For the growth, restoration and beautifying of the Hair. Under the immediate patronage of HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN, H. R. H. the PRINCE CONSORT, H.R.H. the PRINCE OF WALES, and used in the ROYAL NURSERY by command.
If any fact more convinsive than another were necessary to prove the great benefit derived from the use of BOGLE'S CELEBRATED HYPERION FLUID, now hailed throughout the world as the GREAT AMERICAN HAIR TONIC, it would be that of its rapid sale—quadrupled every year—and the immense number of certificates from all parts of the world, extolling its manifold virtues when everything else had failed. There is no malady which affects the Hair but this can cure. Is your Hair thin, coarse, wiry, turning bald or grey, Bogle's Hyperion Fluid will restore it to its pristine beauty and luxuriance. It is the only article to cure Scurf and Dandruff, and is highly esteemed for headaches and colds in the head. The very best medicines in use among us are those prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell. He is a graduate of the Penn. University, whose connexion with that celebrated College of Medicine has conferred more distinction upon it, than its Diploma has upon him. His remedies have become household words not only in this country, but in almost every region of the earth inhabited by man. Their extraordinary fame has arisen from their extraordinary virtues, and these are certified by men of the highest station. We publish in our issue to-day, a document signed by the Mayors of the great cities in the United States, Canadas, Mexico, Peru, Chili and Brazil, each of whom certify that the physicians and druggists of their respective localities have given their assurance of the uniform good effects and superior virtues of Doct. Ayer's preparations. This is evidence which should satisfy the most sceptical, of their efficacy, and we beg our readers to refer to it. Especially do they speak with glowing praise of his Sarsaparilla—the beneficial effects and truly remarkable cures that have been realized from its use.—(New York Sunday Times.)
Sept. 2. 1m DC-210

RHEUMATISM, this common disease, and common to all nations and all climates, has been allowed free scope for want of a natural remedy. As the actual cause of all pain and suffering in Rheumatism is generally in another part of the body from where the pain is felt, an outward application fails to relieve it. For this cause alone Hunnewell's Tolu Anodyne demands the attention of all, by being a ready relief in nervous or moveable Rheumatism. Where limbs are out of shape caused by this complaint all pain and suffering yield, and in some cases distortions have been restored to natural form again. Rheumatism, being connected with, and a species of Dyspepsia, is aggravated by indigestion, which checks, in some cases, the work of the Anodyne. By the use of the Eclectic Pills prepared as special assistant to the Anodyne, the system is kept in order and the work of the Anodyne goes on to perfection. Until plans are perfected for general use of the Pills, the proprietor will forward them on demand. Read pamphlets to be had of agents or proprietor, and see advertisement.

BOGLE'S ELECTRIC HAIR DYE—The greatest wonder of the age—patronised by the elite of fashion at the Courts of St. James and the Tuilleries, and to be found at the toilet of beauty and fashion throughout the world.
This wonderful compound has now been before the public for several years, and, wherever introduced, the sales have been beyond all precedent. Specimens have been sent to a number of Exhibitions, and wherever it has come into competition with other preparations for Dyeing, its immense superiority has been acknowledged in every instance by awards of Silver Medal and Diplomas. It is a liquid easy of application, and turns Hair to a beautiful Brown or Black, without staining the skin. In short, the inventor asserts, and all persons who have carefully used it will join in the statement that this is the best Hair Dye in the world. It is now universally preferred in London and Paris. Price 50 cents, $1, and $1.50.

IMPORTANT MEDICAL DISCOVERY.
The following, from Dr. D. Y. Williams, is one of the many thousands of letters received from eminent medical men, testifying to the efficacy of Holloway's Pills for Liver Complaints and Bilious Disorders:—
Professor Holloway: Dear Sir,—I wish to get some of your medicines. I am a physician, and have an extensive practice. I have tried your Pills, and found them the best Pills I have ever used. They seem to act upon the Hepatic Ducts of the Liver mildly, but promptly, and more surely than CALOMEL or PODOPHYLLUM, and without debilitating or depleting the system.
Hoping to hear from you soon, with a list of prices, I remain, yours, &c.,

MAKE HOME BRIGHT AND PLEASANT.

