THIRD BRITISH SUBMARINE TO MEET A TERRIBLE FATE

Explosions on "A.-8" Wreck the and Kill Fourteen Out of Eighteen of her Crew—Gasoline Tanks Probably the Cause—Previous Disasters of Similar Kind.

Plymouth, Eng., June 8.—Submarine boat "A-8" was lost off the breakwater here this morning. Three explosions are said to have occurred on board before she foundered.

She had on board eighteen officers and men, including her regular crew and men who were in training. Fourteen of the number were drowned and the others were picked up.

The disaster occurred while the "A-8" was proceeding to sea for practice, accompanied by another submarine boat and a torpedo boat. Three explosions were seen from the shore to occur on board the "A-8," which suddenly disappeared. Tugs and divers immediately proceeded to the scene.

The submarine boat lies in eighteen fathoms of water. The first intimation of the disaster came from the boat herself signalling that she was submerged and could not come to the surface. A signal was received shortly before noon which said:

"All right up to the present."

Diving parties immediatey proceeded to the scene. Those who were saved were standing in the vicinity of the conning tower at the time of the disaster and were picked up by a passing trawler. They were Lieut. Candy, commander of the boat; Sub-Lieut. Murdoch, a petty officer and a seaman.

The lost boat was of about 300 tons displacement and was launched in 1904.

The sinking of the British submarine boat "A-8" recalls the sinking of the submarine boat "A-5" off Queenstown February 15 as the result of explosions on board the vessel and the sinking of the submarine boat "A-1" off Portsmouth, March 18, last year, as the result of being run down by a st the result of being run down by a steamer while the submarine boat was submerged.

The explosion on board the "A-5" was described as being so violent that it was heard ten miles away and shook the submarine's convoy, the Hazard, from stem to stern.

Six men lost their lives and twelve were seriously injured in this disaster.

The disaster to "A-1" was even more appalling. She was submerged near the Nave lightship, off Portsmouth, when she was run down by a steamer of the Donald Currie line and all on board of her, eleven officers and men, were drowned. The loss of the submarine boat was not known for some hours after the liner had reported to the manoeuvring fleet that she had struck a torpedo and after a long search the ill-fated submarine boat was discovered. It was presumed that the steamer in striking the submarine boat, upset her, spilled the gasolene in the tanks and rendered her helpless. The crew were battened down and were suffocated by the fumes of gasolene.

As an instance of the extraordinary precautions that have to be taken with the gasolene supply on these vessels, it may be mentioned that white mice are on the payroll of the British navy and are credited with a shilling a week pay. They are used on submarines, three always forming part of a submarine's crew. They are placed near the gasolene tanks to detect any escape of vapor.

The white mouse is extremely sensitive as to his olfactory nerves. When the submarines are under way the mice are carefully watched. When they set up a continuous squeaking it is time to look to the gasoline tanks, for these animals are able to detect the slightest leakage and at once give warning.

The Admiralty set great store by these little animals, and insist that they shall be carefully cared for. In addition to the shilling a week pay the mice are given full naval rations. Fearful that the money and rations might lead them to debaucheries, the "jackies" considerately draw the mices' money and rations and divide them among themselves.

The introduction of the mice has led to a new term in the navy. Submarines are now called "mousetraps."

The "A" and "B" Submarines.

The submarines first adopted in the British navy were of the American Holland type. Long after France had sanctioned their extensive construction. British naval experts were reluctant to admit the value of the new engine of warfare even after twelve months experimenting.

In 1903 building was started in earnest as a result of pressure in the House of Commons in the debates upon the navy estimates. The first series of five was known as "A" class, numbered one to five, a similar group numbered six to ten, came out in 1904 and it is apparently one of these which has met with the sad disaster.

The class now building are named "B" class, are much larger and believed to have overcome the dangerous risks which the crews of the original type ran.

The fatal accident occurred to one of the general group of "A's" which was almost blown to pieces owing to the ignition of the fumes from the gasoline tanks being ignited by the careless turning of an electric switch while the tanks were being filled.

A court-martial and prolonged enquiry followed this mishap and a radical change was made in the "B" type which have so far met with no serious mishap, though British naval men mostly retain the opinion that the value of the submarine for sea-going work will be proved to have been much exaggerated. The Japanese more serious experiments are said to have confirmed this view.

PREMIER MURRAY HAS DECLINED CHAIRMANSHIP

It is Still Regarded as Possible That He May Alter His Decision and Join Construction Commission.

Ottawa, June 8.—(Special.)—It is understood that Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, has been offered and has not accepted the chairmanship of the National Transcontinental Construction

PREMIER MURRAY OF NOVA SCOTIA.

Commission, made vacant by the death of Mr. F. B. Wade.

At the present time it is understood that Premier Murray feels he can perform a better public service by remaining at the head of affairs in Nova Scotia. It is possible he may be persuaded to alter his determination and lend the Construction Commission his great administrative capacity; otherwise some other Nova Scotian will be selected.

THE MILITIA CAMPS AND SMALLPOX.

Ottawa, June 8.—A militia order discloses the fact that extraordinary precautions will be taken to prevent all possible danger of smallpox contagion being introduced into the camps of instruction. None but individuals who have good vaccination marks, or who can show evidence of having had smallpox, will be permitted to go into or remain at camps.

His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to grant the applications of the officers commanding the 5th Regiment Royal Scots of Canada, Highlanders, and the 21st Regiment Canadian Highlanders, to be made allied regiments of the Black Watch (Royal Highlanders) and the Princess Louise (Argyll and Sutherland) Highlanders, respectively.

CAPTAIN'S FOLLY LOSES TWO LIVES.

Port Stanley, Ont., June 8.—(Special.)—While trying to dodge the Canadian revenue cruiser Vigilant, Capt. Dunn, the fishing tug Grace M. Lorrain came into collision with the cruiser and sank. Captain Dunn rescued Captain Galbraith, Engineer William Rulieson, and D. Popelwell, a fisherman. Two fishermen were drowned, Martin Olsson, of Cleveland, and William Anderson, of Lorrain. Capt. Galbraith, of the tug Grace M., admits that Captain Dunn was in no way to blame, and that he should have obeyed Capain Dunn's signals, and stopped his boat when ordered to do so.

Fine and Warm

To-day—Fair and a little warmer; to-morrow, moderately warm and showery. Very unsettled conditions are prevailing throughout the Dominion. The disturbance which caused rain in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec yesterday has passed off the Atlantic coast, but another apparently of the same type is approaching the great lakes from the West.

The minimum and maximum temperatures in the last twenty-four hours in Montreal were 40 and 60. The record at various other points yesterday was as follows: Dawson, 42, 72; Victoria, 48, 64; Kamloops, 50, 76; Calgary, 44, 74; Edmonton, 48, 74; Prince Albert, 48, 76; Qu'Appelle, 50, 74; Winnipeg, 48, 76; Port Arthur, 34, 76; Parry Sound, 46, 58; Toronto, 48, 58; Ottawa, 44, 58; Quebec, 38, 70; St. John, 46, 62; Halifax, 32, 64.

Wonderful Experiment of Prof. Thomson with High Voltage in the Body

Lynn, Mass., June 8.—To demonstrate how little danger there is in electrical force when properly handled, Prof. Elihu Thomson, of this city yesterday permited over a half million volts to pass through his body without displaying the slightest tremor or experiencing the slightest physical discomfort from the test. The demonstration was made for the benefit of the members of the Commercial Club of Boston.

Prof. Thomson adjusted a special apparatus to his body and a high frequency current was used. Suddenly there was a flash from the finger tips and great sparks flew into the air, illuminating two incandescent lights that were held two feet from the fingers.

Getting Even.

During the South African war the censorship of soldiers' letters home was very strict. One soldier, who always sent an account of the doings of the regiment, which account was always blotted out by the censor, laid a plan for revenge. At the foot of his next letter he wrote, "Look under the stamp." The censor did so, after spending considerable time in steaming the stamp from the enclosure. And he found these words: "Was it hard to get off?"

EMERSON-VASSAR LINE SIGNIFICANT

Cuts Out Winnipeg From Its Exclusive Position as Traffic Centre.

Despatches from Manitoba announce that the Canadian Northern will construct a branch from Emerson to Vassar, Manitoba, so that the wheat rush in the fall may be handled direct from Southern Manitoba points to the lake; without shipment through the congested yards near Winnipeg.

This announcement is rather significant, and the Winnipeg press is considerably agitated about it. It is pointed out that the South-Western Manitoba system of the C.N.R., which it is proposed to link up to Lake Superior independently of Winnipeg, is the most prolific district in the West. The company asserts that this strategic move is necessitated by the pressure on the Winnipeg terminals, which promises to be intensified in a short time when the new main line to Edmonton comes intot full operation. Winnipeg may be expected to make a lively kick against a policy that menaces her position as gateway of the West, and threatens the tolls, if not in cash at least in kind, she levies on traffic going east and west. The whole principle of grain inspection will also be liable to modification under the proposed developments, for at present every car of Canadian eastbound grain must pass through Winnipeg, and an elaborate system of inspection en route has therefore been established, while Winnipeg has also been the principal market for country farms and elevator concerns. At the same time the exclusive interests of Winnipeg wholesalers are likely to be seriously affected by a line that will offer alternative entry into the West. Considering the amount done by the Provincial Government for this company, and particularly the recent guarantee of $100,000 for C.N.R. terminals at Winnipeg, strong representations are expected to be made from influential quarters.

CONTRACTORS DO NOT FEAR GENERAL STRIKE

Do Not Expect That There Will Be General Movement Among Carpenters.

The carpenters' strike question is no further advanced. Contractors do not seem to anticipate a general strike. The Bleury Street strike, affecting the firm of J. D. Loomis yesterday, was only a matter of some hours. The question of supply and demand may settle the matter. At all events there are more carpenters than jobs and the approach of fall and winter to a protracted strike would act as a deterrent to a general strike.

According to Mr. Lauer, secretary of the Builders' Exchange, there appears to be more of undefined restlessness than disposition to strike on the part of skilled workmen. As regards unskilled workmen there is a large supply of unskilled labor on the market and a very good class of immigrants, Italians, Swedes, etc., are coming into the country in anticipation of the Grand Trunk pacific project, a fact that militates strongly against sustained action on the part of unskilled labor.

RUSSIA QUIETLY FEELING FOR JAPAN'S PEACE TERMS

Still Determined, However, to Pay No Big Indemnity—Kaiser and Roosevelt Get Together as Peacemakers Without Waiting for Other Powers Rojestvensky's Losses.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—It now transpires that Ambassador Meyers' audience of Emperor Nicholas had been preceded by a family council at Tsarskoe-Seto, at which it is understood the decision was reached that peace was entertainable if Japan's conditions were not too onerous.

Gunsha Pass (108 miles north of Fie Pass), Manchuria, June 8.—According to reports received by Gen. Linevitch from naval officers who have arrived at Vladivostok, the losses of Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet were from 9,000 to 10,000 officers and men killed or drowned, and about 5,000 prisoners.

Gen. Batjanoff (commander of the third Manchurian army), addressing the troops yesterday on the occasion of the Empress' birthday, told them he hoped soon to be able to telegraph the news of a Russian victory to her Majesty. Later, in conversation with the correspondent of the Associated Press, the General declared that the defeat of the fleet was a sad and hard blow, but it would not affect the morale of the troops, who, with the doggedness of the Russian soldier, were prepared to fight on so long as the Emperor gave the word.

"If the sea is lost," he added, "Russia can still be victorious on land. Peace unless Japan is reasonable is impossible."

Probing for Japan's Terms.

Paris, June 8.—It is definitely known that the Russian Foreign Minister, Count Lamsdorff, seconded by M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, has initiated overtures through the Russian representatives abroad to learn Japan's disposition and terms of peace. These overtures, it is said here, began three days ago, and were the basis of the decidedly more hopeful view which the officials began to have. At the same time it was then and still is recognized that Count Lamsdorff and M. Witte represent the peace element, and it is not yet clear how far the movement is shared by the Emperor. However, Count Lamsdorff's position gives the overtures the force of coming from responsible quarters, whereas the previous movements lacked official origin.

This clears the way for conversations between officials and diplomats here and at other capitals which are now actively going on. These necessarily are circuitous owing to Russia's inability to approach Japan directly. M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador here, has already conferred with the French authorities, who are fully aware of the desires of Count Lamsdorff and M. Witte. The change of the Foreign Office portfolio from M. Delcasse to Premier Rouvier caused a slight delay, but there is every indication that M. Rouvier will lend strong aid toward bringing the parties together. British and American influences are chiefly relied upon to move Japan now that Count Lamsdorff and M. Witte have made the preliminary approaches. Diplomats here hold the view that Tokio would prefer to continue the war until Vladivostok is taken, and all the territory up to Lake Baikal is under Japanese control. The diplomats also believe that Tokio will hesitate to lay down terms until it is clear that Emperor Nicholas is willing to treat for peace.

GERMAN-AMERICAN PRIVATE PEACE SCHEME

Berlin, June 8.—The interviews Baron Speck Von Sternberg has had with President Roosevelt and the cable correspondence between the ambassador and the Foreign Office here resulted in the President and the Emperor finding that they had identical views on the subject of peace and were nearly of the same opinion as to the method of drawing Russia and Japan into negotiations. The joint view appeared to be others, including France and Great Britain, ought to be left out because to be sure of a community of views among all would be a slow and cumbersome business and would impress Russia as taking on the character of outside pressure. This is precisely what, as the Associated Press is informed, President Roosevelt and Emperor William wish to avoid. They wanted the Emperor of Russia to take the initiative and sought only that he should avail himself of the American and German Governments as instruments for making the first step toward peace easier. The Russian Government was informed through Count Cassini, Count Alvensleben (the German ambassador at St Petersburg), Mr. Meyer and Count Von Osien-Sacken (the Russian ambassador at Berlin), of what the United States and Germany were seeking, so that Ambassador Meyer's audience of Emperor Nicholas was prepared for in the fullest manner.

The understanding here is that Emperor Nicholas went so far as to say to Ambassador Meyer that he would like to know what Japan's terms would be. This inquiry was not to be construed as asking for peace, but only as telling friends that before taking so grave a step on their advice the Russian Government might properly and naturally desire to know through those friends how Japan regarded peace.

Japan, it is believed in Government quarters here, will be reluctant to lay down specific peace conditions—far more reluctant than at any stage of the war, because preparation has been made to carry the campaign to Russian territory, take Vladivostok and Harbin and then exclude Russia from the Pacific. Unless her high conditions are complied with this is a crude expression of what is thought to be Japan's immediate policy.

Nothing Heard in Washington.

Washington, June 8.—M. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, had a conference with the President soon after the latter's arrival at the executive offices to-day. The ambassador was with the President for about half an hour. At the close of the interview, Ambassador Jusserand said that he could not discuss the object of his call. Pressed for a statement as to whether peace negotiations were in progress, he replied that he could say nothing; that he had no news. He said that if anything at all were to be made public it would have to come necessarily from President Roosevelt.

Acting Secretary of State Loomis called on the President immediately after the visit of Ambassador Jusserand. While he would admit nothing as to the nature of his visit

RUSSIAN PRESS SHOWS NOTABLE CHANGE OF TONE

St. Petersburg, June 8.—There is a significant change in tone on the part of some of the Russian newspapers like the Novoe Vremya, which never heretofore have even admitted the possibility of the conclusion of hostilities until Russia has recovered her military prestige by a victory. To-day the papers discuss calmly the advisability of ending the war if Japan's terms are reasonable. The payment of a big indemnity, they declare, would be too humiliating. The Novoe Vremya says bluntly that if Japan asks too much it will pay Russia to prolong the contest indefinitely, while the Russ argues that if representatives of the Russian people are called together, Japan will see herself confronted by the whole nation, and she will readily agree to reasonable terms.

"Even the revolutionists," the Russ adds, "are not traitors. They are fighting the present rotten bureaucracy and not the mother country. They would not tolerate a disgraceful peace."

Regret for Delcasse.

Universal regret is expressed in official circles at the retirement of M. Delcasse, until recently French Minister for Foreign affairs. He was regarded as a true friend of Russia, was a personal friend of Foreign Minister Count Lamsdorff, and was a sincere and unequivocal supporter of the dual alliance. The Novoe Vremya says:

"We know how to appreciate true friends. We have so few of them."

The Russ and the Slovo consider M. Delcasse to be the vicitim of trying to play the impossible role of a connecting link between two rivals, Russia and Great Britain. The Slovo says.

"M. Delcasse's policy was ever directed towards the isolation of Germany, but he forgot that an alliance with Great Britain would ruin any political system aimed against Germany. The British alliance has not helped France in Morocco, but it has embroiled her with Germany. M. Delcasse pays the penalty by retiring, as complications can be easier avoided with him out of the Cabinet, and his retirement will not affect the dual alliance."

Russians Still Flee on Land.

Tokio, June 8, 1 p.m.—Imperial army headquarters made the following announcement to-day:

"At 11.30 o'clock on the morning of June 7 a body of Russians, some 160 strong, advanced from the direction of Sumiaotsz, about a mile and a quarter east of Yinyipienmen, but were met and repulsed by us on an eminence lying north of that place. The enemy fled in confusion toward Nienyiling, seven miles northeast of Yinyipienmen.

"One soldier and two saddled horses were captured.

"With the exception of skirmishes between scouts on both sides, there is no change to report elsewhere."

A Cargo For Sale.

Nagasaki, June 8.—It is reported here that the Japanese are offering the cargo of the British steamer Oldhamia, re-captured by them from the Russians, for sale.

No Time For Peace.

Vienna, July 8.—It is learned here that the Russian Government has informed its diplomatic representatives abroad, including Count Cassini, the ambassador at Washington, that the time for Russia to conclude peace has not yet come, and that when it does arrive Russia will open peace negotiations with Japan, independent of foreign intervention.

Fight to Bitter End.

Paris, June 8.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Temps says that as a result of the conferences at Tsarskoe Selo the partizans of peace are considerably discontented. A war to the bitter end is foreseen. The British and American ambassadors deny that they have been charged to take any steps toward opening any negotiations for peace.

THE QUESTION OF THE MILITARY SCHOOL SITE

Delegation Will Go to Ottawa To-morrow to Decide Important Question.

The question of a suitable site for Montreal's military school, as well as the possible cession to the city of St. Helen's Island and Lafontaine Park will be settled to-morrow, when a delegation composed of Ald. Vallieres, Robillard, Lavalle, Nelson, Sadler, L. A. Lapointe, and City Clerk Hon. L. O. David, will go up to the capital.

It will be recollected that the city has offered the sum of $200,000 for the park and 224 acres of the Lalonde property in return for St. Helen's Island and a settlement of the late "strike" claims. Whether or not the school will be placed on Lafontaine Park is not yet decided.

CHAMPLAIN CANAL TIED UP.

Fort Edward, N.Y., June 8.—The whole Champlain canal will be tied up for at least two weeks and a large outlay of money will be required to repair damages as a result of breaks in the canal here and at Moseskill during the night. At this place the east and west banks of the river were washed out, the aqueduct which conveys water from east creek under the canal was seriously damaged and a hole 15 feet long and extending twenty feet below the level of the canal was torn in the embankment. All the water in the canal on the five mile level ran out flooding lands in the vicinity, destroying tow paths and stranding many canal boats. The damage caused by the leak at Moseskill was of a similar nature, but not so extensive as here.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY APPLAUDS GOV.-GEN.

Dr. Armstrong Chosen Moderator—Dr. Milligan's Sermon.

Kingston, Ont., June 8.—(Special.)—Rev. Dr. Milligan, of Toronto, opened the thirty-first General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in the new Grant Hall yesterday evening, by conducting the preliminary service and delivering a sermon on "The Word of God." What the Church needs to-day, said Dr. Milligan, is a ministry appreciative of the distinction between the living and literary word, the word of power which is the abiding source of all religious phenomena, which are never repeated in the same form. Principles are repeated or are rather perpetually operative, as the ground of warning in the text shows, but formalities never, as they belong to the category of vain repetitions. It is to be remembered that the supreme interest in scripture is spiritual and neither literary nor historical. Its records have as their sole purpose the furnishing the man of God completely with good works. The advocacy of any other purpose for scripture is to divert it from its divinely appointed end, to rob it, therefore, of its power, and to teach for doctrines the commandments and theories of men. As we confront men with the living word we furnish them with the true meaning of life here and hereafter. Such an interpretation of life the world never stood more urgently in need of than at the present time.

INTRODUCTORY BUSINESS.

After the service the General Assembly transacted the general introductory business. A letter was received from Rev. Dr. Warden, associate clerk with Rev. Dr. Campbell, regretting his inability to be present on account of illness. A resolution of sympathy was ordered to be sent to Dr. Warden.

In taking leave of the chair the retiring moderator, Dr. Milligan, referred to the fact that Earl Grey, the new Governor-General, had made a departure in inviting the Presbyterian General Assembly moderator to a State dinner last January. He had attended the function and Earl Grey had afterwards told him that he had heard of the great work the Presbyterian Church had done and was doing in Canada, and he believed in this country, where there was no state church, in recognizing all churches. His Excellency sent his greetings to the Assembly, an announcement received with applause. Dr. Milligan said it was good to know that the Governor-General was taking such an interest in the religious aspect of our national life.

DR. ARMSTRONG UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN.

He then called for nominations for Moderator for the ensuing year. For this office Rev. Dr. William Armstrong, for thirty years pastor of St. Paul's Church, Ottawa, was nominated by Rev. Prof. Bryce, of Winnipeg, and supported by Mr. George Hay, of Ottawa. This was the only name advanced, and he was declared elected by acclamation. On assuming the chair, Dr. Armstrong was warmly greeted, the assembly rising while the retiring Moderator installed him into the highest office in the gift of the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Armstrong said he was deeply touched by the honor bestowed upon him. It was a principle of his life never to seek a responsibility, and it was also a principle of his life never to shirk a responsibility. He thought it a matter of congratulation that there was no burning question to come before the assembly.

