To contest school seats in Lennoxville, Coaticook

Protestant proprietors in Lennoxville will choose two members of the school commission in one of the rare votes to fill commission seats, next Monday.

An election has also developed at Coaticook. Voting will be held at the Coaticook High School Monday to fill Seat 3.

The vote in Lennoxville was found necessary when three men were nominated to fill two vacancies on the commission. The two candidates with the highest number of votes will be declared winners.

The candidates for the two seats are incumbent commissioner Bruce P. Clarke, an engineer; and newcomers to school politics J. Keith Cathcart, appliance salesman and Harold J. Drew, telephone technician.

Retiring commissioner George F. Garard is not seeking re-election.

Polls will be open next Monday, June 8, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Lennoxville High School. A total 1,670 proprietors are eligible to vote.

STANBRIDGE EAST
Bruce Phelps was re-elected. Leslie Lackey was elected by acclamation to replace outgoing chairman Thomas Brown. Other members of the commission are Earl Blinn, Charles Bockus and Fred Cook.

RICHMOND
Five members were elected by acclamation to head the new Protestant School Municipality of St. Francis. The board chosen to replace the Protestant Richmond-Drummondville Windsor-Brompton School Board. The members are two from Drummondville, H. E. French and A. F. Osborne; two from Richmond, Errol Taylor and Lloyd Wintle; and one from Windsor-Brompton, Douglas E. Morey.

COMPTON-WATERVILLE
E. N. Fidler, Jr., re-elected in Compton-Waterbury by acclamation. Rudolph Nelson was elected by acclamation to replace Eric Swanson.

COATICOOK
A contest has developed in Coaticook. John H. Brown and Louis Abdalla have both been nominated to fill vacant seat No. 3 formerly held by H. G. Edward. An election will be held here Monday with voting at Coaticook High School. In other nominations Monday, Edward Johann was elected to replace Delmer Huff for Seat 4. Mr. Huff represent Dixville.

Mild-mannered Lal Bahadur Shastri

New Indian PM elected

NEW DELHI — India's ruling Congress party elected mild-mannered Lal Bahadur Shastri by acclamation today to succeed the late Jawaharlal Nehru as prime minister of India. He pledged to work for Nehru's goal of a united, socialist India.

"Socialism is our objective," Shastri said shortly after Congress party members of Parliament named him their leader, a designation which automatically carried nomination as prime minister.

But Shastri was not expected to be sworn in until June 9, out of deference to the 12-day period of mourning for Nehru, who died last Wednesday at the age of 74.

Shastri welcomed the support of former Finance Minister Morarji Desai, his opponent who yielded after a determined five-day succession struggle.

"I am sure this will generate a new confidence in the country and will have an impact on the outside world also," Shastri said.

Shastri said the party's immediate task is to fight India's "biggest enemies—poverty and unemployment."

"The country must remain united and it is important we realize our grave responsibilities toward the betterment of our people," he declared. "The economic issues are most vital for us."

Shastri—the second man to rule modern India—was the man closest to Nehru during his last days and was expected to continue his policies, among them non-alignment.

India is "faced today with a great crisis," Shastri continued, and must "follow in his (Nehru's) footsteps."

Acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda nominated Shastri before the Congress party members in the Central Hall of Parliament. Desai seconded the nomination, saying the party would "continue to adhere to the ideals" of Nehru. Approval followed in a burst of applause.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan will complete the formalities by asking Shastri to form a government and swear him in June 9.

Shastri's election was virtually assured Monday when Desai announced his support for him. Desai said the parliamentary group felt Shastri should be named to lead the nation of 470,000,000 people.

Desai said he was informed that in the opinion of the 547 Congress party members of both Houses of the Indian Parliament, Shastri should be elected.

Shastri, who functioned as a virtual deputy prime minister during Nehru's illness, was the man closest to Nehru during his final days.

Was close to Nehru

NEW DELHI—The late prime minister Nehru once jokingly called Lal Bahadur Shastri half civilized.

This was not intended to disparage India's new prime minister, a man with whom Nehru worked closely for years. But Shastri, unlike many other men who surrounded the prime minister, did not have the European education and polish Nehru admired so greatly.

Despite their different backgrounds, Shastri is considered the man most likely to continue Nehru's policies.

Non-alignment and peaceful coexistence were expected to remain the cornerstones of foreign policy through India recently seemed to be growing closer to the West and this trend is likely to continue.

Unlike Nehru, who was educated in England and retained a fondness for his schoolboy days at Harrow and Cambridge, Shastri has never been outside India except to Nepal.

He speaks fluent English but has never worn Western dress.

Shastri, 59, was the man closest to the 74-year-old Nehru in his last days and is expected to take up the threads of Indo-Pakistan talks both on communal harmony and on understanding over Kashmir.

He was closely associated with the recent decision to release Sheikh Abdullah, former Kashmir premier, and sponsored a moderate regime in Kashmir.

While favoring Sheikh Abdullah's efforts to bring India and Pakistan closer, however, it is not yet certain to what extent he will be able to override opposition within his own party.

Inter-governmental relations in the dark

REGINA (CP) — The right hand too often has no idea what the left hand is doing when it comes to relations between municipalities and senior governments, the president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities says.

Mayor C. N. Kushner of West Kildonan, Man., said in an interview Monday a "three or four-man inter-governmental body" should be set up to act as a liaison among federal, provincial and municipal governments in Canada. He said he would present that idea in his address today to the CFMM annual convention.

UN assembles reinforcements for The Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Reinforcements were assembled today by the United Nations Command and The Congolese Army for action in Kivu province where advancing rebel tribesmen threatened the city of Bukavu.

Members of the proposed board would be selected from cities of various sizes by the CFMM to meet with provincial and federal government representatives and discuss legislation affecting municipalities.

"We feel we (municipalities) should be considered as a government on an equal basis," the mayor said.

Mr. Kushner said municipalities are faced with increasing demands from citizens for new services. "Local politicians should learn to say no."

Resolutions to go before the CFMM convention, which opened Monday with closed-door committee sessions and begins plenary and seminar sessions today, include a number asking for more money from federal and provincial governments.

The City of St. James, Man., is likely to win wide support for one saying property taxes are an unfair and burdensome means of financing education and should be replaced by taxes such as income tax, which affect almost every family and are based on ability to pay.

Other resolutions ask that municipalities be exempted from more federal and provincial taxes and that the federal government pay more grants in lieu of municipal taxes on such things as Crown corporations.

BROME COUNTY

The Knowlton School commission increased its membership from five to seven commissioners following nomination day yesterday. New representatives are Clyde Burbank for East Bolton and Howard Jewett for Mansonville. Two outgoing commissioners, Omer Blackwood and William Stockwell were re-elected. Other members of the board are Col. O. B. Rexford, Stanley Mounth and Keith Ellison.

SUTTON
At Sutton, two commissioners were re-elected by acclamation. They are D. A. Brown and R. F. Boule.

COWANSVILLE
Dr. M. C. Mooney at Cowansville was re-elected and Jack Barker was elected by acclamation to replace Fred Knight.

Investigate fire

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec fire commissioner's office is investigating a fire which broke out Monday in the cellar furnace room of the Quebec Legislature buildings. The fire was quickly extinguished.

F. A. Perreault of the commissioner's office said first indications were that the fire began "spontaneously" in painters' rags.

Ask for list

OTTAWA (CP)—A list of all changes in the membership of local pilotage authorities on the eastern seaboard after the federal elections of 1957 and 1963 has been promised for the royal commission on pilotage.

The list was sought by the three-man royal commission to see what happened to appointees to local pilotage authorities after the Conservatives took power in 1957 and the Liberals regained power in 1963.

Race critical

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican presidential race steams into a critical turn today as Senator Barry Goldwater and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller meet in their dramatic California showdown.

After the smoke has cleared and the primary preference votes counted, Republicans may have a clearer idea whether Goldwater's strong charge toward the nomination can be stopped — or whether perhaps it has gained unstoppable momentum.

Urge security

HAMILTON (CP)—A comprehensive social security program to provide financial and social protection "irrespective of age, race, religion, condition, political affiliation, or residence and citizenship status" was urged Monday by the Canadian Association of Social Workers.

In a policy statement ratified at the organization's annual meeting here, the CSAW said need arising from interruption of income should be met by cash payments and other needs by provision of appropriate services.

US germ attack probe announced by Castro

(CP from AP-Reuters)
HAVANA — Fidel Castro has raised the germ warfare issue against the United States, as the Communists did in Korea and South Viet Nam.

The Cuban prime minister in a statement to reporters Monday night said his regime is investigating a "possible United States—instigated germ warfare attack" last Friday in the Sancti Spiritus area of Las Villas province.

"There would be extraordinary grave and unpredictable consequences if this is true," the statement said.

Castro said a quantity of "brilliant objects" were seen falling to earth in the vicinity of Sancti Spiritus.

The statement quoted eyewitnesses, including members of the armed forces, who said the objects looked like balloons of different sizes and appeared to have been launched from a high altitude.

"The balloons" dissolved on hitting the earth "discharging a gelatinous substance which rapidly diluted, similar to that used in the cultivation of bacteria cultures."

WILL OBSERVE ZONES
"The probability has been taken into consideration that imperialism is intending or studying the use of a new and more brutal and inhuman method of aggression — the use of bacteriological and virus weapons against our economy and our people. Orders have been given for the zones to be carefully observed."

Asian and European Communists have accused the United States of dropping canisters of germs during the Korean War, bombing Communist fields in eastern Europe with potato bugs and spraying "chemical poisons to murder civilians and destroy crops in South Viet Nam."

Plan for towns and country

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation befitting federal aid for various aspects of urban renewal was introduced in the Commons Monday. Today the focus switches to farm improvement.

Postmaster - General Jack Nicholson, responsible for housing policy, said the new amendments to the National Housing Act of 1954 will encourage rehabilitation of older urban districts before they degenerate into slum areas.

