Rhee foes win

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — Returns pointed today to a landslide victory for the Democratic party-political opposition under the ousted regime of Syngman Rhee in Friday's national assembly election that was followed by scattered violence.

Incomplete results showed Democratic party candidates leading in 101 and independent, socialist and minority party candidates in 29 of the nation's 233 election districts. In some cases independents were likely to side with the Democrats if elected.

Dr. John M. Chang, the Democratic party's probable choice for premier, appeared certain to be elected in a Seoul constituency.

Complete results for the lower House under the new system of responsible government will be known later. Results for the 58-seat upper house will be available Aug. 5.

Police forces in Samchonpo near the seaport of Pusan battled with about 2,000 Koreans, angered by reports of an ex-member of Rhee's government had been elected.

Plan men in orbit in 1966

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government space agency Friday disclosed plans to send men into orbit around the earth on journeys lasting from two weeks to two months. The project is scheduled to be started by 1966.

After that, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said, a crew may be sent on a week-long assignment round the moon and back.

But there's no plan for a man-on-the-moon project before 1970. The agency also hopes to gently land a truck-mounted robot laboratory on the face of the moon and move it by remote control about a 50-mile-radius lunar circle, taking moon samples. It will be aptly named Project Prospector.

10 YEAR PROGRAM
All this will be done before an American attempts to set foot on the moon. The plans were announced before 1,500 contractors attending a two-day series of lectures here. Many of the contractors will bid for a share in the space programs on which the agency said it may, in 10 years, spend from $12,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000.

This program involves 26 major launchings, including 41 relating to manned space flight. The Mercury astronaut program, designed to send the first man on a space trip, suffered a setback at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Friday.

An unmanned space capsule of the type to be used eventually by the astronauts was wrecked when its Atlas booster rocket exploded 65 seconds after firing. SEARCH ATLANTIC
Ships searched the fog-cloaked Atlantic over an area four to 12 miles south of the launching pad in the hope of recovering remnants of the multi-million-dollar Atlas booster and possibly the capsule.

The cause of the mishap, which may delay the Mercury program, was unknown. It had been planned to make the first manned launching late this year.

GOP meet top news

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer
The week in headlines: Republican party picks Nixon and Lodge; UN force brings quiet to troubled Congo; Russia uses its 88th veto in UN debate on the latest plane incident; racial troubles flare anew in Rhodesia; Britain gets new foreign secretary, Italy gets new premier; forest fires ravage western Canada and U.S.

ELECTION FEVER
The Republican party called on Vice-President Richard Nixon and United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to lead it into next November's U.S. presidential election. Nixon promised—among many other things, as did his Democratic rival—to wage the hardest-ever campaign against the opposition. With eight hours of television debate between Nixon and Senator John Kennedy apparently arranged, it undoubtedly will be one of the fiercest.

A final touch: convention

DEAD AHEAD — Bystanders on the Halifax waterfront were unaware that the 40,000-ton American aircraft carrier Essex was about to pay an unexpected visit on the immigration building. Greatest medical mystery

Never outside home, children astound all

TECUMSEH, Ont. (CP)—Three undersized children, who for the better part of 11 years saw the outside world through a hole in a board in their attic room, Friday astounded listeners with their knowledge of things ranging from baseball records to American politics.

Dr. Walter Wren of Grace Hospital in nearby Windsor who examined the children termed them the "greatest medical mystery" he had ever seen. He said the children were in good health neither undernourished nor anaemic.

The three, Gordon Dickerson,

14, whose bolt for freedom Thursday night was successful, and his sisters, Constance, 16, and Glenda, 13, slept in a single bed on a top-floor landing of a two-storey house.

Police, Children's Aid Society officials and the crown attorney were still undecided Friday as to what, if any, action would be

Statistics hurled at ten paces

OTTAWA (CP)—Statistics at 10 paces comprised the bulk of a continuing Commons debate on unemployment Friday.

Ten paces is approximately the distance between the government and opposition benches in the chamber.

Statistics on the size of the labor force, the percentage of this force without jobs and similar figures were read out and challenged just as if they had never been read out and challenged in the Commons on many previous occasions.

taken against the parents. Crown officials said there would be no announcement until results of medical tests are available to them.

Dr. W. M. Wilson, the hospital's chief pediatrician, said he could not explain why the children were undersized. "They might almost be called atrophied," he said.

As long as the children were well fed, their height and weight should not have been affected, he said. All had good appetites and there was no sign of that they were not physically well cared for.

Although they were not as normal as children of their ages, he said, they were in perfect condition organically.

Their mother, Mrs. Shirley Leach, 38, told police that she first hid the children when she feared landlords would not rent to a family of eight. Then she said, she was afraid to let the children out because other children might laugh at their underdevelopment.

MARRIED TWICE
Mrs. Leach, who divorced her first husband, Donald Dickerson, moved from Detroit to Windsor in 1949 after the divorce. Later she moved to Tecumseh with her second husband, Donald Leach, an odd-jobs man. Three years later they moved into their present home.

There are three other children: Donna, 22, now married, Carol, 20, and Veronica, 12. They led normal lives with everyday outside contacts, but never men-

Duffer 12 days, scores a pair of holes in one

SCHROON LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Abe Steinberg of Montreal, who said he took up golf only 12 days ago, Friday scored his second hole-in-one in a week.

Steinberg, 44, operator of a diaper service, fired Friday's ace on a 225-yard, par-4 hole on the municipal nine-hole course. He used a driver.

Using a No. 7 iron last Saturday, Steinberg made his hole-in-one on a 90-yard, par-3 hole.

Steinberg said he took up the game to keep his wife company. She is an ardent golfer and he said he thinks he'll pay more attention to the game henceforth. They are vacationing here.

Pro Tommy Tucker said about 10 persons witnessed each of Steinberg's feats.

Nixon holds conference

Mid-west strategy planned

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice-President Nixon today to forge new strength into what some of his strategists regard as his weakest campaign link—the U. S. agricultural Middle West.

Congress members, governors, convention delegates and farmers were summoned to confer with Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, on the problems the Republicans face in the Middle West which has wandered away from its traditional Republicanism.

The Republican presidential nominee told a press conference Friday he is planning a major farm speech "very early in the campaign."

Nixon said the Republicans have suffered "great erosion" in the farm belt and cited that as one area in which the party had to score gains if it had any hope of recapturing control of the House of Representatives.

WOULD CUT PRODUCTION
The Republican farm plank suggests cutting production and raising prices by retiring land, as well as making use of price supports. The Democratic plank put more emphasis on supports, production controls and payments.

Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential nominee, has said he will place a farm bill before the Senate when it resumes Aug. 8.

Nixon has bounded himself not to sponsor any legislation that may be offered or plugged by Republicans in that session. He said that, if he did, "obviously everything that I suggest would immediately come under discussion as being politically influenced."

Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, his running mate, have indicated they may move in the forth-coming session to beef up military appropriations.

Forgotten suit nothing unusual

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A shirt-sleeved witness apologized at an inquest for not wearing a coat.

He told authorities: "I got half way here from my home before realizing I had forgotten it."

Replied crown counsel P. V. Ibbotson: "That's all right. Sometimes we lose entire suits in court."

Committee approves rights bill

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights was approved Friday night by a special Commons committee with nine amendments and the inclusion of a preamble.

The committee completed its work on the bill and sent it back to the Commons for final approval after 25 sittings involving more than 48 hours of consideration.

Liberal members submitted 17 amendments, 16 of which were rejected by the Conservative majority or withdrawn.

LIBERAL AMENDMENT
The government accepted a Liberal amendment that freedoms enumerated in the bill should include one that no Canadian may be denied the right to reasonable bail without just cause.

Of the eight other amendments accepted, all proposed by government members, some incorporated ideas suggested by Liberal members or witnesses who testified before the committee.

These included a strengthening of the bill's anti-discrimination provisions and the insertion of a stipulation that Canadians charged with criminal offences are presumed innocent until proved guilty.

Living on a budget is the same as living beyond your means, except that you have a record of it.

Sympathy advice expected

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba is expected to receive both a sympathetic ear and some gentle advice during today's talks with Canadian government leaders, informed sources say.

The soft-spoken respected leader of the troubled Congo government arrived from Washington and Montreal Friday night and was scheduled to meet Prime Minister Diefenbaker at noon.

He is seeking assistance in technical help for the new established independent nation of 14,000,000 and to recruit lawyers, teachers, and scientists. No question of military help was raised when he met reporters.

Government officials indicated Canada will probably channel most of its help through the United Nations or other international organizations.

Canada wishes to persuade Mr. Lumumba his government can get its best assistance through international associations rather than becoming tied to any great power bloc or withdrawing its interest into a narrow nationalist grouping of African nations.

MENTIONS UNITY
Interest was high here in the Congolese premier's words about a "united states of Africa," but he spelled out few details.