A vote of thanks was moved to the retiring Moderator, and in acknowledging it Dr. Milligan took occasion to welcome the assembly to the magnificent hall erected as a memorial to the late Principal Grant. Several standing committees were then appointed. Rev. J. W. McMillan, of Winnipeg, was appointed associate clerk in place of Rev. Dr. Warden, and Rev. Dr. Somerville, of Owen Sound, chairman of the business committee.

London, Ont., is asking for the General Assembly to meet there in 1906.

The election of Rev. Dr. Armstrong as Moderator at a comparatively early age is regarded as a new departure. He is a Canadian born, and a man of action.

Mayor MacFarlane will address the assembly to-morrow, and ask all to be the city's guests on Saturday afternoon among the Thousand Islands.

The Queen's graduates lunch together on Friday at noon.

(From the Chicago Journal.)

The Czar of Russia and the Emperor of Germany might, if they please, dispute with each other as to which of the two owns the greater number of palaces. Each might sleep in a different house every night for a month and not exhaust the number of his various dwelling places. The Czar is said to own many country seats—which are kept up in every detail, furnished and furbished and crowded with servants—into which he has never set foot. King Edward of England, while regularly occupying only four, has a dozen or more houses which are ready for him at all times.

"What is it?" asked the Junior Partner with great Excitement.

PROFESSOR TORY ON WESTERN SCHOOLS

Finds Existing Compromise System Workable Under Local Conditions.

Winnipeg, June 8.—(Special.)—Dr. H. M. Tory, professor of mathematics in McGill University, was in the city yesterday, returning from a business and pleasure trip of two or three months among the mountains and over the prairies. At Calgary and Edmonton, two little colleges springing up in the interests of higher education were visited and found doing excellent work.

Dr. Tory inquired somewhat closely into public school affairs in the West, but was somewhat reluctant about giving his views upon subjects in the discussion of which so much acrimony had already entered. He had been at some trouble, he admitted, however, to see a good deal of the Northwest schools. He had found the people, without exception, entirely satisfied with them. He thought the measure of compromise the Haultain Government had reached in the present school system to be without doubt the most workable and satisfactory to meet conditions in the West. Western people would not think of exchanging their system for any in Canada, not even for that of Ontario. The manner in which the system was meeting the requirements of new settlements might be gathered from the fact that no fewer than two hundred and seventy new districts were being formed this year. Among these were few, if indeed any, separate schools.

NO SIGNS OF A BREAK IN THE JEWELLERY STRIKE

With regard to the strike among the employes of Mr. Wm. Bramley, manufacturing jeweller, 643 Craig street, the management of the concern points out that they simply reserve the right to charge for shortage. Recently shortage or loss on working material has been as high as 10 to 12 per cent., whereas Mr. Bramley contends that it should not exceed two or three per cent.

The interests of the men, he holds, are properly safeguarded. Each man is provided with a cash box to contain the gold with which he works, and no one alone holds the key of that box, there being no duplicate. Every night these boxes are locked away in the safe, and no man can secure the box of another even to carry it across the shop to the man who uses it. Any employe infringing this rule would be promptly discharged. While perfectly aware of the fact that there must be shortage, the fact that this shortage of late has been out of all proportion, compels Mr. Bramley to safeguard the interests of his concern. Depreciation through shortage is allowed for in the cost of production, but when this depreciation amounts to 10 or 12 per cent. of the value of material sold, there is barely margin for profit.

There is no change in the strike situation. The four delegates from the employes who met the management Tuesday afternoon were empowered to accept conditions, but although they were prepared to sign a resolution ending the strike, the men would not consent to the conditions being accepted.

JOHNSTON-EVANS.

St. Michael's Church, Bergerville, three miles from the city of Quebec, on the St. Louis Road, was the scene of a very pretty and fashionable wedding to-day, which was attended by the elite of the Ancient Capital and guests from elsewhere.

The auspious occasion was the marriage of Dr. John Alexander Johnston, of Lachine, now practising his profession in Quebec, to Miss Anna Muriel Evans, eldest daughter of Mr. Lorenzo Evans of the firm of Dobell, Beckett & Co., Quebec. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Dean Williams, of Quebec English Cathedral, assisted by Rev. Canon Von Iffland. The bride, who was given awy by her father, was gowned in white liberty satin, with trimmings of point lace and ruchings of satin, tulle veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid-of-honor was Miss Mildred Evan, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Marian Mills (Montreal) and Miss Agnes Johnston (Lachine), who wore shirred dresses of pink messaline silk, pink crepe de chine hats, and carried pink roses, and wore as ornaments amethyst necklets, gifts of the groom. The best man was Mr. James Johnston, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. A. C. Dobell and G. D. Evans, J. B. Donnelly (Sherbrooke), Ian Briskey, Dr. W. LeM. Carter and Capt. Basil White, of Quebec. The interior of the church, which was filled with guests, was very prettily decorated with white lilac and palms. After the wedding ceremony the bride and groom, followed by the guests, drove to the residence of the former's parents close by, where a very recherche wedding breakfast was served and afterwards a reception was held. In the meantime Dr. and Mrs. Johnston took their departure by the afternoon C.P.R. train for Montreal New York, en route to Europe, where they will spend their honeymoon. The travelling costume worn by the bride was a brown homespun suit trimmed panne velvet and brown hat to match.

A great number of beautiful presents were received by the bride. From Mr. Lorenzo Evans, father of the bride, cheque; Mrs. Evans, mother of the bride, household linen and cheque. Among the Montrealers who sent gifts were:—Miss Marion Mills, silver candle stick; Mr. and Mrs. Cave Brown-Cave, syrup jug; Mr. Coghlin, picture; Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Johnston, Lachine, chest of silver; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Lachine, silver bonbonniere; Miss Phyllis Porteous, ornament in R. Z. ware; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coulson, vase; Miss Rachel Dawes, silver dish; Miss G. Dunlop, silver frame; Mr. H. Geary, silver spoons; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mills, pearl necklace; Mr. G. Johnson, Lachine, cheque; Mr. Ernest Johnson, cheque; Mr. W. Johnson, cheque; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ogilvie, bouillon cup.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

A most successful concert was given last evening at St. Margaret's Home, under the auspices of the Boys' Sunshine Club of Westmount. Several charming songs were given by Mr. W. Leigh and Miss Presho, accompanied by Miss Florence Watson. Miss Edith Allen's fancy dances were also much appreciated. A feature of the evening was the playing of the bagpipes by Pipe-Major Robert Starke, and when the first strains of "The Campbell's are Coming" was heard through the halls it brought tears of joy to the many old people of the Home who hadn't heard "Its like" for many a long day.

AMERICAN WIVES OF ENGLISH PEERS

English Writer Says Many of Them Are Childless, Unlike Colonial Women.

An interesting discovery which has been made by a writer in the Contemporary Review has been causing considerable talk in society circles in England of late.

He finds that the failure of motherhood among young American heiresses who have married titled Englishmen is most marked, while the influence of colonial women on English society is not only more wholesome, but likely to be more permanent.

In his opinion colonial influence in England is masculine, vigorous and wholesome; American influence is feminine, frivolous and fleeting.

OFFERS STARTLING FIGURES.

He offe some striking remarks concerning the "invasion" of England by American heiresses. Since 1840 thirty British peers or sons of peers have married in the United States. Of these thirteen have no children at all, five have no sons and five have only one son.

The total number of peers' children with American mothers is thirty-nine, of whom eighteen are sons.

During the same period twenty-three peers or eldest sons of peers have married in the colonies. Four have no children, seven have one son, eight have two sons and two have three sons. "That is to say," is the writer's comment, "though the number of colonial peeresses is seven less than the number of American peeresses, they have nearly twice as many children, and, while six of them have neglected to present their husbands with an heir, nineteen Americans are guilty of the same neglect.

"In the lower ranks of the aristocracy,' the writer proceeds, "figures are even more startling. Of Americans who are wives of Englishmen with a courtesy title or a baronetcy, there are forty-four. Of these, seventeen, or nearly half, have no issue, and eight have only one child each.

THIRTY ARE CHILDLESS.

"It therefore comes to this, that since 1840 the number of titled Americans, exclusive of knights' wives, has risen to seventy-four, of whom thirty are childless and fourteen have but one child.

"Moreover, there is not a single distinguished peer's son with an American mother, whereas there are several with colonial mothers."

The writer's figures may be summarized as follows:

Americans of title, thirty peeresses, thirty-nine children.

Twenty-two wives of baronets, forty-two children.

Twenty-two with courtesy title, twenty-six children.

Thirty wives of baronets, 102 children.

Forty-two with courtesy titles, 101 children.

"In the face of these figures," the writer concludes, "the contention that by means of American brides fresh vigor may be imported into the British aristocracy is merely ridiculous."

A VERSATILE KENTUCKIAN.

(From the Louisville Post.)

The thriftiest man in the United States lives in Louisville. He has trades that fit the climate, season or time of day. As an example of his wonderful versatility, a friend tells the following story of an average day in the life of this strenuous man:

One morning last week he started out with a rug to sell on commission for an instalment house. He sold the rug, and then came back and took out a clock, which he also disposed of. About noon he was called by an undertaker to embalm a body, which he did. Another undertaker sent for him to drive a hearse to the cemetery, and after he had disposed of this errand satisfactorily he preached a short sermon at the grave.

He drove the hearse back to town and filled in an afternoon for a candy maker who was taken suddenly ill.

In the evening he worked from 6 till 8 o'clock in a barber shop, and from that hour until midnight set type on a daily newspaper.

Y.M.C.A. BUILDING WAS DAMAGED BY AN EARLY MORNING BLAZE

Starting in the Gymnasium, Flames Caused Damage to the Extent of $10,000 in the Interior of the Building—Boarders Had an Interesting Escape.

Fire broke out about six o'clock this morning in the gymnasium of the Y. M.C.A. Building on Dominion Square, and spread through an unusued dumb waiter as far as the fourth floor. The fire itself spread little beyond the shaft in which it ran, except on the fourth floor, where it gutted the apartments occupied by the Mount Royal Business College. All the flats however, in the north end of the build ing are seriously damaged by smoke and water. The loss is variously estimated at from $5,000 to $10,000 though no offfcial valuation has yet been made. The loss is entirely covered by insurance. There were forty-five boarders in the building, mostly on the fifth floor. All escaped without injury, though some declare they were nearly suffocated by the smoke.

The fire was discovered shortly after six o'clock by Mr. Paviour, the night watchman, and Mr. Hart, a boarder. The watchman had been outside the building for some time, wshing off the sidewalk, and on entering, descended to the gymnasium, where he and Mr. Hart, who had come down to exercise, saw smoke pouring from the lower end of the dumb waiter, which runs from the basement to the top of the building. They immediately sent in an alarm both by telephone and by alarm box; and then getting out the private hose they had a stream playing on the flames by the time the brigade arrived.

THE FIREMEN WERE PROMPT.

The arrival and work of the firemen was most prompt, and they managed to get control of the flames before they had spread too far. A few minutes delay and the whole building might have been belond their power to save. It was hard at first to discover how far the fire had spread, and resolving to take no chances, the captains sent in a third alarm. This brought out every company in the city except the reserves. The water tower was brought down and placed in position. The ladders were fixed and all made ready in case of emergency.

Fortunately these elaborate preparations were not needed. Several steady streams of water soon subdued the flames in the shaft where the main fire was raging, though the smoke was still suffocating, and it was uncertain how deeply the flames had penetrated into the partitions and the floors between the flats. The firemen worked like Trojans, cutting open floors, ceilings and partitions, and pouring in streams of water wherever they suspected a spark was lurking. it was not till ten o'clock that they gave up their labors, satisfied that the fire could spread no more.

GREAT DAMAGE BY WATER.

The building, this morning, presented a sorry spectacle. From the outside, except for the fire reels, the policemen and the crowd about the door, one would scarce know that anything had happened. But inside it is different. One has only to step within the door to se the immense damage that can be wrought by a conflagration of even short duration. To the right of the main entrance the building is untouched. The offices, library, reading-room, and all the apartments in the south end have not received the slightest damage. But on the left the floors of muddy water, the heaps of broken, sodden plaster, the rents in the ceiling, the holes in the floor, the soiled walls, the piles of watery furniture, the soaked, bedraggled curtains and pictures all tell a different story. The whole interior is nacked and water-soaked that it will have to be rebuilt.

The gymnasium, where the fire started, escaped with little damage, the flames working their way upward. The apparatus with the exception of the mats is unharmed. A large number of valuable group photographs and pictures were spoiled by water and cannot be replaced.

In the lecture hall on the main floor the plaster walls are destroyed and the floor ruined. Several pictures are spoiled and much of the furniture badly stained. In the concert hall on the second and third floors the same sad scene of battered floor and ceiling, of dripping walls and stained benches, presents itself. The stage, too, is badly damaged, as the dumb-waiter ran past one side of it.

It is on the fourth floor, however, that the chief damage was done by the fire itself. Here in the rooms of the Mount Royal Business College it seemed to get a fair start, and it raged round the typewriter desks, ruining sixteen typewriters of various makes, and devouring about $250 worth of supplies. There is no insurance whatever on this, and Mr. A. W. Young, the principal, feels his loss keenly. However, he expects to re-open his college on Monday or Tuesday on the third floor of the building.

On the fifth floor about forty boarders were sleeping when the alarm was given. Some of them left their rooms immediately and succeeded in getting out without difficulty. Some others considered the alarm a hoax and enjoyed their repose till the smoke gave them a second warning. Of these some braved the heat and fumes and groped their way down the stairs. Others sat in their windows till the ladders were raised by the firemen.

WAS NOT ALARMED.

One old gentleman who had evidently been through some fires before, was not to be hurried either by hammering on his door or by smoke. He coolly got up and did his dressing in a leisurely manner. Then he came out into the hall and locked his door. Remembering that he had forgotten his watch he reopened his door, secured the timepiece locked the door and groped his way down the stair to the door. "I couldn't see a wink till I got to the bottom," he said, "and I was the last man in that end of the building." "Did you complete your dressing?" he was asked. "Well, no," he said regretfully. "I didn't get my usual shave, and I really forgot to part my hair."

It seems that one or two of the boarders on the fifth floor attempted to reach the fire escape, but found the door to it locked. They had to make their way out down the stairs.

The damage has not been officially estimated yet, but will doubtless come to between $5,000 and $10,000. Had it not been for the superior construction of the building the loss would have been much greater. The fact that there were layers of concrete between the floors on all the flats doubtless materially aided in preventing the entire destruction of the hall. The open character of the building, too, gave the firemen a chance to work. Once the flames were located they could be attacked from every side.

The loss is entirely covered by insurance in the following companies: Commercial Union Royal, Liverpool, London & Globe, Union Assurance, Aetna, Queen's, Western, Phoenix Fire, Guardian. The board of governors has askcd Mr. H. C. Hutchison, the architect, to act in the interests of the association in valuing the loss.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. The shaft in which it started was intended in the original plan of the building for a dumb waiter running from the kitchen which was to occupy the attic to the dining hall in the basement. It had, however, never been used, and was entirely empty except for a few water pipes.

SHOULD HAVE TRAPS AT EACH FLOOR.

"No building should have a 'dumb waiter unless there are traps at every floor," said Fire Chief Benoit this morning in talking over the Y.M.C.A. blaze with a Herald reporter. "The fire simply rushes up these flues, and to prevent the spread of the blaze is very difficult—almost impossible. This 'dummy' was not used for four years, and might have been closed altogether."

"The same thing applies to elevator shafts. They're a direct cause of many bad fires spreading over buildings, and some measure should be taken to provide a trap of some description at every floor," remarked a City Hall official, "when the carriage passes the trap, the rest of the building is secure from a draught. Some day this will be an absolute necessity."

GUY ST. RESIDENTS WANT SEMI-READY BUILDING DEMOLISHED, CLAIMING IT IS A NUISANCE

An action has been brought by a number of residents of the upper portion of Guy street to secure the demolition of the huge Semi-Ready clothing factory at the corner of Guy and St. Luke streets. The people of the district strongly object to having their quiet neighborhood invaded by factories and workmen, and are prepared to spend their money to keep them out. The action is somewhat drastic, as the factory cost a very large sum of money, and is in every way a modern, well-appointed building.

The litigants are headed by Mrs. Reid, and enter suit against Messrs. William and David Yulle, in whose name the property is registered. They demand the abolition of the factory on several grounds—that there is a provision in the title deeds holding the site inviolate from factory invasion, prohibiting the erection of anything but residences thereon; that the presence of the factory has caused a serious depreciation in the value of surrounding residential properties, and finally that the noise and smoke caused by the factory and the regular crowding of the streets with the work people engaged there constitute a serious nuisance to the residents.

The case has been fixed for an early day next week, and will likely be keenly contested, with a great array of counsel and witnesses.

The residents are represented by Messrs. Ryan & Bickerdike, Geoffrion & Heneker, while the factory interests are represented by Messrs. Lajoie & Lacoste.

SIR WILFRID NEVER DECLINED CONFERENCE

Ottawa, Ont., June 8.—(Special.)—Sir Wilfrid Laurier was asked to-day as to the truth of the statement in a press cable of a Montreal newspaper that he had refused to take part in any tariff conference in Britain until after the British general election. He replied that he had not received any invitation and therefore could not have declined to do so.

Alfred Parker, aged fifty-two, was brought from Tupper Lake to the Notre Dame Hospital this morning suffering from a compound fracture of the leg. He was loading ties at the lake yesterday afternoon when one of them slipped and fell on him.

INVERNESS, C.B., MINE BLOWN UP AND 16 INJURED

Inverness, C.B., June 8.—(Special.)—At seven o'clock this morning the first serious accident occurred in the Inverness Imperial Mine No. 1 through the carelessness of a miner who carried an uncorked can of powder. It resulted in the serious injury of sixteen miners and the slight injury of several more. None of the miners were killed, but they are all severely burned and more or less of them will be seriously marked for life. Some will probably be laid up for many weeks, while others will be able to go about within a few days.

The Inverness Imperial mine, now owned and operated by Mackenzie & Mann, was formerly known as the Broadview mines, worked by William Penn Hussey, of Danverport, Mass., and his associates, though the slopes of the present mine are nearly a mile distant from the old slope. They are non-gaseous and the miners use naked lights. The mines had been practically idle all winter, and about a month ago were opened up to their full capacity and preparations were going on for an extension of operations for the summer's work.

The whole town was thrown into excitement this morning when it was learned that there had been an explosion in the mine, and for a short time all was confusion, men and women running about to learn the extent of the accident and to find out how badly a husband, a son, or a brother had been injured. It had been rumored about a month ago that an old woman had predicted a disaster to the mine. Great was the relief, however, when it was learned that no lives had been lost and that only a limited number had been injured, and none so badly that life was threatened.

At seven o'clock this morning about three hundred men and boys were going down the slope and about fifty had arrived at the pickhouse, about five hundred feet down the slope, on the way to their day's work, and more than half the number were congregated about the building getting their picks when a terrible explosion occurred, and the slope was filled with flames. The men near the pickhouse were thrown about in all directions, and there was a terrible confusion of men, picks, powder cans and other tools. The men further down and further up the slope felt the shock. Those who were in the vicinity of the pickhouse were lying in heaps in the darkness, their lights having been blown out, and were calling for assistance. When their comrades arrived at the place they saw a terrible scene. Men with faces and hands blackened by smoke and with skin blistered and hanging in shreds, suffering untold agony, were piled together amid a heap of picks, powder-cans, dinner-pails and various miners' tools.

Boxes were quickly run down and those who were unable to walk were carried to the surface and their injuries were attended to. All are suffering, many excruciatingly, as the flesh is burned and the wounds filled with grime and dust.

DIAMOND DYES

Are Your Old and Reliable Home Friends.

DIAMOND DYES have proved real blessings to the homes of Canada for over twenty-five years.

DIAMOND DYES have enabled mothers, wives and daughters to dress better and at the same time save money.

DIAMOND DYES give fresh life to faded and dingy looking dresses, skirts, jackets, capes, blouses, ribbons and feathers, making the old things look as good as new.

Bear in mind that the advantages of dressing better and saving money, can only be effected when you use the DIAMOND DYES.

Do not be deceived by imitation package dyes offered by some dealers. Such dyes are crude preparations and dangerous to use in the home.

When buying, insist upon getting the DIAMOND DYES; do not be misled by the oft repeated remark, "just as good as the DIAMOND." Experts say that DIAMOND DYES are the purest, strongest and best dyes made for home use.

DAMON AND PYTHIAS APPEAR IN THE FLESH AT ST. HENRI

A story recalling the days of Damon and Pythias comes to-day from Ste. Cunegonde where one friend helped another to make good his escape from the local jail in which he was confined, and when both were detected, suffered with the prisoner.

A man named Quenelle, a plumber, has been engaged for several months working on the Ste. Cunegonde City Hall. The other day he saw through the bars of a cell a friend of his, Montpetit, who had been arrested on a charge of stealing a watch and was in prison pending trial. The two entered into conversation, and Quenelle was moved with pity for his friend's incarceration, and decided to aid him to escape. He left his bag of tools where they could be easily reached by the prisoner.

In the bag was a file. Montpetit made use of this instrument to such good effect that in a short time he had removed one of the iron bars from his window and was free. Quenelle waited for several hours and then gave warning to the police.