Spokesmen for the New Democratic and Social Credit parties welcomed the housing legislation, while Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said it would do nothing to help low-income families and revenue-starved municipalities.

The Conservatives did not take part in Monday's debate on the resolution preceding first reading of the bill.

Debate opens today on a measure to authorize the farm credit corporation to make bigger loans to individual farmers. The Crown corporation would be empowered to boost its borrowing of capital to $600,000,000 from $400,000,000.

Mr. Nicholson said Monday a gap exists in present housing assistance. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation concentrated on loans for new construction and slum clearance but neglected the restoration of aging dwellings.

Razing old buildings with bulldozers was needed in some blighted city blocks, but it should not be the only approach to urban renewal, he said.

WILL PAY 50 PER CENT
Under the proposed changes, CMHC would pay up to 50 per cent of the operating losses of public housing projects for low-income families and make loans for the purchase or improvement of existing homes in urban renewal districts.

CMHC would help finance a wider range of urban renewal projects by the provinces, municipalities and local agencies; assistance for student residences at universities would be expanded, and mortgages on new homes would be increased.

Under another section, the Crown corporation would forgive repayment of 25 per cent of the principal and interest costs of sewage treatment projects completed before March 31, 1967.

More typhoid is Scot fear
(CP from AP-Reuters)
ABERDEEN — The Scottish city of Aberdeen braced today for a possible third wave in its typhoid epidemic.

Already 224 persons have been stricken and one woman has died. Another 17 suspected cases are in crowded hospitals and now reports of infection are turning up in other parts of the county.

The original outbreak in this seaside city of 186,000 was blamed on a can of defective corned beef sold in a supermarket.

But government sources said there was no proof yet that contaminated corned beef from government stocks or elsewhere had touched off the Aberdeen epidemic.

Flag debate delayed as pros, cons gather

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Red Ensign atop the Peace Tower hung limp through a day-long drizzle Monday while controversy over its future spilled out from the Commons chamber onto the lawns outside.

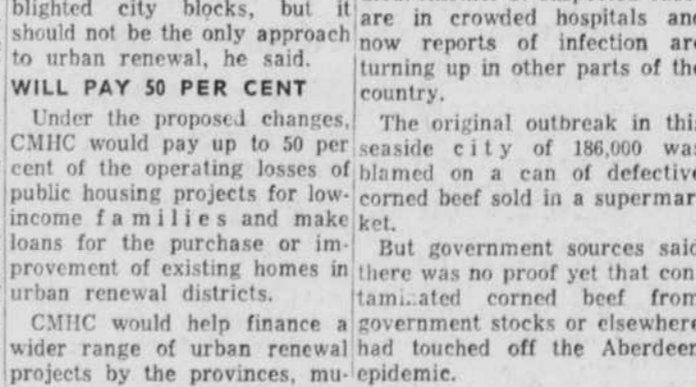

In the House, Prime Minister Pearson announced that debate on the Liberal government's proposed distinctive maple leaf flag will be delayed until next week at the earliest.

At dusk, some 1,500 persons brandishing the design of their choice carried the controversy outdoors where the broad strip of asphalt running from the centre entrance to the Parliament buildings served as demarcation line between evenly-matched forces.

The demonstration began with Red Ensign supporters congregating in front of the East Block, and maple leaf supporters directly opposite them in front of the West Block.

While it was a model of orderliness, the demonstration's one moment of tension came when the flag-carrying crowds moved briskly toward one another and were stopped by the RCMP while still about 25 feet apart.

The Ensign supporters combined their preference with God Save the Queen at first and the new flag people appropriated O Canada. After a while all joined in on O Canada and most of the exchange after that was verbal. Both groups made brief diversions to the nearby national war memorial in Confederation Square.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

EXTRA TRICKS AREN'T EASY

One feature of rubber bridge that really shocks the confirmed bridge player is the total disregard for overtricks by most declarers. If the contract is safe, they just pay no attention at all to the play.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and promptly discarded a club on the king of spades. Then he played three rounds of trumps and finally paused a second for station identification.

The he remarked, "The contract is safe, but I might as well try to make an extra trick."

His remark was reasonable, but his method of trying for that extra trick rather unfortunate. He led another trump in order to get to dummy and then

1 Clb.	Pass	1 Dia.	Pass
1 Hrt.	Pass	?	?
You, South, hold: Spades, K-J-7-5; Hearts, 5-3; Diamonds, K-Q-J-10-4; Clubs, A-6

What do you do now?

A — Bid one or two spades. One spade is slightly better. Do not bid any number of no-trumps since your hand will do very well as a no-trump dummy.

Today's Question

You bid one spade and your partner jumps to two no-trump. What do you do now?

Officials visit O.E.S. chapter in Cookshire

COOKSHIRE — The Worthy Grand Matron, Sis. May Wallace, made her official visit to Cookshire Chapter, No. 46, O.E.S., on May 22. She was accompanied by the Worthy Grand Patron, Bro. Richard Corke and the Associate Grand Conductress, Sis. Margaret Irvine. Other Grand Chapter officers in attendance were Bros. Harold Walsh, P.G.P.; Henry Barlow, P.G.P.; Sis. Mildred Wheeler, Grand Conductress; Grand Representatives to North Dakota, Sis. Ruth Beattie; to Kentucky, Sis. Marjorie Hurley; to Vermont, Sis. Margaret Irvine; to North Carolina, Sis. Alice Rowat; to Idaho, Sis. Cora Walsh; to Saskatchewan, Sis. Jean Melver; to British Columbia, Sis. Marjorie Baker.

There were also members from other Chapters, Queen Mary, Golden Star, Patricia, Ormar, Confederation, Eleanora, Prince of Wales, White Heather. Grand Honors were extended in the East.

The altar and charter were draped in memory of the late sister Effie Kane.

The work of the Order was exemplified and routine business was transacted.

In a short special ceremony, a cheque was presented to the Worthy Grand Matron, Sis. May Wallace, for her project, Cancer Research. During the ceremony, Sis. Ruth Beattie rendered a solo.

The Grand officers made complimentary remarks on the evening's work. The Worthy Matron exhorted members to stand fast in holding the high principles of living; the Worthy Grand Patron reminded the members that the purposes of the Order were beneficial, and he urged the various chapters to participate in community welfare work.

Following the service, refreshments were served in the lower hall by the Sawyerville ladies.

Spring flowers were used profusely for decorations.

Final flag poll results show 88% for Ensign

Final results from a week of voting in the Sherbrooke Daily Record's flag poll show readers overwhelmingly prefer the Red Ensign to a distinctive flag.

Of 1,386 Record readers who responded to the poll, 1,224 or 88 per cent would have the Red Ensign flying from Canadian flag poles while 162 would have the distinctive flag.

Today's results show that the trend toward the Red Ensign continues with 97 voting for the ensign and 11 for the distinctive flag.

Returns from 34 Canadian newspapers, co-operating in the cross-Canada flag poll show the Red Ensign continues to fly highest in public favour.

As of Monday afternoon, a total of 49,697 ballots have been cast by readers of daily newspapers participating in the poll, putting the ensign on top with 30,637 votes; the maple leaf flag with only 19,060 votes.

Readers are given only two choices on their ballots—either for the Red Ensign or for a distinctive maple leaf flag.

But editors report that many voters are scribbling a third choice on their ballots.

Many Record readers are marking in the Union Jack on their ballots as their choice of a Canadian flag. One such reader, who signs herself "Mother of two world wars" scribbled on her ballot:

"Our loved ones fought and died under the Union Jack. Can we let them down now by changing their flag?"

Another reader simply crossed out the Red Ensign and distinctive flag and wrote in "No. No. The Union Jack Forever!"

"Why not leave our flag the Union Jack?" asks a Union Jack supporter. Another displays the sentiment he feels for it by his simple write-in "The Old Union Jack."

One Record reader felt that Prime Minister Pearson's flag of maple leaves was as much a

Plead not guilty to an attempted holdup

Preliminary hearing was set Monday for two youths charged with threatening to rob a St. Adolphe de Dudeswell branch of the Provincial Bank while being masked and armed.

Scheduled to appear Friday are Emilien Rodrigue, 21 and Rejean Champagne, 19, both of Sherbrooke. Both pleaded not guilty to the identical charges.

Rodrigue chose to be judged by a judge alone, while Champagne opted for judge and jury. The charge is punishable by a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Bail was set by Judge Jean Louis Pélouquin at $1,000 or $2,000 in property for each. He told the pair that he wanted to insure their return to the court house and was calling for a "reasonable sum."

He said he was taking the criminal record of both youths into account.

The youths are being charged in connection with a weekend attempted holdup in the bank branch at St. Adolphe de Dudeswell, about 20 miles east of Sherbrooke.

A 63-year-old manageress, her 73-year-old spouse and 20-year-old son fought two young men, who were armed with 22 calibre rifles. They panicked and fled, leaving their masks and firearms behind.

The youths were picked up Saturday night by officers of the Sherbrooke detachment of the Quebec Provincial Police. The investigation and arrests were made under the direction of Corporal René Simard, officer-in-charge of Sherbrooke QPP.

Lennoxville public meeting set June 15 for $125,000 project

A public meeting will be held at Lennoxville Town Hall at 5 p.m. Monday, June 15 to explain the estimated $125,000 street paving job the town is planning.

According to municipal regulations, a money bylaw which council is to pass for the project must first be submitted before citizens at a public meeting.

It would take the objections of 20 or more people to force a vote on the project, said Lennoxville Mayor Mitchell last night.

A map showing the streets to be paved will be shown at the meeting, he said during last night's council meeting.

The loan is made possible by a recent department of municipal statute that provides for municipal loans "to stimulate employment." The statute specifies that if the project is completed by April 1966 the government will give a 25 per cent rebate on the loan. This would make it the equivalent of an interest free loan.

Paving costs were estimated at $23.50 per foot for the project by town engineer L. G. Carignan.

