A finance department treasury statement released Friday showed that $18,400,000 was collected during August, down from July's $19,100,000 and the $19,300,000 collected in May and June together.

US raids

SAIGON (AP)—American pilots report heavy destruction Friday of North Vietnamese rail yards, oil depots and shipping barges in three raids, the U.S. command said today.

U.S. Navy bombers pounded rail yards and oil depots at Thanh Hoa, about 80 miles south of Hanoi. Bombs also destroyed the Thanh Hoa highway bridge, damaged a railroad bridge and mangled several hundred feet of railroad track, the flyers said.

Two slain

MIDDLETON, Mass. (AP)—Gangland guns in greater Boston raised their death toll to 32 as a fusillade of bullets from a speeding limousine killed two underworld figures, one a brother of an earlier gangland victim.

Stephan Hughes, 39, of Charlestown, Mass., who survived a gangland shooting last March, and Samuel O. Lindbaum, 66, of Revere, Mass., were slain by a burst of rifle fire from a car that overtook them Friday as they drove toward Boston.

To trial

MONTREAL (CP)—Nine young men were ordered Friday to face preliminary hearings on charges in connection with a number of crimes.

Included among the incidents from which the charges arose were two bomb explosions in Montreal this year, each of which killed one person, and another exploded at the monument to Dollard des Ormeaux in Montreal's Lafontaine Park.

Also among the incidents involved was an explosion at the Drummondville, Que., home of an executive of the Dominion Textile Co.

Munsinger report controversey rages

OTTAWA (CP)—A judicial report says John Diefenbaker should have dismissed Pierre Sevigny from his cabinet in 1960 because Mr. Sevigny had a sexual affair with Gerda Munsinger which threatened national security. The report by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada said Mr. Diefenbaker, then Conservative prime minister, should have resolved doubt in a case of national security in favor of the state, not Mr. Sevigny. Mrs. Munsinger had been reported to Mr. Diefenbaker as a onetime Soviet espionage agent, prostitute and thief, said the report issued Friday. Mr. Sevigny, associate defence minister, had denied his relationship with her when called before Mr. Diefenbaker.

Underworld pressure question is raised

OTTAWA (CP)—Did the Montreal underworld try to "blackmail or pressure" Pierre Sevigny when he was an influential figure in the federal government? This question is raised but not answered in the report on the Gerda Munsinger affair submitted to the federal government by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada. The report issued Friday says that Mr. Sevigny's intimate relationship with Mrs. Munsinger, "a self-admitted espionage agent" and common prostitute, was common knowledge in the Montreal underworld in 1960, according to city police and the RCMP. It adds that the danger of blackmail and improper pressure was "startling," but the RCMP did not investigate this aspect further because it was not instructed to do so by the Diefenbaker government of the day. At public hearings of the Spence commission earlier this year, Mr. Sevigny said he had never been blackmailed and would never be subject to blackmail. He was associate defence minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet from Aug. 20, 1959, to Feb. 8, 1962, when he resigned with the then trade minister, George Hees over differences they had with John Diefenbaker. Mr. Justice Spence makes frequent references in his report to criminal elements and "unsavory characters." He criticizes Mr. Diefenbaker for not dismissing Mr. Sevigny in 1960 or shifting him to a "much less sensitive post." He says it is difficult to imagine a more dangerous department than a national defence "from the point of view of espionage by enemy agents or information-seeking by greedy racketeers." The report says Mrs. Munsinger had a record of smuggling, theft and prostitution, as well as minor espionage for Russia before she emigrated to Canada in 1955. Mrs. Munsinger had worked as a hostess and cashier at various night clubs in Montreal, which were operated by well-known racketeers and persons who had some association with various operators in the narcotics racket. Since arriving in Canada as a maid, she had travelled to such countries as Colombia, Panama, Mexico, West Germany and Austria and had been a "very active" prostitute. The report says repeatedly that the RCMP investigation of the security case should have been continued and intensified after preliminary reports were submitted to Davie Fulton, then justice minister, and Mr. Diefenbaker in December, 1960. Other unnamed persons should have been questioned.

"Doubt must always be resolved in favor of the national security," said Mr. Justice Spence. Mr. Diefenbaker "determined he could resolve that doubt in favor of the Hon. Mr. Sevigny's retention in the cabinet on the basis of his personal assessment of the man." ISSUED STATEMENT In Montreal, Mr. Sevigny commented: "I am not a security risk and I never was a security risk and beyond that I have no further comment to make for the time being." He called the report foolish. "I am not a security risk and I never was a security risk and beyond that I have no further comment to make for the time being." He called the report foolish.

SAW TWO DANGERS Mr. Justice Spence said there was a double risk in the Sevigny-Munsinger relationship: 1. Danger of pressure from enemy agents who might have tried to influence the associate defence minister. 2. Underworld figures might have blackmailed or pressured Mr. Sevigny.

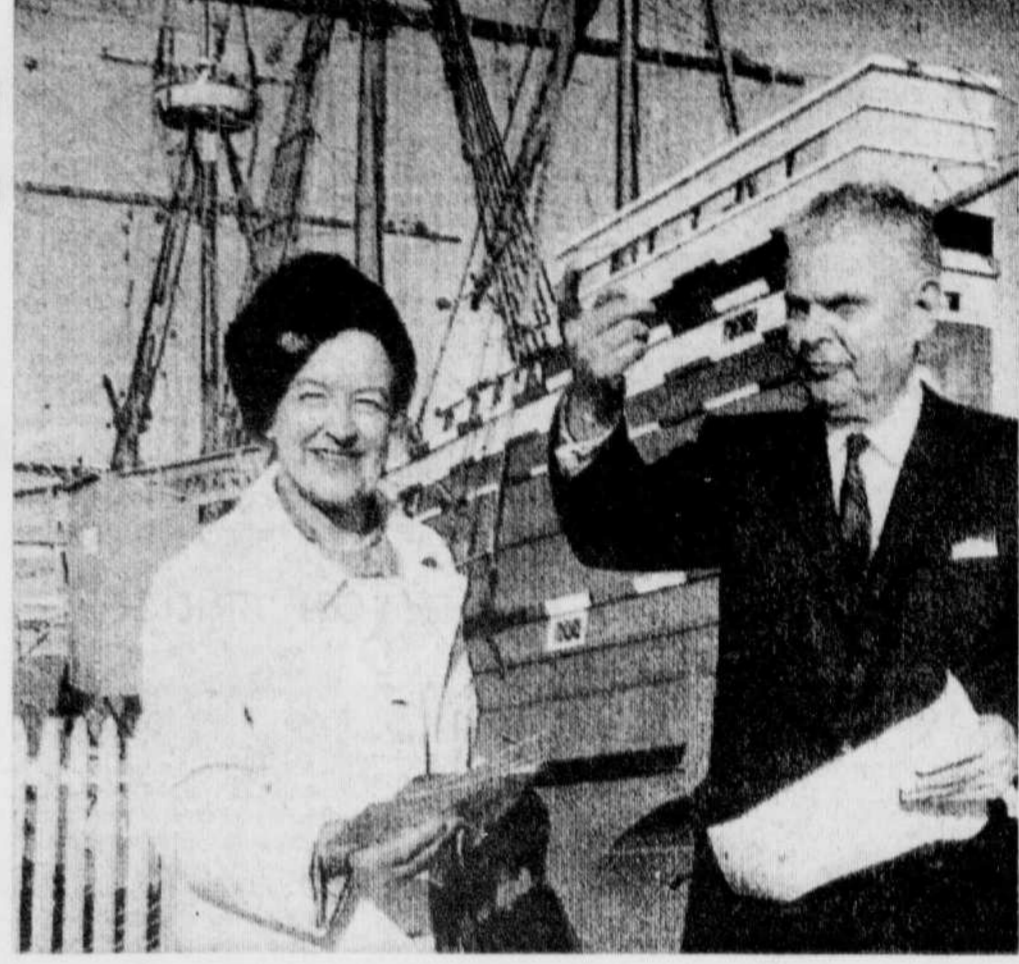

BLAMES DIEFENBAKER Mr. Justice Spence makes frequent references in his report to criminal elements and "unsavory characters." He criticizes Mr. Diefenbaker for not dismissing Mr. Sevigny in 1960 or shifting him to a "much less sensitive post."

DID NOT TELL ALL Mr. Sevigny had told Mr. Diefenbaker "much less than the whole truth" about the affair. This should have driven him to resign.

Mr. Diefenbaker ordered a more thorough investigation it would have revealed a situation which would have entitled him to fire Mr. Sevigny for concealment alone.

"The danger of blackmail and improper pressure would have been revealed as startling."

Mr. Justice Spence said Mr. Diefenbaker should have consulted the cabinet about the affair and have informed Defence Minister Harkness and Trade Minister Hees.

VISITS PLYMOUTH PLANTATION — Canada's former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker gestures as he points out historical landmark to his wife with the Mayflower II in background as they visited Plymouth Plantation in Plymouth, Mass., Friday. Judicial investigator Wishart Spence said in a report in Ottawa, Canada's Gerda Munsinger sex-and-security scandal could have been worse than the Profumo scandal in Britain. The report asserted Diefenbaker resolved doubt in favor of one of his colleagues instead of the country in a case involving national security. (CP Wirephoto)

Dief's defence an attack; cites the Norman case

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Friday that Prime Minister Pearson when handling the Herbert Norman security case as external affairs minister did not follow the principle that a doubt as to loyalty must be resolved in favor of the state.

In a "preliminary statement" on the judicial report into the Munsinger affair, Mr. Diefenbaker said that the point is made in the report that a doubt as to loyalty must be resolved in favor of the state.

"This was not followed by the present prime minister in the Herbert Norman case," Mr. Diefenbaker added in the statement issued by his office here. Norman was Canadian ambassador to Egypt when he committed suicide after a U.S. senate committee revived charges against him that he was a communist.

Mr. Pearson at that time conceded that Norman had had Communist associations in his youth but had given them up when he went to work for the external affairs department.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson when dealing with the Norman case had told the Commons April 12, 1957: "I have said that Mr. Norman to my knowledge had certain Communist associations as a student many years ago and that we were not going to allow that to drive him out of the public service of Canada in face of the long years of loyal devotion he has given to the country."

He said Mr. Pearson had accepted full responsibility in the Norman case. He quoted Mr. Pearson as saying further: "It has always been a principle and, I think, a correct principle of our security investigation that we would not deal publicly in connection with a security inquiry with the details of any allegations made, for the reason that the details of a man's private life should not be the subject of accusation and rebuttal in public."

Mr. Diefenbaker added: "That was the principle in 1957."

SAYS WAS NO PRESSURE Mr. Diefenbaker's statement said there were no allegations in the report on Gerda Munsinger's links with Conservative cabinet ministers of any pressure being brought to bear for obtaining security information. "The doubt was resolved from 1931 to 1957 by the present prime minister in favor of the late Canadian ambassador to Cairo. Was this wrong?"

The Munsinger report released earlier Friday said Mr. Diefenbaker when prime minister should have dismissed Pierre Sevigny as associate defence minister because "doubt must always be resolved in favor of the national security."

The report by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence said Mr. Sevigny's sexual relationship with Mrs. Munsinger, a German blonde, constituted a risk to national security.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Munsinger inquiry was "simply a political hatchet job" from start to finish. "The report is simply a vehicle for the dissemination of opinion by a commissioner hand-picked for his appointed task, with the objective of bringing about the destruction of the leader of the Conservative party."

