks away, snugly fixed around the neck of a carrot growing in the garden of the Rev. Father Gillies.

RESTORATION OF THE HAPSBURGS

Charged in Appeal to Leaders By Austrian Social Democratic Party

Vienna, Oct. 8.—The Social Democratic party of Austria, numerically the largest in the Austrian parliament, charges in an appeal its leaders have issued asking for votes in the election for the National Assembly on October 17 that the counter-revolutionaries have been victorious in Hungary and that their "lynchings and guillotines are preparing the way for restoration in that country of the rule of the Hapsburgs." This is the line of which the late Emperor Francis Joseph and his son Carl were descendants.

"Carl Hapsburg has broken his word and refused to resign the Austrian throne," the socialists aver. "He is to be made King of Hungary in Budapest and from there he is to bring German Austria into subjection. The blood of our peasants and our workers is again to be paved in the service of the Hungarian feudal lords who are arming for war to reconquer Slovakia, Siebenbuegen and the Banat." The socialists then charge that the Kunschak-Funder group of the Christian Socialist party in Austria is the tool of the Hungarian monarchists.

The appeal and other campaign literature, not only of the Socialist groups but the Conservatives as well, cleverly continues the agitation for union with Germany. "From the day of our breakdown," it says, "we social Democrats have said German Austria alone cannot be a living state. Economic misery will be our lot so long as union with Germany does not free us."

It blames France for preventing that end and declares that the history of the Czechs, the Poles and Jugoslavs proves that a people finally achieves its own right of self-determination in spite of all opposition and all obstacles if only it remains firm in its desire.

The Social Democrats put forward as their issues the reforms they have advocated since the formation of the Republic and which they assert have been defeated by the combined bourgeois opposition. In the main these are suppression of the power of the clerics, taxation of capital and great estates, age and invalid insurance, school reforms, ending separation of schools and church, adequate pay for public servants, and similar measures.

To this end it demands socialization of great industries, mines, vast realty holdings and banking so that "their earnings, instead of enriching private persons may give to the state the means for fulfilling its social and cultural tasks."

The three socialists are charged with obstructing the program so long that the control of many of the most valuable natural sources of wealth such as the iron mines of Styria and Carinthia have passed to Italian control and now foreign interests make impossible the full realization of the socialization scheme.

FRANCE'S DEFINITE PLANS FOR NORTH

Subsidies to People of Devastated Regions Are to Be Hastened

Paris, Oct. 8.—The Minister of the Liberated Regions, Mr. Ogier, has now had time to appreciate the lessons of the recent tour of the devastated departements and to arrange a plan by which the complaints which have poured in from the returning inhabitants may be satisfied. Asked for an interview after his visit to the north, he begged to be allowed to accord the interview a little later, when he had drawn up his project; a program is definitely fixed. The criticisms which have been made are to be robbed of their sting. More methodical measures are being taken. In these circumstances Mr. Ogier was willing to be interviewed. He recognizes that it is idle to justify past mistakes. The whole future of France depends upon the efficiency with which these regions are restored and when once it is seen that there have been blunders of administration and that progress has been slower than might have been expected, it is time for new schemes to be tried.

Not that Mr. Ogier himself reproached the officials. On the contrary in his interview he was effusive in his praise of what had been done. But the fact that he progresses new plans is in some sense a commentary upon what has been done.

Worked Like Heroes

The people, the laborious populations of the north and of the east of France, deserve the highest possible commendation. They have worked like heroes with a courage and a tenacity that are undeniable. They have worked in the most dreadful conditions, without proper shelter, with impossible roads, with a sad lack of household effects and of necessary tools. Some of them have given up a struggle and have gone back to the big towns, but for the call of the soil, so strong the love of the native place, that they have lived amid the ruins, hoping and striving for better days.

The local administration, as Mr. Ogier said, has also made strenuous efforts with inadequate means. What has been wrong has been the attitude of certain officials who did not belong to the neighborhoods, and who seemed out of touch and out of sympathy with the local officials and the populations.

"In affirming that the reconstitution of these regions has made progress," said Mr. Ogier, "I do not forget that there remains a great deal to do. The work is in fact little more than begun. It must be pursued. Great efforts must be made, great sacrifices must be borne. The work occupied in putting on foot a series of measures that Mr. Millerand and I recognized to be necessary in the course of our visit to the wrecked districts."

Subsidies To Be Hastened.

"There is to be hastened and re-lated the attribution of subsidies and advances to the various communes. They must be helped to meet their budgets. They must not be left without proper means. This question, however has been relegated to the Minister of the Interior with whom I am working in close collaboration, and I am sure that the wishes of the unfortunate population will be satisfied."

"For my part, I am now helping the cooperative societies which are engaged in the work of reconstruction. I have great faith in these co-operative societies. I believe that they should be aided with money from the State. They are being aided."

"Immediately after my return, I called together a special committee on which sat representatives of the co-operative societies. We elaborated a sort of rules and constitution which would be approved, so that all cooperative societies which are now in being and which may be formed shall know exactly the sort of statute which meets with government approval."

"They will receive our support. The question of habitations has also been studied. For it is urgent that the problem should be rapidly solved. The buildings which have been damaged but which can be repaired fairly quickly if we concentrate upon them. Afterward in these particular districts, new constructions can be proceeded with, but as far as possible shattered dwelling places should be made tenable."

Priorities—The Key-Note.

"With regard more particularly to the habitations of workers in the mining and industrial centres, upon which depends the whole possibility of industrial reconstruction, this matter must be given priority. Priority is really the key-word in any sane system of reconstruction."

"There will be set up everywhere public offices and companies for the creation of cheap houses. These companies will be allowed to buy from the owners of houses their right to indemnities, and thus the man who has suffered loss can receive his money at once and something can be done with the buildings which he has no intention of repairing. If an owner of property does not proceed with the repair of his property he can only claim damages based upon the value of that property before the war. Now the difference between that value and the cost of reconstruction will be made up to the building companies. These companies are being encouraged in every way to construct houses for workers and peasants."

"The difficulty, hitherto, has been that the cantonal commissions have been faced with a huge task which they have not been able to accomplish. They have not been able to fix, definitely, the indemnities which are due. It will take some time for them to do so. But in the meantime work is held up often for want of money. Now it is proposed at once

If those among our business men, our manufacturers or farmers who did not enjoy the advantage of a college education were to look back over their lifetime and examine all the difficulties they had to overcome, all the industrial problems they were up against and which they were able to solve only after many costly experiments and often with the aid of foreign experts secured at great expense, they would surely ask us to encourage in every way, financially as well through our influence, the subscription now being launched in favor of Laval University.

For Laval has been a pioneer in the domain of education just as our forefathers have been the pioneers in the domain of colonization and agriculture.

Today, Laval has a noble ambition, that of extending its scheme of studies, so as to be in a position to create and develop technical experts and master minds of industry, equipped so as to be able to utilize, with the greatest benefit possible, to the nation and to the citizens of Canada, its vast wealth of raw materials and to transform it, right here at home and with our own capital and labor, into valuable manufactured products.

Why should we let our neighbors, perhaps better equipped scientifically than ourselves, reap the big profits derived from the exploitation of our natural resources and be contented with the leavings?