More than building showy mansions,
More than dress and fine array,
More than domes or lofty steeples,
More than station, power, or sway,—
Make your home both neat and tasteful,
Bright and pleasant, always fair,
Where each heart shall rest contented,
Grateful for each beauty there.

More than lofty swelling titles,
More than fashion's luring glare,
More than Mammon's gilded honors,
More than thoughts can well compare,
See that home is made attractive
By surroundings pure and bright;
Trees, arranged with taste and order,
Flowers with all their sweet delight.

Seek to make your home most lovely—
Let it be a smiling spot,
Where, in sweet contentment resting,
Care and sorrow are forget,
Where the flowers and trees are waving,
Birds will sing their sweetest song;
Where the purest thoughts will linger,
Confidence and love belong.

There each heart will rest contented,
Seldom wishing far to roam,
Or, if roaming, still will cherish
Memories of that pleasant home.
Such a home makes man the better;
Pure and lasting its control;
Home, with pure and bright surrounding,
Leaves its impress on the soul.

EMIGRATION.—We remarked, in our Monday's issue, upon what appeared to be the shameful fact, as reported to us, that certain employées of the Government, at Quebec, had been receiving commissions from forwarders for supplying them with emigrants arriving at that port to convey them out of the Province; and, in evidence of this general inefficiency of the arrangements of the Emigration Department, we copied a painful narrative, from the Brockville Recorder, of a poor emigrant–mother's alleged cruel treatment on her passage to Quebec on board the "Culloden," and of the disgraceful and licentious conduct of the crew towards the other passengers in that vessel during the voyage out. We also give an extract from a late issue of the Sherbrooke Leader (a warm supporter of the Ministry), in which the writer complained of "the want of organization, of system and of official communication with the Government," in connection with the recent arrival of some twenty families of Norwegians, sent by the department into that locality. We are glad to learn from Mr. Buchanan, the Chief Emigrant Agent at Quebec, that our Brockville contemporary must have been imposed upon by his informant, and that the harrowing tale told by her, of her and her fellow-passengers' treatment on board the "Culloden," is unworthy of belief and quite inconsistent with the well-earned character, for attention and humanity towards his passengers, which the Captain of that vessel enjoys. In commenting upon the Recorder's narrative, Mr. Buchanan says:—"There was not a single young woman from any Poor-house or Union on board the 'Culloden,' and I did not hear of any immorality having been committed until I saw the article copied from the Brockville Recorder. No doubt, irregularities may have occurred, and had any of the passengers complained to me on the subject, I should at once have brought the matter before the magistrates. But, on the contrary, all the passengers spoke highly of the treatment they received, while Captain Huntly has been carrying passengers to this port for the last seven or eight years, and I have never had a complaint against him. The first question always put to the passengers on boarding the ship is to ascertain whether they have any complaints to make of their treatment on the voyage."

We think every candid reader will accept Mr. Buchanan's statement as conclusive of the falsehood or gross exaggeration of the emigrant's tale, published by the Recorder. His explanations, in reply to the Sherbrooke Leader's complaint of want of system on the part of Government, in sending bodies of foreign emigrants, ignorant of the language as well as of the customs and habits of the people, into the Eastern Townships, do not, we confess, appear to us by any means so satisfactory. On this subject Mr. Buchanan says:—"The Norwegians sent into the Townships, I can only say, were sent there at the request of the people of the Townships themselves, at least, so I am informed, not having been here at the time. If I had, I could have foretold the result. I am receiving petitions every day from these Norwegians, complaining that they cannot live there, and that they only receive $5 per month, and are charged double price for provisions. No wonder, then, when these people hear from their friends in the West they are receiving double their wages, that they should feel dissatisfied. I have, however, refused to afford them any assistance to leave the Province. It appears to me that, if the Townships people are in want of labor, they should hold out inducements to these people to remain, by giving for house culture in winter. The whole collection, comprising 500 pots, will be sold without reserve, being the property of a gentleman removing his conservatory.

POTASH KETTLES.—Attention is directed to a sale of Potash Kettles, by Alex. Bryson, to take place on Tuesday, the 17th instant, immediately after the sale of L'Islet St. Maurice Wares.—See advertisement.

POLICE COURT.—Wednesday.