Alderman in charge of police and fire departments, E. B. Sims reported that during May the police department answered 30 calls, and investigated 13 accidents. He reported one attempted break-in, one door left unlocked, two escorts, and one theft.

In the traffic department 41 tickets were issued: 24 for speeding, six for illegal parking, five for illegal passing, five for failing to stop at stop signs, and one for failing to stop for a red light.

Alderman Sims reported six calls for the fire department during May; four were grass fires, one was a roof fire, and the other was a small fire which did no damage.

Value of city building down over May 1963

The value of construction permits issued in Sherbrooke for the month of May was considerably less this year than in 1963.

A total of $1,103,900 in construction permits was issued by city hall. In May, 1963 the total reached $1,790,200, the monthly building permit report shows.

For the first time this year, the total 1964 construction slipped below last year's amount for the corresponding period. In five months this year, permits taken out totalled $5,817,195. In 1963 the value ran to $6,114,050 at the end of May.

City residential construction was higher than industrial or commercial construction in May, accounting for $847,000 of total permits issued. Commercial permits totalled $101,950; industrial $77,000; religious, $9,000; and miscellaneous $68,950.

Sales tax phone bill increase in effect in some E. T. centres

Only a few scattered municipalities within the Eastern Townships are affected by a six per cent sales tax on telephone service it was learned Monday, as a result of the Quebec government's decision to impose a standard six per cent sales tax throughout the province.

Eastern Township telephone subscribers received with this month's bill a notice to the effect that a standard six per cent sales tax on telephone service now applies throughout Quebec province.

As a result the Bell Telephone Company of Canada is required to bill additional tax in certain localities.

Subscribers affected will notice a small increase in their account, the notice said.

Sherbrooke regional manager Guy Perreault said Monday however, that only a few scattered municipalities were not paying the six per cent sales tax already.

Those paying this tax now will not have any increase on their bills.

Municipalities who up until the recent provincial bill standardizing the sales tax at six per cent were paying only four per cent tax will now pay the full six per cent.

Among these municipalities are Lennoxville, Rock Forest

Prepares report on sidewalks

A report on the state of Sherbrooke sidewalks is to be prepared by city services director Charles Langlois.

Mr. Langlois was asked at city council last night to prepare the report after Aldermen claimed many sidewalks in Sherbrooke were "in a dangerous state."

Other cities do not suffer from "tired sidewalks" because a higher grade of material is used, Mayor Nadeau said that Montreal sidewalks are "like marble."

The cost of Sherbrooke sidewalks is about one quarter that of Montreal's, he said.

Steals grinder

Lucien Breault, a 37-year-old laborer who gave his address as Beauvoir Road, was arraigned before a Sherbrooke magistrate here yesterday and pleaded guilty to possession of a stolen $4000 valve grinder. He is scheduled to be sentenced June 4 by a Sessions Court Judge.

Handicrafts by blind on exhibit

The annual exhibition of handicrafts made by the blind is taking place in the gymnasium of the YWCA, 300 Montpelier Street, Sherbrooke, until Thursday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. It is sponsored by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Admission is free.

There are many articles for sale, such as knitting, crocheting, baby's wear, hooked and braided rugs, leather, cane and wooden articles.

The capabilities of the blind are strongly brought home to the public at large by this annual exhibition which is the only show window each year where blind people have the opportunity to show their work to the citizens of Sherbrooke.

Two-piece bathing suit banned in city

The two-piece bathing suit is slated to disappear from the Sherbrooke scene.

Either they disappear on their wearers will find themselves fined $20 or spending up to two months in jail.

This is the consequence of the updating of a 1937 law at city council last night regulating the wearing of shorts and bathing suits in the city limits.

Council was read a report from parks superintendent Gaston Lebrun in which he says some two-piece bathing suits worn at Montcalm swimming pool were "very good," while others "left something to be desired."

Ald. Antonio Pinard told council that Sherbrooke must not fall behind in moral legislation and should not let Mayor Ernest Simard of Magog be the only leader in this realm.

He said he had received complaints concerning some of the swimsuits worn at indoor and outdoor pools during last year's swimming season. He made particular reference to two-piece swimsuits.

Ald. Paul Gervais asked council how it will be decided which two-piece swimsuits are not in keeping with good taste. He suggested that some one-piece bathing suits were more provocative than two-piece suits.

"I'm an expert in bathing suits. Everything was beautiful when I personally went to investigate" Ald. Carl Camarand told council.

Ald. Nicol said he felt there was a limit to how far council could go in keeping city pools decent and in enforcing these laws. He suggested the population use discretion.

"After all," he said, "too much of a good thing..."

Ald. Antonio Pinard agreed substantially with Ald. Nicol.

"I have nothing against beauty" he said.

Other members of council disagreed. It was finally decided to prohibit the wearing of two-piece bathing suits in public in Sherbrooke.

$90,000 approved for two new pools

Additional credits of $90,000 were approved by city council last night for construction of two swimming pools and the repairs of another.

The two new pools will be built in Dufresne and Coeur Immaculee de Marie while the pool in Sangster Park which has not been operational for over two years will be repaired.

The total cost for the three projects will be about $130,000. The remaining $40,000 has already been approved by council.

New swimming pools will cost about $80,000 each.

Tenders submitted for the pools were opened last night. Council had asked for two different estimates from city contractors—one for an L-shaped pool and one for a rectangular shape. Council will decide at a later date which shape will be built.

Marquis et Freres Inc. submitted the lowest tenders for the rectangular and L-shaped pool. They are $56,280 and $57,750 respectively.

Other tenders received were Leopold Nicol Reg. ($57,900 and $59,900), Dorilas Grenier Ltée. ($61,930 and $64,190), P. Talbot ($57,326 and $9,326) and Roll-up Aluminum ($77,882 and $79,443).

Ald. Antonio Pinard told council that the summer was fast approaching and that some action would be necessary to have the pools necessary for vacationing children. A mid-August opening date for the new

Factory dirties clothes

A delegation of irate mothers from Dieppe and Beaudry Streets confronted city council last night with complaints of noise and soot from the Beaudry Lumber factory in their district.

They brought with them a petition signed by 112 women who they said they represent. They complained that they cannot have their clothes clean because they end up dirtier than before they were washed.

The noise keeps them awake at night.

West Ward Ald. Antonio Pinard said he had asked for the collaboration of the company on a number of occasions with no positive results. He said the situation there was "deplorable."

Council decided to visit the company and try to arrange a compromise so they can continue operating and the women can hang their clothes.

Pierre Salinger, candidate

'I-knew-JFK' pitch gets the test at the California primary polls

SAN FRANCISCO — Pierre Salinger has pitched himself against a man who claims that he knows California like his pocket.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The "recognition factor," then, needs no highlighting. When someone suggested a billboard with a Salinger caricature, manager Bradley snorted: "With him a picture and a caricature are the same!"

As the former JFK press secretary, Salinger tests at the polls today the political "rub-off" of the Kennedy image.

One Salinger detractor questions, however, whether the candidate's celebrity status dents enough voter categories to be decisive for him.

Portly Pierre tries to have the best of two worlds: with a devilish twinkle in his eye, he presents himself as a kind of jolly fugitive from the card table and yet a hard-punching master of the issues who has brushed against the greats and can do big things for California.

In the first excitement over his entry into the California race, Pierre seemed capable of a sweep. Says one high-placed Democrat: "It took the Alaskan earthquake to get him off page one."

On the latter score, he persuades even some politicians who doubt he will get up the hill. Says an experienced campaigner:

Arrayed against Salinger is a loose but formidable coalition: Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown and several of his key aides, the full weight of the California Democratic Council (an effective federation of volunteer clubs), many top Democratic officeholders, and organized labor's committed strength.

Pierre's link with the "Kennedy image" is one he shines up every day he is on the campaign trail. His problem with his own image is to preserve it and give it a serious side as well.

Of all these, Brown is the most important. Many Democrats, unexcited by Cranston, nevertheless say: "I'm going with Pat." The governor, his prestige high after beating Richard Nixon in 1962, has put it full on the line.

Brown draws considerable backing in Cranston's behalf from the fact the race is seen in California as a power struggle between the governor and Jesse Unruh, controversial Democratic speaker of the California lower house and unannounced supporter of Pierre's candidacy. Says a Brown associate: "If Pierre wins, it restores the arch to Jesse's foot. He hasn't won anything in a long time."

One of these, Brown is the most important. Many Democrats, unexcited by Cranston, nevertheless say: "I'm going with Pat."

Spending money to put costly frills into school buildings, either as part of the building or in the form of equipment, does not mean that children are going to be properly educated as a result.

One of these, it collar torn with deliberate flourish, hangs in the Los Angeles office of Salinger's campaign manager, Don Bradley.

Most people are interested in getting the best value for their money and they make no exceptions when it comes to education. If the public gets the idea that school officials couldn't care less about costs — as the Toronto librarian put the situation in relation to himself — it is likely to become very parsimonious as far as the school budgets are concerned.

Neater though he may be, Pierre nevertheless finds he is easily recognized nearly everywhere he goes. "Boy, is that face familiar!" exclaimed a woman worker as he trotted through telephone company offices near Sacramento.

Statements of this kind do nothing to reassure the public that money isn't being wasted.

Perhaps there would be less need for school libraries if teachers would rely more on teaching and less on teaching aids.

But if the Toronto librarian was only trying to stress the importance of libraries in relation to many other teaching aids, he has a point.

Certainly library facilities have been sacrificed in many schools for the equipment used in the teaching of such courses as industrial arts, home economics and music.

The importance of school libraries is unquestioned. Perhaps more value could be obtained by spending more money on libraries and less on costly items such as wood lathes and kitchen ranges.

If this is what the librarian had in mind, he would help the cause of education by being more explicit. But if he really does mean that the people who run the schools shouldn't be concerned about costs, he is defeating his own objective, which is unquestionably better equipped schools.