It should not be, and shall not be, now that we are assured, through the closer union all Canadians, of the expansion of our great University. Under the pressure of war needs, old industrial systems and methods have been completely transformed; science and industry, fused into closer co-operation, have accomplished wonders unthought of before, wonders that have culminated in the final victory of the Allies.

In the course of the coming peaceful conquests of industry, agriculture and commerce, the palm shall be awarded to the nations best equipped, to meet the new demands of a period of transformation in all domains of human endeavor.

Let us therefore, one and all, generously endow our Laval University which is called upon to form our sons and successors so as to enable them to play the leading roles in Canada's Industry, Agriculture and Commerce.

Canada is their inheritance: it behooves us therefore to assure them the higher education, the research laboratories, the scientific and practical knowledge indispensable to those, who tomorrow, shall be called upon to guide the destinies of Canada. The Seminary of Quebec has spent seven millions for the maintenance of Laval University—Let us follow such a noble example—Let us repay in part the debt of gratitude we owe to Laval and education by subscribing generously to enable Laval to compete favorably with foreign Universities, for the greatest advantage of our Sons of Canada.

L'AIDE A LAVAL

to make allowances to the building companies without waiting the result of the inquiries of the commissions.

"The cantonal commissions, it cannot be denied, have not worked with sufficient rapidity. Why, it is the closing date for the reception of claims will be reached. Therefore the final decision cannot be arrived at and many things are hung up."

"There is, further, an insufficiency of staff. I have obtained from the Minister of Finance a number of clerks and other employees and they will only have to approve them. But not only am I asking for clerks, but also for experts of all kinds, not only attached to the government but also those who are outside the administration."

"Thus this question of indemnities should now be quickly solved. Unfortunately work has been delayed because it has not been solved. It was I propose and what has been done is in a large majority of cases where the damages do not involve the payment of very large sums, to agree upon a provisional amount which will be satisfactory to the person who has suffered loss.

"Tribunal To Be Formed.

"There are tribunals also to be formed which will decide contentious cases. All this will hasten such reconstruction as is at a standstill for want of funds, but however quickly the new organization works it yet remains true that it will be months before some cases are examined. Therefore it will be necessary to continue and extend the system of advances."

"The financial question is, indeed, of the most extreme importance. It is precisely lack of finances which is responsible for much that is unsatisfactory. Unhappily, I cannot altogether control the finances which will be available. The Minister of Finance holds the keys of the treasury. If I prepare a great program and then find that the Minister of Finance cannot spare the money, the most unfortunate result may follow."

"Now Mr. Millerand has clearly laid it down that when work is once begun it must not be stopped. It is, of course, sheer waste of time and money if something that is begun is not finished. It is essential that a clear understanding shall be reached with the financial department and that the arrangements now made shall not be altered. After money has been spent, after labor has been spent, the result is precisely as if nothing had been done, if suddenly the means of continuing are withdrawn."

"The basis of the whole problem of reconstruction is finance and in every way credit must be extended to those who have suffered. So far as possible reconstruction must be accomplished by private initiative, but it is for the State to help supply the funds and to look after the public services."

EDUCATING MOROS

The high cost of educating a Moro is one of the serious problems in the Philippines. The population of Moro and is widely scattered, schools are necessarily far apart and teachers have to be imported at relatively high salaries, so that the cost per Moro of education in this territory is considerably higher than that per Filipino in other provinces.

The results as O. Garfield Jones, who has been a close student of Philippine progress during the last dozen years, analyzes show steady progress toward the end of educating the Moros to become an integral part of the body politic, but far

AUSTRIAN OFFICERS WEAR THEIR UNIFORM

Vienna, Oct. 8.—A former officer of the Austrian army was walking through a poor quarter of the city in full uniform when a workman's councillor ordered him to remove his clanking spurs. An altercation ensued leading to a suit by the officer for defamation. The court gave him damages to the amount of 1,000 crowns and told him he could wear the splendor of his former estate when and where he would. The workman's councillor pleaded that he and his neighbors objected to such a reminder of the old time authority of the military class.

Since the ratification of the treaty officers in the full uniform of the old army with breastloads of medals and decorations have become very much in evidence on the promenades. Many of them say their uniforms are the only decent clothes they have.

SOUTH AFRICA AND PROSPERITY

Increasingly Prosperous Future Is Predicted for Former German Colony

London, Eng., Oct. 8.—Southwest Africa, formerly known as German Southwest Africa, occupies an interesting, although not unique, position from the administrative point of view, for, like Papua, which is administered by the Commonwealth, the Southwest Africa protectorate is governed by the Union of South Africa and the report, recently issued, of the Administrator, Sir H. E. L. Gorgee, is a document of much interest.

Although nominally under martial law, through delay in the issue of the mandate under the South-west Africa Mandate Act, the civil courts are in full operation, and a proclamation has been issued introducing Roman-Dutch law as from the beginning of this year. Before the passing of this mandate act, there was much doubt as to the future of the territory, but the wise measure has reassured the doubtful, made for stability, and has given an impetus to trade and industry. These excellent results were cemented by the visit of His Excellency the Governor-General who made an extensive tour of the territory and repeatedly emphasized the facts that in no circumstances would the territory be given back to Germany, and that the treatment of the natives must conform with the humane policy of the Union elsewhere.

Excellent Impression Made.

The Governor-General made an excellent impression on all classes of the community with whom he came into contact, especially the German, to whom he made it clear that their future lay largely in their own hands, and if they were ready to live and work side by side with the citizens from the Union, on amicable terms, for the common good of the territory they would be met at least half way.

Turning to the agricultural progress of the country during 1919, it may be mentioned that the year has been one of great prosperity for the stock farmers, and this prosperity has spread to the commercial community, and old business relationships, temporarily quiescent during the year of occupation, have been reopened and further enterprises started, and today trade is brisk, and there are few residents whose financial position does not show a considerable improvement as compared with a few years ago. Up to now the business of the country has been conducted solely with the Union, and whilst this business is likely to increase, there is every indication that direct imports from Europe and America will soon begin.

Financial Basis Sounder.

The depreciation in the value of German paper money has certainly had a detrimental effect on some of the community, but the country, on the whole, is on a sounder financial basis than at any time previously in its history, and at the present moment the number of the white population has reached a point never before approached. It is early yet to prophesy as to the ultimate career of the territory, but sufficient has already been done, again to demonstrate the genius, inherent in the British character, for colonization. Here is a country, just emerged from war, people by a difficult native race, by Germans, Dutch and English, only just throwing off the shackles of martial law, and with all the unavoidable confusion of a complete change of administration, and yet, under British rule, the territory is happier and more prosperous than ever before in its history.

The question of native labor promised to be a problem of some magnitude, for the German policy was tantamount to forced labor, and they believed that the best way to get a native to work was to keep him always a pauper. It was a policy of repression, and was designed to bind him as the servant of the white man for all time. The native no longer lives in fear; but he has not, as yet, had time to adjust himself to the new conditions, with the result that a difficult period of transition must be passed through before he settles down comfortably to enjoy his freedom.

Large Diamond Output.

Turning to the products of the country during the year, it may be mentioned that the mineral wealth lifted was mostly represented by diamonds, the total output of which was 462,180 carats, of the estimated value of £1,500,000, which will yield to the government, as taxation, no less than £475,000. Prior to the war an amalgamation of the various diamond concerns, numbering 11, was mooted, as it was felt that only by centralized control would the fullest economy be possible, so an organization known as the Consolidated Diamond Mines Limited has now taken over the other firms, and the price paid by this new company for the German interests was £3,500,000.