"It represents our political objective, sought by all African countries," he said. "By attaining this objective we wish the African countries to be free and independent."

Canadian officials were expected to seek clarification as to whether the project means a close-knit political association or

British coin abolished

Not worth farthing to keep the farthing

LONDON (CP) — The jet age caught up Friday with that lowly British coin, the farthing. The government announced it's being withdrawn from circulation.

After Jan. 1, 1961, the bronze coin will no longer be legal tender.

In a written answer to a member of Parliament, Anthony Barber, economic secretary to the treasury, said:

"It seems clear that the farthing has now outlived its usefulness and that the convenience of the general public can best be served by withdrawing it from the coinage."

Four farthings make a British penny, which is worth a fraction more than a Canadian penny.

LONG HISTORY
The farthing traces its origin back 1,300 years to the sign of the cross stamped on the Anglo-Saxon halfpenny. The cross conveniently divided the penny so it should be broken into the "half-penny," or halfpenny, and the "fourthing," or farthing.

In medieval days one farthing could buy a whole chicken. In 1307, a farthing could purchase for its owner a seat in the coronation procession of Edward II. The cost of St. Paul's Cathedral, built in the late 17th century, was reckoned down to the substantial farthing: £736,302 2s 3¼d.

SASKATOON (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Mrs. Diefenbaker Friday attended the funeral of Edward Diefenbaker, the prime minister's uncle in Saskatoon. Edward Diefenbaker, 86, a former teacher, died last week in Regina where he had lived for about 15 years.

Not drunk, crazy just practising for Olympics

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Policeman Charles Orr saw a man with a strange looking heel and toe stride going the wrong way in a busy one-way street.

"I thought at first it must be a drunk or a crazy man," he said.

The walker was John Allen, 34, of Buffalo, N.Y., a member of the U.S. Olympic team getting in some practice for the 50-kilometre walk during team workouts here.

The policeman tried to stop him, but Allen just kept walking in big circles.

"I couldn't stop because I had to cool off gradually," Allen said. "I asked him what I was charged with and he didn't seem to know."

That was Thursday, and today police made up their minds: It's all right to work out on the streets, but please stay off the busy ones.

End trade pact

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States and Iran have agreed to terminate their 17-year-old reciprocal trade agreement to give Iran freedom to carry out its economic stabilization program, the U.S. state department announced Thursday. It said Iran, faced with a growing balance of payments problem, had made the request to terminate the agreement and President Eisenhower had decided it was consistent with the U.S. government's friendly relations with Iran to agree to the appeal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Though she'll be surrounded by music, Margaret Truman will sing nary a note when she appears as special guest star of Music For a Summer Night.

She'll introduce artists ranging from concert pianist Eugene List to jazz mellophonist Don Elliott.

"I've done lots of narrating before on musical shows," she says. The hour-long ABC show goes on at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 10.

While her most publicized venture in entertainment came in the role of a classical singer, her current and future activities seem focused in a non-singing direction. In the TV show she is narrator-hostess, and in September she'll have the lead in a play, Goodbye, My Fancy, at the North Jersey Playhouse.

Mayor lauds Lesage on tax problem

Mayor Armand Nadeau yesterday warmly praised Premier Jean Lesage for his criticism of federal-provincial financial dealings.

The mayor said "Mr. Lesage is quite right in supporting the provincial side of things. The Bank of Canada should give as much support to provincial and municipal finances as it is presently doing for the federal government."

Turning to the matter of the City bond issue to be floated in early fall, the Mayor pointed out the advantages of the small issues.

"Instead of one or two big issues to be redeemed in one or two years, we are to issue more frequent small issues," he said. "The advantage lies in their accessibility."

"We are going to place the bond issue on the Canadian market in September simply because other cities and towns will be doing the same thing in October and November."

This, he intimated, would give the city of Sherbrooke first chance and preference in obtaining the loans.

Lack of interest

Mayor discusses English-speaking successor

English-speaking people in Sherbrooke apparently do not have enough interest in the affairs of their city to run for positions on the Sherbrooke City Council, Mayor Nadeau stated yesterday.

The Mayor was commenting on a query by reporters asking if he considered running for the Mayoralty again when his term expires in the fall of 1961.

"It is not a question of just being a member of a minority group, he said, "but we must be certain that an Englishman running for a council position must be bilingual."

"There are not only the administrative qualifications to be filled, but also those of financial and social responsibilities."

"I myself have not actually thought about running again for the position."

The last English-speaking Mayor of the city of Sherbrooke, was Sen. C. B. Howard, elected in 1950.

The Mayor pointed out the lack of interest on the part of English-speaking citizens of Sherbrooke in municipal affairs.

"The English-speaking voters appear satisfied with their present representatives," he said, "and they don't appear to want to change."

Wet weather

Many interesting shots available on rainy days

When one reads the travel folders we find that the sun shines continuously and the temperature is just right. If there is a wind it's described as a breeze and they never mention a thing about rain.

But, by our past experience we take the weather as it comes and when the rain crosses up the resort boys we still can enjoy a little picture taking.

You probably will plan a trip to a nearby town and there you will find many interesting pictures under these rainy conditions. People darting in and out of rain drops and the wet pavement reflecting a cloudy sky which gives sparkle and brilliance to the picture. Also the action will be emphasized by the atmosphere.

A good location for these pictures is at intersections or bus-stops as there is usually a doorway or large entrance to keep you sheltered while all those umbrellas and raincoats go by in a good summer shower. You might just get the picture you are looking for. With fast film in either black and white or color using a large lens opening and a shutter speed around 1/25th or 1/50th slight movement in the person or persons included in the picture will increase the impact of action.

If you have no fear of spiders they can prove excellent subject on a rainy day and a challenging one as they appear to be allergic to photographic equipment going to close to his web. You will most likely find these specimens around windows, in a barn or woodshed quite a bit of thought will be required to do a first class job in showing the intricate weaving of the web and bags of patience to catch him in the centre as in the above case I had to be content with Mr. Spider himself.

In order to show this web up your camera should be on a tripod and focused on the web. By closing down your lens and also the use of a flash which should come from behind and low should light up the hair-like structure. If Mr. Spider was at home when you arrive he by now has departed aloft but if you can find a fly, place it on the web. He in all probability will return and at this point don't hesitate to take the picture.

By now you have become thoroughly fed up with spiders and possibly the sun has once again returned to light up the country side which is sparkling with the rain drops and will be quite refreshing to try your hand. Also, if you are using color you may record a rainbow.

Expressway report ready

Visit to Quebec on Thursday

Next Thursday a delegation of about 25 representatives of Sherbrooke, the city of Magog and Granby, the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Manufacturers Association and local businessmen will journey to Quebec City to present a memorandum in favor of the proposed Sherbrooke-Montreal toll road expressway. Mayor Nadeau announced yesterday afternoon at his weekly press conference.

The committee representing Sherbrooke, named ten days ago, has nearly finished a brief which will be incorporated into the memorandum to be presented to Premier Jean Lesage, president of the Quebec Autoroute Commission. The memorandum is to be presented to the Commission. The memorandum is to be presented to the Quebec Department of Roads for matters of expediency in completing the expressway, the Mayor said.

He added that L. P. Brousseau, M. P. for Sherbrooke would probably extend his support and accompany the delegation to Quebec.

The road, said the Mayor, would be a toll road and is expected to cost approximately $1,000,000 per mile of construction.

On the committee representing Sherbrooke are Henri Baudet, manager of the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce; Len Curtis, president of the Chamber; Lionel Caron, representing the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in the city; Robert Belisle, secretary of the Sherbrooke Industrial Commission; Colin Cole, of the Sherbrooke Junior Chamber, and the Mayor.

The brief being presented by Sherbrooke, said Mayor Nadeau, in only nine pages long. It contains statistical information and financial quotations for the project. All editorial comments have been omitted.

"This is simply a statement of facts," he said, "not a discourse on the benefits of the district."

"The expressway," he continued, "will serve not only Sherbrooke, but also the entire Eastern Townships. It is the second most important area in the province in view of population and industry, and as such is certain to be of interest to the government."

"After all, the most important area in the province in this regard is the City of Montreal. After that is the Eastern Townships and then the Quebec City area."

"For short trips" said the Mayor, "people are not going to take this expressway, they'll be taking the Boulevard to Deauville, Magog and such points."

"For long trips, the expressway will become something of great importance."

Probe set into taxi insurance

QUEBEC (CP)—Attorney General Georges Lapalme announced Friday the provincial government has set up an inquiry into the bankruptcy of the Taxi - Owners Reciprocal Insurance Association of Montreal.

Mr. Lapalme made the announcement at a press conference after presiding over a meeting of the provincial cabinet. He said the decision to set up the inquiry had been made at the meeting.