Yesterday afternoon Montpetit was found on the streets in a state of intoxication, and borne back to his lodgings. The circumstances attending his escape aroused suspicion in the minds of the authorities, and when Montpetit was returned to his lonely cell, he did not know that a sharp-eyed policeman was occupying the one next to him. The prisoner and the plumber began to talk, and the watcher noted the fact. The good Samaritan was arrested.

This morning Quenelle and Montpetit appeared before the magistrate in the Ste. Cunegonde court and the plumber was fined $25 for his deed of mercy. The seriousness of the offence was, in the mind of the judge, mitigated by the fact that it was committed to help a friend. Montpetit went back behind his bars with the assured knowledge that his few days of freedom would considerably augment his sentence.

WANT INDICTMENT QUASHED AS JUROR'S INITIALS WERE LACKING

"The name of every witness examined, or intended to be examined shall be endorsed on the bill of indictment, and the foreman of the Grand Jury or any member of the Grand Jury so acting for him, shall write his initials against the name of each witness sworn by him, and examined touching each bill of indictment." Section 645, Criminal Code of Canada.

Failure to observe this section of the Crminal Code may result in the quashing of the indictment due for consideration at the present session of the Court of King's Bench, charging Ernest David, Ernest Daignault, Louis Picotte and Emile Daoust, with having by false pretences obtained 6$6 from Edward Latour, in connection with what is commonly known as the land policy game.

Just before the lunch adjournment of the court to-day Mr. Chas. A. Wilson, who acts for the accused, called the attention of Chief Justice Lacoste to the irregularity, and claimed the omission as tantamount to no true bill. He formally moved the quashing of the indictment, and His Lordship took the matter en delibere.

As may be understood the application caused a mild excitement in court, and the decision of Justice Lacoste will be watched for with no little interest by members of the Bar and others.

CABLE RATES AND COMING CONFERENCE

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, June 8.—A deputation from the Telegraph Committee of the House of Commons waited to-day on the Chancellor of the Exchequer to urge a reduction of the cable rates to India and China. Sir E. Sassoon in introducing the deputation pointed out that every Chamber of Commerce in the country was represented. Sir E. Sassoon said in regard to the Pacific Cable, the action of New South Wales was unfair and attention was cabled to the high rates and terminal charges by Australia. The Chancellor in replying said: "As to the Pacafic Cable question it would be almost impertinent for him to deal with the points alluded to in the view of the forthcoming meeting of the Colonial Conference.

A CRUDE PROPOSAL.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, June 8.—John Quick, a prominent member of the Victorian House of Representatives, proposed that an Act be passed by the British Parliament for the permanent institution of an Imperial Congress or Council, where recommendations would become law on being ratified by Great Britain and two Colonial Legislatures, and would remain in force at least five years.

C.P.R. TO-DAY OWNS ESQUIMAULT ROAD

Victoria, B.C., June 8.—The C.P.R. completed the deal for the purchase of the E. and N. Railway, the former purchasing the stock of the latter. The transfer includes the railway, and a land grant of about 1,500,000 acres. The following officers were elected to-day to replace the retiring board: William Whyte, president; J. S. Dennis, vice-president, with A. R. Creelman, R. Marpole and J. W. Troup, directors.

By the purchase of the Esquimault and Nanaimo Railway the Canadian Pacific Railway acquires direct communication with Vancouver Island from the mainland, with the aid of car ferries. This is the only railway on Vancouver Island and, by its acquisition, the C.P.R. will be enabled to reach all the points on the island.

The Esquimault and Nanaimo, whose head offices are in Victoria, was built by Mr. J. Dunsmuir, who was also president of the road. It was incorporated in 1883 and opened up in 1886. It was bonused by the Dominion Government to the extent of $750,000, besides which it received a land grant of 1,900,000 acres from the same Government. It is eighty miles in length.

London, June 8.—Commenting on Sir John Leng's reference to the Canadian Minister of Agriculture saying that the refusal of Great Britain to remove the embargo on Canadian cattle was "An unfriendly act," the Yorkshire Herald says: "If we are not mistaken the Dominion Parliament on one occasion passed a resolution declaring that Ireland should be given Home Rue. This was after this country had decided by an overwhelming majority against granting Home Rule. We might have said with much more reason that this was "an unfriendly act."

NORWAY STRIKES OUT.

The political separation of Norway and Sweden, though it may have no serious effect upon the domestic situation in either country, must inevitably weaken the influence of both in the world's balance of power and render each more liable to fall under the influence of neighbors more powerful. Apart from this aspect of the question, other nations can offer no criticism except mild wonder that it should be felt so seriously necessary for two peoples so intimately associated in race, religion, geographical position, and mutual interest, to incur the expense of instituting separate consular services. The shipping of Norway is very considerable; half the vessels engaged in the coal trade out of Sydney, N.S., fly the Norwegian flag, which has also been adopted by many British built and owned ships to avoid the handicap of Plimsoll marks and other Board of Trade regulations. Most of the big ports in the world, therefore, will now need a Norwegian consul as well as a Swedish one.

The establishment of separate consuls means separate direction for foreign affairs, and herein lies the danger that the two nations may drift further and further apart until in the face of some common danger as the result of a future European upheaval they find themselves as powerless to shape their own fate as they were during those Napoleonic wars which placed the French marshal, Bernadotte, upon the throne.

Comparing the two sections of the hitherto dual monarchy, the population of Sweden was more than double that of Norway at the last census, 5,198,752 to 2,240,032. The imports of Sweden were 466,320,307 kroner, as against the 290,221,400 of Norway, and the exports 180,842,100 kroner from Norway, as compared with 353,505,400 from Sweden.

Each section provided its own defensive forces, as do Austria and Hungary, and here again Sweden is by far the more powerful. Fortunately there does not seem a desire upon either side to settle the differences by an appeal to arms, while the opinion that the separation movement was dictated by a revolutionary party aiming at the establishment of a republic is discounted by the formal invitation to King Oscar to name a member of his own house as King of Norway, subject only to the condition that he will renounce any prospective claims to succeed to the throne of Sweden as well.

Nansen, the explorer, is the best known of those who have taken up the claims of Norway to secede, and he at all events can disclaim being made use of as a puppet by either the German or Russian foreign offices, both suspected of being at the back of the movement.

It is as well always to bear in mind that the union which is now dissolved was little more than nominal at any time. Norway has manhood suffrage, Sweden a limited suffrage; Norway's parliament governs, Sweden's is restricted; Norway, with her ships, seeks foreign trade, while Sweden cleaves to protection for certain industries. Goods passing from one to the other are treated just as foreign goods at the border. Neither country has been of much use to the other, but Sweden has had the power, and has used it, to check Norway's aspirations for an extended commerce.

But what most suggests interesting consequences of this move is the circumstance that the sea-faring Norwegians would make a very valuable ally for some sea power. Will it be Germany? Or England? The Kaiser evidently feels the question to be so pertinent that the visit he was about to pay would embarrass the diplomatists, and he has cancelled it.

QUEBEC'S AMBITION.

If the port of Quebec could be open all the year round, or even for a couple of months longer in the year than is Montreal, some serious attention might be given to the agitation which is being engineered there for a special transatlantic line.

It is evident that no such special service can be established unless it is heavily subsidized. If there was money in it the existing steamship companies which have an established organization in the ancient city would not need the additional stimulus of opposition.

Montreal owes to nature its commercial position. If there were no rapids between here and Lake Ontario Montreal would get the go by in the same way that Quebec does now, for it is every year more evident that we are going to draw our great volume of export increasingly from the west and that our interior waterways will be used in preference to railways as far as the seasons permit.

Even in the matter of easier access for larger steamships, Quebec has no great advantage over Montreal, for the largest ocean steamships at present running to the St. Lawrence have to await high tide to get over the shoals near Crane Island, below Quebec. The new turbine liners Victorian and Virginian were both so delayed between Rimouski and Quebec on their last inward voyage, waiting for the rising tide to take them safely over obstacles, that they lost all the advantage they had gained by exceptionally speedy ocean runs. Indeed it would pay the owners of some of the largest vessels to have their captains time their arrival at Rimouski so that they should pass over these places at the hour when the tide served.

In time the Marine Department of the Government will provide a thirty-foot channel below Quebec, available at all hours. It would need a deeper channel even than this to accommodate the prospective 25 knot, 30,000 ton steamships of the future, such as the Cunard line is now constructing.

When the progress of Canada and the completion of our deep water channel to the sea justify the provision of such a service on the St. Lawrence route, Quebec may naturally become its summer terminal on account of the many turns in the river above Quebec rendering the handling of a steamship 700 or 800 feet long too risky. Such a vessel, however, would be primarily built for a fast mail and passenger service and the big freight carriers would still find it more profitable to reach the most inland port available. Then as now that port will be Montreal—the head of navigation—where the great canal system commences.

HEARING ONE SIDE.

What strikes one as curious about the London and Oxford election debates is the complete indifference shown by both sides to what is a factor of the utmost importance, when the measure is fore Parliament, that is to say the view taken of this educational controversy by the Catholic minority of the Dominion. The opposing parties are fighting out their battle in London and in Oxford, and as yet neither Oxford nor London has heard a word from any qualified spokesman of the minority. Mr. Haultain and Mr. Oliver are debating day by day how much of a separate school system there is and how much there is not. Both are speaking of separate schools as if those who believed in the use of such schools were a public enemy, and as if the highest statesmanship consisted in over-riding the law of the land when it affords them any protection for their views. The province of Quebec might as well be a principality in Germany for all London or Oxford thinks of its interest in this contest. Neither Mr. Ames nor Mr. Monk could expect a hearing on the platform which welcomes Mr. Haultain and Mr. Bennett. On the other part, although there has been pretty free abuse of Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Brodeur, nobody wants to know what they have to say for themselves. Instead of trying to let London and Oxford see the whole bearing of the controversy, the attempt is being made to trim and pare the controversy until it looks Londonese or Oxfordite. All this may be necessary and desirable if the one thing necessaary is for one side or the other to elect its man. But if any larger lesson is to be drawn from the result, then the election in Levis, which the Conservatives did not contest at all, is quite as important, because not a bit more parochial, as the election in London which they are contesting with might and main.

THE COTTON SITUATION.

If Mr. R. R. Stevenson's view of the conditions prevailing in the Canadian cotton industry is correct, it is certainly time that the Canadian public began to consider what all this amalgamation business really means. Mr. Stevenson told the shareholders of Montreal Cotton the other day that he favored handing over the control of that company to a syndicate of Dominion Textile people, on the terms which have already been explained in The Herald, because he feared for the future, and thought it would be well to avoid keen competition. Presumably Mr. Stevenson means that he does not think his company can afford to compete with Dominion Textile. It is a subject on which he should at least be in a position to judge out of knowledge, for he is not only a director in Montreal Cotton, but also a selling agent and an influential shareholder in Dominion Textile, and must have an intimate acquaintance with the strength of both companies. But we sincerely hope that he is wrong. If Montreal Cotton dare not stand on its own footing against the competition of its amalgamated fellow-manufacturers, not one of whom previous to amalgamation possessed a strength in the least comparable to its own, we are forced to the conclusion that competition in the Canadian cotton industry is no longer possible, and that a monopoly of the most forceful kind has established itself in our midst. If Mr. Stevenson succeeds in bringing the Montreal Cotton Company around to his way of thinking he will certainly have done a great deal to prove his point.

Now the Canadian people do not like monopolies. They are at present animated by the most friendly feeling towards the recent cotton amalgamation, on the supposition that its main object is economy, through specialization and concentration. That feeling will give way to a very different one should the Textile Company reveal itself as a monopoly determined to crush competition by such big-stick methods as are suggested by its selling agent. And we really do not think the position of the Canadian cotton manufacturers will be as enviable after they are a monopoly as it is now that they possess merely a good organization, a fair competition and the general good will.

ANOTHER RESPITE.

Mr. Balfour has managed to reach the Whitsun holidays with his Parliamentary majority still under whip control. Never have there been such long drawn out Parliamentary obsequies.

Liberal apathy is to a considerable extent to blame for the spectacle we are witnessing, for there have been several occasions where Ministers would have been placed in a minority which would have involved recognition had the Opposition polled its full strength. Upon both sides of the House there are an unprecedented number of members who are not seeking re-election, but who will do nothing to precipitate an election before the operation of the Septennial Act makes it compulsory.

The life of this remarkable Parliament has been so full of vicissitudes that we are apt to forget that it only came into existence in October, 1900, and consequently does not legally expire until 1907.

The longest recorded Parliament since 1837 was that which assembled in 1859, when Palmerston was Premier. It sat until July 6, 1865, a period of six years one month and six days. The shortest was the Parliament assembled Jan. 12, 1886, and dissolved on June 26 of the same year. The present House assembled for its first session on February 14, 1901.

The leaders of the Opposition have not endeavored to inaugurate any such agitation by public meeting as has hastened the fall of previous Ministries, their conviction apparently being that the longer Ministers use unworthy manoeuvres to retain office the more they are discrediting themselves in the constituencies. A Liberal majority of 150 is already confidently relied upon after a careful analysis of the results of the numerous bye-elections since the retirement of the Duke of Devonshire and Mr. Chamberlain.

The Cool of the Evening

The leaves of the maple tree stir and rustle in the breeze, and the voices of the children playing below the window fall on the air like the curfew of the day's strenuous struggle. The man at the window leaned out and looked down into the garden below. After a few minutes he turned, and slipping off his coat, dusty from the city streets, he tossed it to one side and sat down in the easy chair by the window.

The day was over. He felt the relief that that knowledge brought to him, but even in the quiet of the room, one by one the aftermath of the business difficulties crowded in on his brain. That business transaction and this one had gone wrong,—and had worried him. The lines deepened on his face.

From the garden below there came to him the fragrance of the lilac and the lilies of the valley. He turned his head and looked out across the street dreamily. He could hear the rumble of the cars from a near-by street, and could see in the distance, the gleam of the blue waters of the St. Lawrence, and the funnels of the ocean steamships.

Still there came up to him the music of the children's voices. The cool breeze crept in and tossed the hair, and smoothed out the lines on his forehead. Even the lines about his mouth relaxed and he threw back his arms with a long breath of relief.

Somewhere from the past came to him the memory of another garden, an old-fashioned garden, with hollyhocks and sweet-williams and pinks, where he played as a boy. Every corner of that old garden had been a fairy-land to him. Now, even when he stood in beautiful gardens, there was always business, business, business, ringing in his brain.

He put out his hand and ran it thoughtfully along the stem of the vine running up by the window. The vine grew so slowly, so surely, so perfectly. It did not warp itself by reaching out to catch more rain than nature intended for it.

But with him there were stocks and loans and investments and speculations, political interests and civic interests, society demands, long days and short nights, and a horizon extending to the bounds of his own office, and a few other offices on St. James and Notre Dame Streets.

Again a whiff from the flowers in the garden comes up to him. He gets up from his chair and looks down into it again. A little brown-haired girl is standing just under his window.

"Come down, daddy," says an entreating voice, and a baby hand tosses him a kiss on the tips of the fingers.

* * *

Down in the garden, on the soft green grass, the man is telling a little girl of a very old-fashioned garden of long ago. Somehow in the coolness of the evening the weight of business seems to slide away and sneak out of the garden gate. He could see it resting on the shoulders of other men coming up town. He could hear it in the distant hum of the city. But it had slipped from his shoulders, and the murmur of it was drowned in the whisper of a little brown-haired girl, who had twisted her warm little arms about his neck, and was saying into his ear:

"You're just the dearest, dearest daddy."

Of the Six Gas Magnates.

(From the "Foolish Finance," by Gideon Wurdz.)

The Kingdom of Succes may be likened unto six Gas Magnates, which took their Books and went forth to meet the Underwriter.

And three of them were wise, and three were foolish.

They that were foolish took their books, but had no Standard Oil with them.

But the wise had Oil in their books, along with the water.

And while the Underwriter pondered, they all slumbered and slept.

And at midnight there was a cry made, "Behold, the Underwriter cometh; go ye in to meet him!"

Then all those Magnates arose and flashed their Books.

And the foolish said unto the wise: "Give us of your Oil, or our Books go out!"

But the wise answered, saying, "Not so; lest there be not enough for us and you; but go ye rather to Twenty-Six Broadway and buy for yourselves."

And while they went to buy, the Underwriter came, and they that were ready went in with him on the Ground Floor; and the door was shut.

Afterward also came the other Magnates, saying, 'Underwriter, Banker, Villain, open unto us!"

But he answered and said, "Verily, I say unto you, I know ye not!"

Watch, therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein ye will need Standard Oil for your troubled finance.

Gloves and Microbes.

It was noticed in Paris when King Edward was there that he always appeared in public with his right hand gloved, but not his left. As it is a common practice to carry the right glove loose and not the left, much speculation has been excited by the King's reversal of this custom. One learned writer suggests that it is due to a sound perception of hygienic propriety. The object of a glove, he says, is not to adorn but to protect the hand. Which hand has the more constant employment and is therefore brought into closer contact with microbes? Why, the right hand. It follows that in keeping that hand gloved the King shows his unfailing sense.—Vice le Roi.—London Chronicle.

HARDLY ANY SKIRT AT ALL.

"Do the women in the Philippines wear rainy-day skirts?"

"It would require a pretty good-sized flood to reach their skirts."

Tekahionwake

What a combination of the picturesque and the fantastic is the native costume of an Indian maiden. It makes one feel almost angry at the civilization which has banished this pretty costume, and caused the red man and his family to adopt the civilized mode of dress. There is nothing of romance or of the picturesque in our apparel, cut according to the dictates of fashion, but the Indian costume seems to radiate the spirit of the woods, the lakes, and the free, wild life of the American aborigines.

It is seldom that we see the genuine buckskin costume, with its various trappings and ornaments. Not long ago I saw Tekahionwake, clad in the native dress of her race, the Mohawks. It was at a concert where she was the chief entertainer, that I saw her, and with her red blanket, thrown gracefully across her shoulders, she seemed the embodiment of the spirit of the woods. Her features are those of the aristocracy of the Iroquois nation, but she has not the swarthy complexion which marks the full-blooded Indian.

But her costume was typical of her race. The buckskin dress and moccasins, the beads and wampum, the pelt of small animals, recall to mind the days of old, when the Indian, in exchange for valuable pelts, joyfully accepted the gaudy trinkets and gewgaws which were so precious to him.

But hark! As she speaks in her clear, cultured voice, strangely musical, one instinctively wonders that a person, whose mother tongue is so widely different from our own, could master the English language so perfectly. Were it not for the features it would be easy to fancy that an English person of culture were speaking. Civilization and education have here wrought a greater change than in the case of the costume, for to properly clothe the mind is a far greater task than to clothe the body.

But why should we wonder when an Indian, naturally clever and brilliant, talented, perhaps, above the rest of her own race, outdoes her white cousins? After all, it is education and training that is the essential difference between civilization and savagery.

Place an Indian and a white child in the same position, where the environment is of the worst, where they are taught nothing beyond the rudiments of war and hunting, where they receive nothing of kindness or of good training, where education, in the true sense, is an unknown word, let them grow up to manhood, and what have we? Two savages, with perhaps a difference in color. Nothing more, unless in their language.

As Tekahionwake once remarked: "Cultivate an Indian, let him show his aptness, and you Americans say he is an exception. Let a bad quality crop out and you will stamp him an Indian immediately." Her statement was indeed true. It is a fine combination of English and Indian to hear the language of the former, and see the dress of the latter, but when she relates legends of fierce hatred and war, her expression and gestures lead one to forget the language in which they are couched, and to see in fancy the cruel savage as he seeks to take his enemy's life.

But when, on the other hand, she relates the legends of love and romance of her race, her expression is so gentle and her voice so winning that the savage is forgotten and we think only of the gentle Indian maiden of which we have read so much.

* * *

What a transformation! The picturesque Indian maiden has disappeared and in her place is a lady of fashion, clad in conventional evening costume. Charming, without a doubt, but infinitely more charming to us, who delight in the novelty of the striking and elaborate Indian costume, picturesque in its oddity, was the pretty Indian maiden clad in the habiliments of her own people, whom history has made famous as the bravest tribe of a brave people.

—Gertrude Woodard.

Le Gallienne's Books Sold.

Seldom does New York witness such a gathering of professional bibliophiles as gathered this week at the sale of Richard Le Gallienne's books and manuscripts. They appeared to be shy about bidding, for they knew only too well that many of the books offered were of the present, although the collection possessed a few gems well worth the having. Among these was one associated with old Sir Thomas Browne, and another with Izaak Walton's marginal corrrections on his own biography as presented by a friend. The Browne is a first edition (1646) of the "Pseudodoxia Epidemica, or Enquiries Into Many Received Tenets and Commonly Presumed Truths," and still another and later edition of the same, the fifth. The Izaak Walton, a presentation copy of his life by Doctor Sanderson, given by Izaak Walton himself to Mistress Ann King, with autograph corrections.

The Oscar Wilde manuscripts are interesting, and include the original of "The Decay of Lying," "Dogmas," and half a score of others.

Some English Election Stories.

The stories of elections are as the sands of the sea for number. Mr. Fox Russell recalls several in the current Royal Magazine. One relates to the days of the hustings, and is of Mr. (as he then was) Henry James—now Lord James of Hereford—who contested Taunton in opposition to the late Mr. Serjeant Cox. Mr. James had made a good and telling speech, chiefly devoted to ridiculing the idea of Taunton men returning his opponent, and at the conclusion of it he said: "Gentlemen, if Mr. Serjeant Cox is successful at the poll, I'll carry him on my back all the way to Westminster!" To which sally the learned Serjeant immediately retorted that he had given up donkey-riding ever since he was a boy.

