World News In Brief

Honolulu, March 12.—(AP)—Thirty-eight passengers—including one baby—were taken off the stricken American freighter, Andrea F. Luckenbach early today after the 8,000-ton ship ran around three miles off the Hawaiian island of Kauai. It was reported sinking.

Hanoi, Indo-China, March 12.—(Reuters)—Three hundred French and Vietnamese commandos have landed on the Tonkin Gulf island of Cathay to clear out big Viet-minh communist rebel forces, reliable French sources disclosed today.

The reports said they landed last Thursday and swept south across the rocky, cave-riddled island, where the French hold a key lighthouse. The commandos seized the village of Gialuon without a fight two hours after they landed. But rebels ambushed them when they pushed into the narrow, rocky valleys.

Montreal, March 12.—(CP)—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today that he would render a decision in the case of Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens this afternoon.

The president's decision will be in connection with a fracas allegedly caused by Richard in the lobby of the Cadillac Hotel in New York March 5 when referee Hughie McLean was "roughed up."

London, March 12.—(AP)—Buckingham Palace disclosed today that Princess Elizabeth will visit the island of Gozo later this month.

Gozo is the lesser of the two main islands which make up the Royal Navy's bastion of Malta.

Primary purpose of the Princess' trip, which begins March 19, will be to spend a week with husband Prince Philip. He is stationed with the Mediterranean fleet, in which he commands a frigate.

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep. Mich.) said today he believes the communists in the United States now are giving top priority to infiltrating the American military establishment.

"Before the current emergency, the main objective of the Reds was to penetrate our state department," Ferguson declared.

"But I believe their No. 1 target now is penetration of our armed services, with our industrial plants second on the list and the state department third."

Dr. Stewart Allen Is Held By Reds

New York, March 12.—(AP)—The New York Times said today in a Hong Kong dispatch that Dr. Stewart Allen of Montreal, director of a Canadian mission hospital in Chungking, has been arrested by the Chinese communists on a charge of selling goods to the government stamp tax.

Quoting missionary arrivals from Szechwan province, the dispatch said Dr. Allen was arrested in mid-December with Miss Connie Ward, an elderly nurse from Vancouver. They were locked in hospital rooms for two weeks following a trial by students on an alleged charge of mistreating a patient. Miss Ward was later released.

Dr. Allen, a surgeon, achieved a reputation in west China during the Japanese war for his treatment of victims of the 1940-41 Chungking air raids.

Communist Newspaper Uses Richard As Buyers' Bait

Montreal, March 12.—(AP)—Police Saturday night arrested nine persons, who, they said, were selling a "communist" newspaper called Champion, carrying a front-page story about Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Lieut. Jean Boyszen of the anti-subversive squad, which seized the papers, said Richard had nothing to do with the paper. He added that the story and a front-page picture of the Montreal hockey idol were used to bait the public into buying the paper, a five-cent eight-page tabloid.

Some 500 copies were seized while hundreds more were strewn along the streets outside the Forum, where Canadians were playing Chicago Black Hawks.

Police said the six men and three women arrested will be charged with selling papers without a permit. They have been released on $200 bail.

The paper quotes Richard as saying in an interview that he didn't like attempts to monopolize hockey. Champion says the Rocket told its youth editor, Jean Sylvestre, that "Jim Norris has a controlling interest in the four Am-

Key Targets Grouped In Small Area

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—The American military, which preaches dispersion to private industry, concentrates some of its most vital projects in a single small area.

The State of Maryland and the District of Columbia to the south-west provide a profitable target for enemy attack.

There already exist within a few easy flying minutes a complexity of military research centres, command headquarters and airfields. The defence department is adding a new priority target of equal value, a wartime "second Pentagon" for use should Washington come under attack.

It has chosen Camp Ritten, in western Maryland north of Washington as the site. The location is near another potential primary target, Camp Detrick. Camp Detrick is the centre of the military's germ-warfare laboratory and production effort.

Fifteen minutes away from the modern fast bomber is Aberdeen, Md., heart of the army's ordnance research and development work and its chief proving ground. At Baltimore is the centre for the army's counter-intelligence corps.

Washington and the immediate vicinity would be an enemy bombardier's dream, even if it hadn't the White House and Capitol.

Here are concentrated such top-priority targets as the Pentagon (the whole military high command and all its operating staff in one building), headquarters of the Atomic Energy Commission, the Bureau of Standards which specializes in precision weapons, a naval gun factory and three military airfields.

Moreover, the Maryland-District of Columbia concentration is close to the Atlantic seaboard. There have been broad hints that guided missiles capable of being launched from submarines or surface ships are a reality.

Violence Marks Strike In Spain

Barcelona, Spain, March 12.—(Reuters)—A wild crowd threw flaming gasoline-soaked rags at the city hall today as the council met while the whole city was in the grip of a strike.

An estimated 300,000 workers downed tools in a cost-of-living strike, and threw picket lines in front of offices and factories.

One woman was hurt outside the city hall.

The crowd burned a motor ambulance standing in front of the building and stopped firemen who tried to extinguish the blaze.

Yelling crowds stormed the streets and stopped taxis to prevent passengers using them. At the city hall a curtain caught fire but was quickly extinguished.

Police later cleared the square in front of the hall.

The civil governor of Barcelona, Baeza Alegria, went at mid-day to confer with the military governor of the Barcelona area, Capt. Gen. Juan Sanchez.

General strikes were outlawed in Spain by Gen. Francisco Franco at the end of the civil war. This was the second since then. The first, in Bilbao in May, 1947, was smashed with the arrest of the Commonwealth Brigade Is Only Five Miles From Hongchong, 22 Miles From 38th Parallel.

Tokyo, March 12.—(AP)—Allied troops today hurled a three-pronged spearhead at the heart of Chinese Red resistance in Korea.

The centre prong, led by British, Canadian and Australian troops, stabbed to within five miles of Hongchong, a huge communist troop-marshalling point once reported to be Chinese general headquarters.

Red rearguard fighting stiffened, hinting that the communists would make a last-ditch stand before Hongchong, an important highway town. Allied field officers expected a counter-attack from the Red staging area.

The 27th Commonwealth brigade advanced to within five miles of Hongchong from the south. They were 22 miles south of the 38th parallel—nothernmost advance of the current allied major offensive.

The U.S. 1st Cavalry and the U.S. 1st Marine divisions drove on the Red supply centre from the southwest and southeast. The cautiously-advancing Marines were reported about seven miles southwest of the town.

On the right side of the 70-mile United Nations front, Red resistance evaporated suddenly. Allied troops quickly captured towering Mount Taemi, a mile-high vantage point, without firing a shot.

Seizure of the commanding peak straightened out the east-central front, which was dented five times last week by a ferocious Red counter-attack.

Front-line officers said there was no danger of further buckling of the line in that sector.

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry swarmed over 1,900-foot-high Mount Kakkun yesterday without opposition. The hill is about six miles south of Hongchong. Australian forces took Mount Maehwa nearby in the same action.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army commander, told war correspondents that U.N. forces "have let a lot of air out of the inflated balloon of the Chinese military establishments."

In six days the grinding allied offensive had killed or wounded about 38,000 communist troops, and, Ridgway said, the ratio of communist casualties to U.N. losses was "well over 60 to 1."

The commander said "it would be a tremendous victory for the United Nations" if the Korean war ended at the 38th parallel. But he knew of no plan to end the fighting there.

"If communist China failed to drive us into the sea, that would be a defeat for her of incalculable importance," Ridgway said.

The degree to which he deflates her military reputation influences the thinking of millions and millions of people in Asia."

Ridgway appeared trying to put over a dynamic, positive fighting purpose for United Nations troops in Korea.

He seemed clearly wanting to convince his troops they were fighting for more than a stalemate.

Ridgway stressed repeatedly his conviction that communist China's failure to drive United Nations forces into the sea was a "monumental failure."

He estimated the Chinese capability to launch a counter-offensive is materially less now than before the Eighth Army's jump-off on its current major northward smash last Wednesday.

Ridgway said also that new American troops are appearing in Korea as replacements for combat veterans. He called it the beginning of a "greatly-increased flow of replacements."

The Chinese nationalist defence ministry reported from Taipei that heavy losses have forced the Chinese communists to order more than 200,000 more troops to Korea, including a whole new army.

Thirty Russian-made Mig-15 jets appeared this morning over far northwestern Korea—but sped off to the sanctuary of Manchuria. Twelve U.S. Sabre F-86 jets chased the speedy Reds back into Manchuria. They damaged two of the Mig's. None of the U.S. planes was hit.

The day's biggest surprise was the collapse of North Korean defences on the ground in the east. There the Reds appeared to be fleeing pell mell for the 38th parallel below the ground, artillery and air power of the allies.

Teh an, Iran, March 12.—(AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi yesterday named Hussein Ala, former foreign minister and noted anti-communist, as Iran's new premier.

Ala, 68, became a national hero in 1946 because of his stand against Russia before the United Nations after a squabble over Iran's Azerbaijan province which borders on Russia.

Western diplomats regard Ala as a good choice to resist communist pressure on this strategic oil-producing country.

Czech Wedding Plans Made By State

Prague, March 12.—(Reuters)—In Czechoslovakia, a country where every hour taken off from work is counted a loss to the five-year economic plan, no time must be wasted on wedding preparations.

Thus communist authorities have set up a communal enterprise called "Svatka" to help young couples save time and money when getting married.

Run by a team of efficiency experts, Svatka sets itself to carry through all wedding arrangements from the simplest 10-minute registry office affair to the most elaborate church ceremony.

After 12 months in business Svatka reports have handled preparations for 1,700 couples at a saving of 42,000 working hours for the five-year plan.

For 170 crowns ($3.40), Svatka will do almost anything from getting civil documents to planning the honeymoon. It will trace wedding invitations, insert notices in the papers, and get the special issue of clothing, linen and furniture coupons allowed to newlyweds.

All the couple has to do is show up for the ceremony. Svatka has not yet hit upon supplying proxies for guests who cannot attend.