The bankruptcy of the Mutual Insurance Company, announced in Montreal several days ago, affects some 5,000 taxi owners and operators in the province.

District court Judge Victor Chabot of St. Hyacinthe is to preside at the public hearing. A report is to be submitted by Sept. 15.

MOVE QUICKLY

Mr. Lapalme said the government decided to act as quickly as possible because of the seriousness of the charges in connection with the bankruptcy of the company. It came after discovery of a $772,000 deficit in the company books.

Maurice Coupal, a former administrator of the association, was charged in Montreal Friday with defrauding the company of $50,000 by means of a cheque. He pleaded not guilty.

Illegal entry racket

The Federal government, in a pamphlet issued to the Chinese community of Canada this week, has strongly reiterated its intentions of pursuing to the end the present investigation of an extensive racket in the illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

It quotes a statement by Hon. Davie Fulton, Minister of Justice in the House of Commons earlier in the month.

"I want to leave no possibility of misunderstanding as to our intention to continue this investigation and press it to the limit of every resource at our disposal."

The pamphlet goes on to say: "They (the racketeers) state that part of the money (paid by the victims) is used to bribe immigration officials in Canada and Hong Kong, and that because of their influence on senior immigration officials, they will stop the investigation."

"The investigation will not be stopped until it is completed. It should be clearly understood that these brokers have no influence in the Immigration Branch, and their statements about bribing immigration officials are designed to extort even more money for themselves. The government intends to bring the immigration brokers and racketeers associated with them to justice."

It urges all who have entered the country illegally through the racket, or those who know anything about it to come forward and make themselves known to the government through the RCMP or immigration officials.

It is right that the government should adopt this "tough" attitude, and leave no stone unturned in its efforts to clear up this most sinister and inhuman of organizations. Those who have been involved would be wise to heed the government's urgings.

It is not only in the interests of the country that they cooperate, but also in their own interests, and the interests of their families.

A victim who remains silent is playing into the hands of the racketeers, but more than that, he is seriously jeopardizing his own position, that of his children, and of the whole Chinese community.

Origin of the pencil

The lowly pencil has become such a menial, everyday fact of modern life that its dramatic origin has tended to become obscured.

A reminder from the British Travel Association, therefore, bears some repeating:

The pencil, it points out, is 400 years old — a comparative modern innovation compared to such things as gunpowder, paper and the wheel.

And if it hadn't been for a thunderstorm, we still might be struggling along without pencils to this day, which, in the newspaper business at least, would be an extreme hardship.

In the year 1550 a violent storm broke in the mountains of Cumberland in the northwest of England. The next morning, when local shepherds went to look after their sheep on the hillsides, they found that several trees had been blown down. The torn-out roots had broken the soil, exposing a strange black material.

At first, the shepherds thought it was coal, but the black stuff would not burn.

Then they found that very black marks had been left on their hands, and later they used the material to mark the wool of their sheep to show who was the owner.

Governments being what they are, the English government heard about the stuff, and although it didn't know that the material was, took over the Cumberland deposits. They found, after a bit of experimenting, that the material (graphite) was useful in casting cannon balls.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, the fame of the Cumberland graphite spread to many countries. It was used by artists who found it excellent for black and white drawings. Those early "pencils" were just pieces of graphite wrapped in sheepskin.

Soon it was found that long, thin strips of graphite could be fitted between two grooved pieces of wood, which could then be bound together to keep the "lead" firm.

And so, pencils as we know them were born, not the first time that shepherds have made an important contribution to the world.

'The Bag'

If you liked "The Sack" in fashions, then the latest news from Paris should be pretty exciting.

One dress designer has got the fashion world, literally, in the bag.

His show was remarkable for deflated football skirts and baggy-backed jackets, all part of his autumn and winter collection.

Now, whether you are going to like "The Bag" or not, you'll have to admit that the way it is achieved represents quite an accomplishment.

According to fashion notes, it's done with "melon gores and a sloping band beginning above the knees and tapering into a hemline several inches below the knees."

Our understanding of this thing may be limited, but "The Bag" sounds very much like a grocery shopping bag.

"SHORTCHANGING THE LORD"

(St. Thomas Times Journal) Church collections aren't always what they're cracked up to be, nor do they nowadays total up to what they should.

Ever since United States currency has been discounted in Canada many churchgoers have been slipping the occasional U. S. bill or bit of silver into their weekly offering envelopes. Very seldom though do they drop in an extra nickel to take care of the exchange.

A bank manager informs us that making up this few cents exchange on the U.S. currency placed on collection plates, in the church accounts his bank handles totals over a few weeks or months quite a sizeable sum, amounts which most churches would be able to put to good use. The same bank manager says he hasn't heard any of the church treasurers his bank has dealings with complain too strenuously about the practice. While they realize that it might with justification be termed "shortchanging the Lord," they admit that as it is a voluntary offering it's better to get a 97 cent dollar than no dollar at all.

Self-reproach for peace of mind

By JANE SCOTT
NOTHING deflates one's ego quicker than the sudden realization that you have played the fool, unless it is the realization that you have been played for a fool.

But the self-reproach that comes from the realization that you have been played for a fool is not nearly as hard to bear as the self-condemnation that follows when your conscience tells you that YOU have played the fool.

Jane Scott

"I could kick myself all over the lot," confided a self-reproaching citizen one day, "when I think of the spectacle I made of myself and family as I played the fool."

I doubt if there is a man or woman who has passed middle age, who has not, on occasion, reproached himself or herself for major or minor indiscretion.

I have met a few rare creatures who believe they are the exceptions. These always tempt me to quote St. Paul's warning: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." 1 Cor. 10: 12. For at the moment when we are most self-assured and off guard, we are most likely to play the fool.

PLAYING THE FOOL
Self-reproach can be a beneficial experience if it comes before our foolishness leads us into sin, physical complications and involvements.

And we ought to get down on our knees and thank God for stirring up our conscience and opening our eyes in time to save us from years of remorse and regret.

It is a humiliating experience to recognize yourself as a fool. And it requires great courage to admit it to your friends and to God. But admit you must if you want to recover peace of mind and strength to redeem the years or the months the locust of folly have eaten.

Playing the fool often plays havoc with nerves and health. Not a few patients have been incapacitated for happy living and useful work by an overwhelming sense of shame and regret because they have either played the fool or been played for a fool, or both. If playing the fool is not recognized as a dangerous sport in its early stages it frequently leads to irreparable physical as well as mental reactions.

START WITH SELF
When we straighten out that silly individual who is playing the fool (which is ourself) then we shall be ready to deal wisely and firmly with the parties who have played us for a fool.

Not all foolishness is sin but most foolishness leads to sin. Temptation is not sin but if we yield to temptation it becomes sin.

The majority of us recognize a temptation when we are confronted with one. And that man or woman is playing the fool who does not resist it and flee from it.

It is a fact that the tempter does not come as a sinister monster. He more often comes like an angel of light.

And temptation does not come clearly marked "High explosive." It usually comes in an attractive package marked safe for even children. Many a child has been burned to death because he did not know that his five-cent packet contained enough dynamite to set a city ablaze.

We have got to recognize folly for what it is—dynamite to the human soul. It can, if allowed to get out of hand, cause suffering and death.

And the temptation to indulge in foolishness must be squelched the moment it suggests itself.

GLORY OF GOSPEL
From kings down to the lowliest peasant every man, woman and child is subjected to the temptations of playing the fool. And from the highest to the lowliest we must accept our responsibility for the results of our folly.

History is replete with examples of men who lived to reproach themselves for playing the fool. King Saul was one of these and in a moment of fear and regret he cried: "I have sinned, . . . behold I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly." 1 Sam. 26:21.

Many of us can sympathize with Saul in his predicament and say: I know just how you feel!

The glory of the Christian Gospel is this: It makes it clear that none of us, however foolish we may have been, need wallow in the mire of self-reproach and regret.

Our God is an understanding God who knoweth our frame and our weaknesses and He has made provision for all those who want to make a fresh start in life, and have come to the place of regret and repentance.

WITHOUT SIN
Our understanding Saviour looks upon all such with sympathy for He knows just how you feel.

Why? Because "He was in all points tempted like we are, yet without sin." And because He fought temptation and won "He is able to succor them that are tempted." And willing to cleanse and forgive those whose folly has revealed them as sinners and filled them with godly sorrow that worketh repentance.

Only God can help us to courageously face our own folly and the people who have played us for fools and help us to rise above it.

Let us be convinced like Paul that: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

Bygone Days

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Police reserves are being mobilized in New York as a result of the outbreak of Tong warfare which has cost several lives.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Italian planes and ground troops are being massed in France to support any German offensive against the British Isles, which many expect in a few weeks.

The Canadian Government has announced a draft system to replace voluntary recruiting for the Reserve Army.