Labor fights Thatcher economies

Saskatchewan's new premier, Ross Thatcher, already in the black books of his federal Liberal confederates because of his reportedly right-wing tendencies and his dislike of the welfare state, is also finding himself in trouble with the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor because of his efforts to improve provincial government efficiency.

of any of these employees, but merely decided that positions made vacant by the normal leave-taking which follows a change of government and by deaths and retirements should not be filled by new hirings.

The SFL is loudly protesting the order by Mr. Thatcher that would prohibit the hiring of civil servants until a special commission to be set up by the government determines whether any civil service jobs can be eliminated as unnecessary.

The SFL estimates that if the policy is continued there will be a drop of 2,000 to 3,000 in the civil service strength. It objects to this not because there will be any deterioration in governmental efficiency but because it means reduced membership in the civil service unions which are members of the Federation.

During the 20 years the CCF held power in Saskatchewan there was a large increase in the number of civil servants, some directly concerned with the administration of the province and others employed by the proliferation of crown corporations, government boards and commissions established by the state.

Only time will tell how Premier Thatcher succeeds in his efforts to reduce the size of his civil service but if he is successful in his battle with organized labor he may set a precedent that other politicians could follow for the benefit of the taxpayers.

Triple strength or triple weakness

During a recent national radio broadcast, a wag declared that Canada could be in an ideal position to enjoy the best possible of three worlds.

But instead of this, he noted wryly, Canadians in recent years seem to be indulging themselves in French-style politics, United States culture and British technology.

This country, he said, could adopt the calm and dispassionate British approach to politics, the rich and creative French approach in matters of culture and the inventive and ingenious U.S. attitude towards technology.

His remarks, obviously, were intended in a humorous vein but the grim possibility remains that there is more than a grain of truth in his observations.

We'll bet that some men wish fire insurance covered old flames.

The readers say:

My son died under the Red Ensign

Sir: I have voted for the Red Ensign. My son, John A. Bailey, RCAF, lost his life for this country and to preserve its residents and fought under the Red Ensign and that is why I am voting for it. The new flag is just to please some fanatics or to favor some. MRS. J. J. BAILEY, Waterloo.

Sight would make the maples blush

Dear Sir: If we were going to have a distinctive flag — why not have a flag which is a flag not a thing like Pearson wants to fly — it might be an ad for tooth paste, rouge, detergent or in fact any kind of soap. Whoever saw bright red maple leaves? I'm sure the maple trees would blush when they saw Pearson's version of them flapping in the wind. That flag has no dignity or meaning at all, let us forget it. Sincerely, MRS. N. D. MCLEOD.

Does he realize what he's asking?

Dear Editor: I am wondering if Mr. Pearson, in asking that we exchange our well loved National Flag for three maple leaves and a couple of blue stripes, realizes just what he is asking of loyal Canadians, many of whom have fought under the Red Ensign and for all that it symbolizes; or of the women of Canada whose husbands, sons and brothers gave their lives fighting to uphold it.

Would our Premier ask that his countrymen and women lower such a Standard, simply to appease the Separatists of Quebec? Are the people of Canada's other nine provinces willing to let this happen? M. H. FOWLER, Richmond, Quebec.

Where would we be as a Nation had not such men as St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick whose lives were lived for Christianity, and whose crosses are blended together on our Union

Red China could adopt red leaves

Dear Sir: The cartoon in Friday, May 22nd issue of the Sherbrooke Record gave me a bit of a chuckle. I imagine a cartoon is drawn to convey certain thoughts or ideas and this one is no exception. The steed on which the figure of Prime Minister Pearson is riding into battle seems to have that war-like expression of the eye that reminds one of the fighting look of Opposition Leader, John Diefenbaker. Down in the lower left hand corner is a small figure sitting on his ass, or is that a mule? Could it be that this chap represents Brother "Domo", sitting and waiting? And the windmill? Perhaps it means "waiting to see which way the wind will blow."

for the adoption of the Red Ensign. Accordingly, the Government of Canada on Sept. 5th, 1945, by Order-in-Council (P.C. 5888) signed by the Governor-General, ordered that "The Red Ensign with the Shield of the Coat of Arms of Canada in the Fly (Hereinafter referred to as 'The Canadian Ensign') may be flown from buildings owned or occupied by the Federal Government within or without Canada . . . and that it shall be appropriate to fly the Canadian Red Ensign within or without Canada wherever place or occasion may make it desirable to fly a DISTINCTIVE CANADIAN FLAG."

The part that gave me the biggest chuckle was the unfinished bit. The head gear of the rider seems to be incomplete. It appears that Mr. Pearson has something on his mind, I mean his head. Could it be a front leg and a hind leg of the species anurous Amphibia (order Anura)?

It is easy to see that the maple leaf design has been stretched a little to block out the Union Jack. On the lance is what I prefer to call "The Pearson Rag." It's not a flag, it has no character.

And speaking of the Maple Leaf as an emblem, I have a booklet on Maple Leaves, to quote from same, "Of the 70 varieties of Maple trees throughout the world, 35 are in China and Japan. In Canada 17 are commonly found, of which only 10 are native." Unquote, Red Maple Leaves on a flag? In view of the foregoing, the Red Chinese would have just as much right to use Red Maple leaves on a flag.

Yours truly, ERNEST V. KIMMIS, Sherbrooke.

The late Mackenzie King, when Prime Minister and leader of the Liberal Party, appointed a Parliamentary Committee that considered and studied more than 1200 designs for a Canadian Flag and voted overwhelmingly for the adoption of the Red Ensign. Accordingly, the Government of Canada on Sept. 5th, 1945, by Order-in-Council (P.C. 5888) signed by the Governor-General, ordered that "The Red Ensign with the Shield of the Coat of Arms of Canada in the Fly (Hereinafter referred to as 'The Canadian Ensign') may be flown from buildings owned or occupied by the Federal Government within or without Canada . . . and that it shall be appropriate to fly the Canadian Red Ensign within or without Canada wherever place or occasion may make it desirable to fly a DISTINCTIVE CANADIAN FLAG."

Yours truly, ERNEST V. KIMMIS, Sherbrooke.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

June 2, 1964 . . .

The first Fenian raid on Canada was launched 88 years ago today — in 1866. Led by John O'Neill, about 800 Fenians crossed into Canada near Fort Erie and encamped at Ridgeway, Ont. Eventually, a strong body of Canadian forces pushed them back. The Canadians suffered about 10 killed and 40 wounded. The Fenians lost probably twice as many.

1948 — Seven wartime Nazi doctors who experimented on prisoners were hanged at Landsberg prison.

1953 — Queen Elizabeth was crowned.

For UN standby

Scandinavia creates joint force

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The first joint standby police force for the United Nations is being created in Scandinavia.

Legislation going through the parliaments of Sweden, Norway and Denmark will form the legal basis for a self-contained "Scandinavian Brigade" of 3,800 men who will be ready to go anywhere at any time on peace-keeping missions for the UN.

From the time when all three parliaments have given their approval, expected this summer, it will take about two years for the complete force to come into being in its final form.

The Scandinavian countries were among the first to support the UN peace force in the Middle East after the Suez conflict in 1956.

Mistakes committed in hastily setting up the units which went to the Middle East made the Scandinavian governments start to think it might be wiser to make preparations in advance for any future emergency.

The Congo operation emphasized the point, and plans were drawn up for the integrated brigade.

Swedish Defence Minister Sven Andersson made the first public move March 10 when he sent parliament a draft law providing for creation of a standing Swedish contingent to include two infantry battalions and technical and air communications units. The law specifies a strength of 1,600 men.

Norway and Denmark will set up contingents of 1,250 and 950 men respectively.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

OTTAWA — It's a matter of historical record that English-Canadians and French-Canadians drew together a century ago for mutual protection. The new dominion was a sort of NATO of British North America against the imperialist expansion of the United States.

And what's wrong with Confederation today is that the Yankees have gone soft on us. They're not panting to take over Canada any more — and perhaps for good reason: they own a big slice of it now anyway.

But because the Americans have abandoned their territorial aspirations north of the 49th parallel, the glue of Confederation is weaker. We tell the French-Canadians that if they drop out they'll be sorry — they'll inexorably be assimilated by the US. But we can't prove that, and I don't think the Quebecers believe us.

What they do believe, however, is that if they drop out they'll suffer economically, with lower living standards and decreased opportunities. Where the dollar is concerned they're more North Americans than French-Canadians.

What Prime Minister Pearson seeks is a new Confederation glue. The slogan of "unity through diversity" sounds impressive, but diversity is not an adhesive. So Mr. Pearson tried mixing the two languages and cultures to create a Confederation cement of bilingualism and biculturalism.

If this policy is successful, over the years there will be a growing appreciation by English Canada of Quebec's language and culture, and vice versa. Then, more slowly, hyphenated Canadianism will disappear with the development of a new breed of Canadians who speak both languages and benefit from many cultures blended into a Canadian culture.

But while this experiment is progressing — if "progressing" is the right word — Mr. Pearson gambled that he could concoct a quick-set cement out of three maple leaves, and some white and blue color.

I think what we have to decide in the resultant flag controversy is whether we want to identify ourselves as an independent people, or as a nation that looks back with some nostalgia to colonial status.

Because that is what the Union Jack in a Canadian flag would mean to me.

Maybe we're not ready to cut the psychological apron strings. If so, we'd better stick with the Red Ensign.

But if we want to tell the world that we are North American but not "American", and at the same time make clear that we are not British or French, I think we should rally around a new flag — and I think that the government's proposed design would in time not only be generally accepted, but also would be generally admired and revered.

At the moment the country is working up a pitch of emotion that makes calm judgment difficult — and the Conservatives, eager for an issue that would win an election for them, are dipping into the deep well of the people's feelings for Queen and country for selfish political purposes.

What the country now needs is less emotion, and some clear thinking based on assessment of the facts and arguments that the government will put before Parliament during the flag debate.

Caution vital in education costs

(Calgary Herald)

The chief librarian of the Toronto schools said here last week that costs need not be considered in providing schools with facilities such as libraries.