Mr. Diefenbaker said: "The commission has performed as it was set up to perform. No charges are made, no suggestion that there has been a breach of law, precedent or practice. No suggestion of a breach of security."

PM HAS DISCRETION The statement by Justice Spence in his report that the cabinet should have been consulted about the disposal of a minister reversed all constitutional practice and was an attack on the unquestioned discretionary power of a prime minister.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Justice Spence displayed bias "in attempting to justify 14 months of inaction by the present prime minister when he could have said that investigation in 1961 would have been purposeless."

DID NOT KNOW PM She said she did not know former Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Mrs. Munsinger said that when she first met Sevigny she knew nothing of his government post. She was interested in him, not his position.

Dump-Diefers given possible new ammo

OTTAWA (CP)—The Munsinger report's scathing criticism of John Diefenbaker could provide fresh ammunition for those inside the Conservative party who have been attempting to remove him from the leadership.

But some observers believe it will supply just as great a spur to the pro-Diefenbaker elements that have rallied to his side in previous challenges.

It almost certainly will set the stage for a new round of political blood-letting when the Commons session resumes Wednesday, Oct. 5.

The inquiry report by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada accuses Mr. Diefenbaker of mishandling a security risk created when Pierre Sevigny, associate defence minister in the then Diefenbaker cabinet, had a sexual affair between 1959 and 1961 with Gerda Munsinger.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the report was a "political hatchet job" by the Liberals to destroy him as Conservative leader.

The latest in a series of challenges to Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership is shaping up for the annual meeting of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada here Nov. 13-16.

Dalton Camp of Toronto, the association president, Tuesday night suggested that the leadership question be put to a test by the 1,400 delegates at this meeting. Other prominent members of the party have supported this view.

ASSAILED CAMP Supporters of Mr. Diefenbaker, however, have assailed Mr. Camp for timing his attack to coincide closely with the expected release of the Munsinger report. Most political experts had forecast that the report would treat the former prime minister roughly.

Mr. Diefenbaker's argument that the report is an attempt by the Liberals to hasten his removal probably will be the key point in the effort of his backers to muster votes for him at the party meeting.

There likely will be a campaign also to defeat Mr. Camp in his bid for re-election as party president. Two of the potential contenders for the Conservative leadership, George Hees and Davie Fulton, also were involved in the Munsinger case.

HEES NOT HIT Mr. Hees came off best in the judge's report which said his relationship with Mrs. Munsinger, a onetime Russian agent, was merely a casual one. His chances of a political comeback appear to have diminished sharply in light of the report. He was defeated in the 1963 federal election and did not run in 1965.

CARDIN UPHELD Justice Minister Cardin, who set the inquiry in motion and staked his seat on its outcome, was practically commended in the judge's report. It upheld all of his pre-inquiry accusations about the affair.

SAYS PROBE INADEQUATE Other unnamed persons should have been questioned.

Mr. Diefenbaker ordered a more thorough investigation it would have revealed a situation which would have entitled him to fire Mr. Sevigny for concealment alone.

SAFETY PLAY INSURES SLAM

South rises with dummy's queen of spades at trick one but East covers with the king and South wins with the ace.

The simple play at this point is to lay down the ace of trumps. If the king drops South can claim all the tricks. If it doesn't, South will discard his losing spade on one of dummy's high clubs.

The trouble with this line of play is that South will lose his contract if West shows out on that first trump lead.

South has an alternate line of play at his disposal that will guard against that bad trump break. He starts by cashing two high clubs in order to get his spade discard. Then he leads a trump from dummy. If East follows with the deuce, South simply plays low from his own hand. If West wins with the king or jack, South will pick up the last trump later on. If West shows out, South will cash his ace of trumps and concede one trick.

If East fails to follow to that trump lead, South takes his ace and leads a second trump toward dummy.

This constitutes a perfect safety play in the trump suit because it guards against the loss of two trump tricks irrespective of how the trumps divide.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It looks like a set from a Ross Hunter movie.

Hunter is the boyish producer of Pillow Talk, I'd Rather Be Rich, Madame X, and other documentaries of life in the upper classes. His films have the glossy, sumptuous look that has seldom been seen on the screen since Norma Shearer and Joan Crawford turned in their Adrian gowns at MGM.

Thus you might expect that Hunter would erect an elegant showplace when he set about to build his own home. He has. With taxes and business managers now overloading the local economic scene, the producer's house could well be the last of the Hollywood palaces.

The cost? He would rather not think about it, much less talk about it. Estimates, for house, lot and furnishings run in the neighborhood of $600,000, which is a pretty rarefied neighborhood for a two-bedroom place.

Before taking off on a business trip to Europe, Hunter conducted a tour of the newly-finished house. It is in the upper reaches of the Trousdale Estates, a hobnob of opulence nestled between the Sunset Strip and Beverly Hills.

LANDSCAPE'S INSTANT

Although he has lived in the house only a few weeks, the grounds give the place an established look. "That's my instant landscaping," he explained. "It was all planned in one day, including the large trees. Even the lawns were rolled out like carpeting."

The view from inside the massive front door resembles a Roman villa. You look through the marble hall to the marble pool on the terrace below; it bubbles with the flow of three massive fountains. Beyond is the urban sprawl of Los Angeles, usually smog-shrouded.

Hunter headed for the dining room. "The crystal chandelier is from Ireland, the China pieces are from Carol Chang," said the producer, referring to a star of his most recent film, Thoroughly Modern Millie.

The producer pointed out other aspects of the house's 9,000 square feet: A railing from a Spanish church; a mural, The Mummies, executed by Douglas Rumborough; the veranda with overhead heating for use in any weather; the bridge room where he plays weekly with Bert Lancaster, Richard Conte and others.

At the end of the tour, Hunter paused to ponder: "I often wonder how a little guy from Cleveland could do all this. When I came out here as an actor in 1944, I rented a room at the Plaza Hotel for $60 a month."

Ayer's Cliff bank holdup is described

A near perfect crime was described yesterday morning in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions by the brother-in-law of the accused.

Karl Kyling described the 1962 Ayer's Cliff Bank robbery yesterday morning at the preliminary hearing of Henri Couture, charged with the armed holdup of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Ayer's Cliff.

Couture is to appear September 29 for voluntary statement.

Kyling alleged that those involved in the November 5, 1962 hold up in which $3,974 was stolen included his brother Werner, the accused and Anthony Miller.

Details as to how the crime was allegedly committed were revealed by Kyling. Kyling said that the whole matter was carefully worked out three weeks prior to the hold up.

The great mystery as to how the Kyling gang got away was also explained by Kyling and although it may have seemed like a magic trick in 1962 it was common sense yesterday morning.

The get away car was parked along side the road on the west side of Lake Memphremagog. No one ever thought that Kyling and his two helpers had crossed the large lake in a row boat to be met on the other side by Werner Kyling who drove them to Bedford for $300.

Kyling explained that three weeks prior to the hold up a car was stolen and placed in a

ET Estates General meets here end of month

By CLAUDE LABRECQUE (Record staff reporter)

The Estates General, a French-Canadian association aiming at redefining "le fait Francais" in North America, will be holding a congress for its Eastern Townships delegates and all those interested on Friday and Saturday, September 30 and October 1 respectively, in Sherbrooke.

Like its founding institution, the 19th century Estates General of France, the modern Quebec chapter formed largely of Saint Jean Baptiste Society members, aims at being representative of a large segment of the French-speaking population. More precisely, the Estates hopes to redefine French Canada, its aspirations, and especially of late, to dissect the Canadian constitution, and if need be to recommend something different.

The Eastern Townships branch of the Estates will be meeting to hear the views of all Business groups and social clubs, even intermediary groups, and individuals are welcome to attend the congress.

The 70 or so delegates of seven counties of the Eastern Townships branch of the Estates General will be present. The congress will be run on the formula of the Laurendeau-Dunton Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism where briefs and memos are presented and opinions heard.

Each day is planned as a day of study, of discussion. As the Estates General co-ordinator for Sherbrooke, Marcel Bureau put it: "We invite all people and groups regardless of their views to at least come forward and have their say."

"We want to hear them all," he continued, "status quo upholders, federalists, two nations supporters, even separatists."

"The ranks of the Estates General has been invaded, especially in Montreal with those whose views are strongly nationalistic or openly separatist," Mr. Bureau said.

In keeping with this concern of the Estates General for the Canadian constitution, the M.P. for Sherbrooke, Maurice Allard, is expected to present his memo at the local congress.

Another local personality expected to speak at the meeting will be the president of the Eastern Townships Estates General, public notary

Pierre Beaudoin.

Other local officials of the association are lawyers Jacques Yvan Morin and George Emile Lapalme, Richard Ares, s.j., Michel Pelletier and Leo Gagne.

The Estates General, is not new.

It was officially formed in 1961 as a kind of offspring of the Saint Jean Baptiste Society.

In forming the movement, members of the Saint Jean Baptiste and others thought it would be good to have an association which could express the view of many, views which go beyond a Catholic connotation and religion.

The Estates emerged thus as a movement interested in redefining the French Canadian identity and in emancipating the "Quebecois".

This congress like others which were held and will be held in different parts of Quebec receives delegates from each Eastern Townships county which were chosen several weeks ago.

The total of delegates for the 108 counties in Quebec is now at 1080.

These will be meeting at a provincial congress of the Estates General in Montreal on November 25, 26, and 27.

AUTUMN COMES TO OR-Ford: Shades of various tones across a landscape create an illusion of depth, with color film adding still another dimension. Exposure with color film of ASA 50 would be 1.50 sec. lens at F16. (Photo by Doug Gerrish)

Autumn beauty ideal subject for color film enthusiasts

Now that fall is officially here and photo enthusiasts are looking forward to many fine pictures of the maple trees and other colorful subjects, it might be a good time to give a few simple reminders.

The next important note is the ASA speed of the film. In heavy type is a number, 50 in this case. This will vary day or light condition at a given shutter speed. In this illustration it is 1/50 of a sec. Just by chance it is the same ASA speed — no connection.

1/50 of a sec is given because the film was tested by the manufacturer at this rating. You can use faster speeds naturally with the lens opening increased.

For example, in the first box it says bright of hazy sun on light sand or snow - f22. Up above it says 1/50 sec. which is the speed for all the ratings. For example in the fifth box it says open shade, f 5.6. Open shade means out of the sun but not under trees or hanging roof tops.

So you can see how important this paper with your color film is. But you would be surprised how many people never read it. Are you one?

You should always check it as film speeds change once in a while as they improve the film.

For those without a meter, ASA speed has no value.

Bishop's council wants to leave the Canadian Union of Students

The Students' Executive Council at Bishop's University this week endorsed a recommendation that Bishop's withdraw from the organization representing most university students in Canada, the Canadian Union of Students.

"The main reason," says council president John Cox, "is that we feel most Bishop's students want to have no part of the increasing political involvement of CUS."

"CUS is now pretty firmly committed to the idea of student political activism," he said. "But the record indicates most Bishop's students stand for the very opposite."

"For CUS, our council, or anyone else to try to push an activist philosophy among students here could be to invite more trouble than return."

Mr. Cox said the recommendation to quit the 140,000-member national student organization, which was part of a report by the Bishop's delegation to the annual CUS congress earlier this month, was endorsed unanimously by his council.

"It will go to the Students' Association of which all Bishop's students are members) in October," he said. "If it is approved there, we can withdraw at once."