TEN YEARS AGO
Fresh and powerful American forces, direct from the United States, landed in Southern Korea today. They arrived at Chinju, the important southern allied anchor, fell to the surging Reds. Death has removed a prominent figure in agricultural circles, in the person of Norman Levi Cameron, of Spring Road, Lennoxville, who passed away suddenly last night, in his 57th year.

"How About the Recoil?"

Report From Ottawa

by Clyde Blackburn

OTTAWA — Canada's happy, smiling face, with its national parks, its garden-set schools, broad highways and ultra-modern facilities, costs a lot of money.

Much of the money the provinces spend comes from the federal government, which in the case of eight of the provinces, collects the personal and corporation income tax and succession duties.

In the case of Ontario it collects only the personal income tax. In the case of Quebec it collects nothing because Quebec has refused to come into these agreements which date back to the Second World War.

It was considered efficient and useful to have the central government collect these taxes and disburse the proceeds on the basis of an approved formula. Diefenbaker and key ministers have been conferring with premiers of the ten provinces in a meeting preliminary to negotiation of new fiscal agreements to replace those which expire in 1962.

What struck me and others was the theme that ran through so many of the ten provincial speeches at the open part of the conference.

Premiers, both Conservative and otherwise, talked at times as though the wicked federal had sneaked away some of the provinces taxing rights and refused to split.

And as though Finance Minister Fleming has a vast store of money he was refusing to divvy up.

Mr. Fleming has had deficits ever since he took office and this year is hoping only for a token surplus.

Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker presided and had four Conservative premiers facing him.

When the conference was called he had expected six premiers. But meanwhile Liberals Jean Lesage in Quebec and Louis Robichaud in New Brunswick had upset all political calculations by defeating strongly entrenched Conservatives.

Premier Frost proposed such vast changes in the tax split as would take maybe a billion more dollars out of the federal treasury.

But this is only a preliminary talk. The current agreements go to 1962.

No one objected to the increased drag on the treasury. Nor did anyone suggest how it could be managed without a terrific boost in taxes.

Mr. Fleming has no money to spare. If he has to double the current billion dollars-plus split with the provinces out of a six billion dollar budget, he will have to do a fast job of tax raising just about at next election time.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the conference at the start the government had no intention of increasing its borrowing operations. That leaves us taxpayers to pick up the tab.

UNFAILING FRIEND

It is worth recalling the words of Lord Birkett who spoke in England on the subject "The Enjoyment of Reading" not long ago. He said:

"We live in a scientific age with television radio and films, of which properly used add to the enjoyment of living; but the written word must always remain the most important element in our growth and development, and the unfailing source of lasting enjoyment. In a word, reading brings blessings and advantages that are to be gained nowhere else."

GOVERNMENTAL SHIFTS

Prime Minister Macmillan broke a 20-year precedent and went to the House of Lords for his new foreign secretary—the Earl of Home, former Commonwealth relations secretary.

After the official announcement Wednesday, the opposition Labor party screamed foul and argued that the foreign secretary should sit in the Commons, where he can be questioned by members. The appointment was approved 332 to 220 Thursday night.

FIRE TOLL

Furious fires raged in British Columbia and down the U.S. western coast during the week. Fourteen men died in the battle that saw more than 700 separate blazes break out, most caused by lightning.

Canada's two biggest provinces — Ontario and Quebec — showed more signs of restiveness under the federal-provincial tax-sharing plan. Ontario's Premier Frost told the Dominion-provincial fiscal conference that he is ready to take his province out of joint projects. Quebec's Premier Lesage agreed with him in principle.

But the four Atlantic provinces, Manitoba and Saskatchewan appealed for a continuation and even extension of the joint projects.

Week in Quebec

RCMP, closing the net on a ring that has smuggled thousands of Chinese aliens into Canada, arrested two travel agents in Montreal's Chinatown Thursday and said that more arrests will be made.

The two suspects, Brice Wong, 44, and Henry Chan, 40, were arraigned in court and released on bail pending a second appearance Aug. 3. Both face charges of forging citizenship and immigration documents and uttering them. There are also three perjury counts against Wong.

Hong Kong police assisted RCMP in the investigation and raids across Canada that preceded the arrests. RCMP said the ring smuggled an estimated 11,000 Chinese into Canada since 1950, about half the total legal immigration from China since that year.

The CNR had under investigation the cause of a collision of two trains Saturday in the Montreal suburb of Roxboro that killed one woman and sent more than 60 persons to hospital.

May lay some charges in NB mine hearing

By GEORGE McNEVIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — David M. Dickson, administrator of the provincial Securities Frauds Prevention Act, said Friday a look at the Criminal Code might be justified following a hearing into the operations of six New Brunswick firms selling stock in the United States.

Evidence was brought before the hearing that representatives of a firm known as Trans National Minerals in attempting to sell stocks had told clients the firm was to be bought by Bethlehem Steel Corporation and would be listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Administration counsel J. Paul Barry of Saint John said a document found in securities administration files placed a "serious new light" on the situation.

Letters of denial were received from both Bethlehem Steel and the American Stock Exchange. The American subscriber, Dr. Carl A. Weiss, of Hastings, Minn., said he had purchased 208 shares of Trans National during 1952 and 1953.

Mr. Barry said he considered the representations of the company "definitely fraudulent" and that some drastic action, such as criminal charges, should ultimately be taken.

The hearing, adjourned Friday until Tuesday, was ordered last week by Premier and Attorney-General Louis J. Robichaud following a government order-in-council replacing G. Earle Logan with Mr. Dickson as administrator of the act. Complaints had been received about the companies' operations.

Mr. Barry said the document found in the files of the former administrator indicated sale of shares in another company, St. Stephen Nickel Mines Limited, were being sold at $2 and $3 a share by Canam Investments Limited when it was known there were no takers at 10 cents asked.

Mr. Barry said there was no indication how the document came to be in Mr. Logan's files. It was entitled "Some thoughts on why St. Stephen needs a St. Lawrence or Tiffany" and stressed the need for speed in setting up a new company to raise capital for St. Stephen.

The typewritten paper initialed only K.H.G., noted that St. Stephen will need about $15,000 to $25,000 weekly for some months to come and under certain conditions, more over a more extended period of time.

St. Stephen shares, it said, were becoming harder to sell because they were blacklisted by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission and were being quoted by United States brokers at "no bid, offered at 10 cents."

In other evidence, H. L. McMakin of a local law firm revealed a partial audit of the books of Canam Investments revealed entries under "investments" of $1,066,803 to K. H. Gregory and $342,700 to Rock Holdings, a company owned by Gregory.

Other companies slated to come under the probe are A. C. Powis Company Limited, Seaboard Industries Limited and Atlantic Investments Limited.

Plan general strike

TORONTO (CP)—Much of Toronto's construction industry will be tied up Monday when immigrant workers launch a general strike to support demands for better working conditions. merely a philosophical meeting of African minds.

They read significance into the fact that members of Mr. Lumumba's party included Diallo Telli, ambassador of Guinea to the United States—who inadvertently missed the official plane flying the Congress party from Montreal to Ottawa—and a press attache from the Guinea information office in New York, as well as Alex Quaison-Sackey, Ghana's permanent representative to the United Nations.

Guinea has been regarded in Western circles as leaning far to the left and overly friendly with Russia.

Mr. Lumumba, who speaks only French, dined Friday night with Leon Balcer, solicitor-general and acting secretary of state. He departs at 10 a.m. Sunday for his capital, Leopoldville.

An answer to problems of strife, jealousy, and hate will be set forth at the services in all the Christian Science churches this Sunday, in the reading of the week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Love."
Bible passages will feature several of the inspiring experiences of David, including Saul's account of the sparing of Saul's life. Relevant excerpts from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you. The cement of higher humanity will unite all interests in the one divinity."

University Mascot Likes High Living

WINNIPEG (CP) — When 17-year-old Barbara Anderson of Winnipeg returned home from the University of Minnesota, she brought along her five-month-old French Alpine goat, Doc, the mascot of the Minnesota Pre-Vet Club.
One of the first things Doc did was to climb on the roof of the playhouse in the Anderson's backyard. "I guess he thought it was the Rocky Mountains," Mrs. Anderson said.
Barbara says Doc doesn't care for the neighborhood dogs. "He tries to butt them if they get too close," she says.
She will take him back to university in the fall, but until then, Doc is enjoying the fresh green grass in the Anderson's yard.

Summer Weddings

BENNETT—DOWNES
BRIGHAM — On July 2 the Brigham United Church was the scene of a lovely summer wedding when Jeanine Anita, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Downes, became the bride of Denzil Roy Bennett, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bennett of Knowlton. Dr. S. R. Prince of Farnham officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. C. Powers and Mr. Floyd Hooker and his daughter, Mrs. Douglas Harrison, of Bury, sang I Love You Truly during the signing of the register. The church was adorned with summer flowers and the guest pews were marked with white taffeta bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon net and lace over taffeta having a fitted bodice with a sequin and simulated pearl trimmed scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves. The bouffant skirt was accented with panels of matching lace. Her finger tip veil was held by a tiara of sequins and pearls and she carried a bouquet of mauve mums.