On the wedding day, Svatka provides a wedding bouquet, supplies witnesses if the family has none handy, calls in a photographer, orders the wedding lunch or reception, and see that cars are waiting to whisk the couple and their guests to and from their communal enterprises.

After the ceremony the state-owned airline gives a 35-per-cent fare reduction to honeymoon couples. Svatka books a room in one of the hundreds of nationalized hotels at holiday resorts.

Later Svatka stands ready to offer suggestions for children's names.

Early Attack On America Not Expected Says Claxton

Montreal, March 12.—(AP)—Defence Minister Claxton said today that competent military experts do not anticipate a large scale attack on North America "by the only possible aggressor" at the outset of a world war.

"It is not believed that any enemy would have either the ships or the aircraft to undertake such a job at this time," the Defence Minister told the Montreal Canadian Club in a luncheon address.

On the other hand, we do know that Russia has a considerable number of four-engine medium bombers of the B-29 type, capable of carrying a load of about five tons one way to almost any part of North America at a speed of about 300 miles per hour. Such an aircraft is large enough to carry an atom bomb, high explosive or other weapons. It could not carry very many troops."

It was to be assumed that the Russians have the atom bomb, the Minister said. Irrespective of the number they may possess, it must be assumed that in an all-out war the Russians would try to drop some on North America.

"It is out of the question for 14,000,000 people to make a country of 3,500,000 square miles impregnable against aerial attack," said Mr. Claxton.

To deal with attack by airborne troops, Canada has an airborne brigade group of three battalions and other units, a force considered sufficient to deal with this job at the present time. The United States has corresponding formations.

For defence against attacking aircraft, Canada is building a network on large radar stations and air defence communications and is making two of the best fighters known "just as fast as they can be made."

"Squadrons of fighters, regular and auxiliary, are being located at crucial points, connected with the long-range eye of radar by a network of communications services," Mr. Claxton said. "Anti-submarine network is being completely planned, integrated and organized with that of the United States."

Mr. Claxton held out the possibility that Canada might also be subject of submarine assault. To meet this, the Canadian navy is building seaward defences and its job, and that of the air force, will be to defend the coasts and destroy submarines.

Big Four Deputies Start Second Week Of Dickering Over Conference Agenda

Peasants In Egypt Get Farm Land

Cairo, March 12.—(Reuters)—King Farouk gave the lead for sweeping agrarian reforms in Egypt when he recently ordered the distribution of crown land to landless fellahs (peasants).

On his 31st birthday, some 3,000 acres was distributed among 600 families from overpopulated areas.

The land, in units of five acres each, will be paid for over 20 years, with no payments during the first two years.

With the title deeds, each new peasant land owner received the key to a two-room house, a cow, a donkey, a supply of seeds and fertilizers, and a new $5 ($14) banknote.

Four villages have since sprung into being with 620 hygienic houses, schools and health units, public baths and mosques.

King Farouk, reputed to be the largest single land owner in the country, has made a gesture which is expected to provide an incentive to further social reforms and help combat growing communism in Egypt.

About two-thirds of Egypt's population of 20,000,000 lives under semi-fertile conditions. They till land so rich it yields two and three crops a year for a pittance.

They often share their mud huts with animals. Sanitation is practically unknown.

Communist propaganda has not been slow to exploit this. Discontent with the land system now is taking an active form: clashes between officials and peasants are quite common.

Agrarian reform has one main obstacle. Parliament is mainly composed of large proprietors, who will not do away easily with their own privileges.

The King's example, however, is important.

More Executions Reported In China

Hong Kong, March 12.—(Reuters)—The pro-communist Hong Kong newspaper Taw Kung Pao today said the communists executed 51 alleged secret agents in Canton Sunday. Forty-five were reported killed there last Friday.

The paper also reported 22 persons were executed at Lingling, Hunan province.

Those executed Sunday were the latest Chinese to die in what reliable Hong Kong sources describe as a country-wide purge of "anti-revolutionary" elements.

A Red dispatch said the 51 man group was headed by 44-year-old Sun Tsai Liang, former director of operations of the old nationalist Canton garrison command and once director of Chiang Kai-shek's military and police supervisory bureau at Sunchun on the Hong Kong border.

The Red charges against him were: "Loyally serving the blood-stained regime of Chiang Kai-shek, hampering revolution, slaughtering the people, faking repentance after liberation and carrying on subversive activities."

Sidelights On Conflict In Korea

Tokyo, March 12.—(AP)—Robert Fargie, 29-year-old British soldier, today was freed of the killing of a Korean school teacher while on sentry duty in Taegu.

Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, commander-in-chief of the British Commonwealth occupation forces in Japan, refused to confirm the findings of a general court-martial. He said Fargie should not be re-tried.

The court on Jan. 26 found Fargie not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter. It sentenced him to 10 years imprisonment and discharge "with ignominy."

Fargie was charged with shooting Lee Sang U on Nov. 30, 1950, in a dark lane when Fargie was standing guard. The defence said the shooting was justified. Fargie said he had challenged three times and then fired one shot over the heads of three Korean civilians, who had tried to enter the dump.

Hoengsong, Korea, March 12.—(AP)—An allied plane added a new twist to the usual Korean bombing tactics the other night. It dropped 2,400 empty beer and soft-drink bottles on sleeping communists east of here.

Yokohama, Japan, March 12.—(AP)—Fifty United States war dead from four branches of service were embarked yesterday on a precedent-establishing voyage home. They were the first war dead back from Korea. This was the first time the U.S. has returned her dead from an active theatre of war.

New York, March 12.—(AP)—Peacemakers, a national pacifist movement, said yesterday that 59 men and women have decided not to pay their income taxes March 15 because they find it impossible to support the war in Korea or any other war. A statement attributed to them was released by the tax refusal committee of peacemakers.

Taipei, Formosa, March 12.—(AP)—Heavy losses have forced the Chinese communists to order more than 200,000 additional troops to Korea, including a whole new army, the Chinese nationalist defence ministry reported last night. The ministry statement said the Peiping regime has decided to send 150,000 men of their 2nd field army; that they already have dispatched 30,000 "irregulars" and that another 30,000 are waiting to go.

Washington, March 12.—(AP)—Representative William G. Bray (Rep. Ind.) predicted today the St. Lawrence seaway bill will be beaten on the House floor even if it gets approval by the House of Representatives public works committee.

Bray, a member of the public works group, which already has conducted several days of hearings on the bill, told a reporter its proponents made "a pretty good case" and he might vote to report the bill favorably. Fees of the project are to testify after the Easter recess.

12 Persons Are Killed At Week-End

By The Canadian Press

Twelve persons died violent deaths in eastern Canada during the week-end. Eight deaths occurred in Ontario, three in Quebec and one in New Brunswick.

Of the 12, six persons died as a result of traffic accidents, three in fires, one was electrocuted, another died in a fall and one when a team of horses bolted.

In Montreal, Joseph Simard, 46, was found burned to death in his bed after a fire, apparently started by a cigarette, spread to the bed clothes; Alfred Johnson, 77, died in hospital of burns suffered when his clothes were ignited by the pipe he was smoking, and Bernard Viadar, 36, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile.

In Apohaqui, N.B., Stewart J. Gregg, a brother of the Federal Labor Minister, Milton Gregg, was killed Saturday when a team of horses bolted and threw him from a sled in the yard of his home. He was in his 60s.

In Ottawa, Roland Dugal, 38, was electrocuted Sunday when he brushed his bare right arm against an outlet carrying 4,000 volts.

Dead as a result of traffic accidents.

Navy Will Recall 30 Ships To Build Up 100-Ship Fleet

By DOUGLAS HOW

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa, March 12.—(AP)—The navy, gunning for a 100-ship fleet by 1954, has an eye on more than 30 former warships that are expected eventually to be pressed back into service.

It is believed the ships, in effect, have been frozen for recall when they can be of the most use in fulfilling the three-year program that will give Canada a sizeable two-ocean fleet.

They are minesweepers and frigates—the latter tough anti-submarine craft—which were sold by War Assets Corporation after 1945 as part of the dismantling by the navy of 390 fighting ships Canada built in the second world war.

They were bought by Marine Industries Ltd. of Sorel, Que., and placed in mothballs and have been inspected recently by navy officers.

In a list of warships now available to it, the navy classes them as a "strategic reserve." Other categories include 22 ships in commission, 22 in the navy's own reserve and 27 under construction or ordered, a total of 71.

In commission—at sea or set to go to sea—are the aircraft carrier Magnificent, the cruiser Ontario, seven destroyers, four frigates and 10 smaller ships. In reserve and slated to be put back in commission are the cruiser Uganda, four destroyers, two frigates and 15 smaller ships.

Orders have been placed for building of seven destroyer-size anti-sub escort vessels, 14, minesweepers and six other ships.

The four categories add up to more than 100 ships the R.C.N. can count on, but a lot are smaller ships the navy would not include in the target total for 1954.

The number on order is expected to be boosted particularly to double the order for escort vessels.

The core of the 1954 navy will likely be a 25-ship group of destroyers and destroyer-size escort vessels armed to combat submarines.

The navy's operations today divide into roughly two main fields. One is the training of new men—coming in at better than 300 a month—and skilled men in a network of schools ashore and afloat.

The other is the training of crews at sea in how to fight submarines and to take mines.

The navy of 1954, like the navy of today and the navy of the last war, will have one great worry—the sub. The whole stress and emphasis of the R.C.N. is on knowing how to cope with the sub and that emphasis is as great today as ever because of Russia's development of a deadly underwater fleet.

Even when a lull came in Korean operations, Canada's three destroyers out there headed for Hong Kong and engaged in anti-sub exercises. This emphasis goes not only for the surface ships, but for ships, but for navy's small, four-squadron air arm as well.

The air arm is but another striking weapon for potential anti-submarine warfare.

At wartime peak, the navy had 95,000 men and was operating nearly 900 ships, 50 of them small non-fighting craft. The strength now is around 11,000. The 1954 target is 20,000.