"Students councils and CUS were to belong to one or more organizations."

"They became political movements dedicated to attaining specific social and political goals within the context of the whole society."

The Bishop's delegation said the only other universities at the congress to oppose consistently the trend toward political activism were the University of Alberta—which with drew from CUS this week—

we apologize to nobody."

"This congress has definitely approved the philosophy of student government involvement in everything," said the Bishop's declaration. "This is fundamentally against the basic nature of our association, and we completely disassociate ourselves from the philosophy that the field of concern and action of student government is unlimited."

Added the report: "It is beyond the power of student governments to deal with subjects that are of concern to citizens generally."

(the services) aspect of the program is rapidly losing in the priorities battle. Time and money are being channelled into more political objectives which are of little importance to most students."

Yet another objection centered about the issue of the student's role in financing higher education.

"Our association is at present opposed to the abolition of tuition fees," said the report. "We feel that the bursary system could be improved and that parental support is a legitimate means of financing higher education. But CUS calls for salaries for students and a rejection of bursaries and of parental support. The extent and importance of this disagreement is obvious."

Still another objection is fi-and a couple of small Maritime institutions. Most large universities supported increased political involvement by student groups.

ISSUED DECLARATION

In fact the Bishop's delegation to the CUS congress, headed by Andy Sanction, took the rare step of issuing a declaration disassociating itself from the activist tenor of proceedings.

The declaration said the Bishop's Students' Association is designed to provide services to students and to further their interests—only. It said the association could establish frameworks for the activities of students who were interested in political involvement, but could not itself take on a politically-involved character.

"The Students' Association at Bishop's is not a political organization," said the declaration, "whether devoted to radical social reform, maintenance of the status quo, or reactionary conservatism."

"The president-elect of CUS has stated that, of necessity, he is leading an organization with broad social and political objectives. For having none,

REJECT ACTIVISM

The main emphasis of the report approved by the students' council is on CUS's desire for political involvement, and Bishop's students' desire to have none of it.

"There was a great difference of opinion at the congress as to whether CUS should be involved politically in everything or whether it should restrict itself to purely student affairs," says the report.

"There is no doubt that the former opinion held sway."

The report continues: "Student activists gained control (of CUS) and decided that it was the right, and indeed the duty, of student councils to articulate and lead student opinion on everything from parking rules to the war in Viet Nam.

OTHER OBJECTIONS

The report approved by the Bishop's students' council this week mentions other objections to CUS as well.

One is that the national organization is ineffective on the provincial level in Quebec. "In Quebec CUS is useless," said the report, because its provincial counterpart, l'Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec (UGEQ), represents more students here and is far more powerful.

Another objection is that CUS's services to members students are being subordinated to political goals, to the detriment of the former. "This

Urges the transport board control all travellers

The Provincial Transport Board must regain control over the transportation of all travellers, students as well as adults, Henri Drolet, president of the Association of Quebec Autobus Owners of Quebec, told the opening session of the 40th annual convention here Friday afternoon.

The Board must apply a policy which will bring about a transport service that will meet the needs of the entire population.

Referring to the financial problem of urban bus operators in many cities and towns,

Mr. Drolet declared many municipalities must think seriously of subsidizing their local transport services, as is already done in certain towns, if they want these services to be in an economic position to meet their obligation to the travelling public.

The Association president said that many common transport services are often under-estimated by the organization of new services for the transportation of school children after local enterprises had already invested substantial amounts in the establishment of secondary routes for children.

Mr. Drolet complimented the industry on its success in organizing extra bus services to fill the gap caused by the recent railway strike.

"Because of the flexibility of autobus services, it was easy to move vehicles not being used to areas of peak travel and this provides service at a minimum inconvenience to travellers," he said.

"It is this characteristic which is unique to bus services that will enable it to be developed to the maximum during Expo 67."

The delegates, representing over 100 companies in the province were welcomed to Sherbrooke by Alphonse Laramee, chairman of the local organization committee.

Friday afternoon sessions were devoted to committee studies on external relations, traffic, tariffs and franchises and illegal competition.

Following a dinner an old time dance was held in "Salle d'Armes" at Motel LeBaron where the convention is taking place.

This morning committee discussions will deal with transportation for Expo 67, special trips and urban services and in the afternoon will be concentrated on personnel and security, equipment and insurance and legislation.

Following the submission of committee reports, general business will be transacted, concluding with the election of officers.

Closing social events will include a reception provided by the Ministry of Transport and the annual dinner at which the guest speaker will be Raynard Frechette, MLA for Sherbrooke.

The convention will close with a dance.

Trucker's complaints require study

One of the chief arguments advanced in favor of the construction of the Eastern Townships Autoroute was that it would remove much of the heavy truck traffic from Highway One and thus facilitate local travel by individual car owners.

But any steady user of the Autoroute can testify that the number of commercial vehicles using the road appears extremely small while truck traffic on the original highway seems undiminished.

Perhaps the answer may be found in the complaint voiced at a recent meeting of the Eastern Townships Trucking Association that the tolls are too high to permit the truckers to use the autoroute economically.

Another complaint is that the toll stations generally are located at dips in the highway making it difficult for drivers to restart heavy loads after paying the toll.

The two complaints appear to rest on a solid basis and the Autoroute Authority should act without delay in responding to the requests of the truck owners.

The primary purpose of the Autoroute was to facilitate the economic development of the adjacent areas by reducing transportation costs for industrial raw materials, with private travel being regarded as incidental.

But if high tolls and unsatisfactory operating conditions prevent its use by truckers, the huge expenditure on the project is difficult to justify.

Hayden S. Pearson's COUNTRY FLAVOR:

Pumpkin pie a notch above squash

The countryman appreciates that one should rarely be dogmatic, but there are occasions when he is willing to stand up and be counted. In the controversy concerning the relative merits of squash versus pumpkin pie, he is on the pumpkin side.

A few decades ago piles of golden pumpkins made colorful pictures against the weathered boards of the barn's south side. After the first frost turned the big leaves black and limp, the crop was picked. "Let them cure for a fortnight," Grandfather said, "and they will keep a long time. On frosty evenings it was a boy's task to cover the big heap with old horse blankets."

It is pragmatic judgment that is involved. Experience and observation tell one that pumpkin pie is better than squash. Empirical judgment, based on science, has its place; but science is not involved in this situation. Pumpkins are one of the good gifts to the white man from Indian farming. Pioneers quickly learned they could be dried and used with meat. They learned that cooked with cornmeal and small potatoes, the mixture put a good finish on hogs.

Old varieties have imaginative names: Golden Custard, Black Sugar, Red China, Yum Yum, Big Cheese, Michigan Mammoth, Illinois Beauty, Nantucket Pie, Dunkhard and Cocozelle. In the olden days a common practice was one pumpkin seed in each third hill of field corn. The best destiny for many fruits and vegetables is a question for debate around the stove in the general store. But there is no question where a pumpkin is concerned. A squash pie is excellent. But men who don't consider a meal properly without a wedge of pie, know that pumpkin has a certain intangible flavor that places it a notch above its cousin.

Like it or not, Ottawa holds trumps

Most of the provincial premiers attending last week's tax talks in Ottawa went home mad, although for differing reasons. Mr. Campbell of Prince Edward Island did not like the size of his province's equalization grant; Mr. Johnson of Quebec let it be known that he will not be satisfied until he has the moon with a fence around it; Mr. Thatcher of Saskatchewan is displeased because his equalization payments will disappear in five years; Mr. Roblin is provoked because he feels that Ottawa is forcing him to impose a sales tax in Manitoba; Mr. Roberts of Ontario does not like Ottawa's proposals on shared cost social programs. And so it goes.

The one thing that the premiers all have in common is that the target of their wrath is the federal government. This par for the course at federal-provincial conferences, but last week the rift between Ottawa on the one hand and the provinces on the other was deeper and wider than ever. The reason is simple. As everyone knows and admits there simply is not enough tax revenue in the country for Ottawa and the provinces to finance all the programs they would like to implement. Each government is going to have to accept less than it would like to have, than it feels it needs. How much less is the real bone of contention at these tax conferences.

In this situation — although one might not realize it from the premiers' statements — the federal government has the whip hand. If the finance minister and his colleagues say, as they have, that Ottawa is prepared to give so much to the provinces — and no more — there is nothing much that the provinces can do about it. They can accept, or they can pull out of Confederation. For, in spite of the publicity and the premiers have received, a federal-provincial conference is not, as one might be led to think, a conference of equals, of eleven governments each with the same powers. It is a meeting of a senior government with ten junior governments — little as some provincial premiers may like the definition.

It could not be otherwise, Canada is a Confederation and if it is to continue to exist as a nation at all, the needs of national government must have priority over the needs of the regions. That it does not mean that the provinces are not right in pressing their demands for the money they feel they need to carry out their increasing responsibilities, provided they have exhausted their own tax resources first. The federal government must — and does — recognize provincial needs and meet them as far as it is within its financial capability to do so. But that capability is limited. And when the crunch comes, it is the needs of the senior government that must have precedence. Anything else would mean not one big nation but ten weak little states.

Some "rights" do dominate others

THE CANADIAN Bar Association will urge the federal justice department to make compulsory breathalyzer tests of motorists who are involved in accidents after drinking liquor.

The Vancouver Province

Some delegates at the association's recent convention opposed the plan as a violation of individual liberty. Such opposition is to be expected. But is it logical?

Fortunately for the cause of highway safety, most delegate lawyers didn't think so. "We live in a society, not a jungle," said one. "Let us make our highways safe for the non-drinking driver. A radar test is not 100 per cent accurate, but it is a practical tool and that is what the breathalyzer test is."

Opponents of compulsion speak of course of moving toward a "police state," of the unfairness in making a man give evidence against himself and of the invasion of his rights.

They seem to overlook two important facts: That only irresponsible, dangerous drivers need fear the compulsory testing; that a man killed by an impaired motorist has lost ALL his rights and liberties.

Judge Frank Newman of Portage la Prairie commented that driving is not an inherent right but a privilege. People suffering major physical defects are either prohibited from driving or forced to undergo special tests, he said; why should a driver who deliberately impairs himself with liquor not be ruled off the road?

It is a strong point. Surely anyone careless or stupid enough to send a ton or two of lethal metal hurtling down a highway when his ability is affected by alcohol deserves to forfeit his driving privilege.

Certainly personal liberty is worth fighting for — but only when it does not become a weapon to infringe on the liberty of others. And death is a powerful infringement.

Compulsory breathalyzer testing has been used extensively in several European countries.

COOKSHIRE — The W.A. of Trinity United Church met at the parsonage with the vice-president, Mrs. Darrell Bellam, in the chair. Mrs. H. H. Vogell, secretary, pro-tem, read the minutes and Mrs. Osborne Lake gave a very favourable treasurer's report.

Almost all the repairs to the parsonage have been carried out. Tentative plans were made for a hobby show to be held on October 10 in the Church Hall.

Following the regular closing, the members worked on parsonage chores, after which a pot luck lunch was served.

Sponsored by the B.C.S. Social Club of Cookshire a successful cooking school was held in the Catholic Church Hall, with an attendance of 600.

Mr. C. Rolfe, of the SCP Co., was master of ceremonies, and Mrs. Madeline Leblanc Lacasse, dietician, very capably demonstrated short-cut methods of preparing food and introduced attractive new recipes. Mrs. Arthur Hunt, president, thanked all who had helped in any way to make his project a decided success.