An old Frank Lockwood story also finds a place in the collection. Lockwood showed as ready a wit at election times as he did in the practice of his profession. Added to a really wonderful aptitude for the drawing of caricatures, he had the knack of getting out of any awkward situation by a ready jest. At one time (he and Mr. Pease being the then members for York) he was addressing a meeting of his constituents, when a discontented voter shouted out: "What's the Cabinet going to do about Russia's action in Afghanistan? You're one of the Government, so you ought to know." "Sorry I can't tell you," replied Lockwood promptly, "but directly Cabinet Ministers begin to discuss such things as foreign politics, the Attorney and Solicitor-Generals are sent upstairs to play with the Under-Secretaries!"

Some Strange Accidents.

"The man who fell out of bed and broke his neck will scarcely attract more than passing notice," said a thoughtful man, "for there have been many cases equally remarkable. I recall one case where a man's neck was broken by a very slight turn of his foot. He attempted to 'catch himself'—that is, to preserve his balance—and the effort was of such violence that the broke his neck. Many men have broken their necks by a sudden stumble and a fall on the sidewalk, or by being knocked down by some hurrying pedestrian, or by a street car or a vehicle of some sort.

"It is not at all uncommon for a policeman, with no intention of doing more than subdue an unruly member, to break an offenders's neck by rapping him over the head with his club. Sometimes the fall which follows and sometimes the blow breaks the neck of the offender. Sometimes a sudden, violent motion of the head, a quick jerking motion, the kind we make when dodging, will break the neck.

"I recall a case where a man threw his neck out of joint without breaking it by throwing his head to one side in an effort to dodge a bullet fired at him at short range. The bullet passed through the rim of his hat. Ever after that he carried his head tilted over the right shoulder and was never able to straighten it."

The Late Mr. Ziegler and the Fiala Expedition.

It is interesting to find that the death of Mr. Ziegler, the American millionaire, will not interfere with the expeditions for the relief of Mr. Anthony Fiala's party of Arctic explorers which left Tromso last month, and which he was financing. The Fiala expedition—also at the expense of the deceased millionaire—went North in 1903 by the Franz Josef Land route, and since July of that year nothing has been heard of it. Lavishly equipped, however, and prepared for a long detention in the ice, disaster is not feared, and Mr. W. Champ, leader of the main expedition, confident that Mr. Fiala is somewhere among the group of promontories and islands comprising Franz Josef Land, will make direct for Cape Flora. The second relief ship, under Dr. Fassig, will use as its base the east coast of Greenland. Mr. Champ, by the way, is a Canadian and a Hamilton, Ont., boy, who possessed Mr. Ziegler's absolute confidence, and has already undergone immense privations in the search for the pole. It is believed that the millionaire's will will be found to have left Mr. Champ extremely wealthy.

The Togo of Canada.

The Togo of Canada, which is one of the many new places that has recently sprung up along the main line of the C.N.R., is situate fifty miles west of Grand View and in one of the best farming districts along the whole line of the C.N.R. It is one of those places that has not been widely advertised, but has, nevertheless, gone ahead much faster than other towns that have been boomed, on account of its good situation and of the excellent farming lands in this district.

The town at present contains a post-office, two general stores, three implement shops, a hardware and lumber yard, harness shop, blacksmith, livery, flour and feed store, butcher shop, bakery, drug store with a doctor and veterinary surgeon, and a fine hotel. A school was started early in the spring. Although the settlement is new there is about 5,000 or 6,000 acres in crop already and at least as much more will be broken this summer. An elevator and shipping platform will be built this summer to accommodate the farmers.

How to Prepare Tea.

In the best restaurants of the Chinese quarter in San Francisco tea is never made in a teapot, but each cup is brewed separately. The cup itself is different; it is a small bowl covered with a strainer and a lid. A tiny bundle of long tea leaves is placed in the strainer and the boiling water is poured over it. The first infusion is invariably thrown away as being unfit to drink. This procedure has caused the leaves to swell, and when next the boiling water is poured on it filters through slowly and is allowed to steep for a few moments. When the strainer is removed the golden liquid that remains in the bowl ready for drinking, without milk or sugar, is as different from the tea ordinarily served in an English drawing-room as champagne is from ginger-pop.

The Best Hour.

"Get down on the floor here, daddy,
Get down on the floor and play."
And that is the song my baby
Sings to me at close of day.
"Get down on the floor and tumble,
Get down with me, daddy do;
Get down on the floor now, daddy,
Me 'ants to sit down on you."

Then overboard goes the paper,
And down on the floor goes dad;
And onto him clambers baby,
And baby is more than glad;
And daddy's a horse and waggon,
Or daddy's a ship at sea,
And rolls with a little baby
As happy as she can be.

Yea, rolls with the babe and tumbles,
And grumbles, and haws and gees,
And always a dimpled baby
With rounded and dimpled knees
Sits perched aloft unfearing,
And laughing with childish glee
As the daddy ship goes tossing
And tumbling across the sea.

And, oh, but that ship is careful;
The waves may foam and curl,
But never the ship goes plunging
Too much for the baby girl,
And never the horse gets fractious,
Or plunges or jumps aside
So much as to mar the pleasure
Of the wee little girl astride.

Oh, good is the hour of gloaming,
When labor is put aside
And daddy becomes a horsey
A wee little girl may ride;
Or daddy becomes a plunging
Big ship on the stormy seas,
And is guided and captained onward
By a baby with dimpled knees.

An Unlikely Winner.

Last summer, for a bet, Capt. Ilinsky, a St. Petersburg dragoon officer, undertook to cross Asia, reach Kuropatkin's headquarters at Liaoyang, dash through the Japanese lines investing Port Arthur, enter the town, break through the naval brigade and reach Chefu. He was to get $50,000 if he succeeded, but to pay nothing if he failed. Disguised as a Chinaman, he sauntered through the Japanese army in broad daylight. The Russian forts fired on him, but on his waving the national flag, which he had wrapped around his body, they welcomed him to the fortress. Three nights later, carrying despatches from Stoessel to prove that he had succeeded, he sailed through the Japanese fleet and reached Chefu. The journey took him six weeks. After risking his life Ilinsky never got his money. When, within three months after starting, he returned St. Petersburg he found the layer of the $50,000 a bankrupt.

A Norse Legend.

According to a recent work on Norway the scantiness of the soil in that country is explained by some of the country people as follows: At the creation of the world the angels whose duty it was to scatter the soil forgot Norway. Seeing this, the guardian angel of the land made complaints to the Creator. What was to be done? Impossible to restart the whole of the creation for the sake of Norway. "Come, my little angels!" said He.

DR. KEMBALL RECOMENDS PE-RU-NA FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

A Strong Tribute.

Rachael J. Kemball, M.D., 334 Virginia Street, Buffalo, N.Y., is a graduate of the University of Buffalo, Class of 1884, and has been in the practice of medicine in that city since then. She writes as follows:

"My conviction, supported by experience, is that Peruna is a valuable preparation for all catarrhal affections. I have taken a bottle myself, and just feel fine. I shall continue to take it."

Pays Glowing Tribute to the Remedy That Gives Relief From Catarrhal Ills.

DR. RACHAEL KEMBALL, of Buffalo, New York, is a woman physician, and in addition to the knowledge of women ordinarily possessed by doctors, her experience enables her much better than the average doctors to understand the ailments peculiar to women.

Dr. Kemball endorses Peruna.

She recommends it not only to her patients, but to her suffering sisters.

It is a woman's testimony to women.

It is a woman's advice to other women.

The laws governing the human body are the same in men and women.

The study of physiology and anatomy is supposed to furnish to both men and women an equal knowledge of the diseases that human flesh is heir to, and yet there are some things about women's diseases that women understand a little better than men.

Miss Maud Steinbach, 1399 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"I have found by experience that Peruna is an honest and reliable medicine.

"It is indeed a true friend to sick women who cannot afford to waste their time and money on expensive doctors and medicines.

"Last winter I felt sick most of the time, suffered from nervous exhaustion and severe bearing down pains.

"I had so frequently heard of Peruna and the wonderful cures it performed, so I sent for a bottle and began taking it.

"The second week I was able to be out of bed, and in four weeks my health and strength were entirely restored to me.

"I am therefore glad to recommend Peruna for the many ills of our sex."

UMBRELLA SHUT OUT VIEW OF TRAIN

And Zodique Brabant Now Lies in Serious Condition at Hospital.

Another serious accident took place on the Grand Trunk shortly after eight o'clock last night. This time the place was the St. Martin street crossing, and the victim was Lodique Brabant. Evidently the mishap was due to Brabant's own rashness in attempting to cross the track after the gates had been closed. Having his umbrella up, he did not see the train, and was struck and knocked down by an engine running to the Bonaventure station. He barely escaped falling beneath the wheels, and was seriously cut up about the face. His nose is broken, and it is feared that there is a fracture at the base of the skull. His recovery is very uncertain. Brabant is forty-six years of age, and lives at 1596 Notre Dame street.

METHODISTS DIFFER ON PRAYER CIRCLES

Welsh Revival Cannot be Duplicated in Canada, Says Dr. Shaw.

Ottawa, June 8.—(Special.)—"Prayer Circles" and the Welsh revival were not wholly approved of at the Methodist Conference, which discussed yesterday the methods of past and present evangelism.

"We are hiding behind revival meetings that God has discredited among us," said Rev. Mr. Sykes, "discredited because we're resting on them. The Welsh revival will not do for Canadians."

Rev. Dr. Shaw endorsed the opinion that the Welsh revival could not be duplicated in Canada. The Welsh people, he said, had rather a too large degree of the emotional nature and on that account he was inclined to think that the effects would not be so lasting as some people thought. Rev. Dr. Shaw said two types of Christianity have developed, the old and the new, and he urged that success be not measured by old methods, but that charity be shown towards those with different views.

All this was on a motion by Rev. John Scanlon and Mr. V. H. Lambly that prayer circles be formed in every district, that some time every day be spent by members in asking God for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the Church and that 10,000 souls should be converted in the next year.

Rev. E. Thomas said it was all right to become more spiritual in a general kind of way, but as he read history he said the pre-eminent need of the Church was to produce such a type of Christianity so virile that people outside would crowd in. The prayer circle, he said, would not get that type. He had no objection to prayer circles, and in the effort to secure the end the right type of Christianity might be developed.

The motion was finally adopted, except that the "10,000" was cut out and "multitudes" substituted.

It was decided that the 1906 conference at Smith's Falls should open Friday, June 1, and the ministerial session on the Wednesday afternoon preceding.

M.A.A.A. SPRING HANDICAPS.

What is expected to be the largest and best of the annual early summer athletic events is billed for June 17th at the M.A.A.A. grounds, where the handicap events of the association will be run off. A fine programme has been prepared, and this, in addition to the increase of interest being displayed in field and track work in Montreal this season, augurs well for the meet. At the harriers meet ten days ago there were ninety-two entries and only two were missing when the call came. Now on this occasion there were no prizes, and the athletes ran for the pure fun of the thing. Word comes from the various local clubs that every one of these men will compete at the handicaps and with that assurance there should be extraordinary large fields in every event.

There had been a ten mile cross-country race set down for the coming Saturday to end at the M.A.A.A. grounds, but on acount of the near approach of the annual handicap events, this race has been called off.

MOTHER WAS SATISFIED.

(From the Chicago Record-Herald.)

Robert is the only child of a Chicago couple. He is just six years old and started to school with the beginning of the year. At that time his parents made him an allowance of twenty-five cents a week. But Robert has developed a great loquacity in slang during his two months at school, a fact which causes his doting mamma much alarm.

"Now, Robbie, said the mother, after she pondered over the problem, "every time you use a slang word I will fine you one cent and take it out of your allowance. When you say 'darn it' you will be fined five cents."

Robert appeared to be impressed and his mother was pleased, but finally he spoke up.

"Huh!" he answered, "I know a word that would cost a quarter."

His mother did not press him for any further information.

WILL SOON BE WITH US.

(From the Detroit Tribune.)

It won't be long now until the members of the neighborhood quartet will feel their fancy, like the lover's, turn to things sentimental, and, strolling down a moonlit street, where the air is fragrant with the odors of honeysuckle and early roses, they will perch upon a convenient fence. One of them, with his eyes fixed dreamily upon the stars, will pick a guitar, and all together they will raise their voices in soulful renditions of the latest and most popular songs of the day, not forgetting that old favorite, "In de Evenin' by de Moonlight."

VALUE OF A HEARTY LAUGH.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

An English physician in search for remedies for human ills finds that laughter stands very high in the list of prophylactics. The effect of mere cheerfulness as a health promoter is well known, but an occasional outburst of downright laughter is the heroic remedy. It is a matter of everyday experience, says our English authority, that one feels the better for a good laugh, an explosion of laughter being in truth a "nerve storm, comparable in its effect to a thunderstorm in nature, doing good by dissipating those oppressive clouds of care which sometimes darken the mental horizon." This authority assures us that the memorable adage, "Laugh and grow fat," rests on a sound philosophical basis. Portly people are not given to laughter because they are fat; they are fat because they laugh.

YUKON WILL YET TURN OUT HUNDRED MILLIONS ANNUALLY

So Says New Member, Dr. Thompson, Who Proclaims Himself an Absolute Independent, and Says His Constituency Has an Agricultural Future Before It.

(Staff Correspondence of The Herald.)

Ottawa, June 8.—The Yukon had the almost undivided attention of Parliament yesterday. Dr. Thompson, the new member for the north, spread the wealth and the wants of his constituency before the chamber, and demanded their contemplation and co-operation. He affirmed the Yukon had agricultural possibilities, that it would some day be regarded as within the wheat belt. He stated the Yukon was in the transition stage of gold production, a stage of transition from the placer to the quartz operations. It had produced twenty-one millions a year. It was now producing ten millions. It would produce a hundred millions a year. He asked for a code of mining laws, for a nelective council, and for the purchase of the miners' gold by the Government.

The Governor-General attended the Senate and gave royal assent to all measures, including the supply bill.

FOR UNIFORM PILOTAGE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the absence of the Minister of Marine, introduced a bill to amend the Pilotage Act. The bill proposes to put pilots below Quebec on the same footing as those between Quebec and Montreal.

Hon. Mr. Fisher, the acting Postmaster-General, informed Mr. McCarthy, of Calgary, that a post office had been established at Lesser Slave Lake in June, 1903, at a point 318 miles north of Edmonton. The revenue of the office in 1903 was $20, and in 1904 it was $66.32. The postmaster is paid $20 a year, and the mail carrier, who makes a monthly visit, is paid $125 a trip.

To Mr. Monk the Minister of Justice said a bill referring to trading stamps, is being prepared. Its terms are not finally settled as he had not had the opportunity of looking at a judgment bearing on the stamp question which the Superior Court of Quebec had recently delivered.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier told Dr. Thompson, of the Yukon, that Mr. F. T. Congdon had been appointed legal adviser to the Yukon Territorial Council. He would not be permitted to practice his profession privately, and he was not a member of the Yukon Council.

DR. THOMPSON VERY INDEPENDENT.

On motion to go into supply Dr. Alfred Thompson, of the Yukon, took advantage of the occasion to state his position in the House and the position of the Yukon respecting Canada. "I am here," he said, "as an independent, and when I say that I mean it in its broadest sense. That is, I am independent of either political party, and if we had as they have in the House of Commons in England, cross benches, I would be sitting there. I was elected by the united support of the Conservative party and the most influential section of the Liberal party in the Yukon."

Dr. Thompson favored the House with a description of the Yukon. He declared wheat could be and would be grown there commercially. The climate was not as extreme or as impossible as was generally supposed. The chief produce was gold which had started to flow out in 1896. The stream continued and would continue for a long time to come. Since 1896 the product amounted to $120,000,000 worth of gold. This would amount to 242 tons, and would load twelve freight cars of twenty tons capacity. If drawn to wire of a grain a foot weight the gold would circle the globe twenty-nine times.

Dr. Thompson said one of the things the Yukon required was a code of mining laws. At present the industry was regulated by ordinances of the Yukon Council. There was a lack of stability about this system which prevented capital going to the Yukon. Eastern capitalists could not be convinced that the titles to mining properties were good enough to warrant them advancing them money.

The leader of the Opposition asked if the council had frequently changed its ordinances?

Dr. Thompson said not recently, but in the early days of the Yukon the ordinances were changed frequently and to the disadvantage of the industry. That had shaken confidence in the system.

WANTS GOLD ROYALTY REMITTED.

Dr. Thompson said that the Dominion tax on gold was too heavy for the present. It had originally been ten per cent. That was when the high-water mark of $21,000,000 a year was reached. It had been reduced to five per cent., and with the decline of production to $10,000,000, the royalty had been reduced to two and a half per cent. The industry was in a transition stage. The cheaper placer methods were being replaced by more expensive methods of mining. Capital was needed. He advised that the royalty be remitted for ten years or even five years. These were the lean years of the Yukon. In a few years the output would rise again. The royalty could then be replaced. He predicted that in future the gold product of the Yukon would rise to a hundred million dollars a year. If the government would not abolish the tax on gold let it be applied only to such gold as was taken to the United States. That would keep the gold in Canada.

CLAIMS SHOULD BE LARGER.

He asked for an increase in the size of the claims. The present size is 250 feet. He advised doubling the size. The Gold Commissioner had the right to refuse to renew a license. That should not be allowed.

Water was essential to mining operations now. Recently adventurers had been securing water rights. He recommended the application of the Northwest Irrigation act to the Yukon. By that water rights would be given only to bona fide developing companies.

The proprietor should be encouraged by charging him no fee for his miner's license and no royalty upon his gold. In addition the government should share the profit they made out of the proprietors' discovery. When he located a creek other miners poured in. They took out licenses and paid royalty on the gold they extracted. The government got the benefit; the proprietor got very little. He proposed the government should give the discovering prospector as a premium half the fees and royalty resulting from his discovery up to a limit of at least $10,000. That would be a fair reward for the man who had shown enterprise and had undergone hardships.

The government should buy the miners' gold. At present they had to sell to the banks, and the banks were making rather too much money out of the transactions. The United States, Australia and other countries bought the miner's gold. Canada was the only one which compelled the miner to sell to the banks.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR THE MINT.

Dr. Thompson congratulated the government upon its decision to open a mint. Nothing would so put the stamp of nationality upon the Dominion or give Canada so much financial importance in the eyes of the world. The Yukon was prepared to give the Finance Minister ten millions of gold a year for treasury certificates rather than give the money to Canadian banks for their notes. It would be a loan of ten millions without interest, which would amount to some three hundred thousand dollars on that amount.

He recommended the Dominion Government send an expert to have a hydrographic survey of the water opportunities of the district. Western Australia had put in an aqueduct of 250 miles in length at a cost of $13,000,000. It had made a desert blossom as the rose. It had facilitated mining operations. It had proved a good investment for Western Australia. Water could be put in the Yukon by a seventy mile conveyor at one-third the cost. The government should have a report on it.

He concluded with a plea for a representative assembly instead of the present territorial council. He objected to the proposal that the Yukon should be attached to British Columbia for government. The affairs of the province did not make the proposal attractive to the Yukon.

B. C. WANTS TO ANNEX YUKON.

Mr. R. G. Macpherson, of Vancouver, argued that the union of the Yukon and British Columbia would be a good thing for the Yukon. The products and the interests of the two places were identical. Together they would become a greater factor in Dominion affairs than they would separately. In regard to the financial affairs of the province he said the curse of British Columbia had been the promoter who desired to sell watered stock to Eastern dupes. The people who were taking up the properties now were of a different stamp. They were putting their money in and endeavoring to get more out. He claimed British Columbia was on the eve of great days.

Mr. William Galliher, of Kootenay, advised the creation of a portfolio of Mines and the appointment of a Minister to look after the mining interests. When the tariff came up for revision there were some mining materials which were not produced in Canada which should go on the free list.

SIR WILFRID'S REPLY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was interesting to learn of the agricultural possibilities of the Yukon from Dr. Thompson, for after all agriculture was the great industry of the Dominion, and it would be well if the area could be extended even to the rich gold fields. Sir Wilfrid said Dr. Thompson had advised the increase in the size of the mining claims. There was no question which had been so much debated as the size of mining claims. He had not heard recently any objection to the size of the Yukon claims. The Government had hoped the Yukon council might have prepared an outline of a mining code. Sir Wilfrid said he had been disappointed that this had not been done. It might be done before the next session of Parliament. Sir Wilfrid disagreed with the objection of Dr. Thompson against an export duty upon gold. The export duty was only a form for collecting the royalty which practically all countries charged for the removal of the precious metal from the ground. If two and a half per cent. was too high a rate it might be reduced. As to the proposal to tax only gold going to the United States he did not agree, because the export duty was not for restrictive purposes but merely adopted as a means of collecting the tax.

Sir Wilfrid said he agreed that the Government should buy the gold instead of having it sold to the United States. The Government had not been in a position to buy the gold until it had a mint in which to coin it, and an assay office would have to be established at Dawson to enable the miners to market their gold there. Sir Wilfrid acknowledged the Government's policy respecting hydraulic concessions in the Yukon had not been a success. An expert had been sent to the Yukon to make a report upon hydraulic prospects there. It was hoped that the Government, on his advice, would be able to make provision for a water supply which in that country was almost as valuable as the precious metal it was used to run from the ground. Sir Wilfrid could not agree to the request for the free admission of all mining machinery to the Yukon. Every part of Canada had to consider the interests of every other part of Canada in fiscal matters. As to the proposal that the Government should make the whole Yukon Council elective instead of half appointed, the Prime Minister expressed himself favorably. A partial appointive system was certainly necessary in the past. The representative of the Yukon declared that the time had come for the full elective system. The Government would give that representative serious consideration. As to the proposal to join the Yukon and British Columbia, Sir Wilfrid would not now say yes or no. It would not be attempted without the full consent of both.