The timetable of development aims at increasing the manpower as new ships become available. It is expected that the Royal ships will be called back, retrained and modernized when there are enough men to handle them.

They and most of the ships now in navy use are the last of the wartime fleet. The other ships have been scrapped or sold, some in Canada, some in South America, others elsewhere. They are scattered to the varied seas and to Davey Jones' locker.

THE WAY TO CALVARY

One of the memorable moments in the Upper Room, scene of the Last Supper, occurred when Jesus washed the feet of His apostles. They had been arguing over their own rank and importance—His gesture humbled them. When Peter balked at the rite, Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me." Peter submitted, "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and head."

At the Last Supper, Jesus told his apostles, "One of you will betray me." Each asked, "Is it I, Lord?" When Jesus asked, the Master's reply was, "Thou hast said it." Jesus departs. Then Jesus broke bread, passing it to his disciples with the words, "Take ye and eat; this is my body." And he passed the cup of wine, saying, "Drink ye all of this. For this is my blood of the new testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins."

Hatley, March 12—A very interesting service to mark Education Week was held in the United Church, with the pastor, Rev. J.
M. Butler in charge.
He was assisted by various members of the Young Peoples' Society, Miss Anne Sharman and Mr.

The principal, Mrs. Hugh Mc-
Clary, presided at the organ.
Rev. Mr. Butler chose as his text, the words of St. Paul, "I am debtor, both to Greek and Barbarian to the bond and the free." He stressed the need of a greater interest in education, if we are to train the men and women of tomorrow to up hold that way of life, which we call "Democracy."
He spoke of the millions being spent to defend it and the comparatively small sum being used for its maintenance in our own and other democratic countries.

The offering was taken up by Messrs. Calton Miller and Jack Ride, members of the senior school classes.

The Case of the Part-Time Mother

SHAMEFACED, the lad stood quietly waiting for the judge to deliver a verdict. Jane Williams looked at her son through tear-filled eyes.
True, the offence was minor... the judge almost certain to suspend sentence. But the hard fact was that there he stood ... her son Tom... charged in a courtroom. How could this have happened? Tom had always been a good boy... the dependable one in the family. It had been Tom who cared for the other children when she had to go to work, after her husband died.
Jane Williams realized now that Tom had needed care, too... the constant, watchful care of a parent for a growing boy. But she never saw him during the day ... and the younger children took every moment she had after her day's work downtown.
If only Tom's father had provided for their future. If only he had foreseen the essential need for a continuing income while the family was growing up. She would have been able to stay home then — where she belonged — and give Tom all the loving care he deserved — and needed!
Think! Could this happen to your wife?

Work That Goes On Inside Hospital Is Described In Talk By Dr. Hume

"Inside the community hospital" was the subject of a broadcast address given recently by Dr. W. E. Hume in support of the current campaign for $500,000 to complete the construction and equipping of the new Sherbrooke Hospital.

A partial text of Dr. Hume's address follows:

The average citizen does not know too much about the hospital in his community. Yet his chances of going there this year, as a patient, are as good as one in nine.

Nearly 1,247,000 persons (11 percent of the population) were admitted to hospitals in the last year in Canada. So it is rather important that the citizen should know what a hospital is. It is important to the hospital too, if it is to have the understanding and support of the community.

Most admissions are to general—or community—hospitals, for short-term acute care. Until a person tries to describe them, he seldom realizes how complicated these hospitals are.

The most complex organization known to man is man himself. Like any complex mechanism, the human body can get out of order in a thousand different ways. But a man can't shut down for repairs. The engine must be kept going while it is fixed. The apparatus to do this is nearly as complex as the man. This complex apparatus is the community hospital.

The hospital is a hotel. But its patients receive not eight hours but 24 hours of personal attention every day. Where a hotel may average up to one employee for every guest, the hospital may have two employees for each patient. Bed linen must be changed not once but several times a day. Since the patient cannot always get out of bed, it has to be made with him in it. Room and bath? Yes—with the bath in bed.

The hospital is a restaurant. Does a patient need a soft diet? A liquid diet? A low fat diet? Protein enriched? Extra vitamins? The chef is a dietitian who must fill the doctors' orders as carefully as the pharmacist fills a prescription. She must also try to make it look appetizing to the patient's jaundiced eye—at a time when the mere thought of food is repulsive. And then she must hope that it will be delivered to the bedside beyond a distant corridor before it gets cold.

Besides, many of the employees must be fed on the job. Our hospital serves about 15,000 meals per month.

The hospital is in the laundry business. Its laundry is comparable to that of a substantial commercial plant. A large portion of its work must be not only washed but sterilized. It averages 14 pounds of laundry per day per patient.

The hospital has a power plant which in our new building consists of three huge oil fed boilers to supply heat and steam for sterilization. One boiler is kept as a spare in case of emergency. The average commercial enterprise can shut down for emergencies or power failures or even for labour difficulties, but a hospital does not dare shut down even for a minute for any reason.

The hospital will have a pharmacy with just as many drugs as the drug-store on the corner. The pharmacist must be skilled in compounding prescriptions. He must be trained and responsible.

The hospital has a laboratory. X-ray, pathological services and other diagnostic services are carried on by highly trained technicians under the supervision of medical specialists. The doctor depends upon that laboratory to help him diagnose illness and to guide him in treatment.

The hospital may be an educational institution. Practically all doctors and nurses are trained in hospitals. Industrial plants, airlines, commercial insurance companies, schools and numerous economic and industrial activities use hospital-trained doctors and nurses.

In our new community hospital with 140 beds a diary of an average day's activities might read somewhat as follows: 10 surgical operations, 2 babies born, 15 X-ray examinations, 10 physiotherapy treatments, 78 laboratory tests, 115 patients in bed, 12 admissions, 12 discharges, 685 meals, 1,600 pounds of laundry.

All these activities have one purpose—are of the patient.

This, then, is the community hospital. It is a complex organization where elaborate equipment, highly trained people and expensive materials are brought together for the efficient administration of medical science.

It is not a private enterprise; it is a community service. It serves the community and it must be supported by the community. It is available to every person and is responsive to the needs of the community as a whole. Whether it keeps pace with those needs is up to the community itself.

You can readily realize that, in order to build, equip and administer such a project as I have sketched outlined, requires a large amount of money.

Remember that it may be you, or a member of your family, who will require hospital care. So please give generously.

New Elders Inducted At St. Andrew's

George Jobel, Hugh Rose, Thomas Oakes and Donald Bornhold were inducted and ordained as elders of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at the morning service yesterday.

Rev. Ross Adams, the minister, addressed the elders and congregation on the duties and responsibilities of elders and members of the congregation.

Following the service, the new elders were welcomed by many members of the large congregation who came to the front of the church.

Marcel David Died Yesterday In Hospital

The many friends of Marcel David, well known local businessman, will be shocked to hear of his death which took place yesterday in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Mr. David had been suffering from poor health for several years, and following an attack of paralysis last week, was taken to the hospital where he succumbed. He was 48.

A resident of Sherbrooke since 1933, the deceased upon his arrival in this city, opened a firm known as the Eastern Townships Adjusting Bureau.

He was born in Montreal, the son of Theo David and Blanche Sabourin, and was educated at Mount St. Louis, after which he was employed in both Ottawa and Montreal as an insurance adjuster with the Traveler's Insurance Company.

Mr. David is survived by his wife, the former Juliette Deschamps, and four children, Jean, Louise, Marc and Michelle. He also leaves to mourn his loss several brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brunet (Marguerite Deschamps) of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lemay (Pauline Deschamps), of Quebec, Miss Madeleine Deschamps, of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dumouchel (Jacqueline Deschamps) of Ottawa, and Miss Michelle Deschamps, nurse at the Ottawa General Hospital. Other relatives are Mrs. Joseph David, Mrs. Edgar David, Miss Clementine Harel, Paul Sabourin, Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Frenette and Henri Chapleau, all of Montreal, as well as a number of nephews and nieces and cousins.

The funeral service will be held on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock in the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, with interment in St. Michael's Cemetery. The remains are resting at his late residence, 27 Bradley street.

The President Is Kidnapped

Thetford Mines, Que., March 12.—Members of the Asbestos Workers' Federation (C.C.C.L.) yesterday passed a resolution calling on the federal government to release Rene Rocque, a labor organizer jailed for conspiracy to incite violence during the 1949 asbestos strike.

The resolution was passed by about 500 union members at a meeting addressed by Jean Marchand, C.C.C.L. general secretary, who quoted Premier Duplessis as saying "Rocque is with criminals of his own kind."

Rocque was jailed after his appeal to the Quebec court of appeals was rejected. The charges arose out of disturbances during the four-month strike. He was joint chief organizer of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, parent body of the Asbestos Workers' Federation, at the time.

Marchand said the integrity of the court that sentenced Rocque was not doubted. But, he said, the full facts were not introduced in court.

Since his appeal was rejected, Marchand said Rocque has been transferred from Sherbrooke, Que., to Montreal's Bordeaux jail on orders of the Premier, who also is Attorney-General.

Marchand said Premier Duplessis made several statements about Rocque Feb. 14 at a meeting between C.C.C.L. leaders and Labor Minister Barrette.

He quoted the Premier as saying also that in Rocque's case "it's going to be absolute justice, cold justice and that is all."

At the Feb. 14 meeting, Marchand said C.C.C.L. president Germain Picard asked for the return of $80,000 in bail posted by miners charged with unlawful assembly and other charges arising from the 1949 strike.

Marchand said the Premier offered to withdraw the 61 charges pending against strikers if some 10 actions against members of the provincial police by asbestos workers were also withdrawn.

Members of the police force were sent to quell the disturbances that occurred early in May, 1949, at the strike's peak.

Marchand said the C.C.C.L. refused to accept the proposal unless Rocque's liberation is thrown into the bargain.

THE YUGOSLAV CHARGES

Yugoslavia's formal charges that Russia is preparing the satellites to overthrow Tito's government are important — but not new.