The four big producers of the precious stones in South Africa, namely De Beers, Premier, Jagersfontein and Southwest Africa, arranged with the London Diamond Syndicate to place upon the market, in 1920, gems of the value of £11,000,000, the Southwest share being 1 per cent. Owing, however, to the increased demand for diamonds, the Syndicate has proposed increasing the volume of trade, the result of which will mean increased prosperity to the industry in the territory as, at present, owing to the restriction on output, the exciting plants are not being worked to their full capacity.

Concerning agriculture, it must be confessed that, from the point of view of crops, the year was a failure, as in the northern districts, where alone it is possible to cultivate grain, the rainfall was insufficient when most required, and too heavy when it was not wanted. A happier picture is, however, presented by the stock reports. The veal was in excellent condition, with the result that record numbers of cattle have been exported at record prices. This aspect of the farmer's activities has given cause for the greatest satisfaction and prosperity.

The numbers of stock exported during the year were 17,266 oxen, and 89,161 sheep, and far exceeded all anticipations, and with a wise policy of land settlement and judicious help from the administration, the territory should become a great ranching country. The game in the country has increased, and guinea fowl, kipp-springer, springbok, duiker, steenbok, gompauw and vlak-pauw are plentiful. On the borders of the Namb in the west and in the game reserves of the north, zebra are to be found in large numbers, while the large antelope, are fairly common. In the Kaokoveld elephants are still found and are strictly protected.

Turning to finance, the position is found to be eminently satisfactory, and the revenue has increased from £84,501 in 1916-17 to £619,591 in 1919-20, and for the first time since the British occupation the revenue shows a surplus over expenditure, and provided the diamond industry maintains its present high level, the position will remain satisfactory for years to come.

The country is now settling down to work, and with the expected further influx of white population, and with the opening up of trade generally, there is every reason to predict an increasingly prosperous future for the former German colony.

DISBANDMENT OF CHINESE TROOPS

Plans Call For Three Complete Divisions, as Well as Some Brigades

Peking, Oct. 8.—Plans for disbandment of Chinese troops just announced call for the demobilization of the First and Third divisions of the Frontier Defence Army (Little Hu's command) and the 15th Division of the standing army, the unit which broke under attack by Wu Peifu's armies recently and retired upon the capital in disorder.

In addition, 50 per cent of General Ma Liang's troops, stationed at Tsinan, three out of four mixed brigades of the Northwest Defence army (Tuan Chijui's), besides two divisions and four brigades of General Chang Chin-yao's Hunan troops are also slated for immediate disbandment. All the above were formerly Anfu troops.

During a second period, whose limits are not defined, it is proposed to reduce all provincial armies within the jurisdiction of the government by 20 per cent.

A further reform which is said to be contemplated by the new cabinet is abolition of the principle which permits one official to hold concurrently several posts in the government coupled with a general reduction in the personnel of all departments which are at present overburdened with appointments. A competent authority expressed the opinion that this reform, if conscientiously carried out, would mean a reduction of 80 per cent in personnel and approximately 60 in expense.

A Remedy for Bilious Headache.

To those subject to bilious headaches, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are recommended as the way to speedy relief. Taken according to directions they will subdue irregularities of the stomach and so act upon the nerves and blood vessels that the pains in the head will cease. There are few who are not at sometime subject to biliousness and familiar with its attendant evils. Yet none need suffer from these pills at hand.

RESULTS OF PROHIBITION.

New York, Oct. 8.—Here are some of the results of prohibition in the United States as reported by the New York World.

"More whiskey is being made and sold now than six months ago.

"The dry territory of the South is wetter than it has been any time since Prohibition by State legislation became operative in the various commonwealths.

"More corn whiskey is being made in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky than ever before.

YUKON EXODUS COMMENCES

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 8.—With first approach of winter the exodus from the Yukon has commenced. Every passenger vessel arriving in port carries its full quota of passengers.

Stanley White and George Johnston, of Dawson, veteran Yukon prospectors, tell of a new silver field discovery. They say Mayo City, 150 miles southeast of Dawson on the Stewart river, bids fair to become a second city of tents on account of the influx of miners who are staking claims all over the district.

"The old prospectors, vanished during the war, are coming back to their trade also."

BRITISH MASONIC MOVEMENT GROWS

In English Jurisdiction During 12 Months Warrants For 164 New Lodges Granted

London, Eng., Oct. 8.—Suffolk and London brethren are to lose the personal services for some few years, at any rate, of the Earl of Stradbroke provincial grand master of Mark Masonry, who has been appointed Governor of Victoria in succession to the Hon. Sir Arthur Lyulph Stanley. The congratulations of brethren generally will be extended to one who has served his country faithfully and without ostentation unceasingly since the dark days of 1914, though he will be missed by many brethren and Masonic bodies who have frequently sought his advice on matters Masonic in the past. London and Essex Freemasons have lost a stalwart worker in Bishop Stevens, past grand chaplain, who was suffragan bishop of Barking until his resignation last year. Eshp Stevens had been an earnest and devoted Freemason from the moment of his initiation in the Isaac Newton University Lodge, No. 859, Cambridge. His affections were almost entirely centered on the eastern side of London, where, as he frequently made it his boast, the whole of his clerical life from the time of his ordination in 1865 had been spent. The affection he felt toward that district was heartily reciprocated by the inhabitants, and particularly by his Masonic brethren, some of whom founded the Bishop of Barking Lodge, No. 3050, which was named as a tribute to his devotion and self-sacrifice, in all philanthropic and benevolent causes.

Masons From Oxford.

Major Philip Maurice Beachcroft, who has just been elected secretary of the Royal Masonic Institution for girls by a number of votes which gives him a substantial majority over his four competitors, adds another name to the long list of Oxford University graduates now occupying prominent positions in craft administration. He was initiated in the Apollo University Lodge, No. 357, in 1906 and since then has become a member of the Western Circuit No. 1354; the Methuen, No. 651 (of which he is founder, past master and secretary), the Bucks Masters, No. 3305 and St. Mary's Magdalen, No. 1923, lodges. In 1918 he was appointed provincial grand senior warden of Buckinghamshire. He graduated from Magdalen College, Oxford, with honors in law, in 1901, and has since attained the O. B. E. (military division) for his services during the war when he was mentioned in dispatches.

An interesting ceremony took place at the installation meeting of the Anglo-Colonial Lodge, No. 3175, which was formed in 1908 as a Masonic home in London for those associated with the colonies. Francis C. Polden, who was made a freshman in the Bulwago Lodge in 1904, was installed master for the ensuing year, the ceremony being performed by the retiring master, T. J. Oldland, who was initiated in California. During the evening James W. Mathews, past grand warden of New Zealand, invested E. Nordon, a member of the lodge, with his collar as past junior grand deacon of New Zealand.

Site of Sun Tavern.

