Bremen, Germany —(AP)—A German court today convicted Fritz Hildebrandt, 50-year-old former major of the Nazis elite guard, of co-responsibility in the wartime killing of more than 1,000 Jews while he headed two Nazi concentration camps in Poland.

He was sentenced to eight years in prison. Specifically, he was found guilty of one count of manslaughter and of assisting in the murder of four other Jews.

The court ruled that "hildebrandt was not the man who decided on life or death of the Jews in the Lemberg area," but added: "He collaborated in the big mass liquidation machinery."

New Delhi —(AP)— Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today the Indian government "attach no importance" to what Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) and his Senate investigating subcommittee do.

Nehru's statement followed publication of a report by the sub-committee that cited two Indian ships among those trading with Red China during 1952.

A Parliament member had asked whether the government considered the sub-committee's reference to Indian vessels as "undesirable and a type of interference in our affairs."

Buenos Aires— (AP) —Scores of Argentines have been arrested in a country-wide roundup of Opposition politicians accused of joining a vast plot to terrorize the people by bombings.

Police announced the arrest of Reynoldo Pastor, presidential candidate of the Conservative party and an opponent of President Peron in the 1951 election. It was also reported that Dr. Alfredo Palacios, leader of the Socialist party, had been picked up by police. Some Communists were seized in the town of Eva Peron, formerly La Plata. One estimate late Tuesday said those arrested totalled more than 150.

Cairo. —(Reuters)— Anglo-Egyptian talks on the future of the Suez canal zone today were adjourned to a later date, an official announcement said.

A joint statement said only: "talks between the Egyptian and British delegations resumed today and reached a stage at which the date of the next meeting shall be announced later."

The talks arose from Egypt's demand that British troops evacuate the canal zone. Britain is concerned about military security in the base if she relinqishes control.

"Progress Zero" Reported By Allied Negotiators At Panmunjom Peace Parleys

Red Spokesmen Refuse To Take Any Notice Of Allied Proposals For Prisoners.

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

Panmunjom — (AP) — A United Nations truce negotiator said today "zero" progress had been made toward a Korean armistice after the Reds rejected a proposal to free 32,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse to go home after a truce is signed.

The Reds again ignored the Allied nomination of Pakistan as neutral custodian of 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

Instead, Gen. Nam Il charged the Allied proposal was "void of reason" and "unworthy of refutation." He reiterated the Red demand that balking captives be shipped to a neutral country and that the functions of the neutral be ironed out before deciding anything else.

Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison suggested that the 32,000 North Koreans be freed immediately after a truce is signed and that they be given civilian status so they could settle anywhere in Korea.

He made no mention of Chinese captives who refuse repatriation. Some observers speculated that the UN command might be willing to listen to a compromise plan which would send Chinese to the neutral custodian while leaving Koreans in Korea.

The Reds want all 48,500 sent bodily to the neutral state pending a decision as to their future. They insist that all will want to go home once their fears have been quieted by explanations.

The UN says the captives must remain in Korea under neutral supervision until they make up their minds where they want to go. Many POWs have vowed to kill themselves rather than leave Korea, the Allies said.

After Harrison made his proposal, the Reds took a one-hour-and-48-minute recess. Nam returned and rejected it in angry tones.

Allied spokesmen said the usually poker-faced Nam showed anger in his facial expressions and by speaking in short, clipped sentences.

He said Harrison failed to clarify questions the Communists posed Tuesday on how the neutral would operate. After Tuesday's meeting, Harrison called the Red questions "a negotiating smokescreen."

Nam said the Allies "had taken a step backward" in today's proposal "in an attempt to discard entirely the principle on which both sides have already agreed" —that a neutral be named to handle all balking prisoners.

Negotiators will meet again Thursday.

Harrison told newspaper men there was always a possibility the Communists were using the questions as a means to reach a compromise position.

Kohinoor Is To Remain In Royal Crown

New Delhi — (AP) — The Indian government is not planning to ask for the return of the Kohinoor diamond, now part of the British crown jewels, Maulana Azard, education and natural resources minister, said today.

Clarifying Deputy Minister K. D. Malaviya's Parliament state Monday that the government was "considering" requesting the jewel's return, Azad said:

"We are considering making an inventory of art treasures, antiques and rarities which have gone out of India and of securing the return of such among the objects as may be readily available by negotiation or purchase. But the Kohinoor is not an art object and now forms part of the crown jewels."

A government spokesman added the misunderstanding resulted from the "way in which the deputy minister answered a question in Parliament."

He added laughingly: "This will erase fears the prime minister might snatch the Kohinoor away at the Coronation."

Naguib Supports Republican Idea

Cairo,— (Reuters) —Prime Minister Mohammed Naguib, who ousted Farouk from the Egyptian throne, today declared himself in favor of a republican regime for Egypt.

In an interview with Al Tahrir, journal of the Egyptian Army public relations department, he said:

"As an ordinary citizen I wish to see a system of government in Egypt develop in such a way as to place all authority in the hands of the people.

"My personal opinion is that monarchy as a system of government has decayed and is no longer fit for the age wherein we live.

"As for the republic versus monarchy issue I do not wish to precipitate events. The final word rests with the people."

A 50-man constitution drafting commission appointed by Naguib Tuesday night endorsed its technical committee's view that a republican parliamentary system was the best regime for Egypt.

Irate Wives Held Cause Of Walkout

Paris—(AP)—A "revolt of wives without husbands" is reported a factor in a strike of ships' officers which has tied up two dozen French ships, including all the country's trans-Atlantic liners.

French newspapers said Tuesday the wives of many of the ships' officers and men, due to rapid turnarounds, have been seeing their husbands only a few hours a month. Even for these brief encounters, the dispatches said, most of the wives have to make tiring, expensive trips from their homes to the ports and there is a hotel shortage in the port cities, especially Le Havre.

The French Line was reported to have angered officers and crew recently by banning all visits aboard ship by their wives.

Officers of the French Line launched the strike at Le Havre last week. They asked a 40-hour week with the same pay they now get for a 48-hour week, overtime pay for extra hours and nine paid holidays a year instead of six.

The 42,000-ton Ile de France and the 49,800-ton Liberte are among 13 passenger ships tied up in the channel ports. Eleven vessels are strike-bound in the big Mediterranean port of Marseille.

No Clemency For U.S. News Writer

Vienna — (AP) — Justice Minister Stefan Rais indicated today that William Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, cannot hope to benefit from the recent Czech amnesty.

Oatis was sentenced to 10 years in jail on espionage charges in July 1951.

The amnesty, announced Monday, excluded all persons convicted of espionage, treason and sabotage.

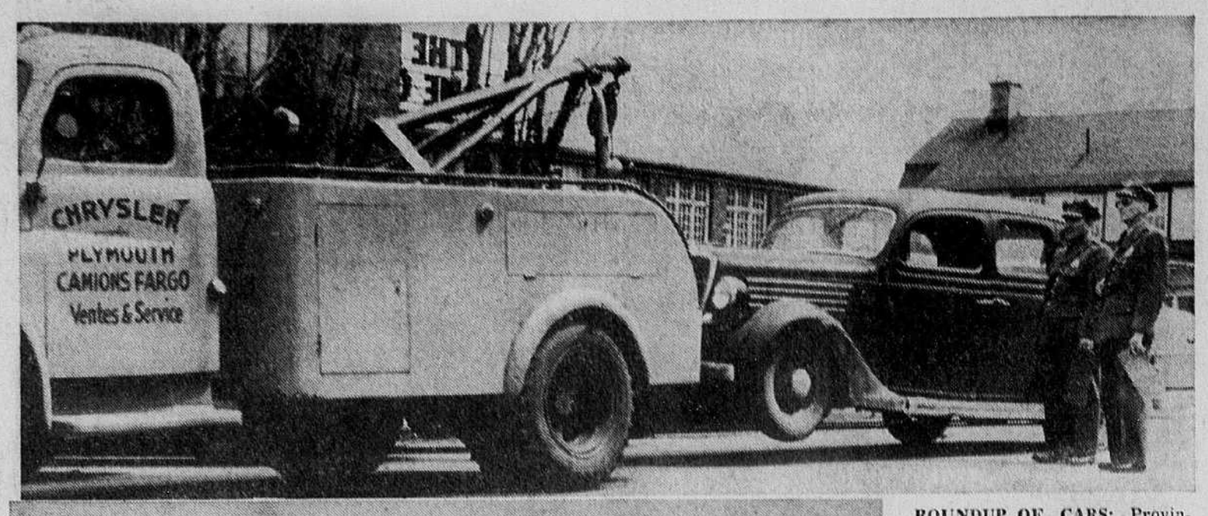
Any hope that Oatis might be released under some clause of the amnesty appeared to disappear today when the Prague newspaper Rude Pravo carried an article by the justice minister. Rais wrote:

"Those persons who dared, in the interests and service of domestic and foreign class enemies, to touch or disturb the holy property or the security of our people's democratic state, are not worthy. They cannot expect mercy or the generosity of our people either now or in the future."

Vatican City —(AP)— The Vatican's colorful Swiss Guard marched to the squeal of fifes and beat of drums today to observe the 426th anniversary of their famous stand in defence of Pope Clement VII.

The annual observance is also the occasion for new recruits to take the oath of loyalty to the guards. There were 11 of these today.

May 6, 1527, during the sack of Rome, 189 guards stood before the onslaught of German mercenaries and gave the Pope time to reach safety in the Castel Sant'angelo fortress on the Tiber. Of the 189, 147 were killed.



ROUNDUP OF CARS: Provincial police are continuing their roundup of vehicles bearing 1952 licence plates. The top picture shows one of the cars that was picked up yesterday being hauled away to a garage where its owner may retrieve it by buying his new licence plates, paying a $10 fine and the costs of towing and storage. In the lower picture, police are shown checking another car with old plates. (Record photos by Gerry Lemay).

West Seeks To Win Over Satellites

Strasbourg, France—(AP)—Western European diplomats reported today many of their governments favor a council of Europe attempt to woo Soviet satellite states, with unification of the continent as a lure. Such a move would be in line with President Eisenhower's recent foreign policy statements.

This was disclosed as foreign ministers of the council's 14 member states gathered here to draft a political message to the European Consultate Assembly, which opens its fifth regular session here Thursday.

Many member governments reportedly favored a joint statement that any general east-west settlement must include an opportunity for a greater number of countries to join in the attempts to unify Europe. They also want the ministerial message to emphasize that the council is open to all European states that abide by western standards of political democracy and human rights.

The foreign ministers' meeting is their first since May, 1952.

The issue of Western Europe's position in the great debate on the cold war now underway between the U. S. and the Soviet Union overshadowed other weighty political and economic problems confronting the ministers from 14 countries and the Saar.

A council stand similar to that outlined by the diplomats would be strong support for Eisenhower's recent call to the Soviet Union to allow Eastern European satellite states to join a united Europe.

Recall Earlier Killings As Christie Ordered To Trial

London — (AP) — John Christie, 55-year-old owl-eyed trucking clerk, was committed for trial today, charged with murdering four women in a shabby back-street London flat.

Christie, for 14 years tenant of the death house in Notting Hill district, pleaded innocent. He reserved his defence.

Christie made his sixth appearance at a preliminary hearing which ended with his committal to trial at famous Old Bailey criminal court.

The hearing wound up with his lawyer suggesting that "two stranglers" may have lived in the drab tenement which has known at least eight slayings in recent years.

Defence counsel Derek Curtis-Bennett harked back to the case of Timothy Evans, a young truck driver who was hanged for the death of his pregnant wife and baby daughter in 1949. They died in the same house where the remains of six women were found this year.

Christie was arrested March 31 after a country-wide manhunt touched off by discovery of three bodies in the walled-up alcove of his kitchen. Later the body of his wife, Ethel, was found beneath the floorboards. He is charged with the murder of the four. Remains of two other women were found in a garden behind the house.

Ten minutes of cross-examination of the chief prosecution witness by Curtis-Bennett brought the Evans trial into the forefront of the courtroom drama.

Evans went to the gallows protesting that Christie was the real slayer of his wife and child.

Christie denied Evans' accusations.

Police Inspector Albert Griffin testified Evans apparently did not know of his daughter's death when he first confessed to killing his wife.

He agreed with Curtis-Bennett that Evans contended he got rid of his wife's body by putting her down a drain and this was obviously untrue.

Curtis-Bennett asked: "Did Evans then say Christie had killed his (Evans') wife during an abortion?"

"Yes," said Griffin.

Curtis-Bennett: "From all of this it follows that if the prosecution is right there were two stranglers in the same house?"

Griffin: "Yes."

"And two people who tied up and killed people in the same way?"

"Yes."

"And all the time during the Evans trial there were two more bodies buried in the garden?"

"It is possible."

Secrecy Veil Over Mental Re-Washing

Washington—(AP)—United States military headquarters, faced with a barrage of criticism over its program to rid American prisoners of war of any communist taint, rang down a curtain of secrecy on inquiries about who started the idea in the first place.

However, a United States Army spokesman sought Tuesday night to soft-pedal any idea that the program of psychiatric treatment for suspect soldiers was compulsory.

The spokesman said the program was merely offered to returned prisoners and if they didn't want to take mental treatment, they were free to go home.

Besides clamming up on responsibility for the "brain rewashing" program, officials ducked any comment on comparisons between the American program and the British method of dealing with returned POWS who might have been influenced by their communist captors.

Reports from Britain said the government was taking the problem in stride. British authorities were reported sending the men straight home in the belief that the hearthside atmosphere would do more to cure any Red wrinkles than psychiatric probing into their brains.

Russians To Review Air Safety Plan

Berlin. —(AP)— Russia today studied a series of Western counter-proposals for guaranteering air safety over Germany. They said they would take them up with higher authorities.

The suggestions were given to the Russians Tuesday night at the fourth in a series of meetings with British, French and American experts.

Russia launched the meetings after a Soviet jet fighter attack on a British bomber. Seven British airmen lost their lives in the attack near the East-West German border.

The Russians have suggested that a single wide corridor for all Allied planes flying between the West and Berlin be substituted for the three narrow corridors now in use. Some Allied sources have said Western representatives object that this would increase flying costs.

All Passengers Rescued As North Sea Ferry Boat Sinks

Harwich, England. — (CP) — The channel ferry Duke of York, carrying 437 passengers and a crew of 70, was torn in two today in a collision with the American transport Haiti Victory in the North Sea.

All the passengers—including a mother and baby trapped for several hours in the after part of the British vessel—and most of the crew were rescued by ships in the area. There were several injuries.

The 4,190-ton British railways ferry, a veteran of the wartime raid on Dieppe and of the Dunkunqerque evacuation, foundered helplessly with her bow sheared off until she was taken in tow by the 7,607-ton Haiti Victory, only slightly damaged. Fifteen of the Duke of York crew members remained aboard.