SUSPICION OF LARCENY.

One Elizabeth Ailleur, wife of Edward Daly, was arrested under the following circumstances. Henry Kearney stated:—An clerk in the employ of C. Lefebvre, of the city of Montreal, grocer. Yesterday, September 3, some time in the afternoon, I left our shop to go into the other for a moment, and when I returned to the shop I there found the prisoner, named Elizabeth Ailleur, in the shop, having taken out the drawer from the counter, laid it down on the floor, and was handling the money, about 12s. 6d. I then caused her to be arrested.

The prisoner confessed yesterday in the Police Court that she had removed the drawer, but pretended she had no intention of taking the money. Her guilt being established, however, she was sent down to gaol for fifteen days.

LARCENY.

The two little boys, William Ferguson and Samuel Ryan, brought up on Tuesday for stealing two pairs of cotton braces, the particulars of which case were given in yesterday's paper, when brought before the Court again yesterday withdrew their plea of Not Guilty and pleaded Guilty. They received a suitable warning from the Court, and were each fined $2 or 8 days common gaol at hard labor.

An old man named James Gleeson, found drunk on the shipping wharf, was discharged.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Wednesday.

The prisoners before this Court yesterday numbered thirteen, eight being for drunkenness.

WIFE BEATING.

A man named Louis Thouin, described as a laborer, was fined $15 or six weeks for beating his wife and disturbing the peace.

VAGRANCY.

Four women, arrested as vagrants, were each fined $5 or one month.

ANOTHER DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT THE CALEDONIA SPRINGS.—The Canada House at Caledonia Springs, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday, the 30th August, and now on the 21st, the Cottage which formed part of the same property has been destroyed in the same way. In the latter case, the fire occurred under circumstances which, but for the accidental awaking of one of the boarders, might have issued in very serious results. About half-past one o'clock in the morning, an hour and a half after the last inmate had retired to rest, one of the visitors was awoke by the smell of fire and the effects of smoke. On rising and coming down stairs, he found a considerable quantity of smoke in the hall and parlor, and after searching for some time in vain for the seat of the fire, he awoke a fellow visitor, who slept in a room adjoining the parlour hearth during the evening, it was supposed that some part of the wood-work around it might have come ignited by a spark, but on a careful examination no appearance of fire was discovered. The fire which had been on the hearth was entirely extinct, and no special heat could be perceived in that vicinity: still the smoke in the hall and parlour was rapidly increasing. It then occurred to the visitors that the origin of the smoke must be underneath, in the cellar, and, in company with a man servant, under whose guidance they found the entrance into the under ground part of the house, on opening the trap-door, a volume of smoke came out; and so completely was the cellar filled with it, that no one could possibly enter. The smoke was now issuing in dense volumes from the floors of the house, and through the floor of the gallery around it, and also through the seams of the flooring within, and it became evident that the whole house would soon be in flames. All the inmates were awakened, and every one, some in half dressed state, hastened to remove from the house their personal effects and household furniture. The visitors' baggage was all saved, nearly all the furniture in the bedrooms, and most of the kitchen utensils; but in the apartment were the smoke was most dense, and where the flames first broke through the flooring, the articles of furniture were destroyed. When the Canada House was burnt, this Cottage was empty, and a number of the visitors took refuge in it, when temporary accommodation was made for them and every thing done to secure their comfort which the circumstances would admit of. The visitors who were in the Cottage at the time the unfortunate fire occurred, together with the regular inmates of the household, have much reason for gratitude to God, who ordered, in his providence, that they were awakened from their midnight sleep before the devouring element which was spreading underneath them had made such progress as to render their escape impossible.—COM.—Transcript, Yesterday.

Caledonia Springs, August 31st.

THE CHAMPIONS GOLD.—The letter about the Champion gold mines, which appeared in this journal a week ago, was written by a mechanical editor of this journal, who went to visit the district in order that we might be able to place reliable information before the public in relation to the gentleman who, it was therein stated, remained behind the others to build a dam across a part of the river and examine the quartz vein in its bed, now writes as follows:—

"St. Francis, Aug. 31, 1861.