It has been recalled, in connection with the recent visit of the Provincial Grand Lodge of Devon to Exmouth, that an interesting coincidence attaches to the banners of the local lodges "Sun" and "Rollie." Both were the gifts of the Peters family, who made the gifts when senior warden of their respective lodges. The banner of Sun Lodge was given by W. H. Peters and that of Rollie Lodge by Henry Peters to commemorate the first visit of the Provincial Grand Lodge to Exmouth in 1907. In 1906 an attempt was made to discover what remains there were of the old Sun Tavern, where the Sun Lodge met from the time of its foundation in 1759. It was found that a portion of the original buildings was remaining, but the work of exploration was not altogether easy. To inspect the remains of a tavern which flourished a century and a half previously it was necessary to use a ladder, and a touch of amusement was added to the adventure by the solicitude of a lady who stood by rather anxious as to what might happen to the staid gentlemen who were evidently unaccustomed to ladder climbing.

The library and museum of the United Grand Lodge of England have received from the Rev. C. E. Leigh Wright, past grand deacon, 300 books many jewels, and a large and varied collection of Masonic aprons. Some 40 pieces of valuable Masonic glass have also been added to the museum by purchase, including several varieties of English and Waterford glass.

of which was stopped by government action in 1917. During the last 12 months the grand master of England has granted warrants for the erection of 164 new lodges. Of these lodges 31 are to meet in London, 124 in the provinces, and nine in places overseas; and it is fair to say that there is hardly a province in England but takes its share in the increase. It is not a question of spasmodic growth anywhere, rather a steady all-round extension throughout the whole English jurisdiction, the increase of members being below the average. It is also fair to claim that this great increase has only been permitted after very careful consideration and particular inquiry. Not one of the 164 warrants has been granted offhand in response to the petition of a body of founders. The request of the different petitions have been carefully weighed and have been indorsed by the local authorities concerned before coming up for consideration by the ultimate court of advisers of the grand master. The greatest critic of English Freemasonry could not produce evidence to the contrary—would probably even hesitate to charge the craft with inflation, or unnecessary extension. This boon to the craft of England may well congratulate itself on the addition of 164 lodges to its roll during the past 12 months.

MANY CHANGES IN BANKING SYSTEM

Three Revolutions Noted— Five Different Systems Employed.