If he meant that the people who run the schools shouldn't give any thought to how much it costs to build and operate them, his remarks reflect an inexcusable arrogance and don't really make sense.

It is true that education must be paid for, but certainly not at any cost. Careful study must be given curriculum and facilities continually to ensure that taxpayers are getting full value for the money they are asked to provide.

Spending money to put costly frills into school buildings, either as part of the building or in the form of equipment, does not mean that children are going to be properly educated as a result.

Most people are interested in getting the best value for their money and they make no exceptions when it comes to education. If the public gets the idea that school officials couldn't care less about costs — as the Toronto librarian put the situation in relation to himself — it is likely to become very parsimonious as far as the school budgets are concerned.

Statements of this kind do nothing to reassure the public that money isn't being wasted.

Perhaps there would be less need for school libraries if teachers would rely more on teaching and less on teaching aids.

But if the Toronto librarian was only trying to stress the importance of libraries in relation to many other teaching aids, he has a point.

Certainly library facilities have been sacrificed in many schools for the equipment used in the teaching of such courses as industrial arts, home economics and music.

Graduate exercises held at Waterloo High School

WATERLOO— Waterloo High School graduating exercises were held on Friday evening, May 29. The gymnasium, which was decorated by grade 10 and under the direction of the Assistant-Principal, John MacAskill, carried out the Hawaiian theme.

The vivid tropical colors were fitting as a background for the young students bright with excitement and enthusiasm. Streamers in deep shades formed a "drop ceiling." Plants and flowers, cut-outs and native birds and leis, with the graduates names brought Hawaii to the school. "Aloha" and "Makalaha" in large letters gave grade 10's message of Farewell and good luck to the graduates.

The final part of the exercises was presentation of books, certificates and special prizes to grade 11 students, and trophies and other awards.

An eagerly-awaited event is opening the sealed envelope with the names of the scholar citizen of the year—chosen for scholastic merits, leadership and school spirit. The chairman read the names, Janet Marsh and Wesley Larose who will receive the honor of having their names inscribed on the Roll of Honor.

"God Save the Queen" closed the formal march of the graduates, through the hall and to the platform never loses its impressiveness. Eleven girls in white gowns and white mortar boards wore beautiful corsages, gifts of grade 10. Eight boys were in the school blue gowns with white boutonnières.

"O Canada" and the opening prayer by Rev. K. Dickerson were followed by prize giving for grades 8, 9, and 10. The principal's remarks were brief but very informative. His optimism for the future of the Grads of 1964 was shared by everyone in the crowded hall when the averages were read out as the certificates were presented.

The address to the graduates by Father Dickerson was one of the most inspiring and helpful talks young people could listen to.

"The door that is standing ajar in this confused world is ready for the grads to pass through and start work to bring conformity and concord. You will miss the regulated school life but the benefits of good schooling will never be lost. Reach maturity and do not let your great potentials slowly leak away. Say YES to the right and NO to the wrong—with no wavering or indecision."

The speaker closed with an allegory, using four aces. Spades—right to work and will to do it well; hearts—the same rule for leisure, diamonds—respect and proper relationship to people; and clubs—keep your work.

"That door that was ajar is now open. Go through and out into this world, full of care. Find time for God and lasting peace."

Jill Corthorn, Valedictorian, paid tribute to her former principal, Mr. Pickford and present principal, Mr. Waye, the staff and parents who had made this climax possible. Her advice to next year's graduates was to be determined to do better than ever and be a credit to W.H.S.

"Aim for a useful career. Life is what we make it. We can only take from it what we put into it."

Mr. Waye took the floor for a few minutes to announce that the 'Waterlute' for 1964 had just been delivered to him. A feature for this number was the dedication of the annual to Mrs. Myrtle Pope, popular grade 2 teacher who is retiring after years of happy teaching with her small pupils. Mrs. Pope received a great ovation from staff, pupils and parents.

June McLellan, on behalf of Grade XI presented the complete works of William Shakespeare to Mr. Waye for the W.H.S. Library as a token of appreciation for what their school meant to these graduates.

Reception is given for Sutton graduates

SUTTON — (Special)— Stanley Pergau, principal of Sutton High School and Mrs. Pergau were hosts at a reception in honor of the graduating class held in the beautifully decorated gymnasium at the school on Sunday afternoon, May 31.

Guests on the occasion were the graduates and their parents, members of the school board and their wives and the staff of the school.

Mrs. D. O. Cowan and Mrs. G. F. Knights poured tea at the table which was covered by a lace cloth and decorated by a centerpiece of tulips and narcissus. They were assisted in serving by the girls of the grade ten class.

At the conclusion of the reception, Gerald Blaser, on behalf of the graduates, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Pergau for their kindness in their honoring the class. This reception, which Mr. and Mrs. Pergau give annually, has come to be a much anticipated and fully appreciated event.

Engineers are in architects field— Mayor Trepanier

QUEBEC (CP) — A Quebec mayor who is also an architect said Monday the engineering profession is cutting into fields which belong to architects.

Mayor Paul Trepanier of Granby said the process is a threat to his profession.

Mayor Trepanier was speaking before the legislature's private bills committee, now studying a bill to govern engineers, on an agreement between the professional corporations of the two professions which would leave certain types of construction in the hands of engineers, unaided by advice from architects.

Premier Lesage, replying to the mayor's remarks, said they would be more convincing if Mr. Trepanier had the support of the corporation of architects. The premier noted, however, that the corporation had agreed to the division of duties the mayor was denouncing.

The specific work which the agreement, reached last week, hands over to engineers is the building of "accessory parts of technical structures serving to shelter them." These would include a water purification plant, roof and mine shaft coverings.

The right to oversee such construction has been in dispute between the two professions in Quebec for 20 years. Mayor Trepanier is a former president of the architects' corporation.

Engineers did not have the aesthetic training to oversee even such technical construction, Mayor Trepanier told the committee. The agreement was a breach in the architect's domain and would lead to further incursions by "new giants of engineering who are setting up big offices as electrical engineers and other fields as far removed from construction."

Waterloo cancer society drive passes amount raised last year

WATERLOO—The 1964 fund-raising appeal of the Canadian Cancer Society ended last night in Waterloo.

"All indications are that it was a most successful crusade against cancer," J. H. Beaudry said, "in both its educational and fund-raising aspects."

While final reports are still to come in, Mr. Beaudry explained that present tabulations show that volunteers collected $671 for the society's programs of research, education and service.

Last year during its crusade the society raised $558.

Mr. Beaudry said that final figures on the number of dollars raised will not be known until all books will be audited in accordance with the standards established by the Canadian Cancer Society.

"While this marked the end of our annual crusade," Mr. Beaudry said, "the fight against cancer does not end. It is a continuing and growing program. If we are going to win the fight against cancer we cannot relax for a moment. Every moment has urgent needs for research, education and service."

"I hope that those who did not make a contribution during the crusade in April will do so now by sending one to the Canadian Cancer Society c/o J. H. Beaudry, PB 62, Waterloo.

Also, the chairman said, "if any family in the community did not receive a life-saving educational leaflet one will be supplied by writing to the above address."

The chairman said that the Canadian Cancer Society was most grateful to all of the volunteers who participated in the appeal and to "the public who gave so generously." He expressed appreciation and grateful thanks for the co-

Marriages

Burroughs — Philip

The marriage of Alice Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Alexander James Philip, and of the late Mrs. Philip, of the Town of Mount Royal, to Mr. Wayne Robert Burroughs, of Winnipeg, Man., son of Mr. and Mrs. Selah Burroughs, of Richmond, took place recently in St. Patrick's Church, Sherbrooke, the Rev. Msgr. Rosario Moisan officiating. Mr. John Codere played the wedding music, and standards of yellow gladioli and white chrysanthemums, arranged with greenery, were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white batiste, having a jacket of Swiss embroidered batiste with a round neckline and bell-shaped sleeves, and an A-line skirt. Her shoulder-length pleated veil of Swiss batiste was held by a large flat double bow, and she carried a bouquet of white iris, lily of the valley, stephanotis, and white heather from Scotland.

Miss Patricia Philip, and Miss Kathleen Philip, twin sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, were in frocks of pale yellow Swiss batiste, having fitted sleeveless bodices with jewel necklines, and A-line skirts caught at the waist with deep yellow crepe sashes. They wore large flat yellow crepe bows in their hair, and carried bouquets of white marguerites.

Mr. Robert Dickson acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. Alexander Philip Jr., brother of the bride, and Charles Pope.

Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Burroughs left for Western Canada, the bride travelling in a frock and jacket of light blue silk shantung, wearing a matching hat, pale beige accessories, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias. They will take up residence in Winnipeg.

Bride-to-be honored

On May 28 an enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Klinck, at which time Mrs. Klinck assisted by Mrs. H. Munkittrick, entertained at a kitchen shower for Miss Anne Jackson, a June bride-to-be.

After opening her many gifts, which were decoratively arranged under a cluster of wedding bells, the bride-to-be thanked all present.

Later refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Miss Nancy Klinck, which brought the evening to a happy ending.

Diocesan Council C.W.L.

Members honored at special meeting

The Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League of Sherbrooke, held an interesting and important meeting on Sunday p.m. May 24, in the Canon Fiset Memorial Library. There was a good attendance. Representatives from seven of the nine Parish Councils being present.

Mrs. Arnold Buzzell, Diocesan president, was in the chair, and after opening the meeting with the customary League Prayer, warmly welcomed the members. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. White, and in the absence of Mrs. G. Pott, the correspondence was read by Miss J. Goggin. Among the letters was a most cordial invitation from the P.E.I. provincial president to attend the C.W.L. National Convention, to be held August 23 to 28 in Charlottetown, P.E.I.

Mrs. E. J. Wolfe, Quebec provincial president reminded the assembly that the Provincial Convention will be held in Québec City on June 26 and 27 and urged all members to attend.