The American ship planned to tow the after end of the Duke of York to Harwich, on England's east coast 40 miles from the collision scene in the lower North Sea.

Four hours after the collision the Duke of York, which had been making her overnight run from the Hook of Holland, flashed an emergency call for heavy lifting tackle when the trapped mother and baby were discovered. They were rescued an hour later. A RAF launch took them to the shore for medical treatment.

The collision occurred in darkness about 4:50 a.m. 11:50 p.m. EDT Tuesday on a calm sea east of the month of the Thames. There was no fog, though the sky was cloudy.

The Haiti Victory was alongside the York ready to take off passengers a few minutes after the crash was reported. About 45 minutes later nearly all had been rescued.

Ships diverted to rescue operation were the 10,687-ton United States freighter American Merchant, the lifeboat from Walton Essex, and another ship owned by British railways, the Dewsbury.

The American Merchant, radioing that she should be met by ambulances and that at least one of her 91 survivors was seriously injured, made for Dover. The others headed for Harwich.

The Haiti Victory took the York into tow about 8 a.m. and set a course for Harwich. The York was taking water slowly and requested the Essex lifeboat to keep by her since she had no more boats aboard. The skipper is R. B. Adams.

The bow of the Duke of York was torn off just forward of the bridge and sank. Twisted metal sagged into the sea. Cables ended in jagged curls. There was no reports that anyone was aboard that part of the ship.

A reporter for the London Evening News who flew over the scene said:

"Five feet above water line in the bows of the Haiti Victory was a clean slit as though cut by a giant cleaver. Around her the sea looked green as it washed back from her grey hull . . .

"Through driving gusts of rain the Duke of York—what is left of it—seemed a ghost ship with only two of her crew to be seen on the deck.

"No smoke came from her dumpy funnel. Lifeboat davits hung slack, slapping against the hull as each wave straightened the few degree list before the ship rolled drunkenly back again."

The Haiti Victory is operated by the American military sea transport service with a crew of 50 U.S. civil service personnel. She was bound from Bremerhaven, Germany, for an American port.

A lifeboat from Walton-on-Naze and a tug from Harwich put to sea. Nearby ships in the North Sea hurried to the scene of the collision, 1½ miles from the Galloper Point lightship and about 35 miles off the coast.

For a time the crew of the Duke of York made preparations to abandon ship. Much of the vessel forward of the bridge was gone. Some of the crew stayed aboard, however, to help in the tow attempt.

Because the Haiti Victory is too large to come alongside the Harwich Quay, some of the steam's passengers were transferred a sec-

Magistrate Was Victim In Case

North Bay. —(CP)— Three men were each sentenced Tuesday to a month in jail for stealing six outboard motors, including one owned by the presiding magistrate.

Magistrate M. G. Gould sentenced two of the men before he learned that one of the stolen motors belonged to him. He called in Magistrate Sigfried Atkinson of Haileybury who handed out the third sentence. The men had pleaded guilty.

The motors were stolen from a government dock here last month. Police said they picked up Joseph Barbe, 34, and William Ogden, 38, both of North Bay, and Henri Poirier, 23, of Grace Bay, N. S., the same day.

FIVE YEARS ON SCREEN SHRINK DEREK'S BELT AND HAT SIZES

Hollywood—Behind the Screen: John Derek's confessing that he not only took 50 pounds off his frame—he's 160 these days instead of 210—but that he took a couple of inches off his head size, too.

Playing a role in Republic's "Sea of Lost Ships," after five years as a movie actor, 26-year-old John told me:

"I got the big head. I don't mind telling it. It took everything my friends could do to keep me from believing I had arrived. I made a statement once that in two years I would be Mr. IT in Hollywood. In two years I wasn't Mr. IT or Mr. anything else. Those bobby-soxers can make you believe anything.

"Now all I want is a chance to prove that I'm an actor with some strength and ability to himself. If I can't show that I mean something as an actor, I'll give up."

That's what the Curtises would like to do as their next teamship effort, Tony tells it, and that's why he's been putting in extra hours studying voice with vocal coach Harriet Lee.

Watching Janet leap and prance with Donald O'Connor on the "Walkin' My Baby Back Home" set, Tony dreamed out loud:

"I'm not trying to sing 'Be My Love' or anything like that. I just want an off-beat voice that I can get by with."

They are scheduled to do a personal-appearance tour to drum up trade for their new films and Tony's grinning:

"We may work up a song-and-dance act. Right now I can do a passable rendition of 'It's a Good Day, and dance without falling on my face."

Keeps His Shirt On

The script has to call for it or Vic Mature keeps his shirt on.

It may be all right for Alan Ladd, but beefcake doesn't make sense to burly Vic, who still winces when he thinks of that old movie, "One Million, B.C.," and when he went back to Broadway to get tagged as the beautiful hunk of man in "Lady in the Dark."

"The critics," Vic said on the set of "The Robe," "are waiting for an actor when he takes off his shirt. If you're loaded with muscles, they call you a bar-bell guy. If you have no physique, you're read.

"I have a rule—on stripping down just because a director thinks it might add some interest to the picture. This is the first I've taken off my shirt since 'Samson and Delilah.' Even with DeMille I did it only because the story called for it. Let Tarzan take off his shirt. I've had it.'

Culture Bent

Jeff Chandler doesn't want to start a feud with Marlon Brando, but he's in a letter-to-the-editor mood about Marlon's recent blast here against movie censorship.

Maybe it's because Jeff's a papa, but he likes the movie culture that Marlon deplores. 'Even the idea of upstanding heroes and villains who get their come-uppance," he opined at U-I's "Brady's Bunch" set. "I like the idea of kids growing up with these movie ideals."

As for keeping youngsters out of theaters and getting a new deal from the censors, Jeff wants to know "how you can keep kids out of theaters? They're big ticket buyers. Pictures have to be made for the teen-agers who read fan magazines as well as older movie-goers. The teen-agers support pictures. Movies for adults only would bankrupt the exhibitors."

Rumors to the contrary, Verna Ellen is denying that she raised the roof with MGM for casting her in "Big Leaguer," and that she was fired and rehired by the studio in the midle of the storm.

"I asked to do the picture," she claims. "I was surrounded by baseball players instead of ballet dancers and I was the only girl in the picture. It was very nice for me. I'd like to do more straight pictures."

Vera was down to 95 pounds in "Call Me Madame," she admits, but not because she's out to win the Miss Starvation of 1953 title.

"I'm naturally thin and I can't understand why everybody's so upset about it," she shrugged.

The RECORD SHOP

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York—(NEA)—Percy Faith feels a trend coming on. He should know; he helped start it.

This particular trend (Trend No. 486 in the record buisness this year) is the "Big Orchestral interpretation" trend. Faith's part in it was a record called "The Song from 'Moulin Rouge,'" which made so much dough the Moulin is out of the Rouge.

Coming up next is a king-sized Big Orchestra Interpretation. Faith, the east coast music director for Columbia, has recorded the background music of a new film, "Return to Paradise." As an innovation, it's in two parts, and will be on both sides of the record. He thinks it will go; you might say he has Faith in it.

As a by-product, he says this double-header platter means there'll be no worries about which is the "A" side and which the "B."

"Of course," said the executive-arranger-composer-conductor-golfer, "we really don't bake 'A' or 'B' sides any more. We have two strong sides—the one we like most may flop."

And even in these days of unbreakable records, a flop is undesirable.

Pity poor Dennis Day. The RCA-Victor tenor has four children—which is not why he needs pity—and they like to hear Daddy sing. OK, figured Dennis, a figurer as well as voice-conserver, I'll let them play my records.

The kids would have none of that. They turned thumbs down—eight thumbs. Canned music, they said, is OK for other kids, but not for the children of a well-voiced father. So Dennis sings his lullabies in person.

THE POPULAR SIDE: Worried Columbia has waxed many Jimmy Boyd records, to be released from time to time. There's even a Christmas song for next year already finished. They're afraid his voice will change any minute. . . . Why are country songs popular? Here's the explanation of Sunshine Sue Workman, CBS and Mars Records star: "There's so much conflict and confusion in the world, and our kind of music is so simple, soothing, reassuring, direct, that people just can't seem to do without it any more."

ON THE CLASSICS: For the first time in its 17-year-history, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will make a transcontinental Munch and Pierre Monteaux, the RCA-Victor recording unit will play concerts in 26 cities, including Detroit, Atlanta, New Orleans, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Toronto and Montreal.

DICK'S PICKS

POP SINGLES: Two new voices worth hearing are Bob Whalen (RCA-Victor) doing "Is It Any Wonder" and Bob Santa Maria (MGM) on "You're Mine, My Love"; old favorites with new hits are Jo Stafford (Columbia) with "Just Another Polka"; June Christy (Capitol) doing "Great Scot"; Tommy Edwards and Hank Williams (MGM) who each recorded "Take These Chains From My Heart"; Rosemary Clooney and Marelene Dietrich (Columbia) with a fine duet called "Dot's Nice — Donna Fight!" and Ray Anthony (Capitol) with "The Hokey Pokey."

POP ALBUMS: Lion Records are out with four more of their "Designed for Dancing" series. These have orchestras led by Ramon Argueso, Billy Barrett, Shep Fields and Teddy Powell in albums of mambos, square dances, pops and all-time hits, respectively. The last has 20 songs, dreamy and danceable.

CLASSICAL: Rimski-Korsakov's Scheherazade, Op. 35 (Leopold Stokowski and the Philharmonic Orchestra of London, RCA-Victor), is an exciting version of an exciting piece; Helen Traubel Sings Folk Songs and Ballads (RCA-Victor) has Miss Traubel's warm, full tones and appealing songs, including favorites like "Greensleeves" and "Come Back to Sorrento."

Canada Paper Forest Produces More Trees By Cutting More, Rotary Told

However paradoxical it may appear, the cutting of more and more wood by the Canadian pulp and paper industry, which stands first in all Canadian industry in the net value of production, can result in this country's having more trees than before, it was stated in an address to the Rotary Club last night by Walter Houghton, assistant mill manager of the Canada Paper Company, Windsor Mills.

"We have had experience with this at Windsor Mills, with our 50-square mile experimental forest," said Mr. Houghton. "Twenty years ago a plan of cutting was set up. Now we find we have more wood than we had then and would have had still more if we had cut more.

"Trees are like any other plant, the only difference being between time of seed and time of harvest. And while a field of cabbages rotting is early seen as a waste of raw value, it is a little harder to see a forest in the same light. But the real waste is to see trees grow to maturity, waste and die, without using them, or see them burn.

"The big difference between a field of cabbages and a forest is that a forest is self perpetuating. With properly planned cutting operations, Canadian forests will renew themselves without help of Man."

In his address, the Pulp and Paper Industry, and the Public Mr. Houghton said that with an investment of over a Billion dollars in plants and equipment which cannot be used, pulp and paper, naturally, has a vital interest in the maintenance of forests. But maintenance of forests is a matter of the utmost importance to the whole population since ninety per cent of forests in Canada are on Crown lands and again when it is realized that pulp and paper, which industry employs more than half a million Canadians, to make it the largest employer of labor in Canada, accounts for only 17 per cent of the wood used annually, while those persons who sell wood for fuel use 21 per cent of the wood cut each year and fire and insects account for 25 per cent loss.

"It is not generally understood," Mr. Houghton stated, "that pulp and paper takes only a small part of the forest growth and yet contributes so much wealth to the country."

The speaker said that Canadian forests are classified as one-third non-productive and two-thirds productive but of the latter only one-half or one-third of all forests are accessible and productive. At present, he said, the consumption of wood does not yet exceed the annual growth of the accessible and productive area.

Mr. Houghton touched briefly on the technological aspects of and the history of pulp and paper in these parts. In 1873, a British publication noted that Canada Paper in Sherbrooke employed 60 persons and manufactured 2½ tons a day, while Canada Paper at Windsor Mills produced four tons daily, employing 150 hands.

Today, he said there is more money invested in this Canadian industry than any other industry by many times. Capital investment is high—over $30,000 of plant per employee. The industry uses forty per cent of all electric power used by all industry and mining combined. Newsprint is the largest item of production and export and while it is approximately one-half of total production of over 600 varieties of paper, 94 per cent of it is exported.

In 1951, newsprint exports brought home $536,000,000 while wheat totalled $441,000,000; lumber $312,198,000; nickel $136,000,000; and aluminum $124,000,000. Of a total Canadian export of $3,914,000,000, pulp and paper industry accounted for $1,399,000,000; minerals $1,043,698,000; and agriculture $894,000,000, also in 1951. In 1908, 63.6 per cent of all pulp was exported while in 1952 only 13.5 per cent was exported. In 1908, 239,000 or 66 per cent of all pulp was exported while in 1950, 2,243,000 tons were exported but this represented only 24 per cent of production.

The industry is also the largest purchaser in Canada of goods and services. It is chief buyer of transportation, power and fuel supplies, for example. Canada Paper's freight bill is reputed to be larger than that of the City of Sherbrooke. Much of the industry is remote and scattered but there were 126 pulp and paper mills in Canada in 1951.

Mr. Houghton was introduced by Fred Sangster and thanked by E. W. Gilbey. President Lewis Rosenbloom was in the chair for the meeting and others seated at the head table, not already mentioned, were: W. H. Griffith, George Marshall, Guy Desmarais, Alex Davidson and Harry Moffatt.

Mr. Davidson reported on last week's Governors' Assembly at Woodstock, Vt., and Henry Delorme asked members to turn out at the Red Cross blood clinic this week.

Ivan Saunders brought attention to next week's meeting when Bill McElroy, president of Manchester, N.H., Rotary will speak on vocational service and to which the members are asked to bring their sons and daughters of high school age, only. Charles Parkin introduced visiting Rotarian Hugh Boyle, of Mimico, Ont., and five guests, David Steele and J. Roy, Sherbrooke; and E. Toussonault, W. McCarthy and E. O'Neill, all of Montreal.

Veteran Donor Attends Clinic At Opening

In the same queue yesterday with Sherbrooke civic, ecclesiastical and other officials who turned up to hand donor cards across the table to the technician at the Red Cross Blood Clinic was W. V. Charron, salesman of Montreal, and donor for the 21st time.

Asked why he gave blood here, Mr. Charron said, "why, it keeps me cool;" and in warm spring weather what could be a better reason.

But he added, "this blood can be used by other people so why should I keep it when it only sends my body temperature sky high and besides it's no trouble and certainly no pain to me."

Twenty-one donations to a good cause is an example for any of those in the least hesitant and no better recommendation can be given than that of Mr. Charron in his own words: "makes you feel better."