The official Yugoslav White Paper issued on the subject is, of course, a grave document. It is about the most two-fisted document levelled at Russia since Tito was read out of the bolshevik fold by the Cominform.

However, it is reviewing and bringing up to date a situation with which we have been conversant for some time. We are not faced with a new crisis.

Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj of Yugoslavia in 1949 outlined for the United Nations Assembly this explosive situation. That was for the information of the peace organization, and Yugoslavia did not ask for any action. A further report was made to the United Nations Assembly the following year.

It might be assumed reasonably that the new White Paper is largely for the information of the Western Powers and the United Nations. Possibly the Belgrade Government also feels that it may slow down the anti-Yugoslav activities of the Balkan satellites.

The break between Moscow and Tito came in 1948, nearly three years ago. But Tito did not reject Communism entirely. He built himself a new ism along nationalistic lines — now known as Titoism.

The appeal of Titoism for many Communist parties has resulted in the recent widespread purges. Moscow has been carrying these out in all the satellites and has ordered the large Communist parties in France and Italy to clean house.

Meantime Moscow has been harassing Yugoslavia through the neighboring satellites. The latest White Paper reiterates that Russia has been applying "direct military pressure" against Yugoslavia and has been supplying the Soviet satellites with arms and troops for the overthrow of Tito's government.

The position is explosive. A Balkan war almost inevitably would spread into another world conflict. A redeeming feature is that Russia does not want this and so may be expected to use a restraining hand.

BEET SUGAR IN CANADA

In Canada sugar beets are grown and processed at the present time in Ontario, Alberta, Manitoba and Quebec. In the case of the two first-named provinces the industry has been in operation — not continuously in Alberta — since the turn of the century, but for hardly more than a decade in the case of the other two — although historically the industry was first tried in Canada, but not successfully, in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, says the Canadian Bank of Commerce monthly commercial letter.

The 1950 Canadian sugar beet harvest was the largest on record, exceeded all preliminary estimates, and was 30 per cent greater than the 1949 record-breaking crop. Farmers in Canada received over $17 million for their 1950 sugar beet crops. Of this total over $7 million went to Alberta farmers and nearly $6 million to farmers in Ontario.

In recent years Canadians have each used approximately 100 pounds of sugar annually. About half of this consumption was accounted for by various segments of the food products industry. Beet sugar comprised in the neighborhood of 14 per cent of total sugar sales in Canada last year.

The organization of the beet sugar industry in Canada — and elsewhere for that matter — is unique in that it is a co-operative farmer-manufacturer enterprise, each dependent on the other for survival. Before the seed is sown the sugar factory guarantees the beet grower payment, on an agreed acreage, of a major share of the net return from the sale of all finished products. It is customary for the factory to supply the seed and fertilizer. The 1951 acreage is already being contracted for, that in Alberta being estimated at 37,500 acres, up 1,300 acres from 1950.

The seasonal factor imposes heavy strains on the beet sugar industry — financial in the case of the sugar factory since the period of operations averages about 100 days each year, while for both farmer and factory labor supply is difficult. Beet sugar factories can use sugar cane in the off season and thus spread their overhead cost. But the cost of a long rail haul of sugar cane limits the effectiveness of this factor in some sugar beet areas. The scarcity of suitable labor has been a strong impetus to the development of machines to do the more arduous hand work.

There has grown up in connection with the sugar beet industry a livestock feeding industry, due primarily to the by-products of beet pulp and beet tops, both in high demand for stock food.

SANCTIONS THE NEXT STEP

Toronto Globe and Mail

The special committee of the United Nations, to consider collective action against Red China, met Thursday to give itself a permanent name and to examine the agenda prepared for by the secretariat. As its appointment arose from the need to study punishments, following the General Assembly's finding that China was an aggressor in Korea, no name could be more suitable than the Sanctions Committee.

It was exactly five weeks ago Thursday, on February 1, that UN branded China an aggressor. Two weeks ago the Good Offices Committee asked China if she would discuss the Korean situation. Last Friday a second similar message was sent to Peking. No answer to either approach has been received. Nor has anything else occurred to show that the Mao regime has either the desire or the intention to assist in settling the Korean issue.

The only hopeful development was Russia's decision to participate in a new series of Big Four conferences. That decision sparked a slender hope that the Kremlin might be ready to arrange a ceasefire in Korea as a prelude to a diplomatic retreat. But that hope was based on nothing but speculation, and the current behavior of Andrei Gromyko in Paris shows how ill-founded it was.

As the situation stands now, then, the United Nations forces are applying military sanctions against Chinese troops in Korea. Even though General Douglas MacArthur's recent request for more troops should be met, there still are limitations upon the commitments which can be made by those countries already co-operating in the war and those which may yet lend armed assistance. Our tactics must continue in the meantime to be to kill off Chinese troops in the greatest possible numbers with the greatest economy to ourselves in manpower and resources. But UN cannot be content with that. It must show China that aggression does not pay and cannot be made to pay. It is therefore increasingly desirable that UN's military arm be assisted by every possible means.

The application of economic sanctions, in support of the military action now in progress, is the first requisite. This newspaper holds firmly to the belief that the only practical method of breaking up the Russo-Chinese alliance is to make the one a liability of the other. How richly Russia is compensating herself from Chinese resources for material help in Korea is indicated in news late Wednesday. Russian officials have seized control of the government of the mineral-rich province of Sinkiang in West China. Chinese must submit to Russian examination at the provincial border and Russian troops are replacing Chinese soldiers within the area.

Economic sanctions applied along the other borders of China by the free world would soon show the Chinese people how helpless they are without Western support, inasmuch as the only territorial losses they are now suffering are at the hands of their Russian "ally." The favorable effect of such sanctions would be materially greater if a simultaneous program of extensive aid to Southeast Asia is undertaken.

With Russia gnawing into Chinese resources and territory, economic sanctions would reveal to the Chinese their hopeless position in trying to conduct the Korean war against the outside world single-handed. But given the hope of eventual co-operation with the world's free democracies, the Chinese could look forward to generous help in economic re-establishment and the return of control over their own resources. The prerequisite to all that, however, is to purge the aggression of which they are now guilty. And it is to that end that immediate economic sanctions are desirable.

A FARMER'S RIGHTS

Farmer's Advocate

Time was when a farmer enjoyed the rights of ownership and there were few who had any desire to challenge them. The farmer could ruin his land or improve it; he could farm well or badly, but above all he could kick trespassers off his land with the full authority of the law. He enjoyed that right because no one, or very few at any rate, was authorized by the state to enter upon or disturb the owner and those who did trespass were scoundrels with whom the neighbors, or society in general, were not in sympathy.

The so-called progress of the last two decades has so altered or abolished the rights of ownership that the land owner scarcely knows who to welcome to his premises or preemptorily dismiss.

The Ontario land surveyor can go where and when he likes. Documented representatives of railways, highways, telephone systems and Hydro can enter upon the farmer's land through the gate, or in a more destructive manner, destroy crops, erect barriers and behave in an insolent or irritating manner, with full protection of the law.

Now, in Ontario the Conservation Authorities Act grants further additional privileges to enter upon, to expropriate and otherwise disturb the security and independence that were formerly associated with the ownership of an acre or a section of land.

BUSY NORTHERN WHIRL

Kirkland Lake News

Few Tech township parents will disagree with the assertion that students of Kirkland Lake Collegiate and Vocational Institute are not getting enough sleep. The statement was made by Robert Young, vice-principal of KLCVI, who went so far as to state KLCVI students were getting less sleep than any other group of students in Ontario.

The effect of late nights is shown on the report cards, he added: Too many outside activities cut into sleeping hours and denied students sufficient study hours, he warned. He enumerated such activities as hockey, basketball, volleyball, social and junior service organizations among outside activities which interrupted the student life of this community.

NOT WANTED

Windsor Star

If unruly Donkshobers are to be resettled anywhere, it will not be on the Queen Charlotte Islands, off Canada's west coast. Canadian military authorities are understood to oppose any such plan, and their objection is not difficult to understand. It would be an invitation to enemy infiltration or invasion to turn the islands over to that nefarious sect.

SAP'S RUNNIN' IN FACT IT NEVER STOPS

From The Pen Of E.T. Writers

Lines to a "Patch-Work Quilt"

Oh, little quilt, you have been built
From lots of "nothing much."
Yet, no Guild Member wears a kilt,
... It really beats the "Dutch!"
'Twould seem the one who fashioned you
Is right from Aberdeen;
Your bits would give us each a clue
One must have Scotland seen.
A very definite proof of thrift
You are, for all to see;
It really gives my heart a lift
To view your scraps, by gee!
Your pieces all are strong, and new,
Your blocks all square, exact;
There's years of steady wear in you,
None can deny this fact.
The way your seams are sewn secure
(All blocks made on foundations),
Is proof you're apt to hold for sure
Through many generations.
... Just what might any person do,
With little scraps so small
As what we see worked up in you?
I cannot guess, at all.
You're known to each as "Crazy Quilt"
Because of your design,
With such ideas around you built
It's crazy to be fine.
No Guild should e'er be in the "Red"
With such degrees of "Scotch";
But, 'tis a gift to use the head,
It peps us up, a notch.
... One Hundred, Thirty, blocks you say
It took to make your top?
Before the half were on display
I'd be inclined to stop!
I cannot help but speculate
Just where you'll spend your days;
In humble home, or up to date
You'll serve them well, always.
You look so dainty, and so gay
With all your little patches;
Now, if I place you the right way
Each block with some one matches.
I cannot work on you, 'tis true,
For quite a stretch of time,
Because the more I gaze at you
The more I want to rhyme.
No doubt you'll still be "on the go"
For many years to come,
... Fine proof of someone's patience show
When all of us are dumb.

DON'T DRAW TRUMPS UNTIL YOU'VE THOUGHT

It is sometimes a disadvantage to be known as a very sound bidder. When East bid six hearts in the hand shown today, it was obvious to everybody at the table that he must have exceedingly good reasons for doing so. Hence North went to six spades instead of doubling, even though he held the ace of trumps, a side ace, and two side kings.