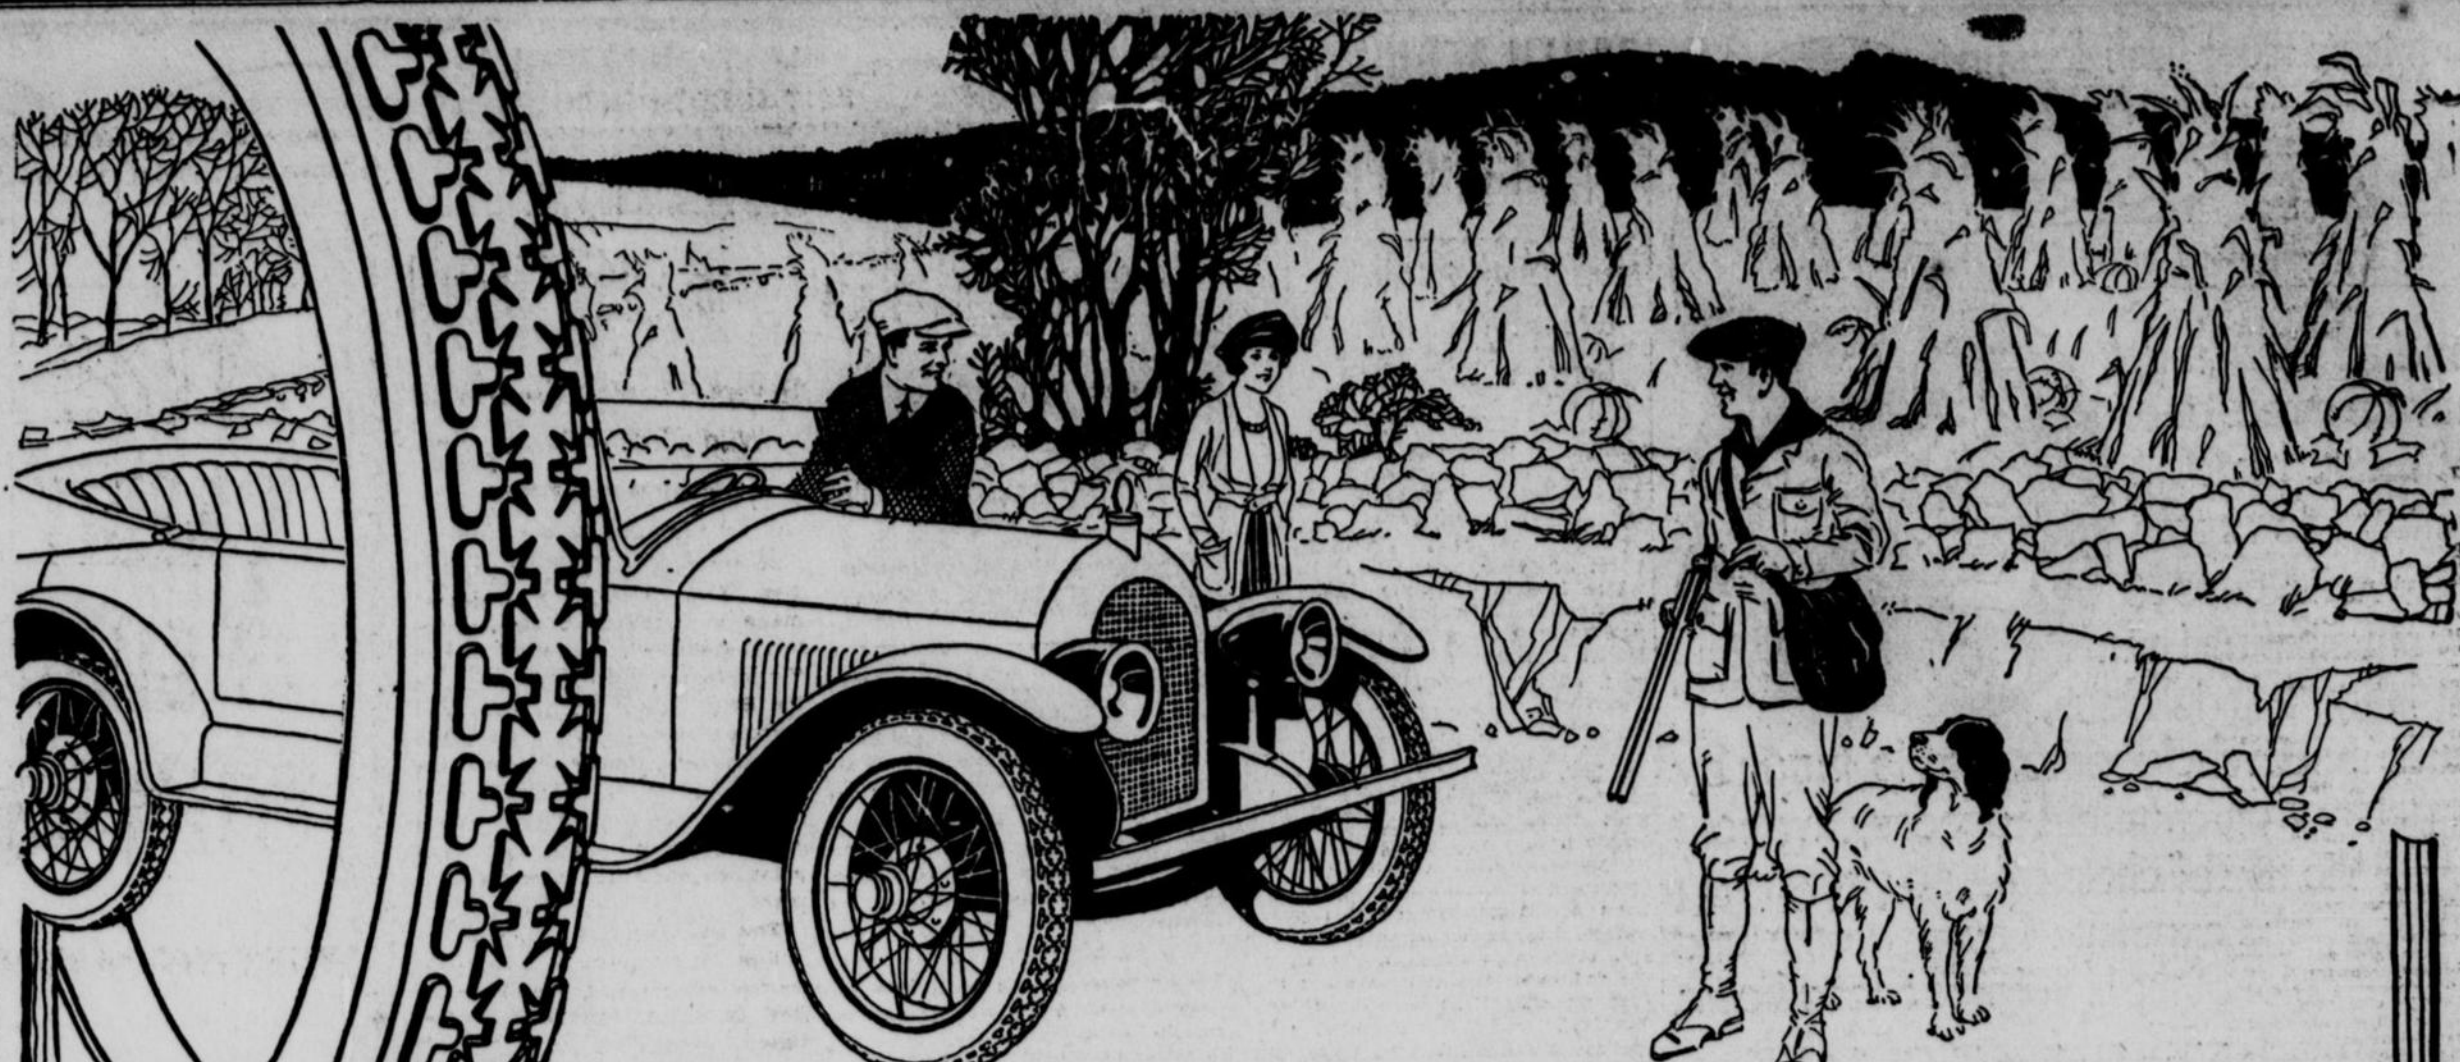

The United States have passed through at least three sweeping revolutions in banking, and altogether have had five distinct systems. There has been, as a matter of fact, no evolution at all, but there have been three revolutions. The National banking system of the United States was admittedly an ineffective system; it was not admitted in the American newspapers, but many of their bankers did admit it.

The attempt is made in the present Federal Reserve System, to give to the United States fluidity regarding capital—that it shall flow out easily to the right places—and to give solidarity so far as the nation is concerned, that is the power to make the assets of all the banks a dynamic arm of the state in time of trouble. Their share in the finance of the war could not have been carried out if it had not been for the Federal Reserve system. In framing the Federal Reserve system the Canadian system was considered, but the introduction of the branch system was impossible, owing to the fact that this would require many thousands of different banks to fall into branch groups, and I cannot imagine how this could be brought about. When suggestions have been made in the United States—and I proposed it as early as 1893 that they should make branch banking permissible as well as individual banking, and let each stand or fall by success—some of the ablest bankers in the United States said: "We would never consent to that, because we know we should have to knock under to the big fellows in New York and Chicago, and this branch banking would sweep the little fellows out of existence. But in the United States a peculiar situation exists; they have had to permit systems of branch banking within the area of large cities, while a system covering various cities is not permissible; one bank has now over forty branches in New York.

Foreign Branches Allowed.

They have also discovered that while a bank in the United States may not have branches in the United States, it may have as many as it likes in foreign countries. At home they must do all their business under one roof, but they can go abroad and cultivate business in foreign countries without these restrictions.

There is another difference between the two countries which affects almost everything. The American is taught to do the thing that the statute book says he may do; the British idea is the reverse of this—to do the thing that it seems honest and natural to do, provided the law does not prevent. Canadian banking developed without the state giving power to go to foreign countries or even to establish branches at home, without the state giving anything except very general powers, and we have done things because they seemed the natural things to do. Later some of these powers appeared in the statute books. I remember a time when the national banks of the United States felt that they could not keep an account in London, England, or draw bills of exchange on foreign banks, because the statute did not definitely say they could. These two differences are worth considering.

HIGHER TAXATION OR STATE BANKRUPTCY

Only Alternative Possibilities For Germany, Says Minister of Home Affairs

Cologne, Oct. 8.—Higher taxation or state bankruptcy are the only alternative possibilities for Germany, Dr. Koch, German Minister of Home Affairs, has just told leading public men in a conference on the economic and political situation of Rhenish Prussia.

Dr. Koch declared he could not see the faintest possibility of any reduction of the scheduled taxes which had already been drawn up and approved.

Dr. Koch was overwhelmed with complaints about the shortage of dwellings and the paralyzing effect of the present export and import regulations.

Discussing the unity of empire, the minister announced that a special commission comprising members of the Federal Council, had been organized to study the problems affecting the new alignment of the Federal German states.

TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA

Valparaiso, Oct. 8.—Canada's trade with South America has more than doubled since 1912, according to statistics published here. The largest volume of business was done with British Guiana. Argentina was second, Peru third and Brazil fourth. The total commerce between the Dominion and South America during the last year amounted to $32,690,163.

FREQUENT HEADACHES A DANGER SIGNAL

The Victim Nearly Always Suffers From Weak, Watery Blood.

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery than nervous or sick headaches. Only those who have endured the suffering, sometimes for days at a stretch, can realize the agony of the victim. Nerves increase the pain; food is unthought of, for it only adds to the distress. When the attack is on there is little to be done until it passes away. These headaches are nearly always a danger signal that too frequently pass unheeded. They are the symptoms of many maladies, such as anaemia, constipation, indigestion, etc., and when these are cured the headaches permanently disappear. Headaches are more often a sign of weak, watery blood than anything else, and the most successful treatment, therefore, is a remedy that will rebuild the blood and make it rich and red. This can best be done through a fair course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which has a special action on the blood, and through the blood on the nerves. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases due to poor, watery blood such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, after effects of influenza, neuralgia, etc. The effectiveness of this tonic treatment is illustrated in the following case: Mrs. Geo. Arn, R.R. No. 5, Simcoe, Ont., says:—"Some years ago my daughter, then a young girl of eleven, became very much run down and nervous. She was troubled greatly with sick headaches, and frequently with vomiting spells, and although we lived just across the road from the school, she was not able to attend. She was taking medicine all this time, but it did not seem to do her any good. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally decided to give them to her. By the time she had taken two boxes she seemed much better, and before the fifth box was finished, she was again in the best of health and was always since enjoyed the best of health. I am satisfied it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that restored her, and I have since seen equally good results in other cases." You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Our Note Issue.