"DEAR ——, —My efforts have at last been rewarded with success; I have found the vein and a piece of rock with a small quartz leader, carrying a nugget worth $3. Had the water not been so high, I would have had more success than this. I am going to Quebec on Tuesday next, with my piece of rock. The bearer of this has seen it, and Captain Crosby and Mr. Dingley, of Bath, Maine, were present when I found it."

There can be no doubt that, if there are many such nuggets in the quartz, it will pay immensely for crushing. But, as we stated before, there is only enough quartz to keep one or two machines in operation, so that gold crushing, which is a very important branch of our Provincial industry, and, before embarking in any speculations based upon it, parties should carefully count its cost and be in a position to attend to the business in person.—Quebec Chronicle, Sept. 3.

A CHARGE OF DESERTION.—A STRANGE CASE.—On Sunday last, Cornelius Corcoran, of the Water Police, arrested a man named John Keaffe, on board the bark "Maranham," lying in this port, on suspicion of being a deserter from Her Majesty's service. Among his effects was found a soldier's tunic, bearing the regimental marks and numbers "62—470—61." It appears from the man's own statement, that he had served for several years in the 83rd Regiment, and that on obtaining his discharge from that Regiment, he enlisted in the 62nd. After serving for some time, he left the depot at Belfast, for the purpose, as he states, of joining his Regiment, now in garrison at Halifax. The water-policeman made his deposition at the Police Office yesterday morning, and Keaffe remains in the meantime in custody.—Ibid.

THE QUESTIONS OF CREDIT AND USURY.—There is a great deal of difference between taking your hobby-horse out for a gentle trot and galloping it to death. Strange to say, however, there are but few of the many who own such a creature who are well aware of the fact. Whether the horse in question be man or the hobby does not matter for the present, for whether it be that the man gives the horse too much of his spur or that the horse runs away with the man, the truth remains that the perpetual clatter of hoofs deprives you of sympathy for either; just as the too constant grinding out of "Hail Columbia" or "Rule Britannia," by Italian gentlemen in the street, neither predisposes you in favor of the grinder, nor inspires you with a love for the music of barrel-organs. Many more of these reflections may probably be found in Sterne and others who have written on hobby-horses, and we do not mean for their novelty, but because they rose to our mind on receiving an anonymous circular, printed at the Gazette office, Montreal, in which all sorts of arguments are adduced to prove that Usury is not only a crime against society but a sin against Heaven, and ought to be put down by civil and religious authorities alike; while credit is said to be an invention of the devil and utterly to be denounced and discouraged.

Now it really does seem absurd for sane beings to "take on" in this manner, and to put the matter on a level with that other class who fancy the Sacred Scriptures were written to teach mankind geology, and to be a text-book of astronomy, chemistry, and the other modern sciences. It is exceedingly stupid to suppose that because the Moral Law of Moses, which is based on the principles of Eternal Truth and Justice, is for ever to be considered as binding, the civil rules he and other lawgivers laid down, only adapted to a particular state of society, are to be followed now. By taking such a line of argument the people who had this anti-usury-and-credit-system tract printed and distributed only help to defeat their own object. Credit, associated with capital, is of vast advantage, and has built itself many splendid testimonials and monuments. It may "sustain rival armies," but it flourishes more in peace, and helps most to cultivate all the useful arts. It may have "created our national debt," but it has called into being together with it steamboats, canals and railways, enriching the farmer, mechanic and tradesman, building cities and towns, and bringing a rich train of substantial golden benefits wherever it has been properly made use of. And the borrowing of money, even at considerable rates of interest, has often been advantageous to the borrower, enabling him to overcome temporary difficulties, to weather financial storms, and to live honored and rich instead of ruined and despised of his fellow men. To abolish either Usury or Credit, therefore, would be unwise, even were it practicable. But both should be required to under limitations, for Credit, overstrained, snaps, and involves in its ruin more than the active agent in producing the disaster, while Usury, pushed beyond a legitimate limit, defeats even its own ends, and injures both Shylock and Antonio. Credit ought never to supply the place of Capital, for then business becomes organized deception, and the man who transacts it risks other people's means for his sole benefit, without any corresponding hazard to property of his own. The rate of interest habitually paid for money with which to carry on business ought never to equal the probable net profit of that business, certainly not to exceed it, for then the sweln and lazy usurer reaps the sole reward of the sweat of other men's brows. But as circumstances vary, we cannot tell what exact proportion Credit should bear to Capital, in every case, neither can we tell what interest every man can safely take or give for the use of money. It is manifestly impossible to legislate Credit away, and we have always thought that arbitrary legislative restrictions even to the rate of interest were rather hurtful than beneficial. Personal experience and the example of business men generally are the best and safest guides for every member of the community, and they will soon and surely shew that to get money at twenty or even ten per cent is speedy ruin. But to issue tracts recommending on barely religious grounds that Credit and money lending be done away with altogether is sadly out of place now-a-days, when Christian Church edifices are usually built upon credit, at least in part, and the churches themselves speculate in Bank Stock, paying 8 per cent. and invest in mortgages which pay ten.—Quebec Chronicle.