The clinic will continue to operate at the Belvidere Street Armoury between the hours of 2-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. daily and each evening today and for the next two days to follow.

At yesterday's clinic, 283 bottles of blood were collected and a quota of 325 has been set for today. A minimum of 1,300 bottles is being sought during the four days.

Lennoxville Boys Win Art Awards Of Federation

Sixty Quebec school children ranging in age from 6 to 18 have received awards in the "What I Do on Saturday" Art Contest sponsored by the Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations. Prizes were presented to the winners by Dr. Arthur Lismer, Educational Supervisor, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and Mrs. Paul Weil, Chairman of the Art Contest Committee, on Saturday afternoon, May 2nd, at the conclusion of the two day annual meeting of the Quebec Federation which was held at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal.

Several thousand entries from all over the Province were received, according to Mrs. Weil. Prizes consisted of art materials donated by the Hughes-Owens Co. and by Grumacher of Canada, and Scholarships to the School of Art and Design. Prize winning pictures were exhibited at the Windsor Hotel during the Conference. Winners in the three age groups included children from Montreal and district, Hudson, Quebec City, Valleyfield, Lennoxville and Knowlton. Those receiving the first four prizes in each group were: Ages 6-9: Mariam Blum (Scholarship), Montreal; Melvin Baylin, Montreal; Roger Turcotte, Lennoxville; Marsha Goldstein, Montreal. Ages 10-13: Margaret Poole (Scholarship), Town of Mount Royal; Marsha Small, Montreal; David Peters, Town of Mount Royal; Pam Cousens, Hudson. Ages 14 and over: Sandra Rich, Montreal; Bernice Thomas Montreal West; Barbara Clarkson, Ville St. Laurent; Robert Woollerton, 52 Academy Street, Lennoxville.

Some 500 delegates attended the Provincial Conference representing 123 local Home and School Associations with an aggregate of over 17,000 parent and teacher members.

Campaign Against 1952 Licence Plates Continues

Motorists getting caught with old licence plates on their vehicles are finding out that it is much cheaper to obey the law.

Provincial Police started "operation unlicensed vehicles on Monday."

By noon today the police had seized more than 50 old plates and they are continuing the war against the law breakers.

Any car spotted bearing old license plates is seized, and the old plates are torn off. The vehicles are towed away to a garage and the owner may pick up his vehicle after he has: (1) obtained his new license; (2) has paid a $10 fine and costs; (3) has paid the garage for towing and for storage.

Local Provincial Police Traffic Chief, Sgt. Henri Cantin, is in charge of the seizures and is being assisted by the Provincial Police Traffic Officers.

The time limit for 1952 plates actually expired on March 1 of this year. After two months of grace, provincial patience ran out and the big drive got underway.

Yesterday one car seized had a flat tire and spectators who gathered around thought it was just being towed away to get repaired but found out differently when they saw the police rip off the licence plates.

Some motorists took the seizures calmly, saying "It was my own fault."

Others, and there were several of them, called the police other things than friends. They put up quite a fuss but their vehicles were still hauled away.

One man was really lucky. He was just about to have the police seize his car when he arrived with new license plates.

If you still have those old plates, it is advisable to get new ones.

It is much cheaper.

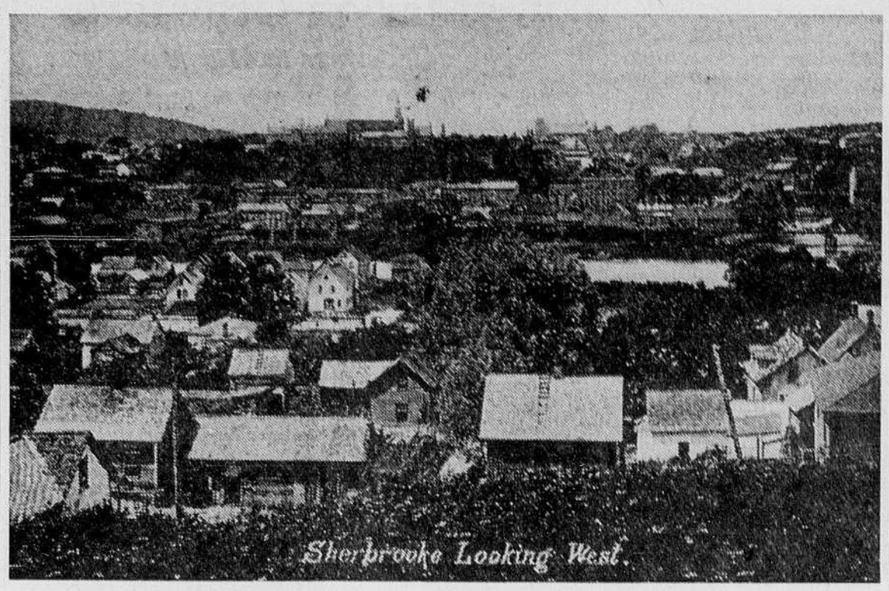
Sherbrooke 60 Years Ago



Recollections of Sherbrooke

(Editor's Note: The face of Sherbrooke is changing. New buildings are going up in every ward. The population is increasing at a rapid rate. Even the "old-timers" sometimes find it difficult to recall just what this city was like before the turn of the century. George Foote Foss, a resident of Sherbrooke 60 and more years ago, has written a booklet which he calls "Recollections of Sherbrooke—The True Story of a Small Town Boy." The Record, over the next few weeks, will be publishing a summary of Mr. Foss's story. The accompanying photographs are reproduced from a souvenir booklet published by L. S. Channell in 1898.)

By GEORGE FOOTE FOSS

Sherbrooke about the year 1886 had a population of approximately 9,000. Beautifully situated at the junction of the turbulent Magog and peaceful St. Francis rivers, and surrounded by hills, it was truly a desirable place in which to live.

Today Sherbrooke has grown to a busy manufacturing city of 54,000 and is still, as it was, the largest and most beautiful settlement within 90 miles in any direction.

At the time this story commences, I was 10 years old. Always anxious to earn money, my first job was ringing the auction bell. How I wanted and hated this job; it was very embarrassing, but it paid well and required only about an hour's work every Saturday morning, for which I received 25 cents—quite a sum to me in those days.

You see, Henry O'Dell owned an auction stand just across the street from the Market Place, which in those days, was on Wellington street in front of where the new Court House now stands.

Every Saturday, the farmers for miles around would attend, with all kinds of farm produce. My job was to advertise the auction by ringing a large hand bell, up and down the street, shouting "Auction sale on the auction stand." In the winter it was "Auction sale, Beckett's Block."

As I look back, the auction was very much like the rummage sales

Inquests At Windsor And Sherbrooke Give Verdicts In Motorcycle Deaths

Verdicts of accidental death were returned at Windsor Mills and Sherbrooke yesterday into motorcycle fatalities which took the lives of two 19-year-old residents of Windsor Mills and Waterville, respectively.

The accidents, which happened within five days of each other, killed Jean Girard, Windsor Mills, and Real Poirier, Waterville.

Young Girard was killed the day before yesterday afternoon when his motorcycle crashed into a jeep, in a head-on collision. A jury, under district coroner Dr. Louis Gagnon, of Sherbrooke, heard at the inquest in Boisvert's Funeral Home that the boy was attempting to pass a truck on Range St. Zacharie de Windsor, when he collided with a jeep driven by Maurice Sears.

Mr. Sears testified that the dust stirred up on the road by passing traffic was so thick that he was unable to see the motorcycle until it was less than five feet from the vehicle.

The 19-year-old boy, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philippe Girard, St. Ambrose street, Windsor Mills, died instantly of a broken neck and other injuries.

Later yesterday, an inquest into the death of Real Poirier, also 19, was held at the Sherbrooke Provincial Police station, under Dr. Gagnon. The jury was composed of the following: R. Bilodeau, Jean-Paul Monfette, Joseph Gingras, Joseph Prevost, Joseph Caron and Albert Laporte.

Young Poirier died shortly after midnight of April 29 (early morning of April 30) when he apparently lost control of his motorcycle and crashed into some fence posts on the edge of the Douglas Martin farm at North Hatley.

Apparently the boy "lay on a fence post" unnoticed for more than five hours before his body was spotted by Harold Taylor and Lawrence Burnham, residents of the district, who were driving towards Lennoxville at approximately 5.45 o'clock the morning of April 30. Mr. Burnham trucking milk to Huntingville and Mr. Taylor, as is his custom, a passenger in the truck, en route to his job at a Sherbrooke factory.

Both men testified that they had seen some parts of a vehicle on the roadside and on looking had found the battered "bike" and the boy, his face smashed against a fence post. Mr. Taylor saw to it that an ambulance was called and remained with the body until the authorities arrived. Death was due to a fractured skull. There was no evidence that the "bike" had been struck by a car.

Only two other persons testified, Provincial Police Traffic Officer Rosaire Daigle and Philippe Poirier, 32, brother of the dead boy.

The accident occurred near a place called Grier's Point, where the North Hatley road branches off to No. 5 highway. Several fence posts had been knocked over by the motorcycle and the body was discovered about six feet off the road. Young Poirier was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Poirier, of Waterville.

"Saint" Returns After 8 Months

After no altercations with the Municipal Police of Sherbrooke, for eight months "Saint Donat" was hauled into Municipal Court for drunkenness yesterday. Judge Redmond Hayes, Q.C., gave the sixtyish-year-old soak a suspended sentence. "The Saint" had not been arrested for drunkenness (or any other reason) in Sherbrooke since the last Sherbrooke Fair. He told Judge Hayes that he had been working out on a farm in the Brome district, and behaving himself. When arrested, the old tippler was sitting in front of the Hospice du Sacre Coeur Monday night, Belvidere Street South, "pulling" at a bottle of beer. He promised to get out of town, hence the suspended sentence.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

Will there be a series of concerts for Sherbrooke this winter? The answer, and it ought to be overwhelmingly favorable, must be given soon while the annual Community Concert membership lists are still open. Those who value music for the schools, in their own lives, and for its importance in a well-rounded community life, should join in this undertaking for another season.

Sherbrooke has an enviable record for its sponsorship of musical events in recent years, but music, like other phases of life that may be termed cultural, cannot reach fulfilment if it is cut off from the living experience of the community. Of course there is inestimable value in good music that comes on records and over the radio, but this should only help, not supplant, the basic experience just referred to.

The record of Community Concerts here in the past season has been outstanding. Eastern Townships audiences have heard artists of real stature, many of whom have risen considerably in critical esteem and are much better known than when they appeared here. It is particularly pleasant to become acquainted, face to face, with rising artists of the musical world.

What has been done so successfully in other years can be done again — if everyone who values music will come forward and subscribe.

THE FAULT IS CANADA'S

The first iron ore from the Quebec-Labrador development will start flowing into the United States, chiefly the Pittsburgh area, late in the summer of 1954. Noting this fact, the Peterborough Examiner voices an old Canadian complaint:

"Canadian industry and workers will, it seems, be bilked of their right to profit from the processing and manufacture in Canada of the Labrador iron. It is an old story, Canada sells her raw materials abroad. There it is manufactured. Then Canada buys the goods back, leaving the profit on the process in foreign hands. But because it is a traditional practise makes it no less damnable from the point of view of Canadian self-interest."

The point which seems to escape this and other Canadian newspapers, says the Fort Erie Letter-Review, is that Canada itself created this state of affairs. Successive Canadian governments over the last forty years have taken either a hesitant of hostile attitude toward immigration. The result is that nearly a century after Confederation, we still have a population of less than 15,000,000 people. Having few people, we cannot support an industrial structure large enough to process many of our own raw materials; consequently we must have them processed elsewhere.

It is regrettable that Labrador iron should go to the United States with a population of 160,000,000 and British Columbia ore to Japan with a population of 90,000,000. But the remedy does not lie in regretting it. The remedy lies in building up Canada's population with the many skilled workers now idle in Western Europe and especially Western Germany.

THRIFT DWINDLING

The Wall Street Journal conducted a survey among bankers to ascertain how long the average family could ride out the storm with their savings in the event of an economic breakdown.

One banker said the average man's "liquid savings" amount to just about what he has in the decanter. Another said he doubted whether lower income families could sustain themselves on their savings for more than a few weeks.

One Los Angeles banker spoke for a lot of other men he said that "the big savings are among the older people, the younger ones live from pay check to pay check."

The situation is much the same this side of the border. While wages generally are good, high taxes and the high cost of living leave very little to put aside for the proverbial rainy day. And what is more, when social security came in at the door, thrift went out of the window. One result is that the younger generation is far less inclined to save to tide them over emergencies than preceding generations were.

IKE'S DOMESTIC AIMS SKETCHY, END OF CONTROLS IS TOP FEAT

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — The greatest accomplishment of the Eisenhower administration on the domestic front in its first 100 days in office has been removal of all price and wage controls.

The timing on this move was just right. Meat prices were already below ceilings.; Other food prices normally drop in the spring.

On the industrial front, supplies of materials had been built up to meet increased demands of the Korean war. The national economy had been adjusted to the new, higher productive level.

On the wage front, the more troublesome industrial disputes had been settled. So everything was right for lifting the lid. Contrary to some dire predictions, there have been no ill effects — yet.

Rent controls have been scheduled to end July 31. At the turn of the first 100 days the Congress was still in a sweat over continuing stand-by controls for use in case a new inflationary emergency arises.

The administration still has to meet its first test on handling a major labor dispute. That may come in the steel industry.

Both AFL and CIO have announced their intent to seek new wage increases as contracts come up for renewal. In the case of the CIO, this may be extended to include demands for a guaranteed annual wage.

Stabilization of living costs might serve to cut the ground from under any such demands. If it does, the business leaders who have given such strong support to the Republican administration can consider it a victory.

But aside from this achievement of removing economic controls, the Eisenhower administration in its first 100 days has barely made a beginning at sketching in the outline of its domestic program. Among the starts that have been made, these stand out prominently:

Budget Cuts Are First On Program

A genuine effort to cut government expense and balance the budget. President Eisenhower estimates the Truman-prepared budget of 72 billion, nine-hundred million dollars in new funds requested for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, can be cut by 8½ billion dollars. But this is not a final figure because the budget revision has not been completed. The President says flatly that the cash or spending budget for next year cannot possibly be balanced, even with this cut.

A first feeler at deflation through refinancing the national debt on a long-term basis. This has been done through the successful experiment of a billion-dollar, 3¼ per cent bond issue.

Two cautious moves toward a new farm policy. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson refused to support meat prices when they started skidding. But he continued dairy supports for a year to give that industry time to work out a new policy of its own.