West opened the king of hearts, and dummy won with the ace. South then considered the nature of East's hand. A jump to six hearts would have been sound only on a very freakish two-suiter in hearts and clubs. It was a cinch that East was void in spades and it was possible that he was also void in diamonds.

Armed with this information, South did not make the mistake of drawing trumps prematurely. At the second trick he led the king of diamonds from the dummy. West properly refused the first round of diamonds but won the diamond continuation with the jack. After some thought, West returned a heart, and South ruffed with the deuce of spades.

South continued by ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's seven of spades, and returned to his hand by ruffing a club with the three of spades. Now South was in position to lead his established diamonds through West. Whenever West ruffed, dummy could overruff with the eight, cash the ace of spades, and allow South to draw the rest of the trumps with the king and queen. Thereupon South would be in position to run the rest of the diamonds.

It is interesting to note that South must deliberately bring both the dummy and his own hand down to only three trumps even though his eventual plan is to draw all four trumps held by West. It would be a mistake for South to reach his hand with a trump after ruffing out the ace of diamonds with dummy's eight of spades.

The Record Short Story

THE DOGS DECIDE

By GEORGE CARROLL

At the famous winter sports resort, The Tamarack, another day was ending. A poor day for Pierre Dupuis and his sled-dogs. Once the lean, grizzled French-Canadian with his team of carefully-bred Siberian huskies had enjoyed great popularity at the resort.

Winter visitors had paid well for the fun of being driven over the snowy trails on Pierre's big red sled to the gay jingling of the tiny bells on the harness of the dogs. Once—but no longer. Now, Pierre could wait at his stand hour after hour without attracting a customer.

"It is the skiing, M'sieur," the French-Canadian was wont to explain. "Today the visitors do nothing but ski, ski, ski! Even the little ones."

All of which was true enough. But, unhappily for Pierre, the new manager of the resort cared little for explanations; less for traditions. The Tamarack's guests were no longer interested in dog-ledding? Then, why bother with it? For Pierre this meant one thing above all else. The day was approaching when he'd have to part with his dogs. He could as easily have faced the loss of an arm.

Still, he'd be the first to admit that things had changed at the Tamarack. Take this man and woman now riding on his sled. In the old days, their type would not have been seen on the grounds. But now—! Of a certainty Pierre told himself grimly, anyone who will pay the rates is welcome.

The dogs slowed to a sudden rise in the trail. Pierre eased his furbuted feet off the tail of the runners, but his own weight to the sled, but his thoughts stayed put.

The appearance of these two was bad enough, the sled-driver mused. Their ill-chosen sports grab—the indefinable something which marked them newcomers to the scene. Worse yet, was the air of suspicion which clung to the dark, sallow-faced man, his hard, glossy, blonde companion. But the sled-driver's dislike went deeper than all that. It went back to the scene near the hotel half an hour earlier. When the couple first discovered him, and stopped to debate the matter of hiring him or not.

Clearly, Pierre had told himself at once, it is the woman's idea. And clearly, too the man was all against it. Odd pieces of their low-voiced argument had drifted over to Pierre. Neither of them seemed to appreciate how clear his sounds carry in the thin, cold air of the mountain. Winter. " . . . Ride on that! . . . this was the man speaking now— . . . that string of flea-bait!" (Pierre had stiffened with resentment.) The woman must be crazy. This was the man again. No—but she'd said sure he was crazy if he had to lead around here— "So I'm a mind-reader!" the man's rasping voice rose and fell in anger. "I should've guessed . . . Goldlocks . . . her million-dollar gam. . . gliding down— " The woman jabbed him in the ribs. His voice trailed off.

Goldlocks. Million-dollar gam. The words conveyed nothing to the sled-driver. But—string of flea-bait! He would remember that! The trail narrowed now. They rushed along between rows of snow-laden spruce and pine. Luckily for the Tamarack, Pierre told himself, there were still plenty of patrons to uphold its reputation. Gloria Corliss, for one. Hollywood beauty had hired him and his dogs for a long ride over the country-side. What's more, she'd promised to autograph the snapshot he'd made of her with the dogs. For Marie, Mam'selle, if you please! Marie was Pierre's wife, and a great movie fan.

Snapshots on the trail. The idea was enough. It made an exciting story for Marie that night. Equally exciting to pass along to one or two old friends at the Tamarack next day. Notably his friend Big Walsh, the Tamarack's grounds policeman. There was a new and ironic twist to the story by the time Pierre saw the familiar figure of Big Walsh heading along the path. Barry had discovered it in the dark-room. Pierre had made a picture of the dark sallow-faced man after all. Not as he had planned it. A close-up of the man alone—out of focus, badly framed, but a picture nevertheless. Somehow—as he juggled the camera in his hand—the shutter release. A joke, eh—on somebody.

But now—as an audience—Big Walsh showed signs of being a disappointment. In too much of a hurry. "Tell me some other time, Frenchy!" the policeman said. Then seeing the expression on his friend's face, he leaned closer. "I—we—got trouble." He hesitated. "Frenchy, you know we got this Hollywood movie star—Gloria Corliss, stopping with us? Well—last night somebody took her for fifty grand in assorted jewelry! Right out of that deluxe suite she's occupying. We got the State Police—B.C.I. boys working on it. I'm meeting them in the manager's office."

"Fifty thousand dollars!" Frenchy echoed. Walsh nodded. He was enjoying himself now. "They sure time it," he went on. Corliss spent most of the day in her suite with an ankle shed twisted skiing Rocky Lodge. That was in the morning. Just before dinner time they took her down to the Doc's office for another x-ray. She wasn't gone half an hour—"

Pierre had heard enough. "So! My Marie was right! It was Mam'selle Corliss those two was talking of. Goldlocks. Gam! Ha—my Marie is one smart girl."

"What got into you? Big Walsh demanded. "Who was yapping about Gloria Corliss?"

Pierre explained. The grounds policeman listened with increasing attention. He stared long and hard at the snapshot Pierre had taken at him. He seemed to be taking his time now, but his mind was racing. What break! he was saying to himself. What a break! But Frenchy would have to wait for an explanation. The tip they'd received that morning. From the West Coast. One of the crooks who specialized in these jobs—re-sort robberies—missing from his local haunts. Thought to have headed east. Blackie Thomas was the name. Alias half a dozen other things. Trouble was no one at the Tamarack could recall seeing anyone answering Blackie's description. Until now. Now—

Pierre felt himself seized by the arm. "C'mon, Frenchy!" his friend was saying. "I wanta show this picture to the B. C. I. boys. And I want you along. Want you to tell them everything you just told me—"

Pierre was confused. "The dogs—Walsh—You know I'm not supposed to leave the dogs—"

But the policeman was shaking his head impatiently. "Frenchy, can't you see? This picture of yours. I got a hunch it's important. Very important. Maybe I'm wrong. But if I'm right—well—you can stop worrying about those dogs right now. Today—tomorrow and forever. C'mon—let's go!"

Pierre was confused. "The dogs—Walsh—You know I'm not supposed to leave the dogs—"

However, it should be remembered that "the focus of global defence is in western Europe."

Canada will play its part there too—with the air force being built up to the point where it involves an addition of 3,000 aircraft of the most modern types; the army will contribute a brigade group to western Europe; and in any war the navy will take on North Atlantic escort work for which, with new ships to be built, there will be nearly 100 on the job.

Canada also plans to enlarge the arrangements under which it is training army officers and airmen for Britain and other North Atlantic treaty countries. Already in training in Canada are men from Belgium, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Counting civilians, it is expected Canada will have, by March 31st, 1954, about 150,000 engaged full time in defence work.

"Half measures, nothing but half measures! They freeze prices, wages, but not one word about expense accounts!"

Mrs. John Gillespie Elected President Of Abbotsford Women's Institute And Miss M. Marshall Made A Life Member

Abbotsford, March 12 — The annual meeting of the Abbotsford Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Byron Rowell.

The president, Miss M. Marshall, presided and opened the meeting with the recital of the "Club Women's Creed."

The secretary, Mrs. Gordon Coates, read the minutes and the treasurer, Mrs. B. A. Rowell, gave the financial report. Several letters of thanks for "get-well" cards were read.

Very interesting reports were read by the conveners reviewing the work of the past year. The president in her address thanked all those who had contributed so much to the success of the Institute during her term of office.

Mrs. R. Thomson then took the chair and called upon Mrs. Morley Honey, convenor of the nominating committee, to present the slate of officers. As there were no further nominations the slate was adopted as follows:

Past President, Miss M. Marshall; president, Mrs. John Gillespie; first vice-president, Mrs. Helen Buzzell; second vice-president, Mrs. Rayson; secretary, Mrs. Gordon Coates; assistant, Mrs. Albert Whitney; treasurer, Mrs. B. A. Rowell.

Conveners, Agriculture, Mrs. F. Crossfield; Welfare and Health, Miss M. Marshall; Home Economics, Mrs. A. W. Buzzell; Education, Mrs. Charles Fisk; Citizenship, Mrs. L. Gibb; Publicity, Miss F. B. Jackson; Social, Mrs. M. Crossfield.

Mrs. R. Thomson conducted the installation ceremony in a most impressive manner.

The delegates to the convention at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, in June are Miss H. Buzzell and Mrs. G. Coates.

The new president, Mrs. John Gillespie, then took the chair, and thanked the ladies for the honour conferred upon her and asked for their continued support.

Mrs. Morley Honey on behalf of the members presented the retiring president with a life membership in recognition of her work and interest in the Institute both

The Children's Corner

Chinese Puzzle - - - By Lee Priestley

NANCY'S hands crashed on the piano keys. "I can't get it right, no matter how you beat the time," she scolded the metronome. "The name of this piece should be 'Chinese Puzzle' instead of 'Chinese Festival!' The recital's only two weeks off and I'll be terrible! I don't know why I chose this piece anyway. Ugly stuff!"