Adventures with God

Ecumenical movement promises not more, but less to women

That women prophets and preachers are numbered with the redeemed and the redemptors can no longer be disputed. Many of them have been ordained of God for a particular ministry, but few of them have been ordained of men. The few who have been so ordained by the laying on the hands of clergymen will be relegated to minor roles, if and when the Church Union consummates. But those who have been ordained and commissioned by God to carry the evangel to the world need not despair, for in spite of interruptions their redemption draweth nigh.

The emancipation of women began at the cross when Jesus cried: "It is finished." It is interesting to note that it was the sin of the woman, that made a redeemer necessary; it was the seed of the woman that became the Saviour of all mankind. Gal. 4:4.

At the last supper in the upper room, only men were present, but women outnumbered the men three to one as they stood at the foot of the cross. John 19:25-27. (And that is about the percentage of women over men in churches today.) Women can be counted on to stand by in the hour of tragedy. This age is the hour of supreme testing for the Christ. Not only is He standing in Pilot's hall but He is on trial before a skeptical world agitated by the Satanic forces which cry: "We will not have this man to reign over us!" In the present conflict women are again proving themselves loyal to God and truth.

Women were last at the cross and first at the empty tomb. They were first to herald the good news of Christ's resurrection. After His redemptive work was done women were admitted to the upper room, where, with the men, they waited for the pouring out of the Holy Spirit. Acts 1:14. "And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." Acts 2:4.

As Christianity spread, the zenanas have been emptied, the man-made ghettos emptied and schools opened to educate women. The Christian library and pulpit assigns women have been given gifts comparable to the gifts bestowed upon men and they have been endowed with the power to communicate with great effectiveness.

The prophetic utterances of many women have confirmed and made meaningful the hidden facts contained in the prophecy of ancient writers. But their gifts have not been fully recognized, nor employed in marriage. Matt. 22:30.

The Ecumenical movement does not promise more recognition for women, but less. In the meantime the plans of God move on for her total emancipation, and the voices of women are heard from many a podium.

There is, however, increasing respect for the few women who carry the torch for Jesus Christ and preach His word. We salute such an ordained woman in the person of Rev. Florence M. Hunter, assistant at Byron United Church. On a hot, holiday Sunday I accompanied my hostess to hear Miss Hunter preach. It was a refreshing spiritual adventure for me and I came away thanking God for the delightful experience. On occasion I have made statements regarding the apostate church, which have been misconstrued as a blanket criticism of whole denominations. Nothing is further from the truth. God has never been without a faithful remnant. I have never heard a finer exposition of the way of salvation as the plain-looking, plain-speaking Miss Hunter gave that hot Sunday She chose for her text, Phil. 4:22: "All the saints salute you, chiefly they that are of Caesar's household." She said that Caesar's household was not promising environment for the cultivation of saints, nor was hereditary a factor in sainthood, but she concluded: "Saints are those who have sought and found forgiveness and salvation through Christ," she backed every claim by giving us chapter and verse. This chronic critic left that sanctuary ready to salute the saints in any denominations which honor Christ.

Svetlana gets it

Soviet soul-seekers tough on teenagers

By PETER WORTHINGTON

MOSCOW — (TNS) — Recently a pretty, 19-year-old Russian girl named Svetlana was sentenced to five years on a labor colony because she mixed with foreigners. She wasn't a good girl. In fact she was pretty disreputable.

But there are lots of disreputable girls in Russia, and they don't get five years of hard labor because of it.

Svetlana hung about the bar at the National Hotel where foreigners stay. The Soviet press claims she was a prostitute, that she had no steady job, that she was twice "detained" for petty hooliganism, that she was a nuisance in public, that she swore at authorities and had been involved in brawls.

Said the press: "After looking into her soul and finding nothing sacred there, the court sentenced her to five years."

There are girls of more unsavory morals in town, but they don't draw attention to themselves by mixing with foreigners and giving the Soviet system a "bad name." The harshness of the sentence is significant, and reveals a growing concern of the authorities for its youth.

from paranoia to be so fearful of our "pernicious and noxious" influences.

But recently I was back in Canada for a short visit, and spent a short time in England. And my values have had a severe jolt.

I can see more clearly the Soviet viewpoint, and understand some of their apprehensions.

BIG DIFFERENCE

Youth, as they say, seems to have gone to the dogs. Russian kids are clean-cut, washed and admirable compared to ours.

Canadian youth has changed. The exaggerated Beatle cuts and almost identical dress of boys and girls in slacks and sweaters seems unwholesome to me, and must seem even more appalling to Russians.

To me, an outsider, it seemed that Canadian teenagers are living in an atmosphere of latent homosexuality. Boys seem effeminate and dainty, girls bored and emulating masculine tendencies.

The short-haired, sports-minded, non-rebellious Canadian teenager is blocked from view by his shaggy, slightly smelly, guitar-numbling rival.

And the fad extends into young adulthood, and values just aren't.

No wonder Russians are worried when they see our trends taking hold in Moscow.

I know these criticisms brand me as a "square, creep," or whatever the current condemnation is.

GOOD OLD DAYS

I was a teenager in the era of the zoot suit and "young" Frank Sinatra. And adults tut-tutted then as they do now.

I recall the dismay caused by the Beatnik Gang nearly a couple of decades ago — and I know at least one member of that gang who has since become a minister!

But kids, despite the trouble they get into, at least were identifiable by their sex. Boys didn't look like girls and the effeminate life wasn't fashionable.

Mass manhunt near capital for gunmen after shoot out

QUEBEC (CP)—About 20 policemen were searching the wooded Bois de Coudage in suburban Sillery Friday for two gunmen who wounded a policeman and another man after they failed to rob a local radio station.

The two men, armed with a rifle and a revolver, entered radio station CJLR early in the day, apparently to carry out a robbery.

They were seen by news writer Jean-Guy Cantin, who phoned the police.

The men heard the sirens and ran out of the building. Two policemen had arrived on the scene.

A short gun battle followed, in which about 15 shots were fired and Constable Jean-Guy Bouffard was hit.

One of the men fired at a passing car, wounding the driver, Mr. Marcel Fontaine, who was on his way to work in a Quebec City printing shop. It had earlier been thought he was a cab driver.

Mr. Fontaine though hit in the shoulder, was able to drive to police headquarters, where his condition was said to be "not serious."

Constable Bouffard left hospital after the bullet was removed from his thigh.

The report would rid Parliament of the degradation into which it has been drawn by "the personal and wicked attacks from Mr. John Diefenbaker on French-speaking cabinet ministers," Mr. Choquette said.

The Lotbiniere MP, addressing a social club, said the report upheld the position of Justice Minister Cardin. The federal minister represents the Quebec constituency of Richelieu-Vercheres.

Mr. Choquette though hit in the shoulder, was able to drive to police headquarters, where his condition was said to be "not serious."

Business zone may increase

The King Street East commercial zone is to be expanded, providing the property owners in the area do not ask for referendums which will result in negative action.

Building Inspector Normand Gauthier said yesterday afternoon that the city sees no point in calling a meeting of property owners in a zone each time a building amendment has to be made in that particular zone.

In the area under discussion, this happens frequently. To do away with this council has decided to call one giant meeting and extend the King Street east commercial zone so that in the future a business establishment wishing to establish in the area does not have to go through city council, a public meeting and possibly a referendum to get a zone change.

Property owners in the concerned zone have been advised by registered mail of the proposals. Public notices have appeared in local daily newspapers informing the public of the intentions of the city council.

A public meeting will be held at the City Hall on October 3 from 7 to 8 p.m. for the city council.

If at least six persons sign protesting any zone change a public referendum will be held in that zone.

Sunday school planned

Rev. Edna P. Bruner, Educational Consultant, the Unitarian Universalist Association, will be attending a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Monday, September 26 at 22 Belvidere St., Lennoxville.

The purpose of the meeting will be to advise parents on the organization of a Sunday School to be held twice weekly at the above address throughout the winter months.

Rev. Bruner received her B.A. and B.D. degrees from St. Lawrence University and her specialization in education had its origin in two parish ministries in the First Universalist Church, Waterloo, Iowa, and in the First Universalist Church of Canton, New York.

Beginning in 1952 she served as director of the Department of Education during the period when the Unitarian and Universalist departments of education were consolidated.

In addition to field services throughout the denomination, Miss Bruner has taught at deanery institutes, served as summer lecturer, served as lecturer at theological schools. In Canton she sponsored the Colleague Discussion Group and was concerned that the services of the church include opportunity for first hand experience in education and churchmanship for the students of the Theological School of St. Lawrence University.

Parents interested in their children attending a liberal church school with emphasis on every religious aspect of life, the responsibility of man to his fellow men and his relationship with the natural and scientific world around him are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

than CUS.

"Most of our objections to CUS also apply to UGEQ," says the report. "UGEQ is not the organization for us. It does not correspond to our ideas of student government because UGEQ, too, is a political organization."

The report is also critical of the unilingualism of the French-language UGEQ.

"The time for investigations, discussions and pious thoughts of co-operation with the French is over," he says. "We must be honest and admit that UGEQ is no magical solution to whatever needs we might have."

The report urges Bishop's students to "overcome fear of being divorced from the mainstream of Quebec student politics."

"Most of Bishop's students, who are opposed to collective involvement in federal politics," says John Cox, "feel the same about provincial politics."

Cockney dialect gives Czech girl difficulty

OTTAWA (CP)—English was a puzzle to Eliza Doolittle, the Cockney flower girl in the musical My Fair Lady. But the language is twice as confusing for the Czech girl who plays Eliza in Bratislava.

Maria Schweighofrova, 28, says it isn't so much the grammar as the pronunciation. She's getting sympathetic coaching from her husband, Augustin, a metallurgist here on a two-year National Research Council fellowship. His wife was here from three-months' visit.

She has sung the Cockney flower girl's role for 17 months in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia's second city with a population of 300,000.

She studied at the state-financed music conservatory there, and after graduation joined her company, the 100-member Nova Scena. It is one of six state-financed companies in the city.

Three productions of My Fair Lady were playing simultaneously across the country a few months after its initial opening in Prague, but brown-haired blue-eyed Maria was acclaimed the best "Elizy" by the national theatre publication.

A few changes have been made in the Czech text to eliminate strictly English references and to fit the words to the music. For example Lerner and Loewe's Eliza sings "Hertford, Hertford and Hampshire," to practise her aspirate h. Elizy sings "Hanoi, Himalaya, Honolulu."

Instead of "The rain in Spain stays mainly in the plain," Maria sings the equivalent of "The full moon swims over the fields, setting them all ablaze." In Slovakian the words sound like roud and poetic, complementing the music's staccato beat.

For disabled Bathroom criticized by rehabilitation head

TORONTO (CP) — Lady Hamilton of London, an internationally-known authority on the rehabilitation of the disabled, sharply criticized the bathroom, describing it as the "worst room in the house for the disabled."

She told a group of doctors, nurses, therapists and architects at the Orthopaedic and Arthritis Hospital here that by implication, the bathroom is also the worst room for everybody else because research shows what is good for the disabled is good for others.

She said the ideal bathroom should be larger with each unit within reach of a wheelchair. There should be space between the toilet and the wall for those who have to slide out of the chair.

She said there should also be handgrips that can be folded back on both the toilet and bathtub and a seat be-

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — How does one prevent ordinary material from curling when it is being ironed? I would be most grateful for a solution. — M. R. C.