Six federal government reorganization plans. Making a cabinet-rank Department of Health, Education and Welfare out of the Federal Security Agency and reorganization of Department of Agriculture are along lines outlined by previous administrations. Plan No. 3 combined Office of Defense Mobilization and National Security Resources Board. Reorganization of Justice, State and defense Departments are on the fire.

Near completion of top staff appointments. The Eisenhower administration has been slow in this recruitment. The effort has been complicated by a number of fumbles in firing career civil servants to make way for Republican blood and brains.

Revised personnel policies to reduce government employment. Killing Office of Price Stabilization and Wage Stabilization Board returned $1,500,000 to the Treasury. Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge ordered no new hiring after Feb. 3. Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson ordered a 39,000 personnel cut by the end of May.

A new loyalty and security program has been announced, intended to weed subversives and criminals from government. But it will take some months to put into effect and test fully.

Ike Leans On Own Study Groups

There are civilian commissions, committees and study groups hatching plans all over Washington. President Eisenhower seems to depend on them heavily. Among his creations are a reorganization committee, a temporary farm advisory commission, National Security Council advisers, psychological warfare advisory committee, a commission to survey natural resources and another on foreign trade.

The President has also asked Congress to authorize a commission to study federal-state relationships. Departmentally, there are committees to study Defense Department reorganization and to resurvey the Bureau of Standards. A Department of Labor advisory committee, supposed to shape new labor policy for the administration, broke up in confusion on its first meeting and has been abandoned.

But it will take months for all the other and still more new study clubs to make their reports and get the Eisenhower administration's policies in shape to identify as a definite program.

In the meantime, the number-one riddle of the new administration is how far it will go in carrying out Republican campaign promises and campaign hopes to get the government out of business, end the so-called trend towards socialism and put the country back on the road towards an economy dedicated to, and dominated by, the free enterprise system.

The decision to liquidate the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and sell the government-built and government-owned synthetic rubber plants are first steps in this direction. Returning the tidelands from federal to state government control is another.

But how far will this go? And will it become what critics of the administration now call a gigantic give-way of the public domain?

Only the answers to these questions in due time will disclose the real nature of the Eisenhower domestic program.

There are signs now that in settling these policies, sharp differences between President Eisenhower's thinking and the opinions of a majority of the congressmen will have to be resolved.

Bible Thoughts

And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord; for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord; for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more.—Jeremiah 31:34.

Former Governess to Her Majesty

Elizabeth II will be crowned Queen of all Britian at Westminister Abbey in London on Tuesday, June 2. The ceremony will take place a little more than 16 years from the the day her mather, the late George VI, was officially crowned.

Already Queen Elizabeth II has reigned a year and three months since the death of King George on Feb. 6, 1952.

She is the sixth woman to rule England and each has left her mark on British history.

Matilda, daughter of Henry I, was the first English Queen. Her reign from 1135 to 1152 was marked by civil war and finally she retired, defeated by her cousin, Stephen.

Mary I took the throne 400 years later, despite the plea of her half-brother, Edward VI, that his cousin Lady Jane Grey succeeded him. Lady Jane was beheaded.

Then came Elizabeth I, Mary's half-sister, whose reign was marked by intellectual and cultural awakening of England's "coming of age."

Eighty-five years passed and an other woman, Mary II, became Queen to rule jointly with her husband, William III, after the civil wars drove James II from the throne. Queen Anne succeeded William and Mary.

Victoria, who ruled nearly 65 years, came to throne in 1837, when she was 25, the same age that Elizabeth was when her father died Feb. 6, 1952.

Although Queen Elizabeth II was in the public eye before she assumed the duties of her inheritance, no one today knows better than her former teacher and friend, Marion Crawford, what kind of woman she is.

"Crawfie," as the former governess is called by the Royal Family, says Elizabeth is "no plaster saint, sometimes quick-tempered and inclined to be over-critical," but that Elizabeth has always had a constant awareness that some day she would be Queen and has learned to feel a great responsibility toward her conduct as a Queen.

In fact, says Crawfie, Queen Elizabeth's sence of duty is one of her outstanding qualities.

Often Queen Elizabeth has taken part in public ceremonies when she was ill. Following the birth of Prince Charles, her advisers were taken to task for "allowing" her to accept engagements too soon after the ordeal. Actually, the advisers were not to blame. The girl who was later to become Queen, had disregarded their advice because she felt that she could not disappoint her subjects.

This story is Crawfie's own picture of Elizabeth and her life in the eventful years leading to the coronation. To use the author's own words: "This to me, is Elizabeth II, the Queen of our time."

Just 16 years ago, on May 12, 1937, Princess Elizabeth, as heir-presumptive, watched her father's coronation as King George VI of England. She and her sister, Princess Margaret Rose, wore crowns made especially for the occasion. On June 2, this year, she will be crowned with the traditional St. Edward's Crown her father wore. It is so heavy that it is exchanged in a few minutes for the lighter Imperial Crown.

My story starts on the evening of Nov. 14, 1948, a Sunday. My husband, whose name is George, and I were awaiting an important announcement while listening to the radio at our home in Nottingham Cottage, Kensington.

Suddenly the telephone rang. Before I picked up the receiver, I had an idea what the news would be. I told George to turn down the music on the radio.

Mr. Baker, the Buckingham Palace telephone operator, was on the line and in a clear, cultured voice, he said: "Madam, Sir Dermot Kavanagh would like to speak to you."

A moment later I heard the voice of Sir Dermot, who is the Royal Equerry, in charge of all the Royal horses and motor cars. Unlike Mr. Baker, he did not speak in an evenly modulated voice. He was exurberant:

"Crawfie, I wanted you to be the first outside the palace to know. It's a boy!"

This was about 20 minutes past nine. Soon a bulletin would be winging around the world, but for the moment George and I shared the privilege of being among the first to know.

"You're relieved?" my husband asked. He was always quick to sense my mood.

"Don't be absurd," I said. "I always knew that Prince Elizabeth would do everything perfectly. I have never know her to fail at anything important."

I think I spoke with authority. For some 17 years I had been governess to the two little princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. I have a box full of remembrances — letters, Christmas cards, little keepsakes of all kinds. Princess Elizabeth called it my "treasure chest."

I cannot think of any more apt description for what it now contains.

It moved with me from 145 Picadilly on that fateful day when the two little Princesses and I followed in the wake of the Crystal Coach which was taking the King and Queen to their now home in Buckingham Palace.

There my box stood on the window sill of my room, in plain view, outlined against the net curtain, of passersby on Constitution Hill.

And finally the box moved with me from my little Grace and Favour house in Kensington Palace, granted to me for life by His Majesty King George VI when I married and retired from the Royal Service, to this calm house where I now live and find some of the tranquillity denied me in the turmoil of Royal life in London.

This box, now at the end of its journey, tells me what I told George: Queen Elizabeth will never fail at anything important.

* * *

Just as I was one of the first to hear the actual news of the birth of Prince Charles, I was among the first to know months before that a Royal baby was on its way.

One afternoon I was sitting down to tea in my rooms in Buckingham Palace when there came a gentle knock at the door and Princess Elizabeth put her head in.

Princess Elizabeth's visits were seldom a surprise to me. Long before her knock came at the door, I would hear her familiar footsteps outside.

In my many years at the Palace I had become an experience mood-gauger. Usually a certain un-Royal thump-thump of feet down the passage would warn me that the Princess had some good news to pass on. For example, my door would burst open and a very flushed and excited Princess would sweep in.

"Oh, Crawfie," she would say. "Guess what? Papa's horse won again today." Or a similar bit of news.

But this day, despite her quietness, I knew that she had bigger news than horse racing. While I waited for it I invited her to have some tea.

"No, thank you, Crawfie," she said in the odd little voice that meant she was nervous or excited.

She crossed the room quietly and gazed out of the window. There was something about her stillness which spoke more than words. I looked thoughtfully at her back.

"I've just come to tell you something, Crawfie," she said after a pause.

She chose her words carefully, still not looking at me. "I'm having the old pram brought out."

* * *

I went to her side quickly and put my arms around her. "I'm so happy for you, darling," I said. Then we kissed and wept a little. It seemed hard for me to believe what she was telling me.

The birth of a Royal baby, especially when he is in direct line to the Throne, is an affair of state; but, of course, it is also very much of a private affair. When the child is "expected," the waiting world must be told.

From that moment, months before the birth, the baby is news, and he will be news all his life. The fierce light of publicity will be a burden hard to bear, as no one knows better than his mother, who must share her own joy with all the world.

For Princess Elizabeth there was only a little time — a few precious weeks — when she could nurse and enjoy her secret. We who were close to her knew, of course, before the first speculative hints appeared in the newspapers.

Letters to the Editor

CHURCH BROADCASTS

Dear Sir:

What a blessing the radio is for those of us who are unable to get to church on Sunday! However, I have a complaint to make and do hope it will be accepted in the spirit in which it is given. I enjoy a good sermon, and I call a good sermon one which is given in about twenty minutes. Music, to me, is also very important in a church service but I find in listening to the Sherbrooke churches who broadcast, that the music is shoved into the background. A recent broadcast to which I listened was terminated by the radio station smack in the middle of the anthem. The choir was only able to start their anthem at two minutes to 12, but the sermon started at 11:20.

Could not the officiating clergyman time his sermon so that we listeners could hear the complete service? Montreal churches, (and I feel guilty listening to them when we have such fine churches in our own town) always seem to get their services on broadcast Sunday within the hour. How about it, Sherbrooke?

Yours truly,
SHUT-IN.

Jacoby On Bridge

IMPULSIVE PLAYING IS VERY DANGEROUS

When an opponent takes a losing finesse in your direction, don't be in too much of a hurry to win the trick. If the finesse is repeatable, you will get the trick later on even if you refuse it the first time. The important thing is to look ahead and make your decision before the play is actually executed. Today's hand shows one reason for this.

West opened the three of spades in response to his partner's light overcall. Dummy won with the king of spades, and declarer immediately finessed the queen of hearts. West had anticipated this play as soon as he had seen dummy's trump holding, so he was able to play a low heart very casually.

South should have cashed dummy's remaining top spade before proceeding, to be in position for a spade ruff, but the apparent success of the trump finesse had given declarer the impression that at least one overtrick could be obtained. He therefore switched to clubs and was allowed to win the third trick with the queen of clubs.

Declarer next led his remaining club, and West was allowed to win the trick with the ten.

West naturally returned another low spade, forcing out the side entry to the threatening club suit. Now declarer decided to repeat his trump finesse, but West was able to win with the king of hearts and return his last trump. This eliminated dummy's ruffing power, so that South had to lose a spade trick, Since South also lost a trump, two diamonds and a club, he was set one at an "unbeatable contract."

South could have made the contract by playing the hand properly. The fact remains, however, that thousands of declarers all over the country make mistakes every time they play bridge. It is the duty of a good defender to give an erring declarer enough rope to hang himself.

You, South, hold: Spades none, Hearts K-7-4, Diamonds A-K-Q-10-7-5-3, Clubs K-6-4. What do you do?

A—Bid five diamonds. This bid indicates that you expect to win 11 tricks at diamonds even if your partner has a minimum opening bid. Obviously you cannot be far from a slam, and your partner should go on to a slam if he has additional strength in the form of aces.

TODAY'S QUESTION

From The Record Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO

May 6 fell on a Sunday.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald has indicated in the British House of Commons that President Roosevelt will support any practical war debt revision proposals.

Officers named for the Sherbrooke Protesant Teachers Association were: Miss B. E. Bryce, Miss I. R. Nourse, Miss M. Parker, Miss D. Hall, Miss G. Hunter and Miss I. Sherman.

TEN YEARS AGO

Educational, civic and government leaders are expected to attend the formal opening of the new buildings of the St. Francis College High School at Richmond which have just been completed.

Telephone Book Carries Many More Listings

Like members of the book clubs, Sherbrooke subscribers of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada are receiving a "bonus book" with their perennial "best seller", the telephone directory, being delivered through the mails this week.

The bonus is a blue-covered "Telephone Numbers" booklet to enable the subscriber to compile a handy list of names, addresses and numbers of both local and out-of-town residents he calls frequently, H. E. Walker, Bell manager in Sherbrooke, said today.

"By noting in the blue booklet the number of a relative, friend or business contact living at a distant point, the subscriber can save his time on subsequent calls and help to provide speedier service to other subscribers too," Mr. Walker said. "Calling by number when telephoning long-distance permits calls to be handled much more quickly because the operator does not need to contact 'Information' at the distant point."

"The Telephone Numbers booklet is also convenient for recording the numbers of persons served by the local exchange who acquire telephone service after the directory is issued or whose numbers are changed. Using the booklet sayes unnecessary, time-wasting calls to 'Information.'"

Indicative of the expansion in this area is the sizeable increase in the number of telephone books to be delivered. The initial mailing totals 23,240 copies, as compared with 21,717 last year.

To subscribers listed in the Sherbrooke section of the directory 18,510 copies are being mailed, as compared with 17,510 last year. The directory lists subscribers in Magog, Megantic and other points in the vicinity.

The new directory contains 21,451 new and changed listings. Because of these changes, Mr. Walker urges subscribers to check private lists of telephone numbers against the new directory and transfer amended lists to the blue booklet. He recommends throwing away the old directory as soon as the new one arrives to avoid future embarrassment, annoyance and lost time through getting wrong numbers. A further suggestion to ensure getting the correct number is "if in doubt, look it up."

To distinguish it from last year's green-covered edition, the new directory has a buff cover. Its introductory pages give tips on placing emergency calls, using long-distance service, dialing and party-line courtesy.

Engineers Development Course Ends

G. M. Dick, chairman of the Eastern Townships branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, gave the final lecture to the local section of the engineers' professional development course on April 30, at the Ecole Technique. Mr. Dick used as his subject: "Obligations of the Engineer." He stressed the obligation of the engineer to help in community projects and associations. As a case in point he told of Mayor Levesque's request that the Eastern Townships branch of the E.I.C. undertake an investigation of the need of a filtration plant for the city of Sherbrooke.