Miss Sandra Bennett, sister of the groom as bridesmaid, was in blue nylon chiffon over taffeta with which she wore a flowered headress. Her bouquet was of yellow shasta daisies.
Mr. Gordon Jones was best man for the groom and the ushers were Hubert Downes of St. Lambert, brother of the bride, and Michael Pille of Knowlton.

The bride's mother wore a two piece dress of blue nylon and lace over taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother wore a dusty rose lace over taffeta and wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall where the bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Irene Williams of Swetsburg.
Mr. and Mrs. Bennett later left for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a two piece blue linen dress with white accessories and a white corsage. They have taken up residence in Cowansville.
The guest book was in charge of Mr. Hubert Downes.
Guests were present at the wedding from Bury, Brookbury, Bishopton, Sherbrooke, Lennox-

DIGBY—GILL
The marriage of Helen Ann Gill, daughter of Mrs. F. N. Gill and the late Mr. Gill of Maple Grove, to Edward Albert Digby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Digby of Albert Mines, Que., took place on Saturday, July 16 at half-past one o'clock in St. George's Church, Lennoxville. Archdeacon T. J. Matthews officiated. The wedding music was played by Mr. F. Jenne. The church was adorned with white gladioli, with satin bows marking the guest pews.

Women's Groups

Ascot Women's Institute held its monthly meeting in the Huntingville Community Hall with the president, Mrs. A. Hatcher presiding.
A tribute of silence was observed in memory of a former member, Mrs. John Copping, whose passing was deeply felt.
The president welcomed several guests and a special welcome was extended to Mrs. J. Marlin, a former active member who brought with her and displayed an autograph quilt, the first quilt made by this branch some twenty six years ago. To raise funds it was bought by auction by the exhibitor. Other items of interest were the Tweedsmuir Cup won by this branch for their Village history some years ago and a copy of Home and Country an Institute work.
Conveners reports included notice of the coming County meeting on Aug. 10, and Mrs. A. Coates and Mrs. H. Robertson were named as delegates.
The sum of $10 was voted for prizes for the school fair and Mrs. L. Butler gave instructions for the vegetable contest on Aug. 10.
Members were pleased to note that Mrs. V. R. Beattie now of Richmond and a former member of the branch had been elected as provincial treasurer for the Q.W.I.
This concluded a very interesting meeting and a delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. L. Butler, Mrs. E. Fearon and Mrs. G. Chapman.

ing course also held at the College where she attended the classes in horticulture.
Mention was made of a recent T.V. program at which time Mrs. W. T. Pearson appeared in connection with the work of Women's Institute members here, and throughout the province. Mrs. Pearson also read a radio broadcast prepared by Mrs. F. Bennett, which told of the women of earlier days in Institute work.

Wish You All Happiness; What It Means to Bride

Memo to this summer's bride: Have you stopped to wonder what all the friends and relatives who said to you on your wedding day, "I wish you all the happiness in the world" were really wishing for you?
They didn't have a lifelong honeymoon in mind—since "living happily ever after" only happens in fairy tales and romantic stories.
What those kind and sincere enough to wish the very best for you were really wishing was this: That the day will never come when you regard your marriage as a mistake.
That your first concern will be for your husband's well-being and happiness and that his first concern will be for yours.
That together the two of you will find joyful companionship in good times and strength and comfort in each other when way is rough.
That you will have children to enrich your lives.
That you will have the strength and quiet courage and the wisdom a woman needs to be a good wife, a happy homemaker and a wise mother.
That you and your husband will put down deep roots and make a place for yourself in your chosen community.
That you will keep in step with your husband as his interests broaden and as he moves forward in his work.
That your marriage will last a lifetime and that the years will bring you much, much more joy than sorrow.
That's wishing a lot—but not too much if both you and your husband will work to help it all come true.

Princess acquires new elegance

By ROSANNA GROARKE
LONDON (Reuters) — British fashion circles are buzzing about the new aura of elegance Princess Margaret has acquired with her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones.
Starting with her simple wedding gown, devoid of crusted embroidery formerly considered an indispensable feature of the Royal Family's grand occasion gowns, the princess has found a new look best described as sleek.
Fashion experts feel that for the first time she really deserves to be called one of the world's smartest women.
The basis of the princess' new look is a completely uncluttered line which probably owes much to the cameraman's eye of her husband, trained to see everything in terms of form.
PREFERS PLAIN SHEATH
The princess now prefers plain fabrics and prints, dead plain sheath dresses to buttons and bows.
Her current wardrobe makes her look taller. For instance, a navy-blue silk suit she wore for Ascot races and a school giving has a short, boxy jacket which stops just below the waist. This gives the petite princess a long-legged look.
The suit is collarless, like most of Princess Margaret's new clothes. This, with the new short hairdo adopted for her honeymoon, also helps the uncluttered look, as do the brimless, toque hats she has been wearing.
The colors worn now by Princess Margaret are clear and definite and set off her honey-moon suntan.
At a recent Buckingham Palace garden party, Princess Margaret looked striking in a collarless cyclamen satin coat. With it she wore a frothy hat of white net scattered with roses.

There is no doubt about it, Victoria is the home of the individualist - one has only to walk down a street to have this proved. But I think the best evidence I found of this individualism - from a writer's viewpoint and after all that is my viewpoint - was in the work of one William W. Mawle, a would-be poet whom I had the pleasure to meet one day while there.

It seems that Mr. Mawle found himself unable to work a few years ago due to a severe heart attack. To fill the time he took to writing poetry and soon had a sizeable amount of it on hand - but no publisher.

With not enough money to pay for a private printing of his book - a length to which many poets are forced due to the dearth of publishers willing to risk money on poetry - he had to turn to other means of getting into print.

Mr. Mawle produced his own book! By dint of carefully-cut typing paper, cardboard, glue and wrapping paper, Mr. Mawle actually produced a book. And having seen a copy I can say that he did a creditable job of it.

William Mawle's self-published book is a "hard-cover" in the sense that its covers are made of several thicknesses of cardboard covered with - and I wouldn't have guessed had he not confessed it to me - a layer of gift wrap-paper. In addition to the colorful cover he has contrived a neat - and more easily readable - title plate than in many extensively produced books. In fact with the exception of his not having left a wide enough margin at the bottom of each page of poetry, at least for my taste, he has managed a surprisingly presentable - and surprisingly thick, under the circumstances - volume of verse.

Although I did not have time to read his poetry and therefore cannot pass on its quality, I do think Mr. Mawle deserves a big "E" for effort. Incidentally he calls it "RANDOM RHYME AND VARIOUS VERSE" and is presently going into his "second printing" - of another 50 volumes - in order to keep up with the demand!

Avis Walton of Victoria presented me with a complimentary copy of her very comprehensive book ABOUT VICTORIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND. Mrs. Walton proved to be one of the most interesting people I met in this area. She has charm, a beautiful speaking voice, and such a wide range of interests - among them her own TV program - that it is impossible to spend a dull moment with her. And to judge by the interesting and delightful anecdotes - to say nothing of the helpful information - contained in her cleverly illustrated book it must be equally impossible to spend a dull moment in Victoria and Vancouver Island.

Winnipeg experiment

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg school system has tossed out the authorized Manitoba science curriculum in elementary schools and is experimenting with one of its own.

A. D. Thomson, superintendent of elementary schools, said the move was made with permission of the education department in grades one to six.

"It could be described as a more intensive program but still within the capabilities of the pupils. It's probably a little heavy in spots, but we can only learn by experience."

He said the authorized science program, in use in other parts of the province is "archaic, the kind of program in vogue in the '20's."