The leader of the Opposition said Sir Wilfrid in answer o the request for the duty free admission of mining machinery was hardly in accord with his absolute free trade proposals of 1894. There was no reason why the Government could not cancel all hydraulic concessions in the Yukon when the conditions had not been fulfilled. There was no reason why the miners should not be met immediately and the mining regulations they desired formed into a code.

A TEMPERANCE DEBATE.

Hon. Mr. Scott, speaking on Senator Beique's public-house resolution, said whether they concurred or not in the proposition that it would be good to inaugurate the British public-house trust in Canada, they must agree that the discussion had done good. The public-house trust was probably a good thing. The elimination of the profit from the trade must be a good feature. The proportion of liquor consumed in England and Canada was about 5 to 1. The license system, the prohibition system and the local option system in Sweden largely accounted for the reduction in drinking. Wherever local option had been tried, even only for a time the reduction in drinking was perceptible. He had noticed that recently in England temperance sentiment was not strong enough to close the public houses on Sunday. In New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island they had the Canada Temperance Act in numerous places. He was aware that there were violations, but it had reduced the sale. In Toronto in 1874 there were 309 taverns, in 1902, 150; in Hamilton in 1874, 171; 1902, 75; in Ottawa, 120 in 1874 and 76 in 1902; in London, 75 in 1874 and 36 in 1902. In the whole province 4,793 in 1874 and 2,628 in 1902. He was persuaded that it was good to reduce the opportunities of temptation. In Quebec the showing was not quite as good, and Mr. Beique touched the point in urging the reduction of profit. He believed with Sir Frederick Treves that alcohol in any shape was poison. He had proof of it in the cases of crime committed whilst under the influence of alcohol, where the brain had been paralyzed and the man had never recollected having committed the crime.

As a sample, he gave an instance of a Winnipeg trapper who, coming from the woods, went on a spree, whilst intoxicated stabbed a man, and declared on the scaffold that he had no recollection of the crime. Was it not terrible that such crimes should be allowed for mercenary motives? Mr. Scott also referred to a recent case where the murderer had no knowledge of the crime, and to the recent Almonte murder. These instances could me multiplied. In a long life and many years experience, as Queen's prosecutor, he had had hundreds of cases come under his notice. He did not hesitate to say that a very large proportion of the crimes of violence were due to alcohol. He did not hesitate to say that in this age it was terrible that any people in the country should be seeking to make a profit out of the traffic. Quoting Sir Frederick Treves' recommendation that alcohol should be sold under as great restrictions as arsenic or other poisons, Sir William Hingston quite agreed with this statement. In this Mr. Scott concurred. In Montreal in 1874 there were 407 taverns, in 1905 649; in Quebec 161 in 1874 and 173 in 1903. Of course, they must remember that Montreal was a seaport. He had no doubt that the rural parts of Quebec were as far advanced as any. In many parts there were no licenses issued. He found the chief inducement to increase licenses was in the fee. In 1874 the fees in Montreal were $61,000; in 1905 they had risen to $361,937. In the Province of Quebec the province took the whole fee. In Quebec the fees were $18,000 in 1874 and $73,314 in 1903. In four cities in Quebec the fees increased from $25,500 in 1874 to $457,913 in 1903. In Montreal he thought many of the crimes were accounted for by this increased temptation. He had special reference to the murder of wives. Illustrations could be applied without number. The effect of liquor to-day was entirely different from the effect fifty years ago. Then intoxicated men were jovial, there was no stabbing, and he attributed the diference to adulterated liquors. The quantity of wine consumed could not be produced by the vineyards. He was quite prepared to give credit to those who supported his motion. He did not tsink the system would suit here. Canada had made to much progress in temperance and he hoped the motion would not be pressed.

EDUCATION THE ONLY REMEDY.

Hon. Mr. Macdonald, P.E.I., believed that education was the one remedy for intemperance. It should begin immediately the child went to school. Then he would grow up a credit to this country. In Prince Edward Island the Scot Act had been very successful in the rural portions. In the cities it was not so successful. In Charlottetown a license law had not had the effect it was intended to have. Last year more stringent measures had been adopted. It was difficult to enforce prohibition in a city with a large moving population. Public opinion must be educated before such a law can be enforced. In Charlottetown the churches had taken the matter up with very good effect. They had the Scott Act in force in Charlottetown but public opinion was not strong enough to enforce it. Dealing with the increase in the number of taverns in Montreal he pointed out that the increase in thirty years was forty per cent., whilst the fees had increased six hundred per cent. That showed they had been endeavoring to effect prohibition by high license, whilst the population had increased more than the number of places. If they could engraft something of the nature of the Gothenberg system on the Scott Act he thought it would be good.

Hon. Mr. McSweeney came from a Scott Act county and other places in New Brunswick were under it. He found that the arrests for drunkenness in New Brunswick were more than in places in Ontario and Quebec. The same applied to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. In Scott Act counties the arrests for drunkenness were three times as many as in non-Scott Act places. The Act had been a curse to temperance.

Hon. Mr. McGregor could not allow this statement to pass. In the rural districts you could not find a drunken man, or obtain liquor.

Hon. Mr. Robertson did not think it any argument to quote the number of arrests. In Scott Act counties they arrested people, in license places they did not. After twenty years' experience of the Scott Act he said it had worked very well in King's County, P.E.I. It had caused the consumption of liquor to be much diminished. The enforcement of the law was difficult because a seller was punished all the time, not the buyer. They had now an enactment by which a drunk could be arrested and when sober made to state where he got his liquor.

Hon. Mr. Church thought that they had law enough, but the trouble was that the law was not enforced. The law in Nova Scotia was enforced, the people were arrested. The difficulty there was the question of jurisdiction. Cases were taken from court to court and even though the Privy Council had given a decision, the question was not decided. Nova Scotia could enact prohibition, but even a distillery across the border could send in whiskey. They had no public sentiment to enforce the law.

In the Recorder's Court yesterday afternoon Remee Labelle was fined $6, with costs, $4.80, for cruelly beating his horse. The charge was brought at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

STOCKS AND MONEY.

Montreal Cotton Sees Big Drop; Market Quiet But Prices Steady

The local market did slightly better to-day. As a rule prices were slightly stronger, and there was an improved demand. Montreal Cotton continued its erratic movements, and after opening at 109 compared to 112 yesterday, dropped to 106 on sales of only 50 shares. The stock has not received any support whatever, and it seems to be possible to pound it down to almost any level. Later in the day on a sale of 25 shares the stock jumped to 109, which was also the opening price. Some of the selling was said to be for the account of a firm that was quite a large buyer when the amalgamation negotiations were first discussed, and the stock jumped to 120 1-2. During the past few days the stock has been very poorly handled here, and the first sale was on different reasons close to two points below the opening bid.

If the Dominion Textile Company desires to secure as much of the stock as possible, the present low prices should prove much more attractive.

Nova Scotia was much steadier, and after opening at 54 3-4 sold at 55. A director of the company has come out with the statement that for the present the company did not propose to increase its capital. Twin City sold 110, while some of the rights for the new stock were also traded in.

Some small lots of other issues were taken up. Detroit United selling 90 to 90 1-8; Dom. Coal, 71 3-4; Dom. Iron, 20 1-4; Power, 89 to 89 1-4.

Wall Street Market

New York, June 8.—Wall Street.—The London market was stirred with reports of a good outlook for peace and contributed to an opening here that was higher all around. Advances ran to a point in Reading and Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Ont. and Western, Brooklyn Transit, and Smelting made large fractional gains. Business was on a moderate scale.

Amalgamated Copper, 79½; Atchison, 80⅛; B. & O., 107⅞; Brooklyn Transit, 63¾; Can. Pacific, 148; Erie, 40¼; do. 1st pfd., 79; Louisville, 144½; M. P., 97; N. Y. Steel, 26⅝; do. pfd., 98⅝.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

E. & C. Randolph.—Southern Railway continues to be bought by the same pool that has been operating in it for the past few days. There was a quick bidding up of L. & N. and Atlantic Coast Line, an operation which was rendered easy by the smallamount of stock for sale. On the other hand, Foundries pfd. broke badly again and sold at the lowest price touched.

Charles Head & Co.—In the industrial list continued weakness in Steel Foundries issues was the principal feature, due largely to pool liquidation. The Equitable affairs continued to be freely discussed, and it is believed that this matter must be disposed of before there can be any buying movement of importance.

Laidlaw & Co.—There appeared to be good buying in Erie and Reading, and as the floating supply of these stocks at present does not seem to be large their prices were quite firm. There was some selling of the Steel stocks, but the absorption of them seems to be sufficient to take all the stock that is offered.

Norris P. Bryant.—There has been exceptionally good buying of Reading. It is believed that the recent decline in Amalgamated was due largely to accumulation of a sizable outside long account in anticipation of the favorable statement.

Marler & Hodgson. — Commission house business is very light and the market is largely in the hands of the traders.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Noon—The market has acted fairly well this morning, under more favorable outlook for peace. Buying in Southern Railway fairly good, tractions were bought by houses with political connections. The marketstill continues professional, outside business is small. The market acts as if it would advance sharply on any news of a settlement in Equitable. Trade in Japanese bonds is on a large scale.

Sales on Wall Street to noon were 171,030 shares.

U. S. STEEL EARNINGS.

The net earnings of the United States Steel Corporation are over 69 per cent. greater than at this time last year. For the quarter ending June 30 the percentage of increase will probably run higher.

CHICAGO STILL FAR FROM PEACE

Chicago, June 8.—Peace in the teamsters strike seemed to-day to be as far awy s ever. Settlement with the express compnies and a demand by the unions that police be withdrawn from waggons, with the calling off of the strike were apparently insuperable obstacles to an adjustment.

With peace efforts again coming to naught the prospective spread of the strike to 8,000 trucksters employed by members of the team owners' organization, was to-day again a vital issue.

Canadian Savings

There are 218,638 depositors in the savings banks of Canada, and they have to their credit $60,771,126, which indicates a widespread habit of thrift. As a rule these institutions receive comparatively small sums from wage-earners and people who possess but little, yet the average savings of Canadian depositors is $289.14, and is the second highest in the world, the United States coming first, with an average of $418.89. The per capita deposit of the Dominion is $10.99.

Annual Statement of Traders' Bank of Canada

The report of the Traders' Bank of Canada for the year ending May 31, issued to-day, make a very satisfactory showing, there having been net profits of $287,144.92, or 11.34 per cent. on the capital, after providing for bad and doubtful debts and reserving accrued interest. There was $400,000 transferred to the rest account, which now amounts to $1,100,000, with a paid-up capital of $2,996,715. Out of earnings, besides dividends and the amount transferred to rest account, there was a balance of $35,158.91 at credit of profit and loss new account. The premium on new stock amounted to $300,000.

Earnings of the French Line

The Compagnie Generale Transatlantique (the French line) made gross earnings of £12,151,480 last year. The net profits were £330,889, an increase of £16,889 over the previous year. A dividend of six shillings per share will be declared.

Dom. Iron Increases Wages

Halifax, N.S., June 8.— (Special.) — The Dominion Iron and Steel Company are making a general increase in the wages to laborers employed in the plant, of from $1.30 and $1.35 to $1.40 a day. The increase goes into effect on June 16. The only exception to the rule are the Russian workmen, because the company has found it impossible to improve their efficiency as laborers.

To Test Stock Tax

A decision has been reached to test the legality of the New York Stock Transfer Tax law, at the instance of the Stock Exchange. John G. Milburn, of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn, who represent the Stock Exchange, called on District Attorney Jerome yesterday, and arranged for the test. It was agreed that to-day some member of the Exchange should violate the law, whereupon a warrant will be issued for his arrest. The law firm will then apply for a writ of habeas corpus and certiorari in order to hasten the testing of the constitutionality of the law. Mr. Jerome said that it is reasonable to assume that the court in the first instance will uphold the constitutionality of the law. It wil lthe nbe passed on to the Appellate Division, and, pending his appeal, the prisoner will be paroled on his own recognizance. When this is done the District Attorney will ask the Governor to assign the Attorney-General to the case. This method will be taken because it is the most expeditious way in which the constitutionality of the law can be tested. Violations of the act constitute a misdemeanor, and are punishable by a fine of $200 or $500 or six months' imprisonment, or both.

Bond Issue

The city of St. John is now asking bids for a debenture issue of half a million dollars. The bonds are to run for forty years, and will bear 3½ per cent interest, payable half yearly. The major portion of the loan, or, to be exact, $388,000 of it, is for water extension work ,now being carried on, and to be completed before December. The sum of $55,000 is intended to be used in retiring 6 per cent. debentures falling due; another $50,000 will go to pay back to the C.P.R. the money it contributed towards the construction of a deep-water wharf in St. John harbor; and the remaining $7,000 will lbe used in the completion of the new steam ferry boat to be launched in a few weeks. Bids for this loan are to close with the chamberlain on June 28th, and they will be received for the whole amount, or for sums of $25,000 and upward.

Acadia Coal Co

It is reported from the Pictou county coal mines that the famous Ford Pit seam of the Acadia Coal Company has been found. The Ford seam was the largest seam of coal in America, being in places thirty-eight feet thick, and the coal of the best quality. Twenty-five years ago or so there was a terrible explosion there, and the pit has been closed. If it is really the Ford seam that has been found, the fact will be of much importance to the business people of that county.

C.P.R. Will Spend a Hundred Million

The Canadian Pacific Railway will within the next few years spend close to $100,000,000 in the construction of branch lines. At the moment, the contract for the Toronto-Sudbury line are let, cost to be $8,000,000. The line par s a Grand Trunk division. A simil line to parallel the Midland division of the Grand Trunk 225 miles east from Midland is projected, to cost about $5,000,0000. Another Ontario line is building from Guelph to Goderich, eighty miles, to cost about $2,000,000.

These lines, entailing over $15,000,000 cash, strike directly at the Grand Trunk in its own province. How many other Grand Trunk divisions are to be paralleled no one can say. The Ontario business is good. These two latter lines reach good lake ports. The whole Canadian Pacific Ontario system is a port-to-tidewater system. The object is to gather lake traffic to the port of Mont-

Westward, there are dozens of local branches either building or about to be built.

From Fort William to Winnipeg, 427 miles, double track will be laid, making one cut-off of about 35 miles. This project entails about $6,000,000 of cash. Other smaller branches, spurs, sidings, etc., bring the total of railroad expenditure in sight up over $45,000,000. This does not include the normal annual capital expenditure on bridges, tracks, etc., nor the heavy equipment bills.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Quotations Are Much Higher Than Last Year

The present wheat quotations at the Winnipeg market are much higher than they were at this time last year. On June 8, 1904, July options were quoted at Winnipeg at 86 7-8, while to-day the Winnipeg market opened at 99 for July options. A telegram from Winnipeg, published in The Herald on this date, 1904, says:

"Winnipeg, June 8, 1904 — Market quiet; nothing doing; prices unchanged at July, 86 7-8, October 79, June not quoted. Cash wheat quiet. Receipts 86 cases; last year, 298."

The above wire shows in a few words the reason for this difference in quotations. Last year the receipts were small, and there was little or no business doing, consequently there was no speculative demand in the market. This lack of speculation was the cause of the low prices which prevailed at that time. This year, on the other hand, business is fairly active, and there is considerable speculation going on as a result of which high prices prevail.

Quotation at the Chicago market are about the same as at this time last year. On June 8, 1904, July options were quoted at 87 to 88 1-4, while to-day they were at 85 1-4 to 85 5-8.

At the Winnipeg market this morning June options opened at 98 1-2, and were quoted at the same figure near closing. July options sold at 99.

At the Chicago market July options opened at 85 5-8, and later were quoted at 85 1-4. September options opened at 81, and near closing were at 80 3-4.

The Provision Market

The supply of live hogs was somewhat small this morning for which the demand from packers was fairly good, consequently the undertone to the market was firm and sales of selected lots were made freely at $7 and $7.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars, was paid. There was no change in the market for abattoir fresh-killed dressed stock, for which the demand is fair at $9.50 to $9.75 per 100 lbs. A fair volume of business continues to be done in hams, bacon and lard and prices show no important change.

We quote:—Heavy Canada short cut mess port, in tierces, $31.50 to $32.50; heavy, Canada short cut mess, $21.00 to $22.00; Canada short cut back pork, $19.00 to $20.00; heavy Canada long cut mess pork, none; heavy Canada short cut clear pork, $19,000 to t$20.00; heavy flank pork, $19.00 to t$20.00; light Canada short cut clear pork, none.

Cheese Boards

Woodstock, June 8.—During the past week about 200 boxes of cheese in the Oxford district have been disposed of by private sale at 9c per pound, as a result only 1,900 boxes were boarded at the cheese market here to-day. Ten buyers were present. The highest price bid on the board was 9c. At this figure Thos. Ballantyne bought 35 boxes. There were no other sales on the street, the price advanced to 9 1-16 cents. This was steadily refused, the salesmen anticipating higher prices next week. The market displayed an upward tendency and the prospects for an advance in price during the next few days are encouraging. The market continues very heavy.

Peterboro, Ont., June 8.—There were boarded 4,572 boxes of colored cheese, the last of May make. The bidding was spirited, Mr. Fitzgerald got the first call at 9 1-8c. The whole board was cleared in a few minutes at the same price. Mr. Publew was present and addressed the meeting briefly. The board then adjourned for two weeks.

Picton, Ont., June 8.—Fourteen factories boarded 1,500 boxes of cheese, all colored. The highest bid was 9¼c all sold. Buyers present were McCaw, Morgan, Miller, Sexsmith and Bailey.

Stirling, June 8.—There were 960 boxes of white cheese boarded here and all sold at 9 13-16c.

Campbellford, June 8.—On the cheese board, 1,640 boxes were boarded and all sold at 9 1-4c. The sales were: W. J. McGrath, 820; Hodgson Bros., 485; James Alexander, 335.

Three Rivers, Que., June 8.—At the meeting of the butter and cheese board to-day 310 boxes of butter and 106 boxes of cheese were offered. Butter sold at 19c to 19 1-4c and cheese at 9c.

Country Produce

Beans—The tone of the market for beans remains steady, but the demand is chiefly for small lots, and sales of choice primes were made at $1.6 to $1.65 per bushel.

Honey.—There was no change in honey, for which the demand is still slow. We quote as follows: Extracted white clover honey, 7c to 7 1-2c per 1-lb. tin, and 6 1-2c to 7c in 60-lb. tins, buckwheat honey, 6c to 6 1-2c, and white clover comb, 13c to 13 1-2c.

Maple Product.—Business in maple product was quiet with no change in prices to note. We quote as follows: Syrup, in 60-gallon kegs, 5 1-2c to 6 1-4 per lb.; in tins, 60c to 65c per wine measure, and 70c to 75c for imperial and Beauce sugar, 8 1-2c to 9c per lb.

Hops—There was no improvement in the demand for hops and the market is still quiet. We quote: Choice Canadians, 28c to 29c; and fair to good at 24c to 25c per lb.

Potash—The market for potash was quiet and prices unchanged. We quote as follows: First sorts, $5.45 to $5.50; seconds, $4.95 to $5; and first pearls, at $7 per 100 lbs.

Potatoes—The tone of the market for potatoes remains firm under a good demand and sales in a jobbing way were made at 75c to 80c per bag.

Grain, Flour, Hay

Wheat—The continued high prices being quoted for Manitoba spring wheat has prevented many bids being received over cable.

Flour—A fair volume of business continues to be done in flour and the market is fairly active, with a firm undertone. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $5.40 to $5.50; strong bakers, $5.10 to $5.20; winter wheat patents, $5.50 straight rollers, $5, to $5.15 and in bags, $2.40 to $2.50.

Millfeed.—There was no change in millfeed, business being quiet and the market has an easy tone. We quote: Manitoba bran, in bags, $18; shorts, $20 per ton; Ontario winter wheat bran, in bulk, $17.50 to $18; shorts, $19 to $20; mouillie, $24 to $28 per ton, as to quality.

Oats.—The demand for rolled oats continues to be chiefly for small lots; in consequence, the market is quiet, but steady at $2.22 1-2 per bag. There was no change in cornmeal, which is also quiet at $1.35 to $1.45 per bag.

Hay—A fair volume of business is passing in baled hay on local account, but the demand from outside sources is still slow and advices from abroad are still discouraging. We quote: No. 1, $9 to t$9.25; No. 2, $7.75 to $8.25; clover, mixed, $6.75 to $7.25, and pure clover, $6.50 to $6.75 per ton, in car lots.

Toronto Cattle Market

Toronto, June 8.—Eighty-one loads in to-day, including 1,080 cattle, 129 sheep and lambs, 1,400 hogs and 313 calves. Market slow and draggy toward the close for butchers' cattle; quality only medium; light stockers scarce; export cattle in light supply; all sold out early; milkers scarce and selling well. Cheese, Butter and Eggs

The receipts of cheese this morning were 17,478 boxes. The market is steady at 9 1-2c for Ontario, and 9 1-8c to 9 1-4c for Quebec. Business continues quiet.

The receipts of butter this morning were 6,759 boxes. There is a somewhat easier tone in the market, and local dealers are quoting 19 1-4c for best creamery. A few sales of choice lots were made as high as 20c. Prices in the country continue firm as a result of competition between buyers.

The demand for eggs continues active. Dealers are trying to weaken prices in the country, but have not been able to do so. Local prices are firm at 16 1-2c for straight receipts. The receipts this morning were 1,818 cases.