In my opinion the only paper money that should be permitted, except under the stress of war, is such a note as that issued by a Canadian bank. It was suggested at the beginning of the war that bank notes be made a legal tender, but this we had the good sense to refuse. The fundamental thing about the Canadian bank note is that it is issued always to perform some credit service. It is only a temporary instrument and when it performs that service it comes back and is killed. So far as its security is concerned, it is the first charge upon the bank, ahead even of the state, and every bank guarantees by a very simple system the notes of every other bank.

Thus under no circumstances can any private individual lose by the failure of the bank, or lose because of geographical reasons. Every Canadian bank is forced to have in every province in Canada a centre of redemption. So we have a circulation which can only be inflated because prices are inflated, and an undue amount of business has been undertaken by the loans the bank has made. But when prices fall and loans are restricted the bank note circulation at once lessens in volume in precise accordance there with.

The notes issued by a state bank, if they are legal tender, or any notes issued by a government, having legal tender quality, do not regularly come back for redemption. They will if the individual holding them needs gold. There is no such thing as the daily habit of cancelling such notes and if they are the notes of the government they are only an evidence that the government owes money to somebody, not that some commodity is being produced or moved to market. The money passes by virtue of a fiat, and is apt to stay out, because it is a legal tender. That is the difference between the two systems. You can have a country most seriously inflated, as you have in England at the present time by the issue of too much fiat money.

Exigencies of War.

You will find very few countries in the world where the privilege of note issues is left to the banks. In almost every country that privilege is sooner or later taken away from the banks and given to the government, or to a central bank issue, which is the government instrument. The reason for that is almost invariably the same: war has caused the country to resort to some form of expressing debt, and one form has almost been an issue of legal tender money, and they have almost always had to seize the banks' circulation privileges in order to put this in circulation. That is exactly what happened in 1862, when Salmon P. Chase had to face the Civil War situation in the United States. The government put a tax of ten per cent. on the bank note circulation, thus enabling it to force the government notes out in their place.

LOW SPEED CARGO AIRSHIPS USEFUL IN CIVIL ENGINEERING

Cardiff, Wales, Oct. 8.—Low speed cargo airships for towing other aircraft were suggested by Wing Commander T. R. Cave-Browne-Cave in an address before the engineering section of the Conference of the British Association for the Advancement of Science held here.

When no speed greater than 35 miles an hour is required, and when reasonably favorable weather can be waited for, even small airships can be used for transport over otherwise impossible country, he stated. It has been demonstrated that airships with a gas capacity ranging from 70,000 to 2,400,000 cubic feet can transport at slow speed from 0.75 to 48.1 tons when used as airships with crew and machinery, and from 1.3 to 52 tons when used as "dumb" vessels.

Such an airship service, the Commander said, would be of inestimable value in civil engineering, such as the construction of railways and in prospecting for oil and minerals by transporting material. It would be possible to land one or two men from a survey party by means of slings from a strong wire while the airship was practically stationary.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 8.—One of Canada's V.C.'s, Sergeant Major J. Kelly, V.C., veteran of the Afghan, Egyptian, Boer, and Great Wars has taken a homestead on Cortez Island, and will spend his remaining years farming. The veteran is now 65 years of age and served overseas in the late campaign with the first Canadian Division. He won his Victoria Cross in 1879 in Afghanistan and came to Canada in 1900.

THE CANADIAN NATIONAL GRAND TRUNK exhibits this year were of unusual interest and educational value. Thousands learned of the immensity of the land and water transportation systems owned by the Canadian people. The huge illuminated map of Canada, on which were shown the 23,000 miles of Government railway lines; the Marconi wireless telegraph in actual operation between the sixty-six steamships of Canada's Commerce Carriers and the forty odd wireless stations in the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific; the demonstrations by the Marconi Company's operators of the practicability of the wireless telephone; the world map showing the trade routes by the Government Merchant Marine; the numerous aids to navigation; and the beautiful display of colored transparencies of Canada's scenic gems from Coast to Coast, were indeed a wonderful lesson of Canada's national effort in Dominion and world-wide trade.

In another building was displayed a huge panorama of Jasper, the largest of Canada's National Parks, where the Rockies rise to their greatest height and assume their utmost grandeur, with Mount Edith Cavell—Canada's national monument to one of the world-war heroines—in the centre, and Mount Robson in the farther distance.

The above illustration, also show the attention the exhibits attracted. The two buildings were crowded from early morning till the doors closed at night, making it impossible to estimate the number of visitors to the Canadian National Grand Trunk exhibits of 1920.

GREAT STABILITY IN BUSINESS SEEN

September Report Notes Price Cuts, Good Crop Yields, and Better Banking Conditions

Washington, D.C., Oct. 8.—Great stability in business, in spite of the processes of readjustment due to price reductions, is indicated in the September report of the Federal Reserve Board, issued today.

"After an apparent slowing down in the price reduction movement during mid-summer, it has again reappeared, and the past month has seen substantial cuts in well-known automobile makes, textiles of various classes, shoes and leather goods, and in other wholesale prices," the report states.

"The crop moving process has gone ahead on the whole smoothly, and the peak of demand for funds has practically passed without serious inconvenience and with no prospect of an increase of difficulty.

"In regard to the New England district, the report states that 'industries and trade are still feeling their way cautiously but with confidence toward the objective of stable business and financial conditions.

"The textile situation during the month has been of unusual importance in all of the producing districts. An outstanding event has been a reduction of 33 1-2 per cent by the Amoskeag Mills of Manchester, N.H.

"The labor situation for the month has presented considerable variations. In the manufacturing region employment has been less steady, owing to short-time operations or suspensions in some quarters.

"There has been dissatisfaction in the anthracite coal region because of the decision of the wage scale commission, but many of the miners are now returning to work. In the middle west it is reported from all parts of the district and all industries that there is increasing efficiency on the part of labor.

"There has been continued wrecking of houses to be supplanted by business buildings. For August, 1019 contracts were awarded in New York and northern New Jersey, the valuation of which was $88,000,000, as against $46,000,000 in July.

ANGLO-SAXONS AS LOST TRIBES

Recent Theory Recalls Dr. Wild's Book—He Also Predicted End of World

Recently published in the Sun and New York Herald, the statement made by Herbert Garrison, secretary-general of the British Israel World Federation, at the opening of the British Israel congress at Kensington, London, that proof would soon be forthcoming of the Saxon race being descended directly from the lost tribes of Israel has resulted in the proffer of a book, long out of print, in which the same claim is made.

This book is entitled, The Lost Ten Tribes. It comprises eighteen discourses or sermons delivered by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Wild, pastor of the Union Governmental church, known as the Elm Place church, in Brooklyn. They were first published in the Champion, a weekly paper published in New York, and later appeared in covers, printed and published by James Huggins, New York, in 1870.

Beginning with the Biblical prophecy that David's seed and throne are to last to the end of time, the author conveys the idea that God is keeping His word to His ancient chosen people, Israel, descendants of whom he believes are found in the Saxon race, and Queen Victoria, then on the throne of England, he also believed, was a direct descendant of King David. Her grandson, George V., follows, of course, in direct succession.