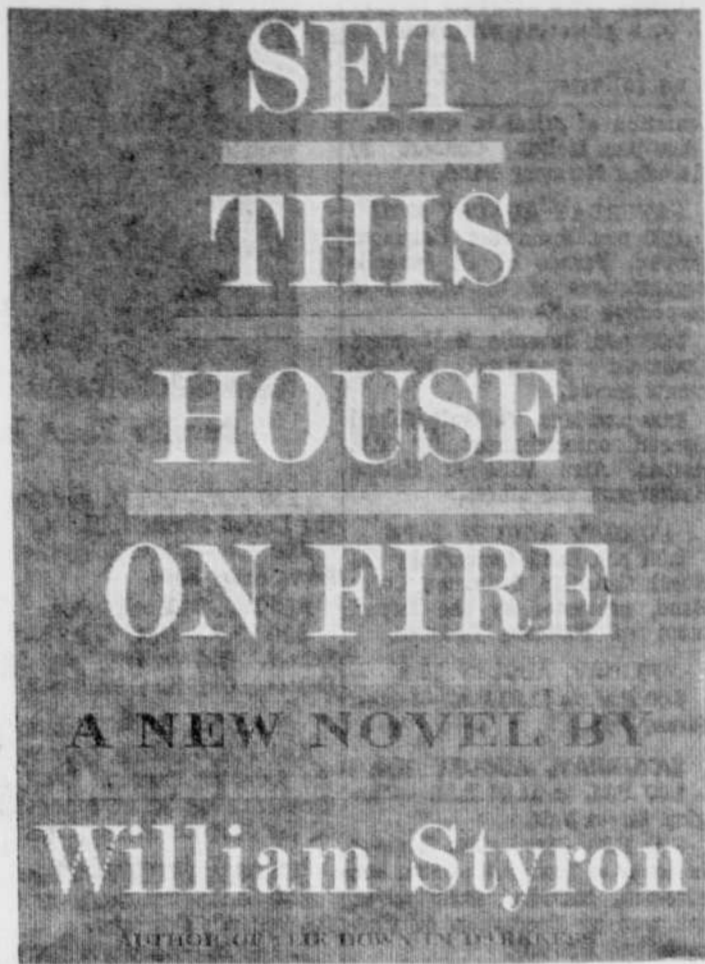

Modern, realistic style

SET THIS HOUSE ON FIRE — William Styron — 507 pp. — Random House — $5.95.

This is the story of an alcoholic down-and-out painter, and a spoiled, rich Don Juan whose be-all and end-all appears to be the pursuit of sex. Cass Kinsolving, weak and filled with self-pity, but inherently good, drifts across Europe on a sea of alcohol and finally becomes almost a slave to the evil, strong-willed and wealthy Mason Flagg. Rape and murder with complications finally free Cass from both Flagg and his alcoholism.

This is a novel in the modern philosophical and realistic style. It could have been improved by less verbosity in the descriptions of alcoholic dreams and pornographic collections, both animate and inanimate. Characterization is excellent, particularly Poppy, the lovable, hopelessly incompetent wife of Cass.

Readers who like this type of novel will enjoy it, as it is well written, with sufficient suspense to maintain interest, but readers who object to frank writing and four letter words had better pass it up. John N. Wood

Studies Quebec in Paris

By Paquerette Villeneuve
Canadian Press Correspondent
PARIS (CP)—Marcel Trudel, professor of Canadian history at Laval University in Quebec City, is thumbing through yellowed documents at the French national archives and the Paris library, seeking background for his next book.

The book will deal with life in Quebec during the early days of the colony. Prof. Trudel said documents needed for background could only be found here.

The 43-year-old historian came to Paris with his wife and three children this year when he received a Canada Council grant to help him continue his research. He plans to return to Laval next fall.

A native of St. Narcisse de Champlain, Que., Prof. Trudel is a member of the French-Canadian Academy and twice has won the David prize for his writings.

VOLTAIRE INFLUENCE
His first book, The Influence of Voltaire on Canada, said the French author was the predominant influence in Canadian letters in the 19th century and that the best Canadian author of that era was a recognized disciple of Voltaire—Arthur Buies.

Buies published La Lanterne, a newspaper that was later banned as anti-clerical by the Roman Catholic Church. When Zouaves were recruited in Canada to defend the Pope against Garibaldi, Buies showed his resentment by joining the Garibaldi forces.

More recently Prof. Trudel wrote a book on Charles Chiniquy, the French-Canadian priest who fought with his bishops in Quebec, Montreal and Chicago and was eventually defrocked and excommunicated. He subsequently married and served with the Presbyterian Church in the United States, Canada and Europe.

PREMIUM ON FACTS
Prof. Trudel said his sole ambition is to write well-documented historical books. He added that he tries to impart his insistence on facts to his history students at Laval.

"In the first lectures I give to newcomers at the university, I am obliged to administer a massive mental purgative."

"Students are under the impression that the history of French Canada is based on heroes and legends rather than on ordinary human beings."

"This realistic attitude of mine does not please everybody."

Mystery lacks a solid plot

DEATH WISH GREEN — Frances Crane — Random House — 183 pp. $2.95 —

As the title of this book indicates, this novel is intended to whet and satisfy the appetite of the avid mystery fan. In my opinion, it suffers severely from lack of a substantial plot. The reader is led ditheringly around San Francisco, up back alleys, along deserted thoroughfares, with little inkling as to the purpose of each action. Among this maze of seemingly insignificant events can be found a series of crimes, each of which pops up on cue following the pattern set forth in the introduction. Indeed the reading of the prologue tends to spoil whatever surprise or significance the author had hoped to convey in each of the crimes; this reader found himself half expecting each important event, knowing in advance that such-and-such a character was about to be killed.

The book is written in the first person, with the author helping her husband, a private detective, to solve his cases. The prominence of the writer on the scene rendered much of her womanly intuition suspect. For instance, when Miss Crane through the mouth of the detective's wife, mentions that she "dislikes the look of so-and-so" the reader is at once led to believe that this person is the criminal. This would have been acceptable if there had been a reversal and the character in question had turned out to be honest, but when the detestable character does prove to be responsible for the crime, the results is anticlimax and disappointment. In short, this reader thinks Miss Crane has made her criminals too obvious in that the early suspicions aroused in the reader's mind are eventually confirmed rather than proved to be without foundation.

Although the incessant wanderings of the principal characters of this story tend toward monotony, the accurate and telling descriptions of the San Francisco environment add realism and help justify the restlessness of all concerned. The manner in which Miss Crane contrasts the lives of the upper and lower social classes is both effective and informative; the descriptions of "beatnik" life as opposed to the faultless portraits of the members of society's upper crust will prove of interest to many readers.

In conclusion, DEATH WISH GREEN is weak fare for those who are addicted to mysteries and who thereby enjoy testing their own intuition. However, this novel is well suited for casual scrutiny during the summer months, when relaxation rather than a challenge to the intellect is desired. PETER G. CAMPBELL

GIs live it up in Tokyo

IF IT MOVES, SALUTE IT — Bob Duncan Doubleday & Company Inc. — 285 pages.

There is an old Army saying... "If it moves, salute it. If it doesn't move, paint it."

The ancient animosity between an inept officer and the enlisted men of his unit is the subject of an unusual story in the setting of post-war Tokyo.

Frank Ellison Pfc, a bewildered and impressionable farm boy from the mid-west USA, is posted to one of the strangest units in the US Army, the Shogun Hotel, a home for transient army entertainers and athletes in the Tokyo of 1945. As night clerk, Ellison becomes an observer of the colorful administration of the hotel and its ease-loving administrator, Capt. Horace B. Stone.

The pleasant, easy-going hotel atmosphere and high-spirited hijinks of its happy high-living American and Japanese staff are shattered by the intrusion of a new executive officer with very stringent views on military efficiency in hotel administration. A succession of incidents, some humorous, some sombre, rocks the once peaceful unit. A love affair develops between Ellison and the attractive daughter of a Japanese hotel official who turns out to be an expert in the black market; a transport sergeant goes berserk with a gun over an unfaithful girl friend and mysterious transactions in cases of whisky result in a demoralized, confused unit no longer happy in the service.

Drastic measures by the author salvage the tangled situation and by the final chapter life at Hotel Shogun is about to resume its gaudy ways.

This novel by Bob Duncan, is pleasant, light reading. Although billed on the dust jacket as a hilarious novel of GIs in Tokyo with no war to fight and nothing really to do, the reader will find that all is not humorous in the incidents at the transient hotel.

The author becomes involved in an unsympathetic character study of the villain and in character descriptions of the other officers and soldiers. On stage many of the incidents would be hilarious but in print the humor fades.

For light reading this is a book that will capture your interest and will keep you interested to the last chapter. You may not find it as humorous as the title suggests but you will enjoy some chuckles and pleasant entertainment. NOEL O'BRIEN

THE WAKEMAN, RIPON, YORKSHIRE, ENGLAND — Ripon stands on the River Skell, a tributary of the River Ure and this is spanned by a medieval bridge. In about 670, St. Wilfred built a church here and for about five years Ripon was a Bishop's see; thus Ripon together with York and Beverley was one of the three original Christian centres of Yorkshire. Every night at nine o'clock, the ancient custom of blowing a horn is still observed. This takes place at the market-cross and in front of the mayor's house. (British Travel Assoc. Photo)

Famed dales of Yorkshire magnificent, untamed land

A Yorkshire man will do the Canadian tourist a kindness more readily than pay him a compliment. His countryside has the same uncompromising character.