Peculiar Route For Shipments

To send goods a distance of 8,000 miles in order to deliver them at a place 650 miles distant from the starting point seems a strange system of transportation, but this has been done by the Hudson's Bay Company for some years. The company sends a considerable quantity of flour from Winnipeg to York Factory, Hudson's Bay, every year and as there is no railway line between these two points it is necessary to send the goods via England. The flour is shipped in car lots from Winnipeg to Montreal by rail. From here it is shipped to London, Eng., and from London it is transferred to another steamer and sent to York Factory. This system of transportation of course adds to the cost of the flour delivered at York Factory. A railway is soon to be constructed between Winnipeg and this point.

Camembert Cheese Can be Made in America

It has been announced that experiments made by the United States Government at the Agricultural Experimental Station at Storrs, Conn., have shown that as fine a brand of Camembert cheese can be manufactured in America as that imported from France. Those who conducted the experiments state that the making of Camembert is not dependent upon conditions obtainable only in restricted localities. It depends rather upon securing the proper cultures and conditions that are possible almost anywhere. Cheese made in the Connecticut station have been compared with the finest imported brand and pronounced practically identical by unbiased importers and connoisseurs. These cheeses, say the experts are in no way inferior in texture or flavor to the French type.

Even should the United States dairymen take up the manufacture of Camembert, however, it is not likely that Canadian cheese makers will follow suit. The demand for imported cheese is not nearly so large here as it is in the United States and it is not likely that the manufacture of Camembert would be profitable in Canada. Some few brands of soft or cream cheese are manufactured in this country and a few experiments in Canadian "Limbergers" and other foreign varieties have been carried on but nothing very extensive has been tried in this line.

"Canadian dairymen are too long manufacturing and selling our own Canadian cheese to pay any attention to other varieties," said a prominent produce dealer to a Herald reporter this morning. "As long as we can find a good market for Canadian goods I don't think it is likely that our cheese makers will dabble in foreign brands."

Hardy's Clever Work on the Tight-Rope at Riverside Park This Week.

Hardy will by the end of the week be able to put Montreal on his list of complete successes, which includes Niagara and Montmorency Falls. His tight-rope at Riverside Park is 55 feet above the ground, and his half-hour performance rivets the attention of the spectators all the time, especially when he is encumbered by the big "Sweet Caporal Cigarette" box in which he walks on the wire. The marvellous thing about Hardy's work is the seeming ease with which he gets through feats which need such skill and training.

The following coupon will admit the bearer:—

INSURANCE

Mr. H. M. Lambert, Canadian manager of the Guardian Assurance Company, among the largest of fire insurance companies in the world, holds an extremely responsible position. He is one of the younger men in fire insurance business who have come rapidly to the front, and yet recognized as an eminent authority on underwriting, and indeed every branch of the business. Starting his insurance career in Edinburgh, Scotland, some twenty years ago Mr. Lambert has unfalteringly climbed the ladder of promotion. He was in the service of the Kent Fire Insurance Company when that company's business was taken over by the Royal Insurance Company. Mr. Lambert came out to Canada in 1893 and in that year became inspector for the Atlas and National Insurance companies. In 1901 he was appointed Canadian manager of the National Assurance Company of Ireland. On the resignation of Mr. H. P. Heaton, of the Guardian, last year, Mr. Lambert was chosen by Mr. A. J. Relton, of London, Eng., general manager of the company, to be Canadian manager, a position which he occupies to universal satisfaction.

Fraternal Insurance

The Monetary Times says: A copy of the "Pocket Register," a yearly chart of fraternal societies, just to hand from the New York Spectator office, shows that a considerable number of societies in this continent are now on the wane, and, like the Independent Order of Foresters, unable to bring in anything like as much "new blood" as formerly. Among these, most of the state jurisdictions of the Ancient Order United Workmen appear to be in the most hopeless condition of disintegration. The following are a few of the indications standing out on the pages of the chart, respecting them and others:

The United Workmen of Iowa had $24,309,000 of insurance in force in 1900, and have now only $23,552,000, though in the interval the society issued new certificates for over ten millions of dollars. All these new millions failed in keeping the total from shrinking by nearly a million.

The Illinois branch, likewise, had $23,054,000 in force in 1900, and has now only $18,770,224, though upwards of nine millions of new were put on in the intervening four years. Instead of the $4,567,000 of new certificates issued two years ago, only $453,000 was scored in 1904.

In Maine, the Workmen had $14,352,000 on the books two years ago, and now show only $9,898,200. The new business came to $1,911,000 in 1902, but in 1903 only $776,000, and in 1904, new certificates of only $69,000 were issued.

In the Province of Ontario, from a total in force of $72,388,500 one year ago, there is a drop to $69,471,500, the death-rate growing from $8.10 in 1901 to $10.70 in 1904. And the new entrants the past year took only $1,852,000 of certificates, as compared with $5,146,000 in 1901. The prospect for "new blood" in 1905 is exceedingly gloomy, the rates having been heavily increased.

Aetna Indemity Deal

The last bone of contention in the affairs of the Aetna Indemnity Company has been removed by the present management through the elimination of the Baltimore office and the stockholding contingent in that city. The Baltimore office has been closed and a very large item of expense has been saved—which expense was not justified by the amount of business turned in through Baltimore. The modus operandi in adjusting the business with the Baltimore stockholders was solved by President Heinze, who bought all of their stock, amounting to about 800 shares.

New York Life Increases Business

The statements to the effect that the New York Life Insurance Company is about to give up issuing of deferred dividend policies and is about to initiate the plan of issuing policies having yearly dividend distributions, and another statement to the effect that President McCall intended to give out a statement answering a charge made by Lawson, are denied and characterized as entirely unfounded. No such charge is anticipated and there is no immediate intention of issuing a statement of the kind indicated.

The business of the New York Life for the first five months of 1905 is shown as follows:

Paid business in the first five months of 1905	$148,241,000
Paid business in the first five months of 1904	142,227,000
A gain for 1905	$6,017,000

MR. E. S. MILLER RECEIVES APPOINTMENT.

Mr. E. S. Miller, formerly provincial manager of the Imperial Life in Montreal and since Jan. 1 of this year superintendent of the Manufacturers' Life, with headquarters in this city, has been promoted to the position of manager of the latter company for Western Canada. The importance of the appointment can be guaged somewhat by the size of the territory, which comprises more than half of the Dominion, and extends from Port Arthur, Ont., to the Yukon, and affords probably a better field for life assurance effort than any other in Canada at the present time.

Mr. Miller, who is a member of the Canada and Engineers' Clubs, will be greatly missed in social as well as business circles, and, with his wife, will carry away as large a share of good wishes as could possibly fall to the lot of any Montrealer.

OLIVER-BENNETT DEBATE INTERRUPTED

A Small Conservative Section of Audience Was None Too Orderly.

Woodstock, Ont., June 8.—(Special.)—The most important meeting yet held in connection with the North Oxford election campaign took place in the Opera House last evening, and as it had become known throughout the day that Mr. Oliver had accepted the challenge issued by the Conservatives to meet R. B. Bennett, of Calgary, on the same platform, there was an unusually large audience. The building was packed to the doors, and many people had to remain standing throughout the three hours the proceedings lasted. The balcony was crowded with ladies, and a number of members of the fair sex occupied seats in the boxes.

As the meeting had been convened by the Conservatives they were naturally in the majority, and had matters very much their own way, but it was evident from the applause that there were a large number of their opponents in the audience. Mr. Bennett, even Liberals will admit, is a powerful orator, who knows how to handle a large gathering, and his fluent vigorous style had the effect of arousing more enthusiasm than the more deliberate and measured utterances of his opponent. Hon. Mr. Oliver, who effectively answered Mr. Bennett on the school and other questions, did not have a very fair hearing, though the interruptions as a rule seemed to come from a very small section of those present. The proceedings, however, became uproarious once or twice during his speech, and he had to appeal to the chairman on two occasions. The Conservatives cheered their champion wildly as he advanced the oft-told arguments against the school clauses of the Autonomy Bills, and he received quite an ovation when he concluded his reply to Mr. Oliver.

D. W. Karn was chairman of the meeting.

POINTS OF THE DEBATE.

The gist of the debate was in questions and answers, set down as follows:

Bennett—Has the West ever had the right to say what kind of a school system it should have?

Oliver—The West has always had as much right to pass legislation in regard to education as Ontario since Confederation.

Bennett—If the Autonomy Bills pass, can we ever change the separate school system?

Oliver—So long as the B. N. A. Act exists the restrictions endure.

Bennett—Is there a single province in Canada that has had a separate school system fastened upon it that has not had the right to pass upon it?

Oliver—All the province are subject to the restrictions of the B. N. A. Act. If Manitoba is free, the credit belongs to the Liberal party.

Bennett—If the B. N. A. Act guarantees separate schools, why was it necessary to insert clause 16?

Oliver—Without clause 16, the B.N.A. Act would come into force automatically, and clause 16 is necessary to make it clear that only the present system is being continued.

Mr. Bennett pointed out that the Autonomy Bills did not perpetuate the educational system of the Territories, but merely the restrictions.

Mr. Oliver said it did not matter whether the legislation was passed at Ottawa or Regina, so long as it was good. This was seized upon as a bold statement, coming from an exponent of provincial rights.

Mr. Oliver, in reply to a direct question by Mr. Bennett, said he would vote in Parliament to-morrow to remove the restrictions of the B. N. A. Act, which clause 16 will perpetuate. Mr. Oliver said it had been within the power of the Dominion Parliament for years to repeal the restrictions of the B. N. A. Act, and he taunted the Conservatives with failure to remove these restrictions.

The Dominion Championship Football Match on Saturday

Galts and Westmounts Will Have Battle Royal on the M.A.A.A. Grounds—Teams Are Evenly Matched as Regards Weight and Speed.

As the day of the match approaches the interest increases and already the presence of a large crowd is assured. It is a difficult matter to get a line on the two teams as people who have seen both play have various opinions. There is little doubt but that the Galt team has a magnificent record as any one who cares to take the trouble can find out from the various hand books published in the west. In 1903, they toured Manitoba and scored 46—4 in some dozen matches while last year they journeyed to St. Louis and in two matches ran up large scores and thus won the world Olympic championship. This year they are coming east to try and lower the flag of the proud youths of Westmount, and on their route are slaying any who like to step in their path. So far they have won all matches and have not allowed their opponents to score. The question arises, can Westmount put a stop to their victorious career?

The Westmount club is young in existence, but its players are men who have been through many a hard fought game. The club was formed in 1903 but did nothing of note till they met and defeated Valleyfield and Montreal in the Caledonia Cup and thus became holders. Last year they made a clean sweep in this district and in twenty-two games ran up a score of sixty-seven goals, against seven. This year they are doing just as well and in five games have scored twenty-two goals against three. Below we give the weights etc., of the individual players from which it will be seen that in weight Galt have the advantage, but clever foot work pays in Association football.

SCHOOLBOY BEAT THE GREAT TRAVIS

Jerome D. Travers, a Youthful Golfer, Turned the Trick.

New York, June 7.—Alackaday! for the old boys at golf. They don't exactly lag superfluous on the green, for they are still able to win a championship now and then; but they know that their days of greatness are numbered. Now that the metropolitan championship has been won—by C. H. Seeley, a youngster—the golf season is in full swing. Boys are more than ever to the fore.

If an artist were asked to paint the ideal golfer of to-day he would put on canvas a tall, slim, thin-armed schoolboy, pink-cheeked and mild-eyed, with no visible muscular outfit. Lads like this whang the ball incredible distances and play with deadly accuracy.

Such a figure is Jerome D. Travers, who put the great Travis out of the metropolitan championship recently. By no stretch of the imagination could one conceive of this lad winning a championship at running, jumping, wrestling, swimming, rowing or any other strenuous game; yet he was good enough to put America's greatest master of golf out of the competition by the appalling score of 7 up and 6 to play, finishing the match on the 12th green.

Young Travers, of course, was beaten next day. It is a well-settled rule of the game that any one who beats Travis is so exhausted by the struggle that he will fall a victim to the next one he golfs against.

Imagine a boxer who had bested Jeffries trying to fight any one the next day! Yet the peachy-cheeked Travers has acquired honor enough in the late tournament to last a lifetime. If he should happen to go into a big tournament forty years from now he would be sure to hear some one in the gallery say as he stood on the first tee: "Oh, that's Jerome D. Travers. He put out the great Travis in the metropolitan championship of 1905."

Curiously enough, it has usually been a schoolboy that beat Travis. The Grand Old Man of the royal and ancient game has been soundly defeated at least once every year since he became the deity of the links, and of late it is the youngsters who rush in on him where oldsters dare not tread.

Incidentally C. H. Seeley, the winner of the metropolitan championship, is a very young man. It seems like only the other day that he won the schoolboy championship of Connecticut.

"Youth will be served," was the motto that the bucks and bloods and noble Corinthians of good King George's day swore by, and to-day more emphatically than ever it rules in golf.

Whoever hears nowadays of the seasoned veterans of the game in the big competitions? Who to-day can tell you the playing strength of Douglas, of Toler, of Whigham, Jim Tyng, Menzies, McDonald, Singer or Moller? They are no longer dangerous. The schoolboys are upon them. The little fuzzy-chinned lads, whom the veteran athletes could break in two with one gesture of rage, are now crowding the first ranks. In no other department of sport to-day is this so true as in golf.

The reason is not hard to find. The boys who are displacing the old athletes at the game have grown up at golf. They were caught young and taught how to swing. They have none of the shoulder stiffness of the old baseball or boxing or rowing or swimming expert.

They were put at golf at the age of fourteen or so, when their muscles were rudimentary and could be easily moulded to perform any special work. They don't have to hold themselves as you and I. They swing a golf club as easily and naturally as the ordinary boy jumps off a moving street car. The act requires no special concentration of mind or tension of muscles.

And that is why it is entirely possible that Walter J. Travis may become the last of our grown-up, settled, mature golf champions. It may well be that hereafter the champion shall be a schoolboy or, at most, a collegian.

Until the last half-dozen years golf has been the pastime of sedate men, men well grown and set in their ways. It was a game, a sport, a fine divertisement out on the green grass beneath God's clean blue sky. But golf to-day is no longer a mere pastime. Schoolboys have made it an athletic game.

When the late lamented Wullie Campbell was greenskeeper at Boston three flapping-legged cross-country runners to whom he lent midirons one day paralyzed him by asking when they came back panting from the eighteenth green: "What's the fastest time ever made over this course?"

Well, the royal and ancient game is really growing to be like that now. It is becoming a regularly organized athletic sport. Boys are going to dominate it as they do all other branches of athletics.

And, mark this, croaking old men: The boys will set the standard of excellence higher than it ever has been.

HOOBIN WILL NOT PLAY SATURDAY

Montreals and Shamrocks Will Have Lively Battle.

The Shamrocks will not have the services of Henry Hoobin in their match with the Montreals at the S.A.A.A. grounds Saturday, and it is not probable that he will play this season unless it is shown conclusively that the Irishmen are in danger of losing the championship.

The Montreals appear to be the only dangerous competitors the Shamrocks have, and if the latter win Saturday they are practically assured of the championship. The Montreals are stronger than they have been in some years, and will put up a game fight with the champions, who are hardly up to last year's standard.

The Nationals are liable to prove stumbling-blocks to all the other clubs in the N.A.L.U., as they are playing Mugsy McGraw lacrosse and are improving steadily.

The Capitals do not appear to be dangerous factors at this stage. However, it is a habit of theirs to get away to a bad start and then make a garrison finish, so Billy Foran isn't doing any unnecessary weeping over their prospects.

The Cornwalls, sad to say, are weak. They have a faculty for making things interesting for teams that visit their town and may spoil calculations by cornering a match or two.

The Shamrocks and Montreals will line up Saturday as follows:

Montreal.		Shamrock.
Muir	Goal	Kenny
Neville	Point	Howard
Haynes	Cover	O'Reilly
McKerrow	Defence	Kavanagh
Finlayson	"	Smith
Angus	"	Martin
Nolan	Centre	Currie

Word has been received from Joe Lally, consenting to act as referee.

INTER-PROVINCIAL CRICKET MATCH

Will be Played at Toronto on the 27th and 28th of July.

The interprovincial cricket match, Quebec vs. Ontario, will be played at Rosedale, July 27 and 28. This follows the Canadian Cricket Association's district matches for Ontario teams, which will be played in Toronto July 24, 25 and 26, giving Toronto a full week's cricket.

The Ontario team will be picked from the players taking part in the district matches. These latter will be the elevens chosen from each of the districts apportioned by the Cricket Association at its annual meeting.

AMBASSADOR A CRICKET CAPTAIN.

Pittsfield, Mass., June 8.—Sir Mortimer Durand, the British Ambassador to the United States, has been elected president of the Lenox Cricket Club. He has accepted and will play on the team during the season. The democracy of the diplomat last year in playing cricket with the butlers and valets employed in the country houses about Lenox was one of the incidents of the season.

OSBORNE VS. LONGUEUIL.

The return match between these clubs will be played at Longueuil on Saturday next. The following will represent the Osbornes, C. Holcourt, S. Coombe, . Cropper, E. A. Leurin, A. Underwood, N. Lewis, A. Atkinson, H. Lewis, H. C. McNeil, S. Brereton, J. Bearman. Reserves, C. Williams, F. S. Dewhurst. Boat leaves at 2.40.

The Rambler Harrier Club will give a paper chase Saturday afternoon, starting from the rear of 19 St. Famille Street at three o'clock. Outsiders are invited to participate.

INTERNATIONAL CHESS.

Ostend, Belgium, June 8.—It is announced that the following players will take part in the first annual international chess masters' tourney, which will open at the Kursaal on Monday: America—Frank J. Marshall, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Russia, M. Tschigorin, St. Petersburg; France, A. Alapin, D. Janowski and J. Taubenhaus, Paris; Germany, E. von Bardeleben, Berlin; Jacques Mieses, Leipsic, and Dr. Siegismund Tarrasch, Nuremberg; Austria, George Marco and Carl Schlechter, Vienna; Hermann Wolf, Jaegerdorf; Hungary, Geza Maroczy, Budapest.

Managing Director Isidor Gunsberg, of London, says he has a list of reserves on hand in case any of the above selected players should find it impossible to participate.

SPORTING COMMENT

"Talking about long hits," remarked Dave Maxwell at the baseball grounds yesterday afternoon, "I think that Mike Joyce O'Neil smashed out the most elongated drive ever made at Atwater Park.

"Mike was pitching regularly for the Birds then—it was five or six years ago but he was also being utilized as a pinch hitter, for he was pounding the horsehide as if he had a grudge against it. It was in a game with Newarks, I think, and the Birds were two runs to the bad in the ninth.

"'Come forth, Mike,' cried Dooley, with a voice that was neither small nor still.

"Mike came forth.

"'We want this game, Michael,' quoth Dooley "go smite me the sphere on the beak."

"'Aye, aye, sir,' responded Mike, with enough decision in his voice to put heart into a Chinese coolie.

"O'Neill pranced up to the plate and swung with his every ounce of avoirdupois at the first ball and—he met it. Square on the beak.

"It didn't go high, but the way it sifted through the atmosphere and plunked into the right field fence was enough to intoxicate the most abstemious fan in Montreal.

"It was what was technically known as a line drive and before the ball could be retrieved and relayed to the diamond, Mike had completed the circuit and his home run had won the game for the Birds.

"Was there any excitement? Say, old chap, you would have thought that every man, woman and child in the grand stand and in the bleachers had suddenly been acquainted with the fact that Carnegie had decided to give each of them one of his hero medals and a million dollars in gold.

"They tell me that Mike hasn't required any artificial chest-expander since.

• • •

"It was a hit to describe to your children and your children's children. The ball must have travelled nearly two hundred yards and it hit the fence in its flight, not after first touching the ground.

"Where is O'Neil now?" queried a listener.

"Dunno," replied Dave. "He went to St. Louis, where he and his brother were frequently the batter for the Nationals. Last year, he carried out the threat that he made here and went into business. He now has a grocery store in a town in one of the northern states and is said to be making a nice thing of it. A good head was Mike," concluded David reminiscently.

• • •

"Another long hit on these ground, was that made by Eddie Henry, when he was playing for the Birds," remarked a bystander.

"He drove the ball to the centre field fence but it did not travel altogether by the air-line route. It dropped back of the centrefielder but scorched the grass every time it came to earth and there is a brown spot on the fence where it struck. That was a home run too and Eddie owned Montreal that night.

"Where is Eddie now? Dinged if I known. You remember, he had to undergo an operation last year and all the boys in the Eastern League chipped in and made up a purse to defray his expenses. Jack Shearon headed the list with $50. Pretty decent of him and the rest of the boys, wasn't it? They are a good-hearted lot when you get to know them and the salt of the earth.

• • •

"Eddie recovered, I believe, but I have not heard of him drifting back into baseball so I expect that he is accumulating shekels in civil life.

• • •

"'Member when Wilkesbarre was in the league? Well, when the Miners were playing here, Rickard lifted the ball clean over the signs on the other side of St. Catherine Street. That was another long hit. I have seen quite a few hits over the left field fence but none as mighty as that."

• • •

Dave Maxwell gave his trousers another hitch and dug down into the depths of his memory. "This talk of long hits reminds me," he said, "of a slugging-feast that Montreal enjoyed here in 1902. They slaughtered the Leafs' best pitchers and before the scorer's work was done, they had accumulated twenty-three runs and twenty-seven hits. Pretty nearly every player on the Toronto team went into the box but all their benders were straightened out by the Montreals. Then the Birds went up to Toronto and trimmed the Leafs two out of three games.

• • •

"Queer thing about baseball players," mused Dave, "is that they are invariably superstitious. When Dooley was here, I had strict orders to collect all the loose horseshoes and rabbit's feet I could locate and at the end of the season, I had enough of the former to ballast a liner and enough of the latter to furnish a week's material for a chewing-gum factory.