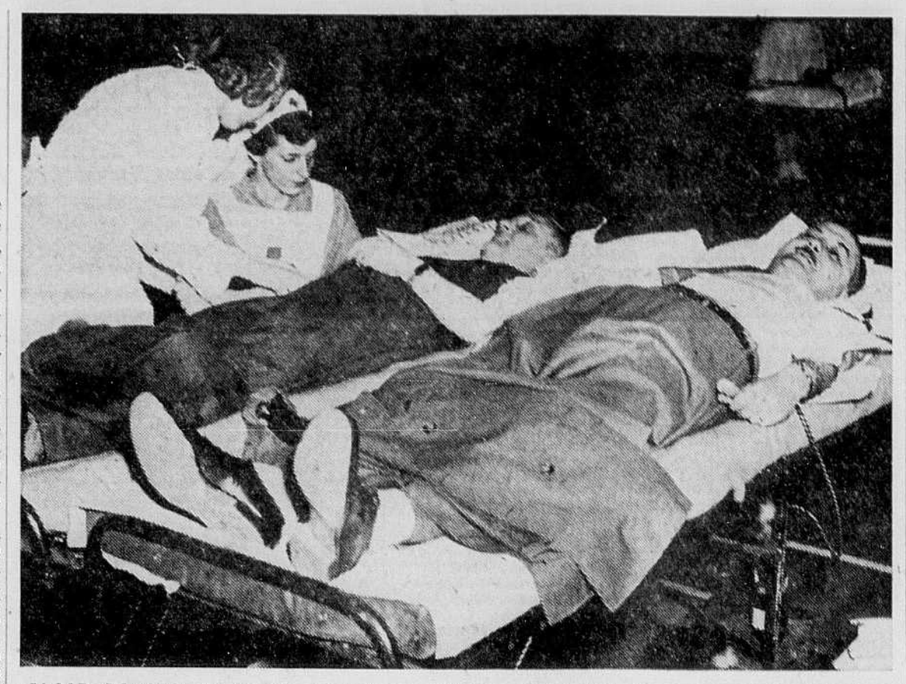
The course, which began on November 14, 1952, and included 14 lectures, consisted of talks on various subjects, mainly of a non-technical nature. Professor Gray, of Bishop's University, opened the course with two lectures on public speaking. Following were talks on Labor Relations from three points of view: from Management's by C. M. McGaw, Industrial Relations manager, Canadian Johns-Manville Company, Limited; Labor by G. B. Nicol, director of Education Research, International Brotherhood of Pulp and Paper Workers; the public by Professor H. D. Wood, McGill University.

Two Sherbrooke lawyers talked on law: B. N. Holtham on Labor Law and H. Grundy on the Civil Code.

Modern business methods were explained by the following: G. H. Lynch, Industrial Engineering Department, General Foods, explained "How our Business System Operates." "Financial Analysis of Industrial Operations" was given by T. P. Boyle of Canadian Johns-Manville Company, Limited; and Mr. Noel, C.A., Montreal, lectured on corporate finance.

H. A. F. Gregory of the St. Lawrence Corporation, East Angus, told "What Industry Expects from the Engineer"; T. J. McKenna outlined the organization of the Montreal Stock Exchange; and E. A. Walton, Economic Adviser to the Bank of Montreal, lectured on "The Economic Situation."

The course this year was well attended by engineers from Sherbrooke, East Angus, Windsor Mills and Asbestos, and it was decided that a similar course would be offered next year.



BLOOD DONORS: Among the first donors of blood at the Red Cross clinic at the Belvidere street armoury yesterday were Rev. A. V. Ottiwell, chairman of the Sherbrooke and District Ministerial Association, shown on the cot at the left, and Ald. Henri Labonne, representing Mayor Emile Levesque at the opening ceremonies, seen on the cot at the right. Altogether 283 persons gave blood at the clinic opening yesterday. Nurses To Attend Special Services Sunday Evening

Nurses of the Sherbrooke Hospital will hold their annual Memorial and Re-dedication service Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in St. Peter's Church. Although the services, in honor of Florence Nightingale, are being held throughout the country, the Sherbrooke Hospital is the only local infirmary which will observe them this year.

The nurses, students and graduates both, will attend in uniform and will hear a special sermon by Rev. Canon Russel Brown, the rector.

While they will not hold any special service Sunday, authorities at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital will be hosts at an "open house" from two until five p.m Sunday afternoon, to better acquaint the public with the hospital's work.

Authorities at the Hotel Dieu said that while they are not marking the day with any special observance this year, they plan a really-large Memorial and Rededication ceremony in 1954.

P. A. P. S. B. To Hold Conference At Valleyfield

"Educational Ballast," guest speaker Dr. M. E. LaZerte's topic for an address to be presented to members attending the Provincial Association of the Protestant School Board Spring Conference in Valleyfield May 8th and 9th will be one impressive feature that may be expected.

Teacher Shortage, a question which is becoming increasingly urgent will form another topic for discussion. To be debated by a five man Panel under the chairmanship of H. E. French, the subject will be treated on a high level with returns that will prove profitable to all concerned with Education.

Also on the program will be School Board Ethics to be discussed jointly by school principals.

An attendance of 45 on average constitutes the representatives at these annual conventions yet consideration for the number of School Boards accessible to Valleyfield indicates that this years attendance objective of 100 is not too high.

Cowansville, May 6.—Dr. J. G. Page, V.S., was elected by acclamation to replace Walter Beauregard as alderman for seat No. 2 on the municipal council in nominations held on Monday, May 4.

The seat was left vacant when Ald. Beauregard resigned following the sale of his properties in Cowansville.

RECALL EARLIER KILLINGS

Lewis Nickolls, Scotland Yard's top science detection expert, said the three bodies in the cupboard all showed sign of coal gas poisoning as well as strangulations. He said, too, that he found seminal stains on Christie's clothing and on the clothing of one of the dead women.

Curtis-Bennett showed him a little bottle taken from the Christie flat.

Said Nickolls. "That bottle contains enough sodium cyanide to poison 30 or more people."

Christie himself, in a statement read at previous hearings, contended that his wife's murder was a mercy killing to put her out of agony brought on by a convulsive fit.

He also said in the statement that the three walled-up women — Rita Nelson, Hectorina MacLennan and Kathleen Maloney — died in struggles when they started. All three were in their mid-20s and were well known in Notting Hill night spots.

Date for the trial was not set.

Christie was driven to count for the last day of his preliminary hearing, crouching and hiding his face behind a newspaper to shield himself from the stares of a jeering crowd.

First Day Blood Clinic 17 Pints Short Of Objective

The first sweep of Sherbrooke yesterday for donors by the Red Cross Blood Clinic being held at the Belvidere Street Armoury reports returns of 283 pints of blood, 17 bottles short of what was expected.

Having set a daily average objective of 300 bottles for this four day campaign for blood Red Cross workers report that without the organization of Alpha Omega Club members their first day's total would not have reached the number that it did.

In view of the success of Club organization, Louis Poitras, Blood Clinic organizer for the Province of Quebec urges all clubs, societies and group organizations to gather members on mass and pack them off to the clinic.

The Blood Clinic will continue today, and the two days to follow at Belvidere Street Armoury.

Victoriaville Saw 1,200 Give Blood Donatinos

Victoriaville established a record of 1,200 bottles at her last Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic, Henry Delorme last night informed his fellow Rotary Club members in a brief address, bringing attention to the clinic being held here this week.

"If Victoriaville can reach 1,200 bottles, I am sure that we in Sherbrooke should achieve our quota of 1,300, "Mr. Delorme stated in asking the Rotarians to turn out at the Belvedere Street Armoury and give blood donations. "Each year," he said, "our local hospitals are using more blood than we donate."

Less Sunshine, Snow, More Rain During April

The average temperature for the month of April was 42.76 degrees, there were 117.6 hours of sunshine while 1.7 inches of snow fell, it is shown in the meteorological report of the Dominion Experimental Station Lennoxville.

The average temperature for the month was 42.76 degrees compared with 42.95 degrees, the average temperature for Apr. last year. The average temperature for the past 39 years is 38.84 degrees. The temperature for the month ranged from a high of 65 degrees to a low of 21 degrees.

The 117.6 hours of sunshine was considerably less than the 184.6 hours recorded for last year, and compared with 153.3, hours, the average monthly sunshine for the past 39 years.

The average snowfall of 1.7 was also lower than the average monthly snowfall of 5.8 for the past 39 years, however it was an increase over the 0.8 inch fall of April last year. The rainfall for the month was 2.61 inches, compared with 2.71 inches for last year.

Port Revenues Show Increase Of Over $40,000

Total revenue collected by the Port of Sherbrooke was $337,892.60 for April 1953 as compared with $296,973.57 collected during April of last year, an increase of $40,919.03, it is shown in the local customs' office monthly report.

Revenue last month was as follows: customs import duties: $74,489.83; excise taxes: $263,263.62; and sundry collections: $190.15; total: $337,892.60.

Robbery Tries Nipped In Bud By Local Police

Municipal Police Constable Germain Raymond and Raymond Bonneau early this morning captured a would-be auto thief right in the act.

The young man, who was expected to be arraingned in court here today, was coming out of a Chevrolet sedan, owned by Mrs. Ann Kathleen Blue and parked in front of her residence at 572 Elizabeth Street. Someone in the house had called the police station when they heard a noise outdoors, apparently of the man trying to "jimmy" the car's ignition, evidence of which the constables found.

The above incident occurred around 1.53 this morning. Only 28 minutes earlier, Constable Bonneau discovered a broken rear window at the Croteau Service Station on Frontenac Street. A call to the proprietor of the establishment revealed that nothing had been stolen. The window was about two feet square.

ond time, to the Galloper Point lightship.

The sea in the area was reported calm, with light, broken clouds overhead.

The collision occurred just before dawn. The Duke of York was 60 or so miles along in her regular 106-mile run from the Hook of Holland to Harwich. She is operated by the state-owned British transport commission.

The first dramatic signal telling of the collision came from the Duke of York at 4:45 a.m. (11:45 p.m. EDT Tuesday). Five minutes later Capt. Adams radioed: "I am sending passengers off ship in boats, require tugs."

Then came these messages from the stricken steamer:

4:45 a.m.: "Haiti Victory alongside. Passengers are being put off."

4:59 a.m.: "Standing by to abandon ship."

5:32 a.m.: From the Haiti Victory: "We have almost all passengers off now."

7:30 a.m.: From the Duke of York: "All passengers cleared from the Duke of York except one. We are trying to release. Whole of bow from forward of bridge broken off and sung. Waiting tug assistance."

At 8 a.m., the steamer radioed: "Haiti Victory attempting to tow us."

RECOLLECTIONS

of today. The towns-people would send down any old household article which had outlived its usefulness and which they wanted to get rid of. As an example, there would be an old kitchen stove, old tables, chairs, crockery and glassware.

There were new goods as well. Some of the merchants along the street would send pieces of dress goods, boots and shoes, hats, coats —in fact all kinds of merchandise which they found did not sell in their stores. It was surprising how the farmers and some of the townspeople would snap up these bargains. Henry O'Dell was a good auctioneer. He was a fluent talker and had an attractive personality. He was also secretary-treasurer of the Protestant school board.

My father, Edwin Foss, was the auction clerk. He kept the books and collected the cash. He used to get $2 for his morning's work. The day's receipts used to run from $50 to $100 and the sale would last from 10 until about one o'clock, if the goods to be sold held out that long.

As soon as I got my 25 cents I would usually hot-foot it up to Fletcher Thompson's grocery store, buy 10 cents worth of brown sugar and the same amount of shelled walnuts and that afternoon would make some of the finest candy you ever tasted. Fletcher Thompson was quite a man. At Christmas he would send a turkey to each of his regular customers.

There was nothing small about Fletcher Thompson. Charley Young was his head clerk. Once a week he would drive around taking orders from all of their customers. Mr. Thompson would always see that he took about 10 pounds of chocolates and caramels to distribute to the children and the housewives. I dont' see the grocers and butchers doing anything like this today. Do you?

Now, to return to the market it was really a fine institution. As I look back and compare the prices we used to pay with those of today I recall such things as: hand-knit double mittens and hand-knit woollen socks, each 25 cents a pair; maple sugar 10 cents a pound; maple syrup $1.00 a gallon; potatoes 50 cents a bushel; beef 10 cents a pound; plump chickens 25 cents to 50 cents each; partridges 25 cents a pair; lamb chops 10 cents and 11 cents a pound.

(Next week: A sugaring-off).

N.Z. Father Acquitted In Mercy Killing

Wellington, N.Z.—(Reuters)—A man who killed his deformed child 12 hours after its birth today was found not guilty of murder on grounds of insanity.

Horticulturist Leslie Ernest Jones, 40-year-old father of three normal children, was committed to prison until the justice ministry determines whether he should be confined to an asylum for the criminally insane.

Defence lawyer W. E. Bate said Jones became "completely unbalanced and unhinged" upon his first look at the child's "horrifying" deformity. He said that the horticulturist who lived close to nature felt that nature had played a ghastly trick on him.

The prosecution emphasized "mercy killings" were against the law. Unless Jones was punished, other parents of deformed children might take the same action, he said.

Jones pushed past nurses in a maternity home March 17 and stabbed his new-born child in the head.

BEEBE BOY HURT

Murray Smith, 14, of Beebe, was taken to Broadview Hospital in Newport, Vt., for treatment to an injury of his side when he was struck by an automobile in Beebe Monday evening. The boy was crossing a street at the time. The driver was George Stevens, 59, of Rock Island. Traffice Officer Rosaire Daigle investigated for Provincial Police.

Ottawa. — (CP) — Promotion of a freer world trade policy was urged upon the government today in a brief submitted to the Senate committee on Canadian trade relations by the Canadian Importers and Traders Association.

The association, representing some 400 Canadian importing firms said in its brief that Canada should take the lead in submitting a plan for a scientific international tariff to North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

In addition to a low tariff based on comparative wage rates, the association favored an increase in the price of gold, reduction of internal excise taxes and removal of restrictive quotas on import trade.

DENISON'S MILLS

Practically every home here had holiday visitors during the Easter vacation. The visitors were Misses Mary and Joyce Hannan, of Montreal, visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hannan; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mastine at the A. Hebert home; Mr. and Mrs. S. Mastine and children, of Brampton, Ont., with Master Lorne and Miss Joyce Frost, also of Brampton, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens and family.

Miss Lorna Rief, of Montreal, visited her grandmother, Mrs. T. Demers, and Mr. Demers.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Rief were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Rief. Mr. E. Rief is at present employed in Brampton, Ont.

Mr. Duncan Rief and daughter, Joan, of Montreal, spent a few days at their home here with Mr. Albert Hughes and called on Mr. Arthur Carson and family and on Mr. and Mrs. T. Demers.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Findlay and son Harland, of Gatineau, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Paterson.

Misses Ann and Ruth Denison, of Montreal, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Brown, of St. Lambert, to Concord, N.H., to visit Miss Bernice Driver. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Denison were also visitors of Miss B. Driver in Concord, N.H.

Mrs. Lyall Blanchette and children, of Richmond, spent some time with Mrs. T. Demers.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hodge and children have again taken up residence on their farm, after residing in Kingsey Falls for the winter.

Mr. Leslie Hodge, youngest son of Mr. Melville Hodge, is at present working in Neepawa, Man.