But Nancy did know why she had chosen that piece to play in the recital. "Chinese Festival" was showy and difficult and she had hoped to impress the judges who would award the scholarship. If Nancy didn't win the scholarship she wouldn't be able to go on with her music.

Nancy stared at the metronome her cousin Jack had brought from China. It wasn't the usual ticking wooden pyramid; it was a porcelain Chinese Mandarin. The figure's face was bland and smiling under a black cap with a jade button. The Mandarin's hands were folded into the sleeves of his yellow robe which was marked with a curious red monogram. His head bobbed continuously to mark the time for Nancy's music.

"Was that racket supposed to be music?" Nancy's cousin Jack asked from the doorway. "If it was, I don't go for it."

"Neither do I," Nancy said honestly. She got up with a sudden resolution. "I'm going to call my teacher now. . . tell her I'll play something else, something I really like."

"I thought you were counting on that racket, squealing music to win a scholarship."

Nancy shook her head. Teacher was right. She says you have to feel music in your heart."

The Chinese Mandarin on top of the piano nodded, as if it agreed with her.

WHEN it was settled that Nancy would play "Country Gardens" in the recital, Jack was still waiting. "Let's go to Chinatown for the parade. It's the Chinese New Year. I'd thought it might inspire you, but now that you've changed your mind about Chinese music."

"I haven't changed my mind about parades," Nancy laughed, feeling relieved over her decision. She looked at the little figurine, still nodding solemnly. On sudden impulse she scooped it into the deep pocket of her corduroy skirt. "Nid Nod shall go, too. So he can hear some real Chinese music!"

Gold and vermilion banners; the staccato of popping firecrackers; smiling ivory faces with bland, slanted eyes, that was the crowded streets of the Chinese section.

Nancy with Nid Nod in her pocket and Jack at her elbow edged to the curb to wait for the parade. Around them the dense crowd pushed and surged gold and red. With a spine tingling wail of minor music, a great red and gold paper dragon rounded a corner at the head of the parade. Upheld by many running boys it writhed and twisted realistically as it came. The crowd surged forward, pushing a chubby child against Nancy's knees. The child slipped past into the street, sat down with a collapse of unsteady legs in the path of the dragon!

Nancy ran to snatch him back. With their eyes on the loops of the paper dragon they held, some of the boys might step on him. But the baby who had been charmed with the great writhing creature advancing upon him howled ungratefully. Nothing would comfort him. Then Nancy remembered Nid Nod in her pocket. The baby boy's wails stopped as he saw the smiling, nodding head of the Mandarin metronome. He reached chubby fingers toward the toy.

THEN a worried father took the baby from Nancy. "Thank you, Miss," he said. "This small bad one." He stopped abruptly staring at the porcelain figurine. "Why, that is the chop—" He stopped again searching for a word in English, "—the sign, the name of my family!"

He pointed to the little monogram painted in red on the yellow robe of the Mandarin. Nancy noticed the same sign or "chop" decorated the black jacket of the boy who wore.

"You mean that Nid Nod once belonged to your family?" she asked.

"Bought it from a street vendor," North Sutton; and Hugh Wilson, of Sweetsburg.

The flowers were numerous, bearing silent testimony of respect to Mr. Strong.

Interment was made in the Strong Cemetery, at North Sutton. Among those in attendance from a distance were the two daughters, Mrs. N. French, of Northfield, Vt., and Miss Patience Strong, of Montreal; two grandsons, Messrs. Clare and Eric French, of Northfield, Vt.; Mr. William Macfarlane, a brother-in-in China," Jack said. "No telling your Mandarin, Miss," he said, "but I would be happy if you would accept it in place of him."

Nancy looked at the Mandarin. The bland smiling face nodded and nodded. She nodded vigorously back at the little figurine. "It's not only a deal. It's the answer to my own Chinese puzzle!"

Young Man With a Plan

Every young man faces two certainties... one, that he cannot work forever... the other, that he cannot live forever.

As a consequence he must also admit two possibilities... one, that old age may find him financially dependent on others... two, that his early death may bring privation to his family.

There is a sure way in which a young man can provide alike for himself in old age or for his family in case of early death. It is to embark upon a definite life insurance programme with an initial policy within his current means. Step by step, thereafter, he can increase his life insurance holdings to keep pace with personal advancement and growing responsibilities.

In this way he places—and keeps—his own financial future and that of his dependents beyond the hazards of mere circumstance. He becomes a "Young Man with a Plan"... a more substantial citizen and a happier man because of it.

SAINTS BLANKED 4-0 BY SENATORS AND EDGED 2-1 YESTERDAY

"Legs" Fraser Outstanding in Chalking Up His 2nd Shutout Of Season; Saints Fail To Live Up To Expectations In Tilt

Ottawa, March 12.—Backed by outstanding goaltending on the part of Bill "Legs" Fraser, who held the Sherbrooke Saints scoreless, the Ottawa Senators rolled to a 4-0 victory to take the lead in their best-of-seven playoff series 2-1 before a sellout crowd of 6,500 fans here Saturday night.

The lanky netminder turned in one of his best performances of the season to keep his cage clear. He outguessed the Saints at every turn and seemed to be everywhere at the right time. He played a big part in his team's victory, especially when his mates were short-handed and he rose to the occasion each time.

The Senators were minus Eddie Darnell and Eddy Emborg, who are both on the injured list, and Jackie Leclair, who was suspended by T. P. Gorman indefinitely for breaking training rules. Owner Gorman brought up Johnny Quilty, a former major leaguer, and Tony Licari, both members of the Senators' farm club, the R.C.A.F. Flyers in the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League.

Jacques Prefontaine and Bobby Pepin were the pick of the Sherbrooke forwards, while Normie McAtee, Stan Warecki and Jimmy Planché turned in their usual steady performances. The Filion brothers failed to get going, and were watched at every move. Roger Bessette was a pillar of strength between the pipes for Coach Dugre's squad while his blue-line defenders gave him good help.

The Senators displayed a much better all-around game than the second tilt in Sherbrooke Thursday and had the breaks rolling in their favor. Emile Dagenais was a two-way going concern all by himself and accounted for two goals while Nils Tremblay and Lude Check registered the others.

Bob Filion drove the first shot at Fraser, but the rangy net minder turned it aside. Nils Tremblay came right back at top speed but Roger Bessette kicked his effort out. Al Kuntz was the next to follow in and blasted one at the Sherbrooke net custodian from ten feet out but his shot was smothered.

Tudin was given the thumb for interference and this was the sign for the Saints to turn on the pressure. Jimmy Planché let one go which hit Fraser and the tall boy fell on it in front of his crease. Bobby Copp put on a one-man exhibition of penalty killing which was successful until his mate returned.

Alex Barilko went off for tripping and the Senators took over but to no avail. With both teams at full strength Normie McAtee led an attack and let go with a hard shot through Copp's legs which struck Fraser and once again the rangy goalie dropped to save on the rebound.

Ray Trainor was the next to move into the sinbin for boarding Bobby Pepin, but nothing happened during his sojourn. With a few seconds left Johnny Quilty got the nod for holding and although the Saints moved to the attack they failed to tally.

Jacques Prefontaine and Bobby Pepin were both in but missed from close range and Quilty rejoined his mates. Bobby Filion went off for holding and this proved costly. Tremblay batted the disc home from the front on a passing play with Bill Robinson and Tony Licari. Filion returned and Butch Stahan moved in for slashing. Planché, Pepin and Prefontaine were all in on Fraser's doorstep, but the big boy kicked their efforts aside. Trainor put Dagenais in the clear and rounding the Sherbrooke net he stopped and flipped the disc which was deflected into the net behind Bessette.

John Caldwell, Lyndonville, Cops Combined In Manoir Orford Ski Meet Over Week-End; R. Lessard Second

John Caldwell, skiing under Lyndonville Outing Club colors and a candidate for the 1952 U.S.A. Olympic team, topped the combined downhill-skiing title in the two-day Manoir Orford Invitational ski meet held over the week-end.

Caldwell accumulated 100 points and eked out a close win over Roland Lessard, Hillerest stylist, who had 99.8 points. In the U.S.A. Olympic trials Caldwell was second in the combined cross-country and jumping section.

There were two downhill and two slalom runs and on Saturday Lessard won both the downhill and the slalom. Sunday morning he won the downhill and for a while it appeared that he would walk away with the laurels. In the afternoon, however, Lessard ran into difficulties in the slalom and ended up third behind the winner, Bernard Stone, another Lyndonville competitor. Caldwell, although not winning an individual event, topped the combined slalom as the result of two fine runs and placed second in the combined downhill which was won by Lessard.

Bernard Stone, one of the Lyndonville speedsters, won the junior combined title with 100 points while his teammate Marcel Cote placed second with 83.9 and Pierrot Longpre, Manoir Orford, was third with 92.8 points.

Third place in the senior combined went to Bernard Murphy, Lyndonville, with 95.7 points while Robert Bousquet, Manoir Orford and Bill Julian, Lyndonville, took fourth and fifth positions.

Eastern Townships ladies champion, Jackie Renaud, topped all events in the ladies section. Miss Renaud, a truly great competitor, blasted the icy nearly a mile long downhill run and slithered her way through the slalom flags.

Conditions were extremely fast on Saturday and more than one top skier spilled. On Sunday it was a little better for the first few runners but soon the light snow was swept away and the glaring ice was once again visible.

Both the downhill course and the two slalom runs were set by Conrad Gaucher, Manoir Orford.

Montreal Nationale Wins Intermediate Cage Crown

Defeats Laval 68-55 In Final Game After Collegians Drop Sherbrooke By 58-51 In Round-Robin Matches

The Palestra Nationale team of Montreal came up with the provincial intermediate basketball title by defeating the dead-end Laval University forces of Quebec City by 68-55, in the final game of a round-robin series played in Sherbrooke over the week-end at the William Street Armory.