DEAR POLLY — I am a housewife who also works in a bank. I have noticed how important it is for everyone to carry his Social Security number with him at all times. New government regulations even require it to be supplied when one opens a new savings account. It is a good idea for every wife to carry not only her own number but also that of her husband and any of her children who may have them. Wives often transact the family business and if these numbers are readily available many a call back to supply this information is saved. — MARJORIE.

DEAR POLLY—My husband spilled iodine on a white shirt with blue stripes. A commercial on television had said that a certain tablet denture cleaner would remove iodine stains from dentures, so I tried it on the stained shirt. I put the stained part in cold water with no effect and then put the denture cleaning tablet on the stain and let it stay for a few minutes. It completely removed the iodine without hurting the blue in the shirt. — ALETA

DEAR POLLY—Today's news is tomorrow's history, so I have a large box in which I keep all the articles and clippings that I think will be useful to the children later on in school. I take particular care to get all those about space flights.—PEGGY

For and about Women

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD ARTHUR KANTRUD.

Kantrud—Denison

A pretty late summer wedding took place Saturday, August 27 at 2:30 o'clock in St. Martin's Chapel, Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, when Elizabeth Jean, daughter of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. Everette E. Denison, Lennoxville, Que., became the bride of Mr. Harold Arthur Kantrud, of Jamestown, N.D., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Arthur Kantrud, Ferguson Falls, Minn. Archdeacon T. J. Matthews officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Bertha Bell accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Leslie Copland, of Westmount, who sang The Lord's My Shepherd, during the signing of the register.

White and orange-flame gladioli adorned the altar and tall standards of the same flowers were placed in the sanctuary. The guest pews were marked with white and orange-flame gladioli and white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie, the chapel train falling from the shoulders, was trimmed with French guipure lace. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held by a headband of the same lace as on the dress and she carried an original cascade bouquet of white shasta daisies and ivy.

Mrs. Frank McCrea, as matron of honor, was in a floor length dress of green silk organza with lace jacket and white flowered headband. She carried a colonial bouquet of shasta daisies and ivy.

Miss Ann Denison, cousin of the bride, the bridesmaid, wore a floor length dress of yellow silk organza with lace jacket, fashioned similar to that of the matron of honor, a white flowered headband and she carried a colonial bouquet of shasta daisies and ivy.

The flower girl, little Sheila McCrea, was in a long dress of white eyelet with green trim and a flower headband. She carried a basket of rose petals.

The ring bearer, Harold McCrea, wore a Scottish kilt of the Royal Stewart clan plaid. Mr. Gregory Sinner acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. Peter Denison, brother of the bride and Norman Denison, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Denison, mother of the bride, chose a dress of mink brown Alecon French lace, dark brown accessories and a corsage of shattered pink carnations.

Due to illness, the groom's parents were unable to attend.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, on Moulton Hill Road, Lennoxville, where the bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with pansies, white candles in silver holders completing the table arrangements.

Later, the couple left on a wedding trip to their future home in Jamestown, N.D., the bride travelling in a petal pink French soie sauvage ensemble, with navy accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Guests were from Danville, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Foster, Washington, D.C., Hanover, N.H., Detroit, Mich., Hartford, Conn., Montreal, Kenogami, Silvery and Sorel.

Personals

Mrs. Mariel (Suitor) Menzies has returned to her home in New Westminster, B.C., with her husband, after visiting relatives and friends in Sherbrooke, Stanstead and Montreal. She also visited Chester Powers, a former Sherbrooke resident, at present a patient in Lakeshore General hospital, Pointe Claire, Que.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. John Beard of Danville, announce the engagement of their granddaughter, Miss Wanda Lyons, to Mr. Brian Forcier of Toronto, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Forcier of Lennoxville, Que. The wedding will take place at 2 p.m., October 8, in Trinity United Church, Danville, Que.

Polly Dollar award winner

Congratulations are being extended to Miss Carole Johann of R.R. 2, Coaticook, the winner of a September Polly Dollar award for submitting a home-making idea to Polly's Pointers.

Carole's Pointer was: I keep my garden shoes and gloves in a plastic bag, this way I can bring my things in without any mess. I just change them at the door before entering the house and pop them into the bag.

Ten-year-old Carole, who lives with her parents in Dixville, goes to Coaticook High School, she is an ardent gardener and an animal enthusiast. This was her first attempt in sending an idea to Polly's Pointers, through the Sherbrooke Record.

Metis tots learn new alphabet

EAST PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP)—Teacher Marion Loring says her experience in teaching Metis children English with a 44-letter phonetic alphabet has convinced her of its value.

The method is known as ITA—Initial Teaching Alphabet—which was devised by Sir James Pitman, the English educationist.

Last September, few of the Metis children here could speak, read or write English. By the end of the school year, Miss Loring says, a number had become fairly fluent with the help of ITA.

One boy who at first could do nothing more than string together a meaningless jumble of words was able to write a coherent story after two months. Another who had never been to school and couldn't read or write was producing 300-word stories by the end of the year.

ITA, in which each sound has its own symbol, has been used experimentally in some Vancouver schools in the last few years. Proponents say it helps some children through the first stages of learning English, after which they can switch easily to the normal alphabet.

In Nigeria, where Miss Loring taught for two years before coming to Alberta, the native children taught by the ITA method did far better, she says, than those using traditional methods.

Because of the success with the Metis — people of mixed white - Indian parentage—she suggests it would be useful for teaching all children for whom English is not the first language.

Centennial exec logs many air miles

OTTAWA (CP) — Marianne Linnell, the only woman among 12 centennial administration directors, is the kind of person who gets things done—whether she has to do them herself or enlist the co-operation of others.

For example, on one cross-country air trip she had the cabin crew and passengers cutting into pink satin rosebuds and black lace for a gown she designed for a centennial ball.

The Vancouver native feels right at home on planes these days. In the last push to Centennial Year, the directors meet every two weeks in places as far apart as Ottawa, Charlotte-town and Yellowknife.

"I have the typical feminine problems with hair styles and clothes but other than that the travelling is wonderful," the tall 51-year-old widow said after a board meeting in Ottawa.

A former Vancouver alderman, Mrs. Linnell is also one of three woman partners in a real estate firm. "It started out as an all-girl operation, but we had so many applications from men we decided to stop discriminating."

child Robert, 22, works on documentary films at the National Film Board in Montreal.

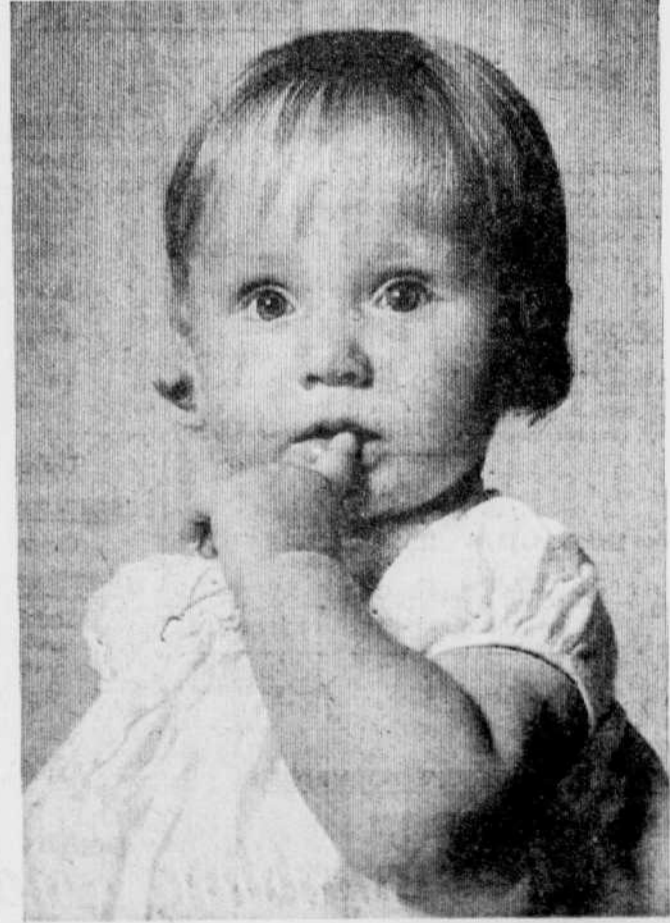

Mrs. Linnell's favorite among the centennial programs is the youth travel project.

"One girl know from Vancouver was disappointed because her trip was only to Weyburn, Sask. Naturally she would have liked to come all the way east, but after she came home she admitted she was delighted with the Prairies and the hospitality of a small town. For a city child, who had never seen the wheat fields, it was a wonderful experience."

NO CULTURE SNOB
She is also enthusiastic about Festival Canada, which will see drama and opera companies and orchestras from Canada and abroad touring the country.

RAN FOR PARLIAMENT
A distinguished-looking woman with greying chestnut hair in a Mme. Vanier upsweep, she was born in Calgary, the daughter of an independent member of the Alberta legislature. She herself was an unsuccessful Conservative candidate in Vancouver-Burrard in the last federal election.

A home economics graduate of the University of Alberta, she was married in 1942 to Lloyd Linnell, an RCAF squadron leader. Two years later he was shot down over Berlin, where he is buried. Her only PAULA JEAN, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rediker and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams, of Waterville; also granddaughter of Mrs. May Rediker, East Hatley, and the late Carroll Rediker. She is the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Rose Williams, of Sherbrooke.

Patio vs. City Street
What's fitting and proper on a patio simply won't do on a city street. To solve that fashion predicament be sure to cover all bases. A bare-type dress with its own jacket can be as discreet as you please. Jacket off, it can be as uninhibited as you please.

More than two hundred years of history are represented in Canadian medals. Early issues were mostly of a military nature including those of Louisbourg, Canada, Montreal and Newfoundland Taken. These were followed by Indian Chief medals and general service medals of Chateaugay, Crystlers Farm and Fort Detroit. Later issues included a wide range of subjects such as agriculture, religion, politics and royalty.

With such a large assortment to choose from, a beginner may find it difficult to know where to start a collection of medals. Most readily obtainable and inexpensive are the small official medals commemorating the 60th Anniversary of Confederation, the Royal Visit of 1939 and the Coronation of 1953. A set of these can readily be obtained for $5 to $18 depending on condition. To this set can be added the Confederation Centennial medal of 1967 in a few months time.

More expensive are the Indian Chief, Chateaugay, Crystlers Farm and Fort Detroit medals which sell at $400 and up, the 3-inch silver 1867 Confederation medal of which only 50 were issued at $1,000 and the 3-inch bronze 1927 Confederation anniversary medal at $300.

Illustrated is an Indian Chief Treaty medal sold at the recent C.N.A. sale for $600. Only seven of these medals were released and this was the last issue with effigy of Queen Victoria.

FOOTNOTE — Until recently bank notes with different serial numbers on the same bill were extremely rare. However reports from a number of different places in Canada indicate that a quantity of Bank of Canada $1 bills with mismatched serial numbers were recently released and they can no longer be considered rare or valuable. However, they do have some premium value.

With the leaves in the Townships turning red, sure signal that the white of winter snowbanks can't be far behind, this "coolish" item from Santa Claus-land might be apropos.

It seems that a group of Northern Canadians has formed an association called Alumni Borealis for Northerners and ex-Northerners to "keep in touch." The group also publishing a twice-a-year newsletter called the Trapline at Box 2856, Whitehorse, Yukon. One issue is called Freeze-Up, the other Break-Up.