Yorkshire is an extraordinary county — the largest in England and divided for purposes of administration into three sections: the North, West and East Ridings. Here are great industrial centres like Bradford and Leeds and was eventually defrocked and excommunicated. He subsequently married and served with the Presbyterian Church in the United States, Canada and Europe.

cheerful, attractive spa of Harrogate, and the cathedral city of Ripon. This cathedral ranges from Saxon to late Perpendicular style and the town is rich in historic buildings and tradition, including the ancient custom of blowing a horn at the market cross every evening in summer at nine o'clock — originally the beginning of the nightly duties of the watch.

Starting in the south, make your first expedition up Aire-dale, which, incidentally, gave its name to a breed of dog. Turn aside in the lower part of the valley at Keighley for a visit to Haworth, home of the Brontës. Here is the old parsonage where they lived with their father: Charlotte, Emily, Anne and their wild brother, Branwell.

The house now belongs to the Brontë Society and is open to the public every day. Walk up the valley of Sladen Beck and you will find the ruined house called Withens, which was the original of Wuthering Heights. Brontë lovers could fill several days exploring this district alone.

Back in Airedale and you come to Skipton and then away up into the wilds of the hills to the little sheep-raising village of Malham. This is a wonderful centre for walking over some of the most beautiful and remote of the dales country and, close by, is the great limestone bowl of Malham Cove and the waters of Malham Tarn reflecting the clouds of a Pennine sky.

Wharfedale, the next important valley, has one of Yorkshire's architectural treasures — the ruins of Bolton Abbey. This was an Augustinian priory, founded in the middle of the twelfth century, which existed for four hundred years. Its exquisite setting and atmosphere of eternal tranquility make it one of the most memorable sights in the dales, at its best when the may is in blossom, in late spring or early summer, and in the vivid coloring of the fall.

Nidderdale has not the historic centres which are found in other dales, though Harrogate itself lies near the point where the valley leaves the hills. Instead it has some of the most impressive scenery. In place of silvery limestone, its rocks are of dark millstone grit. Explore its upper reaches from the old town of Pateley Bridge and you will find a world of its own, dark woods and proud, lonely mountains, where the winds blow eerily.

Swaledale is steep-sided, wild and grand, and brings you down to perhaps the most fascinating little town in Yorkshire — Richmond. Standing on a hillside above the river, with its ancient castle, church and market place, it sets a medieval crown on the ageless country of the dales.

Private life troubles

BB lost certain something?

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
PARIS — (NEA) — Everything's going wrong for Brigitte Bardot.

She can't seem to lead the life of an ordinary young French woman even though she has tried.

Every place she goes, she's mobbed. Every word she says is misinterpreted. Such are the problems of the sex symbol of the 20th Century, the gal with enough money to "retire" at 25, France's top ranked motion picture star.

She wasn't doing badly until she got tied up with her husband Jacques Charrier, 24, who tied her down to a wedding ring. Almost from the moment they wed, there have been rumors of a crackup in BB's marriage.

Instead it was Charrier who "cracked up" after being called into military service. Yet BB says:

"I love my husband. I want to go on living with him. Why does the public want us to divorce? Why can't we be left alone?" Shades of GG (Greta Garbo)!

Even Raoul Levy, producer of her latest film, "La Verite,"

(The Truth) couldn't seem to leave them alone. He chased the jealous Charrier off the set. Charrier wound up in the hospital again for a hibernating cure.

"Whatever Jacques does is wrong," says loving wife BB. "But what can I do to stop all these absurd rumors about me? The coalman down the street can say he is my lover — what is it to prevent people from thinking it is true?"

But it is not true. Actually BB has behaved properly, showing a great devotion and infinite patience toward Charrier.

Aside from her marital troubles, detractors also harp on her financial skill. The highest paid star in France for the last five years, BB reputedly pinches her pennies while making shrewd investments.

What won't they think of next? Say her friends who assure the public that BB is anonymously generous.

If BB has suffered for her private life, she has fared little better in her public role of late. She stayed dressed for an entire motion picture in "Babette Goes to War." The picture was not a great success. Still she says that from now on, she'll stay in clothes "unless the scenario calls for an undressed sequence."

Dressing up, however, for "La Verite," has not changed her bad luck. First, her leading man was replaced because he lisped in love scenes, then the director needed an emergency operation so production was halted for several weeks.

Such trials and tribulations would be enough to make any girl quit. And that's what a French daily reports she will do after she finishes her contract calling for three more pictures (about a year's work).

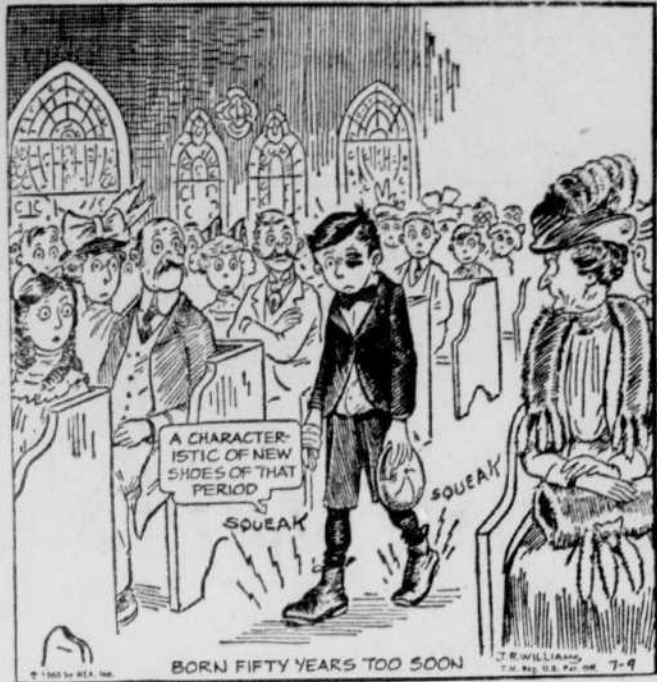

She reportedly has turned down every scenario for the last three months. BB was quoted as saying: "I want to lead a normal life and open an antique shop."

But movie critic Paul Gnanoli says this means nothing. He says she said "I shall stop my movie career only when I'm old" as she stepped onto the "La Verite" set.

So her career depends on whom she listens to, how successful an actress she is in clothes and a change of luck.

TENNIS INTEREST INCREASING IN TOWNSHIPS

Tennis is once again attracting more and more people in the Townships with the result that it is fast becoming a favorite pastime in the area. Three main tournaments are held each year in this district - the City of Sherbrooke, the Little Lake Doubles, and the Eastern Townships.

More important than the deciding of champions is seeing people of the Townships out participating rather than just watching a sport. With this in mind, we now congratulate the hundreds of tennis enthusiasts in the area and ask them to get more of their friends out playing this ancient sport. Non-players should try tennis. It's certainly a wonderful form of exercise and pleasure for the summer months.

The Sherbrooke Tennis Association at the Sports Club on Fraser Street will be more than happy to help out with all the information anyone may need.

Canadian champion Bob Bedard hails from this district and it is no doubt due to his success that the rise in interest in tennis has been so great here. We should all be more than proud of Bob and, we are sure that in future years, more champions will be from this area.

On the golf scene this weekend, a group from the Lennoxville and Sherbrooke Clubs are travelling to Lachute to take part in the Pro-Am tourney there for the benefit of the Lachute Hospital. Making up the Sherbrooke team are Joe Leblanc, Len O'Donnell, Art St. Onge, and Ron Stratton while the Lennoxville squad is composed of Garth Smith, Gordy Harmer, Bert Tarte, and Jacques Rousseau.

Last year, a foursome from Sherbrooke went with the result that Joe Leblanc won the Pro half of the tournament with a five-under par 67 while the local quartet came third in the Calcutta with a 13-under par.

To the teams this year, this corner wishes you all the best of luck.

Congratulations go out to Rod Pelletier and Jean-Guy Mathieu of the Junior Baseball League Indians who both hit home runs in their last game Sunday night. Rod smashed his drive completely out of the park while Jean-Guy's four-bagger went over the inside fence of the Municipal Stadium. Both hits counted for one run each which was just enough for the Redmen to win the tilt.

Members of the Sher-Lenn Little League who played in the recent playoffs against Waterloo and St. Johns have much to be proud of as they put up an excellent showing in the Provincials. The locals beat the Waterloo team but were washed out of the playoffs when they dropped a very close decision to the St. Johns All-Stars. Congratulations boys and the best of luck next year.

The annual boat racing on Little Lake Magog is now in full swing with Sandy Cross the current leader. Boating has always been popular in this district due to the many lakes and the residents at Little Lake are well-organised with their boating events. Primary among these is the Little Lake Regatta which is scheduled for next Sunday. This annual event gives boating fans a chance to get together for a full day of fun on the water and, if the meet is as popular as it was last year, officials should certainly be pleased with the results.

An all-year round sport and one that sometimes deserves more mention than it gets is shooting and we are fortunate to have in this district one of Canada's best shots - Capt. Edson Warner - who was recently named to the Olympic team.