The University players had just eliminated Sherbrooke Regiment by 58-51 in the second-last game and started the final with little more than half an hour's rest.

Laval had absorbed a 68-37 beating at the hands of the same Montreal team Saturday evening but tired as they were they extended the Nationale almost untill the final whistle in the Sunday afternoon encounter.

Laval played inspired ball in an effort to win the title. But they wilted in the final ten minutes of play and Montreal went on to win by a 12-point margin. By the time the game, and the series, was over the University boys had lost four of their men through personal fouls and were forced to play with only four men against Montreal's five.

With 11 minutes of play remaining, Laval lost Gaston Pelletier and with four minutes left Gerry Braut was given the game by the referees. Braut and Pelletier had sparked the Laval attack, each scoring 15 points when they were in the game. Paul Marquis and Richard Poulin were also given the game for Laval.

The Montreal team was paced by captain Bob Ethier who notched 28 points and Irvin Wilkin who scored 12, before he was chased by the referees in the dying minutes of the game.

Five teams competed in the series. A banquet was held in the Manoir Orford dining room on Sunday following the races. Prizes and trophies were presented.

Caldwell was the recipient of the $50 suit donated by Manoir Orford, a trophy and a set of glasses. Several other valuable prizes were presented to the winners.

Some fifty racers competed in the two-day meet and clubs represented were: Lyndonville, Bishop's University, Manoir Orford, and Hillerest.

Gil Ethier, of Magog, acted as master of ceremonies. Guest speakers were: Miss Lorette Audet, Charles Bergeron, president of the Manoir Orford Ski Club, Kermit Grant, coach of the Lyndonville Outing Club team, Bernard Murphy, Bernard Stone and Gordon Harmer.

Peacock's Rink Wins Howard Trophy; Coombs' Foursome Takes Armstrong and Simard's Quartet Cops Elliott

Gordon Peacock's Sherbrooke rink copped the Senator Howard trophy while Roy Coombs' Lennoxville foursome took the Armstrong trophy and Charles Simard's local quartet walked off with the Elliott Memorial trophy in the finals of the junior bonspiel, sponsored by the Sherbrooke Curling Club, Saturday evening.

In the semi-finals of the Howard trophy Bart Holtham's local squad was edged out 7-6 by Gordon Peacock's foursome in a close battle while Maurice Jackson's Lennoxville quartet chalked up a 8-3 victory over Norm Farrell's squad. In the finals Skipper Peacock guided his rink to a 11-5 victory against Jackson's aggregation.

In the battle for the Armstrong trophy Roy Coombs piloted his foursome to a 11-7 victory over his club mate, A. Wotton, in a close fight. In the semi-finals Simard's rink defeated the Howard trophy was presented by Senator C. B. Howard while Hubert Armstrong looked after the Armstrong trophy with Howard Peterson presenting the Elliott Memorial trophy.

Immediately following the finals the prizes and trophies were presented in the club house. The Howard trophy was presented by Senator C. B. Howard while Hubert Armstrong looked after the Armstrong trophy with Howard Peterson presenting the Elliott Memorial trophy.

Richmond Edges Brompton 7-5 In Overtime; Meet Tomorrow Evening At Local Arena In Fourth Tilt

Richmond Flyers moved to the fore in their bid for the championship of the Massachusetts Valley Hockey League here yesterday afternoon when they edged out Brompton 7-5 in overtime to take a 2-1 lead in the playdowns.

The fourth game of the series will be played at the Sherbrooke Arena tomorrow evening at 8:30 with the fifth going back to Richmond later in the week.

It was the second overtime game in the present series and each time the Flyers came through in the extra period by two goals. Yesterday's tilt was nip-and-tuck for the first two periods but then Brompton commenced to fall in the middle of the second but staged a rally in the third to knot the count.

Leblanc opened the scoring for Brompton but Bissone tied it up, however, J. Edmond and Four-nie came through with two quick goals to put the visitors ahead 3-1. In the second session Brompton extended this when Bergeron tallied but Bissone tied twice to give the Flyers a 5-4 lead.

In the final frame the teams seemed to fade but Brompton kept trying for the equalizer and Bergeron teamed up with J. L. Edmond to knot the count. In the overtime Geoffroy registered his fourth goal of the afternoon and then Viens tallied another to ensure the Flyers of the game.

The smooth-playing Thompson Saturday won the men's singles title then teamed up with Mrs. Barsley to win the mixed doubles crown. Mrs. Barsley, with Lois Reid of Vancouver as her partner, won the ladies' doubles title.

Montreal and Toronto shared the honors in the other events at the four-day championships.

Kae Otton of Montreal, a former Winnipeg player, won the ladies' singles crown while Gordon Simpson of Montreal and Dick Birch of Toronto won the men's doubles.

The senior men's doubles, for competitors over 40, went to Frank Denis and Dinny Dinsmore of Montreal.

Locals Drop Second Consecutive Game Of Week-End As Senators Edge Them Out 2-1 In Heavy Checking Fixture

Bill "Legs" Fraser turned in another outstanding performance for Bill Durnan's team and the Ottawa Senators extended their lead in the best-of-seven playoff series with the Sherbrooke Saints three games to one when they edged them 2-1 yesterday afternoon at the local Arena before 3,600 home fans.

Fraser was the main thorn in the Saints' attacking plays all afternoon and time after time he rose to great heights in keeping the locals at bay. It was the second consecutive day in a row that the lanky netminder held the upper hand over the Dugre-coached squad.

Roger Bessette did his share in keeping the Senators' score down. He was forced to extend himself quite often and, like Fraser, came through with flying colors. The two shots which beat him he had no chance whatsoever on them. He made the stops but the rebounds were batted home.

The Saints moved up to Ottawa for the fifth game of the series Wednesday evening and if the jinx still holds out the locals will finish their hockey season in the Capital City. Yesterday's defeat was the first suffered by the Saints on their home ice in fourteen games.

It was a hard fought game and the locals turned in a better game than Saturday's affair, in Ottawa, but a few of the local squad were still a little shaky in the tight spots. It was a heavy checking battle and no quarter was spared, or given, as the players were at it hard and heavy. Thirteen penalties were handed out, including a misconduct to Jimmy Planché for protesting too vigorously.

The opening play had barely got underway when Tudin and Barilko got the thumb and then Prefontaine got the nod when they returned. Quilty then moved into the cooler but he returned before anything happened. Bobby Pepin intercepted a pass and Adj. Cote let go with a back handler which caught the upper hand corner of the meshings to put the locals ahead 1-0.

Two minutes later Al Kuntz knotted the count when he snared a loose puck after Guy Laourie had saved Lude Check from scoring, and batted it through a maze of legs to tie the count.

Bobby Pepin got away but Fraser slid out to save from close quarters. Greenlaw and Prefontaine went off together and although Pepin was in again he failed to beat the rangy net minder. McAtee was the next to be turned aside. Check got away and when Gouille spilled him the sore-topped rearguard got the nod for the cooler.

At the start of the middle session Planché got the thumb for interfering and when he protested too strongly he had a misconduct tacked to it. The Senators moved in but Bessette and company kept things under control. Copp was the next to move into the sinbin and Coach Dugre tossed out four forwards. Riopelle got the nod a minute later for hooking, leaving the Senators two men short, but

Magog Edges Waterloo 2-1, In Opening Tilt

Magog, March 12.—Magog Aces copped the first game of the finals in the E. T. Intermediate Hockey League playdowns here yesterday afternoon when they edged out Waterloo Maroons 2-1 in a close checking fixture.

The Maroons dumped the Windsor Mills aggregation 5-0 Friday evening to move into the finals while Magog had been conceded their series with East Angus after the second game.

It was a clean affair with only four penalties being handed out, with the Maroons getting three and the Aces one.

Lacoste registered Magog's first tally when he beat Beanger unassisted in the closing seconds of the period. Goyette and Morneau each drew a penalty during the frame.

The second period saw Al Norrie, in the Maroons' steady play, re-guard even the count on an individual play just after a minute in the period. Three minutes later Thompson came through with what proved the winning tally on a passing play with Thiverge. Thompson drew a penalty for a minor infraction. In the final period, although Waterloo tried their best for the equalizer, Gus Leroux's squad held on until the final whistle.

Eleven penalties, including two majors, were called, six against Saguenays and five against Aces. Glaude opened the scoring for Chicoutimi at the halfway mark in the first period with a 40-footer after a face-off deep in the Quebec zone. Gerry Cabana and Lou Smrke picked up assists on the play. Two Quebec players were serving minor penalties at the time.

Pruneau tied it up three minutes later while Chicoutimi were short-handed two players. Armand Gaudreault and Phil Renaud were given assists on the goal scored from a wild scramble in front of the Chicoutimi nets.

Late in the period Richard again gave Saguenays the lead when he grabbed a loose puck at the Quebec blue-line, raced around Marois' cage and pushed the puck behind him.

Second later Hamilton and George Scholes broke away and after an exchange of four passes, Hamilton scored from close in.

There was no scoring in the second period.

Wray's goal in the last period came after Levesque grabbed the puck at centre ice, raced in alone and laid a perfect pass on his teammate's stick who made no mistake.

Battle For Playoff Position In N. H. L. Tightens In Six Week-End Games; Canadiens Win And Draw

Proponents of individualism in modern hockey should be pleased with the six week-end games in the national Hockey League. Half a dozen bright individual performances competed for interest with the tight three-way fight for the third and fourth playoff positions.

Such names as Gee, Peirson, Kennedy, Raleigh, Olmstead and Richard appeared regularly in the scoring columns as each of the six teams played twice.

Detroit Red Wings strengthened their stranglehold grip on first place by beating New York Rangers 3-2 Saturday and shutting out the lowly Chicago Black Hawks 7-0 Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs, certain to finish in second place, defeated Boston Bruins 5-3 in Toronto Saturday and then were beaten 3-1 by the same team last night.

In the other two games, Montreal Canadiens had a wild time at Chicago's expense, blasting the Hawks 12-2 Saturday and then coming from behind to gain a 5-5 tie with New York Sunday.