Being as Centennial conscious as most Canadians are becoming, president Anne Pask of Alumni Borealis and her group would like to promote a "Come back to the North in '67" project. They have thought of organizing charter flights and having trans-north competitions in sports, crafts, photography, chess and some northern accomplishments such as bread baking or wine making.

The Trapline is looking for more suggestions, from people interested in the north, for its next issue. (Requirements for membership in Alumni Borealis, by the way, are two winters' residence north of the Canadian 60th parallel of latitude but there can be associate and honorary memberships.)

This month Doubleday published the third in Allen Drury's tetralogy of American political life. Called CAPABLE OF HONOR, it is concerned with the political power of the Fourth Estate and indications are that it will be a worthy successor to Drury's two earlier books in the series, ADVISE AND CONSENT and A SHADE OF DIFFERENCE.

JOURNEY INTO DANGER by Theodora Herapath is the seventh volume in LONGMANS Pageant Series and the first fictional member. Its authentic background and setting in Quebec in the year 1791, bring alive, as no "straight" history can, the bustling town life of Quebec and Montreal, and the sharp contrast of the mysterious forests which crowd their doorsteps. Teenagers might find their enjoyment of this book increased by knowing that Theodora Herapath is a distant cousin of Lord Snowdon, that young man who added a royal twist to the usual Horatio Alger story by marrying Princess Margaret. Miss Herapath is now a Canadian citizen living in Scarborough, Ont.

When a six-lane highway

Paperback

By JOAN WALLACE

When you're planning your fall and winter reading why not include a few educational books on a field of study you've always meant to investigate — or even a good book or two on your favorite hobby or sport. There are dozens available from the paperback publishers and they cover everything from ASTRONOMY TO WORLD HISTORY.

Doubleday's 'Made Simple' books include the two above as well as the following varied selection: BIOLOGY, CHESS, CONTRACT BRIDGE, HOW TO WIN AT POKER, HOW TO HIT A GOLF BALL, PHOTOGRAPHY, COINS AND COIN COLLECTING, DECORATING, AND SEWING.

For the art lover Penguin has ENJOYING PAINTINGS, edited by D. Piper, EUROPEAN AND SCULPTURE, by E. Newton, and INTRODUCTION TO MODERN ARCHITECTURE, by J. M. Richards.

If you've always meant to learn more about the world of big business, the CBC has published AN INTRODUCTION TO ECONOMICS, by Donald E. Armstrong of McGill University. It is a short exposition of economic theory, practice and institutions, with special reference to the Canadian economy. Doubleday offers HOW TO READ AND UNDERSTAND FINANCIAL AND BUSINESS NEWS, MANAGING YOUR MONEY, and BOOKKEEPING MADE SIMPLE.

The outdoorsman can become an authority on his favorite summer pastime through Doubleday's 'Outdoor Bible' series. It includes, among 14 different titles, THE BASS FISHERMAN'S BIBLE, THE CAMPER'S BIBLE, THE UPLAND GAME HUNTER'S and THE SMALL BOAT SAILOR'S GUIDE.

If the social sciences have always intrigued you, try AN INTRODUCTION TO SOCIOLOGY (CBC), by Frank E. Jones of McMaster University. It provides an explanation of the scope, methods, objectives and concepts of this comparatively young science, plus some of its most significant findings. One of the more interesting new books in this field has just been published by Doubleday Anchor. THE GOOD SAMARITAN AND THE LAW, edited by James M. Ratcliffe, is a collection of essays on the morality — and the problems — of aiding those in peril.

is built to carry the traffic to and from Cape Cod, it cuts through the farm owned by Sybil Prince, a widow of 80, leaving the barn on one side of the road and the house on the other.

Mrs. Prince stubbornly refused to leave the farm which had belonged to the family for generations and where she had spent the greater part of her long life. She did everything within her power to stop the building of the road, even pulled up the stakes put in by the surveyors. But it was a losing battle. Sybil had to give in and the road was built. The people in the cars tearing by, 50 a minute, were not aware of the old lady at the upstairs window in the farmhouse below the road, shaking her fist and making faces at them.

Having had a part of our own farm expropriated in recent months, in the name of progress, my sympathies lay with Sybil.

The highway is inextricably woven into the old lady's life and the personalities around her. When she falls and breaks her hip, help is obtained by flagging down a car on that hideous road. Not able to care for herself there begins a search for someone to live with her. The housekeeper characters form a large part of the story. One woman arrives at the house claiming the lights of the farmhouse invited her; one leaves because her dog is killed on the highway. Always there is the agonizing fear on Sybil's part that she might be put into an old folk's home to die.

Monica Dickens, who is the great-granddaughter of Charles Dickens, presents a penetrating study of the frustrations and anxieties of the old person's mind.

Ballerina wins despite trouble

NEW YORK (CP) — Ballerina Sally Brayley of Halifax won praise for her "gallant" effort Thursday night in the ballet sequence of Ponchelli's grand opera La Gioconda, the second production of the Metropolitan Opera at its new home in Lincoln Center.

The opera was a colorful, long and lavish production complete with massive choruses, ballet and hit numbers for the principal singers, Renato Taldari and Franco Corelli.

Miss Brayley danced the Goddess of Night and Death in the Dance of the Hours.

Clive Barnes of the New York Times writes that Miss Brayley, now in her fifth season with the Met after a lengthy career with the National Ballet of Canada, was a victim of circumstance. Barnes writes: "Hampered by Beni Montrezor's costumes and ambushed by the steps of his cenary, Zachary Solov's pallidly conventional choreography looked painfully under-rehearsed. . . furthermore, while the ballerina Sally Brayley did a gallant best she was execrably partnered." Her partner was Bob Davis. Last Friday Miss Brayley danced a lead in the spectacular opening of the Met in Antony and Cleopatra.

Gideon's a good hero

Returning respect to police

GIDEON'S BADGE Author J. J. Marric; Mussion; 191 pages; $3.85.

Among police forces throughout the world, Scotland Yard has the highest reputation. Unfortunately this good reputation is not enjoyed by all police workers. Because in the course of duty they must perform tasks which are unpopular with the public, and it has become commonplace to hear such things as "dirty cop" or "a tricky lot" in reference to policemen.

J. J. Marric is writing a series of books in which Commander George Gideon of Scotland Yard is the hero. Through these books he is portraying a picture of police work which can only be admired, subtly bringing a new respect to that profession.

"Gideon's Badge" is the twelfth book in this series. George Gideon emerges as an entirely believable character and a thoroughly likeable one. He is conscientious in the extreme, carrying out his duties with shrewdness and dispatch. Yet not for one minute could we say that he lacks sympathy and understanding for the distress he must bring to many people. He is truly concerned for the welfare of the individual and a man devoted to his family.

"In Gideon's Badge" Gideon has his first trip to New York in an attempt to crack a crime syndicate operating between New York and Great Britain. This involves him in detecting crimes of murder, intrigue and theft which are so engrossing that he can almost, but not quite, keep off the case of a London sex-killer which he had had to leave in the hands of his deputy. The reader will be similarly engrossed in Gideon's problems on both sides of the Atlantic.

LOIS LUND

WITH KENNEDY By Pierre Salinger; Doubleday; $6.95; 391 pages.

The Kennedy name has not lost its magic when it comes to selling books — although one wonders, with each new book that comes out, if there can possibly be anything that hasn't already been written.

Actually there probably isn't anything in the too-brief JFK career that hasn't already been covered — but at least there is always a different pair of eyes seeing — and a different set words describing — the events. Therefore, Pierre Salinger's book will undoubtedly have a wide readership.

As a matter of fact, it may well reach best-seller status not just because it is another healthy serving of Kennedyana but because Salinger is by way of being something of a legend himself. Though it may not be widely known, his first association with the Kennedy family was through Robert so it is not inconceivable that in a decade or so he might be writing another book of press secretary experiences — this time with a different Kennedy as president.

With Canada as election prone as it has been in the recent past — and may be for some time in the future — Pierre Salinger's book could be worthwhile reading if for no other reason than as a manual on how to set up an effective press campaign.

Salinger says his press philosophy is grounded in one principle, "to make the campaign as easy for the press to cover as possible." He also brought two innovations to the business of candidate campaigning, one was a two-channel telephone car to be placed in all motorcades directly behind the candidate and the other was the introduction of the instant transcript.

The book is liberally sprinkled with name-dropping. It also contains occasional bits of gossip. For example, there is the claim that Billy Graham reneged on a promise he made to Salinger that he would join with Protestant ministers in asking them to show tolerance in the campaign to elect a Catholic president. There is irony in the story of George Murphy the unidentified Hollywood actor who helped Salinger with the hoopla in the Kennedy campaign and later went on to defeat him in his bid to become California senator.

The best human interest story in the book probably concerns the many complaints Salinger received about the president always walking two or three paces ahead of his wife. When he told JFK about it, the late president replied, "The answer's simple, Jackie ought to walk a little faster."

WITH KENNEDY is neither the best nor the worst of the Kennedy — inspired books. But it makes interesting if at times comparatively light reading.

A big star

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Come to think of it, bewhiskered, 265-pound Sebastian Cabot, formerly of the show Checkmate and now of A Family Affair, does look a little like Man Mountain Dean.

For about a year when he was 19 and 20, Cabot recalled at lunch, he supported himself as a wrestler in his native London. Hefty then too, he was billed as "Pierre Sauvage."

STAMP COLLECTORS in Canada have a unique opportunity to get informative booklets about Dutch stamps directly from the Netherlands. The booklets are sent absolutely free of charge, and collectors are under no obligation whatsoever to order stamps. These handsomely designed booklets are produced by the Netherlands Postal Service for all of the country's stamps. They are fully illustrated and have complete technical details and extensive background information for every issue. Of special interest to collectors is the fact that the booklets are mailed directly from the Hague, capital of the Netherlands. They are franked with Dutch stamps and cancelled with unusual philatelic postmarks. Holland's Postal Service sends them as a public service to collectors all over the world. With them comes information about ordering Dutch stamps at face value from the government. In addition to these brochures collectors on the mailing list also receive directly from Holland similar folders for the stamps of Surinam and the Netherland Antilles, self-governing territories of the Netherlands. Among the particularly appealing booklets that are sent out annually are those for Holland's Children's stamps and the Summer stamps, popular semi-postal sets. Some of the booklets have become sought after collectors' items. To be placed on the mailing list for free booklets sent directly from Holland, just send a postal card request with your name and address to the Philatelic News Bureau, Maplewood, New Jersey, 07040, U.S.A. Simply say "Netherlands Booklets, please". In about six weeks the first of them will be on its way from Holland. Please mention that you read about this offer in the Sherbrooke Record — Thank you.

A FASCINATING collection may be made from the many Royal Visit stamps issued to commemorate the visits of Queen Elizabeth to many parts of the world. These stamps are not expensive and are very colorful in some instances. Such a collection could be expanded to include the stamps issued for the visits made by George VI. Some manufacturers have made special pages for these stamps.

THE NEXT MEETING of the St. Francis Stamp Club will take place on Thursday the 29th of this month in the Upper Room of St. George's Parish Hall in Lennoxville at about eight o'clock. If you haven't already attended a meeting then you should do so now — several interesting programs are planned and then there is the exhibition about the middle of October.