A BOLD THIEF.—A yoke of oxen were taken from the pasture of Mr. Abiel Abbott, of Hatley, on the night previous to the cattle market in this town, last week, and driven here about 7 o'clock in the morning. They were yarded by a man giving his name as James Pier. About 10 o'clock Mr. Dinning, of Quebec, remarked in the hearing of Pier, that he believed he must make the first purchase. Pier said, "I have a yoke of oxen I would like to sell you." A bargain was struck for $60, and a check drawn on the E. T. Bank for the amount. The check was soon after cashed, since which the man Pier, if that was his name, disappeared, and has not been heard of. A brother of Mr. Abbott was in Sherbrooke, who saw and recognized the cattle, but supposing they had been sent down for sale, did not suspect anything wrong, until on going home he learned that his brother's cattle were lost. The owner appeared here the next morning, when we understand Mr. Dinning gave him up the cattle. It was about as cool a transaction on the part of the thief as we have heard of recently.—Sherbrooke Gazette.

THE AMERICAN WAR.

(From the London Star, August 15.)

Revolutions cannot be made with rosewater. The Carlylean aphorism goes deep into the philosophy of history and of humanity. It is just as true, though not aphoristic, that civil war cannot be carried on without bloodshed. General Scott's plan for crushing the Confederate rebellion almost without the loss of a life does honor to his heart, and may be equally worthy of the military genius supposed to reside in his head. But the facts of history and the impulses of human nature are unfortunately against him. They do not countenance schemes of bloodless subjugation—least of all when the combatants are so nearlyalied in blood and mettle. It is a truism to say that battles are hard fought in proportion to the intensity of the spirit evoked rather than to the magnitude of the operations. Compare the wars of Turenne and Marlborough with the wars of a century later. How leisurely the commanders went to work in the former days! How scientifically and slowly they marshalled their armed multitudes! How many months they consumed in the siege of a fortress or the manœuvres that preceded a battle! How politely they exchanged carrels and compliments! With what impunity they drew from their respective Governments pay and rations for whole regiments that had died in the trenches or of the maladies of the camp. The generals were in earnest, no doubt, about success. Peerages and pensions, professional renown and the national honor, prompted them to do their best in the game of skill on which they had entered. Perhaps the subalterns and common soldiers had some such interest, diminishing with their rank and pay, in the ultimate outcome. But, on the whole, Voltaire's description of the business was as true as it was sarcastic. So many thousands on either side had been taken from the plough, or perhaps from prison, dressed in uniform, trained to stand or move in column, and to fire at the word of command, but knew nothing and cared as little about the casus belli. Not so with the legions of Moreau, and Jourdan, and Pichegru, and Napoleon, all went to war for an idea—though they might come to follow war as a trade. They fought like men—or, perhaps, like demons—but not like machines. They rushed into La Vendee or into Holland, into Italy, Austria, Russia, or Spain, almost without waiting for the order of the day. Their bayonets quivered with the electric light of a passionate intelligence. There was a creed written on their banners. A religion—more Mahomedan than Christian, perhaps—breathed in their war-cry. No wonder they conquered—or for they spared no sacrifice. They parted with their own bodies the pathway of their flag. And they were not often till they had evoked a spirit like their own. They were invincible while they fought for the independence of France—but victory cost them dear in La Vendée, and deserted them in Spain, Germany, and Russia. They put to flight armies of hirelings,—but were themselves driven to bay by something or the same has been in our own time. The Turks held the Danube—but it cost Omar Pasha great labors, which appeared in this journal a week ago, was written by a mechanical editor of this journal, who went to visit the district in order that we might be able to place reliable information before the public in relation to the gentleman who, it was therein stated, remained behind the others to build a dam across a part of the river and examine the quartz vein in its bed, now writes as follows:—

The owner appeared here the next morning, when we understand Mr. Dinning gave him up the cattle. It was about as cool a transaction on the part of the thief as we have heard of recently.—Sherbrooke Gazette.