Conveners were appointed or reappointed to the various convenerships and Miss M. McCormick, convener of resolutions and report forms, distributed copies of resolutions, adopted at the Diocesan Convention, to all the Parish Council presidents.

Mrs. E. W. Murray, Spiritual convener regrettably reported that it will not be possible to have the Annual Retreat at the Convent of the Sisters of The Infant Jesus, due to previous booking. Beauvoir was suggested as an alternative.

Tentative plans were made to hold a Regional Conference in the autumn. The suggested theme to be, Know Your League. Members favoured the idea of afternoon, rather than all-day sessions. Details will be worked out.

Highlight of the afternoon was the presentation of the Past President's Pin to Mrs. J. Murphy of Waterville. The tribute, made by Mrs. F. E. S. Shelly, showed that Mrs. Murphy was a very active convener in various fields, notably in Stella Maris, prior to her being elected Diocesan president. Her work in the C.W.L. during the war years was highly commended.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd True, of Bolton Centre, announce the engagement of their second daughter, Rosalind Kathleen to Mr. J. Edward Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Hardy, of Dorval. The wedding will take place in Bolton Centre, St. Patrick's Anglican Church on July 4, 1964.

June is Dairy Month in Canada...

Yet every month is Dairy Month, for milk and the foods made from milk are provided at top flavor and quality the year round. We Canadians count on dairy foods not just for the good nutrition they supply, but also because they taste so good, and play such a part in helping us plan interesting, good-to-eat meals.

Trout Treat

Next time friend husband proudly presents you with his prize trout, give it this tender treatment. As you broil it, brush it with minted butter, using the proportions of a tablespoon of chopped fresh mint (or a half teaspoon of the dried variety) to a quarter cup of melted butter... brushing it over the brook beauty as it broils. Might try parsley butter with salmon, chive butter with whitefish, and use these quick butter sauces to dress up canned and frozen fish too!

Dreamy Dessert

Here's a dream of a fresh strawberry dessert. Just combine a pint of dairy sour cream with a pint of luscious red strawberries washed, hulled and cut in half. Flavor the cream first with a spoonful of sugar, white or brown, and vanilla or a hint of almond if you like. Gently fold in half cup of coconut and the same amount of miniature marshmallows (or cut-up big ones... they cut easily with wet scissors). Add the strawberries... cover and chill the mixture deeply till serving time... and you'll find this dessert fine enough for the biggest VIP in the country. Keep the idea in mind for future summer desserts with other fresh fruits too!

Holiday Hints

We'd like to remind you that when fresh milk and cream aren't available at your camp or cottage spot, evaporated milk and milk powder will come to your rescue. Both of these concentrated forms of milk convert easily to liquid forms for cooking, drinking, baking, and using in tea and coffee. In addition, they whip up readily into marvellous dessert toppings, so good with fresh fruits and camp-style desserts!

SHERBROOKE HADASSAH

The closing meeting of the year 1963-64 of the Sherbrooke Hadassah was held at the home of Mrs. Gladys Cohen.

The hostesses for the evening, Mrs. Gertrude Hyman, Mrs. Hilda Gillman, Mrs. Sally Vineberg and Mrs. Helen Gillman were thanked by the president, who also thanked Mrs. Cohen for opening her home for the occasion.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary. The World's Child Tag Day was a success and both the canvassers and general public were thanked for their contribution of time and money. Barry Friendland was the child with the most money in his box.

Mrs. Ethel Smith was thanked for her efforts in organizing and the running of the rummage sale.

Mrs. Steinberg has made an afgan which will be for the summer drawing.

Mrs. Lil Eichenberg who represented the club at the National Convention in Toronto gave her full and interesting report.

The fall season will commence with a Fashion Show in October with fashions from Israel and hats by Anne Math.

Mrs. Hilda Gillman won the drawing and then donated it to the Synagogue.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — A long-handled wooden kitchen spoon makes a wonderful back scratcher and reaches those itchy spots between the shoulders. Soap a washcloth and put over the round part and you will like it better than any back brush with flexible bristles. The handle of the spoon can be painted to match the bathroom decor.—J. C.

DEAR POLLY—This is NOT a joke. Those of you who want to "distress" furniture can do as professional cabinet makers do and bang the piece with tire chains.

Line silverware drawers with blotters to absorb the moisture from "quicke" drying.—MRS. H. R.

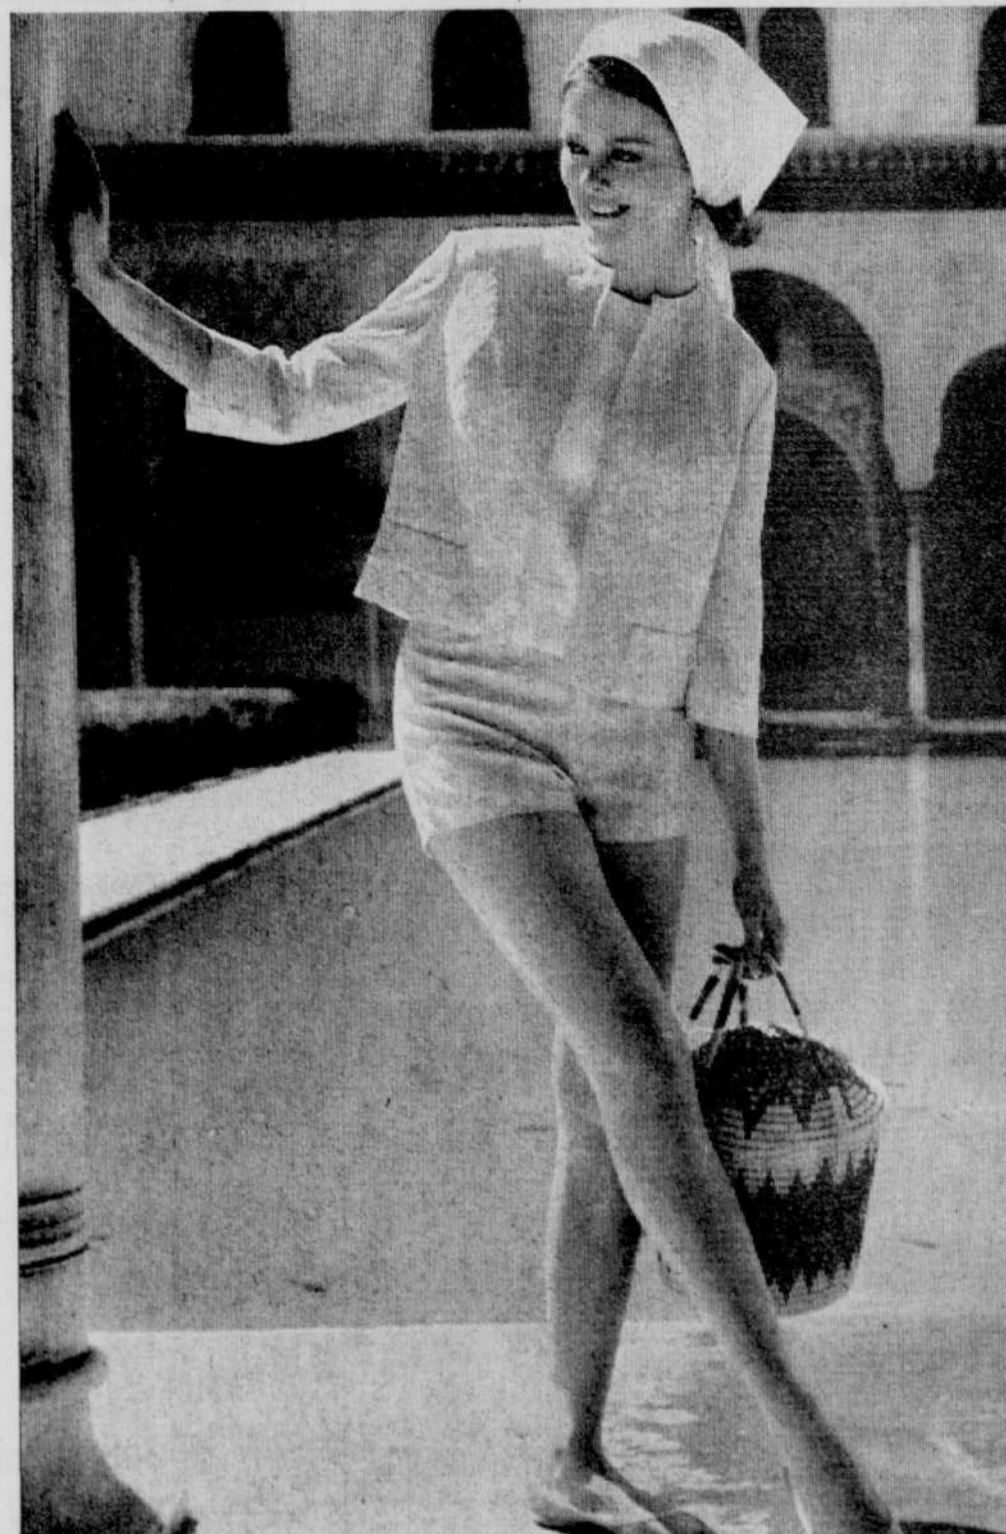

DEAR POLLY—If you like to wear your pearls or other beads under a dress or sweater collar and find the string too short, take a sweater guard and clip to both ends of the necklace.—M. D.

DEAR POLLY — I would like to throw in my two cents worth of help for the Den Mother who wanted handcraft suggestions for her Cub Scouts. A gift I received could be easily copied by small boys. Let them make permanent, wooden shopping list boards for their mother. One-fourth or 1/2-inch plywood would work fine. Shellac the board and put on, with India ink, a list of staple grocery items. A small drill could make a hole opposite each item. Then paint match sticks red or any other bright color to stick in holes across the bottom of the board. They are ready to go in the holes opposite the listed items that are needed on the next shopping trip. "Shopping List" could be printed at the top with bright paint to match the sticks.