THE STAMP MARKET for early Canadian stamps has become very active and interest in the classic issues of our country is at an all time high. The prices asked for early stamps have sky rocketed, especially for mint stamps and for covers. Used stamps, in fine condition, are also in great demand. If you have spaces to fill then do so now. Covers are wanted by many collectors and so you should keep your covers intact, early advertising covers are wanted by many collectors, and there are some fascinating ones from the Townships. A recent discussion with a collector from Montreal who was seeking stampless covers and others from the Townships revealed that increased interest in the various historical societies had made covers scarcer. The members of the historical societies want the covers and letters for the contents which in some instances give information about life in early times.

Art competition is Centennial project

A nation-wide competition open to young Canadian artists will be one of the projects sponsored by the Centennial Commission under its visual arts program for 1967. Judy LaMarsh announced this week Miss LaMarsh is the secretary of state and the cabinet minister responsible for Centennial celebrations.

The competition, entitled Perspective '67, will offer cash awards to winners in four separate categories: painting, sculpture, drawings and prints, and fine crafts. Awards in each category will consist of a $5,000 first prize, a $2,000 second prize and a $1,000 third prize. Entrants may submit only one work in each category.

In announcing Perspective '67, Miss LaMarsh said its purpose was twofold: to encourage the development of young professional Canadian artists and artist-craftsmen of promise, and to provide an exhibition which will draw the attention of the Canadian public to the work of these young artists.

A jury of persons well-known in the Canadian art world will select entries for the exhibition, including award winners, which will be shown at the Art Gallery of Toronto during July, August and September, 1967.

The jury consists of Ronald Bloor, Toronto, and Guy Viau, Quebec City, supplemented by a specialist in each category: Yves Gaucher, Montreal, (painting), Alan Jarvis, Toronto, (sculpture), and Dianna Lynn Batts, Miss Richard Lacroix, Montreal, U.S.A.

Forest Products Week focus on wood's many merits

This is the sixth annual National Forest Products week, when members of forest industries stress the importance of Quebec forests, and the products coming from these forests.

The total value of forest production in Quebec is more than a million dollars.

Each year the Quebec forest and the related industries provide employment for 100,000 workers which represent $300,000,000 in salaries.

Statistics alone do not tell the story of the Quebec forests. The possibilities of forest products are limitless. By just glancing at this one prime natural resource we can see the treasure which is envied by many countries around the globe.

Take a look about you. See where lumber goes and what it does. It is in the home, the kitchen, at school, at the office, in the churches, in the shops everywhere one goes.

Wood is liked and appreciated because it is practical.

It blends well with materials completely different from wood. It blends with masonry, and with cloth; it warms the coldness that is created by window panes; its use is very simple; it does not go out of style, ever.

For all its beauty, no other material can be so practical.

The forest has many functions often ignored in our industry, business and daily lives. Some 5,000 commercial products are derived from wood. These products are all designed to raise the standard of living for man.

For example, a pretty rayon dress coming from our Canadian plants. The film in your camera comes from the cellulose derived from wood. The same material is used to manufacture explosives by means of chemical treatment.

From wood we manufacture cellulose, collodion and celophane.

Thanks to other chemical procedures, wood gives us cellulose varnishes, cement, and plastics.

By means of distillation, the aromatic oils are removed from the wood. These oils are essential in the manufacturing of perfumes and insecticides.

Our forests serve not only for the inspiration of artists; they are the base of our national.

During National Forest Products week, respect wood and use it.

FOREST BEAUTY AND WEALTH

New Brunswick manages moose and decides cows are game

FREDERICTON (CP)—No records are likely to fall, but this moose hunting season in New Brunswick will be one with a new twist—cow moose will be legal game for the first time.

Natural Resources Minister William R. Duffie says there is a preponderance of older cow moose roaming the province's woodlands. Generally low producers, these moose still require the same amount of feed during critical winter months as do younger, more productive animals.

"Removal of these older animals will enable the younger ones to survive the winter in physical shape and so produce more and better calves," Mr. Duffie says.

It's all part of a moose management program initiated after the moose herd in New Brunswick was all but depleted 30 years ago. Officials put an end to moose hunting after the 1936 season when the kill dropped to 205, the lowest point since pioneer days. Six years earlier, the kill had been 1,066, and in 1920 it was 1,366.

Even in those good years hunters had to pass up healthy cow moose and hope to come across a bull. Biologists now figure it's better for the condition of the whole herd if both sexes are harvested.

After an absence of 23 years, moose hunting returned to New Brunswick in 1960 with an experimental five-day season. Of the 400 hunters lucky enough to have their applications for licences drawn from a drum, 176 shot a moose.

RESIDENTS ONLY

The number of licences issued increased to 800 the following year and eventually to 1,000, the number to be purchased at $15 apiece for this year's six-day season opening Oct. 31.

Brian C. Carter of Fredericton, 49-year-old director of fish and wildlife, says this year's kill is expected to increase to nearly 400, from the 314 moose bagged last season and the 307 in 1964. The anticipated increase is the result of an annual 10-per-cent growth rate in the size of the herd and because females will be hunted for the first time.

Mr. Carter says moose are improving in quality and are more plentiful but he could not estimate when more than 1,000 New Brunswickers—non-residents are ineligible—might be given licences in one season. "We're working on a season-to-season experimental basis," he says.

The province's moose herd is believed to have become more healthy in recent years. Tick infestation, a tiny parasite which attacks the central nervous system either in the spinal column or at the base of the brain, has been reduced by 10 per cent since 1961 and seldom are moose found dying from starvation.

Let's all help to conserve our Forests!

Hunting and fishing

in the E T

By NORM NICHOLL

ABOUT FIFTEEN DAYS after the migratory bird season opened in Quebec and on the eve of the opening in the central district, Gabriel Loubier, Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game stated in a press release that his department would not recognize the federal permit of $2 for migratory birds. In this release he mentioned that those discussions which led to the adoption of the new permit could not be considered as official consultation with the ministers responsible for implementing the act. The minister then went on to express the view that real negotiations might be arranged in order to determine his department's exact role in migratory bird conservation and management. He also pointed out that Quebec has several unsung specialists already doing remarkable work.

MR. LOUBIER can try to justify his actions in what ever way he might choose. However, the fact remains that he has had plenty of time since his appointment to the cabinet to bring himself into focus on the migratory permit situation. Why did he wait until the eve of the opening season in the central district and a week ahead of the southern district before shooting a hole in the sale of the federal permit? Surely he can see that by cooperation, the management of Migratory Birds across Canada would be cheaper than to have each province go their separate ways in this field. At the same time he wants the door left open to have his say in carrying out necessary marsh development projects. If this is to be his attitude why then is he sending a delegation to Manitoba to study methods in planning and administration of parks. Surely he could save the expense and time for other projects if he feels that his delegates are not responsible. Just what the RCMP will do in the enforcement of the federal permits isn't clear since the minister's statement. However, the Provincial Game Wardens have been instructed to apply the Migratory Bird Convention Act to the letter, except as regards the new special permit. The sale of permits in the Province is still continuing and whether or not a hunter purchases one or not will depend on the value placed on maintaining the migratory bird population.

(In a press bulletin yesterday from Ottawa Federal Resources Minister Laing has told the Quebec Minister that the R.C.M.P. will continue to enforce the $2 Federal licence for hunting migratory birds).

THE FIRST REPORTS on the controlled moose hunts in the three park areas from September 17-21 are in all ten moose were taken during this period for the three areas. In La Verendrye Park a total of four moose have been taken which included one male, three females. In the Laurentides Park: three females and one young. The Matane reserve has yielded one female and one young.

NEXT FRIDAY, September 30 the fishing season for grey trout will close throughout the Province. Which will leave only fishing for bass, pike, dore and perch left open for late fall fishing.

THIS COMING WEDNESDAY, September 28 the Lake Massawippi Fish and Game Protection Club will be holding its first general meeting of the fall at the Ripplecove Inn Ayer's Cliff at 8 p.m. Since it is drawing near the E.T. Federation meeting in October resolutions for this up coming meeting will probably be under discussion. A good turnout of members should be in order.

PROVINCIAL GAME WARDENS are working hard on the jacking situation in the area which has again reared an ugly head. After the stiff fines that were handed down last year it might have been expected that this form of poaching would be deterred. It is the responsibility of all sportsmen to help in the suspension of this poaching and anyone having information of value to the Game Wardens should report it to either their local warden or to the District Office here in Sherbrooke.

THE GRAND DUC CLUB will be holding a dart tournament tonight at 8 p.m. and a horse shoe contest tomorrow at the Club.

Ladies golf tournament huge success

The annual Ladies' Golf Tournament staged at the Country Club Tuesday proved a huge success as 9 lady golfers took part in the event. Mrs. Rose Couture, captain of the ladies' section at the Country Club, was in charge of the tourney. Mrs. Pauline Blouin assistant captain, also helped with the event. Miss Monique Langlais of the Royal Quebec Golf Club walked off with the gross honors when she posted a neat 84 to lead the field. Mrs. Raymond Labonte was the runner-up with gross 89 and won the low net in Class A. In Class B Madeleine Fautoux copped the low gross with 101 while Mrs. Claude Belisle won the low gross in Class C with 106. Mrs. Rachel Gosselin won the net in B with 75 and Jeannine Bedard took C honors with 78. Following the tournament a dinner was served to all contestants at which the prizes were presented to the winners. Several door prizes were also awarded and Mrs. Couture and her committee wishes to thank all the donors for their wonderful aid in staging the tournament.

Quebec Breeders' Stake for $2,041 purse features card at local track on weekend

A Quebec Breeders' Stake for a purse of $2,041.36 will be the main attraction on the weekend card presented by the Sherbrooke Racing Club. There will be six starters in the event. This evening a Preferred Pace for a purse of $500 will feature the card with five top side-wheelers battling for the major share of the purse. Robert Dupont will be out to prove that last Sunday's victory with Gee Dee Vic was no fluke when he walked off with the honors in the Adios Abe Invitational Pace. Dupont's three-year-old brown gelding led the field under the wire in 2:05 4/5 to set a new lifetime record for himself. Gee Dee Vic will be facing a top field and will have to be at his best if he wants to be the winner. Drummond Tip, with Henri Lepage driving, is the only one in the field who has competed here. All the others will be making their initial start at the local oval. The Stake is open to all horses raised in the Province of Quebec and with a top purse some of the best three-year-olds will be on hand. Merry Mir, Spangler Frost, Lina M. Vonian, Drummond Tip and Grand Prix Mir comprise the field. In tonight's Preferred Pace Racing Secretary Paul Brunelle has assigned the various positions to the five starters. Fabi's Santa Glory has the pole while Delaway has the second slot with Juliana Herbert number three position. Jacques Lefebvre will be

- teaming Tony Clap who will be making his first appearance here since he went down to defeat with Gilles Lachance teaming. He has number four with Joyal's The Great Spencer the fifth and Alain Drummond completing the field on the outside.
- The rest of the card seems well balanced and the railbirds should witness some good racing before the winners pull under the wire. The weather will play a big factor in the outcome and if it stays good some good times should be clocked during the two days.