The interest in school activities was shown at the official opening of the new addition to St. Francis College High School at Richmond, and in spite of very bad spring roads and a very wet night the auditorium was filled, and very informative and amusing speeches were heard from representatives of various educational organizations.

Mrs. Gordon Denison was the guest of honor at the home of her cousin, when friends and relatives tendered her a miscellaneous "shower" in Richmond. Mrs. Duncan Kerr was hostess, and a delightful time was had by all. The gifts were much appreciated by the bride.

The Easter communion service planned for Easter Sunday morning had to be cancelled due to the very bad road conditions. Rev. Harrington, of Richmond, had planned to hold the service.

The Doctor Says

CARE OF PHLEBITIS IS DIFFICUUT

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Phlebitis is the medical term used for inflammation of the lining of the veins; thrombophlebitis or phlebothrombosis is the name applied if clots are present inside the veins at the same time.

Since inflammation of the lining of the veins is likely to bring about the formation of clots, thrombophlebitis is probably at least as common as simple phlebitis.

This (I am referring to both conditions as one) is certainly a miserable affliction. It can result from varicose veins, from injury, from too much bed rest, particularly in the presence of chronic disease, from certain blood diseases, and from a number of other things, though quite often no definite cause can be found at all.

There is increased emphasis today on trying to prevent phlebitis or thrombophlebitis. This involves a multiple line of attack, but has to be entirely under the direction of a physician responsible for the patient because the methods vary so much, and one must take into account other things besides the danger of developing these conditions.

Once phlebitis or thrombophlebitis have developed they should not be neglected, particularly because of the hazard of a clot breaking off and going to the lungs, causing what is known as a pulmonary embolism.

When either condition is acute, treatment includes absolute rest in bed, raising of the leg (if it is the leg which is involved) and application of heat.

After the acute inflammation has subsided the most important problem of treatment is to prevent swelling. Elastic bandages are particularly helpful in this kind of thing, but they must be properly applied.

Phlebitis or thrombophlebitis are hard to cure entirely and tend to come back. When this happens treatment is often difficult. It may be necessary to remove the inflamed veins by surgery if they are near the surface.

Seek Infection's Source

A thorough search for sources of infection is usually made, including examination of the teeth and tonsils. Treatments with small doses of X-rays and the use of one of the sulfonamide drugs or antibiotics may be helpful.

The prevention and treatment is being constantly improved. Early rising or mild exercise soon after an operation helps to prevent the blood in the veins from becoming stagnant. This does not appear to reduce the frequency of thrombophlebitis, but has cut down on pulmonary embolism. Some new drugs are also of help to prevent blood clotting.

HEADED FOR B.C. — On a bicycle built for three a young British family intends to travel across Canada from Quebec to Kelowna, B.C. George Whitford, 32-year-old wartime commando, his wife Margaret, 24, and son Jimmy, 2, sail this month for Canada from England. Practising on an English side-road, with mother and father on the tandem and the youngster in his own specially-built side-car, the Whitfords plan to settle in Kelowna where Mrs. Whitford's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Reed, have a fruit farm. SOUTH BOLTON

The rummage sale in the Women's Institute club-room was well patronized inspite of the rainy afternoon. The proceeds from same were very good. The Juniors sold candy during the afternoon, and the lucky ticket on the "Doily" made and donated by their Counselor, Mrs. R. C. Davis, fell to Mr. Thomas Cousens, of Bolton Centre.

Several from here attended the "Shower" given for Miss Frances Willey by Mrs. Westover at "Glenbrook," where she received many nice gifts.

Mrs. Lawrence White, received congratulations and gifts in honor of her birthday on April 28. She and her husband and son were tea guests at "Highland Farm."

Stratosphere Snapshots

ALUMINUM has been flying high in civil and military aircraft for a good many years. Recently Prof. Pierre Demers of the University of Montreal found a new use for this air-borne metal. He used aluminum to encase a camera which he sent aloft attached to a hydrogen-filled balloon in order to photograph cosmic rays, ten miles up in the cold and empty stratosphere.

From the luxurious interiors of modern transports to the white-hot heart of a jet turbine engine, aluminum is lending its lightness and strength to Canada's aircraft industry. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Interesting Facts Brought Out By Meeting Of Coaticook Stamp Club

Coaticook, May 6. — Presidents of the United States, military men, poets, inventors, authors and explorers all took a heavy licking in the United States during the past year and the job was done by hundreds of thousands of peace loving American citizens.

This was not a battle royal, however, and the men who received the licking did not mind in the least. As a matter of fact it was only a paper war. The men taking part in this one sided affair were the honored persons depicted on millions of postage stamps issued by the United States postal department. A total of twenty-two billion adhesive postage stamps, bearing the likenesses of dozens of well known American figures, were issued to, and licked by, the people of the U.S. last year.

All this came out at the Monday night meeting of the Coaticook Stamp Club, holding their regular assembly at the home of the president, Dr. Gustave Lajoie. A good attendance of regular members was noted and the club had one out of town visitor, Victor Coombs, of North Hatley, an ardent stamp collector. The interesting facts in regard to the U.S. issue was brought out by Ivor Whitehouse. On display at the meeting were several fine collections. Of special interest was a collection sent from Korea by Norman Lucier, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gledhill, who forwarded the stamps to Jay N. White, local collector. These stamps, although well made as far as engraving was concerned, were printed on a very poor grade of stamp paper and perforations were almost non-existent. Mr. Lucier is serving with the U.S. Army in Korea.

During the meeting the club decided to send a quantity of stamps to the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal in order that the young patients might have something of interest to while away their long hours during convalescence. Following the business period the members and guests spent a social hour and many of them exchanged stamps with others present.

The coming meeting of the club, on May 11, will be observed as "Canadian Night" and several fine collections will be on display. All collectors from the Townships are invited to attend and bring their collections with them. The meeting will be held at the home of Dr. Lajoie, on Cutting Street, in Coaticook.

Fiftieth Anniversary Service Was Held Of Danville's Advent Christian Church

Danville, May 6. — The local Advent Christian Church observed the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of the present church building on April 26 with special services.

Mr. A. C. Webb, church secretary, read an account of the dedication service on April 26, 1903, when Rev. F. L. Piper, editor of the "World's Crisis," preached the sermon and the pastor, Charles Shattuck, offered the prayer of dedication.

On the present occasion the Rev. Raymond Beecroft, managing editor of the "New World's Crisis," brought the message.

Mr. J. A. McCoy gave a brief historical sketch of Adventism in Danville. Early in the 1840's, meetings were begun in a grove near Taylor's Corner. In 1851, they organized and called as pastor Elder John Porter, grandfather of Dr. I. J. Porter. Later they moved to a permanent structure, a chapel across the brook from Water street, that served as a place of worship until the present building was opened in 1903.

The choir sang the anthem, "The Right Hand of the Lord," and Mrs. Ardice McCoy sang the solo, "The Is My Shepherd."

An interesting feature was a display of pictures taken during the fifty years, of Sunday School classes, picnics, etc., as well as pictures of all the pastors who have served the church since its organization.

Out of town guests at the service were Mr. Robert Sparkes, and Mr. with the singing of "Blest Be the and Mrs. Russell Perkins and small daughter and Mr. R. Gay, Belleville, Ont.

THE W. H. AND F. M. S.

The Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Advent Christian Church was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Webb, at Asbestos.

After all had enjoyed the supper, the Misses Zilda Perkins and Mary de Fee, took charge of the program of the evening, consisting of group singing, readings and an interesting contest on Bible characters.

THE CHILDREN'S GROUP

The following afternoon Mrs. W. Duperron, superintendent of the Cradle Roll and King's Jewels Department entertained the children at her home. Mrs. Ralph Perkins conducted the devotional meeting and led the children in singing the many songs and choruses they have learned. The offering of the day as well as the mite-box donations will be used for Mission work in India. Lunch was served to the children and several of the mothers by the hostess assisted by Miss Diane McCoy.

Vale Perkins W. A. Held Fine Meeting

Vale Perkins, May 6. — The Vale Perkins W.A. on April 28, met at the home of Mrs. Maurice Jewett, with Mrs. Fred Jewett and Mrs. M. Jewett acting as joint hostesses.

In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Mrs. Dorothy Brown, conducted the meeting which was opened with the recital of the Lord's Prayer.

The roll call was answered by the seven members present by each telling of an embarrassing moment, which naturally caused a great deal of merriment.

The minutes were read and approved, one bill was presented and ordered paid.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Maurice Jewett, who had chosen as her Bible reading, St. Matthew XXI; 17-22. Mrs. Jewett also read an interesting poem based on these verses. Mrs. Leverett Jewett led the group in prayer.

After the business session the meeting was brought to a close with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Two of the delightful features of this meeting were the May baskets and the Maypole. The little May baskets were made and decorated by Mrs. Leverett Jewett and Mrs. Maurice Jewett and were filled after the meeting with homemade candy made by the members. The May baskets were given to the older folk of the community on May Day.

The Maypole had been installed in the living room and was decorated by Mrs. Leverett Jewett and the children had an enjoyable time dancing around it.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Maurice Jewett assisted by Mrs. Leverett Jewett.

SERVE CANADA
Trained to strike hard at any threats to our freedom . . . soldiers like those of the airborne infantry are helping to guard Canada, ready to drop into action wherever danger threatens. The young man who joins the Army and has completed his Infantry training may then volunteer to start training for the proud wings of Canada's "Soldiers of the Sky."

AND YOURSELF
How does a man choose a job? He examines the pay; the working conditions; the opportunities for advancement; the financial security. From every one of these aspects an Army career is excellent. And more — no monotony of being stuck for years in one place; pension plans after 20 years service; medical and dental care whenever needed — without regard for cost or time. Opportunities for training and advancement in the Army today are truly outstanding. For the bright young man who is interested in his future — as well as Canada's — the Canadian Army Active Force has much to offer.

IN THE ARMY
Soldiering is a man's life! There are challenges and dangers. Overseas duty carries with it the excitement of new places and strange customs in distant lands. But wherever you go, in the Army, you know you can rely on your comrades, trained fighting men who share with you the action of military life. If you think an Army career is for you, enquire about the opportunities for service with the Infantry — the most important men in the Canadian Army.
You are eligible to join the Army if you are 17 to 40 years of age and able to meet Army test requirements. Applicants should bring birth certificates or other proof of age when reporting for interview.

District Official Pays Annual Visit To Golden Rule Lodge At Stanstead

Rock Island, May 6.—A regular communication of Golden Rule Lodge No. 5, A.F. and A.M., Stanstead, was held on Tuesday evening, April 28, with Worshipful Master U. E. Cargill presiding.

This was the occasion of the annual visitation of the D.D.S.M. of St. Francis district and R. W. Bro. James Corfield, of Sherbrooke, was escorted to the lodge by his suite of officers and presented by V. W. Bro. Robert Meekren.

The Fellowcraft degree was conferred upon Bro. George MacLeay, of Morgan, Vt. At the conclusion of the degree work R. W. B. Corfield, making his address to the lodge, brought greetings from the Grand Lodge and praised the quality of the work he had witnessed. The D. D., G. S. Harrington, of Richmond, also addressed the lodge.

After the meeting luncheon was served by J. W. Malcolm MacDonald and his assistants. At this time a toast was proposed to the Queen of England and to the President of the United States. A toast to the Grand Lodge, proposed by Bro. Lloyd Selby, was responded to by R. W. Bro. Corfield.

Representatives from lodges in Drummondville, Richmond, Sherbrooke, Magog, North Hatley and Georgeville were introduced and each spoke briefly. Wor. Bro. Maurice Moore and Bro. Howard Wells outlined plans for the sesquecentennial which is to be held on June 19, 20 and 21.

V. Wor. Robert Meekren and Wor. Bro. Robert Nourse both responded to their introduced in a humorous vein. A pleasant and profitable evening was closed by singing 'Auld Lang Syne."

LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid of Stanstead South Church was held on Thursday afternoon, April 30, at the church hall. Mrs. Harry Smith, president, presided over the meeting, which was opened with the singing of "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "He Lifteth Me." Miss Mirabel Robinson was at the piano. Mrs. Smith read from the Psalms and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

The secretary and treasurer gave their reports and a letter was read from the W. S. C. S. of Burlington, Vt., requesting the donation of a mile of pennies. A donation of money was voted to the Canadian cancer drive.

The persons having dishes at the church kitchen were requested to take them home. Those who wish may make known to the ladies of the societies what their dishes are, and steps will be taken to have them returned. There are some very nice dishes there and it seems a shame they are not claimed.

A "silent food sale" is planned for the next meeting to be held at the church hall on the afternoon of May 14. The meeting adjourned and a social hour was enjoyed.

At the tea hour 51 members and friends sat at the tables, made attractive with white covers and centred with vases of daffodils, and enjoyed the supper, served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. E. Grow and Mrs. Fayne Hovey.

Miss Agnes Greenwood was taken by surprise when she was presented with a birthday cake prettily decorated in white and green, all aglow with lighted candles in observance of her birthday on May 6. As the cake was being presented the gathering sang the "Birthday Song," and she was presented with a corsage of pink roses by Mrs. Goodall and Mrs. Brewer. Miss Greenwood also received numerous cards and gifts, along with the best wishes of her many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Belisle did not have any children of their own, but a niece, Miss Virginia Burril, made her home with them and was like a daughter.

WOMEN'S SOCIETY

The Women's Society of the Derby Line Universalist Church met at "Friendly House," with Mrs. Carl Nelson as hostess. Devotions were read by the president, Mrs. B. E. Holland, followed by the members repeating the Lord's Prayer.

A reading, "As Long as I Try," was given by Mrs. E. A. Young. Reports were presented by the secretary and the treasurer, and communications read.

It was voted to donate $25 to the Youth Fellowship to help a student with expenses to go to Ferry Beach. The apron committee is to purchase materials for making aprons at the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. L. H. Laythe on May 14.

The meeting adjourned and the hostess served dainty refreshments, assisted by her small daughters, Nancy and Anne.

Yanks Blast Indians 11-1 To Move Ahead 1½ Games

World Champs Jump On Bob Lemon And Successors For Total Of Twelve Hits; Parnell Wins 4th

Until Tuesday night, Cleveland Indians hadn't met New York Yankees this season. Today they were wishing they had let well enough alone.

The Yankees limped into Cleveland feeling mighty low. They were at the end of a rough six-game western road trip during which they had had to scramble to break even against second division teams.

The clubs were tied for the league lead. This was the big chance for Cleveland.

Well, the Indians blew it, but good. They got whopped 11-1, their worst licking this season.

Bob Lemon, Cleveland's best, duelled Whitey Ford, Casey Stengel's desperation hope, on even terms for three innings. Then came chaos.