From a team standpoint, the results left New York and Boston a single point ahead of Montreal.

All three teams have six games left to play in the regular schedule and it's a toss-up which will finish out of the playoffs.

As to individual effort, it's a toss-up, too, about who rates top mention.

Maybe it should be George Gee who picked up four goals and two assists for Detroit in two week-end victories. He got one unassisted Saturday and was followed by goals by Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay in fashioning the win over New York. Pat Egan got both Rangers' goals. Gee saved his most spectacular effort for Chicago, however, a team he used to play for. He figured in five of the seven Detroit goals, helping Marty Pavelich and Jimmy Peters on tallies, and scoring three himself.

Gaye Stewart, another former Black Hawk, and Glen Skov, got the others.

The shutout, ninth of the season for rookie Terry Sawchuk, gave the young Detroit goalie a one-goal lead in competition for the Vezina trophy. Detroit, which has played a game more than Toronto, has had 130 goals scored against it, while the Leafs now have 131.

Another former Black Hawk came back to plague his ex-mates in the Saturday night game before 14,453 fans at Montreal. He was Bert Olmstead who got three goals and two assists in the landslide win over the cellar-dwellers.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard also got three goals and two assists for Montreal, bringing his season total to 41 goals. This is the fourth year Richard has scored more than 40 goals, giving him a lifetime N.H.L. total of 291. He has 33 to go to overtake Nels Stewart, holder of the lifetime record, and at the current rate The Rocket should set a new mark some time late next season.

Butch Bouchard, Elmer Lach, Bernie Geoffrion, Doug Harvey, Floyd Curry and Calum McKay also got into the scoring for Montreal, while Pete Babando and Bill Mosienko scored for Chicago.

Ted Kennedy, Toronto captain, was a major factor in the Boston defeat before 13,085 Toronto fans Saturday night. He got two goals and played one of his best games in months. Joe Klukay, Howie Meeker and Cal Gardner were the other Leaf scorers while Milt Schmidt, Bill Ezinicki and Woody Dumart tallied for Boston.

Sunday night, Johnny Peirson, Boston right-winger, stole the spotlight, scoring two goals and assisting on the third. Klukay scored for Toronto. The victory shoved Boston back into third place.

Don Raleigh shone before 13,806 New York fans Sunday night as he scored three of his team's five goals and assisted on another. Nick Mickoski got the other two for Rangers.

Bouchard, Montreal defenceman, got his second goal of the season (he got the first Saturday) to tie the score 5-5. Geoffrion, Lach, Tom Johnson and Robert were other Montreal scorers.

Bob Richardson Wins Provincial Ski Title

Quebec, March 12.—(P)—Bob Richardson of Montreal Nordick Ski Club yesterday won the Quebec Province Combined Ski Championships after placing first in the senior downhill and second in the senior slalom.

Richardson, Canadian combined champion, won with 0.36 points. Andre Bertrand of Laval University finished third with 7.63 points.

Richardson's downhill time of 2:23 Saturday at nearby Mont Ste. Anne was second only to the record time set by Peter Kirby, a junior from Montreal Sedburgh Ski Club, in 2:18.8 for the 1½ miles run.

Rosemary Schultz, McGill University, won the ladies combined with firsts in both the downhill and slalom. She topped the downhill in 2:54.2 minutes while her time in the two slalom runs was 1:53.3 seconds.

Showing in the Provincial Championships will be considered by officials towards selection of 10 Canadian skiers who will leave Tuesday for a training period in Banff.

They will become candidates for Canada's 1952 Olympic Ski Team. Showing of skiers in the Quebec Canadian last week and in the Canadian Ski Championships two weeks ago also will be considered in the selection of the skiers going to Banff.

Davis Cup Team To Be Sent Abroad For Games

Montreal, March 12.—(P)—Plans are being laid to give Canadian Davis Cup tennis players international training in preparation for the North American Davis Cup matches next summer.

The plans were announced by J. M. McAvity, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, at the annual meeting of the Association here during the week-end.

McAvity said tentative arrangements have been made to send Canadian Davis Cuppers to the All-England matches at Wimbledon, the French championships at Paris and "other international events."

Final arrangements will depend on whether enough funds will be available.

The last Canadian Davis Cup players to participate at Wimbledon and other European matches were Laird Watt and Bobby Murray of Montreal. They made the trip in 1936 as representatives of the C.L.T.A. with two young Vancouver players, Caroline Deacon

Nova Scotia Wins Canadian Curling Championship With Undefeated String

Halifax, March 12.—(P)—Curling enthusiasm in Nova Scotia and the Maritimes generally held to a new high today in acclaiming Don Olyer and his championship rink from Kentville.

Olyer confounded many experts in skipping his team through all 10 rounds of the Canadian Championship Borspiel without a single defeat.

Roy Forsyth's Manitoba rink from Winnipeg, well liked as title prospects before play started last Tuesday, fell before the Nova Scotians in an all-important 10th round Saturday.

The last round Saturday afternoon against Alf Chesser's British Columbia team from Trail was only a formality so far as the championship was concerned but it meant everything to Olyer in maintaining his undefeated streak. The same steady curling that had carried the Kentville rink to victories over eight other sectional championship holders proved too much for the final bid of the Western Province.

Manitoba was stopped before the 12th end was completed, Olyer winning by an official count of 12-7 in 11 ends. British Columbia went down 10-5.

The Trail rink, however, took second place in the championship standings. A three-way tie among three Western rinks for runner-up made extra rounds necessary.

Forsyth lost out 9-7 to Johnny Franklin's rink from Rostown, Sask., in the first playoff game but Saskatchewan proved easy victims, 8-0, to Chesser's Trail curlers in the deciding game. It was declared finished after eight ends, Franklin conceding. It was a generous gesture so that further play would not hold up the official ceremonies that ended the bonspiel.

Here is how the Nova Scotia team, formed only three years ago by the coal and oil dealer from Kentville, walked through all opposition to the championship:

Defeated Saskatchewan 11-9, Ontario 9-7, Alberta 16-6, Northwest 9-5, New Brunswick 13-4, Newfoundland 12-4, Quebec 8-6, Prince Edward Island 14-7, Manitoba 12-7 and British Columbia 10-5.

The undefeated performance for Nova Scotia was a record in itself. Manitoba rinks have swept undefeated to the title four times since the 'Spiel was started in 1927. But this year Newfoundland's entry meant an additional round of competition and 10 games for each provincial championship rink.

Olyer was happy when the title was assured by his defeat of Manitoba. He said his rink's success was something of a surprise but he wouldn't be surprised if his curlers kept right on and made it a clean sweep against British Columbia in the final round.

When his rink did it, Olyer was beamingly proud. Olyer said he thought his toughest match was against the Quebec team of mining men skipped by Merle Thomas from Bourlamaque.

Royals Blank Braves 6-0 For First Win In Best-Of-Nine Playoff Series

Montreal, March 12.—(P)—Paced by defenceman Dollard St. Laurent and forward Jacques Locas with two goals each, Montreal Royals blanked Valleyfield Braves 6-0 yesterday before an estimated 13,500 fans to win their first game in a best-of-nine Quebec Senior Hockey League semi-final playoff series.

Valleyfield leads the series 2-1 in games. The teams play the next two games in Valleyfield on Tuesday and Thursday before returning to Montreal next Sunday.

Goalie Jacques Plante had a fairly easy time in hanging up his first playoff goose-egg. He had only 13 shots on his cage over the entire route, while Paul Leclerc handled 33 tries.

Royals took a 1-0 lead in the first period, added two in the middle stanza and three more in the stretch drive.

Royals sank their first marker at 9:14 of the first period, when St. Laurent whipped in a 10-footer after taking relayed passes from Dewar Thompson and Cliff Malone.

Rose moved Montreal two goals in front after four minutes in the middle session. He took a long pass from Desaulniers just inside the Valleyfield blue line and then blistered a 40-footer past Leclerc.

With less than two minutes remaining in the session, Locas skipped the puck over Leclerc's stick when it took an awkward bounce on a slow shot. Desaulniers and Lorne Davis assisted.

Denis gave Royals a 4-0 lead at 7:11 when he fired a loose puck lying in the goal crease. The play included Thompson and Malone. Thirty-three seconds later St. Laurent scored his second goal on a combined effort with Malone and Denis.

Locas rapped in his second tally at 16:03 on a pass from defenceman Howie Cox. Defenceman Jimmy Orlando and Bert Bourassa were serving minor penalties at the time.

Final To Be One Game; C.R.U. To Buy Tarp

Winnipeg, March 12.—(P)—A proposed two-game Grey Cup football final for 1951 has fallen through, and the East-West classic will continue as a sudden-death affair at Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

At its annual meeting here Saturday, the Canadian Rugby Union voted down 6-3 a Big Four sponsored motion for a total-point series, with games at Montreal and Toronto.

The result surprised most football men who had favored the proposal at their respective annual meetings.

Ralph Misener, president of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, told C.R.U. delegates his club was "definitely opposed" to a two-game final.

By a 6-3 vote, the meeting also defeated a Calgary-sponsored motion for unlimited imports. The Eastern representatives were unanimously against.

President Tom Brook of the Calgary team contended that unlimited imports was "the only answer" to keep Canadian players from asking for "outlandish" salaries.

A Western motion was unanimously approved, asking a change in the import rule so that a player with four consecutive years of Canadian football is no longer an import. The old rule called for four years continuous residence.

Another argument took place before the meeting ruled that there would be no change in the voting set-up within the Union. The Big Four, O.R.F.U. and the W.L.F.U. each retain two votes, while the two Intercollegiate Leagues and the Q.R.F.U. each have one.

The two major leagues said that as the Western Intercollegiate and Quebec no longer operated, they should not be allowed to hold a vote.

The muddy condition of Varsity Stadium for the 1950 final resulted in the C.R.U. approving the purchase of a tarpaulin at a cost of about $8,000 from an Eastern firm. The tarp will be the sole property of the Union.