I, too, find children are often more amused with homemade toys than with more expensive ones. My son found a rectangular piece of wood and hammered two-inch nails in different places over it. Under each nail he put a number—5,

10, 15, etc. The board was hung on a kitchen door. Using old jar rubbers, all three of our children have had hours of fun throwing the jar rubbers at the nails. The numbers add up for their scores.—MOTHER OF THREE

Bachelors — rate girls for lifetime appeal

When a number of eligible bachelors were asked by a society reporter what qualities they were looking for in a wife, one replied that with him looks would count at least 75 per cent.

Unless the young man plans to trade in a wife on a new model every few years, he is putting way too much emphasis on beauty.

No matter how beautiful a girl is when a young man marries her, in five years there will be a younger crop of girls whose beauty is fresher, brighter-eyed, and more appealing.

So the man who rates beauty as 75 per cent in importance in choosing a wife, will sooner or later notice with disillusioned eyes that the prettiest girl in the world is no longer the prettiest—that she can't compete in beauty with the prettiest of a younger crop.

"But"—while beauty is bound to lessen and fade with time, there are qualities in a woman which do not wane.

Age doesn't sour a good disposition. The years don't harden a kind heart. Time doesn't affect a lively sense of humor. Birthdays don't make a woman less companionable. Intelligence doesn't wither. Charm has no connection with age.

So, unless a young man expects to have as many wives as Tommy Manville, he should, in choosing a wife, count such qualities as these as at least 75 per cent in importance.

That will still let him count a girl's looks as 25 per cent... and if and when her beauty fades, he won't be nearly as big a loser as if he had married a girl who didn't have much more to recommend her as a wife than physical beauty.

MAKE THE MOST OF THE CATCH

Now that the sports fishing season is in full swing, anglers in all parts of the country are heading for lakes and streams to try their luck. Freshly caught game fish is an epicurean treat if properly handled and cooked. However, the excellence of the feast is not a matter of chance.

A fish never tastes better than when cooked and served at the water's edge, many sportsman affirm. Like milk fish is a highly perishable food product. To have it at its best, it must be kept chilled from the time of catching and not be kept long. Here are a few tips from the Department of Fisheries of Canada on how to preserve the good quality of the catch.

When you hook a fish, kill it immediately and place it in a cool shaded place. Wet moss or a wet gunny sack will help to keep it cool temporarily. Trailing behind a boat is not recommended.

Clean the catch as soon as possible, taking care to cut away the gills and flush the body cavity with clean, cold water.

Keep your fish cold until cooking time. A refrigerated box or "cooler" is ideal for transporting fish and packing in crushed ice is highly recommended.

When you get the catch home, dress it as desired, wrap or place in a covered container, and store in the refrigerator. Cook and serve at the first opportunity—within 12 hours of catching if possible.

Small trout are a favorite game fish and here is a recipe which will do full justice to this prize.

HIS TROUT
6 trout, each about 8 ounces eviscerated weight, 1 cup fat or oil, melted, 1/4 cup parsley, chopped, 2 tablespoons ketchup, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped, 2 teaspoons basil, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

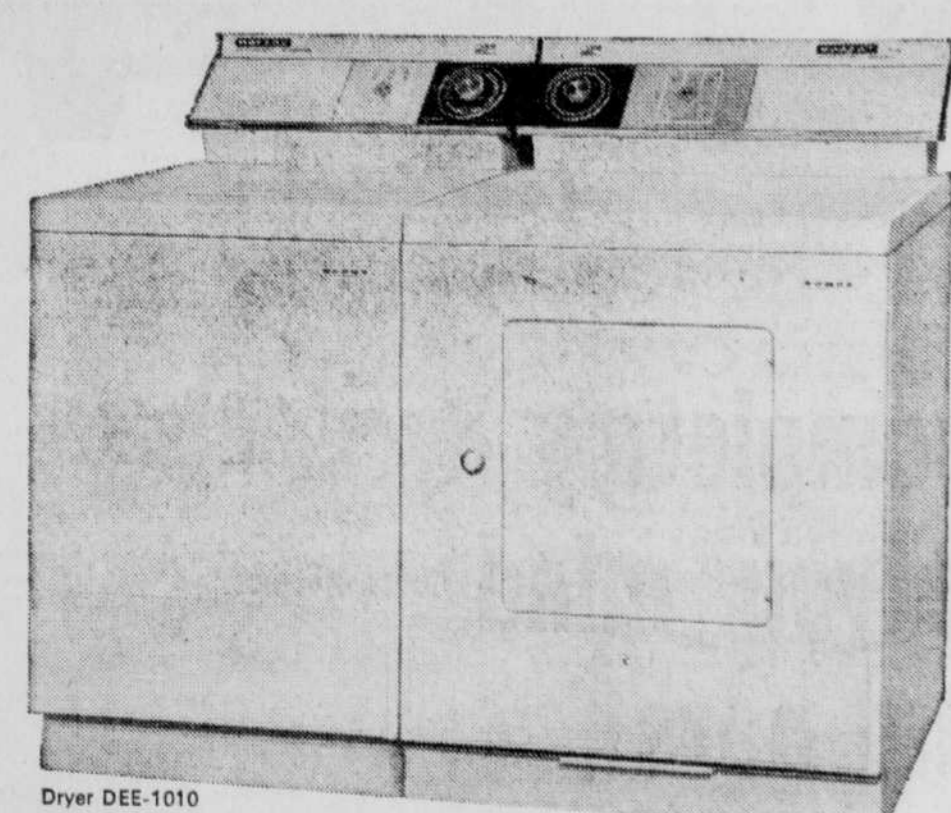

Clean, wash and dry trout. When small, these fish are frequently cooked with the heads and tails left on. They tend to be juicier prepared this way. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow dish. Combine remaining ingredients to make a basting sauce. Pour sauce over trout and allow them to marinate for 30 minutes, turning once. Remove trout to a greased broiler pan. Brush well with remaining sauce. Broil about 3 inches from the source of heat for 4 to 5 minutes, or until lightly browned. Turn carefully and brush the other side with sauce. Broil 4 to 5 minutes longer or until brown and fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Makes 6 servings.

SEASONAL SEAFOOD
Regular as clockwork, each spring, certain ocean fish migrate from salt water into our coastal rivers. Folk living in the Atlantic provinces look forward to the May and June arrivals of alewives and shad, and the June arrival of the Atlantic salmon. Folk in the Pacific area welcome that most delicious tasting of small fish, the eulachon, also spring and coho salmon.

Lennoxville council

A sign on private property is allowed on a temporary basis

Lennoxville council heard a request last night to allow a commercial sign on private property on a residential street...

sign. This approval, council decided, could be changed by neighbourhood complaints and was subject to review by council at any time.

Perhaps, he said, the provincial government will regulate existing signs but the town is not planning to.

Town policy, said Mayor Mitchell, has been to leave up signs already in existence but not allow any new ones.

The request came from Miss Eileen Morgan who keeps horses on a farm outside Lennoxville. She stated in her request that she had permission of property owner Mrs. John Burnside to put up the sign on front of Mrs. Burnside's hedge on St. Francis Street.

Mayor Archie Mitchell said he believed that neighbours opposed the putting up of the sign.

And according to a town by-law, signs on private property can be regulated by council, he added.

Alderman Norrey Hunting moved that the request be refused. Why should a commercial sign be allowed on a completely residential street? he asked?

At Mayor Mitchell's suggestion council decided to give a temporary permit to put up the sign.

Trucking expenses for the use of the truck will be recorded, said Mayor Archie Mitchell at last night's Lennoxville Council meeting held at the Town hall, and if enough money is made to justify trucking expenses, the arrangement will be continued.

Paper collection will be made during the last Wednesday in June, July, and August, said Mayor Mitchell.

If the amount raised does not justify the expenses the collection will be made less often—perhaps once every three months, he suggested.

The Parks Commission must provide the publicity for the paper collection and dispose of the paper once it is collected. The town will do the collecting.

"If there is not too much cost and real benefit from the plan we will go along with it," affirmed Mayor Mitchell.

And according to a town by-law, signs on private property can be regulated by council, he added.

FLAG DEBATE DELAYED

Continued from Page 1 will retain its present form calling on the one hand for adoption of the new flag as Canada's national symbol and also allowing the Union Jack to continue to be flown as the symbol of Canada's Commonwealth connection.

What may delay the start of debate on the flag issue is the needed amendment to the British North America Act which must be sent on to the British Parliament in order that survivors and widows can be brought under the proposed Canada Pension Plan.

Although debate on the flag resolution may not come for another week or so, there is no preventing it from being a daily subject for questions.

The main point of concern in Monck's question period was the disclosure that Mr. Pearson had flown the three red maple leaves with the blue borders over his official summer residence at Harrington Lake, in the Gatineau Hills of Quebec.

It "looked wonderful," he told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who demanded to know "what possible business of a prime minister of Canada" was it to use a flag not designated as the official flag over property paid for by the people of Canada.

Later the Commons had another flag discussion during private member's hour when a motion by J. A. McBain (PC—Edg.) was talked out. Mr. McBain wanted the Red Ensign adopted in accordance with the wishes of the Royal Canadian Legion and the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Earlier reports quoted Mr. Tessier as saying separatist-inspired demonstrations will not be tolerated on the June 24 or July 1 holidays.

He explained in an interview that he was merely warning the 28 accused not to get involved in demonstrations while out on bail.

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans for more subway police and a two-way radio network have been spurred by Negro terrorist attacks in sections of New York City.

But officials emphasized Monday it would be several months before the measures could be put into effect.

Demands for more police protection came after incidents last weekend in which bands of Negroes beat, knifed, robbed and terrorized whites on four subway trains and a Staten Island ferryboat.

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—The easy mastery of arithmetic displayed by a sample class of Kitchener Grade 1 students surprised delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association meeting here Monday.

News flashes from around the world

TORONTO (CP) — A British psychiatrist said Monday there is evidence to prove capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime but makes for a repetition of criminal acts.