"God," said Dr. Wild, "made the children of Israel and throne of David His executive for civilization, evangelization, order and conquest. Through them (Saxon Israelites and long drawn descendants of King David and his wife Bathsheba, that is, George V.) God will conquer the world to a universal peace."

"In the genealogical table beginning with Adam (B.C. 4000-3000) and passing by David (B.C. 1055-1015) with diversions to include the ancient kings of Scotland and Ireland, as well as of Argyllshire and Great Britain he comes straight to Victoria. Thus it was this author's belief that God had kept His word to David and He prophesied that power would be held in these hands until David's throne was once more planted in Jerusalem.

English writers of Dr. Wild's time found nothing far fetched in his argument, and there were certain preachers who accepted his premises and carried them to the same conclusion, among them the clergymen Glover and Grimaldi, while lay writers of eminence, like Philo-Isaac and Piazzi Smith, historian royal of Scotland, discovered the same ideas. Now it is claimed by the British Israelites that proof of these things is in a building in London and will be produced in due time.

"If we once get a clear idea who the seed (of David) are," said our author, "then we can search among the people of the earth to find them. Of the special marks one was that they were to possess the gates of their enemies; of these we are assured by the word of God.

"Believe that the Saxon race are the ten lost tribes, it then followed that the English nation is the chief representative of these tribes, and that they should be in possession of the gates of their enemies. Are they? We answer, yes."

Then he follows with these "gates": Guernsey, Islands, Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus, Suez canal, Aden, Peshawar, Bombay, Calcutta, Singapore, Malacca, Penang, Hong Kong, Sarawak, Labuan and several other gates.

CANADA CANNOT TURN TO EUROPE

Better to Leave Field to Scandinavian Countries for News Market

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 8.—When Geo. F. Steel, general manager of the Canadian Export Paper Company, which controls the export business of some of the largest newspaper mills in Canada, returned from a six weeks' trip to England and the Scandinavian countries, as well as France and Belgium, this week he expressed the opinion that Europe held out very little promise of permanent business for Canadian mills.

"There is ample opportunity for us to do business in England but I doubt whether it would be to Canada's advantage to do very much there in the future. Norway, Sweden and Finland supply the bulk of England's surplus newspaper requirements, while some paper comes from Holland and some from Germany and some will come from Belgium.

"The situation in so far as the European markets for Canadian newspaper is concerned revolves itself mainly into geographical conditions. The other people that is the Scandinavian countries as well as Germany, Belgium and Holland, are closer to England and France; they have lower freight rates and at the present time at least exchange works in their favor.

"By the same rule and for the same reason that Israel conquered Palestine, does England go from conquest to conquest. And because God remembered to perform His promises made to the patriarchs upon their seed, America was opened for the Puritans, who are without doubt the descendants and representatives of Manasseh, of whom God said he should be a people, a great people."

labor prices in the Scandinavian countries advanced sufficiently as compared with Canada to make up for the difference in Exchange, although labor has gone up more relatively than in Canada and under normal conditions we would be on a better competitive basis with the Scandinavian countries than before the war.

A Sphere of Influence. "The point that impressed itself upon me in regard to the policy we should adopt for an export field is simply that if we forced Scandinavian countries out of a portion of their markets in Europe they would seek markets elsewhere, in territories which we now occupy and which it would be to our advantage to hold. What object would there be in our sending paper over to England to find the Fins and the Swedes selling newspaper in New York?"

England Developing News Mills. There is another point in connection with the English situation, and that is that the mills are endeavoring to increase largely their output of newsprint so as to meet as far as possible their own demands. It is a question of raw materials almost entirely. They are getting pulp now from Chicoutimi; they have brought in the Clark City plant; they bring in pulp from Newfoundland (in one year having brought in 45,000 tons of newsprint). Indeed, there are ample sources of supply of pulp and it is largely a matter of increasing their newsprint capacity.

Many false impressions are held as to the cause of these fluctuations.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

(By Canadian Press) New York, Oct. 8.—The Stock Market was under pressure almost from the outset of today's session, the shocks striking the aggressive manoeuvres to greater lengths than in any of the preceding days of the week.

In their fairly successful tactics the professional element was assisted by technical conditions such as the further abatement of public interest or support and particularly of stiffer money rates in the approaching week.

Other deterrents to constructive effort were offered by board room gossip and general advices which were confirmatory for the most part of a further retrograde movement in the more important channels of trade industry.

The few gains of the day were of a negative character, Sears-Roebuck for example, recovering part of its recent loss on semi-official denial of a proposed reduction of the dividend with nominal gains in affiliated and miscellaneous issues.

Exchanges on London was at its highest quotation of the week and the Italian rate also made further recovery from its low record of a few days ago, other remittances showing no material alteration.

All changes of bonds, foreign and domestic including Liberty issues, were inclined to ease.

Total sales (par value) aggregated $15,850,000.

OM United States bonds were unchanged on call.

DAILY GOSSIP ON THE LEADING STOCKS

The Daily Financial Bulletin: Special Bullish operations are expected to continue until the market digests the elevation from lower levels and "finds itself".

Goodbody & Co. think that: The steel industry is not apt to have out much to induce buying the U. S. Steel Corporation has held its price consistently below the independent manufacturers and may not have to cut at all.

According to The New York Herald: That the real test of whether the selling is being overdone or whether real liquidation is actually taking place will come tomorrow, when the steel corporation issues its monthly tonnage statement.

The Wall Street Journal is of the opinion that: Yesterday's stock market's session was a series of conflicting cross currents in which it was as difficult to perceive a definite trend.

Newburghton Henderson & Lobb, think that: Railroad bond issues presenting the best opportunities at the moment in our opinion, are in the class formerly regarded as medium grade.

Josephthal & Co., say: "We see nothing that should lead us to depart from our attitude towards standard rates which we continue to recommend around present prices and especially on all recessionary issues."

In the opinion of the New York Tribune: With further evidence of recessions in industry and trade leaders unable to predict precisely how far the reaction will go, speculative operators are perplexed as to the outlook for securities.

"I should think New Haven should do as well as any of the low-priced rails as I consider it one of the best located roads in the country. Its earnings however show a big loss in freight, which is now going to auto trucks and is probably never going to get the short haul freight back. This serious loss applies to all railroads more or less but in New England the auto truck business is getting a big systematic affair with regular schedules," says Hoyt.

Steel orders are expected to show a falling off of about 600,000 tons and it is only a guess as to what the bank statement will be but with the big declines in the commodity markets and the way in which recent offerings of investments have been snapped up would indicate that an easier market for time money is in sight.

St. Lawrence Flour during the year a special bonus of ten percent was distributed among common shareholders being taken out of a new general reserve created for the purpose, amounting to $182,568. No corresponding item appears in the company's accounts for previous years and, with definite information on the subject lacking, the amount, presumably, was taken out of the 1919 "sundry credits" total, shown in the balance sheet for the 1920 period at some $170,000, less than a year ago. With balance carried forward from the previous statement and after allowing for all additions and deductions there remained a surplus of $229,829 to carry forward into the current year against $322,263, last year, and $251,154 in 1918.

Merrill Oil Company declared regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents payable November 15th to stock of record October 30th.