THE SLAVE ELEMENT.—General Fremont's proclamation of emancipation, to all the slaves in the State of Missouri, whose masters are Secessionists, has created no little excitement among our United States' contemporaries. We cut the following remarks upon it from the New York Advertiser:—

It is reasonable to suppose that so important a proclamation, as this document in all its phases is, was approved in substance by the President and Cabinet before it was issued. The reverse could scarcely be the case. That the part of it which relates to the freedom of the slaves of actual rebels will meet the approval of the whole people of the loyal states, does not admit of a doubt. Nor can the legality of the measure be questioned. In its spirit it conforms to the confiscation act passed by the late Congress. Instead of being declared confiscated, the slaves of proved rebels are declared free, and the state is thus relieved of the burden of their support, &c., which nothing in the federal or state constitution requires them to assume, and there remains no further difficult question as to their disposal by sale, exportation, or otherwise. But while active rebellion against the government thus cancels the rebel's rights to the unpaid services of his slave, the protective power of the constitution remains in full force for the protection of the rights of slaveholders who remain faithful to the Union and the constitution.

It is an interesting and important inquiry what effect this proclamation will have in Kentucky and the other border slave states. In proceeding such an inquiry we must take into account the fact that the rebels in those states will do all in their power to place the public mind there in a condition favorable to the success of the proclamation. They will affirm that General Fremont has proclaimed a general emancipation, and that such is the course to be pursued as set forth by the federal government. This will for a time produce considerable exasperation. But truth is mighty and will prevail, and in course of time the people of Kentucky and other border slave states will learn that slave property in the hands of loyal men is as safe as ever it was, and that in the hands of the disloyal there is no safety for it. Self-interest will back up the promptings of patriotism and duty, and the effect will be to strengthen the cause of loyalty and fidelity to the constitution. And indeed whatever may be its effect in Kentucky, it will work at least one good, viz., that it will compel that State to declare itself on one side or the other, either for the Union or against it, and it is high time that the loyal citizens of the republic could judge who are their friends and who their enemies.

The Tribune, on the same subject, says:—

As shewing the feeling concerning Gen. Fremont's proclamation among loyal people of all classes, even those whose prejudices do not at all incline them toward him or toward the Administration, it is well to note the remarks of the St. Louis Republican, a Democratic paper, and one which has been remarkably hostile to Fremont and to the late Col. Benton, and certainly has not been remarkable for zealous devotion to the Administration of Mr. Lincoln. The Republican says that the measures threatened in the proclamation "are measures of the most extraordinary stringency; but the wisdom of their promulgation by the supreme officer of the Army of the West, we are confident will be conceded by every just and loyal citizen." This, coming from such a source, and from a paper which must know thoroughly the urgent necessity for the most rigorous policy, is important and of grave significance.

THE CAPE HATTERAS EXPEDITION.

Washington, Sept. 1, 1861.

The Navy Department, by able and experienced officers, has carefully studied the whole line of the coast with a view to making the best use of such forces as it could secure. The expedition was fully planned before the meeting of Congress, and when that body placed the necessary funds at the disposal of the Department, active preparations were made.

The report of the Engineer-in-Chief was also among the papers captured. It states that all the good guns at Norfolk are expended, also the whole amount of lead. Some have been made percussion caps were found, and it was ascertained that the copper had been stripped from one of their prizes—the bark Linwood—to furnish material for caps, the manufacture of which is of inferior good quality.

Among the guns captured was one large ten inch columbiad from the Tredegar Works, Richmond, which had not been mounted.

Our vessels took three prizes—one brig, the Henry C. Rogers, of New York, and two light boats belonging to the United States, but in the employment of the rebels, with miscellaneous cargo.