Several rifle clubs have been formed in the area - among these the Lennoxville Rifle Club and the Sand Hill Rifle Club. Adults and teenagers alike take part in shooting and contestants from the Townships have taken part in shoots throughout the country.

Congratulations are also in order for Gordy Harmer of the Lennoxville Golf Club who dropped his tee shot on the third hole at the Club. Gordy sank his drive during the Lennoxville Open last weekend and is the first person to do so since Club officials increased the length of the hole to 145 yards.

Fiery Jim Piersall of Cleveland Indians is in the sports limelight again with his umpire-baiting and ball park pranks. The star centrefielder was called up before American League President Joe Cronin for an informal chat which resulted in a $100 fine but no suspension while, just a day later, baseball commissioner Ford Frick told reporters that he would keep an eye on Jim and, if any more trouble arose, the Cleveland player would have to answer to him.

The reason Cronin gave no suspension to Piersall was that the AL president felt he, Piersall, would really straighten out. Since that date, Jim has been quiet but we can't help feeling that the next few weeks will bring more antics from him.

The problem with Jim's antics seems to be that no one knows whether or not to take them seriously. Certainly, umpire-baiting warranted the $100 fine which was doled out but, as to his other frolics, the fans don't know quite how to take them.

But the rest of the Cleveland players definitely agree that if Piersall keeps up his outbursts, their pennant chances are hampered. The pressure is building up in the Indians' dugout and we will go on record as saying that the next two weeks will bring further outbursts from Piersall, the Cleveland Indians, and AL President Joe Cronin.

By JIMMY DEMARET

The feet, hips and shoulders are slightly open when the ball is lower than both feet on a side-hill lie.

The knees are flexed slightly more than normal. The torso, particularly is bent more obviously, so the shoulders, arms, hands and the club can most easily maintain relationship.

Since the tendency of the weight is to fall forward, the player stands closer to the ball than he ordinarily would, as in-

Hal Paterson Returns To All's For Loop Opener
MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes, who have absorbed two clobberings and pulled out a tie in three exhibition games, took some consolation today in the expected return of Hal Paterson for the regular-scheduled Big Four Football Union opener Aug. 16.
The Al's will be hosts to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Two Tilts Tomorrow In Junior League Baseball

Fuller Visits Brompton In Afternoon, Ruel's Team Hosts Canucks At Night

Two games are on tap tomorrow in the Sherbrooke Junior Baseball League with Fuller visiting Brompton Royals in the afternoon and Ruel's Team hosting Coaticook Canadians in the evening at the Municipal Stadium. The afternoon tilt will start at 2:00 and the night game at 7:30.

The league standing will undoubtedly be changed as a result of the weekend's games and, primarily, the fight for second place in the loop should be decided. Fuller and Ruel's Team are merely .020 percent apart at the moment and the result of their tilts will certainly have an effect on the standings.

Fuller is back in the winning column again after several lax games and Hamel's squad is certainly hopping. One can definitely see a pick-up in their calibre of play and the team certainly has the go to finish up in first place.

Brompton Royals hold down the cellar position in the loop at present and they have been simply outplayed every step of the way. The Royals did show some spark after several weeks of play but since that time have just sunk lower and lower into last place.

Spectators are asked to attend these games as their support of the league is certainly needed. The calibre in these tilts has been on the upswing and fans in the area won't be disappointed with the results.

Senators Over .500 Mark, Beat Sox Yankees Still Clinging To First

Back in April if anyone had dared to predict that Washington's perennial cellar-dwellers would be over the .500 mark on July 30 he'd have been carted off to the nearest sanitarium.

But today, the Senators are not playing .500 ball, but actually battling for a spot in the first division. What's more, they're only 6½ games out of first place in the American league.

A great deal of credit for Washington's incredible showing must be given to Cookie Lavagetto who most certainly is in line for the manager of the year award.

The Nats went over the .500 mark for the first time since opening day by defeating the Chicago White Sox 7-5 Friday night for their third straight victory. Since July 3, the Nats have won 16 while losing only seven to move up three places.

The defeat left the White Sox .004 percentage points behind the New York Yankees, who clung to first despite a 5-2 defeat by Kansas City. Boston nipped Detroit 1-0 and Cleveland defeated Baltimore 3-1.

Washington, trailing 5-3, rallied for three runs in the seventh and added an insurance run in the eighth. With one out in the seventh, pinch hitter Faye Throneberry, Lennie Green, Billy Conzolo and Bob Allison hit successive singles. Jim Lemon's long fly drove in the third run.

Habs Announce Home-Ice Dates

The NHL opening will be preceded by the all-star game, to be played in Montreal for the fifth consecutive year. The 14th annual game is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 1, when Canadiens take on the NHL all-stars, including outstanding players from the five other clubs.

C. Savaria Wins Ontario Tennis Junior's Crown

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal's Claude Savaria defeated Brian Flood of London, Ont., 5-7, 6-2, 6-4, 8-6 Friday to win the junior men's singles title in the Ontario junior tennis championship.

In a grueling three-hour match, the 17-year-old Montrealer lost the first set, picked up the next two without trouble and held off a sustained attack by Flood to win the fourth.

The London boy, down 4-0, broke service twice to level the set at 6-6 with a dazzling display of placement shots. Savaria took the next game and in the last Flood double-faulted to give his opponent match point and then hit a forehand into the net.

MONTREAL OLYMPIC SUITS — Canadian athletes to the Olympic Games at Rome Aug. 25-Sept. 11 will be wearing this type of sweat-suit between events. It is fashioned of 100 per cent nylon fleece in bright red with accents of white. The suit has ribbed bands at the sleeves, collar and waistline. The Olympic crest is on the front and the word Canada in white is across the back.

No Public Response To Olympic Fund, Still $36,000 Short Of Objective

An American citizen, who preferred to remain anonymous, has sent $5 to the Canadian Olympic Association to help defray expenses of getting a 99-athlete team to the Rome Games next month. That is five dollars more than many Canadians have contributed.

"The Canadian public right across Canada doesn't appear to be interested enough to help our athletes," team general manager Jim Worrall of Toronto says. "The Olympic movement isn't getting the support this year as in the past," he adds.

Worrall says the Olympic fund is about $36,000 short of its objective. The federal and provincial governments have come across, but the general public "which includes cities, business corporations and service groups," aren't responding to appeals.

The team leaves by air from Montreal on Wednesday, Aug. 17. The COA needn't worry about finances. The federal government has contributed $80,000 and if there's a shortage at that time, COA officials know that the door is still open for a further grant.

LITTLE LEAGUE OOP

By TED ANDERSON

District Play-offs — Quebec Champions for the past three years Valleyfield - fell by the wayside Wednesday evening at Lachine. The Valleyfield boys have been a powerhouse for quite a while now and as all leagues eventually find out, a lean season comes along. Perhaps this is their year but with the expert coaching that is available for the youngsters down there the team to represent them in the future will no doubt come up strong again.

Lachine along with the two Montreal Kiwanis teams look strong and the semi-finals coming up this weekend should show some good ball.

The Sher-Lenn All Stars were stopped again at that fateful second hurdle. Looking back on the game last Saturday the question comes up, did our boys play as expected. This corner says yes the youngsters who took part in the game gave all they had.

But we think that the coaching could have been better and a stronger team fielded. There are a couple of Whys. Why leave Begbie in so long? It was plainly seen after the first inning the youngster did not have it. After the first two hits off him in the second, that was the spot to take him out, not wait until he issued another walk.

It was noticeable that the St. Johns batters were hitting the slow ball and instead of bringing in Vincent we think that Raymond Farrell's fast ball would have given them trouble. But this all water under the bridge and as far as the behaviour of our players it was of the best and they took their defeat like good sports.

It seems odd that at any time we run against St. Johns in the play-offs, trouble comes up with their umpires. The base umpiring at last Saturday's game was very weak and the men representing the St. Johns Little League did not seem to have a full knowledge of little league rules. A couple of calls on first base made you wonder what a base runner had to do to be called safe and certainly lost two runs by these bad calls.

The season is almost finished and there are only three more games to go. This morning the Red Sox are hosts to the Tigers and a win here would give the Sox that fourth spot in the play-offs. Yankees, losing out last Tuesday, blew their chances of a spot but still could make it if the Tigers should surprise the Red Sox.

White Sox meet the Senators Monday evening and Thursday the Senators and Indians close out the season with the play-offs starting probably on Monday, August 8.
President Francis Kenaly has not been around the ball park for quite a spell now. Frank's absence is caused through illness and we all hope Frank that you will soon be well again and back in harness before long.
Starting in Little League this week, including last Saturday's game, are Jeff Planché, Jacques Pelletier, Raymond and Danny Farrell, Steve Begbie, Lacaille and Vincent.