Thirteen yankees went to bat in the fourth. Seven of them singled, two walked, one got hit and eight scored. While the New Yorkers still were parading monotonously to the plate, Lemon was taking a shower. He had failed for the second straight time.

Just to make sure that it wouldn't be close, the Yankees added three more runs in the fifth inning on a pair of singles and two walks.

The Indians came out trailing by 1½ games with the onrushing Boston Red Sox only a half game back in third place.

Boston took over third by whipping Chicago White Sox 5-1 while Philadelphia Athletics were succumbing to Virgil Trucks and St. Louis Browns 2-1, in the other night games in the American League. The A's, who had been third, slipped to fourth.

Washington blasted Detroit 14-4, in the only day game although each club got 16 hits.

Rain washed out the National League program—St. Louis at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at New York, Milwaukee at Brooklyn and Chicago at Philadelphia.

Bob Porterfield of the Senators lost seven games on shutouts last season. Tuesday coming to bat with the bases loaded, the Washington righthander slammed his first major league home run. The blow was the big one although the Senators got 15 other hits off Bill Wight and four other Tiger hurlers.

Mel Parnell of the Red Sox won his fourth straight without a loss, the best record in either league, as he scattered five Chicago hits. The White Sox scored only in the ninth when Jim Rivera singled. Saul Rogovin drew the loss, his fourth in a row.

Vic Qertz of the Browns took over the home run lead in the American League as he hit his fifth of the year with one man on base. The two runs were all Trucks needed to post his third victory against one loss as he bested young Harry Byrd in an errorless game.

Barclay Westgate of East Angus was elected president of the Eastern Townships Golf Association at the annual meeting held at the New Magog Hotel Saturday evening.

Mr. Westgate succeeds W. McGinnis of Asbestos as head of the local Association. Plans for the coming season were discussed and dates for E. T. golfing events were released as well as the various inter-club matches.

The Eastern Townships Open Championship, which is held over the Sherbrooke Country Club, will take place this year on August 15-16 while the E. T. Amateur, also held over the local course, will be held August 1-2. The E. T. The meeting decided to hold two local competitions for junior golfers with the first Field Day taking place over the tricky Mt. Orford Golf course on July 11. The E. T. Junior championship was allotted to the Victoriaville Golf Club, a new club which joined the Association this year.

The International competition which is played between golfers of the Eastern Townships and the State of Vermont will open with the first match of the annual event taking place at St. Albans, Vt., on June 28 with the return match slated for the Country Club on July 26.

Fourteen clubs were represented at the meeting and various subjects were discussed regarding the coming season. Peter Monk of Granby, P.Q.G.A. representative for the Townships, was on hand and he briefly outlined plans which the provincial Association was going to try out for the improvement of the game.

Mr. Monk mentioned that the Association intended to concentrate on building juniors and that a certain amount of money had already been allotted for this purpose. He stressed the point about clubs joining the Association and pointed out the advantages that could be derived from so doing.

The various clubs and their representatives follow: C. Alridge, A. L. Alridge, Dufferin Heights; R. Lebaron and G. Reilly, North Hatley; W. McGinty, Lennoxville; W. R. Cooling, Thetford Mines; C. Bill Diener Hurls One-Hitter As Miners Blank Granby; Carpentier Tosses Two-Hitter To Stop Royals

Two brilliantly pitched games highlighted play Tuesday night in the Provincial Baseball League.

Bill Diener hurled a masterful one-hitter to the delight of Thetford Mines fans in blanking Granby 6-0 in a contest caled after five innings because of rain.

Lefty Georges Carpentier gave up only two hits as St. Hyacinthe Athletics turned back Drummondville Royals 4-1. A disappointed crowd.

More than 2,900 fans turned out to watch the Miners and Diener, a right-hander sent down from St. Louis Browns, in their hometown debut. This is Thetford Mines' first year in organized ball.

Diener's cause was helped by two Granby errors, which also accounted for the Miners' six runs from only five hits. Bob Sassano went the route for Granby.

Carpentier, a French-speaking Canadian, had a big hand in leading the Athletics to the pennant last season. Both Drummondville safeties came in the first inning when the Royals scored their only run. St. Hyacinthe got to Fioravanti, who went the route for the Royals, for 10 hits.

In a game at St. Johns, Three Rivers Yankees and St. Johns Canadiens played to a 1-1 tie. The contest was halted after regulation time because of darkness.

Each club scored its run in the ninth inning. St. Johns' hurler Malcolm allowed only three hits, while his teammates got to two Yankee pitchers, Coughlin and Lizote, for five safeties.

A game between Quebec and Sherbrooke was postponed because the new Sherbrooke stadium is not yet ready. Officials said the park likely will be completed this week-end.

George Giguere Pays $9,400 For Emily Abbott

Saratoga Springs, N.Y. — (AP) — One hundred and ten horses brought a total of $83,780 in Saratoga's 10th annual spring standardbred sale.

The top price of $9,400 was paid Tuesday for Emily Abbott, a four-year-old trotting mare, by George Giguere of Montreal.

Members Too Much For Press, Win 23-3

Ottawa— (CP) —Take it from a butchered bunch of reporters, too many former athletes have been elected to Parliament.

The athletes-turned-politicians committed their annual atrocities against the parliamentary press gallery Tuesday night in a reputed softball match that drew more than 2,000 fans to Parliament Hill and brought more than $200 for European Flood Relief.

The score: 23-3. And it was just about that bad.

What former athletes like Lionel Conacher (L-Toronto Trinity), External Minister Pearson, Resources Minister Winters, George Hees (PC-Toronto-Broadview) and Tom Goode (L-Burnaby-Richmond) didn't do with their bats, the reporters did with their errors.

Conacher got two home runs, one on an infield hit that was so badly muffed that three other runners scored ahead of him. The other four mentioned were limited to one homer apiece.

Pitching: Mel Parnell, Boston Red Sox, scattered five Chicago hits in winning his fourth game without a loss 5-1, the best record in either league.

Los Angeles: Sal Flores, 160, Anaheim, Calif., stopped Bobby Lee, 152, Baltimore, Md. 8.

Sugar Ray Ready To Fight If Title Leaves Country

Columbus, Ohio — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson retired middleweight boxing champion, said today he would go back into the ring if the crown left the United States.

"I'm not planning to go back to boxing, you understand," Robinson told a reporter, "but I would if my friends wanted me to and especially if the crown left the country."

But he denied reports he is planning a ring comeback.

"I'm doing enough fighting here on the stage," he said. Robinson gave up boxing to become an entertainer. He is appearing in a Columbis night club.

Nearula Given Inside For Derby

London. —(AP)— William Humbie's Nearula was made a firm 11-to-4 favorite for the 1953 Derby at a call-over by bookmakers Tuesday.

Aureole, owned by the Queen, and Premonition, entered by Brig. W. P. Wyatt, are the 100-to-9 second choices.

Nearula easily won the one-mile Two Thousand Guineas, first of the season's classic races for three-year-olds, at Newmarket last Wednesday. Aureole was a fast-closing fifth and showed promise of running well over a longer route. The Derby is run at a mile and a half.

The 175th running of the Derby will be June 6, just four days after the Coronation.

Well-supported colts in addition to the top three were Empire Honey at 100 to 8, Good Brandy at 100 to 7, and Prince Canarina at 100 to 6.

Good Brandy, is owned by Robert Sterling Clark of Upperville, Va.

Woodcock May Get Comeback Chance

London. —(AP)— Bruce Woodcock, the badly-battered British boxer who "quit the ring forever" in 1950, may get his wish for a comback at 33.

At any rate, the Midlands area of the British boxing board of control has recommended to the full board in London that Woodcock be re-issued a boxing licence.

Two doctors looked Woodcock over. Both gave their okay. Now it's up to the full board.

Woodcock took everything in his stride after winning the British heavyweight title in 1942. Then came his dabble in the American market-and a five-round beating by Tami Mauriello. Late he met burly Joe Baksi, another American. The result was a broken jaw for Woodcock.

He tried a comback in 1950 only to be whipped by another Englishman, Jack Gardner.

Lloyd Lawrence Registers Only KO In Canadian Boxing Tourney; Burke Emery Forced To Default

Montreal—(CP)—Lloyd Lawrence, stylish boxer with a deadly right, not only remains Toronto's final hope today in the Canadian amateur boxing championships but he's the only fighter who has scored a full-count knockout in 28 bouts leading to the finals.

Lawrence polished off Ralph Hozak of Bar Head, Alta., in a day night. Lawrence threw a powerful right to the jaw that sent Hozak down for an eight count in the second round. A short stinging right to the same place stretched Hozak out for the 10-count at 2:13.

Lawrence tonight meets Paul Chyzy of Winnipeg, who had power and stamina in slugging his way to a decision over Gary Williams of Hamilton.

Tonight 10 champions will be declared in the various weight divisions.

Mountainous Jimmy Saunders, national heavyweight champion from Winnipeg, made good use of his 225 pounds in whaling out a decision over Calvin Brown, Korean veteran and navy man from Montreal. Brown entered the ring at 178 pounds.

Pete Kawulia, 125-pounder from Winnipeg, sent Gale Kerwin of Ottawa to the canvas for an eight count in the third round and took the decision. Tonight he meets Fernand Paradis of Montreal, who won a decision over Eddie Beattie of Hamilton.

Des Archer of Vancouver had too much ring savvy and straight punching for Laurie Webb of Winnipeg, winning his 147-pound semi-final by a technical knockout. In tonight's final Archer meets Danny Saunders, Hamilton, who defeated Roman Moraresh of Montreal.

Archer's teammate, Gerry Boucher who hails originally from Halifax, pushed his fists repeatedly into the face of Montreal's Raymond Gregoire to win easily in the 112-pound class. His opponent in the final is Pat Supple, Montreal, who swarmed all over Woodie Reid of Toronto and the bout was stopped at 2:31 of the opening round.

Trent Ketcheson of Halifax, a smart boxer, took a decision over Gordon Riddell of Edmonton who would have preferred Ketcheson try to slug it out with him. Ketcheson meets Elmer Gelzins of Hamilton for the 165-pound title. Gelzins won by default Tuesday night.

Freddie Deegan, another clean puncher from Halifax, used right uppercuts to advantage in gaining a decision over Sammy Fortuno of Montreal and will meet another Montrealer, Maxie Shears, for the title. Shears won by decision over Eddie Gilmartin, Montreal.

Perhaps Dick Irvin's And Frank Selke's Comments Helped St. Boniface In Their First Win; Fans Are Wondering

Winnipeg— (CP) —Manitoba hockey fans still are wondering whether it was Dick Irvin's sage advice or a telegram from sponsor Frank Selke that made St. Boniface Canadiens get hot in the fourth game of their Memorial Cup final against Barrie Flyers.

Monday night, the Habs goh back in the running of the Dominion junior hockey final by handing a 7-4 walloping to the Flyers, who needed only one victory to sew up the championship. The Flyers won the first three games, 6-3, 6-3 and 7-5. The fifth game will be played Wednesday night.

After last Friday's game when the Habs lost 7-5 coach Irvin, of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, remarked that St. Boniface had an advantage in weight but were not using it.

And prior to Monday night's fixture, Selke, Montreal's general manager, sent a telegram urging the Saints to "go out and win." The wire added if they lost the club must start building for '54 because "the Memorial Cup must return to the west."

Maybe it was a combination of both Irvin's and Selke's comments that inspired the St. Boniface players for they turned in their first good collective effort of the series. The defence threw caution to the wind as they tossed out body-check after body-check, and the forwards skated had both ways. Goalkeeper Hal Dalkie seldom has looked better.

One big difference in the Flyers was the absence of Tony Poeta from full-time action. The tiny wingman, who digs hard at all times, suffered a severe knee injury Friday and only showed for three turns. He is a doubtful started Wednesday.

The heavy ice also seemed to hamper the Flyers more than the Canadiens. An outside temperature of about 60 and a capacity house of more than 5,000 fans made freezing difficult.

Major League Managers Talk Trades; Yanks After Art Houtteman For Norven; Dodgers Seek Left-Handed Outfielder

New York—(AP)—Trade rumors are popping up again as the major league managers start pruning their rosters to meet the 25-player limit by midnight of May 14.

The most persistent of the rumors has the world champion New York Yankees seeking to wrest a right-handed pitcher from Detroit Tigers. Specifically, the Yankees are supposed to have offered outfielder Irv Noren for Art Houtteman.

Negotiations between the two clubs actually began in Florida last March. They were apparently resumed during the Yankees' recent two-day visit to Detroit. The Yankees also are interested in veteran infielder Johnny Pesky for utility purposes.

Brooklyn Dodgers are seeking a left-handed hitting outfielder. When Cincinnati was in Brooklyn, Dodge rManager Charle Dressen had Rogers Hornsby, Redleg skipper, closeted for an hour trying to pry Gus Bell loose from Cincinnati. Hornsby turned down the offer because it consisted of a couple of Dodger farmhands plus a third-rate pitcher.

Hornsby, in dire need of starting pitchers, also conferred with Leo Durocher, manager of New York Giants, when the Redlegs were at the Polo Grounds. It could not be learned what players, if any, were discussed.

The Giants, off to a start almost as miserable as the one in 1951 when they dropped 11 straight in April, may make a major deal before the trade deadline on June 14. Durocher is unhappy about his infield and his catching situation.

St. Louis Cardinals, for the time being, have abandoned efforts to acquire an experienced first and third baseman.

Manager Eddie Stanky is satisfied with the hitting of both Steve Bilko and Ray Jablonski but realizes that the two prize rookies are not finished products in the field. Stanky still hopes to land a second-string catcher to supplement workhorse Del Rice.

Ward Posts 67 To Lead Field In Dunlop Golf Event

Virginia Water, Eng. — (AP) — Charles Ward shot a five-under par 67 Tuesday to take the lead after the first round of the 90-hole 2,000-guinea Dunlop golf tournament.

Ward's round was shot on the 6,209-yard-east course at Wentworth Club. Bobby Locke of South Africa, playing his first British tournament of 1953, shot a more impressive 69 on the difficult 6,689-yard west course, to rank in a tie for fifth.

Par on each course is 36-36—72. The field changes courses Wednesday.

Henry Cotton, captain of the British Ryder Cup team which meets American Ryder cuppers here on the west course Oct. 2-3, had a west course 72.

"Little Mo" Chalks Up Win In Tourney

Rome — (AP) — While Italian riot police watched nearby to restrain enthusiasm, U. S. tennis queen Maureen Connolly gave 2,000 fans an eight-minute exhibition of net finesse Tuesday.