DUFFERIN - The Dufferin Heights Golf Club held their closing Thursday evening with the presentation of trophies taken place. Following the roast beef dinner served by Mrs. Lillian Winslow a social evening took place. President Al Bedard welcomed the members and guests and congratulated the winners. At the head table were, Mrs. B. Bishop, ladies president, Tom Bowen and Louis Barber of the match committee, Bob Gardyne and Doug Henderson of the W.A.G. Committee and Mrs. Ewen and Mrs. Barber. Mr. Bedard proposed a toast to the Queen. He afterward spoke on the successful season and thanked all who had contributed making it such. Mrs. Bishop gave her report, also showing a successful season, and on behalf of the women thanked the men for their support and cooperation. Mr. Bowen and Mr. Barber presented the Club Championship trophy to Ronald Winter, and the runner up championship trophy to George Corbiere. Class A trophy was won by Alex Philip and Stuart Edgar. Class B, to Andy Rever and Wally Browning. Class C, to Ray Greenwood and Alfred Bedard. The Handicap championship trophy went to Norman Chamberlain, runners up to Ray Greenwood and Arthur Gosselin. Mitch Minor and Maynard Rollins presented Esso trophies to Sefton Osborne and Louis Barber, each of whom had 25 points in W.A.G. plays.

Bobby Orr pays dividends

Bobby Orr, highly-touted bonus baby, has played only one game with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League and already he's paying dividends. Orr slipped a pass to Pit Martin mid-way through the third period Friday night in London, Ont., to give the Bruins a 1-1 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs in the first pre-season game of the year. The goal wiped out a lead Jim Pappin gave the Leafs in the first period before a sellout crowd of 5,498.

Yankee import Schofield one major reason for Los Angeles success

Los Angeles Dodgers have edged St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 in 2 1/2-game lead in the race for the National League pennant. Schofield, purchased by the Yankees from San Francisco Giants in May, was a Pirate utility man in 1960. Dick Groat place, one half a game behind, broke his wrist during the when the veteran utility player was purchased two weeks ago from New York Yankees of the American League. The speedy infielder stroked four hits, drove in three runs and scored three as Los Angeles scored a 4-0, 4-2 sweep over Chicago Cubs in a doubleheader. "I know I can't play in the World Series," Schofield said, "but I hope I can help them enough in the next nine games to get them into the Series." In the first game Friday he singled twice, driving in one run and scoring twice as Don Drysdale pitched an eight-hitter.

Warm-up for Series by Orioles

Steve Barber, Baltimore Orioles' sore-armed southpaw, warmed up for a starting assignment in the World Series by pitching five hitless innings Friday. And manager Hank Bauer, unwilling to crowd his luck, yanked him at the start of the sixth inning before the Orioles lost 2-0 to California Angels on rookie Charlie Vinson's two-run double in the seventh against reliever Frank Bertina. Elsewhere in the American League, Lee Stange pitched a two-hitter as Boston Red Sox edged New York Yankees 2-1; Don Mincher hit a grand-slam homer in Minnesota Twins' 12-4 romp over Detroit Tigers; John Odum's four-hitter pushed Kansas City Athletics past Cleveland Indians 2-0 and Washington Senators downed Chicago White Sox 5-4 on rookie Hank Allen's three-run homer. Barber plagued by arm trouble, was seeking his first victory since July 6. He struck out six and walked three. Bertina, who has not won a game since May 8, suffered his sixth loss in seven decisions. Bauer rested Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Luis Aparicio and Andy Etchebarren.

Linament and ink flowing from NHL training camps, Vasko joins Hall, Boomer after first goal

There's still three weeks to go before the first National Hockey League puck drops in regular-season play, but the linament is flowing in the training camps and the ink is flowing in the front offices. Concern is the keynote. How will rookie Bobby Orr, the Oshawa, Ont., junior whose step into the big time cost Boston Bruins a reported $50,000 over two years, perform? Will Elmer Vasko and Glenn Hall make their retirement stick, or will the Chicago Black Hawks be able to lure them back? Vasko, the biggest man in the NHL, says he isn't interested; Hall, one of the top goalies around, is sitting incomunicado. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion hasn't scored a goal in practice so far, and the superstar—with New York Rangers after being off skates for two years—is worried. Bernie, who played 14 years as right-winger for Montreal Canadiens, quit two years ago to coach Quebec Aces of the American League. At Rangers' Kingston, Ont., camp he complained: "Not one goal yet. Not one lousy, stinking goal. I got to get the pretty soon." In Montreal, the 38 players in the Canadiens' camp had a light day Friday and with more of the same on today's menu. Said coach Toe Blake: "You might say I'm pretty well satisfied. I didn't have one of them report this year with a suet problem." He was looking right at Gump Worsley. "Yeh, I'm on a diet," the Gumper said without relish. In Peterborough, Ont., camp of the Toronto Maple Leafs, coach Punch Imlach gave the team the afternoon off Thursday after a morning workout in which Red Kelly continued to look like the best thing in town. Leafs used the half holiday to play golf and Imlach even paid for a golf cart to carry Bobby Pulford and his bruised knee around the course. The league, heading into its 50th anniversary season—its last as a six-team circuit—will be struggling to present its best profile to the public. A three-year, $3,600,000 television deal signed with the Columbia Broadcasting System may make TV heroes out of hockey stars.

Archers find home, seek more members

After pleas earlier this week for a winter home shooting range for the homeless archers, members of the Sherbrooke Mena-Sen Archers' Club finally have a place to twinge their bows, and shoot their arrows this winter season. Rene Belair, president of the Sherbrooke Archers, stated Thursday night after a meeting with the club executive that their own Mena-Sen facilities on the Rock Forest road will be converted to adapt to the necessities of the archer during the winter. Since this was a major problem every year, the Mena-Sen Archers decided to use their own premises, and the major change at the club will be the conversion of the social hall into the shooting range. Marcel Chateaufort, publicity director of the archers, stated that there has been launched a membership campaign, and it is at this time that an invitation is extended to any interested persons. The Club membership is bilingual. Facilities at the club include a swimming pool, sauna bath and showers, as well as the archery competitions. Any interested persons may contact the club at 567-9898.

MAKING PLANS - Members of the Grand Prix Snowmobile competition are seen discussing plans for the coming event which will be held on the Magog River Feb. 4-5, 1967. Last year it was an outstanding success and it is expected this year it will be as popular. It is sponsored by Labatt's Brewery. Left to right, Yvon Boudreau, District Manager, Pierre Barbeau, Sales Promotion Manager, Dick Bean, president of the Sherbrooke Jaycees, and Lynn Maysenholder, local representative for Labatt's. Fall signals the annual return of hunting season

The migratory bird hunting season is upon us again and as always many people will be taking their guns and heading for game.

This year there are a few new firearm regulations. In connection with game animals, the following restrictions will be enforced. Not permitted are: bows with less than forty pounds pressure and arrows other than those of at least 3/8 of an inch steel broad heads; all pistols and revolvers; shotguns other than those of calibre 10, 12, 16 and 20; shotgun cartridges other than those firing single bullets; non-expanding hard point bullets of military type or other, rim-fired cartridges; rifles firing central-fire cartridges of the following calibres: 218, 219, 22, 222, 256 C. F. Magnum, 30 M-1 Carbine, 25-20, 25-35, 32-20, 32-40, and 38-40.

The open seasons in the central district for migratory and game birds are: ducks (other than Scoter, Eider, and Old Squaw Ducks), geese, rails, coots, gallinules, and Wilson's snipe -- Sept. 17 to Dec. 8; Scoter, Eider and Old Squaw Ducks -- Sept. 17 to Dec. 19; Woodcock -- Sept. 17 to Nov. 20.

This year, in addition to any required provincial water-fowl hunting licence, you must also have a Canada Migratory Game Bird hunting permit.

In game animals the seasons will be open as follows. Deer, in zone A1, Oct. 22 to Nov. 13, in zones A2 and A3 (male only in A3), Oct. 22 to Nov. 20, zone B, Oct. 15 to Nov. 27; hare, in Duplessis county, Sept. 10 to March 31, in the Northern District, Sept. 10 to Feb. 28, in the Southern District, Sept. 10 to Feb. 28; ruffed and sharp-tailed grouse and gray partridge, everywhere in the province, Sept. 10 to Nov. 27.

On migratory game birds the following restrictions have been imposed. No person shall carry a shotgun of any kind with a magazine that can carry more than two shells; any weapon other than a long bow and arrow or a shotgun not larger than number 10 gauge; a swivel gun; a machine gun; a battery of shells; a rifle, or shotgun gulls loaded with a single bullet.

No person shall use an aircraft, a sail-boat, a night-light, live birds as decoys, mechanically or electrically operated calling devices.

No person shall hunt within one-quarter mile of any area baited with grain or other food.

No person shall recover a dead or injured migratory game bird by use of a power boat, where, in order to recover the bird, it is necessary for that person to travel a distance of more than two hundred yards from the place at which that person was located when the bird was shot.

No person who possesses birds under permit shall keep or allow such birds to approach within one-quarter mile of an area where waterfowl hunting is taking place.

No person shall shoot migratory game birds from a motor vehicle or wheeled vehicle or from any vehicle to which a draught animal is attached.

No person shall use a boat, aircraft, or motor vehicle to disturb birds with the object of driving them towards a hunter.

Scouting and Cubbing

By KEN BARTLETT

The Annual Sherbrooke District Camporee is being held this weekend at Lake Lovering. Local Scouts camp and compete against each other every year at this time in the big Scout campout of the year. The basic Scout unit for competition is the patrol. Assistant District Commissioner, Bob Henry has drawn up an ambitious program. The boys proceeded to camp last evening and will remain until Sunday afternoon. The Scouts will be judged on such items as personal appearance, camp layout, tenting, the preparation of food, and camp sanitation. On Saturday evening there will be the much anticipated campfire, and a Scouts' Own service will be held on Sunday morning.

One of chief areas of competition will be the patrol projects and the winning patrol will be awarded the Barclay Westgate Trophy. This and other awards will be made at the closing exercises on Sunday afternoon. Camp will break at 4:00 P.M. on Sunday.

LOCAL GOOD TURN

The Scout Troop at Pond Inlet on Baffin Island in the Canadian Arctic will shortly be one of the best dressed groups in the country. Thanks to the generosity of the Sherbrooke District Council, our twinned unit, Brookville, is being outfitted with fifteen new shirts and hats. Commissioner Percy Grey recently rushed this clothing consignment to a waiting aircraft at Montreal. were not as many Scouts there as usual, there were more Cub Scouts. Chairman Jarjour feels that, despite minor difficulties, the boys all seemed to have a great year at this time in the big Scout campout of the year. Not as many Cub Scouts had materialized, as had been hoped for, nevertheless, much had been done. The road had been gravelled; new ridge poles had been bought and new direction signs had been installed. Next year and will remain until Sunday afternoon. The Scouts will be judged on such items as personal appearance, camp layout, tenting, the preparation of food, and camp sanitation. On Saturday evening there will be the much anticipated campfire, and a Scouts' Own service will be held on Sunday morning.

SCOUTERS DEPART

This past summer has seen the departure of some familiar faces from the local Scouting scene. The Cubmaster of Third Sherbrooke, Michael Morrison has left to work in Northern Manitoba. Owing to new work assignments, Ray Lavalliere will be unable to carry on as Cubmaster of Fifth Sherbrooke. Fortunately, Bill Coupland will be able to take over this post. We understand Doug Grapes has left the Bulwer - Birchton Pack. On the Scouting side Skipper Paquette is no longer with Tenth Sherbrooke - he is working in Valleyfield. District Scoutmaster Dave Hutchison has also left Sherbrooke and is in West- ern Canada. Gordon Morrison has retired from the Third Sherbrooke unit, and Harvey Reicker is now in full command there. We are sorry to see these gentlemen leave - that's for sure!