Dr. David Stafford-Clark, a consultant psychiatrist at Guy's Hospital in London, told the Ontario Association of Corrections that he based his statements on research carried out in British prisons.

"Flogging or any form of violence is a blot on society," he said. "Society then becomes an accomplice to the disruption of authority."

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Tessier, chief attorney of Montreal's municipal court, said Monday his remarks in court when 28 persons appeared on charges of disturbing the peace on Victoria Day did not mean separatist demonstrations will be banned on St. Jean Baptiste or Dominion Day.

Earlier reports quoted Mr. Tessier as saying separatist-inspired demonstrations will not be tolerated on the June 24 or July 1 holidays.

He explained in an interview that he was merely warning the 28 accused not to get involved in demonstrations while out on bail.

Mrs. T. Sweeney guest speaker at Bedford meeting

BEDFORD — The annual get-together of the Bedford charge, including Mystic, Stanbridge East and Phillipsburg, was held on May 21 in the United Church hall, with a good representation present.

The guest of honor was Mrs. T. G. Sweeney, of Drummondville, vice-president of the Montreal Presbyterian who addressed the gathering briefly.

Mrs. Alex MacArthur, president of the Bedford United Church Women, welcomed the guests and thanked Mrs. Sweeney.

An enjoyable program was presented by Mrs. Peter Macaskill, program convener, consisting of games and a contest. Rev. Peter Macaskill then showed slides of Newfoundland.

A short devotional period was conducted by Miss Stella Primerman, of Mystic, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Trott, of Phillipsburg, and a solo, was rendered by Mrs. Macaskill, with Mrs. Alex MacArthur as accompanist.

The serving of refreshments brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Drummondville Royals meet AIs here this evening

First visit of Royals tonight, locals will be seeking win to remain in battle, game at 8:30

Drummondville Royals will be paying their first visit to the local ball park this evening when they tangle with the Alouettes. Game time is 8:30 p.m. The Royals are a half a game ahead of the AIs, who are tied with Coaticook, for last place.

The Alouettes have two wins for their five starts while the Royals are at even figures with two on each side of the column. In the other game on tonight's schedule will see Acton Vale travelling to Coaticook to take on the Canadiens.

The Royals have a couple of good pitchers, Pete Cianfone and Andre Pleau. Both these hurlers are rated with the best in the circuit. They were in the loop last season and possess plenty of stuff to baffle the opposition.

Coach St. Vincent hasn't decided just who will toss into the fray but one thing certain is that Andy Bessette, his star southpaw, won't see action. He is suffering from arm trouble and will be sidelined for a few more days.

Carlos Thorne, Marcel Caron and Claude Prud'Homme along with Wayne Nugent will shoulder the load until his return.

Thorne looked sharp in victory over Coaticook last Saturday but it is doubtful if he will get the nod.

Manager Fred Bourbeau will no doubt use one of his aces in an effort to knock over the AIs. A win for the Royals would move them into sole possession of second place providing the Beavers get knocked over tonight by Coaticook.

At present Granby is leading the pack a game and a half over Acton Vale and Drummondville, who are tied for second place while Sherbrooke and Coaticook, two full games behind the leading Knights, are tied in last spot in the loop.

Leon Wagner belts another homer as Indians blank White Sox 3-0, Orioles win, Twins edge Yanks

"Don't fence me in" never was Leon Wagner's theme song. When the slugging outfielder was traded by Los Angeles Angels to Cleveland Indians he said: "Instead of trading me they should have pulled the fences in and doubled my salary."

The Angels didn't accommodate Wagner. The Indians may have to—in the salary department at least.

Wagner proved his point again Monday night, leading Cleveland to a 3-0 victory over Chicago White Sox, collecting Homer No. 11 and a single and scoring two runs against the American League's ace pitcher.

Wagner hit only two homers at home last year in the wide-open spaces of Dodger Stadium while hammering 24 on the road. The Angels left the fences where they were and traded him to Cleveland for pitcher Barry Latham and first baseman Joe Adcock.

His latest hot streak—11 hits in 18 at-bats, including homers in the last three games, has boosted his batting average to .309 and his runs batted in to a league-leading 40. At this stage of the season, he's almost halfway to his 1963 figures of 26 homers and 90 RBIs.

Dick Stuart, meanwhile, continued his homer hammering, hitting his seventh in nine games, a two-run shot in the eighth inning that gave Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Angels.

BUNKER WINS SIXTH
In the other AL games scheduled, Wally Bunker posted his sixth victory without a loss as Baltimore Orioles whipped Kansas City Athletics 8-4 and Dick Sogman pitched Minnesota Twins to a 2-1 victory by checking New York Yankees on five hits.

The only National League game scheduled—Los Angeles at Pittsburgh—was rained out.

Wagner provided Kralick with the only run he needed by hitting his homer off Pizarro in the fourth. The Indians scored their other runs in the sixth in their other runs in the sixth in turned professional.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
Miami, Fla.—Perfecto Garcia, 130, Miami, stopped Harold McKeever, 134, Deerfield Beach, Fla., 2.
Fresno, Calif.—Irish Wayne Thornton, 177, Fresno, knocked out Bobby Rescon, 166½, Mexico City, 2.

Cowansville Little League in full swing

Orioles and Braves are running neck and neck in the Cowansville Little League, including games played to May 26. Each team has won four and lost two, Cardinals and Pirates, the other two teams who comprise the loop, have yet to reach their stride and will soon be chasing the leaders.

Braves, who are sharing top spot in the league, with Orioles have in their lineup, Larry McCrum, Jacques Lauziere, Richard Deslandes, Gabriel Ginguet, Fernand Houle, Gregory Bromby, Timothy Lickford, Michel Brodeur, Paul Hamm, Robert Bouchard, Marc Choquette, Guy Fregault, Pierre Lafrance, Renald Dumont and Daniel Siros. Cardinals have Gerard Houle, Yvon Pepin, Pierre Choquette, Jean Boucher, Michel Trempe, Alain Larochelle, Claude Dion, Jacques Daigle, Alain Dumont, Maurice Houle, and Wine will be back shortly. The thinking here is that one of the two and possibly a pitcher will be dealt for a strong right-handed hitter.

The Phillies' general manager, John Quinn, is known for making the big swap when he sees a pennant in the offing. In the late 1950s, when he was GM at Milwaukee, the Braves were a solid club with the exception of second base. Quinn traded with New York Giants for Red Schoendienst. The veteran sparked the Braves to a pair of pennants and a world championship.

The Phillies also are a solid team this year. The pitching is deep, defence excellent, hitting strong. The one thing lacking is another long-ball hitter from the right side. Quinn is shopping. He admits it, but says nothing is hot yet.

Quinn has eyes for Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, Frank Thomas of New York Mets, or Gene Oliver of the Braves. A deal for Cepeda, of course, would be the big one. It would give the Phillies a guy who annually hits over .400 in Connie Mack Stadium and strengthen first base.

GOT A PROBLEM? ASK THE PRO

"Slice, fade, push, pull, click, click! All I know is my ball goes to the right. What causes this?" —Asks Dave Leach, Huntington Woods, Mich.

SLICE: BALL STARTS LEFT THEN CURVES RIGHT
Two things cause this:
1. Wrong swing (outside-in).
2. Wrong angle of clubface (open to both swing and direction line).

FADE: BALL STARTS STRAIGHT BUT PICKS UP A TAIL-END SLICE
If we correct the swing and make it inside out, there remains just the open clubface that needs correcting.

PUSH: BALL GOES STRAIGHT TO RIGHT
Closing the clubface slightly so it's square to inside-out swing still leaves a problem shot.

PERFECT HIT
Clubface closed a little more so it's square to direction line and slightly closed to inside-out swing.

That about covers everything, Dave, all but the click, click. And if you'll swing inside-out and square your clubface, it's your clicking your heels together over your perfect hit. If you don't, then it's probably your ball careening off a car... or the cocking of a gun. Don't do it, Dave, order a Golf Dial instead. Send $1 to "Ask the Pro" c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 7078, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

White Sox edge Twins 7-6 while Senators-Yankees game called, two games on tap this evening

Playing in unsettled weather the White Sox took a 7-6 win over the Twins in a Little League encounter played at the Parade Grounds last night. The game between the Senators and Yankees at Lennoxville was called at the end of two innings. Tonight the Orioles meet the league leading Indians and Tigers take on the Red Sox. Both games at the Parade Grounds at 6:15 p.m. The White Sox-Twins tilt was an interesting one while it lasted and was a nip-and-tuck battle until the umpire called it in the fifth inning. Twins, on hits from Lebel and Dumas, got away to a two-run lead in the top of the opening inning. White Sox, in their part of the same inning, got these back and one more on an error. Michael, first man up for the Sox, got on. Danny Farrell, next batter, clicked for a single and then J. Coley hit a triple which the leftfielder allowed all three runners to score putting the Sox ahead 3-2 at the end of the inning.

Sherbrooke at Richmond in Fastball loop

RICHMOND — Sherbrooke will be the visiting team here tonight in a fixture of the Inter-City Fastball League in one of two games scheduled. The other tilt has Asbestos travelling to Cookshire.

Richmond's Brown Shoe will be gunning for their second win when they meet Sherbrooke, having taken the Drummondville club 5-2 on their home grounds. Hurler Pierre Marchand singled, doubled, fanned five men and pitched a four-hitter in the victory for Gerard Blais and company.

Blais, also playing besides coaching the club, hit a homer and single with Gerard Lefebvre doing the same. Lefebvre homered in the last meeting against Drummondville when Brown Shoe lost out 4-3 in a close game played in Richmond last week.

In another Sunday tilt, hurler Alain Guilbert and his crew swamped the Cookshire club 10-1 with Guilbert giving up only one hit. He fanned four men in the process. Arsen Veilleux gave up nine hits.

Walter Morin, hurling for Drummondville was tagged with seven hits in the losing cause. Drummondville's next tilt is slated for Sherbrooke Wednesday night.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.