LAKE OF THE WOODS STATEMENT SHOWS VARIOUS ACTIVITIES

That it is not absolutely imperative for a milling company to confine its efforts solely to milling when conditions are not at their best, is demonstrated in striking fashion by the statement submitted, recently to the shareholders of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company.

It is popular knowledge that the Government placed a number of restrictions on the flour manufacturers which removed entirely the individuality of the different brands. The Lake of the Woods Milling Co. realized that this would affect their earnings on the milling end of the business, and immediately turned around to see what could be done in other fields closely allied to their business, such as dealing in concrete, gains, etc.

The annual statement just issued shows that their profits from milling operations have decreased as was expected, but the profits from their activities in other fields have increased to an extent which very nearly makes up for the decrease in the profits on milled flour. The increase in the "Profits from other sources" makes the statement appear entirely satisfactory from all angles, and the Lake of the Woods Company have the foresight and veracity of their management to thank for this.

CLOSING LETTERS BY THE LOCAL BROKERS

(By L. G. Beaubien & Co.) New York, Oct. 8.—The market continued to sag off during the balance of the afternoon trading. The copper stocks became a little more active and were quite weak. Continual cutting of the price of copper metal without any resulting stimulation of demand is most discouraging as production is now very low and the small margin of profit is gradually being eaten into.

The motors did not sell off further when specific rumors of trouble were denied at Detroit but neither was there much activity to rally. Public utilities were one group which had a fair rise during the afternoon despite the weakness elsewhere and general sentiment of their outlook is favorable.

The reaction in railroad stocks did not go far and closing figures were not much below the high prices of the day except in certain scattered instances. (By Bruneau & Dupuis) New York, Oct. 8.—The market is irregular today and gives signs of general hesitation. There has been a very substantial advance in the rails in the past month and now there is some evidence at this level of profit taking. This would seem to be natural as we cannot have a general contraction in business without its having an effect on the volume of traffic and consequently the earnings of the roads.

The transaction have however of late done better and there is a general feeling that with the decline in costs their position will be improved and that also there is better prospect of a sensible election of that in this state after election. The Reading decree has been filed and before long the plan of segregation must be prepared. A reorganization of market is also imminent and a plan for this purpose is under consideration by the various committees. Money renewed somewhat higher today and with all these high rate issues coming out we cannot expect much improvement in the current rate on loans. While the banking position has improved there had been such a restriction this summer in the buying throughout the country that the liquidating of merchandise accounts goes on slowly. The general aspect of the market indicates trading conditions for the moment. Sales 711,500.

(By Breen & Gourdeau) New York, October, 8.—General strength characterized the stock market at the outset of the current week, with interest centered chiefly in the railroad shares. The buying movement was well maintained throughout the first half of the week, with steadily increased interest showing in the industrial, many of which joined the rails in a splintered upward swing. Around mid-week reactionary tendencies developed. Rumors of reorganization of the Texas Pacific Railroad and the possible levying of an assessment upon the stock of that company led to a sharp decline in the common issue and this, in turn, encouraged activity by professional traders on the selling side of the market, with a fair degree of success. The low priced rails were especially pressed for sale and a number of them gave way under pressure. An appreciable demand continued in the higher priced railroad issues, particularly the dividend payers and the strength thus accruing tended to have a steadying effect to a certain extent on the list, generally. Trading quieted down materially in the closing session of the week, this being largely due to a desire upon the part of the bank and a wait publication of the U. S. Steel unfiled tonnage statement before assuming fresh market commitments.

Some irregularity was displayed in the price level toward the close of the period. Dealings were mostly of a highly professional nature. Sentiment in public circles remains much confused and the indications are that little change may be had in the market's character until the future may be viewed more favorably. Sales, stocks, 711,500; bonds $14,968,000.

OTTAWA POWER BOND ISSUE IS PURCHASED

An indication of a revival of investment interest in Canadian Public Utility financing is furnished by the purchase by Royal Securities Corporation and Harris, Forbes & Company of an issue of $1,200,000 First Mortgage and Colonial Trust Bonds of the Ottawa Light, Heat & Power Company. The proceeds of the issue are to be used for the general purposes of the Company, including the acquisition of additional water powers already developed in the Ottawa District, the purchase of which is rendered necessary by the rapid expansion of the Company's business. The larger part of the issue will be distributed in the United States, principal and interest on the Bonds being payable in New York funds. The last financing done by the Ottawa Light, Heat & Power Company was an issue of $550,000, Ottawa Gas Company Refunding Mortgage Bonds, purchased and distributed by Royal Securities Corporation one year ago last March.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

(By Canadian Press) Montreal, Oct. 7.—Over half the day's trading on the local Stock Exchange today centered on Brompton with a turn-over of over 5,000 shares, the next most active stock was Amestog with 1,375 shares. Outside of these issues the market was not active.

Brompton opened at 81 and fluctuated all day between a fraction over and under that price with the close at 81 showing a gain of a point. The Amestog issue continued strong, both making new high record prices, the common at 100 and the preferred at 108. In first sale the common retained 5 1/2 points of the advance at 102 1/2 and the preferred retained three points at 107. The popularity of this stock is claimed to be due in some measure to talk of merger and to record earnings.

In Utilities only Detroit continued yesterday's advance, selling up 2 points to 108. Power lost 1 1/2 points at 83 and Shawinigan was down a fraction at 110. Stronger stocks were Atlantic Sugar, up a point at 121; Riorion which gained two points at 212; Winnipeg Railway up 1 1/2 and 2 1/2; and Mecobutts Bank which gained two points at 163. Weaker issues were Dominion Bridge, down two points at 86; Laurentide down a point at 112; Spanish common which lost 2 1/2 at 119 1/2; ex-dividend 1 1/2 per cent; Toronto Railway down 3 at 44; and Bank of Montreal, down 3 at 186.

Total sales: Listed, 10,151 shares; Bonds, $40,700.

THE CHICAGO

PRODUCE MARKET

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 8.—Wheat went sharply lower in price today with pressure heavy from the big Canadian surplus and with reports conflicting as to domestic offerings. The market closed unsettled at 4 1-2 to 5 3-4 cents net decline. Corn lost 1 3-4 to 4 1-2 and oats 5-8 to 7-8. In provisions the outcome ranged from 35 cents set-back to 27 cents advance. Bears had the advantage in the wheat market throughout the day, especially in the late dealings when it appeared that free offerings from Canada were finding an outlet here and at Minneapolis and at other domestic centers. Slowness of export demand for United States wheat counted also as a depressing factor, and so, to, did word that export interests were heavy sellers at Winnipeg. Gossip current, however, in the first part of the session that rural owners were letting go of their holdings did not seem to be much if at all borne out by subsequent advices. The Government crop report showing a material decrease in the spring wheat estimate came after trading was ended. Corn and oats gave way with wheat, December corn reaching the lowest price yet this season. Although advancing at first, owing to an upturn in the hog market, provisions later were weakened by the action of grains. Wheat December $1.93 1-2; March $1.90 3-4. Corn, December $4 3-4; May $8 3-4. Oats, December $4 7-8; May $9 5-8. Pork, October $22.00; November $22.15. Lard, November $19.40; January $16.90. Rib, October $15.25; January $15.00.

FORECASTS OF CROP PRODUCTION

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally and so immediately popular as the mercolized wax process. Evidently the reason is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, which can hardly be said of any other. To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin with cosmetics cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself.