• • •

"With the departure of Dooley, the demand for luck-bringing articles slackened and it has gradually decreased till this season. Now I have instructions to pitch every symbol of luck I come across into the middle of next week. Everytime I dig around the grandstand, my shovel strikes a nest of horseshoes and you see how green the grass is—that's rabbit's feet.

• • •

"Some of the visiting players this year were superstitious. I picked up a rabbit's foot on the grounds the other day and offered it to Jimmie Bannon.

"'Take it away" thundered Jimmie, "and cast it into outer darkness.' So I threw it down St. Henri way. We're not going to bank on mascots or hoodoos after this, but will stick to straight ball."

• • •

So saying, Dave pulled some grandstand cushions out of the rain, took a last look at his new flower-beds and sauntered into the Birds' dressing-room.

Always Eat the Best—JAMES STRACHAN, Bakers to Royalty.

CASSIDY LEADS FIRST BASEMEN

Raub Had Good Average While Lachance is Low on List.

Among the regular first baseman of the Eastern League, Pete Cassidy, of Jersey City, shows to the front. Cassidy does not head the list of men who have played first this season, however, but as two of these latter are catchers and one is an outfielder, all of whom are only filling in and are not playing the sack now, the Jersey City man is given the preference. Cassidy has not played in a full complement of contests either, but of the sixteen games he has participated in he has a percentage of .989. He has had 176 chances, made 161 putouts, thirteen assists and two errors.

Bird, a catcher, and Delehanty, an outfielder, both of Buffalo, each played first for one game, and as neither made an error they have a clean slate. Raub, one of the Montreal catchers, who covered first for the Royals, prior to the advent of Lachance, has a percentage of .991 gained in ten games, when he had 109 putouts, six assists, and one error out of 116 opportunities. Following Cassidy is Edward Murphy of Buffalo, the youngster who was the sensation of the season, not making an error until last Saturday, when he tripped up twice. Now that he has got the habit he is likely to make errors the same as other first basemen, as was evidenced in Baltimore, when he made two more. Most of his early games were played at home and he is now finding the pitfalls on the road. Murphy has played in every game but two, has had 320 chances, made 297 putouts, nineteen assists and four errors.

For third place among the regulars, Carey of Rochester, and O'Hagan, of Newark, are on even terms. Each has a percentage of .986. Carey's earned in thirty-one games and O'Hagan's in nineteen. A coincidence about this is that prior to the opening of the season, Rochester offered to trade Carey to Newark for O'Hagan, as Buckenberger was anxious to have the Newarker. Carey has had 351 chances out of which he put out 332, had fourteen assists and made five errors. O'Hagan's chances have been 208, with 195 putouts, ten assists and but three errors. Bert Conn, of Providence, who had the greatest number of chances, 397, is sixth, with a mark of .982. He has made 385 putouts, five assists, and seven errors. A singular fact is that he made more errors than assists. Jordan, of Baltimore, is seventh, and Lachance, the former Boston American Leaguer is eighth, with a mark of .978. The list follows:

	G.	PO.	A.	E.	TC.	Pct.
Bird, B.	1	4	1	0	5	1,000
Delehanty, B.	1	4	0	0	4	1,000

AN INTERNATIONAL SHOOT.

Vancouver, B.C., June 8.—A meeting has been arranged for a rifle shoot between the Sixth Regiment Duke of Connaught's Own, stationed here, at New Westminster, and the Second Regiment of the National Guard of the State of Washington. Captain McHarg, of the Duke's Own, and Brigadier General Draine, Olympia, arranged the meet, which, it is said, will likely prove an annual affair.

Ireland never turned out a better homespun than Semi-ready "Kilalo."

Irish homespuns are supreme.

For beauty of pattern and obstinacy of wear nothing can touch them. "Kilalo" Homespun is our own particular quality, woven into our own particular patterns.

One of the oldest and best mills in Ireland produces it for us. Generations of experience are behind their knowledge of homespun making.

This mill makes a particularly high grade homespun for us under our trade name of "Kilalo." Semi-ready controls the output of that quality, an any patterns we select are exclusive to us.

We make "Kilalo" homespun into two-piece suits and summer trousers. It is stylish-looking fabric—so much so that it has entirely taken the place of flannels. Prices $15 to $20.

BARNEY DREFUSS EXPECTS TROUBLE

Doesn't Think That Baseball and Civil Law Will Mix.

Pittsburg, June 8.—Barney Dreyfuss does not think it a good move to mix baseball law and civil law. He says when this is done baseball gets the worst of it. Speaking of the securing of an injunction by John McGraw restraining President Harry C. Pulliam, of the National League, from enforcing a suspension and fine imposed upon McGraw, Dreyfuss said:

"Just what I expected. Baseball law and civil law conflict in many ways, and when McGraw went into court with the plea that he had been fined and suspended without first being given a chance to present his side of the case, I knew that the injunction would be granted, for the very foundation of law is that every person charged with an offense is entitled to a fair and impartial trial before being adjudged innocent or guilty.

"But in baseball we must have laws of our own, without which it would be impossible to maintain an organization like the National League. Certain powers are vested in our president, and every player signing a contract knows that he is amenable to our laws, and unless he lives up to the same our president has the right to impose a fine or order a suspension.

"This move by McGraw, backed up by President Brush, of the New York Club, is going to be a bad thing for the National League, because it means that we are to be deprived of the right to enforce rules against rowdyism."

The fining and suspension of McGraw followed trouble during a game at New York between the New York and Pittsburg teams. McGraw was ruled off the field, and as he was leaving the grounds he and Dreyfuss had a heated argument.

CAN MAJOR DELMAR BEAT LOU DILLON?

Millard Sanders Offers to Bet $5,000 That He Cannot.

New York, June 8.—Millard Sanders has his own ideas about the relative speed merits of Major Delmar and Lou Dillon, and if they ever meet and there is an opportunity offered to place a bet on the result of the meeting between the two-minute trotters, Sanders intends to back his opinion in a substantial cash consideration. The man who trained and drove Lou Dillon to her mark of 1.58½, says:

"I don't like to talk of betting on Lou, for I know no one will drive her this year, except possibly Mr. Billings. I have too much respect for his feelings to offer to wager on Lou Dillon while he is driving, knowing that he does not endorse betting on amateur events, but I have $5,000 that I would like to place against a similar amount that Lou Dillon beats Major Delmar when they meet.

"As I understand it, they are to clash at Cleveland, Mr. Billings to drive the mare and Harry Devereux to drive the Major. The public will see then that Lou Dillon has more speed than any other trotter living or any one that ever lived."

WANT CITY TO ACQUIRE LAFONTAINE PARK

Citizens Protest Against Erection of Military School There.

Petitions against the establishment of a military school at Lafontaine Park will be circulated amongst the citizens of St. Denis, St. Jean Baptiste, Duvernay and Lafontaine wards, and forwarded to the Government and to the City Council.

This was decided upon at a largely attended meeting of the residents of those districts which was held at Dorion Club rooms last night. President A. Charest, of the club, was in the chair, and addresses were given by Alds. Lavallee, Proulx, Leclerc, Major, Paquin and Duquette, all of whom vigorously protested against using Lafontaine Park as the site of the military school. Beside a protest to the Government the City Council will be asked to permanently acquire Lafontaine Park and to spend such money as may be necessary for its embellishment.

Doctors Said That Lumps and External Swellings Would Turn to Running Sores.

Mrs. Jacob Kaehler, Zurich, Ont., says that

Burdock Blood Bitters

Saved Her from Many Years of Suffering.

She writes:—"Now imagine how joyous and great was my surprise when a friend of mine told me that Burdock Blood Bitters would cure me, so that the lumps and external swellings, which the doctors told me would turn to running sores, would disappear. I took her advice, and can say that I have no doubt but that Burdock Blood Bitters has saved me from years of suffering. It is with the greatest of pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters has done so much for me, and you are at perfect liberty to use this for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Burdock Blood Bitters is the best blood medicine on the market to-day, and is composed entirely of roots, herbs, barks and berries.

BOYS HONORABLY ACQUITTED BY JUDGE

The two boys, Thorpe and Rodney, who were accused of holding up a boy, Cummings, on Guy Street, were yesterday honorably acquitted by Judge Choquet, as the evidence showed that the alleged hold-up was merely a boyish joke.

Two boys, Spence and Cummings, were going home and met Thorpe and Rodney at the corner of Sherbrooke and Guy streets.

Spence had worked with Thorpe before as messengers in the Great North-Western Telegraph Co., and they got talking about a "tip" of 25c which Cummings had received from a lady to whom he had delivered a parcel that afternoon, and during the conversation the Cummings boy took it out of his pocket and showed it.

The two older boys, for a lark, took the quarter. Spence ran to the police station to get a policeman to come and make them give it back. He stated in court that he did not think the boys intended to steal the quarter, be he thought they were carrying the joke too far. After they gave the quarter back they walked on together until met by the police.

The purse found on Thorpe was his own purse, which he had had for some time, and it was entirely false that the mother was unable to say how he came by this.

Mr. Tucker, of the Great North-Western Telegraph Co., who had been his employer for two or three years, came to court and stated that he always had found him a satisfactory boy.

PLEASANT FUNCTION IN ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH HALL

A very pleasant function took place last evening in St. Patrick's Hall, St. Alexander Street, when Rev. Father Martin Callaghan, parish priest of St. Patrick's, was presented with the proceeds of the concert given by the church choir some time ago.

The presentation was made by Professor J. A. Fowler, the organist and choirmaster, who, in presenting a substantial cheque, also took occasion to offer to the parish priest the assurance of the choir's devotion to the church and to its pastor. The rev. father thanked the ladies and gentlemen of the choir in feeling terms for the time and efforts they had given so unsparingly in behalf of the church. Speeches were also made by Father Luke Callaghan, Father P. Heffernan and Father J. Killoran.

During the evening a presentation of a handsome oak table was made by the members of the choir to Miss M. Hinde, as a mark of their esteem, on the occasion of her approaching marriage. A surprise was reserved for George Carpenter, the popular leader of the choir, who was also the recipient of a presentation, the testimonial, which took the form of a cheque, being but a slight reward for his work in connection with the choir.

Previous to the presentation the members of the choir were entertained to a very enjoyable euchre party.

Music and the Drama

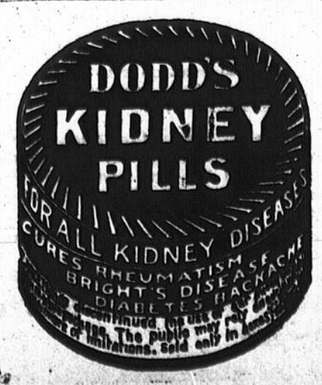
The Academy of Music will close its season this Saturday.

At the Royal the Una Clayton stock company will produce "The Price of Honor," in which the scene is laid in New York City, and a number of well known places are represented. The first scene takes place in Macy's big department store, which is seen running in full swing at the busiest time of the day. There is a realistic fire scene in a tenement in one of New York's slum districts and one act tacks place at a historic church. Una Clayton will appear as Maxey, a cash boy at Macy's. Mary Condon will be seen as a salesgirl in the big store.

The season of French stock at the Francais is taking well. "L'Assommoir," continues to draw big houses, and notwithstanding its great length, the attention of the audience is held from start to finish. Next week there will be a change to comedy, striking spectacular scenic effects, dramatic climaxes, music and magnificent costumes and marches. "The Adventures of Captain Corcoran," which the Cazeneuve company have had in rehearsal for some time, is in five acts and seventeen scenes, and the utmost capacity of the mechanical and artistic staff of the Francais has been taxed to give the piece a fitting setting. When the play was first brought out in the Theatre du Chatelet, Paris, in 1902, it made a great hit, but this will be its first production in Canada. It is dramatized by Paul Gauvault, Georges Berr and A. Vely from the noted romance of the same name by d'Assolant. Among some of the striking scenes are the blowing up of the bridge of Nerbuddah, a military camp a battlefield by moonlight, defence of the ruined temple of Budha, Holkar's palace with grand ballet, and the triumphal entry of Holkar's troops into Baghavapour.

AID FOR LABOR TEMPLE.

At a largely-attended meeting of the Montreal Cigarmakers' Union last evening it was decided to take 500 shares of the new Labor Temple project. The general committee in charge of the scheme decided some time ago to sell a certain number of shares to affiliated unions, and the Cigarmakers' Union have taken the initiative among local labor bodies in deciding to acquire an interest in the undertaking.



CONGREGATIONALISTS RAISE HUGE FUND

Twenty-Three Dollars Per Family to Free Churches From Debt.

Toronto, Ont., June 8.—(Special.)—Two notable features stand forth in the proceedings of the convention of the Congregational Union of Ontario and Quebec. The first is the communication from the United Brethren of Canada in which they announce the formation of a committee to arrange for the union of two bodies. The second is the congregational inspiration that arises from the announcement that the Jubilee Fund had reached such proportions as to make probable the freeing from debt of every Congregational Church in Canada.

Rev. J. K. Unsworth was followed with the greatest interest as he told of the fathering of the fund in England, and of how the Church undertook two years ago to clear every Canadian church of debt before the end of 1905. At a committee meeting then they had made the maximum estimate $93,000, but last New Year's that amount had been exceeded by $44,000. Thirty-nine churches were then in debt, but to-day, thirty-seven had every prospect of freedom. Considering that their total membership, young old and absent was 9,500, this showing was extraordinary. It meant $23 for each family and if the Presbyterians or Methodists in Canada undertook a similar fund they would have to raise a total of $5,000,000 each to duplicate the work of the Congregationalists. Some churches, it was true, had not responded, but the door of mercy was still open. (Laughter.)

The church giving most was the Western, Toronto, with $10,1[illegible]. Calvary and Westmount, Montreal, gave $3,798 and $3,512 respectively and Sherbrooke, $3,800.

NON-RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS.

A communication from the Anglican Church was received, asking for co-operation in securing systematic religious instruction in the public schools "We have had half a century of public schools without the Bible as a direct means of education," reads the communication, "and the result is plainly seen to-day in the lax morality of political and social life. What will be the result when the children of to-day become the parents of the new generation of public school children?"

The communication was referred to the Business Committee.

PRIVATE ABATTOIRS MUST PAY CITY FEES

So Says City Attorney Ethier in Report to Market Committee.

At yesterday's session of the market committee a report was read from City Attorney Ethier, stating that the city had the power to collect market fees from the private abattoirs of the city.

According to an old argument between the city and the Union Abattoir Company, private abattoirs were not to be allowed in Montreal; but since this was seen to be against the commercial interests of the city, the local Legislature recently, in two cases, granted special permission to the Laing Company and to the Davies Company.

These companies were obliged to abide by the by-laws of the city—therefore they must pay fees.

WOULD RATHER WALK HOME.

A naval officer tells the following story of Carpenter McGloin, an old character employed in the navy, who for many years was a sort of privileged person in the service, because of his unflagging spirits and wit.

The old Pensacola once was coming up to San Francisco from Honolulu when she met a severe gale. McGloin, who in heavy weather usually became seasick, promptly "turned in."

Shortly after his disappearance, it was reported to the Captain that something was amiss with the foretopmast. Accordingly McGloin's services as carpenter became necessary at this juncture, he was setn for. Staggering on deck, he began to make a series of excuses, which were cut short by the commanding officer, who ordered the carpenter to go aloft to ascertain what was wrong with the mast.

The proposition struck McGloin with such amazement, that it took away its breath. "Up that mast," he muttered, "in such weather as this?"

"Yes, up that mast," reiterated the commanding officer sternly, "and quickly, too."

McGloin decided to enter a last despairing protest. "Cap'n," said he, "do you honestly mean that I'm to go up that mast in such weather? Why, this is an awful gale!"

The officer lost patience. "You're impertinent, man!" exclaimed he. "And I've allowed you too much talk already! Up that mast, now!"

"All right," morunfully wailed McGloin, as he prepared to obey the order, "but," he added ,"with a reproachful glance at his superior officer, "Cap'n, if there was a four-inch plank from here to Brooklyn, rather than go up that mast, I'd walk home!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

STRAWS IN THE WIND.

By Madeline Bridges.

It is a strange fact that the most moral people always are more interested in the history of a noted criminal than in the lives of saints or philanthropists.

It is not enough for a woman to be wise for herself; she is always expected to be wise for some one's else self.

We gain knowledge by what we learn; wisdom, by what we unlearn.

Love has rights, Friendship must content herself with privileges.

We are wise to-day, that to-morrow we may look back and say: "How foolish we were!"

To take away a man's good character is to give him a bad one.

The kindness of insincerity is like the beauty of artificial roses; we value it for what it is intended to represent.

To be true to others compels us sometimes to be untrue to ourselves.

It is only exceedingly simple men who aspire to be thought knowing.

Familiarity breeds contempt —but only for that which is contemptible.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ITS OWN THERMOMETER.

Marshall P. Wilder has a story of the tribulations of a friend in securing a competent nurse for his infant daughter. One day it seemed to the members of the family that the child was ailing; and the consensus of opinion was that the trouble resulted from the method employed in bathing the youngster.

"We're afraid," said the mother to the nurse, "that the water is not of the proper temperature. We shall get you a thermometer, so that you may tell when the bath is too hot or too cold."

"Oh, as to that, mum," promptly replied the nurse, "I dont' think it's needed. I can tell easy enough; if the little one gets blue, the water's too cold; if she gets red, then I know it's too hot."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WHAT CAUSES SNORING

When asleep, people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhozone" before retiring and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membranes, Catarrhozone makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents dropping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhozone—that's worth remembering.

False weights were found in the ruins of the oldest city that has yet been exhumed. And false weights will probably be consumed when the earth drops into the sun and the heavens are rolled together like a scroll. Ancient records and ancient statute books are full of evidence that every new practical device—from capitalistic and labor monopolies, secret rebates and majority owners swindling minority owners, down to adulterations and crooked scales—was familiar to our ancestors of the plateau of Iran before the migrations. Vice is the old inhabitant; virtue is the newcomer, the immigrant, received with reluctance and compelled to fight for every inch of ground he gains.

"The Law of the Land"

By Emerson Hough, Author of "The Mississippi Bubble."

BOOK III.

"It was an accident purely," said Miss Lady. "I found it in a book, years ago. It was unusual, and I took it for that reason. I wanted to get as far away from any possibility of detection by my friends as I possibly could. See," she smiled bitterly, "I am Louise Loisson now, the common dancer! I make my living in that way. But for that, and for the kindness of Madame Delchasse here, I might have starved. I am no longer any one you ever knew. Behind this mask sometimes I forget."

Eddring looked at her with strange earnestness. "You don't know how true is every word you speak," said he. "There is absolute fatality under all this. On my honor, I believe you are Louise Loisson, born over again! But look how fate brings you and me together: I did not know where Miss Lady Ellison had gone; I did not know who Louise Loisson might be; by chance, by the merest chance, I wished to learn—for other reasons only. Now, see! Why, it is fate, Miss Lady! I have found you both. Miss Lady, my dear girl, see! I have found everything else in the world at the same time." The pent-up yearning of his soul was in his voice, his eyes. The girl caught swift warning.

"I shall go in," said she; but he stopped her. She tore loose the hand which he would have taken. "Go!" said she, "and never must you come through that gate again. You were unasked, and never will be asked. You, to talk of friends! Why, you were the very last of any I ever knew whom I should have cared to see again."

"What—what is that?" He stumbled under this sudden blow.

"Oh, I have had enough of men," said the girl, bitterly; "enough of humanity. But I will tell you this much, a friend of mine must first of all be an honest man. You talk to me of masquerading; take off your own mask, and let me set my foot upon it, as I have set foot upon all my past! Sincerity, truth—I wonder if there is such a thing left in all of God's world. I did not ask you here, I do not welcome you here. Good-by. You must go."

He stood dumb, simply gazing at her, not understanding; and his absolute horror she took to be his mere confusion. Yet her eyes were more sad than angry as she went on.

"You've prospered, Mr. Eddring, I know," said she. "What a difference for you and me! A girl must walk so carefully, but a man may do as he pleases. You talk about fate, and that sort of thing, but no man with a life like yours can come into my life, mere dancer though I be. Before you go I want to say to you that I know the story of your discharge from the railroad. I know how you profited by your knowledge of the company's affairs—know other things not public regarding you. Since I do know these things, for you to dare to come to me in this way seems to me the worst of effrontery."

Still Eddring stood uncomprehending, stunned. "I—I do that?" he whispered, half to himself. "Did you think—could you believe——"

"I could believe nothing else."

"Who told you these things?" blazed he at length, as at last his heart once more sent the blood back through his veins.

"If you wish to know, I will tell you. It was Henry Decherd. I imagine he could furnish proof enough." She spoke defiantly, if perhaps wearily.

"Henry Decherd!" exclaimed Eddring. "Henry Decherd! Miss Lady, is it possible that you can stand alive under the sun of heaven and say these things to me? Is he here? Tell me, what right——"

But now the anger of Miss Lady herself was blazing, and all the cruelty of her sex was in her tone as she answered. "I need not tell you," said she, "but I will. Mr. Decherd is the only friend of my former life who cared enough for me to follow and find me. And so he has the right——"

"For what? Tell me, is there any truth in this newspaper paragraph—'There is talk about the marriage of the mysterious Louise Loisson?' Don't tell me that he—that Decherd——" He gazed steadily into her eyes, but saw there that which made him forget all his purposes, forced him to remember nothing in the world but his sudden personal misery. And so for an instant he stood and suffered—until the sheer bigness of his soul began to reassert itself. All his love for her came back, and he forgot even his deadly hurt in the great wave of pity and tenderness which swept over him.