It took "Little Mo" just that long to dispose of her first opponent in the Italian international tennis championships. She beat Italy's Maria Laura Veronesi, 6-1, 6-0, to give a solid indication why she's seeded No. 1 in the tournament.

Later, Miss Connolly said apologetically she isn't at the top of her game.

Police were sprinkled among the spectators and outside the arena were stationed two jeep-loads of specialists in riot-handling. An inspector explained police didn't want a repetition of Gussie Moran's appearance here, when fans swarmed onto the courts to get a closer view of the California beauty.

Emms Complains On Refereeing

Winnipeg — (CP) — St. Boniface Canadiens were hot Monday as they downed Barrie Flyers 7-4 for their first win of the Memorial Cup finals but it was Coach Hap Emms of the Flyers who was burned up.

After three straight Barrie wins the unpredictable Canadiens suddenly outplayed the Flyers for the first time.

Emms yelped with horrors at the refereeing terming it the worst he had ever seen, said the ice surface was a pool of water and called the Winnipeg Amphitheatre a barn.

Win lose or draw tonight, the series leaves Winnipeg and if necessary will finish at Brandon.

Before the fourth game upset, the odds-makers would quote odds only on whether the Flyers would take the series four straight.

Today odds are 5-2 that the Flyers will win the fifth game and finish the set. There is no quote on the series outcome.

Red Wings Move Into Top Spot

Rochester Red Wings Tuesday night vaulted into second place in the International Baseball League and they can thank pitcher Cot Deal and some sharp infielding, spearheaded by Mexican shortstop Chico Mayer.

Deal, a hold-over right-hander, tossed a six-hitter as the Wings turned back the tail-end Cubs 5-3.

This gave Deal his first victory of the season and Rochester a slight percentage lead over Montreal Royals. Each club is a game behind the leaders, Toronto Maple Leafs.

In the only other scheduled contest, the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons rapped two Ottawa pitchers for 15 hits to rout the Athletics 5-1 under the lights at Buffalo.

Frank Lary allowed nine hits in winning his second game against one loss.

Dutchmen Out To Wrap Up Allan Cup Tonight; Lead Series 3-1; No Word On Protest Regarding Bobby Gillson

Kitchener, Ont.— (CP) —Take it from the fans: Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are going to win the Allan Cup tonight. The odds are 8-5 that they do.

The Dutchmen, leading the best-of-seven series 3-1, need only one more victory over Penticton V's to give Kitchener its first senior title since 1918.

Coach Bob Rafferty has an open mind on the subject.

The Dutchies seemed assured of victory after taking the first two games but they had the wind knocked out of them in the third Bobby Gillson, netminder of the Owen Sound Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, was taken on by the V's to replace the injured Ivan McClelland and the Owen Sounder made it a one-man victory when the V's won 2-1.

The Dutchmen immediately filed a protest to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, claiming it was unfair to be forced to compete with a goalkeeper from their own league. An airmail vote was to be taken by the CAHA but the outcome has not been announced as yet.

Bill Carse, Penticton's coach, had little to say about the outcome but his team appeared grimly determined and reasonably confident it can win at least one more game.

No major line-up changes are expected.

No Accident, Says Jockey Eric Guerin

New York — (AP) — Native Dancer would have won the Kentucky Derby if he hadn't been bumped on the first turn, jockey Eric Guerin insisted today adding that the collision with Money Broker "didn't look like an accident to me."

Al Popara was up on Money Broker, who barged into the Dancer early in the race.

"I could see what was in the boy's mind," said Guerin. "I could see it coming and he hit me. What was I supposed to do?"

But Popara, riding at Churchill Downs denied he bumped the Dancer intentionally.

"I'm sorry about the whole thing," he said in Louisville. "It is possible the bumping kept Native Dancer from winning, but when you have a string of victories, racing luck is bound to catch up with you.

"There were a lot of horses together when we hit the turn and I couldn't get back of Guerin's horse, so I tried to circle the Dancer. I actually though I had cleared Native Dancer, but my horse changed strides and I heard Guerin yell."

Guerin said that the Dancer would have won by five lengths if he had run his usual race.

Finland Wins Cup Round From Ireland

Helsinki — (AP) — Finland won the final two singles matches Tuesday to defeat Ireland 4-1 in the first round of the European zone Davis Cup competition.

Pentti Forsman downed Guy Jackson 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 7-5. Sakkari Salo topped Joe Hackett, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Finland next plays The Philippines. The match in Helsinki must be completed by May 19.

Boxing Association May Realign Weight Divisions In Near Future

Washington—(AP)—The National Boxing Association said Tuesday it may shuffle its weight alignments to give more fighters a chance at the in-between weight championships

Col. Harvey Miller, the NBA's executive secretary, said this will be one of the top items up for discussion at the association's executive committee meeting in Milwaukee May 16 and 17.

Miller said the NBA has not reorganized its weight classifications, despite a government report showing the average American of draft age is 10 pounds heavier than the average man who fought in the First World War.

The boxer weighing between 147 and 150 pounds is "tops in athletic prowess, pound for pound, over any other weight," Miller continued.

Under the present NBA setup, a fighter between 147 and 150 must train himself down under 147 to make the welterweight limit or must fight men 10 pounds heavier in the middleweight division, which goes up to 160 pounds.

"The idea," Miller said, "is to reorganize these weights and add a new division, say 155 pounds. Welters would be at 145 and middleweights at 165."

Suggestions have been offered for new weight divisions between featherweights 126 pounds and lightweights 135 pounds, and between light-heavyweights 175 and heavyweights unlimited.

"We'll take them all up at the executive committee meeting and arrive at recommendations to the put before the NBA's 34th annual convention in September," Miller said.

One of the chief items on the agenda at Milwaukee will be preliminary talks aimed at getting New York into the NBA. The New York commission has long fought against joining the NBA, but the association people are hopeful of resolving the situation at long last.

Another major source of discussion will be the matter of scoring fight cards. Boxing people have been busy for several months trying to work out an uniform system.

At present, some fights are scored on the basis of who wins the most rounds while others are scored on a point system. These point systems vary from state to state.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York—(AP)—Persons close to the explosive New York Giants situation will not be greatly surprised at anything that might happen soon, up to and including a trade which would send captain-shortstop Alvin Dark to another National League club. The feeling between Dark and his manager, Leo Durocher, is mutual. The stumbling Polo Grounders plainly need new pitching blood, and they could get a top hand from St. Louis Cardinals, possibly Gerald Staley, plus another player or two, if it were decided that Dark had outlived his usefulness under Coogan's Bluff.

One of the treats of the spring literary season has been the effort of the racing experts the last few days to explain Native Dancer's defeat in the Kentucky Derby without taking a swipe at the animal's rider, Eric Guerin. It has required a delicate balance. No one has wanted to be put in the position of second-guessing the little jockey, but at the same time there has been an insistent note of wonder at what he was doing during that long run to the first turn, where the Dancer got caught in a revolving door. Nobody seemed to have thought of it, but we imagine some vivid quotes could have been obtained from those who threw their thousands into the machines and backed the Vanderbilt gray down to a 7-10 favorite.

It is a pleasure to report that Rogers Hornsby is not permitting the plight of his Cincinnati Redlegs to distress him too greatly. He has some good hitters in his lineup, but they are as slow as Philadelphia Athletics and their pitching is a scandal. "I'm not missing a meal," said the Rajah. "I'm too old to do the playing for them. All I can do is put their names down on the lineup." Numbers of oldtimers with whom we have talked claimed Hornsby would have been a cinch to hit more than .400 every year with the super-rocket ball being banged over the laundries this season.

Saigh To Buy Paper Upon Release

St. Louis. —(AP)— Fred Saigh, former St. Louis Cardinal owner who surrendered Monday to begin a prison term for income tax evasion, was quoted as saying he plans to publish a St. Louis newspaper upon his release.

Saigh, who will serve his 15-month sentence in the Terre Haute, Ind., federal penitentialy, was quoted by sports editor Ellis Veech of the East St. Louis, Ill., Journal as saying:

Upon his release he and associates plan to publish an afternoon newspaper backed by capital sufficient to withstand competition for four years. He declined to identify his associates but said negotiations already are under way to buy a building.

St. Louis now has one afternoon and one morning daily newspaper.

Saigh will become eligible for a parole after serving one-third of his sentence.

Australia To Lead World In Research On Nuclear Physics

Canberra —(Reuters)— A mammoth synchroton, or atom-smasher, taking shape on a hill in the merino sheep country here, is expected to put Australia in the lead for two years in the field of high-energy nuclear physics research.

When completed about the middle of 1955, it will be the most powerful instrument available to the world's nuclear physicists seeking the answer to the fundamental problem—what holds nucleons together?

This synchroton, being constructed at the newly-founded Australian National University, is designed to generate 15,000,000,000 volts.

Professor Ernest Titterton, top-light British nuclear physicist carrying out experiments with the 1,200,000-volt accelerator already in operation in Canberra, says the new machine will open up a new and important range of experiments on nuclear forces.

It will be possible to make many forms of the meson particles, believed to be nuclear "glue," Brookhaven National Laboratory in the United States has the largest syichroton now in operation. It develops 3,000,000,000 volts.

The Australian machine should enable scientists to turn out the heaviest mesons ever produced.

Scientists here should be alone at this advanced stage of research until 1958 when the 30,000,000,000-volt accelerator planned by a group of Western European countries pooling their resources will be finished.

What research Russian scientists may be doing in this field is not known.

The fundamental idea for the synchroton design was conceived independently and almost simultaneously by Professor Ed McMillan, a United States scientists, and Dr. Vekster, Russian nuclear physicist. Vekster's paper on the subject in 1946 was the last report on atomic research to come out of Russia.

Britain To Give AV Instructions In Some Schools

London, —(CP)— A program of television instruction in secondary schools will be launched by British educational authorities as soon as financial conditions make the experiment feasible.

The plan to be applied to some 500 schools, involving an outlay of more than £100,000, has the support of the school broadcasting council and the British Broadcasting Corporation, now the country's exclusive TV broadcasting agency. The ministry of education is to absorb 60 per cent of the cost and the remainder will be raised through local taxation.

Sir George Gater, chairman of the school broadcasting council, said decision had been reached to go ahead with the scheme on a broader scale following successful tests last spring in six Middlesex schools.

Existing public wave lengths will be used to transmit the lessons so that parents may look in and assess their value through TV sets at home.

The BBC has undertaken to launch the project immediately the nation's economic situation becomes more favorable. Meanwhile, corporation officials are forming a nucleus of producers and are training writers in preparing programs to meet the special needs of the various school grades.

Each lesson, expected to last about 20 minutes, will be fitted into existing broadcasting schedules pending agreement with local authorities on detail for a more permanent setup.

The Coronation service at Westminster Abbey June 2 is the subject of many radio and television series which cover the historic event from all angles.

But the great and moving religious service itself is the subject of a series of talks to be broadcast in the last two weeks of May.

On this BBC series, Leslie Paul deals with the historical aspect of the ceremony, and recalls previous coronations from that of William the Conqueror in 1066 to the 1937 coronation of the Queen's father, the late King George VI.

Subsequent talks in this series are being given by Very Rev. Alan C. Don, dean of Westminster, who will describe the order and meaning of the service, and by Canon Adam Fox, archdeacon of Westminster, whose subject is the spiritual significance of the ceremony.

Campaign Started To Save A Famous British Clipper

By TOM O'CHILTREE

London — (AP) — A campaign has started to save the Cutty Sark, last of the true clippers, from the breakers' yards.

It comes just in time.

The old square rigger, 963 tons and beautiful even at her advanced age of 84, swings at her mooring in the Thames near Greenhithe. Near her chug the cargo tramps, tugs and lighters that now carry the commerce of the Port of London.

The Cutty Sark's paint is cracked and blistered. Her steel cables and anchor chain are rusty. Her masts and standing rigging that once towered to cathedral height, show signs of rot. The Cutty Sark is a sad sight for old shellbacks who look at her with an almost reverent gleam in their eyes.

The Cutty Sark Preservation Society, under the patronage of the Duke of Edinburgh, has appealed for £250,000 to save the ship. About £46,000 already have been subscribed or promised.

The plan is to recondition and re-rig the old windjammer and place her in a permanent dry berth near the Royal Naval College at Greenwich. There she would serve as a permanent memorial to the British merchantile marine.

In the evolution of sailing vessels, the clipper was the finest and almost the last development. Ships of this type were developed first in North America. They had yacht-like lines, low freeboard and were square-rigged on each of their ranking masts.

In the middle of the last century American clippers were queens of the seas. The Cutty Sark was one of the few British ships that could compete with the Yankee clippers. She always held her own.

The Cutty Sark was used in the China tea & Australian wool trade during her greatest years. In 1885 she made a passage from London to Sydney in 67 days. Clippers favored by the wind often could make faster passages than the steamships of that period.

Now the Cutty Sark is all that is left of the old breed. The others —the Flying Cloud, the Ann McKim, the Nightingale and the Witch of the Waves—long ago have foundered or been broken up.

Two men who served aboard the Cutty Sark as boys are monocled Capt. C. E. Irving, 81, who now operates pleasure launches on the Thames, and Capt. Richard Woodget, 75, whose father was a famous skipper of the clipper.

Standing on the Cutty Sark's deck, Irving watched a cargo steamer go by. Then he looked aloft and said: "The difference between these two is the difference between a blunt knife and a hollow ground razor."

Cowansville W.C.T.U. Met With Mrs. W. Lickfold

Cowansville, May 6. — Mrs. William Lickfold entertained the annual meeting of the Cowansville W.C.T.U. on May 1, at her home on Veterans Boulevard with a good attendance. Mrs. J. B. Moore presided.

Due to the illness of several members the annual had to be postponed from its usual date.

Fees were paid in answer to the roll call and officers were re-elected for 1953.

The reports of the treasurer and secretary and some departmental work were read and accepted, also the minutes of the February meeting.

Plans were completed for entertaining the County Convention, on May 21.

An enjoyable tea hour concluded the afternoon.

Mrs. George Hooper, of Fordyce, was a welcome guest at the meeting.

GENERAL NOTES

Gerald Thomas, of East Farnham, rolled the high single of 177 when the members of the United Church Young People's Union had their playoffs last Saturday night in the Cowansville Bowling Alleys. Alta Peron had the leading single of 111 for the ladies. Florence Longeway's team won the Young People's League championship with a 1599 cross. Winning team members were Gerald Thomas, Rev. Gerald Fee, Beth Hillhouse, Alice Longeway, Grace Peron and Wilma Beattie.

The United Church Tyro Boys group held their first meeting for 1953 in the East Farnham school on Friday. There were fifteen boys present and plans were made for a fishing trip on May 16. Allan Webb is the president and Roland Horner the secretary-treasurer.