"Miss Lady," said he simply, after a time, "for myself it doesn't make so much difference, after all. I am one of the unlucky. But for you, as you say, it is at least your due that you should have honest men for your friends, and an honest man for your husband. I wanted you to trust me. I loved you. I wanted you to believe in me. I wanted you to marry me, Miss Lady—I will say it—and I wanted to tell you that long ago, before you left us. That is over now. You are unjust and cruel beyond all toleration—beyond all belief. You could by no possibility ever love me. But listen. You shall never marry Henry Decherd."

CHAPTER VI.

The Dancer.

Ah, but it was a sweet and wonderful thing to see La Belle Louise dance; a strange and wonderful thing. She was so light, so strong, so full of grace, so like a bird in all her motions. She swam through the air as though her feet scarce touched the floor, her loose silken skirts resembling wings. Now on one side of the lighted stage, now back again, nodding, beckoning, courtesying to something which she saw—this spectacle must have moved any one of us to applause, as it did these thousands who came to witness it. The stage has no traditions of any dance like this of La Belle Louise. It is now danced no more, this dance which a maid or a lily or a tall white stork might understand, each after its own fashion.

Scores of times had La Belle Louise given this dance, each time with but trifling variations, each time to thunders of applause, with an art so free of effort that it was above all art. But what had now, for the first time, come to La Belle Louise? Did her bosom labor in the physical exertion of these measured steps? Was the quality of lightness and freedom lacking? Was the self-absorption, the abandonment, the impersonal, bird-like quality less to-night than before? And was the subtle, cruelly just sense of the public right in its hesitation, in its half-applause? Had there been actual change in the dancing of La Belle Louise?

The dancer looked from side to side, as though in search of some face or figure; as though in fear, in distress. Was she actually panting when she left the stage—she, La Belle Louise, the ethereal, the spirituelle, the very imponderable dream of the dance itself? This might have been; for presently she cast herself into the arms of Madame Delchasse in a state bordering upon actual panic.

"Auntie!" she cried, "I can not dance! I am done with it! I shall never dance again. I can not! I can not!" She trembled as though in actual fear or suffering as she spoke.

"Now, now, my cherished!" said the old French lady, gathering her to her ample bosom, "what is it that has come to you? You have illness? Come, we'll go at 'ome."

The dancer was slow in laying aside her silken skirts and putting on her street attire. Madame waited some time before thrusting her head through the half-open door. "See! my dearie," she cried, "I have the surprise for you. Monsieur shall ride home with you. He has ordered for to-night the second carriage, which I shall myself take—since you are so soon to ride with monsieur all the time, is it not?"

The head of madame disappeared. The girl, when at last ready to depart, sat with her gaze fixed on the door; yet she started when presently there came a knock. Henry Decherd entered. "Louise!" he cried. "Louise!" and would have caught her in his arms. She repulsed him and stood back, pale and trembling.

"Oh, I say," protested Decherd, "one would think I had no right."

"You have no right to touch me," she replied. "You shall not. Go on away with auntie in the other carriage. I will follow you home."

"Come, now," said Decherd, approaching; "this sort of thing won't do. I don't understand what you mean."

"No, you don't understand a girl," she said.

"At least I understand how a girl ought to treat the man she is to marry."

"Marry!" said Miss Lady, whispering to herself. "Marry!" There was silence between them for a time, but she turned to him at length.

"I shall never dance again," said she. "Neither to-morrow, nor at any other time, shall I set foot upon the stage again."

"You will not need to do so, when once we are married," said he. "I shall be willing—but tell me, what's the matter to-night? You are only tired. You will wake up again."

"Wake up!" cried she, "that is the very word. I feel as though I had suddenly awakened, this very night." She pressed her hands to her reddening cheeks. "Can't you see?" she cried. "To-night for the first time I felt them! I felt their eyes. I felt them, out there in front, as though there were many; as though there were more than one. I felt that they were women—that they were men!"

"Well, they have been there all the time," said Decherd. "It's odd you should realize that."

"I never did before," said she. "It kills me. Why, can't you see? I have been selling myself—my body, my face, my eyes, myself, a little at a time, a little to each of them. I've been selling myself. They paid to see me. Now I can dance no more. Yes, you are right, I am awake at last; and I tell you I am some one else. I have been in a dream, it seems to me, for years. But now I can see."

"Well, let the dancing go," said Decherd, rising and coming toward her. "Never mind about that."

"Let everything go!" cried Miss Lady, fiercely. "Let everything go! Marry you? Why, sir, if indeed you understood a girl, you would not want me to come to you feeling as I do now. Can't you see that a girl must depend on the man she loves? I have tried to feel sure. I have tried to see you clearly. Now, to-night, it is just as it was that time years ago when you spoke to me; something comes between us. I can not see you clearly. I can not understand. And so long as that is true, I can never, never marry you. I can not talk about it. Go! I do not want to see you!"

A sudden alarm seized upon Henry Decherd. "Listen," he said; "listen to me. I can not have you talk this way. Why, you know this sort of thing is absolutely wrong."

"Everything's wrong!" cried Miss Lady, burying her face in her hands as she sank on a couch. "Everything is wrong! I am ashamed, I can not tell you why. I don't know why, but I have changed, all at once. I'm not myself any more. I'm some one else. I don't know who I am! I never knew. Oh, shall I never know—shall I never understand why I am not myself!"

Decherd caught her hands. "We shall not wait," said he, "we'll be married to-morrow." His voice trembled in a real emotion, although on his face there sat an uneasiness not easily read. "Dearest, forget all this," he repeated. "Go home and sleep, and to-morrow—"

Her eyes flashed in the swift, imperious anger wherewith upon the instant sex may dominate sex, leaving no argument or answer. Yet in the next breath the girl turned away, her anger faded into anxiety. She wavered, softened in her attitude.

"Oh, he told me, he told me!" murmured she to herself. "I can not—I can not!" She seemed unconscious of Decherd's presence. But soon she forgot her own soliloquy. Once more she looked Decherd squarely in the face.

"I can not marry you," she said. "I will not!"

"I'll not allow you to make a fool of yourself, or of me," said Decherd. "What do you mean—who is 'he?'"

He had his answer on the moment, not from her lips, but by one of those strange freaks of fate which often set us wondering in our commonplace lives.

There came a tap at the door, and a call boy offered a card. "It's against orders, I know, ma'am," he began, "but then—"

Decherd, full of suspicion, sprang at the messenger and caught the card before Miss Lady saw it. His swift glance gave him small comfort.

"Eddring!" he cried. "By God! John Eddring! So—"

"Yes," she flashed again at him. "You are rude; and there is your answer; and here is mine to you, and him." She turned to the call boy.

"Tell the gentleman that Miss Loisson can not be seen," said she.

A ghastly look had come upon Henry Decherd's face at these words. His features were livid in his rage. "So Eddring is here, is he?" said he, "and he has been talking to you? By God, I'd kill him if I thought——"

"Carry my wrap, sir!" said Miss Lady, rising like a queen. "You may do so much for the last time. At the gate I shall bid you good-by. Open the door!"

STREET MUSIC MAY HAVE TO DISAPPEAR

Chief Campeau Reports That Business Men Are Objecting to Daily Serenades.

The quality of the music dispensed by the street musician an dthe advisability of refusing the necessary licenses in future to the fraternity who furnish "the food of love" on the streets of Montreal were topics that engaged the attention of the Police Committee yesterday afternoon for some time. No action was taken.

It appears that Chief Campeau has had many complaints lately about the wandering orchestras, especially from business men, who regarded the serenading rather in the light of a nuisance. In view of this the Chief suggested that the licenses be either withheld or the music stopped in the business portions of the city.

Ald. Marchand thought that the nuisance should be done away with, and no licenses issued in future, while Ald. St. Denis pointed out that, as the men were given permission to play upon the streets by virtue of a by-law, before their permits were taken up, it would be necessary to repeal the civic legislation. He suggested that they be granted licenses this year with a warning not to bother the business people. One or two of the members, thinking perhaps of their boyhood days, remarked that they did not take the music as a nuisance, especially in the outskirts of the city, where the young folk enjoyed the playing to the fullest extent.

No licenses have this season been issued; and it was decided to await a report from Chief Campeau as to the nature of the complaints. If they are general, the music will have to go.

The question of No. 12 police station brought Ald. Proulx before the committee. He wanted the station retained, as it was needed locally; but since it was leased only by the city, other quarters must be found when the lease has expired. Ald. Proulx remarked that the opinion seemed to be gaining ground that the police force was over-officered and needed more men. It was therefore a question whether a couple of stations should be abolished.

The commitee wil report favoring the retention of a police station in that neighborhood.

Tenders were opened for 360 tons of coal, and as the prices were all the same, $6.50 a ton, it was agreed to divide the contract among the tenderers. It was resolved to pay each of the three police inspectors one hundred dollars for the purchase of their uniforms.

Fourteen constables were taken on the force. They have passed the required examinations in both languages. Their names are P. O'Donnell, H. Stewart, F. P. McEntee, Geo. Neason, Chas. Moore, Thos. Barrett, J. W. Chartrand, N. Choquette, V. Breteau, A. Fafard, Victor Cardinal, J. Dalpe, M. Roberge and J. Toupin.

Butler Trays.

There is no good reason why these Trays should be called "Butler" Trays, only that they are of a style largely used in England by butlers, on account of the high "rail" or side.

The fact is, they are of so useful a design that a gift of one would delight the heart of any housewife.

This may come as a welcome Wedding Gift suggestion to someone.

Here is a definite description and price of one of the most useful sizes:—

A Shoe Story

"Three fifty, madam," says the salesman. "Shall I send them up?"

"No-o, you needn't mind. I guess I'll wear them and let you send home my old ones."

And two hours later she comes into the house looking as if she'd a sudden attack of sick headache.

"Oh, these shoes," she gasps as she falls into a chair. "I'm tired with wearing them. The salesman made me think they fitted all right and I was fool enough to wear them and now I can't take them back."

Same old story—
and what's the moral?
Simply this
—the Slater shoe don't work that way.

It fits her foot; there being over three hundred sizes and shapes of Slater women's shoes.

Slater shoes are easy to sell because they are easy to wear. There is no excuse for a woman failing to fit her foot every time she tries.

WILL EXTEND COURSE IN DOMESTIC ECONOMY

Normal School Will Make Additions to This and Nature Study Course.

The Normal School committee met yesterday afternoon, and it was decided that the present course of manual training in that institution should be retained and efforts made to extend the existing courses in natural study and domestic economy. A sub-committee was appointed to carry out this work of extension. While the work in manual training is considered adequate, the committee was of opinion that in the nature study and domestic economy branches it was advisable to extend the present classes in botany, cooking and sewing and cutting garments.

It was reported that at McGill Greek had been dropped as a compulsory study for teachers in training who take normal school bursaries, Miss May Smith and Miss Annie Ewan were appointed to the staff of the McGill Model School.

The resignation of Mr. Carl Johannson, who has taught wood carving, carpentering and Sloyd work in the Model School for the past four years, was accepted. No appointment was made for the present. The closing exercises of the Model School will be held on June 29th.

GERMANY GAINED BY CHANGE IN FRANCE

Thought That Ties With England and Russia Will be Loosened.

Paris, June 8.—M. Rouvier's first meeting with the diplomats to-day brought out much discussion among them concerning the effect of the change in the French Cabinet upon European politics. The prevailing view is that Germany will be the gainer by the change, as against Great Britain and Russia. M. Delcasse's policy made the Franco-Russian alliance first and the Anglo-French alliance more recently the central features of his action. Recent tendencies play among the powerful socialist element have been against the Russian alliance, and toward a strict interpretation of the British alliance. M. Rouvier's strong personality makes him independent of the Socialists, yet the dilpomats incline to the view that the policy of France will no longer show a strong sentimental attachment for Russia or Great Britain. This is not expected to take any marked immediate expression, but to be a gradual development of the present situation.

The care taken by M. Rouvier of French finances is considered to be one of the causes why the bankers refused further loans to Russia. During Japan's protests against Admiral Rojestvensky's alleged violation of the neutrality of the waters of French Indo-China, M. Rouvier insisted on a rigid application of the neutrality rules against Russia. This leads the diplomats to believe that his policy towards Russia will be straightforward and practical rather than sentimental. They forsee that this may exert considerable influence towards peace, as Russia is likely to learn that French policy is dictated by French interests instead of desire to uphold the alliance.

FRIEND OF ENGLAND.

Concerning Great Britain, M. Rouvier is credited with being her firm friend, but the indications are that the Anglo-French understanding will receive a practical interpretation as a platonic bond of friendship instead of the broad construction heretofore given that it amounted to a virtual alliance. The friends of M. Delcasse, therefore, claim that the conciliation of Germany tends to lossen the ties with Great Britain and Russia.

The diplomats also incline to the view that the Moroccan issue, which heretofore has been between Germany and France, may enter a new phase between Germany and Great Britain if the latter is indisposed to accept the effect of Germany's diplomacy in destroying the Anglo-French agreement relative to Morocco.

The semi-official Temps, this evening gives conservative utterance of the inquietude concerning foreign politics involved in the cabinet change, saying: "To-day, as yesterday, France can, and should, preserve the Russian alliance, which is a political expression of geographical necessity. Equally we should strengthen our relation with Italy, and thus weaken the offensive character of the triple alliance. We should continue to support the cordial understanding with Spain and should affirm that our friendly relations with Great Britain permit our interests to remain in contact without being in conflict.

Toronto, June 8.—Mr. Fred. Nichols, of the Canadian Shipbuilding Co., announced to-day that the company had taken over the Bertram Company's works, and that Mr. A. Augustrom, late of the Bertram Works, would be general manager. The company will use the Bridgeburg yards, on the Niagara river, for building vessels for the Upper Lakes.

ME TOO

The "Tail Enders" That Follow Genuine Articles.

It is sometimes interesting to watch the curves imitators make to get the public to buy imitations of genuine goods.

Every now and then some one will think there is a splendid opening to fix up something like Postum Coffee and advertise the same way and take some of the business.

An imitator is naturally ignorant of food values and how to skilfully make a cereal coffee, on scientific lines.

Such men first think of preparing something that looks and tastes like the original, with no knowledge of how the grains should be treated to prepare them so that the starchy part is transformed properly and the valuable nourishing elements made digestible.

Such imitations may be foisted on the public for a short time, but the people are critical and soon detect the attempt, then the imitators go out of business.

Something like 400 of these little factories have been started in various parts of this country in the past nine years, and practically all of them have gone the "long journey." Just lately a new one has come to life and evidently hopes to insert itself in public favor by copying the style of the Postum advertising in the papers.

This is a free country and every man who makes an honest product and honestly labels it, has reason for some recognition, but the public has the right to know the facts.

Postum is the one original and genuine Cereal Coffee, made skilfully and for a definite purpose. It has stood through all the wars of the imitators, has won the approval of the physicians and the people.

People who really seek to free themselves from the coffee habit and at the same time to rebuild the soft gray matter in the nerve centres and thus reconstruct the nervous system, broken down by coffee, can rely on Postum.

"There's a reason."

WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Red Rose Tea

Because it is accepted as a standard of quality.

Red Rose Tea can be found in the sample room of nearly every tea firm in Canada. It is used as a standard of quality by which they judge their own teas.

A large London, Eng. Tea firm recently asked their correspondents in Montreal to send them samples of the best brand of tea sold in this country—they sent Red Rose.

This is a very high tribute to Red Rose Tea. If you will try the tea you will feel like endorsing this tribute.

STE. CUNEGONDE COUNCIL WILL PUBLISH NEW MAP

Routine affairs kept the Ste. Cunegonde Council busy until nearly midnight yesterday. The City Attorney, Mr. F. X. Dupuis, M.L.A., was again retained for a period of five years.

It was also decided to publish a new map of Ste. Cunegonde, and the contract for preparing this supplying sixty copies was given to Mr. J. E. A. Bissonnette at $500. Mr. E. A. Grose was accorded leave of absence to attend the convention of Catholic Foresters, which takes place at Three Rivers on June 12.

FEAST OF PENTECOST HAS BEEN CELEBRATED FOR AGES

A Day With Profound Meaning in Both Jewish and Christian Churches—Marks Three Important Events in Israelitish History—Whit Sunday.

"And thou shalt observe the feast of weeks, of the first fruits of wheat harvest."—Exodus 34, 22.

On Friday first the orthodox Jew throughout the world will lay aside his ordinary everyday labors to celebrate the Feast or Pentecost, special services being held in all the synagogues, which are decked with flowers and fruits in keeping with the occasion.

To the Hebrew the word Pentecost means fiftieth day, and is the later Jewish name for the Feast of Weeks mentioned in Exodus 34-22, and was so-called because of its celebration by command seven weeks after the Passover.

"And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the Sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering; seven Sabbaths shall be complete:

"Even unto the morrow after the seventh Sabbath shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the Lord."

The day is also referred to as the Feast of the Harvest, one of the three feasts which, were commanded of God and referred to by Moses in Exodus 23 chap., while in Num. 28-26 it is marked as a day on which "ye shall do no servile work."

Originally the date, the sixth day of the month Sivan, corresponding to our 9th of June, was regarded as a purely harvest festival, but later times the Jews have by tradition connected it with the giving out of the law on Mount Sinai, this similarity of dates being deduced by Hebrew authorities from the story of the giving of the ten commandments as told in the twentieth chapter of Exodus.

In keeping then with the laws of his Church—a careful and conscientious observance of which is one of the good points that must be conceded to the Jew into whatever part of the earth he may wander—the descendants of Abraham will, on Friday, cease from labor and celebrate in Old Testament fashion this, one of their most important feasts of the year, marking as it does three important events in Israelitish history: (1) the fiftieth day following the celebration of that on which the angel slew the first-born in Egypt; (2) the Feast of Harvest; and (3) the delivery to Moses of the tables of stone on Mount Sinai.

In the Christian Church the day was early observed as the Feast of the Holy Spirit, in commemoration of that occasion referred to in the second chapter of the Acts of the Apostles when "they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

But the name of Pentecost was in their case applied to the whole period of seven weeks between Easter and the day of Pentecost as fixed in the Pentateuch. It was a special season for administering the sacrament of baptism, and as all were baptized in white dresses, the last Sunday of the celebration got the name of "Dominica in albis," which, as the years advanced, got to be "Whitsunday" in the English language.

MRS. SCLATER FAIN TO TALK IN MICMAC

But the Reticent Witness in Three Rivers Trial Seems to Know English.

Three Rivers, Que., June 8.—(Special.)—Mrs. Sclater, whose answer to interrogations relating to the murder of her husband has so far been confined to the sentence, "I cannot answer," now proposes to tell all she knows in the Micmac language if the court will provide her with an interpreter. Mr. Greenshields made the application, and was instructed to put Mrs. Sclater in the box in order to prove that she did not understand English or French.

When the clerk read over the form of the oath to her a voice was heard saying, "Do not kiss the book." The accused obeyed and the clerk called attention to the fact that this was contempt of court. The Crown protested; Mr. Greenshields defending. Finally, Mrs. Sclater was allowed to leave the box, while the defence formulated their application for an interpreter.

Mr. P. Adams was then called to the box by the defence, and stated that his nephew, Charles O'Malley, who would be in town to-morrow, could interpret, being conversant with the Micmac tongue. The Crown objected to this, and, profiting by Mr. Adams' presence in the box, asked him if he knew Mrs. Sclater, which he claimed he did, having frequently stopped at the Sclater house. He stated that the accused understood French and English well, and that on all his visits he had conversed with her in both languages.

The court adjourned till this morning without deciding on the application.

MISSING FOUND BY LADY IN TRANCE

Strange Story of How Brighton Man Was Found by Clairvoyant

Since May 1 a wealthy young American named Mr. Martin has been missing from a Brighton boarding house, says the Mail. The sole clue to his whereabouts consists of a series of three visions seen by an amateur clairvoyante who has never met him.

Mr. Martin, who is twenty years of age, is the son of a Mrs. Walsh by a former marriage, and his family is well known in New York. Mrs. Walsh and her son went to Brighton from Paris on April 29. On the evening of May 1 the son went alone to a concert on the West Pier, and never returned.

On May 4 a little party of spiritualists met in a room at Hove for their bi-weekly seance, and a Miss Hartley acted as medium, though she is not a "professional." In a state of trance she saw a young man lying on the carpet of a richly furnished dining room, bound hand and foot.

She felt anxious at the time, for she thought help was needed. She was advised to watch the papers for an account of a missing man. Mrs. Walsh advertised on May 10, and by the advice of the Brighton police continued to insert the following notice:

RECOGNIZED THE AD.

"Missing at Brighton since the night of May 1 a young man, American, twenty; height six feet, fair complexion, blue eyes, light hair; dressed in a blue serge suit, dark grey tweed overcoat, black necktie, black shoes, and wore a fawn colored cycling cap.—Address 'Missing,' Evening Argus office, Brighton."

This was shown to Miss Hartley, and she thought at once of her vision. She communicated with Mrs. Walsh, who attended two seances in the little circle at Hove. At the first the medium saw Mr. Martin lying in a bed, looking very ill. She identified him by his unusually small hands and the description. Photographs have since been shown her, and she is certain that the man she has seen is Mr. Martin. At the second seance, which Mrs. Walsh attended, the medium saw Mr. Martin again and in the same bedroom. This time he was sitting in an armchair.

"I cannot tell where the house is," said Miss Hartley to a Daily Mail representative. "My guide takes me along a level, up a hill, and along the level again, and the sea remains on my right hand. From this I should think it lay in the Kemp Town part of Brighton."

Miss Hartley, who is a tall, fair girl, does not vouch for the existence of the house; she only knows that she sees it in a trance.
